City Council tables decision on salaries for second time

By CLARA OSTEN

Of the Herald

A decision on amending the city of Wayne's wage and salary schedule will not be made until sometime in February.

This comes after action during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City council which tabled the agenda item until the council's annual retreat, set for Feb. 5-6.

Council members had tabled the issue at the Dec. 15 and continued discussion during Tuesday's meeting.

Nancy Braden, Wayne Finance Director, explained that the wage and salary schedule is based on job descriptions of city employees, not on individuals. She also told the council that the scales are adjusted annually by 2 percent and that a cost of living pay increase is built into the schedule.

She also noted that the city of Wayne is in the middle of the pay range of comparable cities.

After considerable discussion, Council member Dale Alexander told his fellow council members, "I want more time to talk about it."

Council member Kaki Ley agreed with Alexander, and said "The Council is not comfortable making a decision now."

Council members Doug Sturm, Ken Chamberlain and Brian Frevert voted against tabling the issue until the council retreat, while council members Kaki Ley, Kathy Berry, Jim VanDelden, Jon Haase and Dale Alexander voted for tabling the

In another agenda item, the council listened to a presentation from Cap Peterson of Northeast Nebraska Insurance Agency on the cost of the city's property and casualty insurance package.

"The Council is not comfortable making a decision now."

– Kaki Ley, Wayne City Councilwoman

Peterson handed out a packet containing information on the city's coverage and gave a number of examples on what has been done, and continues to be done, to lower the city's rate.

Among the items Peterson talked about was the fact that the city's Workman's Compensation Experience Module is lower this year than in the past due to fewer claims and safety programs put in place by the city.

The total cost for property and casualty insurance for the city of Wayne for 2010-2011 is $246,024, compared to $247,289 for the 2009-2010 year.

A report was given by Wes Blecke, Executive Director of Wayne Area Economic Development and LB840 activity.

Blecke presented a list of the entities that have been approved for LB840 funds. These are sales tax funds allocated to economic development in the 2008 voterapproved one percent sales tax option. Blecke also explained the process the LB840 Committee goes through before recommending approval to the council.

At the present time, $658,800 has been committed, which represents 20 percent of the $3.2 million allocated to economic development over the duration of the sales tax.

Gary Boehle, a member of the LB840 Committee, told the council "that there are a lot of positive things happening in Wayne".

Funds have been allocated as a performance based loan, a zero percent loan and as a grant.

On a related note, the council approved Resolution 2010-1, approving the borrowing of $500,000 from the city's Electric fund to the LB840 fund. The loan will have a three percent interest rate and a five-year payback period.

Nancy Braden told the council that the money could be borrowed from within the city at a lower rate than if bonds were issued, but that the three percent interest rate would result in a higher return on the money than if it were in a savings account.

Council member Doug Sturm said he was not in favor of "giving people money and not asking for interest. I would prefer having a small payback. This money will not be available to everyone."

The council passed two ordinances and waived the three readings of both.

The first creates additional handicapped parking locations on the north side of the Wayne City Auditorium and the second amends the city code in regard to restricted parking on the north side of Ninth Street from Main to Logan.

The council also approved the re-appointment of Galen Wiser to the Civil Service Commission for a four year term.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, Feb. 17 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

County board gives officials $1,500 raise for next four years county courthouse.

The Wayne County Commissioners approved a salary increase for the six elected county officials at Tuesday's meeting in the

In addition, the county board gave itself a pay raise, albeit a smaller one than normal and less than that received by the county's other elected officials.

The six county officials – County Attorney Michael Pieper, County Assessor Joyce Reeg, County Clerk Deb Finn, County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen, County Treasurer Karen McDonald and Clerk of the District Court Deb Allemann-Dannelly – all received pay raises amounting to $1,500 a year for the next four years, beginning with fiscal year 2010-11.

Board members spent more than an hour trying to determine whether or not to offer a smaller pay raise. Board member Kelvin Wurdeman felt that, with the tight economy, it might be in the county's best interests to offer a smaller pay raise for 2010-11 –

Wurdeman suggested $1,000 – while going with the $1,500 raise in subsequent years.

"With the economy the way it is, I thought maybe we should go a little lower," he said. "There are a number of cities that are talking about freezing their salaries for 2011 and increasing it in 2012...and I thought if we do $1,000 for 2011 we would show taxpayers some good faith because of the economy."

Four of the six elected officials attended the meeting, and Pieper, Reeg and Janssen all expressed concern that the county keep its salary in line with that being offered in neighboring counties. The county's current salary of $45,500 for its elected officials is in line with that being offered in Pierce ($41,350) and Cedar ($48,700) counties.

"I don't think the salaries for the elected officials are out of line for comparable supervisory positions," Pieper told the board. "I don't believe it's exorbitant right now, and if you do a freeze it would put us farther behind (other counties) and would

January is National Radon Action Month

EPA has designated January as National Radon Action Month. The aim of National Radon Action Month is to increase the public's awareness of radon, promote radon testing and mitigation, and advance the use of radon-resistant new construction practices.

What is radon?

