More info needed in investigation of city employees

Of The Herald

The special prosecutor looking into investigations of Wayne's city administrator and two members of the Wayne Police Department said she has requested more information before she said she would be able to discuss the investigations.

Thurston County Attorney Tammy Maul-Bodlak told The Wayne Herald on Wednesday that she has looked through documentation regarding the investigations of city administrator Lowell Johnson and police officers Jessica Bolles and Dominic Consoli, but was not able to comment on the investigations until she receives information she requested earlier that morning. Once that information is received and processed, she said she would be able to release more details regarding the investigations.

The request for a review of Johnson's testimony in front of the Civil Service Commission regarding his April 2011 firings of Chief Lance Webster and Lt. Phil Shear from the Wayne Police Department was made by the former police chief to the Nebraska Attorney General's office. That request was forwarded to Wayne County Attorney Mike Pieper, and his assistant, Amy Miller, asked for a special prosecutor to avoid a conflict of interest, since their law firm also represents the City of Wayne.

Miller also asked for a special prosecutor to look at an investigation that was called for regarding Consoli and Bolles. It is not known at this time who called for the investigation or the subject of the investigation.

Both Webster and Shear have appealed the Civil Service Commission's Dec. 15 decision to uphold Johnson's decision to fire the officers. Those appeals are pending in Wayne County District Court.

The Souper Bowl of Caring started in 1990 when a group of teenagers was inspired to create a fun, yet meaningful way to fight hunger and reach out to those in need, by this simple prayer, "As we enjoy the Super Bowl football game, help us be mindful of those who are without a bowl of soup to eat." "Having Winnie and Cindy here from Taiwan is a win-win situation for everyone. They are getting a great experience working in early childhood with our preschools," said Shelly Fehringer, Rainbow World

She noted that Rainbow World has three preschool programs, and the girls will have the opportunity to spend time with each group.

"I know the children are really enjoying the girls. The School-Age children have all gotten a sample of how to write their names in Chinese," Fehringer said. "I personally have learned so much in the short

Although they have been in Nebraska less than two weeks, the two girls have formed some opinions.

"It is really cold here. We brought warm clothes but had to buy some more. In Taiwan, it is 20-23 degrees Celsius (approximately 73 degrees Fahrenheit)," they said.

The two said they like pop – but not Pepsi - Taco Bell and Arby's. Pasta is also a favorite.

Winnie and Cindy are enrolled at the university in Taiwan, and among the goals of their stay in Wayne is that they do volunteer work, which is where Rainbow World came into the picture.

"Dr. Natalie Wu and I have been in contact and she is very appreciative to both Rainbow World and Wayne State for giving the girls this experience," Fehringer said.

"Winnie and Cindy are very friendly and extremely smart. I am confident this opportunity will have a lasting impact on all of our lives,"Fehringer added.

Lenihan said he and the school board are putting the 2012-13 school calendar together, and they are looking at possibly starting the school year a week later to allow for school officials to get everything where it needs to be before the school year gets started.

"We're working on the calendar right now, and we're looking at starting a week later so we can get things arranged the way we want," he said. "If, for some reason, something happens and we're not able to move in on time, then we'll have to look again and see when we can start school."

The possibility of a lengthy delay to the start of the school year is another thing Jorgensen is concerned about.

Lenihan said the district is working with the architect and contractors to make sure that doesn't become a problem when the next school vear is ready to start.

'We're making sure the lines of communication are open and make sure everybody knows what everybody is doing," he said. "We're meeting twice a month with the architect and meeting with the contractor during the course of the week to make sure we're still on track."

As for the future of the elementary school, Lenihan said the Board of Education had not made a decision on what to do with the building. With $1-2 million in roof and foundation repairs needed, he said a number of options are being

"Fixing the elementary building was going to take $1-2 million minimum, so to use it for something else, those repairs would be needed," he said. Wayne gets two for the show

Devils get second straight road win over ranked foe

By MICHAEL CARNES

HARTINGTON - Beating one

top-five team on the road is a pretty nice addition to a team's resume.

