Pickler established herself quickly as both a singer and a songwriter to be reckoned with, co-writing her first hit, "Red High Heels," her first gold single. Her debut album, Small Town Girl, produced two follow-up hits, "I Wonder," which she also co-wrote, and the light-hearted "Things That Never Cross A Man's Mind." Together, they propelled the release to near-platinum

Her second album, Kellie Pickler, for which she co-wrote half the songs, included "Don't You Know You're Beautiful" and "Best Days of Your Life." The latter, cowritten by Kellie with Taylor Swift, quickly became the biggest hit of her career, rising

She won three 2008 CMT Music Awards Breakthrough Video, Tearjerker Video and Performance of the Year - all for "I Wonder," and has earned many other award nominations. She has received two ASCAP awards citing "Red High Heels" and "I Wonder" as among the most performed country songs of the year. Pain at the pump hits home

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

Events overseas are hitting local residents hard in the wallet with the recent spike in gasoline prices.

In the last month alone, the price of a gallon of gas has risen more than 40 cents on the national average, and that pain at the pump is being felt in the Wayne area as well, with a drive-by survey of local stations showing an average price of $3.62 per gallon.

Tim Schaefer, owner of Sinclair Daylight on Main Street in Wayne, said he's heard the anger being voiced by customers, but said they knew the prices were going to be going up eventually. "They've been talking about it for a couple of weeks, and it's finally here," he

this time of year, according to Nancy Cain, a spokesperson for AAA Nebraska. "Crude oil prices on the world market are at 2 1/2-year highs," she said. "There is a lot of uncertainty and unrest overseas right now, which is why we're seeing a huge increase." Tensions in Middle East nations such as Libya and Egypt are driving up crude oil prices, and when those prices go up, the price of gas follows the trend, she said. "Things do change a lot quicker, and when you see a crisis building up overseas, it drives up crude oil prices as well," she said.

Those overseas issues have sent the price of gas skyrocketing across the country. Last year, the price of a gallon of gas was $2.75. A month ago, it was $3.12, and a check of the AAA Web site Wednesday morning listed the national average at $3.52 a gallon, a jump of more than 27 percent over the same time last

That is slightly above the state average of $3.58 a gallon, but well below states like New York ($3.73), Alaska ($3.87) and California ($3.92), all of whom are reporting prices above $4 a gallon at some stations in their respective states.

A check of gas prices around Wayne shows that the increase at the pump that has hit across the nation has found its way to the Midwest. The average price per gallon in Wayne is slightly higher than the state average, according to information from AAA Nebraska.

But don't think that the owners of those gas stations are the ones making the killing in the current market. In fact, most gas stations see very little profit in the gas that they sell.

"If you make anywhere between 10-15 cents a gallon, you're doing good," Schaefer said. "The margin is usually about 2 percent per gallon. A convenience store can make more money off a 75-cent refill of pop than on 10 gallons of gas."

A good chunk of the price of a gallon of gas is eaten up by state and federal taxes, the country - more than 10 percent of the moderate, but it doesn't appear

"That's why gas in Iowa is so much cheaper, because their state taxes are going up, people are eventually going to cheaper," Schaefer said.

Another factor in the cost of a gallon of gas is that each station receives gas from say it could be," he said. "If it gets to $5 a different terminal, which usually makes a gallon like some people are talking, up for the difference between stations in people won't be doing anything."

up, it still means very little in the way of increased profits, he said. "Even if the (price of) gas goes higher, the percentage does't really go up," he said. "A two-cent increase on 20 gallons of gas is just 40 cents, so you're not making a bigger profit margin.' While gas prices have increased dramatically in recent days, it's hard to say where or when the increases will stop. "If things settle down in the Middle Schaefer said. City, county will adjust their budgets to deal with LB383

Of The Herald

City and county officials said that the recent passage of LB383 by the Nebraska Legislature is going to have an effect on their budgets, but not near as big an impact as was first thought.

On Friday, the Legislature gave final approval, on a 36-9 vote, to legislation that will strip state aid from city and county governments, as well as natural resource districts, while also reducing spending at the University of Nebraska.

