Council moves forward on new business loans

BY CLARA OSTEN Of the Herald

Several new businesses could be part of the Wayne community following action taken by the Wayne City Council at its Tuesday meeting.

DRJ LLC/Inet Library, owned by Dr. Dennis Jensen, is already in the process of moving to the former First National Bank location at Third and Main Street, and was earlier granted a $43,019 low-interest loan for start-up costs. At that time, the business was going to be located in the former First National Bank drive-up location at the corner of Seventh and Main Streets, but the location has since changed.

After considerable discussion Tuesday's meeting, the council voted to approve a second loan to the business in the amount of $43,019. It will be a performance-based loan with requirements, such as the number of jobs created and the amount of time the business needs to remain in the community, to be determined prior to the signing of documents.

Money for both of the loans will be from the LB 840 sales tax funds for economic owners in Muhs Acres thanked the city development in the community.

Wes Blecke, representing the LB 840 Sales Tax Advisory Committee, spoke to the council on a request for $225,000 performance-based loan to Wayne Area Economic Development on behalf of 'Project ABC.'

Blecke told the Council that Wavne is one of the cities being looked at by a familyowned business that is considering relocation to Nebraska.

The money would be used for getting the business into the WAED Opportunity Building. The LB 840 committee has recommended approval of the loan with several modifications, including the number of jobs to be created. It is anticipated the business would start with 20 employees and additional jobs would be created as the business expands.

Council member Doug Sturm said, "This is great opportunity. I am all for getting someone into that building."

The council approved the request.

Acting as the Board of Equalization, the council approved the assessments for the Public Utility Water Service District No. 2009-01 for Muhs Acres.

Schwarten said one of the biggest challenges the State Patrol has right now is working with what they have in what is a tough state economy.

"The recovery has been extremely slow, and as managers in law enforcement, it's our job to be as efficient and prudent with taxpayers' money as we can possibly be," he said.

Schwarten said the addition of mobile data computers in patrol vehicles has helped keep officers on the road and cut down on the amount of paperwork they need to do at

Capital Projects Budget

Click under Quick Links on the front page of our city website at www.cityofwayne.org to find the current budget (highlighted in blue) plus additional proposed capital projects to be funded using the 1 percent city sales tax approved by voters in 2008.

The council will adopt changes to this budget when they approve the FY 2011-12 city operations budget in sales tax revenues over the 15 years. So far the city council has approved $150,000 for paving a section of street in the industrial park, $322,000 for the city's share of the downtown sidewalk improvements. $100,000 for the city's share of the airport runway paving, $1.4 million for the waste water plant, $45,000 to make ADA bathrooms in Bressler and Victor Parks, $16,500 for baby pool improvements and $20,000 to help digitize all the past issues of the Wayne Herald into a permanent searchable on-line archive, and some other smaller projects.

Additional projects that we will recommend for approval by the mayor and council will be $1.2 million for a replacement swimming pool and funding for repair of the Logan Creek bank high water damage around the main storm drain outfall at Boy Scout Park and east of the Highway 15 bridge.

The mayor and council members are interested in your thoughts about these and other capital projects as we develop the budget for the August public hearing.

A new way of family planning

You generally won't see this space used to comment on what one of our area coaches does outside his or her team's particular arena.

While some in the mainstream media seem to think every detail of a coach's personal life needs to be out in public, I've always been one to let the coach's personal life be to his or her own. Usually, the only time you'll see me bring a coach's off-field world into the sports page is when they do something in their private life that affects what they do as a coach (it has to be something really stupid, like driving the team bus while under the influence, accepting bribes from apparel companies or trying to use the excuse "my dog ate my stat sheet").

When a coach decides it's time to step down, there is usually a personal reason why he or she is leaving the post. Outside of retirement, those reasons are generally of a negative nature, whether it's their being asked to step down or being otherwise relieved of their duties.

Teresa Watters came up with a new one as far as the reason why she's leaving her post as Winside volleyball coach – she's adding to her family.

Now, normally, when a female coach plays the "adding to the family" card, it involves a ninemonth waiting period that includes bouts of nausea, odd eating habits and rapid weight gain – and that's just her husband.

