Moisture needed soon to avoid summer drought

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

With the unseasonably warm and dry spring we've been having, some area farmers are getting a head start on this year's corn crop.

That's the good news.

The bad news is that, short of some significant precipitation this spring, this year's crops are going to be challenged by a sub-standard amount of moisture in the ground that has a climatologist with the University of Nebraska forecasting drought conditions in Wayne County and much of northeast Nebraska this summer.

A dry fall to close out 2012 and a mild winter have combined to create the possibility of drought conditions for area farmers this summer. With almost 15 percent of this year's crop already in the ground, a significant amount of precipitation will be needed between now and the summer to give those crops a chance at turning a bountiful harvest this fall.

"If we continue with the same tendencies that have been common the last 6-7 months, that would indicate that Northeast Nebraska is running about 50-70 percent of normal precipitation," said Al Dutcher, a climatologist with the University of Nebraska's School of Natural Resources. "If that trend continues into the growing season, we would see drought develop. It's not a rosy picture, but that doesn't mean things can't change dramatically."

The area received a significant amount of rainfall during a recent storm two weeks ago, but too much rain fell at one time, which didn't allow the moisture to properly soak into the soil.

"One thing about that rain was how quickly it fell and how fast it ran off," Dutcher said. "We saw a massive amount of runoff, and I'd be shocked if 50 percent of that moisture got into the profile. We saw some erosion, so the rain came faster than the soil could take it up."

Dutcher said a more beneficial situation would be to have the same amount of precipitation occur over a 2-3 day period, which would allow the moisture to be taken in better.

The moisture concern is of particular interest to farmers in this area, the vast majority of whom grow corn in dryland conditions, rather than irrigation.

Keith Jarvi, University of Nebraska Extension educator for Dakota, Dixon and Thurston counties, said more area farmers are turning to irrigation, but with subsoil moisture levels 6 inches below normal, dryland farmers are going to be challenged this year if more precipitation doesn't come to the area.

"We're in a pretty serious spot if we don't get above-normal rainfall," he said. "That period from September to April is really important, because when you get rain with no crops out there, the ground soaks it in and the crops can bring that moisture out of the

Titiml sings for McDonald's

Kendall Titiml of Wayne was one of 16 worldwide competitors in the Voice of McDonald's contest, and had the chance to sing in front of more than 10,000 people Monday during the company's annual worldwide convention in Orlando, Fla. Titiml was not one of the four singers who advanced to the finals, as singers from Australia, Germany, Puerto Rico and Canada moved on to the finals. A singer from Brazil was named the Fan Favorite from online voting on the Voice of McDonald's website. Titiml had the chance to work with professional voice coaches and take part in a number of company-sponsored events. The 12 semifinalists who did not advance each earned $3,000 for their efforts.

Three people injured in two-vehicle crash Sunday

Three people were sent to area hospitals after a two-vehicle crash early Sunday morning northeast of Wayne.

According to the Wayne County Sheriff's Office, at about 1:15 a.m. Sunday, an east-bound car driven by Henry Greve of rural Wakefield collided with a westbound pickup driven by Jeremiah Frahm of Emerson. Both vehicles were on 858 Road, two miles north and 3.5 miles east of Wayne, and both were sent into the south ditch by the impact of the crash.

The Greve vehicle contained two passengers, Jacob Nelson of rural Wakefield and Catherine Duerksen of Emerson. Both were taken to Providence Medical Center to be treated for their injuries, while Greve was extricated from his car by the Wakefield Fire and Rescue Units and transported by Mercy Air Care to Mercy Medical Center in Sioux City.

The second vehicle contained the driver and one passenger. The driver, Jeremiah Frahm and passenger, Andrew Leonard, did not require treatment at the scene.

It did not appear that safety restraints were in use in either vehicle.

The Wayne County Sheriff's Office was assisted at the scene by the Dixon County Sheriff's Office, the Wakefield Fire and Rescue units, the Providence Medical Center Ambulance and the Mercy Air Care helicopter crew. The investigation is ongoing.

South Dakota company new owner of Northeast Equipment dealership

Anyone dialing the phone number for the former Northeast Equipment John Deere dealership might be taken aback when the voice on the other end answers "Grossenburg, Implement."

However, the services offered at Grossenburg, Implement are those that Northeast Equipment customers have enjoyed for many years.

Grossenburg, Implement, Inc. of Winner, S.D., purchased the Wayne dealership recently, as well as the ones in Hartington, Laurel and Bloomfield. The dealership is owned by Barry Grossenburg, his son, Charlie Grossenburg, and son-in-law, Adam Severson.

"The Grossenburg family has been involved in the John Deere business for 75 years, and is actually planning an anniversary celebration at the Winner location in August," Severson said.

No changes are planned for the 80 employees involved in the four Nebraska business locations. Previous owners Jim Recob of Laurel and Rob Miller of Hartington will continue to be involved in the business as store managers in Laurel and Hartington, respectively.

"We feel the acquisition/merger of these four locations, and the great personnel that come with them, with the three we have in South Dakota, will be beneficial to everyone," Severson said.

He and his wife, Lanie, and six-month old son, Louie, will be moving to Wayne in the near future and be involved in the day-to-day operation of the Wayne store.

Of the Wayne location, Severson said, "This is a great business and a great farming community. We have been looking to purchase additional businesses and Wayne will match our personality," Severson said.

Grossenburg Implement is a family owned and operated business, with Barry being the primary owner. His son, Charlie, will be responsible for overseeing the three South Dakota stores owned by the family.

"We are very excited to be in Wayne. I have already met lots of people and plan to get out in the community in the coming weeks to meet even more. The 30 employees here in Wayne have been great to work with during this transition," Severson said. "This is a great time to be in the John Deere business."

Ground to be broken soon on new 800-acre rec area near Hubbard

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

A three-year recreation project will eventually bring another opportunity for outdoor enthusiasts to enjoy the great outdoors in Northeast Nebraska.

The Papio Missouri River Natural Resources District is making final preparations to begin work on a new 20,000-acre recreation area located just southeast of Hubbard in Dakota County. When completed, the Pigeon/Jones Watershed will feature boating, fishing, camping and equestrian and hiking trails as part of a dam construction project that is almost a decade in the making.

Marlin Petermann, assistant manager for the Papio Missouri River NRD, said land acquisition has been completed and the final paperwork is being finished so that construction on the project can begin this summer.

"We have been working for close to 10 years in putting this together," he said. "It's been a long process, but we're now in the process of acquiring construction bids for the flood control portion of the project and for road improvements that have to be made."

The lake will take up about 225 acres of the 800-acre facility and will have an average depth of 20 feet, with close to 50 feet depth near the dam. Petermann said that, depending on the weather, it will take a couple of years for the lake to reach its full capacity as it is fed from Jones Creek, a tributary to the main Pigeon Creek that runs parallel with Highway 35 in the western part of Dakota County.

Bids on the project should be opened next month, and Petermann said construction of the $15 million dam and recreation facility should begin in June of this year.

"We expect construction to start in June, and there will be about a one-year construction period," he said. "By next spring or summer, we hope to start to close off the area and start filling the lake."

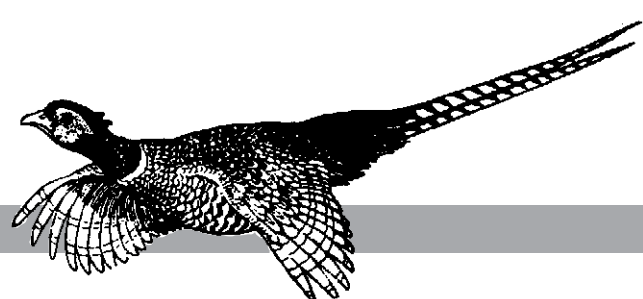

Petermann said that the flood control portion of the project should be in place by next year, and if funding, weather and construction all goes according to plan, the new facility could be open to the public as early as fall of 2014. A fact sheet on the watershed

City Council Meetings

Regular City Council meetings are at 5:30 pm on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in city hall at 3rd and Pearl Streets.