Gov. Dave Heineman, who proposed the cuts, testified at a hearing of the Revenue Committee earlier this year that he believed local governments would be capable of dealing with the loss, stating that state aid makes up a small percentage of their total budgets. When the governor signs the bill, it will go into effect this July.

Wayne city administrator Lowell Johnson said the City of Wayne should lose about $46,000 in state funding for the next fiscal year, which would amount to less than 2 percent of its current $2.5

"The money goes to general funding for things like streets, city recreation, police and library," he said. "We were getting about $80,000 from the state at one time, and once they cut it they will never restore it.'

Johnson said the loss of state aid won't have a major impact on the city's budget, but all departments will feel a little pinch with the elimination of state funding.

"The council isn't planning on raising taxes to make up the difference, so we'll spread the cuts around and take a little bit out of every department," he said. "Where those cuts will come, we haven't gotten that far yet."

Johnson said that the city will eventually see some increases in revenues, particularly with the increase in valuation.

"Valuations have increased enough that it keeps our taxes around the same level, and that growth has helped us out and I think that will keep coming," he said.

Two injured in rollover at 35/98 junction

A mid-morning vehicle roll-over sent two Winside teenagers to a Norfolk hospital.

At about 10 a.m. on Monday, an eastbound SUV driven by Tarrin Quinn of Winside hit a slick spot on the road just east of the Highway 35 and 98 Junction. As Quinn was attempting to correct the vehicle, it went off the south side of the roadway and struck a guard rail. After striking the guard rail, the vehicle slid to the side of it and rolled into the south ditch at that location. The vehicle appeared to have rolled at least two times before land-

Herman Chiropractic adding doctor, massage services

Herman Chiropractic in Wayne and Pender has added a full-time doctor to its staff and has welcomed Logan Valley Massage Therapy to it

Dr. Christina Kraft began working at the clinic on Jan. 24. The native of Norwich, N.D., she graduated from Palmer College of Chiropractic in October of 2009.

While there, she was on the Dean's List and was a participant in the Sports Injury Club and Women's Softball. She also had the opportunity to be a part of a Clinic Abroad to Vietnam and spent one month in the country on a humanitarian effort program.

Dr. Kraft practiced in Columbus for a year before moving to Wayne.

"I am very excited to be a part rural area that is basically underserved in respect to chiropractic. My goal is to treat everyone as a unique individual to help alleviate their symptoms," she said.

In respect to chiropractic, Dr. Kraft said, "Chiropractic is becoming more accepted as an alternative way to treat medical conditions. It is more than just a way to treat headaches and back pain."

Dr. Kraft is a member of the American Chiropractic Association, Chiropractic Nebraska Physicians Association and is an Integrity Management Doctor.

With the addition of Dr. Kraft to the staff, Herman Chiropractic is able to have a doctor in the Wayne clinic every day of the week.

Hours are Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 8:30 a.m.-6 p.m. and Tuesday from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. In addition, Dr. Herman sees patients in Pender on Monday and Thursday from 10:30 a.m.-5:30

Smith said that prior to her graduation, Dr. Joelle Herman offered her job and she is very happy to be working in her hometown.

She noted that the benefits of massage include getting blood flow to all parts of the body.

"When muscles get tight, it cuts off blood flow. Massage also helps with posture and when a patient has good posture, they feel better," Smith said.

She said that while 1,000 hours of instruction are required for national certification in massage therapy, she earned 1,400 hours prior to graduation. This included

Each state has different requirements for becoming licensed and Smith said Nebraska has one of the strictest requirements for massage therapists.

Smith is trained in neuromuscular therapy, myofacial release, Swedish massage, hot stone massage and massages specifically for pregnancy.

"With the addition of Dr. Kraft, we will have services available to our patients every day. She brings great energy to our office. In addition, having massage therapy available adds another step in the treatment of our patients," Dr. Herman

Local business hit by credit card scam

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

A credit card scam executed in Wayne last week almost left one local business owner with a full load and an empty wallet.