Watters is taking a different approach to family planning, though – she and Scott are adopting a three-year-old Ethiopian toddler. gets where it needs to be, they hope to bring their new addition home within the next month or so.

In this day and age, especially, it takes a certain kind of individual to be a high school coach. The days where the coach was all but a dictator has given way to dads (and, now, moms) who played the game and think they know the coach's offensive and defensive game plans as well as the coach does.

It takes an even more unique individual to listen to their hearts and determine that they are willing and able to bring another life into their world and make it a part of their family. You really have to love being a parent and be passionate about making a positive influence on the life of a young human being to come to the realization that adoption is the thing for you and your family to enter into.

The biggest challenge the Watters may have faced – outside of dealing with a foreign government and jumping through all of those particular hoops – was telling her players about her family's plans. Her hand was forced the day after the volleyball team lost in the first round of the state tournament last November, when she got the call that the adoption had been approved on her cell phone as she was driving one of the team vans.

I'm sure there was a lot of excitement when she explained what was going on. And I'm also sure, after her meeting with her team last week to inform them that she was stepping down, there was some sadness that she won't be a part of next year's team while, at the same time, there was a sense of understanding that, as much as they want her to lead them to another state tournament trip, they know she is answering a higher calling as an adoptive mother.

I have always had a tremendous amount of respect for those who decide they want to shape young lives as a teacher or a coach. While I'm disappointed I won't be working with Teresa in covering Winside volleyball next year, I'm happy knowing that her next assignment is one that God has called her to tackle. If her track record as an adoptive mother is anywhere near what she achieved on the Winside sideline, she'll be a smashing

Rugby team's hopes fall short

Team runs out of time in quarterfinals By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

Legend has it that NFL quarterback John Unitas never lost a game – he just ran out of time.

Such was the case for the Wayne State men's rugby team in the first round of the National Small College Rugby Organization regional tournament Saturday afternoon at the Wayne Rugby Park.

Wayne State tried valiantly to come from behind after St. Edward's University scored 19 unanswered points in the first half. The Wildcats found the try zone in stoppage time late in the second half, but could not position themselves for another score as the Hilltoppers edged the Wildcats, 19-17. Wayne State played two 10-minute stretches of the game with one man in the penalty zone, effectively putting the team at a 15on-14 disadvantage. In spite of that, they still were able to manage the kind of effort that had them within striking range of victory, according to coach Darrin Barner.

"Any time you can be in a game like this, against a team as good as St. Ed, and you play 25 percent of the game a man down, could you ask any more than what these guys did?" he asked. "They played their hearts out, and I can't complain about the effort.

With an energized crowd of about 600 fans still settling in for the action, the Wildcats made a quick push into the northwest corner of the pitch and Travis Erickson carried a defender into the try zone for the the already-excited Wildcat fans to their feet.

Saturday, the Blue Devils competed in a dual with West Point in Beemer, with the two teams tying at 186. Brodersen led the way with a 41 while Preston and Maly each finished with 48. Rasmussen posted a 49 to close out team scoring. Gansebom finished with a 50.

Monday, the varsity traveled to Lincoln to take part in the Lincoln Pius Invite held at Firethorn Golf Course with 18 teams competing.

"It was a very windy day," coach Dave Hix said. "Firethorn doesn't need to add that to its challenges. We have a long way to go before we can compete for championships. We didn't manage ourselves around the course which led to 27 penalty strokes between the four scorers.'

Senior pitcher Katie Goetzinger recorded her third career perfect game and first baseman Jennifer Radley went 5-for-7 with four RBI's to lead the Wavne State softball team in a Northern Sun Conference sweep over afternoon at the Pete Chapman Softball Complex.

Goetzinger had 10 strikeouts in the opener and threw her fourth career no-hitter in an 8-0 win over the Wolves, as Wayne State disposed of the visitors in six innings.

"She's coming on strong and getting stronger as we go," coach Krista Unger said. "She's moving the ball around pretty well and has some real pop on it."

Goetzinger said she was happy to record her third perfect game.

"It was fun," she said. "I haven't had one for a couple of years. I didn't do anything different, but the wind really helped and it put some nasty stuff on the ball."

