Roof, boiler concerns to be addressed

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Immediate and long-term building concerns were addressed in a special meeting of the Wayne Board of Education Monday evening at Wayne High School.

First, the board approved the bid of $225,582 from Rasmussen Mechanical Services of Sioux City, Iowa, to fix the boiler at the high school. Superintendent Mark Lenihan said the system could be installed before the onset of winter weather.

"The facilities committee determined the Rasmussen bid was the best bid, and they can get it in before cold weather sets in," he told the board.

Of more immediate concern is the section of roof over the west corridor of the high school. An inspection of the roof found it to be in "bad shape," according to Matt Fisher of Guarantee Roofing in Norfolk.

Fisher told the board that the previous installation did not have enough screws to hold the roof in place. As a result, screws have rusted and broken, allowing water to seep in. The school will spend $19,443 to replace the roof, which, according to Lenihan, needs to be done as soon as possible.

Other parts of the high school's roof are also in need of work, Fisher told the board. The east side of the school needs a new ballast roof system with a new, reinforced sheet that would provide additional insulation, while the roof over the shop is in need of repair as well.

Board member Ken Jorgensen asked Fisher if both projects could be done at the same time to save costs. Fisher said that the projects, which Fisher estimated would cost more than $120,000, could be done together, which would save the school district money.

"Even if we got a 5 percent discount, that would be substantial," Jorgensen said.

Board member Rodney Garwood agreed.

"We're living on borrowed time, so it has to be done, no doubt about it," he said. "I hate taxes, but it would be more of a problem to piecemeal this out over the next four or five years when we're already on

Wayne Kearney cheers for both his namesakes

By DEB HARM
Special To The Herald

In the mid 1920s, an in-state football rivalry was born between the Wayne State College Wildcats and the University of Nebraska-Kearney Lopers (then known as Kearney State College).

If you asked anyone on the streets of Wayne or on campus in those early years, the typical response to the friendliness between the two teams, would have been "we can't stand 'em."

This intensity has continued throughout the years, with the two teams meeting 81 times.

Wayne native Reggie Yates remembers the Wildcats holding the Lopers scoreless in three consecutive games between 1969 and 1971.

"They did not score a point on us, mostly due to our solid defense," Yates said. "The defense was only outshined by the sterling performance of the College sees slight enrollment increase

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

You would have been hard-pressed to have found someone who wasn't holding an armful of boxes, furniture or computer equipment Friday on the campus of Wayne State College.

Moving day marked the start of the 2009 fall semester on campus, and the combination of fresh faces and older students has turned into a slight increase in enrollment for the start of the 2009-2010 educational year at Wayne State.

Early enrollment numbers show a slight increase from last year. This year's total enrollment stood at 3,574 students as of Tuesday, up 1.5 percent from the 3,522 students who were on campus one year ago. Incoming freshmen totaled 664 students, just three more than were seen the previous year.

"We were hoping to be up," Bob McCue, vice president of academic affairs, said. "We thought we would be higher with our freshmen class, but we've had a number of cancellations that, I believe, could be attributed to the economy."

The recent economic challenges being faced by families have forced some to delay or cancel their post-secondary education plans for the time being, but McCue feels those numbers will come around during the second semester.

"Most of our enrollment is traditional students, and I think those numbers will turn around," he said. "I don't know how many are waiting to start in January, but I expect to see those numbers up."

"Considering all the (economic) factors out there that are impacting people, we're glad to be up 1.5 percent," he added.

Twenty-six freshmen from Wayne County enrolled this semester, the same as enrolled one year ago. And while those incoming freshmen don't represent a large number of the 664 new students, the county is still well-represented among the total enrollment.

"Wayne County is always one of our bigger counties, but what we are seeing is that, as rural populations decline, we see less from the surrounding counties," McCue said.

McCue said the college has done

Nelson listens to concerns about health care

Nebraska Sen. Ben Nelson discussed health care with a near standing-room-only crowd of more than 500 area residents Tuesday morning at Northeast Community College's Lifelong Learning Center. Nelson answered a number of questions from concerned taxpayers regarding proposed legislation that would provide health care to every American citizen.

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

NORFOLK - With a near standing-room-only crowd of about 500 jamming the Lifelong Learning Center at Northeast Community College Tuesday morning, school officials weren't taking any chances.

Before Sen. Ben Nelson spent a little more than an hour discussing health care legislation being proposed in both houses of Congress and listening to constituents' concerns, those in attendance actually had to be asked to "treat each other as neighbors and act in a courteous manner."

Considering the tone of other discussions Congressional representatives have had in other states, officials wanted to be proactive in avoiding the shouting matches and fistfights that have resulted from similar town hall-type meetings in other states.

While the occasional collective groan and an occasional aside was muttered, Tuesday's town hall meeting with the second-term Democrat allowed several area residents to air concerns over the plans themselves, as well as privacy issues, costs and the state of health insurance in America.

Nelson said his goal is to "create a win-win situation" that provides the best options for coverage without sending the nation further into debt.

Nelson said insurance costs have soared more than 79 percent over the last seven years. During that same period, he said, the inflation-adjusted rate of compensation has been about 2 percent.

"It doesn't take a strong mathematician to figure out...we'll be priced out of the market at some point," he said.

Nelson said that both congressional house versions of health care reform - the 600-page Senate version Nelson said he has read, and the 1,300-page behemoth authored in the House of Representatives - are dead in the water.

"Neither is going anywhere," he told the concerned crowd.

Nelson did say, however, that a compromise bill is being worked on by the Finance Committee, and he would read the bill in its entirety before making a decision on it.

Nelson did say he would not support a bill if it did not exclude illegal aliens, and received loud applause when he said the bill must not cover abortions.

Several in the audience expressed concern that a government-run program would intrude on an individual's privacy.

"Would the founders of the Constitution be alarmed if they knew government officials had access to private information," one person in the crowd asked Nelson.

Nelson agreed, adding that such legislation would need to keep a person's private medical records in the hands of that individual and whichever medical facility he or she deems necessary.

There has been talk recently of leading congressional Democrats trying to push their legislation through via a reconciliation process known as a "nuclear option," which would require a simple majority in the Senate, rather than a 60-vote minimum.

Nelson said he didn't think that would happen, and he said he would encourage his fellow senators to play by the rules.

"We need to work within the rules and not weasel around it," he said. "We ought to follow the rules, even when the rules pinch. We have to get it right, or we will create winners and losers in this."

Nelson criticized the Obama Administration

Q-125 committee reviews celebration

The Q-125 Committee met Tuesday evening at the Coffee Shoppe on Main Street.

The meeting began with a review of the committee's financials after the August Celebration Weekend activities and after paying the bills covering the activities of the week-end.

Next, the committee heard a report from Pastor Rick Snodgrass on Sunday's Singsperation which will be held at the Praise Assembly of God Church. There was a change in the starting time and the Singsperation will start at 6:30 p.m. The public is invited and refreshments will be served.

Steve Gross reported on the Spirit Walk which will be held on Sunday, Sept. 13 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Wayne Cemetery. Four deceased Wayne Volunteer Firefighters will be featured and a visiting spirit will be on hand. Gross indicated that this year's Spirit Walk is designed to honor the firefighters of the Wayne Fire Department in this Q-125 year.

Tickets will be available in the next few days and can be purchased at Swans, the Coffee Shoppe, the Wayne Greenhouse, and the Chamber office and will cost $6 each.

Spanish Heritage Month was discussed next and the activities that can be scheduled honor the Hispanic citizens and to find a date for any activities decided on. Pat

Cook has been in touch with some Spanish Dancers and Musicians and Tony Kochenash is working with the Wayne State College Cultural Center which is planning a celebration on campus.