Are You Going to the Wayne Strategic Planning Meeting?

The meeting is scheduled for Thursday, April 26 at 6:30 p.m. in the Wayne City Auditorium.

Wayne is a frequent user of Nebraska Community Development Block Grant Funds for local projects. Some past projects include, the Community Activity Center, down town sidewalks, Roosevelt Park subdivision paving, some local business start-ups and the Opportunity Building. To maintain eligibility for CDBG funds we must survey the community every 4-5 years to determine concerns and priorities for the future.

Community surveys were circulated and tabulated last winter by Northeast Development District on behalf of the City of Wayne. Northeast staff will be at the city auditorium Thursday night to present the results and solicit further comments.

The printed report of the results will be available on-line on the City of Wayne website at www.waynews.org

If you have comments and can't attend, talk with the mayor, your council members or email us. There will always be a limited amount of funding available and the intent of this survey is to help plan for those future resources to be allocated as our surveys, retreats and town hall meetings suggest.

Mobile food pantry scheduled to be in Wayne on Saturday

Food Bank for the Heartland is partnering with the First United Methodist Church to host a mobile pantry in Wayne on Saturday, April 28. Four thousand pounds of food, or over 3,330 meals, will be distributed to families in need.

The mobile pantry will be held from 10-11:30 a.m. at the First United Methodist Church at 516 Main Street in Wayne. A mobile pantry is a traveling food pantry that delivers food free of charge directly to people who need assistance for a one-day food distribution.

The goal is to provide food where there is a high need but limited resources. The Food Bank will host a mobile pantry in Wayne the last Saturday of the month from April through June.

Items to be distributed at the mobile pantry include peanut butter, corn, green beans, chicken and dumplings, rice, applesauce, spaghetti and sauce, baked beans, juice, peaches and macaroni and cheese.

"Food Bank for the Heartland is excited to partner with the First United Methodist Church in Wayne," said Amy Gerhart, Food Bank for the Heartland's Director of Agency Relations. "This partnership will help provide food to many families in Wayne County. Food Bank for the Heartland comes along side community organizations to assist them in distributing food to the individuals and families they serve. The Mobile Pantry program is one way we do this and we are grateful for the opportunity to serve Wayne County."

An anonymous supporter granted funds to the Food Bank to host mobile pantries in nine rural Nebraska counties. They include Cedar, Custer, Dixon, Hall, Holt, Knox, Platte, Scottsbluff and Wayne. This spring and summer, Food Bank for the Heartland is conducting one mobile pantry per month in each of these counties. Two mobile pantries are being held each month in Grand Island. The grant is facilitating the distribution of 168,000 pounds of food to people in need. That is the equivalent of 140,000 meals.

Results of a study supported by the ConAgra Foods Foundation, the Howard G. Buffett Foundation and Nielsen show nearly 21 percent, or 370 children, in Wayne County are at-risk for hunger. Map the Meal Gap: Child Food Insecurity 2011 is a study from Feeding America, the nation's largest domestic hunger relief organization, which provides data on a county level. Of the 444,893 children in the 93 counties served by Food Bank for the Heartland, there are 92,270 children struggling with hunger according to study results.

State College System board approves modest tuition bump

At its April 20 meeting, the Nebraska State College System (NSCS) Board of Trustees (Board) approved an increase in tuition of $4.75 per credit hour for undergraduate resident students at Chadron, Peru and Wayne State Colleges.

This 3.5 percent increase translates to an additional per semester cost of $71.25 for an undergraduate resident full-time student taking 15 credit hours. Graduate resident students will pay an additional $6 per credit hour for on-campus graduate courses.

The Board also approved an increase in tuition of $10 per credit hour for undergraduate online courses and an increase of $12.50 per credit hour for graduate online courses. This translates into a 5 percent increase in tuition for on-line courses.

For the first time, a system-wide rate was approved for dual enrollment courses offered by the state colleges. Dual-enrollment courses, sometimes referred to as early entry courses, are offered to eligible high school juniors and seniors who wish to get a head start on their college careers or take an advanced course not available at their high school.

High school students taking advantage of dual enrollment courses offered by the State Colleges will now pay $50 per credit hour.

Chancellor Stan Carpenter said, "The NSCS will continue to focus on affordable, high quality education for our students. Faculty and staff at Chadron, Peru and Wayne State Colleges can be proud of their efforts to provide opportunities that make a difference in the lives of their students. Education is a game changer and the State Colleges are committed to our students, the state of Nebraska and the surrounding regions we serve."

The Board also adopted a resolution appointing Dr. Randy Rhine to serve as interim president of Chadron State College (CSC). Rhine's appointment is effective May 12, 2012 and continues until June 30, 2013. Rhine's career at CSC began in 2005 when he came to CSC to provide leadership in reversing CSC's enrollment decline and in designing initiatives targeting CSC's mission of access and affordable quality.

Chancellor Carpenter said, "I am pleased that Randy has agreed to serve as interim president at Chadron. He has demonstrated his commitment to serving students and understands the integral connection between CSC and the Chadron community. I look forward to working with him."

During the past year, members of the college communities have worked with Bahr Vermeer Haecker (BVH) and the Clark Enersen Partners to develop 10-year campus master plans for each of the State Colleges. Planning efforts were overseen by Ed Hoffman, NSCS Vice Chancellor for Facilities, Planning & Information Technology. Dan Worth, BVH, and Joanne Kissel, Clark Enersen Partners, presented an overview of the master plans to the Board and college representatives. Each of the master plans emphasized maintaining the uniqueness and heritage of the individual college campuses and building toward future needs.

"The planning process would not have been successful had folks not been willing to share and discuss ideas in an open and friendly manner. The resulting campus plans reflect the obvious work that needs to be done and the dreams of the work that should be done," said Vice Chancellor Hoffman.

Watershed structures save area from flood damages

Northeast Nebraska continues cleaning up and drying out from recent powerful storms. Although there are several people personally affected by damages, flooding could have been much worse if not for the watershed control structures in the area, according to the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS).

NRCS, along with the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (NRD), constructed flood control structures in Stanton, Wayne, Madison, Platte, Cuming, Platte, Colfax and Dodge counties through the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act. These funds authorized NRCS to provide assistance with the planning and installation of flood control structures like small dams and grade stabilization structures, and in applying conservation practices like no-till, terraces and waterways.

These structures help prevent flood damages. The flood control structures and conservation practices catch and slow runoff from heavy rains. This keeps soil and water in its place reducing damages to cropland, roads and other infrastructure.

According to NRCS Hydraulic Engineer Arlis Plummer, Skyview Lake in northwest Norfolk, helped prevent nearly $800,000 in flood damages during the recent storm.

"With big rain events like this we really see the benefit of flood control structures. They work together with conservation practices to prevent damage to infrastructure. When things like roads and bridges are spared from damages, then we're talking about a lot of dollars saved," Plummer said.

Robin Sutherland, NRCS District Conservationist in the Stanton field office has spent the last few days surveying the affects of the recent heavy rainfall. She has seen first-hand how the flood control structures and conservation practices have worked together to lessen the damage from the heavy rainfall.

"Terraces and waterways worked well to keep water from washing through fields. You could also really see the difference conservation tillage practices like no-till made in keeping soil from eroding," Sutherland said.

With nearly 900 watershed dams constructed statewide the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act has benefited over 1.6 million acres. Benefits include significant savings in soil erosion, water conservation, road and bridge damage reduction, wetland/upland wildlife habitat creation and most importantly, saved lives and property. The total benefits to Nebraska exceed $37 million each year according to NRCS.

