Tractor ride passes through Wayne

A total of 39 tractors made a stop in Wayne on Sunday afternoon as part of the Lesser Nebraska Tractor Ride. The second annual event drew tractors and drivers from throughout northeast Nebraska and several other states. Organizer Wayne Erickson said the ride, involving tractors at least 20 years old, began in Wisner and traveled to Pilger before heading up 571st Avenue into Wayne. The group stopped in Wayne and ate lunch at Geno's Steakhouse before heading back to Wisner, via county roads east of Wayne, passing through Altona on their route.

Building improvements, baseball program highlight school board agenda

Maynenews .com

By Clara Osten, Of the Herald

The costs of making repairs and renovating portions of Wayne Elementary School and the possibility of re-instituting baseball as a school sport were among the items on the agenda when the Wayne Community School Board of Education met in regular session on Monday.

Jon Carlson of Carlson West Povondra spoke to the board and those in the audience on needed ADA updates and improvements needed on the 51 year-old Elementary

He showed pictures of needed improvements and cost estimates for the various projects. Preliminary estimates indicate the cost would be at least $1.8 million. Following Carlson's presentation, Board member Rod Garwood asked if the repairs would be "a $1.8 million band-aide?" A meeting has been planned for Monday,

Aug. 23 in the Elementary School gym for the purpose of discussing the district's options for the building.

A considerable amount of discussion was held on the possibility of re-instuting baseball as a school sport at Wayne High School.

Wayne Baseball Association President Jackie Zeiss told the board that the Association would like to see the sport as part of the school schedule by the spring of 2011. She talked about the history of the Baseball Association and noted that, through the years, the reputation of the program has grown. In addition, teams for younger players, (Junior and Pony League) have been added.

Mike Mallette, former Wayne High School baseball coach, spoke about the history of the program at Wayne High School. He was other schools in the area. the first coach and was part of the program from 1966 to 1984. He talked about the on Monday, Aug. 23 at 7 p.m. at Wayne "happy memories of those who were a part Elementary School gym to discuss options of the program,"

"with an open mind."

Dennis "Herman" Caroll, a former member of the Wayne baseball team, told the board that he was in support of adding the sport to the high school and noted that the school offers four sports for girls in the fall and the addition of baseball would make three sports for boys in the spring.

It was noted that there are currently 23 boys who have indicated they would like to be a part of the team, several of which are not out for other spring sports. Jacob Zeiss, Daniel Melena and Adam Hoffman, current and past members of the American Legion team, also spoke to the board in support of having a baseball program at the high school.

After the presentation, the board indicated that they will consider the request at the September meeting of the board.

In other action, the board accepted, with regrets, the resignation of Daniel Judd as Middle School custodian. Judd has been employed by the school for three years.

The board heard reports from each of the building principals and Misty Beair, Director of Special Education. Daryl Schrunk, Elementary School principal said that summer school for 56 students is just finishing and was wellreceived by those involved. Rocky Ruhl, Athletic Director, told the board that fall practices have begun and that the Fall Sports Kick-Off will be held Friday, Aug. 20.

Superintendent Mark Lenihan told the board that the district is awaiting final land values before finalizing the 2010-2011 budget. These numbers should be available by Aug. 20.

Board members approved a pay raise of $5 per day for substitute teachers. Superintendent Lenihan said that the increase would put the district in line with

Of The Herald

The deep satisfaction that comes from creating a masterful work of art or from cooking the perfect personalized meal can be conjured up in many other ways. One of those avenues for achieving such gratification in creating something grand is when a collection is finally complete. Whether this collector's interest lies in comics, cards or coins is irrelevant to the mental inebriation derived from the act of completing the interested party's set.

Such a collection recently came to fruition in Wakefield's Sidelines Bar & Grille. After Kenny and Charlene Schroeder collected license plates from all 50 states – in three years, to the month - the new owners of the bar A.J. and Diane Johnson were intent on creating a new set, all 93 of Nebraska's counties.