Radon is an invisible, odorless and tasteless gas that causes no immediate health symptoms but medium and long-term exposures can cause lung cancer. It comes from the breakdown of uranium inside the earth. Simple test kits can reveal the amount of radon in any building. Buildings with high levels can usually be fixed with simple and information - http://www.epa.gov/ radon/index.html

EPA estimates that one in every 15 homes nationwide has a high level of radon at or above the recommended action level of 4 picoCuries (pCi/L) per liter of air.

Police chief offers winter driving tips

Webster has released the following advice for winter driving.

"As we are faced with another round of snow, it seems like a good idea to review some simple winter driving tips," he said.

1. Make sure your car is properly serviced; this includes a tune up, a battery check, and verifying coolant levels are within specs;

2. Fix any and all leaks;

3. Check your windshield wipers, replace brittle or cracked wiperblades and make sure your wiper washer fluid tank is full;

4. Carry sand bags, both for extra weight over your rear tires, and to give you added traction if you get stuck you can pour sand in front of your drive wheels;

5. Keep your gas tank full - if you run on fumes in the summer you may have to walk but in the winter running out of gas can be a life or death issue;

6. If you don't have an engine block heater it is a good idea to add one:

7. Check your rear window defroster to make sure it works; 8. Install four good snow tires, having snow tires on all four corners helps you steer, stop, and go;

9. Carry extra supplies, specifically blankets, water, energy bars, a small shovel, extra gloves, and a candle to keep warm;

10. Carry a cell phone;

11. Keep tire chains in your trunk, new styles use heavy duty cables in place of the chains to reduce the harshness of the ride; 12. CLEAN OFF YOUR CAR, keep snow and ice off of ALL windows, and don't forget your headlights and taillights- they need to be cleaned too; 13. GO SLOW – driving on snow requires a much slower pace, your reaction times are reduced so go slow, drive cautiously, and watch for other drivers who aren't as responsible as you are. With the piles of snow at some intersections you must be very careful when pulling out into traffic, remember the other driver can't stop quickly on snow covered streets.

"These are some simple tips that will help your winter driving be safe and successful. The most important thing to remember, during severe winter weather if you don't have to drive, don't," Webster said.

Metteer leads Lincoln Southeast band as UNL band's stand-in at Holiday Bowl

When the Christmas weekend blizzard stranded the Nebraska Cornhusker Marching Band in Nebraska, the Marching Knights of Lincoln Southeast High School were asked to perform before and during the 2009 Holiday Bowl in San Diego, Calif. in which the Nebraska Cornhuskers played the Arizona Wildcats.

The band is under the direction of Wayne native R.J. Metteer and was in California on a trip that had been scheduled months in advance.

"The band was originally one of 12 bands that was scheduled to perform at half time of the football game," Metteer said."We also marked in the Big Day Balloon Parade on New Year's Eve."

When it was determined that the Nebraska band would not be making the trip to the game, Gary Rectenwald, Chair of the Holiday

Metteer

Bowl College Band Committee asked if the Lincoln Southeast Band would provide pre-game and in-game entertainment.

Metteer said the band performed at a pre-game kick off luncheon, a battle of the bands and during the Holiday Bowl official luncheon for sponsors and alumni.

The band had two days to learn "Hail Varsity," (There's No) Place Like Nebraska" and "March of the Cornhuskers."

During the game, the group

sat in the section reserved for the University's Marching Band and traded their marching uniforms for red Nebraska t-shirts.

Metteer said that 100 members of the Lincoln Southeast band, grades 9-12, were a part of the group. along with more than 20 sponsors. He said the band takes a trip of this nature every two years and has performed at the Fiesta Bowl and in Hawaii during his tenure at Lincoln Southeast.

"This year's trip was different, because it provided a unique opportunity for our students," he said "I do feel bad for the University band students, some of which are Southeast graduates. They had planned and prepared for this trip all vear."

R.J. is a 1984 graduate of Wayne High School and a 1990 graduate of Wayne State College. He is the son of Richard and Jeannette Metteer.

Stay warm during frigid temperatures

Bone chilling temperatures have gripped much of the country, and the Northeast Nebraska Chapter of the American Red Cross urges everyone to be safe and prepare as much as possible. Many are looking to cut down on expenses when temperatures drop and home-heating costs rise. "There is usually an increase in home fires at this time of year because of the use of candles and space heaters," said Tina Labellarte Price, Heartland Regional Grouping CEO. "We have steps people can follow to reduce their risk of starting a fire in their home, and still cut down on their heating bills."

HEAT YOUR HOME SAFELY

· All heaters need space. Keep things that can burn, such as paper, bedding or furniture, at least three feet away from heating equipment, fireplaces and stoves.

• Place portable space heaters on a hard, level, nonflammable surface. Do not put space heaters on rugs or carpets, near bedding or drapes, and keep children and pets away. Look for a model that shuts off automatically if the space heater tips over. Do not use heating equipment to dry wet clothing.

· Never use the stove or oven to · Never leave portable heaters, wood burning stoves or fireplaces unattended. Turn them off before leaving or going to bed.

· Eliminate drafts. Use either moldings. Cover your windows with plastic sheeting. If you have storm windows or storm doors, get them up to keep the cold out. · Make sure heat vents aren't

 Turn down the thermostat. Close off any rooms that aren't in use and close heat vents or turn off radiators in those rooms.

