Cleanup crews pick up the debris left behind in Carroll after straight-line winds of up to 70 mph caused damage throughout the community Sunday evening.

High winds do damage in Carroll

Wayne County emergency officials said no injuries were reported after high winds caused damage in Carroll on Sunday evening.

According to a Wayne County Emergency Management press release, at about 7 p.m. Sunday, a severe thunderstorm caused damage in northwestern Wayne County. The village of Carroll sustained high winds and several trees received major damage.

About 50 to 75 volunteers met with local officials, and in about four hours the trees and their remains were taken to a local tree dump. The volunteers came from within the village of Carroll, Winside and local government entities with chainsaws and payloaders, and area farmers came with tractors and loaders.

No injuries were reported at the time of the thunderstorm and while power remained in use for most areas of the county, the Public Power District answered several outage calls.

Wayne County Emergency Management and other officials are continuing their assessment of damages to northeastern Wayne County for heavy rain damage and its effect on country roads in that area.

Emergency management officials credited the speedy assessment and recovery to assistance from the Carroll Fire Department, the Winside Fire Department, the Wayne County Sheriff's Office and all three Wayne County Commissioner road districts, and the numerous volunteers that donated time and effort to assist in the process.

Options are available to preserve history of Wayne's downtown area

Approximately 20 people were on hand to listen to a presentation on Preserving Community Heritage hosted by Revitalize Wayne/Main Street.

Bob Puschendorf with the Nebraska State Historical Society spoke to the group of interested persons during a meeting on Tuesday in Wayne.

Those in attendance spoke on their interest in being at the meeting, keeping the town vital and economically vibrant, as well as working to preserve the historic aspects of Main Street.

Puschendorf told those in attendance that obtaining a Certified Local Government (CLG) designation would allow the community to apply for grant funding through the Nebraska State Historical Society, which is administered by the National Parks Service.

CLG supports projects in the community such as walking tour brochures, feasibility studies and design guidelines for downtowns and neighborhoods.

Puschendorf said that a survey of historic buildings in Wayne was completed in 2000, but has not been updated since that time. He said that while driving through several neighborhoods in the community, he felt additional buildings could be added to the list.

With a CLG designation, a community would have the authority to determine historic district use and that buildings within the district are eligible for a federal investment tax credit for both historic preservation and rehabilitation when income-producing property is restored.

In addition, a Valuation Incentive Program (VIP) allow business property, as well as privately owned property, to have a freeze on valuation from the date of renovation for a period of eight years, followed by a gradual increase in valuation during the next four years.

Puschendorf presented a list of requirements for a city to become a Certified Local Government community.

These include creating a city ordinance for this purpose; establishing a historic preservation commission; maintaining a survey of historic property and providing for public participation in the local program.

Benefits of such a designation include the availability of grant money for projects, technical assistance from the Historical Society, commenting on property for the National Register of Historic Places and qualifying properties for VIP assistance.

Car show, poker run part of Chicken Show finale

It's time to rev up your motors for the 31st Annual Wayne Chicken Show.

No, not just to get to town, but to participate in the Car Show and Poker Run held on Sunday, July 10.

Both events, as well as a cookout featuring burgers and brats, will be held at the Wayne National Guard Armory, due to runway construction at the Wayne Municipal Airport.

The annual Car Show, presented at the Armory located on East Highway 35 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., welcomes all vehicles at absolutely no cost or required pre-registration. Prizes will also be awarded on spectator vote.

"It's open to all vehicles, no matter what they look like," car show coordinator Kirk Sommerfield said. "Just bring in what you have."

Spectator voting will determine the winner in several categories.

The "Last Cluck" Poker Run will green light at 1 p.m., with registration beginning at 12 p.m. All vehicles, including car show participants, are welcome to take part. Those interested in the Poker Run are encouraged to arrive early and show off their bikes, cars or trucks in the Car Show.

"The first year, we had over 75 entries, and we traveled to Stanton, Norfolk, Pierce, Randolph and back to Wayne," poker run coordinator Mick Kemp said. "I always like to go somewhere some people might not normally go, so this year we decided that Decatur would be one of our stops so everyone could see how the Missouri River flood

Board approves bids for renovation of school buildings

BY CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

In a special meeting of the Wayne Community Schools' Board of Education, a bid was approved for the remodeling and renovation of the Wayne High School and Wayne Middle School.

When bids for the project were opened on June 9, they were considerably higher than anticipated. At the June 13 regular meeting, the board asked Jon Carlson of Carlson, West Provonda, the architect for the project, to look into areas that could be changed or eliminated to reduce the total cost of the project.

Carlson, school superintendent Mark Lenihan and several members of the building committee met with Holtze Construction of Sioux City, Iowa, the low bidder for the project to determine what could be changed.

After this meeting, it was determined that approximately $293,000 could be saved by eliminating the plaza court, canopy, outside lighting and security system in the project.

The group involved with the project felt that several other items that were bid as alternates to the project should be added in at this time, because completing them with the project would save the district money by not having to complete them individually. These include work on the kindergarten bathrooms at the middle school, a fire sprinkler in the locker rooms and fire sprinklers in the high school. The additions will add approximately $208,000 to the project.

Funding will come from several different sources, including $4,119,064 from Build America Bonds, $40,000 from the district's depreciation funds for replacement window costs, $55,000 from reimburseable stimulus funds the district received, $430,000 from the district special building fund and $33,936 from the district's general fund.

In addition to the construction costs, $199,900 will be spent on equipment for the kitchen. The low bid for the equipment was from Strategic Equipment of St. Cloud, Minn.

The board also approved the hiring of Heidi Thompson as a sixth grade teacher. She will replace Jill Pickenpaugh, who

Police hearing dates are set for September

BY MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

The hearing for two police officers who were terminated two months ago will not be held until after Labor Day.

The Wayne Herald received word late Monday afternoon that the Civil Service Commission will tentatively hear the case against two terminated Wayne Police Department officers – Chief Lance Webster and Lt. Phil Shear – beginning Tuesday, Sept. 6.

The hearing is expected to last through Friday, Sept. 9. It is not known if a decision would be made at that point, or if it would fall into the following week.

Scott Norby, special counsel for the commission, said a notice of hearing was to be submitted this week.

"It's been a challenge to find dates that work for everybody," he told the Herald.

Norby said that subpoenas are being issued, and depositions will be taken beginning in early July. Norby couldn't say how many subpoenas had been issued, but said more than 20 have already been submitted.

"A good number of subpoenas have been issued, and we're looking to issue some more," he said. "The parties have to produce documents responsive to the subpoenas by July 6, and we'll schedule depositions from there."

Norby said he figures the deposition process will last "well into August," but did not know how many they would ultimately take.

Webster and Shear were suspended in February by city administrator Lowell Johnson for a variety of accusations, and were formally fired from their jobs two months later. Both officers appealed their terminations to the local Civil Service Commission board.

A wall of mist

Onlookers at Gavins Point Dam couldn't help but be showered by a continuous wall of mist as water rushed through the dam last week. The Army Corps of Engineers recently increased the flow from the dam to 160,000 cubic feet per second, resulting in widespread flooding along the Missouri River in western Iowa and eastern Nebraska. Several major roads, including parts of Interstate 29, have been closed due to the flooding, which is expected to continue well into August.

Nebraska ranks first in the nation in properly and accurately processing denials, suspensions or terminations of benefits for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) distribution, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). SNAP was formerly called 'food stamps.'

Nebraska has had a "zero" negative error rate going back as far as 2006.

Approval was given to the 2011-2012 negotiated agreement for teachers in the district. The agreement will set the base salary at $30,350 for the upcoming school year, which is an increase of $350. Also included in the negotiated contract is a change in insurance benefits to include preventative care without a co-payment. This will result in a 0.5 percent increase in insurance costs to the district.

