Wayne County board issues declaration for emergency funds

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

The Wayne County Commissioners qualified for federal emergency funds in the wake of two recent blizzards that allowed the county board to declare a state of emergency.

At Tuesday's meeting, the board declared a state of emergency for the county as the result of storms that hit the area Dec. 22 and Jan. 6, declaring that the storms caused damage to the area, disrupted utility services and endangered the health and safety of citizens in the county.

County emergency manager Nic Kemnitz told the board that it would have to put the numbers together to document the resources used by the county to deal with the storms. That information will be turned over to the state, which will then forward it on to the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). Once that is received, the federal entity will distribute emergency funds to the state and the state will allocate those resources accordingly.

Board member Kevlin Wurdeman questioned why the county needed to confirm its snow removal efforts as an emergency situation as requested by FEMA.

"We wouldn't be giving guys overtime if it wasn't an emergency situation," he said. "If somebody outside of town is having a heart attack and the nearest state snowblower is up by Yankton, I don't think that guy's going to make it."

A preliminary damage assessment signed by the board documented the general work done by the county to deal with the storm, including providing access for emergency vehicles, providing access to downed power lines to restore electricity, providing access to livestock to prevent deaths and providing access for residents to obtain lifesaving medical treatment.

Kemnitz said he doesn't expect to see anything from the federal government for a few months.

"If this were a big city and something like this happened, we'd get a presidential declaration," he told the board. "It might be a month before we even hear back from them."

In other action, the board:

- set Tuesday, Feb. 16 as the date for the one- and six-year road improvement hearing. That hearing will begin at 10 a.m.
- set the rate of pay for part-time road workers at $12 per hour, effective Jan. 4.
- agreed to place an insurance dividend of $8,182 into the county's general fund.
- updated its resolution regarding the use of the courthouse copy machine. Because the new machine copies in color, the county updated its resolution to account for the $1 charge per color copy.
- approved the list of extension board members, which includes Tanya Heikes, Winside; Huck Jager, Wayne; Rhonda Kittle, Winside; Randy Kleensang, Hoskins; Virginia Lundahl, Wakefield; Kelvin Puntey, Carroll; and Doug Temme, Wayne.

No decision made on what to do with city sewer rates

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

The public will be given the opportunity to provide input on what is the best option for sewer rates after discussion at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City council.

Sewer rates will need to be raised to pay for the new wastewater treatment facility that will be built by the city. The plant is projected to cost $8.5 million and construction could begin as early as later this year. Approximately $1.5 million is available through reserves and grants. The remaining $7 million will be financed over a period of 20 years.

The council listened to a report from Randy Hellbush on three different rate possibilities for sewer customers to collect the $500,000 per year that will be necessary to pay off the debt.

They included increasing sewer rates to cover the entire $500,000; using a combination of sewer rate increases and $150,000 per year from water rates (no water rate increases would be necessary) or using $250,000 per year from sewer rates, $150,000 from water rates and $100,000 per year from sales tax revenue for the first 14 years.

No decision was made by the council in regard to the financing and a public hearing will be held at the council's next meeting to gather public input on the issue.

In other action, the council listened to reports from Nancy Braden, City Finance Director, and Lance Webster, Chief of Police, on the costs and effects of the recent snow storms in Wayne.

Braden told the council that portions of northeast Nebraska have been declared disaster areas and are eligible for FEMA reimbursement for a portion of the expenses. Braden said she has been working with the county's emergency management office to submit the needed information.

A certain portion of the costs associated with the snow removal, including those employees who normally don't plow snow and work done for safety issues are eligible for 75 percent reimbursement.

Webster said that a number of weather-related accidents have been reported and the police station had unusually high numbers of calls during the most recent storm. He also spoke on the use of the Nixe alert system through the recent storms.

In three separate agenda items, the council authorized the city clerk to file snow removal liens on three properties in the city. These are at 204 West 10th Street, 120 West Eighth Street and 215 West Third Street.

The council also authorized city staff to meet with the Wayne County Commissioners to discuss submitting a joint application to apply for owner-occupied rehab funds through the Community Development Block Grant Program.

The city is not eligible to apply for the $200,000 in new "Owner

Laurel girl helping Haiti relief effort with bracelets

Ten year-old Amanda Hammer of Laurel was watching the coverage of the earthquake in Haiti, and it hit her hard about what was happening to the children in Haiti. She wanted to do something.

Her sister Elizabeth got a lot of beads for Christmas, and Amanda decided to use the beads to make bracelets and sell them for $1 apiece. In recent days, she has made many bracelets.

She then got on the phone and began raising money by selling the bracelets to relatives and friends. She also has gone door-to-door in her neighborhood, and has already raised more than $500 that will be donated to the American Red Cross to help the children of Haiti.

Amanda is the daughter of Gabe and Melissa Hammer of Laurel.

"We are very proud of her," her mother said.

Her grandparents are Lindsay and Lana Kucera of Lincoln, Bob and Jody Preister of Humphrey and Julie Broders of Wausa. Her great-grandparents are Ivan and Marian Creighton of Wayne.

To order a bracelet, e-mail Amanda at amandahammer99@yahoo.com.

Lou Wiltse looks over the damage to a propagation house at the Wayne Greenhouse's plant market on the east edge of town.

Winter weather's aftermath being felt at local business

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

The winter weather that has been seen in northeast Nebraska will impact the area long after the spring thaw.

One area business that is already feeling the impact of the storms is the Wayne Greenhouse's plant center on the east edge of town, where the roof on one of the plant houses has partially caved in.

Owner Lou Wiltse said she found out about the damage shortly after Christmas, thanks to an inquisitive salesman.

"I had a salesman pull up at the flower shop and ask what happened to my greenhouse, and I figured it was just all the snow that had fallen," she said. "I didn't think it was a big deal until he said it looked like the roof had caved in. I had been out there the day before and hadn't seen anything."

The roof that caved in was to the propagation house, which is the first house she uses in the spring to plant seedlings. Wiltse said that it will be late spring before she will be able to use that house, which will be at the end of her growing season.

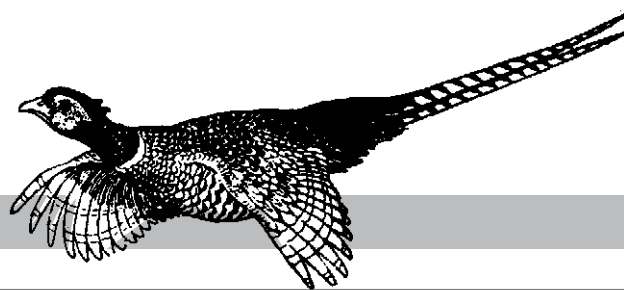

"There's no way I'm going to be up and running by mid-March like I had first hoped," she said. "The contractor said it

Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetists celebrate providing professional quality, personal care to patients

Providing patients with the professional quality they expect and the personal care they deserve is the theme of this year's National Nurse Anesthetists Week, to be celebrated by Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetists (CRNAs) across the country during the 11th annual National Nurse Anesthetists Week, Jan. 24-30, 2010.

Established by the American Association of Nurse Anesthetists (AANA), National Nurse Anesthetists Week was created to encourage CRNAs to take the opportunity to educate the public about anesthesia safety, questions to ask prior to undergoing surgery, and the benefits of receiving anesthesia care from nurse anesthetists.

"One of the many rewards of being a nurse anesthetist is providing patients with the comfort of knowing that I will be by their side monitoring their vital signs and adjusting their anesthetics during the entire time they are asleep, a fact many patients are unaware of. Personally, I also enjoy the distinct privilege of working in partnership with superb physicians," said Todd Luedeke, certified nurse anesthetist at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. "National Nurse Anesthetists Week serves as an opportunity to promote exactly what CRNAs do and who we are."

Nurse anesthetists are advanced practice nurses who administer approximately 30 million anesthetics in the United States each year. Practicing in every setting where anesthesia is available, CRNAs are the sole anesthesia providers in more than two-thirds of all rural hospitals, and have been the main provider of anesthesia care to U.S. service men and women on the front lines since World War I.

Don't forget the second dose of H1N1 vaccine for kids under 10

Flu season is far from over, and nasty viruses have the potential to pick up the pace and invade homes, schools and child cares.

"A second dose of H1N1 flu vaccine is recommended for children under 10," said Dr. Joann Schaefer, Chief Medical Officer for the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS). "We know kids not only spread the flu but they're more susceptible to complications. It's important for children who've already received their first dose of H1N1 vaccine to get that second shot in the arm or spray in the nose to make sure they achieve full immunity."

The H1N1 virus has been harder on children. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, 289 flu-related child deaths were reported nationwide from April through December of 2009.

Health officials say almost all kids can benefit from getting the H1N1 vaccine, especially those under 2 years old and those with chronic health conditions.

The nasal spray vaccine is a great option for children who are afraid of needles. It's available for healthy kids two years old and up.

If children haven't received any H1N1 flu vaccine yet, it's not too late.

To get your child vaccinated against H1N1 flu, contact his/her health care provider or your local health department. For a list of local health departments go to <http://www.dhhs.ne.gov/puh/oph/lhd.htm>

Health officials say if you're an adult who has children or works with children, you should be vaccinated too. That includes parents, grandparents, and other relatives, child care providers, teachers and health care providers.

More vaccination questions? Call your local health department or the DHHS Flu Information Hotline at 1-888-541-5668 or 402-471-2579. Specialists are available to assist you Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Central time. For more flu information, visit the DHHS Web site at www.dhhs.ne.gov/influenza

Melena lives in Milford, where he has been a member of the Milford Volunteer Fire Department for 19 years and fire chief for the past eight years. Prior to moving to Milford to become superintendent of Thornridge Golf Course, Melena served on the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department for six years.

Nominated by his wife, Stephanie, Melena was notified of his selection in a surprise announcement ceremony attended by members of the Milford American Legion and Milford Volunteer Fire Department on Jan. 7.

