Chamberlain is city's choice

Ward Four to be chosen by mayor – winner no longer a resident

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Ken Chamberlain won't have a whole lot of time to get comfortable in his new chair at the Wayne City Office.

The current Ward Four City Councilman was elected the new mayor of Wayne by voters who cast ballots Tuesday, picking up more than 58 percent of the vote in his race with former City Councilwoman Jane O'Leary. He'll have to work quickly to find his replacement, though, as the winner of the election for his replacement on the city's governing board no longer lives in the city.

Stephanie Hansen received 62.4 percent of the vote in her race with Patty Wieland for Chamberlain's soon-to-be-vacant seat, but Hansen moved out of town several months ago and did not have her name removed from the ballot.

Chamberlain, who will fill the seat that becomes vacant with the end of Lois Shelton's first full term as mayor in December, said he will be taking applications from residents in Ward Four who are interested in representing their area on the Council.

"I'll be asking those who are interested to send me a letter and tell me about themselves, and after that I'll make a recommendation to the Council," he said.

Chamberlain said he has 30 days after he takes office to seat a replacement, and he said he could get a head start by seeking out interest in the position and doing interviews now, rather than waiting until he moves into the mayor's office.

Chamberlain will replace the outgoing mayor, Lois Shelton, who chose not to run for a second full term. She will complete a 16-year career in city government, including the last six as mayor, when she presides over her final City Council meeting before handing the gavel to Chamberlain on Tuesday, Dec. 7.

Chamberlain said another item on his to-do list as mayor will be dealing with the potential loss of state funding. The city currently receives about $390,000 from the state, and he said the city will have to see what cuts the state makes and react to those changes.

"We're going to have a crafty budget session next year," he said. "It will be interesting to see how much the state's shortage, which is about $1.4 billion, affects us at the local level. It's going to hit everyone, everywhere, so it should be interesting."

Chamberlain also said he plans on getting together with officials from Wayne State College to continue improving relationships between the community and the student body.

"They're a big asset to the community, and it would be a big help for the community, especially from an economic standpoint, if we can keep kids in town on weekends," he said.

Chamberlain said he was happy to have been part of a positive and professional race with O'Leary. The two both campaigned throughout the community, and the two agreed on most of the issues facing the city.

"Jane put on a really good campaign, and I put a good one on as well," Chamberlain said. "When you're in a campaign like this one, a lot of times it just comes down to personality and character and how well you know that person. I always had a little bit of anxiety that maybe not enough people knew who I was, and being on the Council helped, and I tried to get out to as many groups as I could."

"I'm glad the campaign is over and I'm ready to start doing some work," he added.

City Council handles variety of energy issues at meeting

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

Energy in several forms was on the agenda at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

The council heard a presentation from Ron Asche, President and CEO of Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD). He explained the reasons for electric rate increases in recent years included the need to upgrade aging power plants, rising fuel costs (especially coal) and lower receipts from power sold to other areas of the country.

Asche told the council that NPPD is aware of the need to keep rates low, and listed a number of ways the company has worked to minimize necessary rate increases.

At the present time, it appears that the city of Wayne will see a rate increase of 9.7 percent for power supplied to the city by NPPD for 2011.

Considerable discussion was held during a public hearing on the Planning Commission's recommendation for a use-by-exception permit for a wind-generating system in an A-2 Agricultural Residential area.

Brian and Amy Bowers plan to construct a two-tower windmill energy project on their land just west of Wayne.

Joel Hansen, city zoning administrator, presented the council with a list of minimal conditions recommended by the Planning Commission at its Nov. 1 meeting. Hansen noted that the conditions would go with the property, not with the owner. He also added that the majority of the conditions were those set forth by other communities in the state of Nebraska who had dealt with similar situations.

Brian Bowers told the council that this was a new venture for him, and that one of the towers would be directly west of his family's home and "the other tower would be a fair amount of space from the other property."

Amy Miller, who owns 10.1 acres of land adjacent to the Bowers property, told the council she was concerned about the noise level of the turbines. She said that she and her husband plan to build a house on the property in the future, and would like assurance of the decibel level of the noise at the point where her house will be located.

Rod Johnson, who manages the property to the west of the Bowers' property, discussed potential long-term development of the area and the safety and health issues associated with the wind turbines. He asked that he be more informed of the project as it progresses.

The council also passed Resolution 2010-87, a power purchase agreement with IP, LLC for the Wayne Industrial Park Wind Project.

Council members listened as Garry Poutre, Public Works Superintendent, explained how the cost of the power was determined and the fact that the city will pay one amount throughout the year and at the end of the year, the actual costs will be Providence Medical Center will undergo an expansion project that should be completed by the end of 2011.

Hospital to get $3.5M addition

Providence Medical Center announced plans to break ground on a $3.5 million expansion of the hospital. The public will be invited to the groundbreaking that will take place probably early spring of 2011.

The building project will include a 7,300-square foot expansion of therapy services, including a warm water therapy pool, a pediatric suite with a private parent viewing area, an occupational therapy suite for simulation of activities of daily living, a specialized occupational therapy upper-extremity treatment area and additional therapy treatment rooms. Also planned is an 8,500-square foot expansion of Wellness and Cardiac Rehabilitation services.

Finally, a smaller, but no less important,

Obituaries

Dan Loberg

Dan Loberg, 53, of Carroll, died Wednesday, Oct. 27, 2010 at Providence Medical Center in Wayne.

Services were held Saturday, Oct. 30 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne. The Rev. Mark Beran officiated.

Daniel Joseph Loberg was born Oct. 5, 1957 at Wayne to Glenn and Norma Jean (Jueden) Loberg. He graduated from Randolph High School in 1975. Dan married Kristin Anderson on June 16, 1979 at St. Frances Catholic Church in Randolph. Dan began farming in 1975 and the couple farmed until the present time. Dan was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Carroll Volunteer Fire Department, and served on the Board of Directors for Northeast Nebraska Public Power. He loved his work, time at the lake cabin, and riding his motorcycle. Most important to Dan was time spent with his family.

Survivors include his wife, Kris; children, Beth (Jim) Lutter of Carroll, Ashley (Brad) Schmitt of Shawnee, Kan., David Loberg (Jessica Bartels) of Carroll, and Megan Loberg of Carroll; two grandchildren; siblings, Jim Loberg of Omaha, Ken (Jean) Loberg of Wayne, Kevin Loberg of Omaha, Joan (Ric) Brown of Nehawka, and Ruth (Gerry) Peirce of Lincoln; father-in-law and mother-in-law, John and Marilyn Anderson of Wayne; nieces and nephews.

Dan was preceded in death by his parents.

Honorary pallbearers were Ron and Karma Magnuson, Jon and Cynthia Rethwisch and Jerry and Lynne Allemann.

Active pallbearers were Ed Newell, John Newell, Paul Loberg, Mike Jueden, Terry Jueden and Roger Jueden.

Burial was in Elmwood Cemetery at Carroll. Hasemann Funeral Home in Wayne is in charge of arrangements.

Lowell Glassmeyer

Lowell Glassmeyer, 81, of Wayne, died Wednesday, Oct. 27, 2010 at Careage of Wayne in Wayne.

Services will be held Saturday, Oct. 30 at 2:30 p.m. at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne. The Rev. Kim Stover officiated.

Lowell August Glassmeyer was born Dec. 9, 1928, in Wayne to Edward and Minnie (Wittler) Glassmeyer. He served in The United States Army, stationed in Alaska during the Korean Conflict and married Patsey Seymour in April of 1952, in Decatur. The couple farmed southwest of Wayne and raised five children. He and Patsey enjoyed dancing, camping, and card club. Patsey preceded Lowell in death in April of 1999. Lowell was a member of Our Savior Lutheran Church and American Legion in Wayne. Besides full-time farming, he was also employed by Wayne County Road Department and Fletcher Farm Service. On June 8, 2002 Lowell married Connie Matthews Webber at First United Methodist Church in Wayne. The couple enjoyed dancing and traveling until Lowell's health prevented it. Lowell especially enjoyed fishing, his grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and listening to big band and polka music.

Survivors include his wife, Connie; children, Gregg (Diane) Glassmeyer of Frederick, MD, Vaughn (Beth) Glassmeyer of Berthoud, Colo., Scott (Doris) Glassmeyer of Matthews, Mo., Becky (Tom) Zech of Eagle and Kent (Teresa) Glassmeyer of Wayne; 15 grandchildren; 11 great-grandchildren; Connie's children, Susan (Matt) McDowall of Kearney and Steve Webber of Wayne; and three grandchildren; brothers, Floyd of Wayne and Merle (Clara) Glassmeyer of Lexington; nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; first wife, Patsey; and brother, Donald.

Memorials may be made to Our Savior Lutheran Church and Providence Medical Center.

Honorary pallbearers were Lowell's nephews.

Active pallbearers were Steve Glassmeyer, Brandon Zech, Matthew Glassmeyer, Derek Zech, Cody Zech and Daniel Gallegos.

Burial with military rites was in Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne. Hasemann Funeral Home in Wayne was in charge of arrangements.

Kenneth Lueck

Kenneth Fred Lueck, 84, of Sioux City, died Sunday, Oct. 31, 2010 at a local hospital.

Services will be held Monday, Nov. 8, at St. Luke Lutheran Church at 11 a.m. with Rev. David Cox officiating.

Kenneth was born March 3, 1926 in Talmage, Neb. to Fred Emil and Marie F. (Grundman) Lueck.

He was baptized and confirmed in Evangelical Orthodox in Talmage, and graduated from Talmage High School in 1944. Kenneth served in the Army during the Korean War from 1950 - 1952, earning the rank of Corporal. He spent one year in Colorado before obtaining employment on various farm and feedlots in eastern Nebraska and western Iowa, the first being with Albert Schasht of Cook, Neb. and the last as foreman at Frese Farm and Feedlot for 13 years at Wayne. He retired and moved to Sioux City in 1992. Kenneth married Katherine Hardick in October of 1953. In addition to Katherine's four children, Kenneth and Katherine had two children together. This marriage ended in 1985. Kenneth married Darlene Olson-Haindfield on Sept. 16, 1992 and moved to Sioux City and then later to Sergeant Bluff, Iowa. He became a member of St. Luke Lutheran Church in 1992 and was active on the Social Ministry and Property committees. He became a member of South Sioux Eagles Club in 1991 and although was not on any committees, he was active in helping keep up the property for several years. Kenneth enjoyed farming and cattle feeding and after retirement spent most of his time in the garden. He enjoyed giving flowers and extra produce to friends, neighbors, and the rest homes. He also enjoyed dancing, playing cards, and observing the many wonders of nature that God created in this wonderful world.

Survivors include his wife, Darlene; a daughter, Mary Lueck of Lincoln; a son, Steve Lueck of San Francisco, Calif.; two stepdaughters, Sally Mastel (Greg) of Pacific Junction, Iowa and Alice Saunders of Jaffery, NH; two stepsons, Michael Hardick of Omaha and Robert Hardick (Karen) of Council Bluffs, Iowa; and a sister, Margaret Lueck of Longmont, Colo.; his wife Darlene's children; Carolyn Clausen (Darold) of York, S.C.; Mark Haindfield (Julie) of Sloan, Iowa; Marlin Haindfield of New Orleans, La.; Barton Haindfield of Denver, Colo.; Terry Haindfield (Kristi) of Highlandville, Iowa; and Rene Haindfield (Sherry) of Sioux City, Iowa. In addition, he is survived by many grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Burial will be at Fairview Cemetery near Talmage, Neb. at a later date. Meyer Brothers Morningside Chapel was in charge of arrangements.

The KOPS Best Loser was Trista Stone and she received a coupon.

Dee Rebensdorf, Kay Saul, Darlene Bowers and Trista Stone were bingo winners.

The winner of the final week drawing for the October contest was Darlene Bowers. Grand prize winners were Joyce Pippitt for the KOPS and Connie Kirkpatrick for the TOPS.

Phyllis Rahn and Joyce Pippitt are co-chairs of the November contest.

Any one wishing more information about TOPS, Inc is welcome to visit the group any Wednesday evening at 6:15 p.m.

Retired school personnel conduct meeting

The Wayne Area Association of Retired School Personnel met Nov. 1 at The Oaks in Wayne.

The meeting was called to order by President Pat Jenkins-Rhode who introduced guest Jim and Louis Lutt. A memorial ceremony was held in honor of Pauline Lutt, who was a charter member of the organization and long-time teacher in rural schools and at Wayne Elementary School.

Nineteen members listened to the thought for the day, given by Lois Youngerman, "Chalk Dust Meditation for Teachers" and a Wild Turkey story.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Twyla Lindsay gave the treasurer's report.

Mary Lou George gave a hand-out from AARP entitled "Health Care and You." It explained how the new health care laws benefit you. The booklet covered such topics as changes and when they will come about.

