City salaries will go up, police may see position cuts

By CLARA OSTEN Of the Herald

Wages for all city employees will go up slightly following action taken at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

The action is taken yearly and allows the city the chance to make wages comparable with the 21 Nebraska cities similar to Wayne that are surveyed by the League of Nebraska Municipalities.

The changes allow for a 2 percent cost of living increase and increases for individual employees on the anniversary of their hire date based on positive evaluations.

Discussion from council members included current budget restraints and the possibility of the elimination of state equalization funds with the passage of LB1114 in the Nebraska Legislature.

"If we spend more money on salaries, we will have to take the money from services. Also, if LB1114 passes, Wayne could lose $370,000 in general fund revenue," Mayor Ken Chamberlain told the council.

The resolution calls for the elimination of the position of police lieutenant.

Brian Swanson, president of the local Fraternal Order of Police, spoke to the council on concerns about the time frame for evaluations taking place before pay raises take effect. He also expressed concern about what will go into evaluations due to the length of time between evaluations. Also approved was the wage and salary schedule for police personnel.

Staff recommendation was for the elimination of the position of senior patrolman. However, no action was taken on that recommendation, due to the fact that records have not been located indicating council approval of the position.

Scott Abraham spoke to the council on the intent to eliminate the positions of police lieutenant and senior patrolman.

"I understand this is a budget issue, but I don't believe this is a wise choice. Has crime in the city decreased? This has the appearance of retaliation. I don't think we need to reduce the police force and I believe the department needs leadership," Abraham said.

Mayor Chamberlain told those in attendance that an elimination of a position does not necessarily mean an elimination of officers in the department. He noted that the Civil Service Commission is in the process of hiring another officer for the department and is planning to hire a police chief, bringing the number of officers on the department to eight.

Police department salaries are part of a labor contract/agreement with the Fraternal Order of Police and the 2 percent cost of living increase is within the range of 0 to 2 percent agreed upon.

Candidates filing for public office

Filings for public office continue to come into the Wayne County Clerk's office as the deadline approaches for incumbents to announce their bids for re-election.

Three Wayne City Council members have decided to run for another term. Ward One representative Doug Sturm has filed, as has Ward Three representative Brian Frevert and John Haase in Ward Four. As of late Monday, only one other candidate has filed for a Wayne City Council seat, as Jennifer Sievers has filed for the Ward Two seat currently held by Kathy Berry.

All three Wayne Board of Education members who are up for re-election have now filed, as Ken Jorgensen filed late Monday afternoon for a second term. Rodney V. Garwood and Wendy Consoli have already filed for re-election to the board.

Other filings for election that have come into the Wayne County Clerk's office include:

Wayne County Commissioner, District Two – Dean Burbach of Carroll (incumbent) Wayne Airport Authority – Todd Ludeke (incumbent), Carl Rump

Winside School Board - Carmie Marotz (incumbent), John Mangels (incumbent), Chris Olander

Incumbents have until Wednesday, Feb. 15 to file for re-election. All other candidates have until Thursday, March 1, to make their intentions known. The primary election is Tuesday, May 15.

Correction

help from the county to address the situa- options at its March 6 meeting. tion

The board received additional evidence from attorneys Shawn Beaudette, representing Hammer; and Jason Doele, representing Heinemann. Both attorneys submitted land appraisals of property near their clients' property, and Doele presented estimates his client received for the purchase and installation of a culvert that would allow for a road to be built over a creek

At the present time, the two sides are awaiting a March 6 date in Wayne County District Court to determine if a prescriptive easement exists on the property. The county board decided to delay its decision until its March 20 meeting in the hopes that the judge hearing the case would render a decision on the matter, which would relieve the county board from having to make a decision on its own.

In other action, the Board:

- heard from emergency manager Nic ty's one- and six-year road plans.

- approved the purchase of software for the Veterans Service office to assist in responding to clients' needs, which allows the county to join the state's license as a user of the system.

- approved lodging tax grant applications for the Carroll Volunteer Fire Department ($130), Nebraska Golfer magazine ads ($450), Elderfest ($1,000) and the Wayne Rugby Tournament and National Rugby Playoffs ($1,000 each).

– Approved a survey of land in Section 1, Township 25 North.

- Decided to obtain estimates for replacement of concrete in the courthouse square parking lot, as well as on terraces and sidewalks approved a floodway development application to mill and overlay part of Highway 15.

WAKEFIELD – Michael Foods, Inc. is expanding a late-January recall that includes products produced at its plant in Wakefield.

The company is recalling specific lot dates of hard-cooked eggs in brine sold in 10- and 25-pound pails for institutional use that were produced at its Wakefield facility because the product has the potential to be contaminated with Listeria monocytogenes, the company said in a news release.

Listeria monocytogenes is an organism which can cause serious and sometimes fatal infections in young children, frail or elderly people, and others with weakened immune systems. Although healthy individuals may suffer only short-term symptoms such as high fever, severe headache, stiffness, nausea, abdominal pain and diarrhea, Listeria infection can cause miscarriages and stillbirths among pregnant women.

Extension program helps teens resist urge to misuse credit cards

A 2008 study by United College Marketing Services found that college students received an average of 25 to 50 credit card solicitations per semester

According to the most recent statistics from student loan giant Sallie Mae, abut 76 percent of college undergraduate in the U.S. have a credit card and graduate with $3,174 in credit card debt which is a record high. The higher the grade level, the greater the credit card balance, according to student loan agency Sallie Mae. College seniors with at least one credit card graduated with an average of $4,138 in credit card debt in 2008. Freshman, on the other hand, carried average credit card debt of $2,038. Credit card balances of this magnitude may soon be a thing of the past, however.

New credit card rules for young adults have been called "the end of credit as we know it."

University of Nebraska Extension Educators are working to make students aware of the negative impact of credit card use through a program entitled "Credit Card Blues at 22." Recently Extension Educator Debra Schroeder visited Winside High School and spoke to students on use of credit cards.

There was a time, up until Feb. 22, 2010, when college students and other young adults under age 21 were "easy targets" for credit card offers. As a result of the Credit Card Accountability, Responsibility and Disclosure Act of 2009 (a.k.a., the CARD Act or Public Law 111-24), there are strict rules on the marketing and issuing of credit cards to young adults. The CARD Act doesn't prohibit college students from receiving credit cards but it does help protect them from practices that, in tiple lines of credit and incur large amounts of debt that they could not afford to repay.

22" is a program developed by UNL Extension that helps alert young adults to the challenges of mishandling credit cards, how to protect their identity and how credit ratings can be adversely affected.

According to Debra Schroeder. UNL Extension Educator, the presentation uses a variety of 'scenarios' to teach the difference between debit and credit cards and to demonstrate how hard it can be to manage the use of credit to avoid high interest rates and penalties. Those whole credit card issue is very complicated.

UNL Extension continues to offer "Preventing Credit Card Blues at 22" as the Omaha World Herald reported on Feb. 28, 2011 that on average, about 64 percent of Nebraska college students graduated with $22,361 in loan debt.

peace of mind from knowing that, by having a credit card available, their child will not be stranded if "Preventing Credit Card Blues at any emergency arises," explained Schroeder. "We hope the decision to have a credit card is one that families make together. The goal is that parents and children will work jointly to establish the guidelines for young adults to follow then using credit.'

PMC Home Health to get streamlined review process set

Providence Medical Center Home Health in Wayne was recently notified by the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS), Division of Medicaid and Long-Term Care, that the implementation of a new streamlined Medicaid utilization review process for them and other home health agencies, will begin Feb. 15.

Providence Home Health, along with approximately 10 percent of Medicaid home health agencies, has met the criteria to be designated as a Gold Card provider, based on the accuracy of their authorization requests and claim submissions. Through attention to detail and quality assessments, they have ensured their authorization requests meet the criteria for approval and their claims meet the criteria for payment.

"I am extremely pleased that we have earned the Gold Card status,' said Terri Munter RN, director of Providence Home Health. "Because of this designation, we will be participating in one of two training seminars, which will explain this new review process and how it will benefit us," she said.

Gold Card provider status will be updated twice a year, as the goal is to have all home health agencies meet the designation criteria.

