Officials break ground on new hotel

Of The Herald

Praising the efforts of the community and noting the fiscal responsibility of the citizens of the state of Nebraska, Governor Dave Heineman was among those taking part in ground breaking ceremonies for the Cobblestone Inn and Hotel on Monday.

Heineman told those at the ceremony that he was fortunate to be able to see Nebraska at its best, and said projects like the hotel were a good example of the efforts of many to keep the Nebraska economy

Remarks were given by Mayor Ken Chamberlain, State Sen. Dave Bloomfield, Ken Franzen, who was among those spearheading the efforts of both the Northeast Nebraska Investors group and Wayne Hospitality Group, LLC; and Brian Wogernese with the Wisconsin Hotel Group, the firm that will be responsible for constructing the 44-room hotel in the southeast portion of Wayne. Estimated cost of construction is $2.8 million.

Franzen said the idea of a hotel in Wayne began several years ago with the efforts of the late Marty Summerfield and Dennis Linster. He explained that a Northeast Nebraska Investors Group and Wayne Hospitality Group have been formed, and nearly 50 investors have contributed nearly $500,000 to the project. A study indicated that the Wayne community could support up to 100 additional hotel/motel rooms.

Wogernese said that the Wayne location will mean the company has locations in five states. He said his firm does not "pick a location for a project, instead we pick people. Never before have we had a governor, senator, mayor and this many members of the community at a ground-breaking cer-

Bloomfield, 65, of Hoskins, told The Wayne Herald on Tuesday that he has decided to run for a full four-year term when his seat comes up for election next year.

a candidate for the Distirct 17 State of Nebraska it has not worked. The system is a mess, We, as Legislative race," he announced on his Facebook page. "It is with a deep sense of responsibility that I undertake this challenge. I had thought long and hard about returning to retirement, however, there are things at the Capitol that I feel I need to be involved in at this time.

Bloomfield is a retired truck driver and has lived in Wayne County the last 28 years. He grew up near Jackson and is a 1964 graduate of South Sioux City High School. Bloomfield is a Vietnam veteran and a member of the American Legion in Winside, and is a past chairman of the Republican Party in the county.

In an interview with the Herald, Bloomfield said one of the key issues he hoped to address was the privatization program regarding the state's foster care program, as well as some concerns he has in the Agriculture Committee.

"We are involved in a process to reform the child "After much consideration and prayer, I along welfare system," he said. "The state attempted to with my wife, Dee, decided that I would indeed be privatize the whole system a few years back and a state are spending more money and providing worse service to special-needs children and foster families than before."

Bloomfield, who is on the Health and Human Services committee, said a change is needed to provide services without breaking the bank. He said he'd like to see those changes through, but it can not be done in one year.

Bloomfield wants to modify the sex offender registry to prevent convicted sex offenders from living within 500 feet of a park or school, and is also in support of a plan to allow for inspection of horse meat for human consumption.

Bloomfield will have some company in the race for the Legislature. Last summer, Van Phillips of South Sioux City announced his intention of running for the seat, and Ron Hartnett of South Sioux City made his intentions to campaign for the seat known last week.

City sales tax figures improve from last year, ahead of 2010-11 pace

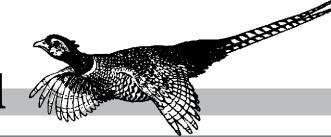

Sales tax numbers for the city of Wayne showed a slight increase compared to the same time one year ago.

November's sales tax figures, which are based off sales made during the month of September, showed the City of Wayne received $48,494.99 in local sales tax revenue. That total is more than $1,600 ahead of revenue received during the month of November during the 2010-11 fiscal year, which was $46,812.06.

So far, the city is well ahead of its projected monthly sales tax average of $44,263.35, as the city has received just under $100,000 in sales tax revenue, averaging $49,643.82 for the first two months of fiscal year 2011-12.

Currently, the city is on pace to eclipse the record-setting amount received in 2009-10. as the city is on pace to receive more than $595,000 for the current fiscal year.

Caution: The Law of Diminishing Returns:

Growing Corn: Every farmer knows that if you put $200 worth of fertilizer per acre on average land, the first $10 worth will increase crop yield that year a lot more than the last $10 worth of fertilizer if that last $10 adds more nutrients than that crop can use. Prudent decision making calls for soil testing to measure actual conditions and limits fertilizer application to the point where $10 of additional cost returns $10 in additional yield.

BTA: New EPA air quality requirements call for further reductions in coal smoke particulate size from 10 microns down to 2.5. EPA requires all small power plants to install catalytic converters on engines if they will be used even for just a few hours per year for other than just emergency outages.

 For the Wayne power plant that means an investment of $750,000 in catalytic convertors for a plant that usually runs less than 50 hours per year.