Arlene Ostendorf gave tips on keeping the body healthy, beginning with the liver. The liver is important in different ways that protect the body, from storing vitamins and minerals for strength, taking care of insulin needs, clearing the air we breath and defending the body against cold germs, etc.

Marilyn Leighton gave a report on the State Convention. The State Convention will be held Sept. 8-9, 2011 in Hastings.

The NARSP was organized in 1954. Its mission is to enhance the quality of life and to protect and improve the financial benefits of Nebraska's retired school personnel and promote independence, dignity and purpose for its members.

Certificates of Appreciation in recognition of volunteer hours of community and youth service. Also, the Day of Service Awards were given to six members.

The next meeting will be Jan. 3, 1022 at Tacos & More in Wayne.

Members Alice Johnson and Caroline Peterson gave an interesting program on their trip to China, taken in March of 2009. After including a number of articles on the list of 'to takes' they were encouraged to 'pack light.'

They saw many modern buildings interspersed with the well-preserved older ones while being bused about the city. Outstanding places were the Olympic Village with many vendors selling souvenirs for bartering the Road to Heaven. They experienced walking steps toward the Great Wall and also Plane Xian where Terracotta soldiers lined the funeral area for the emperor.

Other outstanding memories were eating with chop sticks and a ride in the rickshaw.

Winside National Honor Society inducts new members

On Sept. 30 the Winside National Honor Society held a tapping ceremony to induct new members.

Those inducted include: Stephyn Peterson, daughter of Larry Peterson and Shannon Peterson; Zach Brokaw, son of Colin Brokaw; Erin Gray, daughter of Patrick and Kelly Gray; Tina Nelson, daughter of Terry and Phyllis Nelson; Tarrin Quinn, daughter of Dave and LeNell Quinn; Brian Greunke, son of Todd and Pam Greunke; Brittany Janke, daughter of Brad and Lisa Janke and Levi Lange, son of Rick and Becky Lange.

That night, the Winside National Honor Society held a banquet to honor the new members. The banquet, which was catered by Hy-Vee, consisted of Chicken Alfredo, garlic bread, green beans and fresh fruit.

In addition to the main course, Carmie Marotz donated a marble and carrot cake to the banquet.

To pay for the banquet, members of the National Honor Society sold raffle tickets for a split-the-pot at Winside's football and volleyball games.

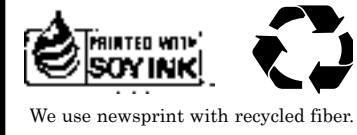

Earlier that week the Winside National Honor Society helped out at Winside's Parent-Teacher Conferences for a service project. Members handed out progress reports, helped guide the parents and even had a daycare.

Music concert planned

On Monday, Nov. 8, Dr. David Bohnert will present an evening of music for trumpet and piano. The recital will be in Ramsey Theatre at 7:30 p.m. and will include performances by Dr. James O'Donnell, trumpet and Phillip Pfaltzgraff, piano.

The repertoire will include a Baroque Sonata for two trumpets (performed on piccolo trumpets), a Sonata from the Romantic era, and three contemporary works for trumpet. The program should be enjoyable for all listeners and is free and open to the public.

Benefit for Brandon Foote set for Nov. 7 at City Auditorium

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

When most people think of cancer, they envision a person in their 50s, 60s or even older.

However, on Aug. 12 Brandon Foote, who is only 23 years old, was diagnosed with testicular cancer.

Foote, the son of Brian and Tammy Foote of Wayne, is a Wayne State College student majoring in sports management. He is hoping to start an internship with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in January. Brandon was originally planning to do the internship this semester, but was unable to because of the cancer treatments.

Brandon's ordeal began when he found a mass and was referred to specialists in Sioux City. During the surgical procedure on Aug. 12, it was determined that the mass was cancerous and his testicle removed.

Chemotherapy was started on Aug. 25 and involved three, 21-day cycles. During that time Brandon was hospitalized for five days each time at Mercy Hospital in Sioux City and then received shots to help boost his immunity. He also had one cancer treatment a week between hospital stays.

After his first round of treatment, Brandon lost his hair. His father and brothers, Jeremy and Cory, shaved their heads at this time as a sign of support.

At the present time Brandon's cancer is in remission, although he will continue to have scans every three months to check for any recurrence.

Brandon is the grandson of Wayne and Cookie Ulrich of Wakefield and Myla and the late Robert Foote of Wayne.

A benefit for Brandon has been scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 7 at the Wayne City Auditorium.

A freewill breakfast of pancakes, eggs, sausage, and drinks will be served from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

A live auction has been scheduled for 11 a.m. and a bake sale, silent auction and raffle drawing are also planned.

An account for donations has been established at BankFirst in Wayne and supplemental funds will be provided by Thrivent Financial for Lutherans.

Raffle tickets are available from any of Brandon's family members, Shannon Gibson or Phyl Trenhaile.

Tower School students give back to town

In an attempt to reinforce social skills and responsibility, the students attending Education Service Unit (ESU) No. 1 Tower School in Wayne, have been taking on several tasks in the community.

Under the guidance of Chantelle Hoffman, Head Behavior teacher and four paraprofessionals, the students in grades K-12 work through a program of responsibility and privileges using the Boys Town Model at the Tower School.

In recent weeks, the students have picked up litter on the Wayne Fitness Trail and several parks in the city, recycle milk jugs and paper at the school and take the recycled items to the Wayne Recycling Center each Friday, and put together the Haven House Newsletter every three months.

A recent Jump Rope For Heart Fundraiser at the school raised $1,178.51, with 15 students participating. Thomas Jensen was the top fundraiser, bringing in $264 for the American Heart Association. In second place was D.J. Franke with $126, and in third place was Brandon Allen with $123.01.

Students also gain job experience and skills by completing tasks at Super 8 three times a week.

In addition, the students are responsible for daily chores at the school and have other responsibilities throughout the building.

"Our focus with these students is behavior modification and the teaching of social skills. We go on field trips throughout the community to help teach these skills," Hoffman said.

The students also visit the Wayne Public Library regularly to check out books

Dairy Queen and Godfathers Pizza have recognized the efforts of the students with several treats.

Students at the Tower School come from throughout the ESU's 22-county region, as well as from other parts of Nebraska.

Wayne State College to host giant National Geographic map of Asia

Explorers young and old will walk across Asia without leaving Wayne.

The campus and community are invited to experience the largest map of the continent ever produced by National Geographic. The map will be on display in the WSC Student Center Frey Suites from 6:30-8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 16.

The highly accurate and detailed floor map measures 31 feet by 41 feet and weighs 138 pounds, and is designed as a giant game board to introduce students to the diverse geography of Asia.

"These maps teach geography in a way that nothing else does. It is a physical as well as mental experience," said Dr. Randy Bertolas, professor of geography at Wayne State College and coordinator of the Geographic Educators of Nebraska. "We want the whole community to come up to the college and bring the kids, especially small children. The hands- and feet-on experience will make a lasting impression on anyone who loves to learn about the world."

The brightly colored, smooth vinyl surface accurately illustrates Asia's oceans, seas, rivers, mountains, countries and capitals. Anyone in stocking feet will be allowed to walk on the giant map of Asia.

On Wednesday, Nov. 17, students from Dr. Bertolas' honors geography class will play host to Wayne Middle School sixth graders and

St. Mary's School K-4 classes. The honors students will lead the visitors through a series of geography games and activities that utilize the giant map of Asia

The National Geographic Society is one of the world's largest nonprofit scientific and educational organizations. Founded in 1888 to "increase and diffuse geographic knowledge," the Society today works to inspire people to care about the planet. Institutional funding provides support for Service-Learning at Wayne State College.

WSC art faculty member's work being shown in Nebraska City

Into the Ashes presents an exhibition of drawings by artist and Wayne State College art faculty member J. Marlene Mueller.

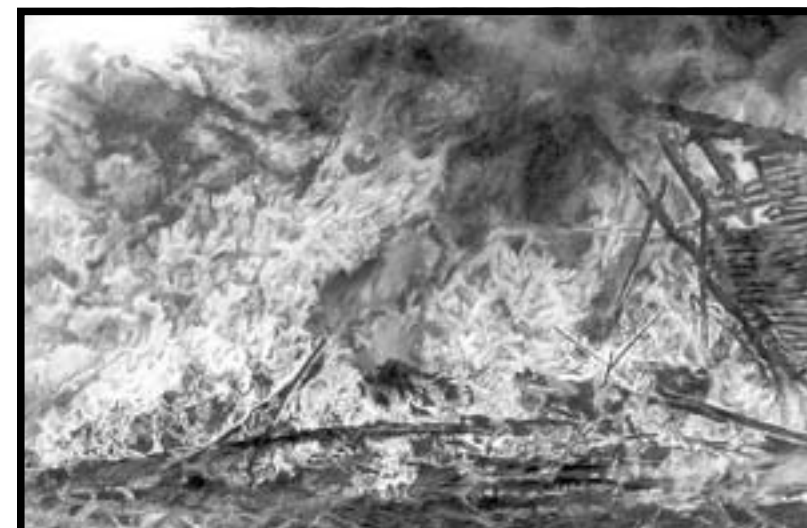

The exhibition opened on Oct. 25, at the Kimmel Harding Nelson Center for the Arts in Nebraska City, and runs through Thursday, Dec. 16.

Mueller's exhibited charcoal drawings are based on experiences as a member of a volunteer fire department in northeast Nebraska. This position afforded her the opportunity to observe the characteristics of raging fires from a very near vantage point.

The series on display at KHN depicts the controlled burn of a farm building and the escalating stages of the fire as flames and smoke consume the structure, which is eventually no more than a pile of ash. The charcoal drawings are derived from photographs taken by the artist and executed in a medium that speaks to the transformative qualities of fire.

J. Marlene Mueller is an artist and professor of art at Wayne State College in Wayne. She received an MFA and MA from Miami University in Oxford, Ohio and a BA from Limestone College in Gaffney, S.C. She has had solo exhibitions at the Museum of Nebraska Art (Kearney), Norfolk Art Center (Norfolk), and G.A.R. Gallery (Yankton, S.D.).

In addition, her work has been included in group exhibitions at Jackson Artworks (Omaha), Bemis Center for Contemporary Art (Omaha), Modern Arts Midwest (Lincoln), and the Sioux City Art Center (Sioux City, Iowa), to name a few.

New tattoo parlor brings new kind of art to downtown area

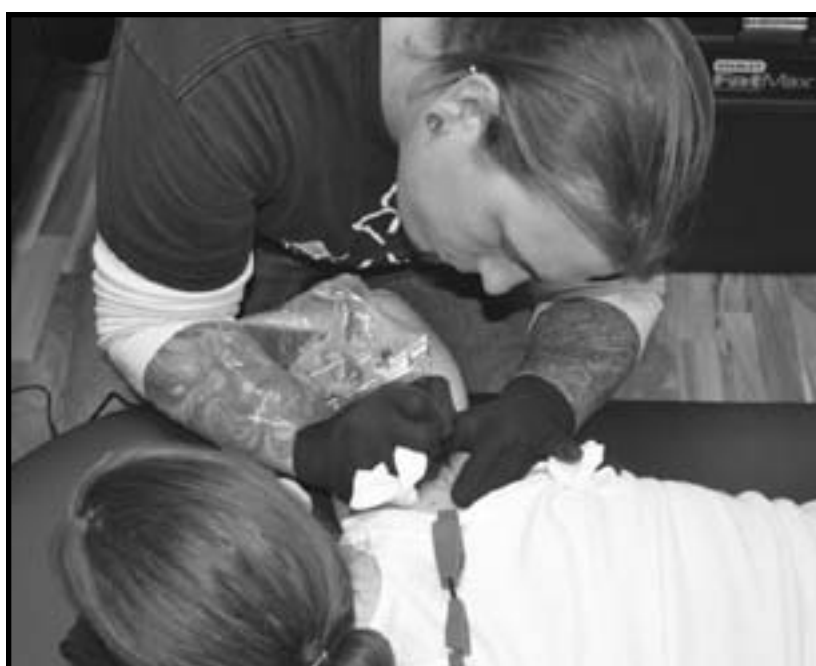

By JOSHUA STUHL
Of The Herald

The artists at Eternal Ink Tattoo and Body Piercing have brought a permanent form of illustration and art to the Wayne community.

Owner and tattooist, Matt Allsman, stated, "Every employee can give any tattoo requested. We mostly work with photo-realistic tattoos, but we can do simple designs, such as Kanji or a peace sign."

All tattoos are printed and ink transferred to alleviate the margins for error in free-hand tattooing. The building is currently being set up and only allows for one tattoo artist to work at a time. The finalization is planned for February of next year, which will house two tattoo stations and a separate piercing booth as well, allowing three people to be serviced simultaneously.