Ross Rastede has won the Nation- ticipation in student organizations, demonstration of campus and community involvement through volunteerism, and promotion in campus diversity. There were 100 nominees from across the country, and 24 were selected for the award.

Rastede was nominated by Nancy Hansen, Director of Recreation and Athletic Facilities at Nebraska Wesleyan University (NWU) in Lincoln. He is a senior at NWU, majoring in Sport Management and minoring in Health and Fitness Studies. At NWU, he serves as student director of the intramural sports program. Ross serves as an officer in the Health and Human Performance Club, an officer in the Phi Epsilon Kappa honorary fraternity, and is also a member of Blue Key Honor Society, serving as vice-president.

He is the son of Wayne and Mary Rastede of Allen.

Education dean at WSC will be stepping down on April 1

Dr. Neal Schnoor, Dean of the School of Education and Counseling at Wayne State College, has accepted a position as Senior Advisor to the Chancellor for Executive Affairs at the University of Nebraska-Kearney effective April 1. Schnoor came to Wayne State as dean in 2010.

After his graduation from Wayne State in 1990 with a BFAE in music education, Schnoor went on to build and administrate highly successful secondary instrumental music programs early in his career, then completed graduate studies in music education and curriculum and instruction. Schnoor holds master's and doctorate degrees from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Schnoor eventually held a dual appointment at the University of Nebraska Kearney (UNK) in the College of Education and College of Fine Arts and Humanities. He served as coordinator of K-12/Secondary Education and the director of University Bands.

"The new position is attractive professionally and personally," Schnoor said. "Professionally, the role enables me to develop interests in broader administrative roles in higher education."

food distributors and manufacturers located in 34 states including Nebraska. The recall is limited to hard-cooked eggs in brine in 10- and 25-pound pails produced at its Wakefield facility, which are labeled under six brand names - Columbia Valley Farms, GFS, Glenview Farms, Papetti's, Silverbrook and Wholesome Farms. The products bear lot codes of "1 LOT 1350W" through "1 LOT 2025W", with expiration dates ranging from Jan. 30 to March 10, 2012.

None of the eggs were sold directly by Michael Foods to retailers or consumers, the release stated. However, food distributors and manufacturers who purchased the eggs could have used them in products that were sold to retail outlets or used in food service settings. There have been no confirmed reports of illness in connection with this product.

The recall was initiated after lab testing revealed of purchase.

Nebraska to the Big Ten. Missouri to the SEC. West Virginia to the Big 12.

What's that they say about what goes on at the college level eventually trickles down to the high school level? It would appear the same holds true regarding conference affiliation, and the carousel appears ready to start spinning here in this part of the state.

Word on the street recently was that Randolph is about to jump ship from the NENAC to the Lewis and Clark Conference, which is looking to get back to a full complement of 16 schools after Coleridge went into its co-op arrangement with Laurel-Concord last year.

Now this is where things really start to get interesting - Laurel-Concord/Coleridge athletic director Scott Petersen told me recently that LCC has been invited to join the Lewis and Clark as well, and the school is considering the switch. Laurel-Concord is a former L&C member, which would mark a return to the conference if they decide to do so.

And I know what you're about to ask - doesn't the addition of LCC and Randolph make it 17 schools for the conference?

From what I've been hearing around the region, Newcastle may find itself in a position where they may not have enough athletes for sports like football and may wind up in a co-op with a school in that region, such as Wynot or Ponca.

So if the Randolph and LCC moves do come to pass, what becomes of the NENAC? Crofton has already fled the conference to join the Mid-State Conference (they will be a full member next year), and if gush about his recruiting class. Wayne State coach Dan McLaughlin announced a signing class of 30 high school standouts last week, and he was truly happy with the group of young men who will continue their football careers with the Wildcats. "This is a really good class, but I don't know a coach in America that would tell you anything differently," McLaughlin said. "We really are excited about this group, though."

The 2012 class includes 28 high school recruits and two transfers from other institutions. Almost half of those signing are from Nebraska, including several from Northeast Nebraska.

The line was a definite need for Wayne State this year, and McLaughlin said this year's class definitely addresses that need, with almost half of the recruits scheduled to play up front.

Wayne girls fourth in conference

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

The month of January was a tough one for a Wayne High girls basketball team that got December off to such a great start, so coach Nate Wall was hoping the team would bounce back and play well down the stretch in February.

After a solid win in the first round of the Mid-State Conference tournament to close out last month, the Blue Devils came close to two conference adversaries, but fell short in both the semifinals and the consolation game with losses to Boone Central and Norfolk Catholic.

With Friday's home finale against Madison the last go-round before subdistricts, Wall is concerned about his team after Thursday's 44-41 loss to the Cardinals and Monday's 51-45 setback to the Knights.

"I felt better with where we were Thursday than I do right now," he said after Monday's loss in the third-place game at Wayne High School. "The subdistrict is very win-Speculation is that schools like Humphrey St. Francis might be of this week to figure it out." courted by NENAC to move it back to a six-team (or seven) conference, and they could exist in that fashion, or try to pick up an eighth team (possibly stealing a team like Madison from the Mid-State, although I have no idea if they're interested).

The Cornhusker Conference appears to be no more, as Humphrey, Clarkson-Leigh, Dodge-Howells and Twin River will head to the East Husker Conference (Newman Grove is co-oping with Boone Central). Whether or not Humphrey St. Francis or Lindsay Holy Family would head to the NENAC (assuming the departures of Randolph and LCC) remains to be seen.

I count about 36 conferences among the more than 200 high schools in the state of Nebraska, but those numbers could undergo a serious shift in the next 10-20 years as schools consolidate or enter into co-operative arrangements such as the one between Laurel-Concord and Coleridge.

With apologies to any local toes I might inadvertently step on, it would not surprise me at all if the day comes when the five schools in our coverage area are whittled down, due to co-ops or mergers, to three. Allen and Winside are both small schools who are either at the D-2 level in football (Winside) or very well could be in the 2014-15 scheduling cycle (Allen). If enrollment numbers continue to fade, the day will come when one, or both, of those schools will be faced with the possibility of a co-op with another school in the area.

(On a side note, there has been some discussion that Winside might co-op with Stanton, a move that I find completely illogical. While Stanton would be a closer drive for Hoskins-area students attending Winside, it is a much longer drive for the majority of students at that school to go to Stanton than it would be to make the 12-mile journey to Wayne.

The conference landscape in Nebraska could be undergoing a seismic shift in the next year or so, and we could very well feel some of the tremors right here in our part of the state.

Blue Devil wrestlers medal five

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

NORFOLK – A little more than a month ago, Wayne High sophomore Demetrius Alexander was playing basketball.

On Friday night, he became a conference medalist for the Blue Devil wrestling team, highlighting the team's effort at the Mid-State Conference meet with a fourth-place finish at 160 pounds.

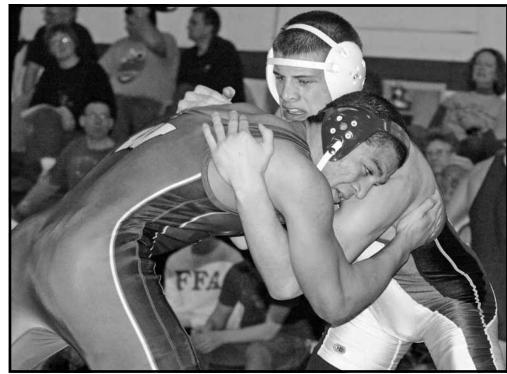

Overall, the Blue Devils had five medalists and two consolation champions to finish seventh in a tough nine-team meet that is the final tune-up before this week's brutal B-2 district tournament that will send qualifiers to the state meet next week in Omaha.

Seeing Alexander get to the medal stand in just a short time on the mat was a pleasant surprise for coach Anthony Lawrence.

"Demetrius has only been wrestling with us for a month, but he really busted his tail out there and showed that he's a very good wrestler," he said. "He's going to be a lot tougher next year once he gets some experience under his belt."

