Civil Service Commission has until Dec. 23 to decide fate of fired police officers

The Civil Service Commission was given more than 4,000 documents, hours of audio and video evidence and a week's worth of testimony to consume as it decides whether or not to uphold the April termination of two members of the Wayne Police Department.

The three-member board of Darrel Heier, Marci Thomas and Galen Wiser sat through a week's worth of information at the Wayne evidence they must go over, attorneys for City Administrator Lowell Johnson, former Police Chief Lance Webster and former Lt. Phil Shear all agreed to give the commission some extra time to make a decision on whether or not the two officers' terminations should be upheld. The attorneys, along with commission's special counsel Scott Norby, have given the commission until Friday, Dec. 23 to decide the case.

The case concluded with testimony that featured both officers' denials of any of the department as Johnson stated in their terminations, or that an affair had existed between Shear and a former dispatcher, Rena Alonso.

Webster takes the stand

On Thursday morning, the former police chief spent the entire morning discussing I hadn't done it and walked out." the events surrounding the alleged Shear- Shear denies affair Alonso affair, as well as events surrounding that involved one of his sons.

Webster said he had no indication of the situation between Shear and Alonso until Alonso. Shear came to him with his concerns in April of 2010. When Webster talked with Johnson and presented some Facebook messages that were made between the two, Webster said Johnson wanted to fire Shear. Johnson, then-mayor Lois Shelton and city attorney Mike Piper, Webster said he was questioned as to whether he thought Shear "Lowell Johnson asked me if I thought and personally." this relationship was headed toward a sexual relationship," Webster said. "I quickly answered yes, but followed up and said clearly from Alonso's point of view.

After that, it was alleged that cooperation between the police department and the city attorney's office had deteriorated. Webster said he had not received any complaints from the attorney's office, but there had been a misunderstanding about the office contacting police officers while they were

"(Amy Miller) tended to call officers Fire Hall. Considering the large volume of off duty, and I asked her if she would call myself or Lt. Shear first, since she didn't know the officers' schedules," he said. "If (the information requested) was something we couldn't provide that we could get from the officer, then it wouldn't be a problem."

> Webster disciplined Shear for the Alonso situation in late April of 2010, removing him from his dispatch supervisor position. In early June, Webster said he had a meeting with Johnson, who wanted to see Shear's reprimand.

Webster said they went to his office and the evidence that things were as bad in he attempted to pull up Shear's reprimand, but could not find it on his office computer's hard drive.

"Lowell Johnson was kind of confrontative in the hallway, and as I tried to find the document, he was getting angrier," Webster testified. "He got angry and said it was clear

LOCAL HEROES HONORED THIS VETERAN'S DAY

Five years later, locals remember

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

Five years ago this week, Wayne's best returned home.

The 189th Transportation Company returned home in early November of 2006 after being stationed in Iraq as part of the War on Terror. Several local residents who were in the National Guard were called to duty and served for more than a year, battling Taliban forces in Iraq.

The 189th left Wayne for several months of training in Fort Riley, Kan., before being deployed overseas. After arriving in Kuwait on Halloween 2005, the team were flown into Iraq and spent about a year in the desert before coming back to Wayne.

Brian Loberg, who served as a convoy commander – among other duties remembered the apprehension that he felt after learning the 189th was going to Iraq.

"I wasn't too crazy about leaving the comforts and security of home and go off to a war zone," he said. "But I felt a sense of duty, not only to our country, but to my fellow soldiers of the 189th. We were a family."

Matthew Schaub, a middle school teacher and staff sergeant in the 189th who drove over 17,000 miles as a truck driver in Iraq, said he knew he had to get back in shape to handle the extreme heat in the Middle

WSC to hold meeting on Master Plan this Friday

The public is welcome to share in the Wayne State College Master Plan process during an open house on Friday from 2:30-4 p.m. in the Goldenrod Room, located in the Student Center on campus.

"We encourage everyone to take part in this important review process for Wayne State College's future physical improvements," President Curt Frye said.

The open house will provide an opportunityfor all faculty, staff, administration and students to examine the next 10-year proposal for campus upgrades, building improvements and projects. Individuals are encouraged to give their input and look at drawings of the proposal. The ideas and comments gathered from those attending this open house will help shape and refine the final proposal before it is sent to the board for approval in 2012. Jean Dale, vice president for administration and finance and her office have provided leadership for

"As many of you are aware, Wayne State College has been working with a team of architects and planners to produce a new 10-year Campus Master Plan. # National Gaming Day set at Wayne Public Library

Libraries have long been known as the place to go for books of all types; from mysteries to biographies, romance to reference.

But, on Saturday, Nov. 12, more than 1,000 libraries across the country will showcase gaming programs and services as part of the American Library Association's National Gaming Day @ your library. Many libraries are planning board game competitions, and participating in a national video game tournament. As a result, recreational library attendance by kids, teenagers, college students, families, and seniors will skyrocket even further.

