Lot prices, City Council pay on Tuesday agenda

By CLARA OSTEN Of the Herald

After discussing at length the sizes, configuration and location of lots in the Western Ridge II Subdivision, the Wayne City Council, acting as the Community Development Agency (CDA), established prices for the sale of the remaining lots in the subdivision.

The newly established prices will result in more uniform pricing based on the size of the lots and more accurately reflect the amount of money the city has invested in each of the lots.

On a related note, the CDA debated a proposal to purchase and develop two of the lots in Western Ridge. The buyer has requested a number of conditions for the sale and the discussion revolved around whether or not the city would be setting a precedent with the stipulations.

Council member Doug Sturm said he was in favor of moving forward with the sale, noting, "We need to get things built out there. There are not a lot of people rushing to build there right now."

No changes will take place in the way council members are compensated or their salarv.

Mayor Ken Chamberlain had presented council members with a proposal that would divide the council member's yearly salary by the number of council meetings and pay them according to the number of meetings they attended. Also included in the proposal was the payment for extra the contract for paving of the Western Ridge meetings and functions attended by council Phase II project. The bid of $142,664.67 members, especially the council president. was lower than the engineer's estimate of The proposal would have increased the council president's salary slightly, due to the fact the person in the position generally is required to take time off of work to attend additional meetings.

Council member Dale Alexander said he felt "the timing is bad for raising the council budget."

Sturm said that if council members are paid per meeting they attend, there probably wouldn't be much of a change in the budget.

The ordinance did receive a motion and second but failed on a 2-4 vote with council members Brian Frevert, Jon Haase, Dale Alexander and Kathy Berry voting against the issue.

Four public hearings in regard to sidewalk improvements in the downtown area were held during Tuesday's meeting.

The sidewalk districts were established in 2010 after the city received grant funding for a number of improvements. At that time, the council voted to pay for any costs over $25 per linear foot.

Renee Jacobsen, who owns property in the district, spoke to the council and asked what percentage of the costs were being paid for through grant funding which was obtained to comply with ADA requirements. She also noted that she had not been notified on what her assessments would be and asked for a break-down of the costs.

Following the public hearing, the council unanimously approved the resolutions which approve the assessments and payment schedule for property owners.

County to upgrade radio license

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

The Wayne County Commissioners gave themselves a couple of options after approving an application to upgrade their radio license for 2013 and beyond during Tuesday's meeting.

Faced with a federal mandate to upgrade to a narrow-band frequency by the end of this year, the county needed to upgrade its radio license to allow it to operate radios at the narrow-band frequency of 12.5 kilohertz, rather than the 25 kilohertz that its older radios currently operate under.

However, with talk of the federal government requiring political entities to go to digital frequencies of 6.25 kilohertz within the next five years, the board decided to upgrade its radio license to allow it the flexibility to purchase new radio equipment in the near future.

"I think it would be well worth it (to upgrade)," board member Kelvin Wurdemann said in discussing the application with county emergency manager Nic Kemnitz. "Then we'd be ready for whatever comes down the line. If we have to go digital sooner, then we'll be ready."

The county's radio license was set to expire at the end of 2012, and Wurdemann said the license had to be updated to allow for narrow-band communications. The $385 license application gives the county the ability to communicate with digital equipment, should it choose to upgrade to those radios.

'We have to update (the license) to narrow band, and we're going to update it right away to digital so that all angles would be covered," he said. "This way, we'll be licensed either way."

The county currently has about 60 radios in operation throughout the county. An inventory of the radios' serial numbers is be-See COUNTY, Page 4A

The ongoing saga of the two fired Wayne police officers will be extended well into the summer.

Requests by attorneys for both former Chief Lance Webster and Lt. Phil Shear, as well as the Wayne Civil Service Commission, have filed requests to move the hearing date for the appeal of the commission's December 2011 decision to uphold the firings of both officers to this August.

District Court Judge Robert Ensz approved a request by all parties to move the hearing from it original date of Tuesday, June 5 to Wednesday, Aug. 1 at 2 p.m. in Wayne County District Court. Attorneys for all sides recently received the entire transcript of the bill of exceptions, which is need for all sides to prepare their brief that they will present to Ensz at the hearing, and have requested an extension to go over that information.

Attorneys for both officers and legal counsel for the Civil Service Commission will present their side of the story to Ensz at the Aug. 1 hearing.

Attorneys for all sides will get 20 minutes apiece to present their arguments regarding the December 2011 unanimous decision by the Wayne Civil Service Commission to uphold the terminations of Webster and Shear by Wayne city administrator Lowell Johnson, who suspended the officers in February 2011 and terminated their employment about two months later.

Firefighters from Carroll, Winside and Wayne were called to a tractor fire six miles west and one mile north of Carroll Wednesday afternoon. The tractor was destroyed in the incident but no one was injured. Firefighters remained on the scene for more than an hour.

history with the Middle School are working on a get-together involving those who have worked in the Middle School.

The reunion, designed for all Middle School faculty and personnel who have been a part of the school's history, will be held Saturday, April 21, beginning at 5 p.m. at Middle School. Attendees will tour the current Middle School and then gather at The Max in Wayne for reminiscing. All will be responsible for ordering from the menu on their own.