This collection was finalized when the Johnson's obtained a Pawnee (54) county plate. Their state and Nebraska county plate collections, totaling 50 and 93 respectively, span several eras and background designs of license plates and account for less than half of their plate col-

"The personalized plates are a great conversation starter," claims A.J., "People come in and try to decipher the personalized plates' meanings." One plate even bears a family name, but backwards. "You would be hard pressed to ever guess that unless you knew them personally," says Kenny Schroeder, the original collector.

Kenny also hand painted a sign that lists all 93 of Nebraska's counties and gives their corresponding number. One small snag is that the Nebraska license plate system recently changed the format ont two. The Johnsons are thinking of it's top three populated coun- of ways to utilize the spare plates ties, Douglas, Gage and Lancaster. they have amassed over the past Despite this hitch, the Johnsons and Schroeders were able to collect both the numbered county plates and the newer alpha-numeric plates for the first three counties the future they'll rise even higher! There is, however, something you can do to counteract this energy sticker shock. For some homes, up to 50 percent of the energy used annually is for heating and cooling. Fortunately, you have an option to minimize this expense.

August energy tip - heat and cool your home efficiently

· What is a heat pump? When you drive by a house, you can't tell if the heating/cooling equipment is a heat pump or an air conditioner - they look the same, are connected to the furnace the same, and they perform the same in the summer in terms of cooling and efficiency; however, heat pumps are able to also heat in the winter.

· Why does this matter? Because Commission is distributing book bags containing fourteen paperback copies; these books are available for checkout at the Wayne Public Library until Aug. 20.

"This is a thought-provoking book to read anytime, and we have added two copies to the young adult collection so they will be available after the paperbacks have gone back to the commission," said Julie Osnes, Youth Services Librarian.

"We will also have two programs to further promote the book. On Thursday, Aug. 12, Stephanie Lochmiller, from Nebraska Organ Recovery, will speak about the positive aspects of organ donation to teens at 4 p.m. On Thursday, Aug. 19 at 4 p.m. there will also be a book discussion about "Unwind." tioning is the number one protective factor against heat-related illness and death.

If a home is not air-conditioned, people can reduce their risk for heat-related illness by spending time in public facilities that are airconditioned.

Summertime activity, whether on the playing field or the construction site, must be balanced with measures that aid the body's cooling mechanisms and prevent heatrelated illness. This pamphlet tells how you can prevent, recognize, and cope with heat-related health

What Is Extreme Heat?

Conditions of extreme heat are defined as summertime temperatures that are substantially hotter and/or more humid than average for location at that time of year. Humid or muggy conditions, which add to the discomfort of high temperatures, occur when a "dome" of high atmospheric pressure traps hazy, damp air near the ground. Extremely dry and hot conditions can provoke dust storms and low visibility. Droughts occur when a long period passes without substantial rainfall. A heat wave combined with a drought is a very dangerous

Wayne State Football picked fourth in NSIC South Division preseason coaches poll, sixth overall

Wayne State College was picked Sun Conference South Division and sixth overall in the 2010 Preseason NSIC Football Coaches Poll released Tuesday morning by the league office in St. Paul, Minnesota. League coaches tabbed Wildcat senior wide receiver Frederick Bruno and senior linebacker Anthony Hale as Wildcat players to watch in the NSIC this season. Minnesota Duluth was the unanimous selection to repeat as the league champion in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference this season while UMD and Minnesota State were chosen as the top teams in the North and South Divisions respectively.

The Wildcats received a total of 24 points in the South Division poll, trailing Minnesota State (36), Augustana (27) and Winona State (26). Southwest Minnesota State (15), Concordia-St. Paul (13) and Upper Iowa (6) round out the South Division poll. In the North Division, Minnesota Duluth was a unanimous choice with 36 points followed by St. Cloud State (29), Bemidji State (28), University of Mary (20), Northern State (17), MSU Moorhead (11) and Minnesota,

In the overall preseason NSIC Football Coaches Poll, Minnesota Duluth received 13 of 14 first place votes (coaches cannot vote for their own team) and 169 points followed by Minnesota State with the remaining first place vote and 157 points. Augustana and St. Cloud State tied for third with 125 points with Bemidji State in fifth at 122 points. Wayne State came in sixth at 116 points with Winona State (114), University of Mary (74), Southwest Minnesota State (73) and Concordia-St. Paul (72) filling out the top 10. Northern State (45). Upper Iowa (41), MSU Moorhead (26) and Minnesota, Crookston (15) conclude the 2010 Preseason NSIC Football Coaches Poll.