No longer just a place for books, Wayne Public Library, is a gathering place for all ages. Sure video games can attract teen users, but gaming programs are attracting other generations as well. Systems like the Microsoft Xbox and Nintendo Wii offer games ranging from bowling to tennis to race car driving and appeal to all family members – from kids to grandparents. And libraries have other offerings for those that love board games and traditional games like chess as well.

For this special event, the library has acquired, the North East Library System's Wii, with all the extras, to expand play this Saturday. Those interested may sign up for tournament play from noon-2 p.m. Or, just come by for fun from 2-4 p.m. and experiment in a fun, social environment. Wayne Public Library is entering four new games for this weekend; Loaded Questions, Loaded Questions Junior, Awkward Family Photos, and The Greatest Day Ever Game.

"Thanks to the incredible donation of 1,000 games to libraries across the nation from FamilyAndPartyGames.com the official home of the popular and award-winning games from All Things Equal. So the library now has over 30 board and card games that will also be available for inhouse use, or checkout," said Julie Osnes, Youth Services Librarian.

Gaming is yet another example of how a new format can fulfill the desire to learn, play and yes, read at your library. You can learn more at http://ilovelibraries.org/gaming. "So on Nov. 12, we invite you to visit Wayne Public Library during National Gaming Day @ your library. Bring Grandma and Grandpa and the kids and take a new look at what your library has to offer - it just might surprise you," Osnes, said.

Closing arguments

closing During arguments Friday, Karen Haase, representing Johnson, said the evidence presented provided a clear-cut example of a police department in turmoil.

"You heard a lot of testimony from officers about how the department is a family," she said. "It may be a family, but it's a dysfunctional family. You heard the evidence of how they treated each other and others in city government, and it goes directly to the charges toward Lance Webster and Phil Shear.

"They created an environment in which employees were hostile to one another, hostile to the public and hostile to city government," she

Haase attacked the alleged affair that was taking place between Shear and Alonso.

"There was overwhelming evidence of an inappropriate relationship between Alonso and Shear," she said.

She also criticized Webster's handling of the matter.

"You heard seven people talk inappropriate about comments Rena Alonso made at a Christmas party. What action did the police chief take? Nothing." she said. "You heard testimony that Rena Alonso was the only one to talk in a sexually suggestive manner, and what action did the chief take? Nothing. And how does Chief Webster not know that his lieutenant is making 77-minute phone calls (to Alonso) while on duty on a city-issued cell phone?" Haase also pointed to Webster's documenting Shear's disciplinary action regarding the Alonso situation, inappropriate use of recording equipment, failure to follow proper procedure on collecting evidence, and inappropriate use of city equipment.

Friends of the Museum tour of homes is Nov. 18-19

The biennial Friends of the Museum tour is set for Friday, Nov. 18 from 5-8 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 19 from 11 a.m.-2 p.m.

This year five residents have offered to open their homes to visitors as part of the event designed to raise funds for the general upkeep of the museum. In addition, the Wayne County Museum will be decorated by a number of individuals.

Stops on this year's tour include the homes of Lukas Rix at 315 West Eight Street, Rob and Jill Sweetland at 519 Oak Drive, Kelby and Joelle Herman at 1102 West Seventh Street, Michael and Jill Holcomb at 520 Donner Pass and Troy and Shelly Harder at 16012 Clavcomb Road.

The following is a description of two of the homes on the tour. Two homes were included in last week's edition of the Herald and the remaining stops will be featured in next week's edition of the Herald.

Among the stops on this year's Wayne Friends of the Wayne County Museum Tour of Homes will be the homes of Michael and Jill Holcomb at 520 Donner Pass and Kelby and Joelle Herman at 1102 West Seventh Street.

The Holcombs built their 1 1/2 story home in 2001. The design was based off of a Homestead Home design. The large living room window is a unique characteristic of the Students at Wayne Middle School celebrated Red Ribbon Week by decorating the school and having different dress-up days.

Schools celebrate Red Ribbon Week

Red Ribbon Week was celebrated at Wayne dents. "FRIEND" stands for "Facts Raising Interest Elementary and Wayne Middle Schools during the week of Oct. 24.

Members of the Wayne FRIENDs Drug Free Youth Group Leadership Team visited all elementary classrooms and explained the meaning of the Red Ribbon celebration, providing Red Ribbon Week pencils and stickers for all students.

Red Ribbon Week began in 1985 in California, following the kidnapping and death of DEA Agent Enrique Camarena. He was murdered by drug dealers during an undercover investigation of drug trafficking. His home community started the Red Ribbon Week campaign to honor his memory and to help stem the tide of drug-related deaths by helping people - especially young people – to make the right choices about illegal drugs and alcohol.

