booze sales OK'd for graduation

Graduation weekend will include an extra hour of alcohol consumption, thanks to a decision Tuesday by the Wayne City

The board gave approval to a second reading on a proposed ordinance that would allow an extra hour of alcohol sales on Thursday and Friday, Dec. 14-15, which coincides with fall semester graduation at Wayne State College.

The ordinance must go through three readings, and councilman Doug Sturm moved to suspend third reading and pass the ordinance, saying that there may not be the required six council members present for the next meeting, which would be the last chance the ordinance could be adopted before graduation.

On both the second and third readings, the board voted 6-0, with Councilwoman Kathy Berry abstaining and Councilwoman Kaki Ley absent from the meeting.

The board also heard from Garry Poutre, superintendent of public works, who presented a slide show of construction work on the new wastewater treatment plant and updated the progress of testing at the Lenihan told the board that the state is trying to take more than just assessment results into consideration when determining whether or not a school is meeting the required standards for educating students.

"What they're trying to do, and I think they're on the right track . . . is take into consideration graduation rate, attendance rate, growth, improvement and other things into a formula that will give a better indicator of how schools are doing," he said.

Lenihan said that basing a district's success solely on test scores can be a flawed

"You might give a reading test on a day where kids are missing, or there might be other reasons why kids might not do well on a test one day than on another," he said. "Assessment is just one thing. You need to take all the factors into consideration."

Lenihan noted a number of positive data that the district can boast, including a 95 percent attendance rate and a 98 percent graduation rate. In addition, Lenihan said he could think of six or seven students who scored 30 or higher on their ACT tests.

"All those things will get taken into consideration. That's what it's going to, and I think that's a real positive," Lenihan said.

The Wayne County Commissioners will see few changes in their district maps after county during Tuesday's meeting.

The three districts will be split almost exactly even with the new map of the district boundaries. Each district must be as equally represented as possible, with a 5 percent variance between the number of people in the district and the average number of residents in each of the three

The biggest change in the district map is the movement of Wayne State College into District 2, represented by Dean Urbach of Carroll. Previously the college property had been split between District 2 and District 1, represented by Kevlin Wurdemann the board approved the redistricting of the of Wayne. Other than that, the county's districts follow boundary lines within the City of Wayne that match the city's boundary lines, with two of the city's four wards being represented in District 1. One resident of District 1 was not the least bit happy about some work that was being done near her property, and she let Wurdemann know her displeasure during the meeting.

Louise Hanson, 97, died Tuesday, November 8, 2011 at the Wakefield Health Care Center in Wakefield.

theran Church in Wakefield, with Pastor Jack T. Nitz as guest officiant. Visitation will be held on Friday, Nov. 18, from 3 to 8 p.m. at the Bressler-Munderloh Funeral Home in Wakefield, with a prayer service at 7 p.m. Burial will follow at the Wakefield Cemetery.

Louise May Boeckenhauer was born on Dec. 11, 1913, on a farm near the small town of Miranda, S D. to Elmer Boeckenhauer and Alice May Ralph Mitchell Boeckenhauer. When Louise was three months old, her parents and her brother, John, moved back to northeast Nebraska where her parents were engaged in farming. This occupation took them to live in several places as Louise and her siblings, John, Ann, Jane, and Clarence (Bud) grew up. Louise, her brother John and sister Ann, were baptized at the Presbyterian Church in Wakefield on April 8, 1917. The Boeckenhauer family lived in or near the communities of Carroll, Wayne, Emerson, and Wakefield. Louise attended several country schools and graduated from Wayne High School in 1932. She then attended Wayne State Teachers' College for one year. In 1935, Louise married Laurence F. Hanson of Wakefield. Louise was of German heritage, but she married a Swede. One of the first challenges for Louise was learning to cook Swedish food for her husband and her father-in-law, Frank, who lived with them, having recently lost his wife. Louise ably met the challenge and her cooking talents were legendary (as were those of her mother, sisters, and sisters-in-law). Louise and Laurence first lived on the farm south of Wakefield where Frank had built the round hog barn which much later was recognized as being of historic significance. They rented two other farms in succession and then, in 1948, they purchased a farm three miles west of Wakefield. They were members of Salem Lutheran Church during their Wakefield years. Louise was actively involved in many of Salem's organizations. Louise and Laurence joined St. John's Lutheran Church in Norfolk when they lived in Tilden. Because Laurence's father moved to California during the war, as soon as they were able to, Laurence and Louise started to travel regularly to visit Frank and also other relatives and friends. Besides traveling extensively in the United States, they were eventually able to visit Canada, Peru, Costa Rica, and several European countries. Louise and Laurence enjoyed gardening. They tried, as much as possible, to keep up with the activities of their children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. They also enjoyed being informed about current events and politics. In 1975, they retired and moved to Tilden where they lived until Laurence's death in 1997. Louise then alternated between living in Wakefield or Tilden until her death. She had resided at the Wakefield Health Care Center since May, 2007.

Survivors include her son, Paul K. and Kay Hanson of Billings, Mont.; her daughter, Jean and Don Oelsligle of Tilden; her daughter-in-law, Marilyn and Bill Mueksch of Lincoln; eight grandchildren, 13 great-grandchildren, and two sisters-in-law, Ruth Boeckenhauer and Donna Boeckenhauer, both of Wakefield; nine nieces and eight nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her husband; one son, Del; a great-grandson, Rune David Thorson and all of her siblings.

Salvation Army to begin Christmas Kettle campaign

It is that time of year again, when in the hustle and bustle of the holidays, the sight of The Salvation Army's Christmas Kettles and the sound of the bells remind us to be thankful for what we have and to think of others less fortunate.

Often, when people think of those in need, they picture the homeless in large cities, not realizing The Salvation Army is hard at work here in Wayne, America.

As cuts in social services take a toll on the poor, particularly the rural poor, The Salvation Army in Wayne is asking for the community's support. Proceeds from the campaign help local residents with emergency rent, utilities and prescriptions.