Cell phone users advised to 'winterize' their phones

As the temperature drops and snow continues to fall, cell phone users should be aware that significant temperature changes could damage their cell phones. Before heading out to enjoy winter activities, cell phone users are reminded to "winterize" wireless phones just like one might winterize an automobile.

The following tips are offered to help a cell phone survive the cold days of winter:

Don't expose to extreme cold — Temperatures below 40 degrees can harm the battery's life and run down the charge more quickly.

If your cell phone is exposed to cold temperatures, allow the phone to warm up to room temperature before using it.

Store your phone in a warm place. Do not place it in an outside pocket of your coat or backpack or in the car overnight. When out in the cold, carry your phone in an inside jacket pocket, keeping it close to your body for warmth.

Protect your screen — Prolonged exposure to the cold may affect the phone's display screen. The display cover can become brittle when exposed to cold temperatures for long periods of time causing the liquid crystals within the display to literally start freezing. As a result, the screen may be slow to respond when changing screens, tints may change or shadow lines may appear. If this happens, the best thing to do is get the phone into a warm place and give it time to reach room temperature.

If your cell phone gets wet from the condensation, power it down right away and remove the battery. Grab a towel or napkins to get as much excess water off the phone as you can. Remove any skins, covers or faceplates. If you have a flip phone, you should open it up, so air can reach the keypad. Leave a wet phone powered down for a day or

Red Cross responding to earthquakes in Haiti

On Jan. 12, at 5:22 p.m. local time, a series of earthquakes ranging from magnitude 6.5 to 7.3 struck Haiti in the highly populated area of Department Ouest, 10 miles southeast of Port-au-Prince.

Since that time an outpouring of supplies and monetary donations have been pledged through a number of sources.

Heather Claussen, Chapter Operations Manager for the American Red Cross, Northeast Nebraska Chapter, has provided the following information from the Red Cross in regard to the response action of the Red Cross.

Anyone wishing to make a donation to the Red Cross for Haiti earthquake relief may do so by sending a donation to 106 West Third Street, P.O. Box 94, Wayne, Neb. 68787.

Key developments in recent days include:

- The Red Cross is laying the groundwork for a planned massive response operation. A Red Cross base camp has been secured near the airport with warehousing facilities for relief supply staging. It is working with the U.S. Air Force to secure priority landing for relief shipments at the airport.

- Logistics and transportation of supplies into Haiti continues to be a challenge. Two planes carrying Red Cross humanitarian assistance landed in Port-au-Prince on Jan. 15. An additional plane with relief supplies such as hygiene kits, blankets and shelter kits is prepared for immediate dispatch from the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies (International Federation) warehouse in Panama.

- A Red Cross logistics team is moving into Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic to open up transportation channels from there overland to Haiti. Additional Red Cross teams are en route to establish field hospitals, water and sanitation services, telecommunications and logistics.

- A five-member American Red Cross Relief Emergency Response Unit (ERU) has arrived in Port-au-Prince and is working with Red Cross staff on the ground to plan relief distributions. An additional American Red Cross disaster specialist is in Port-au-Prince with an International Federation Field Assessment Coordination Team (FACT) to perform damage assessments, identify needs and plan the response.

Current Situation

- The official number of people affected is still unknown, but it is estimated that approximately 3 million people have been affected. The most urgent needs continue to be emergency medical care, food and water, logistics, telecommunications and shelter.

- The Port-au-Prince airport is now open despite a damaged control tower and terminal, but capacity is limited and landings have been restricted due to the airport reaching its full capacity. Access by land from Santo Domingo remains the easiest route into Haiti for humanitarian organization staff. Access within Port-au-Prince is difficult but passable for an estimated 75 percent of roads.

- The population in Port-au-Prince is reported to be calm, although expected to worsen in the coming days. Reports indicate that U.S. military forces have arrived, and additional national forces are expected to arrive in support of the UN operation.

- According to Red Cross assessments, hospitals and facilities are stretched to the limits of their capacity with not enough medical staff to handle the continuing arrival of the wounded.

- According to preliminary assessments by the International Federation, an estimated 10 percent of houses have been destroyed, affecting an estimated 200,000 people. The worst destruction is concentrated in some 15 areas where destruction exceeds 70 percent of the houses. There are an estimated 40 gathering points throughout the city for displaced families.

- There is a near-total blackout in Port-au-Prince, and the power grid remains significantly damaged. Due to limited electricity, communications remain difficult with phone lines and cellular infrastructure down.

- Reports indicate that food and water supplies continue to be limited.

The American Red Cross is actively responding to this disaster in coordination with Red Cross partners in Haiti. At this time, the American Red Cross had pledged US $37 million for immediate response activities.

The American Red Cross, together with global Red Cross partners, is conducting assessments on the ground to determine levels of damage, specific needs and available resources. An American Red Cross disaster specialist is in Port-au-Prince as part of an International Federation Field Assessment Coordination Team (FACT) to perform damage assessments, identify needs and plan the response.

The American Red Cross has made available all relief supplies stored at its warehouse in Panama. These include blankets, kitchen sets and water containers to meet the needs of up to 5,000 families.

The American Red Cross will continue to respond to the ongoing situation and take action in coordination with the International Federation and global Red Cross network.

Rice needs to be rockin' for Wildcats

Who needs steroids when you've got The Bleacher Bum's latest purging of the "Bits and Pieces" file?

- If you are REALLY a card-carrying Rice Rowdy, this weekend is the weekend you need to make your presence known.

Wayne State hosts Minnesota State-Mankato and Southwest Minnesota State this Friday and Saturday, and there needs to be a better turnout of home support than what has been seen so far this year.

One of the more disappointing statistics seen on the Wayne State ledger this year, believe it or not, has been home attendance. The average home attendance for the Wildcats this year has been a paltry 539 fans. This compares to the average attendance when Wayne State hits the road, which is almost double the average home crowd this year.

Rice Auditorium has traditionally been one of the toughest places to play in the Northern Sun Conference, and much of that reason is because of the "Rice Rowdies" who get the joint rocking. So far this year, Bingo night at the local nursing home has been tougher for visitors to experience.

I wouldn't say that the Rice Rowdies have not lived up to the reputation that preceded them, but when an early-season game was hanging in the balance, the visiting fans - who were outnumbered at least 10-to-1 - were louder than the Rice Rowdies.

The fact that Mankato's men are ranked No. 4 in the nation and the Lady Mustangs are the defending national champion should be more than enough reason to get Rice Auditorium rocking Friday night. Southwest Minnesota brings in teams who, like the Wildcats, are in the hunt for a postseason invitation.

It's put up or shut up time for the Rice Rowdies this weekend. The Wildcats need a good, loud supportive crowd to rock the joint Friday and Saturday.

(For more details, check out my video blog in the video section on our Web site at www.mywaynews.com).

- The Nebraska Prep Classic was a tremendous opportunity for the Wayne High boys to get a taste of what it's like to play in an arena such as the Qwest Center (to say nothing of the opportunity this journalist enjoyed to shoot a Blue Devils game in a properly-lit gymnasium).

What is even more interesting is the fact that a number of coaches and administrators of the schools playing in the tournament have ties to this area, mostly as Wayne State College graduates.

Included among Wayne State alumni were Boys Town athletic director Justin Gomes, Iowa School for the Deaf AD Mike Shannon, Kansas City Bishop Miege AD Michael Bohaty, Louisville girls coach Wally Johnson, Omaha Skutt AD Mike McMahon, and Wayne's own Rocky Ruhl.

Not a bad turnout for this impromptu Wayne State alumni reunion, don't you think?

- Did I really say the Chargers would make the AFC championship game?

I'm sorry...I completely forgot one simple fact: Norv Turner coaches the Chargers. Once the regular season is over, Turner is a terrible football coach. I've never seen one human being so scared of success as he is every time they show his mug during the playoffs.

Turner couldn't coach Wayne High's JV team to a win over the Shoales Sisters of the Poor...even when the sisters are spotting the jayvees two touchdowns. And what's even more hilarious is this recent news item: the Chargers have given him a contract extension...proof that the brightest bulbs in the chandelier are rarely, if ever, in upper management.

As for those still battling for a trip to Miami, I'm sticking with my Super Bowl pick...with the Saints to win it all.

Qwest for an upset falls short vs. Pius

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

OMAHA - Playing in the Qwest Center was quite an experience for the Wayne boys basketball team, even if the final outcome didn't turn out so well.

Lincoln Pius adjusted to Wayne's man-to-man defense in the second period and held the Blue Devils to a season low on the offensive end to earn a 45-35 win in the Nebraska Prep Classic Tuesday afternoon.

Lincoln Pius' defense was so good, in fact, that Wayne was unable to make one trip to the free throw line in the game.

"That was a surprise," coach Rocky Ruhl said. "When we did drive, we didn't drive at them and tried to go around them, so I was surprised we weren't able to get to the free throw line."

The Thunderbolts shot out to an early 8-2 advantage, but back-to-back 3-pointers by Jordan Barry tied the game at 8-8, and Brady Soden put back a miss by Seth Onderstal to give the Blue Devils a 12-10 advantage after one period.

Lincoln Pius held Wayne scoreless for more than five minutes in the second period. Gage Rethwisch's running jumper in the lane ended an 8-0 Thunderbolts run to make it 18-14 with less than three minutes to go in the first half. Wayne's offensive struggles continued as the Blue Devils went into the locker room with an 11-point deficit, trailing 29-18 at the half.

"They adjusted well to our man-to-man after the first quarter and were able to hit the post on the lob, and we weren't getting the off-side help we needed," Ruhl said. "We probably could have switched a matchup a little sooner and that would have helped, but they were just a solid team and they made the adjustment and it always seemed we had one man out of position."

The Blue Devils played well defensively in the third period and chipped away at the lead, with Derek Poutre's running jumper at the buzzer cutting the Thunderbolts' lead to 33-25 going into the final period.

Wayne, 8-3, made a game of it in the final period. Zeiss scored 10 of his team-high 13 points in the final period, including a basket and a pair of 3-pointers to pull Wayne within eight at 41-33 with 2:45 to go, but the Thunderbolts' Stuart Sucha and Trevor Johnson answered with baskets to make it 43-33, and the Blue Devils could get no closer than eight points after that.