Sandra Gathje, owner of Tacos and More, received a phone order Gathje became suspicious, though, for a birthday party that would have kept her kitchen busy, but eventually she discovered the order for 200 enchiladas, 200 burritos and information.

Gathje said somebody calling through the deaf relay system were able to find out the call was placed the order, using the name of a South Sioux City resident.

"I'd dealt with one of these calls

"That's when I started thinking 200 cans of pop was an attempt to this was a fake," she said. "My use somebody's stolen credit card husband, Rick, figured it out because they kept calling the town South Sucks, and we eventually coming from the Philippines."

Red Cross month an opportunity for people to offer their support

March is Red Cross Month, and the American Red Cross is asking people to join them in helping those in of nearly 200 disasters every day. The organization need by volunteering their time, making a donation, taking a class, or giving blood.

"When someone provides a hot meal to a disaster victim, gives blood, takes a first aid class, or helps someone in the military, they join the Red Cross,' said Shalle Wolff, Executive Director of the Northeast Nebraska Chapter. "We want to say 'thank you' to all who support us. That support enables us to provide help and hope to those who need our assistance.

For nearly 100 years, U.S. Presidents have called on people to support the American Red Cross and its humanitarian mission. President Franklin D. Roosevelt was the first to proclaim March as Red Cross Month in 1943. Since that time, President Obama and every president since have issued proclamations designating March as Red Cross Month.

The Red Cross has been helping people for 130 years, responding to disasters, assisting members of the military, teaching lifesaving skills, and serving as one of the largest blood suppliers in the United States.

Nationally, the Red Cross responds to an average provides a round-the-clock link between those in the military and their families, and supplies blood and blood products to approximately 3,000 hospitals and transfusion centers across the country.

The Northeast Nebraska Chapter responded and provided assistance in local disasters last year. The chapter processed 53 emergency military calls, trained 2,888 people in first aid and water safety, and collected 7,963 blood donations.

"We work very diligently to help those in need," Wolf said. "Whether out on a disaster, alongside our troops, at a blood drive or in a first aid class, Red Cross workers touch the lives of millions of people every year."

The Red Cross is not a government agency and relies on donations of time, money and blood to do its work.

"When people join the Red Cross by volunteering. donating blood, taking a course or making a contribution, they enable us to continue our work, both here at home, and around the world," Wolff said.

Wildcats capable of greatness

Rare is the occasion when a group of people come together to form something special.

If you've had an opportunity to watch the Wayne State women's basketball team this season, you've witnessed a team that plays with a cohesiveness that championshipcaliber teams are made of - that combination of talent, coaching and chemistry that blends together beautifully and results in the kind of team capable of greatness.

The Wildcats have been poised for this moment that awaits them this week in Durango, Colo. They are three wins away from an appearance in the Elite Eight, which would be a first for Wayne State in any sport since the school joined the ranks of Wayne State has had its opportunities in recent times. Last year, this team was in an even better position than the one they find themselves in now. Softball was one swing away from putting themselves in position for the College World Series. Volleyball has been in the neighborhood, as has baseball, in the past few years.

Is this year's Wildcat women's basketball team the one that finally cracks the code and gets into that rare air among the elite in Div. II? I believe it is – this team has all the ingredients of a program that not only can win a regional title, but can put itself in position to win the whole ball of wax later this month in Springfield, Mo.

The senior leadership of the Wildcats this year has been outstanding. All-NSIC honorees Mara Hjelle and Alyssa Fischbach give Wayne State a wonderful inside-out combination. Hjelle can bang the inside and has a dropstep move that, when it works, is impossible to defend. Fischbach can slash inside or step back for a heart-ripping 3-pointer. Add that to the potential scoring capabilities of classmates Julie Ann Wagner and Renee Wood off the bench, and you've got a great leadership nucleus to work with.