The Wildcats took a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning on run-scoring doubles by Rachel Dukich and Katie Goetzinger. They finished the game off on the mercy rule with a fiverun sixth inning, highlighted by Earleywine's bases-clearing double. Aeriell Earleywine added an RBI double and Radley's RBI single capped a 3-for-4 effort and scored Sam Earleywine to end the game.

Radley and Earleywine both homered in the second game. Jennifer Radley's two-run homer to right center in the second, and Earleywine connected for a solo shot in the third.

Freshman Jordan Harris earned the win in the circle with relief help from Goetzinger. Harris improved to 3-1 on the season, allowing one run on four hits with four strikeouts and one walk. Goetzinger worked the final two innings for her third save of the year, striking out five of the six batters she faced.

On Saturday, Wayne State hit four home runs to easily sweep University of Mary 4-2 and 7-4.

Goetzinger struck out 13 Marauder batters in the opener and improve to 18-9 overall and 6-0 in belted a three run homer to help her own cause. She was 2-for-3 at the plate, while Aeriell Earleywine break open a close game with four Sunday.

Radley and Sam Earleywine both connected for home runs as the Wildcats completed the sweep in the second game, coming back from an early 2-0 deficit. Sarah Gottschalk had a two-run double, and Brittany Greenwood and Aeriell Earleywine had RBI singles.

Wayne State polished off an impressive sweep Tuesday, knocking off No. 8 Minnesota State 5-0 and 2-1 in Mankato, Minn., to the NSIC.

The first game saw Wayne State runs in the seventh inning. Sam Earleywine hit an RBI single to right center field, and Radley followed with a bases-loaded double to finish the scoring. Goetzinger held Minnesota State to just two hits while striking out six.

In the finale, Sam Earleywine belted a two-out homer to center in the first, but it would take pinchhitter Kristen Martinson's fielder's choice in the sixth that scored Kuhl with the winning run.

Teresa Watters, who guided Winside to back-to-back trips to the state volleyball tournament, is stepping down after four seasons.

Watters steps down as Winside mentor

By MICHAEL CARNES

Of The Herald

Coaching volleyball at Winside High School the past four seasons has been a challenge that Teresa Watters has thoroughly enjoyed.

Late last week, she made one of the toughest decisions, she says, she has ever made – giving up a job she loves so that she can add to her

Watters stepped down last week as head volleyball coach for the Wildcats, ending what has been arguably the best four-year run of success in team history. The Wildcats went 81-33 during her tenure, making back-to-back appearances in the state tournament the last two years after going a combined 46-14 and winning the Lewis and Clark

Conference title last fall.

Watters said she and her husband, Scott, felt the need to adopt a child to add to their family, which includes sons Garrett, a freshman and Brandon, a fifth grader. The couple wanted to adopt a child, and an opportunity presented itself late

"I actually got the call on the way home from state volleyball," she said. "My husband and I were joking about how we were going to tell the girls (about the adoption). and they called my cell phone while I had the girls in the van on the way home. I had to pull the van over to take the call, and as I'm talking, all the girls are staring at me so I had to tell them. They actually found out before my family did."

Thomsen posts records, area runners compete at Wayne Invite solid performances Tuesday, as Wayne and Wakefield's track and field teams put out some good efforts at the Wayne Invitational.

Wayne finished third in the boys standings and was fourth in the girls' competition, while the Trojans placed seventh in the boys and eighth in the girls on the day.

Highlighting the area effort was Blue Devil senior Zach Thomsen, who set two meet records and was part of a relay team that set a new standard in the 3,200-meter relay.

Thomsen won the 400 and 800 in record-setting times, accounting for 30 of the Blue Devils' points on the

"Zach had been training hard in the offseason to get ready, and hopefully he can stay healthy and have a great season," coach Dale Hochstein said. "We had some nice weather today and he was able to put all of that together and get some nice early-season marks. Now it's a matter of where we can build from

The Blue Devils dominated the distance races, with Quentin Jorgensen taking top honors in the 3,200 and leading a 1-2 finish with Seth Onderstal in the 1,600-meter

"Our middle distance and distance runners really had a nice day," Hochstein said.

The Wayne girls won two of the times. The 400-meter relay of Jalyn Zeiss, Caitlin Fehringer, Marissa Fallesen and Meagan Backer came in with a time of 52.4 seconds, while the 1,600-meter relay of Megan Stalling, Emily Leeper, Kristin Carroll and Angie Nelson won in a time of 4:27.1.