The Pumpkin Contest was discussed and the public should be reminded that the deadline for entering pumpkins in the contest is Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 3-4 at Pac 'N' Save. It should take a week to judge and the winning pumpkins should be on display at the Auditorium at the Sunday, Oct. 11 Harvest Dance.

More details on the Harvest Dance will be discussed at the next regular meeting.

The committee thought it would attempt to have an entry in the WSC Homecoming Parade, possibly finding an antique car, putting the Q-125 Birthday signs on each side and having General Wayne sitting in the car. If anybody is willing to enter their antique car for this purpose, please contact Q-125 Chair Tony Kochenash.

Discussion then lead to the dedication of the Veterans Memorial and the visit at this time for the 43rd Army Band, various activities for the Holiday Season, and a possible culmination activity for the Q-125 year. More discussion on these topics will be held at the next regular meeting, which is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 8 at 7 p.m. at the Coffee Shoppe.

Ben Allemann has seen the world as part of the International Studies Program while attending the University of Nebraska at Kearney, traveling to China, Ireland and the Czech Republic.

Allemann enjoys traveling around the world

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

When Ben Allemann graduated from Wayne High School in 2004, he planned to attend the University of Nebraska at Kearney and major in criminal justice.

However, it didn't take him long to determine that was not the right path for him.

Since that time his path has taken him to the Czech Republic, China and Ireland, as well as to the podium as the student chosen to give the senior reflection during this summer's commencement ceremony.

"After I got to school was recruited to join Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity by Jeff Ensz (also a Wayne High graduate) and met other students who had been involved with the International Studies Program," Allemann.

That led him, in the spring of 2007, to become involved in the Nebraska Student Abroad program. He noted that the program is available to any student enrolled in a Nebraska state college or university.

Allemann first studied in the Czech Republic and was able to visit other areas as the professors he worked with took the 14 students in this group to sites of interest.

"This type of program opens up a lot of doors and broadened my scope of our global society," Allemann said.

After his experiences abroad, Allemann spent the 2007-08 school year back in Kearney, promoting the program.

"I gave presentations across the state and worked on my research project, which compared University of Nebraska-Kearney students with Czech students on personal care products. I was able to get funding to assist with this research," he said.

The urge to travel again was strong and as a business major (he earned a Business Administration Comprehensive major with an emphasis in Marketing and minors in Advertising and International Studies), Allemann went to China. He spent four months in China, working with Shandong University at Weihai.

"It was significantly cheaper to go here than to a larger university. I met those who had connections at the university and helped set up the program," Allemann said.

Allemann spent four months in China and then went directly to Dublin, Ireland for two months.

In Ireland he worked with a management placement agency. "The entire trip was worth it. It was something I want to do. Yes, it was difficult, but it offered me lots of opportunity. It is something that has made me excited about my education," he said.

Allemann earned enough credit to graduate in December of 2008, but when the opportunity to travel came up, he pursued his travels.

While in Ireland, the Dean of the Business College at UN-K recommended Allemann to be the graduation speaker. He arrived back in the United States two days before graduation, just in time to prepare his speech.

Since returning to the United States, Allemann has interviewed for several positions, focusing on the Omaha, Lincoln and Dallas/Fort Worth areas.

In the mean time, he continues to promote the Nebraska Student Abroad program as "a good, safe thing to do."

After-hours trio

Jason Bareman, Cindy Brummond and Gina Hughes were all smiles as they greeted the 50 people in attendance at last week's Business After Hours at the Wayne Country Club.

'The Big World' opens Aug. 31 at Wayne State

The Art and Design Department at Wayne State College recently announced the international group exhibition, "The Big World."

An opening reception will be held at the Nordstrand Art Gallery in the Peterson Fine Arts Building on Monday, Aug. 31 from 4:30-6 p.m.

Eleven artists, half of whom reside in Asia and the other half in the West, are represented by two-dimensional works of art and are interviewed on DVD by Associate Professor of Art at Oregon State University, Julie Green.

Artist participant Susan Knight will introduce the exhibit with a brief gallery talk at 4:30 p.m. in the Val Peterson Fine Arts foyer. The exhibit continues through Sept. 18. Gallery hours are 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Visitors are welcome to attend at no charge.

"I wondered if globalization and the Internet have lessened the significance of where we are from, and where we live now," Green said. "As you can see, location and personal histories do greatly influence the concepts of these 11 artists. For example, Ding Yi's abstractions are his reaction against traditional, narrative Chinese painting, while Susan Knight focuses on the pollution of rivers in Nebraska, and Chen Changwei morphs zodiac animals into contemporary Chinese groups, including a family with a mistress."

The exhibition will introduce audiences to these artists, give the artists an opportunity to explain their concept, and promote understanding and peace.

The Big World is fully funded by a 2008 General Research Fund Award from Oregon State University. Viewers are encouraged to spend time with the exhibit, not only observe the artworks but also to view the DVD in the gallery as the artists speak directly about their own work.

An earth-shaking experience for former resident overseas

Editor's Note: The following is another in a series of articles written by Gary Van Meter, formerly of Wayne, who is now living in Romania.

Earthquake!
Yesterday I was at the desk in my apartment minding my own business, when the room suddenly felt very much like being on Vern Updagraff's boat at Harlan County dam years ago as Dad was leaning over to get a beer out of the cooler.

There was the unmistakable rocking as I recalled my first boat ride with the guys and a beer cooler. I quick looked outside—no lake, no boat and no Vern or Dad, so I figured it had to be what folks warned me about... an earthquake.

Since the last big quake in 1977 that killed 1,400 citizens, buildings have supposedly been constructed to withstand a substantial earthquake. Buildings that won't take the shock have a large red dot (see photo) with a message that roughly translates: "If there is an earthquake occurring and you can read this, then you are too close." Those structures are guaranteed to fall.

The government safety instructions dictate that one should not panic and taking pictures has always been a stress reliever so I grabbed my camera to take a picture of me shaking in the apartment.

We are also advised to have 25 liters of water stored, or enough for six weeks. Nobody knows quite how or where the water should be stored—I think everything is fair game for destruction in an earthquake. The fridge initially seemed like a good place but then there would be no room for the chicken salad and beer.

After setting off every car alarm in town, things settled down. I later learned we were about one hundred miles from the epicenter of a magnitude 5.2 earthquake near the Black Sea.

Since the walls and floors of my building are reinforced concrete about two feet thick I guess there is some comfort that I'm in a safer place than most. Personally, I'd like to be back on that boat and take my chances with the guys and the beer at the dam.

more promoting in larger regional cities like Omaha and Sioux City to help offset the declining enrollment at rural schools.

"We've done more promoting in cities where there are higher high school populations, but we still do very well in rural northeast Nebraska," he said. "That's where a majority of our students come from."

The dorms on campus appeared to be busy as students moved in over the weekend. McCue said 1,369 students are taking advantage of the dormitories on campus, representing almost two-fifths of the student body.

Black Hills Energy to begin enrollment program Sept. 1

Black Hills Energy is mailing 2009-10 annual price option enrollment forms to its approximately 177,400 residential natural gas customers in Nebraska on Aug. 31.

The company's program locks in the customer's price for natural gas for one year, meaning the customer is billed the same price for natural gas used throughout the contract period regardless of changes in the market price of natural gas. This plan offers customers price certainty for one year for the natural gas portion of their bill.

The 2009-10 program begins Nov. 1, and runs through Oct. 31, 2010. Black Hills Energy's Nebraska customers can sign up by returning the postage-paid reply card included in the customer mailer.

Beginning Sept. 1, customers can also enroll online at www.annual-priceoption.com. Sign-up ends Oct. 2, or when the 24,000 customer limit is reached.

