Public hearings aplenty for City Council Tuesday

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

Six public hearings were held during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Topics ranged from a redevelopment plan for Northeast Nebraska Investors, LLC to a Planning Commission recommendation regarding a plat of Karel Acres 2nd Subdivision.

The redevelopment plan for Northeast Nebraska Investors, LLC will re-set the clock in regard to TIF funding for the project.

A second hearing involved amending the one and six year street improvement program to add Tomar Drive, Fourth Street and Jaxon Street in the Bencotter Subdivision. The changes will add the three streets to the plan and should be completed yet this fall.

Following a public hearing and considerable debate, the council table action on the Planning Commission's Recommendation to add "vehicle towing service" as "Use by Exception" in the B-3 Commercial Zoning Districts. The applicant for the change is Main Street Auto Care and the City of Wayne.

Discussion was held on the difference between wrecked vehicles and disabled vehicles and fairness in dealing with what is allowed in other areas of the city. In addition, council members debated whether to leave language in the code requiring a barrier on the property to protect the neighbors.

B.J. Woehler said an area zoned B-3 should not be less restrictive than an area zoned B-1.

The item will now go back to the Planning Commission for additional discussion and input and then brought to the council at a future meeting.

Another hearing involved a replat of the Bencotter Addition Planned Unit Development Replat 1. The change, which was approved unanimously, will create several larger lots to entice retailers to build in the area.

The final hearing of the evening involved the Planning Commission's recommendation regarding the preliminary and final plat of Karel Acres 2nd Subdivision. The change will allow the Karels to purchase a parcel of land and build a home on the property adjacent to the property they already own.

In other action, the council approved three agreements regarding the Wayne Senior Center, including a nutrition agreement, a service agreement and a catered meal agreement.

The council approved a request for a waiver of sidewalk requirements for a new home on Sunnyview Drive and two others in the immediate area.

The city code regarding construction of sidewalks for new homes has been in effect in Wayne since 1974. However, installing a sidewalk in the area in question was granted a waiver because the "sidewalk goes nowhere."

Council member Doug Sturm said he felt the language in the city code was designed for new subdivisions and that it was "pointless to make these three property owners have sidewalks on their property."

Following discussion, the council voted 8-0 to grant the waiver to the three properties.

Mike Garvin and Dave Tietgen, owners of Renaise Energy, spoke to the council on a request to have the city submit a letter to the Nebraska Public Power District for consideration of a 2.5 megawatt size wind turbine.

"Wayne is a model city and very vibrant. We would like to expand the current sealing to allow for a more economical 2.5 megawatt turbine and to ask NPPD if they are interested in obtaining an energy credit in regard to carbon-free, renewable energy," Garvin said.

County goes back to square one Paperwork error puts bridge funding on hold

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

A paperwork error has Wayne County trying to rebuild a trestle between funding for much needed bridge repair and a number of bridges in the county that could be closed if they are not repaired or replaced in the immediate future.

At Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne County Commissioners, board members discussed the prioritizing of bridges in the county that are in need of repair work, and to get that priority list to the state Department of Roads so the county can get back into consideration for funding that the state provides for bridge repair.

County clerk Deb Finn told the board that she was contacted by the Department of Roads' bridge division and was told that Wayne County does not have any bridge priority list on file with the department. The priority list is required so that the department can establish criteria for future bridge projects.

Finn said that roads superintendent Elizabeth Carlson had a list turned in for 2010, but not for 2009. Finn added that, with a 5-10 year window to complete a project, the county board might want to consider submitting a new priority list and add information on why the county's projects should be considered sooner.

The lack of a priority list from 2009 pushes some of the county's bridge projects to as late as 2015 and could leave the county with an even larger list of bridges that could be closed by the federal government, according to board member Kelvin Wurdemann.

"We have five bridges that are being pushed back to 2015, and there's no guarantee the feds are going to come in and check our critical bridges, and we can wind up having more bridges closed," he said. "If the priority sheet had been turned in (in 2009), these would have been in the system. Now we have nothing in the system."

The board prioritized five bridges in the county for immediate consideration. Leading the list is the Temme bridge, located two miles west and seven-tenths of a mile south of Wayne. That bridge was closed in 2008, but reopened with a lower tonnage limit.

Now that the county has to restart the process, the result could mean a higher construction cost for the county, Wurdemann added.

"(The Temme bridge) should've been built next year, and we would have gotten an excellent bid because contractors are hungry right now with the economy being what it is," he said. "Once the economy rebounds, it's going to cost more."

The other four bridges that the county board put on its immediate priority list, from highest priority on down, include:

- Hansen bridge, located five miles north and 2.3 miles west of Wayne.
- Schwedhelm bridge, located one mile west and 5.3 miles south of Winside.
- Martin bridge, located 1.5 miles east of the Wayne Country Club.
- Gilliland bridge, located two miles west and 2.3 miles south of Wayne.

In other action, the board:

- approved the liquor license application for the Wayne County Jaycees for a mud volleyball tournament, scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 28 at the Wayne County Fairgrounds.

- approved an interlocal agreement with the Wayne County Library Association.

Schrunk goes on 'bosslift' to visit Nebraska troops

Wayne Elementary School Principal Daryl Schrunk recently had an opportunity to take a "bosslift" to Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Schrunk is a member of the Nebraska ESGR (Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve).

"ESGR is a Department of Defense agency that seeks to promote a culture in which all American employers support and value the military service of their employees. We recognize outstanding support, increase awareness of the law, and resolve conflicts through mediation. I joined as a volunteer about six months ago and will be serving the Wayne unit," Schrunk said.

The 2010 ESGR Bosslift took place July 19-21. The main mission was to bring employers of guardsmen of the 67th Brigade of Nebraska to Ft. Lewis, Wash. where their employee-soldiers are currently stationed in preparation for deployment to Iraq.

"Once there, I was able to talk to the soldiers. Also, I was able to spend some time with Matt Poehlman, son of Rich and Judy, who is being deployed to Iraq. He did not know I was coming and he was surprised when his First Sergeant said he had to go to eat with a V.I.P.," Schrunk said.

No word from state A.G. on Sinclair store break-in

The Nebraska Attorney General's Office had no new information regarding a possible burglary that took place late last month at a Wayne business.

According to Holly Bolen, chief of staff at the Attorney General's office, the investigation into the incident is continuing at press time. Once completed, a special prosecutor would be assigned to the case if the Attorney General's office proceeds with the case.

The case involves an alleged burglary in the late hours of July 21 or early July 22 at the station, and may involve a family member of an employee of the Wayne Police Department.

Some on the roadside wished they were riding. Brenda McVinvia is an athletic trainer and marathon runner from Illinois. Her original hometown is Storm Lake, Iowa. This day she was standing on the top of a hilltop along Highway 110 on crutches with one leg. Two years ago she lost it to a rare blood disease called purpurafulinans. She was managing a roadside refreshment shop to raise money for a prosthetic limb.

Bike ride provides opportunity to reflect

Editor's note: The following are reflections by Dean Jacobs, a graduate of Wayne State College, on his experiences as a first-time participant in RAGBRAI, a bicycle ride across Iowa. The first portion of the article are his thoughts prior to the ride and the second portion sums up the ride.

In our neighboring state of Iowa an astounding event has been taking place annually since 1973: RAGBRAI, the Register's Annual Great Bicycle Ride Across Iowa. (And it's pronounced Rag-brie.)

What started out as a suggestion by a journalist to write a column about riding his bike across Iowa has grown into one of the largest and most unique bicycle rides in the world.

Among those to ride the route that year was 83-year-old Clarence Pickard, whose determination to finish captured the attention of other Iowans.

On Sunday, I will set out with the same intentions of these original writers, determined to capture some of the magic of RAGBRAI. What is it that brings riders each year from all 50 states and from around the world? A ride that has grown from 500 riders to about 25,000 must have something special that continues to bring people back year after year.

While I was attending a wedding in Sioux City, Iowa last weekend, a guest told me that you really don't know Iowa until you have done RAGBRAI. Who is Iowa and who does RAGBRAI? These questions keep running over and over in my mind.

