George remembers post-9/11 work in NYC

Of the Herald

As people across the United States prepare to observe the 10th anniversary of the 9/11 disaster, Mary Lou George of Winside recalls the nearly three weeks she spent in New York working with children affected by the planes crashing into the World Trade

George, along with Doug and Cheryl Dekker of Norfolk and Kathy White of Plainview, left Nebraska by car on Wednesday, Sept. 12. All were part of what was then known as the Child Care in Aviation Incident Response (CAIR) team with the American Red Cross. The group has since become the Critical Response

At the time of the World Trade Center, there were only 31 people in the United States who were a part of this trained team, which was originally designed to provide care to children in situations involving plane crashes, but was later expanded to assist with other disasters. The group works closely with Brethren Disaster

George, who has been a part of the Nebraska Red Cross chapter in northeast Nebraska for "at least 19 years," had received training for the Child Care Team in 1999 and before that, worked in Grand Forks, N.D. in 1997 during flooding there.

"We drove to New Windsor, Md., where there was a huge facility with hundreds of volunteers. From there we drove to New York on Sunday to a processing center in Brooklyn. There, we went through orientation and were given money and directions for spending it. The Red Cross really does a good job of monitoring how the money they have is spent and this was the case in New York," George said.

She and the other volunteers who were a part of her group were housed at the Empire Hotel, a considerable distance north of the World Trade Center.

"We worked on Pier 94 in a huge warehouse facility that was empty. Next to the pier was the USS Comfort, a Navy ship. The ship was opened to volunteers who were allowed to use it for sleeping, showers and meals.

George was amazed by the size of the building that she and the other volunteers worked in and said "lots of other agencies had cubicles in the building, including those from other states.'

No change in levy; 2 a.m. closing time gets cool reception

By CLARA OSTEN Of the Herald

Property owners in the city of Wayne will see very little change in the tax asking following the approval of the fiscal year 2011-2012 budget by the Wayne City Council.

The city's tax asking, including debt service and airport asking, is $44.39 per $1,000 of assessed value, which is the same

City Finance Director Nancy Braden said she has recently received the valuation report for the city and valuations grew just over $1 million.

"The city staff did an excellent job putting together a budget during these difficult economic times. They make our job as a council a lot easier at budget time," Council member Doug Sturm said.

Following the public hearing on the budget, in which no one from the public spoke, the council waived the three readings for the ordinance.

City Administrator Lowell Johnson said the city's tax requests have fallen from a high of $78 per $1,000 in valuation in 1993 to less than $45 per $1,000 for the 2011-

A considerable amount of time was spent during Tuesday's meeting discussing a request to extend the time for on-sale alcohol in the city of Wayne.

Ken Jorgensen, owner of The Max in Wayne, came to the council with the

In 2010 the Nebraska Legislature amended the state statute, allowing cities to change the ending time for sales of onsale alcohol from 1 a.m. to 2 a.m.

Jorgensen said that the bartenders at his business brought a letter to him stating that there has been 'confusion and hostility among customers at the bar because of the 1 a.m. closing time. They also stated that they were concerned for 'our safety and the well-being of the community" and felt the additional hour of alcohol sales would

"attract visitors to the area." Jorgensen said Wayne was the only college town in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference (NSIC) that had a 1 a.m. closing time as all the other colleges are in states which allow bars to remain open

"I feel we have respectable people in our town and think that having the later closing time has helped with less parties in other communities. This is for on-sale only not off-sale of alcohol.

Jeff Carstens, Dean of Students at Wayne State College, urged the council to do more research into the impact of the later closing time before making a decision.

Bar owners Jorgensen, Bill Melena of the White Dog Pub and Mike Meyer of Mikey's Place, all told council members that during the Chicken Show when the bars were allowed to remain open until 2 a.m. for the weekend, there were no problems.

Both Melena and Meyer told the council that if they were allowed to remain open until 2 a.m., they would not do so all the time, but would appreciate having the option to do so.

Following discussion, Council member Sturm made a motion to have the city's legal counsel prepare an ordinance to extend the time establishments are allowed to serve alcohol to 2 a.m.

However the motion failed on a 5-3 vote, with Council members Sturm, Brian Frevert and Jim VanDelden voting in favor and Council members Jill Brodersen, Kathy Berry, Kaki Ley, Dale Alexander and

Board not unified on budget for 2011-2012

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

The Wayne County Commissioners were not unanimous in their approval of the 2011-12 fiscal budget that was passed Tuesday afternoon.