·NPPD and other large generators that must upgrade to comply with new air quality regulations, must use the BTA (Best Technology Available) to meet the new standards even if a lower cost technology is available to bring the plant into compliance. Cost is not allowed to be a factor in the deci-

Effluent Ammonia in Logan EPA reclassified South Creek Dredge from an Agricultural Stream to a Recreational Stream during the months of May through September to help provide cleaner water to the Elkhorn and Platte Rivers for endangered species

• For the Wayne waste water facility, this required a new treatment plant. The treated effluent from our 25-year old plant was already many times cleaner than the water in Logan Creek but it had exceeded the ammonia limits of our discharge permit by a few parts per million less than once per year. The incremental cost of removal of that last bit of excess ammonia is $7 million. There is a law of diminishing returns in this and how we invest all of the world's

Good regulations have mercifully cleaned up gross air and water pollution in the last 40 years. In a time of massive and growing government deficits, it seems prudent to pace future regulatory controls to match the gains they produce and the public's ability to pay.

Visiting author

Award winning author, Neal Shusterman visited Wayne High School recently and spoke to the students on the writing process and a number of the books he has written. Wayne was chosen as one of only 10 stops in Nebraska for the author of such books as "Unwind" and "The Schwa was Here." Schusterman told the students that it takes at least six months for him to write a book, although one of his books, "Ever Lost," took 10 years to finish. He has written 40 books in his career. He wrote his first book, which was never published, when he was 18 years old. He said each book was a "stepping stone" in his career.

Local tree-planting project benefits people and wildlife

With age, all trees get old and outgrow their useful life.

At the local Izaak Walton chapter grounds northwest of Wayne, trees were starting to become a liability. Near the playgrounds and shelters, old trees were dropping dead limbs and causing other issues.

The chapter requested and received trees from the ReTree Nebraska group, thanks to Northeast District Forester Steve Rasmussen's help.

The primary goal of ReTree Nebraska is to work in partnership with people across Nebraska to foster the proper planting and maintenance of 1 million new trees by 2017. For more information about ReTree Nebraska go to retreenebraska.unl.edu.

Trees for the project were picked up at Lincoln's UNL Campus and planted on Nov. 14 by local Ike's member Scott Brummond and Forester Steve Rasmussen.

The following week, Ike's members Erin Eilers, B.J. Woehler, and Brummond and Logan Creek Pheasants Forever member Tim Reinhardt and his son, Tyler - who is a member of the newly started local Youth Pheasants Forever group - watered and mulched the trees and placed tree guards around them. The tree guards are to keep rabbits, deer, and beavers from damaging them this winter.

The trees planted this fall included Burr Oak, Gambel Oak, and a Kentucky Coffee Tree.

Tyler and Tim Reinhardt place a tree guard around one of the trees that was planted recently at the Izaak Walton site northwest of Wayne.

"We hope to plant additional trees next spring to benefit wildlife and provide shade. We plan on placing signs near the trees for educational purposes so area members, school classes, and other organizations can use them to learn what each species looks like." Brummond said.

Long-range plans include planting more trees for a food source for wildlife or visitors to enjoy. These may include apple, cherry and pear trees, and possibly a walnut farm for long term benefits.

"We continue to improve the grounds and buildings to make the local chapter property an educational and fun location close to town and the community for members and families to enjoy,' Brummond said.

Where is the support at Rice?

Wayne's population is about 5,500 which is just about enough to fill every seat in Rice Auditorium and put one person on each knee of the person sitting in each seat.

So could somebody explain to me why so many Wayne State basketball fans have been disguised as empty seats the last few seasons?

When I came to town a few years ago, there was a lot of talk about how much support Wayne State's basketball teams get in the community. The place is loud, I was told. They're in the opposing team's ear from the opening tip, it was explained to me. When the team gets rolling, you can hardly hear yourself think.

So far this season, Rice Auditorium's noise level has been about a step higher than a Barry Manilow CD. One opposing team's coach could easily be heard chewing out an official from halfway up the reserved seating section. And as I'm witnessing all of this, I could easily hear myself think the following thought: where is the fan support?

All these empty seats would go unnoticed if both the men's and women's programs were dull and lifeless. If there was no talent, no quality coaching, and the Wildcats were getting lit up like an old Bally's pinball machine, the sparse crowds would certainly be justified.

However – as this column is being written, we have just received word that the Wayne State women's program is now the No. 4 ranked team in NCAA Div. II, a ranking they have never achieved at any other point in the program's history. Last week, the Wildcats were

Two hundred fans are all the No. 6 (now No. 4) team in the country can draw to a home game? On a Tuesday evening with no other local sporting events on the calendar?

Are you serious?

Now I can certainly understand that, with the Thanksgiving holiday, a lot of students were already on their way home. And I also understand that it's hard for some of us to be at every home game (I get to miss this weekend's home openers because of a poker tournament in Las Vegas).

The problem, though, is that these vast numbers of empty seats are more a rule than an exception for Wayne State athletics in general, and basketball especially. On a good night, there might be 700-800 fans in attendance – a better number, but still a long way from a full

The Wayne State basketball team has won 31 games at Auditorium. As you read this column, the Wildcats are about as much a lead-pipe cinch with their home-court advantage as any team

And this is a fantastic, talented team that coach Chris Kielsmeier has put together. The Wildcats aren't No. 4 in the nation for nothing – they have an All-American standout, some great outside shooters, excellent floor leaders and a bench that can step in and pick up where the first team leaves off. They have the tools of a team that is capable of making a run for – dare we say it (yeah, sure, why not?) -anational title.