Seniors Frederick Bruno and Anthony Hale were tabbed as Wildcat Players to Watch in the NSIC this season by league coaches. Bruno, a 5-8, 210 pound senior wide receiver/kick returner from Miami, Florida, was an AFCA Division II All-American wide receiver last season for the Wildcats after topping the NSIC in receptions and receiving yards per game. He finished with 77 catches for 1,163 yards and ranked third in NCAA Division II in all-purpose yards per game (197.27). Bruno ranked seventh in NCAA Division II last season in receiving yards per game and was 11th in receptions per game. He is a CDS (Consensus Draft Services) Pre Season All-American kick returner entering this season after averaging 22.5 yards per kickoff return last season.

Hale, a 5-10, 205 pound linebacker from Dale City, California, is Wayne State's top returning tackler after notching 59 tackles and a team-high 13.5 tackles for loss last season. He finished tied for the team lead in interceptions with four for 117 return yards and also had 6.5 sacks for the Wildcats last season to earn All-NSIC South Division Second Team Defensive Wayne State College finished the 2009 season with an 8-3 overall record, going 7-3 in the NSIC to finish in a tie for third place. The Wildcats open the 2010 season on the road at Nebraska-Kearney on Saturday, August 28 at 6:00 p.m. and play their home opener on Saturday, September 11 against Minnesota, Crookston at 1:00 p.m.

Wayne junior Max Morris tees off on hole number 16 during club tourney action. Morris placed runner-up.

Burgandy Roberts chips on to hole three. The junior finished second.

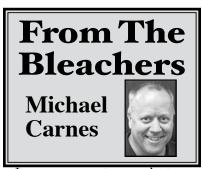

WSC women's teams gearing up

If it's August, then that means football season is right around the

Now if you know me well enough (and, after a year at the sports desk, I think you do), you know that I'm a BIG football fan. I love it, from stalking the sidelines on Friday nights to fall Saturday afternoons on campus and Sundays parked in front of the TV watching the NFL (and stressing over my fantasy teams), this is my favorite time of the sports calendar.

This year, though, I'm excited about something that's about as far away from the gridiron as a guy can get. Believe it or not, I'm actually looking forward to women's sports. This has the makings of what could best be described as a magical nine months in the history of Wayne State athletics.

During the last few years, the volleyball, basketball and softball programs have all made considerable progress and have had a good deal of success. The volleyball team made their fifth straight trip to nationals. The basketball team won the NSIC and just missed out on a No. 1 seed for the NCAA Div. II tournament. The softball team won their regional and came oh-so-close to making their first-ever College Softball World Series.

It was a great year last season for those three teams. But last year's accomplishments could wind up being nothing but a warm-up for what could be ahead this coming

All three teams will have the ultimate trifecta working in their favor this coming year. All three have great coaching. All three have solid experienced players returning. All three have filled out their rosters with outstanding young talent from the high school and junior college

These teams are lo-o-o-o-o-a-de-e-e-e-d. We're talking the kind of loaded that will cause opposing coaches to spend many a sleepless night trying to answer the same question: "How the (bleep) are we going to stop Wayne State?"

The first of the trio comes this fall, when Scott Kneifl's volleyball team gears up for what will be a fun

The Wildcats return a ton of talent from a team that went 29-8 and reached the semifinals of the NCAA Central Region before losing to eventual three-time Div. II champion Concordia-St. Paul.

There are a lot of familiar names back from last year, including Diedra Artz, Mindy Moody, Tali Fredrickson and second-team All-American Jennifer Hefner, who could be in the discussion for firstteam status this year.