"Several years ago Ron Dalton and I had a conversation about the possibility of a reunion of 'the old gane', but things came up and the plan did not move forward. Now that the school board has decided to phase out the concept of a middle school, we felt it was time to move foward and include all past and current Middle School faculty and personnel," said Fauneil Bennett, former Library Director at the Middle School.

The Middle School came into existence in Wayne in 1967 when the current high school was first built. Loren Park served as the first principal of the Middle School after putting in a considerable amount of time observing how the concept worked at schools in Iowa. The Wayne Middle School was one of the first in Nebraska.

In addition to Park, four others have served as principal of the Middle School in its 45-year history.

The organizers of the event are soliciting the help of all those who have had a part in this history.

Bennett noted that more than 30 people have already responded to the invitation to attend the April 21 event. Anyone who cannot attend is encouraged to send memories to faubennett@gail.com or rjdalton@ windstream.net.

All former students are encouraged to stop at The Max to visit with the teachers and other in attendance.

Wayne State To Host WillyCon XIV

WillyCon, the annual convention local artists are encouraged to sub- the craft of writing, or an Artists sponsored by the WSC Science Fiction and Fantasy Club, will be held on April 20-22.

This year will mark the 14th year that WillyCon has been held at Wayne State College. It is a small, cozy convention with a friendly and fun atmosphere. Each year guests of honor are chosen to take part in the festivities.

Lee Killough is the author this year. Because she loves both SF and mysteries and hated choosing between the two genres, her work combines them. Except for one fantasy, The Leopard's Daughter, most of her novels are mysteries with SF or fantasy elements...with a preference for supernatural detectives (vampire, werewolves, even a ghost). She has set her procedurals in the future, on alien words, and in the country of dark fantasy.

Patrick Kennedy is the artist for WillyCon XIV. His love of Science Fiction has led him to his art career. He is a self-taught artist whose art career began as a mural painter in Los Angeles in the 1970's. He moved to Kearney, Nebraska in 1976 where his mother and brother lived. Patrick began painting canvases and taking his paintings to Sci-Fi conventions across the midwest where his love of Sci-Fi and Fantasy developed even more. He has sold paintings to the likes of Orson Scott Card and C.J. Cherryh.

Other guests include Fran Mc-Garry, from ACME Comics and Collectibles in Sioux City, Iowa, as the Fan Guest of Honor and Dane and Christy Jessen, as our Alumni Fans.

Some of the things you will encounter at WillyCon:

1. An art show and auction, displaying/selling science fiction and fantasy art, and a venders' room with gaming supplies and miscellaneous items. WSC art students and mit their art. The art show, art aucare open to the general public, so drop by and see what is available!

2. Presentations and panels by students, faculty, and fans talking about a variety of things, i.e., Gaming-related panels, Supernatural, Stargate Universe, Dr. Who, and other televison favorites, and much more!

3. Fun activities like board games, card games, role playing games, a masquerade show, Halo, Rock Band, Magic tournaments, etc.

4. An Authors Workshop where you can learn from a successful author and gather information about ing put together to determine how many radios are compatible with narrow-band technology. Currently, none of the county's radios are digital.

"We'll need to determine which ones are compatible to narrow band and which aren't, and once that's done, then we'll decide if we're going to upgrade to narrow band or just go digital," Wurdemann said.

If only a few of the radios are narrow-band capable, the county would have to purchase all-new equipment to replace the radios that are out of date. Some of the radios in use by the county were purchased in the 1980's. Wurdemann said.

New narrow-band radios would cost about $700 apiece, including vehicle installation. Digital radios would cost about $100 more per radio, but board chairman Jim Rabe said it would behoove the county to look at buying the digital radios now, rather than waiting until it is federally mandated later.

"If you buy the narrow band now and then in 2017 they say you have to go digital, then you're spending that much more later," he said.

Wurdemann said the county could get the radios at a cheaper per-piece cost if they replace their entire inventory. Some of the county's radios are currently narrowband compatible, but since none are digital-compatible, the county would have to replace all of their radios.

"Either way, we'll have to make up our mind. Otherwise we'll have to go with smoke signals," he said.

The county board did give unanimous approval to an upgrade of the heating and cooling system in the courthouse, which has been the source of frustration for a number of county employees working in the building.

Trane U.S. out of Ralston will do the work on the estimated $123,000 project that will replace the outdated equipment and control system. The company that originally installed the system has since gone out of business, and the county has tried to work with former employees of that company who have gone on to work for other companies.

County clerk Deb Finn said that by having the system replaced, the county would have to call just one company to get any issues taken care of.

Work on the system is expected to begin later this spring, with the hopes of having it ready for the expected summer heat and humidity in the area. Officials with the company expected the work to take a few days, with insulation work being done on a weekend.

The calm before the next storm

It's deadline time, so here's a few quick thoughts and observations before the press guy hunts me down: - When you have teams come from all over the country for a weekend rugby tournament, there are some unusual things a tournament organizer has to deal with.

