Old rooster reclaims place in the henhouse Vavra comes back to win Cluck-Off

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Roosters can be very territorial when it comes to defending their territory.

When Joel Vavra saw that Larry Pankoke of Lincoln had won last year's National Cluck-Off at the Wayne Chicken Show, he felt it was time to come out and show who the ruler of the roost is.

Vavra was an eight-time champion in the annual competition of the world's best cluckers, and when he saw that Pankoke had unseated 11-time champion Del Hanson of Fort Smith, Ark., in last year's event, he decided it was time to reclaim his place in the henhouse.

Dressed in bib overalls with a rooster tail attached to the back, Vavra confidently strutted to the front of the stage in Bressler Park. With an assistant pouring popcorn that he could scratch, Vavra pranced around the front of the stage, slapping his chest and letting loose with a series of crows that drew an immediate response from the onlookers who watched more than 30 contestants do their best chicken imitations Saturday afternoon.

Pankoke followed Vavra, wearing a full homemade chicken costume. And while he gave the kind of performance that helped him unseat Hanson, the judges determined that Vavra's impersonation was the best in the barnyard.

"I'm from Crete and (Pankoke) is from Lincoln, and I figured that's in my barnyard," Vavra said of his return to Wayne for the first time since winning his last title in 1998. "As a fighting cock, you've got to come in and defend your territory."

Vavra, a driver for Redi-Mix Concrete in Lincoln, said he didn't do any advance preparation for Saturday's performance, owing it all to his natural rooster-like abilities.

"I grew up on a farm, so it just came natural to me," he said. "I debated whether or not to come up and go for it again, but I felt like it needed to be done."

After winning the division for entries age 14 and over, Vavra squared off with the 13-under winner, Mikey Reyes of Wayne, who - like Vavra - didn't do a lot of advance preparation before taking the stage.

"I just watched other people do it and thought it was going to be fun," he said. "I thought I wasn't going to win, because I thought other people were better than I was, so I was surprised when I won it."

Pankoke, a retired guard on death row in the Department of Corrections who now owns his own cleaning business in Lincoln, said he enjoyed his year as the reigning top clucker.

"It was a lot of fun," he said. "I was interviewed by the Lincoln Journal-Star, I was one of the top stories of the year on (KOLN-TV's) Lance's Journal, did some parades and some ball games, and I might get on the Ellen Degeneres show, so it's been a fun year."

'Fowl' behavior at 31st annual Chicken Show

Whether it's taking part in the world's largest Chicken Dance (above) or checking out the colorful cement chickens (as Concord resident Jamie Young and her son, Carlyle, did), there were plenty of activities going on during the 31st annual Wayne Chicken Show. ## Assembly plant looking at Wayne

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Is Wayne, America the next Detroit?

Certainly, this part of the state won't be confused with the Motor City, which is known for being the home for the nation's top three auto makers. But Wayne could soon become the home of an automotive assembly plant that would produce vehicles that run on compressed natural gas.

Gene Gabus of Iowa-based Gabus Auto Distributors met with about 20 area residents last Wednesday to discuss the possibility of building a plant in Wayne that would employ as many as 20 people and could produce as many as 500 vehicles a month.

Gabus said that more interest is being shown in vehicles that run on alternative energy. His proposal would bring a plant that would assemble the Noble line of vehicles, which run on compressed natural gas and get up to 60 miles per gallon.

The vehicles would come to Wayne from China. Upon arrival, technicians at the assembly plant here would remove the traditional gas tank and replace it with a conversion kit and tank that would allow the vehicle to run on compressed natural gas, a cleaner-burning fuel that costs less than half of what a gallon of gasoline currently goes for.

Gabus, a native of Holdrege, said he is only considering two cities for these assembly plants. He is looking at Wayne and Lake Mills, Iowa as communities where these plants could be built.

"I think there's a lot of interest here, and this is something they're going to look at seriously and see if it fits within what they want to do," he said after the meeting.

The company is awaiting final results on crash tests, which could come in the next week or so. Once those tests are completed, vehicles could be assembled to fill orders in Canada. By the first quarter of 2012, tests on advanced airbags will be completed to allow for the vehicles to be sold in the United States.

"Market demand for alternative-energy vehicles is growing," said Mike Garvin of Renais LLC, a renewable energy company out of Iowa City, Iowa, who was on hand with Gabus Auto Distributors officials at the meeting. "This is a manageable opportunity that creates jobs and can create more jobs as demand continues to grow."

Garvin said that Gabus had an interest in only two Midwest cities as a potential site for the auto assembly plants. Wayne and Lake Mills, Iowa, are the two cities under consideration for the plants.

Gabus said that there is a growing interest in compressed natural gas vehicles. Several states, including Nebraska, are converting to compressed natural gas vehicles, and major corporations like Coca-Cola and Wal-Mart are considering replacing their fleets as well.

"If Wal-Mart goes through with their

Jerry Lande of Gabus Auto Distributors explains some of the features of the Noble G4, a car that gets 60 miles per gallon and runs on compressed natural gas. The vehicle was part of a presentation by the Iowa-based company, which is looking at Wayne as a potential home for a new assembly plant that would replace gas tanks in the vehicles with a compressed natural gas tank system.

New plan will set aside funds for Highway 35 construction

A new plan has been announced to put federal funding to work in northeast Nebraska, according to the Nebraska Department of Roads.

Federal earmark funding was previously set aside for the N-35 corridor between Norfolk and South Sioux City; however, some technicalities with the environmental document and lack of full funding delayed access to these funds.

As part of a new partnership program, initiated by the Federal Highway Administration, state and federal officials strategized to reach acceptable options for obligating the earmark funding before it is potentially lost to the area.

Crediting the "Every Day Counts" initiative, NDOR and the FHWA plan to advance specific improvement projects in the Norfolk area. Funding could be freed up for successful construction of three projects and have them ready for contract letting by spring or summer 2012.

The projects slated to advance are "Norfolk Southeast," "In Norfolk" and "Norfolk Northeast." (NOTE: See map on

According to NDOR, they and the FHWA believe the remaining environmental and engineering work for these projects can be accomplished over the next 9-12 months, thus providing a great opportunity to put the earmark money to work for Nebraska.

Existing corridor protection for N-35 will remain in place and this action will not prevent future expansion on the rest of the N-35 corridor should conditions warrant and funds become available.

American Cancer Society offers many free services to help cancer patients get well

The American Cancer Society provides information, day-to-day help, and emotional support to people with cancer and their families. ACS wants to help patients get well and best of all, all their help is free.

Here are just a few support resources provided by the American Cancer Society here in Nebraska:

INFORMATION

Patients and caregivers can call (800) 227-2345 to talk with one of the American Cancer Society's Cancer Information Specialists 24 hours a day, seven days a week. People seeking information may also utilize the American Cancer Society's Web site www.cancer.org. Either of these places will allow people to understand cancer and treatment options, find help with insurance, Medicare and Medicaid and find programs in the area for people with cancer.

DAY TO DAY HELP

Transportation Assistance - Sometimes getting to cancer treatment is a challenge. If someone needs a ride to treatment, the American Cancer Society may be able to help through the Road to Recovery program that utilizes volunteer drivers to take patients to and from appointments. If the Road to Recovery program is not available in your community, ACS offers other transportation assistance such as gas cards that can be provided for individuals travelling 50 miles or more to treatment.