But beating top-five teams on the road in back-to-back games? Now that's an impressive double play.

The Wayne High boys saw a seven-point lead slip away midway through the fourth quarter, but responded with a solid finish to knock off previously unbeaten and Class C-2 No. 3 Hartington Cedar Catholic, 58-47 in a Friday night Mid-State Conference battle between highly-ranked teams at Cedar Catholic High School.

The win came seven days after Wayne High knocked off top-ranked Boys Town in Omaha, and coach Rocky Ruhl was happy with his team's play in the road victories.

"It's been a great week," he said after the game. "These kids have really stepped up and come together. We've been playing like five fingers, and tonight we played like a fist and gave them a good shot and I'm proud of these kids.'

The two teams battled back and forth throughout the entire first half, with neither team gaining more than a five-point advantage.

The Blue Devils broke a 14-14 tie with a Jordan Backer 3-pointer and two free throws by Drew Carroll to take a 19-14 advantage. Baskets by Carroll and Grant Anderson kept the lead at five before the Trojans' Grant Howell hit a late basket to cut the Blue Devil lead to three points at the break, 23-20.

The two teams continued to trade ounches throughout the third quarter. The Trojans got a three-point play from Logan Weinandt to break a 26-26 tie midway through the period, and a trey by Zach Steffen gave the hosts their biggest lead of the night at 34-30 with 3:26 to go in Wayne High responded by isolating Brady Soden out on the perimeter, and the 6-foot-2 junior responded with six of his game-high 18 points in the third period, helping the Blue Devils regain the lead.

"Brady has guard skills in his ball handling, and we wanted to get those guys moving and get him isolated on their big post," Ruhl said. "It's tough to contain Brady, and he was able to get to the basket."

While Soden was taking the Trojans to the hole, the hosts were having a hard time getting the ball to drop at the other end. Hartington CC saw a number of quality looks at the basket bounce out, and the Blue Devils were able to respond to the opportunities.

"We made them get a little quicker with their shots and moved well on defense, and the kids really played together," Ruhl said.

Jared Anderson closed the third period with a late basket, and Gage Rethwisch opened the fourth with a 3-pointer from the right wing to give the Blue Devils a 41-34 lead before the Trojans made one last push. Hartington CC went on a 7-0 run, capped by a three-point play by Logan Feilmeier, to tie the game at 41-41 with 3:29 left.

The Blue Devils responded quickly. Rethwisch drove and scored to the game one last time, Anderson

Another ranked foe downs Devils

By STEVE MARIK Of the Herald

The Wayne High girls basketball team has been through a brutal schedule during the month of January, playing five ranked teams in as many games.

On Thursday, Guardian Angels Central Catholic Bluejays brought their Class D1 top ranking (Lincoln Journal-Star) to Wayne High School and out-scrapped the Class C1 No. 7 Blue Devils, winning by a score of 51-36.

Points were hard to come by in the opening quarter, as full-court pressure by both teams forced turnovers galore, as well as a tough shooting night for Wayne.

"Sometimes the ball just doesn't go in the hole, and that's basketball," coach Nathan Wall said.

However, when the Bluejays did break through Wayne's tight press, they found success in the paint, scoring four points and adding a triple from beyond the arc.

Smooth slicing and dicing through West Point's tough press by Blue Devil sophomore Jalyn Zeiss led to a layup and an assist to teammate Katie Hoskins, which were the only scores of the first quarter of play for the home team.

"I know what our pressure can do to people, but if you get yourself in that big of a hole

Leading 7-4 at the start of the second quarter, things started to click for the visiting Bluejays. Abby Ortmeier and Annie Niewohner both came up big and scored transition and in-the-paint buckets on their way to outscoring Wayne 12-3 in the second period.

"I still thought at halftime we had a chance," Wall said. "I know what our pressure can do to people, but if you get yourself in that big of a hole against a great team like that, it's

Trailing 19-7 heading into the third quarter, the Lady Blue Devils found their scoring touch, with Katie Hoskins scoring half of the team's 16 points in the third quarter, but West Point's touch was never lost.