One of the most unusual came courtesy of the Notre Dame women's team, who provided a great marquee matchup with their match against the Wayne State women and had tournament organizer Darrin Barner doing a little something above and beyond his normal du-

Barner had to line up about a half-dozen special sub sandwiches for players on the team who were vegetarians, and he also had to work with St. Mary's Catholic Church on a special Sunday morning Mass for the Fighting Irish players and coaches.

In the end, it was a good weekend for one of the tournament's marquee teams. Although they lost to the host team on a last-second play, they were tabbed as the tournament's Sportsmanship team and provided some top-notch play for fans to watch last weekend.

- Far be it from me to offer any kind of expert opinion on the sport of rugby, other than to say this – if you pick a fight with a rugby player, your odds aren't going to be very good.

Witnesses to a fight that broke out in downtown Wayne had a good laugh over the ill-informed individual who thought it would be a good idea to harass two toga-wearing rugby players from Minnesota. After trying to take a swing at one of them, the two evidently took care of

Touchdown Jesus ran out of prayers at the House of Pain. The Wayne State women's rugby team easily had the most exciting game of the weekend at the 11th annual Wayne State Rugby Tournament Saturday afternoon at the Wayne Rugby Park. Going up against a notable name like Notre Dame, a team that played for the national title last year and features a member of the USA national team, the Wildcats proved to be up to the challenge as they pulled off a last-second win over the Fighting Irish.

Playing a 40-minute mini-game as part of a two-day, 74-team tournament, the Irish and Wildcats played to a scoreless draw in the first half, and it stayed scoreless until early in the second half when Ashley Akumba, a member of the USA national team, changed the field position in a hurry as Wayne State was driving.

With Wayne State possessing the ball on about the 22-yard line, the ball came loose and Akumba picked it up and sprinted the other way for the game's first score. Notre Dame converted the two-point kick to take a 7-0 lead.

Midway through the second half, the Wildcats answered the score when Haley Wright scored on a 10-yard plunge to make it 7-5. Wayne State had the ball once again deep on the Fighting Irish side of the field, and with one minute left the team opted for a quick, speedrucking game, keeping the ball with the larger scrum players and sucking in the Notre Dame backline.

This created an opportunity for the Wildcats, as scrum half Sam the Wayne State men to a Earleywine saw a six-player backline set up in a perfect angle against Manitoba from Canada. four Notre Dame defenders. The business, leaving the would-be attacker a bruised and beaten mess.

For all the physicality and manon-man violent collisions that are part of the sport, I've found it impressive, in the three years I've watched the Wayne State rugby program and those teams it competes alongside at this tournament. how well-mannered and fun-loving these young adults are away from the pitch. It was a packed house with a lot of beer flowing around the over-21 crowd in the bar, and – to paraphrase a popular 80's song – it was nothin' but a good time. Players who had knocked heads hours before were side by side, enjoying the nostalgic rock band and having the kind of infectious fun that college life is all about.

There was a room full of them at Riley's on Saturday for the tournament's annual toga party, and not one altercation took place the entire evening. We also received a report of a police officer who stopped by a local hotel to ask a bunch of rugby players to tone down their party, then returned later to find that same group picking up trash in the hotel's parking lot that was left behind by other partiers.

There are always exceptions to every rule when it comes to the human race, but the vast majority of ruggers who came to Wayne, America this weekend left the place in as good a condition as they found it – with the exception being that one drunken dingbat.

- On Monday, the University of Nebraska announced that the Husker football team would wear an "alternate" jersey for one home game this coming season, with the possibility of an alternate-looking helmet being part of the new design.

Good heavens – messing with the iconic red-and-white Husker football uniform? Were the Mayans a few months off on their end-of-theworld prediction? Will cats and dogs suddenly start cohabitating?

The uniform worn by the Husker football team is part of an iconic brand, so any variation from that could damage the reputation that comes with that special brand.

Don't worry, though – athletic director Tom Osborne is not prone to going off the deep end with things like this. A couple of wild designs

Wayne, Wakefield track teams have good days at Blue Devil Invite

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

Finding out where your team is at early in the season usually comes when you face quality competition on the track.

Wayne High coach Dale Hochstein and Wakefield mentor Mike Hassler both saw some good things from their charges at Tuesday's Blue Devil Invitational, as both schools had some good performances against some tough Class C competition at the Wayne Elementary track.

For Wayne, the girls finished a solid third while the boys were sixth in a balanced 11-team boys field, as the two Blue Devil squads combined for six first-place efforts on the day. "We had a great day, and the competition was really good for us," Hochstein said. "We had a number of kids get personal bests today, which is what you want to see. I thought we were competitive and saw a lot of good competition that we'll see in districts down the road."

The Blue Devil girls finished 25 points behind champion Columbus Scotus and seven behind runner-up David City Aquinas, coming away with four first-place finishes on the day

Megan Stalling and Caitlin Fehringer both had a hand in all four of Wayne's winning efforts. Fehringer won the 300-meter hurdles and ran a leg on the winning 400-meter relay team with Cassie Heier, Marissa Fallesen and McKenna Frevert, while Stalling joined Emily Leeper, Kristin Carroll and Angie Nelson on the winning 3,200-meter relay team and came through in a photo finish in the 800-meter run after nearly being run down by Carroll and Laura Miksch of Columbus Scotus, who See TRACK, Page 3B Carroll.