Then there are people like Ashlev Arlen, the NSIC Player of the Year, who is so tough to defend because she's a threat from anywhere on the floor. She can bang it in the paint, drive to the hoop off the wing or step back and drill a high-arcing trifecta. When she is in the zone, it's wonderful to watch because she can completely dominate a game and is impossible to defend.

Addpoint guard Ali Schwartzwald, who is an outstanding defender and distributor. Consider Claire Duwelius, who has the capability of catching fire on the outside at any time. Throw in Ellen Hansen, who has developed into a quality bench player who can hit from outside. Then there is the sparkplug that is Alisha Brown, an eye-popping stick of dynamite compacted in a 5-foot, 3-inch frame that splits defenses faster than a hot knife going through a stick of butter. These girls have proven they are capable of greatness, and they've done it with the help of a coach that knows what it takes to win at the highest level and is putting this team in position to achieve the kind of success that has never been seen on the campus of this proud institution.

Chris Kielsmeier has been a winner everywhere he's gone. He led Howard Payne University to the Div. III national title before coming to Wayne three years ago. He has won more than 67 percent of his games in three years here and has already claimed an NSIC tournament and regular season title. He and his staff – his brother Kelly and grad assistant Carissa Nord – have done a masterful job putting this program in position to win it all and create some real March Madness right here in Wayne, America.

Last year, this team went down

The Warriors came up with a big effort against the top-seeded Wildcats in the semifinals of the NSIC tournament Saturday, shooting a blistering 54.5 percent from the field in the second half to upset Wayne State 73-65 Saturday afternoon at St. Paul, Minn. Saturday's loss, only the third of the year for the 25-3 Wildcats, was disappointing for Kielsmeier, who was hoping to sweep the regular-season and conference tournament titles

"It was a very disappointing day for the program," he said. "We played well and I was very proud of our efforts, but we got outplayed and Winona made a lot of plays and shot the ball great. A game like that comes down to making plays and making shots, and we didn't make enough of them.'

Neither team was able to establish itself early on. Winona State jumped out to a 15-8 lead early in the game, but the Wildcats got a jumper, a pair of free throws and a 3-pointer from Alyssa Fischback to pull within 17-15 midway through the first half.

Winona State went on an 8-2 run to take a 25-17 lead, but the Wildcats answered with a 12-2 run of its

The Warriors extended their lead to four points, but Winona State had more pressing concerns, though Wayne State came back with a trey by Ali Schwartzwald they just wanted to play their way into the NCAA and an inside jumper by Mara Hjelle to take their final lead at 36-35. a tournament the Wildcats were hoping to host. "Hopefully, this will motivate us to refocus on regionals," he said. "It's disappointing that we're not hosting, but we don't care. It's more important that we're in the tournament and playing. We would have loved to play some more games in Rice (Auditorium), but it wasn't meant to be and we're thankful we have a chance to play." The Wildcats reached the semifinals with a dominating 87-56 win over Minnesota Crookston last Wednesday, riding the double-double efforts of Fischbach and Ashley Arlen.

"They're just a very talented, deep, experienced team and that really showed through down the stretch," Wildcats' coach Paul Combs said of his team's season-ending loss. "We struggled with our free throws and they were aggressive and really put it to us on the boards.'

The Mavericks jumped out to a 7-0 lead in the first two minutes of the game, but Wayne State responded with a seven-point run of their own, highlighted by a Jason Jensen trey, to tie the game at the 16:41 mark.

Fans of the Wayne boys basketball team might think they're experiencing a little deja vu when the Blue Devils hook up with top-seeded Grand Island Central Catholic Thursday in the Class C-1 Boys State Basketball Championships.

The 2 p.m. matchup at Pershing Auditorium will feature the Blue Devils - fresh from an upset of Norfolk Catholic in the district finals – taking on a Crusaders team that is hoping to bounce back from a subdistrict loss and put themselves in position to win a state title.

The Blue Devils will face a team that reminds coach Rocky Ruhl of two teams the Blue Devils faced late in the season – Norfolk Catholic and Pierce.

"This (matchup) is a lot like our district final," he said. "I'd say they're one of the top teams in the state and they're a solid team with one of the better players in the state."