Circle two dates on your calendars. On Tuesday, Sept. 21, the Wildcats will entertain an alwaystough Nebraska-Kearney team, and on Friday, Oct. 29, Wayne State will host Concordia-St. Paul, which hasn't lost a match in quite some time and will be going after an unprecedented fourth consecutive national title. There won't be much of a layoff before basketball season kicks into gear, and while it's way too early to start throwing the phrase "National Champion Wayne State Wildcats" around, this is a team that has the tools that could get them to the Elite Eight next March in St.

Joseph, Mo. All but one player from last year's

NSIC All-Tournament standouts

Ashley Arlen and Mara Hjelle Coach Chris Kielsmeier has added some great talent, including a couple of Div. I transfers, that should make Wayne State one of the top 25 teams in the nation when the preseason rankings come out later

Once the snow melts, softball will take center stage with a team that, like basketball, returns with all but one player from last year's team.

Coach Krista Unger did a great job recruiting in the off-season, and she'll add that young talent to a group that won the NSIC tournament title and won their own regional last year. With Katie Goetzinger back throwing bullets and a solid defense behind her, Wayne State could find themselves improving on last year's school-record 43 wins and, quite possibly, punch a ticket to the College Softball World Series next spring.

Of course, there's a lot of football (and other sports) to cover, both at Wayne State College and throughout our five-school area, and I'm looking forward to what should be another great year of sports coverage in our area. It should be a great year for sports here, and Wayne State's women's athletic teams have team is back this year, including the potential to make it a magical year in Wayne, America.

Your Legislative Update Capitol View

Greetings from the Unicameral! This week, I look forward to joining with many Northeast Nebraska residents in making my case against the recent decision by the Department of Health & Human Services (DHHS) to terminate contracts with out-of-state providers for individuals with developmental disabilities. Since this crisis first came to light, I have met with numerous parents, health care providers, and education officials who share my concerns about the negative consequences of ending services for Nebraskans at Ability Building Services (ABS) in Yankton, South Dakota and Goodwill Industries in Sioux City, Iowa.

On Thursday Aug. 12, individuals affected by the decision will have the opportunity to voice their complaints at a hearing before the Legislature's Developmental Disabilities Special Investigative Committee. The hearing, which will be held at 1:00 p.m. in Room 1524 of the Nebraska State Capitol in Lincoln, will give families an open forum to argue that ABS and Goodwill should remain an option for Northeast Nebraskans whose needs may otherwise be unmet. Anyone with questions about the hearing should contact my office at the number listed below.

For the past two years, my office at the Capitol has been in the hands of my excellent legislative staff -Legislative Aide Trevor Fitzgerald and Administrative Assistant Bri McLarty. Many District 17 residents who come to me with problems or questions know first-hand how much I rely on my staff, as often my first step in helping find solutions is to have them call Bri or Trevor in my office. It is with some licosity, accompanied by simplissadness then that I must announce tic and parochial views of major that effective August 16th, Trevor problems. Cemetery honors veterans

From 1941 through 1945, our nation was engaged in the most expansive war this world has ever known. Nebraskans were called to duty so that our country would never experience the devastation that war had brought to Europe

On the home front, military bases were constructed in several communities throughout our state so that young men and women could be trained in the military skills necessary to defeat the tyranny we faced in World War II.

The service members stationed at these bases came from Nebraska and other states throughout the country. What they all found was a second home and family-like moral support. Memories and structures still exist that remind of us of the sacrifices required of that generation. It is among the fields of one of these former bases that raises Nebraska's newest monument.

In 2006, I signed legislation to create a state veterans cemetery system to honor the service that Nebraskans have offered our nation. This system will have a multi-purpose mission. It will exist as a shrine to honor our veterans who have passed, and this cemetery will serve as a location to educate our children about patriotism and the price of freedom. Annual ceremonies held at these facilities on Memorial Day, Veterans Day, and other significant dates will allow Nebraskans to preserve our heritage and celebrate the principles by

The first of these state veteran cemeteries is currently under construction in Box Butte County. Land that was once used as an Army Airbase to train paratroopers and glider pilots has been transformed into a landscaped memorial filled with native trees and plants of Western Nebraska. Burial fields exist at the facility to house more than 8,000 veterans in their final resting place. Upright marble head-stones, like the ones provided at Arlington National Cemetery, will be placed on each grave.

