School board looks at budget numbers for '11-'12

BY CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

Finances, both in this year's budget and the coming year, were discussed during a special meeting of the Wayne Community School Board of Education.

Board members voted unanimously to transfer funds from the general fund to two different accounts.

A transfer of $205,000 from the general fund to the school lunch fund will allow for the purchase of new kitchen equipment to be installed in the new kitchen area being constructed at the high school.

Replacement windows at the high school will be paid for through a $50,000 transfer from the general fund to the depreciation fund.

Superintendent Mark Lenihan told board members that the transfer of funds to the lunch fund is acceptable "as long as there is a purpose." He also noted that the board generally moves money to different accounts at the end of a fiscal year.

In regard to the coming year's budget, Lenihan said, "we have pretty much nailed down expenses for the year. We have been working on the budget since spring."

The 2011-2012 fiscal year's budget is slightly over $10 million, including expenditures related to special education.

The district's cash reserve is slightly less than Lenihan would like, but noted that money needs to be allocated to the building project.

The maintenance portion of the budget has been increased as there is money left to be paid to the architect for the building project.

"Our budget has, for the most part, stayed steady for the coming year. We are undertaking a $4.5 million building project without raising taxes," Lenihan said.

Total land valuation for the district has increased approximately four percent for the coming fiscal year.

Board members praised Lenihan and the school's staff for the work they have done in preparing the budget and work done to keep district spending under control as much as possible.

The school's proposed budget will be publicized in the Sept. 8 edition of The Wayne Herald and will be finalized following a public hearing at the Sept. 12 meeting.

The Wayne Community School Board of Education next meet in regular session on Monday, Sept. 12 at 5 p.m. at the high school.

Authorities busy with local accidents

The Wayne Police Department has been busy with a number of injury accidents in the last several days.

A three vehicle injury accident was reported on Sunday at 12:50 p.m. at the intersection of Highway 35 and Windom Street.

A 2001 Hyundai, driven by Gordon Granberg, 63, of Wayne, stopped at the intersection facing south, attempted to cross Highway 35 and pulled into the path of a 2007 Chevrolet Suburban, driven by Kevin Mandina, 37, of Gretna. Both vehicles collided, causing the Suburban to veer right and collide with a 2002 Chrysler Sebring, driven by Renee Theobald, 23, of Wayne. Theobald was stopped at the intersection's stop sign on the south side of the intersection.

The Suburban also struck a fire hydrant and street sign before coming to a stop. All three vehicles were towed from the scene due to damages.

One person was transported to Providence Medical Center by ambulance for injuries and was treated and released. The Wayne County Sheriff's Office and Providence Medical Center assisted Wayne Police.

A second injury accident was reported on Sunday at 4:20 p.m. at the intersection of Highway 35 and Highway 15.

An eastbound vehicle, a 2004 Chevrolet Suburban, driven by Daniel Miller, 51, of Wakefield collided with the rear of a 2011 Mitsubishi Galant driven by Sandra Kettlesen, 50, of Carroll.

Pat Gross shows some of the memorabilia he inherited from his uncle, the late John J. Gross, a member of the 1914 Husker football team.

Husker schedule brings back uncle's memory

BY CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

On Saturday, Nov. 19, The Nebraska Cornhuskers will play Michigan in football.

This fact sparked a renewed interest in Husker memorabilia that Pat Gross 'inherited' from his uncle, the late John J. Gross.

John, a 1903 graduate of Wisner High School, played with the Cornhusker football team in 1914 and later coached at Wayne State College. Pat notes that "apparently, at that time if you were taking any classes at the University, you could be on the team. Uncle John worked at home to help his mother on the farm for 11 years before playing football at Nebraska."

"I have a program from the Nebraska-Michigan game dated Nov. 25, 1911 and now that we (Nebraska) are going to play them again, I dug out some of Uncle John's things, including his letter sweater and a blanket with his name on it," Pat said.

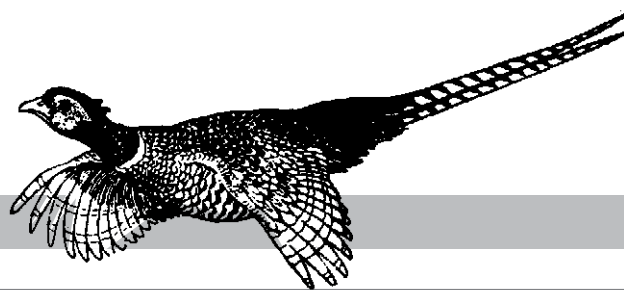

John, who went on to earn a law degree from the University of Nebraska in 1915, practiced law in West Point. He never married and after his death in 1968, his possessions, including the Husker items, were stored away in a steamer trunk, with its contents unknown to Pat. The trunk became the possession of Pat's father, William Gross.

Pat received the Husker items, as well as several other sports-related items from his father because "I was the only one of

Fund-raising project will happen 'One Brick At A Time'

Local Habitat for Humanity builds three houses in 10 years

After 10 years and three builds, The Wayne Affiliate of Habitat for Humanity continues to believe in the group's philosophy that "every person deserves decent, affordable housing."

In an effort to celebrate the successes of the last 10 years and work to raise funds for future builds, the group recently kicked off a new fund-raising project entitled "Building a House, One Brick at a Time."

The project is being held through a partnership with the Wayne Public Library and allows anyone in the community the opportunity to purchase a "brick, a "piece of flooring," a "window" or a "door" for a future build.

A poster board "house" is on display at the library and those wishing to contribute may buy a brick for $1; a piece of flooring for $5; a window for $25 or a door for $50. Each person purchasing the respective pieces of the house will be able to place their name on a slip of paper representing that part of the home.

"The Library is a central location in the community and the 'Board House' is a visual reminder of what we are working for and makes it more real," said Ann Witkowski, who with Mitko Mamo and Vickie French, worked to get this project started.

"With today's economy, we feel better asking for a $1, rather than larger donations. A lot of people can't give a lot, but well plan to just keep building, one brick at a time," Witkowski said.

Those on the committee who designed this fund-raiser, challenge individuals in the community and groups such as 4-H club, Scouts and church groups to become involved by making donations of any size.

"The sooner we get a sizable amount of money collected, the sooner we can start accepting applications for our next building," French said.

The "Building a House - One Brick at a Time" fund-raising effort will continue until Jan. 1, 2012 and the committee is hopeful some members of the community will give to it as a Christmas present in honor or memory of someone.

Habitat for Humanity is a non-profit, non-denominational, Christian organization whose primary goal is to provide safe, decent, affordable housing for families in need. Habitat builds houses using volunteer labor and donated funds and materials and sells these houses with no profit or interest to families who would otherwise be unable to own a home.

Homeowner families must be a partner with Habitat and provide the following:

- Each family must contribute up to 500 hours of labor;
- The family makes a down payment;
- The family makes monthly payments to purchase the home.

Because no interest or profit are added to the cost of materials, a home becomes affordable to a family who would otherwise be unable to afford house payments.

Habitat for Humanity depends on volunteers from all walks of life to accept the challenge and complete the many and varied assignments within the organization.

Volunteers serve in the following committees: Public Relations, Construction, Site Selection, Family Selection, Family Nurturing, Church Relations, Fund Raising and Volunteer Coordination.

For more information, contact Ann Witkowski at (402) 375-4509.

Anyone wishing to make a larger donation may send it to P.O. Box 73, Wayne, Neb. 68787.

Immunization clinic to be held in Wayne Tuesday Sept. 6

Goldenrod Hills Community Action (GHCA) will hold the Wayne Immunization Clinic on Tuesday, Sept. 6.

The Immunization Clinic hours will be from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. at the United Methodist Church, 516 N Main Street in Wayne. For an appointment, call (402) 529-3513.

GHCA's Health Services Program will provide lead screening to children 12 months to 5 years of age at the Immunization Clinics for a fee of $10.

Children may get lead poisoning from paint of homes built before 1978, tap water, food, pottery, dirt, dust and even from the air we breathe. Elevated blood levels can cause irreversible damage to the brain and nervous system; it can harm the kidneys and digestive system; and because lead reduces the ability for the body to produce red blood cells, it can cause anemia. Children with elevated blood levels of 10 or higher may suffer dulled hearing, stunted growth, reduced eye-hand coordination, behavioral problems and delayed learning skills.

The Immunization Clinic is open to the public, and there are no income guidelines. Each child should be accompanied by the parent or guardian. Past immunization records are required. Proxy forms are needed when a parent or legal guardian is unable to accompany the child to clinic. Proxy forms may be obtained by contacting the Wisner office at (402) 529-3513.

A suggested donation of $20 per child would be appreciated to help defray administrative costs. If a child only receives one immunization, then the suggested donation is $13.50. No one will be denied immunizations for inability to make a donation.

Immunizations are needed at ages: 2 months, 4 months, 6 months, 12-15 months, and 4-6 years. This project is supported in part by Federal Immunization Program Funds awarded to Goldenrod Hills Community Action by the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services. The Immunization Program is also partially funded by the Pfizer Foundation.

Goldenrod Hills Community Action, in conjunction with the Nebraska Health & Human Services Vaccines for Children Program, offers Menactra (meningitis) for 11-18 year olds, Tdap (tetanus with pertussis) for 7-18 year olds, Hepatitis A for 12 months to 18 year olds, RotaTeq (rotavirus) for infants, and Gardasil for VFC eligible 11-18 year olds, as well as other recommended childhood vaccines. The Influenza vaccine is now available for children 6 mo-18 years.

Adult vaccine (MMR, Hepatitis A, Hepatitis B, Tdap, TB testing) is available to the public for a mandatory fee at all immunization clinics to anyone 19 years or older. These fees cover the cost of the vaccine. Call the Wisner office at (402) 529-3513 for more information.

Operation Great Start (OGS) information will be available at the Immunization Clinic to provide education and resources to expecting mothers and mothers with children up to 12 months old. OGS works to provide services to families and children in northeast Nebraska to ensure and strengthen their well being.

Goldenrod Hills Community Action (GHCA) in Wisner, is one of nine Community Action Agencies in Nebraska. GHCA manages several different programs as determined by identified needs of residents in the 14 county service area. The Agency serves over 10,000 clients a year due to successful outreach efforts. Programs include the Commodity Supplemental Food Program; Family Services; Immunization; Weatherization; Head Start; Women, Infants, and Children Nutrition; Early Intervention Services Coordination; Operation Great Start and Operation Building Blocks.

The agency serves Knox, Antelope, Pierce, Madison, Stanton, Cuming, Thurston, Dakota, Burt, Wayne, Dixon, Cedar, Washington and Dodge counties. For more information on GHCA programs, call (800) 445-2505.

Open house is Sept. 13 for wellhead protection plan

In January of 2011, the City of Wayne moved forward with the establishment of the Wayne Source Water Protection Project with grant funding from the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality (NDEQ) Source Water Protection Program.

The City, with assistance from JEO Consulting Group, Inc., will conduct a Public Open House to provide local citizens an opportunity to comment and give input to the planning effort. The workshop is being held Tuesday, Sept. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the North Meeting Room of the City Auditorium at 220 Pearl St. in Wayne.

The project's key components include: updating the existing wellhead protection plan and submittal for NDEQ approval; decommissioning abandoned wells in and around the Wellhead Protection Areas; providing incentives for property owners to enroll with the Lower Elkhorn NRD's deep soil sampling cost-share and facilitating education efforts.

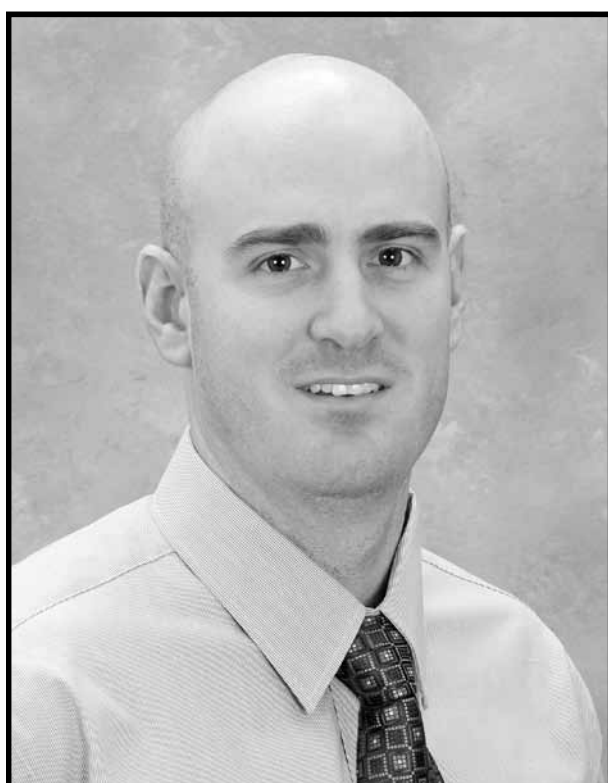

The City has partnered with the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District, JEO Consulting Group, Inc., Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality and University of Nebraska - Lincoln Extension to implement project activities.