Alexander took the long way to the medal stand, overcoming a first-round loss to runner-up Brandon Becker of Norfolk Catholic to win pick up two wins and get to the thirdplace match. He had a second-period pin and a 3-0 decision to reach the medal round, where he was pinned midway through the second period by Colby Huff of Pierce.

"Boone Central came out and hit us in the jaw early on, and we hit them back a couple of times and played very well," Wall said of the Blue Devils' effort Thursday.

Boone Central seemed to have an answer for every Wayne rally in the second half. Wayne made it a onepossession game on five separate occasions in the second half, getting within a point midway through the third quarter when Zeiss stole a pass and found Fallesen to make it 32-31.

Boone Central responded with a three by Emily Carder, and after Fehringer made it a two-point game, Boone Central scored the last five points of the third period to take a seven-point lead into the final quarter. Wayne got as close as two points on a Fallesen basket with 1:18 to go, and a desperation 3-point attempt at the buzzer missed the mark, giving the Cardinals the win.

"I thought we played very well in the semis," Wall said. "If a couple of things turned out different in the second half, we're playing in the conference championship."

Fehringer led Wayne with 12 points while Fallesen added 10 and Zeiss had eight.

On Monday night, the Blue Devils led by as many as seven points in the first half, but the Knights rallied to forge a 25-25 tie at the half, then came back from a five-point deficit in the second half to hang on for the win.

Wall said he was disappointed with the way the Knights were able to penetrate inside on the Wayne defense.

"We let them penetrate to the hole with their right hand a lot, which is a commandment of ours that we don't allow," he said. "They did it way too often and rebounded a lot better than we did. They found matchups where they hit the boards well, and that was disappointing."

The Blue Devils used a balanced attack to break out to their sevenpoint lead. Wayne went on an 8-2 run the final three minutes of the first period, highlighted by baskets from Zeiss and Fehringer and free throws by Ashton Schweers to build a 13-8 lead.

Fehringer opened the second period with a basket to make the Wayne lead seven points, but Michaela Barry sparked a Norfolk Catholic turnaround, scoring seven of her game-high 15 points in the second period to forge a 25-25 tie.

It was back-and-forth throughout the second half. Wayne led 37-32 on back-to-back baskets by Schweers, but Norfolk Catholic came back and took a 38-37 lead on a Geena Piper basket late in the third period and never trailed again.

With subdistricts around the corner next week, Wall feels his team still has what it takes to reach its goal - a trip to the state tournament in Lincoln.

"Our subdistrict is very winnable for us and we're just as good as any of those other teams," he said. "Our seniors want it really bad, so we're going to be a tough team to knock out.

On Tuesday, the Blue Devils bounced back with a solid win on the road, taking care of a 52-43 win over Hartington Cedar Catholic.

The Blue Devils broke open a close game with an 11-0 run in the third quarter to take a 14-point lead, giving them the cushion to hang on for the win.

Fehringer scored a game-high 18 points, Carroll added 11 and Hoskins put in 10.

Wayne's fifth medal came from Aaron Svenson, who had a good day at 126 pounds and finished with a fourth-place medal.

The Blue Devils face a tough district docket this weekend in Blair. as they will compete in a B-2 district that includes top-five teams from Omaha Skutt and Gretna, as well as solid programs such as Bennington, Blair and Boys Town.

"We need to work on a couple of things before districts, but we're going to go up there and give it our best effort," Lawrence said.

Winside wrestlers finish third

CLEARWATER - Winside's wrestlers hit the postseason in good shape after a solid third-place finish Friday at the Clearwater/Orchard Invitational

All seven Wildcats who competed earned a trip to the finals, and Winside came away with two titles as Brady Wurdeman (106) and Forrest Jones (160) claimed individual honors.

"We had a real good meet at Clearwater," coach Paul Sok said. "All the varsity members finished first or second, and everyone has put themselves in position to do something at districts."

The only surprise in Friday's out- least 21 wins, and Sok is optimistic come was at 170 pounds, where se- about his team's chances in the D-2 nior Coltin Brokaw suffered his first loss of the year in an 8-3 decision to Brandon Wragge of Howells. short in consolation defeat

NORFOLK - Wayne tried to battle back from a 15-point first-half deficit, but ran out of time as they dropped a 65-60 decision to Norfolk Catholic in consolation action at the Mid-State Conference tournament Friday

Many people figured this matchup would be for a trip to the conference finals, but both the Blue Devils and Knights were upset in the first round by Guardian Angels Central Catholic and Boone Central, respectively, setting this up as a game where the winner would finish no better than fifth place.

The Knights came out and established control of the game early, taking advantage of Wayne's zone defense to hit some shots from the outside and build a 15-point lead late in the first half.

"We didn't come out and play very well from the start," coach Rocky Ruhl said. "We started out in a zone to try and force them to shoot from the perimeter, and they came out hot and shot the ball well and it took us some time to adjust back to our man-to-man defense."

The Blue Devils were able to cut the Norfolk Catholic lead to 10 points at the intermission, then made a game of it with a four-quarter rally that, Ruhl said, simply ran out of time.

"We were down 15, but the kids never gave up and we had a chance," he said. "I thought the kids responded well after being down and tried to salvage something, but we just ran out time.'

Brady Soden had 16 points to lead four Wayne players in double figures. Gage Rethwisch added 15 points, Grant Anderson put in 13 and Ben Hoskins came off the bench to score 10 points for the 14-4 Blue Devils.

The loss knocked Wayne out of a chance to win a placement game in the conference tournament for the first time in a number of years. The fact they were one of three ranked teams heading into the tournament - none of which made it to the conference finals - was not lost on their coach.

"It's a tough conference, and with the length of the season it causes slump that it has to fight through," Pierce.

he said. "We hit ours in the West Point-Beemer game, and it rolled we've played ourselves into the over into these two games, but I No. 2 seed for subdistricts, so we'll thought we finished well Friday night and I hope we're on the right track."

The Blue Devils will be busy to close out the regular season the next two weeks. They host Madison Wayne on Friday and face a rematch with Guardian Angels Central Catholic Saturday in West Point before their come teams, at some times, to hit a home season finale Feb. 17 against other 10-0 run to take a 15-point lead at intermission. The Wildcats built their lead to as many as 23 points before settling on the 15-point win.

"We've played Mankato tough at their place the last two years, and it was a very rewarding night for our guys," coach Paul Combs said. "We had some positive contributions from some role players that stepped up and got us over the hump. Any time you can beat the back-to-back conference champs on their home floor, it's a great experience."

Wayne State opened with an 8-0 lead in the first 2 1/2 minutes of the game, and after the Mavericks got within two at 21-19, Wayne State went on a 10-0 run to take a 31-19 lead late in the first half, improving to a 15-point lead at the break, 36-21.

Wayne State continued to dominate in the second half, getting back-to-back trifectas from Vontrell Seroyer and Ty Bauschek to take a 50-27 lead. Minnesota State got as close as 11 points with four minutes to go, but the Wildcats maintained their double-digit advan-points.

On Friday night, the Wildcats couldn't overcome a solid shooting effort in the second half by Southwest Minnesota State, as the Mustangs hit 59 percent from the floor in the final 20 minutes to post a 73-58 win.

"They played really hard on the defensive end and really did a good job maximizing their possessions and taking us out of what we wanted to do," Combs said. They doubled the ball the second half and created havoc for our guards and got us out of rhythm.'

The Wildcats overcame an early six-point deficit in the first half to take a 21-19 lead on an Adol Aluong shot with 4:33 to go in the half. The game was tied 25-25 when the Mustangs closed the half with a 7-2 run to take a five-point lead, and they pulled away in the second half with a solid shooting effort that saw five Mustangs finish in double figures.

The Wildcats were led by Amry Shelby with 13 points, while Seroyer and Williams each had 12.

Trojans see strong first half, can't hit stride in second

WAKEFIELD - It was a good first half for the Wakefield girls in their regular-season finale, but a rough second half allowed visiting Winnebago to come away with a 47-35 win.

The Trojans spotted the visiting Indians the first 3-pointer of the game, then went on an 11-0 run, sparked by outside shooting from Lauren Lehmkuhl and Mercedes Greve, to give the Trojans an 11-5 advantage after one period.

