Locals pay tribute as vets' monument opened

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

They came representing those who fought in places like Iraq, Vietnam, Korea and Europe.

Those that served, and those that went before them, were honored Sunday afternoon as the Wayne County Veterans Memorial was officially dedicated in front of a reporter-estimated 300 on the east lawn of the Wayne County Courthouse.

The names of about 3,000 veterans with connections to Wayne County were seen on a series of stone tablets that highlight the new memorial. Veterans names stretching as far back as the Civil War could be seen on the granite tablets, which highlight a project that was two years in the making.

Mark Ahmann served as the master of ceremonies for the event, and speaking as a veteran himself, he expressed pride in what the new memorial means for veterans in the area.

"This monument will preserve the memory of the bravery and sacrifice of our men and women in uniform," he said. "This memory is but a small token of our respect, appreciation and admiration for military service. Without our military, we would not be able to experience our freedom."

Members of the National Guard's 189th Transportation Company unit from Wayne, along with representatives of the American Legion posts throughout Wayne County, the Winside American Legion Auxiliary and the Sons of the American Legion, were on hand during Sunday's ceremony. The American Legion Riders were also on hand to honor area veterans during the ceremony.

State Sen. Mike Flood of Norfolk, the guest speaker at Sunday's event, said the veterans in Wayne County should take pride in the new memorial.

"A couple of years ago, I remembered the pride we all felt in the area when the 189th returned from their work in Iraq," he said. "There's a reason we can change leaders

Elementary school repairs could cost district $1.3 million

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

The Wayne Board of Education received some unsettling news Monday about the condition of its elementary and high school buildings.

John Carlson, representing the Omaha-based Carlson West Povondra Architects, presented a two-hour facility audit that included the status of a couple of Americans with Disabilities Act projects that will be completed at the high school this summer.

The bulk of the presentation, though, concerned building issues at the elementary school and high school that could require more than $1.5 million in repairs.

Drainage in the northwest part of the elementary school has been an issue, particularly in the aftermath of last winter's blizzards that left an abundance of snow that melted, creating leaking problems in the roof of the elementary school.

A number of ceiling tiles in the building are in dire need of replacement as a result of the leakage problems. The standing water has created some mold issues that will need to be addressed, Carlson said.

At the high school, the big issue is with some classroom windows where the sealant has deteriorated to the point that some window frames let air from the outside in, which presents a real challenge to keep classrooms at room temperature during the winter months.

A final report on what Carlson said the school should take a look at will be made at the board's Aug. 9 meeting, but initial projections presented at Monday's meeting show about $1.3 million in repair work at the elementary and another $380,000 at the high school.

Board members Rod Garwood and Ken Jorgensen both expressed concern that the elementary building's problems might be beyond repair.

"I re-did a house near the school, and the thing is, even when you remodel an old house, you still have an old house," Jorgensen said.

Carlson said there are some issues that, due to the building's age, aren't going to be resolved easily.

"You do have some severe roof issues that can be fixed," Carlson said. "The building, structurally, is sound. But it's a 1950's building with a low roof system and it's not real conducive for renovating and updating."

Garwood asked Carlson what a new building would cost, and while Carlson didn't have an exact figure, he said a new building would cost about $120 per square foot, assuming each student requires 150 square feet of space.

"Essentially, it looks like we could be spending $1.8 million to do everything, and we'll still be really short on space (at the elementary)," Garwood said.

The architects will be letting bids out for two projects at the high school, including a respite restroom and a training room in the lower level and renovating the family and consumer science classroom to bring those rooms up to ADA standards.

Superintendent Mark Lenihan said the work will be done during the school year, but will be coordinated to provide a minimal amount of interference with activities during the school day. He said the projects should be completed by the end of the Christmas holiday break.

In other action, the board:

- approved a contract with Sparkling Klean cleaning service to handle janitorial services as the elementary and middle school buildings at a cost of $2,649.70 per month for each building.

- approved Lenihan's request for the board to join the Nebraska Rural Community Schools Association. Annual dues will be $700.

- approved the hiring of Laverne Rogers to the kitchen staff.

Police investigate robbery, sexual assault incidents

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

Shortly before 1:30 a.m. Sunday, the Wayne Police Department responded to a report of an attempted robbery in the 300 block of Nebraska Street.

Two 24-year old men reported that they were accosted while walking down the street by a shirtless black male who tried to take their alcohol and demanded one turn over his wallet and money. The suspect allegedly chased the two men to a house and tried to push the door open to get in.

Officers quickly responded to the area and set up a perimeter. During the search of the area, officers located the suspect, who fled and was later taken into custody in a back yard in the 500 block of East

Seventh Street.

Thornton M. Chandler, age 20, was arrested for Criminal Attempt Robbery, two counts of 3rd Degree Assault, Obstructing an Officer, and Minor in Possession of Alcohol. Additionally, Chandler had an active Wayne County arrest warrant for failure to pay fine and costs from a previous Minor in Possession arrest. Chandler was jailed in the Thurston County Jail where he is awaiting the filing of formal charges in Wayne County Court.

In an unrelated case, the Wayne Police Department received a report of a sexual assault that had happened in the alley of the 100 block of West Third Street. The female victim alleged that she was sexually assaulted by a black male suspect shortly before 2 a.m. The investigation into this incident is continuing.

A new champion clucker

Pankoke reigns as National Cluck-Off champion

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Larry Pankoke grew up chasing chickens on his grandparents' farm near Beaver Crossing, Neb.

Saturday, all that time in the henhouse paid off as he was named the 2010 National Cluck-Off champion during Chicken Show activities in Bressler Park.

With a chicken beak strapped over his nose, the Lincoln resident cawed, cackled and scratched his way around the bandstand area in the park, beating a field of 31 would-be chicken impersonators to dethrone 11-time champion Del Hampton of Fort Smith, Ark., who was on hand to defend his title one last time.

"When I was a little kid, I lived at my grandparents' farm in Beaver Crossing, and I would always chase the roosters and hens around," he said. "That really upset my grandparents, but I really enjoyed the chickens, so I'd follow them around and started acting like them and talking like them, and they really responded to me."

Pankoke, who also has an interesting impersonation of a calf in his repertoire, had not heard of the National Cluck-Off competition held in Wayne until his friends suggested he take his chicken-clucking talents here to compete.

"I've done this for years, and my friends always said 'Why don't you go to Wayne's Chicken Days,'" he said. "I didn't think I was good enough. This is the first time I've won anything in my life."

Pankoke said he didn't scout anybody out ahead of time, and thought Hampton's last performance might be good enough for him to defend his title one last time.

"I was a little concerned because I thought maybe he would win because he was going for his 12th title," he said. "He was good, but I knocked him off and it's good to have a Nebraska champion at the Cluck-Off."

Pankoke said he would "definitely" be back next year to defend his title.

Waterfowl hunting dates will be set

A public hearing to set waterfowl hunting seasons will be conducted by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission's Board of Commissioners at its July 29 meeting in Lincoln.

The meeting begins at 8 a.m., with the public hearing scheduled for 9 a.m. Staff will provide information and present possible changes in waterfowl regulations at the meeting, which will be held at Game and Parks headquarters, and commissioners will receive public input.

Game and Parks staff is recommending no major changes to the 2010 seasons.

"Public input will be instrumental in determining final 2010-2011 waterfowl seasons," said Jim Douglas, Game and Parks' Wildlife Division administrator. "If individuals or organizations would like to provide input on possible changes to waterfowl seasons, they should provide testimony at the July 29 public hearing or provide written comments before that date."

Final information and allowable frameworks from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service are pending.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

By Lowell Johnson,
City Administrator

Council meeting

The next regular City Council meeting will be held Tuesday, July 20 at 5:30 p.m. in the city council room at 306 Pearl Street.

What About the Northeast Nebraska Investors Hotel Project?

Last year a local group of investors committed to build a 44 room motel with indoor pool east of the fire hall. The Planning Commission and City of Wayne approved a $350,000 Tax Increment Financing agreement that would allocate the incremental increase in new property taxes from the $3.2 million hotel to help provide street and utility access for the Hotel site.

In August the Planning Commission and the City Council will hold public meetings to reset the time schedule for the TIF agreement to allow for a fall 2010 start construction start.

Tomar Street will be extended south from the fire hall to the rugby fields as part of this project and will provide another street access to the Summer Sports Complex. At their last meeting, the city council approved opening the new section of Tomar Street to traffic this fall. A portion of the new Tomar Street will be paved and a portion will be built with asphalt millings from the airport runway repaving project this fall.

Next Year's City Budget

The city council has scheduled budget sessions on Aug. 10 at 6:30 p.m. and Aug. 17 after the regular council meeting to complete next year's budget. Our current budget is available on the city website under Quick Links.

Motorcycle madness

A large variety of motorcycles were on display at The Oaks on Monday evening. The gathering allowed the residents of The Oaks the opportunity to look at the bikes and talk to the owners and gave the bikers the chance to visit with each other and share biking stories. The motorcycle event was one in a series of activities at The Oaks designed to promote interaction between the residents of the facility and the community of Wayne.

Wayne County fair coming soon

The temperatures are in the 90's, the humidity is high and the corn is tasseling. It must be time for the 88th annual Wayne County Fair.

Members of the Wayne County Agricultural Society work year-around to produce each fair, from booking a carnival and entertainment to making improvements in the buildings and grounds on the fair grounds.

Highlighting this year's fair will be the Nebraska Bush Pullers tractor pull on Thursday, July 29; traditional free barbecue, comedian Herb Dixon and Chad Lee on Friday, July 30; Tracy Lawrence on Saturday, July 31 and the Gospel Road gospel trio and demolition derby on Sunday, Aug. 1.

A number of events that have become tradition, including the Loghoppers Chainsaw artist and the sale of chainsaw sculptures, a laser shooting exhibition and the presentation of a number of awards have also been scheduled.

A more in-depth look at some of these activities will be included in future editions of the Herald.

This new service became available on July 13, and is offered at no cost to library patrons.

Currently there are 166 titles available for checkout, each with a 21-day checkout period. The devices currently supported by Nebraska Overdrive eBooks are:

PCs and MACs, Barnes & Noble Nook, Kobo eReader, and a variety of Sony products: Reader Daily Edition, Reader Pocket Edition, Reader PRS-505, Reader PRS-700, and Reader Touch Edition. Please note that these eBooks do not currently interface with the Amazon Kindle.

As with the audiobooks, patrons will first set up an account with Nebraska Overdrive and make sure that they have Adobe Digital Editions loaded on their computer. Books can then be selected on the Nebraska Overdrive website and downloaded to a computer as the first step in transferring the information to a portable device.

To activate an eBook device using an Adobe ID:

1. Connect the eBook device to your computer.

2. Open Adobe Digital Editions. Adobe Digital Editions launches and detects the eBook device. The 'Device Setup Assistant' dialog box is displayed.

3. Click 'Authorize Device.'

Adobe Digital Editions activates the eBook device. You can now transfer DRM-protected Adobe eBooks to the device.

Note that both Adobe Digital Editions and the eBook device must be activated with the same Adobe ID to transfer DRM-protected Adobe eBooks to the device.

Special Olympics torch makes trip through Wayne Monday

Runners with the Special Olympics Torch Run were in Wayne on Monday and were part of a ceremony at Courthouse Veterans Memorial.