The City's efforts will assist with future decision making concerning the community water supply and will lay out a roadmap for pollution prevention actions over the next five to 10 years, including encouragement of water friendly land uses. In addition, strategies will be established to assist in protecting existing and future water supplies from potential pollution sources.

Tuesday, Sept. 13 is "Protect Your Groundwater Day" sponsored by the National Ground Water Association (NGWA) to promote water conservation and contamination prevention in order to protect groundwater resources. Groundwater is the source of Wayne's drinking water and on "Protect Your Groundwater Day", NGWA urges every one to use this day to begin doing your part for protecting groundwater. Proactive protection efforts are much more cost-effective than clean-up efforts.

For more information on the Wayne Source Water Protection Project, contact Adam Rupe, JEO, at (402) 435-3080 or e-mail arupe@jeo.com. For more information on incentives for deep soil sampling and well abandonment contact Garry Poutre, Superintendent of Utilities and Public Works, at (402) 375-2896 or e-mail eldist@cityofwayne.org.

Northeast President Dr. Bill Path leaving for Oklahoma presidency

Dr. Bill R. Path will soon leave his position as president of Northeast Community College for a similar position at the Oklahoma State University Institute of Technology (OSUIT) in Okmulgee, Okla.

Dr. Path will begin his new position as president of OSUIT later this fall. OSUIT is one of five branches in the Oklahoma State University system.

"I was not looking for a new job when this opportunity came up," Dr. Path said. "The university asked me to submit an application."

"The decision to apply was not made lightly by my wife, Deb, and me. We have enjoyed every minute of our lives in Norfolk," he said.

"Our two sons graduated from Norfolk high schools and we will take a part of Norfolk with us. But, the bottom line is, we are going home. We will be no more than two hours away from both sets of our aging parents."

Dr. Path

Dr. Path served as vice president of student services at Northeast Community College from 1996-2000. After serving one year as vice president of academic and student affairs at Aims Community College in Greeley, Colo., he returned to Northeast in 2001 to begin his presidency.

While leading Northeast, Dr. Path has forged partnerships to further the mission of the college that many said couldn't be done. With support from the City of South Sioux City and Dakota County, a 10,000-square-foot education center in South Sioux City was opened in 2005. Following a donation of 57 acres of land from the South Sioux City Community Development Agency, Northeast and Wayne State College partnered to build the College Center in South Sioux City.

That building, opened in March, houses both Northeast and Wayne State programming. Some $1.5 million in private donations were raised in the Siouxland area for the project.

Dr. Path also oversaw the opening of a new education center, the Shirley and Jake Weber Education Center, in West Point in the Donald E. Nielsen Community Center. That project was financed with major donations from the Louis and Abby Faye Dinklage Foundation and Hank and Mona Stalp.

On the main campus in Norfolk, Dr. Path led construction of the Diesel Storage Building, 147-bed Burkhardt Hall, Utility Line Building, Agriculture Complex, Welcome Center, and J. Paul and Eleanor McIntosh College of Nursing. The $11.9 million college of nursing was built with a capstone gift of well over $1,000,000 by J. Paul and Eleanor McIntosh. In another unique partnership strongly supported by Dr. Path, the building on Northeast's campus houses all Northeast and University of Nebraska Medical Center (UNMC) College of Nursing nursing programs.

Dr. Path also supervised renovations in the original residence hall, now named Simon Hall, the Maclay Building, E Building, new drafting lab, renewable fuels building, and an expansion to the Cox Activities Center.

Under his leadership, Northeast also added several new academic degrees and programs to meet the changing academic needs of students and the 20-counties it serves in northeast Nebraska. Credit enrollment rose slightly from 3,245 full-time equivalent (FTE) students in 2001-2002 to 3,485 FTE's in 2010-2011. That statistic is celebrated because high school graduation numbers in Northeast's 20-county service area have shrunk 17 percent in recent years.

A keen advocate of rural revitalization, Dr. Path formed a taskforce on community leadership this past academic year. The taskforce will launch a new course in community leadership this fall at Northeast to teach students how to return to their hometowns and become community leaders.

Dr. Path was invited by the American Association of Community Colleges to attend the Forum on Vocational and Technical Education in Beijing, China, last fall. Also last fall, Dr. Path and Courtney Kleinfaut, executive director of development, presented at the Council of Resource Development meeting in Washington, D.C., on partnerships. Dr. Path was also invited to be a panel speaker at the International Agriculture and Rural Development (AIARD) workshop in Washington, D.C., in June.

Institutionally, Northeast Community College was named to the Top 10 Percent of approximately 1,200 Community Colleges last winter by the Aspen Institute. Northeast was also recently selected as one of four, two-year colleges in the United States to participate in a pilot program by the International Student Exchange Program.

The National Council of Instructional Administrators (NCIA) 2010 Exemplary Initiatives Competition honored Northeast and UNMC last December with an honorable mention award in the Community and Workforce Needs Contest for its entry, Solving Rural Nebraska's Critical Nursing Shortage. NCIA is a professional organization affiliated with the American Association of Community Colleges (AACC).

In February 2008, Northeast Community College and its renewable fuels technology program were awarded one of 10 finalist Bellwether trophies at the 2008 Community College Futures Assembly in Orlando, Fla.

"All these accomplishments have not been the work of one man," Dr. Path said. "I have had the privilege of working with an incredible staff, led by Vice Presidents John Blaylock, Mary Honke, Lynne Koski, Dave Ptak, and Dr. Karen Severson. I have pushed them and their staffs, and pushed them hard, to help me make Northeast Community College a better place."

A national search will soon begin to find a replacement.

Rollin' over

Members of the Wayne County Sheriff's office investigated a semi roll-over that occurred at the intersection of Highways 35 and 98 at approximately 4 a.m. on Monday. The unidentified driver of the truck was not injured in the incident.

Fog contributes to crash near Winside

At about 9 a.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 31 a two-vehicle crash sent two persons to a Norfolk hospital.

Near the Highway 35 and Winside junction, a vehicle driven by Derrick Victor of Emerson ran into the rear end of a vehicle driven by Kristin Rohde of Carroll. Fog was determined to be a contributing factor in the crash.

Both Victor and Rohde were alone in their vehicles and both were taken to Faith Regional Hospital in Norfolk by the Winside ambulance.

The Winside and Carroll Fire Departments responded to the scene and assisted the Wayne County Sheriff's Office in their investigation. No citations were issued at the scene.

Lifeline Awareness Week is Sept. 12-18

On Sept. 13, Governor Dave Heineman will sign a proclamation declaring the week of Sept. 12-18 as Nebraska Lifeline Awareness Week. The Nebraska Public Service Commission administers the program.

The proclamation brings attention to the national Lifeline/Link-Up phone assistance program. Lifeline provides a monthly credit of $10 to $13.50 off monthly service for one landline or wireless phone to a qualified household. Link-Up provides a one time connection fee credit of 50 percent, up to $30. This valuable program helps those eligible to obtain phone service and access to emergency services.

Nebraskans seeking Lifeline/Link-Up assistance must be participating in one of the following programs offered through these agencies:

Department of Health and Human Services: Medicaid, Food Stamps; Low-Income Home Energy Assistance (LIHEAP) and Kids Connection (SAM, MAC, EMAC); Social Security Administration: Supplemental Security Income (SSI) Federal Housing Administration: Federal Public Housing Assistance. Anyone with questions is asked to call the office and ask for the Nebraska Telephone Assistance Program (NTAP) at (402) 471-3101 or toll free (800) 526-0017.

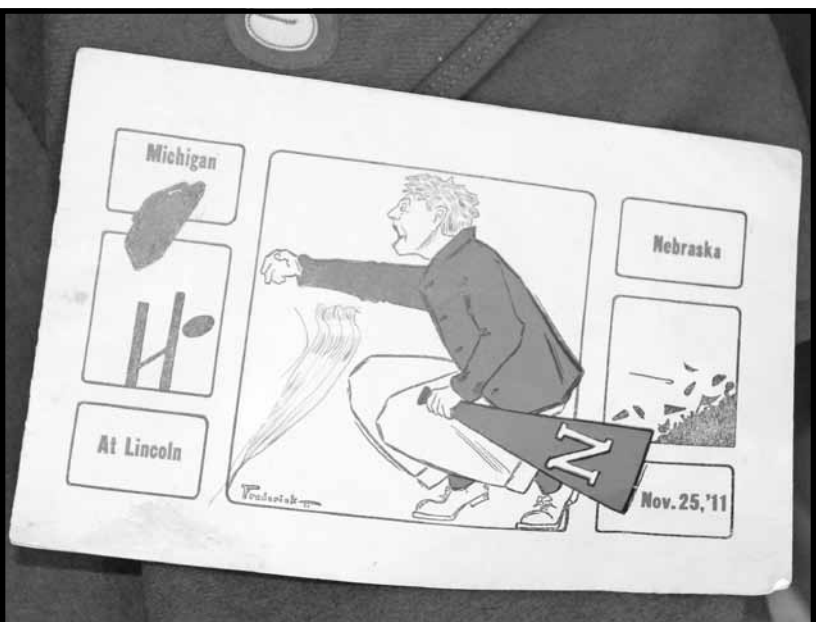

Burglary under investigation

Authorities are not releasing any details at this time about a reported burglary in downtown Wayne over the weekend.

The Wayne Police department received a call early Saturday morning of a report of a burglary that had taken place either late Friday night or early Saturday morning.

The incident is still under investigation by the Wayne Police Department at press time.

Wayne County Sheriff's Office and Providence Medical Center assisted Wayne Police at the scene. The accident is still under investigation.

On Tuesday at 8:10 p.m., a vehicle/pedestrian injury accident was reported at the intersection of Highway 35 and Dearborn Street.

A 1999 Ford Crown Victoria, driven by Ambrose Lawanga, 28, of Wayne was stopped facing south at the intersection. Lawanga proceeded in to the highway, attempting a left turn and struck a 12-year old boy on a bicycle who was attempting to cross the highway going north.

The bicyclist was transported to Providence Medical Center by ambulance for injuries received.

Providence Medical Center, and Wayne Fire and Rescue assisted Wayne Police at the scene. The accident is still under investigation.

What do I think about area teams?

How does (insert your favorite team here) look this year? It's a question I always get asked a lot in the weeks heading into a new school year. The only question I get asked more often is "What are you doing on this side of the field?" (That's an inside joke, and I'd be more than happy to fill you in on it . . . It would take up too much space here to explain, but it's really funny if you've ever had to deal with school administrators with personal agendas. OK, I've said too much already. Let's just move on.) We have details on all the area teams in this week's issue, but if you're rushed for time, here's a brief summary, Bleacher Bum style, on how I see the area fall sports teams this season:

Football

Wayne High - Questions at the receiver position. They have a quarterback who can get the ball there, but are there people who can catch it? The answer is yes, and they'll have a solid running game to compliment the arm of Gage Rethwisch. Defense should be a playmaking bunch this year. I see a 5-3 record and an escape from the first-round torture of facing Norfolk Catholic in the playoffs, which gives Wayne a chance for its first playoff win in 30 years.

Wakefield - There wasn't a whole lot of passion displayed in their season-opening loss at Stanton, but I think the Trojans are going to win some games this year. There's a good deal of size up front that wasn't there last year, and if those guys can play with some fire every week, this team is going to get better and shake those back-to-back donuts in the win column.

LCC - A new coach will open up some opportunities this year, and while the Bears face the same district docket as Wakefield, their non-district schedule is a little more conducive to providing opportunities for success. The season finale between the two area teams might actually be for a playoff spot.

Winside - Contrary to the rumors, the Wildcats do have a football team this season. The problem is, there isn't much of a team from a numbers perspective, as only 18 kids are suited up this season. Winside is in a period where there aren't a lot of boys roaming the hallways at the high school. They do have some talented kids and should be competitive, but will be in a monster district that includes the favorite to win it all in D-1 this year, Creighton.