Zeiss was followed by Poutre, who finished with eight points and five assists. Barry had six points and four steals.

Still, getting a chance to play in the 17,000-seat Qwest Center was an experience every member of the Wayne varsity won't soon forget, Ruhl said.

"It's a great thing for these kids, and I wanted to make sure everybody got a chance to play here so when they come back years from now

Wakefield teams use defensive efforts to turn away Winside

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

WINSIDE - Defensive pressure can take any team out of its rhythm, and the Wakefield girls used their pressure to keep Winside out of step Friday night.

The Trojans' full-court pressure helped them race to a 33-15 halftime lead and cruise to a 53-36 win in an area matchup here Friday night. The Wakefield boys made it a clean sweep for the visitors, warming up from the outside in the second half to post a 43-28 win.

Wakefield coach Matt Brenn said his team has worked on its full-court game in recent weeks, and he was happy to see that work pay dividends here Friday night.

"We've been working on our pressure a little bit, and it's steadily improved," Brenn said. "I thought the girls rotated really well once the ball crossed half court, and we didn't give up any layups on the back side. If you can press a team into turnovers and get some easy buckets, that's a good thing."

The Trojans pestered the Winside guards, thanks to the work of freshman Katelynn Tuttle and senior Jenna Henderson. Both players were able to attack the Wildcat offense in the backcourt, and that frustrated the Winside team as turnovers led to points and the Trojans quickly asserted themselves.

Winside tried to hold their own early on and were able to keep the deficit in single digits until the latter part of the first half. They did make a fourth-quarter run, outscoring Wakefield 17-7, but it wasn't enough to overcome the hole that was dug by Wakefield's pressure defense.

"Twice in the first half we cut the lead down to single digits, but we couldn't build on it," Winside coach Tim Manzer said. "We didn't execute as well as I would have liked, offensively and defensively, and we made too many turnovers that let things get out of hand."

Keri Lunz once again had a big night for the Trojans, finishing with a game-high 29 points. The 5-foot-11 junior had cracked the 20-point barrier several times in recent games for Wakefield and is playing at a very high level, according to Brenn.

"She had a slow start against Winside, but she still played well," he said. "She had 30 earlier against Ponca, so she's really stepped up and taken a scoring role for us."

In the boys' game, Wakefield needed a second-half surge to turn away a gritty effort by the host Wildcats. Wakefield outscored Winside 18-8 in the third period to take control and pulled away in the fourth quarter to earn the win.

"We were pretty shaky in the first half, but we played well in the second half," coach Mike Clay said. "We hit

Wayne State men get weekend road split

The Wayne State men gave perennial Winona State a battle to the end Friday evening and handled Upper Iowa to get a split in Northern Sun road action over the weekend.

On Friday, the Wildcats played well from start to finish before falling to the Warriors 67-63 Friday evening in Winona, Minn. The following evening, Wayne State held off a late rally to post a 57-53 win over Upper Iowa at Fayette, Iowa.

Even though they came up short at Winona, coach Paul Combs was happy with his team's effort.

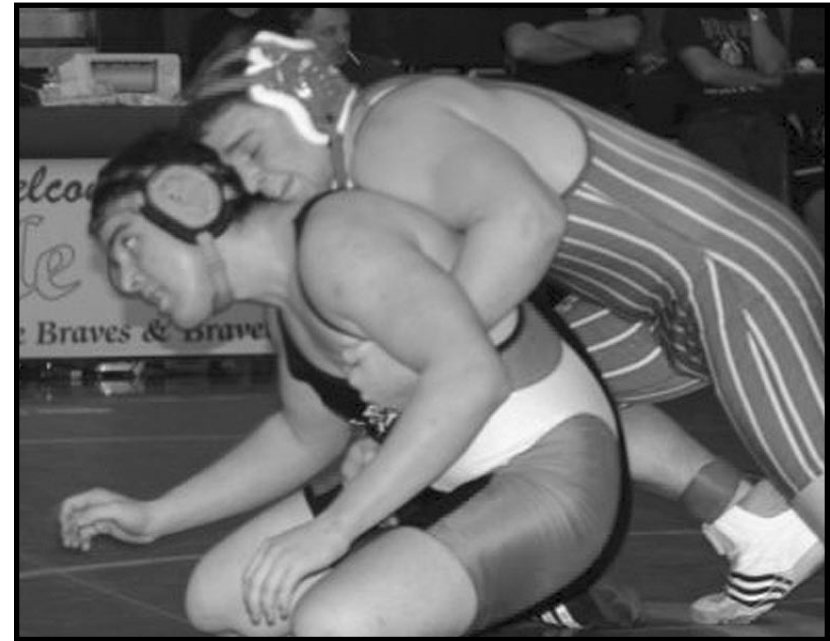

"Friday was a game our guys had been looking forward to playing, and I thought we played very well and was really pleased with our effort," he said. "It was a great environment, and they just made more plays down the stretch than we did."

The first half was a back-and-forth battle that featured eight ties and seven lead changes. After Winona State jumped out to an early 6-2 lead, Wayne State came back to take an 11-9 lead with 14:35 left in the first half following a Jason Jensen 3-pointer.

With the score tied at 11-11, the Wildcats went on an 11-4 run to take their biggest lead of the night at 22-15 after another Jensen trey. Winona State then put together a 10-1 run over a span of 4:54 to regain the lead and eventually took a 36-34 lead at halftime.

Although Winona State held the lead the entire second half, the Wildcats stayed with the Warriors and battled to the end. The Warriors took their biggest lead of the game at 58-50 with 7:39 to play following a jumper by Jon Wallburg, but

Winside wrestlers take second at Battle Creek

By LEE KOCH
Special to the Herald

BATTLECREEK - Winside teams finished second and eighth in the 16-team Battle Creek Invitational Saturday as the Wildcat varsity wrestlers took runner-up honors with the JV team placed eighth.

Winside earned the runner-up hardware, scoring a 178.5 points to finish behind the host Braves' 205 points, while the Wildcat Junior Varsity finished eighth with 51 points.

"The success (from the Lutheran High Dual Invitational) carried over to Saturday at Battle Creek," coach Paul Sok said. "Having our own tournament canceled the week before created a bit of a down feeling but the wrestlers responded well going two days in a row."

Wayne State's Elijah Miller scored six straight points for the Wildcats to pull them within two points at 58-56 with 4:16 remaining. Following Miller's layup, WSC head coach Paul Combs was called for a technical and Winona's David Johnson made the two free throws to put Winona up 62-58.

After Winona took a six point lead at 64-58 with 1:36 to play, the Wildcats used a Jensen jumper and a three-point play by Brett Spiker to get within one point, 64-63, with 28 seconds to play. Winona's Jon Wallburg made two free throws on the Warriors next possession to lead 66-63 and on Wayne State's next possession Brad Starken's pass was stolen by Winona State's Ben Fischer, who made one of two free throws with 12 seconds left to seal the win for the hosts.

Jason Jensen led Wayne State with 18 points, 16 coming in the first half. Senior forward Brett Spiker added 16 points and 17 rebounds for his third straight double-double and seventh overall this season. Sophomore backup guard Elijah Miller also reached double figures with 11 points.

On Saturday night, the Wildcats were able to grind out a win against a Peacocks team that had upset Augustana the night before.

"They did a ton of stuff and we did a nice job hanging in there and sticking together down the stretch," Combs said.

The stat of the night, though, was Upper Iowa's six free throw attempts, a sign of good defense and limited fouls committed by the Wayne State defense.

"We got beat off the dribble against Winona, so we shortened things up defensively and that made it difficult for them to penetrate," Combs said.

The Wildcats shot 41.7 percent (10 of 24) from the field in the first half and held a lead of eight points midway through the first half. The Peacocks cut the Wildcat lead to 22-18 at halftime, but Wayne State went on an early surge in the second half, with Brad Starken's layup capping the run and giving Wayne State its biggest lead of the game. Upper Iowa got as close as five points in the final minute, but Wayne State held on for the win.

Wayne State had three players in double figures, with Amry Shelby leading the way with 15 points. Senior Brian Metz added 13 points and Starken added 11 points. Brett Spiker led the Wildcats in rebounds with 11.

Wayne State, 8-8 overall and 5-4 in the NSIC, have two very tough matchups at home this weekend. They will battle undefeated and No. 4-ranked Minnesota State-

Mankato Friday at 8 p.m., then turn around the following night to face defending NSIC champion Southwest Minnesota in a 6 p.m. matchup.

"Mankato is so talented and deep and athletic, and it will be a difficult matchup for us," Combs said. "The next night we play the defending conference champs, but the nice thing is that both games are at home. I hope that Rice will be rowdy and it will be an exciting opportunity for our kids."

On Saturday, the Blue Devils took care of Boys Town at the Cowboys' Parlange Fieldhouse, posting a 57-47 win over the Cowboys to earn a matchup with the Thunderbolts, who upset Class B No. 2 Ralston 50-48.

The Blue Devils went 12-of-15 at the free throw line and had three players in double figures, led by Winside center Nathan Janke was hurt early in the game and was limited to two points, but Clay said Winside's athleticism kept them in the game.

"They're gotten more athletic and improved a lot since Jeff (Messersmith) has been with them," he said. "We saw them play Winnebago and they played them pretty tough, and we were really concerned about the Janke kid coming in. We stuck with our defense and did a better job rebounding, and we were also able to hit a couple of shots when we needed to."

Blue Devils go 2-3 at Pender Duals

PENDER –Although the team went 2-3 at the Pender Duals Saturday, Wayne High wrestling coach Anthony Lawrence said he saw some good individual efforts.

“The thing is, with a dual you need a full team to win a lot of duals and we have four open weights right now with injuries,” he said. “I think the kids that did wrestle for us Saturday wrestled pretty well and we had some good individual efforts, but it’s hard (to win) as a team because you give up a lot of points with opens.”

