Suspended officers will see evidence

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Two suspended police officers from the Wayne Police Department will get their chance to make their case in regards to accusations that led to their suspension from the department late last month.

Jerry Pigsley, a Lincoln attorney representing the City of Wayne, told The Wayne Herald Friday that Chief Lance Webster and Lt. Phil Shear will have an opportunity to see the evidence supporting the accusations made against them and will have a chance to give their side of the story to city administrator Lowell Johnson.

"There will be an opportunity for both Mr. Webster and Mr. Shear to be given the information that supports the accusations and each will get an opportunity to present their side of the story to the city administrator," Pigsley said.

Late Friday, Sean Brennan, a Lincoln attorney representing Webster, released a statement saying Webster's reputation and character have been damaged by Johnson.

"Public disclosures of personnel matters by the city administrator have unfairly prejudiced the reputation and character of Lance Webster," Brennan said.

"It is unfortunate that city administrator Lowell Johnson has publicly released his accusations against Chief Webster and Lt. Phil Shear. The public should know that Johnson has refused to provide evidence to support his accusations. The public should also know that the allegations are false. Johnson's choice to state them in a public forum will certainly factor in later decisions regarding possible libel and slander lawsuits that await the outcome of an investigation.

"Chief Webster and Lt. Shear have denied the allegations," he added. "They have been waiting for more than one month for Johnson to produce evidence to support his allegations. To date, Johnson has not produced that evidence, instead refusing multiple requests by Webster and Shear for him to do so."

Brennan questioned Johnson's motive for withholding evidence.

"Johnson is also aware of his legal obligation to produce that evidence and then allow a reasonable opportunity for Chief Webster and Lt. Shear to examine and rebut such evidence. His motive for keeping the evidence from them is unknown. However, this is not the first time Johnson has made false allegations against the Chief.

"Chief Webster is a dedicated public servant," he added. "He has consistently executed his duties as Chief of Police competently, efficiently and professionally. He is confident that Johnson's allegations will be confirmed as fabricated."

An attorney for Shear said his client is looking forward to clearing his name in light of charges made by the city administrator that led to his suspension late last month.

Zeiss ready to move on from rec position

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

After spending almost half his life hanging around kids, Jeff Zeiss is going to have to adjust to talking to people more his age.

Last week, Zeiss stepped down as the recreation director for the City of Wayne, a position he says he has thoroughly enjoyed for the 19 years he has held the position.

Saying it was time to move on, Zeiss said he was looking forward to a new opportunity working in sales for Stadium Sports in Wayne.

Zeiss said he had some big shoes to fill when he first took the position in 1992. Having to replace the legendary Hank Overin was no small challenge, but the adjustment was easier for him after having worked for Overin while he was in high school and attending Wayne State College.

"I don't know exactly when Hank started, but I think we've been the only two rec directors in 50 years," Zeiss said recently. "It was very enticing when Hank was getting ready to retire that there would be an opportunity to come back, and I was fortunate to get the job."

After college, Zeiss and his wife, Jackie, moved to Kansas for a few years before returning to Wayne. A 1980 Wayne High graduate, Zeiss threw himself into the job and watched it evolve from the old days working out of the Wayne City Auditorium offices to the current situation with the Wayne Community Activity Center.

"With the activity center, we've been able to expand not only the programs, but the age groups," he said. "I was proud of what we were able to accomplish with having just the one gym floor at the old auditorium, but now we've all this space and we can work with the younger kids and get more people involved. We don't realize just how good we've got it with this facility."

Over the years, the economics of running a safe and effective recreation department have presented some new challenges. At one time, parents didn't have to pay for their kids to be involved in things like city recreation basketball or football.

"Years ago, there were no fees for any of our programs, but now we have to charge to help cover our costs and provide quality and safe equipment for our kids," Zeiss said.

Council delays action on LB840 funding request by local business

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

No action was taken on a request from DRJ LLC/Inet Library for LB840 sales tax funds during Tuesday's City Council meeting.

The business, which is owned by Dr. Dennis Jensen, was originally located in Wayne, but sold in 2002. Dr. Jensen then bought the business back in 2008, and has been working to expand the internet service, generally geared toward schools.

The business had made a request to the LB840 Advisory Committee for $86,038 for start-up costs. Of this amount, the business had asked for one half to be in the form of a low-interest loan and the remainder as a performance-based loan.

Due to the projected income that could be generated in the immediate future by the business, the LB840 Advisory Committee recommended to the council that only the low-interest portion of the request be granted.

Following discussion and information from Gurkan Ozenci on the prospects for the business, the council asked to see a business plan before making a decision.

The item was tabled until the next council meeting.

Council members heard information from Wayne Fire Chief Tom Sievers and Shawn Pearcy, a member of the fire department's committee, to investigate options for the purchase of an aerial ladder truck for the department.

Pearcy told the council that a request for bids was sent out to a number of manufacturers in December and a total of four

Old Sholes bank building was community's go-to place

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

A slowly-melting blanket of snow provides a white layer of frosting on the remains of a building that once served as the go-to place for people in the tiny village of Sholes.

Wayne County officials brought the 97-year-old building to the ground recently, tearing down a structure that once served as a bank, post office and general store for the small town in northwestern Wayne County. Falling bricks in the empty building, and the lack of a buyer, forced the county to reduce the structure to a pile of rubble late last month.

Don and Helen Bauer, who live about a block away from the old building, remember it as the community's gathering place, where residents could buy groceries, pick up their mail or even buy gas.

"When school got out, the kids would run down and the parents would pick them up at the store," Mrs. Bauer said. "The kids would come to the store and buy candy and wait for their parents."

Mrs. Bauer's parents, Ludwig and Ova Kuhl, had bought the building from the Bricks Broderick family shortly before she and her husband of more than 60 years, Don, got married. They continued to run the store and the post office until the mid 60's, when they sold it to Jim and Irene Tietjen.

The building was built in 1914 as a bank. The bank was first operated by a B. Stevenson and, later, by William Philby until it closed in 1923.

"The big safe was still in there from when it was a bank," Mr. Bauer said. "I bought the building at one time and wanted the bank window out of there, so my brother-in-law took it and framed

— Helen Bauer

Remembering the busy times of the old Sholes bank building that was recently torn down it and it's hanging in the office at the elevator now."

The Sholes building was featured in a 1960 article in the Omaha World-Herald, with Mrs. Bauer's father featured as the community's postmaster. The story mentioned that the Sholes Post Office handled receipts of $251 in 1958. By comparison, the Omaha post office's receipts for that same time period totaled more than $8.5 million. Only 20 of the 49 mailboxes available in the Sholes post office were in use at that time.

It was still a busy place, however, especially during hunting season.

"My mother would serve pie there, and she'd serve a lot of lunches, especially during hunting season," Mrs. Bauer said.

Eventually, the business closed and the old building became a residence for several people who either bought and lived in the building or bought it and rented the building out. As time has gone by, the building has sat empty and reached the point where the county couldn't sell the building and had to tear the structure

Basketballers go 'Soles 4 Souls'

Members of the Wayne fifth grade boys basketball team recently completed a shoe drive to accomplish two things.

"We gave our players the challenge to do something for other people and we decided on Soles 4 Souls," said Mark Evetovich, one of the coaches of the team.

Over 1.5 billion pairs of shoes lay idle in American closets - many of which can be saved from landfills by donating them to Soles 4 Souls. Over 300 million children around the world are without shoes. Soles 4

Souls has given away over 10 million pairs of shoes through its five year history, currently delivering a pair every nine seconds.