Lodging - If a patient faces cancer treatment far from home, the American Cancer Society may be able to find them a place to stay through the Guestroom program. Through this program, the ACS utilizes partnerships with local hotels to assist with lodging needs for patients. This program is available in select communities and is based on availability of the participating hotels.

EMOTIONAL SUPPORT

I Can Cope - I Can Cope is a free educational program for adults facing cancer - either personally, or as a friend or family caregiver. Knowledge is power, and the more you know about what is happening during cancer diagnosis and treatment, the better equipped you will be to handle each step of the journey. I Can Cope classes can help dispel cancer myths by presenting straightforward information and answers to your cancer-related questions about many cancer related topics. I Can Cope is also offered online at www.cancer.org/Treatment/SupportProgramsServices/HopeLodge/i-can-cope

Man to Man - The Man to Man program helps men cope with prostate cancer by offering community-based education and support for patients and their family members. Volunteers who themselves are prostate cancer survivors are available to connect one on one to provide resources, information and support following a prostate cancer diagnosis or recurrence. In Nebraska, this program is currently available in Omaha but cancer patients across the state may still attend.

Cancer Survivors Network - Cancer Survivors Network is our online community by and for people with cancer and their families. Find and connect with others through our member search, discussion boards, chat rooms, and private CSN e-mail. Create your own personal space to tell us about yourself, share photos, audio, etc, start an online journal (blog), contribute resources, and more.

Reach to Recovery - The American Cancer Society's Reach to Recovery program helps people cope with their breast cancer experience. This experience begins when someone is faced with the possibility of a breast cancer diagnosis and continues throughout the entire period that breast cancer remains a personal concern.

Talking with a specially trained Reach to Recovery volunteer can give a measure of comfort and an opportunity for emotional grounding and informed decision-making. Volunteers are breast cancer survivors who give patients and family members an opportunity to express feelings, talk about fears and concerns, and ask questions of someone who is knowledgeable and level-headed.

Most importantly, Reach to Recovery volunteers offer understanding, support, and hope because they themselves have survived breast cancer and gone on to live normal, productive lives. ACS also offers a breast cancer quick facts book free of charge.

Look Good...Feel Better - Some cancer treatments can affect your appearance. At a Look Good...Feel Better session, you can learn side effects like hair loss and skin changes. This program is offered jointly by the American Cancer Society, the Personal Care Products Council Foundation, and the National Cosmetology Association.

Talk to the local American Cancer Society office for more support services offered in your area.

The American Cancer Society combines an unyielding passion with nearly a century of experience to save lives and end suffering from cancer. As a global grassroots force of more than three million volunteers, we fight for every birthday threatened by every cancer in every community. We save lives by helping people stay well by preventing cancer or detecting it early; helping people get well by being there for them during and after a cancer diagnosis; by finding cures through investment in groundbreaking discovery; and by fighting back by rallying lawmakers to pass laws to defeat cancer and by rallying communities worldwide to join the fight.

As the nation's largest non-governmental investor in cancer research, contributing about $3.4 billion, we turn what we know about cancer into what we do. As a result, about 11 million people in America who have had cancer and countless more who have avoided it will be celebrating birthdays this year. To learn more about us or to get help, call any time, day or night, (800) 227-2345 or visit cancer.org.

College Center set to reopen Aug. 22

Fall semester classes in South Sioux City for Wayne State College and Northeast Community College will be moved back to the College Center.

The building, located at 1001 College College Way in South Sioux City, along with the Industrial Training Building at 408 Golf Road, had been temporarily closed due to flooding in the area. For the time being, industrial classes will be held in the College Center instead of the training building.

College Center officials recently made the decision to re-open the center for the fall semester that begins Monday, Aug. 22. As a flood safety measure, the earthen berm constructed in June as a flooding precaution will remain in place around the center. Openings in the berm will be made for access to the entrance doors.

"After the initial concern about potential flooding and evacuation earlier this summer, we are delighted to be back in our beautiful

Lightning causes early-morning fire

Wayne area firefighters spent much of the early morning hours Monday battling a fire south of town along Highway 15. According to Wayne fire chief Tom Sievers, the fire happened while severe thunderstorms were rolling through the area. It is believed that lightning sparked the fires, which were burning a number of corn stalk bales on the Bob Reinhardt property, located a little more than eight miles south of Wayne. Some damage to a corn crib was noted, but no other damage was reported.

Wayne native part of Guard's flooding patrol

SOUTH SIOUX CITY – The Nebraska National Guard continues to support the state's ongoing effort to monitor multiple flood sites.

Pfc. Ashley Sukup, a 19-year-old native of Wayne has been on state active duty assisting with levee monitoring in South Sioux City since June 13. Sukup is a 2010 graduate of Wayne High School and is currently serving in the Guard as a motor transport operator with the 189th Transportation Company.

Sukup, along with several other soldiers, has been keeping a watchful eye on an approximately three-mile stretch of man-made levee.

"We're here making sure the integrity of the levee is not compromised," said Sukup. "Wildlife and rain have posed several challenges during our mission."

Sukup said certain animals cause more damage than others, but it's the local deer and muskrats that continue to wreak havoc on the town's river barrier.

"The deer run over the top of levee and punch holes in the plastic," she said. "And the muskrats dig holes."

Punctures and holes in the levee system will help rain water and other elements erode the barrier, which could result in a breach in the wall. The Soldiers are there to help prevent that from happening.

Nonetheless, all of the damage caused by the animals needs attention; the community and military have come together in a great show of partnership to provide the Soldiers on the ground with the necessary equipment needed to accomplish the mission. And one locally-owned business has supported Sukup and her fellow Soldiers since day one.

"The owners of the Covington Links Golf Course have been fantastic," said Staff Sgt. Riley Beaman, a surface maintenance mechanic and the noncommissioned officer in charge of the South Sioux City levee patrol. "The people here have given us water, food, shelter and vehicles that help make our jobs easier."

"They've done so much for us since we've been here it would be hard to express our thanks with words alone," said Sukup.

It's this strong bond between the Guard and citizens that will probably be long-remembered after the water recedes.

"We've gotten a chance to meet several of the families associated with the flood," said Sukup. "Every day we see people come back to their houses and they're torn down; we get to know them and their stories."

According to Beaman, the dedication of Sukup and the other Soldiers is second-to-none.

"Soldiers like Sukup are the ones making things happen here."

Highway 35 construction planned

The map above indicates plans for expansion of Highway 35 in the Norfolk area. Earmarked funds of $26 million from the 2005 highway bill in Congress had been stalled due to objections by the Federal Highway Administration after Sen. Ben Nelson and Rep. Jeff Fortenberry made a technical correction to the original earmark legislation that allowed for a future interchange with the Interstate at South Sioux City. The FHA objected to the correction, which held up funding of the entire 70-mile corridor of Highway 35 between Norfolk and South Sioux City. Some environmental and engineering work still needs to be completed before work could begin on the proposed expansion, which would run from the Highway 275 intersection northeast to Woodland Park.

plans, they will start selling compressed natural gas at their stations," Gabus said.

Currently, there are less than 1,000 compressed natural gas fueling stations in the United States, with most appearing on either coast (Gabus said there are three that he is aware of in Nebraska, with one in Lincoln being the closest to this area). Technology is making it possible, though, for people to install a filling station in their own homes that would work off the home's natural gas line and fill a vehicle in 2-3 hours.