"The final leg team is comprised around 100 runners including law enforcement, a few WSC criminal justice students and select Special Olympians," said Dr. Jason Karsky, a Wayne State College faculty member who serves on the planning committee in addition to the Omaha Police Department, the Wayne Police Department, and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

During the ceremony at the courthouse, Mark Ahmann presented the history of the memorial, which was dedicated on July 11 and spoke of the Special Olympics.

Several speakers with the group gave updates on this year's event, scheduled to begin on July 18 in Lincoln.

The runners were presented with gifts from the city and Wayne Mayor Lois Shelton, Police Chief Lance Webster and Wayne County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen received Special Olympics medallions from the group.

without a single shot being fired, and it's something I think we sometimes take for granted . . . and that reason is in the people that are here today that answered the call and didn't hesitate, and served our country with honor and integrity.

"They came from the farms in Wayne County and from cities big and small," he added. "They left as ordinary men and women and developed into heroes for fighting for our country. We honor them, and their comrades whose graves we visit throughout the year."

Flood said the service of area veterans have left a legacy for the rest of us to follow.

"They left us a legacy of freedom, but more important, they taught the necessary values of freedom, taught our children the importance of work, sacrifice and virtue, and have taught us the love of our country. They have taught us what it means to be a citizen of the last, best, great country on this earth."

the judges to place him in the top three. Nick Wieman of Norfolk, who finished second and Clark Hunter of Fort Smith, Ark., was third.

Colling Chattom of Phoenix, Ariz., was the winner of the youth division of the National Cluck-Off. He beat out a field of about 20 younger competitors who presented their best chicken impersonations. Taking second was Beau Kellogg of Norfolk, while Mark Loehr of Omaha finished third.

From The Bleachers

No-parent zones for kid sports?

Now that The Bleacher Bum has experienced his first Chicken Show weekend, it's time to get a few sports items cleared out of the "Bits and Pieces" file:

From the "Today's evidence that parents should not be involved in their kids' athletic activities" folder: A 9-year-old baseball player in Pennsylvania was ejected from a game for throwing his batting helmet after being called out at third base.

The young man was met by his coach, who also happens to be his father, who struck his kid in the face – twice – after he returned to the dugout.

It's idiots like this that make me wonder if a no-parent zone should be instituted at some youth athletic events. Dingbats like this should not be anywhere near a position of influence with young kids if they behave in this manner.

And now, your "how could he be the last to know?" moment: Terrell Owens thinks the reason NFL teams aren't trying to sign him as a free agent is because . . .

. . . wait for it . . .
. . . he's a troublemaker.
NO WAY! Say it ain't so. That CAN'T be true.

I guess he's just have to fall back to his VH1 reality TV show until he gets called. Maybe the Omaha Beef could use his services . . .

Evidently, I was the only sports writer on the planet last week who didn't plan his Thursday night around "The Decision," the prime-time TV special where LeBron James announced he was leaving the Cleveland Cavaliers for the Miami Heat.

Funniest part about this exercise in self-promotion – after Cavaliers' owner Dan Gilbert expressed his outrage with James' departure, onetime civil rights leader Jesse Jackson felt the need to weigh in on the issue, comparing Gilbert's tirade to that of a slave driver.

If somebody could explain to me how a man working in deplorable conditions for no money and being subjected to harsh punishment is, somehow, the same as a man playing a game and making millions of dollars, I'd sure appreciate it.

A man known as "Jimmy Jump" tried to upstage the finals of the World Cup soccer championship by placing a hat on top of the World Cup trophy during a ceremony prior to Sunday's final between Spain and Netherlands. Fortunately, the idiot was corralled by stadium security and hauled off.

We learned Tuesday morning of the passing of one of sports' greatest personalities, George Steinbrenner.

Steinbrenner bought the New York Yankees in 1973, and anybody who grew up watching the game of baseball either loved or loathed the man who turned the Yankees into a brand name like no other in professional sports.

There is no gray area with the Yankees and Steinbrenner. You either loved them – and him – or loathed them. He turned the Yankees back into the behemoth that they were during their glory days in the early 20th century, when players like Ruth, Gehring, Dimaggio and Mantle carried them to the World Series title year after year.

Steinbrenner was a unique personality in the world of sports, the kind of personality we shall not see again in our lifetime.

If you're a fan of Wayne High sports (as, I'm guessing, the majority of those who read this newspaper are), you have probably complained, at one point in time, about the lighting in the gymnasium.

I can tell you that your complaints are about to be exterminated.

During Monday's school board meeting, superintendent Mark Lenihan and athletic director Rocky Ruhl showed off the new lighting in the gym, and I can safely say that you should have no problems dealing with dark spots in the gym anytime soon.

State junior golf tournaments at Wayne CC Lemek dominates girls field once again

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Danielle Lemek was feeling the pressure of defending her title as the state's top amateur girls golfer.

A birdie on the first hole Tuesday afternoon at Wayne County Club helped ease the tension, sending the defending champion to a 3-over par 75 on the second day to cruise to a six-shot win and claim her fourth straight state championship in amateur girls golf.

A two-time champion in match play competition, the junior-to-be at Doniphan High School put together the low round of the tournament, posting a 75 to finish with a two-day total of 155, six shots better than Jacqueline O'Doherty of Lincoln.

"It's awesome. Better than the first one," Lemek said of winning her second straight stroke-play title.

She teed off Tuesday afternoon with first-round co-leader McKayla Anderson of Fremont and O'Doherty, who recorded a hole-in-one on the first day on the 164-yard par 3 No. 8 hole. Lemek said she could feel the tension as she lined up her first tee shot.

"I just had to keep it steady, and once I got that first birdie, that got a little pressure off my chest," she said. "After that, I just told myself I couldn't be afraid to make mistakes and just go after it."

Lemek played well throughout the day, offsetting any troubles she had with three birdies on the back nine, including back-to-back birdies on the 15th and 16th holes.

Anderson, who was the last to tee off in the final group Tuesday, found tree trouble on her first two shots, which made it difficult for her to keep pace with Lemek. She ballooned to an 86 in the second round to finish sixth in the 40-girl field.

Two golfers from Northeast Nebraska finished in the top five. Morgan Smejkal of Columbus shot the only other sub-80 round of the tournament, carding a 79 on the second day to finish third at 163. Isabella Baldacci of Norfolk finished fifth with a 165.

The boys' amateur championship was to be decided Wednesday afternoon. Kansas recruit Bryce Brown of Lincoln carded a 3-under par 68 on the first day and followed that with an even-par 71 to maintain a three-shot lead over a group of three golfers who are at even par 142. Included in that group is Beemer golfer Richard Schneider, along with Collin Craft of Omaha and Rylee Reinertson of Gibbon.

Incoming freshman Mitchell Klooz of Plainview and Erik Krzyzanowski of Scottsbluff were tied for fifth at 143 heading into Wednesday's final round. A field of more than 120 golfers was whittled down to 45 for the final round.

Wayne CC hosts biggest field in tourney's history

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Wayne Country Club was buzzing with activity earlier this week, as it played host to the state boys and girls amateur stroke-play golf tournaments.

The Nebraska Golf Association conducts match-play and stroke-play tournaments for boy and girl golfers each summer. In recent years, they have combined both genders and held their respective tournaments on the same course at the same time.

This year, a record turnout of golfers had the course hopping from morning until early evening Monday and Tuesday, while the boys finished up their 54-hole tournament early Wednesday afternoon.

"The last several years, we've tried to keep the boys and girls together because it helps us, and we feel we can do both tournaments better if we're all in one place," Craig Aimes, executive director of the Nebraska Golf Association, said after the conclusion of the girls' tournament.

An ideal field, Ames said, is about 140 golfers combined. This year, though, a record turnout of 165 registered golfers had NGA officials working a little harder to make both tournaments run smoothly.

"This field kind of pressed us," he said. "An ideal field for us is in the 140's, so we had to tighten up the tee times a little bit, but it wasn't too bad."

Having a good host site helps out, and Ames praised the efforts of Troy Harder, head professional

Devils 10-under team takes fifth place in state tournament

The Wayne Dirt Devils 10-under softball team came away with a fifth-place finish out of 24 teams in the Class B state softball tournament held last weekend in Hastings.

The Devils won five straight games at one point in the tournament to put themselves in the hunt for a state title before ending their season with a close 6-5 loss to Falls City.

Wayne opened the tournament with an 8-2 win over the Rockets, led by two runs scored from Jacque Sherman.

Trailing 2-1, Wayne broke the game open in the third with four runs, highlighted by a single from Taylor Gamble and RBI walks by Jenna Trenhaile and Allison Claussen.

Ashten Gibson had a triple in the game and picked up the win on the mound, striking out 14 batters in the win.

The Devils suffered their first loss in the tournament to the host Hastings Crush, as the hosts came back from a 3-0 deficit to post a 5-4 win.

Wayne scored three in the first inning, highlighted by hits from Gibson, Jamie Gamble and Kennedy Maly. Wayne led 4-2 in the third when Jamie Gamble singled and scored on a Sherman groundout, but Hastings came back with three unanswered runs in the final three innings to pull out the win.

Wayne started its five-game winning streak with a 6-5 win over Meridian. Jamie Gamble singled and scored twice, including the winning run on an error in the fifth, and Gibson struck out the side and finished with nine strikeouts to keep Wayne's hopes alive. Taylor Gamble also had three hits and scored two runs in the win.

Wayne jumped on Lakeview early and made quick work in their elimination matchup, coming away with a 14-0 win.

Wayne scored five in the first and eight in the second to run away with the win. Everybody in the lineup scored at least one run, taking advantages of a number of walks and hit batters. Wayne had just five hits in the game, highlighted by a double from Taylor Gamble.

Wayne kept things going with an 11-2 win over Kearney DMilaco. Wayne scored four in the second and four more in the fourth to put the game away. Gibson and Jamie Gamble each had two hits, Maly had a triple and Sherman and Kiara Hochstein each scored two runs. Gibson got the win in the circle, striking out nine.

Wayne added another win Saturday with a 5-2 win over

Jake Lutt fired a complete-game win for the Wayne Ponies over Wakefield on Friday.

Ponies go to 13-1

The Wayne Ponies finished off the regular season Friday afternoon in Wayne, beating a pesky Wakefield nine, 6-1. The win gave the locals the South Division title of the Ralph Bishop League, as they head into this week's playoffs.

Jake Lutt went the distance for the Ponies, giving up just one run, scattering five hits, walking four, and striking out five in a very strong outing. Lutt was aided by a strong Pony defense, as Wayne turned a nice double play in the contest, and committed only two errors.

Kaje Maly and Luke Rethwisch led the hitters with two apiece and Grant Anderson, Curt Moeller, and Dylan Sokol each added one. The win gave the Ponies a final 13-1 regular season record, including 12-1 in league play.

The Wayne Ponies came away with a 16-1 win over Laurel on a beautiful Thursday evening in Wayne. Sokol and Matt Schrunck led the hitters with two each. Five different pitchers combined to limit Laurel to just three hits while walking two.

The Wayne Ponies drew the No. 2 seed of the 12-team Ralph Bishop League season-ending tourney, and were scheduled to play in Wayne Tuesday opposite the winner of the Norfolk Blaze and Ponca.

12-under Devils go 1-2 at state

The Class B state tournament started out well for the Wayne Dirt Devils 12-under softball team, but things quickly went the wrong direction as the team closed the season with a 1-2 effort at the tournament.

Wayne kicked off the tournament with a 7-2 win over Holdrege, breaking the game open with a three-run fifth inning to advance in the tournament.