Wakefield led 17-9 before the Indians made rally, getting a buzzerbeating 3-pointer to cut the Trojan lead to two points at the break, 21-19. That momentum carried over into the second half, as Winnebago's pressure forced a number of Trojan turnovers.

"In the first half, we were in rhythm and the shots were falling for us, both inside and outside," coach Matt Brenn said. "We turned the ball over and weren't in rhythm the second half. They forced us to speed up, and we don't do that well." Lehmkuhl was the only Trojans in double figures, finishing with 17 points. It was the final game for five seniors - Katie Weinrich, Ashley Gilliland, Bailey Echtenkamp, Mercedes Greve and Victoria Zamzow. All five started and finished Tuesday's game. "They went out and did a nice job for us in their final home game," Brenn said. "It would have been nice to get the win for them, but it just didn't work out." Wayne High native Carly Fehringer has her name in the high school record books, and now she's in the college books as well. The Wayne State sophomore set a new school record in the weight throw Saturday to highlight the Wildcats' efforts at a pair of meets in Lincoln. Several athletes competed in the Frank Sevigne Husker Invite at the Devaney Sports Center, while the remainder of the team participated in the Nebraska Wesleyan Quad Meet.

Fehringer achieved a new school mark of 58 feet, 1 inch in the weight throw Friday night in the finals of the Sevigne Husker Invite to finish ninth overall. She broke the old school record of 57 feet, 11 1/4 inches set by Casey Buskirk in 2010.

Other top marks at the Sevigne Husker Invite included Paige Pollard taking third in the 800-meter run at 2:13.95, while Nicole Brungardt ran a season-best time of 7.79 seconds in the 60-meter dash.

Wildcat women get two more road wins ketball team is all alone again.

The combination of weekend road wins over Southwest Minnesota State (63-52) and Minnesota State (83-45) and an overtime loss by Augustana to the Mavericks, has the Wildcats sitting on a one-game lead in the Northern Sun Conference race heading into the last three weeks of the regular season.

plateau for the third consecutive season, coach Chris Kielsmeier said there is still room to improve heading down the stretch.

"Teams that understand that there is room to improve in February are the teams that continue to play better," he said during his weekly coaches show on mywaynenews.com. "We played well at times, but we were still inconsistent both nights and turned the ball over more often than I would have liked. But if we played as consistently as we did at times Saturday, I don't feel like there's too many teams that can beat us."

Senior All-American forward Ashley Arlen recorded her ninth double-double of the season Friday evening with 22 points and 10 rebounds to power the Wildcats over Southwest Minnesota State in Marshall, Minn.

Wayne State jumped out to an early 8-2 lead shooting for the game. before the Mustangs rallied to take their only

> In the second half, Wayne State put together its customary opening run, outscoring the Mustangs 15-2 in the first 5 1/2 minutes to extend their advantage to 26 points. Southwest rallied to get within nine points with 3:12 to go before Wayne State finished off the win.

"We played probably the best 10 minutes of And while the Wildcats passed the 20-win basketball we've played all year the last five minutes of the first half and the first five minutes of the second half," Kielsmeier said. "But from the 14-minute mark on, we didn't close it out as well. You shouldn't let a 26-point lead get down to single digits, and we need to do a better job closing things out."

Seniors Clare Duwelius and Ali Schwartzwald also reached double digits with 10 points apiece to complement Arlen's 22-point effort.

On Saturday, the Wildcats were simply on fire, hitting 67 percent from the floor in the first half and 61.7 percent for the game in posting an 83-45 blowout of a Minnesota State team that had scored 98 points in an overtime win over Augustana the night before.

Wayne State's defense was simply outstanding, limiting the Mavericks to 28.8 percent "To hold a team that against University of Mary on Friday and North-Wayne State responded with a nine-point run to scored 98 the night before to 20 in the first half ern State on Saturday.

and 45 for the game was outstanding. We made shots all over the place, and on the defensive end we were just as good."

The Wildcats hit 18-of-27 from the floor in the first half to build a 26-point halftime lead, and extended their lead to as many as 40 points before settling on the 38-point win.

Wayne State's top three scorers combined to outscore the Minnesota State lineup. Arlen had 20 points, Eva Benson scored 16 and Ellen Hansen had 14. Combined, the trio shot 20-of-23 from the field.

"What a stat line," Kielsmeier said. "We were just ready to play and went out and made plays. Ellen and Eva both had great nights, and Ashley had her usual night for us. It was a great night to be involved in.'

About the only negative Kielsmeier could find in Saturday's blowout was in the turnover department, where the Wildcats committed 24 miscues.

"We had 83 points and only took 49 shots, and we've got to get more shots than that," he said. "You do that by not turning it over 24 times. We can't expect to shoot 61 percent from the floor every night, so you need to give yourself more opportunities.'

Allen teams get victories over Winside

By STEVE MARIK Of The Herald

ALLEN - It was a good night for both Allen basketball teams, as both boys and girls teams came out Tuesday evening with a win.

The Lady Eagles used intense full-court defense and great guard play to outplay Winside by a score of 53-34.

Lindsey Jones started off the night scoring the first six points for the Lady Eagles, taking a 6-2 lead with just under five minutes to play in the first quarter.

"Lindsey had a really good night, she is capable of doing that on a game by game basis," Allen coach Zach Wemhoff said. "She's really excepted the challenge of stepping into the starting role.'

Allen created many turnovers early in the game by creating havoc with their full-court press, which created problems for the Wildcats.

Erbst said. "We didn't come out with a lot of intensity, and we were being lackadaisical." Lindsey Sullivan and Brittany Sullivan both nailed buckets from 3-point land, along with two more scores from Jones, giving Allen a 31-13 lead at halftime.

Nazya Thies got in the scoring column with two buckets early in the third, giving a boost to the visiting Wildcats (2-17). Winside also handled Allen's full-court pressure much better in the second half.

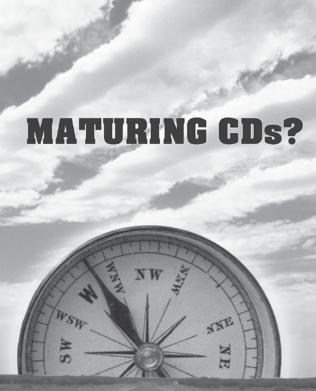

But Lindsey Sullivan kept the foot on the gas, torching Winside with her quickness off the ball and her ability to convert free throws. She ended up with nine of the team's 12 points in the third, helping Allen (4-15) take a commanding 43-23 lead and cruise to the win.

THE ALLEN BOYS, ON THE other hand, didn't have quite as easy a time, as they edged Winside by a score of 51-49.

The Eagles jumped to a 7-0 lead with five of the points coming from the hands of Brandon Sullivan The 5-foot-9' sophomore drained a corner three, then stole the ball at midcourt and sank the breakaway layup, forcing a quick timeout by Wildcat coach Jeff Messersmith.

"I just told them we're killing ourselves," Messersmith said. "We needed to run our offense and be effective with the ball.' The pep talk worked - the Wildcats battled back with a strong performance by Ricky Wright and an impressive layup by John Hansen, cutting the Eagle lead to 9-7. Wright sparked the Wildcats by sinking a jump shot while being knocked to the floor, and draining the free throw. Those points were big, as they gave Winside their first lead of the game at 14-12 at the end of the first. "When we were tied up, we fouled way to much," Allen coach Brett Spiker said. "I also think we gave up too many outside shots." With the game tied at the half, the Eagles flew out of the locker room to start the second half, scoring eight in a row, Sullivan and teammate Zach Crom both sank buckets from beyond the arc to give the Eagles a 39-31 lead. "Brandon stretches out the defense, because he's our most accurate shooter," Spiker said. "When you get the defense distracted on the outside, it opens up the inside." The Wildcats hung around, and a Woslager layup cut the lead to three at 47-44 with just over six minutes left. Blaine Meyer tied it at 49-49 for Winside with another corner threepointer. With just under a minute left, Shelby Jacobsen converted on a contested layup to put the Eagles on top 51-49. A crucial charge called on Jesse Boschult gave the ball back to Allen, but the Eagles (5-14) couldn't turn it into points, giving the Wildcats (3-15) the ball with :22 left. A missed three-pointer by Wright was hauled in by teammate Colin Hansen, but he failed to get a shot off before the buzzer sounded, giving the win to the host Eagles.