The route they say is flat this year, but I don't remember any part of Iowa really being flat. Flat is Nebraska Highway 30 between Fremont and Columbus, not gently rolling hills as far as the eye can see.

It's Friday evening, and as I sit here in my air-conditioned work space random thoughts fill the back of my mind. I should have trained more. How will I handle the heat? Within the next week can I make it 450 miles through 37 towns across Iowa?

Our four-rider team is sponsored by Travel4life and has a support driver.

One of my teammates was taking a flight to Omaha Thursday night but a rainstorm in Milwaukee forced the plane to land in Ohio. Thus, he had to drive 12 straight hours Friday to get back for RAGBRAI. Now, 38 years later the determination of Clarence Pickard lives on.

The last day of RAGBRAI offered the opportunity to reflect on just what this impressive bike ride across Iowa is all about.

The 48-mile ride from Manchester to Dubuque capped the end of the 450-mile journey. This last day included a few extra steps that I had missed earlier. First was a breakfast at Chris Cakes, where pancakes flew through the air hoping to land on people's plates. I caught a pancake that sailed 15 yards and decided it was a good omen for the day.

Homemade ice cream along with a few more slices of apple pie was also squeezed in. I would agree that it doesn't sound like a bike ride, but it is one part of RAGBRAI that should be experienced.

RAGBRAI is many things to the thousands of people who participate in it. Some do it annually like Pete, a University of Northern Iowa professor who was on his 31st ride, and a tradition for those on their first RAGBRAI is to write "virgin" in chain grease or Sharpie on the back of one of their legs.

Some do it for the humor and hope to find dead critters that had the misfortune of wandering on the road the night before. The road kill are enshrined with beads and other trinkets.

Some on the roadside wished they were riding. Brenda McVinvia is an athletic trainer and marathon runner from Illinois. Her original hometown is Storm Lake, Iowa. This day she was standing on the top of a hilltop along Highway 110 on crutches with one leg. Two years ago she lost it to a rare blood disease called purpurafulinans.

She was managing a roadside refreshment shop to raise money for a prosthetic limb. The signs read, Brownies and drinks, a free will offering for Brenda. "A prosthetic limb will cost $40,000, and I'm determined to get it, so next time you will see me riding down the road on RAGBRAI instead of watching the bikes roll by," said Brenda.

Others are just happy to be alive by the end, like John Funke from St. Petersburg, Fla., who last March couldn't even walk up a stairway as he battled cancer.

"To ride RAGBRAI again became my dream and symbol to live a healthy life," John said.

Many are sentimental, like Hanni, who now lives in Berkley, Calif., who hadn't been back for an Iowa summer in seven years. She was in-between jobs and was using this time to catch up with family and friends.

"It's bittersweet for me," she said. "The ride reminds me of everything I miss about Iowa."

Or Victoria from Washington, D.C. who said, "RAGBRAI reminds me of my childhood when everyone used to sit around and talk to each other."

Talking with one another is one of the big things that riding do. You can talk as you peddle down the road. It helps to pass the time, and it takes your mind off the pain. You can talk at the food stops or at the endless community activities in the host towns. One of the things that makes RAGBRAI special is that riders get to meet interesting people from all over the country.

Some riders relish the challenge of riding up hills like Potters Hill, just west of Dubuque, where the majority of the riders, including myself, walked up to the top. There are riders who peddle for only one day and others who ride the whole week.

There is a social aspect to RAGBRAI where streets are blocked off and bands play into the night for those who enjoy such things.

In the evening at Clear Lake the first night, I stepped into the Methodist church to use their Internet access while a group sang church songs while sitting outside behind the church. At the same time, a bus pulled up, and a group of people with each dressed as Elvis got off and headed out for a night of fun. Remarkably, neither seemed out of place.

RAGBRAI has an element of tolerance that makes it enjoyable for all.

"You haven't ridden a bike until you've done RAGBRAI," said Mark Emry of Sioux Falls, S.D. Emry, a former Fremont resident, was on his 13th ride across Iowa.

People often asked me if I will do RAGBRAI again. I don't know the answer yet. I have so many things I want to do. One thing for sure, after the 450-mile journey across Iowa, now I can say I've ridden a bike.

Better Business Bureau warns of recent e-mail scam

An e-mailed "complaint," supposedly originating from Better Business Bureau, is being sent to BBB accredited and non-accredited companies in states across the country, including Nebraska.

Businesses of all sizes have received the bogus e-mail complaint, ranging from banks and construction companies to major manufacturers and professionals. There is no indication how the e-mail addresses were collected.

The e-mail sender's address is seatac@bbb.org with the subject line "BBB Complaint Case #" followed by a nine-digit number. The body of the e-mail claims that the recipient did not respond to a complaint filed by "Jason Harlow" (however, other names may be used) under the category "Contract Issues." The goal of the e-mail was to get the recipient to click on a hyperlink with the following text: "Please click here to access the complaint."

A BBB Accredited Business in Omaha was recently targeted by this e-mail and tried to click on the link provided. Because he could not open the link to see the complaint, he called BBB and found out that there was no complaint filed about his company from "Jason Harlow."

A link in identical e-mails sent out earlier this year downloaded malware to the recipients' computers. Malware consists of programs designed to damage or initiate unwanted actions without the knowledge of the user e-mail's author.

BBB advises businesses that receive this e-mail to take the following precautions:

- Look at the number that a complaint begins with - all complaints from this BBB start with a "3". The fake complaints seem to start with an "8."
- The fake complaints seem to be using the same consumer's name, "Jason Harlow."
- Do not click on any links or reply to the message.
- Run a full virus scan on your computer if you did click the link.
- Forward the message to phishing@council.bbb.org.
- Delete the message from your inbox and recycle bin.

If you receive any e-mail from Better Business Bureau about a complaint filed against your company and need assistance in determining whether or not it is legitimate, contact the BBB directly at www.bbb.org or at (800) 649-6814.

Game and Parks board tables waterfowl hunting regulations for 2010 season

LINCOLN – The Nebraska Game and Parks Board of Commissioners tabled recommendations for the 2010 waterfowl hunting regulations at its meeting last week.

In tabling the recommendations, the board directed the wildlife staff to make further changes to the following seasons: duck, early Canada goose, dark goose, white-fronted goose, light goose, and falconry seasons. Some duck season dates would be moved to earlier dates, while more dark and white-fronted goose hunting days would be created later in the season.

The amended recommendations will be brought before the board in its next meeting, Aug. 31 at the Lake McConaughy State Recreation Area Visitor Center. The board then could approve them and set the seasons.

Much of the public hearing for the recommendations was spent discussing moving the season dates for the Low Plains Late and Low Plains Early duck seasons up one week. The board and staff also discussed opportunities and potential issues associated with creating more goose hunting opportunities in February.

The following are proposed Game and Parks staff recommendations for the waterfowl hunting seasons:

- Early Teal – Low Plains, Sept. 4-19; High Plains, Sept. 4-12; bag limit, four; possession limit, eight
- Early Canada Goose – Sept. 4-12; bag limit, eight; possession limit, 16
- Youth Waterfowl – Sept. 25-26; bag and possession limits same as duck
- Duck and Coot – Low Plains Early, Oct. 2-Dec. 12

and Dec. 18-19; Low Plains Late, Oct. 16-17 and Oct. 23-Jan. 2, 2011; High Plains, Oct. 9-Jan. 12, 2011; bag limit, conventional; possession limit, twice the daily bag

Dark Goose – East Unit, Oct. 23-Jan. 26, 2011; North Central Unit, Oct. 9-Jan. 21, 2011; Platte River Unit, Oct. 23-Jan. 16, 2011 and Jan. 22-Feb. 9, 2011; Panhandle Unit, Oct. 23-Jan. 16, 2011 and Jan. 22-Feb. 9, 2011; Niobrara Unit, Oct. 23-Feb. 4, 2011; bag limit, three; possession limit, twice the daily bag

White-fronted Goose (statewide) – Oct. 9-Dec. 17 and Feb. 5-6, 2011; bag limit, two (one for Feb. 5-6); possession limit, twice the daily bag