Wayne Community Schools has celebrated Red Ribbon Week since 1990, when the Wayne FRIENDs group was formed by seventh and eighth grade stu-

This year, FRIENDs group decorated the middle school for Red Ribbon Week, and led students in celebrating each day of the week with a different theme. Monday was "Wear Red Day." Tuesday, students and staff said "Peace Out" to drugs and wore tie dye or hippie clothes. On Wednesday, the theme was "Give Drugs the Boot" and people came to school decked out in western wear. Thursday was "Black Out Drugs" Day and on Friday the theme was "Drugs are Ridiculous," which inspired all kinds of crazy outfits.

"Red Ribbon Week is a lot of fun for everyone, but the message is a serious one. The over 90 members of the Wayne FRIENDs all sign a pledge that states: No use of illegal drugs, no illegal use of legal drugs," said the group's sponsor, K-8 Counselor, Joan Sudmann.

The Wayne FRIENDs appreciates the generous support of Wayne United Way for funding a portion of

A young and talented O'Neill St. Mary's squad gave the experienced Winside girls all they could handle in the D1-4 district finals Thursday at Neligh-Oakdale High School, but the Wildcats were able to hang on and punch their ticket to state for the third straight year with a dramatic 21-25, 25-16, 25-17, 23-25, 15-10 win.

"At the beginning of the year, all the girls filled out their goals for the year, and all the upperclassmen said they wanted to win districts and get to state," coach Brooke DeBolt said. "It's something we've worked through, and now our goal is to do well at state.'

The Wildcats got off to a rocky start in the first set. The Cardinals jumped out to a 3-0 lead early in the set. Winside was able to pull within 10 on a kill by Bridgett Gray and a couple of unforced St. Mary's errors, and a kill by Erin Gray gave Winside its only lead of the set at St. Mary's got as close as 10-9 before a Shelby Lienemann kill got Winside back on track. Lienemann later had a kill and an ace serve to make it 19-11 and Winside was able to take a 2-1 match advantage.

Wayne State wins final two home games

It has been said that revenge is a dish best served cold.

Wayne State was able to pay back Winona State for an earlier loss this year, as the Wildcats left the Warriors with a chilly feeling after sweeping the visitors Friday at Rice Auditorium, winning 25-19, 25-23,

.250-.128 in the contest, forcing Winona State into 19 attack errors.

"We had a little revenge factor working, I'm not gonna lie," coach Scott Kneifl said. "We didn't play our best volleyball at Winona, and it was nice to see that the team has improved a lot. I felt we played really clean, especially in the first set, and it was a nice win for us."

Tali Fredrickson recorded her 18th double-double of the season for the Wildcats with 12 kills and 15 digs, while Cori Hobbs was right behind her with 11 kills of her own. Sophomore McKenna Reagan led the team in digs with 16, while fellow sophomore Tatum Wroblewski accounted for 39 assists. Junior middle blocker Alex Armes anchored the Wildcats defense with six blocks and Fredrickson stuffed five attacks as well.

Junior middle blocker Alex Armes achieved a new career high in kills with 15 in the contest while Fredrickson had 14, Melanie Placke had 13 and Hobbs had 10.

"Alex is really dynamic and when she gets rolling, she's really good," Kneifl said. "It was great to see her coming along and battling through some injuries."

Libero Leigh Connot also notched a new career high in digs with 36 in the matchup. Fredrickson was credited with 14 digs to bring her double-doubles on the season to 19, and senior defensive specialist Nicole Brungardt was also in double-digits in digs with 14. Wroblewski had 58 assists in the contest, which fell just three short of her career high 61.

Wayne State, 22-7 overall and 15-5 in the NSIC, will close out the regular season on Friday with a road contest at Augustana, starting at 7:00 p.m.

Tali Fredrickson as a defensive specialist, she held on to her dream to become a outside hitter and has been a part of the action since her freshman year under coach Scott Kneifl.

Following her high school career at Central Catholic High School, recruitment as an outside hitter was slim to none for the Wildcat senior. Despite a few Division I programs offering her a scholarship as a defensive specialist, Fredrickson declined each one to become an outside hitter at Wayne State.

As a Wildcat, Fredrickson appeared in 33 games as a freshman, recording seven double-doubles, and completing her freshman campaign with 201 kills and 273 digs.

"She has been a rotational player most of her career at Wayne State, but playing as a freshman is a lot pressure but she have handled herself well and she's a valuable asset to our team." said Kneifl.

With a year of experience, Fredrickson started 36 of 37 games with 16 double-doubles as a sophomore.

Averaging nearly three kills a contest and three digs earned her honorable mention in the Northern Sun Conference, and she was also one of three Wildcat players named to the Omaha World-Herald All-Nebraska first team.

Fredrickson

Her athletic ability has surprised many people, but Kneifl understood the greatness Fredrickson could display as a Wildcat.