Wayne scored two runs in the first inning as Hannah Belt and Danica Schaefer both reached base and came home on passed balls. They would add another run in the third when Kortney Keller reached on an error and scored on Schaefer's single, then make it 4-0 in the fourth on an RBI double by Nicole Craft, scoring Maddie Morris.

In the fifth inning, Shanda Lambert and Emily Matthes both were hit by a pitch with the bases loaded, bringing runs home, and a fielder's choice brought another run home to close out Wayne's scoring.

After that, the going got rough for the Dirt Devils. They dropped a 10-3 decision to Twin River, then bowed out of the tournament with a 13-4 loss to Creighton.

In the Twin River game, Wayne got on the board first with two runs in the first inning, as Belt and Rylee Bessmer both scored runs. But Twin River came back with seven runs in the third inning to take control of the game.

Wayne got a run in the third when Keller doubled and scored on Lambert's single, but that was all the runs Twin River would give up.

Wayne and Creighton traded two runs in the first inning of their losers' bracket game. Wayne scored on an RBI single by Keller and a groundout, and Wayne led 3-2 in the second when Craft reached base and scored on a single by Bessmer.

Creighton scored four in the fourth and five more in the sixth, and the loss knocked Wayne out of the tournament.

In league action Monday, the Devils dropped a 7-5 decision to West Point. Keller had two hits and scored two runs for Wayne, while Schaefer, Belt and Jade Bottger all scored runs. Bottger had a triple in the game to set up Wayne's second run.

Tourney

at Wayne Country Club, and the club's board of directors, some of whom were serving in a variety of volunteer capacities during the tournament.

"Troy has been really good about supporting junior golf, along with the board of directors at the club," Ames said. "This is a good, challenging course for juniors to play, and it seems like we're back here with something every five years or so. They're a great supporter of junior golf, and it's a great community to have this event in."

The tournament has grown considerably in recent years, thanks in part to a Junior Tour program that has about 600 boys and girls playing golf across the state. Some of the younger kids found themselves playing in the state meet here, and a few were even among the leaders.

"We've had kids as young as 11 or 12 play in this, and we have some 13 and 14-year-olds playing this year," Ames said. "Two of the guys on the leader board are incoming freshmen, and it's a good opportunity for these kids to get some experience with tournament competition."

"They're fun to watch, too," he added. "They're just fearless hitters, and they fire at everything."

Wildcats open 2010 on road

In just a few weeks, the Wayne State football team will begin preparation for the 2010 fall campaign.

The Wildcats will open the season on the road, playing in-state rival Nebraska-Kearney at Kearney on Saturday, Sept. 28.

After that, the Wildcats will face a tough Northern Sun Conference schedule, opening at home against Minnesota Crookston on Saturday, Sept. 11.

Wayne State will have five home games, finishing with a Saturday, Nov. 6 matchup against conference rival Augustana.

Legion teams fall in RBL; get ready for area tourneys

Both Wayne American Legion baseball teams bowed out in the semifinals of the Ralph Bishop League tournament last week, and coach Jeff Zeiss said both teams are geared up for the Class B, Area 5 tournaments that run the next two weeks.

The Juniors lead things off Thursday with an 11:30 matchup against Neligh in the tournament at Albion. Wayne is the No. 1 seed in the eight-team tournament, and will face either Valentine or O'Neill in the second round, win or lose.

The Seniors rescheduled a game with David City for Saturday, their final tune-up before they begin Area 5 tournament play in Aurora on Thursday, July 22. They are the No. 2 seed in the seven-team field and will face Neligh at 5 p.m.

The Juniors head into the area tournament with a 16-6 record after losing 7-5 to Pierce in the Ralph Bishop League semifinals last week. Wayne scored two runs in the fifth and two in the sixth to take a 5-4 lead, but Pierce used a hit batsman and a two-run double to score three in the top of the seventh and come away with the win.

"We had beat Pierce twice before, and it's tough to beat a team three times in a season," Zeiss said. "We gave up a hit batter with the bases loaded, then another kid got a double that brought two more runs home, and we couldn't get it back in the bottom of the seventh."

Joey Lenihan had three hits, including a pair of doubles, and two RBIs in the losing effort. Frank Bernal had two hits and scored three runs.

While it was disappointing to not win the league title, Zeiss said this team reminds him of the 2006 team that fell one game short of the league finals, but finished as state runners-up.

"Do we want to win the league? Absolutely," he said. "But the same thing happened in 2006, so there's a bigger picture for us to look at. Once (league) was over, our next goal is to play well in the area tournament, and I expect us to do that."

Zeiss said Wayne matches up well with their first-round opponent, but the rest of the field is going to present some challenges.

"Pierce and O'Neill have some nice teams, and Albion has two pitchers we didn't see earlier, so I expect to see a different team from them," he said. "It's going to be a tough road, and we're going to try to take care of Neligh first and take things one game at a time after that."

The Seniors played Wakefield tight for four innings, but Wakefield broke the game open with five in the fifth and three in the sixth to claim a 9-3 win.

"The kids played well coming off the Laurel game, and I knew we'd come ready to play," Zeiss said. "The kids battled well, but (A.J.) Bormann pitched a pretty good game for them."

Alex Onnen had two hits in a losing effort for the 12-7 Seniors, including a double and two RBIs. Derek Poutre had a double and scored a run, and also pitched well in a losing effort, allowing five hits and five walks in just over five innings of work.

The Seniors have the second seed in their tournament, a bracket that Zeiss feels is wide open.

"O'Neill is the class of the area, but after that the win numbers are very even and we got a good draw," he said.

Pitching is going to be the big question mark for the seniors. Poutre has been the workhorse for Wayne this summer, but Zeiss is concerned about putting too much pressure on his shoulder.

"Derek's shoulder has been bothering him, and I don't want to push him too much," Zeiss said. "We might have to go with Jacob (Zeiss) or Zac (Braun), and we'll need those guys to step it up."

Gibson had a double in the win and Maly had two hits, including a triple. Trenhaile also had a double, and Gibson had 11 strikeouts and allowed two hits in a great pitching performance.
The Devils kept things going Sunday with a 3-1 win over the Gretna Storm. The game was tied 1-1 in the sixth before Wayne scored two runs, using singles by Trenhaile and Natlie Muren to break the tie and keep Wayne in the tournament.
Gibson pitched a great game against Gretna, allowing no hits while striking out 12. She walked five batters, one of whom came home on an error to tie the game in the third.
The season came to an end with a loss to Falls City, but the Dirt Devils didn't go down quietly.
Wayne trailed 5-1 after two innings, but tied the game with four runs in the third inning. Three straight singles by Gibson, Jamie Gamble and Maly were followed by bases-loaded walks to Trenhaile and Hochstein, and another run scored on a Falls City miscue to tie the game.
It was a defensive battle after that, but Falls City broke through with a two-out single in the fifth to take the lead. Wayne went down in order in the bottom of the fifth to end the game and the team's hopes for a state title.

Wingin' It In Wayne For 30 Years

(Clockwise from above left) The parade had a wide variety of entries, with more than 160 visuals for residents to enjoy. Catching an egg takes a lot of concentration, as these young ladies showed. Emcee Eric Smith gave the sign for fans to pick the best chicken legs on a human. Jonah Broderson won the contest for the best chicken hat, but Rhonda Matsen got points for creativity with a hat decorated with actual chicken wings. You need to keep your eye on the egg during egg drop. Members of the 189th Transportation Unit of the National Guard helped lead Saturday's parade. Bikers geared up for their poker run Sunday at the airport. The tension was thick as contestants prepared for the wing-eating contest Friday evening. Old tractors made their way along the parade route Saturday during the Chicken Show Parade in downtown Wayne.

Winside biology students tour Blackhills and western Nebraska

Five Winside students, Ethan Thies, Jaret Harmer, Cody Wylie, Audrey Roberts, and Deserah Janke, along with instructors Paul Sok and Mark Koch recently completed a five day tour out west.

The group departed Winside High School in the school vans. First stop for the day was at a historic sodhouse, homestead outside of the Badlands. The group had a chance to view the internal dwelling, farm buildings and some white prairie dogs native to the area.

The homestead was developed by three families from Pierce County in the late 1800's. Next, the group entered the Badlands National Monument east of Wall, South Dakota. They had a chance to hike around and take pictures of the scenic, eroded landscape and view some of the native wildlife before heading off to Wall. In Wall, the group toured the Wounded Knee Memorial Museum and viewed a variety of historical documents and photographs dedicated to the memory of those who perished at Wounded Knee in the late 1800's.

It was then off to Rapid City. Shortly after arriving in Rapid City, the students were engaged in a film presentation and guided tour of the Journey Center. Jim Minor, a local native American offered them an historical outlook of the Blackhills region. Next, the group toured the Blackhills School of Mines geology museum to view various fossils and crystals along with having the opportunity to see replicas of the worlds largest gold nuggets and a number of fluorescent mineral displays.

After this, the group headed south of Rapid City to the world famous Reptile Gardens. Here the students viewed a number of exhibits and were able to take in the snake show. Due to a series of three rainstorms, the group had to engage in an early evening viewing of Mt. Rushmore and did not get to see the night-lighting ceremony.

Tuesday came and it was another early start for the group as they tried a little gold panning at Wade's Historic Gold Mill near Hill City. Host, Robert Wade and his cousin Jim Wade, gave a guided historical tour of old mining equipment and allowed them to view his own mining operation.

Later on, the tour was completed as they instructed the group in the art of gold panning. Everyone collected numerous samples of garnet crystals but no one had any luck finding a bit of gold after the demo. After the panning expedition, the group visited the Blackhills Institute of Geological Research in Hill City. They had the opportunity to view several examples of T. rex fossils. The museum owners (brothers Neal and Pete Larson) are world famous for their discovery of the near complete T. rex fossils "Sue and Stan" in the early 90's.

The students were fortunate to have chief curator, Blanche Farrar gave a tour and explain the inner workings of the business of paleontology. Next was a stop near Custer at the Crazy Horse Memorial. The students watched an informative video about the construction process and then were able to take a bus tour to the base of the memorial. Mr. Clive Dennis then directed the group to the artist section of the museum where they had an opportunity to talk to and view a couple of native artists in action. The afternoon was then spent touring the Custer State Park area. The students saw a variety of wildlife and hiked up to the Rankin Fire Tower.

While at the tower, the group had a chance to view a herd of about thirty adult elk. Then it was off to the Custer Park General Store where they met Lane Kendrick, an Oklahoma artist who spends much of the summer in the Blackhills painting on a variety of media. Before the students left, she offered them one of her prints. This was followed up with a drive through the Needles and Cathedral Spires region.

The three guys then took a swim in the frigid waters of Sylvan Lake, before all of the students took a short hike around the area. The group then had a sit down meal at the Bavarian Inn before closing down for the evening.

Wednesday morning was another early start with a short hike in the Jewel Cave park and a guided tour of Jewel Cave. This was followed up with a hike to the original, natural cave entrance west of the park facilities.

The class then took a short walk through the Gordon Stockade Fort outside of Custer State Park. This was one of the first army forts in the the Blackhills region. After this, the group had a noon meal at historic Blue Bell Lodge and then proceeded to Wind Cave National Park. The Winside students and instructors then participated in a walking tour of Wind Cave.

After this the students took a guided tour of the Mammoth Site on the south end of Hot Springs. They were able to see several mammoth skeletons and a mockup of a primitive, native dwelling. Wednesday activities were concluded with a trip to Evan's Plunge and an hour long swim before finishing the day off with a pizza party.