"We had a few girls sitting out with injuries today, but our 400 competed really well," Hochstein a pair of medals, while Jhose said. "We had some kids who just Calderon took home a sixth in the missed finals in some field events, 100-meter dash for Wakefield. but we have some good depth and as we keep getting healthy, I think we'll be in great shape.'

Wakefield had some good performances on the day, led by seniors Keri Lunz and Brendan Nicholson.

Lunz looks like she is running in state meet form right now, as she finished the day with a first-place effort in the 100 and 400 and a close runner-up finish in the 800.

"I was really happy with Keri's performance," coach Mike Hassler said. "She's having a great senior year and is really picking up where she left off at state last year. I'm really happy to see that.'

Nicholson looked solid in both the preliminaries and finals of the 110-meter hurdles, and he finished the day with a first-place effort of 15.3 seconds.

"He's about a tenth of a second off the school record right now, and we're really pleased with his effort," Hassler said. "He's added a lot of speed since last year. He's always been technically sound on the hurdles, and he's added some size and speed and he's doing really well. He had a really good day today."

The Trojans also got a thirdplace effort from Josh Dolph in the Calderon, Wakefield, 11.8.

It was a beautiful day for some relay really clicked and the kids 1,600-meter run. Hugo Ortiz earned

Musical "Oz" hits the mark

The annual Wayne High Musical was held over the weekend, and once again the wizardry of directors Tracy Anderson and Carolyn Harder was on display as the cast peformed "The Wizard of Oz" with nearly 70 on-stage performers and another 31 in the set-crew and pit orchestra.

The amount of time these people put in over the past couple months in preparing the event was evident in the well-received performances which were held Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

I visited with a woman in the community on Monday about the musical and she remarked how every year she goes thinking to herself it can't be better than the year before . . . and then she savs

It's hard to compare year from year because of the variety of the types of shows peformed but I got her point and she is spot on. Perhaps the most interesting thing watching these high schoolers on stage is knowing many of them when they are not on stage and witnessing just how talented they really are.

The Wizard of Oz of course is a classic but watching Jacob Zeiss perform as the Lion, was more entertaining than watching the original show. His stage presence was inspiring and the multitalented senior showed his ability to perform at the highest level on stage, much as we've watched on the sports scene over the past several years.

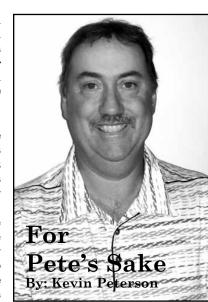

Laura Muren's role as Dorothy was very well done. My only problem will be trying to remember her real name is Laura and not Dorothy. Sawyer Jager, another natural on stage, first grabbed our attention two years ago in Grease, and he continued his top-notch acting and singing last year in Modern Millie. This year he played the role of Scarecrow, perfectly.

I was very moved by the quality of acting/singing of both Nick Monahan and Rachel Gilliland. Monahan played a great Tin Man and Gilliland was fantastic as Glinda, the good witch. And how about Kori Witt, another natural when it comes to stage presence. Her rendition of the Wicked Witch

Kendra Liska as Aunt Em and Sean Gansebom as Uncle Henry seemed to be perfect fits for the parts as did Tanner Schopke, no stranger to performing on the stage with his recent successes in the oneacts. Schopke played dual parts as the Professor and Oz.

One of the more entertaining scenes was that of the Lollipop Guild. Quentin Jorgensen, Andrew Pulfer, Joe Dunklau, Tony Sinniger, Miles Anderson and Tyler Poehlman had the entire audience doing belly laughs with not only their dancing skills but their hair styling look as that label went to Mason Wren as a crow and Jason Trautman as the Winkie General. Two great jobs. As Dorothy said while talking to the Tin Man and Scarecrow, "I feel like I've known you all along." That was the feeling I got watching Nikko, the flying monkey (most of you will understand that).

The Lullaby Guild of Natalie Hannah McCorkindale, Sieler, Waddington, Jessica Rachel Henderson and Emma Carstens performed solidly as did The Mayor, aka Colin Loberg and Coroner, Sean Gansebom. Riley McManus performed admirably in his role as guard in acting and singing.