A lot of baseballs have found their way on the other side of the fence at Hank Overin Field, and while few of them are being hit out of the park, the majority of them are becoming a big hit for Wayne's baseball program.

The Wayne Legion Baseball Association has been working with local businesses to put up sponsorship signs around the ballpark. Local businesses buy a sign, shaped like a large baseball, that is placed on the fence along the outer fence at the baseball field.

The signs, which went on sale last spring cost $100 a year, and businesses sign a five-year contract for the signs' placement along the fence. The money raised by the large baseball ads - 62 at last count – go to support the baseball program.

For more information or to purchase a sign, contact Layne Beza at (402) 369-0655 or Denny Lutt at (402) 369-0170.

Ross Bunchek and Paige Pollard of Wayne State College were both tabbed as the Preseason Field Athlete of the Year by Northern Sun Conference coaches.

Pollard was named the NSIC Indoor Field Athlete of the Year for 2012 after winning her second conference pentathlon title, placing fifth in the 800 and sixth in the 400, qualifying for nationals in the 800.

Bunchek was tabbed after earning All-American honors in the weight throw during the indoor season, posting a seventhplace finish.

The Wayne State men were tabbed for a seventh-place finish by conference coaches, while the women were picked to finish sixth in the conference this spring.

Wayne State's baseball team out, striking out 12 Wayne State spite of a 1-3 weekend.

No. 4 St. Cloud State used strong pitching to sweep Wayne State 5-2 and 10-0 in action Saturday afternoon at the Chapman Complex, but Wayne State forged a split in Sunday's twinbill, losing an extrainning heartbreaker 6-4 in eight innings before blowing up in the nightcap for a 21-8 win.

In Saturday's first game, the Huskies snapped a 2-2 tie with two runs in the sixth and added one more in the seventh to claim the series opener.

Wayne State came back and tied the score at 2-2 in the fourth inning, as C.J. Nolen singled Mike Bisenius home and Justin Beranek brought Travis Parsons home with a sacrifice fly.

Wayne State tried to rally in the bottom of the seventh in the first game, but left the bases loaded as the Huskies were able to come away with the win.

The Wildcats got the rally rolling on a solo shot to left by Ritzdorf, sparking a three-run first inning. Nolen's two-run single sparked a five-run second inning to make it 8-1, and Michael Herman lashed a ning. double in the third to highlight a four-run outburst to make it 12-1.

Bv KEVIN PETERSON For the Herald

The Wayne boys golf team opened season play at one of Nebraska's premiere courses in Lincoln - Firethorn – as part of the Lincoln Pius Invite on Monday.

Dave Hix's varsity squad finished 10th in the 18-team field, but the Blue Devils showed much promise with the back half of the 18-hole invite.

"We struggled on the first nine holes (back nine at Firethorn), but regained a little composure on the second round." Hix said. "Our 360: Waverly, 372 and Wavne, 379. finished with a 243. combined stroke difference from the back nine to the front was 28 strokes.

Sophomore Kaje Maly paced the Blue Devils with an 87 with rounds of 46-41.

"Kaje shot a lot better than his score reflected," Hix said. "He hit nine greens in regulation and hit 12 of 14 fairways. His score should have been closer to a 78. He struck the ball well but just didn't get any breaks to go his way. He had some trouble gauging the greens."

Junior Ezra Brodersen fired a 93 with rounds of 51-42.

"Ezra really responded on the second nine," Hix said. "Overall, I think our guys understand a little more of where we need to be. Course management is a huge part of this game, and we didn't handle that very well. I truly believe we will be one of the most improved teams by districts.

Senior Sean Gansebom carded a 97 with rounds of 51-46 while sophomore Tyler Schoh showed the most improvement from the two sides with a 56-46 score of 102. Junior Eric Schoh went 53-54 for a 107.

Pius won its own invite with a 315 followed in order by Omaha Skutt, 333; Beatrice, 352; Norris, 355; Pius "B", 355; Columbus Scotus, 357; Elkhorn South, 357; York,

The final eight teams included Fairbury, 380; Crete, 388: Columbus Lakeview, 391; Seward, 394; Lincoln Lutheran, 401; Nebraska City, 401; Auburn, 423 and Mt. Michael, 426

Individual medalist was won by Grant Schumacher of Pius with a 77 while teammate Joel Bittner carded a 78 along with Norris' Konnor Oltman. Fifteen medals were awarded with Marshal Obal of Scotus notching the final piece of hardware with an 85.

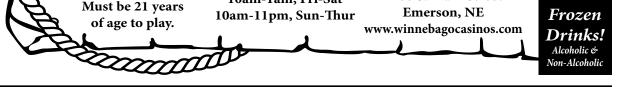

The Wayne JV's played at the Oakland Triangular on Monday with the reserves paired against the host team and Wisner-Pilger's varsity squads. Wayne finished third with a 204. Ryan Grosz led the team with a 47 while Max Morris and Jared Peterson tied at 50. Andrew Pulfer fired a 57 and Zach Keating, 61 for the Blue Devils. Wisner-Pilger won the event with a 181 followed by Oakland-Craig at 195. Drew Holland fired a 55 and Reed Trenhaile, 61 while Casey Dalager carded a 65 as Wayne played eight players overall.