Black Hills Energy purchases a designated supply of natural gas for this specific APO program, so participation is limited to the first 24,000 customers signing up. Customers who sign up are required to stay on the program for one year unless they move out of Black Hills Energy's Nebraska service territory.

APO customer bills will increase or decrease based on the amount of natural gas used. Non-APO customer bills will increase or decrease based on usage as well as any change in the market price of gas.

Currently, national market natural gas commodity prices are significantly lower than last year's, which is reflected in this year's APO prices compared to last year. The traditional billing natural gas price for August, the latest month available, is lower than the 2009-10 locked-in APO price. Traditional market prices for the last 12 months have ranged from $0.40440 per therm to $0.85050 per therm.

Black Hills Energy's Nebraska service territory is divided into three rate areas. Natural gas prices vary slightly between rate areas as a result of differences in pipeline costs to transport natural gas to the rate areas.

Customers choosing the APO may combine it with the company's Budget Billing that takes seasonal peaks out of a customer bill for a more even monthly payment.

NECC gets federal online grant

The Northeast Community College Board of Governors recently accepted a federal grant award to be used to improve its online educational opportunities.

The grant, a Title III Strengthening Institutions Grant awarded by the United States Department of Education with an anticipated five-year total of $1,965,374, will provide funding to expand access and success of students enrolled in online degree programs at Northeast.

The Title III grant is a project that will run from Oct. 1 through Sept. 30, 2014, with an award of $399,995 for the first year of the project. Wayne Erickson, Northeast dean of continuing education and distance learning, will serve as project director for the grant award.

According to Erickson, the Title III grant will allow for the development of more online courses and degree programs and expand the design and delivery of distance learning courses and learning support services through faculty and staff development. It will also provide and increase access to online student support services at Northeast Community College.

Erickson said this award will allow for expansion of online degree offerings at Northeast. This fall, Northeast will add online associate of arts degrees in a number of programs, including business administration, criminal justice and social science.

Wayne Kearney fit in? In 1968, a boy was born in Staten Island, N.Y. His parents named him Wayne Kearney, unaware of the relationship to the two Midwestern football rivals in the state of Nebraska.

As a child, Kearney moved to Houston, where he lives today. Over the years he has followed the teams as they squared off on the gridiron. Each Monday, he posts the results on his office door and talks to his co-workers about his fondness of his namesake.

Kearney will fulfill one of his childhood dreams on Saturday. He will be in attendance at this Saturday's 6 p.m. game between the Wildcats and Lopers at Memorial Stadium on the Wayne State College campus.

The board also approved the hiring of Karla Pick as computer support specialist and heard information on capital bond funding from Jay Spearman of Ameritas.

"The watchfulness of the citizen is important, but Washington doesn't help itself in situations like this."

Nelson said that, whatever the outcome, any reform to health insurance can not add to a deficit which is more than $2 trillion.

"We can't add to the deficit any more," he said.

Softball team to be tested at Lincoln tournament

The Wayne High softball team will get a good early indicator this weekend of where they stand as a team. The Blue Devils are one of 24 teams competing in the Lincoln Public Schools Softball Classic this Saturday, at Doris Bair Complex in Lincoln. Wayne will compete in Pool C action with Lincoln North Star, Norris and Omaha Gross in a round-robin tournament that begins at 9:15 a.m.

Coach Rob Sweetland said Wayne's first tournament game should be a good early test.

"Omaha Gross was at state last year," he said. "They lost a lot to graduation, but they always seem to be loaded and are a good Class B team."

"Lincoln North Star is after that, and they have their top two pitchers back and are very well-coached," he added. "We got off to a rough start last year against Norris and lost 9-6, and they have a strong pitcher back, so we're going to face some good competition that will tell us, right away, where we're at."

The Blue Devils open the 2009 season at Twin River on Thursday. They play at Lutheran High Northeast on Tuesday, Sept. 1 before their first home game, scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 8 against Columbus Lakeview.

NET's Big Red Wrap-Up set for Sept. 1 kickoff

After last year's exciting finish in the Gator Bowl, Husker faithful are looking forward to another season of Nebraska football.

Nebraska Education Television will once again broadcast "Big Red Wrap-Up," a weekly television program providing analysis and highlights of Husker football games, beginning with a pre-season special on Tuesday, Sept. 1, at 7 p.m.

"Big Red Wrap-Up" is the only live, viewer call-in Husker sports program in Nebraska. It offers an overview of the previous week's Husker football game, including video highlights and game statistics, weekly rankings and Big 12 Conference scores and standings. Viewers can submit questions to hosts Kevin Kugler and Adrian Fiala by phone, e-mail, Facebook or Twitter.

In addition, Sean Callhan of Huskers Illustrated reports on the latest recruiting news, taking a closer look at some of the nation's top high school prospects.

The program, a production of NET Sports, is also broadcast live on the NET Web site at www.net-nebraska.org.

GROUND BREAKING

Allen Vision LLC held its Ground Breaking Ceremony for the New Allen Gas Station Convenience Store to be located at Highway 9 and First Street in Allen on Aug. 21.

There were around 65 people in attendance for the ground breaking. Kevin Connot opened the ceremony by thanking everyone for supporting Allen Vision in their strive to build the much needed convenience store.

Kevin Connot introduced the Directors of Allen Vision LLC - Marlin and Cindy Kraemer, Jim Stapleton, Wayne Chase, Rob Bock and Kevin Connot. He spoke of all the time that has gone into this project and that he enjoyed meeting and brainstorming with people who have such great visions and ideas.

Rob Bock spoke then of the steps taken to make the vision a reality, including the building being built in the next few weeks, and the gas tanks being ordered to be delivered at that time. He pointed out the flags that mark where the building will be built and also where the gas pumps will be located. He explained that there would be several areas to park both cars and large trucks still allowing for room for vehicles to drive up to the gas pumps.

Rob then introduced Dave Albers. Dave owns convenience stores in Crofton and Creighton and will be leasing the new building in Allen. Rob also introduced Bill Shepard from USDA Rural Development, who spoke a few words on the project. Rob then gave thanks to those who had purchased shares, those who had volunteered their time and/or equipment to help with the many hours of clearing the property and moving dirt to make the area ready.

COMMUNITY BLOOD DRIVE

The Allen Community Blood Drive will be in Allen on Monday, Aug. 31 at the Allen Firehall from 3 - 7 p.m. It is sponsored by the Siouxland Community Blood Bank. Siouxland Community Blood Bank Gift of Life Scholarship. During the second year of the Gift of Life Educational Scholarship

Around 65 people attended the ground breaking ceremony held last Friday at the new Allen Convenience Store building site.

Program, 33 of the 60+ high schools in their service area qualified for the funds. Congratulations to these students and thank you for giving the gift of life: Nicholas Schneiders of Allen

FIRST FOOTBALL GAME

George Phelps opens financial consulting office in Wayne

George Phelps has opened a Financial Consulting Office in the Mineshaft Mall, Suite 100 in Wayne.

Phelps moved to Wayne in 1968, working as a Financial Advisors associated with what was then called IDS, now referred to as Ameriprise Financial.

No longer associated with Ameriprise, Phelps will now operate as an independent Financial Consultant, associated with Partners Advantage Insurance Services, a nationwide provider of financial services.

Over the years Phelps has helped hundreds of people obtain their financial dreams, simply helping them identify their financial goals, explaining solutions to help individuals and businesses arrive at their financial destinations.

"I plan to continue consulting with individuals and businesses about their insurance needs, tax and retirement questions," George explained. "Working with other professionals, such as CPA's, attorneys and bankers, has been the bases for helping others achieve success," he added.