Light Goose – Regular Season (statewide), Oct. 9-Jan. 10, 2011; and Jan. 22-Feb. 9, 2011; bag limit, 20; possession limit, none. Conservation Action, Zone 1: Feb. 10-April 17, 2011; Zone 2: Feb. 10-April 1, 2011; Zone 3: Feb. 10-April 17, 2011; bag limit, none; possession limit, none

Crow – Statewide, Oct. 1-Nov. 15 and Jan. 20-April 6, 2011; Special Public Health Hazard Order (Buffalo, Kearney, Franklin, Phelps, Harlan, Dawson, and Lincoln counties only), Nov. 16-Jan. 19, 2011

Falconry – Extended season: Low Plains, Sept. 1-30 and concurrent with teal season dates within Low Plains Early and Late zones; High Plains: Concurrent with teal season dates within the High Plains zone; regular season – Low Plains Early, Oct. 2-Dec. 12 and Dec. 18-19; Low Plains Late, Oct. 16-17 and Oct. 23-Jan. 2, 2011; High Plains, Oct. 9-Jan. 12, 2011

In other business, the board changed the time structure of the big game hunting permit application periods. This will give the public more time to comment on initial big game recommendations and the commissioners more time to respond. In the past, commissioners considered and adopted big game recommendations in their March meeting. Beginning in 2011, they will consider recommendations in March and adopt them at their May meeting.

Because of this, the first application period now will be the third Monday in May through the first Friday in June. It will be for draw permits. Residents and eligible resident and nonresident landowners may apply for antelope and elk permits in selected units.

The second application period will be the second Monday in July through the end of the season. Residents, nonresidents and eligible landowners may purchase any remaining deer and antelope permits.

Another change is that beginning in the May 2011 application period, residents, resident landowners and nonresident landowners will be allowed to apply for elk permits. The preference system is weighted to favor residents, so it likely will take five or more years before a nonresident landowner draws a permit. Landowners must send their applications for elk permits to their local Game and Parks district office.

The board also approved resolutions that will allow the design of the Fort Kearny State Recreation Area Hike/Bike Trail bridge to begin. The bridge, which spans the north channel of the Platte River, was destroyed in a 2009 fire. The resolutions allow money that was designated for paving the trail instead to be used to build a new bridge.

Council

The council also approved the payment of a number of bills in regard to construction projects. Among those are $14,968.55 to Robert Woehler & Sons Construction for work on the Muhs Acres Water Main Extension project; $225,416.16 to Knife River for the Asphalt Overlay Project; a payment of $38,969.83 to Layne Christensen Co. for work on City

Well 11.

The council also appointed Jessie Piper to the Zoning Steering Committee as the Wayne Area Economic Development representative.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, Aug. 17 at 5:30 p.m. A budget work session will be held Tuesday, Aug. 10 at 6:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Wakefield back on top as Class C champs

4-2 win over Creighton secures another state title

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of the Herald

DEWITT – When you've got great pitching and an opportunistic offense, it's a tough combination to beat.

Wakefield's long-standing tradition of success in baseball made its presence yet again Tuesday night, as they used timely hitting and great pitching to win their 18th overall state championship, taking a 4-2 win over Creighton at Cody Park.

A.J. Bormann had an outstanding night on the mound, throwing a complete-game eight-hitter and striking out 10, including the game-ending punchout with the tying run at the plate that sent the Wakefield team into a frenzy with a victorious dogpile in the infield.

"A.J. pitched one heck of a game and got ahead of batters like he has most of the year," coach Mike Mogus said after the win. "It's great when your No. 1 pitcher can come out and pitch a game like that."

Bormann, who didn't walk a single batter in getting his second win of the tournament, credited his defense for the win.

"They hit me around a little bit, but our defense was really good tonight and they really helped me out," he said.

Wakefield drew first blood in the second inning, taking advantage of their trademark small-ball attack.

Michael Eaton worked a one-out walk, then moved to third when Dusty Sherer's drag bunt was thrown away by the Creighton pitcher. Eaton came home on Jacob Nelson's suicide squeeze to the pitcher.

Creighton responded in the top of the third when Caden Alexander stroked a one-out double into the gap in left center, then came home on a bloop single by Derek White to tie the game.

It would stay tied until the fourth, when Sherer fought off an inside pitch for an opposite-field bloop single to right, allowing T.J. Rose – who led off with a walk and moved to second on Eaton's sacrifice bunt – to score and give Wakefield a 2-1 edge.

Creighton looked poised to tie the game again in the top of the fifth, but center fielder Chad Clay ran down a looping fly ball in the gap by Caden Alexander, making a diving stop to rob the Creighton leadoff hitter of extra bases.

"He usually makes the tough plays look easy, but that was the first time I've seen him have to dive for a ball like that, and that was a big play," Mogus said.

Wakefield added insurance in the bottom of the fifth after another leadoff walk, this one to Wyatt Jacobsen, led to another run. Clay moved Jacobsen to second, and he came home when B.J. Soderberg lined a double into the left field corner, then came home on a single by Bormann to make it 4-1 after five.

That was more than enough for Bormann, who threw a masterful gem and worked out of a two-on, nobody-out situation in the sixth with the help of Rose, who threw out Dylan Walton on a stolen base attempt, and got a flyout and a strikeout to end Creighton's last significant threat.

"We did that the other night (against David City), but we were debating whether or not to throw through because they might send the kid on third home, but T.J. made a great throw and that was a key play for us," Mogus said.

Sherer finished with three of Wakefield's five hits in the championship game. Soderberg doubled and Bormann singled to account for the two remaining hits.

The win was a special one for the Wakefield community, and Mogus said the team won it for the family of Max Greve, one of the many outstanding Wakefield players who have been a part of the community's rich baseball tradition, who passed away in an accident earlier this year.

"We didn't formally dedicate it to Max, but I think his presence was felt by a lot of these kids, and they wanted to win it for him and his family because they're a part of our family," Mogus said.

Nixon returns for encore
Less than an hour before they were to play their first game, Wakefield got a surprise.

Mason Nixon, who pitched the Seniors to the state tournament and was scheduled to join the 134th Cavalry on their way overseas, got a one-day reprieve and was able to join the team for their opening-round matchup against Alma.

He arrived late, but came into the game in the second inning and quickly helped Wakefield erase an early deficit and take a 7-2 win Friday afternoon at Cody Park.

"Five minutes before we took infield we got the call from Mason, and he came in and pitched really well for us," Mogus said. "He got our first RBI for us and really changed the nature of the game."

Trailing 2-0, Nixon got Wakefield on the board with an infield single that brought home Eaton, who led off the inning with a walk, moved to second on Adam Drieling's sacrifice and advanced to third on a wild pitch.

Nixon and Sherer later came home on Clay's two-out single to center, putting Wakefield ahead to stay at 3-2.

Nixon came in to pitch after Bormann struck out five in two innings and gave up both Alma runs in the first inning. Nixon baffled Alma after that, striking out 10 and walking none while giving up a pair of harmless hits over the last five innings.

Wakefield extended their lead in each of the subsequent innings, adding single runs in the bottom of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth innings. Nixon had an RBI single in the third, T.J. Rose put a shot in the

Cheerleading is a great activity – but not a sport

Want to start a really passionate argument? Go up to a cheerleader and tell her that cheerleading is not a sport.

No, really. Go ahead. Try it. If you did, you no doubt got the reaction I always get whenever I try to explain the logic behind the argument to a cheerleader – the eyes bolt wide open, hands immediately go to hips, which are then thrust violently to one side, followed by this retort:

"Uh uh. It is so. Duhhh." My argument has always been – and continues to be proven – that cheerleading is a part of the experience of high school (and college) athletics, but it is not, in and of itself, a sport.

Yes, cheerleaders spend a good deal of time practicing their jumps, spins and fist thrusts (or whatever it is they do with their hands and arms when shouting "Go Team Go!"). I can't argue with the fact that some cheerleading squads actually participate in competition with other cheerleading squads outside of their traditional appearances while standing across the court (or field) from one another on Friday and Saturday nights.