Austin McDonald continued to show improvement this season after posting a third-place finish in the 138-pound weight bracket. He lost in the semifinals on a first-period pin, but bounced back with a tough 6-4 decision in the consolation semifinals and finished the day with a dominating 13-4 major decision over Nicholas Williams of Lutheran High Northeast.

"Austin is wrestling pretty tough right now," Lawrence said. "There was the one match in the semis that I think he'd like to have back, but I thought he had a good day today and I'm looking forward to seeing what he can do down the stretch for Malcolm Martin was the only other Blue Devil to reach the consolation finals. He knocked heads with Dylan Loberg of Randolph in an exciting third-place match at 170 pounds. The match went to overtime as neither wrestler could get a takedown in three periods of action. Loberg secured a takedown on the edge of the match midway through the overtime period, taking a 3-1 win and leaving Martin with a fourth-place medal.

"When Malcolm shoots constantly, nobody can stop him, but he's not at that point yet," Lawrence said. "He is night and day from where he was last year, and he continues to improve for us and this is a good test for him at this point in the vear.'

"We did some good things and I saw some things that we need to work on, but overall it was a pretty good day."

- Anthony Lawrence Wayne High wrestling coach

The Blue Devils won five of seven matches in the fifth-place category, highlighted by second-period pins from Austin Hammer (106), Dylan Pflanz (220) and Ramsey Jorgensen (285). Cornelio Espino won a tight match for fifth at 112 pounds, and Jose Vergara came up with a win at 132 pounds.

The Blue Devils will wrestle their final regular-season tournament of the year this Saturday at the Plainview Invitational.

'We had to go zone because we couldn't contain the dribble," coach Brett Spiker said. "The tough part about that is the rebounding, and obviously we needed to rebound better. They got 16 offensive rebounds, and about all of them were putbacks. If we rebound better, we win the game."

Allen trailed for most of the game, and it seemed every time they would start to make a run, the Blujays would answer with a run of their own and extend their advan-

Walthill's Manuel Monlz had a game-high 29 points and seemed to be able to drive inside or hit the short jumper at any time.

for the 4-11 Eagles.

"Jake plays well for us and we've gotten a lot better at finding him, but guys around him need to stop being complacent," Spiker said. "We need more movement on the outside and we need to get more people involved."

On Thursday, the Eagles had trouble getting anything going against a solid Wausa squad, as the Vikings came away with a 61-23 win.

Allen was limited to one basket in the second period as Wausa took a 14-point lead into the locker room and cruised to the easy win.

Crom led the Eagles with 11 points, while Stewart put in eight.

Bears fall at Battle Creek, West Holt

Laurel-Concord/Coleridge boys basketball team struggled in a pair of road contests last week.

On Thursday, the Bears got out of the gate slow against Battle Creek, and the Braves were able to hang on and post a 54-42 win at Battle Creek High School.

The Bears played even with Battle Creek during the last three periods, but a 15-5 first quarter was too much for LCC to overcome as they went down to defeat.

Daniel Hartnett led the LCC boys Thursday before beginning NENAC with a game-high 19 points, while Kyle Kardell added eight points.

On Friday night, the Bears traveled to Atkinson for a NENAC matchup with the West Holt Huskies, and the hosts pulled out a 50-40 triumph to drop LCC to 2-12 on the season.

After a tough loss on Thursday, the Allen Lady Eagles used a fast start and a solid defensive effort to dominate Walthill in Lewis and Clark Conference action Monday at Allen High School.

The Lady Eagles dominated the Lady Blujays in the first half, holding the visitors scoreless for the first 12 minutes of the game on their way to an easy 64-24 win.

The Lady Eagles led 24-0 before Walthill broke the ice with a free throw. The Blujays began running with the Allen defense and found their way to the basket, but Allen was able to continue answering and built a 33-9 halftime lead.