Normally, this space would be reserved for something that doesn't have anything to do with sports, but since this week's topic is of local interest . . . and this week's sports column was already written a week life. ago . . . you're getting a rare double dose of sports opinions this week.)

There's an old saying that goes, "You don't know what you've got 'til it's gone." It's a saying that is quite appropriate concerning something special that's been taking place this basketball season at Wayne State College.

This week, the Wayne State women's basketball team achieved its highest-ever ranking. They sit at No. 3 in the latest USA Today/ESPN Div. subject to more second-guessing. II coaches poll, a rare air that has never been seen before in the Wildcat basketball program

This team has an incredible amount of talent, from the coaching staff to players like senior Ashley Arlen, who is a Div. II All-American who chose to come to Wayne State after playing a year of Div. I ball at Iowa State. Chris Kielsmeier, the head coach, has already won a Div. III national championship, and it wouldn't surprise me one bit to see him eventually find himself coaching at the game's highest college level somewhere down the road. The guy is a brilliant strategist and has raised the standard for Wayne State women's basketball to a very high level during his four seasons in Wavne, America.

Judging from the turnout that I've seen at most of the games this season, however, you'd think we had one of the three WORST teams in Div. II instead of one of the best. There are so many fans disguised as empty seats in Rice Auditorium, it boggles the mind. If you time it just right, you can actually hear the assistant coach ask the student manager for a bottle of districts – which, in turn, had/has water while the game is in progress. The student section, which once had a reputation as being one of the rowdiest in the Northern Sun Conference (hence the nickname "Rice Rowdies"), has been largely absent for much of the season, and remarkably silent on the rare occasions when they actually fill up half of the student section.

It's not like the price for a Wildcats basketball game is like a ticket to an NBA game. And tickets always seem to be available at the door. We go out of our way to publicize Wildcat sports, both here and on our website at mywaynenews.com, so not knowing when the team plays shouldn't be an issue. either.

For the next two weeks, there really isn't a good reason to stay away from a team that has won 39 consecutive home games in Rice Auditorium. Games against University of Mary and Augustana – both of whom beat Wayne State earlier this year on their home floors – and a matchup with Northern State will go a long way to determine whether or not the Wildcats win the NSIC regular-season title and position themselves as a possible host site for the NCAA Div. II regional tournament, which would be

LINCOLN - It is what you might call a universal headline.

At some point, you can find it in pretty much any newspaper in America and most of the world.

"Flood aid procedures frustrate read a Nebraska newspaper this week.

Change "flood" to whatever's appropriate. School aid. Fire aid. State aid. Food.

That "aid procedures" are frustrating people somewhere has come to be an understanding of modern

It's not surprising that the Legislature would choose the Department of Roads for an audit by a committee of lawmakers.

Only Bo Pelini's decisions are

Nebraskans love to gripe about the department, no matter what. But the griping is inevitably enhanced when it centers on some local project which, the second-guessers are certain, is long overdue and far worthier than others around the state.

Local Revenue

During most of its history, when rural numbers and philosophy ruled the Legislature, the phrase "local control!" was virtually a war cry. This applied most especially when it came to the organization of school everything to do with school financing and thus property taxes.

Local governments these days are scowling at state government as a result of what they believe are good fiscal reasons.

On the one hand, the amount of state tax dollars being returned to ill-prepared to replace. local subdivisions of government in the form of state aid has been dwindling in recent years.

Against this backdrop, there are now proposals to do away with the county death tax and to require that local occupation taxes be approved by voters.

Both of these initiatives represent potential losses to local governments worth millions of dollars - amounts local governments are Man's Best Friend . . . Really! To a very great extent, these days, government is all about privatization. Contracting out. Keeping staff rosters as short as possible.

It comes as a bit of a surprise then to learn that UNL types are thinking about undertaking an unusual "hire" who would lead the ongoing search-and-destroy mission aimed at the campus bedbug population. To date, the effort has been in the capable . . . well . . . paws of one rat terrier named Spots, who is billed as a "bedbug detecting dog." Spots, however, is an independent contractor, and given the magnitude of the task ahead, it appears that some at UNL think it might be wise for them to get their own bedbug detecting dog.

One has to wonder what spending category in the UNL administrative budget would contain the entry "dog."

Pete Pirsch of Omaha, is to protect hunting, fishing, and trapping from attacks by outside animal welfare groups. Opponents offered questions about the state's ability to require permits from Game and Parks if a person's rights to hunt, trap and fish are guaranteed by the constitution. Questions were also raised about the ability to limit people from using one's property to participate in these activities if they are constitutionally guaranteed. I have been assured that the rights of landowners to prohibit hunting on private property are secure. After several hours of debate, LR40-CA advanced to final reading. Supporters of the bill must have 30 votes in support of this resolution in order for it to pass and be placed on the ballot for voter approval. On Saturday, Jan. 28, I had the pleasure of joining Congressman Lee Terry, Governor Dave Heineman, Lt. Governor Rick Sheehy and other constitutional officers, as well as legislative colleagues, in speaking at the Walk for Life in Lincoln. Over 5,000 pro-life supporters were in attendance at this event. This was my first Walk for Life since my appointment as a state senator. The issue of life is one of the most important subjects debated in the Nebraska Legislature. I am proud of the pro-life stance that so many

The Wayne Herald has FREE tickets for each of the final three home games for the Wayne State women's and men's basketball games, and I would like to see you fill up some of those empty seats the next two weekends. You can stop by the newspaper during regular business hours and ask the ladies at the front desk for tickets to the games this weekend or next Saturday, and we'll get you hooked up for some great action.

It was a little more than a decade ago when Greg McDermott helped put Wayne State men's basketball on the map with two regional appearances, including one at Rice Auditorium. The women's program are about to make their third straight trip to regionals this March, and they could very well find themselves, as the 2000 men's team did, playing in front of a home crowd in Rice Auditorium.

Let's give Wayne State women's basketball the kind of fan support that a No. 3-ranked team deserves. Stop by the Herald office this week and pick up your free tickets for Friday's game agaist Mary, Saturday's matchup with Northern State or next week's battle with Augustana.

Fill up Rice Auditorium – you'll see what you've been missing.

The first priority bill of the year, selected by the Education Committee, was debated twice this week. (It advanced from both round one and two, and currently awaits a vote on the third round, or Final Reading.) LB946 would settle a threeyear funding fight between Nebraska's six community colleges. Metro Community College had asked for a larger portion of the state aid provided because they have a higher enrollment growth rate compared to the other five community colleges. LB946 would distribute the first $87.9 million in state aid to the six colleges under the existing funding formula. Any funding above the

Sports Shorts Wildcats earn highest ranking

Wayne State achieved its highest-ever national ranking in women's basketball this week, moving up to No. 3 in the latest USA Today/ ESPN Div. II coaches poll.

Metro State (Colo.) was upset a second time by Colorado Christian, a team Wayne State beat earlier in the season, allowing the Wildcats to move in behind top-ranked California-San Diego and No. 2 Edinboro (Pa.). Wayne State is the only Northern Sun Conference school in the latest rankings and one of three Central Region teams, joined by No. 6 Fort Lewis (Colo.) and Metro State, which fell to No. 8.

can go on by saying "It's okay that didn't work out the first time, but I'm going to keep trying." Instead of constantly yelling "No" or "Don't do that," parents should help their children understand why they shouldn't do that particular thing or why they should move on. That helps develop trust and understanding.

Families are a child's first teacher and the home is the first classroom. Many parents think a child will learn when he gets to school, but that's not true. Parents should also be mindful that every child grows at his or her own pace. Some parents think there's a problem if their child isn't developing in one area to the level they have read about for that age or they are not at the same level as a neighbor child the same age. They think something is wrong because the child is very developed in a different area, but not in another. Children sense their parent's worry. Parents need to remember they work with their child to build social skills, trust and create a learning environment, but their child may not be the textbook child. There is give and take on all developmental areas. There are many resources for parents with questions on development and also tips for talking to their children, how children respond, how children are feeling at each month of their age and more. Is it a heart attack?