The Crusaders are led by senior guard Turner Fahey, who averages more than 25 points per game. Fahey can do damage from anywhere on the court, whether it's hitting the long bomb or driving inside to either attack the basket or find an open teammate.

Kielsmeier likes his team's chances

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

Last year, the Wayne State women's basketball team went into Durango, Colo., with high hopes and left with their dreams of an Elite Eight appearance crushed in the opening round.

This year's team is looking forward to the opportunity to erase those bad memories of a year ago, as the Wildcats carry the No. 3 seed into this week's NCAA Div. II Central Regional tournament, which begins Friday at Fort Lewis

Wayne State carries a 25-3 record into Friday's 2 p.m. CST matchup against Colorado Christian, an 18-10 team that beat the Wildcats 61-60 on a last-second shot in their regular-season meeting on Nov. 19. The Wildcats followed that loss with a school-record 16-game winning streak that carried them to the Northern Sun Conference regularseason title.

Kielsmeier said Friday's matchup is a chance to avenge one of its three losses this year, but it will come against a physical team that likes to play a full-court style of basketball.

"We kind of know each other pretty well, and they're a team that does a lot of things well and we'll have to be ready," he said.

The Cougars, who are in the NCAA tournament for the first time, are led by freshman Christina Whitelaw, who averages 15.3 points, four assists and four steals per game. She had 10 steals in the Cougars' November win over Wayne State, and she'll lead a defense that likes to press full-court.

"We knew going in that she was quick and we didn't handle her very well the first time," Kielsmeier said. "They like to play 94 feet and put pressure in the backcourt, so we'll have to get ready to press a lot and she'll be a focus for us.'

The Cougars also have junior guard Brittany Long and junior forward Stephenie Allen who average in double figures in scoring. The Cougars started the year strong, winning 13 of their first 16 games, but struggled down the stretch, losing three in a row at one point and going 5-7 over their last 12 games.

Kielsmeier didn't want to look beyond the first round, but did say that a potential rematch with Winona State, or a battle against points to regain the lead before a Starken triple gave the Wildcats the lead again. Minnesota State closed out the half with a pair of baskets to take a 36-33 halftime lead.

Minnesota State was up by as many as five when the Wildcats went on a 12-2 run to take a 48-43 lead with 11:03 on a shot by Jensen. That was the Wildcats' last lead, though, as Minnesota State scored nine points in a row to take the lead for good and pull away down the stretch.

Starken led the Wildcats with 19 points, while Amry Shelby had 14

It was another year of growth for the program, Combs said, as the team continued to gain experience this season.

"We've had some ups and downs this year with a lot of inexperience in our program," he said. "We had four seniors who grew a lot this year and showed some tremendous leadership, and we got great contributions from some of our younger players that were forced into action because of our lack of this year, and he said it will be tough to replace what those four brought to the program.

"I don't think there was a better player in the conference the last few weeks than Brad," he said. "He was our best weapon and had a terrific month, and Jason had a lot of success for us this year and led our team. Ben was playing his best basketball at the end, and Rudy gave us a lot of quality minutes off the bench. It's going to be tough to replace them because of what they Combs said he's sorry to see the did for us, both on and off the floor."

For now, it will be key for the returning players to continue to get better, and for Combs to bring in some new bodies to add depth to the program for the future.

"The last couple of years, we've lost to a Final Four team (St. Cloud State) and the No. 6 team in the nation (Minnesota State) on their home floor, so our guys have seen the level of play and understand what it takes to play at the top of this conference," he said. "We'll

'Fun to Play, Ready to Learn' seminar focuses on early child development

"Fun to Play, Ready to Learn" will be held Thursday, March 17, at 7 p.m. (note time change from originally announced) in the meeting room at Providence Medical Center in Wayne.

Deb Schroeder, Extension Educator in Cuming County will be the presenter. During the session, participants will develop understanding of brain development and how it relates to play and learning.