The men's basketball team is struggling early in the season, and they face some tough competition with the two-time defending NSIC champions (and Div. II Final Four) Minnesota State coming to town Friday. This is a team that, if the last two years are an indicator, will champs."

Wayne State dug themselves a huge hole, then almost rose from the dead.

The Wildcats nearly rallied from a 30-point halftime deficit in the second half, getting as close as three points before Nebraska-Kearney held on for an 85-77 win last Tuesday, Nov. 29, at the UNK Health and Sports Center in Kearney.

The first half couldn't have gone much worse for the 1-3 Wildcats, as the host Lopers came out on fire and dominated play for the first 20 minutes. UNK hit 70 percent (19-of-27) from the field, including 8-of-12 from 3-point range, and took a 46-16 halftime lead, leading those in attendance to assume it would be an easy night from there for the hosts.

"They came out of the gate and really played with a ton of energy and made some tough shots," coach Paul Combs said. "They really put it to us and beat us in every facet of the game the first half."

The Wildcats could have easily cashed it in early, but Wayne State responded in the second half, cutting the Lopers' lead in half in the first 5 1/2 minutes, then trimming it to nine with 10:40 to go on a 3-pointer by Vontrell Seroyer, who finished with a game-high 32 points, 30 coming in the second half.

"Our guys responded coming out of the locker room (in the second half) and played with a lot of energy and tried to attack the basket," Combs said. "The effort was there and we were able to come back.'

Trailing 63-52 with 8:22 to go, Wayne State went on an 8-0 run and got as close as three points at 63-60 on a Seroyer layup with 5:58 to go. The Lopers got the lead back up to 10 points, but Wayne State made one last surge, pulling to within six with 1:16 to go before UNK hit 9-of-10 free throws to close out the win.

"We got it to within three, but we just struggled to get stops after that and we used so much energy, both physically and emotionally, that it took its toll down the stretch," Combs said. Seroyer paced Wayne State with his career-high 32 points, making 13 of 17 shots from the floor. Senior with Derrell Williams and Nick Wuebker also reaching double figures with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Vontrell got 30 of his points in the second half and really attacked the rim well, but what we need to do is to be consistent as a group," Combs said. "For us to be competitive, we have to have all the guys firing on all cylinders, and we haven't had that yet." The Wildcats open up Northern Sun Conference play this weekend with home games against two-time conference champion Minnesota State on Friday and a very tough Southwest Minnesota State squad on Saturday. Both are games where the Wildcats will have to come out early and play well on their home floor to

"There isn't an off night in this league, and our goal is to continue to get better," Combs said. "We are a work in progress with a lot of new faces, and right now we're trying to find that consistency. We've played three of our first four on the road and have had to learn from these experiences, and now we have to get ready for conference facing the back-to-back champs."

The Wildcats face the Mavericks Friday at 8 p.m., with Saturday's matchup against Southwest starting backup center Clayfell Harris contributed 12 points, at 6 p.m. at Rice Auditorium.

Blue Devils hoping for repeat state trip Last year, a senior-dominated

Wayne High basketball team caught fire at just the right time, beating eventual state champion Norfolk Catholic in the district finals to earn a trip to the state basketball tournament.

Although several key players are gone from last year's 19-8 team that made it to the first round of the Class C-1 state tournament, coach Rocky Ruhl said the cupboard is by no means bare for the Blue Devils heading into 2011-12.

"We have a good bunch coming back who love to play basketball, and it's something where we have to build some chemistry and play to each other's strengths," he said. "Once that develops, I think we have a pretty good shot at being a good team."

Unless you are playing in a poker tournament in Las Vegas, have finals to study for or work nights, there isn't a justifiable excuse for missing these teams when they play at Rice Auditorium this winter. And it's up to the home crowd - including the Rice Rowdies, who (in this writer's opinion) have yet to fulfill the obligations their name implies to get Rice Auditorium rocking and make the visiting team feel about as welcome as a blasphemous sinner in church.

Rice Auditorium should be loud and proud - and it can only be that way if the house is full. Get off your duff and support Wayne State basketball. Let's show the Wildcats' opponents what homecourt advantage is really all about.

Coach: Rocky Ruhl Year: 19th 2010-11 Record: 19-8 Returning Starters: 1 Returning Letterwinners: 7 Season opener: Friday vs. Battle Creek

Senior Gage Rethwisch is the only full-time starter back from last year's team. The 6-foot guard averaged almost 12 points per game and shot 41 percent from 3-point range last year. He and 5-foot-10 sophomore Jalen Barry, who averaged almost 10 points per game coming off the bench, will direct the offense for Ruhl this season.

"They provide us with two doubledigit scorers, and they know how to shoot the three or drive to the hole and make their teammates look good," he said. "That duo helps open things up a little inside."

Brady Soden, a 6-foot-2 junior forward, anchors a solid front line. He is in his third year on the varsity, and Ruhl expects him to be a force in the paint.