State college board modifies credit hours for graduation

Nebraska State College System (NSCS) Chancellor Stan Carpenter announced that the NSCS Board of Trustees approved a board policy modification at its June meeting designed to improve students' ability to graduate in four years and reduce debt load.

The key changes are to reduce the number of credit hours needed to graduate from 125 to 120 and to reduce the number of credit hours required for general education. The policy will now require faculty and administrators at Chadron, Peru and Wayne State Colleges to design their undergraduate degree programs based on 120 credits with a maximum of 42 credit hours required in general education.

The proposed policy changes have been widely discussed at the three colleges and the college presidents and chief academic officers were instrumental in designing the new requirements. The change made in the credit hour requirement will be implemented in such a way to ensure that NSCS academic programs retain their excellence and that NSCS graduates will be well prepared to join the workforce.

Any exceptions to the 120 credit hour requirement must be approved by the NSCS Board of Trustees. Programs that require more than 120 credit hours because of specific accrediting body standards will be exempt from the new limits. Accordingly, several teacher education programs will be exempt from the policy due to the requirements established by the Nebraska Department of Education. Students earning a degree in accounting who plan to become a certified public accountant will also enroll in a program requiring more than 120 credits hours for graduation.

NSCS Chancellor Stan Carpenter, who currently serves on the steering committee of the P-16 Initiative in Nebraska, said, "We want students to successfully complete college and enter the workforce in a timely manner, without compromising the quality of their education. Faculty and administrators are willing to examine new ways of looking at the curriculum and instructional delivery methods. Changing the graduation requirements will address the issue of "time to graduation" which has been a national discussion."

Chadron, Peru and Wayne State Colleges join the ranks of many colleges and universities around the country in establishing a 120 credit hour graduation requirement, which will reduce the cost of earning a degree.

While the average debt load for a student graduating from one of the Nebraska State Colleges is considerably less than the national average, further reducing it greatly benefits students.

From The Bleachers

Tough road for softball this season

It's hard to believe that the fall high school sports season is just six weeks away, but The Bleacher Bum is already looking ahead to the coming school year and was hit with some rather interesting, and disappointing, news.

The Nebraska School Activities Association recently came out with its classifications for the non-football sports, and Wayne High's softball team is going to find the road to Hastings to be a bit more bumpy this season.

The Blue Devils are the second smallest school in Class B, according to the classifications the NSAA put out on its website recently. The school's three-year enrollment total of 212 makes Wayne the 39th out of 40 Class B schools, and the number is three more than Cass County Central, which is the biggest of the 41 Class C schools (only 39 schools will compete in Class B, as North Platte, the largest of the B-classified schools, is opting up to Class A).

Even more interesting is that Wayne will fall into the same district as two-time defending Class B champion Blair, who handed Wayne its only regular-season loss last year. Coupled with a predominantly-Class C schedule, coach Rob Sweetland and his team — which will be loaded with talent this year — will have a very challenging road to get back to state for the ninth time in 10 years.

That's not to say this team can't make it to state as a district champion. Wayne has eight of its nine starters back from last year's 28-3 team, and most of the players have been part of the 16-under Dirt Devils team that was 24-5 going into this weekend's Ringneck Invitational in Sioux Falls (and doing it without pitching ace Cass Miller, who is playing on a select team in Omaha this summer). This is a team that would be the runaway favorite for a title in Class C this year, and they are capable of making a dent in the Class B team race as well if they can post a good enough record for a wild card or knock off the two-time defending Class B champions in the district finals.

While the news is rough for softball, cross country and girls golf will have smoother waters to encounter this fall.

The girls golf team has everybody back from a team that qualified for state last year and finished fourth. Word is that Wayne will host its district this year and should draw a fairly easy district, with Norfolk Catholic the only team with enough depth to compete for a district title.

Wayne is the second-largest Class C school, which keeps the Blue Devils in a position where they could compete with Columbus Scotus, Boone Central and Doniphan for the team title.

Wayne's cross country team is among the 10 largest Class C schools coming into the fall season, and it will be interesting to see where both teams stack up in what should be a competitive field this fall. They will be back in the same district as Columbus Scotus, Pierce and Boone Central, among others. Last year's district team races were pretty close, but if Wayne's depth comes through, both teams should earn a return trip to Kearney this October.

It seems strange to be discussing high school sports before the Fourth of July. But mark your calendars — first practice for football, girls golf and softball is Aug. 8, with cross country and volleyball starting one week later.

I hope you've had an opportunity to catch the video version of this column every week on our Web site at mywaynenews.com.

A new edition goes out every Thursday, and I would encourage you to send an e-mail to me at sports@wayneherald.com and let me know what you think.

Big plays lead to victories

Late-inning heroics result in wins over Chadron, Wakefield

Big plays were the order of the day for the Wayne American Legion Seniors, who won three exciting games this past week to improve to 13-3 on the season.

On Thursday, the Seniors won both ends of a doubleheader with Chadron in exciting fashion, getting walk-off plays to post wins of 4-3 and 7-6 at Hank Overin Field.

The visitor scored three runs in the top of the fifth inning to take a 3-0 lead, but Wayne battled back with a two-run single by Taylor Carroll in the fifth and an RBI hit by Trent Beza in the sixth to make it a 3-3 game.

That set the stage for some late-game heroics for Wayne. Frank Bernal led off with a single and moved to second on Joey Lenihan's sacrifice. Bernal moved to third on a wild pitch, setting the stage for Mason Wren, who came through with a suicide squeeze bunt that brought the fleet-footed Bernal home with the game-winning run.

Bernal scored two runs in the win and was the battery mate to Gage Rethwisch, who gutted out a complete-game seven-hitter, striking out six.

Chadron again took the lead early in the nightcap of the twinbill, touching Lenihan for four first-inning runs.

Wayne chipped away at the Chadron lead, taking a 5-4 lead in the fourth. The game went back and forth and the two teams were tied 6-6 going into the bottom of the seventh.

Miles Anderson led off the inning with a walk, and Beza reached base after being hit by a pitch. Alex Onnen sacrificed the runners along, and Jacob Zeiss was walked intentionally to load the bases.