Phelps invites everyone to stop by his office in the Mineshaft Mall to say 'hi' or just chat and call (402) 369-1818 for an appointment. His email address is gphelps@hunte.net

Attorney General offers advice

College students should beware of easy credit

By Jon Bruning
Nebraska Attorney General

College students are back on campus and so are those tempting offers of easy credit or cash. There are plenty of options when it comes to credit cards and other ways to put money in their wallets. But a seemingly good deal can come with a high price.

Accepting giveaways for filling out credit card applications can leave students with a high interest rate on their new card. Students and parents should discuss whether or not a credit card is needed and types of credit available. If a student is getting a credit card, be sure to find one with a reasonable interest rate and fees, and remember that it's important to use it wisely. Dinner out, a tank of gas and trips to the movies can quickly add up. Before they know it, students have a larger balance than they can afford. Charging too much now means students could still be paying it back after graduation and beyond.

Students also need to be careful with their personal information because identity theft happens on college campuses too. Sensitive documents with bank account, credit card or Social Security numbers should be kept in a safe location, away from roommates, friends and other visitors. Updating computers with anti-virus software, spyware detection and a firewall will further protect personal information.

A good resource is my office's Identity Theft Repair Kit. It's free and offers students a step-by-step guide to repairing credit if they've been a victim of identity theft along with tips on protecting personal information. Getting a copy is easy. Contact our Consumer Protection Division at (800) 727-6432 or download it from www.ago.ne.gov

A little bit of knowledge can save students a lot of money and help ensure the financial transition from home to college is a smooth one.

OPEN HOUSE
Winside Public Schools had a K-12 Open House on Aug. 20.

Parents and students were able to walk through the classrooms and see what new and exciting things that are about to take place in 2009-

The Open House was a new way to introduce to parents members of the faculty and facilities, as well as show off some of the new technology.

By the end of the first quarter all classrooms will be equipped with MIMIO smart boards and touch pads. We would like to see more people attend our next opportunity to take a look at what is going on at Winside Public Schools.

The next large scale opportunity to visit will be Oct. 20 and 21, which will be Parent/Teachers Conferences.

Blood drive held in Winside

The Siouland Community Blood Bank conducted a Winside Community Blood Drive on Aug. 19 at the Lied Winside Library.

A total of 13 donors registered and nine units were collected.

Those taking part included Sandra Atkins, Robert Devney, Greta Grubbs, Michael Hawkins, Stacey Hawkins, Helen Holtgrew, Carol Jorgensen, Hillary Lienemann, Dean Mann, Shelby Meyer, Arlene Rabe, James Rabe and Jerry Rabe.

Special congratulations were extended to those who reached gallon milestones:

Helen Holtgrew - six gallons.

Free water testing offered at Husker Harvest Days

Nebraskans with private water wells can have their drinking water tested for nitrates during Husker Harvest Days in Grand Island on Sept. 15, 16 and 17.

To find out the nitrate level in the water they drink, well owners can bring a cup-size sample to the Natural Resources Tent or to the University of Nebraska Building. There is no charge for the test, and well owners can get the results while they wait. The test takes about 10 minutes.

Nitrates are a health concern for infants under six months of age and pregnant women, as well as anyone who has a weakened immune system.

High levels of nitrates interfere with the blood's ability to carry oxygen and can cause "blue baby" syndrome.

Livestock, especially cattle, are also susceptible to nitrate poisoning, resulting in lower milk production and loss of calves.

The water testing is sponsored by the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services, Division of Public Health. For more information, contact the Environmental Health Unit, (402) 471-2541.

Cardiothoracic Surgeon

Joseph McClain, MD, MS, FACS
Cardiothoracic Surgeon

Joseph McClain, M.D., M.S., F.A.C.S., a skilled cardiothoracic surgeon, will join the Faith Regional CardioVascular Institute in August. Dr. McClain is a northeast Nebraska native and is looking forward to returning to this area.

Dr. McClain received his medical degree from the University of Nebraska Medical Center with distinction in Omaha. After medical school, he went on to complete a surgery and cardiothoracic surgery residencies at the Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, Texas. Following his training, he became board certified by the American Board of Surgery and Thoracic Surgery.

Dr. McClain served as a cardiothoracic surgeon at the McGuire Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Richmond, Virginia. In addition, he was an Assistant Clinical Professor of Surgery at the Virginia Commonwealth University. Most recently, he worked at the Central Maine Heart and Vascular Institute in Lewiston, Maine.

Dr. McClain performs a full spectrum of cardiothoracic surgery including on and off pump CABGs and all types of valve procedures. He has experience in all areas of general thoracic surgery including minimally invasive video assisted thoroscopic techniques, esophageal and lung surgeries. Also, he performs radiofrequency ablations - a nonsurgical procedure used to treat some types of rapid heart beating.

Dr. McClain is now accepting referrals and appointments at Faith Regional CardioVascular Institute. For an appointment call (402) 844-8284. To learn more about Dr. McClain visit www.frihs.org.

Control dogs

Has anyone noticed the increasing number of dogs being walked in town? That's great, they and their owners need to exercise, but has anyone been to the Farmer's Market by the courthouse and stepped in dog poop?

The vendors either try to set their table or chairs over it, or make an attempt to brush it next to a tree with whatever tool they may have in their vehicle.

I have seen people walking their dogs by the courthouse and on residential sidewalks. They stand and wait for the dog to poop and just walk on. Some of these are prominent business people, it's not just one class of people. This happens as they walk through alleys also, next to gardens, etc.

How difficult is it to stick some of those plastic bags in your pocket, put two or three together and pick it up and put it in a bag to carry home? If you think I am the only one disgusted by this, you are wrong. (Oh, by the way, there are a lot of people that have consideration for other people's lawns.)

Some places fine people for leaving their dog poop lay. Maybe that's what we need here in Wayne.

I truly feel sorry for the food vendors by the courthouse trying to sell food over, or by, this crap.

Program concerns

Never, growing up, did I ever think I would be sitting here writing a letter in such frustration regarding the Wayne High wrestling and football programs.

I remember, being a little kid, not being able to wait to become a Blue Devil. I think that this ate at me a little more than most, since I got the opportunity to be around the program for many years prior with my dad being a coach.

When I look back at all the years I spent around the program, two words come to my mind: pride and tradition. I feel these two important assets no longer exist.

I remember going through these programs and taking great pride in everything I did individually, as well as a team; not only during the season, but even more importantly, in the off-season.

Now kids have to pay to lift weights? What happened to the tradition of mandatory lifting, plyometrics and agilityes? I remember the weight room being so packed to the point that it sometimes took more than three hours to complete the workout. The time did not matter, though, because everyone was there to get better, no matter how long it took.

The weight room, often times, even turned into a competition itself. Kids are obviously not being pushed in-season or off-season, and in return they find it hard to put in the effort themselves.

As you walk down the halls of Wayne High School, take a look at the last time one of these programs brought home a trophy or plaque. This is proof that something has changed, and not for the better. The tradition is gone.

I want to be able to come back to Wayne and watch these teams, which used to have such great heart and desire, succeed once again. I believe this all starts with making more realistic decisions in our coaching staff. Don't hire who you think will please everyone by being more of a friend than a coach. Instead, find someone who has been through the program, knows the tradition, and at least has proven they know how to succeed.

Also, it turned my gut inside out when I heard about some of the coaching staff on the Wayne High football team this year. Who is going to take Wayne seriously if we are letting just any parent step into the coaching staff? It's as if it is turning into a club or town team. The program deserves much better than that.

I can confidently say that I am not the only one who can see that these two athletic teams are on the decline. I just hope that something will be done to put these teams back to where all of us remember them being.

To conclude, I know many of you are probably thinking that this is all just about me trying to get my dad back on to the football field and in the wrestling room. However, this has nothing to do with that. I just want to see these programs have the pride and tradition that it deserves to have.