Thursday was off for some more adventure as the group hit scenic Cascade Falls south of Hot Springs. This was followed with a guided hike of Toadstool Park with park ranger Leann LeGrange. She then concluded with a guided tour of the Hudson-Meng Bison Kill Site just south of Toadstool Park.

It was then time for a trip through the Pine Ridge area which finished up with a drive through of Fort Robinson near Crawford and Chadron State College in nearby Chadron. After a noon meal, the class then headed east over to the North American Museum of Fur Trade for a video presentation and walk through tour/scavenger hunt of the historic fur trading post. Museum curator, Gail Dubois then gave a guided tour of site.

The afternoon concluded with a tour of the Bowring Ranch north of Merriman and BBQ meal by the ranch operator Diane Burress before heading off to Valentine. While in Valentine the group stayed at the Raine's Motel where the students were entertained with a bonfire and fresh cooked trout that Mr. Koch and Mr. Sok caught at five o'clock that morning.

The final day started out with a quick drive down to Snake Falls on the Niobrara river and then continued north and east of Valentine for a hike around the Ft. Falls area near the Niobrara River. While at Ft. Niobrara Park, ranger Steve Hicks gave a brief talk concerning bison genetics at the park and throughout the United States. After the discussion, the class proceeded on a park drive through to view the wildlife in the area.

The Winside students then concluded the trip with a guided tour of the Ashfall Fossil Beds by Sandy Mosel. While at the "Rhino Barn" they had an opportunity to see Dr. Voorhies (discoverer of the site) in action.

"The group is especially thankful to Gardner Foundation and Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District for funding the majority of the trip. The group would also like to thank the Winside Board of Education and Administration for the use of the school van," Sok said.

This is the 14th consecutive summer trip that Paul Sok has lead to the Blackhills and Western Nebraska.

DORCAS SOCIETY

The Dorcas Society of Peace United Church of Christ met at the church basement on July 1.

Co-president Shirley Mann presided. She opened the meeting with a poem by Helen Steiner Rice entitled "Thank God for Little Things." She offered the opening prayer.

Shirley, who was hostess, chose "America the Beautiful" as her favorite hymn.

The treasurer's report was given and accepted. Cards were sent.

The meeting closed with The Lord's Prayer. The Bible study was on the Widow of Zapheth.

The next meeting will be on Thursday, Aug. 5 with Geri Benton as hostess and Mrs. Brown as Bible lesson leader.

SCHOOL REUNION

The Hoskins School Reunion was held at the Community Center on July 3 at 4 p.m. The meal, catered by Dee Rathjen, was served at 6 p.m.

There were 87 people present from Colorado, Missouri, California, Minnesota and Nebraska.

Master of ceremonies was Bob Fletcher. Shirley Mann welcomed the group. The invocation was given by Richard Behmer.

Comments were made by Edith Pivenitzky Stalnaker from the Class of 1942; Dwight (Shorty) Bruggeman from the Class of 1951; Phil Schenrich from the Class of 1955 and Gene Acklie from the Class of 1958.

Classes were held at the school from 1924 until 1961. Frances Walker, a member of the Class of 1939, was the oldest present.

There was a drawing for prizes. Ramona Puls led the group in singing "The Golden Years."

VISITORS

Jean Buelter of St. Louis, Mo. and daughter, Barb Thayer and children from Wilson, N.C., visited in the Fenske and Rechtermann homes on July 9.

Jean is Esther Rechtermann's and Hildegard Fenske's sister-in-law.

The visitors also did some sight-seeing in the area.

They headed back to St. Louis on July 10.

Seventh grade: Timothy Anderson, Ryan Bodlak, Alexander Conley, Hope Golver, Tamber Hingst, Taryn Hingst, Hannah Lorenzen, Emily Puls, Isaias Ramirez, Ted Randal, Brianna Samuelson, Stephanie Urbina and Riley Zamzow.

Earning honorable mention for the quarter were freshman Shelby Lierman; eighth grader Kristyna Muller and seventh graders Hannah Borg, Brandi Brickey and Nicolas Gonzalez.

Efforts recognized

Pat Jenkins-Rhode recently received the Outstanding Retired Educator Award from the Wayne Kiwanis Club. Making the presentation was Kiwanis Club President Josh Hopkins.

Poehlman attends nutrition conference

"Share the Key to Healthy Child Nutrition" was the theme of the Nebraska School Nutrition Association's 53rd Annual State Conference held in Kearney at the Holiday Inn June 27-June 30.

Attending the conference was July Poehlman of the Wayne Public Schools.

Paul De Lucca, School Nutrition Association - Midwest Regional Director installed the new state officers.

They include: Gaylene Glenn of Kearney, president; Dondi Kilgore of Lincoln, president-elect; Judy Poehlman of Wayne, vice president; Sheri Wetzel of Grand Island, secretary and Mary Goebel of Franklin, treasurer.

Approximately 275 people attended the workshops consisting of interpersonal skills and leadership training. Some of the session included Healthy Edge, communication skills, food safety updates, what's new in school lunches, how to develop purchasing goals and objectives.

Josh Hingst, Sports Nutritionist, UN-L was a General Session

speaker with his topic of "Complete Nutrition for the Student Athlete." His presentation was then followed with an educational session entitled "Sports Nutrition in a Food Service Operation." "Mindless Eating: Why kids eat more than they should" was a General Session topic presented by Alice Henemann, UN-L Extension Educator. This was followed by an educational session entitled "Helping kids eat healthier doesn't have to be THAT hard." Other general session topics were "America's Move to Raise a Healthier Generation of Kids" and "Believe."

"Cooking 101 with Chef Tony Foster" and "Jazzin Up Scool Lunch" were presented by Banquet Chef Tony Foster and Executive Chef Carlos Poche.

Educational sessions were presented by the Department of Education/Nutrition Services, Food Distribution Program and Department of Health and Human Services. A food vendor show consisting of 75 booths show-cased products available for the coming school year.

Special Olympics provides free health screenings, care to athletes with intellectual disabilities

Expecting to provide approximately 5000 free health screenings as well as follow-up care like dental work and prescription eyeglasses to those in need, Special Olympics' Healthy Athletes initiative will be available to Special Olympics athletes July 19-23 during the USA National Games in Lincoln. Screenings will be given in six different health areas (vision, hearing, dental health, healthy lifestyles, general fitness and foot care).

"We are extremely proud to be able to bring our Healthy Athletes program to Nebraska," said Dr. Timothy Shriver, Chairman and CEO for Special Olympics. "With more than 1,000,000 free health screenings provided worldwide since its launch in 1997, Healthy Athletes represents the largest public health initiative that focuses on people with intellectual disabilities."

In addition to screenings, Healthy Athletes also provides eyeglasses, sunglasses, hearing aids, mouthguards and other free items to athletes who attend. Thanks to partnerships with local organizations, other services and products not normally included in Healthy Athletes will also be available in Lincoln.

The Nebraska Dental Association will be providing a range of dental services, from cleanings to tooth extractions, to athletes in need free of charge.

M.A.D. DADS of Lincoln will give 150 bicycles to children with intellectual disabilities from Nebraska who are participating in the Special Olympics Young Athletes and Healthy Young Athletes program on Monday, July 19, 11:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. The health portion of the program includes vision, hearing, and dental screenings, as well as health education (including helmet use and bike safety) for athletes aged 2-7.

Rocky Mountain Sunscreen from Arvada, Colo. provided sunscreen for Healthy Athletes to give away at the "Sun Safety on the Field" table at the Abbott Sports Complex from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m., July 21-22. Health experts will also provide tips for hydration and sun safety.

All Healthy Athletes activities are open to members of the media. Screenings will take place from 2-9 p.m., July 19-22; and 10 a.m. - 2 p.m., Friday, July 23 in Pershing Hall, lower level, in Lincoln. All Special Olympics Nebraska athletes are invited to attend Healthy Athletes, regardless of whether they are competing in the Games.

The need for Healthy Athletes is great. Despite a mistaken belief that people with intellectual disabilities receive the same or better health care than others, they typically receive sub-standard care or virtually no health care at all. Special Olympics has shown that many health concerns are more common and significant for people with intellectual disabilities. Among Special Olympics athletes in the United States, 29 percent have obvious, untreated tooth decay; 27.8 percent fail hearing tests; 22 percent have low bone density; and 16.0 percent have eye disease.

Flag flying shows pride, distress with our nation

Sunday afternoon, I watched with pride as local veterans raised the American flag high above the newly-dedicated Wayne County Veterans Memorial at the courthouse.

The night before, I read a story about a Michigan optometrist who was flying his American flag upside down in front of his office during the Fourth of July weekend.

Both flags are – in my opinion – being flown correctly.

Here in Wayne, the flag flew high and proud over the new memorial, which includes the names of almost 3,000 local residents, and those with local ties, who have served this great nation in the Armed Forces.

The flag outside Dr. Thomas Byrd's office in Downriver, Mich., was flying high over his office, but symbolizing a different situation entirely – one that, if you think about it, is an accurate assessment of the state of our nation today.

The U.S. flag code states that the flag of the United States should only be flown upside down as a signal of dire distress, including the extreme danger of life and property.

Our nation is in distress right now, even as we continue to live our daily lives with the freedoms that those 3,000 people whose names grace the Wayne County memorial gave their lives for.

But, when I take a look at what is going on in the halls of Congress these days, and see how our freedoms are dying a slow, ugly death because of the acts of those who "represent" us in Washington, I begin to ask myself: is this the America those men and women in the military were fighting for?

I'm not placing the blame entirely on the current regime. Granted, King Obama has done a number of things in 18 short months that have taken this nation down a very slippery slope. He is driving us deeper in debt ($11 trillion and counting as you read this), and there is not enough space to discuss the incompetence of his administration, the left-wing lunatics who drive his socialist agenda in the House and Senate and the right-wing idiots who spend more time telling us how bad his policies are than they do providing alternative solutions (conveniently forgetting the fact that it was their greed and overspending during the Bush regime that got us going down this road to begin with).

Our nation is sorely lacking in the kind of leadership that made our nation the great beacon of freedom that it has been for more than two centuries. Can you name one person in Congress who is not, in some way, either morally corrupt or so tethered to his (or her) political leanings that they are incapable of working for anything, outside of their own political party, that would make America better?

I hate seeing our flag of these great United States flying anywhere other than at full staff. The flag has been lowered to half-staff far too many times in recent memory. Certain political leaders who have passed on, in my opinion, are not deserving of the honor. The only people deserving of the honor are those men and women who put their lives on the line for our nation.

With the incompetence and corruption taking place in Washington, those who fly the flag upside down as a sign of our nation's distress do have a point – a point that should have us asking ourselves whether or not the United States of America that 3,000 Wayne County veterans – and millions others – have fought for over this nation's proud history is the same one we live in today.

A sad state for the Democrats

By ED HOWARD
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN – Laughable but nonetheless sad.

Such is the state of things for the Democratic Party in Nebraska.

For all his sincerity, University of Nebraska Regent Chuck Hassebrook brought a smile (a smirk, if truth be told) to this corner when he recently talked about his party's woebegone situation in regards to what has become a non-race for the governorship.