Roman Roberts wrestled well for the Blue Devils at 125 pounds, getting three pins and a major decision to highlight his 5-0 day. He was one of four Blue Devils to finish the day unbeaten, as Logan Owens (140), Riley McManus (160) and Drew Loberg (189) all were a perfect 5-0.

All three of Wayne’s losses were close outcomes, as they fell to Creighton Prep JV (41-37), Wisner-Pilger (45-27) and the host Pender Duals (48-36). They handled Ponca (47-21) and Omaha Bryan JV (57-24).

The Blue Devils will have a full weekend on schedule this week. They compete in the Madison Invitational on Friday, then make up for a weather-related miss with Saturday’s Neligh-Oakdale Invitational.

Wakefield boys fall in overtime

The Wakefield boys basketball team fell back to the .500 mark after a couple of close losses Saturday and Monday.

On Saturday, the Trojans came out cold from the field and were unable to bounce back, dropping a 54-31 decision at Lyons-Decatur.

Wakefield came within one second of taking first place in its own Clough Post-Holiday Tournament, but a buzzer-beating, game-tying 3-pointer gave Emerson-Hubbard a second chance, and the Pirates were able to come away with a 63-56 overtime win Monday night.

In Saturday’s game, the Trojans shot 13 percent from the floor in the opening period and 31 percent for the game.

“Their size gave us some problems and we had troubles getting some clean looks at the basket,” coach Mike Clay said. “We couldn’t get a lot inside against them, and they rebounded well and got a lot of second-chance opportunities.”

Brock Soderberg had nine points and Dusty Sherer added eight to lead a balanced effort for the Trojans.

On Monday, Wakefield was in position to take the tournament title, but a 3-pointer at the buzzer by Scott Servine tied the game, and Emerson-Hubbard outscored the hosts 13-6 in the extra frame to take the first-place trophy.

Clay felt his team played well in the home loss, and he said he should have had a player foul Servine before he could get the game-tying shot off at the end of regulation.

“We had two starters out, and I thought our kids played well and we had a chance there at the end,” Clay said. “I’m not a big fan of (fouling at the end), but I wondered if we should have just fouled him and put him on the line before he could get that shot off. The thing was, it was a tough shot. We had someone on him and it was a contested 3-pointer and he was able to hit it.”

Hugo Ortiz hit five 3-pointers and finished with a game-high 19 points for the 7-7 Trojans. Tyler Bodlak added 13 points and Soderberg put in nine.

Kielsmeier looking for consistent play after WSC splits road games

Wayne State women’s coach Chris Kielsmeier is looking for some consistency on the road, and the Wildcats are still trying to find themselves after another conference road split.

Winona State used a 12-0 run early in the second half and never relinquished the lead as the Warriors defeated Wayne State 71-67 Friday night in Winona, Minn., but the Wayne State women bounced back Saturday, outlasting Upper Iowa for a 82-68 win.

“It was pretty similar to how we’ve played on the road,” Kielsmeier said of his 12-5 (7-3 NSIC) Wildcats. “We have been inconsistent and made mistakes (on the road), but we played hard and I was happy with the effort. We just need to learn to execute and minimize the mistakes on a more consistent basis. We just beat ourselves at Winona and it almost happened at Upper Iowa.”

The first half of Friday’s game saw neither team lead by more than four points as Wayne State took a 33-32 lead at halftime.

The turning point of the game came early in the second half, as Winona State used a 12-0 run in a span of 3:01 to go from a 35-32 deficit to a 44-35 lead with 14:47 remaining. Wayne State ended the surge and scored the next six points on a pair of Mara Hjelle jumpers and a shot by Ali Schwartzwald to pull within three points at 44-41 with 12:39 to go, but they never got closer than three points the rest of the game.

“Offensively, we didn’t make many plays down the stretch, but the disappointing thing was defensively we didn’t get the stops when we needed them,” Kielsmeier said. “They got a lot of shots with less than five seconds left (on the shot clock), and that was disappointing.”

Junior center Mara Hjelle paced Wayne State with 18 points while junior forward Alyssa Fischbach contributed a career-high 17 points to go with 10 rebounds for her second double-double of the season. Ashley Arlen also reached double figures with 14 points.

A 17 point run in the final nine minutes of the second half propelled the Wildcats to Saturday’s win over the Peahens.

Junior Renee Wood had a career-high 13 points coming off the bench for the Wildcats.

The Wildcats shot out to an early 7-0 lead in the opening minutes of the first half, but then the Peacocks battled back to tie the score at 8-8 midway through the first half. The teams would battle back and fourth, with the Wildcats jumping out to a 42-32 lead in the first stanza.

Upper Iowa cut Wayne State’s lead to one before the Wildcats pulled away in the second half.

The Wildcats had four players in double figures on the night, with two players earning a double-double. Hjelle earned her fourth double-double of the season with 20 points and 13 rebounds, sophomore Ashley Arlen scored 19 points and 12 boards, Wood had 13, and Alyssa Fischbach put in 12 points.

Wayne State returns home for two tough matchups this weekend at Rice Auditorium, as they battle Minnesota State-Mankato Friday night and Southwest Minnesota

State Saturday.

“All three of us are tied for sixth in the league right now,” Kielsmeier said. “Minnesota State is the defending national champ and Southwest has played well all year, so this is an important weekend for us.”

Allen boys get victory on the road

The Allen boys got the goose egg out of the win column Thursday, using a fast start against Santee to come away with a 45-22 win over the Warriors at Santee.

“It was good that we were able to get that first win and play hard on the road,” coach Luke Hoffman said. “The kids got out to a good lead right away and we were able to maintain that, which was good to see.”

Allen jumped out to an 18-4 lead after one period and led 26-10 at intermission, and the game was never in doubt after that.

Jacob Woodward had the hot hand, scoring 14 points to lead the Eagles. Cody Stewart and Keith Jorgensen each had nine points. Santee’s Tyrall Denney led all scorers with 16 points.

Stewart had a solid night and was one point short of a triple-double, finishing with 13 rebounds and 10 steals.

On Friday, the Eagles were able to hang with Bancroft-Rosalie for one period, but couldn’t sustain that momentum and dropped a 57-30 decision.

Allen trailed 13-12 after one period, but the Panthers outscored Allen 44-18 in the final three periods to claim the victory.

Stewart had 15 points and A.J. Williams added 11 for the Eagles in the losing effort.

On Tuesday, Allen had a tough shooting night, hitting just 26 percent from the floor in a 47-20 loss at Wynot.

“We were able to break their pressure pretty well and get into our offense, but we just couldn’t get any good open looks to get the ball in,” Hoffman said. “We just weren’t hitting the shots we needed to it.”

Stewart’s eight points led a balanced attack, while Williams, D.J. Kennelly and Cody Logue each had four points.

In spite of the team’s 1-8 record, Hoffman said his team isn’t getting discouraged.

“It’s a group of kids that don’t quit, even when they get down big,” he said. “The kids are still getting after it, which is good to see. It’s been a tough season but the kids are still working hard.”

Bears, Lady Bears split

The Laurel-Concord basketball teams came up on the short end of a doubleheader with Creighton Friday at Laurel.

The Laurel-Concord girls found themselves in a hole early against the Lady Bulldogs and couldn't overcome a 12-point first quarter deficit, losing 64-51.

Emily Gubbels led the way with 16 points for the Lady Bears, while Jade Cunningham had nine points in the losing effort.

In the boys' game, the Bears and Bulldogs fought from start to finish before the visitors escaped with a 63-57 win. Travis Nelson and Michael Oleson each had 17 points to lead the Laurel-Concord boys.

Tuesday night, both Laurel-Concord teams came away with wins on the road at Hartington. The girls posted a 41-33 victory, as Bethany DeLong led a balanced attack with 12 points. Mandy Nelson added 10 points and Gubbels and Cunningham each had nine points.

The boys played solid defense to earn a 39-22 win over the Wildcats. The Bears broke the game open in the second period, expanding a five-point first-quarter lead to 13 at intermission. Oleson led the Bears' balanced attack with 10 points, while Bryan Pippitt added eight and Kyle Koester put in seven.

Winside girls fall 63-33

It was a rough night for the Winside girls Thursday, as a bad third quarter helped the visiting Indians pull away for a 63-33 triumph.

The Lady Wildcats were within striking distance coming out of the halftime locker room, trailing by only 10 points. The visitors attacked Winside with some tough defense, and Winside committed a number of turnovers that Winnebago turned into baskets, resulting in a 23-2 third-quarter run that put the game well out of reach.

"We didn't execute as well as I would have liked, offensively or defensively," coach Tim Manzer said. "We made too many unforced errors, and we knew exactly what we needed to do to get back in the game and we just didn't execute it at all." Audrey Roberts was the lone Lady Wildcat in double figures, finishing with 10 points.

The Winside girls are back in action Friday night, as they travel to Wausa for a Lewis and Clark Conference matchup.

Blue Devil girls outlast Lady Knights

The Wayne girls basketball team has been doing it with defense all year, and the defense came up big Friday in a 32-26 win over Norfolk Catholic at Wayne High School.

"This was the best defensive performance that I have ever been a part of. It was tremendous defense," coach Nate Wall said of this team's win.

The Blue Devils did a tremendous job of holding Norfolk Catholic to one shot and not giving up too many second chances. The Blue Devils allowed just six offensive rebounds the entire night, and the Lady Knights scored just two second-chance points.

The Blue Devils got a tremendous effort from sophomore Katie Hoskins, who finished with 13 points, 19 rebounds and four blocked shots. The 19 rebounds were one short of tying her school record set last season.

"That was our number one point of emphasis in the locker room before the game, and it was a great team win," Wall said.

Senior Shannon Jarvi also had a solid night, finishing with 11 points and two steals.

"Shannon hit some huge shots for us, and Jordan Alexander's defense on Cari Bellar was spectacular to hold her to three points," Wall said.

On Tuesday night, Wayne gave traditional power Crofton a great game before losing to the seventh-ranked Warriors 54-50 at Crofton.