Wes Blecke, executive director of the Wayne

Area Chamber of Commerce, said the meeting was a positive one for those in the community who were interested in the possibility of bringing the assembly plant to Wayne.

"There is good support for it here in the community, and there's growing support nationwide, so this is an opportunity that Wayne could capitalize on and bring jobs to the community," he said.

Blecke said the economic development group would work with Northeast Nebraska Investors LLC and city administrator Lowell Johnson to determine the best option to go after this opportunity. A 20,000-square foot building is already available for an industry to come into town, and Blecke said the plant would fit in well, with plenty of room to expand.

Blecke said he thought the community could give Gabus an answer within the next 3-4 weeks on whether or not they want to bring the plant to town. If all goes well, the plant could begin work on converting vehicles later this year.

"By the fourth quarter (of 2011), they could be converting vehicles wherever they have the plant, and hopefully that's here in Wayne," Blecke said.

Pitching carries Seniors to title

By MICHAEL CARNES
 Of The Herald

At this point in the season, you want to have good pitching that can carry a team to victory.

The Wayne Seniors may have found another ace in the hole on the mound, as Trent Beza gutted out a complete-game effort that saw him throw more than 140 pitches in leading Wayne to the Ralph Bishop League championship.

Beza struggled in the first inning, issuing three consecutive walks after striking out the first two batters. He got out of another bases-loaded jam later in the game and finished with a five-hit, 11-strikeout performance as Wayne came away with a 4-1 win over West Point in the finals Sunday night.

Coach Jeff Zeiss said he was a little uneasy letting Beza throw as many pitches as he did, but he always seemed to find a way out of any trouble he got himself into.

"They had baserunners on about every inning, but Trent was able to get out of it," he said. "We thought about replacing him, but he'd get out of a jam and we felt we had to keep letting him go, and he threw harder at the end of the game.

"If we had to play again in a couple of days, I probably wouldn't have gone more than five innings tonight, but it was a gutsy effort," he added.

West Point had a couple of great chances to get on the board early. Beza walked the bases loaded in the first before getting Zac Rief to wave at a 2-2 offering, then got some great defensive help on a double play between Tony Sinniger, Jacob Zeiss and Mason Wren before walking the bases full and getting Rief to look at a back-door curve ball to end the third.

Wayne, 21-3, broke the ice in the bottom of the third when Wren singled and came home on a double in the left-center gap by Gage Rethwisch. Wayne added two more in the fourth, as Joey Lenihan's groundout scored Alex Onnen and Wren's infield single brought Zeiss home to make it 3-0.

West Point got a run back in the fifth, but Wayne reclaimed its three-run advantage in the bottom of the inning when Beza walked and scored on an error when a throw on Alex Onnen's grounder to short sailed past the first baseman.

That would be all Beza would need on the mound. And while he continued to have his up-and-down moments, he struck out four of the last seven batters he faced to finish off the complete-game victory.

"It's frustrating, but he came back and battled and gave himself a chance, and he gave the team an opportunity to be successful," Zeiss said.

Not a bad effort for a pitcher who is just starting to get comfortable as a starter in the Wayne rotation. "He's still kind of green as a starter, to be honest," Zeiss said. "It's his first year as a regular starter in the rotation, but he's coming around. He has a tremendous curve ball, and I'm excited for the next step for him."

Wayne advanced to the league finals with a pair of wins in North Division bracket action.

On Wednesday, Wayne scored in every inning against Ponca and came away with an 11-3 victory. Beza, Sinniger and Frank Bernal See SENIORS, Page 2B

Quite a turnaround

Here are a few baseball-related thoughts I was thinking when there was nothing else to think about:

- If you didn't know the kids playing baseball in Wayne and saw the high school team's record (3-10) from the spring season, you'd think this summer has been quite a turnaround for the local American Legion teams.

Going into area tournament play, the Juniors and Seniors are a combined 40-4 this summer, a far cry from the sputtering rejuvenation of the Wayne High baseball program we saw this spring.

One thing coaches and fans from cities that already have high school baseball have told me, however, is that spring and summer baseball are two totally different animals, and it takes some time for a new program to get up to speed in the spring because of the weather, the newness of getting into baseball-playing shape in February and March, rather than April and May.

If there was a silver lining to the cloud of a sub-.500 first season, though, it is that these players were already game-ready when the summer season hit around Memorial Day. While other teams in the Ralph Bishop League like Ponca, Wakefield and Pierce didn't have any spring experience to draw from, Wayne was a little ahead of the curve and came out of the gates in great shape this season.

Both Wayne squads have been quite impressive in the past couple of weeks, but the quality of competition is going to get a little tougher from here on out. Here's hoping that spring experience for the Juniors and Seniors pays dividends with an extension of the season into late July and early August, respectively.

- There are two negatives I see in the Wayne Juniors' chances of making it to the state tournament.

The first is that, even though they drew the No. 1 seed, they play the tougher half of the bracket. Central City and Aurora will benefit from home (or closer-to-home) field advantage, and both have traditionally been challenging programs to play on the road. Wayne would have a much easier time with the Aurora-Pierce first-round winner. While Aurora handed Wayne its only loss of the year, Wayne more than made up for that in a doubleheader split. Pierce is simply not in this team's league (from a talent standpoint) and has lit them up like an exploding scoreboard this season.

Second is the fact that, because of some of the one-sided blowouts Wayne has had in recent weeks, they haven't had to battle a full seven innings with a quality opponent. On the positive side, that rests some arms for the end of the season when pitching is at a premium. On the negative, not having had their feet

KTCH/KCTY to air WSC sports in '11-'12

Wayne State College and Wayne Radio Works LLC, owner of KTCH (1590 AM) and KCTY (104.9 FM) in Wayne have jointly announced that the Wayne radio stations will originate Wayne State football, along with men's and women's basketball for the upcoming 2011-12 school year.

"We are delighted to have reached an agreement with our local station to carry Wildcat athletics for 2011-12 and what we hope will be many years to come," Wayne State athletics director Eric Schoh said. "I see this as a great thing for the Wildcats, the radio station and the Wayne community."

Wayne Radio Works LLC president David Kelly said, "I'm thrilled at the prospect of originating the full season of games as the Wildcat Sports Network."

KTCH/KCTY sports director Bill Seifert will serve as "voice of the Wildcats" this season, starting with the Nebraska-Kearney at Wayne State football game on Thursday, Sept. 1 at 6 p.m. Wildcat football games this season will be carried on KTCH, while basketball games will be aired on both KTCH and KCTY.