Lawton Dahl works diligently to create a flower pot at last Saturday's Green Expo at the Wayne Fire Hall. He is being assisted by Amy Topp, UN-L Extension Educator for Wayne County. Flower pot making was one of several different children's activities held in conjunction with the third annual expo. A number of presentations were held, sharing information on conservation of resources and ways to be more energy efficient were presented throughout the expo. Food from several vendors at the Farmer's Market was served to those in attendance.

Rec Area

facility projects construction of recreation facilities in 2014 and 2015, with a park opening set for fall 2015 or spring 2016.

Funding for the project has come from the State of Nebraska resources development fund, the Nebraska Environmental Trust, the Papio-Missouri River NRD, Dakota county, Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality and the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission to assist with land acquisition, facilities, engineering, design and construction. When finished, the recreation area will be comparable in size to Zorinsky Lake in west Omaha, Petermann said.

The new recreation area will have camping facilities, an equestrian campground, a five-mile hiking and biking trail, a 10-mile equestrian trail around the lake, picnic areas, a boat ramp and a fishing pier.

"It should be a very nice facility, and I think it will be a recreational gem for northeast Nebraska," Petermann said.

The recreational facility should also provide an economic boost to the Hubbard area and the western edge of Dakota County.

"I know there's a lot of excitement there right now," Petersmann said. "There isn't anything like this outside of the Missouri River, so I think you'll see a draw from people in Sioux City and Wayne and other areas. It should be a quality fishery and a real attraction as well."

ground later. When you get to summer, if we don't have that subsoil moisture, that's when we'll really see it."

Jarvi said many farmers in the area are good at keeping their fields in the kind of condition that will allow the ground to bring that moisture into the soil.

"We really try to talk to people about leaving as much residue out there as they can, because that will catch the rain and soak it into the ground," he said. "The residue will help intercept that moisture, and it saves on erosion as well."

Dutcher said that parts of north-west Iowa have seen above normal precipitation that has helped settle some of the drought concerns there, and he's hopeful that similar precipitation can take place in this area.

"May and June are generally the two wettest months, and if we had a decent precipitation event like the one we had recently, that would help cut the deficit," he said. "There are no real water demands for the corn right now, but once we get past the six-week leaf stage, those needs are going to jump up so we need to build up a surplus or those crops are going to run out of juice."

Tree Assistance Program available

Wayne County USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) Executive Director Debra J Pieper, announced that orchardists and nursery tree growers who experienced losses from natural disasters that occurred from Jan. 1, 2008, through Sept. 30, 2011, could still be eligible for the Tree Assistance Program (TAP).

To qualify for TAP, orchardists must suffer a qualifying tree, bush or vine loss in excess of 15 percent mortality from an eligible natural disaster. The eligible trees, bushes or vines must have been owned when the natural disaster occurred;

however, eligible growers are not required to own the land on which the eligible trees, bushes and vines were planted.

For more information about TAP, contact the Wayne County FSA office at (402) 375-2453, ext. 2, or visit the web at: www.fsa.usda.gov.

Pitching silences Blue Devil bats

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Being in the right place at the right time has its advantages, as the Columbus High baseball team illustrated Monday at Hank Overin Field.

Discoverers' freshman Parker Smejkal kept Wayne High's bats in check for much of the night and the Discoverer coaches seemed to have their defense in perfect position almost every time as the visitors pulled away for a 9-1 win.

The Blue Devils hit the ball hard off the Columbus righthander, but every time it looked like Wayne might get a base hit to extend the inning, the Discoverers were able to be in the right spot to make the tough out look routine.

"They were throwing us away, and their center fielder was playing the opposite field and made some good plays," coach Adam Hoffman said after the game. "We had some good hits, but we were hitting right at them and you have to credit them for making the plays and shutting down anything we were trying to get going."

The Discoverers got an RBI double from Colin Ortmeier in the first to take a 1-0 lead off senior Corey Doorlag, then added four more in the third, highlighted by a two-run single from Cody Linder.

Doorlag got into another jam in the fourth when Columbus put two runners in scoring position with nobody out, but was able to pitch out of the jam.

"He came out and threw strikes tonight and was able to get his curve ball over for a strike, which kept him in the game," Hoffman said.

Wayne's bats were silent until Frank Bernal beat out an infield single in the fifth, but couldn't get any kind of a rally going to spark a comeback effort.

Doorlag pitched gamely in the losing effort, but saw things finally unravel in the sixth when the Discoverers plated four more runs.

Blue Devils looking for some bats

"This is a simple game - you throw the ball, you hit the ball, you catch the ball." -- from the movie "Bull Durham"

I don't know if you call it a reprieve from the governor, but the Wayne High baseball team will be a part of the local spring sports landscape for the foreseeable future.

This is good news if you're a baseball fan - although I'm not sure how the Blue Devil pitching staff is taking that news right now.

The team's two most recent efforts has to make Adam Hoffman's pitching staff wonder when the news of the Blue Devils getting off their two-year "let's see how this goes before we commit long-term" status that was part of the Board of Education's decision to resurrect the program two years ago is going to get to the team's offense, which has been playing recently as if it's taking the long walk to the executioner's room.

Wayne High might be the best 5-9 team in high school baseball in Nebraska. They have some good pitching - exhibited most recently by the gutty effort from Corey Doorlag Monday and the three-hit gem Tuesday by Gage Rethwisch - yet have come up on the short end of the scoreboard more often than they should have this season.

Monday, it was a matter of not being able to adjust to the pitching effort made by Columbus, which did a good job working the outside of the plate and seemed to position themselves perfectly on a number of solid hits. The Blue Devils weren't able to score until the seventh, and by that time, Doorlag had run out of gas and Columbus was able to pull away late for a 9-1 win.

Tuesday, Rethwisch had the kind of pitching line that coaches would run over their own mother for - complete game, three hits, five strikeouts, no walks, two runs allowed.

And how did Wayne's bats respond? Five singles and no runs. It's the kind of offensive effort that can frustrate a team, and I think that, from a talent standpoint, this team is better than its record indicates and just needs a lift at the plate to get things going in the right direction.

District play begins next week, and Wayne High will likely be the low seed in their district when pairings are announced today (Thursday) by the NSAA. With the way the Blue Devils' pitchers have thrown this spring, if this team can ever get their offensive game rolling, this will be a dangerous low seed to deal with.

The Norfolk Track Classic runs today at Norfolk High School, and there is a name that should be on the list that won't be competing.

Allen senior Olivia Schneiders has run extremely well for the Lady Eagles this season and has been a dominant runner in the distance events. She anchors the team's 3,200-meter relay that has also performed well this season.

I was surprised not to see her name on the list for this week's all-area classic, and was disappointed to hear that she went down with an injury during the Wausa Invitational on Saturday.

The good news is that her injury is not a season-ending deal, and we should see her back in action before the end of the regular season. If she's back at 100 percent for districts and state, I think the Lady Eagles will have a chance to score a high medal at the state meet in Omaha next month.

Wayne State's softball team is playing in the postseason this weekend in the Northern Sun Conference tournament, and is on the bubble for making it into the Div. II Central Regional next week.

Wayne State pitcher Stephanie Schmidt has made an impressive comeback in her battle with a rare form of cancer, and has pitched for the Wildcats this season.

Wildcat pitcher a fighter in recent battle with cancer

By STEVE MARIK
Of The Herald

What does it mean to be a fighter? To be tough?

Wayne State softball pitcher Stephanie Schmidt knows a thing or two about that.

Let's start off with a little background check. The Columbus Lakeview graduate was a four-year letter winner in softball during high school. She helped her team win a Class C state championship in 2006.

During that 2006 campaign, she earned all-state honors as a utility player and was selected to the first-team All-Central 10 Conference team.

Schmidt was selected to play in the Nebraska Coaches Association All-Star game in Lincoln.

She was a three-year letter winner in track and field, and was a two-time state champion and four-time national qualifier in AAU gymnastics.

After high school, Schmidt took her talents to Iowa Western Community College, where she boasted an 11-4 record with a 2.12 ERA as a freshman pitcher for the

Schmidt

Reivers.