"We told the girls before the game that we had to come out ready to go and set the tempo and play well, and I thought we did that," coach

Zach Wemhoff said. The Lady Eagles shot the ball well from the outside, hitting three 3-pointers in the contest. They were able to move the ball inside as well and drive to the basket. "A lot of that comes from confidence, and we were able to get that early lead and play well, and we turned around and shot the ball well," Wemhoff said.

The Lady Eagles had good balance in the win, with Lindsey Jones' 14 points leading the way. Brittany Sullivan was also in double figures with 12 points, while Rachel Finnegan just missed double figures with nine points.

"That's what we're capable of doing," Wemhoff said. "We just need to do it on a daily basis and it was good to see them do it tonight."

On Thursday, the Lady Eagles battled Wausa in a defensive matchup, and the visiting Viqueens had just enough in the second half to hang on for a 36-32 win.

One of the ups was top-ranked Coltin Brokaw, who won the 170-pound championship with a solid 7-2 decision over Cody Raemakers of North Bend Central. A state runner-up last year, Brokaw is beginning to look like a serious contender for a state title next month after Saturday's performance.

Wildcats move up to No. 7 in poll

Wayne State moved up three spots to No. 7 in the latest USA Today/ESPN Div. II Top 25 Women's Basketball coaches poll.

The Wildcats won a pair of road games last weekend, winning 70-64 in overtime at Winona State and 76-62 at Upper Iowa to improve to 17-2 overall. They moved ahead of Fort Lewis of Colorado, who were thumped by Metro State over the weekend, to become the second highest-ranked team in the Central Region. Metro State is ranked fourth, while Fort Lewis is one spot behind Wayne State at No. 8.

Wayne State is tied for first with Augustana in the NSIC at 11-2 in league play entering this weekend's homestand against Concordia-St. Paul and St. Cloud State.

Wildcat soccer wins ethics award

For the second straight season, the Wayne State women's soccer team has been selected for the National Soccer Coaches Association of America Team Ethics Award.

The Team Ethics Award recognizes teams that exhibit fair play, sporting behavior and adherence to the laws of the game as reflected by the number of yellow caution cards or red ejection cards they are shown by referees throughout the season. The coaches association honors teams with Gold, Silver and Bronze awards pending on the number of cards issued on the respective team.

The 2011 Wayne State team received the Silver Award, which went to 50 teams nationally that did not receive a red card and no more than five yellow cards accumulated during the season. The Wildcats were not called for a red card this season and had just two yellow cards, tied with Northern State for the fewest yellow cards in the Northern Sun Conference.

"I am proud that our team has received this award again this year," coach Molly Grisham said. "It certainly shows the kind of discipline we want to play with. It is great to know that even when things get difficult on the field we have players who will work hard but remain calm and represent Wayne State College in a positive way."

WSC softball fifth in preseason

Wayne State has been picked to finish tied for fifth in the 2012 Northern Sun Conference preseason softball coaches' poll.

Wayne State qualified for the NCAA Div. II Tournament for the third straight season after finishing the 2011 season in second place in the NSIC regular season with a record of 37-17 overall and 22-4 in the conference. The Wildcats return five positional starters (Dani Sandel, Brittany Greenwood, Rachel Dukich, Aeriell Earleywine and Kassie Nurton) and one starting pitcher (Jordan Harris). Augustana is the preseason favorite to win the NSIC after receiving eight first place votes. Minnesota State received four first place votes and is second, Winona State received one first place vote and is third, followed by Minnesota Duluth in fourth. Wayne State is tied with Concordia-St. Paul in the No.

Wayne State junior outfielder Aeriell Earleywine was dubbed as one of Wayne State's players to watch in the upcoming season. She had a batting average of .244 in a teamhigh 160 at bats in 54 starts in 2001 with five home runs and 21 RBI's.

Another player to watch for the Wildcats this season is sophomore pitcher Jordan Harris. Harris went 4-2 in 13 starts and 16 appearances last season with an ERA of 3.25 and 31 strikeouts.