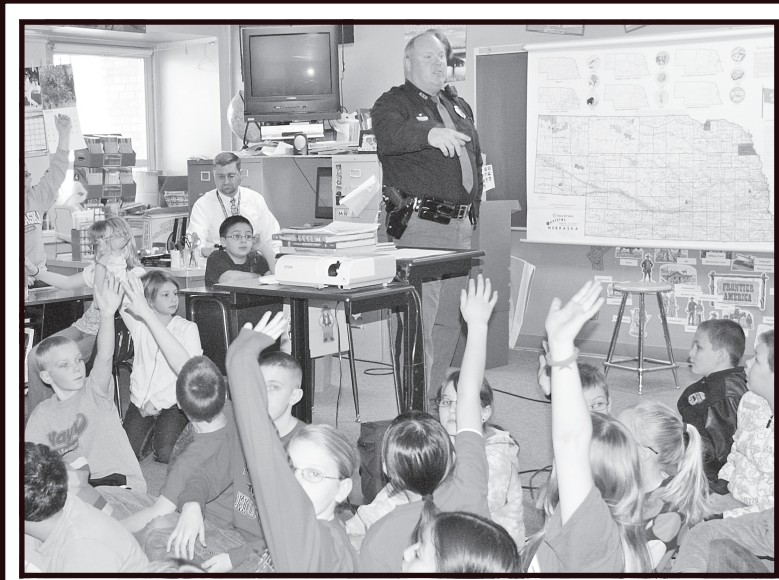

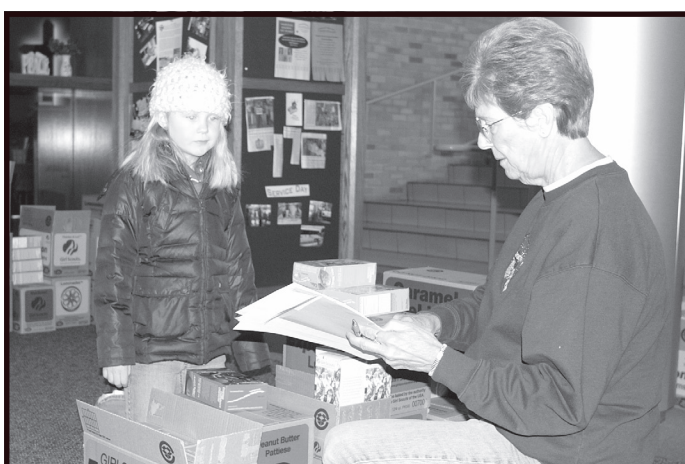

"We were able to collect 130 pairs of shoes. Our kids learned a great lesson about doing something for others less fortunate than themselves," Evetovich said.

Coaches hope to expand this shoe drive next year to include all Wayne Basketball Developmental Association teams.

Vets' Corner You can get your name on Memorial

By BRADLEY K. WIELAND
Wayne County
Veterans Service Officer

"I am a Veteran, but I never served in a war zone and I have a question: I was wondering if I could get my name on the Wayne County Memorial?"

I have been asked this question numerous times since taking over as the Veterans Service Officer, and I particularly want to address Korean and Vietnam veterans who served during this time frame.

My question is: did you wear a military uniform? Did you serve in a war zone? Would you have gone if your orders sent you there? All the answers for the above questions are "yes."

The Veterans of this great country are a minority, compared to the total population, and we need to stick together. We were either drafted or volunteered for enlistment into one of the branches of the service. We all took an oath to protect the citizens of the United States of America, whether they supported us or not.

I don't care whether you served in the Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force, Coast Guard or any of the Reserves - you deserve to have your name on the wall.

How do you get your name on the wall? Easy - contact me at (402) 375-2764 and bring in your DD Form 214. Contact me if you are a Veteran and you have questions.

work will be done to put together a formal bid package. Bids could be awarded later this year.

Council members also heard a report from Penny Volbrecht, Senior Center Coordinator, on the Senior Center budget for the Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging. Volbrecht explained the process of the application and provided numbers to the council on the average number of meals served at the Senior Center.

As a Community Development Agency (CDA), the council approved CDA Resolution 2011-1, which will simplify the process of releasing each completed home to the tax rolls for the purpose of collecting TIF funds. The new process will allow for one council resolution per year for all the homes built during that time.

Later in the meeting, acting as the council, the council took the same action and approved Resolution 2011-12.

The CDA tabled a decision on releasing Lou Benscoter from a lien on Lot 6 in Western Ridge.

Benscoter built a home on the lot but construction was delayed and after an extension was granted by the council, the home did not receive a final occupancy permit until Jan. 24, 2011. Council members questioned whether or not the city lost tax dollars due to the delay in putting the home on the tax rolls.

The issue will be revisited at a future meeting.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, March 15 at 5:30 p.m. in the council chambers.

Board approves raise for county burials

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

The Wayne County Commissioners voted to increase the amount they pay a local funeral home to handle county burials.

Scott Hasemann of Hasemann Funeral Home asked for an increase of $800 for a county burial, from the current amount of $1,700 to $2,500 plus cemetery fees. It is the first increase in the amount since 2002.

"I'm not trying to make any money on this. I'm just trying to cover costs," Hasemann told the board. By comparison, a regular funeral costs about $6,500.

The county has had few burials in recent years, with only four noted since 2006. One burial was held last year and two in 2009.

Hasemann said his company does a number of checks with families requesting a county burial to make sure the family is really unable to afford a burial and not looking for a free handout.

"One family who had requested a county burial, we found out with some research, had a well-established house that they were hiding from their assets," Hasemann said. "Some people are in real need, but we make sure and do our research."

The county board gave its blessing to a project that will take place on the courthouse lawn this spring.

Pete Phillips, pastor at the Wayne United Methodist Church, received permission from the board to use part of the courthouse lawn for the church's youth group to set up a box city to simulate life as a homeless person. Phillips said the group hopes to use the event, scheduled for sometime in May, to help the group raise funds for a summer mission trip.

But for Zeiss, it was all about working with the youth of the community, an opportunity that, to even the casual observer, was one that the soon-to-be 50-year-old dove into with unyielding passion.

"It's the interaction with the kids, no question," he said on what he most enjoyed about the job. "The relationships that you develop is something I'll miss the most. What gives me the most satisfaction is watching these kids grow up, and then years later they come back to town and stop in to say hello. It sure makes you feel good to know that you had something to do with their progress.

"It's just something that has come so natural to me," he added. "A lot of times, it's like I have 350 sons or daughters and it's sometimes easy to forget about your own kids because you spend so much time with these kids. My family has always been supportive of me in this job and it's something I've always been passionate about, and will continue to be. I can't wait for spring and baseball to come around."

Zeiss said he will continue working in a part-time capacity to help out the youth programs, but now he's going to work on dealing with adults more on a daily basis.

"The kids have kept me young, and I've really enjoyed it," he said. "Now, though, I've got to adjust to having to talk to adults all the time."

Omaha attorney Steven Delaney told The Wayne Herald Tuesday afternoon that he has made a request on behalf of Shear for evidence that the city claims it has regarding a number of written accusations made against Shear that led to the Feb. 17 suspension of Shear and Webster.

"We have not been furnished with any evidence," Delaney said by telephone. We're kind of swinging at ghosts right now because we don't have details of the allegations, even though we've sent a request for this information."

Delaney said he filed a formal request with city administrator Lowell Johnson.

"We're extremely curious what they're going to show us, because the allegations have no basis in reality," he said. "He very much looks forward to clearing his name."

An online petition has been established encouraging the Wayne City Council to get involved in the situation involving two suspended Wayne Police Officers.

According to a news release submitted to the Herald Wednesday, the online petition was started to encourage the council to require that city administrator Lowell Johnson "release all the required documentation of his allegations to Chief Lance Webster and Lt. Phil Shear. Mr. Johnson is aware of his legal obligation to produce that evidence yet he continues to refuse to do so."

The release does not side with either the suspended officers or the city, but asks that Johnson

"act in an ethical, legal manner and release the evidence that Mr. Johnson claims to have supporting these potentially slanderous and libelous statements."

Johnson told the Herald Tuesday that lawyers for the city are compiling the information to present to attorneys for both Webster and Shear, but did not have a timetable for when that information would be presented.

The online petition is available at www.ipetitions.com/petition/speak-thetruth.

Girls can learn from boys' effort

Wayne beats Norfolk Catholic to go to state.

Wait a minute . . . this isn't in the script. Aren't we supposed to be talking about state girls basketball?

When Norfolk Catholic upset Boone Central in subdistricts, it was supposed to be a great setup for the Wayne girls to do something they've only been able to do one other time in team history – earn a trip to Lincoln.