Once construction is complete, the Nebraska Veterans Cemetery at Alliance will provide interment and committal services for Nebraska veterans, the veteran's spouse, and their dependent children. Through this facility and the ones to follow, Nebraskans will be able to express their thanks for the sacrifices these veterans and their families endured so that our way of life is forever pre-

On Aug.13, I will be in Alliance to dedicate the new cemetery that many Nebraskans already consider hallowed ground. We know that it is not legislation or a declaration that makes a piece of ground sacred, rather our recognition. The spirit of patriotism that flooded this land during WWII remains today. Henceforth, it will be accompanied by the graves of veterans and their family members to demonstrate true patriotism.

I invite all Nebraskans to attend the Dedication Ceremony of Nebraska's first state veteran cemetery. Together, we will demonstrate true gratitude and recognition that the price of freedom is never free.

what's important to the family. Is it more important for a child to forgo a family milestone - a grandparent's 75th birthday celebration, for example – to attend a regularly scheduled ball game? It would be nice to do both, but . . . parents should weigh the options and talk with the child about the pros and cons. Doing so can help the child develop an understanding of the decision-making process.

· Evaluate activities, but know that there will be times when a parent has to make the decisions. Helping a child learn to choose can empower the child to narrow his or her focus. That's not the same as saying a child shouldn't have the opportunity to explore his or her interests. One caution, though: Parents who push children into activities that they missed during their childhood usually do their child a disservice. Listen to your child, and watch to see where their interests lie. Try also to learn as much as you can about an activity or program and the commitment it requires before enrolling.

· Maintain family rituals, including those that might seem routine. Rituals let everyone know what to expect. Be intentional. If Sunday evening is family night, protect it. If eating together only every other night is possible, protect the time - turn off the radio and television, hold phone calls - and talk to each other. If supper won't work, how about breakfast? Or, a more leisurely weekend brunch? Be creative, but follow through. Preserve family time, and make a date to resolve conflicts later.

· Support your child, but don't feel pressured to attend every event. If, for example, an older child has an activity or event in the evening, one parent may decide to attend while the other parent cares for younger children. The next time, the other parent might attend the older child's event. There will be times when the whole family will want to attend, but the reality is that attending every event may add unnecessary stress to family life. One-on-one time with a child can be beneficial, too.

Altona women hold brunch

Because of scheduling difficulties, First Trinity LWML of Altona did not hold a meeting in July. Several members attended Guest Day at Our Savior Lutheran Church on July 21.

The annual no-host brunch was held Aug. 6 at the home of Clara Heinemann. Following the brunch, the lesson was given by Rev. Ohlman.

President Pearl Youngmeyer presided at the business meeting. The LWML Pledge was recited as the mite box offering was taken. The minutes and treasurer's reports were approved as read.

Food for the Zone Bible Institute to be held at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne on Oct. 31 was discussed. First Trinity is to provide chili for 30 people, dessert for five dozen and two pounds of sliced ham for the supper to be held.

The Institute will begin with a professor from Concordia Theological Seminary, Ft. Wayne, Ind. speaking on "The Laying on of Hands." The supper will follow with each church in the Wayne circuit furnishing food. Following the supper, a Reformation worship service will be held.

The Fair Booth was discussed. Winner of the "New King James Bible" was Melissa Volmer of Yankton, S.D.

The meeting closed with The Lord's Prayer and all singing "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

Praise Assembly of God continues healing services

Praise Assembly of God Church, located at 1000 East 10th Street in Wayne, welcomes visitors to attend the services this Sunday morning and evening.