New research on brain development has demonstrated how important family involvement and positive learning experiences are in the home and day care are for infants, toddlers and preschool children. Learning starts immediately A family is a child's first teacher and a child's home is his/her first classroom.

Children learn by exploring questioning, touching, moving and discussing. Children also learn by watching and listening. This workshop will highlight play experiences for young children that will help them to be ready to learn.

For example, the five senses are the gateways to learning, so it is important to do activities that promote learning through the senses. Participants will also receive a book of activities to try at home.

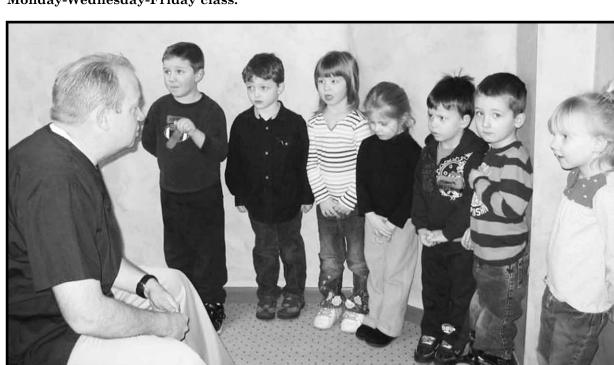

Participants will earn 1.5 hours of in-service for attending this training session. This program is being sponsored by ESU No. 1 Grants and University of Nebraska Extension.

A minimum of 10 people are required to hold the session. Contact Leslie at Providence Medical, (402) - Teaching others about ways to 375-7938 to pre-register.

Community support for Jeff Zeiss

This letter is written in support of Jeff Zeiss, who recently resigned his position as the recreation/activity center director for the City of Wayne. What a loss this is to our town and the recreation department.

Jeff is, and has been, a superior role model for the young people in our community. It would be fair to say that, most likely, he has nicknamed nearly every child that walks into the activity center today. He knows them all well. He has made it his responsibility to make sure no one that enters the Wayne Activity Center feels unwelcome.

In the midst of all the chaos (be there at 3:30 p.m. when school gets out), he stays calm and does his job with professionalism. Kids seek out Jeff so they can get a pat on the back or just tell him about their day. Jeff respects kids and they return the favor. Even the older kids love to be around and talk with Jeff. He gives them advice and they actually listen to him. This is priceless.

We believe that Jeff was born to coach. He knows the games he coaches and he has tons of knowledge, all while stressing fundamentals. A child's ability doesn't matter to Jeff. He treats each one equally and fairly. He makes it fun for everyone, and no one is happier when a goal is accomplished than Coach Zeiss. It is hard to say how many Blizzards he has bought when kids have reached a goal he has set for them. He is a man of integrity.

Jeff, thank you for your 25 years of working with our kids. Thank you for being a part of our lives. We also want to thank you for your family Jackie, Jason, Jacob, Jalyn and your parents, Don and Jan - for sharing you with us. They made many sacrifices so that you could be freed up to do your job.

Finally, we want to express to you our sincere appreciation for all those "things" you did over the years that have gone unnoticed by many. Those closest to you, however, are aware of the extent of your impact on our community. Hank would be proud of you, Jeff.

We will miss you. Thank you.

Wayne girls are winners

I am writing this letter in Becky Rogers, Robin Gamble, response to the article written by Phyllis and Jason Trenhaile, Mike Carnes in the March 4 edition Peg Anderson, Kevin Maly, of the Wayne Herald. Mr. Carnes wrote an article comparing the victory our boys basketball team had over Norfolk Catholic in the district final with the loss our girls Karla Wall, Greg Kallhoff, basketball team suffered to Norfolk Catholic in their district final. I do appreciate all of the coverage we Trenhaile, Jamie Gamble, receive from the Wayne Herald and Justin Anderson, Megan respectfully offer this as a different

Our Wayne High School girls are winners. We are very proud of their accomplishments, both in and Hoskins, Tracy Keating, Bob out of the athletic arena. Too often Keating, Morgan Keating, Zach in our society, we equate being a Keating, Hannah Gamble, winner or being successful with the Randy Gamble, Robbi Gamble, final outcome of a particular game Taylor Burke, Jacob Dunklau, or playoff tournament. I believe Keegan Dorcey, Laura Gamble, our mission at Wayne Community Scott Hammer, Kevin Hoffart, Schools, "Learning for Life," goes Andrew Pulfer, Joyce Hoskins, beyond the end result of one

Mary Janke, Rhonda Blecke, learn about working as a team, Our girls' volleyball team was one this is happening. The list can go on trip to state in Hastings, the girls and on about the benefits of every extracurricular activity that our school provides.