The Salvation Army is a United Way agency. Several local businesses have consented to having the kettles on display. Businesses with kettles are Wayne East, Pamida, Bomgaars, Quality Foods, and Pac 'N' Save.

The churches belonging to the Wayne Ministerial Association have consented to bring their youth and parish members out to ring bells for and hour when possible, along with a few Boy Scouts.

There still are vacant slots that need to be filled Friday evenings and Saturday mornings through the month of December. Any organization or individual interested in helping is encouraged to contact Phyllis Rahn at (402) 375-1667.

"Your assistance will be much appreciated," Mrs. Rahn said.

Habitat for Humanity conducts fall activities

This fall the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity partnered with the Wayne Rotarians in a Fun Run held on Oct. 29.

Over 35 participants completed a 5K run or one mile walk and prizes were awarded for the top participants in each age category as well as for creative costumes. The proceeds of the day went to support Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity efforts as preparations are made to build a fourth home in Wayne.

Habitat members have also been visiting area churches to increase awareness of a new fund-raising effort to build a home "a brick at a time." The effort features a tag board house for which donated funds are represented by slips of paper representing shingles, flooring sections, etc.

The house is on display at the Wayne Library and anyone wishing to contribute may contact Ann at (402) 375-4509 or any Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity member. The last 2011 meeting for the organization was scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 17 at 7 p.m. at the Praise Assembly of God Church which is located at 1000 East 10th Street.

Making the best of sad situation traditionally kept this column focused on the area sports scene, with most of the talk about college sports centered around Wayne State and all that is Wildcat athletics.

This week, I'm going to make an

With all the turmoil surrounding the situation at Penn State (my alter ego has his own insight into the controversy on the Opinion page), fans of Nebraska football had to have a lot of apprehension about last week's game between the Huskers and Nittany Lions.

With knothead students rioting in the streets of Happy Valley, Pa., in the days leading up to the game - something about a once-legendary football coach being "unfairly" fired, from what I could gather - safety was the biggest concern, not only for Husker fans, but for the players themselves. Even after the Huskers hung on for a 17-14 win, coach Bo Pelini admitted that he was none too keen on stepping one toe into that firestorm.

What was most impressive about that day's events, though, was how the two teams came together as one along with dozens of others who had no direct connection with the teams, other than having on-field access – in the middle of the field for a pregame prayer that was offered to the victims of the Penn State situation, led by longtime Husker assistant coach Ron Brown.

The two teams took advantage of the situation to offer themselves up to a higher power and use the opportunity to take this game beyond the win-at-all-costs mentality that has so prostituted major college sports. This game was an opportunity to show kids in trouble that it is possible to conduct yourselves with honor and dignity, play with passion and do the right things in life. To those who questioned whether the game should be played, I think the pregame prayer, and the way the game was played afterward, was all the evidence we needed to conclude that it was the right thing to do.

And when you look at Brown's track record, was it really that much of a surprise that it was him in the middle of it all, leading the prayers as players, coaches and anyone else on the sidelines, took a moment to kneel down and pray? Brown has long been a lightning rod of discussion with his unwavering Christian faith, a belief system that has not only served him well, but has driven crackpots like the American Civil Liberties Union an organization that would just as soon see God erased from every book, building and park bench on earth – absolutely nuts.

It also gave us time to think about just how important everything is in the grand scheme of things.

We're nuts about football here in Nebraska, but it's nothing like the insanity that oozes from Happy Valley when you talk about the Nittany Lions. Penn State fans are absolutely bananas about their college football team, which is why there was such an immediate negative backlash as news of the firing of Joe Paterno began to make

As Husker fans, many of us sat back and watched in amazement as these nutjob college students overturned and vandalized vehicles and created a general sense of chaos. We would hope that sort of thing would NEVER happen in Nebraska, but who knew about this situation at Penn State? The ongoing controversy is a long way from being over. However, if there was any good that came out of last week, it's that the University of Nebraska football program, and its fans, were able to bring an energy to the situation that defused a potentially volatile event and helped give everyone a chance to put it all in perspective in a way that, hopefully, will lead to a sense of peace for those whose lives were bowled over by this sad situation.

Wildcats take defending champs to four before falling at state

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

GRAND ISLAND - Winside had nothing to lose as the No. 8 seed in the state tournament, and they played like it.

The Wildcats gave two-time defending Class D-1 champion Exeter-Milligan all they wanted and more in the opening round of the State Volleyball Championships Thursday at Grand Island Northwest, but in the end the Timberwolves were able to hang on and bring Winside's season to an end with a four-set win.

Although the Wildcats went down 25-15, 20-25, 25-13, 25-18, coach Brooke DeBolt said the team accomplished something it had wanted to do at the start of the season - play their best volleyball at the state tournament.

"Our whole goal this season was to peak out at state, and that's exactly what we did," she said. We played some great volleyball, and I don't want to take anything away from Exeter-Milligan, but we played very well tonight." The Wildcats got off to a good start early in the first set. Shelby Lienemann had three of her seven kills in an opening rally that helped Winside break out to a 4-1 lead over the two-time defending champs. Exeter-Milligan responded with a four-point run of their own, then distanced themselves with five straight points later in the set to take a 13-7 advantage, never letting the Wildcats get within four points.

"We came out strong, and I don't know if we had a little bit of of our comfort zone," DeBolt said. at 13-13. 'We started slow in the second set boosted our momentum.'

Wildcats came right back with an ace serve by Bridget Gray and four consecutive hitting errors by the Timberwolves. When Doffin safely dinked at the net into the near corner of the Exeter-Milligan front zone, the Winside crowd erupted and the Wildcat players screamed in unison as they came together to celebrate evening the match at a set

"Jerae is our strong blocker, and we put her up at the net against the White girl and I thought she shut (White) down fantastic," DeBolt said. "We got in her head a little bit, and Jerae and Nazya flustered their hitters and got them out of their comfort zone."