With all of that, though, cheerleading is still not a sport. If physical dexterity and repetition were requirements for making something a sport – as cheerleader proponents are quick to suggest – we could also include ditch digging, livestock producing and sports writing as a sport (try walking up the hill to Memorial Stadium on a Monday morning for a weekly interview session with Wayne State football coach Dan McLaughlin, or chasing Jeff Zeiss on a riding lawn mower at Hank Overin Field 30 minutes before deadline, if you don't think this gig is not physically demanding).

But don't let logic get in the way of a good argument. Let's let a federal judge in Connecticut settle the deal.

Judge Stefan Underhill recently

From The Bleachers

ruled that colleges can not use competitive cheerleading to satisfy gender-equity requirements under Title IX, the 1972 federal law that mandates equal opportunities for men and women in education and athletics.

In his ruling, Underhill said, "Competitive cheer may, some time in the future, qualify as a sport under Title IX. Today, however, the activity is still too underdeveloped and disorganized to be treated as offering genuine varsity athletic participation opportunities for students."

An activity must meet certain criteria under Title IX to be considered a sport. While most cheerleading squads have coaches, practices and competitions, and some are part of governing organizations, cheerleading's primary goal is the support of athletic teams. Competition is not the primary goal of a cheerleading squad, which eliminates it from logical consideration as a sport.

Mind you – I'm not at all against cheerleading. I think it's a wonderful, and required, part of the experience of interscholastic athletics.

Without cheerleaders, the fans would spend even more of their time sitting in the stands, complaining about the bad officiating and secretly plotting to relieve the head coach of their kids' team of his coaching duties, than they would actually cheering the home team on to victory (and don't deny the part about the coaches, folks . . . because I hear it more and more every day). Without cheerleaders, we wouldn't have an avenue for those kids who have a ton of energy and a desire to be in front of a crowd to represent their school.

Without cheerleaders, we wouldn't have the chance to provide a potential distraction for the superstar player on the opposing team. There isn't a quarterback or a point guard worth his weight in gold who isn't easily thrown off his game after landing at the feet of a cute cheerleader from the opposing school after going out of bounds while making a big play (I know – I haven't been the same white-hot shooting guard and bogy golfer since I met a cheerleader, who would eventually become my ex-wife).

All kidding aside, though – I don't see why those who want to think of cheerleading as a sport are so fired up about the idea in the first place. Its importance in the grand scheme of things when it comes to school support is more than enough without having to call it a sport.

It doesn't matter how big or small the school is – cheerleading has always played a key role in school spirit, and whether or not it is ultimately recognized as a sport isn't going to change that. So why worry about it? Cheerleaders should embrace their uniqueness as a group and not worry about what kind of distinction it holds in the world of school activities.

Cheerleaders are a significant part of the experience of interscholastic athletics. The work they do in getting ready to perform in front of a crowd is not easy work. It takes talent, rhythm and coordination, along with the risk of looking silly in front of a gym full of fans, to do what they do and cheer the home team on to victory.

But cheerleading, no matter how hard you girls cock your hips and give me the death stare, is not, nor will it ever be, a sport.

So there. Nyahh.

As a team, the Wildcats received the USTFCCA All-Academic Team Award for a fifth straight season by maintaining at least a cumulative grade-point average of 3.0. WSC ranked 22nd out of 67 NCAA Div. Each athlete had to maintain a minimum grade-point average of 3.25 and achieved a provisional or automatic qualifying mark or time during the recent outdoor season to qualify for the award. This is the third straight season that Pollard has received the honor, while Zavorka is being honored for the second straight season.

Champs

 gap in left center for an RBI double in the fourth, Soderberg's infield single brought Clay home in the fifth and Drieling reached on an error, bringing Eaton home with Wakefield's final run.

"It's huge getting that first win," Mogus said. "If you go in the losers' bracket you have to play one more game than anyone else and we just wanted to go out and compete."

Bormann tosses gem
 Bormann faced one more than the minimum, allowed two hits and struck out six to help Wakefield to a 4-0 win over David City on Saturday.

Bormann got great defensive help from his battery mate, Rose, who threw out two runners in one inning after both had reached on base hits.

Wakefield got on the board early when Clay reached on an error and scored on a sacrifice by Rose. Sherer had two hits and scored two runs, Jacob Nelson stroked a double and Jacobsen executed three sacrifice bunts, one of which went for an RBI.

"A.J. was really on against David City and had everything working for him," Mogus said. "He had some pretty solid defense behind him as well, with T.J. throwing out two of their runners."

Wakefield secures finals
 Wakefield broke a 4-4 tie with four runs in the sixth inning, using their trademark small-ball attack, to defeat St. Paul 8-4 Sunday.

With the game tied 4-4 in the sixth, Wakefield scored three runs off squeeze bunts as St. Paul was unable to get outs at home when they needed them. Drieling had an RBI single as Wakefield was able to hang on and get the win.

Sherer threw 4 2/3 innings to pick up the win for Wakefield, while Bormann came on in relief to shut down St. Paul and send them to the losers bracket.

"We had something like six squeezes and scored four runs on them (in the sixth), Mogus said. "We really played small ball well and they just couldn't get an out when they needed it."

Creighton stays alive
 Creighton handed Wakefield its only loss in the Class C American Legion Seniors baseball tournament Monday, then came from behind to beat Mount Michael to set up the winner-take-all final Tuesday night.

Creighton jumped on Wakefield early to take a quick 8-0 lead after two innings, and scored in every inning to post a 17-7, five-inning victory in what was easily the roughest effort of the tournament for the eventual champions.

"It was one of those games where we wanted to win and have somebody have to beat us twice (Tuesday), but we struggled in finding the strike zone, and when we did they hit the heck out of it," Mogus said.

Creighton jumped out to an 8-0 lead in the second before Jacobsen was hit by a batter and Clay walked with the bases loaded, cutting the deficit to 8-2.

Wakefield scored five runs in the fourth to get as close as 13-7, highlighted by a two-run double by Bormann and a two-run single by Rose, but Creighton responded with four in the fifth to hand Wakefield its only loss of the tournament.

the 2010 Wayne County Fair

The 2010 Wayne County Fair continued its long tradition of providing good times and fun activities during its annual five-day run last week. Area 4-H participants showed off their best efforts in a variety of areas. Plenty of entertainment was available for area residents to enjoy, from the carnival and the wide variety of food to the music of country music legend Tracy Lawrence and outstanding Nebraska-based Leafy Spurge Band. A tractor pull, demolition derby, pickup mud run and hot dog eating contest highlighted some of the competitions that were held at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. A complete list of winners in both 4-H and Open Class competition will be included in the Thursday, Aug. 19 edition of the Wayne Herald.

UNK establishes chapter of Beta Alpha Psi

The University of Nebraska at Kearney has established a chapter of Beta Alpha Psi international honor society and professional organization for accounting, finance and information systems.

Among those joining the group is Wade Jarvi of Wayne.

According to Dr. Janet Trewin, a

UNK accounting and finance professor, UNK was able to establish a Beta Alpha Psi chapter because the UNK College of Business and Technology is accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), the most prestigious international accrediting organization for business schools. UNK was accredited by AACSB in 2006.

A petition that included a constitution, bylaws, a plan of activities for several years, and a plan for recruiting and retaining members was developed and submitted.

"After our petition was granted, the chapter had two years to fulfill the necessary requirements to become a full-fledged chapter," Dr. Trewin said. The chapter was first recognized as a full-fledged chapter by Beta Alpha Psi in December. Charter members were installed during special ceremonies in the spring. The Beta Alpha Psi chapter advocate, Dr. Patricia Poli of Fairfield, Conn., presided over the ceremony.

To become a member of Beta Alpha Psi, a student must be an accounting, finance or information systems major, who has completed at least one 300 level course or higher. In addition, the student must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0, which is a "B" average.

According to Dr. Trewin, Beta Alpha Psi membership is recognized by the accounting profession as a measure of excellence. Students who are members are sought after as potential employees by accounting firms.

Dr. Trewin and Dr. Beverly Frickel, a UNK accounting and finance professor, are the chapter advisers.

Conductor CW2 Brian Anderson rehearses the 43rd Army Band in the Wayne High School band room.

Nebraska National Guard Army Band uses Wayne facilities for rehearsal

From June 20 - 24 the Wayne community was honored to have the Nebraska National Guard 43rd Army Band use a large portion of the Wayne High School building to rehearse in for upcoming concerts.