More than a million Americans have heart attacks each year. Nearly half of them die.1 Why does this happen? In many cases, it's because people don't take action quickly enough - or at all.

A heart attack occurs when blood flow to part of the heart muscle is blocked. If blood flow isn't restored quickly to that part of the heart muscle, it lacks nutrition and dies. That's why it's so important to seek medical help right away.1

If you or someone you're with may be having a heart attack, call 9-1-1 without delay. This needs to be an ambulance trip to the hospital, not a joy ride. If you get caught driving in traffic, you can lose valuable minutes. To help you visualize the urgency of the situation, think of a heart attack as a gunshot to the heart. If symptoms stop within five minutes or come and go, don't just thank your lucky stars. Call your doctor and describe what happened. A blood vessel could be on its way toward blockage.¹

Cardiologists call the 60 minutes after a heart attack the "golden hour." That's because this is the narrow window of time when treatment can open arteries and prevent permanent heart damage. These heart specialists have two methods for doing this. They can use a clot-dissolving drug. Or, they can perform a procedure to open blocked heart arteries (angioplasty).

But a heart attack can have several guises. Symptoms can begin quickly or slowly. They can be evere or mild. They may come and go. They can even vary from one time to the next.3 And some people may have no clear symptoms at all. These are called "silent heart attacks." They are more common in people with diabetes.⁴

Chest discomfort or pain may be a hallmark of heart attack. But it can feel more like pressure than pain. It may be a squeezing or heaviness, making it difficult to catch your breath. Or, you may have a feeling of fullness or indigestion, resembling heartburn.^{1/}

You may have other warning signs of a heart attack, including: •Discomfort in one or both arms, or your back, neck, jaw, or stomach •Nausea, vomiting, lightheadedness, or fainting •Sweating

So if this happen to you or someone you know, will you take the needed action? Or will you be afraid you're being alarmist and worry that the symptoms were nothing but a case of indigestion? If so, remember this: You can't die of embarrassment. But a heart attack can most definitely kill you. National Heart Lung and Bood Institute. The "Spoon Man," Jim Cruise entertained and inspired a large crowd at Wayne High School last week. Sponsored by St. Mary's Catholic Church, he presented an interactive comedy program that included a visit with The Mountain Band (bottom). Students from Wayne, Laurel and Ponca were a part of the program.

Character traits key to 'Super Bowl' Christian attitude

Among the things that make for a 'Super Bowl" Christian, are a number of character traits, according to Rev. Dennis Preston, interim pastor at Praise Assembly of God Church.

Pastor Dennis and his wife Martha travel from Omaha each Sunday morning to spend the day in ministry at the church. This past Sunday (as Super Bowl Sunday), he mentioned a number of critical their lives.

On Thursday, Feb. 16 at 10 a.m., the regional Assembly of God pastors will gather for their monthly fellowship and prayer time – also in the Fireside Room - at Praise Assembly of God. Rev. Kevin Roach (River Hills Assembly of God) will preside over this meeting.

On Saturday evenings in the sanctuary is the "Hour of Prayer" meeting. Anyone who wants to gather is is a free-flowing time of intercession equipping the body of Christ for the work of ministry. Considering the day and age we live in, it is imperative that we walk with Wisdom and with the Light of God.

In light of this, the congregation has scheduled two classes every weekend that everyone is welcome to attend.

The classes are in English only, but Spanish interpretation will be provided if needed.

The first class is on Saturday evenings at 5:30 p.m. for all ages and is called "The Glory School" with Patricia King.

Who is the Holy Spirit? What are His names or titles found in the Bible? What are 70 functions of the Holy Spirit we can find within the pages of the New Testament? What is the connection between the believer and the Holy Spirit? Can we actually talk with the Holy Spirit? How can we develop a relationship with Him? What does faith have to do with anything? What is holiness? And How do we "become" holy? What does God love, and what does He hate? What are rewards of holiness?

These are just a few of the questions answered in this video class. The answers are found directly in the Bible. Those interested are encouraged to "Please come, bring the saints – including children.

St. Paul's Ladies Aid of Winside met Feb. 1 with 13 members and two guests, Dorinda Janke and DeLana Marotz, present.

President Lorraine Prince opened the meeting by welcoming guests and reciting the LWML Pledge.

Pastor Steckling had the Bible Study on 1 Samuel, Chapters 4-5. He closed with a prayer. "God Loved the World So He Gave" was sung.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read.

Communications were read from Dianne Jaeger, Chris Gerdes and family and the Orphan Grain Train. Lorraine Prince and Pastor Steckling attended the Executive Board meeting in January.

The Spring LWML Rally will be held at St Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside on Tuesday. April 24.

The 2012 District Convention things for Christians to cultivate in invited to do so from 7-8 p.m. This will be held June 29-30 at Lutheran High Northeast.

Yeshua Ministries has a heart for your Bible, and learn more with us!" The second class is offered at 6 p.m. on Sundays for ages nine years through high school.

> The curriculum is "Dare To Be A Daniel" by Franklin Graham. This class teaches students to be courageous and to stand up for their faith wherever they are It teaches integrity and God's values.

> According to organizers, "The Bible tells us that in the last days, evil will be promoted as good, and good will be thought of as evil. Our students need to be grounded in the Word of God and in their faith so they can make a stand for God in the midst of a godless world. If you want your children to be strong in their faith so they can overcome the pressures of godlessness around them, you will want to bring them to this class."

> At the same time as the "Dare To Be A Daniel" class, there is also a Sunday School class for preschool through age 8, and the group is studying the Fruit of the Spirit.

> Yeshua Ministries International is a non profit bi-lingual ministry in Wayne. Members currently meet at the First Presbyterian Church, 216 West Third Street in Wayne. The primary purpose is to honor and lift up the Lord Jesus Christ by ministering to others and by equipping

DENTAL ANXIETY IN ADULTS

Dental anxiety and severe dental conditions affecting phobia are real roughly 4 million Americans. This often prevents people from making important anxiety. We offer nitrous oxide gas, visits to the dentist's office, let alone undergoing necessary treatments to mend or replace damaged teeth. Many avoid regular trips to the dentist's office because they are fearful of potential discomfort, the office environment, or even the dentists themselves. Dental anxiety can be the result of any number of factors. Maybe you had a negative experience in the past or have a fear of discomfort. Perhaps you are embarrassed by your teeth, or feel you will be judged. Whatever the reasons that are keeping you from seeing the dentist, it is important to overcome them in order to keep your teeth and gums healthy. Many people who avoid seeing the dentist regularly commonly face such issues as infected gums, decaying teeth, and even tooth loss, all of which will eventually require a longer visit to the dentist

It is important to let your dentist

"They work on the football field; and they work in the Christian walk", he said.

Among the things cited were 1) character (integrity), 2) desire (commitment), 3) focus, 4) a sacrifice to achieve the goal, 5) and consistency. Without these the game of football can't be won – and without these. a Christian will not be successful in finding a way to walk with God faithfullv.

The Wednesday evening "Let's Trust Genesis" series continues from 7-8 p.m. in the Fireside Room. This week the group will conclude a video teaching about "Leviathon" and the dinosaur connection – from Job 41. The class considers a number of resources, including information from the Institute for Creation Research.

that begins with a sharing of prayer needs among those who attend.

On Sundays, there is a time of fellowship at 9:15 a.m. (fresh coffee, cookies and bagels), followed by Sunday School for the whole family at 9:30-10:15 a.m. The morning worship service begins in the sanctuary at 10:30 a.m., with Rev. Preston preaching. On Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m. (in the Fireside Room), Pastor Dennis teaches an energetic Bible Study

Anyone looking for a family-oriented church that focuses attention on the worship of the Lord, solid teaching from the Bible, and sincere prayer and fellowship times, is asked to consider Praise Assembly of God and visit this next weekend. The church is located at 1000 East 10th Street.