"She has great court sense, she reads defenses very well, and understands the game," said Kneifl.

Fredrickson provided the Wildcats with consistent play and great statistics as a junior. She started all 30 matches and only missed one set out of 107 played. With 14 doubledoubles and a conference honorable mention nomination, Fredrickson averaged three kills and nearly four

Reeves on advisory committee

Wayne State baseball player Trevor Reeves has been selected to serve on the NCAA Div. II Student Athletic Advisory Committee (SAAC).

A junior from Colorado City, Colo., majoring in speech communications, Reeves was selected by the Div. II SAAC Nominating subcommittee from a pool of candidates that were submitted by the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference office. Wayne State College SAAC advisor Lindsay McLaughlin referred Reeves, who then submitted a 2,000-character paper on why he would be a qualified candidate for the position. After submitting his letter to the conference office, he was recently notified by the NCAA about selection to serve on the prestigious

"It's a huge honor," remarked Reeves. "The magnitude of this position really hasn't hit me yet . . . It's exciting to represent Wayne State College and the Northern Sun Conference not just athletically but academically as well."

Reeves will represent the NSIC on the national committee and his term will last through the January, 2014 NCAA Convention. He will serve as a student-athlete liaison between happenings on campus, conference and national levels. Reeves will attend future NCAA conventions and meet

Rugby women fall short, men go to 14-0

The Wayne State rugby women saw their quest for a first-ever trip to the Final Four of college rugby end with a devastating, controversial loss in the finals of the National Small College Rugby Organization's Pacific Regional finals Sunday at the House of Pain.

In a game that could be one of the most controversial games in the history of rugby, Wayne State was the victim of some unfortunate officiating calls that helped Carleton College to a 37-7 win, ending the Wildcats' hopes for a potential national title.

After winning 37-0 over Bemidii State on Saturday, the Wildcats took on Carleton College in the Elite Eight game with a trip to the Final Four in New Jersey waiting for the winner.

Wayne State took an early lead with a great play on a fullback insert by Sam Earlywine and passed the ball to Tiff Randall. Randall ran 45 yards for a score, only to have the score called back for a forward pass that many questioned, and ultimately started an unraveling string of events.

What unfolded in the next 10 minutes is what leaves the collegiate rugby world puzzled, as three Wavne State players were ejected. In the game of rugby of 15on-15, when players are ejected, they can not be replaced on the field by substitutes. Wayne State had to play the final 60 minutes 12-on-15, something that, coach Darrin Barner said, he had never seen or heard of in his life.

With this all happening midway of the first half. WSC went in at halftime down 17-0, after Carleton had a three-try lead.

Wayne State took the field in the second half, in a situation, to simply try to keep the score within 80 points. Barner said. "If you matched up to college football teams and played 8-on-11, with three people short, what do you think the score would be? It would be impossible to score, and impossible to prevent them from scoring."

After scoring early in the second half, Wayne State pulled off a remarkable offensive series by moving down the field and crossing the goal line, in an effort that can not be mentioned by any playoff team by scoring with less players on their physical stamina to keep Carleton from quick scores, fatigue set in the last 15 minutes of the game, and after holding them to only a 22-7 lead, Carleton put up three touchdowns in the last 14 minutes to win 37-7.

After the game, Barner said, "Bactine can heal some wounds, but after that mess, there is nothing that can heal from having your heart ripped out. We will remember this game for the rest of our lives. This team had the national title within grasp."

While the women heartbroken, the Wayne State men played their way into the Sweet 16 next spring with a pair of wins in playoff action last weekend.

After a 56-0 win over Arkansas John Brown on Saturday, the Wavne State men took on a very solid Colorado College team known for their Div. In the second quarter, the Vikings turned the tables and were able to overcome their early disadvantage. A 46-yard field goal on the final play of the first half gave the Vikings a 17-14 edge at intermission, and they made it 23-14 with a touchdown early in the third quarter to add to their momentum.

It became a back-and-forth game after that. A 23-yard connection between Most and Aaron Konicek, followed by a 28-yard field goal by Martin, gave the Wildcats a 24-23 advantage late in the third.

Augustana regained the lead early in the fourth, but the defense came up big for the Wildcats when Tommy Warren - a receiver who was moved to the defensive side of the ball – picked off a pass and went 38 yards for a score to make it 31-26 midway through the final period.

Black Hills Energy offers tips for customers to stay warm, safe

Black Hills Energy encourages cussystems and appliances are clean and working properly before using them this fall.

"There are more than 70 million residential, commercial and industrial natural gas customers in the U.S. Natural gas is a clean, safe, reliable source of energy used to heat many U.S. homes and businesses," said Dan Mechtenberg, vice president, gas operations, Black Hills Energy. "Just as you would your car or anything else with moving parts, it's important to have heating and ventilating equipment inspected annually by a professional, especially before using them for the first time this fall. An annual inspection and tune-up can ensure a customer's heating equipment is using energy efficiently and operating correctly.'