The proposed $10.6 million budget was passed on a 2-1 vote, but Commissioner Kelvin Wurdemann had an issue with the employment status of the weed superintendent, a position he feels should be part-time.

The board argued the point for about 10 minutes before voting on the budget. Commissioner Dean Burbach felt that the position, held by Marlin Schuttler, should continue as a full-time position, but Wurdemann said the lack of work during the winter months is justification to make the position a part-time job.

Nebraska Senior Medicare Patrol recipient of two national awards

The Nebraska Senior Medicare Patrol (SMP) received two national awards for exceptional performance: the "Highest Dollar Amount Referred for Further Action" award from the U.S. Administration on Aging (AoA) and the "Expansion of the Volunteer Capacity" award from AoA and the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS). Nebraska SMP is part of the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services.

The SMP program recruits and trains retirees to educate their communities to detect and report health care fraud and abuse and to help persons with Medicare and Medicaid to correct billing errors.

"We are pleased that Nebraska has received the 'Highest Dollar Amount Referred for Further Action' award for the last three years," said Vivianne M. Chaumont, Director of Medicaid and Long-Term Care. "It's gratifying to see that Nebraskans are coming forward to volunteer to help seniors prevent, detect and report health care fraud.'

Nebraska was among the top five states in the nation to receive the award for the highest dollar amount referred for further action. Nebraska SMP received several cases of fraud that were referred for further federal in-depth investigation in an effort to restore funds back to the Medicare program. Nebraska referred $151,145 for further action.

"These SMPs went above and beyond this year to serve the beneficiaries in their states. Their efforts to fight fraud at the grassroots level are of the highest caliber," said Barbara Dieker, director of the Office of Elder Rights at the AoA.

In addition, the Nebraska SMP earned the "Expansion of the Volunteer Capacity" award from the AoA and CMS for exceptional performance in helping older Nebraskans prevent, detect and report health

Nebraska SMP recruited 29 new volunteers in the first nine months of the grant year. SMP volunteers fan out into the communities to educate seniors at senior centers, community organizations, assisted living facilities and nursing homes.

"I started chemotherapy on June 15, which will last for a total of 16 weeks. I have a treatment every other week and should finish by the end of September," Hill said. At that time she will be allowed to take a two-week break from treatment before beginning six weeks of radiation treatment which will be given five days a week.

She hopes to be finished with treatments by Thanksgiving and said that while her doctor said her type of cancer is generally not seen in patients under the age of 40, he feels it was caught in time and is hopeful for a positive outcome.

"When I first started treatment, I had a lot of nausea, but since that time I have changed medications and it is not as bad. I would say the worst thing is the fact that the treatment just drains me. I don't have the energy to do many of the things I used to do. I used to clean houses for other people for extra money and now sometimes I don't even have the energy to clean my own house," she said.

Connie said that throughout her treatment, her employer (Great Dane Trailers) and her co-workers "have been really good. I have been able to take time off to go to Norfolk for the treatments and have been able to go home on the days after treatments when I needed."

Burbach suggested that Schuttler could take care of snow removal around the courthouse. Wurdemann said he already does that job on a volunteer basis, since it is in his district.

"Indirectly, I'm doing it for free, so I don't know why we'd pay somebody to do it," he said. "Why not have somebody do it for free instead of paying somebody."

Wurdemann said he is more interested in cutting the position than the person occupying the job, but board chairman Jim Rabe questioned whether there might be a personal agenda involved.

"It always reflects like it's about the person," Rabe said. "You don't talk to him about spraying your trees, and he always sprays ours. He does all three districts for the weeds, but not the trees."

"I figured he should," Wurdemann responded. "If he's hired to spray, he should be doing all three districts. But that's not what I'm arguing about, because that's the summer time, not the winter time.

It's a mad, mad, mad sports world

Like the headline says, it's a mad, mad, mad sports world out there.

Want evidence? Here's a few notes from the first big weekend of the fall - An old college accounting teacher once told me that liars figure and figures lie. So when you look at the stats on Thursday's UNK-Wayne State football game and see the Lopers with seven turnovers, you'd have to figure the Wildcats won the game,

I've been covering football for the better part of 30 years, and I don't think I've ever seen a team score as many points (41) and rack up as many yards (700) as UNK did, all while turning the ball over seven

It's scary to think what kind of numbers UNK would have racked up on that night were it not for the seven miscues. On the other hand, it's exciting to think what kind of defense Wayne State will have if it figures out how to stop offenses from moving the ball, particularly on third downs.