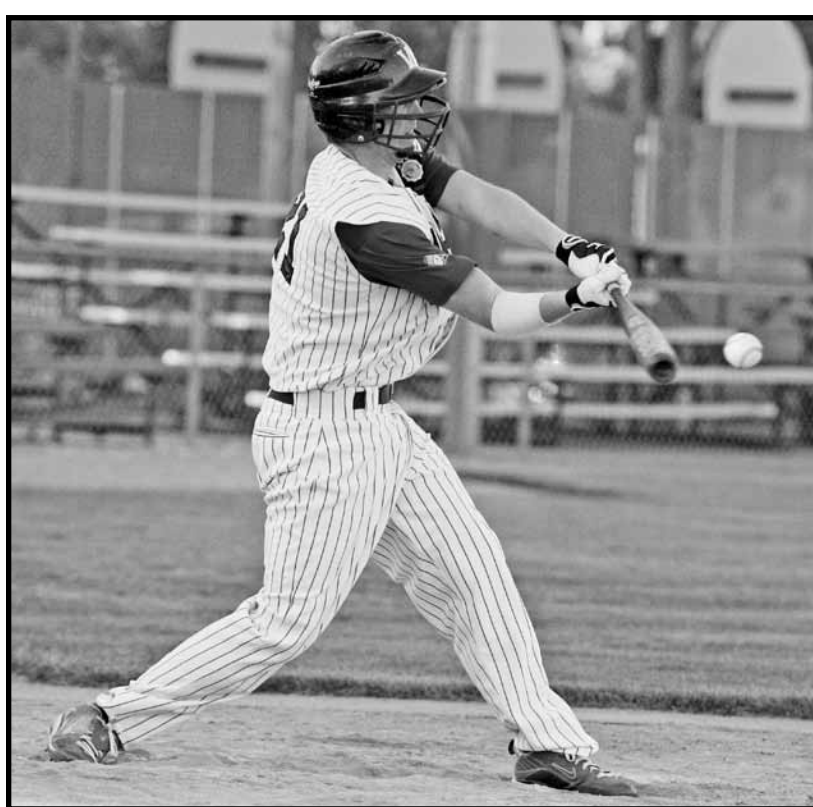

"Bill Seifert is a guy who has been around northeast Nebraska a long time and understands Wayne State College and the Wildcats," added Schoh. "We're excited to have him as the 'voice of the Wildcats.'"

Women's hoops on honor roll

The Wayne State women's basketball team was named to the WBCA Academic Top 25 Team Honor Roll for the third straight season.

The 2010-11 Wildcats recorded a team grade-point average of 3.452 to rank 21st in NCAA Div. II.

Wayne State was one of five Northern Sun Conference teams to be recognized with the award. Last season, Chris Kielsmeier's squad ranked 18th nationally with a 3.454 GPA while his 2008-09 team was 14th in NCAA Div. II with a 3.473 team grade-point average.

Juniors roll past West Point, 11-0

By MICHAEL CARNES
 Of The Herald

In the last couple of weeks, the Wayne American Legion Juniors have had to dig out of an early hole before pounding their opponents.

That was a trend coach Jeff Zeiss was hoping his team could avoid in the postseason, and the Juniors appeared to kick that nasty habit in the finals of the Ralph Bishop League tournament Sunday at Hank Overin Field.

North Division champion Wayne pounced on West Point for a pair of early runs, then blew the game open in the third inning to finish off the South Division champs in four innings, winning the league title with an 11-0 whitewash.

Corey Doorlag threw four innings of one-hit ball, allowing just two baserunners as Wayne came away with the league championship.

"The coaches talked with them about getting on (West Point) from the get-go and put the pressure on the other team, and we did that tonight," Zeiss said after the game.

The Wayne coach said that, in spite of a win over West Point earlier in the season, he knew his team would be in for a challenging championship game.

"We beat them earlier in the year, but I know they're a very good team and they were going to give us a battle, and the kids were very resilient," he said.

After Doorlag struck out two of the first three batters in the first, Wayne went to work in getting on the board first. Drew Carroll reached on an error, advanced to third on a single by Danny Melena, and the two came home on Doorlag's single to left-center, giving Wayne a quick 2-0 lead.

After another 1-2-3 inning, Wayne picked up another run in the second when Carroll drove in a run, but the floodgates opened in the third when the host team — as has been the case recently — sent 14 batters to the plate and scored eight runs in the inning.

Luke Rethwisch got the big inning started with a two-run single, Grant Anderson brought in another run on a fielder's choice and later scored on a wild pitch. Doorlag brought in another run on a fielder's choice, and an infield single by Bradley Longe and a two-run double by Jordan Backer gave Wayne more than enough runs to end the game on the 10-run rule.

Doorlag had a chance for a four-inning no-hitter, but gave up a leadoff single in the fourth and settled for a one-hit gem, striking out eight and walking one.

"Our pitching has been really good, and that's going to be the key in the postseason, to get that quality pitching," Zeiss said. "Corey pitched very well for us tonight."

The Juniors reached the league finals Friday with an easy 9-0 win over Pierce, with the win coming one week after Wayne had scored 15 runs in an inning in a 19-3 triumph over the same team.

Doorlag and Anderson both had two hits in the win. Doorlag drove in three runs, and Carroll, Melena and Anderson each scored twice in the win. Brady Soden struck out six and allowed no hits in three innings, while Backer gave up one hit and struck out two in an inning of relief.

The Juniors take a 19-1 record and the No. 1 seed into this week's Class B, Area 5 tournament in Aurora. While the Wayne squad has been particularly dominating in the last month, Zeiss said those one-sided wins are a double-edged sword.

"If we're in a tough game, though, I think we'll be able to respond," Zeiss said. "We've been able to save some arms with the shorter games, and I think we'll be ready to move on to the next step."

held to the fire can come back to haunt a team when it is faced with a must-win situation at a time of year where anything less than first place means the end of the summer.

Can the Juniors win the area tournament and move on to state? Definitely — they have some great pitching with Brady Soden and Corey Doorlag, among others; and there is solid offensive talent up and down the lineup. If they continue playing as well as they have, and can step it up against quality competition, a trip to Beatrice looks like a good bet for this team.

— The Seniors' road, from a bracket perspective, might be a little more challenging than their Junior counterparts. But that is more than offset by the fact that the Wayne squad will be able to sleep in their own beds, eat home cookin' and play in the comfy confines of their home park, Hank Overin Field.

My biggest concern for this team is in the pitching. Trent Beza has become a welcome addition to the starting lineup, and the gutsy effort he put forth in Sunday's Ralph Bishop League finals gives Jeff Zeiss another starter on the hill, along with Gage Rethwisch.

The question is whether or not coach Zeiss can call on Joey Lenihan, who has been a hard thrower and a key element in Wayne's pitching capabilities. Lenihan is battling a shoulder injury, and it's doubtful he'll be able to be anything more than a short reliever in the postseason. Zeiss has his son, Jacob, and Tony Sinniger, who has come in and thrown well when called upon this season. Will that be enough? The good news is that we'll find out right here on Wayne's home field.

Seniors

each had two hits and two RBIs, and seven Wayne batters came around to score in the game, with Rethwisch, Sinniger, Beza and Wren each scoring twice. Sinniger pitched three innings to pick up the win on the mound.

On Friday, Wayne reached the 20-win mark for the season with a 9-1 win over Pierce in the North Division finals at Hank Overin Field. Wayne scored three runs in the first inning to take control of the game, and Trevor Beza had the hot bat with three hits, two RBIs and two runs scored in the win.

Rethwisch and Miles Anderson each had two hits and two RBIs, and Rethwisch tossed a masterful complete-game one-hitter, striking out 14 and walking three.

Although seedings weren't official at press time Wednesday morning, Zeiss thought Wayne would have the No. 1 seed for the Class B, Area 5 tournament, which Wayne will host at Hank Overin Field beginning Thursday, July 21.

"We're going to be at home and probably have the top seed, so we have a lot going for us, but we still have to hit the ball well and play good defense," he said.

WSC baseball signs five recruits for 2012 season

Wayne State baseball coach Brian Disch announced that five players have signed national letters of intent to play baseball for the Wildcats in the 2011-12 season.