Allen - The Eagles were young and hurting last year. They're a year older and have a good deal of experience back, and if they can stay healthy they should be a competitive team. Like Winside, the Eagles face a killer district docket that includes playoff teams from Creighton, Osmond, Hartington and Winside.

Volleyball

Wayne High - I love the look of this bunch. Four starters are back from what was a pretty good team last year. They have a dominating force at the net in Katie Hoskins and a sneaky-tough middle in Elle Schramm, along with a solid court general in Laura Muren who can block as well as she sets. It's been eight years since the Blue Devils made the big show, but this year's team has the tools to make the trip.

Wakefield - The bad news is the Trojans lost a great go-to girl in Keri Lunz. The good news is they have a very good bunch of returning starters that should help pick up the slack. They move out of the killer subdistrict that includes the defending champion and runner-up, but still face a challenging subdistrict with Homer in the mix and would have to face the aforementioned subdistrict to get to Grand Island.

LCC - The Lady Bears are always an entertaining team to watch with Patti Cunningham at the controls. This year, she's got a great group of BLAIR - When it comes to making a statement, the Wayne High softball team found a way to make one loud and clear.

The seventh-ranked Blue Devils jumped on three-time defending Class B champion and fourth-ranked Blair for three first-inning runs and rode the fireballing right arm of senior Cassy Miller to an impressive 8-1 win Monday evening, serving notice to the rest of the Class B field that the smallest team in the class is not going to be pushed around.

The win came after an impressive weekend at the Lincoln Public Schools Classic, where Wayne won its pool by beating two Class A teams and fellow Class B opponent Ralston, an effort that coach Rob Sweetland was only too happy to applaud.

"It's fantastic," he said. "I just can't say enough about what our seniors have done the last three days. We rode their backs down in Lincoln, and the younger kids have really stepped up their game and made some great plays."

Playing before a predominantly-hostile crowd, Wayne silenced the locals, literally, right off the bat.

Jalyn Zeiss lashed an opposite-field single to right to start the inning, and McKenna Gibson followed with a single of her own to set up Caitlin Fehringer, who gapped a double to right center to score Zeiss. Gibson came home on a sacrifice fly by Miller, and Kristin Carroll brought Fehringer home with a single to left to make it 3-0.

"We talked about it, because the best way to take a crowd out of the game is to get up early," he said. "We knew they would make a run and put pressure on, and it was great how the girls responded."

Blair pitcher Brandy Hummel gave Blair momentary life in the bottom of the first inning, working Miller for nine pitches before hitting the 10th over the wall in center field. But Miller shook off that first-at-bat dinger and pitched a gem, striking out 10 and walking one while allowing just three hits. She even gave Hummel a taste of her own medicine, lifting a towering fly ball almost in the same location as Hummel's homer to get that run back.

"I think it was a good answer for her personally," Sweetland said. "Not many pitchers recover from a home run on the first at bat, and she brushed it off and showed her experience. She throws with a lot of confidence and pitched a great game, and she got that run back with her home run."

Wayne broke the game wide open in the seventh with four more runs, highlighted by a Gibson RBI single and a two-run triple by Fehringer. Miller closed the scoring with an RBI single for her second hit of the night, joining Fehringer, Gibson and Zeiss in the two-hit club as Wayne pounded out 10 hits.

The win over Blair came two days after the Blue Devils went 3-0 in the LPS Classic, defeating North Platte (3-0), Ralston (4-0) and Lincoln Northeast (5-0).

The 2011 version of the Wayne High girls golf team hit the links last Thursday in Beemer with a triangular against West Point-Beemer/Scribner-Snyder and South Sioux City.

The Blue Devils showed typical early season form but won the event with a 216, while the host team shot 228 and South Sioux, 248. Medalist was Abbie Hunke of Scribner-Snyder with a 44. Wayne's Brittney Peterson was runner-up with a 50 while Burgandy Roberts carded a 54 and Taylor Burke, 55. Katlin Potter carded a 57 and Hannah McCorkindale, 59.

The JV's fired a solid score of 218, led by Alexis Reinert with a 50. Marissa Wiese finished with a 53 and Aspen Pflanz, 54 while Cassidy Wiese netted a 61.

On Friday, the Wayne golf team hosted what used to be the Wakefield Invitational. Since the Trojans folded girls golf, Wayne opted to host the event. There were five, full teams along with partial teams from six other schools.

Josh Johnson's troops captured first place with a 420 while the JV team placed second with a 449. Cedar Catholic was third with a 480 and Elkhorn Valley finished at 512 followed by Crofton, 519. Oakland-Craig, Pierce, Stanton, Pender and Tekamah-Herman each had partial teams.

Individually there was a one score below 100 as Wayne senior Brittney Peterson captured first place with a 95. Taylor Burke carded fourth place with a 103 and Marissa Wiese finished seventh with a 107 from the JV team. Hannah McCorkindale was eighth overall with a 108 followed by Cassidy Wiese from the JV squad with a 109.

Wayne had nine medal winners on the day including Katlin Potter with an 11th place tally of 111 and Alexis Reinert, 13th with a 114. Burgandy Roberts was 14th with a 114 and Aspen Pflanz finished 18th at 122.

Herald website hosts Wayne State Coaches Show this fall

The Wayne Herald's website, mywaynews.com, will be the home to a first-of-its-kind weekly update of Wayne State College intercollegiate athletics.

Each week during the fall sports season, Wayne State coaches will be featured in their respective sports on the Wayne State Coaches Show, an exclusive webcast sponsored by First National Bank that will be found in the "Video" section of the newspaper's website.

The shows will be hosted by managing editor Michael Carnes, and will include coaches from Wayne State's football, volleyball and soccer programs. Each sport will have its own webcast running each week, and the webcasts can be seen at any time, so fans can get caught up on the Wildcats at their leisure.

"With the explosion of the Internet and the trending growth of our website, along with the success of Wayne State's athletic programs, we felt it was a great opportunity for The Wayne Herald to promote the Wildcats in a way that hasn't been done before," Carnes said. "This new weekly series of programs - along with our online updates and weekly newspaper coverage - will give Wayne State fans all the news and information about the Wildcats they need to keep up on Wayne State athletics throughout the year."

Each sport will have its own daily slot. Football will run on Tuesdays, volleyball on Wednesdays and soccer on Thursday's. Cross country features will be seen on Fridays periodically during the season. Carnes' regular weekly sports video blog, From the Bleachers, will be moved to Mondays.

Carnes said the weekly programs will also include winter and spring sports, including basketball, baseball and softball. Cross country, track and golf will also be featured during the school year.

Wakefield running back Justin Dorcey finds the going tough as he is brought down by two Stanton defenders during Friday's 48-0 defeat.

Trojans run over by solid Stanton team in grid opener

By MICHAEL CARNES

STANTON - The Wakefield Trojans had a tough opening-season task in taking on eighth-ranked Stanton on the road Friday.

The Mustangs showed why they are one of the early contenders for the Class C-2 state title, scoring on seven of eight possessions and making quick work of the visitors in the season opener for both teams, posting a 48-0 shutout.

Coach Mike Hassler said his team just wasn't ready for the ground attack Stanton threw at them.

"Up front, I don't think we were ready to play," he said. "We have a lot of first-time starters that showed their inexperience, and we just have to get back to the drawing board and get better."

Wakefield was held to 100 yards in total offense in Friday's season opener, while Stanton had no trouble passing that goal against a Wakefield defensive front that offered little resistance against the Mustangs' front line.

The Mustangs broke a big run on their first drive, as Spencer Nickolite scampered for 62 yards to set up Stanton's first score. Four plays later, Houston Huss barreled in from three yards out to give the Mustangs a 6-0 advantage.

Stanton doubled that lead later in the period, moving 55 yards in eight plays before Nickolite scored on a nine-yard gallop. Michael Eberly threw for a touchdown pass and called his own number late in the first half to make it 28-0, and the Mustangs rolled to the win from there.

"That's Stanton football," Hassler said. "They're good at running the ball, and their kids know what they're doing and that's where you want to be."

While Stanton's offense was dominant, the Mustang defense stuffed the Trojans and kept

Winside volleyball team loaded for state run

A new coach is about the only thing different that Winside volleyball fans will see when they watch this year's team.

Almost the entire team that went 21-9, won the Lewis and Clark Conference title and earned a second straight trip to state is back this year, and first-year coach Brooke DeBolt is excited about her team's chances going into the 2011 season.

"We have three returning seniors that have started since they were freshmen and bring a lot of experience and ability, and that will be a big help," she said. "We also have three strong juniors that were starters last year, so overall we have a good team back and we should be very strong."

and Shelby Lienemann were key elements in the success of last year's team. All three earned a number of postseason honors and will be key elements in the success of this year's team.

"They're all extremely tough players, and there are three players there who can hit from anywhere," DeBolt said. "Jerae is an extreme blocker and can get up the middle, Erin covers the court very well and so does Shelby and they're both amazing hitters."

Junior Nazya Thies has evolved into a solid middle hitter for the Wildcats, and twin sisters Bridget and Shannon Gray, along with junior Jayd Roberts, should give the team a solid presence with their defense and setting.

"Bridget was a setter last year, and Shannon was able to come in for Bridget and we'll be looking at her as the setter, and I think the girls are adjusting to that," DeBolt said.

The Wildcats are the defending Lewis and Clark Conference champions, and DeBolt said she expects this year's team to be in the hunt to repeat this season.

"I have very high expectations for this team," she said. "I haven't seen as strong a set of girls as the ones we have here. I feel this team can repeat in conference. Districts is going to be tough, but I think we have a very good chance and I expect this team to do well."

If the Wildcats do follow through on their coach's expectations and make it to state, DeBolt is hopeful that the team can do something that the previous six Winside state qualifiers couldn't - win a match.

 the ball out of the offense's hands for much of the night. Stanton's first six scoring drives lasted no fewer than six plays, while the Trojans were unable to get a first down offensively until late in the game.

Justin Dorcey carried the ball nine times for 26 yards during the first three quarters, while quarterback Even Nicholson was rushed by the Stanton defense and was unable to open up the Trojans' attack, completing just one pass in the first three quarters.

"We want to get good at running offense, and when you know where you're going and you know what you're doing, you can be more aggressive and we're just not there yet," Hassler said.

The Trojans did perform well in the special teams area, Hassler said, noting some good kickoff returns by Jose Calderon and a solid punting game.

"That was one area where we did well tonight," he said. "We made them change their attack on kickoffs, and we've worked hard on special teams. Now we need to get better in the other phases of the game."

Wakefield will have the week off this week to get ready for No. 4 Crofton, as the Warriors come to Hassler park Sept. 9 for a non-district matchup.

"We go from playing No. 8 to No. 4, and nobody's going to feel sorry for us," Hassler said. "There's not an easy week on the schedule, and we'll need to come out ready to play."

Winside - The Wildcats have never won a state tournament game in six years, but this might be the year that skid gets snapped. New coach Brooke DeBolt inherits a team that is pretty much the same team that rolled to state last year, only to run into the eventual state champions in the first round for the second straight year. This is probably the most talented of the five area teams, and if they can adjust to the new coach, they should be in great shape for a third straight trip to state.

Blue Devil gridders looking for playoffs

Last year, Wayne made their second straight trip to the state football playoffs for the first time since the 1983-84 seasons.

There are some holes to fill if the Blue Devils want to reach the playoffs for a first-ever third consecutive year, but coach Rich Rethwisch is optimistic about his team's chances for reaching that goal this season.

The Blue Devils have three starters back on both sides of the ball from last year's 4-5 team, and he thinks a good summer of work has his team ready to go.

The Wayne offense will again be led by senior quarterback Gage Rethwisch, one of six returning starters overall along with Luke Trenhaile, Jordan Backer, Joey Lenihan, Jalen Barry and Brady Soden, who is making the move to fullback this season after playing on the line last year.

Rethwisch threw for a 1,817 yards last year and set a number of school records, and while the lost several key receivers from last year, the elder Rethwisch said there are plenty of targets to throw to this year.

"We have a lot of kids that Gage can choose from at receiver," he said, noting Backer, Lenihan, Miles Anderson and Drew Carroll. "And there's another group behind them with people like Danny Melena, Brad Longe, Tony Sinniger, Luke Rethwisch, Tyler Robinson and Curtis Moeller. We have some kids with some skills."

Moving Soden to fullback, along with Trenhaile at running back, should help balance the Wayne offense and make them more of a multiple threat.

"Brady's a big kid, and we want to run the ball more this year," Rethwisch said.