Sunday School at 9:30 a.m. meets in the Fireside Room and the adult class is taught by Phil Pfaltzgraff. The Bible Study is a sequential study of Psalms 120-134, known at the "Songs of Ascents". On Aug. 15 the class will study Psalm 124 and Morning Worship begins at 10:30 a.m. in the sanctuary with the worship team leading Praise and Worship. Rev. David Stitt, pastor of the church, will be speaking, continuing a series of messages on the "Healing of Relationships."

The Sunday evening "Healing Service" begins at 6:30 p.m. with praise and worship, a time of teaching, and concludes with a time of praying for the needs of all who are in attendance at the service.

Those taking part in the summer field trip were, front row, left to right, Megan Forsberg, Makayla Forsberg, Lorna Maxon, Andrea Torres, James Torres and Lindsey Kallhoff. week; specifically, chairs with wheels. Wheelchairs! Orphan Grain Train provided some of their donated chairs at the convention I worked at, and they were well used. Some of the attendees had not planned on all the walking involved at the Qwest Center.

Then, there is the seminarian friend who made a mission trip to Guatemala this spring and met a young man who desperately needs a wheelchair. I gave him the name of OGT; plus, an outfit called Wheels for the World. The founder of this organization has come up with a light weight, collapsible chair that can be shipped cheaply. And, of course, there is Joni and Friends, the quadriplegic gal who tries to supply wheelchairs where they are needed.

Last week, on Thursday eve, attended a reception for Ms. Wheelchair Nebraska at the Downtown Holiday Inn here in Lincoln. I had read that the current Ms. Wheelchair was a nurse from Waco and I had been wanting to meet her. As luck would have it, I arrived in the parking garage right after her and her husband and daughter, so I got to introduce myself as we waited for the eleva-

She introduced a lovely family and brought us up to date with the fun stuff she's been doing since being crowned state winner. The quote I remember best was "we women in wheelchairs can do amazing things if you just stay out of our way!" She will be a terrific advocate for disability issues, and by the way, it's twenty years since the Americans with Disability Act.

If you need an energetic motivational speaker, she's a good bet. I left with a very upbeat attitude, thinking if these gals can do what they do, what am I complaining about? (Only arthritis, memory loss, and the other hallmarks of old

One of the topics will cover flexible leasing, which is a concept being more widely adopted in farming. Essentially, it is an agreement which helps tenants and renters manage risk by agreeing to some changes if crop yields and/or prices are exceptionally high or low. If high, the tenant may pay more based on the good production/price. If low, the renter may accept less to help the tenant overcome some potential cash problems. This is a topic worth its own meeting and we may hold one later on in the year.

Little yellow butterflies abundant this year

By Wayne Ohnesorg UNL Extension Educator

Perhaps you have seen the myriads of small, yellow butterflies that have been quite abundant the past few weeks. They are known collectively as sulphur butterflies.

Two species seem to be making up the vast majority of them, orange sulphur and clouded sulphur. The orange sulphur is by far the more abundant of the two. To tell them apart you need to look at the top of the wings. Orange sulphurs have a brush of orange to a lot of orange coloration over the yellow portion of their wings. Clouded sulphurs lack the brush of orange, but they do have a round, orange spot on each hind wing.

Caterpillars of these butterflies feed on plants in the legume family. This includes beans, alfalfa, sweet clover, and red clover. Orange sulphur caterpillars can be readily found on alfalfa and the butterfly is sometimes called "alfalfa butterfly" because of this. Clouded sulphurs caterpillars prefer red clo-

The weather conditions must be right for populations to get to the level experienced this year. Other than that it is hard to say exactly what has caused such an explosion in the population of these butterflies. It may be that hay cutting was delayed this year during the heavy rains received in June. Delayed hay cutting would provide ample time for caterpillars to finish feeding and growing on the alfalfa or red clover of the hay field. What we are seeing now could be a result of those lengthened growing periods for the caterpillars.