"He has some nice post moves and does a good job on the boards, and he's an enforcer for us," Ruhl said. "He does a lot of good things and is unselfish and one of our better allaround players."

Brothers Miles and Grant Anderson should give the Blue Devils a lift inside as well. Miles, a senior, has been a part of the varsity and has a good knowledge of the game, Ruhl said. Grant, a junior, could be a pleasant surprise for people in his first year as a probable starter.

"Grant is 6-foot-4 and can said. jump out of the gym, but he's still slender so he needs to understand tough competition once again this got a shot at making it.

Entire starting lineup back for talented Blue Devil girls

WAYNE HIGH GIRLS BASKETBALL

Coach: Nathan Wall Year: 4th 2010-11 Record: 17-10

Returning Starters: 5 Returning Letterwinners: 12

Season opener: Thursday at South Sioux City

Don't be alarmed if you experience deja vu while watching this year's Wayne High girls basketball team.

All five starters are back from a team that finished as district runners-up last year, and fourth-year coach Nathan Wall said that experience is going to carry this team a long way in 2011-12.

"We definitely have a lot of experience back, and we're looking forward to the year for sure," he said.

The starting lineup this year should be about the same as last year, led by senior center and Wayne State recruit Katie Hoskins, who enters the season as the school's all-time leader in rebounds, assists and blocks.

The 6-foot-3 post player averaged 13 points, nine rebounds and three blocks a game for last year's 17-10 squad, and Wall says the senior can do so much more than score and rebound.

"I think people overlook the fact that she's such a good passer," he said. "When we throw it inside, she can take it or kick it out to an open shooter, and when you have other people that can have big offensive games if they key on (Hoskins) too much, it's something we can take advantage of."

Wall said that with this year's talent, the Blue Devils should be able to run a number of attacks at teams, and Wall feels this year's team is capable of adjusting to any opponent's style of play.

"We can go small and beat people to the basket, or go tall and pound it inside, or go big and play zone and cover a lot of space, or line the floor with a bunch of shooters and do a lot of pressing," he said. "There are a lot of different ways we can play where we can exploit the other team and play to our strengths."

Senior Caitlin Fehringer is the team's career steals leader and, like Hoskins, was a first-team All-Conference selection last year. She averaged 10 points and five rebounds a game, and should be able to continue to mix her outside shooting and ability to penetrate inside to her advantage.

Sophomore guard Jalyn Zeiss quickly became a player to watch as a freshman last year, earning honorable mention all-conference honors. She averaged six points and two assists a game, and will be able to handle the ball well on the point.

Seniors Kristin Carroll and Cassie Harm don't have the big numbers in the stat department, but both are very capable shooters who also handle the ball well and give Wayne plenty of weapons on both ends of the floor.

The Blue Devils lost sophomore Meagan Backer to a preseason knee injury, but still have a number of capable players coming off the bench. Senior Marissa Fallesen scored five points a game coming off the bench. and players like Narelle Naeve, Sarah Maxson, Megan Hoffart, Ashton Schweers and Sydney Harris will also see an opportunity to contribute.

"I feel like, if we come in focused and determined and play hard, that we'll be a tough team to beat," he added. "Our last game last left a bad taste in our mouth and I think these girls are very hungry."

Only three seniors make up the 16-man roster for the Blue Devil wrestling squad, and coach Anthony Lawrence said the team is going to get better as the season goes along.

"We'll be a young team with only three seniors on the roster, but we're looking forward to improving on our third-place finish in conference last year," he said.

The Blue Devils should have a deeper lineup this year, which should make them a more competitive team in tournaments this season.

Wildcats short on numbers, still have talent

Slim numbers aren't about to stop Winside coach Paul Sok from expressing optimism about this year's Wildcat wrestling program.

The Wildcats have just 11 wrestlers out this season, but even with the lack of quantity, Sok feels his wrestlers will be a good group to watch this season.

"We're kind of low on numbers this year, but we're hoping to finish in the top three at districts and try to finish in the top 10 at state this vear," he said.

The Wildcats have three state qualifiers back from last year's team, and Sok is hoping those three can return to state and lead the Wildcats on the mat this season.

One could hardly blame Wakefield coach Travis Volk from being a little overwhelmed by the number of bodies in the Trojan wrestling room this season.

The Wakefield program continues to grow as the fifthyear coach welcomes 15 returning letterwinners and more than 30 wrestlers to this year's team. The addition of Allen as a co-operative partner gives the Trojans even more depth to work with this season.

Senior Danny VanderVeen and sophomore Irvin Ramirez were 2010 state qualifiers, and Volk is turning to those returning starters to help lead the team this season. VanderVeen is expected to wrestle at 145 pounds this season, while Ramirez will anchor the lighter weights at 113 pounds.

Keep snow away from gas meters

tomers to be mindful of the utility equipment on their property and to keep the natural gas meter clear of snow this winter so it can operate safely and accurately.