Winside looked to be in position to take the third set after jumping out to a 3-0 lead, but the Timberwolves showed why they were the defending champions, battling back to take a 9-5 lead and cruise to the third-set win.

The two teams staged an exciting battle in the fourth set. White got off back-to-back kills to break a 7-7 tie, and Winside countered later with a Doffin kill and an Erin Gray ace to take an 11-10 advantage.

The Timberwolves got kills from Megan Zwickl and Jackie Luzum to regain the lead at 13-12, but Shannon Gray made a nice dump nerves, because we kind of got out on the near sideline to tie the match

Winona cracks WSC defense for 27-24 win in Egg Bowl

By MICHAEL CARNES

Of The Herald

It was once said that legendary quarterback John Unitas never lost a game – he simply ran out of time.

The Wayne State football team came back from a 10-point fourthquarter deficit, but left just a little too much time on the clock as Winona State rebounded for a 27-24 win in the 23rd annual Egg Bowl Saturday at Memorial Stadium.

The Wildcats, who ended the year 7-4, took a 24-20 lead with 3:27 to go when Evan Johnson, the team's MVP, came off the bench to throw a pair of fourth-quarter touchdown just came up short." passes. The second score, a 46-yard Needing just one stop to put the game out of reach, the Wildcat defense couldn't come through at the end, as the Warriors were able to drive down the field and score with less than a minute to go, and coach Dan McLaughlin gave credit to the visitors for being able to come through at the end.

"Our defense played well and played hard, and you just have to give credit to Winona," he said. "They executed and did a great job, and we did everything right. We

Wildcats open with regional wins

By TRAVIS CORLEY

Of The Herald

The No. 9 ranked Wayne State women's basketball team opened the 2011-12 season by claiming two regional wins over Colorado School of Mines and Colorado Christian, defeating both teams by 11 points.

"Great weekend, two great regional wins versus two great regional opponents," coach Chris Keismeier said.

In a physical match-up against Colorado Christian on Saturday, the Wildcats played under control to withstand the Cougars' hopes of avenging their NCAA Div. II Central Region tournament loss from last year, as the Wildcats hung on for a 62-51 win.

Great outside shooting for the Wildcats backcourt and solid rebounding from its frontcourt sealed the victory. Clare Duwelius shot 5-of-8 from behind the 3-point arc, finishing with a game-high 17 points.

"Clare played great all weekend, not only offensively but defensively. She prepared hard all off season and it showed this weekend," said Keismeier.

The Wildcats saw three other players reach doublefigure scoring. Ashton Yossi scored 12 points while going a perfect 5-for -5 at the free throw line. Ashley Arlen and Ellen Hanson both added 10 points and nine

With five minutes left before the half, the Wildcats lead was only three points. Duwelius scored a layup following a steal by Alisha Brown. Increasing its lead to five points, the Wildcats were looking to take control of the game right before the half. It seemed as if the Cougars weren't going anywhere, scoring a lay-up to go down only a possession.

Wildcats No. 6 in Div. II Central Region tourney

out the regular season with another

After overcoming early-season losses to Concordia-St. Paul and Winona State, the Wildcats' revenge tour continued Friday as they steamrolled Augustana in Sioux Falls, S.D., winning 25-14, 25-22, 25-14 to finish the regular season 23-7 overall and 16-5 in the NSIC.

It was one of the better overall performances of the season for the Wildcats, one that coach Scott Kneifl was only too happy to witness.

"We went up to Augie and played extremely well as a team and played really clean and just blocked the heck out of the ball," he said. "It was a nice way to end the season."

The Wildcats hit for a .301 average as a team and racked up 12.5 blocks in posting the seasonending blowout of the Vikings.

"Everything was flowing really well for us, and it seemed we were in sync the whole night," Kneifl said. "The Augieholics all piled in and were heckling us, but they didn't have a whole lot to cheer about by the end of things."

Tali Fredrickson got her 20th double-double of the year, finishing

> Wayne State was solid in the blocking department, as Mindy Moody had nine blocks and Melanie Placke recorded six assists.

> The win put Wayne State in the No. 6 position for this week's Div. II Central Regional tournament at Nebraska-Kearney, giving them another chance to avenge a loss as they take on Minnesota Duluth in Thursday's 12 p.m. tournament

> "Duluth is a quality team and were ranked No. 1 for the majority of the year, but they lost their last two games so anything is possible," Kneifl said. "They're really big at the net and can do some dynamic things, but we handle the ball well and I'm excited to get them on a neutral floor." Kneifl said he likes his team's chances, and looks at this tournament - which features six of the top 12 teams in the nation – as one that is up for grabs.

"I feel it's a regional that anyone can win," he said. "I think we can beat anybody on any given day, so we're going to go down and see what we can do.'

a great second effort to score on an eight-yard run, and added late 26yard field goal by Max Martin to go into the locker room trailing by three, 13-10. "It's not the way you want to start a game, but our defense did a great job on the muffed punt to hold them to a field goal," McLaughlin said. "We went in (to halftime) down 13-10 and we gave them 10, so I thought we were doing all right."

The Wildcats offense struggled to get into a rhythm, and when the Warriors scored early in the fourth quarter on a third-and-20 situation to take a 20-10 lead, things were not looking good for the Wildcats.

Johnson came in off the bench to relieve Nate Most, and promptly led the Wildcats down the field, orchestrating a 12-play, 91-yard drive that finished with a threeyard connection to Sam Blake to make it 20-17.

"We were trying to get a spark in to see if he could kick-start something, and he did a nice job," McLaughlin said. "He found Sam for the win.