"We weren't happy with the final outcome, but we definitely went toe-to-toe with them, which is something a Wayne team hasn't done in a while," Wall said. "Defensively, we gave up too much in the way of penetration, but we found some consistency on offense which was great to see."

The key for Wayne was finding that consistency on the offensive end. Caitlin Fehringer stepped up with a big game, scoring 13 points, and Hoskins battled her way to another double-double with 13 points and 14 rebounds.

"I've been telling Caitlin that those runners she shoots are going to start dropping, and they did," Wall said. "Katie's been very tough since the break, and Crofton tried to hold her down and she was still able to get 13 points."

The loss dropped the Blue Devils to 6-4 on the season.

Eighth-grade boys victorious

The Wayne eighth-grade boys basketball teams came away with a pair of easy wins in recent action.

On Thursday, the Blue Devil eighth graders went on a 34-0 run and led 34-4 at halftime on their way to a 55-17 win over Battle Creek. Jalen Barry scored 19 points and Luke Rethwisch added 10 for the winners. Also scoring were Matt Schrunck and Austin Keiser with eight points each and Kaje Maly, Jared Anderson, Payton Janke, Jake Lutt and Trevor Pecena with two points each.

On Saturday, Wayne shut Pierce down in the second half to earn a 61-33 victory. Barry had a game-high 31 points and Rethwisch added 14 for the winners. Also scoring were Keiser with five, Anderson with four, Maly, Pecena and Schrunck with two each and Janke with one.

JV Devils handle Bears

The Wayne JV boys basketball team defeated Laurel-Concord in action last Tuesday at Wayne Middle School, posting a 44-32 win.

Mason Wren had 12 points and Andrew Long added nine for the 5-1 Blue Devils. Also scoring were Chris Rogers with seven, Tony Sinneger, Miles Anderson and Zach Thomsen with four each, and Joey Lenihan and Collin Preston with two each.

Keitges second for Morningside

Allen native Erin Keitges picked up a second-place finish for the Morningside women's track and field team at the Dordt College Indoor Invite.

Zeitges was part of a 1-2-3 finish for the Mustangs, taking second with a time of 5:27.23.

Winside teams fall at Clarkson

CLARKSON - The Winside boys played well defensively, but the offense stumbled as they dropped a 43-23 decision at Clarkson Tuesday.

The Wildcats were in contention going into the final period, trailing 30-21 after three quarters. But the Devils slammed the door on a Winside comeback in the fourth, outscoring the Wildcats 13-2 in the final period to put the game out of reach.

"We played well defensively again, but we struggled to score from the free throw line," coach Jeff Messersmith said. "We continue to play hard and we will have some success, but the key is playing disciplined offensively and intense defensively."

Seth Mangels had his first double-double of the year, finishing with 11 points and 11 rebounds for the Wildcats.

In girls' action, Clarkson outlasted the Winside girls 51-36. Highlights were not turned in to the Herald office at press time.

Wakefield girls defeated, take fourth in tourney

The Wakefield girls came up short in a road test Saturday at Lyons-Decatur and finished fourth in the Clough Post-Holiday Tournament after losing to Pender for the third time this season.

On Saturday, the Trojans trailed by 11 and made a game of it in the final period, but came up short in a 48-42 loss at Lyons-Decatur.

Despite the loss, coach Matt Brenn felt his team gave a good effort in their second road game in as many nights.

"I thought Keri (Lunz) played well for us and Jenna (Henderson) had a double-double, so I think we're improving," he said.

Lunz had 13 points and Henderson added 11 in Saturday's matchup. Katelyn Tuttle and Libby Henschke each put in six points.

On Monday, the Trojans nearly dug themselves out of a huge first-half hole, but ran out of gas in the second half as the Lady Pendragons came away with consolation honors in the tournament at Wakefield.

Lady Eagles' struggles continue with defeats

The Allen girls are continuing to battle their way through some offensive struggles, losing three games this past week.

On Thursday, the Lady Eagles mounted a fourth-quarter comeback, but couldn't make up the early deficit as they lost at Santee, 41-38.

Allen came out sluggish in the second half and trailed by 12 points heading into the fourth quarter. They scored a season-high 23 points in the final period, but it wasn't enough to overcome the large deficit.

"The first three quarters we came out pretty flat and our defense wasn't very good, but what hurt the most is that we couldn't hit any shots," coach Logan McPhillips said. "We only made six shots the first three quarters. We started hitting them in the fourth and were able to pressure them, but it wasn't enough."

Shannon Sullivan hit three 3-pointers and finished with 13 points and six steals to lead the

"They shot the ball really well," Brenn said. "We got down 14 and were able to get within five in the second, and we came out and made some unforced errors in the third and they capitalized on them. We just ran out of gas."

Lunz scored 21 points in the loss, which dropped Wakefield to 3-11 on the season. Henderson added eight points.

SAFE WINTER DRIVING TIPS

- ➔ Clear snow and ice from windows, lights, windshield wipers, the hood, and the roof of your vehicle, before driving. The windshield-washer reserve should be filled with a freeze-resistant cleaning solution.
- ➔ When you see plows, stay at least 200 feet behind them.
- ➔ Leave room for stopping. Brake early and carefully.
- ➔ Don't use cruise control. The short touch of your brakes to deactivate the cruise control can cause you to lose control of your vehicle.
- ➔ Pay attention. Look ahead to see what other vehicles are doing. That way you will know about any impending road or weather conditions.
- ➔ Watch your speed. Even if your car handles well in snow and ice, other drivers' cars may not. Drive according to the conditions: Don't exceed the speed limit and drive slowly in harsh conditions. Don't try to out-drive bad weather.

Band students share memories of trip to Cotton Bowl

The Allen Marching Band was invited to be a part of the recent Cotton Bowl festivities.

Since their return to Nebraska, they have recorded memories of the trip.

A number of those stories have been submitted to the Wayne Herald. Several will be printed in these week's edition and the remainder in next weeks.

Allen Band students would like to thank those in the community who attended the fundraisers and gave financial support to make the band's trip to Dallas to participate in the Cotton Bowl parade and half time show of the football game possible. Students were asked to write a day-by-day account of the trip and about their reactions to and descriptions of some experiences and educational and fun places visited on the trip.

Jordyn Jensen, freshman

We departed from Allen at 8 p.m. on Dec. 29, 2009, for Dallas, Texas, and the Cotton Bowl. For most of us, it was really hard to sleep on the charter bus and vans. Several times during the night we stopped and students changed places on the vans and bus. We arrived at Dallas about noon the next day and our first stop was Amazing Jakes. We departed from Amazing Jakes about 3:30 to go to our ten-story hotel. As we walked into the hotel lobby, we were amazed. The girls stayed on the tenth floor and the boys on the ninth floor of the Crown Plaza Suites hotel. We had several hours of free time before eighteen people departed for Galleria Mall. The others stayed at the hotel to watch the Husker game or swim. Meanwhile those at the Galleria were stretching their legs by going to many of the stores on the four floors of the Galleria. In one area was the biggest Christmas tree any of us had ever seen. Around the base was an ice-skating rink. We needed to leave by 10 p.m. to get back to the hotel for curfew. It had been a full day and everyone was glad to go to bed.

On Thursday, Dec. 30 we had to be up and leaving by 8 to eat breakfast buffet at the Hard Rock Café. There were so many different pieces of musical memorabilia from different celebrities on display. Many of us could have spent all our money at the Hard Rock Café gift shop. At 10 we walked from the café to the Dallas Aquarium. It was like a rainforest with all kinds of different kinds of birds and fish. We enjoyed watching the manatees. Two students got a t-shirt because their clothing got animal poop on them. By noon we had to move on to the Sixth-Floor Museum that used to be the Texas Book Depository. The sixth floor became the museum in the building because that is where Lee Harvard Oswald stood as he killed John F. Kennedy.

While there, we learned about different theories of a possible conspiracy and what happened during the assassination. We needed to leave at 1:30 p.m. to go to the Speed Zone. The first thing most of us did was order lunch. We couldn't do anything outside because of the rain, but inside was an arcade with racing games, shooting games, and more. We were able to return to Speed Zone after the Cotton Bowl game on Friday.

After returning to our hotel mid afternoon, we relaxed, got cleaned up, and put on our good clothes to get ready to leave at 7 for South Fork Ranch where we celebrated New Year's Eve with all the other band members who were participating in the Cotton Bowl parade and game. We ate dinner, had a dance, and had band competition winners announced. The announcer mentioned the foul winter weather of 40 degrees while most of us just grinned remembering the Christmas day blizzard.

On Friday we had to be ready to leave by 8 a.m. to go to the Dallas Cowboy Stadium to have a massed-band rehearsal for the half-time show. We practiced until 11:15 after which we were handed a sack lunch and water bottle and told to eat on the bus. Time was running out and we found out we needed to change into our uniforms on the bus. That was a challenge getting on black socks and shoes, a full uniform and hat, and getting horns ready in fifteen minutes. By 1 p.m. we were ready to start marching but our haste was just to wait until 1:30. Of course, this was the biggest parade any of us had ever seen, let alone march in. After reaching the end, we were able to watch the rest of the parade and make the mile trek to the bus. We loaded on and finally reached the hotel at 6. After getting out of our uniforms, freshening up, and getting ready in casual clothes, we loaded the bus again and left by 7 p.m. for Medieval Times.

That is another big hit with everybody as we experienced life in the medieval times. We browsed around in the huge gift shop before being escorted to our seats. There were different colors representing the color of the knight we were to cheer for. The Allen Band ended up rooting for the Green Knight. At our seats we were given an appetizer of a piece of garlic bread and soup with a drink of tea or Pepsi. While we were eating, the knights were being introduced and everyone was cheering or booing the knights.

The jousting tournament began while we were being served our supper of half a fried chicken, a potato, and a rib. For authenticity, we had to eat with our hands. Our dessert was a chocolate chip cookie. While eating, there were two knights in the ring fighting with swords, shields, and spears with a metal chain and ball with metal spikes attached. Our Green Knight lasted almost to the end, but then ended up being the bad guy. By 11 we were back to our hotel after a very full day.