The Blue Devils have some good size up front, led by senior lineman Chris Rogers. The 6-foot-4, 290-pound senior will anchor a line that includes seniors Colton Uhing, Keith Hobza and Austin Schmale.

"We've also got Cody Frahm at center, and Austin Keiser and Ramsey Jorgensen are in there as well, so we have some good-sized kids and they've worked hard," Rethwisch said.

The Blue Devils have a new defensive coordinator in former LCC head coach Terry Bear, and Rethwisch said he'll have some aggressive, hard-hitting kids on defense.

"Brandon Martin's been a big aggressive kid, and we're looking forward to seeing what he'll be able to do," Rethwisch said. "Malcolm Martin has also been a surprise for us, and I think he can help us out on defense."

One notable change is moving Trenhaile from middle linebacker to the WILL linebacker. "He's got some speed and can help us out there," the coach said.

The Blue Devils will face what is arguably the toughest district schedule in the state, a district that includes last year's state finals teams, Norfolk Catholic and Pierce. Both are ranked very high once again in the preseason, and Rethwisch hopes his team can be more competitive this season.

If they can close the gap, the Blue Devils should be in good position for a playoff spot. Depending on how it goes, Rethwisch is hopeful a repeat matchup with Norfolk Catholic won't be their first-round destiny.

Wayne High netters have optimistic outlook

With four returning starters back from last year's 21-11 team, Wayne High volleyball coach Joyce Hoskins is hoping for a trip to the state tournament.

It's been eight years since the Blue Devils have made the volleyball version of the Elite Eight, but she has a good group back this season and believes they can put it together this season.

"If we can stay healthy, I think we have a shot at going to state," she said. "We have to get past Wisner-Pilger in subdistrict, and Concordia is on the other side and they were at state last year. There are some obstacles, but if we can improve and stay healthy, I think we can be successful this year."

The senior foursome of Katie Hoskins, Cassie Harm, Laura Muren and Elle Schramm give the Blue Devils a good nucleus to build around this season.

"We lost some key players from last year, but we have a really good core of kids coming back," she said. "The four seniors have been four-year starters and bring a lot of experience and enthusiasm, and they're good leaders. We also have some young kids that will fill some roles, and some good kids are coming up."

Katie Hoskins is an imposing figure, not only with her 6-foot-2 frame at the net, but behind the service line as well. She led the team in kills with 353 last year and broke the school record with 79 ace serves.

"Katie does a nice job serving and is stronger than she was, and she's a lot more confident with her jump serve," Hoskins said. "Teams know we're going to her, and they still have a hard time blocking because she's a powerful and strong hitter."

She'll see a lot of action thanks to the setting of Muren, who took control of the offense last year and recorded 620 set assists.

"Lauren's a good leader out there for us," Hoskins said. "I was looking at going to a 6-2 offense, but she's such a good leader that I can't not have her on the court. She runs the offense well and is a good blocker, so she does some good things for us up front."

Schramm has developed into a silent assassin as the middle hitter. Last year, she had a team-best 32 blocks and has proven to be a solid contributor at the net.

Harm is the team's libero. Last year, her 246 digs were tops on the team and she is an outstanding defender and a great communicator on the court.

The Blue Devils have some solid younger players that should step up this year. Juniors Jessica Biermann (setter/back row) and Sydney Burke (outside hitter) will see plenty of action this year, and sophomores Ashton Schweers (middle/outside) and Meagan Backer (back row) should contribute as well.

The Blue Devils will face some tough competition, starting with this week's Northeast Nebraska Shootout at Wisner-Pilger. They'll face a tough Mid-State Conference docket and see some quality opponents throughout the season.

WHS cross country teams look to compete for state championships

Last year, the Wayne High cross country teams swept the Mid-State Conference team titles and finished strong at the state meet.

This year, both teams have the talent to improve on last year's finishes, and coach Rocky Ruhl thinks both teams can make a run - so to speak - at the state title.

The boys will go after it this year with a group that includes half of last year's fourth-place state team and some solid returning runners.

Leading the way will be senior Quentin Jorgensen, who was the silver medalist in the Class C race last year and is looking solid coming into the season.

"When you've got a guy like Quentin who can get first or second at every meet, it's a luxury because you can work on your depth and try to get them to run in a pack and finish in the top 20," Ruhl said.

Joe Dunklau and Aaron Bernal are both back from last year, and the addition of Tyler Ellis - a state qualifier at Lutheran High Northeast - gives Wayne a good first four runners to work with.

"Joe is back and has trained a lot, and Tyler came in this year and is running well," Ruhl said. "We also have Aaron Bernal, and we have several kids who are pushing for that fifth and sixth spot on the varsity, so I think our depth is going to be there for us."

Sawyer Jager, Jared Peterson and Ben Hoskins are all in the mix for those final two spots, and Ruhl is hoping to find runners there who can get in near the top and mess things up for opposing teams' scoring.

The girls team that finished eighth last year is back for another run this year, led by seniors Emily Nelson and Megan Stalling and sophomore Angie Nelson, who was the team's highest finisher at state last year.

"Right now, Megan and Angie are our top two runners, and they're going to have a solid season for us," Ruhl said. "They can push themselves, and they're helping out the younger girls as well."

Martha Mitiku and Dulce Torres both battled injuries last year, but those two and Emily Nelson all appear to be healthy and ready to go.

"The girls are looking good coming into the season and looking healthy, and I think we'll have a pretty strong team on the girls side this year," Ruhl said.

Both teams should be in the hunt to repeat as conference champions this year, and Ruhl thinks both teams are capable of competing for a district title.

Winside football teams thin on numbers, should compete

Staying healthy is going to be important for the Winside football team this year, as they are pretty thin in numbers.

First-year coach Tim Manzer has just 18 players on the roster heading into the season, which is going to make for a challenging situation for the Wildcats.

"Our problem is that we're down in numbers to where we only have 18 out for football," he said. "There aren't many kids walking the halls here who shouldn't be out for football. We just don't have many boys out right now."

What they do have is some quality experience back from a team that went 7-3 and got into the second round of the Class D-1 playoffs last year.

The Wildcats will be led by senior quarterback and defensive back Blaine Meyer, who performed well behind center last year and should be one of the Wildcats' go-to players this season.

"Blaine has good speed, and if he comes along this year, he can be a very good quarterback for us," Manzer said. "He's also very solid on defense and could be one of our better defensive backs."

Meyer and classmates Forrest Jones and Coltin Brokaw give the Wildcats a solid trio of players to anchor what should be a tough defense this season.

"Those three were very good on defense last year for us, and we're going to build our defense around those three."

The Wildcats also have some good players coming back who could make an impact this year, including Caleb Lienemann, Gatlin Jensen and Jesse Boschult.

"I think Caleb has the potential to be a very good football player, both on offense and defense," Manzer said. "Gatlin got some playing time last year and should be pretty good, and we need Jesse to come through for us at guard this year."

The Wildcats are in a tough district that year, which includes preseason No. 1 Creighton. Manzer said the Bulldogs will be the team to beat in the district.

Eagles hope for return to playoffs

The Allen Eagles had a rough go of it last year, as youth and injuries led to a 2-6 campaign.

Coach Dave Uldrich has many of this key players back from last year, and they should be an improved team in 2011 that could make a run at the playoffs in a very tough district.

"We're still young and we have to fill a lot of holes, but we had a lot of kids who played last year because of injuries, so we have some experience," he said. "Plus, the kids work pretty darn hard, so we're looking forward to it."

There are only six seniors on the Eagles' 32-man roster, and will rely on a solid group of underclassmen to battle through this season.

"We have a small senior class, but I think they'll all have a chance to play for us and have some success," Uldrich said. "We also have some good juniors and sophomores that I think will come in and play well."

Junior Jacob Stewart is the only returning player with a significant amount of varsity experience coming into the year.

"Jake's about our only true starter back," he said. "We had a number of kids who started some last year, but nobody who started a lot. We still have a lot of experience back, though, and that will help."

Freshman Brian Boese has performed well at quarterback in the early going, and freshman Caleb Thomas could also be a surprise at running back. Sophomore Austin Connot could also see time at end on offense and as a defensive back.

"We have some freshmen and sophomores that play pretty hard for us, so it'll be interesting to see how they do," Uldrich said.

The Eagles will face a very challenging schedule this year, starting with their season opener at Newcastle. They are in a district that includes a number of state qualifiers from last year, and season-ending opponent Creighton is being looked at as a favorite to win Class D-1 this season.

"If we'd have won our opener last year, everybody in the district would have qualified for state," Uldrich said. "We have a brutal schedule, but I think we're going to be better and I think our non-district schedule is a little more favorable."

The key for the Eagles this year is to stay healthy and avoid mistakes.

"We need to keep working hard and get more reps in for the kids to be ready, and I think we'll be a better team this year."

Winside runners have numbers

The Winside cross country team has some good numbers this year, and that's good news for coach Jennifer Kesting.

Four seniors are among the nine returning starters back year for the boys and girls squads, and a good group of young runners will allow Winside to field a full team on both sides of the ledger this year.

"I'm pretty excited about the freshmen and first-year runners and am looking forward to seeing what they can do," she said. "I'll be interested to see how they do on the course once the adrenaline kicks in."

Seniors John Hansen and Natasha Jensen and junior Colin Hansen give the Wildcats a good core group of leaders, and Kesting hopes all three runners can put themselves in position to compete at a high level this year. Both Jensen and the elder Hansen were close to qualifying for state last year, and Kesting feels both runners have a chance to make their way in this year.

Tina Nelson and Tanner Woslager will give some additional senior leadership to both teams, and returning runners Tanner Westerhaus, David Greunke, Alex Davis and Selena Finn will be among runners to watch for the Wildcats.

As to whether they can get to state as a team or individually, Kesting hopes to see her runners develop and put themselves in position to do that at the end of the season.

"Some of these kids haven't run in a meet yet, so I'm not sure how we're going to do early on, but I hope we can keep improving and do well at districts," she said.

Experience is the key word for the LCC volleyball team this year, as coach Patti Cunningham has five returning starters back from last year's 24-7 team.

"We're really experienced, and a number of the seniors have played for four years, so we feel we'll be a versatile team," Cunningham said.

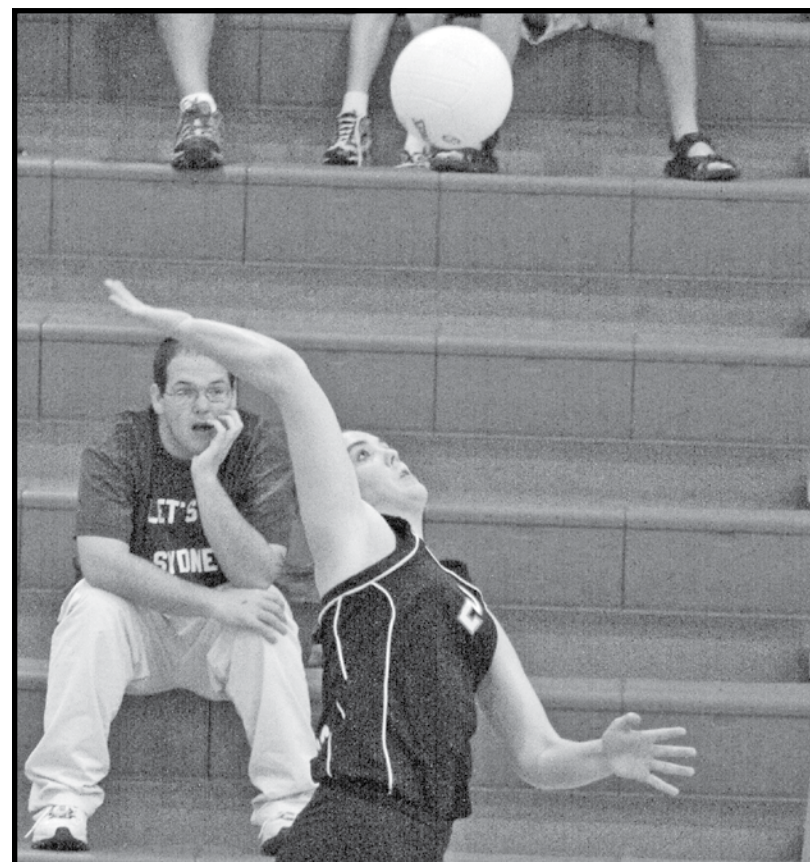

The five returning starters are all seniors, including outside hitter Amy Pritchard, who led the team last year with 392 kills. Also back is setter and middle blocker Jade Cunningham, who had 544 set assists last year and also led the team with 49 ace serves and 62 blocks.