 As painful as a dislocated hip sounds, it's nothing compared to the obvious pain Cyle Schultz was in after being hurt on the third play of the game Thursday night.

Wayne State actually fared pretty well in their season-opening tournament in St. Paul, Minn. They lost to four-time defending national champion Concordia-St. Paul and No. 2 Central Missouri, but posted an impressive win over No. 6 Southwest Minnesota State to maintain a spot in the AVCA Div. II

I'm looking forward to the Wildcats' home opener on Sept. 20. It should be an interesting year in the NSIC with this team.

- It took almost an hour for Wayne High to run a middle screen that went for a late first-half touchdown Friday night, and it had nothing to do with coach Rich Rethwisch forgetting his playbook.

Lightning in the skies forced officials to clear the field right before the end of the first half. Some were wondering why this was done, since the lightning was far from the field and drifting away. Officials are required to clear the field when lightning is seen in the skis at a close enough distance where it could impact the field of play. While it wasn't in the immediate vicinity, the concern of more weather on the horizon led them to err on the side

It was the second-best call of the night, next to the play that resulted in Drew Carroll's 40-yard pitchand-catch from Gage Rethwisch that proved to be the key play of the

Blue Devils beat lightning, Cadets in season-opening win

WEST POINT - It was hard to determine who had the tougher time stopping Wayne High's passing

Not even a 45-minute lightning delay could slow the Wayne offense down, as Gage Rethwisch threw for over 200 yards and two scores to help the Blue Devils to a 19-7 win at West Point-Beemer on Friday.

"It worked out great because it happened right around halftime, so we just had an extended halftime," coach Rich Rethwisch said.

The stoppage actually came with 5.4 seconds left in the first half, right after the Blue Devils had scored could tell right away that this night and surprised the Cadets with an onside kick that gave the visitors the ball at the West Point-Beemer Here's hoping for a quick recovery 40-yard line. "We knew what we were going to coach Scott Kneifl, you make sure run, and we had about a 45-minute wait before we could do it," Rethwisch said. "We had an idea what they might think we'd do and have Gage (Rethwisch) throw it

What they did, instead, was have the senior quarterback dump it off to Drew Carroll on a middle screen. Once he caught the pass, Carroll followed his blockers and scrambled 40 yards for the touchdown, giving Wayne a 13-0 lead at intermission.

"That was a huge play for us, and we knew we could run it because Drew's got good speed and he's a shifty little devil, and it worked out great for us," Rethwisch said.

This wasn't how coach Dan McLaughlin was hoping the instate rivalry would end.

he said. "They scored 41 points and had 700 yards of total offense with seven turnovers. It's mind-boggling to think that could happen."

The game was rough from the beginning for the Wildcats, who lost their starting quarterback on the third play from scrimmage.

Cyle Schultz scrambled to his right on a third-down play and was brought down awkwardly by a UNK defender. Schultz dislocated his hip and was taken out on a stretcher.

"It was a very tough injury and I feel badly for him," McLaughlin said. "He really elevated his game this season and we were excited about the things he could do. Now, we're looking for some good competition between Evan (Johnson) and Nate (Most) and see what happens."

Wayne State's defense got off to a good start, forcing three UNK turnovers in the first period. The first, coming after a long punt return inside the Wildcats' 10-yard line, resulted in a fumble that went out of the end zone. Wayne State took the ensuing drive and went 80 yards for a score, the last 10 coming on a pass from Johnson to Kevin Paulsen to give Wayne State a 7-0

The Lopers tied the game early in the second, but a 41-yard field goal by Max Martin made it 10-7. It wouldn't take long, though, before the Lopers' offense began rolling over the Wayne State defense.

UNK scored a pair of touchdowns to take a 21-10 lead. Tommy Warren returned a kickoff 82 yards for Wayne State midway through the second period to make it 21-17, but that's as close as the Wildcats would get, as UNK added another touchdown to make it 27-17, then put together a 17-play drive on the first series of the second half to take the lead to 34-17.

Wayne State added a field goal to make it a two-touchdown game, and appeared to be in position to cut further into the lead, pinning the Lopers deep in their own territory.

UNK got out of the jam when quarterback Jake Spitzlberger slipped away from a Wayne State defender in the end zone and completed a key third-down pass for 19 yards and a first down. Two plays later, he called his own number, finding a seam on the option and running 74 yards for a touchdown to put the game out of reach.