The JV's were paced by freshman Zach Keating with a 55 followed by junior Drew Holland at 56 and sophomore Casey Dalager, 63. Freshman Reed Trenhaile rounded out the scoring with a 69. Schuyler's varsity had a pair of players carding 39 in Clint Kracl and Justin Mlnarik.

"Jared Peterson had a great round," Hix said. "He looked real comfortable on the course. He hit five greens in regulation which resulted in seven pars and two bogeys. It's always nice to see an individual break into the 30's. Now they know what they are capable of Max Morris is making a big change in his swing and is starting to come around. We didn't play some of our top golfers since they can only play in so many matches," Hix added. "We thought this would be a good just six golfers.'

The win was the second of a fourwin weekend for the Wayne State women, who went on to win the women's title. They started the day with a 48-0 drubbing of Southwest Minnesota State, then finished Saturday's pool play with a 28-0 win over Big Ten standout Northwestern to move on to the championship game.

On Sunday, the Wildcats managed to come out on top against a solid Oklahoma team, winning 14-7.

"That was a special win, being it was the fourth game of the weekend and we had seven girls out with injuries from Saturday," Barner said. "We had some freshmen playing in there, and how they played Sunday showed incredible heart pulling out a win over a team like Oklahoma."

The Wayne State men also had a good weekend, dominating University of Manitoba and Minnesota Four in Denver, with games to be State by scores of 45-0 and 34-0, re- televised on Fox Sports Plus.

Jorgensen also medaled in the 1,600-meter run, finishing as runner-up to Josh Dolph of Wakefield for a three-medal haul on the day.

Tyler Ellis had a three-medal performance for the Blue Devils. He ran on the 1,600- and 3,200-meter relays, and also grabbed an individual medal in the 800-meter run. Sawyer Jager was a three-medal winner, running on the two relays and earning a fifth in the 800. Sophomore Demitrius Alexander ran well in both sprint events, earning runner-up finishes in both the 100 and 200.

Wakefield had some quality efforts on the day, and Hassler said the eighth-place finish by both teams wasn't an indication of how well they performed.

"This is always a good meet for us to find out where we're at and what we need to work on, and we were really happy with how the day came out for us," he said.

The Trojan boys got a pair of firstplace finishes, as Dolph won the 1,600-meter run and Anthony Gustafson was something of a surprise winner in the high jump.

"Right now, we don't have our high jump facility set up on the new track, so for him to do what he did today was very impressive," Has-

Shelby Lierman came away with three medals on the day for the Trojan girls, adding medals in the 1,600 and 3,200 to her relay effort.

"Shelby is coming off an ACL injury from last year, and she came out and medaled in a couple of events, and it was good to see her getting back into it after being out with that injury," Hassler said.

Hingst also earned a medal individually, placing fourth in the 800. Blue Devil Invitational

Allen gets three medals at Cedar Catholic meet

HARTINGTON - The team total for the Allen boys track team showed only six points at the end of the day at the Cedar Catholic Invitational, but times for almost every running event and distance for a field event saw improvement.

The loaded field of Hartington, Bloomfield, Crofton, Battle Creek, and Cedar Catholic made placing difficult for the young Eagles. The Eagles tied for eighth place with Wynot on the day.

Three events scored for the Eagles, as they placed fourth in the 3,200 relay with a time of 9:16. The quartet of Kyle Finnegan, Coty Reuter, Charles Brahmsteadt and Austin Connot held off Cedar Catholic, while chasing Crofton for the third-place finish.

Finnegan collected two individual medals in the 3,200 and 800, as he placed sixth in both events.

Anderson gave up just five hits, but one was a big one as Bormann followed Nielsen's single with a long fly over the left field wall. She shut down Bemidji State in the seventh to finish off a twohit, seven-strikeout effort in the circle. On Tuesday, the Wildcats finished off a five-game sweep of Southwest Minnesota State, posting a 10-7 and 1-0 sweep of the Mustangs. In the first game, Wayne State rebounded from a 4-0 deficit early in the game, highlighted by a Dani Sandel two-run homer and back-toback doubles by Vicki Nielsen and Kaiti Williams to take the firstgame win. In the nightcap, it was a pitcher's duel as Kelcie Borman outlasted the Mustangs' Rachel Hoeppner. The only run of the game came in the second when Bormann singled home Nielsen.

"We just couldn't put things together," coach Krista Wood said. "If we'd had the hitting of the first game and the pitching of the second game, we'd have had a chance to win both games. We pitched freshmen in both games, and that youth showed a little bit."

In the first game, the Bulldogs belted a pair of home runs and took advantage of seven Wayne State walks off of freshman Sara Scheffert. They broke the game open with four runs in the third, then overcame a three-run fourth by Wayne State to come away with the win.

Wayne State made it interesting in the bottom of the fourth when Scheffert doubled Vicki Nielsen home. Scheffert came home on a sacrifice fly by Brittany Greenwood, and Kaiti Williams, who

Rethwisch receives award

Wayne High senior Gage Rethwisch, son of Rich and Kathi Rethwisch, was awarded the Bill Lewis Memorial Scholarship by the Nebraska High School Official's Association at halftime of the Class D-2 state basketball final at the Bob Devaney Sports Center in Lincoln on March 10. This award, given annually, is a scholarship to be used at any college the recipient chooses and is awarded in honor of Bill Lewis, a 10-time state tourney basketball official and former supervisor of officials for the NSAA. Lewis passed away in February, 2006. Gage's present college plans are undecided at this time.

plate, though, you'll take a hit any way you can get it.