The boys, meanwhile, were faced with a task that, on paper, looked pretty dubious. Upset the No. 2-ranked team in the state for their first trip to state in eight years? How about something a little less daunting – like repainting the dome of the State Capitol with a toothbrush?

There's a mixed bag of emotions this week in Wayne, America. On the one hand, we're thrilled to see the boys put the wood to Norfolk Catholic (heck, it's hard to tell what we're more happy about . . . going to state or beating Norfolk Catholic at anything), but on the other hand, there is disappointment for the girls not being able to employ a similar whoopin' on the Lady Knights a few nights before.

Monday night, the boys gave Norfolk Catholic a four-minute head start, then raced by them faster than the hare against the tortoise. The only difference was – these rabbits didn't bother to stop long enough to look back and laugh.

The Blue Devils' inside-out attack caught the Knights flat-footed – even though it was essentially the same attack they had ground to a halt when the two teams met in Wayne during the season. When Gage Rethwisch or Jacob Zeiss weren't raining long-range bombs down on the outside, they were getting great ball movement from Seth Onderstal and Justin Anderson, along with the slash-and-burn penetration of freshman Jalen Barry, leaving Keegan Dorsey so wide open in the paint that he could have autographed the ball and still had time to put it in the basket.

And the great thing about Monday's effort was that Wayne never took their foot off Norfolk Catholic's throat. Even when the Knights had cut the lead to 10 early in the fourth quarter, Wayne was still attacking, still penetrating, still finding the open man. It was the kind of performance that should make Grand Island Central Catholic – and all the other Catholic schools who seem to "magically" appear in state tournaments every year (if the needle on your sarcasm meter didn't just get buried, you need a new meter) – very nervous when the boys in blue invade Lincoln next week.

It was the kind of effort I was hoping to see from the Wayne girls a few nights before. Unfortunately, the effort in the district finals was – in this reporter's view – a matter of mental focus.

Wayne came physically ready to play Friday night against Norfolk Catholic. Despite the fact they only scored five points in the first quarter – three coming on a last-minute try – Norfolk Catholic never really took control of the game until the final period when Wayne's pressure defense ran out of gas.

I'm not sure, though, that the girls came with the mindset that they were ready to win. There is a lot of physical talent on this team, from the dominating physical presence of Katie Hoskins and the slash-and-burn warrior that is Caitlin Fehringer to the outside threats of Cassie Harm, Jalyne Zeiss and Meagan Backer. There is good talent coming in off the bench. There is a good coaching staff and a good game plan.

For all of that, though, it just never struck me that this was a team that was ready to do whatever it took to get to that next step. The physical challenges are one thing, but getting over that last hurdle is, sometimes, the biggest challenge of

Wayne upsets Knights for state bid

By MICHAEL CARNES

WEST POINT – The four seniors on the Wayne High boys basketball team were fourth-graders the last time a Blue Devils basketball team made it to the state tournament.

So it was hard to figure out who was more excited for the Blue Devils' 68-48 win over Norfolk Catholic in the C1-4 district finals Monday night – the 12 players in uniform that played the Blue Devils into the state tournament, or their longtime coach, Rocky Ruhl, who is taking a Wayne High team to state for the fifth time.

"It's awesome," a still-beaming Ruhl said after his team held off a tough Knights' effort in the second half to earn the school's first trip to state in eight years. "These guys have worked so hard since we got beat by Wisner last year. When I saw we had Norfolk Catholic in our district, I knew how good they were going to be, and our guys didn't hold back. They came ready to play and took care of business."

It took a little while for the Blue Devils to get things going. Turnovers on each of their first four possessions had the blue-clad fans a little edgy, but Wayne's defense was frustrating the two-man tandem of Ethan Brozek and Ben Uhing, who combined to nearly outscore Wayne on their own in a meeting earlier this year.

Wayne finally broke the ice when Jacob Zeiss got three the old-fashioned way, driving inside for a basket and foul and converting the charity toss to make it 3-3 with 4:24 left in the first period.

It was all Wayne after that.

Gage Rethwisch hit back-to-back 3-pointers, and Zeiss hit a pair of his own to give the Blue Devils a 17-9 edge, and Wayne's defense catapulted the offense to a 14-point halftime lead, with the outside game opening things up for senior Keegan Dorsey, who had a monster night in the paint and finished with 16 points.

"You really have to give it to our point guards, because they were able to find the open man," Dorsey said of his ability to cash in on several opportunities that became available when he got open on several back-door plays and converted passes from Zeiss, Rethwisch and Jalen Barry into baskets.

The Blue Devils let Norfolk Catholic get within 10 Wints early in the second half, and Ruhl knew his team was going to be in for an intense second half of basketball after taking a lot of momentum into the locker room with a 36-22 lead at halftime.

"I told them we had to be ready for double the effort from Norfolk Catholic, because they're going to come at us and put on pressure we've not seen before," he said. "I thought the kids did a great job handling it."

Knights pull away, deny Wayne state trip

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

STANTON – With a chance at making state for just the second time in school history, the Wayne High girls basketball team might have been a little too keyed up for Friday's C1-4 district final with Norfolk Catholic.

The Knights took advantage, jumping out to an early 14-5 lead and never letting the Blue Devils get closer than eight points after that on their way to a 54-35 win Friday at Stanton High School.

It was a disappointing end to the season for the Blue Devils, who were hoping to make a trip to state for the second time in school history and the first since 1993.

"It was very emotional in the locker room," coach Nate Wall said after the game. "It was disappointing, but at the same time it was beautiful because I knew how bad the girls wanted it."

The might have wanted it a little too bad at the start, as it was hard for the team to get into an offensive rhythm. Caitlin Fehringer hit an early layup to make it 3-2, but the Blue Devils wouldn't score again until Meagan Backer hit a 3-pointer with :38 left in the period.

"I don't know if being flat was the problem. Maybe we were too jacked up in the first half and I can't quite put my finger on it," Wall said. "A lot of it had to do with how Norfolk Catholic played."

The Knights' fortunes were looking good at the end of the first half. Katie Hoskins hit a basket and later added a free throw to make it 22-12 with 6.5 seconds to go in the half, but the Knights' Lacey Prusa drained a 30-foot, buzzer-beating prayer that gave the Knights a 25-12 lead.

"I don't know if that was deflating as much as it was laughable," Wall said. "We defended the play well, and they just made a great play there and it was happening all night long."

With the Blue Devils down 32-16 midway through the third quarter, Wall called time out and told his team to "stop playing scared." The tactic seemed to work, as the Blue Devils were able to get themselves back in the game and reduce the deficit in half going to the final period.

"I think we played a little bit scared at times, and they responded well to that," Wall said of the time out. "We just had to make more plays."

Unfortunately, Wayne's pressure defense broke down in the final

WSC women cap regular season with home wins

It was an emotional weekend for the Wayne State women's basketball team, with four seniors playing their final regular-season home game Saturday at Rice Auditorium.

It almost turned out to be anything but a storybook finish, as the seventh-ranked Wildcats had to hold off a stubborn MSU Moorhead team to post a 73-67 win for their 26th straight home win, ending the regular season at 24-2 overall and 21-1 in the NSIC.

Coach Chris Kielsmeier said he was proud of the way his team responded against a sassy Dragons team.

"It was an emotional weekend with senior day and all that comes with that, and I'm proud our players found a way to win," he said. "We didn't play well and Moorhead played well and hit a lot of tough shots, and we just found a way to make enough plays and finish it off."

The Wildcats started strong, taking a 10-3 early on consecutive treys by Ali Schwartzwald and Clare Duwelius. They built a pair of 10-point leads in the first half, but Moorhead got as close as three points at 26-23 with 3:24 remaining in the half before Mara Hjelle hit a jumper with :38 to go in the half to give the Wildcats a 28-23 halftime lead.

The Wildcats built their lead back up to 10 points early in the second half, but Moorhead kept battling back behind the play of Angie Jetvig, who finished with a game-high 27 points. Time after time, she seemed to be the Dragons' go-to player, even after Wayne State took off on a 13-0 run to lead by 15 with less than 12:00 to go.

Jetvig got the Dragons back to within four points late in the game, but Alisha Brown came up with Wayne State senior Christina King will cap an outstanding career at next week's NCAA Div. II national indoor meet in New Mexico.