The Warriors got the ball at their own 36-yard line with one more opportunity to turn the game The Wildcats got a touchdown around, and they were able to put from Bryce Hawthorne, who made together an 11-play drive that was finished with a fourth-and-one scoring plunge by Rayon Simmons. For the game, Winona State > racked up 426 yards of total offense to Wayne State's 349. Johnson was named the Egg Bowl MVP after replacing Most and converting 10of-15 passes for 151 yards and two touchdowns. Hawthorne rushed 26 times for 140 yards on the ground and one touchdown to go over the 1,000-yard mark for the season, while Montgomery was the top receiving threat for the Wildcats in his final game, finishing with eight catches for 133 yards and a score.

Defensively, linebacker Jared Curry led the Wildcats in tackles with 11 and Nick Monzu was right behind with 10. Mario Melvin and Brett Pribnow each notched interceptions and Richard Daniel led the team in tackles for loss with three for 11 yards.

The loss to the Warriors was difficult to take after the game, going on offense and we put Evan made tougher by the fact that Wayne State could have shared the more pieces to fill in the picture and NSIC league title had they hung on I'm excited about the possibilities."

"We found out after the game the game's first minute led to pick- after they muffed a punt snap he that if we'd won we'd have been conference co-champs, so that made it a hard loss," McLaughlin said. "It was a great football game and we just came up on the short end."

> McLaughlin praised this year's senior leaders, who were part of a five-year run of success that hasn't been seen in Wildcat football

> "They're the winningest senion class in the history of the school and five winning seasons in a row has never happened here before," he said. "They had a Mineral Water Bowl appearance and a playoff appearance, so it's been a great run and there is a lot to be said for this particular group of kids.

> Only three seniors graduate on defense and a handful on offense, so McLaughlin is already looking forward to what next season holds for his team.

"We lost 14 kids to season-ending injuries this year and had nine freshmen starting at one point, so to have all that happen and go 7-4 in one of the toughest Div. II conferences in the country is quite an accomplishment," he said. "We have a lot of good pieces coming back, and we just have to find some

Wildcats fall in season opener to Morningside

By TRAVIS CORLEY Of The Herald

The 2011-2012 campaign for the Wayne State men's basketball team started with a 55-75 loss to Morningside College Tuesday night in Rice Auditorium.

Turnovers were a factor for the Wildcats. With 21 turnovers, offensive possession was limited and the Mustangs capitalized with a hot night from the floor, shooting 60 percent from the field.

"Morningside played very well as a team from start to finish," said coach Paul Combs.

Other than a 2-2 tie at the start of the game, Wayne State trailed the entire game, although the Wildcats managed to outrebound the Mustangs, 29-25.

The Wildcats starting guards was solid. Amry Shelby led the team with 14 points in 38 minutes of play, and Vontrell Seroyer added 13 points and six assists, with all of his points scored in the second half.

Morningside troubled the Wildcats' defense after every Wildcat rally. The Wildcats went down by 18 late in the first half, but managed to end the half with a 3-pointer from Shelby. Wayne State trailed by 15 at the break, 34-19.

The home crowd of nearly 800 screamed to help motivate the Wildcats to a second-half comeback. through the season."

The second half opened with Shelby coming off a screen for a quick jump shot, followed by a two-handed layup by Derrell Williams and a corner 3-pointer from Ty Bauschek. The Mustangs called timeout to slow the Wildcats down.

Williams scored 13 points and snatched eight reboundson the night. Bauschek's eight points came from the field, shooting 3-of-4, and Clayfell Harris added five points and four rebounds.

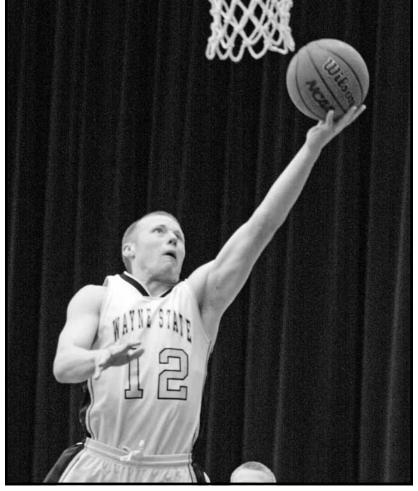

Down by eight points 34-26, the Wildcats tried to escape a struggling first half, but the Mustangs' shooting was a concern for the Wildcats defense.

Both teams went back and forth in scoring in the second half, but the deficit was too much for the Wildcats to avenge.

"We are still trying to find our way and identify roles with all of the new guys we have," said Combs.

The Wildcats travel to the University of Colorado-Colorado Springs for a weekend tournament. Wavne State will play Friday against Northwest Nazarene of Idaho at 7 p.m. and the University of Colorado Colorado Springs on Saturday.

"We will continue to work hard each day and strive to play the game the right way," said Combs. "We will get better as we progress

Moments later, Duwelius answered a Cougars layup with a 3-pointer, Ali Schwartzwald and Hanson both added free throws to increase the Wildcats lead. The Cougars went into the locker room down 10 points.

In the second half, the Wildcats went on a 3-pointer frenzy, making five straight three pointers to increase the lead to a game-high 23 points, 52-29.

The Cougars chipped away on the lead late in the game. After a nine-point run, the Wildcats felt a little pressure. The pressure wasn't strong enough to scare the Wildcats as they cruised to a 2-0 start.

Osteoporosis

Definition

The thinning of bone tissue and loss of bone density over time. Osteoporosis is the most common type of bone disease. There are currently an estimated 10 million Americans suffering from osteoporosis, as well as another 18 million who have low bone mass, or osteopenia. Osteoporosis occurs when the body fails to form enough new bone, or when too much old bone is reabsorbed by the body, or both. Calcium and phosphate are two minerals that are essential for normal bone formation. Throughout youth, the body uses these minerals to produce bones. If calcium intake is not sufficient, or if the body does not absorb enough calcium from the diet, bone production and bone tissues may suffer. As people age, calcium and phospate may be reabsorbed back into the body from the bones, which makes the bone tissue weaker. Both situations can result in brittle, fragile bones that are subject to fractures, even in the absence of trauma. Researchers estimate that about 20% of American women over the age of 50 have osteoporosis. In addition, another 30% of them have osteopenia, which is abnormally low bone density that may eventually deteriorate into osteoporosis, if not treated. About half of all women over the age of 50 will suffer a fracture of the hip, wrist, or the field of diabetes education. We prevented or delayed. Plus, our growing knowledge of various foods and their effect on blood sugar levels enables people with diabetes to how much to eat and still control blood sugar levels.