· Insulate your light switch and outlet plates with foam pads. Cold air can seep into the house through Reeg said the county taxpayers get a good value for their dollar when it comes to staffing, using her office in comparison to neighboring county assessors offices as an example.

"Cedar County has five people in their office and contract all outside work, and Pierce has four in their office and contracts their outside work," she said. "We have 3 1/2 people in our office and do our own (outside) work and valuing."

After much discussion, board members Dean Burbach and Jim Rabe both expressed that they would like to see the county's salaries stav in line with other counties, and by leaving the raise at $1,500 would allow them to stay in line. The board voted 2-1 in favor of the $1,500-per-year increase, with Wurdeman casting the lone dissenting vote.

The board then discussed its own salary, and opted to take only a $1,000 raise instead of the $1,500 originally planned. Currently, the board's salary is at around 78 percent of that of the elected officials. The three board members currently make $35,490 in annual salarv.

Wurdeman said the county commissioners' salaries are justified based on the active role each takes

"By law, the only requirement to this job is to go to these meetings," he said. "We don't have to go out and help like we do. All three commissioners are very active in the work they do for the county, and we're not billing the county for it."

Rabe suggested matching the commissioners' salary increase with that approved for the county officials, but Wurdeman said he couldn't support that move after voting against a similar increase for the county officials.

Burbach moved to reduce the salary increase for the county board to $1,000 for 2010-11, and the motion was unanimously approved.

In other action, the board:

- Heard a report from emergency manager Nick Kemnitz, who updated the board on the effect recent blizzards have had on emergency response times. Kemnitz said any additional snowfall that is expected in January and February will slow down emergency response times as county and state road crews work to remove snow from the roads.

- approved a request from Dan Loberg to bury a utility line in the county right-of-way at 565th Avenue and 862nd Road.

-approved payment of courthouse remodeling bonds.

- re-elected Rabe as chairman of the county board and Wurdeman as chairman of the Board of Equalization. Burbach will serve as vice chairman of both bodies. The moves were made as part of the board's annual reorganization.

Great job done with Shootout

- Kudos to the folks who made the Great Northeast Nebraska Shootout, well, great. It was a wellrun tournament that overcame some winter-related rescheduling and went off without a hitch (OK, it would have been nice if the home team had won both team titles, but you can't have everything).

One thing I would like to see happen is to incorporate a one-day, 16-team dual wrestling tournament in with the shootout festivities. It's insane that the Wayne High wrestlers are coming off what amounts to a three-week layoff with tonight's dual with Norfolk Catholic, and it would be a great showcase of what is arguably one of the best areas for high school wrestling in the state if we could get a holiday dual tournament to replace the

- Speaking of Wayne High's wrestling program, I was wondering if it would be possible to make the Blue Devils' schedule any weaker.

This month, the Blue Devils compete in a couple of tournaments that, quite honestly, are not of a level that this team should be competing in if they want to have a good shot at placing at next month's state tournament.

Wayne has been at the Wisner-Pilger Invite for many years, and that has always been a good tournament coming out of the holiday break. The next two tournaments on the agenda, though, should be replaced

The Pender dual tournament is a tournament that features smallschool programs and Class A JV teams, while the Hastings Invite, as it turns out, is nothing more than a quadrangular that is not worth the three-hour road trip.

There tournaments on the weekends in question that would better serve the Wayne wrestlers and give them the kind of competition they need to face to help them compete at a higher level come February.

Wayne used to participate in the Elkhorn Invite on the same weekend as Pender, and that tournament is one of the toughest in the state with teams like Gretna, Elkhorn, Aurora and defending Class A champion Grand Island participating. The Hastings and Madison tournaments could be replaced with the Boone Central Invite in Albion, another tournament where Wayne was once a regular visitor. This tournament includes Class A powerhouse Kearney, along with traditionally tough programs such as Boone Central, Aquinas and Lexington.

In order to be the best, you need to wrestle the best. Wayne's odds of seeing better competition are much better in places like Elkhorn or Albion than they ever will be in lower-level tournaments such as Pender, Hastings or Madison.

- What a pleasantly surprising effort by the Husker offense in Nebraska's 33-0 demolition of Arizona at the Holiday Bowl.

There was a level of imagination displayed that was completely nonexistent for much of the 2009 season (including the offensive debacle at the Big 12 Championship Game against Texas). It was great to see Rex Burkhead running the offense out of the "Wildcat" formation and Zac Lee, for possibly the first time all season, looked like a quarterback capable of running a big-time If coach Bo Pelini can carry that over into next season, I see the Huskers winning the Big 12 title and, quite possibly, being in the discussion for a shot at the ANC (alleged national championship). - The NFL playoffs start up this weekend, and since we've been doing so well with the college predictions this year, why not offer up The Bleacher Bum's Official NFL Postseason Picks.

Blue Devils come up one point short in Shootout OT thriller

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

The Wayne High and Hartington Cedar Catholic boys basketball teams gave fans more than their money's worth with a classic finish to the 2009 Great Northeast Nebraska Shootout.

Wayne came back from a six-point deficit in overtime $\,$ and had a chance to win the game at the buzzer, but a shot by Seth Onderstal missed the mark and the Trojans escaped Wayne State College's Rice Auditorium with a 54-53 overtime win to claim the tournament title Thursday afternoon.