Saturday we had wake-up call at 6 a.m. so we could be on the bus by 7 in uniform with instruments. Although four boys were late because they didn't get the wake-up call, they hurried once notified and made us only 10 minutes late in leaving to go to a high school football field for another massed-band rehearsal. After practicing, we were given the honorable mention parade Category I trophy.

Now it was time to head to the stadium. It was so impressive despite the fact that we were seated in the "nosebleed" section. The seats were comfortable, and the television was huge. From our view, the camera that goes down to the football players looked like a robot. Since a hot dog costs $5, most of us did not eat stadium food. At the end of the first quarter, we headed down to the field to play the half-time show; that was fun and exciting. Then we headed back to our seats.

Although we left the game early, it took us nearly two hours to get back to the hotel. Another quick change and we were off to eat at the Golden Corral where some of the boys ate peppers that were too hot. As promised, we once again got to go to the Speed Zone and were able to race on the go-carts outside.

Some rode the roller coaster simulator and others played the arcade games. We got back to the hotel at midnight.

On Sunday morning, everyone was packed and on the bus heading home by 8:40 a.m. It was sad to say good-bye to the warm weather and no one looked forward to the long bus ride, but when you are tired enough, you can sleep. We arrived in Allen about 11 p.m., put our instruments and uniforms away, and headed home.

It was one of the most enjoyable and unforgettable experiences most of us will ever have.

Cally Tschirren, senior

My most enjoyable experience was definitely the football game because it was amazing being in the brand-new stadium.

An unexpected experience was the bus driver always slamming on the brakes and hitting the curb a total of nine times.

The most unusual place was Medieval Times because I have never been to anything like that before.

My favorite place was the Dallas Cowboy Stadium. It was huge, and I have never seen a screen that big!

My least favorite place was Amazing Jakes because I was too tired from the bus ride to Dallas to enjoy it.

I would like to go to the Galleria Mall again because it has so many more stores than any malls around here.

I would not want to have another long bus ride with roads covered with snow making it an even longer ride to get there.

Cody Logue, senior

My most enjoyable experience was Medieval Times because I liked the feast we had, eating with our hands, and watching knights battle.

The most surprising or unexpected event was someone getting shot about ten miles away from our hotel.

The most unusual place was the CVS pharmacy because that is where we got all our food and supplies.

My least favorite place was the Sixth-Floor Museum because I already knew about JFK's death. We were also very tired, the museum was crowded, and I didn't want to do anything more that day.

I would like to go to Speed Zone again because the drag racing, video games, and go-carts were really fun.

I am so glad to have found Dr. Herman. I had gone to several doctors and they could not seem to find out what my problem was. After a few sessions with Dr. Herman I am walking with no pain and no limp. I was miserable before I started with chiropractic sessions. I would recommend chiropractic to anyone with back or leg pain before having surgery. Thank you Dr. Herman!

Who will run against Heineman?

By ED HOWARD
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN - It's 2010 and that means a race for the governor's seat.

Well, it means an election in which Nebraskans will probably choose between incumbent Gov. Dave Heineman and whatever Democrat can be talked into challenging him, if such a critter can be corralled.

Quick: Who was the Democratic candidate for governor in 2006?

That's okay. As previously noted in this space, you don't know a half-dozen people who remember, either. The answer: Lincoln businessman and then-political newcomer David Hahn made the sacrificial, token effort.

Democrats might find it equally difficult to field a candidate this year - especially if potential recruits learn how quickly Hahn was dumped by the Democratic hierarchy after he agreed to run. Adding insult to injury: At a Democratic banquet months after the election, the master of ceremonies didn't even notice Hahn was in the audience, let alone offer recognition for his taking one for the party that recruited him.

The plight of the state's No. 2 party is easily understood.

Republicans remain lords of Nebraska's political landscape, with a hefty statewide voter registration edge. It's true that Omaha and Lincoln have Democratic mayors. And the Omaha-dominated 2nd Congressional District threw an electoral vote to Barack Obama in the 2008 presidential election. But with the exception of victories by two-term U.S. Sen. Ben Nelson, however, Democrats haven't had a statewide winner in 16 years, and that includes the statehouse constitutional offices, from governor on down.

Republicans remain lords of Nebraska's political landscape, with a hefty statewide voter registration edge. It's true that Omaha and Lincoln have Democratic mayors. And the Omaha-dominated 2nd Congressional District threw an electoral vote to Barack Obama in the 2008 presidential election. But with the exception of victories by two-term U.S. Sen. Ben Nelson, however, Democrats haven't had a statewide winner in 16 years, and that includes the statehouse constitutional offices, from governor on down.

As for Democrat Nelson: He is so oriented to Republican policy that he voted with the administration of former President George Bush more than any other Democrat in the Senate, and even more than several Republicans. And he was recently reported to have voted against his party more than any other Democrat in 2009.

Getting back to this year's gubernatorial election:

Remember when the Democratic Party was pushing Scott Kleeb, the ranch hand, Yale graduate, as its next best hope? He ran for the Senate and got walloped in 2008 by former governor and former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Mike Johanns. In 2006 he was clobbered by Republican Adrian Smith in a bid for the then-open 3rd District House seat. Is there any chance Kleeb can be talked into coming out of rehab to challenge Heineman? You can bet some party leaders will urge him to consider it, especially since former Omaha Mayor Mike Boyle, a current Douglas County Board member, recently said he wouldn't make the race.

In declining a probable May coronation, Boyle, 65, said he thought this year's campaign for the governor's office could be the most down and dirty, ever.

The view from here: It's hard to figure why it would need to be. Things can change in a flash during any political campaign, but at this writing Heineman's position would have to be rated somewhere between impregnable and somewhat better than that - or a whole lot better.

When the officially nonpartisan Legislature redraws congressional and Unicameral district boundaries, based on the 2010 Census, you can also expect the GOP to flex its muscle. Despite its officially nonpartisan status, a majority of lawmakers are registered Republicans. That advantage will likely be leveraged when boundaries are redrawn.

Districts must bring community into their schools

By CRAIG R. CHRISTIANSEN
Executive Director, Nebraska State Education Association

My father was a no-nonsense kind of guy. He worked hard and minded his own business. When I asked him if he couldn't come into town and talk with my teacher and tell her that she was not teaching the way I thought she should, he said to forget it. "Teachers don't tell me how to run the ranch and I am not going to tell them how to teach." We raised cattle. I just couldn't imagine teachers daring to tell my father how to do his work. So, it made sense that no one should tell them how to run their school. Or help them do it. Times have changed.

Or have they? I thought the question then was whose school was it. The answer, I thought, would tell me who should make the decisions or do the work. There are still many who look at the question "who pays the most taxes?" to answer the question of who owns the school. There are also those who look at the issues of citizenship or plain majority-ruled politics to determine whose school it really is. It isn't that the answers are wrong - they just answer the wrong question. The boundaries between school and the larger community have become very fuzzy. Community members, parents, non-parents, seniors, preschoolers, citizens and non-citizens - all come to the school with a sense of ownership. And that is exactly the way it should be.

Blurred Boundaries

The boundaries between the school and the larger community have become so blurred that, in many cases, it is difficult to tell where the school ends and other public (or private) spaces begin.

There are several examples in Nebraska of shared facilities between schools and public libraries, city recreational spaces, zoos, or other public-use spaces. I recently visited Schoo Middle School in Lincoln - a beautiful facility - where I had difficulty telling where the school ended and the adjoining YMCA began. Such an arrangement is not just an economical use of space. That facility is a visible symbol that the school is not separate from its own community. I have visited too many schools in my career that were clearly - and visibly - disconnected from the very community that gave the school its reason for existence.

How to Share Ownership

Very few people have any difficulty understanding the concept of saving money by sharing space. For many, however, it is still difficult to understand the idea that schools share a mission with many other agencies, both private and public.

Family health clinics that can serve parents and families at the school are still rare in Nebraska, but are becoming more commonplace in other locales. A public library on the grounds of a public school makes sense. Municipal swimming pools, baseball diamonds, parks, and playgrounds are often unnecessarily distant and disconnected from the schools that is the center of most families' lives.

Gaby Fritz serves as a bilingual liaison for families at Gomez Heritage Elementary School in Omaha. The Parents' Room is a bright and cheery place where parents can work with her to learn about parenting skills, work skills, and resources for their children. Working with parents and community agencies, she helps to ensure good communication between school, the home, and the many resources that exist in the community. The goal is that the community works together for the success of children. The question is not who owns the school. The real question is how to share both ownership and responsibility for the success of the school in its own community. There are growing numbers of school districts that understand that challenge. And growing numbers of schools that have discovered what a difference it makes to bring the community into the school...not as visitors, but as those who come to work, play, and learn in a school they call their own.

WWJD?

The four-letter acronym is best known as a religious question - what would Jesus do?

This week, I use it to ask another question: what would Johnny do?

I'm not much for watching network television anymore. In fact, were it not for ESPN, Comedy Central and the Game Show Network's broadcasts of "High Stakes Poker" on Sunday nights, my television might be better served as an oversized coffee table.

A long time ago, I made the conscious decision to stop watching the garbage excreting from the four major networks. Friends learned, rather quickly, to avoid asking if I'd watched the latest episode of whatever show was "it" at the time (I also learned never to call my dad's house whenever "Grey's Anatomy" or "House" was on, because it is the one thing that takes precedence over conversations with only sons in his house).

I never took an interest in the vast array of intelligence-sucking reality programs like "Big Brother" or "Survivor" or "So You Think You Can..." - and don't get me started on the mother of all "reality" shows, "American Idol." There's only one thing worse than somebody willingly signing on to do "The Apprentice," and that's some no-talent doofus looking like a transvestite who dressed himself (or is it herself?) in the dark singing "I Gotta Be Me" at least three steps off key.

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes
Managing Editor

The only time I would bother to watch one of the local TV stations was a two-hour window known as "late night." It was the only time where I would let my guard of intelligence down (and, believe me...watching more than 45 seconds worth of some of the nonsense on network TV these days really puts a dent in that shield) and be entertained.