Democrat Mark Lakers had put an end to his inept, ill-conceived, bunglesome campaign in the face of some embarrassing screw ups, having mostly to do with reporting his campaign's wishful fundraising efforts as fact. Totally unprepared for the rigors of a statewide political battle, Lakers suffered the sort of bloodletting one might associate with hemophiliacs who take up sword swallowing. The damage was internal and self-inflicted.

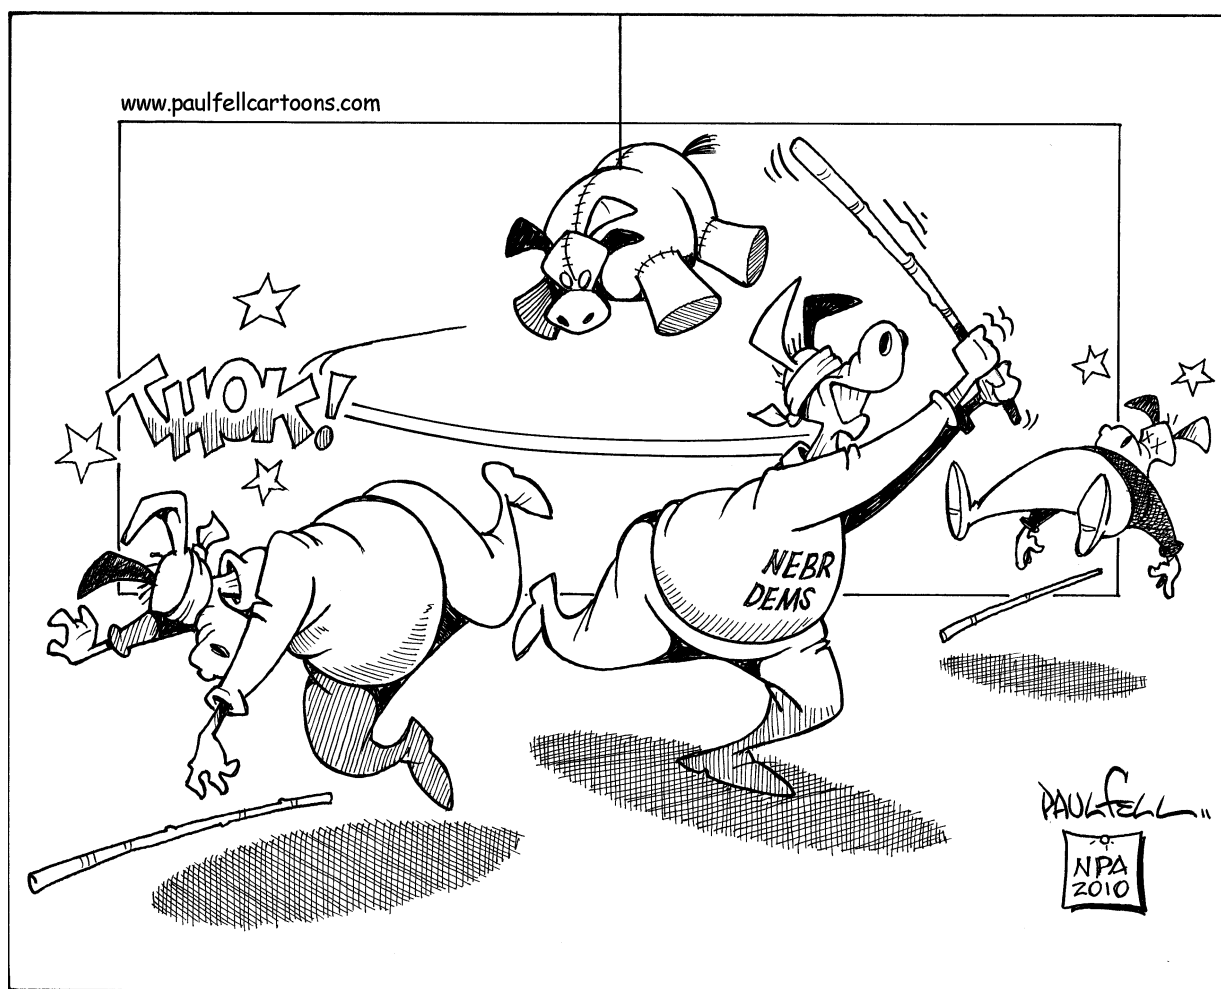

Thus did incumbent Republican Gov. Dave Heineman find himself in a position making the proverbial cat bird seat look like a cubbyhole in the steerage compartment of a tramp steamer. "Sitting pretty" doesn't come close to doing justice to Heineman's seating arrangement.

Who, if anyone, would come forward to take up the Democratic standard? Who would be willing to run around the state for about three months, trying to make a case against a popular Republican governor, with better than $1 million in his campaign bank, in an overwhelmingly Republican state?

Enter Hassebrook, who said he had no intention of entering the race because it "would not be a great time for me to run." Understandable. Insightful.

Then he told a reporter that he didn't regard an upset victory over Heineman, by someone, as impossible. Hassebrook said it would be extraordinarily difficult "although stranger things have happened."

Quick: What things would those be, Chuck?

Where state offices are concerned, the two-party system may be devolving into little more than a two-party concept. There's a difference.

Social Security And Defense As State Issues

Debate over funding Social Security is naturally centered in Washington. It doesn't light a real fire under the old folks back home until headlines begin proclaiming that some potential change is at hand, whether in benefits or tax rates.

Note the reference to the "old folks." Those are the folks who regularly vote in the greatest numbers. Politically, it has long been regarded as safer to pull on Superman's cape than to truly threaten the old folks with reductions in the Social Security benefits for which they have been paying taxes throughout their working lives.

However, it has become obvious (if you read your newspapers) that a good number of Democrats and Republicans are warming to the idea of reducing benefits, and/or increasing the retirement age, for those who are not close to retirement. That's another way of saying it would probably be politically more expedient to reduce future benefits for people who aren't yet old enough to have such things in the forefront of their consciousness, especially when they go to the polls.

Given that Social Security remains sacrosanct in the minds of many Americans, including some in the House and the Senate, any proposals to seriously reduce benefits will be met with counterproposals for reducing spending elsewhere – such as in the defense industry, where billions are counted in the hundreds when it comes to all manner of programs.

Put yourself in a politician's shoes, looking at the 2012 elections. One way and another, the issues are economic. Jobs, of course. And constituents yammering about cutting the deficit – but not in such a way as to cause them pain. There are the risks to supporting cuts in Social Security. There are the risks to supporting cuts in defense spending, even though the U.S. defense budget exceeds the size of the world's other major nations, combined.

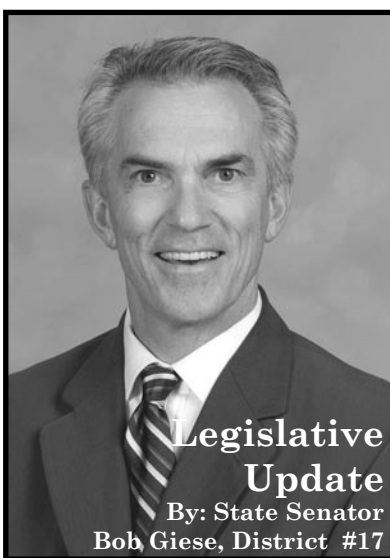

When the federal scalpel is perceived as actually getting close to Social Security, and when cuts in defense spending are understood to mean the loss of jobs in some states, the issues no longer seem removed to the nation's Capitol. They become as localized as property taxes and aid to public schools.

DHHS decision could present problems

Greetings from the Unicameral! Over the past few weeks, many concerned Nebraskans have contacted my office regarding a recent decision by the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS).

For more than 20 years, residents of District 17 with developmental disabilities have been able to take advantage of programs and services offered just across the river in neighboring states. Facilities like Ability Building Services (ABS) in Yankton, S.D., and Goodwill Industries in Sioux City, Iowa have long provided jobs and other socialization opportunities to developmentally disabled Nebraskans, but were recently informed by DHHS that their provider agreements would not be renewed unless they offered these same services within the borders of Nebraska.

While DHHS has expressed their commitment to transitioning those receiving services through Goodwill and ABS to in-state providers, many of the services available in Yankton and Sioux City are unavailable anywhere in Northeast Nebraska. Most area service providers are "facility free," meaning that they must rely on local businesses to provide jobs for their clients.

Legislative Update
By: State Senator
Bob Giese, District #17

In contrast, both Goodwill and ABS have a central location where individuals can come to work, make friends and truly thrive in a supportive atmosphere. Even if comparable services can be found in Northeast Nebraska, I worry that in-state facilities will be unable to handle a sudden influx of clients.

On June 24, I shared my concerns about the decision not to renew current provider agreements in a letter to DHHS Chief Executive Officer Kerry Winterer, Gov. Dave Heineman, and officials with the Division of Developmental Disabilities. This week, I will be meeting with DHHS officials to express my ongoing opposition to this policy change, and to seek any possible solutions that would maintain existing services at Goodwill and ABS.

If this decision is allowed to stand, services through Goodwill will be cut off on Aug. 30, and services through ABS will be cut off on Oct. 23. I urge District 17 residents that are concerned about this issue to e-mail me or call my office at the number listed below, and also to share your concerns with Gov. Heineman and Winterer.

Nebraska has history with wind energy

By Gov. Dave Heineman

Nebraska has a rich history with wind energy. Nebraskans have been pioneering wind energy since the late 1800s when homesteaders settled the rugged prairie landscape by harnessing the wind to pump water for their homes and livestock. Thousands of windmills still decorate the rolling hills of Nebraska's rangelands and stand in testimony to the legacy of wind energy in Nebraska.

Windmills and other agricultural innovations helped build thriving communities and a strong economy in Nebraska. These early pioneering efforts have now grown businesses in many communities throughout Nebraska, including Beatrice, Valley, Columbus, Alda, and many others.

Nebraskans are once again looking to harness the wind in order to revitalize our communities, protect our natural resources and build a better future for generations of Nebraskans to come. Nebraskans are looking to the state's wind energy potential and so too is the world. International companies such as Katana Summit in Columbus are fostering new employment opportunities and inspiring new generations to call Nebraska home.

Nebraskans are committed to clean energy and energy independence. In April, the Nebraska Legislature passed LB1048 without any opposition to encourage the development, ownership and operation of renewable energy facilities for exporting wind energy from Nebraska. The legislation preserves the benefits of Nebraska's unique public power system and the rights of private landowners.

Today, Nebraska has 73 operational wind turbines at five sites with a total capacity of 152 megawatts, enough to power about 46,500 homes. Two public power utilities, Nebraska Public Power District and Omaha Public Power District, have set goals to increase their use of renewable energy to 10 percent by 2020.

By 2014, Nebraska Public Power District plans to develop or purchase more than 260 Megawatts of wind energy. Nebraskans will have 80 Megawatts of this energy come online soon at Laredo Ridge near Petersburg and another 80 Megawatts in 2012 near Broken Bow. NPPD is seeking bids on an additional 100 Megawatts to be developed between 2012 and 2014.

Omaha Public Power District is planning to develop or purchase more than 100 Megawatts over the next couple of years. OPPD has agreed to purchase up to 40 Megawatts from the Petersburg wind farm. In the coming months, construction will begin in Richardson County on the 60 Megawatt Flatwater Wind Farm.

Wind energy has a bright future in Nebraska. These developments and future ones reflect Nebraska's commitment to clean energy, energy independence, rural economic development and the Good Life for all Nebraskans.

Deadline approaching to register for Nebraska Energy Fair

Over 500 attendees are expected to participate in Nebraska's Renewable Energy Fair. The event will be held July 23 and 24 in Lyons.