In her sophomore campaign, Schmidt had a 15-8 record with a 1.77 ERA, earning her first-team All-Region XI honors.

After transferring to Wayne State College, the all-anything softball pitcher was hit with a curveball: acute myeloid leukemia.

"We were at practices doing early morning conditioning, and I was passing out," Schmidt said. "So I went to the doctor and found out it was leukemia."

"The next day after that, I ended up being in the hospital for six weeks. I got out and had four months of outpatient treatment, where I was doing chemo."

Forced to redshirt the entire 2010 season, the righthander was faced with not being able to play the game that she loved for so many years.

"When I found out Stephanie had Leukemia, I had a knot in my stomach," coach Krista Wood said. "It was something that I could not get out of my head knowing that she was very sick."

So did Schmidt abandon all hope of ever playing again?

"No. The second I was diagnosed, I was asking when I could go out on the diamond again," Schmidt said. "It never crossed my mind that I wouldn't be ok. I'm a

Wildcats win three of four at Southwest

The Wayne State baseball team put themselves in good position for the postseason after a home doubleheader sweep and a 3-1 weekend on the road at Southwest Minnesota State.

"It was a good weekend," coach Brian Disch said. "They threw their four best pitchers and we threw our 3-6 pitchers, and any time you lose the first and come back and win the next three like that, that's a good weekend - although we'd like to win all four."

On Sunday, C.J. Nolen went 4-for-7 with three RBI's while lefthander Eric Schwieger pitched seven strong innings in the nightcap to help the Wayne State baseball team split with the host Mustangs. Southwest won the opener 5-1 with Wayne State coming back to win the second game 10-3.

In the opener, Southwest starter Alex Alvarez limited Wayne State to six singles while the Mustang defense turned three double plays.

"They stepped up their defense and fielded the ball well and made some plays when they needed to, and their pitcher did a good job keeping us off balance," Disch said.

The Mustangs scored twice in the second and third innings to take a 4-0 lead. Wayne State scored its only run in the fifth inning when Brett Keim singled and later scored on a sacrifice fly by Braulio Acosta.

Tom Doran suffered the pitching loss despite allowing just one earned run in six innings of work. He gave up eight hits with two strikeouts in the complete-game effort.

Track meet set for disabled athletes

A new area track meet for athletes with developmental disabilities may one day be linked to the Special Olympics.

The first Northeast Nebraska Track and Field Day will be held this Friday, beginning at 10 a.m. at the Wayne Elementary track. At least 40 kids from around the area are expected to compete in a variety of track and field events.

Misty Bear said the idea for the meet came from some people in Crofton who wanted to start a track meet for school-age children with developmental disabilities. Since Crofton has a cinder track, officials there contacted school officials in Wayne to see about hosting the first meet.

Registration for the meet begins at 10 a.m., with competition starting at around 10:30 a.m. Field events include the standing long jump and softball throw, with a number of track events where athletes will run, walk or race in wheelchairs.

Every athlete will receive an award, and Bear said the hope is that the meet will eventually grow to become a qualifying Special Olympics event at some point down the road.

Members of the Wayne High National Honor Society and a number of Wayne-area athletes will serve as volunteers during Friday's meet.

 tournament title two years ago and getting to super-regionals, but this year's result is probably a more impressive effort than those postseason runs of 2010 and 2011.
 The Wildcats lost a ton of talent from those two postseason runs, most notably All-American pitcher

Katie Goetzing. This could easily be looked at as a rebuilding year for this year's team, which rode the arms of two freshman pitchers to a 27-21 mark.
 The Wildcats will probably need to win a game or two in the conference tournament to secure a spot in the regional tournament. That they are in this position to begin with is not only worthy of two big thumbs up, but give Wildcat fans hope for some really good things coming out of the softball program in the next few years. With the incoming recruits and a young, more experienced team coming back next year, Wayne State softball should be pretty interesting to watch in 2013.

From the "put all your eggs in one basket" department comes this stat line of the week - Winside's boys scored a whopping 34 points in just two events at Saturday's Wausa Invitational.
 The Wildcat boys did the bulk of their damage at the meet in the discus and shot put, grabbing three medals in each event. Garrett Waters and Blaine Meyer were first-place finishers and led Winside's assault on the throwing events Saturday.

Wayne State's football team showed some good signs at Saturday's scrimmage.
 The best news had to be the return of Cyle Schultz at quarterback, as he threw for a couple of touchdowns in the intrasquad scrimmage last week.
 As you may remember, Schultz suffered a brutal season-ending injury on the third play from scrimmage against Nebraska-Kearney last year, suffering a broken hip when he went down awkwardly on a Loper sack.
 I happened to be watching the play through my camera, and even without the benefit of slow motion (which, I understand, the ETV network made liberal use of in showing Schultz's injury in action), I could tell that was not a good situation and wondered if we would see him back on the field again.
 Schultz's effort at quarterback last week is a good sign for Wayne State, who needs a quarterback to step in and take over the reins this season. Wayne State managed a 7-4 record with a two-platoon setup at quarterback last year, but is going to need a consistent leader at that position if they want to contend in the Northern Sun this fall.
 I'm sure coach Dan McLaughlin will want to have that position solidified by the time fall practice rolls around this August. Knowing who's running the show on offense this season is going to go a long way toward the Wildcats' success on the gridiron in 2012.

 In the nightcap, Wayne State struck for five runs in the first inning and made the most of some two-out rallies later in the game to salvage the split.
 "Eric (Schwieger) struggled in the fourth inning, but he settled down and pitched seven good innings for us and our guys swung the bats well and had some clutch hits," Disch said.
 Nolen's two-run double was the big hit in the five-run first inning while Travis Parsons and Jake Ritzdorf contributed RBI hits.
 Wayne State had 14 hits in the win, as Nolen led a balanced hitting attack, going 3-for-5 with three RBI's while Justin Beranek also went 3-for-5 with a double and two runs scored. Acosta, Travis Parsons and Jake Ritzdorf each banged out two hits.
 Schwieger pitched seven strong innings to record the win, giving up just five hits and three runs with five strikeouts and two walks.
 On Monday, junior reliever Jerad Barth earned a win and a save to lead Wayne State in a 3-2 and 6-3 sweep to improve the team's record to 25-13 (16-8 NSIC).
 The Wildcats made the most of their five hits and scored the game-winning run in the top of the seventh.
 "Jake hit a no-doubt homer to get the guys fired up, and we responded to it," Disch said.
 After Southwest took a 1-0 lead in the second inning, Wayne State scored twice in the top of the fourth for a 2-1 lead. Jake Ritzdorf led off the inning with his third homer of the season to tie the score, with the other run coming in when Nolen singled and later scored on a Brett Keim sacrifice fly.
 The Mustangs scored in the bottom of the fourth to tie the score at 2-2, but Wayne State came up with the game's biggest run in the top of the seventh. Luke Abkes led off the inning with a single. Pinch runner Mike Servais moved to second on a sacrifice bunt and scored when Justin Beranek reached on a Mustangs fielding error for the eventual game-winning run.