"That really was the key the whole night on third down. We didn't convert third downs and they did. We just couldn't get off the field defensively," McLaughlin said. "We missed a bunch of tackles and didn't pursue worth a darn."

Wayne State's rushing attack was stymied as well, limited to 36 yards on 33 carries.

"Usually it was one block that kept us from scoring a touchdown," he said. "It wasn't a matter of getting whipped, it was mental mistakes and poor technique, and it didn't allow for any continuity on the offensive side."

Johnson and Most both performed well under center as Schultz replacement. Johnson was 10-of-22 for 139 yards, while Most completed 7-of-19 passes for 74 yards.

"I thought they did some good things and showed some promise,' McLaughlin said. "Losing Cyle is a blow, but we're going to be ready to go next week and I think those two kids will do a good job."

The Wayne High girls golf team competed at the Cassidy Wiese followed with a 109 for 11th place, with Stanton Invitational last Friday and came away with a runner-up finish, carding a team score of 414. Norfolk JV's won the event with a 397. Wayne's JV team placed third with a 450.

The Blue Devils had seven medal winners on the day, as Stanton handed out 15 total medals. Brittney Peterson and Taylor Burke headlined the effort, with Peterson earning runner-up honors with a 93 while Burke was just a stroke back in third. Hannah McCorkindale was third for the varsity with a 10th place score of 109, with Katlin Potter notching 12th place with a 112. Burgandy Roberts finished with a 119 but her score was not included in the team tally.

The JV's were led by Aspen Pflanz, as the sophomore carded a 107, which was good for ninth place overall. Emma Loberg a 76 to round out the team score.

Marissa Wiese posting a 115 for 13th place. Alexis Reinert rounded out the scoring for the JV's with a 125.

Tuesday afternoon, the Blue Devils competed at the Battle Creek triangular at Evergreen Hills. Wayne carded a team score of 191 to easily out-distance runner-up Elkhorn Valley at 246. Battle Creek had just three golfers competing, so there was no team score. Wayne's JV team placed third with a 248.

The varsity was paced by Peterson and Burke, as the two seniors tied for medalist honors with 46's. Potter was third with a 49 and McCorkindale fourth with a 50. Roberts finished with a 59.

The JV's were paced by Pflanz with a 47 while Reinert fired a 53. Sadie Miller finished with a 72 and

"We had a couple of those penalties that were disappointing, and we had more personal foul penalties tonight than we've had in a long time," he said. "Some of that was from first-year players, but those are situations where we're kind of losing our heads and it's something we'll take care of, because it will become a problem if we don't."

Wayne put the game out of reach midway through the fourth quarter when Luke Trenhaile dove over the goal line from two yards away to give Wayne the 12-point win. Trenhaile had a solid night in the backfield, finishing with 117 yards on 21 carries. He complimented the passing of Rethwisch, who was 16-of-24 for 240 yards and two touchdowns.

"We had some mental things that hurt us tonight, but we did some neat things as well," Rethwisch said of his team's effort. "We tried to show a lot of different things tonight, and we still have some new kids that are learning and I thought we did some things well. When we 7:47.

BEEMER - Winside brought home four and ran on his own.' cross country medals and the Laurel-Concord/ Coleridge teams showed some good promise and nabbed a couple of medals on a hot September afternoon at the Wisner-Pilger Invitational.

Both Winside teams placed fourth in the Class D division, and each team had a pair of runners finish in the top 15 to earn a medal in the first

"It was a fantastic day for both teams," coach Jennifer Kesting said. "Everyone was able to finish despite the extreme heat, and several

On the boys' side, John Hansen finished fourth and Colin Hansen earned a 10th place medal.

"John and Colin both ran a great race," Kesting

Mackenzie Gray was fourth and Natasha Jensen was fifth to lead the Winside girls.

"I was ecstatic to see Mackenzie come up the hill in the front of the pace and finish strong. It's a great way to start her high school running career," Kesting said. "It was equally nice to see Natasha so close to the front and staying there throughout the race."

LCC's Chris Heydon and Tyler Schindler just missed out on medals in the boys race, finishing 16th and 17th, respectively. For the Lady Bears, Sammie Camenzind and Sadie Petersen both finished in the top 10, placing eighth and ninth,

"I was extremely pleased with the performance said. "John is thoroughly dedicated to his goal of of my runners in just their first outing of the improving his times, and Colin really stepped up season," LCC coach Megan Meyer said. Winside's defense shut down Emerson-Hubbard for much of the night, limiting the Pirates to 131 yards in total offense as the Wildcats posted a 22-6 win in the season opener for both teams Friday.