From soccer to track, King ends great career

By TRAVIS CONLEY
Of The Herald

From the green grass on the soccer field to the rubber on a track describes the path of one Wayne State College athlete.

Since the age of five, Christina King has been playing soccer. Inspired by watching Mia Hamm in the World Cup, Christina always knew she would one day be there playing.

After being recruited by Wayne State for soccer, King had an immediate impact. As a freshman, she started 17 games as a defender. During her sophomore season, she appeared in 16 games and was nominated to the NSIC fall All-Academic Team. King's junior season for the Wildcats ended after four games due to concussions.

At Millard West High School, King achieved four letters in soccer and was a member of the 2005 All-Metro team. She also received all-state honorable mention three times and was nominated to play in the Shrine Soccer Classic.

As a child, she didn't run track, even though her parents – Mark and Jean King – were both outstanding track athletes and her siblings – Mike and Katie King – also are members of a college track and field team. Mike is a sprinter at Wayne State, while Katie is a sprinter at Nebraska-Kearney.

King joined the Wayne State women's track team her freshman year, and has made an impact on the track almost from the beginning.

As a freshman in 2007, King came in fifth place at the NSIC outdoor championships. She also ran legs on 400- and 1,600-meter relay teams. In her sophomore indoor season, she was named the Athlete of the

Blue Devils take C1-7 subdistrict Won

OAKLAND – This late in the season, defense is the difference between teams that survive and teams that end their seasons.

Wayne's solid man-to-man defense, along with timely free throw shooting down the stretch, helped the Blue Devils outlast Logan View 55-44 in the C1-7 subdistrict championship Thursday at Oakland-Craig High School.

Coach Rocky Ruhl was thrilled with his team's defensive performance.

"It was awesome, a great team effort for us," he said. "Holding a team like that to 44 points is outstanding. We haven't played a lot of man-to-man defense, but we started playing it after conference (tournament) and the kids really stepped it up and played well defensively tonight."

While the Blue Devils have been able to find some balance with their perimeter shooting and inside scoring, Thursday's offensive effort was dominated by the perimeter shooting of seniors Jacob Zeiss and Seth Onderstal, junior Gage Rethwisch and freshman Jalen Barry. The foursome combined for 47 of Wayne's 55 points and drilled a total of seven 3-point shots after doing a good job moving the ball around.

"I thought we could handle them on the inside and get it in there, but our outside shooting was the key to the game," Ruhl said. "We got that little run right after the half and were able to work the clock after that and get some good shots."

Wayne jumped out to a quick 10-4 lead thanks to bombs from Zeiss, who had a game-high 18 points; Onderstal, who tossed in 15; and Rethwisch, who hit his only basket of the night midway through the first period.

Logan View tied the game early in the second period at 17-17 on a trifecta from Ryan Wacker, but Zeiss answered with one of his four bombs, then matched another 3-pointer by the Raiders' Robert Wacker to stake the Blue Devils to a 28-24 halftime advantage.

Threes by Zeiss and Onderstal, along with a putback by Keegan Dorcey, gave Wayne its biggest lead of the night at 48-38. The Raiders would get as close as five points with 3:25 to go, but Wayne was a perfect 10-for-10 from the charity stripe in the final 70 seconds to seal the win.

"I liked seeing Jacob hit his (free throws) first," Ruhl said. "Once he did that, I knew he wasn't going to miss tonight and I knew Jalen would be fine. Last year, we lost to Wisner-Pilger at the line, and tonight we finished it the right way."

The girls got to that hurdle last year and were simply done in by a deeper, talented Wahoo team. This year, Norfolk Catholic never impressed me as a team that was more talented than Wayne was. This was not your typical Lady Knights juggernaut – they were, by comparison, very average and very beatable. While Wayne, in my view, had the physical advantage, they were, unfortunately, not quite where they needed to be, mentally, to get over that final hurdle and beat one of its longtime nemeses.

The Wayne girls have the talent to end that generation-long state tournament drought. Everything is in place for next year's team to not only make it to state, but to have an extended stay in Lincoln. All they need is what this year's boys basketball team showed Monday night – that internal drive to take their team to the game's highest level.

The Wayne girls will get to see that in action next week in Lincoln. If they apply what they learn from watching their male basketball brethren – combined with the talent coming back next year – I believe the Wayne girls will write a special story in Lincoln next March.

Jalen Barry splits two Norfolk Catholic defenders on his way to the basket during Wayne's 68-48 win in the C1-4 district finals Monday.

"It's so awesome for these kids," he said. "These guys haven't had this chance in a while, and I think we've been beaten by Norfolk Catholic often enough so this was our turn and we're going to enjoy this opportunity."

Fehringer and Hoskins each had 13 points to lead the Blue Devils. And while most of the team will be back next year, Wall cited the efforts of seniors Rebecca Jaixen and Jamie Belt as a key to the team's success.

"We're happy with what we have coming back, but we're disappointed to be losing (Jaixen and Belt), because what they did for us in the locker room and on the bench was big this year. the play of the game, burying a 3-pointer from the far corner with less than a minute to go to put the game out of reach. Wayne State hit 9-of-10 free throws in the final moments to finish off the win.

"It was the biggest shot of the game," Kielsmeier said of Brown's bomb. "We talk about when that moment comes you've got to make plays, and that was a moment we needed a play and she stepped up."

The Wayne State men found themselves in a win-and-get-in situation, and rode the play of their seniors, led by Brad Starken and Jason Jensen, to an easy 83-65 win that helped the Wildcats nail down the final playoff spot for this week's NSIC tournament.

Starken lit up the Dragons for a career-high 27 points in his final home game, and Jensen came through with 15 points.

"Brad and Jason played their most complete games of the season," coach Paul Combs said. "They'll get a lot of credit for what they did on offense, but they did a fantastic job defensively and led by example, as all four of our seniors did. You couldn't ask for much more out of our seniors."

Ben Tasa, who led the team with seven rebounds and had eight points, and Ryan Rudloff also played their final games at Rice Auditorium. All four started in their final game and helped the Wildcats get out to a comfortable 18-point halftime lead.

Starken was on fire from the outside, hitting 6-of-11 from beyond the arc. Amry Shelby also had a hot hand, going 3-of-5 from 3-point range and finishing with 15 points.

The win, combined with a loss by Southwest Minnesota State, allowed the Wildcats to claim the No. 8 seed for the men's tournament, putting

Wildcat teams sweep Crookston

By TRAVIS CONLEY
Of The Herald

The eighth-ranked Wayne State women's basketball team recorded its season high in points on a milestone night Friday with a 92-64 win over the Minnesota Crookston.

Wayne State started the game slowly, missing their first five jump shots. They eventually took the lead on a jump shot from Alyssa Fischbach, and the game remained close for most of the first half as both teams exchanged baskets back and forth.

The Wildcats took a four-point lead with four minutes to play in the first half after Mara Hjelle grabbed an offensive rebound and scored the layup, which moved her into the No. 9 spot all-time in scoring at Wayne State. She finished with a team-high 19 points, along with eight rebounds and a season-high three blocks, helping Wayne State go on a 12-0 run, giving them the largest lead of the first half and sparking them to a 44-33 halftime lead.

"Chemistry and productivity is outstanding. It's right at the level I want it to be, said coach Chris Keilsmeier. "The girls are focused and committed to the team. It's neat to coach this group."

After the break, the Wildcats increased their lead to 15 following a Fischbach layup. Defense for the Wildcats stepped up another gear to create a loud buzz throughout Rice Auditorium.

Clare Duwelius and Ali Schwartzwald started a defensive trend with steals. They both stole the ball from the Golden Eagles five times for a season high, over a span of five minutes, to increase Wayne State's lead to a game high of 31 points. The Wildcats finished the game with 15 steals.

"We took a close game and turned it into a blowout," Keilsmeier said.

The Wayne State men's basketball team won 63-62, as they pulled off a close victory over the Golden Eagles to stay alive in the NSIC and to snap a four-game home skid.