> I would encourage Mr. Carnes, and all of us who support Wayne High athletics, to be a bit more global when considering the accomplishments of our teams and not use one game to determine success or failure. Please consider the following:

I have had several administrators approach me from other schools complimenting our girls on their sportsmanship, their team play, and the fact that they are really good kids. They are polite, friendly, and represent our school tremendously well. For that we are Academics are the reason we are here first and foremost. Our girls' basketball team sports an average grade-point average of 3.55and has placed 93 percent of its players on our A and B honor roll. A great accomplishment.

During the 2009-2010 school year, our girls' program finished in the top 10 in class C1 of the NSAA's US Cellular Cup Competition. This competition takes the performances of all of the girls' athletic programs and assigns points for district competition. At last glance, our girls' program sits fourth in the competition in Class C1 for the 2010-2011 school year.

- I suggest that the girls' athletic Ariz., where my wife received golf team competed in the state golf tournament in Columbus finishing fourth, and our girls' cross country team competed as a team in the state cross country meet in Kearney finishing eighth. Not that our boys' program didn't have a good fall as football and cross country both qualified for state with cross country finishing fourth. One could certainly argue that the success of our fall sports teams, both boys and girls, set the tone and developed a winning attitude.

Obviously, we all agree a victory in the girls' basketball championship game would have been one we would have cherished and remembered for years. And I do agree with Mr. Carnes that next year could be another great run for our girls' basketball team. However, regardless of the outcome of any past or future ballgame or season, let's give our congratulations to Coach Wall and the Wayne Blue Devils basketball team for a great season. Thank you for representing our school and our town so well. We are proud of all of you!!

Homestead Homes partners with U.S. EPA's Energy Star Program announced its partnership with lation systems, high performance the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Energy Star Program.

Through this partnership, Homestead Homes will provide homebuyers with energy efficient new homes that save money on utility bills, offer greater comfort and better performance, and help to protect the environment.

To earn the Energy Star designation, a home must meet strict guidelines for energy efficiency set by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). These homes are at least 15 percent more energy efficient than homes built to the 2004 International Residential Code (IRC), and include additional energy-saving features that typically make them 20-30 percent more efficient than standard homes.

Dean Carroll, National Sales Manager for Homestead Homes, said, "Homestead Homes is an industry leader in the component home business and as such, is always looking for ways to improve upon their program. Since our program is environmentally friendly, what better way to improve our program than to partner with the Environmental Protection Agencies Energy Star Program? This allows our customers to build an energy efficient home and "go green" by reducing their energy costs by more than 50 percent. Along with these savings, our customers are eligible for both federal tax incentives of $2,000 and local energy rebates of up to $3,000. Where else can you go and build a quality home for less money and still get up to $5,000 in incentives and rebates?"

Energy Star qualified homes offer homebuvers all the features they want in a new home, plus energy-

How do you know when to

For many people their home is their castle. So it is no wonder we like to stay in our homes as long as possible. But like everything else there comes a time when we need to move to a smaller home. But how do you know when is the right time?

I would like you to ask yourself the following 5 questions. 1. Does your home fit your physical

2. Do you have trouble keeping up with the maintenance of your home? 3. Do you feel safe in your home? 4. Do you have access to proper medical care in your current home? 5. Is your home isolating you from friends and fun events? If you answered yes to most of these questions, it may be time to downsize. Moving to a smaller home can be emotional, but staying in your home too long can be dangerous and a financial strain. While this article does apply to the elderly, it also applies to anyone in a situation where financing a large home has put undo stress on the

Make sure to get lots of help when you do decide downsizing is right for you. Call a real estate agent to look at the house and help you get it ready for sale. Making decisions before you are forced to, will lower the stress and put you in a better situation.