Blaine Meyer had a hand in all three touchdowns for the Wildcats, rushing for two and passing for another to get Winside's season off on the right foot.

But it was Winside's defense that shut the door on any Pirate comeback. Emerson-Hubbard scored late in the third period to get within 10 points, but a late twoyard run by Meyer put the game out of reach.

"I thought that we played terrific defense," coach Tim Manzer said. "We didn't move the ball consistently, but their size up front really gave us some problems."

Meyer finished the night accounting for 118 of Winside's 187 yards. He had 62 yards on 21 carries and was 4-of-9 for 56 yards

Hoskins decides to stay home and play for Wayne State

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

Wayne High senior Katie Hoskins verbally committed last week to play basketball at Wayne State College.

The 6-foot-2 center averaged 13.3 points, 8.5 rebounds and 3 blocks per game last year for the Blue Devils. She set records last year for most rebounds in a game (20) and a season (244) and has matched the school record of eight blocks in a game three times. She holds school records for blocks in a season (82) and career (219 heading into her senior year).

In an e-mail to the Herald, her mother, Joyce, said that she had looked at several schools, including NCAA Div. I schools Drake and South Dakota State and Div. II schools Southwest Minnesota State, Fort Hays State and Nebraska-Kearney. Hastings College also had

"She really looked at the pros and cons of going to Wayne, and decided it was going to be a good fit,' Mrs. Hoskins said. "She wanted to play for a winning program that could make her the best player she could

Staying close to home was important for Hoskins as

"I'm looking forward to watching my siblings play their high school games, so I can stay home and go to school here and see them play," she said.

Hoskins hopes to major in broadcasting, and she's also looking forward to being a part of a successful program playing for coach Chris Kielsmeier.

"I wanted to play for a winning coach, and he knows how to win with the conference championships they've won," she said. "They're graduating a lot of players after this season, so there will be a chance for me to play and be close to home."

Winside knocks off D-2 No. 1, starts with six wins in first seven in the third set to notch an exciting 25-21, 19-25, 27-25 win over Dodge to start the season Thursday in Wausa. They made easy work of the Vikings later that evening, winning 25-9, 25-14.

It was a solid start to the season for the Winside volleyball team, kicking off the year with an exciting win over the preseason No. 1 team in Class D-2.

"That was a very intense game," coach Brooke DeBolt said of Winside's big win over Dodge. "The girls came out ready to play, and I thought they played excellent. We were down 16-9 in the third, and the girls really buckled down and dug in and were able to come back."

Shelby Lienemann served four straight points at one stretch in the set and played very well on defense, DeBolt said. Bridget Gray also had some solid plays during Winside's rally.

Lienemann and Nazya Thies each had 10 kills, Erin Gray added seven and Jerae Doffin put down six for the Wildcats in the win. Shannon Gray had 23 set assists, Thies had five blocks and Doffin and Lienemann each added three Winside made easy work of Wausa later Thursday, highlighted by three straight ace serves from Jayd Roberts, who came in off the bench and played well. Shannon Gray had 12 set assists, and Doffin led the team with five kills.

Winside went 2-1 in their own quadrangular on Saturday, winning in straight sets against Hartington (25-14, 25-16) and Lindsay Holy Family (25-13, 25-12) while losing to Howells (25-21, 16-25, 25-15).

DeBolt said the Wildcats came back from a sluggish effort against Hartington to play a very good match against Holy Family.

"Everything was clicking," she said. "They have a big girl in the middle, and she dominated the net and we were able to get her out of their game. We served hard and made it tough for them to set up their offense, and we were able to get some blocks on her. Everything just fell into place."

Erin Gray added five and Doffin had four in the win over Hartington. Shannon Gray had 16 set assists, and Erin Gray had 12 digs.

In the Holy Family match, Erin Gray had eight kills and Thies added five. Lienemann had three ace serves and seven digs.

Winside had a long wait before the Howells match, and some communication problems in the third set helped the visiting Bobcats come away with the win. Erin Gray had seven kills and seven digs and Doffin had five kills and three blocks to lead the net attack. Shannon Gray had 15 set assists in the losing effort.