It is the best time in history to have diabetes, especially in light of the difficulties our parents and grandparents would have encountered had they been diagnosed decades ago. Today people with diabetes can choose from a wide variety of non-nutritive sweeteners and can even figure out how to fit sugar-containing foods into your meal plan. With carbohydrate information now readily available for most foods, diabetics can easily learn to count carbohydrates at each meal. This allows diabetics to fit virtually any food into your meal plan.

Fitting diabetes into your life style is the key message today. Diabetes does not have to dictate how you live.

Good control requires both diligence and willingness to try new strategies. Learn new strategies by attending Control Diabetes for Life when the Wednesday, Nov. 30 session will focus on "Successfully Managing the Holidays." Set a goal

Retired School Personnel meet at The Oaks

The Wayne Area Association of Retired School Personnel held their regular meeting at The Oaks on Fifteen members were present. Coffee and cookies were enjoyed between 9:30 and 10. President Pat Rhode called the meeting to order. Lois Youngerman read the thought for the day – My Most Memorable Thanksgiving. Acting secretary Marilyn Leighton read the roll call and minutes of the last meeting. After a correction, the minutes were approved as corrected. Twyla Lindsay presented the treasurer's report which was filed for audit. Chairpersons' Reports:

Community Service - in the absence of Marilyn Bodenstedt, President Rhode encouraged the members to keep count of their community hours.

Legislature - due to Mary Lou George's absence Nebraska is being watched with the special legislative session to discuss the pipeline proposed to go across Nebraska's Ogallala aquifer. Membership chair Gloria Leseberg will encourage members of the state who receive AMBA benefits to join the local groups. Don Leighton talked about the young people who are getting their Social Security numbers stolen and it affects them when getting credit when they are old enough.

Health chair Arlene Ostendorf read an article on what is the best time to take daily medicine. Cholesterol pills should be taken in the evening, because that is the time of day our bodies make the most cholesterol. If you are having trouble sleeping, take valerian, a herbal remedy, and it does work.

Any member who has information that needs to go into the scrapbook is asked to give them to Lee Larsen, Historian.

Old Business:

Bob Bussmann reminds members that they can give $20 gift cards to schools for materials. He also mentioned a new monument in Washington D.C. to honor Dr. Percy Andrews, the founder of AARP in 1958. It was dedicated in October of this year. Wayne Area did a great job of getting their dues paid on

President Rhode suggested that if members get petitions from AARP, that they sign them and mail them

Correspondence was read from Alice Johnson, Don and Marilyn Trista Jaeger. It was decided to give her the $100 worth of memorial money given for Zita Jenkins. New Business:

President Rhode gave a report on the state convention held in Hastings on Sept. 8-9. The workshops were great. Mr. Dan Kuester was the convention speaker and talking about a Recipe for Retirement. Don and Marilyn Leighton received the Big Apple Award. Pat Jenkins won the $100

The group's Day of Service was held Oct. 19 and involved packaging meals at Mercy Meals. Wayne Area RSP received a certificate of appreciation for community service and another one for service with youth, and for Day of Service.

Leighton and Caroline Petersen. Information will be sent to area schools with how students can write a book and get it published.

The deadline is Jan. 16, 2012. The next meeting will be Monday, Jan. 2, 2012 at Tacos & More in Wayne at 9:30 a.m. with the officers in charge of the program. On Nov. 15-16, Gloria Leseberg and JoAnn Stoltenberg will attend the Volunteer Conference in Lincoln.

For the program, Gail Goberson and Gertrude Vahlkamp introduced Eric Vahlkamp who showed a power point presentation on how to build wind towers. The company Way Wind will be constructing wind turbines between Hoskins and Winside. It takes one acre of land for one wind turbine, which includes the access road. The information was interesting to those in attendance.

The Oaks served lunch following the meeting.

Don't get me started

Penn State fallout affects many lives

"All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing.

I once looked at Joe Paterno as one of the great men in all of sports. Paterno was Pennsylvania's version of our Tom Osborne -- a man of great stature who always did things the right way.

I don't know the Joe Paterno that is oozing out of the scum that is the controversy surrounding the Penn State football program and the horrific acts of child molestation that were allegedly perpetrated by Paterno's friend and former assistant coach, Jerry Sandusky.

How does a human being of such alleged high moral stature allow Sandusky the perfect stage to hide his perverted, twisted, disgusting pleasures? How can he do the right thing, from a corporate standpoint (reporting what a graduate assistant saw in the shower in the football locker rooms, an act so sickening that it can't be repeated here), and yet not have the decency as a human being to directly report the crime against a young boy – several young boys, to be precise – to authorities?

How does somebody who, because of his tenure - which spans 12 U.S. presidencies – has the ability to hold more control over the athletic department than the athletic director himself and, yet, doesn't follow through to make sure this situation is properly acted upon by the de facto higher-ups within the Penn State university system?

And what about his direct connections with the subhuman species known as Jerry Sandusky? He not only had to have known about what Sandusky was doing to young boys on campus, but because he didn't confront his former linebackers coach and do the human thing by reporting him to the authorities, should be considered culpable in allowing Sandusky to carry out his sick and twisted sexual fantasies?

I don't know if you've had a chance to read the grand jury report on this situation, but it goes to a level of disgusting that sickens me. I've read through the report twice, and I'm sure I'll read it several more times before I can finally digest it.