Dana Schuett
Omaha

EDITOR'S NOTE - While we certainly can understand the author's thinking about school pride, the truth is that Wayne's tradition of success in football and wrestling has been spotty at best.

The wrestling team was the Class B state runner-up in 1991 and has won a number of tournaments over the years, but boasts just four state champions, including three-time champion Matt Nelson (2002-2004), two-time champion Jason Ehrhardt (1990-91), Kevin Koenig (1984) and Josh Murtaugh (1999).

The football team has also had some good teams over the years, but have reached the playoffs just six times in the 35 years Nebraska has had a football playoff system in place. In those six appearances, the Blue Devils have but one win, coming in their first appearance in 1983.

We must remember that, as with everything else, a school's tradition of on-field success in athletics is cyclical. Some years are good (from a win-loss perspective), others are not, and those cycles are based on a number of factors that have little to do with pride and tradition.

Capitol View

Nelson stating his position

By ED HOWARD
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — If the Legislature were in session, someone would introduce a resolution urging Nebraska's congressional delegation to oppose the "government option" in healthcare policy.

It would have no shortage of co-sponsors.

It would be adopted.

Governors can choose to sign, or not sign, legislative resolutions. Gov. Dave Heineman would sign this one.

An interesting element of a resolution debate centers on whether any lawmakers wanted to make sure that it praised the efforts of Sen. Ben Nelson. The Nebraska Democrat has effectively led the Senate fight against the Obama administration's original proposal which included giving the public the option to sign up for a government-run health insurance system.

Opponents would argue, in part, that Nelson needn't receive particular praise since every member of Nebraska's congressional delegation has opposed the public option. Further, they would likely argue that once the words "death squads" swept the nation, the demise of the public option was assured, with or without Nelson.

Nelson, a former two-term governor, is taking no chances insofar as making certain his constituents understand he has opposed the public option as recommended by the president.

At this writing he had conducted one town hall meeting in Omaha, another was scheduled in Lincoln; his office had implied that others would be held in some of the state's largest cities. He was airing his promised television advertisements, aimed at convincing

Nebraskans he would do what's best for the state.

As the debate became an ever-larger national issue, Nelson worked to make certain the home-folk knew his position. He said he objected to any public option that would compete with private insurance companies - which amounted to outright opposition, while technically leaving the door open for a government-run program. In reality, even the most imaginative supporters of the original Obama plan hadn't found a suggestion for solving that policy riddle.

Nelson's situation continued to be the state's top political story, even though he doesn't face re-election until 2012.

The persistent questions: Will his base of Nebraska Democrats turn on him over the healthcare issue? Even though he has been central to blocking the Obama plan, will Republican crossover voters and Independent voters maintain their support for Nelson?

As noted previously in this space: Democrats and Independents might stay with him, simply in hopes of maintaining a Senate majority that allows the Democratic Party to hold committee chairmanships and other leadership posts. Republicans might figure that any Nebraska GOP candidate would generally support party positions, and defeating Nelson would help their side regain the control of the Senate, which they enjoyed through many years during the administration of President George W. Bush.

Under the banner of resolutions, which are guaranteed to be introduced and passed without dissent, will be a declaration of support and praise for the Nebraska Cornhuskers 2009-2010 football campaign. This is assured regardless of the Huskers record and/or bowl performance.

When a good night's sleep is interrupted

Some people can't wait to get out of bed in the morning.

You know these people...they're up before the crack of dawn, and by the time the sun peeks over the horizon, they've already done their morning workout, read the morning paper, eaten breakfast, showered, dressed and are attacking their to-do list for the day.

Meanwhile...I'm still sleeping. And I'm not a very happy camper when one of these people gives me a wake-up call.

Recently, my cell phone awoke me from my pre-dawn slumber and began playing the ring tone signifying that my daughter was calling (oddly enough, it's "For Whom The Bell Tolls" by Metallica). I picked up the phone and, through my blurry, burning eyes, noted the time: 5:45 a.m.

"Mmmmm," I managed to mumble.

"Hi, Daddy," the familiar, high-energy voice of my daughter on the other end, chimed.

It took some time for me to respond, which she mistakenly assumed was her cue to continue the conversation.

"Guess what?" I'm still trying to process the reason why my daughter would call me at daybreak, and fearing I had stumbled into an impromptu game of 20 Questions, I mumbled, "Ahdunno."

My daughter was recently selected to be part of the UNL Marching Band. She will be a flag-twirler, and this is a really big deal in our family. Lately, she has been on one of those mental highs that comes with such events as making a team you've wanted to be a part of your entire life (I'm not sure, but similar traits may also be found in Powerball winners, golfers whose tee shots hit a tree and bounce unexpectedly into the cup for a hole-in-one, and college seniors who barely pass a test after a three-day, sleep-deprived, caffeine-overloaded study binge, which was the inspiration for a phone call I got from her after finals last spring).

"We're playing that song we did my junior year in high school during our first show this fall," she said excitedly.

Now, mind you, she performed about 20-30 songs during her four years in the band at Millard West High School, and if you offered me $10,000 to name one of those songs right now, I couldn't do it. And, yet, I couldn't stop myself from asking: "What song is that?"

"You know..." and then she named the song, which, thanks to my still-foggy mental capacities, I immediately forgot, (it might have been "Isn't She Lovely" by Stevie Wonder...or maybe "Dragula" by Rob Zombie. They're so hard to tell apart anymore.). "And then the next week, we're playing..." naming another immediately-forgettable ditty from a bygone era. For all I know, they're playing either the greatest hits of Andy Gibb or all the one-hit wonders of the 1970s (and I think, right about now, we're all looking forward to the band's rendition of the Starland Vocal Band's "Afternoon Delight").

Within the course of our three-minute conversation (which, in my sleep-deprived state, felt more like three hours), she gave me the highlights of all the band's upcoming performances, where she stands during each song (obviously, so that I can get crisp, clear shots of her from my seat...in the 76th row of Section 39), all of the moves she's required to perform, and the number of practice hours they are scheduled to put in for each show.

This was far too much for my still-sluggish cranium to process, but my daughter wasn't letting me off the hook. The early-morning information overload included a status update on her boyfriend (who, supposedly, has a job that doesn't involve pushing popcorn-peppered duststorms at movie theaters, which I feared was his life-long professional pursuit), a vivid description of the new futon she bought with tips she earned from working this summer, the activities she gets to plan as her floor's activity leader in her dorm room (which, obviously, include calling your parents before sunrise) and the thunderstorm that rolled through Lincoln the previous night.

And then, for some strange reason, it must have dawned on her that it was still a good hour before sunrise when she called, causing her to ask this conversation-altering question:

"Did I wake you up, Daddy?"

It was then that I hung up on her, flung the cell phone across the bedroom, pulled the blankets back over my head and slammed my fist into the alarm clock, realizing a good night's sleep was but a distant memory, and the reality of a new dawn breaking ended any hope of returning to what, up until that moment, was a peaceful slumber.

I love my daughter...but I hate mornings.

Weekly Legislative Update

Greetings from the Unicameral! One of the committees that I have the pleasure to serve on in the Legislature is the Special Committee on State-Tribal Relations.

Unlike the Legislature's standing committees, the State-Tribal Relations Committee does not have regularly scheduled meetings during session, and does not have jurisdiction over certain types of legislation. The goal of the committee is to research policy issues that affect Native tribes in Nebraska as well as foster relationships between the tribes and the state.

One issue that will undoubtedly draw the attention of the State-Tribal Relations Committee this year is the ongoing situation in Whiteclay. Located just across the South Dakota border from the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation, the small village of Whiteclay (population 14) is host to four liquor stores, which have contributed to the estimated 80 percent unemployment rate, increased violent crime, and other alcohol-related problems on the reservation.