Other seniors returning to the lineup include libero Audrey Kastrup, who had 255 digs; Mandy Nelson, a setter and middle blocker who had 287 assists and 145 digs; and right hitter Taylor Linn, who is able to contribute on both offense and defense.

"The seniors have a lot of experience on the court, and they're working hard to play very athletically this year," Cunningham said. "They're working hard from a defensive standpoint, and if they keep those goals in mind they'll be a

Also back with starting experience is junior Kiley Thompson, a 5-foot-8 outside hitter.

"Kiley has been a nice addition to the group," Cunningham said. "She jumps well and swings hard, and looks a lot more confident on the court."

The Lady Bears also have some solid returning letterwinners, including Dani Huss, a 6-foot middle blocker that should give the LCC team another weapon at the net.

Cunningham said the team should be a competitive bunch in the NENAC this year, a conference that has the potential to be a wide open race this year.

"We have to play hard every night and play aggressive against those teams, and I think everybody challenges each other," she said.

The Lady Bears will be in the same subdistrict as defending Class C-2 champion Lutheran High Northeast and state runner-up Hartington Cedar Catholic, but she is optimistic her team can be in the thick of things at season's end.

"Our goal is to keep working hard, and we'll see what happens at the end of the season," she said.

Experienced Trojans football team should be competitive

The youth movement of the past couple of years for Wakefield football should yield some better results this season, according to first-year coach Mike Hassler.

Not far removed from back-to-back state championships, the Trojans have had a rough go of it the last couple of seasons as experience gave way to youth. This year, those kids are a year older and looking good heading into the 2011 season.

"The last couple of years, we've had to play some young kids, so we have a lot of experience coming back this year and good size on the front line," he said. "We also have experience in our skill positions, so I'm looking forward to it."

The Trojans have been outsize at the line of scrimmage the past couple of seasons, but have some good numbers up front with players like Alan Lopez, Daniel Muller, Steve Sarmiento, Alfredo Fergoso and Henry Greve. Those five average almost 230 pounds per man, which is going to make the Trojans a lot tougher up front.

"We've been playing a lot of teams that have outsize us, but we're up in numbers this year and have some depth, and we have some kids who have gotten a year older and put on some weight and are looking a lot stronger," Hassler said.

Sophomore quarterback Evan Nicholson learned a lot in his first season. He and running back Josh Dolph lead a young but talented backfield this season.

"Evan saw a lot of time last year, and Josh saw a lot of time as well. He and Justin Dorcey at fullback are going to get the ball a lot, and we have Danny VanderVeen back at wide receiver who has some good hands, so we're looking for some good things on offense," Hassler said.

The Trojans have traditionally been a run-oriented offense, and Hassler hopes with the returning size and experience in the backfield, they will be able to get that done this season.

"Wakefield football has always been about running the ball, and we want to get back to that," he said.

Defensively, a number of those players will be called upon to contribute, along with people like Heath Greve, Jacob Lunz and Devin Anderson. They are also among a group of 12 kids who were letterwinners on last year's 0-8 team.

"Defensively, if we can stop the ball, we're going to have a chance to win on Friday nights, and we'll try to go with more four and five-man fronts," Hassler said.

The Trojans will face a challenging schedule this season. They started the season with a 48-0 loss at No. 8 Stanton, and will also face a top ten preseason team in Crofton, along with a solid Homer squad in district play.

"Stanton and Crofton are in the top 10, and Homer is solid and Ponca and Hartington (CC) will both have good teams," Hassler said. "Week in and week out, there are not any gimme games, so we're going to have to work."

Hassler hopes the team works hard and is aggressive in its efforts to try and get back on the winning side of the ledger this season.

"Nobody is going to give you anything on the football field, and if you want that 'W' you're going to have to work for it and go out and take it," he said.

LCC quarterback Kyle Kardell (9) and Mitch Heikes are back for the Bears, who hope to improve on last year's 2-6 season.

New coach to lead LCC gridders

The Laurel-Concord/Coleridge football team is under new leadership this year, as first-year coach T.J. Shiers inherits a team that is trying to bounce back from a tough 2-6 season in 2010.

The Bears have five starters back on both sides of the ball, and Shiers thinks the team is making progress as they get ready for the upcoming campaign.

"I think we've got a great attitude and have had some great practices so far," he said. "I think, overall, we'll be in better shape this year, although we're still young in the offensive line."

The Bears will be led on offense by junior quarterback Kyle Kardell and senior running back Mitch Heikes. Both players look to be solid contributors on offense and should be the Bears' go-to players this season.

"Mitch has a great work ethic," Shiers said of the senior, who is being looked at as a college prospect. "He was in the weight room all summer and has gotten super-strong, and he's been a great leader all around, so we're looking for a lot from him this season."

"Kyle has been getting better at quarterback," he added. "He's worked hard on some things and has watched a lot of film and is working on coverages, and he's getting a lot better and really picking up the offense."

Heikes and wide receiver Daniel Hartnett are the only senior returning starters for the Bears this season. Also back are juniors Kardell, Justin Saunders, Austin Roach, Austin Gothier and Nathan Schmitt, as well as sophomores Ben Barelman and Ethan Hirschman.

That core group will lead a team that is switching to a Pro-I offense this season, and Shiers looks for his team to take advantage of their power to establish a good rushing attack.

"We want to run a lot of option and a controlled passing game," he said. "We're pretty quick in the backfield this year, and we're going to try and utilize that."

The Bears will run a 5-3 defense

LCC runners have three returning

LCC cross country coach Megan Meyer is hoping some of her runners can make up for the loss of a four-time state qualifier this season.

The graduation of Katie Jacobsen means the Bears will have to look to some new faces to get to the medal stand this year.

"Although we lost one of the best runners in the state, we have high hopes for 2011," she said.

Junior Sammie Camenzind, who has run behind Jacobsen the last two years, looks to be in position to step up and run well this season.

"Her technique is solid, and we feel confident that she has a chance to run in Kearney (at state) this year," she said. "We hope to see her take on a leadership role as the most experienced female on the squad."

Camenzind won't be running alone this year, as freshman Sadie Peterson is on the team, and Meyer is hoping to see her improve this season.

"She has the potential to do great things," she said. "She keeps up well with Sami right now, and we hope to see her build strength and endurance through the year."

The LCC boys will have a full complement of runners this season, led by returning sophomore Adam Haahr and senior Tyler Schindler.

"We hope to hone Schindler's technique, and then it will be a matter of time before he finds his way to the medal stand," Meyer said. "We have some strong (male) runners, but we don't quite have the consistency yet."

Haahr comes from a running family, and Meyer said that experience will show through this season. The addition of first-timer Aaron Colwell gives them some senior leadership, and Chris Heydon and Gabe Abts will round out the team.

"If they practice hard and get those jitters out, I think we have some kids who are capable of qualifying for state," Meyer said.

Trojan volleyballers in good shape

With seven players that have varsity experience, coach Megan Nixon said the Wakefield volleyball team is in good shape heading into the 2011 campaign.

The Trojans lost a key player in Keri Lunz from last year's 15-17 team, but has a good nucleus of players set to return this year.

"I think we're ahead of where we were last year," she said. "We have some good depth with four returning seniors, and the girls have worked hard in the offseason and are ready to go."

Returning to the lineup this season are seniors Katie Weinrich, Bailey Echtenkamp, Mercedes Greve and Ashley Gilliland, along with juniors Sydney Rose and Paige Ellis and sophomore Lauren Lehmkuhl.

Weinrich had 245 kills and 75 blocks last season, and Rose directs the offense after posting 655 set assists and 43 ace serves in 2010.

"Katie will be a key for us. She has some experience on the floor and I think she'll contribute quite a bit," Nixon said. "Sydney really works hard on the floor and continues to improve as a setter. She's working on her consistency and getting the ball where it needs to be."

Nixon said the senior group is collectively taking on leadership of the team and are taking advantage of their moment in the sun as seniors.

Five other players should step in and help the team as well this season, including junior Shelby Lierman, sophomores Whitney Echtenkamp and Tianna Gnat, and freshmen Taryn Hingst and Emily Puls.

The Trojans will face a competitive schedule in the conference and subdistrict play this year.

"We're moving east, so it's a little different, but we still have some tough teams there like Homer, and that subdistrict is on the other side, so we've got to play good volleyball at that time of year," Nixon said.

The fourth-year Wakefield coach said the team can accomplish a lot this season if they are able to battle throughout every game.

Lady Eagles have young team back

ALLEN VOLLEYBALL

Coach: Cheryl Greve
Year: 4th
Starters Returning: 4
Letterwinners: 8
2010 Record: 9-20

Returning starters: Hannah Finnegan, jr.; Brittany Sullivan, jr.; Vanessa Klug, jr.; Lindsey Jones, so.

Players to watch: Sam Johnson, sr.; Olivia Schneiders, sr.; Tori Lubberstedt, jr.; Morgan Bathke, so.

Lindsey Jones leads a young and talented squad for the Allen Lady Eagles this fall.

The Allen High volleyball team has eight returning letterwinners back from a team that was young and inexperienced last year.

Coach Cheryl Greve said this year's team still has a lot of youth, but has a year under their belts and should be a tougher team during the 2011 season.

"We're still young, but we've shown a lot of improvement and we're looking to be more competitive," she said.

Juniors Hannah Finnegan and Brittany Sullivan earned all-conference honorable mention honors, and they'll be among the go-to players for the Lady Eagles this season, Greve said.

"I'm looking for a lot of leadership out of them," she said. "They understand the game a lot better and are hard workers, so I'm looking for a lot of leadership from them."

Seniors Sam Johnson and Olivia Schneiders are also back this year, along with juniors Vanessa Klug and Tori Lubberstedt and sophomores Lindsey Jones and Morgan Bathke.

With that group, Greve hopes the Lady Eagles can be a quicker outfit this season.

"I'm hoping to speed up our offense this year," she said. "We hopefully will be better passers and better setters and can speed up what we do. They're enthusiastic and hard workers, and they'll be good leaders for us."

The really good news for Allen volleyball fans is that they won't have to travel far for a home game this year, which they were forced to do last year while the school gymnasium was under reconstruction.

"That was the first thing the girls said coming in, that we actually have home games this year," Greve said, smiling. "We're excited and really looking forward to that."

The Lady Eagles will face a challenging schedule in the Lewis and Clark Conference this season, with teams like Bancroft-Rosalie and defending conference champion Winside on the docket.

"We're looking to be a more competitive team this season," Greve said. "A lot of it depends on where we fill holes and how we can do things. We have a good group of young girls who are hungry and worked hard this summer, and I look for a lot of hustle and intensity and higher level of play this year."

Don't get me started

Movie about first UNL football team gets fans ready

There is always a lot of excitement for sports fans when winter turns to spring and we can get outdoors and enjoy the fresh air as we watch local teams compete in track, golf or baseball.

I don't know about you, but there's something about the change from summer to fall that really gets me fired up. And it always seems to be because of one thing:

Football. Sunday evening, the Majestic Theater showed a documentary that showcased the first decade of Nebraska football, and there were a lot of football fans (including those, like myself, decked out in Husker gear) who enjoyed Jim Fields' independent film showcasing the start of what has become a statewide obsession.

By day, Fields is a teacher at Iowa Western Community College in Council Bluffs. His passion, though, is film-making, and the film he showcased here Sunday was the third documentary he has made since beginning his craft almost a decade ago.

His inspiration for putting the movie together came when he questioned the word that serves as the title to the movie: what's a Bugeater?

According to the movie, the word was used to describe the people who lived on the plains of Nebraska during the 1800's. They faced very difficult challenges and hardships, sometimes resorting to eating bugs when times got really tough.

Early writers used terms like Old Gold Knights and Bugeaters to describe the first Nebraska teams, but not much else was known about the early years.

"When you look at a lot of books on Nebraska football and it refers to Bugeaters, it talks about the funny guys in the white uniforms with the funny name," he said. "I thought it would be neat to go back and research it, and I spent a lot of time in Love Library putting the story together and uncovered so many things that nobody's heard about. It's been really neat to watch people's reaction (to the information) as they watch the movie."

One of the most interesting parts of the early years of Husker football (or should I say Bugeater?) was the constant change in coaches. The Nebraska team went 41-25-4 (including a 1-7-1 mark in 1899) and had seven winning seasons in that first decade, yet went through eight coaches.

Most notable among those was the coach of the 1898 team, Fielding H. Yost. He led Nebraska to its best record (8-3), yet was not asked to stay because of—get this—mounting financial debt at the school.