"Overall, I thought the girls played tough and are looking really good, but there are some things to improve on," DeBolt said. "Once we get everything clicking, they're going to be a very Winside improved to 6-1 on Tuesday with straight-set wins over Walthill (25-13, 25-6) and Bancroft-Rosalie (25-12, 25-15) in Bancroft. Lienemann had six kills and Erin Gray had five kills and 10 ace serves in the win over Walthill. Against Bancroft-Rosalie, Erin Gray led a balanced attack with seven kills, Lienemann had five ace serves and Shannon Gray had 20

"The first half, we played some of the best soccer I've seen in three years. We out-possessed them and played quality soccer," she said. "In the second half, I think we got rattled when they got it to 1-1 and we couldn't fight our way out of it.

"I think we saw the best and worst of our team in one game, and hopefully we can find a happy medium there," she added. "We got some young people some quality time and I was pleased with the effort." Wayne State opened the scoring late in the first half

- Did you know? Over 350 million cartridges are thrown into our landfills annually. That's over 29 million cartridges a month.
- Each discarded laser cartridge adds approximately 3.4 pounds of metal and plastic waste to our landfills - waste that will take as long as 1,000 years to decompose.
- More than 3 quarts of oil are used to produce each laser cartridge. The plastic used in each printer cartridge takes more than 10 centuries (that's 1000 years!) to decompose.

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes Managing Editor

9/11: A day that we shall never forget working for in Gretna when my cell My ex-wife had called to let me know about a doctor's appointment for our daughter. As we chatted, she asked, "Hey, did you see an airplane hit the World Trade Center?" Since we had no TV in the office, I had missed that, but I thought what a terrible tragedy that must have

I had no sooner hung up the phone when the boss' wife rushed in the front door, wide-eyed. "Two planes hit the World Trade Center."

Suddenly, this wasn't a tragedy it was something much bigger than

I remember the horror I felt on my way to the printer as the regular morning talk show on the station I was listening to gave way to news of the Pentagon being hit by a third plane. Having just finished writing an emotional story that week about the sudden death of a local teenager during a school pep rally, this seemed almost too much to comprehend.

I remember waiting for the paper to be printed and watching news of the attack unfold. I had yet to see video of the planes crash into the buildings, and as I watched the replays of the impact, I couldn't speak. I couldn't believe what I was seeing. I had to see it three or four more times before the word "wow" finally leaked out of my mouth.

And then, the first tower fell followed a few minutes later by the second. The debris fell from hundreds of feet up in the sky. The dust that rolled through the city like a tornado cutting through a Nebraska corn field, overcoming anything and anyone in its path. All this was happening, live, in New York City.

I remember the long lines at the gas station as rumors of gas prices jumping from $1.60 to $4 a gallon began circulating. I called my dad with the idea of wishing him a happy birthday, and not once in our 20-minute conversation did the fact that he was another year older come up in conversation. (What a way to spend your birthday.)

I remember the sense of helplessness that a lot of us felt in the days after. Thousands of people lost their lives that day, and our sense of safety and well-being was shaken. That Friday, there was a moment of silence before Gretna's football game at Blair, and I recall the usual enthusiasm and excitement that envelopes a typical Friday night of high school football was nonexistent. It was probably the only time in my life where I left a football game before its conclusion – I beat the traffic and, feeling that I was at my emotional wit's end, cried all the way home.

I remember hearing from a friend of a friend whose parents were visiting a brother in Brooklyn. They had been at the World Trade Center

It was almost 8 a.m. on a Tuesday - on Monday, Sept. 10. It was their morning, and I was putting the last tourist stop before they boarded finishing touches on the front page a plane and returned home that for the weekly newspaper I was night. How scary that must have been for them to know they were one of the last to visit the buildings before they were taken down by two hijacked airplanes that – when they impacted the building - literally disappeared inside the structure before the fireballs shot from each building.

> I also remember, though, the sense of community that arose from this terrible attack on our nation. There was a lot less bickering about the little stuff. There were a lot more handshakes and a lot of "How ya' doin'?" conversations that came in the weeks and months after 9/11. I can't tell you how many fundraising efforts the local churches and youth groups put on to support the families of those lost on that day, but it seemed like I was taking at address the issue? least one fundraising photo a day for the next month.

There was a lot more love of country being shown in those days as well. Some of the big-name rock artists of the time showed their patriotism with kudos being expressed to our fighting forces and our police and firefighters (a number of whom lost their lives in service of their fellow man that day). American flags were displayed with a lot more pride. We even saw people put their careers and lives on hold so that they could help deliver the message that this nation will not take such attacks on our nation sitting down.