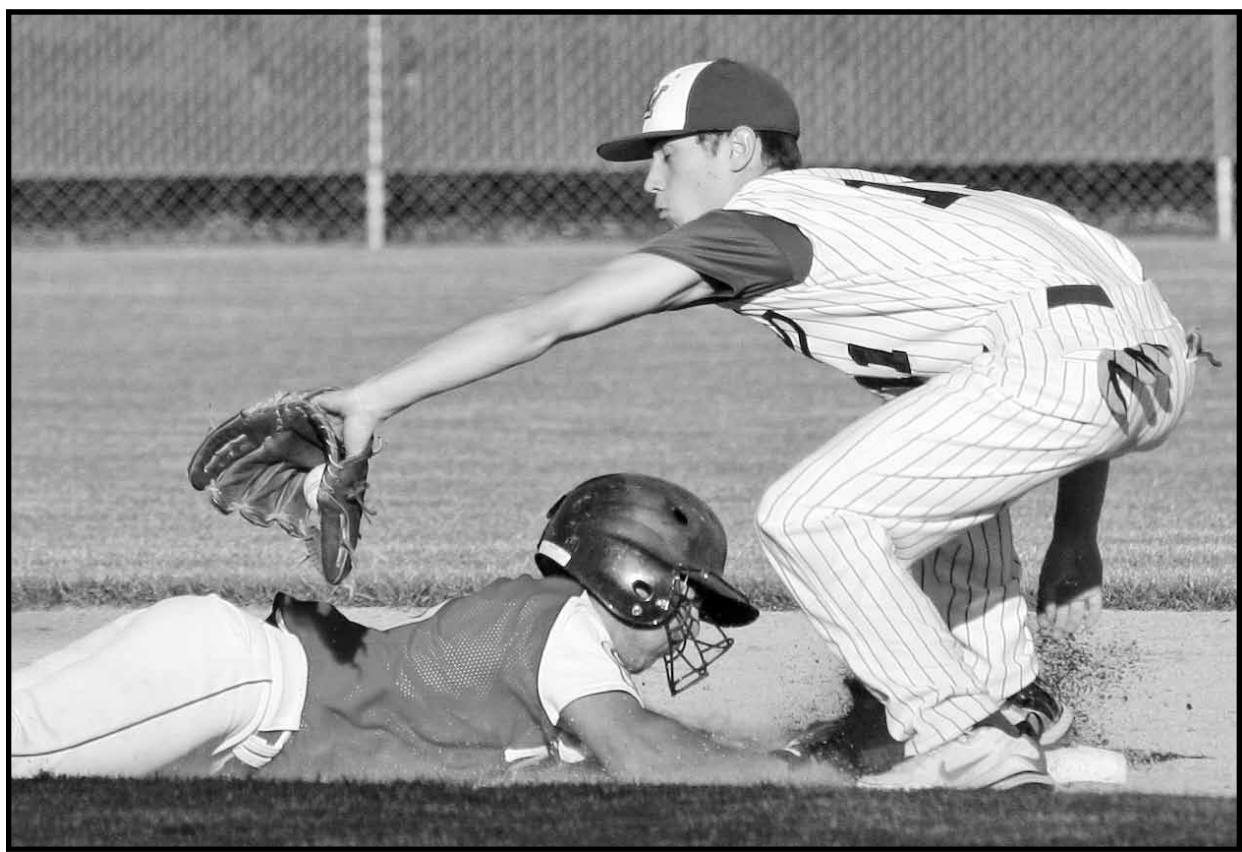

Coach Jeff Zeiss said the team was getting ready to pull the suicide squeeze play a second time, but the Chadron pitcher balked before delivering a pitch to Carroll, and the balk brought Anderson home with the winning run.

Beza, Zeiss and Bernal each had two hits in the win, while Anderson and Tony Sinniger each scored two runs. Lenihan pitched well after the slow start, going three innings before Sinniger came on to get the win in relief.

On Friday night, the Seniors got a key hit from Zeiss in the top of the fifth, breaking a 1-1 tie and allowing Wayne to come away with a 3-1 win at Wakefield.

Trent Beza tripled and scored on an Alex Onnen single in the top of the first. Wakefield answered with a run of their own in the bottom of the inning, and the two teams traded zeros until the fifth.

With two on and two out, Zeiss lined a double into the gap in left center, bringing Beza and Onnen home to break the 1-1 tie and give Wayne a sweep over Wakefield for the summer.

Beza came through with a solid effort on the mound, striking out six and scattering seven hits and three walks to earn the win.

"Trent pitched very well for us, and we played pretty good defense behind him," the elder Zeiss said.

The Wayne Seniors are scheduled to play Pierce at home on Friday, and will compete in a wooden bat tournament Saturday in Central City. They play the host team at 11 a.m., followed by a matchup with U-Save at 1:30 p.m.

Victoria Kranz, shown in action earlier this season, had several key hits for the Dirt Devils 16-under team as they went 2-2 and finished in seventh place in the Class A state softball tournament last weekend in Hastings.

Dirt Devils 16-under team goes 2-2 at state tourney

The Wayne Dirt Devils 16-under softball team battled some tough competition and came away with a seventh-place finish in the 20-team Class A state softball tournament over the weekend in Hastings.

Wayne opened the tournament with a 9-3 win over Fairbury on Friday, coming back from an early two-run deficit.

Wayne tied the game with single runs in the third and fourth innings. Megan Hoffart singled and scored on a Hannah Gamble hit, and Victoria Kranz singled and scored on McKenna Gibson's sacrifice fly to make it 2-2.

Wayne broke the game open in the fifth, scoring three runs. An RBI single by Kranz and a sacrifice by Jalyn Zeiss helped break the tie. Wayne extended their lead in the seventh with four runs, highlighted by a two-run single by Emily Leeper and a two-run double by Gibson.

Wayne faced the Lincoln Nemesis on Saturday and came up on the short end of a defensive struggle, losing 6-1. Wayne had five hits in the game, with Kranz recording a pair of hits and Zeiss coming up with a triple. Wayne's only run of the game came on a bases-loaded walk in the seventh.

Wayne faced Fairbury in a rematch later Saturday, eliminating the Fusion with a 6-2 victory.

Once again, Wayne trailed 2-0 early in the game, but took the lead for good with three in the fourth and two more in the fifth. Courtney Davie's RBI double highlighted the go-ahead surge in the fourth, and Davie came through with a two-run double in the fifth to put the game out of reach.

Some unfortunate plays late in the game ended Wayne's tournament run, as they lost a 5-4 heartbreaker to St. Paul on Sunday.

Wayne had a great opportunity to score in the fifth inning. Trailing 5-3, Wayne had the tying runs in scoring position with nobody out when Leeper hit a line drive that the left fielder made a diving catch on.

Both runners had not tagged up on what they thought was going to be an extra-base hit, and St. Paul finished off a triple play to get out of the threat.

Wayne had another chance to do damage late in the game. They had scored a run and had runners on first and third with two out. Caitlin Fehringer hit a line drive to the right side, but the ball struck Gibson as she tried to advance, ending Wayne's last scoring threat.

The 24-5 Dirt Devils will play in the 32-team Ringneck Invitational this weekend in Sioux Falls, S.D. The tournament includes teams from seven states and Canada. They will play in round-robin play Friday and Saturday before going into a single-elimination tournament on Sunday.

One streak ends, another begins for Wayne Juniors

The Wayne American Legion Juniors lost their first game of the summer last week, but bounced back to start a new winning streak.

On Wednesday, the Juniors dropped the first game of a doubleheader at Albion, losing the first game 5-1.

Albion limited Wayne to five hits in the game and kept the visitors off the scoreboard until the seventh, when Jordan Backer brought Corey Doorlag home with a base hit.

Doorlag pitched five innings in the first game, allowing five hits and four walks while striking out five.

Wayne's bats came to life in the nightcap of the doubleheader, as Wayne pounded out 11 hits and racked up a 10-1 win over Albion.

Wayne got on the board early with three quick runs, then added two more in the third and fourth and three in the fifth to salvage the split. Doorlag had three hits, while Drew Carrol and Danny Melena each had two hits and two runs scored. Carrol pitched well on the mound, striking out six and allowing five hits in five innings to get the win.

After starting the year with 12 straight wins, Wayne got another streak started on Friday, breaking a scoreless tie and pulling away late for a 10-1 win at Wakefield.

The game was scoreless until Wayne came through with two runs in the fourth inning. They broke it open with five more in the fifth, then put the game away with three in the sixth.

Doorlag and Backer each had triples in the game. Doorlag had three RBIs, Brady Soden scored three runs and Tyler Robinson had

Pee Wees shut out Pierce

The Wayne Pee Wee Blue baseball team posted a big shutout over Pierce and lost a couple of close matchups last week.

On Thursday, Wayne scored early and often in posting a 14-0 shutout over Pierce. They put up four runs in each of the first three innings and rode solid defense and good pitching to the easy win.

Offensively, Tyler Lutt had three hits and Payten Gamble and Michael Kniesch each added two hits to a 10-hit attack. Lutt had two doubles and scored three runs, while Gamble and Will Anderson both came home twice. Lucas Longe, Tucker Nichols and Caden Korth also had hits.