"They went through so many coaches that first decade, and then when they finally got a great coach, the school was $250 in debt and they had to let him go," Fields said. "He left Nebraska and eventually went to Michigan, where he became one of the greatest coaches in football history."

The movie was a great feature to get football fans—especially Husker fans—geared up for the upcoming season, and it included an area resident who played two roles in the film.

Tory Nelson of Wakefield, who is a high school teacher in Omaha, had two parts in the movie, acting as one of the football players and also taking a short role as one of the university's news reporters who typed away on an old manual typewriter.

If you want to see more information about the movie, check out the movie's website at www.bugeatersthemovie.com. It will be shown again at the Rivoli Theater in Seward on Sunday, Sept. 11, and Fields is taking the film to the Estes Park Film Festival the following weekend in Colorado (wonder how the folks there will take to seeing a film about an old foe that used to beat them like ugly stepchildren... not that I'm bitter toward those overrated sissies in Boulder or anything).

One of the great things about being a fan of any sports team is having the opportunity to look back at some of the earlier times in the team's history. While Nebraska has had a lot of success over the years, there have been some dark times (even darker than the Callahan/Pedersen era, if you can imagine, was between 1941 and 1961 when Nebraska was the league doormat) and some awesome moments (pick a year between 1969 and 2002). But to be able to go back and see how it all began was a wonderful experience for the Husker fans in the audience Sunday evening.

And as Husker fans in these parts cheer on Nebraska, they'll be able to remember how it all began... as Bugeaters.

Capitol View Nelson's low profile an issue

By ED HOWARD
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — Opponents of U.S. Sen. Ben Nelson are making an issue of his keeping a comparatively low profile while Congress is taking a break.

Translation: Republicans wish the Democratic lawmaker would make more public appearances, in hopes that he would face noticeably animated complaints from some among his constituency. They also hope that any unpleasantness would be the subject of headlines.

That's fair enough. A Senate race is big league politics. Your opponents throw curves, or they throw at your head.

Besides, if Nelson didn't face some tough-minded folk among the electorate, he would likely be unique among members of the Senate and the House.

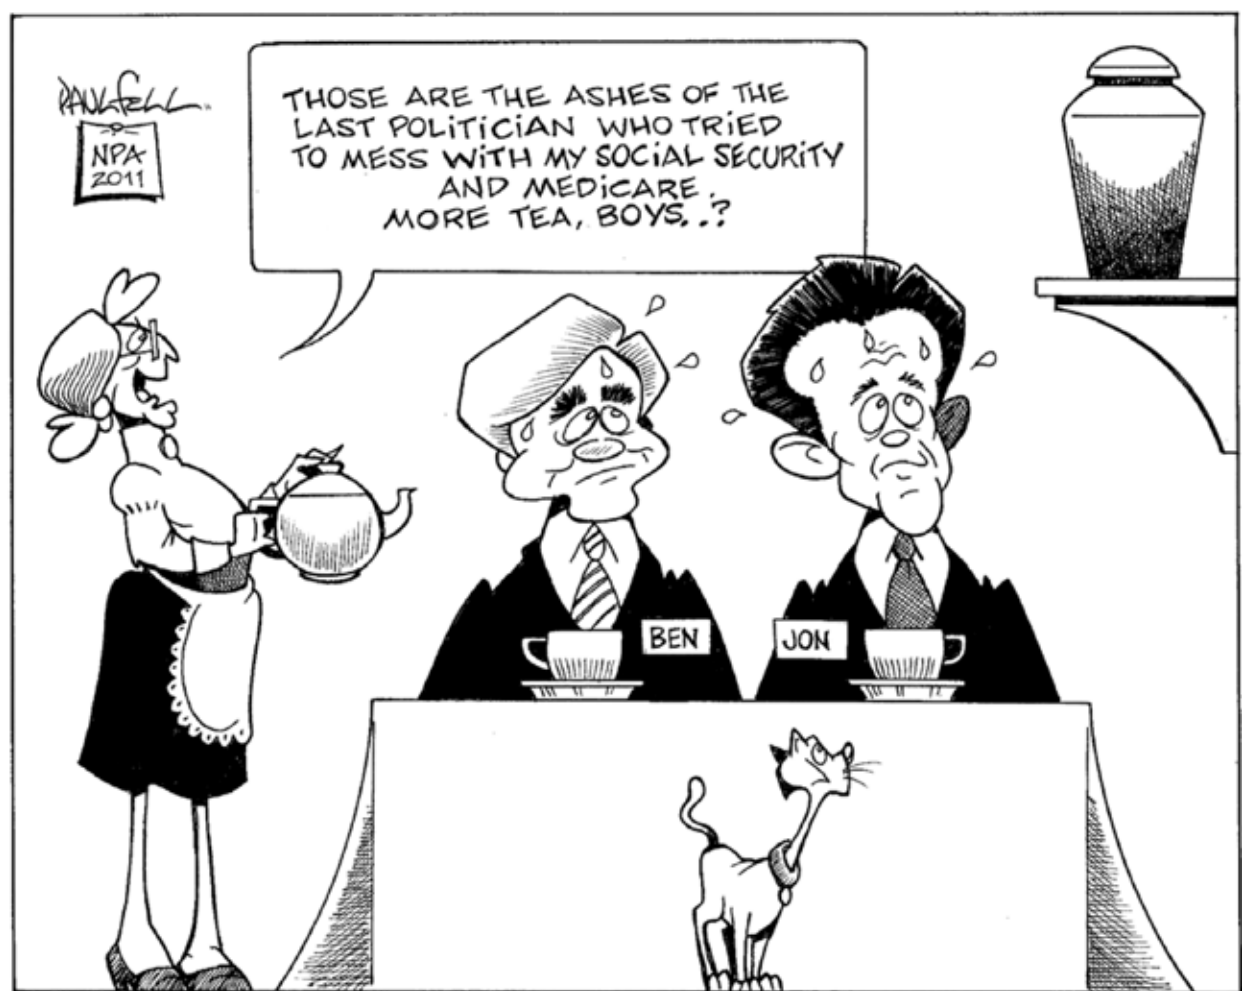

Questions about funding Social Security and Medicare, and increasing numbers of questions about the preferential tax status of the wealthiest corporations and individuals, are being thrown at members of Congress all around the country. And at some public appearances they are being thrown like rocks.

Interestingly, there is the possibility that Nebraska and some other states might test the veracity of a longtime bit of popular wisdom concerning Social Security.

As far back as the 1960s the "popular wisdom" among politicians, political reporters and just about anyone you might talk to, was that Social Security represented the political "third rail."

Subway trains run on electricity. The electricity runs through the third rail. Put your hands on the third rail and you die.

Only recently have there been serious-as-a-heart-attack discussions about ultimately reducing Social Security benefits of all kinds.

The increased level of discussion in Washington, however, has unarguably generated a discernible rumbling among the proletariat—whether pro or con. Some of the rumbling has to do with the fact that only a few of the elected crowd have acknowledged or championed any of the simple steps that could easily solve any funding problems in the system.

So, what about that popular wisdom of more than half a century?

The former included the notion that the third rail of Social Security would become increasingly deadly, because there would be so many

Baby Boomers in a hugely important political demographic: "Old geezers who can be counted upon to vote!"

It also included a presumption that if an incumbent said they would cut Social Security, an opponent would immediately start bouncing around like a bug in a skillet, screaming, "Not me!"

The view from here: The popular wisdom being discussed was developed long ago, in a political and social galaxy far, far away.

Today's popular wisdom might be that the degree to which voters are likely to be annoyed or pleased with a candidate can be overwhelmingly influenced by the amount of interest group money and support they can collect. And by the fact there might be other issues—social, economic and political—that could reduce the power in that third rail.

Of greater importance: In some races, including the 2012 Nebraska Senate campaign, both candidates might be on the side of cutting Social Security and/or Medicare benefits, although they aren't likely to say so in plain language. (Wipe that surprised look off your face.)

Such realities might only be changed if some politicians hear a noise rising from the electorate like the third rail being powered up—sufficient to convince them that they could still be headed for a nasty shock.

Legislative Update

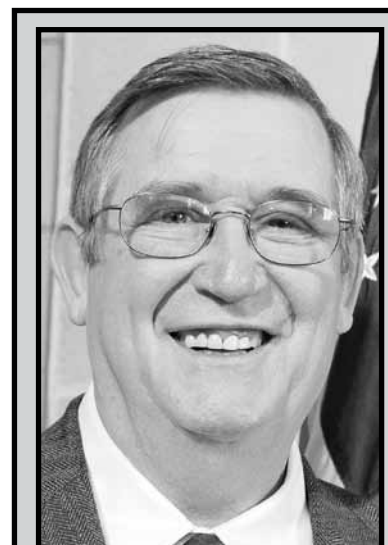

Visits, meetings highlight recent agenda

Today I pause knowing that Petty Officer 1st Class John Douangdara, United States Navy, will be laid to rest at Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington Va. John grew up and graduated from South Sioux City High School in 2003. John was one of 30 Americans killed in the Chinook helicopter crash on Aug. 6, 2011 in Wardak Province, eastern Afghanistan. John's service to America is greatly appreciated and his sacrifice and that of his family should guide each of us to treasure the opportunities and freedoms we have as American citizens.

This past week I attended an informative meeting at the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District (LENRD) Office at the Lifelong Learning Center on the campus of Northeast Nebraska College in Norfolk. I was able to meet with Stan Staab, Ken Berney and Rod Zessin and learn how projects are introduced, studied, implemented and maintained. We also discussed eminent domain, removal of property from the tax rolls, and recreation vs. flood control.

On Thursday, Aug. 25, I traveled to the corporate office of Boys and Girls Home Inc. in Sioux City with Dist. 10 Senator Bob Krist to visit with Director Art Silva and staff on contracting concerns for services provided in Nebraska. This is part of our efforts to improve the care of foster children and wards of the state. I was at the Capitol Friday for a meeting with the Department of Health and Human Services. The Department and the Legislature's Health and Human Services Committee continue to search for answers to this ongoing issue. Our office has been visiting with citizens from Homer on the Omaha Creek Omadi Drainage District project and the effects of the flood of 2011. We are working with the Office of Senator Mike Johanns in finding assistance and/or guidance for the district.

I witnessed this week the devastation of last week's hail and wind storm in northeast Nebraska. Many of the corn and bean fields in the area have been wiped out by a late season storm. The area south of Waterbury was hit very hard. Our area was not alone in damages being assessed. As you move down the Missouri River, once again Omaha and Council Bluffs received seven inches of rain Monday. Any amount of moisture is not what that area needed, but efforts are being made to clean up and move forward as it is here in our area.

I would remind you, if you have the opportunity, make the trip to Grand Island and support our State Fair, Aug. 27 through Sept. 5.

Black Hills Energy's Nebraska annual price option open for enrollment

Black Hills Energy mailed 2011-12 Annual Price Option enrollment forms to its approximately 175,000 residential natural gas customers in Nebraska on Aug. 30.

Black Hills' Nebraska APO program locks in the customer's price for natural gas for one year. APO customers are billed that same per-therm price for natural gas for the one-year contract period regardless of changes in the national market price of natural gas. "Therms" are the billing unit Black Hills Energy uses.

"APO is a program Black Hills Energy offers to Nebraska residential customers similar to other customer programs such as eBill, CheckLINE and Budget Billing," said Don Nordell, Black Hills Energy Nebraska business operations director. "Like those other programs, APO is revenue neutral to the company and participation is optional. Because APO locks in a fixed per-therm price for natural gas for one year, it provides price certainty for customers who like knowing that - regardless of what the market price is for natural gas - the gas price they pay for a year will not change."

Black Hills Energy purchases a designated supply of natural gas specifically for the APO program, so participation is limited to the first 18,000 customers signing up. Customers who sign up are required to stay on the program for one year unless they move out of Black Hills Energy's Nebraska service territory. The 2011-12 APO program begins Nov. 1, 2011, and runs through Oct. 31, 2012.

Black Hills Energy's Nebraska customers can sign up by returning the postage-paid reply card that's part of the customer mailer. Beginning Aug. 31, customers can also enroll online at www.annual-priceoption.com. The sign-up period ends Sept. 30, 2011, or when the 18,000 customer limit is reached.

A special APO phone line, for customer questions only, is staffed by Black Hills Energy customer service associates 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The APO telephone number is 800-753-7509.