St. Cloud State, the 2011 NSIC tournament champion, was selected to finish second with six first place votes. Winona State, last year's NCAA Div. II runner-up, is picked to finish third in the conference with three first place votes.

Locals hoping to stand up to bullies

Imagine being among a group of talented kids, yet never getting the

In high school, I was a very talented trumpet player. I haven't picked up a trumpet since high school, but if you handed me one and asked me to play the Star Spangled Banner, I could still do it (although it won't sound near as good as it did back in the day).

It was pretty obvious, even during my freshman year in high school, that I was one of the better trumpet players in the high school band. Over the years, people in the community would complement my play, and my parents were hopeful that I'd be able to make first chair when tryouts were held at the start of the school year.

What they didn't fully understand, though, was that there was another us get to keep a little more of our kid in the trumpet section who was as talented, but had a trump card that he would always play that would allow him to assume that first position

This individual was one of the bullies in school, and he made it very clear to me, prior to those tryouts, that if I finished ahead of him, he was going to – in so many words – make my life in school a living hell. Being a relatively new kid in town (we had just moved two years before), I didn't have a lot of friends who I could turn to for help in dealing with this jerk. Considering the alternatives, I intentionally tanked my tryout and wound up as third chair – it not only saved me the torture of having to look over my shoulder, but actually put another body between me and him during band class, limiting the number of ear-flicks and other physical attacks this scumbag would level at me while the instructor was otherwise dis-

Bullying has been a part of life for as long as the human race has existed. It takes on many forms in our schools, from the physical intimidation I experienced to the emotional barbs that come from something as simple as making fun of the shoes or clothes a classmate whose family might not be able to afford the latest styles or designs.

It's a problem that, contrary to what some school administrators might believe, is happening under their nose in every school district in this area, state and nation. Last fall, Oklahoma natives Kirk and Laura Smalley visited Wayne and spoke with students about their 11-year-old son, Ty, who committed suicide two years ago after being pushed over the edge from the bullying he experienced in school.

We read other stories of kids who went off the emotional deep end after one too many experiences and committed suicide, and there are countless other students who wonder how much more abuse they'll be able to take before they follow suit. It's a story that, quite frankly, I pray I never have to write as editor of this newspaper.

Many others simply shut themselves off emotionally, burying the pain other states are considering tax rent laws are burdensome and hard and frustration that they will end up carrying around until something - or increases, we are actually talking to follow because of the need to conhurting themselves or someone else.

A group of middle and high school-age kids in Wayne have started a 'Stand For The Silent" organization to help promote anti-bullying efforts in the school district. I had a chance to sit in on their first meeting the other night, and I'm thrilled to have had the opportunity to see some great ideas come from this group of kids from our middle school and high school.

These kids know firsthand what it's like to be the target of a bully's bad behavior. That the behavior is allowed to continue anywhere is disappointing, to say the least, and it is my hope that this group can help bullies see the light and that those who have been the target of a bully, whether it's physical, emotional or via cyberbullying on the Internet can come together to bring an end to this bad behavior.

Our kids should be able to grow up in a world where bullies aren't allowed to inflict the physical and emotional damage that they do. Groups like this one, hopefully, will move our school and community in that direc-

Proposal not liked by counties

By ED HOWARD Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN - It's too soon to guesstimate whether the initiative will be economically feasible, but Gov. Dave Heineman has proposed measures that would reduce your state income tax burden.

In his State of the State address, Heineman offered lawmakers, and the citizenry, observations that would have been welcomed by taxpayers 100 years ago and every year since:

"Our hardworking taxpayers are tired of government taking too much of their paycheck."

We would go a step further and proffer that taxpayers who don't work hard are tired of government taking so much out of their paychecks, too.

Whether some of us or none of earned income will depend in part on how the state analyzes and forecasts the Nebraska economy in coming weeks.