On the mound, Anderson went the distance in the five-inning game, scattering four hits and two walks while striking out six.

The Blue squad lost a couple of tough games in the Mid-Summer Classic, falling to Emerson and Tri County.

On Friday, Emerson came from behind to score four runs in the seventh and squash a Wayne comeback with a 9-8 victory.

Wayne trailed 5-2 after four innings, but scored three to tie the game in the fifth and added three more in the top of the seventh before Emerson made its final comeback.

Gamble had two hits, while Long, Korth and Lutt added safeties for Wayne. Lutt and Korth combined on the mound, striking out seven in the losing effort.

Wayne took an early lead on Tri County, but a five-run second inning helped Tri County pull away with an 8-1 win to eliminate Wayne from the tournament.

Gamble had a good night at the plate, recording three hits. Lutt scored the team's only run. Gamble struck out three and allowed seven hits on the mound.

The Wayne Pee Wee Blue team is 5-3 on the season.

Dirt Devils 10-unders earn 9-4 victory over West Point

The Wayne Dirt Devils 10-under softball team had no problems with West Point last week, posting a 9-4 win in action Wednesday at the Wayne Softball Complex.

The Dirt Devils got solid pitching from Tori Kniesche and Katelyn Grone, who combined to shut down the West Point offense.

Grone had a single and a double, and Abby Ankeny added a pair of hits to help the Wayne cause offensively. Ankeny and Kniesche both scored twice and Allison Clausen added a hit in the win.

Dirt Devils 12-under fall 11-0 at Scribner

It was a rough night for the Wayne Dirt Devils 12-under softball team Tuesday, as the Scribner Red Rippers jumped on the locals early and came away with an 11-0 win.

Wayne was held without a hit in the road game, as Scribner's pitching and defense kept the Dirt Devil bats in check throughout the contest. Only three runners reached base on a walk, with Danica Schaefer getting to third in the fourth inning before a strikeout and groundout left her stranded.

Scribner jumped on the Dirt Devils early, scoring six runs in the first inning. They added a single run in the second and two more in the third and fourth innings to end the game on the eight-run mercy rule.

The Dirt Devils are 18-8 on the season. They will compete in the Class B state tournament this weekend in Lincoln. The tournament was originally scheduled to be in South Sioux City, but was moved due to the flooding.

Seminar offers insights into Biblical history

My word, here it is, almost the end of June already! The first day of summer was just a week ago, and the weather has actually been rather nice; except, of course, the frequent rain and tornado warnings. We did have hail last night, and another three inches we did not really need. At least, the fellow who waters the grass in our association has not been busy. But, the folks East of us surely do not want more moisture!

Our church offered an all-day seminar last Saturday, featuring Dr. Paul Maier, a professor of history at Western Michigan University. In fact, at age 80, he is retiring because, he says, instead of being a professor of ancient history, he was now the ancient professor of history! But, wow, for that age, he is amazing.

He presents archeological discoveries in such an entertaining fashion, you can't help being interested. I had heard him at that LLL convention last summer, and the hour went by all too quickly. So did this day. And he was on his feet the entire time. And, best of all, there was no power point!

His topic was one he has obviously presented many times before, Jesus of Nazareth, What Else Do We Know? And, he postulates that say that, as a matter of fact, there is. He wrote it! When I went to the book table to buy it, it was already sold out.

 By: Pat Meierhenry

So, of course, I've been doing Internet searches this weekend. I had not known that James, the half-brother of Christ, who was also called James the Just, was the first Christian bishop. On Wikipedia, it goes into great detail about all the men named James in those times, and suggests he could even have been a cousin or just a good friend. Regardless, he was the first bishop. I had not ever heard that. He died 29 years to the day after Good Friday, by stoning by the Sanhedrin.

They have shown that the Nativity occurred in 6 BC, which means that the calendar devised from his birth is wrong by six years. And he enlightens us regarding the Magi, who probably came from Babylon, the modern day Baghdad. How did they know about the prophecies regarding a king of the Jews? Well, Babylon was where the Jewish people were exiled and when the majority returned home, many rabbis and learned men stayed.

You get the idea. He spoke for over four hours; we had good coffee breaks and an hour long lunch, and

I could have listened for another four hours. I took lots of notes, but they do not capture his entertaining style and little asides. It all makes me want to take a trip to the Holy Land with him, and actually see some of the discoveries they have made.

Oh, by the way, he writes fiction, too. The one I have read is called the Skeleton in God's Closet and is fascinating. All in all, it was a shame we were indoors on a beautiful day in summer, but it was well worth it. Of course, I will be spending more money on books, but that is not necessarily a bad thing, right?

Meanwhile, it's on to the CWS finals. Marlyce is urging me to root for the Gators, and dear brother Jim says the Gamecocks are going to win back to back. I don't care; I just wish the Huskers could get back to it. The new ballpark does look great on TV. And the paper sounds like the fans have had a good time. I'm glad, because the whole move from Rosenblatt has been tough for a lot of folks. On the total scale of important things, it isn't very high, but it was emotional. And our emotions do get the best of us sometimes. And that's a whole nother column.

Vets' Corner

By BRADLEY K. WIELAND
 Wayne County Vets Services Officer

The topic of this month's article is about the VA Home in Norfolk.

The Veterans' Home is located at 600 East Benjamin Avenue and is run by Jerry Eisenhauer. I visited the home last month and was left with the impression that our veterans are in very excellent hands.

The Veterans' Home was first opened in 1963 and was moved to its current location in 2001. The facility has a total capacity of 151 beds including the following breakdown: 30 DOM Unit beds; 30 special needs beds; 10 advance palliative care beds and 81 skilled nursing beds.

The building is broken down into seven pods, with each pod serving individual needs of the Veterans. There is a dining facility in each pod, and all the Vets do is show up and their food is waiting for them on the table. There is also a TV room located in a pod for those residents who don't have one, or when a family comes to visit. Each pod has its own nursing station to give everyone immediate attention as needed.

The question you, the readers, are most concerned about is cost, I'm guessing.

The cost of going to the VA Home is based on your financial status. They will figure in your annual income, plus any assets that you might have. There is a formula which is used to figure your monthly costs. The VA Home works a little differently than other private facilities because the costs are fixed, after they are set. The monthly rent can only go down if your financial situation changes.

Getting in the VA Home is not automatic, as there is a waiting list for each pod, but your application is good for two years after you are accepted. I know a gentleman who was number 36 on the list and the 35 people ahead of him turned the Home down when they were called. He got in and loves being there, as he was ready to go into the facility.

I suggest you go to the VA website if you want more information or call me and come up to my office and will run you through the entire process.

I am now going to change the subject and discuss my challenge I put out to Wayne County residents in my first article. I stated that if we served 150 people at the Club for either breakfast or fish and chicken, I would get my head shaved on Henoween.

Well, be downtown around 6:30 p.m. on Friday night, July 8 and watch Doug Sturm do his thing on my head. Oh, well!!!!

The other topic I want to address is our American Legion baseball team. I would welcome parents, players and coaches to come down to the Club during our feedbags and discuss baseball. Tell us about your record, who is hot at the plate and what are your chances of going to state.

Good News: We collected 97 names to be added to the Veterans' Memorial, and they should be on the Wall by Chicken Days. The new names will be inscribed on the south wall when you are looking for them. We have already started a new list for 2010 if your loved one's name is currently not on the list. See ya at the Club.