The Wildcats were down at the half by two points, but Brad Starken connected on a 3-pointer to give Wayne State a one-point lead. Starken finished the game with a team high of 19 points.

The Golden Eagles responded with a 7-0 run to give them a six-point lead. Wayne State was unable to get any offense going as the Golden Eagles went up as much as eight with 15 minutes left in regulation.

Vontrell Seroyer scored the Wildcats final seven points.

Seroyer was fouled, as he made a hard drive to the basket for the three-point play. A few moments later, Seroyer connected on two free throws to give the Wildcats a one point lead with 13.0 seconds left.

"He did what he does best, get to the basket with energy," said coach Paul Combs. "He's difficult to guard in crunch time especially when he has fresh legs."

The Golden Eagles scored to regain the lead, and after a Wayne State timeout, Seroyer drove and was fouled with :03 left. He connected on the both free throws to give the Wildcats the win.

Brungardt earns honors, WSC teams fourth in NSIC

BEMIDJI, Minn. - Both Wayne State indoor track and field teams finished fourth and Nicole Brungardt was named the Women's Newcomer of the Year during the Northern Sun Conference Indoor track and field meet.

Brungardt earned the award after finishing second in the long jump and 60-meter dash, third in the 200-meter dash and running a leg on the winning 1,600-meter relay team.

She started Friday with a second-place finish in the long jump at 18 feet, 10 3/4 inches. On Saturday, she placed second in the 60-meter dash (7.68) and was third in the 200-meter dash with a new school record time of 25.01 seconds that was also good for an NCAA provisional mark. She then ran a leg on the winning 1,600-meter relay team that set a new NSIC meet record with a time of 3:54.13. Other runners on the winning relay team were Erin Klein, Christina King and Paige Pollard.

The other women's conference champion was Paige Pollard, winning the pentathlon with 3,277 points. She also finished fourth in the 800-meter run at 2:17.15.

Senior sprinter Christina King earned All-NSIC honors with a second-place finish in the 400-meter dash at 56.05 seconds, an NCAA provisional mark. She also placed seventh in the 200-meter dash.

Junior Brienne Hofstetter placed fifth in the triple jump and seventh in the long jump. Junior thrower Lachel Milander was fifth in the shot put, with freshman teammate Carly Fehring taking sixth.

The Wayne State men had two individual champions, as Andrew Jansen won the 600-meter run and John Kern won the 5,000-meter run. Kern earned three All-NSIC honors, winning the 5,000-meter run with a new NSIC meet record time of 14:47.55. He also finished second in the 3,000-meter run at 8:40.30 and took third in the mile run.

Jansen won the 600-meter run with a new school record and NSIC meet record time of 1:20.95. The old school record was 1:21.86 set by Jansen on Feb. 12. Jansen also ran legs on the fourth-place 1,600-meter relay team and the sixth-place distance medley relay team.

Other Wildcats who earned All-NSIC honors include Alex Timperley, who took second in the triple jump with an NCAA provisional mark of 47 feet, 10

1/2 inches. Junior thrower Ross Bunchek captured second in the 35-pound weight throw with a mark of 65 feet, 5 inches.

Junior thrower Brad Wright and senior distance runner York Thomas each placed in two events as Wright finished seventh in the weight throw and seventh in the shot put, while Thomas was seventh in the 3,000-meter run and seventh in the 5,000-meter run.

Week after winning the 600-meter dash and finishing sixth in the 200 at the John Dalton Open. She also broke three school records during the 2008 indoor season in the 600, 500 and 400-meter dashes.

In her junior season, she excelled in both indoor and outdoor track and field, setting school records in the 600 and 400 and earning conference Athlete of the Week honors. She won four events at the Wildcat Open and finished second in the 400 at the NSIC championships, and earning academic honors as well.

During her senior season, it's fair to say King is one of Div. II's best athletes in women's track and field.

She qualified for the NCAA Div. II Indoor National Championships and finished 11th overall with a time of 56.24 seconds. Her second-place finish in the 400 meter dash (55.94) at the NSIC Indoor Championships in Mankato set a new school record and was a NCAA automatic qualifying time.

King was named NSIC Women's Track Athlete of the Week after setting a school record in 400 at 55.81 seconds at the Husker Invite, and set another new school record in the 200 at 25.66 seconds to finish first at USD Graphic Edge Invite.

Currently, Christina is a graduate student, getting her coaching endorsement as she completes her last season at Wayne State. Her plans are to become an Olympic athlete in the near future, and in pursuit of achieving that dream, she is taking her talents to Team Nebraska for outdoor track this upcoming spring. She graduated with a bachelor's degree in education last fall.

When she's not longer able to run track, she plans to teach high school history and do some coaching in both soccer and track and field.

Wildcat wrestlers to nationals

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. — The Wayne State club wrestling team came away with a fourth-place finish and qualified six wrestlers for the National Collegiate Wrestling Association tournament next week.

Leading the way was 197-pounder Matt Bates, who finished third after a 2-2 effort in the tournament. Coach Greg VanderWeil said the team's elder statesman has been a tremendous role model for his young team.

"Matt's a 27-year-old player-coach, and he does an outstanding job as a role model for the team," he said.

Three kids from the area also made up the list of qualifiers for Wayne State. Wayne High graduate Bren VanderWeil qualified at heavyweight with a fourth-place finish, while former Wakefield wrestlers Wyatt Jacobsen (125) and Tim Campton (235) both finished fifth.

Three other Wayne State wrestlers earned qualifying trips to nationals, as Craig Dennis was fourth at 133 pounds, Tyler Hart placed sixth at 184 pounds and Rob Peter earned a seventh-place finish at 184 pounds.

"I'm extremely proud and happy that these young men are finding their hard-earned success, and now we're off to nationals," VanderWeil said.

The Wayne State coach was holding out hope for a couple of wildcat qualifiers. Matthew Peter (149) and Tahner Thiem (174) were national qualifiers last year, and he hoped both could get in as a wildcat.

"Both Matt and Tahner are two of our best wrestlers, and we're hoping the selection committee puts them back in the national meet," he said.

Trent Brichacek (141) and Steven Varela (157) both picked up wins in the tournament, while Blake Svatora (125), Mark Mramaekers (157) and Allyn Gonsor (165) also competed.

The team is looking for financial support to help fund the trip to Macon, Ga., for the national tournament next week. For more information, call VanderWeil at (402) 375-0645 or e-mail grvande1@wsc.edu.

WSC women up to No. 7

The Wayne State women's basketball team moved up one spot to No. 7 in the USA Today/ESPN Div. II Top 25 coaches poll.

Wayne State, the 2011 NSIC regular-season champions, are 24-2 on the season and extended their home winning streak to 26 games over the weekend with wins over Minnesota Crookston and MSU Moorhead. They are the top seed for the NSIC conference tournament this week.

Track athletes qualify for nationals

Wayne State has qualified in six events for next week's NCAA Div. II Indoor National Track and Field Championships in Albuquerque, N.M., Friday and Saturday, March 11-12.

The Wildcat women's team has qualified in five events, while Ross Bunchek is the lone men's national qualifier in the 35-pound weight throw. Bunchek, a junior thrower from Valparaiso, Indiana, will compete in the men's 35-pound weight throw on Friday. He is ranked ninth in NCAA Div. II.

Freshman Nicole Brungardt has qualified in three individual events, and will also run a leg on the Wildcat 1,600-meter relay team at nationals. Brungardt will compete in the long jump Friday. She is ranked seventh in NCAA Div. II in the event. She will also compete on Friday in the 60-meter dash and 200-meter dash prelims. She is tied for 12th nationally in the 60 and ranks 13th in NCAA Div. II in the 200.

By qualifying for nationals in four events, Brungardt is the first-ever athlete at Wayne State to qualify for four events at an NCAA national track meet. The previous record was three, held by NCAA national champion and four-time All-American Katie Wilson, who qualified in the shot put, discus and hammer throw at the 2008 and 2009 outdoor national meets.

Senior Christina King will compete in the 400-meter dash prelims on Friday. She ranks seventh in NCAA Div. II. She will also join Brunhardt, Erin Klein and Paige Pollard on the 1,600-meter relay team that is ranked sixth in NCAA Div. II.