Heineman's package includes reductions in corporate income tax rates, centering on smaller busi-

A reminder that not everyone loves a tax reduction: Heineman wants to eliminate the county inheritance tax – and county officials are objecting. The tax, collected by individual counties, throws off about $42 million.

The first full week of morning debate and afternoon hearings has ended. Every session, the 10th day of that session is the last day for state senators to introduce bills. A total of 468 (too many) bills were introduced this year.

The first filibuster of the session is under way as well. The full Legislature has heard hours of debate on LB418, nicknamed the robocall bill. LB418, introduced by Sen. John Nelson of Omaha, would change state regulations on robocalls. (Robocalls are those automatically generated calls with a recorded message that we all get.) Currently, the Public Service Commission and the Nebraska Accountability and Disclosure Commission regulate these calls by requiring the sponsors to identify themselves and submit a script within 24 hours of placing a call. LB418 would remove oversight by the Public Services

Proponents claim that the curthe government. Opponents of the bill say the current regulations are not burdensome and do not limit speech; the laws simply make people accountable for what they are saying. The debate will continue into next week. I don't know anyone who likes the robocalls, but they are protected under the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

I introduced one of my three new bills on Wednesday before the Health and Human Services Committee. LB723 was brought to me by the Department of Health and Human Services. It is a technical bill that brings Nebraska statutes back in line with federal law concerning the Nebraska Safe Drinking Water Act. It changes the term "small system" in the Act to "public water system serving fewer than 10,000 persons." The Chief Medical Officer of the State (Dr. Joann Schaefer) testified in favor of the bill, and was the only other person offering President Barack Obama announced a major decision that directly affects Nebraska this week.

The Department of State, with the backing of the President, denied TransCanada's request for a permit to build the Keystone Pipeline.

In a written statement, the President said a Feb. 21 deadline placed upon his administration prevented a full assessment of the pipeline's impact on the health and safety of the American people as well as our environment.

TransCanada has said that it will submit a new permit application and will continue to work with the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality to find an alternative route through Nebraska. The Company has also said they still hope to have a pipeline in place and in service by 2014.

I am personally disappointed that the Keystone Pipeline was not given a permit. This issue has become and remains a "political football," and it is too bad that presidential politics has gotten in the way of job crude oil. There is still hope, however, that Nebraska will not miss out totally on this opportunity. The pipeline though delayed, is not necessarily completely dead.

Exposure of the root surfaces of teeth is known as recession. It is a very common condition in adults over the age of 40; however, it can occur at any age. It can be just a sign of aging, the result of wear and tear or years of aggressive tooth brushing. However, sometimes receding gums can be a sign of something more, such as periodontal disease (gum disease) and it often doesn't cause any pain and goes unnoticed until too much damage is done Gum disease starts when plaque and bacteria build up on the teeth and gums. When the plaque is not removed daily, it produces toxins that irritate and inflame the gums. Eventually, the inflammatory process destroys the gum tissues, causing them to separate from the tooth and form spaces called pockets. The pockets hold more bacteria, which only compounds the problem. In the early stages, gum disease

(gingivitis), marked by red or swollen gums that bleed easily, is reversible and can be detected and treated by your dentist or dental hygienist during regular check-ups. If the disease progresses to periodontitis, it can destroy the bone and soft tissues that support the teeth. In advanced

RECESSION: stages of periodontitis, teeth can become loose, fall out or have to be removed by a dentist. The good news is these gum conditions can be prevented by good oral hygiene habits like brushing and flossing daily. Receding gums are best prevented by brushing regularly with a soft toothbrush using mild pressure and small circular or very short back and forth motions Avoid hard toothbrush bristles and long horizontal brush strokes with excessive pressure on your toothbrush. It is also a great idea to use a toothpaste formulated for sensitive teeth. Avoid whitening and tarter control toothpastes as these have small particles that can irritate gum tissue and cause continued recession. If you have noticed recession or bleeding when brushing, please schedule an appointment with your dentist today.