The Blue Devils tried to set up a final shot with 1.7 seconds left, but Gage Rethwisch was forced to get the ball inbounds and found Onderstal, who couldn't get positioned for a good look at the basket as time ran

"We had a couple of plays drawn up that we really haven't had a chance to use, and that's something will take the blame for," coach Rocky Ruhl said of his team's last-second play. "The kids really battled and kept coming back and they found a way to give themselves a chance to win, so I'm very proud with how the kids battled."

The two teams felt each other out during a tentative first quarter, but they quickly heated up in the second period to start what would be a tremendous basketball tie the game at 15-15, but the Trojans used some longrange shooting of their own, getting bombs from Cody Klug and Kyle Klug to take a 24-20 halftime lead.

Jordan Barry and Jacob Zeiss both hit 3-pointers to Wayne came out strong in the second half, going on an 8-1 run to open the third period and take a 28-25 advantage. Freshman Brady Soden had the hot hand early on, hitting two free throws and scoring a basket to fuel the rally.

The Trojans countered, however, as Cody Klug scored to give the Trojans a 29-28 edge. That lead was shortlived, though, as Soden hit two more free throws and Barry hit the second of his three 3-point shots, after a great defensive play by Zeiss, to give the Devils a 33-basketball team took some lumps on the road over the weekend after losing a couple of close conference matchups. The Wildcats got 33 points from Ashley Arlen, but it wasn't enough to overcome Bemidji State in an 83-79 loss on Sunday afternoon. That defeat came one day after a disappointing 54-51 setback at Minnesota Duluth, which dropped the Wayne State women's record to 9-3 overall and 2-3 in the NSIC. "I was proud of the team's effort in the way they pushed themselves, but I was really disappointed with our overall execution," coach Chris Kielsmeier said of his team's weekend struggles. "We turned the ball over way too much, and when we needed our defense the most it wasn't there.' Arlen hit four 3-pointers in the but Kielsmeier was more impressed with the sophomore's effort on the other end of the floor. "That was probably her best game defensively," he said. "She has big-season high with her 33-point effort, tried to focus on her getting better defensively and she had two good games this weekend."

Arlen shared top scoring honors with Mara Hjelle in the loss at Duluth on Saturday, another disappointing setback that the Wildcats coach hopes his team will learn from. "The overall execution of the entire program wasn't very good this weekend, and these are the types of games where special teams find a way to get it done," he said. "I think we're going to learn a lot from this weekend, and I think everybody in the program, including myself, needs to pick it up.'

Before the New Year's holiday, the Wildcats cracked the 100-point barrier for the second time this season with a 103-52 pasting of Graceland College. Five players finished in double figures, led by Hjelle's 15 points. Julie Ann Wagner added 14 points and Alyssa Fischbach put in 13 as the Wildcats shot 50 percent (11-of-22) from 3point range.

After tough OT loss,

The Wayne State men bounced back from a heartbreaking thriller to pick up a sweep in a weekend NSIC road trip.

The Wildcats had chances to win in regulation and both overtimes before dropping a 79-78 decision to Minnesota Duluth Saturday, but found the strength to come back from a tough road loss to salvage a weekend split with a 78-66 triumph at Bemidji State on Sunday.

"After losing in double overtime and having four guys play 40-plus minutes, I was pleased to see the character and toughness that we showed," coach Paul Combs said. "It's tough enough to play back-toback, but to have to bounce back after a double-overtime game was great and I was very pleased with our effort."

Wayne State had a chance to win in regulation at Minnesota. Jason Jensen gave the Wildcats a twopoint lead by the Duluth came back to tie the game. Brett Spiker, who had a game-high 22 points, had a shot to win the game, but missed the mark to send it into overtime.

In the first extra session, Amry

Shelby missed the mark with a potential game-winner, then had a chance to win it in the second overtime before his 3-point shot couldn't find its way home. Spiker was one of four Wildcats in double figures in the game, followed by Brad Starken's 21 points. Brian Metz put in 13 and Shelby added 12 in the losing effort.

On Sunday, the Wildcats again showed good balance in the scoring department, which is what Combs

"It's important that we move the ball around and it's an equalopportunity offense, so we want to try and get the best shot possible and work it into the post with the two good guys we have there, and that can open things up for us on the perimeter as well."

Shelby led all scorers with 21 points in the Bemidji game, drawing praise from his coach.

"He's been pretty consistent all year and is really showing a maturity beyond his years," Combs said. "He's done some good things

The Wayne girls basketball team more than held their own with Hartington Cedar Catholic during the first eight minutes of the Great Northeast Nebraska Shootout championship.

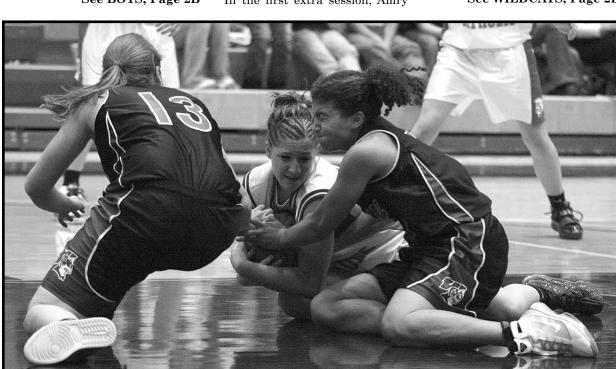

The Trojans took advantage of Wavne's foul troubles, however, and shut the Blue Devils down in the final 24 minutes to overcome an early deficit and pull away for a 43-28 win to take the tournament title Thursday at Wayne State College's Rice Auditorium.