In other Wayne State track and field news, the Wildcats are ranked 21st in the latest USTFCCA NCAA Div. II national team rankings with a point total of 34.29, falling one spot to seventh in the Central Region women's rankings with a point total of 161.48.

Winside State Bank earns top rating

BauerFinancial, Inc. of Coral Gables, Fla., the nation's bank rating firm, has recognized Winside State Bank in Winside as one of the strongest banks in the nation.

Having earned BauerFinancial's highest 5-Star Superior rating for financial strength and stability, Winside State Bank has once again proven its commitment to superiority. To earn Bauer's 5-Star Superior rating, Winside State Bank must excel in areas of capital adequacy, delinquent loan levels and profitability to name just a few.

The fact that Winside State Bank has done so for 88 consecutive quarters puts Winside State Bank on an even higher plane. Only three percent of the nation's banks can claim this distinction.

"The staff and management of Winside State Bank should be very proud to work for such a strong financial institution," said Karen L. Dorway, president of the research firm. "Often the general public does not know the financial strengths or weaknesses of their bank, so BauerFinancial's highest rating helps to assure customers and the community that they are dealing with a strong financial institution that will be able to fulfill their banking needs for years to come."

Winside State Bank was established in 1936 and has been serving the banking needs of its neighbors and friends for 75 years. It operates through conveniently located offices on Main Street in Winside.

Class will offer options to prevent complications from diabetes

Blood glucose control requires both diligence and willingness to try new strategies. Learn new strategies by attending "Control Diabetes for Life." The Wednesday, March 30 session will focus on "Getting in Touch with Your Diabetes Self Management."

Most people know that diabetes can lead to devastating problems with the heart, kidney, eyes and nerves. Did you also know that by taking control of diabetes and identifying problems early you can prevent or slow many of these conditions.

High blood glucose is a major cause of serious diabetes complications. Recognizing diabetes early and getting your blood glucose levels under control allows for swift action to slow its progression and avoid complications. Lowering your A1C by just one percentage point lowers your chance of getting eye, kidney or nerve disease by 40 percent.

Blood glucose control is just one aspect of preventive care. Following a meal plan, being physically active, losing excessive weight, keeping your blood pressure and cholesterol levels in check, quitting smoking and taking aspirin are all important ways to prevent future health problems.

Set a goal to take control of your diabetes. Aim for lower blood glucose levels to feel better now and stay healthy for years to come. Topics for the March 30 program include: "Does Your Doctor Make Sense?," "Solving the Carbohydrate Puzzle," "Weight Management - Loss or Gain and Affects on Blood Sugar" and "Intuitive Eating".

Team-teaching the program will be Stacie Petersen, R.N. & Certified Diabetes Educator; Mary Clare Stalp, R.D., L.M.N.T., both of Franciscan Care Services in West Point and Debra Schroeder, UNL

Extension Educator in Cuming County. These sessions are designed to supplement the education that patients receive from their local diabetes education team and not a substitute for diabetes classes through local health care providers.

The program will be offered from 1:30-4 p.m. at Our Savior Lutheran Church social room, Wayne.

"Control Diabetes for Life" is a joint project of University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension and Franciscan Care Services of West Point. The program is offered free-of-charge. "Control Diabetes for Life" will help participants learn to control diabetes and prolong the onset of complications from the disease.

Participants are asked to pre-register for "Control Diabetes for Life" by calling UNL Extension in Wayne County at 402-375-3310. Please register by Monday, March 28, so the proper number of handouts may be prepared. Nebraska School Food Service Association has approved this session for two hours of continuing education credits.

Kelly Gentrup awarded Bankers scholarship

The Nebraska Bankers Association (NBA) has allocated 136 scholarships to students at the University of Nebraska for the 2010-2011 school year.

Among those receiving scholarships was Kelly Gentrup of Wayne, a student at the University of Nebraska-Kearney.

The NBA's total scholarship commitment for the year is $163,500. Since 1995, the NBA has awarded more than 580 scholarships to students at the University of Nebraska campuses in Kearney, Lincoln and Omaha. The donations for these scholarships along with funding for various University of Nebraska internship programs, professorships and University of Nebraska Medical Center (UNMC) equipment purchases are made possible each year through the NBA's University Foundation Allocation Committee.

Nebraska bankers have been helping Nebraska students continue their education since the early 1970s. Since 2006, the NBA's University Foundation Allocation Committee has offered scholarships specifically for students who are seeking employment in banking and finance. The result has been better-educated, better-prepared young people who are ready to begin their careers within the Nebraska financial services industry.

Junior Optimist Club participates in Souper Bowl of Caring event

Because 1 in 6 people (1 in 4 children) in the United States live in food insecure households, Junior Optimist Octagon International (JOOI) considers the Souper Bowl of Caring to be a project that every club should do.

The Wayne Blue Devils Octagon Optimist Club recently participated in the Souper Bowl of Caring, a national youth-led movement that empowers 260,000 young people to collect both food and money for people in need by using the energy of the Super Bowl football game. Since this movement started 29 years ago, more than $71 million, and over $10 million annually in recent years, has been raised for hunger relief, with 100 percent given directly to local charities.

The Wayne JOOI Club had a reverse penny war (pennies were negative points while silver money was positive points) during the reading periods at the high school.

Mrs. Schardt's class raised over $100 to come in first place with Mrs. Davis' and Mr. Dorcey's classes coming in second and third respectively.

Jessica Von Fange, the president of the Wayne JOOI Club, also asked the members of the adult club for their pocket change and held an empty soup pot at the door of Our Savior Lutheran Church. She was able to present a check for $489.50 to the Wayne Food Pantry.

Mrs. Schardt's Class with 50+ pounds of money collected at Wayne High School. Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes
Managing Editor

Keeping it short

Not much space this week, so here's a few quick hits from the "Bits and Pieces" file:

- From the "Nothing good happens on a county road after midnight" department: a Lancaster County deputy got a little more than he planned when he stopped a pickup on a county road late one night and found four naked adults inside.

When asked what they were doing, the driver of the pickup said "Well, I think we're getting into trouble."

The driver was ticketed for DWI, open container, no seat belts and overloading the front seat of a vehicle. His three fellow nudists were not cited.

- A Florida woman beat up her roommate recently, and there seems a perfectly justifiable reason for her meltdown: her roommate ate her Girl Scout cookies.

Who knew a box of Thin Mints would cause a domestic disturbance? Personally, I'd have been really steamed if somebody had gotten a hold of my Caramel De-Lites.

- This week's winner in the "promoting the arts" sweepstakes is the New Hampshire pilot who helped out friends fishing on a frozen lake by dropping a shipment of Playboy magazines.

Seems a good idea to me . . . after they're done, ahem, reading the articles, they can tear out the full-page ads with the men's cologne samples for a nice little aroma in their campfire to keep them warm at night.

- And, finally, here's to the Iranian government for taking stupidity in sports to new heights.

It seems the kooks over in Iran claim the 2012 London Olympics logo actually spells out "Zion," which they take as an affront to their Muslim religion, and are threatening to boycott next summer's Olympics.

Gee, the Olympics just won't be the same without the Iranians . . .

Helping out Red Cross

March is Red Cross Month and the American Red Cross is asking you to join us in providing help and hope to people in need.

The Red Cross works tirelessly to help those who need assistance, whether down the street, across the country, or around the world. We respond to disasters, help members of the military, provide blood for those in need and teach lifesaving skills.

When you help with a gift of your time, your blood donation, or your financial gift, you join the Red Cross. We want to thank those supporters whose generosity helps ensure we are able to continue our service to those who need us. Thanks to them, the Red Cross is there when needed most.

In the past year, the Northeast Nebraska Chapter responded to 19 local emergencies, assisted 53 military families and trained 2,888 people in lifesaving skills. And, people from this area donated 7,963 units of blood.

Nationally, the Red Cross responds to disasters nearly 200 times every day. The organization provides a round-the-clock link between those in the military and their families, and supplies blood and blood products to approximately 3,000 hospitals and transfusion centers across the country.

Red Cross Month is a great time for people to join the Red Cross. Please give blood, or sign up to be one of our volunteers. Please take one of our lifesaving training classes. Please give a financial gift. Please join us, and enable us to continue our work, both here at home, and around the world.