As a victim of sexual assault, I know what some of these young men were dealing with over the course of the last 13 years (the first incident was reported in 1998, which – coincidentally – was the year before Sandusky "retired" from coaching). This is a crime whose sting does not subside quickly. I relived the nightmare for many years before I was able to come to terms with what had happened and realized that I was blaming the wrong person for what had taken place.

That this incident was covered up on so many levels – to the point where one has to question the timing of the grand jury investigation, which started three years ago and saw the release of the report happen one week after Paterno became the all-time winningest coach in Div. I college football – that it defies logical thought.

The fallout to this ongoing controversy has already affected countless lives. Careers have literally gone up in smoke because of this cover-up from the president of the university to the legendary football coach who has gone, overnight, from a legendary figure to a pathetic example. Most important, though, is the absolute gut-wrenching mark it has left on the lives of at least eight young boys (I'm willing to bet that there are more, and that we've only seen the tip of this madness).

It has taken more than a decade to expose the perversion and sickness of an individual who – if you connect the dots – used a program designed to help at-risk children to satisfy his own sick, twisted, sexual urges. Treating boys who are already in a volatile place in their lives in the manner Sandusky is alleged to have done is like dumping gasoline into participate directly with state the middle of a raging fire. As frail as the state of minds of these kids were before Sandusky got to them, one must wonder just where these kids are at in their lives today.

I'm sure this story is a long way from its conclusion, and it angers me that somebody like Paterno could have allowed such a situation to go on, unchecked, for so long. How many more lives were torn apart by the unspeakably sick perversions of a member of the human race?

I pray that they seek the help they can get to help them understand something that took me the better part of three decades to realize – you were not in the wrong, you are not alone, and there is peace at the other end of the hellish road you now find yourself. Keep moving forward, seek guidance and remember that you will only be defeated by this evil if you

Pipeline legislation precarious

Nebraska News Service

LINCOLN—When the first two weeks of the Nebraska Legislature's special pipeline session drew to a close, it remained difficult to guess what the end result will be of all this bickering. But common themes are beginning to emerge, and they might give us some insight on what to expect as the pipeline debate

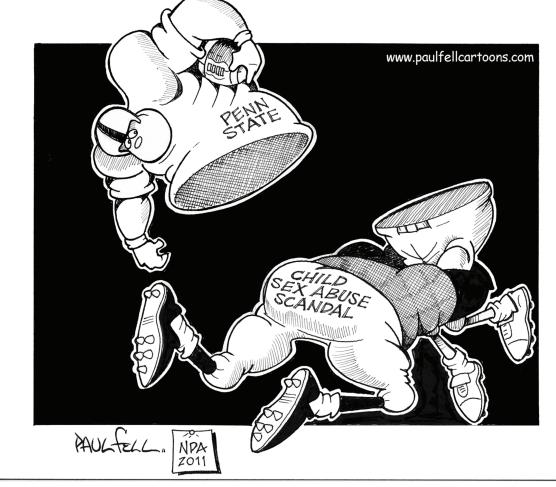

From the beginning, including Gov. Dave Heineman's call on Oct. 25, lawmakers have been extraordinarily cautious about what to expect. Boiled down to most basic terms, they all seemed to be saying: "We'll try, but don't get your

It would be easy to look at that sentiment with a cynical eye and suppose the special session is little more than political grandstanding for elected officials who are only thinking about getting re-elected.

In truth, Nebraska senators have a very thin margin of error if they enact a law that would stop, delay or reroute the Keystone XL project-TransCanada's controversial 1,700mile, 36-inch pipeline that proposes to pump oil through the Sandhills and the massive underlying water table on its way to Gulf Coast refineries.

governor's call was superficially vague, asking senators to look into legislation that related to oil pipelines. And to do so in a legally and constitutionally sound

The problem for senators is they can't enact a law specifically designed to stop TransCanada because the courts generally frown on laws that don't apply to everyone equally. So a law that says, in effect, "TransCanada Shall Not Pass," would likely be deemed unconstitutional.

Of course, lawmakers could get around this by enacting a law that applies to all pipelines, which sounds simple enough. Only, the governor's call was specific to legislating "oil" pipelines, which limits the Unicameral to that small corner of the pipeline sandbox.

A lot of lawmaker chatter in committee meetings revolves around this sticky issue. It seems certain size, say 30-inches, might Sandhills and other areas strictly be enough to avoid the dreaded off-limits. It's also possible that "special legislation" tag.

It seems a certainty that some form of oil pipeline legislation will emanate from the special session, most likely a "Frankenstein" bill that draws elements from all five of the pipeline-related proposals.

Such bill might include a permitting process through the Public Service Commission, with a final approval from the governor's office. And that approval process the growing consensus is that a might very well include routing law specific to oil pipelines of a requirements that make the companies would be required to clitton@gmail.com.

post a hefty clean-up bond, while following new, more stringent rules about securing rights from private landowners, commonly referred to as eminent domain law.

Such a bill would go a long way to address most of the concerns from Nebraska pipeline opponents. But the big mystery remains whether a new law would affect the Keystone XL project. The best guess at this point is that question will be at the center of debate when these bills reach the Unicameral floor.

Committee hearings highlight session

Session will be remembered as the week of committee hearings.

I was especially proud of both the Natural Resources Committee and the Judiciary Committee this last week, as I watched committee members patiently listen to hours of testimony. Committee hearings lasted into the evening for three nights in a row. Senators asked many questions of testifiers, and there was a lot of information provided to legislators over the past week. While two committees were hearing testimony on bills relating to the Keystone XL Pipeline, other committees held hearings to confirm new members of boards and commissions who were appointed by Gov. Special cookies for a Veteran

I am sitting at my computer eating some of the most special cookies I have ever had. They came to me on the evening of Nov. 12 by way of a 'special messenger' with a very nice card, with my name on it. A young lady with the Wayne Blue Devils Octagon Optimist Club, by way of the card and the cookies delivered to my front door, thanked me for my military service. I was completely caught off guard and somewhat speechless

I served four years, stateside, at a Marine Corps Supply Center in California, whose primary mission at the time was to support the Marines serving in Vietnam during the War. MCSC supplied everything from toothpaste to toilet paper, repaired and returned every kind of motorized vehicle and weapon you can imagine, as well as assembling Hawk Missile guidance systems, state of the art at the time, in support of combat Marines in the western Pacific Theatre.