The problem is...late night TV these days isn't that entertaining, either. In fact, it's becoming as intellectually meaningless as "prime time" TV has been for many, many years.

It all started when the legendary Johnny Carson retired after 30 years as host of NBC's "The Tonight Show." I think we all remember where we were the night Carson gave a tearful farewell (I was in an Omaha hotel watching while developing film shot during the state track meet), and when Carson said good-bye, NBC had a chance to carry on the tradition.

David Letterman was hosting "Late Night With David Letterman" after Carson and looked to be the guy who was being groomed to take over for Carson. Instead, the bozos at NBC went with Jay Leno, and Letterman wound up going to CBS, where he competed head-to-head with his former employer.

To make matters worse, NBC hired a nobody named Conan O'Brien to take over the Late Night show, and within 15 seconds of his first show, it was apparent that this guy was about one-tenth as funny as he thought he was.

Over the years, Leno and Letterman battled and CBS added its own late-late program (Craig Ferguson is occasionally funny in a quirky sort of way), but neither network has managed to get these shows anywhere near the quality and class that made Carson a legend.

And let's face it...unless you either have a low IQ or need an in-home nurse to clean up your drool during lunch, there's nothing funny about most of O'Brien's bits. Triumph the Insult Comic Dog is moderately amusing up until the fourth time the puppet ends a phrase with a trademark saying that's not fit for repeating here. The only time I laugh at an O'Brien bit is when I realize that I have spent more than five seconds watching this nonsense...that's usually followed by me changing the channel.

Leno is funny only up to a point. The thing is, he tries too hard to go for the joke. A good comedian lets the joke live and die on its own. Some of Leno's stuff is funny, but it's nowhere near the level set by the legend he replaced.

Now, there's a big whoop-dee-do over Leno and O'Brien. Leno was moved to a prime-time slot, where his show tanked; while O'Brien took over "The Tonight Show" and dragged that institution to ground zero. The only thing worth watching lately has been the shots O'Brien, Letterman and Jimmy Kimmel (on ABC) have taken at NBC's management, whose recent moves have somehow made the criminals in Congress look ethical and intelligent.

Unfortunately, we will never get an answer to this particular WWJD question, because Carson - a native of nearby Norfolk - died a few years ago. And while we won't ever know for sure, I've got a pretty good idea what Johnny MIGHT do if he were asked right now:

He'd turn the TV off.

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Can You Rely on Your Home as Your Retirement Nest Egg?

Like many homeowners, your house is probably the biggest investment on your personal balance sheet. So you might wonder, with all that's changed in the economic turmoil of the last few years—the Wall Street collapse, the housing boom and bust, cuts to employee pensions and 401(k) accounts—what your house is worth now and if you can rely on it as a retirement nest egg in the future. Here are a few things to keep in mind.

Counting on your home to provide a source of income in retirement is not without risk. Though home values historically have risen over time, they sometimes fall unexpectedly, leaving you at the mercy of the marketplace. The recent real estate crash is evidence enough that home values are subject to fluctuation.

In general, however, once you pay off your mortgage, and assuming your property is well-maintained, your home will be a valuable asset. To get a feel for its current worth, do an honest assessment of it relative to houses that are for-sale in the neighborhood. Take note of resale rates and other neighborhood trends that could affect home values. If you're looking for a more precise figure, consider hiring a professional to assess your home's value. If you do decide to use your house as a source of income when you retire, then you have two basic choices:

You can sell your home at the current market value. With the proceeds, you can invest and draw a monthly salary. This is probably only a good option if you are looking to downsize from a large or expensive home into something more modest. Even in that scenario, however, you should keep in mind that expenses related to renting or buying a new place to live could take a heavy bite out of the sale.

You can consider taking out a reverse mortgage (if you qualify). A reverse mortgage is a government-run program that allows homeowners to stay in their homes while accessing a portion of the value of their property. You can choose to receive a lump sum, monthly payments or open a line of credit based on available equity. The cash you receive can be used as you wish (whether to pay for daily expenses, make home improvements or whatever else). As long as you and your spouse are living and remain in the home, the reverse mortgage does not have to be repaid, so you are not at risk of losing your property. There are several downsides however. First, reverse mortgage loans are expensive, with relatively high closing costs and interest rates. Second, your heirs will not receive the full value of your home when you leave the property or die and they may be required to sell the home to repay the mortgage. While you are not required to make payments on a reverse mortgage during your lifetime, you are still responsible for homeowner's insurance and property taxes. Generally speaking, if you plan to stay in your home less than three years, the cost of a reverse mortgage may outweigh other more affordable options, including a home equity loan.

Using your home as a source of retirement income is a last-resort option and shouldn't be the cornerstone of your retirement plan if you still have time to change course and actively save for your retirement. Enlist the help of a financial advisor to assess your personal financial situation and take steps to aggressively save for the future. With regular contributions to a tax-advantaged retirement account, you can make steady progress toward your financial goals, especially when you have time on your side and can reap the benefits of compounding. Whether or not you eventually need to tap your home's value to make ends meet, your efforts to plan and manage your finances today will be a reward in itself and equip you with the information you need to take control of your financial future.

Nebraska 4-H program provides positive youth development

Allow me to introduce myself — I'm Jennifer Hansen the University of Nebraska - Lincoln Extension Educator located in Thurston County. I am a 4-H Youth Development Educator and I work with youth in a variety of formats including 4-H and school enrichment.

In Nebraska 4-H is open to any youth ages 5-19. Four "H" is one of the largest youth organizations in the United States with more than 7 million participants and more than 610,595 youth and adult volunteers working directly and indirectly with youth. Universally recognized by its four-leaf clover emblem, 4-H serves youth through a variety of methods including organized clubs, school-enrichment groups, special interest groups, individual study programs, camps, school-age child care programs, and instructional television programs. To date, more than 45 million people are 4-H alumni.

One of the many reasons that 4-H has been so successful is because it focuses on positive youth development. Positive youth development has been defined as a process which prepares young people to meet the challenges of adolescence and adulthood through a coordinated, progressive series of activities and experiences which help them to become socially morally, emotionally, physically, and cognitively competent. The Positive Youth Development approach builds upon what have become known as the "Five C's": competence, confident, connection, character and caring.

The following definitions for the 5 C's comes from "Waves of the Future: The First Five Years of the 4-H Study of Positive Youth Development" which was conducted by Tufts University. Competence: a positive view of one's actions in specific areas, including social, academic, cognitive, health, and vocational. Confidence: an internal sense of overall positive self-worth and self-efficacy. Connection: positive bonds with people and institutions that are reflected in exchanges between the individual and his/her peers, family, school and community in which both parties contribute to the relationship. Character: respect for societal and cultural norms possession of standards for correct behaviors, a sense of right and wrong, and integrity. Caring/Compassion: a sense of sympathy and empathy for others.

The 4-H program uses Positive Youth Development Principles to teach youth how to become competent, confident, connected, caring adults with character. These youth will one day be the leaders of our town, state and country.

Briefly Speaking

Minerva Club learns of local festivals

Hollis Frese hosted the Jan. 11, 2010 meeting of Minerva Club at the Wayne Senior Citizens Center.

President Phyllis Rahn called the meeting to order with a reading from Joan Burney's writing called "The Year the Bridge Club Got Snowed In." Thirteen members responded to roll call by sharing blizzard memories. Minutes of two previous meetings were read and approved. Correspondence was read and the treasurer's report was given by Donna Hansen.

Historian Hollis Frese's report was a listing of present members and the number of years as Minerva Club members. One inactive member has been a member for 46 years; others ranged from 4 to 26 years. After business was concluded, the meeting adjourned for the program.

In keeping with the year's theme, Hollis Frese presented a program on Midland Festivals, first giving an overview of all the festivals around the state and then narrowing to those in northeast Nebraska. Most of these celebrations are held in the summer months: June to September.

In June, Laurel celebrates Ag Days which began as Dairy Days. A parade, softball games, dunk tanks, various contests and an alumni banquet are held.

Wayne is noted for Chicken Days, celebrated annually on the second Saturday in July since 1981. Entertainment is varied: a parade, fireworks, musical attractions, an auction of decorated cement chickens, a chicken feed, a quilt show, fun runs, a chicken dance and numerous contests involving chickens and eggs. The chicken clucking contest has become famous nationally.

On the third Saturday of July, Carroll hosts a tractor pull. In its 23rd year, it brings in huge crowds and is a family operation for the Dennis Rhode family.

Balloon Days in Wakefield has been held each fall for the last six years.

Wisner is known for its livestock show, Thunder by the River (tractor and pickup pulls), and St. Patrick's Day activities.

Winside held its first Old Settlers Picnic in 1901 with musical entertainment, speakers, and automobile rides. It became an annual event in 1918 but was discontinued nine years ago.

Mrs. Frese had posters and pictures of these celebrations on display. She noted that on any given summer weekend, somewhere in Nebraska a festival of some kind is taking place.

Minerva Club will next meet on Monday, Jan. 25 at the Senior Center with Hallie Sherry as hostess.

Fifth Sunday Music Night scheduled

Last year the churches in the Wayne area began a "Fifth Sunday Music Night" which is about to enter its second year.

On Sunday, Jan. 31 at 2 p.m. at First United Methodist Church (located at Sixth and Main, here in Wayne), a community choir made up of singers from all over the region will present one of the great "standards" of Gospel Music, Alleluia -- a Praise Gathering by Bill and Gloria Gaither. Connie Webber (music director at First United Methodist Church) will be conducting the choir.

The entire community is invited to attend the concert as this historic musical is presented by choir members and soloists from several area churches.

Singers are invited to join in a rehearsal for this event. Practice will be on Wednesday, January 27 at 7:30 p.m. at First United Methodist Church. Music will be provided. Anyone interested can contact Connie Webber (e mail: cwebber1@wsc.edu) or Phil Pfaltzgraff (e mail: phpfalt1@wsc.edu) if you have any questions. OR you can just arrive and sing.

Refreshments will follow the presentation on Jan. 31.