Natural gas meters and regulators are designed to withstand winter weather. However, customers should carefully remove snow from the gas meter and gas line with a hand or brush to avoid damage and the potential for a dangerous natural gas leak or service interruption. Never use a shovel, ice pick or other

"Natural gas service is safe and meters are durable, but gas equipment must be clearly visible and easily accessible all year, and removing ice and snow is essential," said Dan Mechtenberg, Black Hills Energy gas operations vice president. "It's usually as simple as clearing away the snow before it

Black Hills warns customers to never attempt to chip ice from the meter. If ice buildup becomes a concern, call the 24-hour Black Hills Energy emergency number at 800-694-8989 to summon a Black Hills Energy expert at no charge. Other safety advice from Black Hills Energy:

·Do not use a snow blower or shovel in close proximity to the natural gas meter or gas lines and do not pile snow on the natural gas equipment. Clear away snow by hand or with a broom.

·Point out gas equipment to hired snow removal employees to reduce the potential for a dangerous gas leak or service interruption. If you ever smell the rotten-egg odor of natural gas inside a building, leave the home or business immediately and once outside, call the Black Hills Energy emergency number from a cell phone or a neighbor's residence. Do not touch light switches or open windows on the way out to avoid a possible spark. If you smell natural gas outdoors, evacuate the area and call the Black Hills Energy emergency

·Use your hands or a brush to carefully clear snow away from the outdoor vents of a side-vented, highefficiency furnace. Gas-operated appliances require adequate air for complete combustion and must be properly vented for safe and efficient operation; furnaces will not run safely and efficiently if vents are blocked.

· Properly functioning carbon monoxide detectors may offer an early warning of the presence of carbon monoxide. Carbon monoxide is colorless and odorless, and results from the incomplete burning of fuels including wood, gasoline, charcoal and natural gas. Incomplete burning of natural gas means gas furnaces and other gas equipment and appliances are malfunctioning, a danger that is compounded by improper venting.

·Signs of a potential carbon monoxide leak can include, but are not limited to, flu-like symptoms such as a scratchy throat, runny nose, headache, drowsiness or nausea. Other indicators could include excessive humidity, such as frosted windows, or a draft from the front of the furnace when it is not turned

·Black Hills Energy recommends customers have their central heating systems, natural gas appliances and carbon monoxide detectors inspected on a regular basis to verify they are working properly. It you think carbon monoxide is present, leave the premises immediately and call Black Hills Energy's emergency number from a nearby

Major issue here: too many new jobs

We've got a real problem here in Wayne.

Seriously – this community has a major issue that needs to be addressed, one that could have a tremendous impact on the current economic situation n our community and could have a lasting effect far into the future. Our problem is a jobs problem – we've got too many of them.

Maybe too many isn't the right word here. We actually have an abundant number of jobs available in this community, and the employers with those jobs are doing just about everything and anything to fill those jobs and put people to work. They're advertising in The Wayne Herald and Morning Shopper – they're in touch with Wayne Area Economic Development, who is working to help recruit people to fill these jobs and move to Wayne, America – and they're letting people know in just about every way imaginable, short of having scantily-clad models roller skating holding Main Street with "Now Hiring" signs.

This is a real problem for our community, because it's the exact opposite of what seems to be going on in the rest of corporate America.

Companies are laying off employees. The national employment rate sits around 10 percent. The economy, if you listen to the mainstream media, is in the tank. What in the world are we doing wrong here in Wayne?

Obviously, companies like Great Dane Trailers, Heritage Industries and Pacific Coast Feather – all of which were featured in a recent Omaha World-Herald article – aren't concerning themselves with all the bad news we're seeing on Faux News, Constant Negative News (CNN) and the Airhead Press (AP), and are moving full speed ahead with the services their businesses provide. To do that, they need bodies who can do the jobs they have available.

Earlier this week, ground was officially broken to build a new 44-room hotel that will have plenty of meeting space. I'm no expert on business, but I'm guessing that there will be some jobs available when the hotel opens up sometime next spring.

All of this news presents a real dilemma for our community - how are we going to deal with all the new people coming to Wayne County? All these new jobs and opportunities are going to fill up our schools, bring families to homes that now sit empty and bring more income and tax revenue to Wayne, America. How could we possibly handle all of this success?

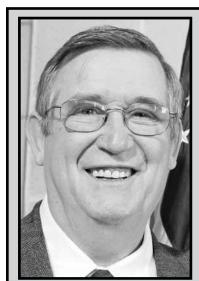

I don't know about you, but I'm looking forward to the community's continued growth - it's a much better problem to deal with than the

Legislative Update Legislature passes two pipeline bills

The Legislature's special session as adjourned Sine Die.

Two bills have passed dealing with crude oil pipelines. LB1 will set up procedures to be followed for all future pipelines through the state. LB4 deals with current pipelines (Keystone XL) that are already in the works. Gov. Dave Heineman signed both bills into law as soon as they were delivered to his office. The special session lasted fifteen days, and hopefully produced legislation that will help preserve our natural resources and allow companies to know what to expect when siting future projects through

I attended a meeting on Monday with members of the Foster Care Review Board (FCRB). Nebraska is very unique is having this oversight board watching over our children in foster care. The FCRB advocates for the best interest of the child in court, and makes sure placements with foster families are safe and appropriate. In 2010, the FCRB traced more than 8,500 children in out-of-home care, and conducted 4,730 reviews. The dedication of the state employees who work in this agency is remarkable. The Legislature's Health Committee has been assisted by the FCRB as we study the privatization of services.