NRCS provides $1.1 million to protect ag land in Nebraska

The USDA's Natural Resources Conservation cant, culturally unique and wild and scenic plac-Service (NRCS) has announced that $1.1 million es from development. will be available through the Farm and Ranch Lands Protection Program (FRPP) to protect ag- interested in acquiring conservation easements ricultural land in Nebraska.

Nebraska conservation partner organizations and land preservation groups have until April 1, 2012, to apply.

The Farm and Ranch Lands Protection Program is a voluntary program that provides funds to help purchase development rights to keep productive farmland in agricultural uses. Working through existing local farmland protection programs, USDA enters into a cooperative agreement with State, tribal, local governments, or nongovernmental organizations to acquire perpetual conservation easements from landowners.

The easement allows landowners to continue agricultural operations, and the land remains the private property of the landowner. The land also remains on tax rolls.

This program was originally intended to assist with urban sprawl around densely populated urban areas, but in Nebraska, the program has been valuable in protecting historically signifi-

NRCS is seeking proposals from organizations on farms and ranches. Applications may be submitted at anytime, but must be received by April 1. 2012, to be considered for fiscal year 2012 funding. Proposals should be sent with attention to: Craig Derickson, Natural Resources Conservation Service, 100 Centennial Mall North, Federal Building Rm. 152, Lincoln, Neb., 68508.

To participate in FRPP landowners agree to limit the use of their land for nonagricultural purposes. Landowners keep possession of their land, and work with NRCS to develop and implement a conservation plan.

Eligible proposals will be ranked on the following factors:

- Percentage of prime, unique, and important farmland in the parcel to be protected;

- Percentage of cropland, pastureland, grassland, and rangeland in the parcel to be protected; - Ratio of the total acreage of land in the parcel to be protected to average farm size in the

- Decrease in the percentage of acreage of farm and ranch land in the county in which the parcel is located;

- Percent of population growth in the county;

- Population density;

- Proximity of the parcel to other protected land; and

 Proximity of the parcel to other agricultural operations and infrastructure.

The eligible farm or ranch must have the following components:

- Contain productive soils or historic or archaeological sites;

- Furthers a state or local policy consistent with the purposes of the program;

- Be part of a pending offer from a nongovernmental organization, State, Tribe, or local farmland protection program;

- Privately owned;

- Covered by a conservation plan, and;

- Large enough to sustain agricultural production, or serve as a buffer to protect an agricultural operation from development.

Monsanto to sponsor 'America's Farmers Grow Rural Education' Program for schools

America's Farmers Grow Rural It's preceded by a successful pilot protected culture. Education is sponsored by the Mon- program in Illinois and Minnesosanto Fund to help farmers positively impact their communities by supporting local school districts.

Specifically, the program gives farmers the opportunity to nominate a public school district in their community to compete for a meritbased grant of either $10,000 or $25,000. The program is available in 1,245 counties in 39 states.

According to representives from Monsanto, "We believe in rural America and are committed to helping farmers strengthen their communities. We also know the importance of education, and that it's the cornerstone of any successful community. But most importantlv. farmers have told us nothing is more vital than the next generation. That's why we introduced America's Farmers Grow Rural Education. This program gives us the opportunity to help improve education in rural America, thereby helping to grow the next generation.

county.

The nomination process is simple – eligible farmers can fill out a short nomination form at GrowRuralEducation.com or by calling (877) 267-3332. A printed copy of the entry form and rules are available on this website or by calling the number. Completed entries can be mailed to America's Farmers Grow Rural Education, 914 Spruce Street, St. Louis. Mo., 63102. The nomination period runs through April 15, 2012.

Farmers who live or farm in an eligible county can nominate a school district. Visit GrowRuralEducation. com for a listing of all 1,245 eligible counties. No purchase is necessary to nominate a school district, and the farmer does not have to be a Monsanto Company customer. Farmers must be 21 years or older and be actively engaged in farming with a minimum of 250 acres of corn, soybeans and/or cotton; and/or Education is a new program that 40 acres of open field vegetables, or will launch in 1,245 counties in 39 at least 10 acres of tomatoes, pepstates, starting in January 2012. pers and/or cucumbers grown in eligible to submit an online applica-

After a farmer nominates a school district, the Monsanto Fund notifies that school district administrator that the district has been nominated to compete for a grant through this program and encourages them to submit an application. Farmers also can contact the administrator to inform the school district that it has been nominated and encourage them to submit a grant application. Grants will be awarded based on merit, need and community support. The more farmers to nominate a school district, the more it demonstrates community support and strengthens the district's application. So farmers should encourage other farmers to nominate their school district, too.

> The Monsanto Fund will award 199 grants to rural school districts. One $10,000 grant will be awarded in eligible CRDs. An additional 22 grants of $25,000 will be awarded to one eligible school district in each state and designated region.

> School districts that submit an application for a $10,000 grant will compete against other school districts that are located in its CRD. CRDs with fewer than five eligible schools will compete against each other. School districts that submit an application for a $25,000 grant will compete against schools that are located in its state or designated region. States with fewer than 75 eligible rural school districts will compete in a region.

> The Monsanto Fund will announce grant recipients at the end of August 2012. Overall, the program will donate more than $2.3 million to school districts in 39 states you think about is energy efficiency, round up to the nearest size. right? Well, probably not.

However, your bathroom's exhaust system could be letting you down. Many homes have bathroom fans that:

- are too noisy - move little air
- are not energy efficient
- may cause backdraft.

So how can you avoid these pitfalls? First, identify what size of fan you need. Fan size is usually rated in the amount of air it can move in terms of cubic feet per minute (CFM).

Most experts recommend eight air changes per hour for bathrooms. Determine your bathroom's volume (cubic feet = length x width x ceiling height). Take the cubic feet and divide by 60, which is the number of minutes in an hour. Now multiply

Next, choose the quietest, most energy-efficient fan in the size range required. Most fan labels have Home Ventilating Institute (HVI) ratings so you can compare noise levels, as well as their energy efficiency. Fan noise is rated in "sones." The lower the sone rating, the quieter the fan. Efficiency can be compared by how many CFM of air a fan moves per watt of electricity the fan requires. The best fans have sound ratings of 0.5 sones or less and move about 2 1/2 CFM of air per watt.

Third, select low-resistance (smooth) exhaust ducting. Seal the joints and insulate sections that run through unheated spaces. This will help maintain the fan's air volume rating while reducing the amount of heat gained or lost while the fan is backdraft dampers and exhaust lou- light is turned on. vers can cut rated airflow by more than 50 percent. Also, duct the exhaust air to where it will not cause moisture damage. Many times, this requires ducting to the outdoors.

Remember, if you have combustion appliances such as natural gas or propane water heaters, gas furnaces, or gas fireplaces, backdraft may be a concern. Because fans can have the potential to create a negative pressure in your living space, they may cause the combustion appliance exhaust to back up into the indoor environment. Not only should you assure this will not happen by installing sealed-combustion appliances, it is always a good idea to have a working carbon monoxide detector in use for an extra layer of safety.

Often, users turn the light "off" before all the moisture is exhausted after a bath or shower. However, a separate fan toggle switch often means the fan is left running longer than necessary. Instead, use a timer switch with a maximum of 60 minutes. This should keep the fan running for at least 10 minutes after you leave the room to remove excess humidity.

Following these simple steps will help you save energy and confirm installation of a quality, energy efficient bathroom fan that will provide you years of service. For other ideas on how you can become more energy-wise, visit with your local electric utility or go to www.nppd. Fifth, install proper controls. com/save-energy.

Snow, sports and politics

What a difference a day makes! Right? We had over a foot of snow dumped on us last Friday night, and it was wet. Some tree branches are not going to recover. But I'm told that it was just what the doctor ordered for plants, grass, etc.

Frankly, I still think we all need a "snow day" once in awhile. I know I do. I took a nap and finished reading my book. Thanks to my brother being here early in the week, we had leftovers to eat.

Of course, Jim had to remind us why he lives in South Carolina when he got home; it was 70 degrees there. He actually had to spend all day Saturday in a motel near Eppley airport since his flight was Sunday morning and he had no idea if he would be able to get there on Saturdav.