Committing to attend Wayne State College are junior college transfers Taylor MacDonell, Elijah Ming and Jeff Roden along with high school standouts Matt Faulkner and Matt Schulz.

MacDonell is a 6-foot-1, 195-pound pitcher from Swift Current, Saskatchewan, Canada. He played the last two seasons at Vancouver Island University and has two years eligibility with the Wildcats. MacDonell was a first-team all-star this past season, going 7-3 with a 1.59 ERA. In 2010 he helped his team to the Canadian College Baseball Conference National Championship, going 5-4 with a 2.31 ERA, striking out 59 batters in 66.2 innings pitched.

Ming is a 6-foot-3, 195-pound righthanded pitcher from Kansas City, Kan., and will have two years eligibility with the Wildcats after playing at Fort Scott Community College in Kansas. This past season Ming was 2-0 with a 4.50 ERA, helping his team to a 42-18 record.

Roden is a 6-foot-6, 200-pound righthanded pitcher from Mayetta, Kan. He played the past two seasons at Highland Community College in Kansas and will have two seasons of eligibility at Wayne State. He helped his team qualify for postseason play for the first time since 2005 and Highland's 24 wins this past season were the most for the team since 2004.

Faulkner is a 6-foot-1, 200-pound righthanded pitcher from Kitchener, Ontario, Canada, and graduated from Huron Heights Secondary School. Last fall, Faulkner was 3-1 with a 1.13 ERA and allowed just four earned runs in 32 innings pitched.

Schulz is a 6-foot-2, 160-pound lefthanded pitcher/first baseman from Glenwood High School in Iowa. Last season, Schulz posted a 5-1 record with a 2.79 ERA, helping Glenwood to a 30-7 record and the Iowa Class 3A state title. This season, Schulz is 4-1 in seven starts with a 1.40 ERA and has 48 strikeouts in 40 innings pitched helping his team to a 23-4 record and a No. 2 ranking in Class 3A.

Wildcat soccer team adds two recruits

Wayne State women's soccer coach Molly Grisham announced the addition of Laura Ekeren of Yankton, S.D., and Kelsea Lambert of Bellevue to the 2011 recruiting class.

The additions bring the total number of players in the 2011 recruiting class to 10. Both will attend Wayne State this fall.

"We are excited to announce the addition of Laura and Kelsea," remarked Coach Grisham. "They are both great additions to a very solid 2011 recruiting class."

Ekeren is a 5-foot-7 midfielder who has three years of eligibility with the Wildcats after transferring from the University of South Dakota. She appeared in all 18 games last season for the Coyotes and made three starts. At Yankton High School, Ekeren was a three-year letterwinner in soccer and earned first-team All-State honors as a senior in 2009 after scoring 17 goals. She was also a standout high school basketball player, earning All-Conference honors at Yankton High School.

Lambert is a 5-foot-6 midfielder and defender from Bellevue West, where she was a four-year starter and letterwinner. She helped the Thunderbirds to a 9-7 record during her senior season while serving as team captain, and was named a Metro Conference Scholar Athlete. Lambert played on back-to-back state championship club teams in 2009 and 2010.

Yachts can be a second home?

By ED HOWARD
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — The purported budget cutters in Washington have a lot better deal than the Nebraska lawmakers.

In Washington, some of the so-called fiscal conservatives want to keep alive some tax breaks that ordinary Nebraskans would like to share in, on a much, much, much smaller scale.

Being fond of almost anything that will float, keep me dry and allow me to cast a line, it's the fabulous deal allowed for yacht owners that arouses the itch of envy.

If you have a yacht — not just a big boat, but a yacht — you can claim it as a second home!

It would be great to have a boat so big that it could serve as a real second home, but it would also seem to me that the thing would be an honest to goodness luxury.

The view from here: Fair would be fair enough. How about if those who own boats and buy bait (live or artificial), sunscreen, soda pop, life jackets and fishing poles and out-of-town lunches and breakfasts would be allowed to write them off their income taxes as "economic development credits."

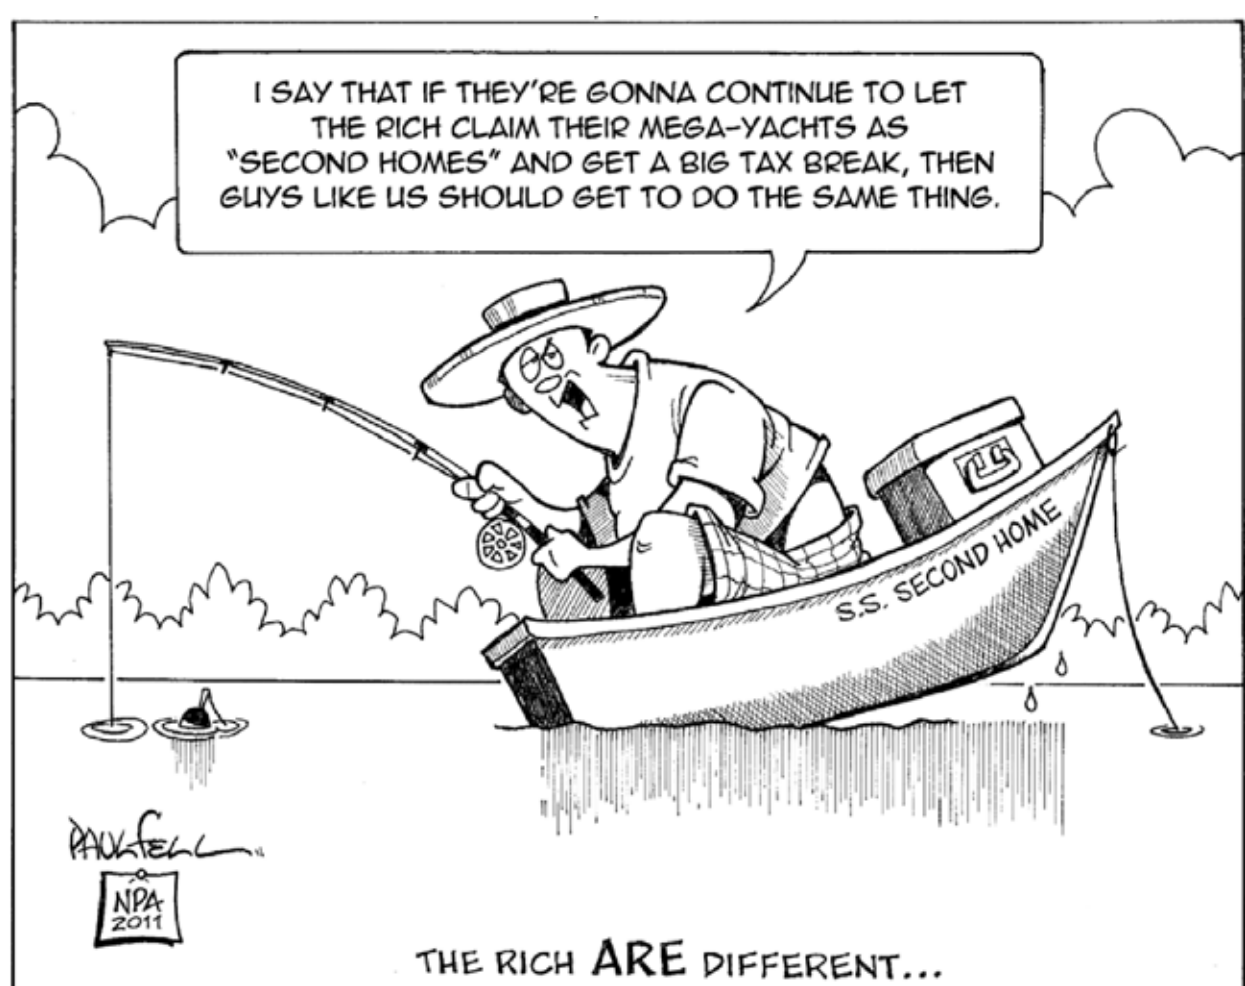

Think about the money that goes through anglers and into local economies. It's a bunch.