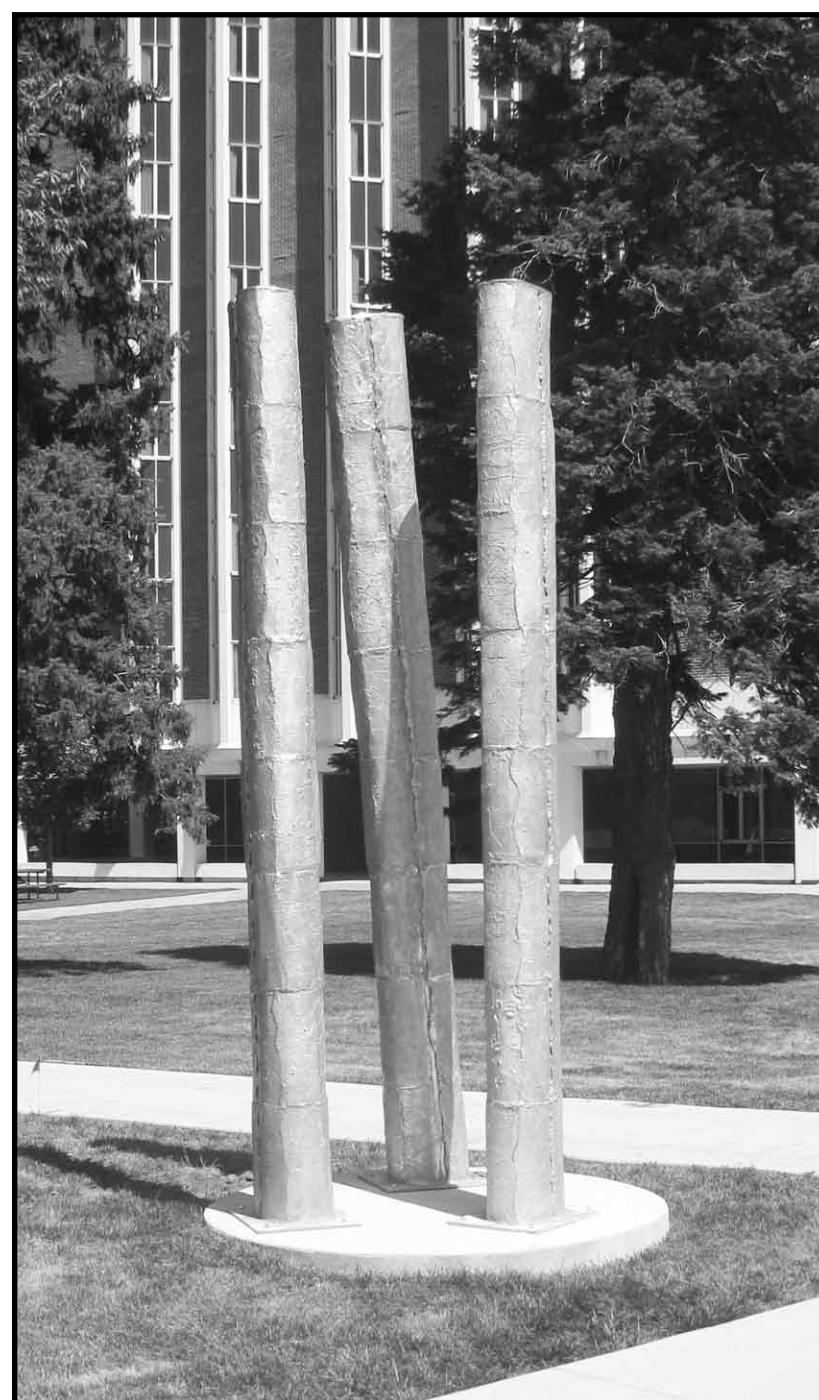

There's an abundance of natural gas supply in the natural gas market, creating similar rates for the 2011-12 APO program as the current APO program, which began last November and ends Oct. 31. Traditional billing natural gas prices for the last 12 months have ranged from $0.448870 per therm (rate area one, September 2010) to $0.701310 per therm (rate area three, February 2011).

Natural gas costs are the largest portion of a customer's bill, but Black Hills Energy does not earn any profit from that portion of the bill. The price the company pays for natural gas is the price customers are charged and pay.

With traditional billing, the natural gas price typically changes monthly depending on the national natural gas market price. Bills for traditional billing customers also increase or decrease monthly due to how much gas is used in addition to gas market price changes.

While APO customers are billed the same gas price each month for a year, locking in one variable of the bill, APO monthly customer bills will also still increase or decrease based on the amount of natural gas used.

Black Hills Energy's Nebraska service territory is divided into three rate areas; natural gas prices vary slightly between rate areas as a result of differences in interstate pipeline carrier costs to transport natural gas to the rate areas.

This sculpture by Bill Vielehr is now on display at Wayne State College.

Wayne State College adds Sculpture Competition Winner

Colorado artist Bill Vielehr created the Wayne State College winning entry, Metal Response, in the Second Annual WSC Outdoor Sculpture Competition. His work was installed on the WSC campus. The piece will remain exhibited until August 2012 along the Campus Commons area of the WSC campus.

The competition was announced in the May 2011 issue of Sculpture magazine, attracting entries from around the United States.

"This type of competitive exhibit process for outdoor sculpture has become very common for colleges, universities, galleries, corporations, and municipalities, and our jury was delighted with the pool of entries we received," James O'Donnell, Dean of the School of Arts and Humanities at Wayne State said. "After quite a bit of deliberation, the jury chose Metal Response as the winning piece."

Vielehr transported the work from Washburn University (Topeka, Kan.), where the piece was exhibited during the 2010-11 year, to Wayne for the installation on Aug. 17. Previous exhibits of this piece have included venues in Bellevue (Wash.), Key West (Fla.), and Atlanta, Ga. Metal Response is comprised of three columns created from pieces of cast aluminum, each column being about a foot in diameter and standing about 12' tall, and each weighing about 200 pounds.

Vielehr is a lifelong resident of Boulder, Colo. He earned a bachelor of fine arts degree in 1969 from Colorado State University, where he also pursued graduate work in the field of sculpture. He has built a career that includes both a solid exhibition schedule and numerous public and private commissions.

"One of the educational benefits of hosting this outdoor sculpture competition is the direct engagement that our students have with the work," Steven Elliott, Chair of the Department of Art and Design at WSC, said. "Since outdoor sculpture is so highly visible, it has the ability to spark curiosity and connect the arts with the campus in a friendly way."

Barb Engbretsen poses with the plaque she received after being named 'Rotarian of the Year' by the Wayne Club.

Barb Engbretsen named 'Rotarian of the Year'

Barb Engbretsen was recently named Rotarian of the Year by the Wayne Rotary Club.

The selection is by membership vote out of the list of eligible members.

Criteria for the selection includes:

1. At least 60% meeting attendance;
2. Dues paid up to date;
3. Cannot currently hold the office of President, President-Elect, Vice-President, Secretary, or Treasurer and must meet two of the following:
 - Bring at least 1 guest during membership drive;
 - Chair one project or help with at least two projects during the year;
 - Attend one club social gathering; Provide a home for a foreign exchange student;
 - Contribute to the Foundation; or
 - Attend District Conference.

Of the honor, Engbretsen said, "I am still overwhelmed by the recognition of being named Wayne Rotarian of the Year. This honor means more than any other recognition I've ever received. Whenever I think of it, all I can see are the many faces of the great, inspiring and dedicated friends and fellow Rotarians at club . . . I see all they do . . . and all I didn't do this past year. I don't feel very deserving really. I cannot tell you how much this means to me. I am honored and humbled.

In the year + since I've been a member, I have gained so much from everyone in this group and those I've met at the District and even International level. If I have been recognized with such a high honor, it is only because what is seen in me is simply a reflection of the character and integrity of the wonderful people I am privileged to call my friends."

Engbretsen's daughter, Emma, was a Rotary exchange student in Germany, and Barb was also very active in assisting with Lucas' (exchange student from Germany) stay in Laurel.

The Wayne Rotary Club meets Wednesday mornings at 7 a.m. at Tacos & More in Wayne. At each week's meeting a speaker visits with club members on topics of interest to the club and the community.

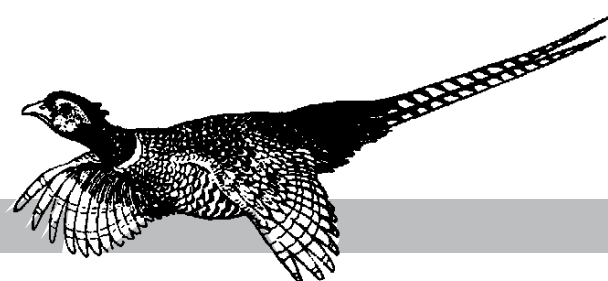

The Wayne County Jaycees would like to thank all of the following individuals, businesses, and organizations that donated money and/or helped out at this year's "Light Up the Sky" Fireworks show. We are also very grateful to those of you who contributed at the various change buckets located at area businesses. Without all of your donations, we would not be able to put on the fireworks show that we do for the community each year. Again, THANK YOU!!

Good study habits are key to education

Teachers, parents, and students have been adjusting to the new school year. The buildings and teachers and even some of the subjects have changed since parents were in school themselves. But one thing is still the same: homework. Some school kids "thrive" on doing homework; they think it's fun. Others, however, have a tougher time.

When homework becomes a chore, here are some suggestions for parents to help their child develop good study habits:

- Develop a positive attitude about helping the child. Let the child become your teacher at home. Doing homework together is an opportunity for the parent to continue expressing the care and affection they have for the child. Plus, kids still like showing off what they're learning to mom and dad.
- Develop a routine for when homework is done. Some kids may need to play for a while when they get home; others want to do their homework right away so they'll have free time later.
- Either way is fine, but parents must encourage consistency regarding the time that children are expected to do their homework.
- Identify a location that works best for the child to do homework. Some children need a quiet place,

Angela Abts
Dakota County

perhaps in a bedroom or back room of the house. Others can do homework on the kitchen table or even in front of the television. Whatever works for that child is fine. That's something that parents can help decide.

While homework is part of the total school experience, it's a smaller part of life. When parents believe that their child is bringing home too much work from school, they need to take their concerns to the teacher. Other activities in the child's life are important, too. And a child's relationship with his or her family is important.

For more information about parenting and youth development needs, interested persons are encouraged to contact their local UNL Extension Office or visit the website at www.extension.unl.edu.

2 More Benefits of an MLS.

MLS stands for Multiple Listing Service. Last week I wrote about what an MLS is. This week I will focus on 2 additional ways an MLS benefits both sellers and buyers.

1. Homes on an MLS typically sell faster and at higher prices compared to properties listed only by individual brokers because of the increased exposure to buyers.

Not only do sellers like this, but this allows the inventory of homes to change on a regular basis which is good for buyers looking for that perfect home. Instead of becoming stagnant, local real estate markets continue to grow which drives the economy in a positive direction.

2. The ability of buyers and sellers to use a broker of their choice no matter who has listed the property. For buyers, this gives them the freedom to work with an agent they feel comfortable with, even if the agent hasn't listed the property. For sellers, this gives their property increased exposure and a better chance to sell the property.

At Midwest Land we believe an MLS will benefit the Wayne community. However, Wayne presently does not have a MLS. Would you like to see one started in our community? I look forward to your comments on this subject. Please feel free to call me at 402-375-3385 or email me your comments at: wendy@mwlco.net.

Activities announced at Praise Assembly

This Sunday, Sept. 4 at Praise Assembly of God Church in Wayne, the morning begins with Sunday School at 9:30 a.m. for adults in the Fireside Room on a lesson entitled "What Did They Have," a Bible study that is based on the Book of Acts.

In the morning service at 10:30 a.m. in the sanctuary, the service will begin with Praise and Worship and a time of prayer for the needs of people who are present. Sherry Pfaltzgraff will be singing special music in this service.

The Rev. Dennis Preston is preaching a sermon series on the book of Romans. Last Sunday he spoke of the need for each of us to reconcile ourselves to Jesus and the plan for salvation. This service will also include Communion (which is Praise Assembly's pattern on the first Sunday of each month).

The Sunday evening service begins at 6:30 p.m., in the Fireside Room and will continue Pastor Preston's series on the book of Romans.

Looking ahead, the morning of Sunday, Sept. 11 will be an important day when the teaching staff at Praise Assembly of God will open Sunday School classes at 9:30 a.m. for young children (in addition to the adult class). During the morning service, following the conclusion of Praise and Worship, there will be a group activity for children called "Kids' Korner."