The concert Band rehearsed in the high school band room, the pop/rock/country combo rehearsed in the high school choir room, the Jazz Band rehearsed on the Lecture Hall Stage and several other class rooms were used for sectionals and individual practicing.

"For me it was really something to watch these groups rehearse and watch the conductor CW2 Brian Anderson work with the concert band. Brian Anderson is also the Director of Bands at Fremont High School. I can not say enough about how friendly and appreciative the entire group was for letting them rehearse at Wayne High School. They would always ask "is there something you need or we can do for you?" said Brad Weber, Director of Bands at Wayne High School.

After rehearsing almost the entire week, they packed up and started their concert tour around northeast Nebraska.

"What was absolutely amazing were there to watch them," Weber said. They left each room they used "spotless" just like our janitorial staff had prepared it for them before the band moved in," Weber said.

He said he spent a lot of time at the school watching the groups rehearse. There were members of the community who would stop in and watch them rehearse also.

"The 43rd Army Band made those people feel right at home and made them feel very welcome that they were there to watch them," Weber said.

The band's first performance was on Wednesday evening, June 16 in the park on Pasewalk Ave. across from the Junior High School in Norfolk.

"I was absolutely 'stunned' and it was truly an honor for me when they asked if I would guest conduct a piece on the concert that night in Norfolk. It was one of those moments I will always remember. What an honor for me," Weber said.

'Stolen' wallet is key to solving crimes out west

Since the start of the new school year is fast approaching, I thought I'd take the opportunity to take a few days off to recharge, regenerate and renegotiate my terms of surrender.

While I'm away, here's a few heaping helpings of silliness from the "Bits and Pieces" file:

— This week's clubhouse leader in the "I Is A Dumb Crimmunul" sweepstakes is one of Chadron's brighter bulbs, who was trying to disassociate himself from a recent break-in at the Crawford city library.

It seems the young man called the police in Crawford, located a stone's throw west of Chadron (yes, that IS still in Nebraska, although barely) to report that somebody had stolen his wallet the previous night in a bar there.

The Crawford Police Department, which obviously has a lot of crime on its hands for a town of its size (population 1,107), was already investigating a break-in at the city library. The perpetrator did leave behind one incriminating piece of evidence — his wallet.

As it turns out, the wallet found at the scene of the crime happened to be the same wallet the young man had reported stolen. When confronted, he admitted to the break-in.

I don't make the stories up, folks — I just copy them off the Internet.

— How dumb is our nation becoming? Evidence was found at the recent Scripps National Spelling Bee, where protestors were on hand.

Now you would think a spelling bee would be the last place to find protestors. But there they were, a group of people decked out in black-and-yellow bee costumes, protesting that the English language is too tough.

One of the protestors, believe it or not, was an elementary school principal (no, seriously) who claimed the current language "obstructs 40 percent of the population from learning how to read, write and spell."

One of the signs seen in their protest said "Enuf is enuf. Enough is too much."

They also suggested "fruit" should be changed to "froot," "slow" is "slo" and "heifer" should be "hefer." All this was taking place while competitors were tackling words such as "vibrissae," "biauriculate" and "zaibatsu."

There are several words in the dictionary that could best be used to describe those who want our language simplified: mooncalfs, mincompoops, nitwits, imbeciles, schmucks, softheads or tomfools.

Or, we could go with my personal favorite . . . morons.

— From the "Pot, meet kettle" department comes this funny bit about how Republicans (including the "fair and balanced" folks at Fox News) are tripping over themselves trying to be the first to express outrage at the ethics scandals involving fellow House members Charlie Rangel of New York and Maxine Waters of California.

Republicans, and Fox News, are slamming House leader Nancy Pelosi for not following through on her promise to "clear the swamp" of those who are ethically-challenged in the halls of Congress, conveniently forgetting the missteps of some of their own lackeys, including Sen. John Ensign of Nevada, Sen. David Vitter of Louisiana, and Rep. Mark Souder of Indiana.

What's that they say about being careful what you wish for? It seems to me the last people in Washington who should be pointing fingers about ethics violations among Democrats . . . are the Republicans.

— From the "Funniest joke I've had e-mailed to me this week" department: God was missing for six days. Eventually, Michael, the archangel, found him, resting on the seventh day.

He inquired, "Where have you been?"

God smiled deeply and proudly pointed downwards through the clouds, "Look, Michael. Look what I've made."

Archangel Michael looked puzzled, and said, "What is it?" "It's a planet," replied God, and I've put life on it. I'm going to call it Earth and it's going to be a place to test balance."

"Balance?" inquired Michael, "I'm still confused."

God explained, pointing to different parts of Earth. "For example, northern Europe will be a place of great opportunity and wealth, while southern Europe is going to be poor. Over here I've placed a continent of white people, and over there is a continent of black people. Balance in all things."

God continued pointing to different countries. "This one will be extremely hot, while this one will be very cold and covered in ice."

The Archangel, impressed by God's work, then pointed to a land area and said, "What's that one?"

"That's Maryland, the most glorious place on earth. There are beautiful mountains, rivers and streams, lakes, forests, hills, and plains. The people from Maryland are going to be handsome, modest, intelligent, and humorous, and they are going to travel the world. They will be extremely sociable, hardworking, high achieving, carriers of peace, and producers of good things."

Michael gasped in wonder and admiration, but then asked, "But what about balance, God? You said there would be balance."

God smiled, "Right next to Maryland is Washington, DC. Wait till you see the idiots I put there."

Immigration may be addressed

By ED HOWARD
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — A survey indicates a big majority of Nebraska voters want the Legislature to enact an immigration law similar to the Arizona statute that is the center of a federal court case, as well as a national controversy.

Depending on the outcome of the lawsuit brought by the feds against the state of Arizona, the Legislature might well debate a comparable measure in 2011.

Conducted by Rasmussen Reports, the statewide survey of 500 people who described themselves as "likely voters" showed:

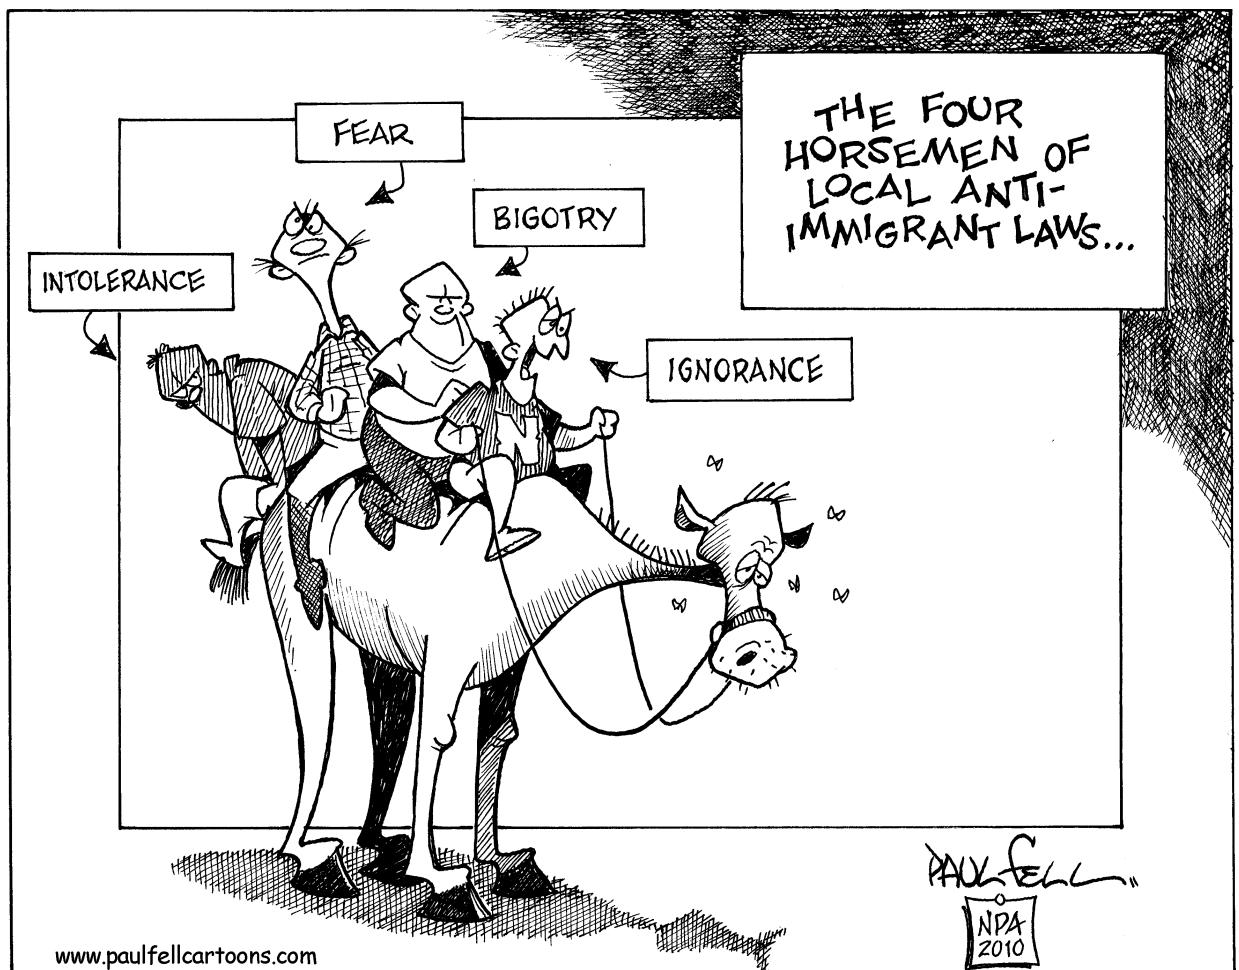

"Seventy-three percent of Nebraska voters favor passage of an Arizona-like immigration law in their state, well above voter sentiments nationally. Nineteen percent oppose such a law . . .

"But 62 percent in Nebraska support a welcoming immigration policy that only excludes national security threats, criminals and those who come to live here to live off the U.S. welfare system."

State Sen. Charlie Janssen of Fremont has authored legislation closely based on the Arizona statute. A federal judge has blocked enforcement of some portions of that law, finding in part that it would involve unconstitutional racial profiling of Hispanics. Janssen has said that, based on the ultimate results of the Arizona case, he would revise his proposal.

Lawmakers presumably could consider other legislation stemming from another federal court case, this one involving the City of Fremont. Local voters adopted an ordinance making it illegal to hire or rent housing to those in the country illegally. It also requires renters to obtain a permit.

The city council suspended enforcement of the ordinance, pending results of the federal litigation.

Nelson And The Stimulus Package

U.S. Sen. Ben Nelson has been talking up the federal economic stimulus package and what it has done for Nebraska, noting that it cut taxes for workers and created more than 3,000 jobs. The stimulus plan, which Democrat Nelson supported, sent about $1 billion to the state. Gov. Dave Heineman and the Legislature used much of it to balance the state's budget, in lieu of additional budget cutting and/or higher state tax rates. Nelson has regularly slammed Heineman for criticizing the stimulus, while using the money for state purposes instead of letting more of it go to local governments.

Nelson is expected to seek re-election in 2012. Republican Heineman is overwhelmingly favored to win re-election this year.

Based on the Rasmussen Reports survey, Nelson has a lot of work to do if he wants Nebraskans to see the stimulus in a positive light. Forty percent of those surveyed said the package actually hurt the economy.

Nelson recently told the Democratic state convention that the stimulus provided workers a $400 tax cut last year " . . . and they'll get it again this year. That's $340 million that Nebraska taxpayers kept [last] year and again this year." He also said it created 3,688 jobs.

Nelson's explanation conflicted sharply with views expressed in the survey, which was taken days earlier. According to Rasmussen Reports:

"Forty percent of voters in Nebraska says the $787-billion economic stimulus package passed last year hurt the economy, while 23 percent say it helped. Most (59 percent) says the increased government spending in the stimulus plan did not create new jobs. By a 70 percent to 12 percent margin, Nebraska voters say cutting taxes is more effective than increasing government spending in creating new jobs."

State cited for healthcare info

I was in Hastings this week to offer my congratulations to Mary Lanning Memorial Hospital on joining the Nebraska Health Information Initiative — better known as NeHII — earlier this year. NeHII is a statewide health information exchange connecting electronic medical records and allowing participating medical providers to access that data quickly and securely.

Mary Lanning and the other participating hospitals are setting an example for the rest of the state. NeHII provides a fast and convenient way for medical information to flow among care givers. It is a perfect example of how technology can provide better efficiency while improving patient safety and the security of medical information.

One year after launching as a statewide exchange, NeHII already contains records for more than 1.6 million patients through participating hospitals in Omaha including Alegent Health, Children's Hospital and Medical Center, Methodist Health System, and The Nebraska Medical Center, as well as Great Plains Regional Medical Center in North Platte, and Mary Lanning in Hastings.

The public and private partners who have developed the Nebraska Health Information Initiative, have made Nebraska a leader in building a platform for medical information to be secure, portable and transferrable. Dr. David Blumenthal, national coordinator for health information technology, visited last week and recognized NeHII and Nebraska as a great example for other states.

This transformation is about more than simply moving from paper-based records to electronic records. It's about creating a way for information to be shared securely but quickly in order to provide faster, better patient care.

The speed of information sharing that a network like this can provide is remarkable. More than 95 percent of information requests for the 12 million diagnostic reports, x-rays and other results already active on the exchange are processed in under two seconds, making this a very valuable tool for hospitals and medical practices in terms of efficiency.

Mary Lanning Memorial Hospital was the first community hospital to join the exchange and launched a public education campaign to help patients and their families understand the benefits of medical providers having access to their records.

Their successful launch is clear evidence that patients and their families want their care givers to be able to access their medical records quickly and easily. Better sharing of information can reduce the need for duplicate medical tests and provide medical professionals a more accurate picture of a patient's status over time.

This week NeHII leaders announced that Omaha's Creighton University Medical Center is planning to be part of the exchange this fall, and that NeHII will expand to allow pharmacies and other medical specialists to become members of the exchange, including: dentists, chiropractors, physicians' assistants, podiatrists, and optometrists.

This is an exciting time. Nebraska has been recognized as a state on the leading edge of health information technology because of the success of the NeHII exchange.

This effort has accomplished something truly outstanding for our state. I hope hospitals and medical professionals across the state will consider the benefits of this new technology. I look forward to NeHII's continued growth and success.

Wet, humid conditions can lead to mold growth

High moisture levels from recent rainfalls and ongoing high humidity are leading public health officials to caution residents regarding mold in homes and other buildings.

"Mold can be a serious issue," said Sara Morgan, Indoor Air Quality Program Manager at the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS). "For the average healthy individual, mold exposure can cause minor symptoms that are similar to an allergic reaction. However, mold can trigger an attack in people with asthma and can cause complications for people with compromised immune systems, so those individuals need to reduce their exposure."

Mold typically originates outside the home and comes into the home through windows and doors, growing most readily in kitchens, bathrooms, and other areas where a water source is present. "No home is mold free," Morgan said. "But if you see mold growing on surfaces, such as walls, trim board, carpeting, etc., that indicates a problem."

Because mold can begin growing if areas stay wet for 48 hours or more, keeping homes dry is a key to preventing mold growth. Prevention may not be an option during heavy rainfall, but once the water has been removed homeowners can begin drying the area out. Wet vacuums and dehumidifiers are tools that can assist in drying materials quickly.

A mold contamination problem does not always require a specialist. "For smaller amounts of contamination, a homeowner can undertake cleanup themselves, making sure to wear proper protective gear such as a face mask and skin protection," Morgan said. "But if the contamination is extensive, a professional may be needed to ensure the appropriate guidance is followed."

Once the area is thoroughly dried, a homeowner conducting mold cleanup should first determine which items are to be discarded and remove them from the area. Those surfaces which are to be salvaged and cleaned should have as much mold physically removed as possible before disinfecting. This is best done with a High Efficiency Particulate Air (HEPA) vacuum. Once mold has been physically removed, surfaces can be cleaned and/or disinfected. "Since the goal is to remove the mold, bleach may not be necessary," said Morgan. "But if using bleach, make sure to use only a 10% solution and thoroughly ventilate the area so occupants don't get sick."