The Blue Devils jumped out to a 17-11 lead early in the second quarter, but two quick fouls on 6foot-2 sophomore Katie Hoskins changed the course of the game Wayne's offense.

"Katie getting that second foul was huge, because we were attacking their pressure by using her and getting the ball to her up high, and without her (in the lineup) that changed things offensively for us," coach Nate Wall said after the

Hoskins scored five of her teamhigh nine points during the first period, but after she sat down with 6:16 to go in the half, Hartington Cedar Catholic went on a 9-2 run to close out the first half and take a 23-19 lead into the locker room.

That momentum carried over into the second half, as the Trojans pressure defense caused problems for Wayne and the Blue Devils offense couldn't get on track. Wayne's first basket of the second

Laurel boys bounce back, finish third

Laurel-Concord boys basketball team salvaged consolation honors at the Great Northeast Nebraska Shootout on Thursday, dominating Battle Creek for an easy 49-23 win.

Coach Shannon Benson said his team was looking to improve on last year's fifth-place finish in the tournament, and after losing a tough game to Wayne the previous night, his team was looking to finish the tournament on a positive note.

"We wanted to make sure we took care of business and the kids came out and played very well against Battle Creek," he said. "Battle Creek is a good team, but they're really young and we were able to take advantage of that."

Benson said the Bears matched up well against Battle Creek's manto-man defense, which opened the door for a solid scoring effort. Ezra Schantz led three Bears in double figures with 12 points, while Travis Nelson and Kyle Koester each put

"We played better against their man defense, and we tried to force them to take the ball outside and shoot from there, which made it tough for them to get anything going," he said.

At 5-2, Benson said his team is in good shape heading into Thursday's home showdown with tournament champ Hartington Cedar Catholic.

"We've played some good teams and lost two games by a total of five points, so I think we're doing things right," he said. "We're in every game and if we can continue to execute I think we'll be in good shape.'

Wayne had a chance to win the game after Justin Anderson came up with a steal with 25 seconds left, but the Blue Devils couldn't get a good shot off as time ran out, sending the game into overtime. The Trojans jumped out to a 52-half came in the final minute when Hoskins scored to make it 31-22. Wayne would get no closer than nine points after that.

In spite of the loss, Wall felt his team played a solid game defensively against the fast-paced Trojans.

"I thought we played excellent defense," he said. "I was happy with the job Shannon Jarvi did on Dana Dickes. It was phenomenal to hold her to six points. We just couldn't put the ball in the hole after the first quarter, and that's kind of tough."

Caitlin Fehringer finished with eight points for the 4-3 Blue Devils. Cedar Catholic's Molly Dickes led the Trojans with nine points, while Shelby Neuhalfen added eight.

Lady Bears come up short, finish sixth

Of The Herald

The Laurel-Concord girls came up on the short end of an exciting fifthplace game at the Great Northeast Nebraska Shootout, losing a 50-47 decision to Battle Creek.

Although he was disappointed with his team's placing in the tournament, coach Nate Sims felt his team played a much better game in the final matchup of the

"The positive things was that the game was played at a high level and was very intense and physical, and both teams did a nice job and played much better than they had the previous two days," he said.

The Lady Bears held a 34-28 lead at intermission, but Battle Creek took advantage of some offensive miscues to get back in the game and eventually win it at the end.

"We didn't execute well for a stretch there in the second half, and that was the difference," Sims said. "We shot 18 percent in the second half, and you can't expect to do that and come away with a win."

Mandy Nelson scored 15 points and Bethany DeLong added 11 in the loss to Battle Creek.

On Monday night, the Lady Bears went cold in the second quarter and came up on the short end of a 46-33 affair at Norfolk Catholic.

"We got out to an 8-2 lead and played really good defense for the majority of the game, but we had a lull there in the second where we missed quite a few shots and gave the ball away, and that was the

Frustrating finish for Wakefield boys

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

The Wakefield boys basketball team ran into a hot-shooting Valentine squad in the seventhplace game at the Great Northeast Nebraska shootout and finished with a 68-33 loss Thursday morning at Wayne High School.

The Trojans stayed with the Badgers for one quarter, but Valentine went on a 19-7 surge in the second period to take a 20-point halftime lead and cruised to the "Valentine hadn't played well the first two days, but they played well against us and we just ran into a buzzsaw," coach Mike Clay said. "They shot 77 percent from the floor and just came out with more intensity. We came out kind of flat and they just took it to us."

The Badgers got 20 points from Jeff Borer and 16 from Caleb Kluender as they dominated the Trojans in the final three periods.

Tyler Bodlak and Hugo Ortiz each had 10 points to pace the 4-4

Clay said he felt his team started the tournament in good shape, but couldn't maintain that level of intensity as the tournament wore

"We hung with Wayne pretty well for three quarters and hung around for a while against Emerson-Hubbard, but their size inside gave us some problems," he said. "It was good competition for us, though. We played two Class C1 schools and a rated Class D1 team, and you get better by playing good competition."