"There is a place for you at Praise Assembly of God," Pastor Preston said.

Beth Moore's message 'Living Proof Live Simulcast' to be simulcast in Laurel

Thousands of women will gather on Saturday, Sept. 10 from the comfort of their own churches to hear Beth Moore's inspiring teachings through her "Living Proof Live Simulcast" event.

Among the locations of the simulcast is United Lutheran Church, 305 West Third Street in Laurel. Doors for the event open at 8 a.m. The event is scheduled to run from 9:30 a.m.-4:15 p.m.

The event offers powerful messages that will challenge and encourage both veteran and first time participants to dig deeper into a more intimate relationship with God. Moore, whose books and studies, including "So Long Insecurity" and Living Beyond Yourself," have been read by millions around the world, is known for her ability to apply biblical scripture to everyday life.

Last year, more than 100,000 women, representing 8,400 churches, participated in the "Living Proof Live" simulcast event. This year's event provides the same inspiration, though with a new, unique message.

Bloomfield new home for an American Legion Riders Chapter

In July, Bloomfield officially became home for the Bloomfield Post 249 American Legion Riders Northeast Nebraska Chapter. The new chapter has been busy finishing up with the organizational aspects of the chapter before starting to recruit new members.

The name of the chapter was changed from the original to Northeast Nebraska Chapter as current members already come from 10 towns in the region.

The primary mission of the American Legion Riders, who are a group of veterans or family members is to support military troops and veterans. They are motorcycle enthusiasts who support the troops that are currently serving, families who have lost loved ones serving our country, those that are home, but injured; and also the veterans who now live in veteran homes.

One of the big projects is sending care packages to the troops. At present, the chapter sends between 15-20 packages each month to troops from the participating communities. They also provide funeral escorts, shield families from hate groups, ride in parades and work on community functions.

The chapter is currently looking for new members from the area communities who are eligible to belong to the American Legion Riders. The big need is a motorcycle of 350 cc or larger to belong.

For those who are interested in belonging, they must be eligible to belong to the American Legion, sons of the American Legion or Legion Auxiliary. To help with the Sons of the American Legion, Bloomfield has started the work to get a chapter of the SAL organized in Bloomfield.

For those from other communities in the area, you do not have to belong to the Bloomfield chapters for the three mentioned organizations, you may remain with the chapter in your hometown if you desire.

The Bloomfield chapter meets on the third Monday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Freedom Hall located on North Broadway in Bloomfield.

For those interested in learning more, you may either attend the meeting when possible or you may contact Joe Skrivan, (402) 841-1027 for more information.

At present, there are members from Bloomfield, Verdigr, Crofton, Creighton, Wausa, Hartington, Wayne, Pierce, Stanton and Norfolk. The chapter has members from a large area and they are looking for members from these towns and other towns in the area; hence, the reason the name chosen was Northeast Nebraska Chapter.

Trip to Red Cloud reveals facts of Willa Cather's early years

My word! This month is gone; it will soon be officially fall. Most of the high schools have had their first games, and the Huskers will finally take the field this Saturday. The volleyball team gave us a scare last Friday night, but finally overcame the jitters, or whatever was going on, to win the game. We were actually listening to it on the radio while watching Lutheran High Northeast on streaming video, courtesy of the Norfolk Daily News. It was really fun for Grandpa to watch Myles make some tackles.

During the day on Friday, I left the Big Farmer to fend for himself, picked up my classmate/neighbor Joyce and headed to Beatrice. From there, with two more joining us, we went west on Highway 136 towards Red Cloud. The year before we moved to the acreage at Murdock, they filmed a movie across the road based on "O Pioneers," by Willa Cather. It was an exciting summer for the owners of the house, and for the whole neighborhood. After reading it, and watching the Hallmark movie, I decided I had to also read "My Antonia."

Both novels are based on people Willa encountered in her home town. Antonia, especially, we know was Annie Pavelka, a childhood friend. In my mind, both are sad, emphasizing the grim reality of settlers in our state in the late 1800s. I much prefer Bess Aldrich, who finds much to admire in those pioneers.

But, I have to admit, I was curious about what the town has done to immortalize the author. A friend of Sue's works for the Cather Institute at the U, and I knew that there is a big conference and retreat there every year. I had read much about the house, the Opera House, and the church.

We started at the Opera House, the first floor of which is the headquarters of the Foundation. There are photos on the walls of other opera houses in Nebraska, some in very small towns. You can buy the books of all Nebraska authors; plus, T-shirts, note cards, greeting cards, and the usual gift shop stuff.

Our tour guide was Cheryl Wilson, who grew up in Red Cloud and is obviously steeped in all things Cather. We went first to the little house they lived in for twenty years; mother and father Cather, Grandma, five children, and a hired girl. Plus, Mr. Cather contracted to have his wife feed two extra railroad hands every day; I thought I had it bad when the Big Farmer kept bringing in hired help! There is much to see, and a lot of the furniture and artifacts are original; the thought of doing all that cooking without air conditioning, running water, and refrigeration kind of makes you shudder. We climbed some very narrow steps to the attic room that Willa spent a lot of time in, reading.

We visited a huge bank building, with marble steps, tile walls and floor, and lots of dark wood. Then, the Miner house, which housed two girls who were also childhood friends and are called the Harlins in the book. This is much grander, with gingerbread and columns and bigger rooms. We had to get in the car to get to the little Catholic church with "poor man's stained glass windows", which are simply painted with designs. Willa later joined the Episcopal church, where she donated several real stained glass windows that are almost priceless today. Oh, and we saw the depot, where she would stand and watch the travelers, and from which she herself departed, at the age of 16, for the University.

She seldom came back after that, and is buried in New England. I asked Cheryl what Willa would think of the way the town has capitalized on her history; she smiled and said it is what keeps the town alive! And, I have to say, it wasn't really all that lively on Friday. But the main street is a highway, and we had to look out for grain trucks. Plus, the Foundation is very active, and they have all kinds of shows in that Opera House. A bed and breakfast is in the works, which will be nice, and we had great Reubens and sweet potato fries at a bar and grill. But, in many ways, it's like many Midwestern towns that took off with the railroad and are now dying without it.

Elmwood is in the same boat, but is close to the cities. I believe Mrs. Aldrich embraced being from a small town, while Cather seemed to want to forget it. But both used people they knew as characters in their books.

I'm now reading "Song of the Lark," and as the town of Moonstone is described, I think I can see Red Cloud.

Livestock Market Report

The Nebraska Livestock Market conducted a fat cattle sale on Friday.

The market was $3 lower on fat cattle and steady on cows. There were 225 fat cattle sold and 125 cows.

Strictly choice fed steers, $109 to $111.50. Good and choice steers, $107 to $109. Medium and good steers, $105 to $107. Standard steers, $95 to $105. Strictly choice fed heifers, $109 to $110.40. Good and choice heifers, $107 to $109.

Medium and good heifers, $105 to $107. Standard heifers, $80 to $90.

Beef cows, $60 to $65. Utility cows, $65 to $75. Canner and cutters, $57 to $62. Bologna bulls, $80 to $85.

2011 Cattlemen's Ball nets record amount of nearly $1.5 million

With a net of $1.49 million, the 2011 Nebraska Cattlemen's Ball in West Point has shattered the event's previous record for most money raised by $487,000.

The total topped the previous high of just more than $1 million raised by the 2010 event. Since its inception, the Cattlemen's Ball has raised more than $6.29 million.

All of the proceeds remain in Nebraska with 90 percent going for cancer research at the Eppley Cancer Center at the University of Nebraska Medical Center and the remaining 10 percent distributed to local health and wellness programs and other entities in the West Point area.

"I'm starting to sound like a broken record, but every year just seems to be getting better with this event. It's amazing," said Ken Cowan, M.D., Ph.D., director of the UNMC Eppley Cancer Center. "With the down economy that we've seen the past few years, to top the million-dollar mark the past two years is absolutely incredible.

"It shows how the entire state has truly rallied around this event. Every family has been touched by cancer, and this is a proactive way to attack the problem. I can assure everyone who raised this money that we will do everything in our power to try to come up with new discoveries needed to make a difference with this dreaded disease and to make sure that new therapies are offered to cancer patients across the entire state."

The theme of this year's event was "PLOW Cancer Under," and that's exactly the attitude that led to this year's record amount, said Gary Kaup, one of the co-chairs of the event.

"The generous spirit of everyone who donated their time and talents was remarkable," he said. "Breaking the million-dollar mark for a second year was our goal, and it took a lot of people and dedication, time and resources to raise this record amount for cancer research and local health programs."

The Cattlemen's Ball is hosted by a different Nebraska ranch or feedlot every year. The 2011 event in West Point was hosted by Harry and Doris Knobbe. Co-chairs were Gary and Connie Kaup and Allen and Cheryl Meister.

The 2012 Cattlemen's Ball will be held June 1-2 at the Allen and Shelly Clark property near McCool Junction. Event details and tickets will soon be available online at www.cattlemensball.com.

Time for State Fair, improving lawns in the fall

I attended the state fair in Grand Island last weekend, and it was a great experience. I hope you will be able to attend sometime this week, as the fair runs through Labor Day.

The fairgrounds are brand new, with large livestock buildings close to each other and with an air conditioned main arena. The 4H/FFA exhibit building is on the north end of the grounds; it is large and is air conditioned. There are many more exhibits in the 4H/FFA building this year than last year, including commercial exhibits. Lots more food stands are available than last year and a large midway with plenty of rides means there really is something for everyone.

I recommend the birthing area to people who don't understand where animals come from; kids will love seeing the newborn animals there. There is a really good lineup of shows available and, of course, all the 4-H exhibits will be there for everyone to see.

We will be having a meeting in Dakota City on the morning of Monday, Sept. 12 regarding how to get crop fields back in shape after the flood. We'll have more information on that next week.

It's September, and we don't normally think of doing too much with lawns in the fall other than mowing them when we have to. However, now is actually the best time to improve your cool season fescue/bluegrass lawn, which 99 percent of us have. The information in this article comes from a new on-line publication from UNL with the web address LawnImprovementPrograms2010A.pdf available at the extensionhorticulture.unl.edu website.

Almost all cool-season lawns require fall fertilization as well as broadleaf weed control, and many slightly thinned lawns can be improved during this time. September is the most important time to encourage rooting for next year and increasing density this fall. In our area, fertilizing can take place at any time at a rate of 1.0 lb nitrogen per 1000 square ft of lawn. Most fertilizers are found in bags with a ration similar to 24-6-12 (N,P,K) or 20-0-10 and this will be fine. Follow the directions on the label.

A second application at or just after the last mowing, while the turf is still green will really help. You can even apply a third application in October if your lawn was especially thin. However, this last application can increase the chance of snow mold if we have a high snowfall year like the last one.

An application from mid-September to mid-October of a broadleaf herbicide with two or more active ingredients (such as 2,4 D and dicamba) will control most common weeds like dandelions, plantain, and black medic, among others. Apply the herbicide preferably on a sunny day when no rain is forecast and temperatures and above 50 degrees.

For more recommendations on specific weeds, refer to the herbicide ratings on the web page at <http://turf.unl.edu>.

You can also overseed a lawn if it is significantly thin, but it requires core aeration with a special machine that you can rent. Or, you can hire a lawn care firm to do it. Much more information is available on the publication and I encourage you to download it, or come to the extension office where it can be printed out.

Here's to a thicker lawn.

With donation, Scouts able to continue recycling

Boy Scout Troop 174 in Wayne service with their monthly paper you to all those in the area who continues to provide community drive. and have extended a thank donate to the paper drive and recycling effort.

Posing at the paper trailer during the recent Paper Drive were (front) Tyler Pecena, R.J. Liska, Colin Webster, Parker Wren, Bishop Cavanee, (back) Nick Fleer, Lance Webster, Bob Liska and Mike Cavanee.

Last winter, the paper trailer that the Scouts use to collect the paper for delivery for sale was damaged beyond repair.

At that time Nick Fleer of Wayne helped the troop to determine what options they had, and decided that salvage value was best.

Fleer donated his time and waived his normal salvage fees and donated over $550 to the troop, in addition to the salvage value of the trailer. This helps the troop to continue providing the paper recycling service.

"Troop 174 thanks Mr. Fleer for his time and monetary contribution," said Bob Liska, a Scout leader for the troop.

Paper drives are generally held the third Saturday of each month with Scouts and their families collecting papers that have been placed at curbside. In addition, paper may be dropped off at the trailer, which is located at the Wayne Transfer Station during normal Transfer Station hours.