When my daughter and son-in-law moved into their new home in Blair, one of the first things they did was to put up a new flag pole and raise the Stars and Stripes, and I am proud of them for that. Wonderful day due to generosity

I've had a wonderful Armistice Day experience. With all the sad news in the country today, I want you to know there are still wonderful, considerate people around us.

We were in Sioux City at the June Nylan Cancer Center for one of a 10-day series of radiation treatments for my good wife, Donna. Everyone there was so kind as always.

Then we stopped for lunch at Wendy's. As I was at the counter, a kind, young man behind us asked my wife if I was a veteran (Korea). When I started to pay, the clerk said the man behind us was paying for it. When I started to pay for my wife's, he said that was paid for, too.

But that wasn't all - as we were seated at the table, this person – unknown to us – came over and laid down a $50 bill to buy some gas. I was about in tears when he expressed his appreciation for the Veterans of the USA.

Eating healthy during the holi- our blood sugar goes down and we tend to overeat at our next meal. By spacing out meals throughout the day, our blood sugar stays steady and we are not as prone to overindulge at dinner.

> Remember Portion Sizes: Every dish can be enjoyed as long as you keep to appropriate portion sizes. A good rule of thumb is to fill half your plate with vegetables, 1/4 of it with turkey or other meat, and the remaining 1/4 of the plate with a starch, such as stuffing or mashed potatoes. Eat slowly and enjoy your food until you are full.

> Remove the Skin From the Turkey: Turkey is an excellent source of lean protein to support our muscles, but the skin can be loaded with fat. Try removing the skin to lower the fat and calories before you eat it. This will help to keep your cholesterol in check also.

Bruxism (Grinding): What are the signs and how to prevent further damage to your teeth

Bruxism refers to teeth grinding or clenching that many children and adults experience throughout their lifetime. Bruxism occurs when the teeth contact each other in a forceful fashion. It can be silent, or cause a loud sound. Sleeping is when most grinding occurs. Bruxism is usually related to stress and the way that your teeth fit together when you bite, called occlusion. There are several signs that may present if you are experiencing bruxism. These signs include: wearing of enamel, cracking or chipping teeth, teeth sensitivity, facial pain, headaches, facial fatigue, or jaw pain. Most individuals suffering from bruxism should be seen for an evaluation to determine treatment options. These may include the use of a night guard to cushion the clenching or teeth grinding during sleep. It is a durable, pliable plastic mouth guard that fits comfortably and securely. If you feel you may be experiencing bruxism call today. The skilled staff at Bright Smiles Family Practice will work with you to find the cause and a potential solution to them? If so, you're in "good company." About 26 million Americans have diabetes. And, another 79

Diabetes happens when your body can't use glucose (a type of sugar) the right way. Insulin is a hormone that helps glucose enter cells, where they use this sugar as a source of energy. With diabetes, your body either doesn't make enough insulin or it can't respond well to insulin. Then you can have symptoms of too much glucose, such as increased urination, extreme thirst, and weigh Diabetes is not something to ignore. If left uncontrolled, it can lead to a whole host of complications, including high blood pressure, kidney failure, eye problems, and nerve damage.

That's just the tip of the proverbial iceberg. A deadly duo can be in store when diabetes is combined with other health problems. For reasons not well understood, women with both breast cancer and diabetes have a 50 percent increased risk of dying.5 And, when combined with depression, diabetes means you're twice as likely to die, especially from heart disease. It could be that people with depression may find it harder to take care of themselves. So you can see why it's so important

How can you help prevent this serious disease? The steps are simple, but not always easy to do.

Healthy diet and weight control are critical. So, too, is physical activity. A recent Australian study showed that the more you walk, the lower your risk of diabetes. They tracked nearly 600 middle-aged adults for five years, giving them a pedometer to use. Here's what they found: People who walked 10,000 steps daily at least 5 days a week were three times more protected against diabetes than those who walked just 3,000 steps a day - even when other factors such as diet, smoking, and

Gardner Foundation makes $50,000 grant

The Gardner Foundation, a Wakefield-based family foundation, has awarded a $50,000 grant to Nebraska Lutheran Outdoor Ministries (NLOM). The grant will help to fund new facilities in the Angels Gulch Western Town at NLOM's Carol Joy Holling Center

These new facilities will replace older bunkhouses and will allow youth campers and retreat guests of all ages to enjoy more extensive and accessible programming all year

This is the sixth grant made by the Gardner Foundation to NLOM. The Foundation has provided $600,000 over the last two decades to support construction of a large multi-purpose center called Gardner Town Hall, a swimming pool and an office building, as well as improvements on many other summer camp facilities.

Angels Gulch Western Town is a key program site at Carol Joy Holling. As guests enter Angels Gulch, they are transported back in time to the days of the Old West. They can stroll down an old boardwalk, amble over to the livery stable, or stay overnight in a rustic

This unique program site serves three distinct purposes. First, it is the location of Ranch Camp, which attracts 400 middle school campers each summer. Second, it serves as the headquarters for the yearround Jay Novicki Program, which sponsors retreat experiences for almost 500 people with disabilities. Third, it offers memorable meeting now setting its sights on expand- authentic western atmosphere, the nities through their generous gifts."