The Legislature's General Affairs Committee is already conducting an interim study on the Whiteclay situation, and has designated that study as its top priority over the next few months. A hearing on that study, LR199, has been scheduled for 1:30 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 25 at the Capitol in Lincoln.

Finally, I would like to thank the many residents who attended my recent town hall in Ponca, particularly those with concerns regarding the proposed Highway 35 Expressway. Over the next few weeks, my office will be working with the Department of Roads in the hopes of bringing department officials to the Wayne/Wakefield area this fall to answer landowners' questions about the tentatively proposed routes for this project. I would encourage any residents who would like to be included in this meeting to contact my office, and we would be happy to keep you informed of our progress.

As always, I would encourage you to contact me if you have any questions or simply have an opinion on legislation before the Unicameral. Feel free to call my office at (402) 471-2716, send me an e-mail at bgiese@leg.ne.gov, or stop by in person any time you're in Lincoln.

Wakefield to be site of emergency workshop

The Emergency Medical Services Program of the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services will offer a workshop on "Aspirin, Epinephrine, & Activated Charcoal" for emergency medical technicians and first responders. The workshop will be held at the Wakefield Fire Hall on Tuesday, Sept. 8, from 7 to 10 p.m.

The workshop is worth three continuing education hours. For other information, contact Jason Olesen, Northeast Region Emergency Medical Specialist, at 1-888-696-8908.

Special guests

A group of residents and staff members from the Norfolk Veterans' Home were in Wayne on Monday. Members of the local veterans' groups, the AmVets, Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Sons of the American Legion and American Legion and their auxiliaries served a fried chicken supper to more than 40 people who arrived in Wayne on a bus. Following supper, the group enjoyed several games of bingo, with caller Earl Fuoss, above. Organizers noted that it has been a number of years since this type of event has been held at the Vet's Club.

Fall Luncheon planned for Winside Museum

All interested persons are being encouraged to reserve a table for the fall luncheon/craft show fundraiser for the Winside Museum.

The Winside Museum Committee will hold a soup luncheon/craft show fundraiser on Sunday, Sept. 27 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Winside Auditorium.

To reserve a table, contact Lin Brummels at 286-4891 or Bill and Patti Burris at 286-4839. The cost to rent a table is $10.

Cheeseburger soup, chicken soup, chili, beef vegetable soup and desserts with a beverage will be served from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Craft and vendor items will be on sale before and during the soup luncheon. The committee will hold a raffle at 2 that day.

Items to be raffled are an afghan specially crafted by Ruby Ritze for the museum fundraiser. The afghan is sage green and tan and is crocheted in a pattern called "In the Waves." A 19-inch HDTV will also be raffled. Raffle tickets may be purchased at the door or from museum committee members prior to the fundraiser.

On Sunday, Oct. 11 the museum committee is planning to host a Ghost Tour of the Pleasant View Cemetery at Winside. Contact Bill Burris if you would like more information.

Thank you to everyone who helped in any way to make the 4-H Events a success for the youth in Wayne County. The following individuals/businesses contributed to the bonus auction/pool, trophies, scholarships, camps, special awards and various 4-H events.

Bluegrass bands, dancers to hold festival

The 34th National Old Time Country, Bluegrass and Folk Festival & Contest & Pioneer Exposition of Arts, Crafts and Agricultural Lifestyle is slated for Aug. 31-Sept. 6 at the Plymouth County Fairgrounds in LeMars, Iowa.

"It's just the beginning of summer, and it's also just the beginning of the huge number of bluegrass bands and dancers that are coming to Iowa this fall," said Bob Everhart, the President of the National Traditional Country Music Association, located in Anita, Iowa. Everhart is the director of the largest and oldest old-time acoustic music festival west of the Mississippi River.

"We have always had good participation with acoustic musicians at our event, but we've never had so many bands before. It's not uncommon at all to have well over 600 musicians, but 20 acoustic bands, some of them international, is new to us. Our celebrities this year are pretty amazing too, much of it having to do with our continued dedication to keeping the pioneer and homesteader music and spirit alive in the great state of Iowa. We've been doing this for 34 years now, and every year is a surprise to me."

The seven-day event features 10 sound stages from 9 a.m. to midnight every day.

A number of celebrities, including Patti Page and the oldest and last living musician who played on Jimmie Rodgers recordings. Bands from Tennessee, Oklahoma, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and Kentucky and Iowa, as well as Canada and England have been booked for the event.

Along with the 10 stages with music, the event will include a Pioneer Expo of Arts, Crafts and Agricultural Lifestyle activities going on in the Corps of Discovery Tipi Village. In addition, the "Old Town Busking Championship" "jamming" and "workshops" will be available during this year's celebration.

For more information on the event, visit the website <http://www.orgsites.com/ia/oldtimemusic>

In addition to those listed, there are many other volunteers who share their time and talents with the 4-H program. Thank you for supporting the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension 4-H Youth Development Program in Wayne County.

Laughter helps reduce the pressure when you feel stressed Engagements

When you're feeling stressed out, family members are stressed, their voices get louder and their bodies get more tense. Thinking of something funny and laughing to relieve stress. Many times when with family releases that pressure. When the whole family has a good laugh, it's a great feeling.

When you are stressed you tend to look at everything in a negative way. To counter that, you need to focus on the positive.

If life is tough right now and you're thinking about all the things you want to do but are unable to do, realize there are many things you can do. Playing a game together, going for a picnic or a walk or even playing in the rain will be a pick-me-up.

Think how surprised children will be when they see their parents laughing in the rain.

Service work is another good family activity. If you're in a stressful situation, you'll find that helping someone else will make you feel better. You will find that your kids will be excited to help other people.

Stress affects everyone so it is important to look at ways to deal with it. Make sure to include the family when dealing with stress. You'll be amazed what happens when you get the family together and start talking.

History repeats itself

AWANA Clubs to resume activities for new year

Both the Concord and AWANA Clubs are gearing up for the coming year. Concord AWANA Club will kick off the year with a Summer Fun Night on Sunday, Aug. 30 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Concord Village Park. A picnic supper will be provided, as well as a Bounce House, Kiddie Train, horse and pony rides, games, sno-cones and more. Clubbers, families and area residents are welcome to attend and encouraged to bring lawn chairs. AWANA will officially begin with a Registration and Ice Cream Social on Wednesday, Sept. 9 at the Evangelical Free Church, 607 Broadway in Concord. Registration will run from 6:30 to 7 p.m. that night, followed by meetings for the parents and clubbers, game time and ice cream made by Pastor John Pasche of Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne. Beginning Sept. 16, Awana Clubs will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. The Concord Evangelical Free Church provides Clubs for ages three and four (Puggles), grades K-2 (Sparks), grades 3 and 4 and 5 and 6 (Truth and Training) and Junior High (Trek). For additional information, contact Becky Bloom at (402) 256-9333; Barb Oswald at (402) 635-2232; Pastor Todd Thelen at (402) 684-2396 or Deb Dickey at (402) 375-2469. Wayne AWANA Clubs will begin with registration and an Ice Cream Social on Wednesday, Sept. 9 at 6:30 p.m. Clubs meet each Wednesday at Calvary Bible Evangelical Free Church at 502 Lincoln Street from 6:30 to 8 p.m. All area children, ages three through sixth grade, are invited to attend. This year Calvary Bible has added two new features to their regular Club line-up. A video series, entitled "Love & Respect," is being offered during the same time frame for parents. Also, meals will be provided each Wednesday for all clubbers, families and leaders from 5:45 to 6:30 p.m. For additional information, contact Luke Thompson at (214) 274-7192 or Calvary Bible at (402) 375-4946. AWANA is a non-denominational organization. The Clubs feature Bible stories, Scripture memorization, games, songs and treats. Participating children earn Bible and activity awards to be displayed on AWANA vests or shirts.