"Along with learning about ways to conserve energy and save money, the renewable energy fair will be a great opportunity for people to learn how rural communities can build on unique assets such as at the 2010 Nebraska Leadership Seminar at Doane College June 17 - 20.

Peterson is a junior and is involved with golf and band, and volunteers for many church activities. She is the daughter of Kevin and Shannon Peterson of Wayne.

Nebraska Leadership Seminars, Inc., (NLS) is a statewide leadership organization teaching students to lead with their strengths. Each summer, the organization hosts a four-day seminar for high school juniors from around the state to challenge, empower and inspire them to become the leaders Nebraska needs. Since its founding in 1978, more than 6,000 students from 300 school districts have successfully completed the seminar.

Locals help with Torch run as it passes through Wayne

Kevin Wiese and Jason Karsky were among those who helped with details prior to the Special Olympics Torch Run that passed through Wayne on July 12.

Wiese helped coordinate details and Karsky served on the planning committee for the Final Leg tradition for law enforcement officers and Special Olympics athletes, representing their state and Torch Run/Special Olympics Program, to act as Guardians of the Flame® and carry the Special Olympics torch and flame to the Opening Ceremonies of the Special Olympics USA National Games.

This Torch Run event is called the Final Leg because it represents the culmination of Law Enforcement Torch Run (LETR) events that have occurred previously throughout the United States in 2010. The LETR Final Leg is not only a salute to the athletes from around the United States who will participate in the Final Leg and compete in the Special Olympics USA National Games, but also an honor for the participating law enforcement officers who comprise the Torch Run Final Leg Team.

Bill Seifert

Seifert joins KTCH Radio

Veteran sportscaster Bill Seifert has joined the staff of KTCH and KCTY Radio in Wayne.

Seifert, who spent 20 years as News and Sports Director at KNEN in Norfolk began his duties this week in a similar capacity at the Wayne stations. He will produce and broadcast local and area news, local sports news and play-by-play of local area teams. Seifert brings a wealth of experience to KTCH and KCTY, having been recognized with over 50 awards for broadcast excellence for reporting in News, Sports, Agriculture, Feature Items and other broadcast categories from several news organization's including three Mark Twain awards from the Associated Press.

Long time KTCH air personality Mark Ahmann has been filling in doing local sports. Ahmann will continue his daily "View From Wayne America" feature and continue to assist with some play-by-play.

Dave Kelly, station owner and general manager said, "we are thrilled to have Bill Seifert as part of our broadcast team. His familiarity with northeast Nebraska, coupled with his skills as a news reporter and sports broadcaster brings us a depth in personnel that we've been looking for. I hope the community will welcome him to KTCH and KCTY."

wind power and biofuels to create jobs and economic opportunities that help build a better future for everyone in our communities," said Chuck Hassebrook, Center for Rural Affairs Executive Director.

According to Hassebrook, renewable energy is a way to bring in good paying, knowledge based jobs that will help attract a new generation of families to our rural communities.

The energy fair will be a great place for community developers to learn how wind power, biofuels, energy efficiency and other related industries can play a crucial role in their community's development efforts.

The two day fair will begin with a bus tour on Friday, July 23 that will run from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Participants can observe renewable energy practices in action such as: on-farm alcohol plant, see biodiesel being made at the Nebraska Screw Press, tour the Renewable Energy Farm (a functioning integrated energy demonstration project that has been operating off grid over six years), solar installation and wind turbines on the Winnebago reservation, a laundromat utilizing a commercial solar hot water heating system, a commercial methane digester, and sustainable farming methods in action.

Seating is limited for the bus tour. To ensure a seat, register no later than July 16 by visiting: www.cfra.org/files/energy-fair-bus-tour.pdf.

Saturday, July 24 features breakout sessions and exhibits throughout the day from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Tracks include Policy and Support, Small Wind, Big Wind, Conservation and Alternatives, Solar and Biomass. Attendees will learn about energy conservation, small and utility-scale wind projects, USDA programs and funding opportunities for energy efficiency and renewable energy systems, advanced technologies, cutting crop inputs and livestock feed costs, school wind projects, and energy safety as well as observe biodiesel being made at Nebraska Screw Press.

The Nebraska Energy Fair is presented by the Center for Rural Affairs and Nebraska Renewable Energy Systems, and is sponsored by the US Department of Agriculture & Housing Services administered by the Center for Rural Affairs, Nebraska Loess Hills RC&D, First National Bank Northeast in Lyons, Energy Office, Nebraska Screw Press and Nebraska Green Fuels.

"The future of our communities is why many of us are so enthusiastic about renewable energy. Rural America has an asset urban America lacks - land. And we have plenty of wind. If we build the renewable energy industry the right way, then there is real potential to create economic opportunities that bring young people and young families to our small towns," said Hassebrook.

There is no fee to attend Saturday's sessions, but pre-registration is required to ensure availability of registration materials: www.cfra.org/files/energy-fair-bus-tour.pdf

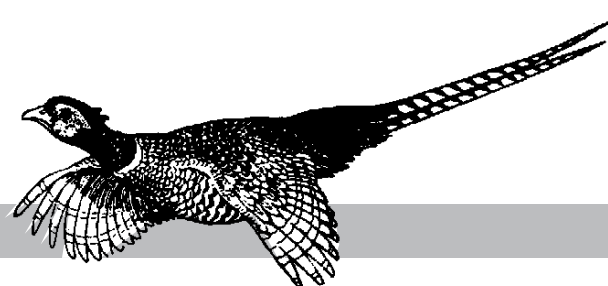

For additional information about the Nebraska Energy Fair, please visit: www.cfra.org/renewable-energy-fair-2010

The Center for Rural Affairs was established in 1973 as an unaffiliated nonprofit corporation under IRS code 501(c)3. The Center for Rural Affairs was formed by rural Nebraskans concerned about family farms and rural communities, and we work to strengthen small businesses, family farms and ranches, and rural communities.

Safely can foods to avoid botulism

As Nebraskans begin to pick vegetables from their home gardens, many of them will decide to can their extra produce. While this is an excellent way to preserve food for future use, following instructions and taking certain precautions are important to guarantee proper produce preservation and to prevent illness.

Clostridium botulinum is a bacterium that has a spore that exists in the soil. In the absence of oxygen, like in jars containing canned foods, clostridium botulinum spores will change to live cells and multiply rapidly. These bacteria release a toxin which causes botulism, a deadly form of food poisoning. Signs of botulism usually appear 12 to 36 hours after eating contaminated food. Botulism causes impaired vision, slurred speech, muscle weakness and paralysis that can result in death.

Clostridium botulinum spores cannot grow in acidic environments, so acidic foods, such as fruits, are safe from this form of contamination. However, meat, vegetables and other low-acidity foods must be pressed properly to kill the spore.

If someone has never canned before and has the freezer space, freezing food might be considered over canning because it prevents clostridium botulinum from growing. For long-term preservation, store frozen foods in a stand-alone freezer with a temperature below 0 degrees Fahrenheit. Do not freeze food in regular refrigerator-freezers. These units are meant for short-term storage and may not prevent frost buildup on food.

For those who still want to can, the first step to good canning is to find a good canning jar. Mason-type jars with self-sealing lids are best and can be used many times as long as they are cleaned between each use. Lids should be used only once. Do not use commercial jars, such as ones for mayonnaise, because they are more likely to break or not seal properly. Check all jars for cracks and make sure the seal is tight.

Next, the jars can be packed with raw produce, which is more suitable for vegetables being cooked in a pressure canner. Food also can be hot packed, meaning it has been brought to a boil, simmered for 2 to 5 minutes and then promptly canned. Hot packing removes excess air from the food tissues and increases shelf life, and it is best used with boiling water canning. Regardless of which method is used, all juices, water or other liquids added to the cans should be heated to a boil.

The amount of headspace, the space between the liquid in the jar and the jar lid, is very important because the food will expand. Be sure to check specific headspace requirements for each food. Do not just estimate because the vacuum could be destroyed or the can could burst.

When canning vegetables, meats and other low-acid foods, use a pressure canner because clostridium botulinum spores can still survive in a boiling water canner. A boiling water bath can be used to process acidic foods such as jams and jellies, fruits and pickled products. Check currently published food preservation cookbooks or websites for correct pressure, time and altitude adjustment for canning each specific food.

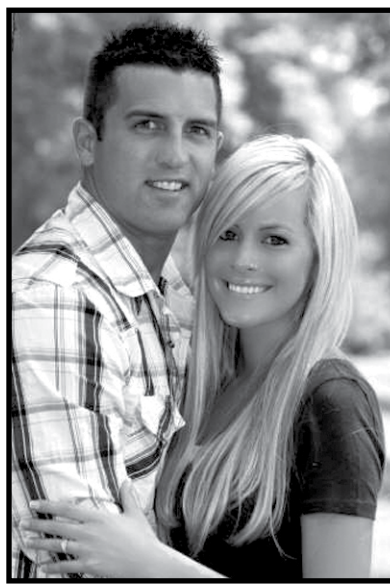

After processing, check to make sure the lid has been properly sealed by one of three methods. Press down on the middle of the lid. If it springs up, the jar is not properly sealed. Tap the lid with the bottom of a teaspoon, and if it's properly sealed it will make a ringing, high-pitched sound. Finally, when the jar is held at eye level, the center of the lid should be concave, not flat or bulging.

Store canned foods at a temperature between 50 and 70 Fahrenheit. Do not place cans near hot pipes, a range, a furnace, in uninsulated attics or in direct sunlight.

For more information on canning, visit www.extension.unl.edu/farmersmkt.

Diamond Doctor Randy Pedersen answers life's big questions. His passion for his work and his customers continues to change lives daily. Randy has been a Practicing Diamond Physician since 1978.

Dear Randy, Do I need a chair to rock my baby?

That's one way. The other way is to surprise her with a diamond from our store. Rock your baby, friend. No chair needed.

FAIRGROUNDS WORSHIP

Concordia Lutheran Church of Concord, and First Lutheran Church of Allen, held worship in the grandstand at the Dixon County Fairgrounds, on July 11, as a part of their 125th anniversary celebration with a good attendance.

Peg Lutt and Georgia Addison led the service. Trish Grone read the lessons for the day, and old familiar hymns were sung, following the history of their beginnings.

New members were welcomed, including Megan, Greg and Elizabeth Kvols of Laurel, Melvin Magnuson of Wayne and Kathy, Keith and granddaughter, Emily, Lubberstedt from Laurel.

Following worship, a cook-out was held in the city park. Doug

The worship service at the Dixon County Fairgrounds was just one of several activities being held in conjunction with Concordia Lutheran Church's 125th anniversary.

Date set for '5th Sunday Music Event'

Sunday evening, Aug. 29 will be the next "5th Sunday Music Event", sponsored by the churches in Wayne.

In the past, the presentations have included concerts, singalongs, and musicals. The upcoming "event" will be a unique presentation featuring senior adults in our community (no one performing will be younger than 55 years of age!). Rehearsals have begun at the Senior Center and The Oaks in Wayne and everyone over 55 is invited to participate in this special event called "Not Gone Yet."

There are plenty of parts for those who want to sing, present a monologue, or be in a skit. Rehearsals will be announced each week in the newspaper, so watch for practice times and locations. For those of you who want to join with the group rehearsing at the Senior Center, if you also want to eat with the crew, lunch reservations need to be made by noon of the day preceding the rehearsal.