 The host Mustangs put the tying run on third base in the bottom of the seventh, but Wildcat reliever Jerad Barth struck out SMSU's Ben Korger to end the game sealing the 3-2 win.
 The second game saw the Wildcats rally from a 3-0 deficit, scoring six runs in the sixth and seventh innings while four different Wildcat pitchers held the Mustangs to five hits.
 Trailing 3-0 entering the sixth inning, Wayne State plated four runs to take a 4-3 lead.
 Keim led off the inning with a double and scored on a Parsons single. Parsons later scored on a Nolen RBI groundout to make the score 3-2. Mike Bisenius and Michael Herman both drew walks and scored on a Beranek single to put the Wildcats ahead to stay.
 Wayne State added two more runs in the seventh, thanks to a two-run single by Ritzdorf. Barth came on in relief, getting the Wildcats out of a bases-loaded jam in the eighth to preserve the win.
 Parsons was 2-for-3 with two runs scored to lead a nine-hit attack. Ritzdorf finished 2-for-4 with two RBI's while Michael Herman added two hits.
 The Wildcats swept the weekday series with Upper Iowa on Wednesday, as the Wildcats won 8-4 and 3-2.
 Wayne State scored four runs in the fourth to break a 2-2 tie in the opener, capped by a two-run single from Mike Frericks. Ritzdorf was 3-for-3 with two RBI's and Bisenius went 2-for-4 with two RBI's, including a homer. Beranek and Parsons both had two hits, and Austen Wisroth picked up the win on the mound.
 In the nightcap, Wayne State scored two in the third to take the lead and hang on for the win. Ritzdorf was 3-for-4 with an RBI and Beranek added two hits for Tadd Johansen, who went seven innings to get the win, striking out four and scattering seven hits.

 "He came back after that rough third inning and shut them down, but we just couldn't hold them off. They're a good hitting team," Hoffman said.

Wayne was able to avoid the shutout in the bottom of the seventh when Bernal and Bradley Longe hit back-to-back singles. Bernal hustled to third on Longe's hit and later scored on a groundout by Steve Sherman.

 Doorlag struck out five and allowed six hits, six walks and two hit batters in the losing effort. Columbus' Smejkal countered with a solid outing, striking out seven and allowing just three hits.
 "Their pitcher hit his spots all night and kept us off balance and we couldn't adjust," Hoffman said. "We've got to be able to adjust to that, and did later in the game and hit the ball hard, but they were right at people."
 In JV action, Columbus also came away with a 10-6 win, holding off a late Wayne rally. Curtis Moeller and Jacob Lutt each had two hits. Lutt and Ramsey Jorgensen both scored twice and Moeller had two RBI's. Brook Bowers also had an RBI single and Sherman scored a run. Lutt took the loss on the mound.
 On Tuesday, the Blue Devils' bats were slowed down by Guardian Angels Central Catholic, as they limited Wayne to five hits in a 2-0 win.

 The Bluejays scored a run in the second and another in the fourth and made those two runs stand up, dropping the Blue Devils to 5-9 on the season.
 Gage Rethwisch pitched well in a losing effort, limiting Guardian Angels to just three hits and striking out five. He helped his cause with a single, while Bernal, Longe, Danny Melena and Grant Anderson also added hits.
 In JV action, Guardian Angels scored late to post a 9-3 win over Wayne. Moeller doubled, Jorgensen scored two runs and Longe singled and scored a run for the Wayne JV.
 Wayne High closes the regular season with a home game Thursday against South Sioux City and a road game against Platte Valley Friday in Ashland. They will begin district play next week, with time and opponent not determined at press time.

Interviews with Wildcat coaches and highlights from each week's events Available Tuesdays (Baseball) Wednesdays (Softball) Thursdays (Track and Field) during the 2011-12 season on mywaynenews.com mywaynenews.com's Michael Carnes sits down each week to talk to Wayne State coaches about their team's efforts throughout the 2012 season. We'll recap the previous week's games and talk about upcoming opponents.

Weather not a factor for Wayne track

Battling cool winds and wet conditions, Wayne High track and field athletes saw action at two meets on Thursday, competing in Schuyler and Pierce.

Coach Dale Hochstein said both squads performed well in adverse circumstances.

"The kids did a great job competing and set several personal bests despite the conditions," he said.

At the Schuyler meet, Wayne's girls finished fourth overall while the boys placed fifth.

In girls action, Ashton Schweers led a 1-3-6 finish in the high jump, followed by Sarah Maxson and Katie Hoskins, respectively.

Wayne finished in the top three in all three relays, led by a win in the 400-meter relay with the team of Caitlin Fehringer, Cassie Heier, Marissa Fallesen and Jalyne Zeiss. The 1,600-meter relay was second, while the 3,200-meter relay placed third.

Fehringer and Fallesen both came away with runner-up medals on the day for the Wayne girls. Fehringer was second in both the 100- and 300-meter hurdles, while Fallesen took second in the long jump.

On the boys side, the Blue Devils won one event on the day as the 3,200-meter relay of Sawyer Jager, Ben Hoskins, Quentin Jorgensen and Tyler Ellis broke the tape in first place.

Jorgensen had a pair of runner-up finishes in the 1,600 and 3,200, while Demetrius Alexander had a four-medal day, capped by a third in the 200.

In the Pierce meet, the Wayne girls scored 13 points and were led by Narelle Naeve, who finished fourth in the 800; and the 3,200-meter relay of Naeve, Emma Evetovich, Hannah Kenny and Abbie Hix, which also placed fourth.

Wayne's boys scored two points in the Pierce meet, as Cornelio Espino placed sixth in the 3,200 and the 1,600-meter relay of Espino, Wyatt Martian, Kody Frahm and Jason Holt finished sixth.

Next action for the Wayne High team is this Saturday's Mid-State Conference meet at Norfolk Catholic.

Paige Barry shot a final-round 91 to lead the Wayne State women's golf team in the final segment of the 2011-12 Northern Sun Conference Women's Golf Championship that concluded Sunday at the Dacotah Ridge Golf Course in Morton, Minn.

Saturday's round was cancelled due to rain and weather warnings in the Morton area as Wayne State finished the 54-hole event in 10th place with a team score of 1,171 after shooting a 419 in Sunday's final round.

The senior from Battle Creek was the top Wayne State finisher, coming in 34th a 54-hole score of 271 after shooting rounds of 93, 87 and 91. Senior Emily Dillon was next for the Wildcats in 48th with rounds of 106, 104 and 103 for a 313.

Other Wildcat finishers during this weekend's spring segment were Sarah Phinney with a 103 and Tabitha Evans shot 115.

Augustana repeated as conference champion with a 926, 54 shots ahead of second place Concordia-St. Paul. The meet concludes the 2011-12 season for the Wayne State College women's golf team.

Carnes in Pool HOF

Winside native Kim (Lage) Carnes was recently inducted into the Midwest Pool Association's Hall of Fame.

Carnes was honored during a banquet Saturday in Lincoln, marking 25 years of competitive billiards play for the 1980 Winside High graduate. She began playing in Beatrice and qualified to play in the Midwest Singles tournament for the first time two years later.

Carnes played in leagues in Lincoln for a number of years and competed in local, regional and national tournaments. She made her tournament debut at the BCA Tournament in Denver, Colo., in 1990.

Carnes has been heavily involved in working brackets for the Midwest Tournament and has helped make it a successful tournament year in and year out.

WSC signs Lehmann

Wayne State women's basketball coach Chris Kielsmeier announced that Shantel Lehmann of Wadena, Iowa has signed a national letter of intent to play basketball for the Wildcats in 2012-13.

Lehmann is a 6-foot-3 center transferring to Wayne State after playing two seasons at Kirkwood (Iowa) Community College. She helped Kirkwood to a 32-4 record and a sixth-place finish at the Div. II Junior College National Tournament, as the Eagles won the Region XI title while going a perfect 16-0 in the Iowa Community College Athletic Conference.

Lehmann also excelled in the classroom, earning academic all-region honors, and will have two years of eligibility with the Wildcats. She is a graduate of Valley Community High School in Elgin, Iowa and was a second-team Class 1A All-State selection in her senior season after averaging 15.4 points, 8.9 rebounds and 1.2 blocks per game while helping her team to a 26-3 record.

"Shantel will give us depth in the post position," Kielsmeier said. "She played at an elite junior college program that expects to win at the highest level every year. Shantel knows how to win and has the size and athleticism to be an all-around complete player. We are very excited to add Shantel to the Wildcat family."

Lehmann joins Katie Hoskins of Wayne, Whitney Olson of Cambridge, Minnesota, Addy Roller of Purdy, Missouri and Morgan VanDerSloot of Ida Grove, Iowa as the fifth member of the 2012 Wildcat recruiting class.