Legislative Update By Dave Bloomfield State Senator, District 17

There are still many unanswered questions on the whole privatization issue and what we need to do to get on the right track

As we reach the end of November, I am thankful for many blessings that God has sent our way. I thank you for reading this update and contacting our office at dbloomfield@ leg.ne.gov, or call (402) 471-2716.

Capitol View

Atmosphere was not so calm

Bv ERINN WAKEMAN Nebraska News Service

LINCOLN--For most Nebraskans, the fall season is a relatively calm time -- the kids are back in school, Husker football provides the excitement on Saturdays, the leaves are changing.

With the controversy surrounding the proposed Keystone XL pipeline this fall, however, the atmosphere around the state wasn't so calm. Just in time for Thanksgiving, though, good news has arrived with the decision to move the pipeline away from the Sandhills.

Hundreds of opponents of the pipeline came out to U.S. State Department public hearings in Lincoln back in September to voice their anger and concern over the proposed route of the pipeline, which would cross the Ogallala Aquifer. The aquifer yields about 30 percent of the nation's ground water used for irrigation. It also provides drinking water to 82 percent of the people who live within the boundaries of the aquifer. The proposed pipeline would carry up to 700,000 barrels of crude oil per day from Alberta's tar sands to refineries in the Gulf Coast. Nebraska environmental groups, Bold Nebraska, the Sierra Club, farmers, ranchers, college students and everyone in between spoke out against the pipeline. In August, six Nebraskans were even arrested during a protest against the pipeline in Washington, D.C. With no pipeline siting legislation in place, however, at times it seemed there was little the state could do to stop TransCanada from building the pipeline. Gov. Dave Heineman gave pipeline opponents hope when he called for a legislative special session to find a solution to the pipeline issue, but many were confused when he didn't offer any guiding legislation proposals, which is customary.

As recently as last week, no one could say what legislation, if any at all, would pass in the special session. Yet here we find ourselves, with not one but two bills passed and signed into law Tuesday.

of Norfolk announced he had negotiated a deal with TransCanada in which they agreed to move the route of the pipeline out of the Sandhills. Flood also offered an amendment to LB4, the pipeline siting bill introduced by Sen. Chris Langemeier of Schuyler, which would allow the state to pay for an environmental impact study of the new pipeline. This would allow the state the authority to work with federal officials on the study, after which the governor would sign off on the pipeline.

Lawmakers also approved Fullerton Sen. Annette Dubas' bill (LB1), which give the Nebraska Public Service Commission authority for siting future pipelines. Most observers consider the special session a success. Although some said they didn't want the pipeline at all, most people just wanted a different route that wouldn't endanger the Ogallala Aquifer.

Display good sportsmanship

The past two years, I have had the privilege of being a state sportsmanship tournament evaluator for an award sponsored by the Nebraska Coaches Association, the Nebraska School Activities Association, and the Nebraska State Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association.

Each season, we as evaluators are amazed by the class acts that take the court or field as players and coaches. These are the teams that greet their opponents with up from the court, or pat their teammates on the back with an "attaboy." However, from time to time we are just as amazed by schools that display outrageously poor sportsmanship – student bodies and parent cheering sections that are seen taunting opponents, competing with opposing student bodies in negative chants, and mocking officials.

With the winter sports season opening this week, I'd like to remind the great sports fans of the area of some actions that have been deemed appropriate and some that should be avoided.

Although it is tempting to attend every community event and family party, parents should be careful not to over schedule their holiday calendar. Attending two events in one week is enough for young children. They become cranky after they miss their bedtime more than once a week. Even parents need proper sleep to be awake and enjoy the holidays, too. Everyone also benefits from sticking to their usual routines. Following a daily schedule by doing simple things like serving meals at the same time helps family members stay in tune during the hectic holidays.

and discuss realistic gift expectations with them. Let young children know that Santa Claus has to buy presents for everyone, so he can't afford to buy really expensive gifts. If older children have a more expensive present in mind, let them know they can get it but it will be their only gift. If children know their price range, they will look for presents that fit in it. Instead of being unnecessarily disappointed Christmas morning, children will know what to expect and love the gifts they receive.

Finally, families should stick to their traditions. If parents do not have traditions left over from their childhoods, they should start their own with their children. Traditions are what children will look forward to each year, and they are what children will remember and carry on with them when they have their

Acme Club meets Nov. 21

Acme Club members met Monday, Nov. 21 at the Senior Center for a no-host lunch, followed by the annual Joke Day.

President Joann Temme called the meeting to order with seven members answering roll call by telling what their Thanksgiving plans

The thoughts for the day were given by Ruth Victor - "If the only prayer you say in your entire life is 'thank you,' it will be enough." She also shared a quote from Erma Bombeck, "Seize the moment – I got to thinking about all those women on the Titanic who passed up dessert at dinner that fateful night in exchange.

an effort to cut back.'