Some pro players would go broke

Before you spend the long holiday weekend lighting fireworks, barbecuing, and enjoying your favorite beverage, check out a special Fourth of July purging of the "Bits and Pieces" file:

From the "Don't think the Steinbrenners aren't looking into this" department: players on the Ukrainian soccer team Dynamo Kiev are expected to win soccer matches. Their ownership is so demanding, in fact, that they fine their players for the insubordinate act of losing matches.

Just think of what might happen if this was done in pro sports leagues in this country . . . members of the Detroit Lions would have to take a part-time job at the Home Depot.

For those of you who think your local government officials are cold, callous jerks, the folks in Bethesda, Md., can do you one better: the county inspector fined the parents of two kids $500 for committing the unthinkable crime of operating a lemonade stand.

The two kids were using the money they made to donate it to cancer research, but the county inspector, who was cracking down on those who were vending without a license during the U.S. Open golf tournament, refused to recognize what a dimwit she was being when she fined the kids' parents.

County officials later realized what morons they were acting like and allowed the kids to reopen the stand, providing it was set up 100 feet from the intersection it was originally located at. The fine was also waived.

Evidently, flatulence is illegal in West Virginia.

That's the assumption I'm getting from a story out of South

Charleston, where a man was charged with battery after passing gas and fanning it toward a police officer who had just arrested him for driving under the influence.

The man was brought into the station after failing field sobriety tests. As the officer was preparing things back at the office, the man lifted his leg and broke wind in the officer's direction.

I'd hate to think what might have happened had the guy picked his nose and flicked it at the officer. Would that be felonious assault with a deadly booger?

And finally, from the "Damn the facts . . . let's insert the whole foot" department: Michele Bachmann kicked off her campaign for President of the United States this week with a doozy of a gaffe.

During her kickoff speech in her hometown of Waterloo, Iowa, she invoked the name of movie legend and American hero John Wayne.

"Well, what I want them to know is just like, John Wayne was from Waterloo, Iowa, that's the kind of spirit that I have, too."

Well, there's one problem — John Wayne is from Winterset, Iowa, a good three-hour drive away from Waterloo (Bachmann's supporters are already spinning that John Wayne's parents were from Waterloo).

There is a John Wayne with actual ties to Waterloo, though. John Wayne Gacy served an 18-month sentence after an attempted homosexual assault, his first conviction before he moved to Illinois and became one of the nation's most noted mass murderers before he was convicted in 1980 and executed in 1994.

But, hey, why let the facts get in the way?

Thanks to WSC for hosting visit

On June 22, a team of University of Nebraska Medical Center senior leaders visited Wayne during a community meeting as part of a two-day, four-community visit to northeast Nebraska. The trip included other stops in Fremont, West Point and Norfolk. During the trip our team spoke at events hosted by local organizations.

We would like to thank the following individuals for their help in organizing our visit: Curt Frye, president, Wayne State College and Robin Labenz, Wayne State College.

The visit gave us an opportunity to share exciting new initiatives and provide an update about UNMC's progress toward its goal of becoming a world-class academic health sciences center. It also gave people a chance to ask questions and share ideas on how UNMC can better serve the needs of Wayne.

UNMC has seen tremendous success in education, research and patient care. About 85 percent of our students come from Nebraska. We are grateful for what the community does for our students and residents while they are learning in your community. We are committed to making sure the world-class resources we have here are available no matter where in Nebraska one lives. Everything we do is done on behalf of Nebraska.

Thank you for your support.

Floods connect with 2012 race?

By ED HOWARD
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — And then came the floods.

Not just floods. We're talking floods, which threatened eastern Nebraska's two nuclear power plants.

Now, think about the 2012 Legislature and the 2012 Senate race.

Yeah, yeah, yeah. A reader might ask: "Does everything relate to Nebraska's 2012 Senate race, and the biggest-ever Republican push to keep Democrat Ben Nelson from capturing a third term?"

Actually, everything more important than the changing of a traffic light pretty much does or can influence that nationally significant contest. A contest in which most of you can have a voice.

Did the Army Corps of Engineers do things correctly? Did Nelson raise the right questions, and the right amount of sternly expressed concern for the citizenry and business and interest groups ad nauseam?

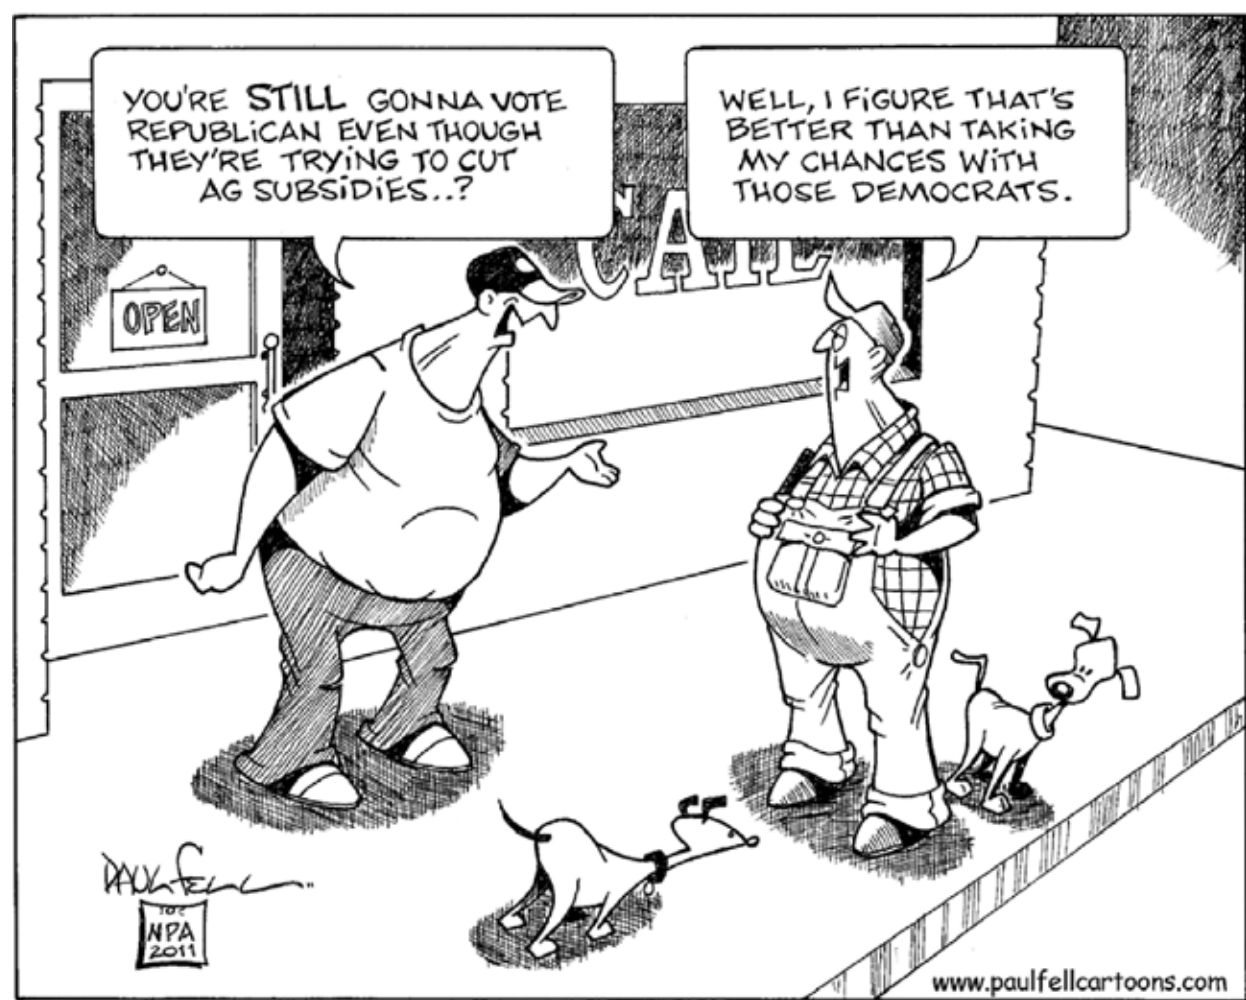

You can be sure those questions will be answered different ways in different corners. But only voters can give the answers.