Wildcats split with rated foes, secure spot in tourney

One might be able to excuse Wayne State softball coach Krista Wood from taking her team to the postseason this year after losing so many key players from a team that earned back-to-back trips to regionals the previous two years.

The young Wildcats would hear nothing of it, though, securing a spot in this weekend's conference tournament - and putting themselves in position for a possible regional bid - after closing out the regular season with splits against two top-25 teams.

"We had two tough doubleheaders this week with No. 10 Winona and No. 18 Augustana and split with both of them, and I can't ask for anything more," she said. "Both games in both doubleheaders were close, and we're starting to pick up our play."

On Wednesday, Sara Scheffert fired a two-hit shutout and Kaiti Williams blasted a two-run homer to help Wayne State pick up a split with Winona State. The Wildcats captured the opener 2-0, while the Warriors earned a 5-1 win in the second contest.

The story of the first game was the pitching of Scheffert and the hitting of Williams as the two freshmen led the Wildcats over the nationally-ranked Warriors.

The only scoring of the game came in the third inning when Vicki Nielsen was hit by the pitch, followed by a Williams home run to left center. That's all Scheffert would need, as she fired a two-hitter, striking out six while walking just one batter.

Wayne State had four hits in the win, highlighted by Williams going 2-for-3 with a homer and two RBIs. Nielsen and Brittany Greenwood each added singles.

In the second game, Winona State scored three in the sixth to break open a close game and salvage the split.

Winona State opened the score with a run in the first, but Wayne State came back in the second to tie the score as Kelcie Bormann walked and later scored on a groundout by Megan Hagemann.

Winona State took the lead for good with a run in the fourth, and added three insurance runs in the sixth as they outhit Wayne State 7-4.

Dani Sandel was 2-for-4 with a pair of singles, while Bormann doubled while Nielsen singled. Bormann suffered the pitching loss, allowing five runs on six hits over 5 2/3 innings.

On Saturday, the Wildcats rode the arm of Scheffert once again, as she tossed a three-hitter to help Wayne State take the opener 1-0 before Augustana won the nightcap, 3-2.

"We hit the ball really well in both games, but Sara pitched a great game for us and was really tough on the mound and mixed up her pitches and kept them off balance," Wood said.

Wayne State won the opener despite leaving 12 runners on base. The lone run of the game came in the fifth when Nielsen reached on a fielder's choice with one out and scored on a double to center by Kaiti Williams.

Scheffert improved to 12-8 on the season with the shutout, allowing three hits while striking out one and walking four. King was 3-for-4 at the plate, while Williams finished 2-for-3 with a double and an RBI. Nielsen also contributed two singles to highlight the 10-hit attack.

The Wildcats outhit Augustana again in the second game but the Vikings came away with the win.

Sandel opened the game with a homer to put the Wildcats up early, but Augustana scored single runs in the first, third and fifth innings to go on to the win.

Wayne State had a chance to come back, however. After loading the bases with nobody out in the sixth, Ashley Prettyman reached on an error, scoring Williams to cut the lead to a single run. The Wildcats left the bases loaded, however, and could not complete the comeback.

"It was disappointing (not getting the sweep), but when you're playing No. 18 on the road, it's nice to come away with a split at their place," Wood said.

Sandel was 3-for-4 with a solo homer in the losing effort for the Wildcats.

in Rochester, Minn. The double-elimination tournament continues through Saturday, with the winner getting the automatic bid for next week's regional tournament.

The Wildcats are the eighth seed in the tournament with a 27-21 overall record, going 13-13 in the NSIC this season, and Wood is excited about her team's chances in the tournament.

"It's a good thing now, because we tend to play up to good teams' levels, and from now on we're playing good teams so I hope we keep playing like that," she said. "We'll go out and give it all we've got. There's no pressure on these kids, so we have nothing to lose."

Wildcats win 10 events at Wesleyan meet

LINCOLN - Wayne State's track and field teams had some breakthrough performances and added some NCAA provisional marks Saturday at the Prairie Wolf Outdoor Invitational on the campus of Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Sophomore thrower Carly Fehring of Wayne recorded two NCAA provisional marks as the Wildcats won 10 events Saturday.

The Wildcat women recorded seven first-place finishes as senior Paige Pollard swept the 100 and 400 meter hurdles. Fehring had two NCAA provisional marks, winning the shot put with a toss of 46 feet, 10 inches, and taking second in the hammer throw at 178 feet, 4 inches.

Other wins were noted by Nicole Brungardt in the 200-meter dash, Sidney Blum in the triple jump, Emily Wells in the discus and the 1,600-meter relay team.

On the men's side, Wayne State recorded three first-place finishes, led by senior Ross Bunchek, who notched another win in the hammer throw with a heave of 206 feet, 9 inches.

"Ross has been really consistent, and he's getting ready to throw in the Drake Relays this weekend," Brink said. "He's probably seeded third overall going in, and his consistency will pay off there against some really good Div. I competition. It will be a great chance to see how he stacks up."

Freshman Jon Williams threw a season-best at 181 feet, 5 inches to win the javelin for the third time this season. Wayne native Zach Thomsen also won the 800-meter run in a time of 1:55.25.

Senior Alex Timperley was second in the triple jump, third in the 200-meter dash and eighth in the long jump.

fighter." There might have been one time where things weren't looking good. That was when she finished the first round of chemo. It didn't come back clean, forcing Schmidt to spend Christmas and New Years in the hospital.

"That was pretty much the one time where I got bad news," Schmidt said.

Fighters don't let others feel sorry for them. Schmidt was no different with the visitors who came and saw her... and there were a lot of them. There were, on average, seven to 10 visitors that came to see Schmidt daily during her stay at Immanuel Medical Center in Omaha. Not to mention her mom, Denise, who stayed with her every night. "In the hospital I was always happy. People would ask me 'What are you so happy about,'" Schmidt said. "I always kept a positive outlook and never let anything get me down."

Teammate Kallee Pheiffer, a left fielder from Missouri Valley, Iowa, was impressed with Schmidt after visiting, and came away with a new outlook on the upcoming season.

"When we found out she had cancer, we were shocked," Pheiffer said. "After we went to visit her, I thought she was one of the toughest people I know. She was laughing and joking with us. To see her up beat like that made it a lot easier for us."

Throughout this whole ordeal, you could probably count the number of times Schmidt was scared on your hand. But there was one instance where she found herself at the lowest point of the experience.

"The chemo and everything, none of that scared me except losing my hair," Schmidt said. "That was the only thing I cried about. "When I started losing my hair, we shaved my head," Schmidt said. "But we had fun with it. We put a mullet and a Mohawk in. So I never really had the experience of seeing it gone."

As you can imagine, Schmidt wasn't the only one who was impacted. The team lost a pitcher and a friend.

But there was one thing they gained.

"When she came back, it was fuel to our fire," Pheiffer said. "If she can beat cancer, we can beat all these teams we play. It just makes us that much stronger."

Schmidt is fully recovered now, and continues to pitch for the Wildcats this season. Her story isn't over yet, just like the season.

"Having a member on the team that has beaten cancer is a true inspiration for me and our program," Wood said. "Stephanie is a very strong individual who battled through many things that most of us will never experience in our lifetime."

"I am proud of her."

Golfers battle weather at meets

The Wayne boys golf teams were in action on the same day Thursday at the Columbus Scotus Invite at Quail Run and the Lutheran High Northeast Invite at Norfolk Country Club.

Both teams battled adverse weather conditions, with the varsity placing eighth at Quail Run with a 377.

"It was a miserable day," coach Dave Hix said. "Both weather-wise and our performance. We need to focus on hitting shots from 120-160 yards, because that seemed to be our biggest struggle at Quail Run. We aren't disciplined enough yet on the course."