The Wayne High baseball team has had its struggles at the plate early in the season, which is why coach Adam Hoffman won't be too picky about the key hit in the game that helped the Blue Devils hang on for a 2-1 win over Guardian Angels on Monday at Hank Overin Field.

Gage Rethwisch's first hit of the season was a high fly ball down the left field line that somehow fell between three Bluejay defenders about six inches inside the foul line. The two-out hit came after a misplayed suicide squeeze that broke a scoreless tie in what was a good pitcher's battle.

"Thank God for Nebraska weather," Hoffman said. "The wind kind of blew the ball back in and the third baseman went into foul territory and the left fielder and shortstop kind of stopped and it just dropped in there.

The hit came after a failed suicide squeeze attempt in the bottom of the fifth inning. With Miles Anderson on first, Drew Carroll took off on the suicide squeeze, but the ball wasn't put in play and he was eventually run down halfway between third and home.

Anderson, who had two of Wayne's six hits, was able to keep a runner in scoring position by scampering around to second base. He came home on Rethwisch's two-out double, and Corey Doorlag brought home what would be the game-winning run two batters later when he singled home Rethwisch.

Those hits helped buoy a solid pitching performance by Brady Soden and Tony Sinniger. Soden threw five strong innings, allowing just one hit and striking out three before Sinniger came on to pitch two solid innings, striking out four and allowing one hit to get the save. "It was Brady's first time out, and he threw about 75-80 pitches and threw well for his first time out," Hoffman said. "He battled through some tough situations, and Tony came on in relief and got out of a tough situation there in the sixth.

On Friday, the Blue Devils outhit Blair 6-2, but couldn't get themselves in position to score. Rethwisch pitched well in a losing effort, allowing two hits and a walk while striking out eight. Sinniger and Doorlag both had two hits.

Don't get me started

Don't believe the media's food scares

Here are a few random thoughts and observations that are circulating through the charred remains of my cerebellum (or is it cerebrum?):

- The next time the mainstream media comes up with some food scare, do yourself a favor and discontinue watching or reading that particular station, newspaper, magazine or website.

This latest "scare" over LFTB - lean, finely textured beef - was a pathetic and horrible attempt by the media to discredit a perfectly safe and legal food product that is used in our ground beef supply.

The mainstream media latched on to the phrase "pink slime" that was coined by a disgruntled former USDA microbiologist. Several news outlets ran with a story that was so one-sided that it gives true journalism a bad

The fact of the matter is that LFTB is a perfectly safe product that comes from the processing of fatty, bony meat that is left behind after the processing of steaks and other cuts of meat. The product is mechanically produced and is given a blast of ammonium hydroxide that kills bacteria in the product, making it safe for human consumption as filler for ground beef.

The list of products that were suddenly "bad" for us, according to the mainstream media, is far too voluminous to mention here. Safe to say, the next time one of the major news outlets comes out with a new food scare, don't believe what you're reading until you do some real research regarding that product. Odds are good that what the media is telling you will be a far cry from the truth of the matter.

- I don't know how it got started, but I would like to think the fact that you're reading this column should be enough to dispel that rumor about me being one of the three winners in the recent $640 Mega Millions lot-

And just so you're aware of it now – I actually DO have a plan for how I will distribute my jackpot winnings, if and when I ever win such a big prize. Some family members, organizations and efforts are going to benefit greatly from my good fortune, and my last column will be written from a hotel suite somewhere in Las Vegas.

Until then . . . I'll just keep doin' what I'm doin' here and enjoying living the good life in Wayne, America.

- Today's evidence that 7 billion people on one planet is too many: an Omaha man who has been charged with multiple counts of sexual assault on children doesn't seem to think he's done anything wrong.

The man was recently caught in Texas and brought back to Nebraska to face charges that he's had "sensual relationships" with about 20 boys in the past 30 years. He currently has five felony sexual assault charges to face in court, but if you read his comments in the Omaha World-Herald, the guy doesn't believe he's done anything wrong.

We all deserve our day in court – but this guy needs to be locked away for the rest of his life so no other children are subjected to this sick, twisted week. waste of human flesh.

The Wayne

era

Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN - This year's legislative session has been so quiet that if it weren't for the little bit of racket over tens of millions of wasted child welfare dollars, and how to stem the flow, you'd hardly know the gang of 49 had been around.

But they have been working their will – moreover, the will of others in ways big and small.

Some of the small ones traditionally have big downstream consequences that aren't necessarily intended.

Legislators gave timorous, poltroonish final approval to a meaningless proposal that would give Nebraskans the constitutional "right" to hunt, to fish and to harvest wildlife.

The view from here: People, this is trouble looking for a place to happen and if allowed to, it will find it. The fear is that the trouble is going to happen in a stubble field on a Sand Hills back-road, or by a farm pond in southwest Nebraska, or on someone's 20-or-so acres in an urban county.