Then of course, we can't forget about one of the most talked about performances in all three shows, that of toto, the pet of Alexis Reinert. This dog was amazing, staying on the mark and just enhancing the highway funding bill would have entire production.

Congrats to all that took part in this fine performance. I would say having three, sold-out performances proves this community has an eye and ear for the fine arts.

Obviously I think everyone that took part in this should get some ink so I am naming the rest of the cast that weren't mentioned earlier. Megan Wherley (mayor's wife); City women, Alexis Reinert, Jenna Pieper; School teachers, JoAnn Parker, Emma Osnes; Crows, Alexis Reinert and Dillon Wieland; Trees, JoAnn Parker, Jessica Henderson and Natalie Sieler; Poppies, Sydney Harris, Sam Long, Grace Kenny, Erica Holcomb, Megan Hoffart, Hannah Gamble, Sydney Burke, McKenna Gibson; Beauticians, Megan Wherley, Danielle Hightree; is very harsh and despairing, Hairdresser, Becca Jaixen, Kenndra Dunker, Morgan Centrone; Manicurists, Aspen Pflanz, Sarah a vote. For the record, LB84 was Maxson; Polishers, Keith Hobza, advanced to second round of debate Tyler Poehlman; Oz Women, Lila Goos, Jessica VonFange, Erica

The Set Crew included: Mashayla Ruzicka, Jacob Reynolds, Jamie Belt, Gina Smith, Cassie Harm, Jamie Schmidt, Rachel Duncan, Sadie Miller, Colin Webster, Jordyn Swanson, Sami Niemann, Bryce Sebade, Katie Hoskins, Felecia Keiser, Laura Anderson, Jaci Alexander, Jason Holt, Ian Webster, Zach Rasmussen.

By the way, kudos to Sami Niemann for her flying cow imitation during the tornado. The Pit Orchestra, an under-rated part of any musical included: Ben Bruflat, Lindsi Frahm, Joe Burrows, Jillian Pierson, Garrett Zink, Lauren Calkin, Josh Calkin, Brad Weber, There are always a couple of Lucas Wickstrom, Carrie Jensen, actors that surprise and this year Anna Keough, Antoine Clark.

School, road interests clash

Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN - Taking one issue with another, there has usually been peace between two important interest groups, those being the Nebraska State Education Association and the business community at large.

With some notable exceptions, it seems to some observers (including this one) that the situation has been "Don't interfere with mine and I won't interfere with yours."

The NSEA represents teachers and some other school district

Education interests raised their eyebrows and their hackles this year, and rightly so from their position, when a plan to radically change the way the state funds highway construction projects won first-round approval from the Legislature.

Road projects are mostly funded by user fees, including the tax on motor vehicle fuels. Thus, the Department of Roads and the road-building industry didn't have reason to cross political swords with the education crowd, and vice versa. Neither hardly had to concern themselves with legislation involving the other.

However, that automatically set aside as much as $140 million every year for road projects - and it would have taken that money out of the general fund. Specifically, it would have taken it from state sales tax revenues.

That means there would have been $140 million less each year for things like state aid to schools and social services and all manner of

"Concrete versus kids" was how some opponents of the measure, sponsored by Sen. Deb Fischer of Valentine, described it.

Fischer ably engineered firstround approval of the bill.

But when the rubber hit the road, things began to change. Lawmakers who had promised a first-round "Yes" vote for the thing began to have second thoughts, many of which came from interest groups

One would be hard pressed to who didn't want the pie, from which colleagues had recently compared reputation will live for more than a imagine a reason for any interest their slice is taken, to be shrinking. her to some of the most effective little while. LB84 addresses needs for good roads

Many people are sending emails regarding LB84, the bill that - as introduced – would take one-half a cent of the sales tax revenues per year, starting in 2013, and use it to fund road repair and construction.

The tone of some of these emails inferring that I or other senators are gaining something personally out of after an eight-hour filibuster. I was present, but not voting on the bill. I will probably support the bill in the future if we have a chance to debate the issues and possibly reduce the amount of money being allocated every year.