After this week, there is no place like Nebraska

Okay, I promised to be positive this week, and I will be, no matter what! I admit, first of all, that I did not watch, or listen to, the football game on Saturday. I was in Council Bluffs, watching the third edition of the Church Basement Ladies, their Christmas show, "Away in the Basement." As usual, it was hilari-

We had read the awful news all week, and worried about our players. Driving to Norfolk on Thursday morning, we heard Gary Saddelmeyer talking to George McBride, who lives in Phoenix now. He said he had been in State College for the last game, 2002. which we lost, and he actually felt endangered. So, what would it be like this time?

On the way home from Iowa, I called the Big Farmer, asking who won the game. We did, he said, 17-14. And then I asked how the atmosphere was, and he told me about the amazing pregame activities. He said that Coach Brown had led a prayer at midfield, for both teams, and that everyone there had been good sports. I was driving, so I had to choke back the tears.

But that night, I saw it on TV, and the next morning, I read about it in the paper, and I really did cry. That afternoon, we attended the golden wedding anniversary celebration for my cousin and her husband, and the subject kept coming up, for some odd reason. And then, I cried again! My classmate is staying with us for the weekend, and is dealing with macular degeneration, so I read Brown's words to her, and cried AGAIN!

Finally, I watched Coach Pelini in the post game interview. I've done my share of complaining about the guy, but he did a class act on Saturday. He is there to educate, by golly, and I think both coaching staffs did that. I was so very proud of Nebraska.

It bothered me to read that the volleyball team was swept. And that, after all the problems with one of their players. By the way, we were very proud of a gal from Grand Island who had waited four years to play, and by the way she stepped in last weekend and did an awesome job.

Finally, we watched for the volleyball championship games. There are some mighty fine female athletes in this state, and they left it all on the court at the Heartland Center in Grand Island.

Have you noticed the weather? Our guest is from California, and she has been marveling at the sunshine, and lack of snow, and fall colors. Of course, there are a lot of leaves on the ground, too; my sis has been mowing for days. The anniversary observance on Sunday was a month ahead of the actual date. On that date in 1961, there was a snowstorm on the 16th.

The maid of honor lived in Minneapolis and took the train to Omaha. It got stuck in snow in Des Moines and they had to scoop it out. The other bridesmaid drove to Waco from Lincoln and stopped every two miles to clean her wind-

Mike had been best man for his fraternity brother in Illinois and we started home after the reception. We drove in the blizzard across Iowa at about 30 miles an hour, arriving in Lincoln mid morning of the 17th. We ate, cleaned up, changed clothes, and made it to Waco with half an hour to spare so that I could be the soloist there. It was a memorable weekend!

Today, I received an e-mail saying that seven Huskers, including Rex Burkhead, had been named to an all academic team. There really is no place like Nebraska!

Livestock Market

The Nebraska Livestock Market conducted a fat cattle sale on Friday. The market was $1-$2 higher on fat cattle and steady on cows. There were 400 head sold.

A new general permit for pesticides, which was recently finalized by the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality and became effective Nov. 1, 2011, provides coverage for specific types of applications of pesticides to, over or near waters of the state.

It should be noted that all pesticide applications in Nebraska continue to be regulated by the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA) rules. Instructions on how to apply in accordance with these rules are provided on product labels. The new pesticide general permit provides additional protection in some specific circumstances where pesticides are applied on or near surface waters. The goal of this permit is to protect water quality under specific conditions where surface waters could be affected. The submission of a Notice of Intent would apply to those who intend to apply pesticides to, over or near Class III waters, which include: State resource waters as defined in Nebraska's surface water regulations; waters listed as tors, city governments, lake assoimpaired on the current Nebraska ciations, individuals, or any other Clean Water Act 303(d) list for any ingredients in the pesticide, or residuals from the application; waters where threatened and endangered Species or critical habitats are present; flowing or discharging waters that are within 250 feet of a direct surface water connection to the three types of surface waters listed above; waters within 250 feet of a surface water intake for public drinking water.

Because the circumstances that would require the submission of a Notice of Intent are very specific, NDEQ recommends that those who think they might fall into those categories review the General Permit and the associated Fact Sheet and Flow Chart that can be found by going to DEQ's web site at www.deq. state.ne.us. Select Publications/ NPDES Permit Program, and then select the Guidance Document titled "NPDES Pesticides General Permit With Guidance." Or, the direct URL is: www.deg.state. ne.us/Publica.nsf/pages/11-007.

by the new rules

This permit does not cover applications of pesticides that are not near water, nor does it cover associated runoff from applications to agriculture land or irrigation return flow from cropland, which are exempt in the Clean Water Act. These types of agricultural situations will continue to be regulated by existing FIFRA rules.

However, the new permit rules can apply to a variety of applications by those who are responsible for the management of surface water bodies. Entities that are potentially affected include: Nebraska Game and Parks Commission, Natural Resources Districts, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, National Parks Service, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, weed management districts, irrigation districts and canal operaentity responsible for managing the surface water body's assigned beneficial uses.

Conditions that would require notification

In most situations, those who are affected by the new general permit would not need to submit an application to the state as long as they follow the rules specified in the general permit and maintain records of their applications. However, under specific circumstances that involve application of pesticides at or near waters of the submit a Notice of Intent to NDEQ that provides details of the proposed application.

Background of why the general permit was developed

Until this year, the specific FIFRA instructions on product labels had been the sole method of regulating the application of pesticides. However, federal court rulings led EPA to establish requirements for a National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) permit in addition to the labeling requirements, under specific circumstances.

To comply with these new federal requirements, NDEQ developed the NPDES pesticides general permit. The agency discussed the proposed permit with potentially affected entities, and conducted a public comment period in February and March of 2011, as well as a public hearing on March 22, 2011. This public input was considered prior to the development of the final general permit.

For more information

In addition to visiting DEQ's web site (address listed above), inquiries about the general permit and Notice of Intent requirements can be directed to NDEQ's NPDES Permits Unit at (402) 471-8830. The mailing address is: NDEQ NPDES Program, Box 98922, Lincoln, Neb. 68509-8922. E-mail inquiries can be sent to NDEQ.