Wahoo Neumann won the team event with a 335, with Hastings St. Cecelia placing runner-up 10 strokes back. Logan View, Scotus, Norfolk Catholic, Norfolk High JV's, Elgin Pope John finished ahead of the Blue Devils, with Fremont Bergan, Columbus Lakeview, Columbus JV's, Waverly, Schuyler, Boone Central, Scotus JV's, West Point Guardian Angels, Lakeview JV's and West Point Beemer placing behind them.

St. Cecelia's Mike Hannon was individual medalist with a 75, while Mitch Swanson of Neumann was second at 77. Wayne had no medal winners in the top 15, with Kaje Maly leading the way with a 90 while Ezra Brodersen carded a 91 and Sean Ganseboom, 97. Tyler Schoh followed with a 99. Jared Peterson's 103 was not included in the team total.

Wayne's JV team placed seventh at the LHNE varsity invite with a 383. Battle Creek won the team title with a 347, followed by Pierce at 360 and Wisner-Pilger, 365. Madison, Ponca and Niobrara-Verdigre finished ahead of Wayne. Creighton, Crofton, Lutheran High and Wakefield rounded out the field of teams in order.

Wayne was led by Ryan Grosz with a 92. He tied for the 20th place medal, but lost on a tie-breaker. Eric Schoh followed with a 93 while Andrew Pulfer and Max Morris each carded 99's. White beats Black in WSC spring game

Wayne State's football team closed out 2012 spring football drills Saturday morning with its annual season-ending scrimmage at Cunningham Field, with the White (offense) recording a 38-22 win over the Black (defense).

Junior quarterback Cyle Schultz, who suffered a dislocated hip on the third play from scrimmage in last year's season opener against Nebraska-Kearney, looked sharp, throwing two touchdown strikes while running for another. Schultz found Cole McDaniel on an eight-yard play and Adam Stark on a 50-yard strike, while also scampering for a six-yard score.

Other offensive scores included a 38-yard field goal by Max Martin and a six-yard scoring pass from University of San Diego transfer quarterback Brody Rohach to McDaniel.

Defensively, sophomore defensive tackle had two sacks in the contest while Ben Radel recorded an interception. Dylan Tolbert, Tyson McGill and Jake Wright were also credited with sacks for the Wildcats.

Wayne State opens the 2012 season at MSU Moorhead on Saturday, Sept. 1 at 1 p.m.

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes
Managing Editor

Bullying editorial points out need to address issue

It's not often that this columnist hands out kudos to neighboring media outlets, but an editorial by one of the regional dailies is certainly worthy of kudos.

In Sunday's Sioux City Journal, the newspaper took a rare opportunity to offer a front-page editorial on the bullying problem that continues to affect, if not destroy, young lives.

The editorial was prompted by the recent suicide of a 14-year-old student at South O'Brien High School in Paulina, Iowa, who became the target of local bullies shortly after telling friends he was gay. The bullying didn't stop until the young man took his own life.

Many of us adults have, at one point in our lives, been the target of a bully. Personally, I can vividly recall two individuals in my school, both a year older than I, who seemed to make it their lot in life to make sure mine was a living hell. The physical attacks, the intimidation and the mean-spirited manner in which they treated me – and encouraged others in the school to follow suit – were a part of my daily existence until the time they graduated.

As much as their families celebrated their graduation day, I can assure you that nobody was happier than I was to see those two walk down the aisle and on their way to a life away from the school I was attending. By comparison to my five years of dealing with those jerks, my senior year in high school was like spring break every day.

Sadly, this phenomenon continues to exist in our communities and, more important, in our schools. Not a day goes by when one student is intimidated or bullied by someone who doesn't seem to understand the kind of impact their actions have on a young, developing individual.

Some kids are faced with the terror of knowing that a bully can be right around the next corner. One of mine sat in the same trumpet section I was in. Although I was the more talented player, I was intimidated to the point where I intentionally tanked my tryout, just so I could sit two chairs down from him and avoid the daily harassment.

And there was no point in talking with anybody in authority at my school. Telling a kid to grow up and deal with it like a man is hardly an option when that kid is not only outnumbered, but outsize by those who are the ones creating the problems.

It's a problem some kids, even more than a generation later, still have to deal with. It's hard enough to get a child to talk with an adult about his or her struggles, but when the adult – many times a school administrator with the power to take care of the problem – seems unwilling to help take care of the situation, where else is a bullying victim to turn?

Events like Thursday's balloon launch by Stand For The Silent go a long way to help shine a light on the problem. There are children in this community who need to be dealt with on this topic – from the children who are victims to the bullies themselves, some of whom seem to be encouraged by the actions (or lack thereof) of the parental figures in their lives.

This is an issue that is not going to go away easily, or quickly. It is up to the adults – from the parents to the school administrators in each community – to take a proactive and forceful stance against those who would bully our children.

As was pointed out in the Sioux City Journal's editorial, it is time for us to stand up and be heard, and most important, to not back down from this issue. If we do, we shouldn't be the least bit surprised when – not if – the day comes when one of our area schools must face the tragedy that comes as the result of these senseless acts of violence that ultimately result in one of our children's untimely death.

Governor chides Legislature

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN – Gov. Dave Heineman chose not to say goodbye to the 2012 Legislature in person or via official message.

In foregoing the usual gubernatorial bye-bye he nonetheless said something to the legislative majority. Heineman obviously wished the proverbial door would hit them in their collective backsides as they took their leave.

Lawmakers slapped down two major Heineman vetoes during their final business day, and he was furious.

With the minimum 30 votes needed, senators approved a measure that will again allow the state to provide prenatal services to needy pregnant women who are in the country illegally.

Also enacted without a vote to spare was a measure allowing city councils – with supermajority approval – to let voters decide whether to raise local sales tax rates by a half cent.

The governor predicted long-term political consequences for those who opposed him. In a prepared statement he said: "Today, the majority of the Nebraska Legislature decided their priorities are: Providing taxpayer funded benefits to illegal immigrants and increasing the sales tax rate on the citizens of Nebraska."

"I strongly disagree with their decisions. Providing preferential treatment to illegals while increasing taxes on legal Nebraska citizens is misguided, misplaced and inappropriate."