Properly functioning carbon monoxide detectors may offer an early warning of the presence of carbon monoxide. would I even be ALIVE right now?

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes Managing Editor

What if we'd done things different?

Have you ever wondered where you would be if you'd have done just one thing different in your life?

It's amazing what kind of impact one decision can make on our lives, and how much it would have changed had we done just one thing different. Where would I be right now if one of the many decisions I've made about my life had taken a different path? Would I be in Wayne, America, right much they want to stay in touch. now writing this column? Would I even be in the media business? Geez –

Our young people, especially, tend to, as they say, "live in the now." They make decisions about their lives that affect an immediate moment in their existence, without thinking about the consequences of that action and how it can completely blow up their future.

Whether it's alcohol, drugs, sex or some specific social interaction, the younger generation (and it blows my mind that I can actually use that phrase and not have it refer to me) has the tendency to look at how this event is going to affect them right now, not one, five or even 20 years down

Eventually, as time reveals the results of those past actions, a lot of people will look back and say "If I'd only done this different, my life would be so much better."

Or would it?

As I look back on some of the decisions I've made in my life, I've made some real doozies that, as I look back on them, I sometimes ask myself, What in the world was I thinking???" And then, as I take a closer look at how that decision impacted my life today, I reject the idea of going back and changing that decision, because that decision has, without exception, helped shape who I am right now and who I will become in the days, weeks, months and years ahead (God willing, of course).

What if I had waited longer than three months to go from meeting to marrying my now-former spouse? Would we have stayed together long enough to have gotten to know each other's dreams and visions? Would we have married anyway? Would we have the beautiful daughter that has totally rocked our world in such a positive manner?

What if I had not taken a certain job in the dozen or so I have had in 25 years as a journalist? If I'd stayed at my hometown paper, would the next job come open again in the same place? Would it have been somewhere else? What kind of experiences would I have had?

What if I had stayed in a broken marriage instead of opting for a divorce? Could the marriage have been saved? Could the former spouse and I have based with considerable historical member of the British Parliament." done things differently that would have kept us together?

And what about the ventures and opportunities I have had over the Legislative Update years? What if I didn't come up with the idea for an online wrestling magazine? Would I have made the connections and developed some of the friendships that I now enjoy as a result of that experience?

Pick a moment in your life and think about what would be different if you had made a different choice — it's amazing to think where you might be if you'd made a different decision in that one moment.

The one I always look back on was in 1993, when I was working at the newspaper in Fairbury. A radio station in York, it seemed, thought I would be a great addition to their staff as a news director. A lot of promises were made about what I would be able to do there, and it seemed too good an opportunity to pass up.

Over the course of six weeks there, I discovered the people running the station to be about as dishonest as any I've ever run across. My wife was happy with where we were, so the move was not one she wanted to make. The whole situation rocked me professionally, helped blow up my marriage and forced me to make a second move in as many months to a newspaper in the suburban Omaha area.

What if I'd have stayed in Fairbury? Would I have enjoyed the kind of success I ultimately had in the years after? Would I still be married? Would another opportunity have made itself available? Would I be here

We can't go back and change the things that have happened in our lives all we can do is learn from them and recognize that the decisions we fact, a reasonable paraphrase from a 1774 speech by the Irish-born political philosopher who indeed supported the American Revolution. Burke was an intellectual leader in articulating the principles of representative government.

Burke, of course, lived a couple centuries before a time when opinion polling, coupled with forms of instant communication, makes it possible to accumulate and statistically analyze the purported views of virtually anybody about virtually anything. In some ways, that probably makes it easier—or at least politically safer—to campaign for and hold public office.

But lawmakers and executive nns.mkquinlan@gmail.com

That line from the musical is, in branch officials who decline to act in the absence of consensus among their constituents are abdicating their responsibilities, as Edmund Burke saw it.

PAUL FELL NPA

He believed voters elected a representative with the expectation that he - and in Burke's day it was always he - would use his judgment about how best to govern his fellow citizens, knowing they wouldn't

Not an easy thing to do, using independent judgment. But that's the standard our form of government demands from our elected officials, even if it means telling constituents you think they're wrong.

Special session of Legislature under way

summoned state senators to Lincoln for the purpose of, "Enacting legislation relating to oil pipelines.' Six bills have been introduced during the first three days of the special session, when bill introduction was allowed. (One of the bills, LB2, is a "housekeeping" bill that allows for funds to be provided to pay for the special session.)

LB1 was introduced by Sen. Annette Dubas of Fullerton. The state would have siting authority by giving the Public Service Commission the power to review an application for the route of a major oil pipeline. All oil pipeline applicants would have to be approved under a public interest test before they are granted the power of eminent domain.