"Don't miss Alleluia -- a Praise Gathering -- and don't miss this chance to sing together," Pfaltzgraff said.

Caution needed when using deicers

When the driveways and sidewalks turn icy, often one of the first things we do is lay down a bag of deicer. Be careful, though, as the wrong kind of deicer can damage grass, plants and shrubs.

Many deicers contain sodium, which can leach into soil and cause the damage. The addition of sodium to soil can destroy soil structure, resulting in reduced water infiltration and decreased plant health.

When the soil is well-drained, the salt can be leached out with irrigation or heavy rainfall. When soil is compacted, the salt will continue to accumulate and increase the severity of the problem.

While shopping for deicers, don't grab the first bag you see. Instead, read the label. Look for deicers that say on the label they are kind to landscapes. Those include deicers that contain calcium chloride or magnesium chloride.

Deicers laid down on a driveway usually won't cause a problem if they stay on the pavement. The problem arises when they get close to the edge of the driveway and sidewalks. Some of the deicer will inadvertently get onto the landscape.

Homeowners will see damage in the form of brown turf and burning foliage and brown leaves. Some turf and plants may not recover from the damage in the spring and replanting may be necessary.

Five chemicals are commonly used as deicing agents. Choose and use products wisely for de-icing and for the environment.

• Calcium magnesium acetate (CMA) is a salt-free melting agent made from dolomitic limestone and acetic acid. Studies have shown CMA has little impact on plants and animals.

• Sodium chloride or rock salt (NaCl the same as table salt) has little or no effect on concrete, but can damage soil structure, burn plants and corrode metal.

• Calcium chloride in weak solutions generally has little effect on concrete and soil, but does corrode metal. In concentrated solutions, it can damage plants, concrete, skin, and stain carpets and shoe leather.

• Urea won't chemically damage concrete, vegetation or metal, but has limited effectiveness in melting ice. If used as a deicer, lawns adjacent to pavement may grow excessively in spring which can lead to summer disease problems.

• Potassium chloride has a high salt index and does have potential to burn foliage and inhibit rooting.

Enjoying quieter week; tax time around the corner

Our choir finally presented that Christmas cantata at church, last night and this morning. It was amazing how much we retained after six weeks, and with only two rehearsals this week. But — those songs are going round and round in my brain again!

It's also amazing how much the snow has thawed and run off with the warmer temps. We are taking advantage as much as possible, before the next one hits. And the Old Farmer's Almanac claims there will be a next one.

I've been using this slow week to clean kitchen cupboards, so I'm feeling very righteous. It's amazing how much stuff you can put away if it's all done neatly. I also did throw some things out; I found a package of yeast that said it was outdated in '04, so I figured it wasn't going to make anything rise! And, I didn't feel so bad when Mary Jane Hansen informed me at Curves that day she had thrown one that said '02!

The Big Farmer has been helping the Nebraska women win basketball games, but he doesn't seem to have the same magic for the men.

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

We've been admiring Connie Yori since her days at Creighton; and she has an amazing group of gals this year, led by Kelsey Griffin. We are hoping to get to a game in person yet sometime this winter.

Meanwhile, I just had to share this from the internet. Mike has been working on taxes, and this seemed to fit right in:

A man owned a small farm in Alabama. The state wage and hour department claimed he was not paying proper wages to his help and sent an agent out to interview him.

"I need a list of your employees and how much you pay them," demanded the agent.

"Well," replied the farmer. "There's my hired hand who's been with me for three years. I pay him $600 a week plus free room and board.

"The cook has been here for 18 months, and I pay her $500 per week plus free room and board. Then there's the half-wit who works around 18 hours every day and does about 90 percent of all the work around here. He makes about $10 a week, pays his own room and board and I buy him a bottle of bourbon every Saturday night."

"That's the guy I want to talk to, the half-wit," says the agent.

"You're talking to him," replied the farmer.

Stay warm, and build a few snowmen while you still can!

High quality land still bringing top dollar

A recent report by the Federal Reserve Bank indicated farm land values have risen at their fastest pace since the 1970s, but following a crest in late 2008, values have since stabilized.

While this analysis focuses on all classes of land, real estate experts are seeing sales of high quality land exceed many sellers' expectations. Farmers National Company reports sales of some high quality land topping the expected price by as much as $2,000 per acre. Sales with lower quality land or recreational property have not fared as well in recent months.

"In a general sense, land prices for high quality land are stronger than they were nine months ago," said Lee Vermeer, AFM, vice president of real estate operations at Farmers National Company. "What our field staff is reporting is that high quality land in a good location is still bringing top dollar and in some cases beyond top dollar. On the flip side, lower quality land is down by as much as 15 percent and we are seeing very few sales in the recreational land category."

Vermeer says one factor driving prices is the lack of land available to purchase. Because of the profits farmers have been able to generate the past several years, their cash reserves have grown, allowing them to build upon their current land holdings. However, producers wanting to expand their operations are seeing very few opportunities to purchase. When a parcel does hit the market, bidding can be aggressive, pushing per acre prices upward.

"We look for the land market to continue its strength into 2010," Vermeer said. "Competition will remain heavy for high-quality land in almost all areas from both farmers and investors. It appears investment funds continue to remain bullish on commodities, keeping grain prices at profitable levels. Input costs have dropped significantly for 2010 increasing the opportunity for profit for most grain producers."

For more information on land listings in this region, visit the Farmers National Company website at www.farmersnational.com

Farmers National Company, an employee-owned company, is the nation's leading agricultural real estate and farm and ranch management company.

As 2009 drew to a close, the land market in Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and South Dakota continued in a positive direction according to Monty Meusch, area sales manager for Farmers National Company in Kansas, eastern Nebraska and western Iowa. "What drove prices in these areas was the number of bidders on hand when a property became available," Meusch said. "With active bidders in place, land sales often topped expectations. Buyers or investors were and are willing to pay a premium for top farms, while lower quality or hard to farm land is being discounted in the current market."

In his auctioneer role, Meusch is witness to land sales throughout the region where he sees high quality land going for top dollar. A recent land auction in Northwest Missouri saw a top quality 80-acre farm sell for $8,100 per acre - $2,000 more than predicted. The final two bidders on the property were local producers looking to expand their operations.

Meusch said active producers are those seeking land, however, as CD rates fell under 2 percent at the close of 2009, farmland is again gaining investor attention.

"Investors are looking to farmland and hoping for a return of 3 to 5 percent as a hedge against the weakened U.S. dollar and inflation," Meusch noted.

According to Meusch, quality farmland in western Iowa is selling at $4,000 to $6,000 per acre, while similar farms in Eastern Nebraska are selling between $3,500 and $6,500 per acre. Turning toward Kansas, farms in the "good quality" sector are selling for $2,000 to $4,000 per acre in Northeastern Kansas and $800 to $1,200 per acre in Western Kansas for dryland. Irrigated land in this same region goes for $2,500 per acre. Southeastern South Dakota's best farmland is selling in a range of $3,000 to $6,000 per acre.

"The demand for pasture and ranchland in many areas of the country has softened recently as cattle producers are pulling back due to the struggling cattle market the past 12 to 18 months," Meusch said. "However, most auctions of smaller tracts - 160 to 640 acres - still draw a number of active bidders with the final selling price well over historic prices of the past 20 years."

Livestock Market Report

The Nebraska Livestock Market conducted a fat cattle sale on Friday.

Prices were $3 to $4 higher on fat cattle. Cows were steady. There were 1,200 head sold.

We've saved this much so far.

By using load management technology to reduce electrical demand, Nebraska's rural public power districts (PPDs) and electric co-ops have saved the equivalent of at least one large new 500 megawatt power plant. At today's construction costs, that's nearly $750 million in savings.

And that is just one of dozens of steps we take quietly, behind the scenes, to hold the line on costs.

We build things right and take good care of them. We pool our resources and our buying power. We plan years ahead, set spending priorities carefully, and cut needless cost every chance we get.

We are not-for-profit and 100% owned by the customers. It's no accident that Nebraska's electric rates are among the lowest 10% in the nation. It's the result of hard work.

Radon is leading cause of lung cancer in nonsmokers

Governor proclaims January as Radon Action Month

Most people know that smoking is the leading cause of lung cancer, but they may not know that nonsmokers are also susceptible to the disease. Exposure to radon can lead to lung cancer, and it is the primary cause for nonsmokers. The Environmental Protection Agency estimates that approximately 21,000 lung cancer deaths per year are due to radon exposure.

Radon is a colorless, odorless, naturally occurring gas that originates in the soil and builds to dangerous levels in homes.

"In Nebraska, 50 percent of radon tests conducted yield elevated levels of radon. We clearly have a high incidence in our state," said Dr. Joann Schaefer, Chief Medical Officer and Director of the Division of Public Health in the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services.

For nonsmokers, the best way to reduce risk of lung cancer is to test for radon, and if levels are high, to mitigate the home. Winter months are the best time for Nebraskans to test for radon in their homes because during winter, homes are closed up and can trap the toxic gas, causing it to build to dangerous levels.

The Nebraska Radon Program offers low-cost radon test kits in an effort to encourage people to test their homes. Most homes with high levels of radon can be successfully treated using a standard radon mitigation system. The program provides technical assistance to those who have questions about the mitigation system. A list of trained professionals is available at the Nebraska Radon Program website: <http://www.dhhs.ne.gov/radon>.

To purchase a short-term radon test kit for $5, send a check or money order with name and mailing address to: Nebraska Radon Program, 301 Centennial Mall South, Lincoln, Neb. 68509.

To learn more about radon and the Nebraska Radon Program, visit the website at <http://www.dhhs.ne.gov/radon/>. For more information, call the Nebraska Radon Hotline at 1-800-334-9491 or contact your local health department which you can find at <http://www.dhhs.ne.gov/pub/oph/lhd.htm>.

Governor Dave Heineman has proclaimed January to be Radon Action Month.

"We appreciate the Governor's proclamation," Dr. Schaefer said. "It supports our goal of raising awareness and ultimately saving lives."