Sulphur butterflies pose little to no threat to the homeowner's lawn or garden. They are also not likely to be a serious pest of agricultural crops. High populations of caterpillars are not found in soybean fields. With alfalfa, or other legumes used for hay, populations of caterpillars rarely reach damaging levels. Given the little risk posed by these butterflies, I recommend that you kick back and enjoy the immense show of yellow visiting the flowers

STREET-SMART SAFETY TIPS

Cross the street at designated crosswalks, and always look both ways first.

Obey all traffic signals, signs and crossing guards. If you ride a bike to school, make sure you wear a helmet.

At the bus stop, stay out of the street and wait for the bus to stop completely before approaching it.

On the bus, stay seated and keep your head and arms inside the bus at all times.

Use the handrail when exiting the bus, and cross the street at least 10 giant steps in front of the bus.

Tell a teacher or parent if you are being bullied by somebody at school.

Try not to walk to school alone. Walk with a friend, neighbor, parent or sibling.

Never talk to strangers, and never accept rides or gifts from anyone you don't know.

Never tell someone on the phone that there are no adults at home after school.

When home alone, keep the door shut and locked at all times.

Carry your backpack on both shoulders, and try not to carry too many books at once.

SCHOOL BUS SAFETY TIPS

- 1. Arrive at the bus stop at least five minutes before the bus is scheduled to stop there.
- 2. Stand at least three giant steps away from the curb when the bus approaches.
- 3. Line up away from the street when you're boarding the bus.
- 4. Wait until the bus comes to a complete stop, the door opens, and the driver welcomes you before stepping onto the bus.
- 5. If you have to cross the street in front of the bus, walk on the sidewalk or along the side of the road to a point at least five giant steps in front of the bus. Make sure the bus driver can see you, and you can see the bus driver, before crossing.
- 6. Use the handrails to avoids falls.
 - 7. Never walk behind the bus.
- 8. If you drop something near the bus, always tell the bus driver before reaching down to retrieve it.
- 9. Keep your feet and backpack clear of the aisle.10. Sit quietly, so the bus driver can concentrate on driving you safely.

Leaning Forward in your Foxhole

Leaders don't seek popularity, they seek results. Nebraska needs a leader with the ability to recognize a

Mike Meister problem as it arises and the willingness to make the tough decisions; to be the solution and not the problem.

Under Dave Heinemann's watch the state budget has grown 25%. Now Nebraska faces a 3/4 billion dollar budget deficit and he wants to take a wait and see approach.

In the choice between leadership and inaction, Dave Heineman chooses inaction.

This is no way to run our state. The Nebraska GOP chair has consistently said that Dave Heinemann has "navigated with a steady hand." My response is that the Captain of the Titanic had a steady hand until he hit the ice berg.

Do you want to wait until we hit a 3/4 of a billion dollar iceberg or do you want someone with forward thinking, innovative ideas to change course and get our state back on track? Leadership means action in the face of tough decisions. Dave Heineman has provided few solutions for the looming budget iceberg. An AWOL captain cannot steer the ship of state. We need a change in direction. We need surgical budget cuts that do not hurt services to our most vulnerable cit-

I would like to thank State National Bank and Trust Co. for purchasing me at the 4-H Bonus Auction. Your support of 4-H is appreciated. Anna Osten

I would like to thank Kiwanis Club President Josh Hopkins and the members of the Wayne Kiwanis Club for honoring me with the presentation of the Outstanding Retired Educator Award. I am humbled by the honor and will treasure the beautiful plaque. Pride always fills my heart when I read of the achievements of my students in whatever endeavor it may be: academic achievement, fine arts, sports, 4-H, supporting one another as they grieve for a fellow classmate, or serving their country to defend our freedom. I'm proud, for I know that I had the privilege of touching their lives for a very brief time. I also share in the heartache when I read of their misfortune or unhappiness and wonder if there's something I could have or should have done that could have made the difference in the outcome. Teaching children is a blessing and I will forever be grateful for the opportunity I was given in serving the children, parents, administration, school boards and people of the Wayne and Carroll communities.

May everyone involved in the education of our youth have a fantastic school year. Best wishes always for happiness and success.

God's Blessings to all, Patricia A. Jenkins Rohde (Mrs. Jenkins)