While the usual electric ink machine is frequently used, the owner does use a newer style pneumatic machine, which has a softer push on the ink. This allows for less abrasive and painful experience during the tattoo process and 3,000-square foot addition to the Outpatient Services area will allow the hospital to add more general and specialized clinic rooms to further expand the volume and variety of services and make the department more functional.

"We have been almost a one-of-a-kind rural hospital since 1975, with all private rooms which patients and family members enjoy. So, our total focus when considering this project was to expand our hospital for our outpatients," hospital administrator Marcile Thomas said.

"The patients who come to our hospital's Outpatient Specialty Clinics will benefit with added space and more privacy. The occupational, physical and speech therapy rehab services will also be improved by the additional space. The new year-round walking track and pool will coordinate Physical Therapy and the Wellness Center. The expansion will also allow the Wellness Center to offer childcare services, enhanced youth exercise programs and an improved atmosphere to a greater number of people. By being on ground level, the Wellness Center services will be greatly enhanced as well as allowing for coordination with the Physical Therapy department."

Funding for this project is being provided by the USDA and PMC hospital reserves. The architectural firm of Avant of Omaha is responsible for the design.

According to Thomas, the proposed expansion project is expected to take around 12 months, with an anticipated completion date of Dec. 31, 2011.

Alan Harms, chairman of the Providence Medical Center Board of Directors, said, "The Board of Directors is pleased to learn that we have received a low-interest USDA loan that will enable us to enhance our outpatient care areas. The addition will improve our efficiencies, and at the same time it will provide outpatients with expanded opportunities in their hometown hospital."

Gail McCorkindale, director of PMC Therapy Services, said, "The residents of Northeast Nebraska will benefit with the opportunity to expand Therapy and Wellness facilities, services and improve accessibility to the Providence Therapy and Wellness Departments."

Benjamin Martin, Chief of Staff at Providence Medical Center, stated, "The patients who come to PMC will greatly benefit by the new and expanded services that will be provided with this expansion project."

Built in 1975, Providence Medical Center is a 25-bed Critical Access non-profit hospital located at the corner of East 14th Street and Providence Road in Wayne. The proposed project will cover between 18,000 and 19,000 square feet of hospital property.

Bowers wins Monsanto award, donates funds to Project Majestic

Brian Bowers of Wayne has been selected as a winner in America's Farmers Grow CommunitiesSM program, which gives farmers the opportunity to win $2,500 for their favorite local nonprofit organizations.

The awards are available through Monsanto Fund. Bowers has designated Project Majestic, located in Wayne, to receive the award in Wayne County.

Project Majestic representatives, Bowers and Mitch Ostjen, a Monsanto representative, participated in an award ceremony at the theatre in conjunction with last week's Chamber Coffee.

In its initial year, the America's Farmers Grow Communities program has provided nearly 500 farmers in 10 states with $2,500 awards to direct to their favorite nonprofit organization. On Aug. 31, the program expanded nationwide to more than 1,200 counties in 38 states.

The program is part of a broad commitment by Monsanto Fund to highlight the important contributions farmers make every day to our society by helping them grow their local communities. More than 20,000 farmers participated in the program, which is designed to benefit nonprofit groups such as ag youth, schools and other civic organizations.

Friends of Museum gala set for Nov. 20

The Friends of the Wayne County Museum will be hosting a Holiday Gala on Saturday, Nov. 20 at the Wayne County Museum from 7-10 p.m.

This year's theme is "A Holly Berry Christmas." The snow date will be Sunday, Nov. 21.

Proceeds from the gala will be used for maintenance of the museum. It is in constant need of upkeep and the Friends hope that everyone in the community will participate in this entertaining evening to help support the museum.

The gala is held in alternating years with a Tour of Homes, also sponsored by the Friends of the Museum.

Decorators for the gala will be Tracy Keating, The Final Touch, Kate Lutt, Jill Belt, Kris Loberg and Jan Magnuson.

"The Friends appreciate these decorators for their talents in making the museum look festive for this event," said Friends member Kaki Ley.

Chances will be sold for a diamond which has been donated by Randy Pedersen of the Diamond Center.

Tickets for the Gala can be purchased from Kaki Ley, 369-1474; Lorita Tompkins, 375-1513; Jan Magnuson, 375-2509; Marlene Broer, 375-5043; JoAnn Proett, 375-2655; Donna Ewing, 375-8982; or Lois Shelton, 375-2178.

Too many teams in FB playoffs

What purpose should a playoff serve?

A. To reward the best teams with an opportunity to play each other for a shot at the championship.

B. To give as many teams as possible an opportunity call themselves a "playoff" team.

C. To generate additional revenue for the governing body that sponsors said playoff.

D. All of the above.

If you use common sense and logical thought, the correct answer is "A." If you are the Nebraska Schools Activities Association, though, the answer is "D."

And that, ladies and gentlemen, is where The Bleacher Bum has a problem.

You should play well throughout the course of the season to earn a trip to the playoffs. Generally, there are anywhere from 16-20 schools in each of the smaller (C and D) classes who could make a case as a team that could represent their school well in a playoff format.

For some strange reason, though, the NSAA feels that too many kids are being left out of the magic of the state football playoffs. And so, several years ago, they decided to expand the playoffs to include 32 schools in each of the smaller classifications.

Now I'm not critical of the kids who earned a trip to what the NSAA calls their playoffs. Under the system that is available to them, they have earned the right to be called a playoff team. What I have a problem with is a playoff format that is more about generating revenue for a governing body than providing a true best-of-the-best scenario for determining a state champion.

Here are some numbers regarding how things turned out for the 32 schools - including Wayne and Winside - in each of the four classes who had the opportunity to compete in high school football's second season:

- Only nine of the lower-seeded teams won first-round games. Of those, three were No. 9 seeds winning at a No. 8 seed. Only one matchup could be considered a significant upset, where No. 14 St. Paul beat No. 3 Minden in Class C1.

- The average margin of defeat for those 32 schools who lost in the first round was 31.5 points. The majority of those games, for all intents and purposes, were over before the dance team hit the field for their halftime performances.

- Almost three-fourths of the games (47 of 64) were won by more than two full scores (17 or more points).

- Almost 40 percent of the first-round matchups (25 of 64) ended with the 35-point continuous-clock rule in effect.

Teams make the playoffs one of two ways - by winning their district or by earning a "wild card" slot. These wild cards are determined by the points a team earns in a formula for each game they play. You get more points for a win than a loss, and the better (or worse) a team on your schedule does throughout the year, the more (or fewer) bonus points you receive.

I have no problem with the formula used for determining the wild card qualifiers. The problem, though, is that there are far too many wild cards being handed out. It's like playing five-card, no-peek poker where all the face cards, black odd-numbered cards and red even-numbered cards are wild.

There are 50 schools playing in 10 districts in Class C1. Of those 50, 32 teams - 64 percent of the field - are considered playoff teams. Half of these teams - including Wayne - qualified for the playoffs with records of .500 or worse. The worst of these records was by Clearwater/Orchard, who made it into the Class D1 playoffs with a record of 2-6. (Coincidentally, had Wayne not scored on the final play of the game to beat Madison, the Blue Devils

Tali Fredrickson makes a pass for Wayne State during Friday's straight-set loss to Concordia-St. Paul in a matchup of co-No. 1 teams at Rice Auditorium.

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Wayne State and Concordia-St. Paul both entered Friday as the No. 1 team in the nation.

By the end of the night, there was no doubt who was leaving in that same position.

Concordia-St. Paul showed why it is the three-time defending national champions, taking advantage of a flat effort by the Wildcats and making quick work with a 25-15, 25-8 and 25-19 pasting that marked the Golden Bears' 68th consecutive win in the Northern Sun Conference and all but assured them of being the host team for the regional tournament later this month.

It was one of those nights where, coach Scott Kneifl admitted, his team didn't come out with its best game.

"We just came out really flat, and you can't come out flat against a good team because they'll make you look really flat," he said. "I don't know if we could have possibly played any worse than we did, and I don't know if (Concordia) could play any better."

The Golden Bears hit at a .395 clip in the first set with 16 kills and one error. Wayne State was tied 4-4 in the first set, but the Golden Bears rang up four straight points and never trailed the rest of the night.

Wayne State played its worst set of the year in the second set, recording just three kills. The Golden Bears, meanwhile, cranked out 20 kills and hit at a .486 clip.

"When you don't pass the ball in system, it limits your options, and if you have only one option like we did the first two sets, the other team knows where you're going and that's not a good combination," Kneifl said.

Wayne State's only option, it seemed, was freshman Cori Hobbs, who recorded 13 kills with only one error on the night. The Golden Bears seemed content with letting Hobbs get her swings in, focusing their efforts instead on Jennifer Hefner and Tali Fredrickson, the Wildcats' two leading hitters. Concordia's defense did the job, as Hefner was held to a negative-.118 for the night with only three kills, while Fredrickson hit at a .071 rate with six kills.

"It was very disappointing, and it was something we talked about afterward in the locker room," Kneifl said of the Wildcats' hitting a dismal .136 for the evening. "There are two things we can do after a game like that. We can get back up and climb that hill again, or we can give up. And I think these girls have proven over the course of the season that they're not going to give up."

They proved that the following day against St. Cloud State, handing the Huskies a second straight three-set defeat in five days with a 25-16, 25-21, 25-11 effort.

"We sputtered a bit early, but then the team showed up," Kneifl said of Saturday's bounce-back win. "It's not easy to take six straight sets from a team in a week, and I was proud of how the kids bounced back. Win or Chris Rogers puts a block on Norfolk Catholic's Andy Montag during the Blue Devils' 56-6 loss to the Knights in the first round of the Class C1 playoffs.

Top-ranked Knights put end to Wayne's season

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

NORFOLK - It's a lot to ask of a football team when they finish the season playing the top two teams in the state on the road

One week after finishing off the regular season with a loss at No. 2 Pierce, the Wayne High football team unceremoniously closed out the 2010 season with a 56-6 loss at top-ranked Norfolk Catholic in the opening round of the Class C1 playoffs.

The Blue Devils saw the Knights score on a pair of long runs in the first quarter, yet still had a glimmer of hope after making a defensive stand early in the second quarter.

That glimmer faded quickly, however, when Ethan Brozek picked off a Gage Rethwisch pass and returned it 14 yards for a score. On the next possession, Rethwisch was sacked for a safety and the Knights followed with another touchdown, turning a 14-0 advantage into a 30-0 halftime cushion.

It was the Blue Devils' second loss of the year to the Knights at Memorial Field, coming five weeks after a 55-0 shutout midway through the regular season. And in spite of the season-ending loss, coach Rich Rethwisch felt his team gave its best effort under the circumstances.

"We tried to do what we could, and I'm proud of the way the kids handled things," he said. "They did what they could and hung in there, and we tried to make it a worthwhile experience and do something different and try to make it fun. But when you play somebody of that caliber, it takes a lot of air out of you."

Having to play the top-ranked team one week after playing No. 2 was frustrating, Rethwisch said.

"I feel bad for the kids," he said.

"Had Chadron not beat Kimball, we'd have been going down to Milford instead (of Norfolk) and would be going up against somebody different and compare ourselves against the rest of the state. We're all in the same boat, because there are no teams that will beat (Norfolk) Catholic or Pierce, and if they do it will be because of weather conditions or a freak of nature. They're head and shoulders above everybody in the class."

Wayne was able to avoid the shutout with a fourth-quarter touchdown, as Rethwisch hooked up with Justin Anderson, who broke away from a tackle and scored on a 50-yard pass connection early in the fourth quarter.

Rethwisch said the Wayne players could take some pride in the season that they had, which saw them battle back from a midseason slump to reach their goal of making Jade Cunningham reaches to make a play at the net for Laurel-Concord/Coleridge during their five-set win over Hartington Cedar Catholic in the C2-8 subdistrict.

Lady Bears claim subdistrict thriller

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

NORFOLK - The state volleyball tournament was still two weeks away, but Laurel-Concord/Coleridge played a match that had the feel and the urgency of a state championship battle.

The Lady Bears, ranked fourth in Class C2, hooked up with third-ranked Hartington Cedar Catholic in the semifinals of the C2-8 subdistrict tournament at Norfolk Catholic, and the Lady Bears came away with a dramatic five-set win, beating the Trojans 20-25, 25-21, 25-19, 22-25, 15-8 to move on to the subdistrict finals.

The win was an emotional one for the Lady Bears, who met in a small dogpile in the middle of their side of the floor after winning the exciting matchup.

"You just can't describe it, because we're still feeling it and thinking back to all those tough plays where they made us work so hard," coach Patti Cunningham said. "Cedar is up there pretty high, and we needed to keep working to win."

The Lady Bears had their problems with serving early in the match. They committed 15 service errors in the match, most coming in the first and fourth sets when the Trojans were able to take advantage and win both sets.

"It was frustrating, and I think the girls were probably focusing too much on that and we just wanted to make sure they went up there and served with confidence," Cunningham said.