Your home should bring you joy and peace, not stress and isolation. Our homes should be our castle! Just be sure your castle fits your

Special lenten services planned at Our Savior Lutheran Church

Our Savior Lutheran Church of Wayne will host special Wednesday evening worship services for the congregation and community under the theme of "Together, We Live Love With The Grace And Courage

To kick-off Our Savior's Wednesday evening Lenten emphasis, the congregation will welcome back its former pastor, the Rev. Martin Russell, to preach at Our Savior's worship services this weekend, March 12-13.

Pastor Russell served Our Savior from 1996 to 2000 before being called to his present position of Assistant to the Bishop in the Nebraska Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. In his current role he guides congregations in the process of calling new pastors and provides leadership to the Nebraska Synod global mission efforts, especially in Tanzania, Argentina and Uruguay.

"I am very excited to return to Our Savior this weekend to be a part of this special Lenten emphasis," said Pastor Russell. "The world yearns for the life-giving message of Jesus. Together, we as Christians are called to be Jesus' partner in proclaiming the Gospel through word and deed to all the world."

Russell's message will focus on global ministry. "Becoming actively involved in global mission is a rich opportunity to participate in God's reconciling mission through proclamation and service," said Russell.

Pastor Russell will preach this weekend on Saturday evening, 6 p.m., and Sunday morning, 8 and 10:30 a.m. He will also lead a special adult forum during the Sunday school hour at 9:15 a.m.

Our Savior will also host special Wednesday evening Lenten worship services at 7 p.m. To simplify Wednesday evenings, the congregation is hosting delicious suppers prior to each Wednesday evening service from 5:45-6:45 p.m. All are invited to the meals. A free-will offering will be received as a part of spinet in dark wood, with lovely sound and good keyboard action!

Piano a welcome addition

I left an upright piano at the Farm House, and had thought I really did not have room here in the Townhouse. I had seriously considered a keyboard, but didn't want to spend the money.

I guess I have never lived in a house without a piano; at least, not for as long as I can remember.

The one in the house I grew up in was a player, with those good old piano rolls that you pumped for action. I have no idea what happened to that one, but the next one went to my sis and is still in her living room.

I inherited an old upright from the Big Farmer's parents when they moved off the farm at Hoskins. I spray painted it! Eventually, they got it back when they went to Norfolk, and I got a smaller one that had belonged to his aunt. It's the one all the kids took lessons on. It's in Sue's family room.

I bought the one for the Farm House from the senior center in Elmwood, and even though it did not hold a tune very well, we used it. Besides, it was handy to set stuff on! Especially at Christmas, when it held my Dept. 56 Village.

When I had an opportunity to buy the spinet, I could not figure out where to put it. We already

Siouxland Garden Show,

We hosted nine people from Randolph again for the girls' state basketball tournament. They took over the basement, and that spare bedroom, office, music room. On Thursday, they watched six games! That was a bit much for me; I did make it over to East High to see Homer defeat Lutheran High Northeast. Homer was there on a wild card, and they won Class C-2.

We did have to chuckle when the World Herald picked Elkhorn to beat Seward in Class B, though. We were pretty sure that was not going to happen, and it didn't. The Bluejays played their lights out! I feel sure they could beat most of the Class A teams, and I'm excited to see what Emily Cady can bring to the Huskers next year.

Now, we have to watch the Nebraska guys in the last Big 12 tournament; I'm sure they could win it, if they played the way they did to beat Texas. I'm also sure that is not going to happen. I remember the year they did win the Big 8; it was 1993, and a caravan went to Nebraska City to meet the team bus coming home from Kansas City. I'm sure we would do it again, if only we had a reason.

Then, it will be time for the state high school boys. March is such a great month for basketball! Now, if it would just quit snowing!