A reader of the Lincoln Journal-Star recently questioned, rhetorically and sarcastically, whether master political writer Don Walton should find something else to report on. It was an example of a reader who reads, but clearly doesn't comprehend.

Nebraska's Senate race, your Senate race, might well decide whether Republicans take control of the upper house.

It's hard to imagine a bigger political/governmental deal for this state.

Nelson is regarded as the most conservative Democrat in the Senate. But he has not gone so far as to support GOP lawmakers who would reduce Social Security payments, Medicare benefits and otherwise unleash a meat axe attitude toward the national spending plan. Such would include repeal of revisions in the national healthcare system, spearheaded by President Obama.

Remember Reagan?

It was surprising to converse recently with a very longtime Nebraska Republican, with longstanding conservative credentials, who believed recent proposals for reducing the American/Russian nuclear arsenals was a load of liberal codswallop, or balderdash, at the least.

Reagan was the beloved of Nebraska voters, and during his presidency he regularly called for abolishing "all nuclear weapons."

In his memoir (which is quite readable) he wrote: "I never let my dream of a nuclear-free world fade from my mind."

He referred to nukes as "totally irrational, totally inhumane, good for nothing but killing, possibly destructive of life on earth and civilization."

No one in Nebraska, of political record, thought of Reagan as soft on communism or weak on defense issues. And neither did then-Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, who often acknowledged Reagan's motto: "Trust, but verify."

By the way, Reagan had a soft spot in his political heart for Nebraska, and former Republican Gov. Charley Thone. The latter was the first Republican governor to endorse Reagan's presidential aspirations.

Nebraska GOP voters chose Reagan in his unsuccessful primary bid to wrest the 1976 Republican nomination from President Gerald Ford, a Cornhusker state native.

Some policy compatibility

What did Reagan and President Bush II have in common? Both enjoyed the admiration and unstinting support of Nebraskans, statewide. Yet both men were up front about their belief in drastically reducing a great many agricultural programs that were taken for granted and regarded for more than a half-century as a necessary fixture of federal policy.

Disaster declaration includes 14 counties

By DAVE HEINEMANN
Nebraska Governor

Dear Fellow Nebraskans:

I want to provide an update on the ongoing flood response in Nebraska.

Last week I submitted request for a federal disaster declaration and it was granted immediately. The declaration covers 14 counties along the Missouri River and four Platte River counties. It will make federal assistance available for damages and losses to public infrastructure.

Our flooding challenges are going to be with us for months. This is going to be an emergency that continues to unfold and we anticipate the cleanup and recovery will extend much longer than any of us would like.

The size and scope of the challenge we are facing is extraordinary. Eight of the 17 river monitoring stations along the Platte River report water levels at or above flood stage. All of the 10 stations along the Missouri River are above flood stage — most by several feet.

Water flows along both rivers are predicted to remain high throughout the summer. Storm activity across Nebraska demonstrates the potential for heavy rain over the Platte and Missouri River, and all river systems, could quickly change conditions in communities across our state.

In spite of these challenges, I am very proud of the preparations that have taken place, the quickness of local and county officials in responding, and the partnership of Nebraskans who are being touched by flood challenges.

Our State Emergency Operations Center and all of the agencies activated in our response efforts are preparing to remain fully operational as long as this flooding emergency persists.

More than 100 Nebraska National Guard personnel are on duty to support our emergency planning. They have prepositioned supplies and are monitoring levee conditions from the ground and the air along the Missouri River, including South Sioux City, in Omaha, along the Papio-Missouri River Natural Resources District levees, and other areas of Douglas County. Nebraska Emergency Management Agency (NEMA) personnel worked with Nemaha officials to develop a levee monitoring plan and National Guard personnel are assisting in those efforts.

Roads officials are talking frequently with counterparts in Iowa, South Dakota and Missouri to determine alternate routing for highways and interstates. Crews have temporarily elevated a segment of Highway 14 at Niobrara, and sandbagged Highway 75 at Plattsmouth and Highway 83 at North Platte. We are working with the railroads to protect rail lines in some areas to keep the railroads operational. Additionally, road and bridge inspectors continue to monitor highways, bridges and other infrastructures while pre-staging equipment needed to redirect motorists as roadways are affected.

While state and local officials are working to prevent as many losses as possible, we are also urging Nebraskans who have been impacted by recent storm and high wind damage, as well as individuals and businesses with flood-related damages to report property damage to NEMA.

Those with storm or flood damages to their property are encouraged to contact NEMA to provide basic information that will be helpful in tracking private damages. This includes those who have relocated, those whose homes have been impacted by flood waters, and any business that's sustained damage or losses.

There are two options for filing a preliminary damage report. An electronic form is available on the NEMA website, www.nema.nebraska.gov, which can be filled out and submitted electronically. Damages can also be reported by calling the NEMA hotlines at (855) 211-2453, or (855) 211-2454 from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. CT. While these reports are very helpful, safety is always the first priority. Please do not go back to a damaged building to get information. Our main goal is to begin the information gathering process and ensure we can contact residents who have relocated due to flooding.

Nebraskans are doing an outstanding job, and I want to commend our residents on the proactive way they are responding. I also want to acknowledge the incredible work by the state and local personnel involved in flood preparations across Nebraska. Our state is very resilient and I know that we will get through this challenge together. Thank you.

Homeowners need to watch for mold growth

Nebraskans with water damaged homes need to be on the lookout for mold growth, a University of Nebraska specialist said.

Mold spores are everywhere, but what determines where they start growing is the presence of moisture and organic food sources, such as wood and paper, said Shirley Niemeyer, housing and environment specialist in the university's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

"The recent storms damaged many homes which now may have ideal conditions for mold growth," Niemeyer said.

Porous materials, such as carpets and pads, insulation, ceiling tile and wall board, should be thrown away, she said.

Open up wet wall and floor cavities to aid in drying. Concrete also needs to be dried.

It may take weeks to months before things are dried out and can be covered over or closed up, Niemeyer said. Covering up damp structures and cavities before all the materials are dry can lead to mold growth. Moisture meters, which are available through some plumbing, heating, and cooling businesses, or can be ordered from on-line Internet sources such as lab speciality companies, are used to help determine the moisture content of wood and other materials.

"It's better to be cautious now and take extra prevention steps than to deal with a mold problem later on," Niemeyer said.

Molds have been recognized as allergens, Niemeyer said. Mold allergens can cause symptoms including respiratory congestion, eye irritation, headaches and fatigue in those sensitive to mold. Some molds can trigger asthma attacks in sensitized persons.

"If you see a mold problem, find the source of the moisture, make the needed changes to reduce or control the moisture source, and safely get rid of the mold," Niemeyer said. "Any mold should be treated with respect and cleanup handled very carefully, whatever the type is," she said.

Professionals can be hired to clean up mold and are recommended if there are large amounts — more than a 10-foot square area — and if someone in the household is sensitive to mold.

"The decision to clean up mold or to hire it done is up to the individual," Niemeyer said. "Anyone who attempts to clean up mold by him or herself should obtain complete detailed information before tackling the cleanup and understand the risk."

For more information about cleaning up molds, consult a local Extension office or health department. More detailed resources are available from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, and their publication, Mold Remediation in Schools and Commercial Buildings, gives detailed information and may be of use in home applications.