When the Lady Bears got their serving hiccups figured out, they rode the setting of juniors Jade Cunningham and Mandy Nelsen, and the hitting of those two and Amy Pritchard.

Cunningham and Nelsen have developed into dual threats for the Lady Bears. Both players are accurate setters and are also tall enough to be a force in attack mode at the net.

"They play dual roles for us and keep the team up the entire game, and the girls just didn't give up," Cunningham said.

Down 21-19 in the second set, kills by Pritchard and Nelsen helped fuel a Lady Bears' rally. Pritchard put down a kill to tie the match at one set apiece, and Nelsen set up Cunningham for a kill that

Conference champions

Both Laurel-Concord/Coleridge (left) and Winside came away with conference championships last week. The Lady Bears defended their NENAC title with an exciting five-set win over West Holt, while the Wildcats came back from a two-set deficit to beat Bancroft-Rosalie for their first Lewis and Clark Conference title since 1996.

Wildcats end soccer season on four-game unbeaten streak

Wayne State closed out the women's soccer regular season with a 1-1 tie with St. Cloud State in action Sunday in St. Cloud, Minn. Wayne State, who finished the season with a four-game unbeaten streak, started the day in eighth place in the NSIC, and needed an Upper Iowa loss to advance to the 2010 NSIC Women's Soccer Tournament. The Peacocks defeated MSU Moorhead 2-1, eliminating the Wildcats (8-5-5 overall, 4-4-5 NSIC) from postseason play.

Wayne State was led by senior Tiffani Kellerman, who scored the Wildcats' lone goal. She scored at the 13:01 mark of the first half off a pass by Liz Israelsen. The Huskies tied the game about two minutes later, and the two teams played to a deadlock from there.

Wayne State was led by Kellerman who scored her fifth goal of the season in her final game in a Wildcat uniform. Israelsen added three shots on the afternoon to go along with an assist. Senior goalkeeper Emily Walker finished the game with seven saves in her final game in goal at Wayne State.

On Saturday, Christie Johnson and Kelsey Meyer scored goals to lead Wayne State to a 2-1 win at Concordia-St. Paul.

The Wildcats opened the scoring in the 32nd minute, as Johnson scored her first goal of the season on a free kick from 20 yards out. Wayne State added another goal in the second half when Meyer scored an unassisted goal at the 49:26 mark, converting a rebound off a corner kick.

Walker was credited with three saves to earn the win allowing one goal. Kellerman and Meyer led Wayne State offensively with two shots each.

Wayne State scored seven straight points in the first set to jump out to a 9-2 lead. St. Cloud got as close as 17-16 before the Wildcats finished off the first set. Wayne State pulled away late in the second set, then held the Huskies to a .000 hitting percentage in the final set to finish off the sweep.

Fredrickson and Hefner each had 12 kills, and Hefner added five blocks for the 23-3 (14-3 NSIC) Wildcats. Mindy Moody had seven kills and three blocks, Diedra Artz had 39 set assists, and Leigh Connot and Nicole Brungardt led the defense with 20 and 16 digs, respectively.

Wayne State is on the road this weekend, visiting Winona State Friday night at 7 p.m., and Upper Iowa Saturday at 3 p.m.

"Our goal was to make the playoffs, and that's a tremendous goal," he said. "When we were 2-3, it would have been easy for us to cash it in, and I was very proud of the kids this year. I thought we improved as the year went on, and I'm proud of the seniors and how they led us this year."

Men's Golf League champs

The three-man team of Denny Lutt, Lowell Olson and Jerry Dorsey won the Men's Golf League championship this fall at the Wayne Country Club. The men's league consists of 42, three-man teams that play over the course of 19 regular weeks and four playoff weeks.

Nelson sets new records, Winside advances with win

WINSIDE - Winside got its offensive mojo back just in time, as Anthony Nelson set a single-game school record to help the Wildcats beat Omaha Christian 50-16 in the first round of the Class D1 playoffs Thursday.

Nelson ran for five touchdowns and broke the school record for yards in a game and a season. His 1,665 yards for the season broke the school record, set by Landon Grothe, and he is the fourth Winside running back to run for more than 1,000 yards in a season.

"It was a big credit, both to him and the offensive line blocking for him," coach Ryan Olander said of the senior's effort. "He made sure to thank everybody after the game. It was a great team accomplishment."

The Wildcats needed Nelson's contributions on offense to overcome an early start by the visiting Eagles, who relied on the legs of Josh Bebee to get an early 16-8 lead on the Wildcats. Bebee, who had 150 of his 200 yards in the first half, scored on a 67-yard run to put the Wildcats in an early hole.

Winside still trailed by two going into the second half before Nelson started to warm up. He scored on a nine-yard run to give Winside the lead for good, then added scoring gallops of 43, 61 and 50 yards to help Winside put the game away.

"I thought we came out really fired up," Olander said of his team's effort. "We kind of got back into our old ways of letting the opponent get up on us early, but we turned it around in the second half and our defense held them."

Omaha Christian rushed for 152 yards in the first half, but the Winside defense shut them down in the final 24 minutes. The Wildcats racked up 404 yards for the night, all on the ground, led by Nelson's 333 yards on 23 carries.

The Wildcats were scheduled to face Osmond in the second round Wednesday night, and Olander was hopeful his team could improve on an earlier trip to Osmond, where the Wildcats were soundly beaten.

"The first time, we were coming off the Creighton game and made some mistakes, and I think we've shored things up and I hope we can turn it around," he said. "I think we'll come out a little more ready. We can't spot them too many points, so I think it will be a physical battle."

Special teams hurt WSC in loss

FAYETTE, Iowa - Special teams can make or break a game for a football team looking to get out of a mid-season slump.

For Wayne State, it proved to be its own undoing, as Upper Iowa blocked a potential game-winning 30-yard field goal attempt in the final minute to preserve a 21-20 upset win over the Wildcats Saturday.

The loss was Wayne State's third in a row, dropping them to 5-4 overall and 4-4 in the Northern Sun Conference. And it was a disappointing finish for the team, according to coach Dan McLaughlin.

"We just didn't play very well at all," he said. "We had a kickoff run back against us for a touchdown and had two blocked kicks and a missed extra point. It was extremely frustrating. We didn't handle it very well by any stretch."

Upper Iowa took a 6-0 lead early in the second quarter when Dominique Jackson hauled in a 44-yard touchdown pass from Ben Curran, but Wayne State's special teams came through with a much-needed play on the ensuing kickoff. Kevin Paulsen got off a 60-yard kickoff return to put the Wildcats in position to take the lead, and Eric Meyer scored three plays later to make it 7-6 after Nick Bell's extra-point kick.

The Wildcats' defense held the Peacocks in check the rest of the half, and Wayne State overcame a blocked field goal with a late connection between Paulsen and Evan Johnson. Paulsen hauled in a 52-yard scoring play to give Wayne State a 14-6 halftime lead.

Upper Iowa wasted little time getting on the board in the third quarter, as Jessie Hubbard took the second-half kickoff and raced 92 yards for a touchdown. A two-point conversion pass from Curran to John Baldwin tied the score at 14-14, and the Peacocks made it 21-14 later in the period when Curran found Hubbard on a 24-yard pass play.

Paulsen put Wayne State in great field position again on the ensuing kickoff, returning the kick 86 yards to the Peacocks' 3-yard line. Nick Pulscher scored to make it 21-20, but Bell's extra-point attempt missed its mark, leaving Wayne State with a one-point deficit.

"Kevin had a couple of nice kickoff returns that got us the short field twice, and we were able to capitalize on both of them," McLaughlin said.

Late in the fourth quarter, Wayne State drove from its own 20-yard line to the Upper Iowa 14-yard line, setting Bell up for the potential game-winner with :31 left. Upper Iowa broke through and blocked the kick to preserve the win.

McLaughlin said the team will need to figure a way out of its losing streak, which won't be easy with seventh-ranked Augustana coming to town for the Egg Bowl matchup Saturday at 1 p.m.

Bleachers

would have been 3-5 and missed the playoffs, while Madison - thanks to a schedule that included seven playoff teams - would have qualified for these playoffs with a 1-7 record.

That's a playoff? It's more like a payoff. And guess who's getting paid?

The NSAA controls all of the playoff matchups, although games are played at host school sites (we'll talk about the NSAA's funny idea that lower seeds should be able to host a playoff game in the second round another day). But the NSAA generates a significant amount of revenue from playing 32 extra playoff games in the lower-enrollment classes, and by doing so, cheapens the concept of what a playoff should be.

At $7 a head for adults and $5 for students, and assuming a crowd of 1,000 per game with a 75-25 ratio of adults to students, the NSAA generates an extra $400,000 in revenue with a 32-team bracket (about two-thirds of which goes to schools competing in the playoffs). This extra round of playoffs, they will say, is "for the kids," but it doesn't take a rocket scientist - or even a sports writer - to figure out the real reason for an unnecessary round of one-sided "playoff" games.

With as few schools as there are in each classification (50-51 in Class C, 57-58 in Class D), each class should be limited to 16 teams. Certainly, there are teams that had winning season that would be left out of a 16-team playoff. Two Class C1 teams and three Class D2 teams with records of 6-2 or better would have missed a 16-team playoff this year. On the flip side, three teams were qualified with Sandy Creek and Centennial for the final two Class C1 spots, and three of those teams hung up the pads early. Each of those three teams had the same records as six teams that made the 32-man field, so no matter what, somebody is going to feel cheated.

Of course, I'm going to hear from some of those in the feel-good crowd who think life should be full of flowers and sunshine and everybody should have a chance to feel good about being in the playoffs.

That's hogwash. The playoffs should be a reward for those teams that have played well and been consistently successful through the course of the season. Wayne High had a pretty good season against a very difficult schedule, but a 4-4 record, in this sports fan's opinion, is not the kind of record that should earn a team a spot in a playoff bracket that should be limited to only the state's best teams in each class.

As it stands, this year's Wayne High football team will go down in the history books as a playoff team, as will the other 95 schools that qualified in the NSAA's six-class system. Nothing will take that away from these kids, and they are to be congratulated for getting to this point of the season.

Hopefully, the day will come when the NSAA puts accomplishment and success ahead of the almighty dollar when it comes time to reward football teams with the honor of being called a "playoff" team.

Winside trips Allen, wins D1-5 subidistrict

WAUSA – Winside and Allen did battle in the D1-5 subdistrict, with the top-seeded Wildcats coming away with the subdistrict title and a chance to play for a trip to the state tournament.

Allen avenged one of its losses in the first round of the tournament helped the Lady Bears win the third set.

In the fifth set, back-to-back kills by Pritchard gave the Lady Bears the lead for good, and she added two more kills after the teams traded sideouts to make it 7-3, giving the Lady Bears the cushion they would need to finish off the Trojans.

The Lady Bears needed to continue to win to keep their state tournament hopes alive, but a loss to top-ranked Lutheran High Northeast (25-11, 25-17, 25-15), coupled with an upset loss by Southwest in another subdistrict, ended the Lady Bears' hopes of earning a wild card for the state tournament, bringing their 24-7 season to an end.

Pritchard had 17 kills, Cunningham had six kills, 15 digs and 17 assists, and Nelsen had nine assists and three kills for the Lady Bears. Audrey Kastrup added nine digs and Ashley Lunz had eight digs.

Monday, taking care of Emerson-Hubbard in four sets, 25-22, 23-25, 25-21, 25-19. It took a little time for the Lady Eagles to get going, but coach Cheryl Greve was happy her team was able to get things rolling.

"We came out a little tentative early on, but the girls got the job done," she said.

Hannah Finnegan had 13 kills, Brittany Sullivan added nine kills and eight digs, and Lindsey Jones had three blocks to lead the Allen net attack. Jones had 13 assists and Finnegan added 10, while Bentley Hingst had 19 digs and Vanessa Klug added 13 digs.

The win put Allen in the semifinals against top-seeded Winside, and the Lady Eagles were able to win the first set before Winside responded to end Allen's season in four sets, 19-25, 25-10, 25-13, 25-22.

"I felt like our girls competed the entire match," Greve said. "They're a young team and made big strides to get as far as they did, and I'm very proud of them."

Hingst and Finnegan each had eight kills and Sullivan added seven for the Lady Eagles. Finnegan had 13 assists, Jones added eight, Sullivan had 22 digs and Hingst added 21.

Winside was led by Erin Gray's 15 kills, while Shelby Lienemann added nine and Audrey Roberts had seven. Jerae Doffin had nine blocks on the night to go with four ace serves. Bridget Gray had 26 set assists, and Roberts had 21 digs.

The Wildcats earned a trip to the district finals with a 25-19, 25-19, 27-25 win over Randolph Tuesday night, rallying from early deficits in the second and third sets to take a 25-5 record into Thursday's district finals.