While we have lost thousands of "War On Terror," we can take pride in knowing that tens of thousands more have given of themselves and continue to give – so that we can continue to live free and make sure that those who try to attack us will find themselves on the wrong end of the transaction when all is said and done. Osama bin Laden has met his final judgement, and those who have supported his efforts and contributed to the events of Sept. 11, 2001, will meet a similar fate.

Tuesday, Sept. 11, 2001 is this generation's "Where were you when . ." moment in American history. It is, undoubtedly, a day we shall from around the State. I think we never forget.

Heineman opposed to pipeline

Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN - Gov. Dave Heineman decided to flat out oppose the route proposed for the TransCanada XL Pipeline.

Some people wondered: "What's that about?"

Others said: "It's about time!"

Heineman said what other critics have said in arguing that TransCanada's preferred path for transporting tar sand oil across the porous Sandhills and the Ogallala Aquifer represented too great an environmental threat. His opposition was offered sans the vitriol and adjective-laden rhetoric of many pipeline opponents.

Importantly, it also was offered after the feds issued a favorable, final environmental impact statement. Most observers, for and against the pipeline, said the report virtually assured a green light for the project.

The pipeline would transport the controversial tar sand oil from Alberta to the Gulf Coast of Texas.

Heineman attributed his change in position to his sense that more and more Nebraskans are opposed to the pipeline route.

The question from here: If the Nebraska law governor opposes the proposed route, why didn't he summon the Legislature for a special session to Heineman said he'd just written to President Obama and Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, stating his opposition. He urged all 49 state senators to do the same.

However, he simultaneously said states can say how it will get from that approaching the feds would be the fastest way to deal with the Health Problems that Spread at School Kids should learn to share, right? But, gee whiz.... When it comes to bugs and other contagious health problems in school, does your kid have to get everything that's passed around? Packed into a classroom and messing around on a playground or locker room, kids do tend to share lots of health problems in school. What can you do about it? And when should you be concerned? Here are a few things to think about.

Viral infections such as chicken pox are common, too. Many are contagious before skin lesions appear. But be sure to keep your child home until the sixth day after the rash appears unless all lesions are dry and crusted over. To prevent this infection, have your child vaccinated.1 Fifth disease is another viral disease. It causes a lacy rash on arms and redness on cheeks that looks like the result of a well-placed slap. Unless your child feels too sick, there's no need to stay home. That's because the disease only spreads before symptoms appear. However, tell the school so female employees of childbearing age can be notified. Fifth disease can severely hurt a developing fetus.1

Then, there's the run-of-the mill colds and flu. Deciding whether or not to send your child to school can be a challenge. General rule of thumb? If there's a fever, keep 'em home – until the fever's been gone for at least 24 hours.2 If there's no fever, more than likely it's a cold and it's okay to go to school. When in doubt, check with your child's doctor. And, don't forget the flu vaccine. which is recommended for everyone 6 months and older.3

Stop by, and I can advise you on the best way to keep your child comfortable while the cold or flu runs its course. I can also give you a brief overview of prescription or OTC treatments for the more common childhood viral infections.

Good produce storage starts with harvest

Many gardeners grow extra vege- as if it were fine china. Tossing tables and fruits for winter storage, but how can you make your produce store for the longest time possible? First, remember that good produce storage quality begins at harvest.

Harvest Tips

Avoid physical damage during harvest. Most fruits and vegetables are easily bruised if not handled

Seemingly sturdy vegetables such as sweet potatoes are actually quite delicate and will not store well if bruised. Any damaged produce should be used as quickly as possible and not placed in winter storage.

Root crops such as beets, carrots, rutabagas, parsnips and turnips can be left in the garden into late fall and early winter.

A heavy mulch of straw will help prevent the ground from freezing so the roots can be dug when needed. The mulch will also maintain the quality of the roots, as it will reduce repeated freezing and thawing. Many people prefer the taste of these root crops after they have been frosted because their flavors become sweeter and milder.

When temperatures drop low enough to freeze the ground under inghouses use sanitizers in packing the mulch, finish harvesting the line water to kill the fungi, bacteria roots. er than the fruits and vegetables to mix up your solution. This prevents cold wash water from being pulled inside the fruits along with any pathogens in the wash water.

Dip produce in a solution of 1 1/2 teaspoons of liquid bleach added to each gallon of warm wash water. Do not allow produce to sit in water; a quick dip is sufficient to remove pathogens.