Those cleaning up mold should protect themselves by wearing goggles without vent holes, neoprene rubber gloves, clothing that covers the entire body and at a minimum, an N-95 to keep out particles. For more extensive mold and for more protection, use an N-100, a half-face or full-face mask with a HEPA filter or a full-face, powered air purifying respirator.

Niemeyer recommends physically removing as much mold as possible. Contaminated porous or soft materials are not easily cleaned and should be removed and disposed. Disinfecting contaminated materials may kill mold on the surface, but some of it may survive and start to grow again — especially if conditions are right for growth. Remove the mold as even dead spores may be allergic.

To prevent spreading mold spores while cleaning, contain the mold infested area with plastic sheeting from floor to ceiling. Close the air vents to the room or area or to the upper levels. Creating negative pressure in the room or area by putting a fan in a window to pull the air from the area to the outside. This may help to prevent the spores from moving to other rooms while they are being disturbed by cleaning and removal. Spreading mold spores throughout the house can also be reduced by carefully encapsulating the moldy materials being removed. Items should be carefully wrapped in large plastic bags or tarps, sealed with duct tape and removed through the nearest door or window.

"This will help to avoid mold spores being spread through the house during the removal process," Niemeyer said.

Mold on surfaces, such as wallboard, that will be cut or pulled away can be held more stable by applying sheets of contact adhesive paper to avoid spreading the spores. Larger plastic sheets can also be taped to surfaces, such as wallboard, before it is removed.

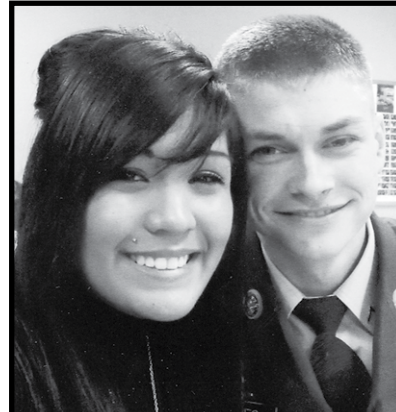

Mold contaminated materials should be removed to the outdoors through the nearest window or door to avoid spreading the spores, she said.

Hard non-porous surfaces such as some plastics, metal, and tile and some semi-porous materials such as concrete can be cleaned with a household detergent and water solution such as water and Borax. Rinse the area with clean water and dry thoroughly. For areas that may have been contaminated with flood water or sewer backup, use a disinfectant such as 1 cup of chlorine bleach to a gallon of water after the cleaning. Follow the label directions. Use personal protective equipment and plenty of ventilation. Do not mix it with other products. Keep the area wet with the solution for about 15-30 minutes to help reduce the microorganisms and then let the surface dry.

After thorough removal and cleaning, running a dehumidifier and/or air conditioner can help reduce moisture problems, Niemeyer said. Keep humidity levels between 35-50 percent and watch for mold and odors over the next year.

Close to Home

Here are 3 things to remember when having an open house.

Since this is the season for open houses, I chose a column this week on what to do before the open house.

1. Clean, clean, clean. A thorough cleaning will give the best impression. Even a home that hasn't been updated will show better just by a good cleaning.

2. Don't over do the scents. Buyers can interpret strong scents as the sellers trying to hide something. Be sure the house is fresh but go easy on the candles and air freshener.

3. Work on the curb appeal. Most buyers will make up their minds within the first few minutes of seeing the home exterior. Be sure to trim bushes, touch up paint, and make the overall curb appeal as welcoming as possible. You don't want buyers to strike the home off their list before they even see the interior.

How do you know how much work is enough? Ask your real estate agent to walk through the home when you list it and give you an agenda of what needs to be done before the open house. We are trained to do this and are happy to help!

Four generations

The four generations of the Jensen family include four men who are each 30 years apart. Great-grandfather Earl Jensen of Wayne is 90 years old; grandfather Dennis Jensen of Carroll is 60; father Darin Jensen of Dakota Dunes is 30 and his son, Dreu is three months old.

Altona women meet June 15

First Trinity Lutheran Women's Missionary League of Altona met June 15 at Wisner Care Center.

Rev. Ohlman began the meeting with prayer. For the topic, discussion was held on the book "Heaven Is For Real," as well as John 21:17. President Pearl Youngmeyer presided at the business meeting. Roll call showed perfect attendance as well as two guests, Verone Koehlmoos and Melvy Meyer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the treasurer's report given.

The Wayne County Fair will hold the end of the month with the 35th annual Fair Booth planned.

The LWML District Retreat, which will be held in September at Camp Luther, was discussed. Each person attending is to bring a pair of children's flip-flops and decorations such as lace, buttons, ric-rac, etc. to decorate them. Please do not decorate at home as this will be a project at the retreat. All of them will be sent to Haiti for children who do not have shoes. Many times going barefoot results in infections, sometimes leading to amputation.

The birthday song was sung for Julie Stuthman. The Lord's Prayer was prayed by all and the table prayer, "Feed The Children, God Most Holy," was sung. A no-host lunch of pie a la mode was served.

The July meeting will be held at Wisner Care Center with the date to be announced.

West Nile alert issued

The Northeast Nebraska Public Health Dept is sending mosquito larvicide dips and mosquito wipes that contain DEET to the Cedar, Dixon, Thurston, and Wayne County Emergency Managers.

There are limited supplies, but NNPHD wants to help the prevention of West Nile Virus which is carried by some mosquitoes. Due to the wet weather and flooding, standing water will increase the amount of mosquitoes that will breed and may carry the West Nile Virus to infect people and horses.

To protect yourself and your family, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) suggests that you:

- Remember that mosquitoes are most active between dusk and dawn.
- Wear long sleeves and pants.
- Use insect repellent with DEET according to the directions on the product.
- Repair screens on windows and doors.
- Empty standing water in old tires, bird baths, kids' swimming pools, etc.
- Protect areas by parks or ball fields.

Report recent dead birds to NNPHD for testing. For more information, please call NNPHD at (800) 375-2260 or (402) 375-2200.

Summer's heat puts stress on cattle

With summer just starting and temperatures already approaching 100 degrees earlier this spring, cattle producers need to take steps to ward off heat stress in their herds, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln beef specialist said.

Late spring 80-degree days with rain are always welcome, but the current abundance of moisture in the Central and Northern Plains will certainly contribute to elevated relative humidities in the near future, which can be disastrous for cattle that have not had a chance to get adapted to hot conditions, said Terry Mader, beef specialist at UNL's Haskell Agricultural Laboratory near Concord.

Cattle can begin to experience some level of heat stress when the heat index approaches 80 degrees, with most cattle being severely stressed when the heat index exceeds 100 degrees.

Also, when early morning temperatures and/or the heat indices are in the mid-70s, chances are cattle did not adequately cool down at night, and feedlot managers should be prepared to provide as much relief to cattle as possible during the day.

Water is probably the best avenue to dissipate heat, Mader said.

Cattle normally take in about five to eight gallons of water per day. However, when temperatures rise, that amount can double or even triple.

"It's important to have plenty of available water," he said. "When there is competition for water, it creates problems because the dominant animals will occupy water space and not allow other animals access."

If cattle are crowding around the watering trough, add more water capacity or move a portion of the animals to pens that will allow the animal to have adequate access to water, Mader said.

In an emergency, cattle can be sprayed with water to cool them down. However, once producers do that, they need to repeat or continue spraying until the heat subsides. Spraying cattle with water will allow the animal to rapidly dissipate heat through evaporative cooling processes, but this may limit the animal's ability to adapt to the heat.

If the pen surface is dry, then wetting the pen will also provide relief to confined animals. It is always beneficial to start the wetting or cooling process in the morning prior to the cattle getting too hot.