After cruising to a win in the first set, Winside came back from a 7-0 deficit in the second set and a 10-2 deficit in the third with a balanced offensive attack. Gray and Lienemann each had eight kills, Doffin added six, Roberts put down five and Nazya Thies added four. Doffin had four blocks, and Lienemann and Bridget Gray each had four ace serves in the match. Bridget Gray had 27 set assists, while Erin Gray led the defense with 18 digs.

Winside will take on Newman Grove in the district finals Thursday at 7 p.m. at Norfolk Catholic. The winner advances to the Class D1 state tournament next week in Grand Island.

Wayne comeback falls short in subdistrict final loss to Gators

PENDER – At this time of the year, the teams that make it to state are the ones who finish the job.

Wayne High's volleyball team got off to good starts in each of the four sets of Tuesday's final of the C1-7 subdistrict against Wisner-Pilger, but they weren't able to come away with wins early in the match, losing an exciting fourth set of a season-ending 25-19, 25-17, 15-25, 25-23 decision to the top-seeded Lady Gators at Pender High School.

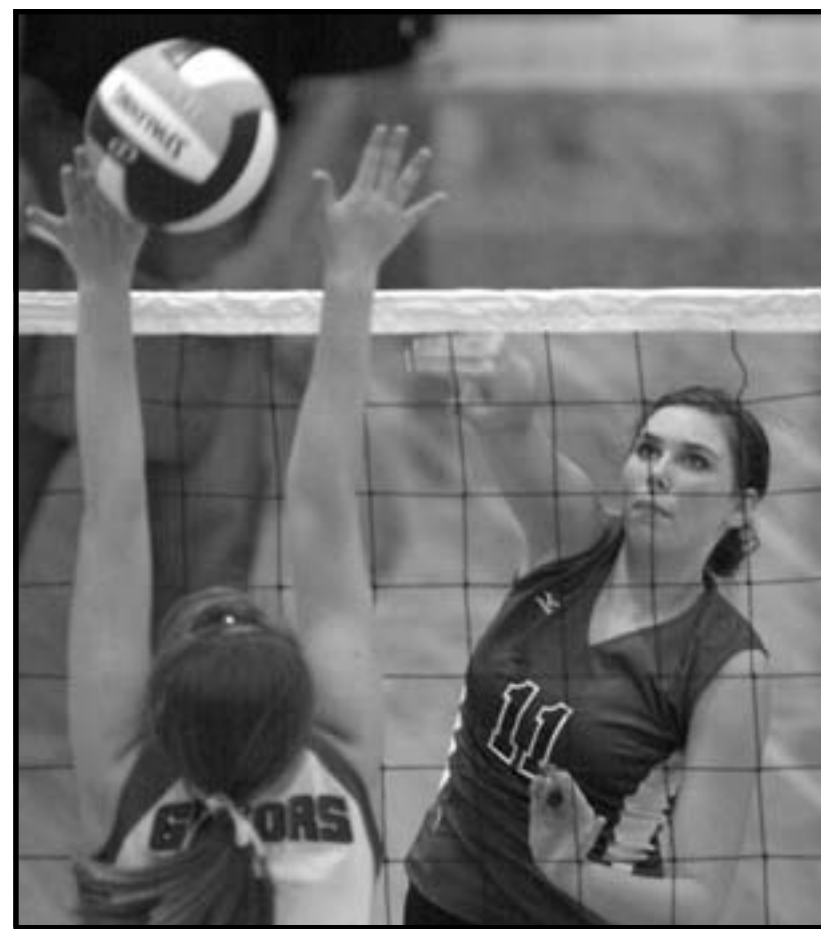

The match brought an end to the season for the 21-11 Blue Devils, and coach Joyce Hoskins expressed the team's disappointment with Tuesday's final match.

"I thought we had a shot at getting to state, and it's heartbreaking," she said. "I'm very proud of the kids. All the girls did great things tonight, but it just wasn't meant to be."

The Blue Devils jumped out to leads in all four sets. They led 7-2 in the first and 5-1 in the second, but the Lady Gators were able to come back and take advantage of some quick setting at the net and some passing problems by the Wayne offense.

"I think (coach Jean Groth) scouted us well and picked on our weaknesses," Hoskins said. "We knew they would serve aggressive, and we didn't serve receive as well as we could have and it got us out of our system."

Wayne led 14-11 in the first set when the Lady Gators took advantage of a service ace, two hitting errors and a pair of kills to turn it into a 17-14 advantage that carried them to the first-set win. They managed to chip away at Wayne's early four-point advantage in the second set to take a two-set advantage that had the Blue Devils playing from behind the rest of the night.

Wayne did mount a comeback with a strong third set, highlighted by three consecutive kills from senior Elisa Robinson, who finished with a team-high 13 kills. She fueled a seven-point rally that gave

Wakefield falls to LHNE in subdistricts

NORFOLK – Wakefield picked up a win in the C2-8 subdistrict tournament, but ran into a buzzsaw in top-ranked Lutheran High Northeast to end its 15-17 campaign.

The Trojans bounced Stanton in straight sets, 25-20, 25-13, 25-21 to earn a spot in the semifinals, but didn't have enough to overcome the No. 1 seed Lady Eagles, who pulled away for a 25-12, 25-17, 25-8 win.

"Anything can happen in volleyball," coach Megan Nixon said. "We had our opportunities (against LHNE) and let the momentum shift too early, and we knew this would be a tough team. We can play with a team like that, but we let a few runs hurt us and couldn't bounce back."

The Trojans got off to good starts in each of the first two sets, leading 6-2 in the first and 9-6 in the second before the Lady Eagles picked up the intensity. After having played them tough the first two sets, Wakefield was unable to mount any sustained rally to stay with the Lady Eagles in the final set.

Wakefield played well in its first match of the day, taking advantage of their quickness and size against fifth-seeded Stanton to post the three-set win.

"I thought we played pretty evenly and played with a good deal of confidence," Nixon said. "We moved the ball around well, which created some opportunities for our outside hitters. We got 14 kills on the outside, which we haven't been able to get this year, and that relieved some of the pressure in the middle."

Keri Lunz had 16 kills, Katie Weinrich added 12 and Lauren Lemkuhl put down 10 to lead the Trojans in the win. Sydney Rose had 34 set assists, and Lehmkuhl's nine digs led the defense.

The loss to the top-ranked Lady Eagles was typical of what has been a tough schedule for the Trojans this season.

"We've seen Lutheran three times this year, and that's the caliber of our schedule with teams like Wisner, Wayne and Laurel," she said. "All of them are state contenders, and we just haven't been able to get over the bubble. We've played these teams close, and just couldn't get our opportunities in the end."

Lunz led Wakefield with seven kills and 10 digs, while Weinrich and Lehmkuhl each added five. Rose had 20 set assists.

Winside wins L&C title, first since 1996

BANCROFT – Winside came away with an exciting five-set victory over Bancroft-Rosalie to win the team's first Lewis and Clark Conference volleyball title since 1996.

The Wildcats spotted the Panthers the first two sets, came back to tie the match and hung for a dramatic win in the final set to take the title, 24-26, 16-25, 25-16, 25-15, 15-13.

Bancroft-Rosalie dominated the first two sets and appeared to be on their way to winning the conference title, but Winside fought back with two dominating efforts of their own, forcing a fifth and decisive set.

The fifth set went back-and-forth between the two teams. Winside battled back from an early 4-1 deficit on kills by Jerai Doffin, Shelby Lienemann and Erin Gray, then countered another three-point run by the Panthers will kills by Gray, an ace serve by Bridget Gray, and a Lienemann block to take an 8-7 lead.

Winside extended that lead to 11-8 on kills by Lienemann and Audrey Roberts, but Bancroft-Rosalie came back to take a 13-12 lead. The Panthers lost the serve, and Winside took advantage with a Gray kill and a Doffin block to end the match.

Lienemann had 20 kills and Erin Gray added 19 to lead the Wildcats. Doffin had nine kills and eight blocks. Bridget Gray had 47 set assists. Nazya Thies had five ace serves and Audrey Roberts led a balanced defense with 27 set assists.

Matchup will honor Meyer

A basketball game bearing the name of a former Wayne resident will make its debut next week.

Belmont will host Northern State in the first Don Meyer Classic on Tuesday, Nov. 9 at 6 p.m. The game will be broadcast on ESPN-U.

The game was set up to honor Meyer, who retired from Northern State last year with the NCAA all-time record for coaching wins in men's basketball with 923. Meyer grew up in Wayne and coached at Lipscomb, where his connection with Belmont and the "Battle of the Boulevard" began.

Meyer's life story is coming out in a book set to be released the same day. "How Lucky Can You Be" is written by Buster Olney and tells Meyer's life story, including the car crash that nearly took his life and his battle with cancer.

Rugby teams earn road wins

The Wayne State rugby teams posted wins over University of South Dakota on Saturday. The men earned home-field advantage for the first-round of the national playoffs with a 42-5 win, while the Wayne State women were 49-0 victors.

Kory Blatchford earned "Man of the Match" honors with his three scores on the day. The women play at Augustana on Saturday, with the winner advancing to the national playoffs. The men will play the first round of their national playoffs at home the third weekend in November.

Wayne will play host to the first two rounds of the national tournament in April.

Traveling hoops teams registration

The Wayne Youth Basketball Association's traveling teams will be forming, with registration taking place Tuesday, Dec. 7, at the Wayne Community Activity Center.

Registration is open to boys and girls in grades 4-8. Coaches of respective age groups will be on hand to register participants. Parent meetings will be held at the conclusion of the grade 5-6 recreation games that day.

For more information, call the Community Activity Center at (402) 375-4803.

Sixth-graders beat Stanton

The Wayne sixth-grade football team held on for an 18-12 win over Stanton.

Christian Rogers accounted for all three scores for Wayne, scoring on a 75-yard kickoff return and touchdown runs of 50 and 40 yards.

In other action, the Wayne fifth-grade team beat Wakefield 34-6 to end their season. Brandon Watters, Dylan Brogem and Beau Bowers all had touchdown runs, and Bowers threw a touchdown pass to Jack Evetovich.

The sixth-grade team closed out its season with a 12-6 loss to Wakefield's sixth graders. Caden Korth scored the team's only touchdown of the game.

Wildcats fall in latest ratings

The Wayne State women's volleyball team fell from the No. 1 spot for the second time this season, dropping to No. 4 in the latest AVCA Coaches top 25.

Wayne State fell after losing to co-No. 1 Concordia-St. Paul in straight sets. They trail Minnesota Duluth and Tampa, while Southwest Minnesota State is No. 5.

Before Friday's loss, Wayne State had dropped from No. 1 to No. 2 in the Central Region rankings, which determines the eight-team field for the NCAA Div. II Central Region bracket. Wayne State trails Concordia-St. Paul in those rankings.

Wildcats ranked No. 18 in Div. II preseason poll

The Wayne State women's basketball team is ranked No. 18 in the USA Today/ESPN Div. II Top 25 preseason coaches' poll that was announced Wednesday.

It is the second preseason national ranking for the Wildcats. They were also picked No. 14 in the Div. II Bulletin Women's preseason poll released Oct. 5.

The Wildcats return four starters from last season's 26-5 squad that won the 2010 Northern Sun Conference tournament title and advanced to the NCAA Div. II National Tournament for the third time in five seasons.

The Wildcats open the 2010-11 season on Friday, Nov. 12 at Cal-State Stanislaus at 8 p.m. The first home game for Wayne State is Friday, Dec. 10 vs. Northern State at 6 p.m.

Lady Bears take NENAC title with thriller over West Holt

CROFTON – The Laurel-Concord/Coleridge Lady Bears are champions once again.

In a back-and-forth affair between two of the top teams in Class C2, the Lady Bears edged West Holt in five sets to defend their spot at the top of the NENAC conference, outlasting the Lady Huskies 25-22, 18-25, 25-20, 17-25, 15-9.

"This was an exciting finish to the conference tournament, and the girls should be congratulated for being back-to-back champs," coach Patti Cunningham said.

The Lady Bears were led by Amy Pritchard with 20 kills, Jade Cunningham added 16 kills and Mandy Nelsen recording 15 kills. Nelsen and Cunningham had 24 and 22 assists, respectively, and Ashley Lunz had three ace serves.

Wayne a 12-5 lead in the third set, and kills by Katie Hoskins and Ellie Ehrisman helped Wayne force a fourth set.

The two teams played even in the final set, and Wayne used a couple of small rallies to take a 17-14 advantage. Wisner-Pilger came back from a 21-19 deficit to force match point. Hoskins got the serve back for Wayne with a kill, and a Wisner-Pilger error pulled Wayne within a point of extending the set, but a kill by Rachel Schulz ended the Blue Devils' hopes for a dramatic comeback.