All labor that lifts humanity has dignity

I didn't think I wanted to see the movie, The Help. I was busy raising babies in the '60s and have already decided I missed a lot of what was going on in the world then. When I saw news about Civil Rights, and marches, and protests, I thought, 'Well, we certainly don't act like that to people of color in Nebraska!" I found it hard to believe it was happening anywhere in the US: hadn't we fought the Civil War about this?

Finally, I read the book; mainly, so I would know what people were talking about. And I found it entertaining, just as all the other readers had. And I can imagine the movie is, too, and someday, it will be on TV, and I'll make a point of watch-

I tell you all this because I read last week that Octavia Spencer, who plays one of the maids, was awarded a Golden Globe as Best Supporting Actress in a movie. This is what she said as she accepted it: "With regard to domestics in this country, now and then, I think Dr. King said it best: 'All labor that uplifts humanity has dignity and importance.' And I thank you for recognizing that with our film." This was in the paper on January 16th, jobs.

When someone shows up on time, and puts in an honest day's work for an honest day's pay, and does not steal from his employer, and tries to get along with his co-workers, it all "uplifts humanity and has dignity and importance."

I still expect that kind of performance for any job; I think we all do. Which is why we found the report of the ship's captain for the cruise ship that tipped over disturbing; whether he tripped and fell into the life raft or he purposely jumped into it. His job was to be on the boat until the last person was evacuated. When the Coast Guard Captain told him to "climb that ladder and get back on that boat", he was just saying what was expected of the captain of a ship.

I'm tempted to order one of the T shirts they are selling in Italy; they say "D__n it! Get back on that boat!" It's a direct quote of the Coast Guard guy, and it's appropriate for anyone not doing his job. I have a hunch a lot of supervisors and managers can relate. And I have a huge respect for Octavia Spencer, even if I had never heard of her before. Now, I need to get back to my job and clean up this kitchen!

Land Application Training Field Day Offered in February

In February, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension workshop at extension offices across the state will provide livestock and crop farmers with the latest information on how to turn manure nutrients into better crop yields while protecting the environment.

Land Application Training will be available Thursday, Feb. 2. Initial training is from 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Central Time and re-certification is from 1:30-3:30 p.m. Central Time.

Livestock producers with livestock waste control facility permits received or renewed since April 1998 must be certified. A farm must complete an approved training every five years, and farm personnel responsible for land application of manure also are encouraged to attend.

The workshops will help livestock producers put to use the nutrient management planning requirements of Nebraska's Department of Environmental Quality regulations and increase the economic value of manure, said Leslie Johnson, UNL AMM coordinator. Participants who attend the day-long event will receive NDEQ Land Application Training Certification.

This in-depth, one-day class targets newly permitted livestock operations. Operations that have already attended this initial training, but will need re-certification, may attend the afternoon portion of the training.

Attendance at the afternoon portion of one of the Land Application Training workshops will fulfill NDEQ requirements for re-certification of producers who have completed the initial land application training five or more years ago.

This portion of the workshops will consist of a two-hour program including updates on changing regulations and emerging manure management topics, such as #manuremonday, climate change impacts, and the 2011 Nebraska P-Index. It also will be available via distance learning technology at several county extension offices across the state. Those that have access to high-speed Internet can take this re-certification training at any location, including the home or office. Farm staff responsible for implementing the farm's nutrient plan also are encouraged to attend.

For additional information, including the location closest to you, contact Johnson, AMM coordinator, at 402-584-3818, email ljohnson13@unl.edu or visit http://manure.unl.edu.

Pre-registration is required for all workshops. A $50 fee per farm (includes one farm representative) will be charged for the day-long Land Application Training workshops plus a $10 fee for each additional participant to cover local costs including lunch. The Land Application Training Re-certification portion of the workshop is free if viewing online;

if attending at an extension office the registration fee is $10. These workshops are sponsored by the UNL Extension AMM Team which is dedicated to helping livestock and crop producers better utilize the state's manure resources for agronomic and environmental benefits. For additional information on these workshops and other resources for managing manure nutrients, visit http://manure.unl.edu