Curing

Several vegetables benefit from post-harvest curing. Curing heals or suberizes injuries from harvesting operations. It thickens the skin, reducing moisture loss and affording better protection against insect and microbial invasion. Curing is usually accomplished at an elevated storage temperature and high humidity.

Produce can be cured in home storage areas. Temperature and humidity should be managed as accurately as possible. A space heater in an enclosed area can provide the needed heat for curing. Humidity can be increased by overlaying containers with sheets is the theme for University of Nebraska-Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources' exhibits at this year's Husker Harvest Days show near Grand Island. The show is Sept. 13-15.

UNL exhibits set to inspire young Nebraskans

"Helping grow Nebraska's future, helping meet Nebraska's needs in food, fuel, water, other natural resources and people, is a chief goal of IANR, as part of Nebraska's land-grant university," said Ronnie Green, NU vice president and IANR Harlan vice chancellor.

"Helping Nebraska's youth - helping Nebraskans of all ages - grow their knowledge and abilities to contribute to their own and Nebraska's future success is very important to

This marks the fourth year IANR's teaching, research and extension education exhibits focus on a topical area of interest for Nebraskans.

Husker Harvest Days participants visiting the Husker Red exhibit building on the south side of the showground at Lot 321 this year will see many ways IANR and UNL Extension are working to inspire young Nebraskans.

"People may not know that Nebraska 4-H, part of UNL Extension, leads the nation in per capita enrollment and curricula development." said UNL Extension Dean Elbert Dickey. "This year there are approximately 144,000 Nebraska youth involved in various 4-H programs. We work with youth in a variety of ways."

One exhibit focuses on igniting the entrepreneurial spark to develop Nebraska's next generation of business leaders. From 4-H's innovative "ESI" (EntrepreneurShip Investigation) curriculum for youth 10-14 through the Paul Engler Agribusiness Entrepreneurial

Poem summarizes feelings

Since my Mom's circle is responsible for serving the funeral lunches at our church, and she is no longer able to assist with this, I've been taking her place.

Somebody has to do it! You can't have a funeral without a lunch; in the musical, Church Basement Ladies, they refer to it as the "dead spread." And it was complete with egg coffee, which I personally have not tasted for years.

The service for the last one I helped with featured the DVD which is almost a standard these days, with Frank Sinatra singing "My Way" as accompaniment. But I was struck by the poem that was included in the folder; it featured a golf foursome on the cover. The poem really says it all, I thought, and herewith, I share it with all of this year compared to last year, as this will be the second year of a La Nina pattern, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln state climatologist.

Report indicates no anticipation of delays this harvest

Al Dutcher, state climatologist in the university's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, expects to see an overall drier pattern during harvest in the Central Plains. He doesn't anticipate much delay this year.

"Timing will be more variable due to cooler conditions this spring across the Panhandle and North Central Nebraska," Dutcher said. "Those regions may not hit crop maturity until late September or early October.'

Dutcher said there has been more soil moisture in western Nebraska this year than last year. Based on precipitation patterns in that region, he said more moisture could

Producers can expect a similar daily rain for two weeks straight, quent months. weather pattern during harvest though, Dutcher said producers should have ample time to dry out the soils.

> He said harvest should take off in the southern half of the state during the last two weeks of September for corn, but that will depend on the amount of rainfall and how quickly the crop dries. He doesn't anticipate a repeat of 2009, which had a late maturing crop and various weather problems, including a long-lived wet period.

> "We have a very strong drought across the southern and Central Plains," Dutcher said. "As long as those persist, we will more than likely share in some of those periods of above normal temperatures."

According to Dutcher, precipitation typically drops off from September to October. He said the get between 3 and 3.5 inches and the western region between 2 and carry over into the end of the grow- 2.5 inches in September, but those some draws from the reservoir ing season. As long as there's no numbers would drop in the subse- for irrigation due to hot and dry

Based on past experiences and the way this growing season has gone, Dutcher suspects that trend will continue this year.

"The one fly in the ointment that would cause this to be thrown out is if there's a major tropical system coming on Texas and up through the Central Plains," Dutcher said.

That would somewhat break the drought, Dutcher said, but if it brings more moisture in the Central Plains, there could be a lot of rainfall in a short amount of time. That would be a concern, especially with the flooding this summer across the Last year at this time, the Lake McConaughy reservoir was at 89.3 percent of its capacity, with federal mandates saying the reservoir had to stay under 90 percent of its total eastern region of the state could capacity by Oct. 1. Now the reservoir is at 91.1 percent of capacity.

Dutcher said there have been