Hoskins finished with 12 kills, 12 digs and two ace serves for the Blue Devils. Robinson added four blocks and a team-high 16 digs to share honors with Laura Muren, while Cassie Harm added 15 digs. Erica Sebade had seven kills, Ehrisman added six kills and three blocks, and Muren had 30 set assists.

Wayne reached the finals with a three-set win over Tekamah-Herman, winning 25-19, 25-20, 25-16. Hoskins and Robinson led the way with 16 kills apiece, Muren had 31 assists, Elle Schramm had a team-best five blocks and Harm had 10 digs to lead the defense.

Hoskins praised the work of her team's seniors – Sebade, Ehrisman, Robinson, Rachel Gilliland and Jamie Belt – that helped the team finish a solid campaign.

"Elisa did so many things for us this season that you don't notice because of what she does in the front row," Hoskins said. "Ellie came on and was a great surprise for us, Erica has been a steady force, Rachel came in and did a lot of nice things with her serving, and Jamie Belt didn't get a lot of playing time but was a great player in practice who helped make us a great team."

Free speech, at the tip of a finger

With all the election hubbub going on, I thought it would be a good time to clear out the "Bits and Pieces" file:

- I don't want to encourage this sort of behavior, but evidently it is within your constitutional rights to give the finger to those in authority.

A lawsuit was settled in Oregon recently between a man and representatives of the Clackamas County Sheriff's Department. The man reportedly was harassed by county officials on two separate occasions after giving a representative of the county's law enforcement staff the universal single-finger salute.

The first time he did it, a deputy stopped him in his vehicle and ticketed him for an illegal lane change and improper display of license plates, charges the man was later acquitted on. A month later, a deputy detained him briefly for making a similar gesture.

The county settled with the man for $4,000, saying that it was cheaper to settle the case than to proceed with defending the lawsuit.

- From the "Pay close attention to the classes your college student is taking" folder comes this tidbit: The University of South Carolina is offering a class for the spring semester that will focus on... brace yourselves... Lady Gaga.

That's right, the current icon of popular culture (calling her a singer would be offensive to those who actually possess the talent) is the subject of a course called "Lady Gaga and the Sociology of the Fame" that will be offered this spring, according to The Daily Gamecock, the school's campus newspaper.

The professor said the course will examine the social construction of fame, using the current media attention-seeker as its focus. The course will study how individuals like this are able to generate such a worldwide following.

I don't know about you, but I think it might have something to do with a combination of Andy Warhol's "15 minutes of fame" concept and the old saying by P.T. Barnum that has something to do with the separation of a fool and his money.

- Here's an interesting coincidence for you: a Michigan woman who wrote King Obama I a letter is selling a handwritten letter she received from Obama to a collector for $7,000.

Oddly enough, the woman has been unemployed for three years and suffers from skin cancer. She told a Michigan TV station she is selling the letter because she and her husband would like to buy a home.

Sometimes I write the ironic stuff, and sometimes it just writes itself, folks...

- From the "What are you people, on dope?" folder: An English professor has determined which drug is the most harmful to society. And the winner is (cue the band): alcohol.

Believe it or not, this professor determined that alcohol is the worst drug overall, compared to such winners as heroin, crack cocaine and crystal meth, which he determined are the worst from an individual perspective.

He also found that tobacco and cocaine were equally harmful, while ecstasy and LSD are the least damaging.

Evidently, if you take all of these drugs simultaneously, you can become a professor in England.

- Today's sign that the boss and I need to sit down and renegotiate my current salary: a pizza chain in Japan is hiring a part-time employee to work for $31,000 an hour.

The job isn't a long-term gig. In fact, it's only for one hour as part of an event celebrating Domino's Pizza Japan's 25-year anniversary. The employee will work for one hour during the month of December and receive the equivalent of $31,030.

No previous experience or education is required, which puts it on the same level as certain jobs we might be familiar with here on this side of the ocean... governor and a member of Congress leap to mind.

- I didn't get to see much of the Jon Stewart/Stephen Colbert mock rally that was held over the weekend, but it's been interesting to see the talking boggleheads on TV try to analyze what was, in essence, a very large, drawn out, elaborate comedy routine.

Taking its cue from a Glenn Beck rally held earlier this fall, Stewart and Colbert not only mocked the concept of the political rally, but did a fantastic job of showing the idiots in Washington that they are completely disconnected from the real world.

Even funnier was watching the media try to poo-poo and downplay the rally as an insignificant event. The funny part in this is that the joke was on the mainstream media as it was on the political machine that has broken down in this country.

Some thought the rally was going to turn into a pro-Democrat rally, but instead did a good job of mocking both political parties, along with organized religion, mainstream media and other bogeymen. It gave us a chance to laugh at ourselves, as well as those who run this nation.

- And, finally, there is this from the "Let me tell you something about you that YOU don't know" department: according to Mindset Media, a psychographic ad targeting organization, the shows you watch on TV can give marketers a good idea of your personality.

According to this organization, if you're altruistic, you are likely to watch cooking shows and reality shows with happy endings. Modest people are more into blue-collar programs. Rebellious types and risk takers like cartoon comedy shows.

So what does it mean if the only time your TV is on are Saturdays and Sundays (and Monday nights) during football season, and for The O'Reilly Factor? Not that I know anybody like that...

Capitol View

Assuming Tuesday's results

By ED HOWARD
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN - The problems inherent in writing a pre-election column that is mostly for a post-election publication are obvious.

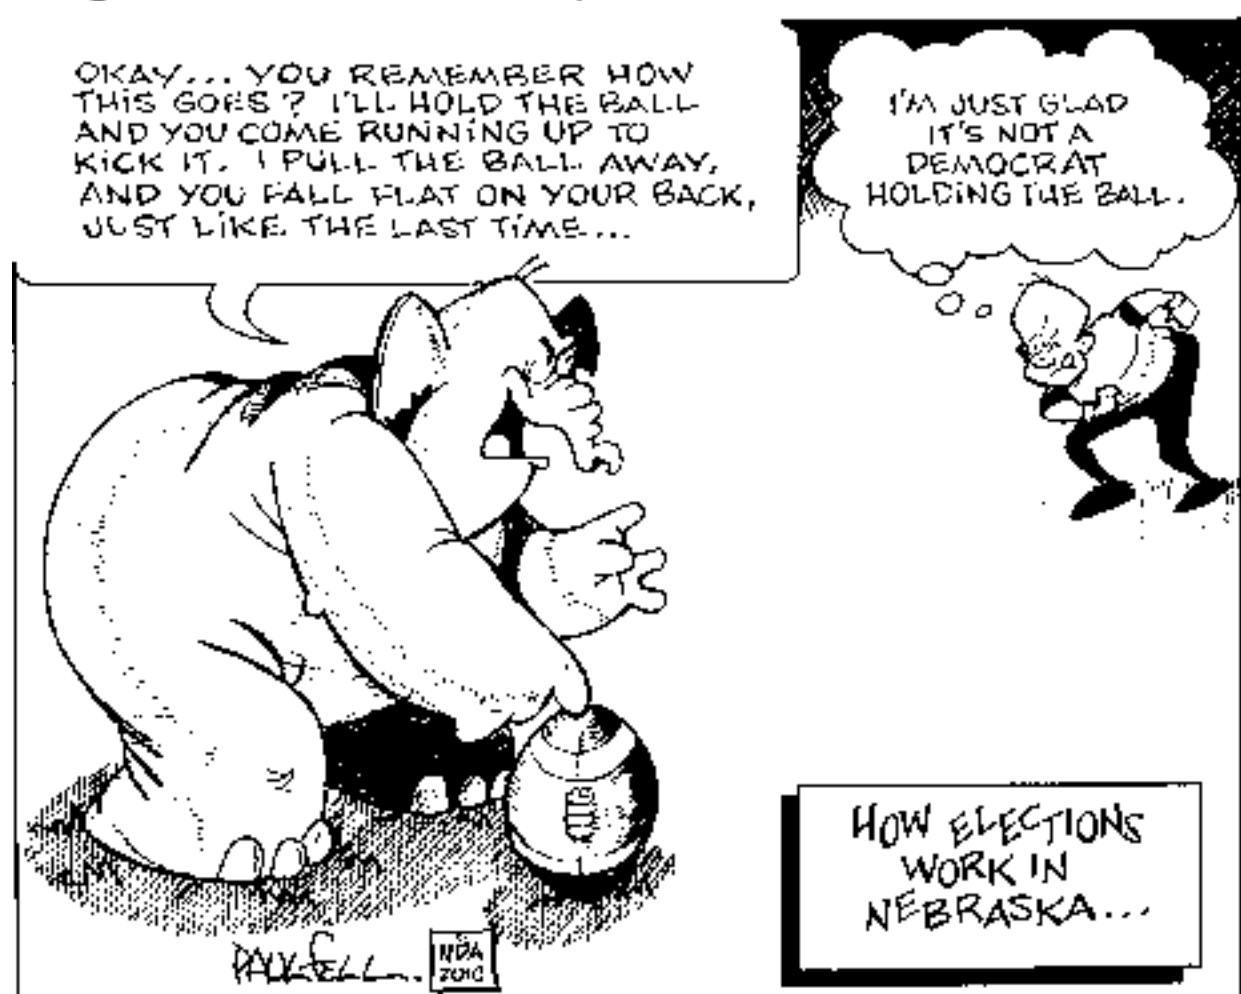

In Nebraska, however, these problems are less problematic than they would be in some other states. A psychologist told me years ago that the best predictor of future behavior is past behavior. With that in mind several days before the election, but only hours away from deadline, this column relies on the previous behavior of Nebraska voters to assert:

Republican Gov. Dave Heineman won re-election going away. The main question is whether he might start moving toward a bid for the U.S. Senate in 2012. The other question is whether his lopsided margin of victory over Democrat Mark Meister exceeded his obscenely lopsided, record-setting 300,000-vote victory over Democrat David Hahn in 2008. It's by no means a certainty, since 2008 was a presidential election year, and off-year elections never draw voters in comparable numbers.

Side note: At the beginning of October the governor had about $1.8 million in his political war chest. Meister had about $16,000.

Rep. Adrian Smith was re-elected in the 3rd District, a place so Republican that one can imagine Democrats being outnumbered by the tourists who visit Lake McConaughy, or even Buffalo Bill's ranch. Something different in the Big 3rd this year: Dan Hill, described as a conservative who might offer particular appeal to Tea Party voters, earned a place on the ballot through the petition process.

Congressman Jeff Fortenberry was re-elected in a GOP-dominated 1st District that would likely have re-elected him even if it hadn't been Gerrymandered long, long ago to make it safe for Republicans, even if Democrats could somehow multiply like Warren Buffett's bank account.

So much for the nothing-to-it part of covering election night days in advance, via a well-worn political crystal ball, and the reading of autumn leaves which keep falling in the backyard. If those before-the-fact "results" were on target it's no big deal. If any of them were wrong: WOW!

Where the magic orb was not so clear: The 2nd District race where veteran Republican Rep. Lee Terry was challenged by former state Sen. Tom White. The odds favored Terry; but his victory margins have gotten smaller over the years.

Voters also had the opportunity to do away with the office of State Treasurer. The fate of that constitutional amendment was too iffy to forecast. It's easy to imagine Nebraska voters gladly, if not gleefully, seizing the chance to literally make government somewhat smaller. But... it's also easy to imagine a lot of them being concerned that, if there is no treasurer to count the money, all manner of mischief might follow.

U.S. Justice Department Election Watchdog

The U.S. Attorney's office was on duty election night to accept any allegations of fraud or abuse of voters' rights. The effort was part of the national Ballot Access and Voter Integrity Initiative which the Department of Justice established during the administration of then-President George W. Bush. The DOJ is responsible for prosecuting violations of federal election law.

Trade visit to help state's business

Dear Fellow Nebraskans:

Nebraska businesses operate in a global marketplace. In 2009 Nebraska companies exported $4.8 billion in products, with businesses in Canada, Mexico, Japan and China our leading customers. When I traveled to Asia in 2007, I was amazed by the opportunities for our state's businesses. I came away convinced that with targeted outreach and collaboration, Nebraska could continue to increase its share of the global marketplace.

Since that time, there have been numerous activities associated with trade development in our state. I want to focus on an example that occurred just this week. A small team of representatives from the Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA), the Nebraska Dry Bean Commission and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln spent four days in Beijing, China, in discussions designed to grow the market for Nebraska dry edible beans.

Nebraska is one of the leading states for dry edible bean production, with much of the production and processing located in the Panhandle. The Nebraska Dry Bean Commission recently has set its focus on broadening its global market share, in an effort to provide some price stability.

Gov.
Dave
Heinemann

China was targeted for action by the Dry Bean Commission because it is both a competitor in dry bean production, as well as a growth market for consumption. The focus of the visit was on educating key government officials and business representatives about the nutritional value of dry edible beans and opportunities to expand their usage in the Chinese diet. The decision to move ahead with this visit was made after detailed discussions with a number of partners, including the United States Department of Agriculture, about the best opportunities for growing dry edible bean markets.