Let me clearly state that this is not a vote for concrete versus people, but a vote to help us determine our priorities as state senators for the State of Nebraska. Many of our roads and bridges need repair. Lawsuits against the state occur and succeed when roads are not maintained and people are injured or killed while traveling on those roads and bridges.

The Legislature advanced LB305, one of the Agriculture Committee's priority bills. The bill, introduced by Sen. Tyson Larson of O'Neill, would authorize the study of LB305 and believe it will be helpful to economic development in rural Nebraska. The bill should, in time, also help with the problem of unwanted horses. Horses could be slaughtered in Nebraska with our own statewide inspection program rather than being abandoned. As amended, LB305 requires the implementing a statewide meat Department of Agriculture to issue inspection program. I support a report to legislators by Nov.

would divert money from the Environmental Trust Fund. LB229, introduced by Sen. Deb Fischer of Valentine and amended by the compromise, would direct $3.3 million from the $15 million the Environmental Trust receives annually from lottery revenues to help the Nebraska Department of Water Resources restore flows in depleted river basins. The $3.3 million from the trust would be matched with $3.3 from the general funds. $2.7 million in general funds is currently allotted, leaving an a private individual chosen by the increase of $600,000 in general funds.

This was somewhat because controversial, the Legislature is telling Environmental Trust how to spend a portion of its lottery money. That money has been distributed to environmental projects through a competitive grants process. Under the compromise, which I did support, the Department of Water Resources will apply for and receive the $3.3 million as a grant.

I have been assured that my priority bill, LB521, will advance when it comes before us again on out of the Judiciary Committee.

I do not believe governmental entities should be giving away anything that belongs to the taxpayers, especially something that can be sold and the money returned to fund other needs and possibly reduce taxes. ## Close to Home

Why do you need Wendy Vawser cooperates to sell your real estate?

Cooperation according to Wikipedia is "the process of working or acting together." When you are selling something as important as your house, you want to have the most cooperation available. Think of the old adage 'two heads are better than one!'

How does cooperation come into the real estate process? It starts with your real estate agent. Be sure to find one that cooperates with other local agents so your house's information can be accessed by buyers no matter who they call.

Can you imagine 20 people are interested in area homes similar to yours, but only 3 or 4 are given information for your home? Cooperating agents can give your home maximum exposure to potential buyers. More exposure can translate into a quicker sale

Cooperation can also mean a better sale price for you. Typically, houses that sell quicker, sell for a higher price. The longer a house sits on the market the more chance there is the seller may be forced to reduce the price. By having more agencies sharing in the information, you end up with a stronger market for selling your house sooner at a higher price.

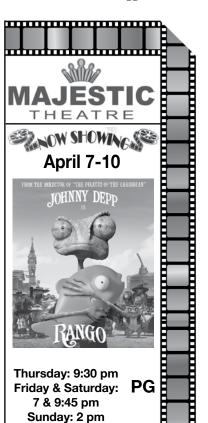

Midwest Land Co. cooperates with all local agents. Please email questions and comments to: Wendy@mwlco.net.

healthy diet, but they are perishable like raw meats, poultry and seafood. Eggs need to be refrigerated properly and safely cooked.

Once eggs are purchased, they should be taken directly home and stored in the coldest part of the refrigerator in their carton. Never leave eggs un-refrigerated for more than two hours. The same applies for decorated Easter eggs. Easter egg hunts should occur within two hours of the eggs coming out of the refrigerator or one hour if the temperature is above 90 degrees. Put them back in the refrigerator once the hunt is over.

When preparing eggs to eat, cook thoroughly until the yolks are firm. To boil eggs, place them in a saucepan big enough to hold all eggs in one layer. Cover the eggs by one inch with cold water and heat over high heat until just boiling. Remove the pan from the burner, cover it and let the eggs stand in hot water for 15 minutes, if large eggs, 12 minutes for medium eggs and 18 minutes for extra large eggs. Drain immediately and serve warm, or cool under cold running water. Then refrigerate and use within one week.

Cook casseroles and other main dishes with eggs to 160 degrees because this is the temperature at which foodborne microorganisms are killed. Check to make sure it is cooked at the correct temperature with a food thermometer. Serve those dishes immediately or put in shallow containers to cool quickly and refrigerate. Leftovers should be eaten or thrown away after three or four days.