Bonnadell Koch gave the secretary's and treasurer's reports. She also reported taking tray favors to the hospital to be used on Veterans Day and Elinor Jensen took the tray favors for Thanksgiving Day.

Entertainment for the afternoon was everyone sharing jokes that provided many laughs.

The next meeting will be Monday, Dec. 5 for a no-host lunch at the Senior Center for the Christmas observance. A collection will be taken for the Children's Home and members will have a tea towel gift

HEALTH SMART FROM HEALTH MART

Diabetes: How big is the risk?

them? If so, you're in "good company." About 26 million Americans have diabetes. And, another 79

Diabetes happens when your body can't use glucose (a type of sugar) the right way. Insulin is hormone that helps glucose enter cells, where they use this sugar as a source of energy. With diabetes, your body either doesn't make enough insulin or it can't respond well to insulin. Then you can have symptoms of too much glucose, such as increased urination, extreme thirst, and weigh Diabetes is not something to ignore. If left uncontrolled, it can lead to a whole host of complications, including high blood pressure, kidney failure, eye problems, and nerve damage.

That's just the tip of the proverbial iceberg. A deadly duo can be in store when diabetes is combined with other health problems. For reasons not well understood, women with both breast cancer and diabetes have a 50 percent increased risk of dying.<sup>5</sup> And, when combined with depression diabetes means you're twice as likely to die, especially from heart disease. It could be that people with depression may find it harder to take care of themselves. So you can see why it's so important

How can you help prevent this serious disease? The steps are simple, but not always easy to do.

Healthy diet and weight control are critical. So, too, is physical activity. A recent Australian study showed that the more you walk, the lower your risk of diabetes. They tracked nearly 600 middle-aged adults for five years, giving them a pedometer to use. Here's what they found: People who walked 10,000 steps daily at least 5 days a week were three times more protected against diabetes than those who walked just 3,000 steps a day - even when other factors such as diet, smoking, and alcohol were taken into account.<sup>7</sup>

Pfeifer completes K of C training

Executive Vice President of Agencies and Marketing Thomas P. Smith, Jr., has announced that field agent Craig Pfeifer of the Pfeifer Agency in Nebraska has recently attended and successfully completed a week of intensive training at Knights of Columbus Insurance International Headquarters in New Haven, Conn.

Pfeifer, who resides in Wayne, is in his first year as a Knights of Columbus field agent. In order to be invited to this special training session in New Haven, Pfeifer had to fulfill a number of requirements in his first months.

As a field agent, Pfeifer is required to stay on a rigid educational track while a new agent and throughout his career. In New Haven. Pfeifer received instruction on explaining the benefits of life insurance, annuities, long-term care to his clients and their families, in addition to supplemental courses in ethics, marketing and compliance.

The Knights of Columbus is a fraternal benefits society with more than $81 billion of insurance in force. This marks the 34th consecutive year in which the Knights of Columbus has earned A.M. Best's A++ (superior) rating. There is no more highly rated insurer in North America. Additionally, the Knights of Columbus has donated more than $1.325 billion to charity, and provided nearly 626 million hours of volunteer service in support of charitable initiatives worldwide in the past decade.

Is your child tongue-tied?

Most of us think of tongue-tied as a situation we find ourselves in when we are too excited to speak. Actually, tongue-tied is the term for a condition that limits the use of the tongue, which in the medical field, is known as ankyloglossia. Before we are born, a cord of tissue that guides development of structures is positioned in the center of the mouth, it is called a frenulum. As we grow, it recedes and thins. This frenulum is visible and easily seen if you look in the mirror under your tongue. However in some children, the frenulum fails to recede and remains tight causing tongue mobility problems. The tongue is one of the most important muscles for speech and swallowing. A new baby with a tight frenulum can have trouble sucking and may have poor weight gain. It can also lead to speech problems in toddlers and older children. Other characteristics of ankyloglossia may include, the inability to stick out the tongue past the teeth, or to touch the tongue to the roof of the mouth, and difficulty moving the tongue from side to side. Tongue-tie surgery known as a frenulectomy is a simple procedure, especially if a surgical laser is used. At Bright Smiles Family Practice Dr. Braun is certified to use the laser. Unlike the traditiona scalpel and stitches, the laser allows a much faster healing time, very little to no discomfort, and is very safe. The best advantage to using the laser is that it sterilizes the area so there is no bleeding, infection, and no need for stitches! The procedure takes about 15 minutes and a local anesthetic dental injection is all that is needed to control discomfort. Your child can return back to normal activities the same day and there are very few restrictions. The site is completely healed in about one week. If your child could benefit from this procedure call us today, we look

ALLEN COMMUNITY CLUB

The Allen Community Club met for the Thanksgiving meal on Nov. 21 at the Village Inn.

Preceding the meal, President Dean Chase called the meeting to order. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read. Discussion concerned upcoming Christmas activities. The caboose and tree with "familv stars" were to be decorated Nov. 27. Santa and Mrs. Claus will visit the children during the Christmas concert at school on Monday, Dec. 12. Filling the candy sacks will be at the school on Friday, Dec. 9 at 5:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to help with either or both of these Christmas activities.