While in China this week, the group met with representatives of the Food Science and Technology Institute, which is a government organization that has some responsibility for looking at new ways of processing agricultural products, like dry edible beans. They also met with the Chinese Nutrition Institute, an organization that is working toward improving the diets of China's citizens.

Another appointment was with officials at Masterkong, the largest manufacturer of popular instant noodle cups. The goal was to educate the company on the value of incorporating dry edible beans into their products. This would increase the nutritional value while opening a new marketing outlet for the beans. The group also met with influential agencies within the Chinese Central Government that have direct authority over dry bean supply management.

The Nebraska team was led by Agriculture Director Greg Ibach. Others included Dr. Linda Boeckner, who is the Director of UNL's Panhandle Research Center and a registered dietitian; Leo Hoehn, who is a dry bean processor and member of the Dry Bean Commission; Stan Garbacz, the Nebraska Department of Agriculture international trade representative and Lynn Reuter, executive secretary of the Dry Bean Commission. The group was small. Each participant contributed significantly to the overall base of knowledge needed for discussions.

I am highlighting this trade visit because it represents the collaborative, targeted effort that is important for Nebraska to maintain its competitiveness in an ever-growing, global marketplace. We must expand our outreach and look at our trade partners in new ways if we want to continue to grow our economy.

Pfaltzgraff and Friends to present concert

Sunday, November 7 is the fifth in a continuing series of "Pfaltzgraff and Friends" Concerts in the Wayne area. These concerts occur in the spring and fall of each year and have been presented in churches in town and on the Wayne State College campus.

This concert moves to a different venue and also features the theme of "Jazz and Razz-a-mataz". The performance site will be at Merle and Donna Ring's "The Barn", located three miles east of Primestop in Wayne, turn right at the sign and go to the third property on the right. There is a large "N" on The Barn.

Participating in the program will be a Faculty Jazz Combo from WSC, a Women's Jazz Quartet, and a saxophone quartet.

"The concert time is 2:30 p.m., and 'yes,' you will have time to get to the concert by Sherie Lundahl and her gospel group for the 4 p.m. concert at First Presbyterian Church," said Phil Pfaltzgraff.

"What a great day for a little 'Jazz at the Barn!' he added.

Paraoptometrists attend statewide convention

Sonja Hansen, Brandy Saltzman, Lisa Niemann, Theresa Frerichs and Melia Hefti recently attended the Nebraska Optometric Association Annual Fall Convention in Kearney.

All of the women are employed by Dr. Larry Magnuson and Dr. Joshua Hopkins of Magnuson Hopkins Eye Care in Wayne.

Excellent educational opportunities were available to the almost 200 paraoptometrists who attended the conference. Classes included information on instrumentation, anatomy of the eye, children's vision, glaucoma, red-eye and more. Motivational speakers provided courses on management, team building and excellent customer service.

Paraoptometrists are allied health professionals who assist optometrists in providing their highest level of vision care to patients. Front office procedures, chair-side assisting, pre-testing, contact lens instruction, frame styling and fitting, and vision therapy are just a few of the many duties paraoptometrists perform while working directly with an optometrist.

The Nebraska Optometric Association represents over 2000 doctors of optometry throughout the state. Licensed optometrists provide more than two-thirds of all primary eye care in the United States, including diagnosis and treatment of eye disease and vision conditions. Association members in Nebraska are also leading providers of pediatric vision care and offer two statewide public service programs to serve children. Optometrists offer free vision evaluations for any infant through the InfantSEE program and free vision assessments for all three-year-olds through the See to Learn program.

Information about both programs is available to consumers on the Nebraska Optometric Association website at www.nebraska.aoa.org

Purchasing and cooking important for optimum turkey feasts

The holiday season is a time for giving, sharing and eating. Many families celebrate with a turkey feast, and the best way to ensure a successful feast pertains to purchasing and cooking.

There are many ways to purchase turkeys: frozen, frozen pre-stuffed, fresh and pre-cooked. Frozen turkeys can be bought anytime, but must be thawed two to three days before the big day to ensure proper cooking. If purchasing a fresh turkey, do so one or two days before cooking. The best option would be an unstuffed turkey. Pre-cooked turkeys should be brought home and served within an hour or two.

When finding the right turkey, size does matter. A good rule of thumb is one pound per person. This way there will be some leftovers, but not too much.

The recommended, safest thawing method is in a refrigerator set at 40 degrees or below. Plan for 24 hours for each four to five pounds of turkey. So, if the turkey is 20 pounds, it could take up to five days to thaw. Place the turkey in a container before putting it in the refrigerator so juices drip in the container, not on other foods.

Here are some different sizes of turkeys and the approximate number of days they require to thaw:

- 8 to 12 pounds, one to two days;
- 12 to 16 pounds, two to three days;
- 16 to 20 pounds, three to four days;
- 20 to 24 pounds, four to five days.

Another thawing method is a microwave. Check microwave instructions beforehand. If using this method, it is best to have a small turkey rather than a large turkey to make sure it fits. Most importantly, anything thawed in a microwave needs to be cooked immediately.

A quicker thawing method is submerging the turkey in cold water. Make sure the water stays cold and is changed every 30 minutes. This method requires about 30 minutes per pound for a whole turkey.

After a turkey has been thawed in a refrigerator, it can stay in the refrigerator for one to two days before cooking. When preparing the turkey, remove the neck and giblets, wash the turkey inside and out with cold water and drain it well.

Wash hands, utensils, the sink and anything else that has come in contact with the raw turkey to prevent contamination or food borne illness.

Turkey should be cooked in an oven set to at least 325 degrees. Place the turkey breast side up on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Oven cooking bags are more common today, so if using a cooking bag, make sure it works for a turkey. Cooking bags can speed up cooking time and also keep the juices inside for moist poultry.

Use a meat thermometer to make sure the turkey cooks to a minimum of 165 degrees in the thickest part, which could be the breast or thigh. Check both places to be sure it's cooked thoroughly. Do not add water to the pan. Cover the turkey with a loose tent of heavy-duty aluminum foil and remove about 20 to 30 minutes before the turkey is done cooking. This should prevent burning, but may increase cooking time.

Cooking a stuffed turkey takes longer. It's recommended to cook stuffing separately not only to keep cooking time shorter, but also to reach optimum safety. The stuffing should also reach a temperature of 165 degrees.

The approximate cooking time for an 8 to 12 pound unstuffed turkey is 2.5 to 3 hours while an 18 to 20 pound turkey may take 4 to 4.5

hours. When finished cooking, let the turkey sit for 20 minutes before carving.

Consider purchasing parts of the turkey instead of a whole turkey if having a small group of people instead of a large group. Buying breasts, thighs and legs separately makes handling easier, allows choice of white or dark meat and also leaves less leftovers. Also, consider this option if the oven is smaller. There may not be enough circulation for a whole turkey to cook properly in a small oven.

After the feast, remove bones and refrigerate all leftovers in small, shallow containers. Use the leftover turkey and stuffing within three to four days and gravy within one to two days or freeze the leftovers.

Irwin L. Sears auxiliary gathers in Wayne

The Irwin L. Sears Auxiliary #43 met Oct. 12 at the Eveline Thompson residence.

The meeting was opened by President Beverly Etter with colors in place. It was a regular meeting.

The opening prayer was read, which was followed by the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

The POW/MIA flag was placed on the empty chair for missing veterans and was followed by a prayer. The Unit Citation Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion Auxiliary was recited.

The minutes were read and approved. The Mid-Winter Conference will be held Jan. 14-16 at the Mid-town Holiday Inn in Grand Island.

Wayne Auxiliary #43 achieved Milestone #1, which was to retain 60 percent in membership by Sept. 24. Members were encouraged to send in membership dues as soon as possible. There are currently 21 paid up members for the 2011 year. Members have been encouraged to send in dues so the auxiliary can reach 100 percent by the end of November.

Members were told, "Let's not forget our veterans. Participate and observe Veterans' Day on Nov. 11. Remember to thank them as we have so much to be thankful for because we are 'united by love for our veterans and country.'"

Donations were given to Gifts for Yanks Who Gave, Gift Shop Assignment, Veterans Home Assessments, Gold Star Program and Auxiliary Emergency Fund.

The auxiliary has sent in the per capita tax and Boys and Girls State Orientation fees to the District 3 Secretary and Treasurer.

The group helped sponsor a bingo party with VFW Auxiliary #5293 and DAV Auxiliary #28 at the Norfolk Veterans Home on Sept. 18, Sept. 27 and Oct. 23. They served ice cream and cookies.

The closing prayer was given. The group then had the Little Red Schoolhouse March for the Scholarship Fund.

President Beverly Etter closed to meeting to re-open on Tuesday, Nov. 9 at 2 p.m. at the Eveline Thompson residence.

Eveline Thompson served lunch.

How do you select a price for your house?

What goes into pricing a house to sell? Too high and people won't consider the property. Too low and they may think there's something wrong with it.

What do you want to keep in mind when pricing?

- Location
- Condition
- Market Trends
- Terms

Has your home been on the market for a long time?

Typically, the right price will cause it to sell faster than competing houses that are priced poorly.

Sometimes a change in price will only be effective if the change is carefully thought out. There are several issues that need to be considered to set the price.

Want to price it just right?

A great real estate agent will have the knowledge and the ability to accurately price your property so that that your home sells promptly at a price agreeable to you!

Did You Know? Chiropractors Treat Sciatica...

Numeness in the foot
Weakness of the knee or foot
Difficulty walking

Sciatica is defined as pain that radiates from the lower back into the buttocks and down the back of one or both legs, caused by the irritation of the sciatic nerves. If the vertebrae or bones in the lower back are misaligned or out of place they can put pressure on the nearby nerves. This can cause tremendous pain and normal daily activities become almost impossible. Chiropractic care works on correcting misaligned or out of place vertebrae and can remove the pressure placed on the sciatic nerve, reducing pain and improving flexibility and function.

Consecration and Open House are held for Winside Methodist Church

After many years of planning and working, the Winside United Methodist Church held a Consecration Service and Open House at its new church on Oct. 31.

Officiating the 10 a.m. service were Pastor Larry Hall, Minister; Assistant Pastor, Judy Carlson CLM; and District Superintendent, Rev. Nan Kaye-Skinner. Rev. Skinner consecrated the new church building, the baptismal font, pulpit, and The Lords Table.

Special music for the morning service was provided by the children, senior church women and younger members of the church. A poem written by JoAnn Field was also read.

Assistant Pastor Judy Carlson thanked and released the building committee from their duties. Serving on the building committee were Larry Bowers, Bill Burris, Gene Barg, Rose Janke, Larry Carlson, and the late Russell Longnecker.

Also recognized during the service was United Methodist Church memberships of 70 years for Helen Holtgrew and Donald Longnecker, and 50 year memberships for Herb and Arlene Wills, Bonnie Wylie, Elsie Longnecker and Helen Hancock.

A potluck chicken dinner was held for all members and guests. An Open House was also held with tours of the church, cake and beverages. CROSSfire, a Christian contemporary band that serves the Winside, Osmond and Pierce United Methodist Churches furnished music.

Approximately 200 individuals attended during the day.

Winside United Methodist Church holds worship services every Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and Sunday School at 9:30 a.m. Guests are always welcome.

Membership honorees included, front row, Bonnie Wyle and Helen Hancock. Back row, Helen Holtgrew, Arlene and Herb Wills. Not present were Donald and Elsie Longnecker.

Members of the Building Committee included Larry Bowers, Gene Barg, Bill Burris, Larry Carlson and Rose Janke.

Praise Assembly of God Church events planned

Sunday, Nov. 7 will be another exciting day at Praise Assembly of God Church, located at 1000 East 10th Street in Wayne. Sunday School starts at 9:30 AM in the "Fireside Room" where Phil Pfaltzgraff (WSC Staff Accompanist) is continuing in a teaching series on the "Songs of Ascents" (Psalms 120-134). The lesson for Sunday is on Psalm 127 which concerns building, working, and living principles - as well as raising children.

The morning (10:30 AM) and evening (6:30 PM) services (in the sanctuary) will involve the guest ministry of a team of five individuals from Bethel Church in Redding, CA. This group of individuals will be doing ministry in the area of gifts of the Holy Spirit.

A "carry-in" Fellowship Lunch will allow all of the attendees and the guests to engage in fellowship together.

Looking ahead to Nov. 14, we are also looking forward to the ministry of Trista Jaeger (missionary) from Winside who will be preaching and singing in both morning and evening services.

We look forward to seeing you this week!

'The Shack' proves powerful

A couple of years ago, a Hoskins friend I saw in the cafeteria of the hospital in Norfolk was reading a book called The Shack and recommended it to me. Before I could even get hold of it, my friend Marilyn in Phoenix called to tell me to read it. So, on the strength of their enthusiasm, I bought it and read it.