Turnovers in the third period proved to be costly as the Wakefield girls fell to Pender in the seventhplace game at the Great Northeast Nebraska Shootout Thursday.

The Trojans kept pace with the Pendragons for much of the game, but a cold stretch in the third period helped Pender build on its halftime edge and pull away with a 48-40 win, sending the Trojans home with an 0-3 tournament effort.

"We started that third quarter with six or seven straight turnovers, and that certainly didn't help matters any," coach Matt Brenn said. "But even at the end of the third quarter, we were still in it because they really didn't take advantage of our mistakes. We just didn't handle the ball well and limited ourselves offensively because of it.'

Keri Lunz had a game-high 17 points to lead the 2-5 Trojans, and Brenn said the 5-foot-11 junior stepped up well for the team. "She played much better, especially in the last game of the tournament, and did a good job rebounding for us as well," he said. "I also thought Jenna Henderson did a nice job for us as well, and our younger girls are stepping up and playing better." Pender 48, Wakefield 40

Wildcat girls come up short in tournament

RANDOLPH - The Winside girls basketball team finished fourth in the Randolph Holiday Tournament, but coach Tim Manzer said the team is making some moves in the right direction.

"We were able to get it to within six in the third before it got away from us, and Plainview did a good job with their offensive rebounding," Manzer said. "I feel like we're making some improvements, and thought we had a good effort even though we came up short."

Jordyn Roberts had the hot hand for the Wildcats, hitting four 3-pointers and finishing with 16 points. Marissa Prince also found her way into double figures, finishing with 13 points.

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes Managing Editor

Are you old enough to 'remember when'?

you inject the following phrase into a conversation:

"I remember when..."

Those of you who are old enough (and, by old enough, I mean older than 43-year-old whipper-snappers like myself) can remember what is often referred to as "the good ol" days." Those were the days when life was simple, everything was pretty much in black and white (including the television and the newspaper) and you didn't have to go too far to do much of anything.

Everything was better during that time, and you're not the least bit concerned with offending somebody in reminding them of it.

"We didn't have school buses back when I was a kid," you'll proudly proclaim. "We walked 10 miles, barefoot, through three-foot-high drifts of snow...uphill...both ways."

I often laughed at some of these wild retellings of stories from a bygone era...until I started telling

It never really occurred to me at the time, but I've been telling these stories for about as long as my daughter and I have been able to have an intelligent conversation (which, if you ask certain members of my family, has only been the last three or four months).

The first conversation I recalled using the "I remember when ... " opening came as we were discussing whether or not "her music" or "Daddy's music" would be played on the car stereo as we traveled to grandma's house.

She insisted that "Daddy's music" was old and outdated and "her music" was much better than that old stuff.

Well, this making fun of dad's music just was not going to go unchallenged, and it was high time I defended an era of rock and roll that has, far and away, more staying power than any of the garbage passing for music these days...

"I remember when my music first came out, and it is as fresh today as it was back in the early 1980's," I replied to her (I also added that, since it's my name on the title to the car, it will be my decision whether we listen to Backstreet Boys or Stevie Ray Vaughn). "And as far as whose music is better is concerned, you check back with me 20 years from now and we'll see whose music is still being played on the radio. My music has stood the test of time. Yours is here today and gone later today.

(On a somewhat related note... years after this conversation, my daughter tried to play "Stump Daddy" with the songs on her iPod, but the plan went awry when she started playing music from my formative years. After naming off each song within the first five seconds of each song, I asked her if she'd also like to know the name of the album, year it was released, names of each band member and who they toured with in support of that particular album. Trust me... if the subject is 80's rock and you

You know you're getting old when need to phone a friend to win the big prize on "Who Wants To Be A Millionaire," you NEED me as the phone-a-friend option. Trust me on this one.)

> Of course, when you get around a bunch of sports writers (as I've been known to do), there is the inevitable comparison of which one saw the most amazing feat of athletic achievement in the past year, decade or entire history of

"I remember when so-and-so jumped from the free throw line and finished a tomahawk dunk,"

"Yeah? Well I remember when soand-so jumped from the free throw line, leaped over a defender and finished off a two-handed reverse jam," the next one will say.

That will be followed by the real bullcrap slinger in the bunch, who will say, "Well, I remember when so-and-so took off from the top of the key, changed hands, did a full somersault over the biggest guy on the other team, looked over the rim and threw it down before slamming head first into the square in the middle of the backboard...and he landed on his feet."

(And I should note...this sort of thing is not limited to sports writers. Broadcasters, car salesmen, school administrators and bar owners are generally the worst offenders in this game of one-upsmanship. If you're not prepared to tell a bigger lie than they are and not get caught in it, it's best not to get involved. Just turn and walk away and nobody will get hurt.)

Recently, Mother Nature decided to drop one whale of a snowstorm on our area, dumping up to 20 inches of snow over the Christmas holiday weekend. My nephews both marveled at how much snow was falling and how high the drifts were developing from the windblown snow, and I couldn't resist the temptation.