Heineman: eliminate the CIR

By ED HOWARD
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN - It wasn't a bombshell but it certainly was a loud noise.

Gov. Dave Heineman said voters could be asked to eliminate the panel that settles labor disputes between state and local governments if the Legislature doesn't pass a suitable bill changing the way it operates.

Heineman said he reserved the right to decide what "suitable" means.

The state faces a revenue gap of up to $1 billion over two fiscal years. Stuff runs downhill, so local governments are up against it, too.

The state and local governments agree the Commission's dispute-settling formula - created by the Legislature decades ago - is weighted in favor of public workers.

They want it changed so CIR decisions don't cost government so much. They want it to favor government.

What public employees and their supporters rightly suspect is that, if voters get the chance to do away with the CIR, the odds are it would happen.

The situation doesn't match the high drama and political fireworks of the situation in Wisconsin. Not one bit.

Government employees have merely benefited from the law that created the CIR, and rules under which the commission operates. Unions in Nebraska would likely get as much sympathy as a Big 12 football official if they struck against the state, a city or county.

Lincoln Mayor's Plea Unheeded

Mayor Chris Beutler combined politics and an appeal to the collective conscience of lawmakers (I know, some think that's oxymoronic) when he spoke in defense of $44 million in direct state aid to cities, counties and natural resources districts.

Make that soon-to-be-lost state aid.

"The Legislature has a real choice to make," the Lincoln mayor said. "Does it force its budget problems onto the backs of property taxpayers or does it give us some options to deal with the cuts?"

Legislative Update

City, county officials weigh in on LB383

Taxation was one of the main themes last week on the legislative floor. Legislators discussed and advanced LB383, a bill that cuts $44 million in state aid to counties, cities, and NRDs.

I have heard from many county supervisors, commissioners, city officials, and concerned constituents who are worried about an increase in property taxes if this bill passes. I, too, share that concern but believe LB383 is a necessary step in reducing the state's budget deficit and have voted for this bill. I want to make it very clear that counties, cities and NRDs have been asked to make cuts to their budgets as well and not pass this loss of state funds to local residents. Economic hardships require a tightening of the belt for all of us. Good programs will be affected - at all levels of government - but we cannot ask our citizens to continue to pay more taxes (especially property taxes) to fund governmental growth. Somewhere along the line, government taxing and spending must be reduced. Though this is not easy or popular with some folks, it has to happen. There will be more hard cuts ahead. We won't all like those either.

Senators also discussed LB284, a bill introduced and prioritized by Senator Bob Krist of Omaha. LB284 would prohibit picketing of a funeral or memorial service within five hundred feet of a cemetery, mortuary, church, or other place of worship at the time of the service. Under current state law, picketing of such an event is prohibited within three hundred feet of the service. I strongly support this bill, and believe it is outrageous that there are those who would abuse the first amendment and grieving families by protesting at funerals. Our finest and bravest who are willing to serve their country by joining a branch of the military deserve only honor and respect. This is even more true if they give their lives and make the ultimate sacrifice in defense of our freedoms and our nation.

Speaking of military service, I have received thus far the names and addresses for eight service members who call District 17 home. I want to personally thank our young men and women for serving their country, and have sent letters to patriots in Georgia, Alaska, Virginia, California, and Afghanistan. Please continue to send me the names and addresses of family members currently serving in the military, and I will be honored to contact them. I would also welcome pictures of family members who are currently serving their country. With their permission, their photos will be displayed in my state capitol office on the Wall of Honor.

Please check out the website for the Nebraska Legislature at the following website: www.nebraskalegislature.gov. You can forget about it. The reality of that potential $1 billion gap in state government revenues trumps their concerns.

The locals repeatedly noted the aid was to compensate them for the state stripping them of much of their local tax base.

The consistent response from the Tower on the Plains: You don't have to get over it. But you have to get used to it.

Eight things to do after losing your wallet

Losing your wallet or purse is stressful. Your money, credit cards, driver's license — all gone.

Don't fret too much about tracking down contact information to close accounts and get things replaced. This to-do list from the Federal Citizen Information Center puts the answers you need all in one place:

1. Make a list of what you had in your wallet and tackle the important things first.

2. Immediately cancel all your credit and debit cards, letting your bank know that your wallet was lost or stolen. Request new copies of the card with a new account number.

3. If you were the victim of theft, file a police report so there is an official record.

4. Report a missing driver's license to your state's department of motor vehicles and request a new copy.

5. Alert the fraud departments of the three major credit reporting companies. They will place a fraud alert on your name and Social Security number, and you can request that they alert you before opening a line of credit in your name. (Equifax: (800) 525-6285; Experian (formerly TRW): (888) 397-3742; Trans Union: (800) 680-7289)

6. Request a replacement Social Security card and consider not carrying it in your wallet in the future.

7. Contact either your company's HR department or your health insurance provider directly to get a replacement insurance card. If you've lost a Medicare card, contact the Social Security Administration to get a replacement.

Close to Home

Appliances do you need to include them when selling your home? Many homeowners wonder about this. Although the answer is somewhat complicated, I will give you my best simplified version.

Communication is key! Every appliance is negotiable as long as it's not built-in as part of the house. Sellers need to consider the appliances when they list their house. The listing agreement should state whether or not the appliances are included. This can eliminate many questions and confusion down the road.

Typically sellers leave the appliances for the new owners. This is especially true if they have appliances included in their next home purchase. However, there is one reason sellers leave appliances out of the listing agreement.

Sellers negotiate appliances to:
• Stand out above the competition especially if the appliances are newer. By not including the appliances in the listing agreement, the sellers can include them in a counter offer as a way to sweeten the deal.

Buyers can also use appliances as negotiating tools. Buyers tend to ask for the appliances for the following reason:

• Home buyers don't always have the money for new appliances. By negotiating for them they can avoid having to pay out of pocket for the appliances. This can save a first time home owner a lot of money!

Again the main key is communication. Be sure to talk with your agent and ask whether it's in your best interest (seller or buyer) to include the appliances in the listing agreement and the purchase agreement.

I hope you're all enjoying the column. Keep the requests coming! Please email me questions at wendy@mwlc.net

Awana Clubbers participate in Bible Quiz

Students in grades 3-6 from the Concord Awana Clubs competed against four other teams at a Bible Quiz on Feb. 19.

The event was held at the First Baptist Church in Norfolk.

The purpose of the quiz was to promote Bible memory and to give the clubbers a greater love for and working knowledge of the Bible.

Placings were as follows:

Third place: Delaney Ehlers,

Elizabeth Lipp, Marcos Muro (Adventure Book 1); Dakota Frady, Bethany Kardell, Kylie Maxon, Lorna Maxon (Adventure Book 2); Nicole Hanson, Madysyn Holloway (Challenge Book 1).

Second place: Faith Junck, Kylie Kempf, Gabrielle Macrander (Adventure Book 1); Abbie Bloom, Liz Junck, Austin Kempf, Andrea Torres (Challenge Book 1); Garrette Longe (Challenge Book 2).

First place: Emily Hangman and Elisabeth Torres (Challenge Book 2).

Makayla Forsberg and Brogan Jones practiced for the quiz, but were unable to attend.

Abbie Bloom and Nicole Hanson had perfect scores on the oral quiz. Elisabeth Torres had a perfect written score.

Sharon Longe of Laurel coached and organized the Concord quizzers, with the help of Holly Torres and other parent volunteers.

Senior youth group revitalized at Trinity Lutheran in Winside

After not having an active senior youth group for several months at Trinity Lutheran Church in Winside, new leaders Brooke Mann and Jenni Topp sent out invitations to the Trinity youth in grades freshman to seniors announcing a meeting on Jan. 26, to see what kind of turnout would take place.

"We were pleased to see seven youth that wanted to start a group," Jenni Topp said.

Officers were voted in as follows: Morgan Quinn, president; Brady Wurdeman, vice-president; Kelsie Tweedy, treasurer; and Jayd Roberts, secretary.