LB3 was introduced by Sen. Bill Avery of Lincoln. It would require pipeline companies to have approval to build pipelines before initiating eminent domain.

LB4, introduced by Sen. Chris Langemeier of Schuyler, would require companies wanting to build major pipelines in the state to apply to the Department of Environmental Quality for a permit. A panel appointed by the governor would review each application, and make a recommendation to the governor. The governor would then make a decision on the pipeline.

Special session began this Sen. Ken Haar of Malcolm week. Governor Dave Heineman introduced LB5, which would create an "exclusion zone" where pipelines larger than eight inches in diameter could not run without permission from the Public Service Commission.

> Sen. Avery introduced an additional bill, LB6, which would require companies to post a $500 million bond. This bond would be made available to landowners and counties to restore any damages to land, infrastructure, or natural resources. There will be public hearings on these five pipeline bills next week. We will have to wait to see which if any of these bills survive the committee hearing process and reach the full Legislature for floor

On Friday, the Legislature's Health and Human Services Committee met and received another in a long string of disturbing reports on the Department of Health's Children and Family Services Division and their efforts to privatize services. The Legislature's Performance Audit Committee reported that this division failed to conduct a cost-benefit analysis in advance of the multimillion dollar effort to privatize the state child welfare services. Clear goals and timetables were not set for the reform, and only modest progress had been made in key areas earlier cited to justify privatization. It is now

It is also disturbing to learn that Nebraska and Iowa have felt the need to withdraw from the Missouri River Association of States and Tribes because of a dispute over how to manage the river. The governors of these two states have viewed this group as unresponsive to their concerns of pursuing more aggressive flood control. agree with the decision that our Gov. Heineman and Iowa's Gov Branstad were forced to reach. It saddens me that Montana's Gov. Schweitzer argues that more aggressive flood control would infringe on his state's wildlife and recreation industries.

I would hope the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, who manages the more than 2,300 mile long river will not allow the flooding damage we saw this year to reoccur again next year. People, communities, and agriculture are more important and food versus boating, water

Close to Home

Two quick and Wendy Vawser easy tips to lower your energy bills this fall and

With the weather forecast recently, I have been reminding myself about ways to keep the energy bills as low as possible. Here are two of my favorites.

1. Did you know that ceiling fans have a switch on them that reverses the direction of the blades depending on the season? Ceiling fans are designed to push warm air down in the winter and pull cooler air into the room during summer months. The key is the direction of the blades. A clockwise rotation makes the room feel warmer and a counter-clockwise rotation makes the room feel cooler. November is the perfect time to double check your fan blades direction to maximize their efficiency.

2. Get a humidifier to add moisture to the air and turn the thermostat down slightly. The air inside your home can be very dry during cold months. Moister air feels warmer, so a humidifier can help you feel comfortable even though your thermostat is set at a lower temperature.

Home buyers look at homes with low energy bills in the winter as a huge plus. You can find many other tips at your local energy company. Please call 402-375-3385 or email me at wendy@mwlco.net with comments.

Area churches contribute to 'Soap for Little Hands'

Wayne area churches recently took part in the third annual "Soap For Little Hands" event to collect supplies for three missions in the Rio Grande Valley area.

Soap, toothpaste and toothbrushes were collected and have been recently boxed and will soon be delivered to the three missions -His Hands Ministries, Meadowlark Ministries and Christo Rey Mission

"This year was the biggest ever and will be appreciate by all," said Rowan Wiltse, who with his wife, Twila, will be delivering a portion of the collected items. The remainder of the donations will be delivered by Vern and Dee Schulz.

As the donations were boxed, they were counted and the numbers are as follows: 560 large bars of soap; 540 travel size bars of soap; six two-gallon zip lock bags of travel size shampoo and conditioners: three boxes of toothpaste and toothbrushes and 15 miscellaneous bottles of soap and conditioner.

The Wiltses will also be delivering more than 30 quits constructed by the sewing group from Our Savior Lutheran Church. These will be distributed at the Meadowlark "On behalf of His Hands

Ministries, Meadowlark Ministries and Christo Rey Mission Church, thank you for your continued support. I'm sure the children of these missions will appreciate finding these items in their Christmas

More than 500 large bars of soap (top) and nearly that many travel-sized bars of soap were donated to the "Soap for Little Hands" campaign. A large assortment of toothbrushes and toothpaste (above) will find it way to missions in the Rio Grande Valley thanks to the generosity of Wayne residents.

WSC choir to perform at Nov. 11 concert

Nov. 11 at 7:30 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre under the to contemplate what America is all about." direction of Ronald R. Lofgren, D.M.A.

Phil Pfaltzgraff, accompanist, will also perform. Selections will include The Testament of Freedom by Randall Thompson, The Souls of the Righteous by Ralph Vaughan Williams, Sleep by Eric Whitacre, and "Gloria" from The Masque of Angels by Dominick Argento. The Vaughan Williams and Whitacre pieces will be conducted by student conductors.