The first part has to do with the abduction of a little girl from a campsite while her father is responsible for the kids. It's just too sad. I read that far, and no further. Finally, I picked it up and finished it; the second part is basically a dream of heaven and an allegory of the Trinity, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. It's quite fantasy like, and I don't care for symbolism, so I wasn't as excited about it as some people were.

I loaned it to Murt Meierhenry, and she was so enthusiastic, she bought several more copies to share. That, it turns out, is how the book became a best seller. The author, Paul Young, was in Lincoln a week ago to talk about it. We all concluded it had to be a God thing.

First, Paul described a very difficult childhood, full of abuse, verbal, physical, and spiritual. Then, he described some of the survival skills children like him develop. Lastly, he shared his nine months of therapy and eleven years of healing. The book was written for his six children as an explanation of what had happened to him.

He went to Office Depot and printed fifteen copies, with plastic covers and the spiral holder. He gave them to his kids and to some friends. The friends called to say they would like some to share, so he printed fifteen more. This kept happening until they suggested he find a publisher. Twenty six companies turned him down, so two guys formed their own and printed 10,000 copies and sold them out of his garage.

By: Pat Meierhenry

Long story short: it has sold millions of copies, it is in over forty languages, and it was the Book of the Year in Croatia. He has stacks of letters and e-mails thanking him, and sharing stories of the same kinds of things he endured. Apparently, it really hits home when the person reading it has a need to be assured that "God is good all the time" and of the importance of forgiveness. And, of course, that our loved ones who have left this earthly home are safe in their heavenly one.

Anyway, it was a powerful presentation. I had an overwhelming urge to just hug him and tell him I was so sorry these things had happened to him. But I think it just proved my favorite verse, "ALL things work together for good to those who love God and are called according to His purpose." His pain has been used to help many, many people who are in need of his message. (And I'm reading the book again, with renewed insight.) If you have not read it, go ahead and pick it up. It can't hurt, and it might help.

New tax bills make planning 2010 taxes important

New tax bills and higher incomes for 2010 make now the time for Nebraska farmers to start thinking about year-end tax planning, says the Nebraska Farm Business Inc. director.

"Three major tax bills came out this year, including the Health Care Reform Bill and the jobs bill," said Tina Barrett, director, Nebraska Farm Business Inc.

When it comes to the health care bill, many changes will take effect in later years, but there is a health insurance credit farmers and ranchers can take advantage of this year. They can get up to a 35 percent credit on health insurance they pay for employees.

"It is very complicated, so be sure to ask your tax preparer about it," she said. "In addition, there is still a question on whether or not a spouse as an employee counts, so be sure to bring that up with your tax preparer as well."

The new jobs bill allows farmers and ranchers to get a credit for workers who worked fewer than 40 hours in 60 days.

"So if you had a summer student worker, for example, this is a chance to get credit," she said.

Farmers and ranchers also can take advantage of a rate change with the Domestic Production Activities Deduction. This deduction is limited to 50 percent of wages a farmer or rancher pays, or 9 percent of farm income, whichever is less. This previous limit was 6 percent.

"This could be fairly significant, and you don't have to do anything but make money and pay wages. Wages paid to family workers also are included," she said.

When it comes to depreciation,

Livestock Market Report

The Nebraska Livestock Market conducted a fat cattle sale on Friday. The market was $2 to $3 lower on fat cattle and higher on cows. There were 450 head sold.

Assess costs, benefits, before using corn, milo stalks as winter feed

Bruce Anderson, Extension Forage Specialist, shares these thoughts about baling stalks. After harvest, many wonder if baling stalks for winter feed is worth the time and effort. One way to look at it is from the cost stand point. Nutrients removed by stalk bales may need to be replaced with extra fertilizer. Using fall 2010 prices, stalks contain about $12 to $13 worth of nitrogen, phosphate, sulfur and lime per ton.

Corn stalk removal also can reduce soil organic matter, increase erosion risk, and increase soil water evaporation. Nebraska research shows that dryland corn yield declines about two bushels for each ton of residue removed while irrigation costs increase similarly to maintain corn yield.

Labor and equipment costs average $20 to $25 per ton and baling stalks tends to cause more wear and tear on equipment than other baling operations. Totaled together, these costs amount to $50 to $55 per ton of corn stalks removed.

When assessing corn stalks' worth as feed, one rule of thumb suggests the dollar feeding value is midway between that of straw and prairie hay. However, feed value of stalks varies greatly. For example, if everything is baled you may only have 3 to 4 percent protein and less than 50 percent total digestible nutrients. If you harvest just the tailings and two or three rows

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension Educator

behind the combine the total digestible nutrients increases to the lower 50s percent and protein to about 5 percent. Be sure to test to make sure.

To assess if baled corn stalks are worthwhile, you should be able to sell them for over $60 or buy them for less than $40 ton. In between, it's going to depend a lot on your individual ability to either cut costs or feed efficiently.

For more information, consult UNL Extension publications G1846, "Harvesting Crop Residues" and EC278 "Grazing Crop Residues with Beef Cattle."

Wayne Zone LWML Fall Rally was held on Oct. 19

The Wayne Zone LWML Fall Rally was held on Tuesday, October 19, 2010 at Hope Lutheran Church at South Sioux City, Nebraska with registration beginning at 9 a.m. The theme was: "We are the clay, you are the potter; we are all the work of your hand." -Isaiah 64:8.

Hymn sing began at 9:45 a.m. accompanied by Pastor Henry Witte on the guitar. Opening devotion was given by Pastor Randy Knuth on Isaiah 64:8. We came from dust. You make clay by adding water to dust. God added the water of baptism and we became clay. With the work of the Holy Spirit he molds us

Minerva Club gathers at Senior Center

Minerva Club met Oct. 25 at the Wayne Senior Center with Hollis Frese as hostess.

Twelve members answered roll call by telling their favorite quotation that could be put on the wrapper of Dove candy or by stating a weather prophecy used in their family.

President MaryAnn DeNaeyer began the meeting by reading "A Diary of a Workout Training" which gave the group many chuckles. She tugged at our heartstrings by sharing a reading, "A Wonderful Life With Friends Like You".

Minutes were read and approved. Treasurer Donna Hansen gave the treasurer's report. Correspondence consisted of a thank you from Friends of the Library for the $25 donation to the Library/Senior Center landscaping project.

Historian Hollis Frese read from the Nov. 17, 1975. The program given told how the United States would adopt the Metric System. There is mention of snow semi-blocking streets for the Nov. 26, 1975 meeting. At that meeting it was agreed to have a $1 Christmas gift exchange.

The birthday song was sung for Marilyn Wallin and Phyllis Rahn who were not in attendance at the time of their birthdays.

Arlene Ostendorf and Donna Hansen presented the book, "Touring Swedish America," that will be given to the Wayne Public Library in memory of member, Margaret Anderson. The bill of $24.95 for this book will be paid.

New business: The group will decide at the Nov. 8 meeting about participating in the Public Library's Christmas wreath display. Members agreed to have a $5-$10 gift exchange at the December meeting. Each member is to be thinking of a menu item for our pot luck at this meeting.

Since October is Vegetarian Month, Hollis Frese educated us by presenting a program on being a vegetarian. Lacto-ovo vegetarians choose a diet of vegetables, grains and fruits void of meat from slaughtered animals but will eat products from living animals such as milk and eggs. A vegan - or strict-vegetarian - also eats vegetables, grains and fruit but chooses not to ingest any animal products, i.e., eggs, milk, cheese, etc.

An individual chooses to be a vegetarian for several reasons and some of those reasons include being against the inhumane slaughtering of animals, believing that raising vegetables and fruit is a more effective use of land than raising livestock, and that a diet void of red meat makes for better nutrition.

Hollis concluded her program by sharing a letter from her niece who has chosen the vegetarian lifestyle.

The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 8 at the home of Fauneil Bennett.

Immanuel Ladies gather

Immanuel Lutheran Ladies Aid of rural Wakefield met Oct. 21.

Pastor Bertrand had devotions. He opened with prayer and led the Bible Study, "He only has eyes for you," taken from the LWML Women's Quarterly. He closed with prayer.

Four members and Pastor Bertrand were present. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given. Mites were collected.

Alta Meyer gave the Visitation report. Nila Schuttler gave a report on the Fall Rally which was held at Hope Lutheran in South Sioux City. Beverly Ruwe was honored with the birthday song.

A discussion on the December meeting was tabled until the November meeting.

The Thursday, Nov. 18 meeting will be at The Oaks in Wayne with a pot luck lunch.

The meeting closed with The Lord's Prayer and table prayer. Alta Meyer served lunch.

into a working vessel. Janice Anderson from Hope Ladies Aid gave the welcome. Bible study was given by Pastor Henry Witte. Cans of Playdough were passed out to all. We were to work and form the pPlaydough. God molds us through the difficulties in our lives. He forms us to His image.

President Nila Schuttler opened the business meeting. The LWML Pledge was recited. Minutes of the 2009 Fall Rally were read and approved as read. Treasurer's report was presented by Alice Johnson and will be filed for financial review.

The Financial Review Committee reported that the finances were correct. Those on the committee were Janice Anderson, Nila Schuttler, and Shirley Book. Nila reminded the group of the Bible Institute which will be held Oct. 31 at Grace Lutheran at Wayne.

Nila introduced the District officers who were present: Vice President of Servant Resources: Monica Ebmeier, Pastoral Counselor: Pastor Engebretsen, and Nominating committee member: Beverly Ruwe. Link-up material was handed out to all societies. Nila reminded them to be sure to return them to the new Zone president by Nov. 22.

October is Pastor Appreciation Month. Nila requested all the pastors to come forward and we thanked them by applause. The group was blessed to have seven pastors in attendance. They were: Pastor Willie Bertrand, Pastor Engebretsen, Pastor Henry Witte, Pastor Kenitz, Pastor Buethe, Pastor Tim Steckling, and Pastor Randy Knuth.

Monica Ebmeier introduced the candidates on the ballot. President - Janice Anderson, and Treasurer - Alice Johnson and Beverly Ruwe. Ballots were handed out and collected. Tellers were Fauneil Bennett, Wilma Bartels, and Lorraine Prince.

District report was given by Nila Schuttler. National LWML Convention will be held June 23-26, 2011 at Peoria, IL. The theme is "Being with Jesus - Living on the Edge". The bus will leave on June 22 and return on June 26. Cost to ride will be $100 per person. District LWML convention will be June 8-10, 2012 at Lutheran High Northeast in Norfolk with the Plainview Zone hosting. The theme will be "Beautiful Feet Sharing Good News." Supporting scripture is Isaiah 52:7 and Romans 10:15. The "Quarterlies" will have a cost increase. It was suggested that each society go through their by-laws every 4 years. Be sure to check out the LWML website. There are many resources available. Go to www.lwml.org. Former Nebraska North District President Pat Neujahr received her Crown of Glory on September 7. District president Marianne Slama's father, Harold Bruckner received his Crown of Glory on August 30. We will keep these families in our prayers. There will be a Women's Retreat on November 12-13 at Camp Luther. Cost is $30. To print out a registration go to www.campluther.org. The Wayne Zone will be in charge of the District Retreat in 2011.

The Christian growth committee gave a presentation "About Pots". Those on the committee were Beverly Ruwe, Patti Mattes and Eunice Johnson. Pastor Steckling lead the noon prayer. A delicious lunch was served by the Hope ladies.

We began the afternoon listening to our speaker Deb Burma. She spoke on "Cracked Pot or Moldable Clay". We each received a small bag of clay and a piece of a clay pot with Isaiah 64:8 written on it. As sinners we are like hardened cracked pots. We are empty. But with God and His incredible love for us, He transforms us into soft moldable clay. We are no longer empty as He fills our hearts with His Holy Spirit.

Monica Ebmeier gave a report on FISH (Friends Into Serving Him). She reported they have some events coming up. Delores Buss invited all to come to Immanuel in Laurel for the Spring Workshop. Nila Schuttler invited all to attend the Fall Rally at Immanuel in rural Wakefield. Our attendance for the day was 7 pastors, 4 guests and 38 members present for a total of 49 with our youngest being 2 1/2 years. Our offering was $200.

Pastor Steckling gave the blessings of the gifts for Our Savior Preschool and School at Winnebago. Many bags of snacks and paper items were collected. He based his devotion on John 2 - the wedding at Canaan.

The election report is as follows: President - Janice Anderson from Hope South Sioux City. Treasurer - Beverly Ruwe from Immanuel, Wakefield. Pastor Steckling installed the new officers. Pastor Steckling offered the closing devotion based on Luke 1. Mary found out she would be the mother of Jesus. Jesus became the pot. He became one of us to be filled up with pain and sorrow. He was smashed in our place. We closed the rally by singing the LWML song.