And it's even more if you add in the occasional speeding ticket and, for some possibly over devoted to drowning bait, the once-in-awhile divorce. And subsequent alimony!

And the State of Nebraska wouldn't even have to participate.

Since it's the House and Senate who are so fond of water-oriented generosity in the tax code, the tax mercy could apply only to income taxable by the feds.

Next on the listen of "How about some for the little guy" is the matter

Legislative Update

Community events are on the schedule

The Fourth of July has come and gone again. This is one of my four favorite holidays, with Christmas, Easter and Thanksgiving being the other three.

I was able to attend events at Hoskins, and Jackson, as well as in Carroll, where they also celebrated their 125th birthday and hosted a barbeque, parade, dance, and pancake feed over a three-day period. Hoskins held a parade and pancake feed on the morning of the Fourth of July to celebrate our Country's birthday. The town of Jackson also held a parade later the morning of the Fourth. It was great to attend these events and see the number of people who take pride in America and celebrated her 235th birthday. I do so enjoy seeing our nation's flag being displayed by those who love her and are willing to show it.

The flooding situation continues to be the other big issue of the week. Congressional delegations and the governors of Nebraska, Iowa, and Kansas have all questioned the mission of the Corps of Engineers. Many elected officials have questioned the way in which the Corps handles the release of excess water and their overall mission as a federal governmental entity. The lives and livelihood of our citizens must always be the top consideration of all levels of government, and I am hopeful there will be a thorough investigation of the Corps of Engineers.

I traveled to Lincoln to spend a day in my legislative office this week. There are, it seems, always things to do, items to read, and events to schedule. Thinking ahead to the next legislative session, possible bills to be introduced include property tax reform and something to prevent the giveaway of items paid for by the taxpayers of Nebraska. This weekend, I am looking forward to attending Chicken Days in Wayne.

The following week, I should be in Walthill. I will not be able to attend the Dakota/Thurston County Fair parade (family wedding), but hope to see many of you at the fair. Beverly Neel, our administrative assistant, and her husband, Bud, will be attending the parade on my behalf.

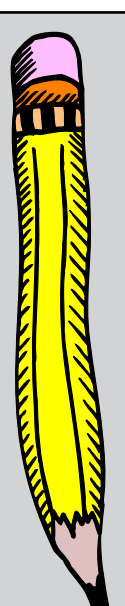

Please try to attend your local fairs and other community events. It is a great way to meet your neighbors.

Who knew that a bunch of hicks from the sticks could be seen as brighter bulbs than the dimwits in Washington?

In the more media-savvy hotbeds on either coast, those of us in Nebraska are looked upon as simple-minded, bib overall-wearing, tobacco-spitting, clueless morons. We kiss our siblings, marry our cousins and are little more than an inconvenience whose only saving grace is our ability to raise massive amounts of crops and cattle to feed the world.

OK, so maybe we're not the most intelligent state in the union. But let me tell you something — the dunderheads in Washington would do very well to take a page out of the Nebraska Unicameral's book when it comes to the ever-escalating debt they're trying so hard to avoid working on.

I don't know if you've heard, but the U.S. government is in debt to the tune of more than $14.9 — brace yourselves — TRILLION. If we all got a bill for our share of the federal deficit, we'd each be looking at writing a check for more than $120,000. And that's not just the hard-working adults that would be ponying up — our kids would also have to sacrifice their piggy banks.

Here in Nebraska, the 49 men and women who represent us in the Unicameral were faced with a deficit that, while not near as high as that at the federal level, was still of allowing the multimillionaires and billionaires who run hedge funds to declare what is really their income as "capital gains."

Do you know what that means? It means that a guy with hundreds of millions of dollars in annual income only has to pay income tax at a rate of 15 percent!

We're not talking entrepreneurs. We're talking glorified management with battalions of employees (who also make comparative fortunes — compared with thee and me) who do the real arithmetic.

But, let's say those hedge fund managers are worth what they take — if not what they earn. Or, let's say they can keep it, and their tax break.

How about if ordinary Nebraskans only have to pay income taxes at the same rate as the guy who runs the company, but only if that rate is less than the employee currently pays.

Let's say you have an income that puts you above the 30 percent level. If the company's biggest big shot earns more than, say, triple your salary — but actually pays at a rate that is actually less than 30 percent — then you pay the same tax rate as them.

If the policymakers won't consider that scheme (they won't) then how about if the honchos have to pay at a rate at least equal to yours?

Some people might call such notions "class warfare." They are entitled to that opinion. But from here it seems more like something less than schoolyard scuffle, with the little guy looking for survival, rather than the defeat of the other fellow.

Our guess is that such schemes will appeal to the majority of Nebraskans who don't earn better than a million bucks a year — and to virtually all of them who made less than $10 million last year, and were taxed at 15 percent or less.

FULL DISCLOSURE: The latter would include the author.

Nebraskans know how to budget

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes
Managing Editor

one that was unacceptably high and had to be dealt with immediately.

We Nebraskans obviously aren't up on this concept of running up massive deficits to fund whatever programs we feel are needed to make "The Good Life" an even better one. Here in Nebraska, we actually have the audacity to demand, by law, that our lawmakers work within the confines of a balanced budget. If there isn't money in the budget for a particular program or concept, we go without.

This past legislative session, lawmakers were staring at a potential deficit of more than $750 million. Revenue had not come in as projected, and the outlook for the immediate future wasn't looking too good. Rather than pass a budget on the hope that more revenue would come in, our state senators did the unthinkable — at least, in Washington — and actually cut programs, slashed state aid to cities and counties, took some funding from schools and put together a budget for the coming fiscal year.

The final budget didn't make everybody happy. Cities and counties grumbled about having to foot more of the bill and ask for more on the local level. Schools are left to scramble to make cuts. Certain areas of state government are being forced to continue doing what they do, and do it with less money.

And yet, when all was said and done, Nebraska's leaders came through with a balanced budget, one that will not put the state any deeper in debt and, if the economy improves and revenues turn around, will actually leave us in a better financial place than we were a year ago. And the bonus to all of this — no new taxes. What a concept!

It's just too bad those who "represent" us in Washington can't — or won't — use this blueprint for fiscal success. Instead, they seem intent on talking their way into a debt ceiling that, experts claim, will put the United States in default and create an economic catastrophe.

Republicans are intent on slashing trillions of dollars in spending, but don't want to give away loopholes that allow major corporations like General Electric to make billions of dollars without paying a dime's worth of tax. Democrats seem intent on raising taxes on the wealthy while, at the same time, give freebies to those who are too lazy to get off the welfare dime and show a little pride in themselves by getting a real job.

Neither side is willing to give in, and both sides seem more intent on pointing the finger at the other side and laying the blame for the ever-increasing debt on their shoulders.