The Testament of Freedom was written to honor the 200th anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson. The texts for the four movements are taken from Jefferson's writings and were chosen by Thompson.

"It's a very exciting work, and one which I have done before," said Dr. Ronald Lofgren, director of choral activities. "It is difficult to do because of the prose nature of the texts, but through his music Thompson manages to bring out the meaning of Jefferson's words.

Wayne State College choir members will perform It is an important work that gives the listener a chance

The work was first performed in April 1943, by the University of Virginia Glee Club, with the composer accompanying the performance. This performance will feature WSC's staff accompanist, Pfaltzgraff, playing the very difficult accompaniment. The first performance was broadcast nationwide and rebroadcast by the Office of War Information to the Armed Forces

Dominick Argento is a prolific and eclectic composer who has spent his career in Minneapolis, Minn. "Gloria" is a chorus taken from his one-act opera The Masque of Angels . Within it a group of angels enter a deserted church in order to carry out their mission to "encourage one mortal love." The Wayne State College Concert Choir previewed this piece earlier this semester when they sang it for the inauguration ceremony

My turn to complain about things

Andy Rooney has died, so I'm taking over his spot as curmud-A female curmudgeon. Actually, there was another one with that title here in Lincoln, a retired Wesleyan prof who used to write for the Lincoln paper. And he died this year, too. So, it's my turn. I've been complaining about a lot of things lately, and today, I'm adding

I can't find film for my Advantix camera! They don't make it anymore. I realize I'm still in the stone age without a digital camera, but the kids gave me this Advantix years ago because it took good pictures and was easy to operate. The essential words being "easy to

I take far fewer pictures than used to, a result of my going through old ones and realizing a lot of them weren't worth keeping, anyway. Besides, the young'uns take great ones and make copies.

But, with my brother coming this month, I wanted to be ready. I even spent $12 on a new battery. Why are they still selling those batteries if they don't sell the film?

It's called Choice, I think. I realize Kodak is going broke, but making a few rolls of this film every month or so surely is not contributing to their problems. If any of you have some of this stuff on your shelf and you don't plan to use it, please send it my way!

My Mom had a store of regular bulbs in her house; I think I will put them in my closet. But, of course, eventually, they will all be gone and I will be forced to use those curly ones. We have two in the living room, they delay coming on and do not give as much light. We also have florescent lighting in some rooms, so that seems to be okay, so far.

I realize we Americans are spoiled; we are used to having choices that folks in other countries simply don't have. I also realize we are being regulated to the max! The part of the Interstate that was Then there is the matter of light ruined by flooding was repaired bulbs; you already know that story. in record time. The columnist in the Omaha paper resurrected the Peter Principle and said that work expands to fill the time allotted to it. He thought the huge bonus for the contractors for finishing fast was a factor. I'm sure it was. But the article I read about it also said that the bureaucracy was speeded up, too. There is where the time is

In reading about the Pipeline controversy, the Big Farmer has learned that it takes 12 years to build a refinery, which is a big reason that the idea of building one at the source of the oil is not a good one. A large share of that time is taken up by the regulations. environmental reviews, and paper work involved. That is crazy!

We've had overnight guests this week with a loved one of theirs in the hospital. The daughter now lives in London and was expounding on the blessings of the National Health Service there. But her dad had meningitis and is almost completely recovered here. Of course. they have not seen the bill yet, but I reminded them that the third parties do not pay 100 percent, ever. Health care is another subject when it comes to over-regulation.

Somehow, I went from film to light bulbs to highways to pipelines to health care, an amazing progression! I'll try to find something positive to write about next week! It's not good for a person to focus too long on the negative . . . it tends to make one cranky.

Store grain properly to keep it in top condition

A good crop can easily deteriorate in unfavorable storage conditions. Storing harvested grain dry and under regulated temperatures is

Regardless of grain moisture content, controlling grain temperature is vital to the life of the grain. To maintain favorable temperatures, air needs to be moved through the entire grain mass in a uniform fashion. A well-designed aeration system with a perforated floor, combined with clean grain and a level surface, is the best combination for obtaining a uniform temperature. Upward airflow makes it easier to determine when the desired temperature has been reached because the top is the last zone to cool or sonably cool temperature. In other words, keep grain within 10 degrees of the average monthly air temperature and make sure temperatures do not vary more than 10 degrees

Grain should be stored at a sea- from place to place within the bin. Hold grain at 35 to 40 degrees through the winter and warm to about 60 degrees for the summer months with proper transitions in help producers better determine

Aeration fans are necessary to move cooling and warming zones throughout the grain. The rate of movement depends on airflow rate, length of fan operation, and outside temperature. Keep fans running continuously when changing grain temperatures, as turning them off stops movement of the temperature zone.