Once again, the Nebraska women's basketball team amazed us; with a double-overtime win over Purdue in Indiana. And, once again, the men's team let a winnable game slip away at home on Sunday against Minnesota. Thank goodness for Creighton, where they play decent roundball!

As usual, I did not sit down and actually watch the Super Bowl game. My allegiance was torn; I love Danny Woodhead and the success he has enjoyed, in spite of all speculation, but I also cheer for Eli Manning, and I remember his amazing win four years ago over the same team.

I did watch the halftime show, and though I'm no fan of Madonna, found the lights, costumes, and music amazing; especially that highwire guy!

Now, we can concentrate on wrestling, which will soon be at that big building in Omaha that used to be called the Quest Center, and then, it's all basketball.

We've watched several eighth grade games lately, as both Javce and Danica are playing. And I'm amazed at the ball-handling skills they have developed by that time; it shows how the early exposure helps them learn to dribble, pass, and sometimes, shoot!

The Big Farmer continues his monitoring of the state legislature. It is fascinating to listen to some of the debate and observe some of the maneuvering that takes place. Northeast Nebraska's representative certainly reflects his constituency.

Further, our guy here in the capitol city espouses the liberal tendencies we old hard line conservatives have had to learn to put up with! So far, there aren't enough of them to do the damage we think might occur if they were a majority. And with that, I'd better stop before I start talking about the presidential campaign, a bruising one, as usual. We are already tired of the ads! And we have nine more months!

State crop budgets see changes

Roger Wilson UNL Extension farm Management Budget Analyst, has released the 2012 Nebraska Crop Budgets, which are now available.

They are similar to past years' budgets, but prices have been updated to reflect expected changes. These budgets are available for download in two formats. They are available in the ".pdf" format which is used by Acrobat Reader, a free software package from Adobe that is available on the Internet. They are also available in ".xlsx" format, which is Microsoft's Excel spreadsheet. The spreadsheet format has the advantage of recalculating whenever any input number is changed. Many scenarios are covered; choose the one that is best for you. You may plug in your own numbers in the spreadsheet format.

Prices used for inputs are current prices or estimates obtained from agricultural suppliers. Some Wage rates are especially difficult to estimate because in many cases labor is supplied by the operator. Also, there are substantial at www.ianrpubs.unl.edu/epublic/ differences between skill levels re-live/ec872/build/ec872.pdf. Or, go to substantially unless they have been quired for various farm tasks. The agecon.unl.edu and search for crop wage rate used to calculate the budgets.

2012 budgets was $20 per hour, an increase from the $12 per hour that had been used for several years.

Overall, the average cost per unit of production estimated in the 2012 budgets is nearly 15 percent higher than in the 2011 budgets. Overall cost increases were caused by increases in the cost of materials and the cost to operate. The average increase in the price of materials for all crops is just over eight percent while the corresponding increase in average operating costs is nearly 33 percent. While part of this cost is from the increased wage rate and energy prices noted above, part of it reflects increased machinery costs.

Other changes in these budgets include some different practices and chemicals. Information for these changes comes from the recommendations of University of Nebraska-Lincoln agronomists, entomologists, and plant pathologists. This document is available on line tion is key because detecting them early is helpful in getting them under control as quickly as possible. Infestations that go undetected for longer periods of time will be harder to control and, in the meantime, can spread to other locations."

Bedbugs have been around for thousands of years. Many scientists believe the insects long ago originated from bat-bugs that inhabited caves with early man. Over time, the wingless creatures adapted to feeding on humans who eventually transported them across the globe.

After the end of World War II, long-lasting insecticides were used to virtually eliminate the pest from homes in the U.S., Ogg said. However, for over the last 20 years bedbugs have resurged, making news most recently from showing up in posh hotels in New York City to apartments and college dorm rooms across the country, including UNL.

"There is no boundary to where a bedbug will or won't go," Ogg said. Bedbugs hide in cracks and crevices of mattresses, box springs, sofas and chairs, Ogg said. Females can lay one to seven eggs a day, and the white eggs about the size of a pin head can be difficult to see.

People don't know they have a problem with bedbugs until after they have been bitten. The nocturnal bugs crawl out of hiding places and feed on sleeping humans. The bite is painless but the result for most people is red, swollen, blotchy skin that will itch for several days. Another factor making bedbugs difficult to detect is that about 20 percent of the population doesn't react to the bites, she said. Some people do not react to bites until several days after being bitten.

It can be especially difficult to remove bedbugs in multiple unit buildings, such as hotels, apartments and dorms, where the bugs can be brought in by one person and affect nearly everyone, crawling from unit to unit.

Bedbugs usually don't move from place to place on their own. They usually are brought in. They can be picked up anywhere from a motel to a movie theater to someone's home. They can crawl into suitcases, backpacks or used furniture, and then be taken into homes or other buildings.

Ogg said she even saw a case where a begbug was hiding in a cell often occur on the neck, arms and shoulders but can be found other places as well. Bedbugs probably don't bite through nightwear, but only on bare skin."

Research has never shown bedbugs transmit disease or pose other away from the infested one. serious health threats to humans. However, many people experience psychological stress and insomnia after dealing with bedbugs.

"The real problem comes with the 'ick factor' of being bitten at night," Ogg said. "Nobody wants to go to sleep with the thought that bugs will be feeding on them during the night."

During the day, bedbugs retreat to cracks and crevices or tight spaces close to the bed such as bed coverings, mattresses, springs or bed frames where females lay eggs.

"It can often take a couple months before bedbugs are noticed," Ogg said. "But with the warm, favorable conditions of a house and unlimited food (sleeping people), thousands of bedbugs can be produced in four to six months if no control actions are taken."

Because they live in small cracks, bedbugs can be hard to control with do-it-yourself techniques. Research has shown that most bedbugs are resistant to most over-the-counter products. The good news is there are more effective commercial prodboard.

-Don't place luggage on the floor. Use a luggage rack instead to keep items out of bedbugs' path.

-If you find bedbugs when traveling, ask for a different room far

-If you believe you may have encountered bedbugs when traveling, take precautions when you get home to prevent bringing bedbugs into your home.

-Do not bring your luggage inside, but unpack outdoors. Run all clothing through the dryer for 30 minutes on medium to hot heat. Inspect toiletries carefully before bringing them inside. Inspect and vacuum luggage or use heat or cold tem peratures to kill bedbugs. Bedbugs die at 120 to 130 degrees F almost instantly. Freezing them is harder, but some studies have shown they die at 23 degrees F when maintained for five days.

Ogg will be presenting at a public meeting at the Lincoln Lancaster County Health Department, 3140 N Street, April 19 from 7-9:30 p.m. The focus is landlords, but Ogg said anyone is welcome. Spots the bedbug sniffing dog also will be there.

gram, they must complete the Free not cover non-tuition expenses such Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) by April 1.

Students also are encouraged to apply for financial aid at the NU campus they are attending, or plan to attend, as soon as possible.

The FAFSA can be accessed online at www.fafsa.gov, or through a student's guidance counselor or financial aid officer. No separate application is required for Collegebound Nebraska, but students do need to submit a FAFSA annually.

Collegebound Nebraska guarantees that any Nebraska undergraduate who qualifies for a federal Pell Grant and meets NU's admission requirements can attend the university and pay no tuition. Generally, a student from a family of four with one in college and an income of about $53,000 or less will qualify for Collegebound Nebraska. A student must maintain a 2.5 grade-point average to remain eligible for the program.

Collegebound Nebraska covers all of a student's tuition costs, up to 30 credit hours per academic year, that are not covered by Pell funds or other grants or scholarships. It does as room and board, fees or books. In 2010-11, nearly 6,200 NU students qualified for the Collegebound Nebraska promise, up from about 6,000 the year before.

For more information, visit www. collegeboundnebraska.com or follow Collegebound Nebraska on Twitter, Facebook and Tumblr.

FAFSA completion also is required for other financial aid opportunities in Nebraska, including the college scholarships provided through the Susan T. Buffett Foundation. The foundation provides scholarships to Nebraska high school graduates who are incoming freshmen at a Nebraska public college or university. Applications for Buffett Foundation scholarships are being accepted until March 1. More information is available at www.buffettscholarships.org/scholarships.shtml.