"I remember when I was in fifth grade and we got hit by a blizzard," I said. "It snowed so hard and so long that we had drifts 20 to 30 feet high. Your grandma, mother and I were stuck in the house for five days. We missed a week of school, and if it hadn't been for the neighbor with the giant snowblower, we might have had to eat the dog just to survive." (And, just for the record, that entire recollection of events is true...although we were still 2-3 days away from sauteing Buffy.)

Of course, it is inevitable that the stories people tell when they start with "I remember when..." will stretch the truth a little bit. And, over the course of time, those adjustments of the facts will be further embellished.

The recent blizzard, which dumped close to 20 inches of snow on the area, will no doubt have left 4 or 5 feet on the ground 40 years from now when us old fogeys who experienced it will look back fondly and start a conversation with...

"I remember when the blizzard of '09 happened..."

Of Nelson, Legislature

By ED HOWARD Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN - The fuss over Sen. Ben Nelson's success in working his will on healthcare legislation marked the first time in recent times that any story from Nebraska drew as much national, yearend attention as the NU football team.

Look at any Nebraska newspaper or peruse newspapers around the country - major or minor - and Nelson's headline count was in the ballpark with stories about Coach Bo Pelini's Cornhuskers and the NU-Arizona contest.

The Huskers were undoubtedly guaranteed to take the lead in the wake of their effort in the Holiday Bowl. But, still.

Nebraska's senior senator was either a brilliant negotiator taking care of his state's best economic interests, or a flim-flamming genius who took the Democratic leadership to the cleaners while turning simultaneously healthcare bill into something that did more for the insurance and pharmaceutical industries than the future of medical care for Americans. It depended on whose stories you read, and how you felt about the issue.

There was painful irony for Nelson supporters in the criticism unleashed on him by anti-abortion forces. Many among the antiabortion legions long ago set a hard standard: You're with them on every element of every issue, or they might well be against you in the next election. Nelson's opposition to abortion per se is approximately absolute. He will take whatever he can get to make it more difficult for women to obtain abortions.

That he wouldn't agree to kill the Senate's healthcare bill when it failed to include the toughest possible restrictions on abortion funding raised the ire of those "Our way or the highway" anti-abortion activists.

Simultaneously, Nelson's camp had to take satisfaction when he went eyeball to eyeball with Republican Gov. Dave Heineman won $100 million in federal money that would relieve Nebraska of the burden of any higher Medicaid costs, stemming from the healthcare law, over the next decade. Heineman first criticized the healthcare plan because it would budget. Nelson followed up, winning that virtual hold-harmless cause for Nebraska taxpayers. Heineman then criticized the deal that would save taxpayers those millions.

And that's when Nelson challenged Heineman to a political

Nelson literally dared Heineman to request, on the record, that Nelson throw away the $100 million bonus he finagled for Nebraska. If Heineman said he wanted the deal to be nixed, Nelson said, he would talented, intelligent, tough and 100 percent Republican. His decision to decline Nelson's challenge fell into the politically intelligent category. Heineman's critics, and some of his friends, argued privately that an even better move would have been to pass on criticism of what amounted to a $100 million payoff for Nebraska that would stretch

This column has speculated and offered analysis over the years on a good many policy issues pending before the Unicameral. No endorsement or condemnation of any bill has been proffered.

In the second place, the woman who came THAT close to sideswiping my pickup whilst she was texting away with both hands while cruising down Highway 2 at 50-plus m.p.h. closed the book on the issue for me. Not only that, but when we eventually came to a stop light, there she sat, still texting and smiling as though she'd just won a reasonable sum in the lottery. If such were the case, such a ban might be to her advantage, presuming she wanted to live to

Weekly District 17 Legislative Update

Busy short session is underway

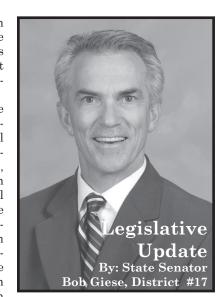

Greetings from the Unicameral! The 101st Nebraska Legislature reconvened for its second session this week, and it promises to be an eventful one. This year's session is a 60-day "short session," which means that fewer bills will be introduced and passed in comparison to last year's 90-day "long session."

The Education Committee will be working on several major proposals in 2010 as a result of interim studies conducted over the past six months. LR116, which was the committee's top priority over the interim, dealt with issues relating to early childhood education and kindergarten eligibility.

Currently, a combination of state and federal funding is available to allow a school district or Educational Service Unit (ESU) to operate a state-run preschool program. Because of the rules attached to these federal funding sources, some students with summer birthdays are ineligible to participate in these programs if they would be eligible to start kindergarten during the upcoming school year.

At the hearings on LR116, the Education Committee heard testimony from parents and school officials concerned that the current kindergarten entrance age, Oct. 15, prevented these children from attending their local school district's preschool program in the vear before they entered kindergarten. As a result of this interim study, the committee will be considering a proposal to move the kindergarten entrance age from the current date of Oct. 15 to an earlier date in either August or

During the 2010 session, the Education Committee is also likely to address the ongoing dispute over community college funding between Metropolitan Community College and the other five community colleges in the state.