Maintaining proper grain temperature plays an important role in the prevention of convection currents that can concentrate moisture at the top center of the bin. This excess moisture is indicated by damp grain and formation of a crust at the surface of the grain.

Producers should inspect grain once a month during the winter and once every two weeks during other seasons of the year. Recording temperatures from several locations within the mass of grain, combined with outside temperatures, will the cause of unusually warm spots.

The Broken Chain We little know that morning, that God was going to call your name. In life we loved you dearly. In death we do the same. It broke our hearts to lose you, you did not go alone, for part of us went with you, the day God called you home. You left us peaceful memories, your love is still our guide; and though we cannot see you, you are always at our side. Our family chain is broken, and nothing seems the same; but as God calls us one by one,

The family of Naomi Peterson are overwhelmed by the expressions of love and support through all the cards, flowers, food, visits, phone calls and memorials shown after the sudden passing of our mother and grandmother.

Thank you to Pastor Sarah for the beautiful service and comforting words during our difficult days. Special thank you to the musicians for the lovely music and Concordia Ladies for the nice lunch. Last but not least a big thank you to Scott Hasemann and crew for your wonderful service and support.

Kristv & Kasev Otte Rick, Donna, Holli & Cory Peterson

The family of Dwaine Bjorklund would like to thank all of our family and friends for the love and support we have received since the loss of our father and grandfather. We particularly want to thank the Wakefield Health Care Center and Providence Medical Center for their loving care of Dad these last couple of months. He appreciated everyone's help and concerns, especially Pastor Garton's prayers and visits with him. We want to thank Steve Munderloh for his professional caring support and Hospice for their love and support of Dad. We thank Pastor Garton, Steve, Clinton, Lowell, Mardell and Gloria for the beautiful service in honor of Dad and all of the beautiful flowers. Thanks to the Ladies of Salem for the wonderful lunch after the service. God bless you all!

Debra Finn, Wayne County Clerk

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session at 9:15 a.m. on Tuesday, November 1, 2011 in the upstairs conference room of the Courthouse.

Roll call was answered by Chairman Rabe, Members Wurdeman and Burbach, and Clerk Advance notice of this meeting was published in the Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on October 20, 2011.

A current copy of the Open Meetings Act was posted in the meeting room and accessible to the public.

The agenda was approved.

The minutes of the October 18, 2011, meeting were approved as printed in the Commissioner's Record. Motion by Wurdeman, second by Burbach to amend the agenda as follows: 1. Add Liberty

National Insurance, 2. Reschedule Cindy Swinney for November 15th, and 3. Reschedule the purchase of land in the SW ¼ of SW ¼ of Section 23, Township 25 North, Range 2 East of the 6th P.M. for November 15th. Roll call vote: Wurdeman-aye, Burbach-aye, Rabe-aye; motion carried. Motion by Wurdeman, second by Burbach to cancel the appointment with Liberty National Insurance because none of the county employees are interested in the product. Roll call vote: Wurdeman-aye, Burbach-aye, Rabe-aye; motion carried. Mark Mainelli of Mainelli Wagner was present to discuss road maintenance projects. Discussion

1. Make sure Plan of Action maps are posted. Plan of Action forms should be updated after each event.

2. The NBCS budget expenditure/equipment cost report has been filed The Transportation Committee will hear a status update on the buy-back of federal

4. Many counties are bonding road/bridge projects that must be done. The advantage of bonding is interest rates are low right now; and by the time, you save enough for the project it will cost considerably more. Highway Allocation funds are being used to make the bond payments.

Work on the One & Six Year Plan will begin in January. Prior to that we need to work on road classifications (arterial, collector, minimum maintenance, etc.). We don't have the money to do all the projects so we must decide where the main routes are and prioritize accordingly. Side slopes on roads (Exp 6-1, 4-1, 3-1) differs by road classification.

All road project easements should be in writing; we may have to start paying for the land. Let the landowner know what to expect before the project. On sharp hills we can go in advance to the Board of Classifications and Standards and let them know what we can/can't afford We need to develop a policy for right-of-way access. Landowners cannot build drives wherever they choose. Never let utility lines go down a road, fence line or ditch bottom. Design standards - We must meet the standards set by the Board of Classifications and Standards because we accept Highway Allocation funds. We cannot negatively affect upstream or downstream conditions because we accepted FEMA flood regulations in the 1970's. We must look at the implication of up to a 100-year event when we are designing a project.

permit. To replace a bridge with a culvert we need to get an Army Corps of Engineers permit and wet land delineation plans, even if water does not run year round at that location. Redistricting of commissioner voting districts was discussed. The proposal submitted follows the same lines in the rural areas as the current districts. The proposal follows the ward lines within the City of Wayne with the exception of a tract of land starting at the intersection of Main Street and Lindahl Drive, thence east on Lindahl Drive to Schreiner Drive, thence south on Schreiner