Additional information about cleaning up a mold problem can be found at: www.dhhs.ne.gov/pub/enh/moldaffect.pdf. For local help, residents can find contact information for their local health department by going to www.dhhs.ne.gov/pub/oph/lhd.htm.

Farmers Markets offer local food, economic growth

Buying local produce gives consumers the chance to know where their food comes from and offers economic benefits, which is why it is one of the fastest growing areas in the food economy.

Eating local food from farmers' markets allows people to get back to nature without growing food themselves. They know the farmers who grow the food, some of which are grown with little or no pesticides. However, when shopping at a farmers market, it is important to bring a cooler of ice to store the food in and then return home immediately so the food does not spoil.

Along with providing quality food, farmers markets have economic benefits. For many farmers, selling locally is a significant supplement to their income, if not their entire income. Money spent on mass-produced foods generally leaves the community. However, buying local keeps the money in the community where it circulates and promotes even more economic growth. Restaurants often boast the location of their locally bought food on their menus and thus help promote local agriculture.

Farmers' markets can be found in all types of communities and are especially important in urban areas, which are often food deserts, areas that may have restaurants nearby but there is little access to supermarkets and healthy food.

In 1994, there were only 1,800 farmers markets in the United States. In 2009, there were more than 5,000 in the United States and 67 in Nebraska, according to the Department of Agriculture.

Access to fresh food is important for health, which is why there are several national programs to help those in need buy fresh produce. The Women, Infants, and Children Program (WIC) gives vouchers to buy fruits and vegetables to women with children under the age of 5. WIC vouchers are not accepted in Nebraska, but another program is available for senior citizens. The Senior Farmers' Market

International Convention of LLL held in Omaha

At the recent International Convention of the International Lutheran Laymen's League (Int'l LLL) in Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. Delwyn Daberkow of Laurel were among the 1,000+ people in attendance.

"Spirit Driven" (2 Tim.1:7) was the theme embraced by the 93rd International Convention of the International Lutheran Laymen's League to embolden attendees to remember that God's Spirit reaches deep in our souls to yield the gifts necessary to carry out God's work; power, love and self-discipline. Using these gifts allows all of us the boldness required to reach out with the saving Gospel of Jesus Christ and touch a hurting world.

Ladies Executive Board gathers in Wayne

The Wayne Zone LWML Executive Board meeting met at Grace Lutheran Church, Social Room at Wayne on July 12. President Nila Schuttler called the meeting to order.

Pastor Timothy Steckling gave a wonderful devotion on the "fall of man" based on Genesis 3.

Roll call was answered by 13 members and Pastor Steckling.

Minutes of the Jan. 18 meeting were read and approved as read. No treasurer's report was given.

Nila read a thank you from Orphan Grain Train for the ingathering money of $151. Since last January they have sent 17 containers to Haiti.

Fall Rally will be held at Hope, South Sioux City on Oct. 19 beginning at 9 a.m. The theme will be from Isaiah 64:8 "We are the clay, you are the potter; we are all the work of your hand". The speaker will be Deb Burma from Columbus. Her speaking topic will be: "Cracked Pot or Moldable Clay?" The ingathering will be announced at a later time.

Praise Assembly of God Church schedules events

On Sunday, Aug. 8 at Praise Assembly of God Church, Phil Pfaltzgraff (WSC Staff Accompanist) will be teaching Sunday School, beginning at 9:30 a.m. in the Fireside Room of the church, which is located at 1000 East 10th Street, just east of Providence Road.

The Bible passages being studied are in the "Songs of Ascents" in the book of Psalms, and these begin in Psalm 120 and end in Psalm 134. The congregation currently studying Psalm 124 and will also work on Psalm 125 on Sunday, Aug. 8.

In the morning worship service which begins at 10:30 a.m. in the Sanctuary, Sherry Pfaltzgraff will be preaching in the sanctuary service, continuing a teaching series from the book of Hebrews in the Bible. Praise and Worship led by Ernest Bratcher, Marshall Keough and Phil Pfaltzgraff opens the service, and, as in all services at Praise Assembly, there is always time to pray for people with needs.

The Sunday evening "Healing Service" begins at 6:30 p.m. in the Sanctuary. This is a specific type of service which includes worship, a short period of teaching and then a more lengthy and specific time of praying for the needs of people.

I am reminded of God's great goodness! As economic challenges continue across this country and the world, God blessed the International Lutheran Laymen's League and Lutheran Hour Ministries," said Mick Onnen of Davenport, Int'l LLL President. "Spirit Driven volunteers and supporters like you stepped to the plate to ensure that the ministry's financial needs were met so the Gospel message of our Saviour is shared around the world and churches are supported as they reach out with His love."

Pastor Ken Klaus, Speaker of The Lutheran Hour® shared many powerful messages during The LHM Foundation Meeting, the general session, the Lutheran Hours Ministries Celebration worship service, and many opening and closing prayers throughout the Convention. Convention attendees also took time to recognize Pastor Klaus, who will be retiring from the Speakership at the end of 2010, during several events honoring Pastor Klaus' many years of service to the Int'l LLL and Lutheran Hour Ministries. "Speakers like the years, have come and gone, but by God's grace, and through your continuous commitment, The Lutheran Hour has continued to proclaim a crucified and risen Christ to a lost and dying world," said Pastor Klaus.

The Rev. Matthew Harrison, president-elect of The Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod, surprised the convention attendees with an appearance and stressed that the Int'l LLL will continually be in the prayers. "I already know so many of the LLL Leaders . . . what a fabulous moment to be here. May you be blessed in every way so that the Gospel can go everywhere."

Opening day included special events for both women and men attending the International

Wayne Toastmasters Club acquires a mentor

The Wayne Toastmasters Club is assisting a fellow Toastmaster to expand her leadership skills, while also benefitting from the new relationship.

Michelle Lessmann, from the Siouxland Ciceros Toastmasters Club in South Sioux City is now serving as a mentor for the Wayne group.

Michelle, an attorney with Great West Casualty Company in South Sioux City, is pursuing her Distinguished Toastmaster Award, the highest honor bestowed by Toastmasters. Her term as mentor is one of the last steps before she qualifies for this distinction.

The club mentor helps another club to expand its membership. Membership in the Wayne Toastmasters club is now at nine active members. In its 20 plus years in Wayne, club participation has wavered, sometimes being as high as 25 members. The club is confident they can again attain that level.

"Toastmasters is too good to pass up, once you know about the program," says Nancy Schulz, Vice President of Membership. "People think of Toastmasters for public speaking, and we excel at developing speakers. But Toastmasters is also a way to increase leadership, interpersonal communications, and good listening - all at a bargain price."

The Wayne Club is planning to use creative means to get the word out about club activities under Michelle's mentorship. They invite one and all to attend a meeting and see for themselves how enjoyable it can be to develop their communication and leadership skills.

Club meetings take place at 7 a.m. at Tacos & More on the first and third Thursdays of the month, and at noon on the second and fourth Thursdays, also at Tacos & More. Feel free to drop in, or contact any Toastmaster for more information. Darrell Miller, a founding member of the club, is an excellent source of information. You can reach Darrell at 402-375-4698.

Convention. LHM's Phyllis Wallace hosted a Ladies' Luncheon during which she interviewed noted Lutheran humorist Jan Struck about finding joy in Jesus Christ during any situation you may face. While the ladies were enjoying the interview, more than 300 men from the Convention visited Omaha's legendary Rosenblatt Stadium to celebrate the progress of the Men's NetWork, one of LHM's newest ministries, and to watch the world premiere of an upcoming Bible study on the stadium's Jumbotron scoreboard.

Immanuel Lutheran Ladies conduct July meeting

Immanuel Lutheran Ladies Aid of rural Wakefield met July 15.

Nila Schuttler led devotions taken from Romans 10: 8-11 and closed with prayer.

Six members answered roll call. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read. Marci Roeber gave the visitation report. It was Mite Box Day.