Raw eggs should never be eaten, even if in "healthy" milk shakes, a Caesar salad, hollandaise sauce, homemade mayonnaise or ice cream. Homemade ice cream is safe if it is made with a cooked egg-milk mixture. Gently heat and make sure the mixture reaches 160 degrees.

for most Easter dinners. Ham can still contain foodborne bacteria even though it is smoked, aged or dried. As with eggs, sliced or whole ham should be stored in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Slices should be used within three to four days of being stored, and a whole ham within one week of storage.

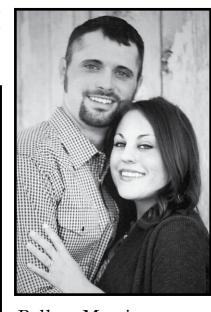

Check all labels, checking for "Best if used-by" dates. Fully cooked hams can be served hot or cold, but if reheating, do so to 140 degrees. Fresh ham, labeled "cook before eating", and other pork has to be cooked to 160 degrees. Refrigerate canned hams once opened. If storewrapped cooked hams are bought, use those portions within three to five days. To freeze a ham, wrap it tightly in freezer paper or plastic freezer bags and use within one or two months. Ham can lose flavor and texture when frozen.

Pregnant women, newborns, young children, older adults and people with weakened immune systems are at greater risk for foodborne illness.

Weekend activities continue at Praise Assembly of God Church

The Sunday services at Praise Assembly of God open with Sunday School at 9:30 a.m.

The Adult class is doing a Bible Study on the "Names and Events" which are a part of the Easter story. Last week the group began with the "Bethany Connection" and started considering Mary, Martha and Lazarus and their friendship with Jesus. The study will include the trials of Jesus, a consideration of the Last Supper, the prayer in Gethsemane, the Crucifixion and the Resurrection. It will conclude on "Resurrection Sunday", April 24.

The morning worship service at the church begins at 10:30 a.m. and includes a time of Praise and Worship led by Zach Fuoss, Ernest Bratcher and Phil Pfaltzgraff. There is always time spent in prayer for the needs of people who are present - as well as other friends and family. The interim pastor of the church, Rev. Joshua Potter of Sioux City, Iowa will deliver a very timely message. Pastor Potter and his wife will complete their time of ministry at Praise Assembly of God on April 24 (Easter Sunday).

At 4 p.m. this Sunday, Yeshua Ministries (Hispanic - bi-lingual) has their afternoon service.

At 6:30, the Evening Worship Service begins at the church with a time of worship and prayer. Phil and Sherry Pfaltzgraff have been taking turns teaching this Bible Study. Last weekend Sherry taught a lesson entitled "Against All Hope" from the story of Abraham and Sarah. This Sunday evening, Phil will begin a series of messages from the book of Amos entitled "Tidings from Tekoah". The Youth Group has their meeting at 7.

"Make plans to join us this weekend. Praise Assembly of God Church is a church family eager to share God's love and truth in this community," Pastor Potter said.

Pruning workshop, Pine Wilt, Rose pruning discussed

There will be a tree pruning workshop at the Haskell Ag Lab near Concord on Thursday, April 7 at 3 p.m.

Learn how to properly prune shade and fruit trees for optimum growth and tree health. There will also be a discussion of what new varieties of trees to plant and updates on the new tree pests; pine wilt which is already killing Scotch pine trees in the area, and emerald ash borer which is still a ways away.

Scotch pine trees killed by pine wilt should be destroyed by April 30. If a Scotch pine turned off color and then brown fairly rapidly last fall or this winter, pine wilt is the likely issue. Pine wilt is caused by a microscopic organism called the pinewood nematode.

These nematodes cannot move from tree to tree by themselves. Instead, nematodes are spread by fairly large pine sawyer beetles which can carry thousands of nematodes in their breathing holes when they fly to pine to feed.

Beetle emergence begins in May; hence the need to destroy infected trees by April 30.

Trees infected with pine wilt cannot be saved. After cutting the tree down, the wood can be burned, buried or chipped for use as mulch. Do not save the wood for firewood. Also, be aware there are no new pesticide controls for pine wilt. Products aimed at controlling the beetle or applied to the soil are not effective in stopping pine wilt.