It's long past time for Congress to stop the blame-game nonsense and get down to business. Take a page out of Nebraska's playbook, make the hard decisions on serious cuts, avoid adding new taxes and help the lobbyists and bloodsuckers controlling your votes understand what the word "no" means.

The debt ceiling can be avoided, the federal deficit can be reduced, and the nation's economic picture can be brightened, if only those alleged know-it-alls in Washington can grasp what us simple-minded Nebraskans already understand. When would NOW be a good time for that to happen?

Several recognized at Carroll Q-125 ceremony

The celebration of Carroll's 125th anniversary is now history and a number people were recognized and others earned honors and awards during the event.

The following is a brief synopsis of the celebration, as put together by Diana Davis, a resident of Carroll who has been involved with the planning of the event over the past two years.

The Opening Ceremonies for the Carroll Q125 were held Friday, July 1.

Taylor, Tori, and Peyton French sang the National Anthem while the Carroll American Legion presented the colors. The princess, prince, queen and king were also announced and crowned. The winners were: Rylin Hall-Princess, Cameron Davis-Prince, Margaret Kenny-Queen and Milton Owens-King.

There were speeches from the Q125 Committee, Chairman of Village Board and the President of the Alumni. Several Community Awards were also given out by deserving Carroll citizens during the opening ceremonies.

The awards were presented on behalf of the Q125 Committee and included:

1. Good Neighbor Award – to Marlene Dahlkoetter – for serving the needs of the elderly residents of Carroll.
2. Lifetime Achievement Award – to Dennis Rohde – Carroll businessman since 1968 – put Carroll on the map through his annual tractor pull.
3. Community Support Award – to Farmers State Bank and Franklin and Susan Gilmore – for their never ending support of the Village of Carroll through their time, effort and generous monetary donations.
4. Community Volunteer Award – to Norene Klinger – for her contribution to any cause when help is needed.
5. Lifeline Award – The Station, Holly & Verlyn Stoltenberg – where all your needs are met: Gas, Guns & Gossip.
6. Outstanding Q125 Sponsor Award – TWJ Farms & Feeds – Joe, Bill and Julie Claybaugh and Carroll Feed & Grain-Ken and Jean Loberg.

8. Silver Service Award – Debbie's Daycare – Debbie Hall – taking care of Carroll's children, our future leaders for 25 years.

11. Master Historian Award – Arlyn Hurlbert - for not only telling Carroll's history, but adding color commentary as well.

A free barbecue followed. The Cattleman's Association grilled the hamburgers and the Blue Ribbon Winners 4-H Club helped serve the estimated 700 in attendance. Craig Florian as Elvis made an appearance also Friday night. An awesome fireworks show was enjoyed by all and the band, "Mr. Hand," entertained at the Auditorium.

Saturday started off with a parade with approximately 110 entries. The three judges for the parade, Mary Kay Hasemann, Sharon Olson and Harold Loberg had a difficult time deciding on winners.

Monetary awards were donated by the Carroll American Legion and Greenline Equipment. Plaques and monetary awards were donated by the Q125 Committee. Those winners were: first place, Dennis and Nancy Junck; second place, Blue Ribbon Winners 4-H Club; third place, Butch Junck Family; fourth place, Debbie's Daycare and fifth place, Marlene's Cafe.

Children's games were going on in the park along with Rainbow Trout the Clown making the kids beautiful as the face painter.

At approximately noon on Saturday, the Lied Carroll Library was dedicated and a speech was given by Dwaine Spieker, local poetry writer. He talked about how libraries are the center of a community and how by reading, adventures can be taken every day.

Also in the park, Carroll Feed and Grain sponsored Hilltop Pony rides for the kids to enjoy. Historic trolley rides were given with entertaining and educational stories of the area provided by Joni Tietz.

The Carroll Volunteer Fire Department sponsored water fights in the afternoon. Those winners and participants were:

First place - Ralston Volunteer Fire Department;

Second Place - Carroll Fire Department (Jeff Davis, Rick Davis, Kelyn Roberts, Matt Munsell)

Third Place - Carroll Fire Department (Brandon Hall, Collin Prince, Matt Munsell, Justin Davis)

There were members present from the following Fire Departments: Carroll, Hoskins, Ralston, Winside, Wayne, Wakefield and Wisner.

A pitch tournament was held at Roosters Bar during the afternoon, with help from Ray Roberts. There were 18 teams that participated.

Results of the tournament included:

First Place: Wayne and Diana Langemeier of Wayne; second place: Doug and David Marr of Overland Park, Kan. and third place: John Williams and Andy Nelsen of Carroll.

During the water fights and pitch tournament, a Show and Shine Car Show was going on in front of Roosters Bar. Many local car owners brought their vehicles for the crowd to see.

Jeff Quinn, hypnotist and magician, put on quite a show in the auditorium. Several people attended to enjoy the entertainment.

Saturday evening ended with a dance featuring Cactus Flats.

Sunday was the final day of the celebration.

The Carroll Volunteer Fire Department members flipped pancakes and scrambled eggs before the closing ceremonies were completed in the auditorium.

The Time Capsule items from the 1986 time capsule are on display in the Lied Carroll Library and items to be put into this year's time capsule are available for viewing also. Contact Barb Junck for any information about putting memorabilia into the new time capsule for the next celebration.

"Thank you to all who attended and helped in any way to make the weekend such a success!! A great time was had by all!," Diana said.

Northeast and Wayne State fall classes will begin in College Center

Northeast Community College and Wayne State College fall semester classes will be held as scheduled in the College Center at 1001 College Way in South Sioux City. Classes scheduled for the Industrial Training Building at 408 Golf Road will begin in the College Center. The building had been temporarily closed due to flooding in the area.

College Center officials recently made the decision to re-open the College Center for the fall semester that begins Monday, Aug. 22. As a flood safety measure, the earthen berm constructed in June as a flooding precaution will remain in place around the College Center. Openings in the berm will be made for access to the entrance doors.

"After the initial concern about potential flooding and evacuation earlier this summer, we are delighted to be back in our beautiful new College Center," said Pam Miller, Dean of College Center. "We are ready for the fall semester and look forward to serving our student population in the Siouxland area."

For more information, call the College Center offices at (402) 241-6400 or visit collegecenter.org.

Being involved as a parent can be a challenge

Being involved in all aspects of parenting is important part of being an involved father.

Some fathers are more comfortable with teaching, playing with, or even disciplining their child because they see these activities as what a father is supposed to do. However, research clearly shows that fathers who are involved in all phases of their child's care are happier as a parent and have healthier, more successful children.

For many dads, being involved in such a broad range of activities takes a serious commitment. It means being willing to feed and diaper as well as play and problem-solve. Being an involved father means packing a lunch box or attending a parent-teacher conference as well as cleaning a bicycle and going shopping. It means being willing to share in all parts of your child's life.

Doing more care-taking activities (e.g., diapering, dressing, bathing, etc.) seems a little unnatural for some fathers, at least at first. When they do it a little more, dads almost always find that it's worthwhile—they see these actions improving their relationship with their child.

So, you have decided you want to become a more involved father, where do you begin? You probably have many demands on your time including, commitments to your spouse, your job, your friends, and yourself. You may wonder what you are going to stop or drop to spend more quality time with your child. No one has said that being an involved father is easy – it's not. It's especially hard for new fathers who suddenly find that they have to make a lot of room in their life for a baby's absolute demand for attention.