Members were reminded that the LWML Fall Rally will be held Oct. 19, 2010.

Byron and Marci Roeber were honored with the anniversary song.

The meeting closed with The Lord's Prayer and table prayer. Marci Roeber served lunch.

Conservation reserve program sign-up important for Nebraska

"This sign-up opportunity for USDA's Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) is critical to the Nebraska environment and for a greener and healthier America," announced Farm Service Agency State Executive Director Dan Steinkruger. "Interested farmers and landowners should contact their local FSA office to schedule an appointment between Aug. 2 and 27, 2010 if they are interested in the program."

As of Aug. 1, 2010, Nebraska has 1,092,760 acres under contract in the CRP. On Sept. 30, 2010 there are 179,185 acres expiring from contracts or 16.4 percent of the total Nebraska acreage. Steinkruger noted, "Nebraska needs a strong enrollment in this program period to maintain the environmental benefits we have built in past years under the CRP."

CRP is a voluntary program that assists farmers, ranchers and other agricultural producers to use their environmentally sensitive land for conservation benefits. Producers enrolling in CRP plant long-term, resource-conserving covers in exchange for rental payments, cost-share, and technical assistance. CRP protects millions of acres of America's topsoil from erosion and is designed to improve the nation's natural resources base. Participants voluntarily remove environmentally sensitive land from agricultural production by entering into long-term contracts for 10 to 15 years. In exchange, participants receive annual rental payments and a payment of up to 50 percent of the cost of establishing conservation practices.

FSA implements CRP on behalf of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

FSA will evaluate and rank eligible CRP offers using an Environmental Benefits Index (EBI) for environmental benefits to be gained from enrolling the land in CRP. The EBI consists of five environmental factors (wildlife, water, soil, air and enduring benefits) and cost. Decisions on the EBI cutoff will be made after the sign-up ends and after analyzing the EBI data of all the offers.

Those who would have met previous sign-up EBI thresholds are not guaranteed a contract under this sign-up. In addition to the general sign-up, CRP's continuous sign-up program will be ongoing. Continuous acres represent the most environmentally desirable and sensitive land. For more information, visit www.fsa.usda.gov/crp.

Soybean Management Field Days planned to be held on Aug. 10-13

It's been a busy week with a lot of activities going on at the Dixon and Wayne county fairs.

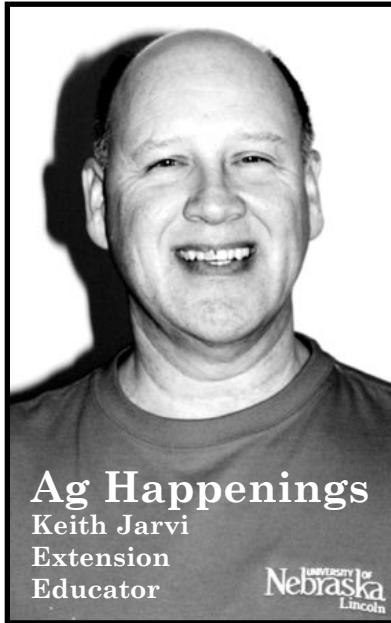

I would like to thank all the volunteers, judges, superintendents, and parents who make the 4H aspects a rewarding and learning experience for the kids. Livestock shows, clothing, and other exhibits are a lot like weddings. A lot of effort goes in to the planning and everyone wants it to go perfectly, but usually something goes wrong and has to be fixed or adjusted. It's just a part of life. That being said, I'm ready for a few days off.

It's time for the 2010 version of Soybean Management Days. Growing Nebraska's Future is the theme of the 12th annual event occurring on Aug. 10-13. The event will focus on staying competitive in a global marketplace, increasing profits and meeting the world's growing food and energy needs starting right here in Nebraska. The field days are sponsored by the Nebraska Soybean Board in partnership with UNL Extension in the university's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources and are funded through checkoff dollars. The efforts of the checkoff are directed by the United Soybean Board.

The field days will offer producers unbiased and research-based information to improve their soybean profitability. The event consists of four field stops across the state, each with demonstration plots, lunch and time for questions. Producers can obtain ideas and insight about the challenges they face in producing a quality crop at a profitable price in today's global economy.

Topics include: nutrient management issues for soybean production; bio based products update; managing new and emerging diseases, insects, and weed problems; improving harvest, storage, and marketing strategies; and managing a soybean crop for optimal light capture and seasonal water use.

By participating in the Soybean Management Field Days, producers will see their checkoff dollars at

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension
Educator

work bringing leading technology and ideas to producers. University of Nebraska and industry agronomists, plant disease, and insect specialists will be available to address production-related questions. Participants can bring unknown crop problems for complimentary identification.

The field days begin with 9 a.m. registration and conclude at 2:30 p.m. Free registration is available the day of the event. The nearest locations and dates to northeast Nebraska are:

• Aug. 12, Tekamah, Larry Mussack Farm. From Tekamah: Go eight miles north on Highway 75 and then 1/4-mile east on County Road P. From Decatur: Go seven miles south on Highway 75 and 1/4 mile east on County Road P. Field site is on south side of the road.

• Aug. 13, near Mead, UNL's Agricultural Research and Development Center. From Lincoln: Take Highway 77 north out of Lincoln toward Wahoo. The turnout is located 20 miles north on Highway 77. (You will see a green Univ. of Nebraska Agricultural R & D Center sign, a Highway 66/77 sign and a Wahoo/Ashland/Ithaca sign right before the turn.) Turn east onto Highway 66 and travel 6 and 3/4 miles to the August N. Christenson Research and Education Building. Field site is located on south side of the road, south of the building.

For more information about the field days and maps to sites, visit the Soybean Management Field Days Web site at <http://ardc.unl.edu/soydays>, contact the Nebraska Soybean Board at (800)852-BEAN or UNL Extension at 1-800-529-8030.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NEBRASKA DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY
Lincoln, Nebraska

Pursuant to NDEQ's Title 118 - Ground Water Quality Standards and Use Classification, public notification and opportunity for comment is hereby given of the following:

- On or about September 7, 1990, a petroleum release was identified originating from a storage tank system owned by Feeders Elevator (#1), Inc. The source of the release is located at 410 Fairgrounds Avenue, Wayne. An approximate legal location is SW1/4, SE1/4, NW1/4, Section 18, Township 26N, Range 04E, Wayne County.
- Follow-up investigation identified the effects of the release and led to the remedial actions proposed by NDEQ. The investigation resulted in a determination that this ground water contamination event is defined as remedial action class two.
- The source of the release has been removed. A Risk-Based Corrective Action (RBCA) Tier 1 assessment was conducted. The assessment indicated the presence of dissolved petroleum compounds in ground water. The contaminant concentrations found were below the numerical levels used by the RBCA process to establish a need for further investigation or remediation. The NDEQ has determined that no further remedial action is necessary due to the lack of threat to human health or safety. Information regarding this release is contained in NDEQ file IIS#47260, LST#11070-EPP-0900. SEWER CLEANING NOTICE — July-August, 2010
During the next couple weeks, the City of Wayne Sewer Department will be having sewer mains cleaned in various parts of the City. The majority of the sewer cleaning will take place in the area north of 7th Street and east of Main Street and south of 7th Street and west of Main Street. In this process, high pressure water is forced through the sewer pipe to clean it. This pushes solid materials to the manholes so they can be removed by vacuuming. This entire process is necessary to keep obstructions out of the sewer system and insure proper drainage of waste. Residents should be aware that when this process is done, the high pressure water pushes the air in the sewer line which occasionally enters the private sewer lines into homes and businesses. If this happens, it can result in the air exiting through the toilet bowl, shooting the water out of the toilet bowl. This air should exit through the sewer vent of the building, but inadequate venting or location of toilets can cause the air to exit through the toilet. This is a rare occurrence and keeping the lid closed on the toilet during this time will keep most of the water in the bowl rather than the floor. If you have any questions about the sewer cleaning process or the areas the sewer main cleaning will take place, you can call the Wastewater Treatment Plant at 375-5250 or City Hall at 375-1733.
Thank you — Garry Poutre — City of Wayne Utilities Superintendent.