If the amendment is enacted, countless thousands of people (the kind who think STOP signs are optional) are going to assume, and tell other people, that the constitution gives them "the constitutional right to hunt," period.

They are going to assume trespassing is a thing of the past when it comes to fence-jumpin' and opening gates and just parking on the side of the road and wandering onto someone's property.

The worst case brings Joe, the ited to a man-cave wall. I am a 100 hunter/beer drinker, into contact with Joe the landowner, each of whom is 1) annoyed and 2) sure that the almighty constitution is on his side. One of them, at least, has a firearm at his side. Bad business.

And all this over some words that are absolutely meaningless. No right is defined. Nothing is clarified. My photographs of hunting and fishing trips, and those of friends, are prominent in our home, not limpercent pro-hunting, pro-fishing, take mom and the kids, go ahead and fib about the one that got away, kind of guy. And I wish my fellows only the best. May they always cast far, and aim true.

can take care of family members in their homes and receive compensation. I believe current law already allows this practice. I am aware, however, of a situation in which a mother (who is a LPN) has been told she can no longer take care of her severely challenged son in her home (after five years of doing so) and be paid for those services through Medicaid funds. This bill simply clarifies current statute language. LB1122 would require the Department of Health and Human Services to give full and deliberate consideration to the role of home health services from private duty nurses in meeting the needs of a disabled family member or disabled person when making cuts in Medicaid. I believe that the state must place an enhanced value on medical services to assist the elderly, sick and disabled citizens to stay their homes as long as possible before they move to care facilities. The home is usually the most cost effective for the state and the best place for the person receiving services. In a move that, in my mind, does nothing but adds further restrictions and increases the cost of doing business, the Legislature moved ahead on a bill that will require buyers of scrap copper to mail a check to the seller by U.S. Mail, prepaid if the amount is over $100. The idea behind LB1049 is that this will discourage theft. I don't think so. Sellers of scrap copper already have to have their drivers license copied and be fingerprinted. I think we have once again poked our legislative nose somewhere it doesn't belong. There are still many bills to debate before April 12, the end of the legislative session. Please continue

KIND of creepy? That's an understatement of the first degree - and for Stenberg to pass off responsibility by saying someone from his campaign handles his social media accounts is beyond embarrassing. Stenberg should either take control of his own social media accounts or discontinue use of them altogether. There is no logical reason for him to try and access the teenage daughter of an opponent for public office.

The issue of so called "bath salts," which are synthetically produced designer drugs that exist solely for the purposes of getting children and young adults high, was amended into a bill that was sitting on Select File (second round of debate) this week. "Purple Up!" For Military Kids" on Friday, April 13.

We are encouraging everyone across the state of Nebraska to wear purple on Friday, April 13, as a visible way to show support and thank military children for their strength and sacrifices. Purple is the color that symbolizes all branches of the military, as it is the combination of Army green, Coast Guard blue, Air Force blue, Marine red, and Navy blue. OMK hops everyone will take this opportunity to appreciate and celebrate these young heroes.

OMK is a nationwide initiative designed to provide support to the children and vouth of Nebraska servicemen and women whose lives are impacted by the Overseas Contingency Operations. The children of these servicemen and women experience unique stressors in their daily lives including fear of the unknown, concern for the safety of their deployed parents, less parent involvement, more responsibilities, and few friends who understand what they are experiencing. OMK addresses the needs of these children by helping them feel connected, active and supported before, during, and after their loved ones deployment.

OMK has several opportunities to support military families, such providing Hero Packs (local community groups put together items designed to help keep military kids connected with their deployed parent); Ready, Set, Go! Trainings for the local communities to learn about the needs cal county.

WHAT CAUSES A CAVITY? This area is very strong, however, Dental cavities, also known as dental caries, are caused by one thing...plaque. Plaque is a sticky film of food and bacteria that is constantly forming on your teeth.

The bacteria in plaque thrive on the sugars in the foods and drinks we consume. These bacteria release an acidic by-product when they break down these sugars. Like all acids, the acid produced by bacteria is corrosive, which means that it will start eating away or dissolving the minerals in our teeth that keep them strong. The acid can also cause a cavity around an existing filling or under a filling.

The reason that we brush and floss our teeth is to remove plaque, and therefore the acid-producing bacteria. If this is not done often enough, or thoroughly enough, the acid from the bacteria that live in the plaque will eventually dissolve away your teeth and create holes, or cavities.

A cavity first forms in the outer layer of the tooth called the enamel.

underneath the enamel lies a soft layer of your tooth called dentin. If a cavity dissolves through enamel and reaches the dentin it will spread much quicker and could cause tooth pain. If it reaches the nerve of the tooth it could result in much more extensive treatment, like a root canal. This is why regular dental appointments, checkups, and cleanings are important. If we find a cavity that is in the beginning stages it may be possible to replace the dissolved minerals by using fluoride treatments. Or if it is not possible to re-mineralize the tooth It allows us to restore it while the cavity is small and isolated which means less time in the dental chair and less invasive

Mission trips provides help for the homeless

By JAKE SHONKA and SARAH OLTJENBRUNS

Over spring break, several Wayne State College students experienced homelessness firsthand.