Ruth Vonderohe

New and experienced fathers alike can start with a small plan. Set aside a block of time for one type of activity that you are going to do with your child. If your child is older, pick something you have hardly ever done before. Maybe you will decide to play with them for 15 minutes before dinner, or help them with their homework. You might decide to be a regular part of bath time or make a snack for them between meals. One great activity to consider is reading aloud to your child every day. Commit yourself to this small activity. You may even find that you enjoy it. This time alone with your child will grow and become more rewarding for both of you. After you take this small step, it becomes easier to do other things with your child.

Don't wait to be asked, volunteer and take responsibility; talk it over with the other parent and agree on a plan. If you are a new father, view your caretaking role as a partnership with your spouse or partner rather than as a "helper" or "assistant." Research shows that a father's care of his infants includes soothing, bedtime activities, diapering, and feeding and that most new fathers engage in at least one of these activities on a given week-day (Manlove & Vernon-Feagans, 2002). Your sharing of parental responsibilities is beneficial, considering that in most families both parents need to earn income to survive economically. Most important, fathering your child, regardless of whether your child is a girl or boy, contributes to her or his positive development.

Realize that, as you become more involved in your child's life, you may become less involved in other areas of your life. You may not be able to work as many overtime shifts or stay as late at work. You may have to say no to an outing or two with the guys, take a season off from your bowling or soccer league. Know that in the end, most fathers agree that the benefits that they receive through building their relationship with their child far outweigh these sacrifices. Last, these benefits influence the development of your child into a successful adult and future parent.

Make sure your end-of-life wishes are known to everyone

Well, it's time to get on my soap box again. You all should know by now how I feel about prolonging life when it is a futile attempt. I do talks on Advance Directives and how important it is to put your wishes in writing and give copies to your family or someone who can serve as your power of attorney for health care.

My mom made hers out in 1992, when she was in very good health, but wanted to be sure her wishes would be carried out in case she was no longer able to make decisions. (Of course, now that that time has come, she is upset with me for making the decisions!)

My aunt, her youngest sister, at age 86, has a history of heart problems and has had heart surgery six years ago. At that time, she was on a ventilator after surgery and decided she did not want to do that again. So, she filled out a DNR, a form that says in case her heart should stop, she was not to be resuscitated.

Last week, she had chest pain. DNR does not mean do not treat, and the management of the apartment building called 911. No one gave the paramedics a copy of the DNR. She suffered a cardiac arrest, was successfully defibrillated, and was subsequently placed on a ventilator.

Yesterday, they tried taking her off. She wondered why her DNR had not been honored. They explained the scenario to her and she told me, "Live or die, it's okay." A chaplain visited last evening and told me later, "She knows where she is going." And then they had to ened to have DNR tattooed on my chest. A friend told me this evening that at Lincoln General, they are writing AND, which stands for Allow Natural Death. I guess that sounds more positive than the negative connotation to DNR.

When the experts figured out how CPR could save lives, it was to be used in cases of "sudden and unexpected death." What happened to that criteria? Granted, there are two facilities here in town who care for folks who are on permanent vents; they are mentally alert, most are under the age of 65.

But there comes a time when ventilators are "cruel and unusual punishment" and I believe that time has come for my aunt. She thought she had her bases covered. Maybe we all should get bracelets like the ones that alert to allergies? I don't know, but tonight, I'm thinking of possibilities. Meanwhile, we are praying "Thy will be done" for aunt June!

Now, her son will have to make a decision. It's easier because he knows what she would want, but it's still a difficult one. And it's unfortunate that it had to happen this way. Besides being very expensive! Various studies show that most of the Medicare dollars are spent on the last six months of life.

Now, I'm adding DNI (do not intubate) to my DNR. I have threat-

County Fairs are now in full swing

Well, it is that time of year when a lot of county fairs are occurring and here is a reminder that the Cedar County Fair will be July 13-17, and the Dakota-Thurston County Fair will be held from July 20-24. The Wayne County Fair will be the next week on July 28-31 and the Dixon County fair follows on July 31-Aug. 3. Here are a few words from Extension Educator Tracy Pracheil that I have shared with you before.

County fairs are a great time to enjoy each other's company and get to see some good entertainment whether it be musical, mechanical, or animal. A lot of the county fair revolves around 4-H. Local county fairs provide 4-H youth across the state with an opportunity to showcase the project work that they have completed throughout the year and to receive recognition for their efforts. Model rockets that have been assembled from basic materials, cookies that will make your mouth water, sheep that are sheared for the big show, and many other exhibits can be seen. Through these projects, youth develop self-confidence by experiencing success at solving problems and meeting challenges. Local county fairs provide a safe environment for youth to make mistakes and to receive constructive feedback, not only through competition, but also through participation.

The 4-H youth look forward to the county fair because of the fun that this time of year brings. In a recent study, many youth reported that they are motivated each year to participate in the county fair because they have fun. Whether showing a market steer, modeling a garment in the fashion revue, or exhibiting a GIS map of a local park, youth across all project areas compete and participate in county fair activities because they are fun.

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi

Youth also shared that "achieving goals," "spending time with friends," and "teamwork" contributed toward their participation in the annual county fair. Recognition, competition, fair premiums, and qualifying for the state fair ranked low in comparison to these other motivating factors.

Important educational youth development opportunities exist within the 4-H fair experience. By completing 4-H projects and activities at the local fair and throughout the year, youth are mastering skills to make positive career and life choices. It is important for youth to discover and learn in a non-threatening setting that certain vocations may or may not be right for them.

Give 4-H youth at your local county fair a grand champion experience by providing constructive feedback and encouragement. Your words and actions will allow youth to discover their own personal strengths and weaknesses through their 4-H project areas, all while having fun in a positive county fair environment.

Don't forget to say thank you to the many volunteers, sponsors and 4-H leaders that contribute their time and money to making the local county fair a "must-see" experience for all. Special thanks need to go out to the county fair board members who do most of the important behind the scenes work and to the superintendents and judges for their work in organizing and providing feedback for the many exhibits that are enjoyed by all.

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session at 9:15 a.m. on Tuesday, July 5, 2011 in the upstairs conference room of the Courthouse.

Roll call was answered by Chairman Rabe, Members Wurdeman and Burbach, and Clerk Finn.

Jack Beeson requested a clarification on the property transferred by Leland Herman for Wayne Northeast, Project BRO-7090 (3), 2 miles north and 2 3/4 miles east of Wayne. The transfer had been for 52 feet rather than the standard 33 feet needed for right-of-way purposes. Beeson asked the county to consider transferring the additional footage back to the adjoining landowners in exchange for an easement. This would place the land back on the tax roll. Wurdeman felt a survey would be necessary and questioned who would pay for a survey, he also felt the county would have to take bids for the land. The county attorney will be asked to review the request.

Beeson also talked to the board about the impact a v-ditch has along his fence line. Recent rains have deepened the ditch about 10' and Beeson requested permission to put a couple of straw bales in the ditch for stabilization. The request was approved. Silt fencing may be needed in the ditch.

A resolution amending Project C-90 (528) in the One Year Plan was presented to the board. The proposed amendment would turn the Sholes blacktop (located 1.5 miles west and 1.3 miles north of Sholes, and extending 1.9 miles southwesterly) back to gravel rather than completing an asphalt overlay.