Last year, the Legislature passed LB340, which required the Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education to facilitate a study of the community college funding formula and other related issues. With the release of the LB340 report in December, the committee will be examining the commission's recommendations in the coming weeks. I look forward with other members of the Education Committee to ensure that state aid to community colleges in distributed in a fair manner that provides every Nebraskan access to affordable vocational and educational pro-

Greetings from the North Pole night, I answered, "Hello from the West Pole!" In fact, the paper today says it's warmer in Alabama and Moscow than it is in Nebraska. And they are predicting more snow; happy thought. I don't know where they are going to go with it. But it's mighty nice to hear the little dozers cleaning out our driveways.

Funerals at holiday time are always sad; I attended one last year and again this year, in the same church, with the same poinsettias and trees, the same nativity set. In fact, it's the same sanctuary in which we viewed the lovely wedding last month.

This time, it was the brother of one of my classmates/roommates in nursing school. Since Mary Anna was from Lincoln, I spent a few evenings at her parent's home, when we could get away from that dorm. I got to know her two sisters, but her brother, Herb, was in the Marines then. In fact, he was stationed in Tehran at the American embassy during the time of the Mary Anna and her sisters have all lived in California for years. They come back to Nebraska in the summer time. And they had kind of forgotten about snow.

A year ago, Herb was diagnosed with lung cancer. When Mary Anna was here in July for our fiftieth class reunion, she spent some time with him and with his wife, Jeanette. When I picked her up at their home, she said, "We said our good-byes."

A month ago, Jeanette called to discuss hospice with me and I went over to the nearby hospital to talk to her and two daughters about the pros and cons. They spent a few days in the hospital and then moved to the Monarch, which is a lovely hospice facility.

On Christmas morning, Herb died. And on the Tuesday after We've saved this much so far.

By using load management technology to reduce electrical demand, Nebraska's rural public power districts (PPDs) and electric co-ops have saved the equivalent of at least one large new 500 megawatt power plant. At today's construction costs, that's nearly $750 million in savings.

And that is just one of dozens of steps we take quietly, behind the scenes, to hold the line on costs.

We build things right and take good care of them. We pool our resources and our buying power. We plan years ahead, set spending priorities carefully, and cut needless cost every chance we get.

We are not-for-profit and 100% owned by the customers. It's no accident that Nebraska's electric rates are among the lowest 10% in the nation. It's the result of hard work.

COTTONBOWL 2010

After being invited to be part of the 74th Annual AT&T Cottonbowl Classic in December of 2008, the Allen Music Department spent a year of fundraising to make this trip a reality. On Dec. 29, the band, sponsors and Director Richard Lacy left for Dallas, Texas in two school vans and a chartered bus.

They arrived in Dallas on Wednesday morning, and spent both Wednesday and Thursday seeing several Dallas attractions. One big event was dinner and dancing at Southfork Ranch on New Year's Eve with the other bands that would also take part in the parade and half time show. These bands were from Texas, Arkansas, Kansas, Alabama, Missouri, Ohio, Oklahoma, Tennessee and New Jersey. Allen was the only band from Nebraska.

The Parade was held on New Year's Day with the route going through down town Dallas. Allen's band was the first of the competitive bands in the parade – which was broadcast live on FOX4 in Dallas. The Band was awarded a trophy for Honorable Mention in an awards ceremony on Saturday morning before the football game. The Allen band had practiced with the mass band to get ready for their performance at half time of the Cottonbowl Football game between Oklahoma State and Ole Mississippi. The mass band of over 1,500 students played two songs -

The half time event was a site to see, with all the different school band uniforms mixed in the different band sections. The Allen band's white uniforms and yellow plumes stood out among the other groups making them easy to pick out. Thanks to the Allen Band members, Director Richard Lacy and the sponsors for representing Nebraska and making the town of Allen proud.

LEADERSHIP PROJECT

Secondary school students participated in a "giving" rather than "receiving" project during the week of Dec. 14-18. Students were divided into nine groups with a National Honor Society member and a teacher leading each group as they competed against each other with the giving spirit.

The first activity was to choose a name. The following names were chosen by each group: Team 1-Blue Bunny Hippopotamuses, Team 2-Spartans, Team 3-Spider Monkeys, Team 4-Killer Bees, Team 5-Smiley Squiggles, Team 6-Bunch of Rocket Scientists, Team 7-Bone Crushers, Team 8-Team Edward, and Team 9-Niners. Students brought coats, mittens, scarves, and caps for Coats for Kids, food items for the Dixon County Food Pantry, and donated money for the Allen Day Care. A total of 485 clothing items were collected, 526 items of food, and $201. Students also competed in a geography bee on Tuesday with Teams 3 and 9 tying for first place and Team 1 placing second.

The fun activity was a scavenger hunt throughout the school looking for colored ribbons and tree ornaments. After tying the ribbons and ornaments together, Team 8 had the longest ribbon, Team 6 the second longest, and Team 3 the third longest. After computing attendance for each group, number of items and dollars brought by each group, points for winning the geography bee and scavenger hunt, the placement for teams was as follows: 1st - Spartans, 2nd Killer Bees, 3rd Blue Bunny Hippopotamuses, 4th Spider Monkeys, 5th Smiley Squiggles, 6th Team Edward, 7th Bone Crushers, 8th, Bunch of Rocket Scientists, and 9th Niners.

The clothing items were taken to the Sioux City drop-off location