Another suggested heat stress mitigation tactic is to use bedding to decrease surface temperatures animal's are exposed to, Mader said. Generally it's thought bedding is for insulation against cold stress. However, straw can aid in breaking up or diffusing the solar heat load that often contributes to heating up dry, bare ground. The degree bedding is effective in doing this is unknown. However, if used, it is suggested bedding be placed in the pen early in the morning when the ground has cooled, otherwise heat will be trapped in the pen surface. Also, wetting the bedding would allow for additional cooling to occur when the animal uses it.

Producers should avoid handling cattle when it's hot and never after 10 a.m. Cattle body temperatures can rise an additional 0.5 to 3.5 degrees during handling.

Cattle yards also should be free of any structures that restrict airflow. Cutting down vegetation around pens and moving cattle away from windbreaks can all help. Building earth mounds in pens also can increase airflow by preventing cattle from bunching together. Other heat stress mitigation strategies include: providing shade, controlling biting flies and other parasites, keeping very current on cattle marketings and being mindful of heat effects on personnel as well.

For more information about managing heat stress in feedlots, consult UNL Extension NebGuide G1409, Managing Feedlot Heat Stress, available from local UNL Extension offices or on the Web at www.ianrpubs.unl.edu/sendIt/g1409.htm.

Scouringrush a problem weed for area corn, soybean growers

Scouringrush (Equisetum hyemale) is a prehistoric plant that is being reported as a problem weed by many corn and soybean growers in eastern Nebraska.

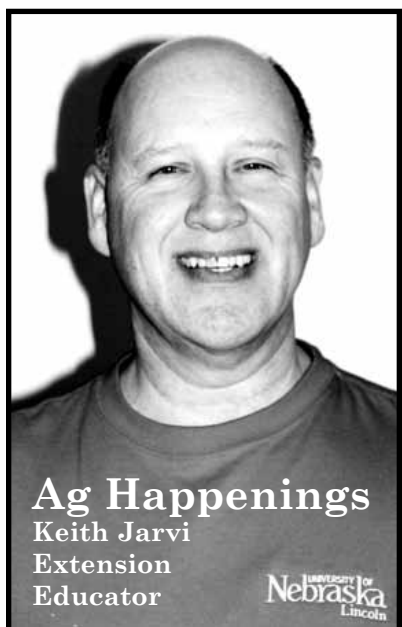

It grows along streams, waterways, and other moist areas, but can spread from these wet areas into the drier soils of fields and pastures. It forms dense patches with up to 350 stems in a 2.5 foot-by-2 foot area. Stands this dense will interfere with planting, choke out crops, and reduce grain or harvestable forage yields.

Scouringrush is closely related to ferns and is believed to date back about 280-345 million years. It is in the Equisetum (horsetail) family. It is a perennial and has hollow, green stems that grow to a height of 2-4 feet. The stems are segmented, stove pipe-like in appearance, and easily pulled apart at the nodes.

Normally there are no branches or leaves, although some branching may occur at the nodes if the stems are damaged by mowing or certain chemical treatments. A spore-producing cone that is yellow to brown forms at the top of the stem mid-summer.

Scouringrush has deep fibrous roots and extensive rhizomes. It spreads primarily by rhizome, although the spores are also believed to be fertile.

Scouringrush is called by many different names, including snake grass, jointed grass, horsetail and horsepipes. It gets its official name because its rough stem was used by pioneers to scour pans. The stems contain high levels of silica. Livestock that graze it heavily may experience scours, paralysis, abortion, and in rare cases, death.

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension Educator

Unfortunately, research conducted by Mark Bernards, Lowell Sandell and Eric Frasure of the University of Nebraska shows that few herbicides affect scouringrush and those that do are not registered for corn and soybeans. The most active product, chlorsulfuron, or Glean, is labeled for use on wheat, or as Telar in non-crop areas. It has a long residual and you can only plant back to corn and soybeans after 24 months if used in wheat.

Tilling an area will reduce stem and biomass measurements temporarily, but if other control tactics are not used, the stand will soon regain its earlier density. Repeatedly mowing an area also has little long-term benefit. We have received reports that deep tillage (moldboard plowing) can reduce stands. The best non-chemical approach to controlling scouringrush is likely deep-tilling an area and then immediately planting it to corn or a high population of soybean.

Scouringrush is not competitive under dense canopies or in low light conditions. This aggressive management approach will likely need to be repeated for several years to eliminate or minimize a patch.

There are two cautions regarding tillage. First, the benefits of controlling scouringrush using deep tillage should be weighed against the risk of soil erosion along a waterway. Second, tillage, especially shallow tillage, can expand a scouringrush patch. Because scouringrush reproduces primarily by rhizome, if the tillage operation moves the rhizomes beyond the area of the original patch, new plants can form and the patch can grow larger. Scouringrush shoots can form from small sections of rhizomes, even when they are buried six inches or more.

For more information on the work done go to cropwatch.unl.edu and search for scouringrush or horsetail.

THANK YOU

As I once again face some trials with my cancer, I am totally humbled by all the help I have received. I know this battle will not be easy if I did not have my faith, family and friends to help me through.

As many of you know we had a son graduate from Wayne Community Schools this year. We will have a sophomore and a 6th grader this coming year. Had anyone told me how much our Wayne Community Schools would help my children and family when our oldest started kindergarten, I would not have believed it. I sent out a message to our dear friend Colleen Janke and we had and still are receiving, food gift cards and gas cards immediately. As a Mom knowing your kids are being taken care of physically and mentally is priceless.

As for graduation, without my friends and family to help clean and set up, the day would not have turned out as perfect as it did for Justin. We also thank everyone who helped or brought food. Just keeping me company on some of my slow days was very thoughtful, and all the prayers going up make the days so much better. Also, thank you to Pastor Lilienkamp and Darlene for coming to see me in the hospital and for all the prayers from Grace Lutheran Church and all churches in Wayne that continue to keep me in their prayers. I truly believe prayer and trusting in God's plans will see me through whatever lies ahead of me.

As of right now, our family and especially myself can only say thank you for all you have done. May God Bless each and every one of you, and someday I hope we can help your families in whatever need you have.

Now on a personal note, I have to thank my husband and my children. Everyday they continue to do what needs to be done, and not once do they ever complain. As a mom and wife taking that help is very hard to do, but I am so proud of each and everyone. Thank you guys!

Jana Anderson

Thank you to all who attended our 50th Anniversary celebration on June 4th. Also, thank you for the beautiful cards and gifts.

God Bless you,
-Dennis & Lois Bowers

We want to say a great big THANK YOU to all our family and friends who helped us celebrate our 50th Wedding Anniversary. We so appreciated all the help, the hugs, the cards, and good wishes. It was truly a day filled with joy. May God bless you all.

Darrel & Betty Heier

TA-TA'S FOR TERI SAY: "THANK YOU WAYNE"

In honor of our wife and mother, Teri McLagan, we formed a team to participate in the 5K "Race for the Cure" in Sioux City, Iowa on Mother's Day, May 8, 2011. There were over 3,300 participants in the race that raised over $197,000.00 for the fight against breast cancer. It was recently announced that our team, Ta-Ta's for Teri, was the leading fundraising team for the event. Our team consisted of 42 members and raised over $5,300.00.

We would like to thank the people of Wayne and the surrounding communities for their support. Whether you were a member of our team, bought an item at our bake sale, purchased a T-shirt, attended a movie at the Majestic Theater when we worked or even just gave us encouragement, it was greatly appreciated. Words alone cannot express our appreciation. There is no place better to live than in Wayne America!

Steve, Nicolle, Eric and Stefanie McLagan