Other members included Bianca and Monica Marino, and Dylan Tweedy. Question and answer activities were conducted to get to know each other, followed by discussion on devotional books, goals and activities that the youth were interested in.

The group met Feb. 9, with an additional member, Mercedes Mann, present. Devotions and discussions were held. The group named themselves "Soul Siblings," and more ideas and goals were discussed.

A third meeting was held on Feb. 23, with additional youth Jarett Harmon and Nazya Thies in attendance. Each member received a devotional book and discussion took place. It was agreed upon that they will be putting on the Easter egg hunt after sunrise service. They will be donating small bags filled with activities for the younger children that will be available during the church services. These will be ordered and put together at the next meeting, which is scheduled for Wednesday, March 9.

Prayer partners

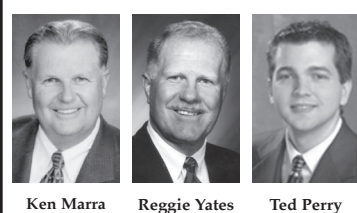

Throughout the school year, each of the students at St. Mary's Elementary School have a secret prayer partner praying for them. These partners were revealed and the students were able to spend time with them recently. The group enjoyed refreshments and a time for getting acquainted in the church's fellowship hall.

LEAD XXX Fellows complete National Study/Travel Seminar

Members of Nebraska LEAD Group XXX recently returned from a 10-day National Study/Travel Seminar to Kansas City, Washington, D.C. and Chicago.

The travel seminar began with a stop at the Kimmel Orchard and the Kimmel Education and Research Center in Nebraska City, followed by a stop at Peru State College and the Cooper Nuclear Station in Brownville. The sessions at Peru and Brownville focused on nuclear energy, and served as the beginning of the intense study/travel seminar to three major U.S.

cities, said Terry Hejny, director of the Nebraska LEAD Program.

In Kansas City, the group attended meetings at the Environmental Protection Agency, Federal Reserve Bank, Kansas City Board of Trade, Bayer Crop Science, UMB Bank, U.S. Premium Beef and Dairy Farmers of America.

The group received briefings on the future of the greater Kansas City area, regional economics, rural development, livestock production issues, non-point source pollution, drinking water standards, pesticide use regulations and many other topics.

While in Washington, D.C., the group met with representatives of the National Pork Producers Council, National Cattlemen's Beef Association, U.S. Department of Agriculture, American Farm Bureau Federation, National Corn Growers Association, met with Sen. Ben Nelson and Sen. Mike Johanns, participated in the Nebraska Congressional Breakfast, and visited the Embassy of Australia, the Pentagon, the White House Visitors Center and the U.S. Capitol.

Fellows toured the Gettysburg National Battlefield, Eisenhower Farm and Mason-Dixon Farms. At the Mason-Dixon Farms, they observed a robotic milking parlor in this totally integrated dairy farm where even the waste materials are used to produce electricity and fertilizer.

In Chicago, the group attended meetings at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, received briefings at the Environmental Protection Agency on water and air pollution concerns in metropolitan areas, and toured the Chicago High School for Agricultural Sciences. The group also visited the Greater Chicago Food Depository, which was followed by a tour of John Deere's Harvester Works and Seeding Division, including a visit to John Deere World Headquarters in Moline, Ill.

Birthday celebrations brings back lots of memories

Today, Tuesday, the first, is the 90th birthday of one of my Godmothers, my aunt Flora. (The other one, Florence, will be 90 this summer.) To properly celebrate this auspicious occasion, we were all at the "Chances R" in York for dinner on Sunday.

When I say "all," you have to understand that my aunt had 11 children! One was killed in a car accident, and another one never married, and a couple have only one child, but that still makes a lot of offspring. Not everyone was there, but they came close, complete with great-grandchildren and one great, great.

Dennis, the oldest, was master of ceremonies and opened and closed the afternoon with prayer. Then, starting with the youngest, each one got up and told us where they live and what their families are doing. Brad, the youngest, is an accountant in Colorado, and he has four children, none married yet.

Gale, one of the second set of twins, lives in Grand Island, and she introduced both her son and her daughter, but her grandchildren did not attend. Galen, her twin brother, lives in Seward, and had his youngest, a senior in high school, with him.

Jerry works for ASC in Kearney, and Ken just retired from 40 years on the railroad. Phyllis, another twin, is retiring after 44 years with State Farm, in Tulsa, Okla., and her brother was the one who died. Phillip had worked for us for a couple of years, so we got to know him better.

Then, there was Judy, who lives in York, and Sydney, from Norfolk, with Dennis ending by introducing his wife and one son. Dennis is retired from the forestry service in Arizona, and his other son is in the Navy, probably on his way to the Gulf right now.

By: Pat Meierhenry

Each one was asked to talk about their memories of growing up in a big family, on a farm north of Bradshaw. Most of them mentioned a huge garden, the world's largest strawberry patch, and jars and jars of canned goods. Many also talked about all the flowers, and quilts, and crocheted articles. I am the proud owner of a king size crocheted bedspread, and I think each couple has one of those.

I recalled staying with five of them one summer when Judy had to have surgery. I made fluffy, yellow scrambled eggs for breakfast one day and they informed me that was not the way Mom made them. The morning after Mom and Judy arrived back home, my aunt pulled a black cast iron skillet from the drawer under the oven, threw a bunch of eggs in the pan, went to change the baby, came back and turned the eggs. They were a bit black, but the kids gobbled them up! I learned something about "eating things the way Mom makes them" that day.

I had my Mom, her sister, along, and she will be 95 in April. Both are still in their own homes, although we would like them to be in a retirement facility. Both still like to bake, and play cards, and read Christian romance novels. May they both live to be 100!

Crop insurance meeting, Pine Wilt and dormant oil discussed

We have a Crop Insurance Update Meeting coming up in Emerson at the First Nebraska Bank on Friday, March 4.

This program will examine the crop insurance changes recently made by the Risk Management Agency. Specifically, the RMA has combined income protection, yield protection, and revenue protection into a single combination insurance product called the Common Crop insurance policy. We will examine the significant changes made to the program as well as how to calculate the new coverage rates, new premium rates, and policies regarding RMA reporting.

The program also explores how these changes affect farm risk management and profitability. The meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m. There is a $10 registration fee for materials.

If a Scotch pine has died, or is dying rapidly this winter, the tree is likely infected with Pine Wilt disease and is best removed by April 30. There is not an easy cure for pine wilt disease, so removing and destroying infected trees will help slow the spread of this fatal disease to other pine trees. Pine Wilt has already killed thousands of Scotch pines in southeastern Nebraska, and is infecting trees in our area as well. Pine Wilt is caused by a microscopic organism called a pinewood nematode.

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension Educator

It is spread from tree to tree by pine sawyer beetles, which begin to emerge from trees in May.

When beetles emerge from infected pines, they can carry thousands of nematodes to new pine trees. This is why infected trees are best removed by April 30 if they die after Oct. 1. If a Scotch pine begins to die between May 1 and Oct. 1, it should be removed and destroyed as quickly as possible. Trees infected with Pine Wilt need to be burned, buried or chipped as soon as possible after cutting them. The wood from these trees should not be saved and used for firewood. The chipping process will kill large pine sawyer beetles and the chipped wood can be used for landscape mulch.

I have seen some pretty heavy incidents of scale insects in our area. Now, during plant dormancy, is the time to check branches of lilac and red twigged dogwood for scale insects. Without leaves on plants, scale insects are easier to see. If branches have a heavy layer of scale, a dormant oil spray can be applied during March for control. Scale insects are easy to overlook. These small insects attach themselves to branches then grow a scale for protection. They resemble rough bark more than they resemble an insect. Many scales are small, flat, oval or oystershell-shaped and a tan, red or brown color. Heavy scale infestations will kill branches.

To control scale insects, remove and destroy heavily infested branches. Apply dormant oil sprays during March when temperatures are above 45 degrees Fahrenheit. Be sure to read and follow all label directions for using dormant oils to increase effectiveness and avoid damage to plants. Dormant oil sprays are highly refined petroleum oils labeled for use on some plants. They kill overwintering pests such as scales, aphids, spider mites, some insect eggs and some caterpillars by suffocating them.