Note to all performers: NO memorization required!

Everyone is encouraged to mark the date. The time and location will be announced soon.

Sell - Heiser married in Columbus ceremony

Traci Sell of Arcadia and Robert Heiser of Beemer were united in marriage April. 24, 2010, at Columbus United Methodist Church in Columbus.

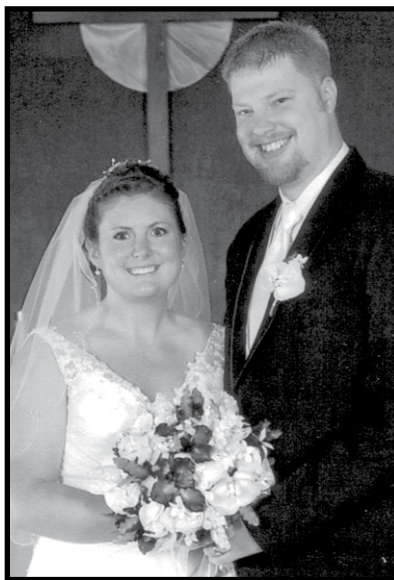

Parents of the couple are Brad and Carolyn Sell of Arcadia and Rita and Brian Heiser of Beemer.

Honor attendants were Jenny Sell of Ord and Ryan Heiser of Wayne. Bridesmaids were Jodi Sell of Arcadia, Cami Skaggs of Hastings, Amanda Rusch of Wayne, Whitney Nuss of Loup City, Tara Ficke of Lincoln and Jacki Fernau of Dodge.

Groomsmen were Jeremiah Schantz and Andrew Schweers of Wisner, Ricky Heiser of Beemer, Tony Matthes of Genoa, Drew Palmer of Tekamah, and Wesley Sell of Arcadia.

Flower girl was Hollie Sell of Arcadia, and Ring bearers were Gavin Sell of Arcadia and Austin Heiser of Wayne. Candlelighters were Andrew and Vita Nicpon of Thorp, Wisc. Ushers were Andrew Pierson, Josh Staab and Brent Recker.

The bride obtained a BS degree in Computer Information Systems from Wayne State College in

Mr. and Mrs. Heiser

December 2008. She graduated Cum Laude and now works as a Programmer in Administrative Systems at Wayne State College.

The groom is employed at D.V. Fyre-Tec in Wayne and is also obtaining his degree in Elementary Education and Coaching from Wayne State College.

The couple honeymooned in Maui, Hawaii, and resides in Wayne.

and Lynette Krie grilled hot dogs and hamburgers for everyone. Each family brought one dish which made for an array of surprises from hot dishes to many salads and desserts.

Sunday evening, the annual Ice Cream Social was held at the church with Adel Bohlken and Ron and Marilyn Harder heading the committee. Homemade ice cream bars. It was a very busy day, but and pie were enjoyed plus cake and enjoyed by all who attended.

New members of Concordia Lutheran Church are Greg, Elizabeth and Megan Kvols. They were welcomed to the church on July 11.

Healing service continues at Praise Assembly

Praise Assembly of God Church, located at 1000 East 10th Street, in Wayne has services every Sunday morning and evening. On Sunday, July 18 Sunday School begins the morning at 9:30 a.m. in the "Fireside Room."

Philip Pfaltzgraff, WSC Staff Accompanist, is teaching a series on the "Songs of Ascents", which is a label referring to Psalms 120-134. This Sunday will start in Psalm 123.

The morning worship service begins in the Sanctuary at 10:30 a.m. with Praise and Worship led by Ernest Bratcher, counselor at Camp Assurance, Marshall Keough WSC Senior in Music Education, and Phil Pfaltzgraff. Continuing in a preaching series on the "Healing of Broken Relationships" is Rev. David Stitt. Pastor David and his wife Dee are from Hastings.

The Sunday evening "Healing Service" begins at 6:30 p.m. with a time of worship and teaching. This will be followed by a time of prayer for those who are ill or in any way in need of prayer. Don't hesitate to attend these services, whether Praise Assembly is your church home or not.

The church is located just east of Providence Road and is completely handicap-accessible.

Gerry Steinauer shares information about Morning Glory during the Blossoms, Butterflies & Birds annual tour.

Blossoms, Butterflies & Birds Galore on annual tour

A cool July day out in nature couldn't have been better for the seventy-seven participants on the Blossoms, Butterflies & Birds Tour. They came from as far away as Yankton to Allen to Norfolk and everywhere in between. "We saw forty-three species of native wildflowers, three different kinds of butterflies and twelve species of birds" according to RC&D President Dennis Wacker, the official tally keeper.

Experts from the Nebraska

Game & Parks Commission Gerry Steinauer, botanist, Lucas Negus a wildlife biologist, and Scott Wessel, private lands biologist were fascinating to listen to. Their wealth of knowledge amazed everyone. No matter what native grass or wildflower was presented to Gerry he knew what it was. Lucas specialized in the birds and recognized all their calls even though they weren't visible. Scott's knowledge covered all categories and his special addition to the day was a taste of the cooked root of the wild turnip.

Having a noon meal at the Amish home of Mattie and Eddie Pedersheim was a highlight for many. Sponsored by the Northeast Nebraska Resource Conservation & Development (RC&D) Council in partnership with the Nebraska Natural Legacy Project this event exceeded expectations and many look forward to this tour and others continuing.

Hot, humid weather means producers should watch for corn diseases

Hot, humid weather has many corn diseases on the rise across the state. Nebraska corn growers need to keep watch for corn disease development, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension plant pathologist says.

"There are quite a few diseases out there," said Tamra Jackson, UNL Extension plant pathologist.

Gray leaf spot, anthracnose leaf blight and common rust are fungicide-caused diseases developing now across the state. However, it is important to make an accurate diagnosis as some of these diseases are being mimicked by some bacterial diseases, such as Goss's wilt and blight and bacterial stalk rot.

"Making an accurate diagnosis is critical to avoid making unnecessary fungicide applications," Jackson said.

When it comes to gray leaf spot, corn growers need to look for small, gray and rectangular lesions, which will start at the bottom of the plant and work their way up.

"Some people may consider spraying a fungicide, which is especially critical on susceptible hybrids,"

Jackson said. "So, be sure to look at your companies' catalogs and literature so you know how they will react."

Another problem disease is Goss's wilt.

"I have seen this in several counties, even in fields that didn't get hail, but high winds," Jackson said. Ripped leaves make corn more susceptible to Goss's wilt.

Jackson said this disease could be mistaken for physoderma or corn blotch leaf miner.

Symptoms of Goss's wilt are water soaking around the edges of leaf and dark green to black flecks, or freckles, on the edge of the lesions.

This is a bacterial disease that can't be controlled with a fungicide. It is too late to do anything about this disease this growing season.

Other diseases being reported across the state include common rust and bacterial stalk rot.

Common rust should not be confused with the more aggressive southern rust disease that caused significant yield loss in 2006. Common rust spores and pustules tend to be reddish brown during this time of the growing season.

Conditions also are suitable for bacterial stalk rot to develop due to warm and flooded conditions in some areas of the state, Jackson said.

Affected plants wilt rapidly and are overtaken by a slimy lesion that may begin at either the top or bottom of the plant. These plants also may have foul odor.

For more information about all these corn diseases, including pictures, visit Crop Watch, UNL Extension's crop production newsletter, at cropwatch.unl.edu/web/cropwatch/archive?articleID=4199760 or watch the July 9 edition of "Market Journal" at marketjournal.unl.edu/july09.

Diseased plants also can be submitted to the UNL Plant and Pest Diagnostic Clinic. For more information visit <http://pdc.unl.edu/diagnosticclinics/plantandpest>. For more information and other plant diseases or for submission forms and instructions, visit the Plant Disease Central website at <http://pdc.unl.edu/>.

Remembering a life well lived

The wet stuff just keeps coming! We have had over five inches just in the past three days. It was also coming down in York County yesterday, and they were thankful, as they have missed a lot of the earlier moisture. In fact, my cousin, married to a farmer who irrigates, e-mailed last night to say they were using frequent flier miles to go to Jackson, Wyo. to see their grandsons, just because they got the rain.

We were south of Waco yesterday, at the old country church in which my Mom and Dad both were raised, for the funeral of my brother's mother-in-law. Our parents, and his wife's parents, were friends long before Jim and Linda met. In fact, Jim and Linda are in the family tree book done by a relative of Linda's twice! In other words, they are distantly related, as are a lot of folks from that community.

Well, that's not what I wanted to talk about! I wanted to expound on the beauty of a life well lived and a peaceful death. Lenora Gocke was 98 years old. She and Linda were here for lunch a couple of years ago, on the way from staying with Linda in South Carolina for several weeks, back to her more permanent home in North Platte with her other daughter.

Widowed for over twenty years, she had first had an apartment in Seward, but, as she became older and had more mobility problems,

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

she moved to Twyla's lovely house by a lake in western Nebraska. There had been falls, and a broken hip, but she always tolerated the hospitalizations and rehabilitation and come back to her "room with a view".

About two weeks ago, she went back to the hospital with heart failure and spent a night with the CPAP mask on to assist her breathing. Linda flew there, as did the son in Wyoming. The oldest, who lives on the "home place" drove out. She took off the mask and said she was "ready to go". They honored her wishes, and after spending the Fourth weekend at the hospital with "comfort measures only", she moved to a local nursing home and "went home to be with the Lord" a couple of days later. The kids all took turns at her bedside.

Lenora was a quilter! There was an album of photos of quilts at the lunch yesterday, and they were beautiful. She was also a gardener, and there was a smaller book of pictures of her flowers done by a granddaughter. The pastor said when he first went to visit her after he came to that church, she was in a basement "quilt factory" in her house, and there were other ladies there, all quilting. They invited him to sit down and learn to quilt, but he declined!

Anyway, it's hard to be sad at a service like that. We sang her favorite hymns, heard her favorite Bible verses, and even said three prayers that were written in her prayer book. It's fun to imagine her in her "mansion with many rooms" quilting up a storm with all the quilters who have gone before. It should be a beautiful sight!

Northeast in South Sioux City to host industrial facility open house

The public is invited to an Open House and Ribbon Cutting at the new Northeast Community College Industrial Training Building in South Sioux City on Tuesday, July 27th at 10:30 a.m.

The 5-,750-square-foot building is located at 406 Golf Road on 57 acres of land along Highway 77 donated to Northeast by the South Sioux City Community Development Agency. Fifty percent of the funds for the Industrial Training Building project are federal funds from the U.S. Department of Commerce, Economic Development Administration.

A short program will precede a ribbon cutting and tours of the building. Guests can reach the facility from the Highway 77 bypass by taking College Way to Golf Road and then turning right onto Golf Road.

Tentatively scheduled to be completed in August, Northeast will offer its welding and industrial technician courses, along with other training classes, in that building.

Work also continues on the College Center of South Sioux City, a facility that will house both Northeast and Wayne State College programming. That building will be completed during the spring semester.

year and I think it's a good one to repeat.

County fairs are a great time to enjoy each other's company and get to see some good entertainment whether it be musical, mechanical, or animal. A lot of the county fairs revolve around 4-H. Here are some thoughts on 4-H and the fair with help from Tracy Pracheil, a 4-H educator from Lincoln.