Grace Ladies Aid conducts August brunch meeting

President Ellen Heinemann called the annual Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid and LWML brunch meeting to order on Aug. 12. The common table prayer was said in unison. Leona Janke and JaVon Biermann served orange juice and a variety of rolls, muffins and sweet breads. Vice President Bev Hansen's opening devotion was titled "Back to School."

Eighteen members and Pastor Lilienkamp answered roll call. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was given and filed for financial review.

Committee reports were as follows: Sewing - Esther Brader displayed two quilt tops. They are scheduled to quilt on Aug. 27.

Care Center - Ruth Victor reported she and Betty Wittig had visited and served ice cream while Cyril and Bev Hansen played and sang.

Visiting - Barb Greve reported visiting members and sending cards.

Seminary student - The group voted to discontinue supporting Jacob Bobby. Instead, the group voted to support Ben Vogel, a former pastor's son, for the next two years as he is in his vicarage. Bonnadell Koch will write him.

Pastor Lilienkamp said the balcony leak is still being worked on; therefore, the balcony floor is still on hold.

President Ellen Heinemann and Vice President Bev Hansen attended the Zone meeting and reported that the Fall Rally will be Tuesday, Oct. 20 in Martinsburg. The matter of hosting the 2010 Spring Workshop was tabled.

The group voted to serve during registration and breaks at the Church Musicians Workshop on Saturday, Sept. 26.

The women also voted to sponsor The Lutheran Hour on LWML Sunday and half of the bulletins for LWML Sunday.

President Ellen Heinemann announced that the 2009 LWML Retreat will be Saturday, Sept. 19 at Zion Lutheran Church in Plainview.

The mite box collection was taken.

Pastor Lilienkamp gave the Bible Study, based on "Christ Have Mercy - Book" chapter 1.

The meeting closed with prayer. The birthday song was sung for Maria Ritz, Joann Temme, Betty Wittig and Wilma Penlerick.

Hostesses for the next meeting, which is scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 9, will be Barb Greve and Phyllis Nolte.

John Murray

John Murray earns scholarship

John Murray of Wayne has been awarded a Carhart Scholarship valued at $300 to continue his education at Wayne State College.

The Rev. David Ohlman began the meeting with prayer and continued the lesson on "Holy Communion."

President Pearl Youngmeyer presided at the business meeting. Roll call showed perfect attendance and one guest, Verona Koehlmoos.

The LWML Pledge was recited as the mite box offering was taken.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was given.

The District LWML Retreat will be held at Zion Lutheran Church in Plainview on Saturday, Sept. 19. The Registration deadline is Sept. 1.

Planning for Guest Day, which is to be held in October, took place.

Briefly Speaking

Summer Bridge Club luncheon held

AREA - The Summer Bridge Club Ladies Luncheon was held Aug. 25 at the Wayne Senior Center.

There were 20 ladies in attendance and bridge was played at five tables. Marilyn Carhart was a guest.

Hostesses were Jerry Sharpe, Dorothy Aurich and Marge Summers.

Winners last week included Lorraine Johnson, high, and Pat Cook, second high.

Bridge will be played again on Tuesday, Sept. 1. Hostesses will be Lucille Peterson and Bonnie Lund. For reservations, call 375-1858 or 375-1792 by Sunday, Aug. 30.

Johnson to be Ordained in Aug. 30 ceremony

An ordination service for Vicar Judith K. Johnson will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 30, at Redeemer Lutheran Church, 601 E. Fulton, Hooper.

Johnson will be ordained into the Ministry of Word and Sacrament by Bishop David deFreese of the Nebraska Synod, Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA). The Rev. Dr. Martin E. Marty of Chicago, Ill. will preach. All ordained ministers, TEEM candidates, associates in ministry, and synodically-authorized ministers are invited to process. The liturgical color of the day is red.

Johnson, who has served as vicar of Elim Lutheran Church and St. Paul's Lutheran Church, both of rural Hooper for the past three years, is a May graduate of the Theological Education for Emerging Ministries (TEEM) program at Wartburg Theological Seminary in Dubuque, Iowa. Following her ordination, she will continue serving the two churches as pastor.

From 2000-2006, Johnson was the director of college relations at Wayne State College in Wayne. Prior to that, she owned Johnson Public Relations/Gifts, from the Prairie, was a newspaper reporter for the West Point News, and taught high school English, speech and journalism for nine years.

She and her husband, Dick, live in West Point. They have two adult children, Steve and Amy. A reception meal and fellowship will follow the ordination in the Hooper city auditorium located at 415 N. Main.

Backyard Living Experience at Nebraska State Fair offers up Fun with Wildlife

Visitors at the 2009 4-H Cyber Fair at the Nebraska State Fair Aug. 28-Sept. 7 will be able to learn about wildlife found in the backyard, see live amphibians and even get landscaping ideas.

University of Nebraska-Lincoln 4-H and the Agronomy and Horticulture Department, the Henry Doorly Zoo, Finke Gardens and the Wild Bird Habitat Store are teaming up to create the Backyard Living Experience on the patio of the Farmland Building.

help feature new and upcoming Nebraska 4-H-developed curricula of landscaping design, amphibians, wildlife conservation and insects.

It is an important event for 4-H to help spread the word for environmental causes, said Becky Thorberg, 4-H Cyber Fair coordinator.

"It will really show how 4-H is on board with the going green movement," Thorberg said. "We have the resources to help any person be environmentally friendly."

At the display, kids will have the opportunity to learn about the importance of amphibians. Visitors also can learn how their actions in their own backyard can affect living conditions of the creatures around them.

Besides amphibians there also will be owls and other birds brought from the Wild Bird Habitat Store and Pioneers Park Nature Center of Lincoln.

Extension will bring in some snakes for live demonstrations.

The snakes will be back again Sept. 3, and on Labor Day a variety of birds will be brought in from the Wild Bird Habitat Store in collaboration with the Pioneers Park Nature Center.

Pioneers Park Nature Center also will bring a variety of wildlife on several days throughout the fair, in addition to the dates mentioned above.

Ogle said he wants to make this display as useful as possible to the children that attend.

"As a whole, all of the partners involved in this are hoping that kids not only learn more about new technologies being offered but also about local wildlife and some neat ways to combine the two topics," Ogle said.

Garwood said that there will be other educational events for kids to participate in like a round of "Jeopardy." Games will be played periodically each day and prizes will be given away to the winners.

While the kids are off playing games or with amphibians, adults can learn how they can be more green, how to cultivate a better garden and different ways to use landscape.

"UNL Extension is putting a twist on how to garden for wildlife and make the backyard an outdoor living space for you and your wild friends," Ogle said.

The new exhibit gave 4-H and the zoo an opportunity to work together. The relationship isn't new, said Brian Ogle, youth volunteer manager at the Henry Doorly Zoo.

"We have done several projects with 4-H, and the zoo has a great partnership with them," Ogle said.

He said both 4-H and the zoo had mutual interest in creating this display.

"This was a project we became involved in when the zoo and 4-H worked on some collaborative curriculum that was designed to get kids outdoors and to take a different view and perspective on wildlife," Ogle said.

Fifth Sunday Gospel Music Night scheduled

This Sunday evening, Aug. 30, the Community Fifth Sunday Gospel Music Night will be held at Praise Assembly of God Church at 6:30 p.m.

The program for Sunday will include music from Connie Webber, Katie Hansen, Dr. Elise Gutshall (WSC voice teacher), a gospel quartet (college personnel), Phil and Sherry Pfaltzgraf and others.