While some hardier roses can be pruned in March, most rose growers wait until just before or as new growth is beginning to prune roses. Waiting until April helps reduce the risk of cold temperature injury that may occur as a result of too early pruning.

On all roses, first prune out all winter killed canes. Dead canes are easy to identify as they turn dark brown or black. Remove these canes by making an angled pruning cut just above the nearest outward facing healthy bud. Shrub roses require very little pruning. Once winter killed canes are removed, thinning by removing some of the canes smaller than pencil diameter, criss-crossing canes, and canes too densely arranged within the crown is about all that needs to be

Focus pruning on shade trees, fruit trees, and summer blooming shrubs, but wait until roses just begin to grow to prune them.

Learning about rugby

It's Monday evening, and I have to take my mom to the doctor in the morning, so I'd better write a few lines and get them to Clara so she will have them when she gets to work in the morning.

The Big Farmer is watching the Butler-UConn basketball game. Who would have guessed that they would be playing for the championship? Once again, Kansas was knocked out. And, last night, the Texas A&M gals put Stanford in their place, and Notre Dame defeated the perennial powerhouse UConn women. The Big Dance has been very unusual this year!

But I'm thinking about rugby! When 90 teams descend on Wayne, America, it must have been quite a sight! And this past weekend was a regional final. Darin Barner has done a tremendous job of making rugby important in northeast Nebraska. And we remember when Darin was just a little guy in Sunday School at St. Paul's in

He's quoted in last week's paper as saying the team they played this weekend had a "short scrum." I asked Mike what a scrum was;

movie. Morgan Freeman is an accomplished actor, and I felt he captured a lot of Mandela's mannerisms. When I think of all those years in prison, and then trying to unite South Africa as its president,

But the rugby scenes made me shudder, too! It looks awfully rough! Apparently, Matt Damon is not very big, and they had to use the camera to make him look literally "larger than life." They did a great job. But he was bleeding and bruised an awful lot of the time.

And they don't wear pads! When they line up in those "scrums" and push back and forth, I can feel my muscles hurting. And, of course, there is all that running, up and down the field. It must be exhausting. If we are ever in Wayne during a rugby game, we hope to take it in; maybe we can learn something.

And, by the way, I learned that the term Invictus is Latin and the lines "I am the master of my fate, I am the captain of my soul" come from a poem by that name. It was

ANNUAL WATER QUALITY REPORT FOR CITY OF WAYNE - FOR THE PERIOD OF JANUARY 1 TO DECEMBER 31, 2009

This report is intended to provide you with important information about your drinking water and the efforts made by the City Of Wayne water system to provide safe drinking water Para Clientes Que Hablan Español: Este informe contiene información muy importante sobre el aqua que usted bebe. Tradúzcalo ó hable con alquien que lo entienda bien.

For more information regarding this report, contact: Jeffrey J Brady, 402-375-5250 If you would like to observe the decision-making processes that affect drinking water quality, please attend the regularly scheduled meeting of the Village Board/City Council. If you would like to participate in the process, please contact the Village/City Clerk to arrange to be placed on the agenda of the meeting of the Village Board/City Council.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that was a small amounts of some contaminants. poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the EPA's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791 Source Water Assessment Availability:

The Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality (NDEQ) has completed the Source Water Assessment. Included in the assessment is a Wellhead Protection Area map, potential contamina or NDEQ at (402) 471-6988. In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and groundwater wells. As water travels over the surface of the land of through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity

The source of water used by City Of Wayne is ground water Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

mining, or farming Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses

Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas statio

Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities

Drinking Water Health Notes:

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791). Infants and young children are typically more vulnerable to lead in drinking water than the general population. It is possible that lead levels at your home may be higher than at other homes in the community as a result of materials used in your home's plumbing. If you are concerned about elevated lead levels in your home's water, you may wish to have your water tested. Flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using your tap water will clear the line of any lead that may have leached into the water while the line was idle. Additional information is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791) or the Department of Health and Human Services/Division of Public Health/Office of Drinking Water (402-471-2541). Therefore, some of this data may be more than one year old.

MCL (Maximum Contaminant Level): The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology MCLG (Maximum Contaminant Level Goal): The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health.