Local county fairs provide 4-H youth across the state with an opportunity to showcase the project work that they have completed throughout the year and to receive recognition for their efforts. Model rockets that have been assembled from basic materials, cookies that will make your mouth water, sheep that are sheared for the big show, and many other exhibits can be seen. Through these projects, youth develop self-confidence by experiencing success at solving problems and meeting challenges. Local county fairs provide a safe environment for youth to make mistakes and to receive constructive feedback, not only through competition, but also through participation.

The 4-H youth look forward to the county fair because of the fun that this time of year brings. In a recent study, many youth reported that they are motivated each year to participate in the county fair because they have fun. Whether showing a market steer, modeling a garment in the fashion revue, or exhibiting a GIS map of a local park, youth across all project areas compete and participate in county fair activities because they are fun.

Youth also shared that "achieving goals," "spending time with friends," and "teamwork" contributed toward their participation in the annual county fair. Recognition, competition, fair premiums, and qualifying for the state fair ranked low in comparison to these other motivating factors.

Important educational youth development opportunities exist within the 4-H fair experience. By completing 4-H projects and activities at the local fair and throughout the year, youth are mastering skills to make positive career and life choices. It is important for youth to discover and learn in a non-threatening setting that certain vocations may or may not be right for them.

Give 4-H youth at your local county fair a grand champion experience by providing constructive feedback and encouragement. Your words and actions will allow youth to discover their own personal strengths and weaknesses through their 4-H project areas, all while having fun in a positive county fair environment.

Don't forget to say thank you to the many volunteers, sponsors and 4-H leaders that contribute their time and money to making the local county fair a "must-see" experience for all. Special thanks need to go out to the county fair board members who do most of the important behind the scenes work and to the superintendents and judges for their work in organizing and providing feedback for the many exhibits that are enjoyed by all.

NEW PASTOR

The Allen United Methodist Church has a new minister, Pastor Sheila Taylor. After 11 years of being appointed at the Mitchell & Hull United Methodist Churches just west of Scottsbluff, she was called to be pastor at the Allen and Ponca Methodist Churches.

Pastor Sheila Taylor

After being disabled for 18 years, Sheila was called into the ministry in 1998. She then attended St. Paul's School of Theology through the United Methodist Church Course of Study School. The school is designed for second career people who are 40 years or older who have been called into the ministry. In the school, you pastor a church, do assignments at home, and attend school for two or four weeks at a time in the summer. She graduated after eight years.

Sheila grew up on a farm south of Lincoln, near Roca. She and her husband Greg have two children, Jamie a first grade teacher in Wainwright, Alaska and Sarah, a recent graduate from William Jewell College in Liberty, Mo. She majored in History and minored in Religion and Non-Profit Leadership.

"We are excited to be here! The people are warm and welcoming! We feel right at home and are thankful for all they have done for us already! Their hard work, generosity, and joy for the Lord is AMAZING! We look forward to getting to know everyone better. I am especially looking forward to getting to know the children and youth! Vacation Bible School has been AWESOME! When I became a Pastor, Life became an Adventure! I can't wait to see what God has planned for the Allen and Ponca church families and me!" said Pastor Taylor.

SUNDAY AT THE MUSEUM

Desarah Janke earns American Scholar award

The United States Achievement Academy announced that Desarah Janke from Winside has been named an All-American Scholar At-Large Award Winner.

Desarah will appear in the all-American Scholar Official yearbook which is published notionally. Desarah is a student at Winside High School.

"This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes fewer than 10% of all American high school students.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, winners of the All-American Scholar Award should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Founder of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects All-American Scholar winners based on the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's grade point average, student achievements and a well-balanced schedule of academics and extracurricular activities.

Desarah is the daughter of Deano & Debbie Janke of Winside. The grandparents are Daisy & Dean Janke Sr., also of Winside.

Optimist Club honors outstanding young artists

Whether the medium is pen and paper, pastel and paint, wood and wire, print and film, audio and digital or instrument and voice, the Wayne Optimist Club has been celebrating with outstanding young artists from Northeast Nebraska since 2003.

The Club started the Celebration of the Arts, as a youth appreciation project, to honor and recognize students who aren't necessarily the best athletes or brightest scholars, but instead make the world a better and brighter place through visual, literary, applied or performing arts. The Celebration of the Arts is an annual event that combines an art related program presented by the faculty and students at Wayne State College with an awards banquet that also recognizes adults for Achievement in Education. Each year the Wayne area schools are asked to nominate two elementary student (K-4 or K-6), two middle school or junior high school students (5-8 or 7-8), and two senior high school students (9-12) who excel in any or all art disciplines to receive the Celebrating the Arts Award.

This year 11 schools participated and over 200 students, teachers and family members attended the awards banquet held at Our Savior Lutheran Church. The students and families were first treated to a

A SPECIAL THANK YOU FROM THE FAMILY OF TERI MCLAGAN
 The family of Teri McLagan would like to thank everyone for their kindness and support before and after the death of our beloved wife and mother. To everyone who stopped and visited with Teri while she was in the hospital or after she got home, thank you for that special time you spent with her. She is already missed by many, but will continue to be our guardian angel.
 The benefit that was held for Teri was truly an amazing day. To realize that Teri had touched so many people's lives was very humbling. To everyone involved in organizing this event, thank you from the bottom of our hearts. The number of people attending was unbelievable. To everyone that donated items for the silent auction, you are to be commended for your efforts. To everyone that attended, thank you very much. This was truly a great time for our family to talk to many of you.
 To Teri's daycare children and parents, we wish to offer you a special thank you. You all know how special you were to Teri. Daycare was her life and she truly loved every one of you, and you all have a special place in our hearts. Thank you for allowing your children to be a major part of Teri's life.
 Special thanks goes to the PMC Hospice. We were only able to use your services for a short time, but what a wonderful experience. You provided invaluable information and support during a very rough time. You treated Teri with much love and respect, and we will never forget your caring for her. Another special thank you goes to the Oncology Department at Providence Medical Center. All of you were very special friends to Teri and made her many visits to the hospital very enjoyable. Also, special thanks go to Dr. Kahanic and the Sioux City Cancer Center for taking care of Teri for seven years.
 Thank you to Our Savior Lutheran Church for their prayers and support for our family over the past seven years. Teri loved her church, and the support returned to her was fabulous. Thank you Pastor Stover for a wonderful prayer service and funeral and for the visits to Teri while she was in the hospital. We also would like to thank the Women's Group from the church for a wonderful luncheon.
 There was a special moment as our funeral procession proceeded to Sioux City. Workers from the Wayne office of the Nebraska Department of Roads were working on the highway between Wakefield and Allen. As the procession approached the work zone, the flagman removed his hat and placed it over his heart. As we proceeded through the work zone, all of the workers stopped, removed their hats and placed them over their hearts as well. What a tremendous show of respect that, unfortunately, is not very common in today's world. Every driver in the procession commented to me about how special that was. You are to be recognized, and we truly appreciate your gesture.
 To our employers, thank you very much for allowing us time off to enable us to spend the final days with Teri. To Wayne and the surrounding communities, thank you all so very much. It is unbelievable how you step up for people in a time of need. Numerous people brought us food and paper supplies, people mowed our yard, and many other signs of support were observed. More importantly, you cared. We will never, ever be able to repay everyone for what they have done for our family. Wayne is a special community, and we love each and every one of you.

Plan now to avoid grasshopper damage in yards and gardens

Now is the time for Nebraskans to be watching their yards and gardens for grasshopper damage, University of Nebraska-Lincoln entomologists say.

Grasshoppers are already starting to damage gardens in some areas. The potential for grasshopper damage increases as summer progresses, said Bob Wright, UNL Extension entomologist.

"Adults move into yards and gardens in July and August," he said. "Severe problems can arise when adjacent agricultural crops or grasslands mature or are harvested and grasshoppers move to find new food sources."

Grasshoppers show a preference for flowers and some garden vegetables, such as lettuce, beans and sweet corn, but when populations are high they will feed on nearly all garden vegetables, as well as trees and shrubs, said Ron Seymour, UNL Extension educator in Adams County.

Grasshopper management can be effective and practical if the area to be protected is relatively small and isolated; however, protecting a garden from grasshoppers moving out of a large area of adjacent grassland or cropland may be impossible, Seymour said.

Several strategies can be used to help manage grasshopper problems:

- The preferred egg-laying and early season feeding areas for the grasshopper species of concern are weedy, untilled areas, such as vacant lots, ditches and poor pastures with mixed grass and broad-leaf plants. Dense grass growth or regular tillage of these areas will reduce grasshopper numbers.

- Where the grasshopper source covers a large area and outbreak populations are expected, the best strategy may be to attempt grasshopper control in the surrounding hatching area while the grasshoppers are small and easily controlled. Row covers and screens can help protect more valuable plants, but grasshoppers can eat through most fabric screens. Aluminum window screen is the best option.

- Irrigation can be used to keep vegetation in surrounding areas green so grasshoppers will not move into the garden as readily.

- Leaving border areas unmowed will delay grasshopper movement into the yard and garden. Tall grass provides food and shelter for the grasshoppers.

- A border area of attractive plants, such as zinnias or some other lush flower or vegetation can be planted around the edge of the garden to attract and hold grasshoppers. Also, these areas can be sprayed with insecticide to reduce populations.

- Organic gardeners recommend planting cilantro on the border of the garden as a repellent crop, or using garlic sprays as a repellent.

- Chemical control is often the best alternative for quickly eliminating large infestations of grasshoppers. Adult grasshoppers are difficult to control with insecticides due to their size and decreased susceptibility to the insecticides. The best time to control grasshoppers is when they are 1/2 to 3/4 inch long. At this time most eggs will have hatched and the young hoppers will be more susceptible to insecticides.

- There are many insecticide options available for yard and garden use. Read and follow all directions and precautions on the insecticide label. Most products are formulated in a liquid or mixable dry formulation, and will be registered for use on certain vegetables, turf, ornamentals, or non-crop use. The same active ingredient may be found in numerous different brand name products.

- The sources of grasshopper infestations, such as surrounding grasslands, ditches and other untilled areas should be treated before the larger adult hoppers move out. If homeowners do not own the adjacent areas, they should make arrangements with their neighbors to spray areas up to 150 feet around their garden. If this is not possible, the only option is to use insecticide or repellent sprays to protect as much of the yard and garden as possible. These insecticides will have only a few days of residual activity and repeated applications will be necessary. If most grasshoppers are adults, the best control will be obtained by using the maximum labeled insecticide rates for these products.

- Commonly used insecticides for yards and gardens include those with the active ingredients of carbaryl, malathion and permethrin. Always check the label for application instructions, rates and safety precautions.

Northeast Nebraska Chapter of the American Red Cross seeking volunteers

American Red Cross volunteers help save lives by providing assistance to disaster victims, delivering community education courses and providing lifesaving care at community events.

"We need your help to continue to deliver these vital programs and services. Right Now!" said Heather Claussen, Chapter Operations Manager for the Northeast Nebraska Chapter of the American Red Cross.

A training class, "Intro to Disaster Services and Fulfilling Our Mission" will be held Thursday, July 22 from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Norfolk Office, 1509 Riverside Blvd., in Norfolk.

Translating Your Compassion into Community Action! These courses are basic entry level instructor-led course, which introduces potential disaster volunteers and members of other local agencies to the role of the Red Cross in the community's actions in preparing for, responding to and recovering from emergencies and disasters. The course will enable individual volunteers to translate their care and compassion for their community into action and provide assistance to those affected by disaster.

Pre-registration is required. Please contact the Chapter for more information.