Eleven students and five Wayne community members traveled to Colorado Springs for a week-long mission trip, sponsored by the WSC Catholic Newman Community. During the week, students received hands-on experience and learned that homelessness can happen to anyone

Happy for cooler weather

Finally, cooler weather! It was the warmest March on record; we suspected that, and 90 degrees on April first was not exactly what we had wished for, either. Now, for some precipitation!

Have you heard that the golf courses in Columbia, Missouri, only have 14 holes? That's because they can't play the Final Four!

Yes, I had Missouri, as did a lot of other folks, including the president. And, like the pres, I had North Carolina. I have a hunch our beloved Blue Jays helped Kansas defeat them by breaking that guard's hand. Oh, well, it's only a game, right?

I didn't have a winning lottery ticket, either: because you do have to buy one! I've never been much of a gambler; I think my dad and my brother did my share. I will admit going to the surrey races in Saratoga Springs once; Jim escorted me and ran my bets. It was fun, I admit, but I enjoyed the chicken dinner in a cute little restaurant afterward just as much. Gosh, that was almost 40 years ago!

The World-Herald today has a photo and short story about one of my favorite people in Louisville. Her funeral is today, she was 98. I met Ella Reichart at the Louisville Senior Center; you may recall I used to go there once a month and trim toenails. Ella had macular degeneration, so she definitely needed that service.

I attended her 90th birthday party at the Center. She wore red, her favorite color, and had an awesome time, celebrating with her family and many friends. The article says she loved to dance; I had not Dear Hearts and Gentle People. known that about her, but it fits my impression of her. And the granddaughter says the last dance she attended was at the Pla More in 1999; she would have been 85.

If we are fortunate enough to live to be 98, how wonderful to be able to enjoy life, even with poor vision. I know she still lived in her own home when we moved, which will soon be seven years ago.

Those little towns in Cass County are hard to forget! A couple of weeks ago, I was in Murdock for a music festival at the Methodist Church. I used to sub for them on the organ occasionally, and got to know quite a few of the members.

They had invited the other churches in the county to send a musical number: choir, duet, quartet, instrumental, etc. It was fun. Their own choir opened and closed the evening. A guy from the Christian church in Elmwood played the guitar and sang Mississippi Squirrel Revival. If you have not heard this, go to YouTube and put in that title. It will make you giggle.

Anyway, moving around in Nebraska only confirms my belief that some of the best hearts in the country live here. That's one of my favorite songs of all time: I Love Those Have a wonderful Easter!

CRP conversion, lawn care topics of discussion

With crop prices at an all-time well for many planting into CRP. technology makes weed and grass high many acres of CRP are going back into corn and soybeans. Many decisions need to be made when planning to convert CRP ground to row crop production, including what crop to plant. Here is a summary from Charles Shapiro, Soil Fertility Specialist at the Haskell Ag Lab.

In northeast Nebraska, it will be soybeans or corn following CRP. Before selecting the crop, consider factors particular to post-CRP production. Like working through a maze, sometimes it is easier to start at the end and find the beginning.

Growing corn can be more difficult than growing soybean after CRP for several reasons. Corn following CRP requires more nitrogen than a normal corn crop. We recommend adding 50 pounds more nitrogen than you would apply to similar corn grown conventionally. (See UNL Nebguide G1970.) The seedbed for corn needs to be in better condition than that for soybean since plant population and spacing are more critical in corn than in soybeans. Corn will need to be planted earlier than soybeans, so there will be less time between now and when you want to plant to kill the existing grass. Ideally, CRP grass was killed last fall, and any land preparation issues have been addressed.

Soybeans can be planted later than control much easier, but doesn't corn, giving you time to kill the change the need for additional nigrass with herbicide. They also can trogen. be no-tilled with a slightly higher than normal population and inocu-

Ag Happenings

The two biggest mistakes I see in lawn care are cutting the grass too short and watering too often. Lawns should be mowed at 3 to 3.5 inches throughout the year and often enough not to remove more than 1/3 of the leaf blade. Return the clippings to the lawn unless they are composted or used on the garden. Grass cut too short will have a smaller root system and will more stressed, allowing hot weather to thin the lawn, and opening areas for weeds like crabgrass to enter. Longer grass will also help shade the base of the plants, reducing heat stress. In order to have a strong root system, the lawn should be watered only about once a week, to a soil depth of 3-4 inches (about 1 inch total applied). This allows the foliage of the grass to dry, reducing disease problems, and allows the roots to grow longer to follow the moisture down. Setting a sprinkler system to water lightly every day is about the worst thing you can do to a lawn. It promotes small roots, and keeps surface moisture levels high which may open the way for more disease. Turn off the automatic sprinklers or set them to give a good one inch soaking once a week. Later in the summer if temperatures are hot watering twice a week may be advisible.

This spring you could plow the ground, disk it several times to prepare a seedbed, and then use a glyphosate-resistant corn variety. However, even if you can find a plow, the tillage would be expensive and you would lose many of the gains you made from having the field in CRP.

Given all these factors, corn does not seem like a good choice to plant after CRP. However, depending on the costs, it still may be profitable. There are just more risks and unknowns.