In addition to this, the audience will be able to choose "favorites" to sing as a part of a great community "singalong."

Everyone is welcome for a great evening of fine gospel music.

Refreshments will follow. Praise Assembly of God Church is located at 1000 East 10th Street in Wayne, just east of Providence Road.

Journey Christian Church to host 'Church in the Park'

Journey Christian Church in Wayne will be hosting "Church in the Park" on Sunday, Aug. 30 at 10 a.m. at Bressler Park.

There will be only one service this day and there will be no Sunday School. Everyone is welcome to attend and encouraged to bring a chair.

The worship service will be followed by a barbecue. The church will furnish hamburgers and hot dogs, as well as buns, drinks and table service. Everyone is asked to bring a side dish.

At 3 p.m. that afternoon there will be a family softball game at the Softball Complex featuring Journey Christian versus First Presbyterian of Wayne.

Carroll Ladies Aid gathers

The Carroll Ladies Aid & LWML met Aug 20 with four members and Pastor Steckling for the monthly meeting.

The Pastor chose Chapter VI of St. Matthew for a text. We are to pray, forgive our brethren and to give to the needy. The League Pledge was recited and mites for missions were collected. The Pres. opened the meeting.

A business meeting was conducted. A monetary gift is to be given to "Jesus Our Savior Lutheran School" of Winnabago this fall. The Fall Rally will be held at Trinity, Martinsburg on Oct. 20. Registration is from 9 to 9:30 a.m. The theme "God Sows and Harvests" II Corinthians Chapter 9 Verses 10-12.

The Zion Lutheran Church will have the District Retreat on Saturday, Sept. 19. More information can be found in the new Leauger for the registration.

It was reported that Lumir Buresh has been admitted to the St. Joseph Nursing Home, Norfolk. His wife Gerry lives in an apartment near by.

The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer and the common table prayer. A no host luncheon was served.

Conservation Stewardship Program Sign Up currently underway

The Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP) is currently underway, with the first sign up period cutoff scheduled for Sept. 30.

The Conservation Stewardship Program is a voluntary stewardship incentives program designed to reward farmers, ranchers, and forestry producers to maintain existing conservation practices and for adoption of advanced conservation systems that provide environmental services benefiting the country as a whole. This program pays producers for clean water, better soil management, improved habitat, energy efficiency, and other natural resource benefits.

Traci Bruckner, with the Center for Rural Affairs is encouraging farmers, ranchers and others to call the Center for Rural Affairs' Farm Bill Helpline to learn more about the program and application process. "There are some initial steps farmers and ranchers interested in applying for the program need to do, such as filling out the self-screening checklist. Through our Helpline we can assist them with that process."

USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) administers CSP. Eligible lands include cropland, grassland, prairie, improved pastureland, rangeland, non-industrial private forestland-a new land use for the program-and agricultural land under the jurisdiction of an Indian tribe. Congress capped the annual acreage enrollment at roughly thirteen thousand acres for each fiscal year nationwide.

"The Center for Rural Affairs has a long history of assisting family farmers and ranchers to access new conservation programs," Bruckner added. "Through our helpline you will get to speak to a real person who is knowledgeable about the program rules to help you understand how to participate in the program." Producers can call (402) 687-2100 and ask for the Farm Bill Helpline or send an email to tracib@cfra.org.

For a CSP fact sheet visit: <http://www.cfra.org/csp-ten-steps>

The Center for Rural Affairs was established in 1973 as an unaffiliated nonprofit corporation under IRS code 501(c)(3). The Center for Rural Affairs was formed by rural Nebraskans concerned about family farms and rural communities, and we work to strengthen small businesses, family farms and ranches, and rural communities.

THANK YOU

A VERY HUMBLE HEARTFELT thank you to the Carroll Fire Dept. & Winside Rescue Personnel for quick response to my accident. THANK YOU also to brother Dan Hansen, Rusty Parker and Bob Gerkin for finding me. Special thanks to Carroll - Matt Munsell, Jim Fernau, Mark Tietz, Jesse Frank, Jeff Davis, Ryan Wheeler, Dusty Landanger, Jeff Paustian, Rick Davis, Mitch Osten and Bill Claybaugh; Winside - Don Skokan, Verneal Marotz, Chris Olander, Brian Petzoldt, Mike Jaeger, Kyle Skokan, Pete & Sherry Kalsner who responded.

Kelly Hansen

Thank you to everyone who sent cards, brought in food, visited and called. For each "cup of cold water" you gave, we say thanks. All is appreciated, especially all the prayers.

A special thank you to the Providence Hospice, Terri Munter for her care, Pastor Willie Bertrand, and the friends who helped so much with their faithful visits during Harlan's illness.

May the Lord bless each of you.

WOW!! What a wonderful day. I didn't think turning 80, could be so much fun. Thanks especially to Mae and my family for their part in the planning and serving. To all my friends and relatives for coming and those who sent cards - all 165 of them - thanks to each one. The facilities at the Wakefield Senior Center are a great place to have a party - thank you. God Bless all of you, as I have been for 80 years.

Merle Schwarten

THANK YOU Lavonne Schrant for the lawn chair I received for the Champion Junior Floriculture Award. Grace Heitold

WE WOULD like to thank Farm to Market Ag, Carroll Feed & Grain and State National Bank for sponsoring us in the 4-H Bonus Auction. Lauryn, Ben & Noah Braun

Dr. Brian Pfaltzgraff

Dr. Brian Pfaltzgraff to present voice recital

This Thursday evening, Dr. Brian Pfaltzgraff will present a voice recital in Ley Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Assisting in the program will be Dr. David Bohnert (WSC Trumpet and band instructor), Dr. Elise Gutshall (WSC Voice Teacher), Sally Malcolm (guest violist and Mr. Philip Pfaltzgraff (WSC Staff Accompanist).

The public is invited to attend this free concert by a guest artist. This is the first concert of the 2009-2010 school year.

The program will include solo and duet repertoire by Henry Purcell, Henri Duparc, Ludwig Beethoven, Franz Schubert, Stefano Donaudy, and Felix Mendelssohn. The concert will conclude with "Four Hymns for Tenor, Viola and Piano" by Ralph Vaughan Williams.

"The Professors Pfaltzgraff" is the name Brian has given to this guest recital on WSC campus. It is the first time the Pfaltzgraff brothers have presented this kind of a program together.

Brian is an assistant professor of voice at Wartburg College in Waverly, Iowa. While completing the Doctorate of Musical Arts at the University of Michigan, Dr. Pfaltzgraff was on the faculties of Ohio Northern University, and Concordia University, Ann Arbor. He received his Master of Arts in German Literature and his Master of Music from Bowling Green State University, and his Bachelor of Music Education and German from Simpson College.

Dr. Pfaltzgraff has performed 31 leading operatic roles and an even wider range of concert works. He appears regularly with Union Avenue Opera in St. Louis, and has also appeared in productions with Opera Theatre of St. Louis, the St. Louis Masterworks Chorale, Toledo Opera, the Lima Symphony, Toledo Symphony, the Detroit Symphony (Civic), Canton Civic Opera, Mansfield Symphony, the Ann Arbor Festival of Song, the Rochester (NY) Chamber Orchestra, the Oak Ridge (TN) Civic Music Association, and the Des Moines Metro Opera.

While at the University of Michigan, Dr. Pfaltzgraff held the Joy Whitman Weinberger and Ara Berberian fellowships, and was the inaugural recipient of the Jessye Norman Fellowship, a University of Michigan award recognizing vocal excellence. He was also the inaugural recipient of the James Paul Kennedy Alumni Recognition award from Bowling Green State University.