Following the meeting, everyone then enjoyed a delicious meal. Exchange student Amy Bland presented an informative presentation about the five states and one territory of Australia, including information about the terrain, state birds and flowers, major agricultural crops, and tourist attractions. WATER BILL PAYMENTS

Effective with the December 2011 billing, all bills must be paid in full by the 10th of each month. If not paid by the 10th, services will be disconnected the next business day and a $25 reconnect fee will be added to your bill before service is restored. This means that the December bill must be paid in full by Jan. 10 or it will be shut off on the 11th and not turned back on until it is paid in full along with the $25 fee.

Anyone with questions is asked to please contact one of the Village Board members - Jay Jones, Dale Strivens, Dale Taylor, Ray Brentlinger or Eunice Diediker. SANTA COMING TO TOWN!

Santa and Mrs. Claus are coming to visit the kids of Allen on Monday, Dec. 12 at the K-12 Christmas

They will be distributing sacks of candy and taking pictures with students in grades K-4 (with pre-order and payment) the night of the concert. Notes with order forms will be sent home with your child. Orders and pre-payment for preschoolers will be taken in the gym as the children sit on Santa's lap.

Farm Beginnings program set to begin Dec. 10 in Syracuse

University of Nebraska-Lincoln agement. Extension will begin its fourth

As part of a USDA Farmer and Rancher Grant, UNL Extension is facilitating the Farm Beginnings Program. The Farm Beginnings Program is an educational training 10-11 at the Lied Lodge in Nebraska and support program designed to City. help people who want to evaluate and plan their farm enterprise.

Farm Beginnings participants engage in a mentorship experience and network with a variety of successful, innovative farmers and attend practical, high quality seminars, field days and conferences.

The program is unique in that several successful farmers participate in the program as presenters, explaining firsthand the nuts and bolts of their farming operation.

While any beginning farmer would benefit from attending these training sessions, most of the farmers that present come from small to medium sized farming operations that produce and market many different diversified and value-added products. Many of these farmers direct market their products.

The Farm Beginnings Program consists of a series of 10 sessions from December to April that cover a variety of topics including: building planning, building your business management and financial man-

Stopping to count my blessings

I did stop to "count my blessings" on Thanksgiving Day. It was an unusual one for us, as we had our holiday dinner on the 19th. So, on Thursday, we ate leftovers and took naps, and read papers, and enjoyed the 70-degree weather!

Our church services are usually on the eve before. This year, the choir sang a number that is new to me. We have new hymnbooks, published in 2006, and we are still getting acquainted with some of the music. (I think denominations bring out new hymnbooks every once in awhile just to keep us on our toes. I know it's one of the running jokes in the Church Basement Ladies stories.)

This one really struck a chord with me. The title is "Forgive Us, Lord, for Shallow Thankfulness." It lists warmth and shelter, food and harvest, and then goes on to say we should actually be grateful for love, grace, life, and vision, which enables us to see our brother's

Last week, we read that the missions and shelters were not getting the turkeys they count on at this time of year, as they rely on turkey meat for all kinds of things after the holidays. In the same paper, there was an article about a local bar sponsoring turkey bowl, in which frozen turkeys were rolled at empty soda bottles. Somehow, its 60th year of production, it has something else to celebrate - ratings for the popular garden show reached an all-time high this year.

As "Backyard Farmer" enters Facebook at http://www.facebook. com/backyardfarmernebraska.

May sweeps reached 23,500 households, which was about a 46 percent increase in audience across the state, said Backyard Farmer Producer Brad Mills. The show was averaging 14,000 households since

"I think people are getting a lot more serious about growing their own food and they want to know how to do that," Mills said. "We've been concentrating on getting people back to their own backyards and getting the most out of their home

Mills also attributes the ratings to younger people who are buying homes for the first time and then want answers on how to make their surroundings look better.

"The show offers quick, economical and unbiased answers. We've always been able to fulfill those two priorities - growing your own food and making your landscape surroundings more pleasant to the eye as well as conservation and reducing pesticide use," he said.

Mills hopes these priorities will take the show another 60 years.

The show also received a bumper crop of emails, letters, samples and phone calls, Mills said.

It also is the most downloaded UNL program, said EdMedia's Mark Hendricks. In addition, the show has made a splash on iTunes U and YouTube, consistently being in the Top 10 of the science category on iTunes and No. 17 overall on guage sessions, films to labs, audio unl.edu. Please include your return books to tours and a way to get educational content into the hands of students and others

> The show also receives thousands of hits on its YouTube channel at http://www.youtube.com/user/bucs-

> "It's not just Nebraska anymore, it's going across the country," Mills said.

Mills will continue to offer viewers more infomation on its YouTube channel with fall and winter gardening issues - from snow blower information to preparing your flower beds for winter.

To watch "Backyard Farmer" live from April through early September tune in Thursdays at 7 p.m. Central Time on NET1. Check your local listings for replay times on NET 2 and NET3.