Legislative Update

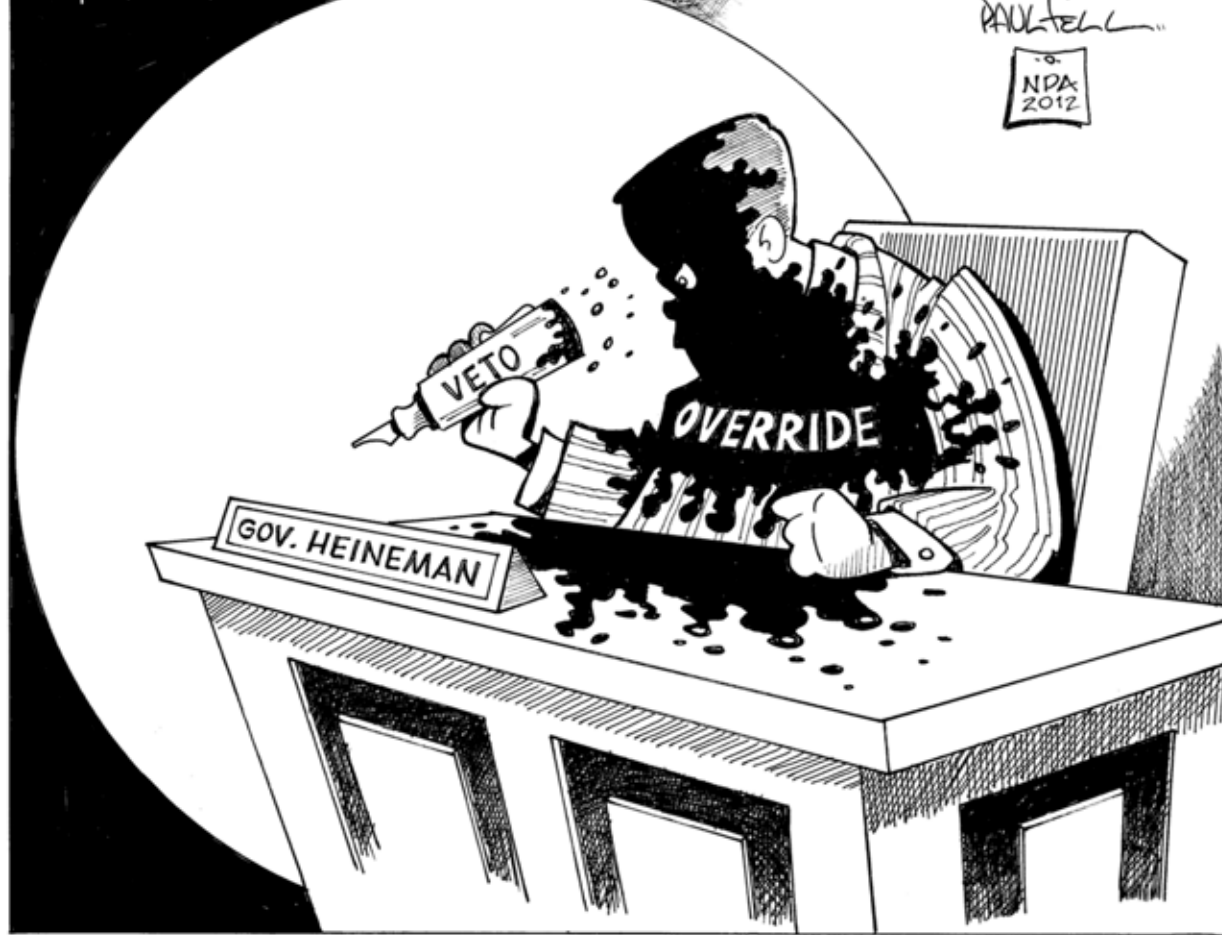

Session finishes with veto overrides

The 2012 legislative session is over, and unless there is a special session, the Legislature will not convene again until next January.

The Legislature wrapped up its 60-day session on April 18, with the majority of the day being spent on dealing with the Governor's vetoes of four different bills. At the end of the day, two vetoes were overridden and became law: LB357 allows an increase in city sales tax with the approval of the voters in that city; and LB599 provides prenatal care for low-income women who do not qualify for Medicaid assistance (including women who are not in this Country legally).

Two vetoes were sustained and will not become law: LB806 would have allowed parimutuel wagering on historic horse races; and LB1020 would have helped fund school-based health centers. I originally voted against all four bills on

www.paulfellcartoons.com

Heineman said denying care to "illegals" who are expectant mothers was necessary to discourage illegal immigration. Providing such care encourages illegal immigration, he argued.

Supporters, including Nebraska Right to Life, said it is a pro-life issue that takes precedence over immigration politics. Some also argued that jobs, not care for pregnant women, draws illegal immigrants.

The program is expected to cost the state about $600,000 annually. The feds kick in another $1.9 million.

The fight over allowing a city's voters to decide whether to increase their local sales tax rate reflected a political issue as old as Nebraska: local control.

Whether the subject is school district organization or tax policy, local governments have always argued for the maximum amount of control to be vested in local government, whether directly or through the ballot box.

Critics of the bill argued that the central issue these days centers on difficult economic times and that taxes ought to be reduced wherever possible, and that tax increases should be avoided.

Legislative Update

By Dave Bloomfield
State Senator, District 17

The truancy laws were changed under LB933. Children with excused absences will now be treated differently than those children who are unexcused.

Oral cancer treatments will be treated the same as intravenously administered or injected cancer medications on cancer insurance policies following the passage of LB882. This relatively new and successful method of treatment is much easier for the patient.

The three bills I introduced this year were all passed by the Legislature and signed by Governor Heineman. LB723 made a technical change in the Nebraska Safe Drinking Water Act. LB1083 ensures that licensed nurses can take care of family members in their homes for pay. LB1122 highlights the importance of private duty nurses and the quality of services provided in home health care in Nebraska.

Governor Dave Heineman held a private signing ceremony for my priority bill, LB907, on Wednesday, April 18. This bill makes changes in the tractor testing laws and will help both farmers and equipment dealers in Nebraska. LB907 also acknowledges the good work done at testing labs such as the one on the University of Nebraska East Campus.

My staff and I will continue to be available during the interim period. It is my intent, just as I did last year, to continue with this weekly "newsletter" to help keep you informed. Please call the Lincoln office, (402) 471-2716, or e-mail me at dbloomfield@leg.ne.gov if we can be of assistance.

made to the foster care program, including changes to the Nebraska Foster Care Review state board and interim executive director, studying the foster care system and developing a fair, statewide program to properly reimburse our many dedicated foster parents. Several other bills passed that also deal with child care. I think this is the most important thing we have done as lawmakers this year.

A scaled-down yet important tax relief package was passed (LB970), which allows lower and middle income earners to keep more of their money. We were not able to get rid of the inheritance tax, or the do anything with the corporate income tax laws.

Local students win Optimist Club Oratorical Contest

Raychel Wyatt and Andrew Simpson recently won the Club Level Contest of the Optimist International Oratorical Contest sponsored by the Wayne Optimist Club by presenting a 4-5 minute speech on "How my Optimism Helps me Overcome Obstacles."

Raychel, a junior at Emerson-Hubbard Senior High School, is the daughter of Patrick McKeever of Hubbard. Andrew, the son of Jeff and Colleen Simpson of Wayne, is a home schooled student who is in the eighth grade.

First conducted in 1928, the Optimist International Oratorical Contest continues to be one of the most popular programs of Optimist International. The Oratorical Contest awards $159,000 annually in scholarships to youth educated in the United States, Canada, or the Caribbean.

As students prepare for the future, they need experience expressing their thoughts and opinions to an audience. The Oratorical Contest challenges them to do just that and also offers an opportunity to earn college scholarships. Nearly 2,000 clubs around the world participate in this program each year. Students are asked to write and deliver a speech on the official topic in front of an audience and three judges.

Optimist members or qualified members of the community are selected to be judges in this academic contest where boys and girls compete separately for the opportunity to win and earn scholarship money.

The Wayne Optimist Club has been participating in this project for more than 10 years but seldom has more than one or two students competing each year.

According to Club President Kim Dunklau, "The Wayne Optimist Club decided to award a scholarship along with the first place medallion to the boy and girl winners this year in an effort to generate more interest and involvement in this outstanding program sponsored by Optimist International."

Dr. Deborah Whitt, chair of the Communication Arts Department at Wayne State College assisted the Wayne Optimist Club by providing three upper level Communications students to serve as judges for the local contest. Joe Whitt, the head judge said, "Both Raychel and Andrew did a wonderful job presenting their speeches on this topic and are excellent young communicators with bright futures."

Both of these young speakers received a gold medal for their presentation and have been awarded a $250 college scholarship by the Wayne Optimist Club. These two students also have the opportunity to advance to the District Level of the Oratorical Contest where they will compete for additional college scholarships of up to $2500.

Club Contest Chairperson Cindy Von Fange said, "For the last several years there have been fewer than 12 students from across Nebraska competing at the District Level, so our local winners have an excellent opportunity to receive one of the three scholarships provided by the Optimist International Foundation (first place) and Pinnacle Bank (second and third places) that are awarded at the next level."

She went on to say that while the scholarship didn't increase participation in the contest this year, she hopes that the Club will continue to offer the scholarship and looks forward to hearing "Why My Voice is Important" from students entering the 2012-2013 Optimist International Oratorical Contest next spring.

Providing insight into child development Anniversary — Birthday

Social and emotional skills are a necessity in early childhood development, especially in regard to school success.

Research in early childhood development has shown a link between a child's social and emotional health and his or her readiness for school. This is important because 20 percent of kindergarten teachers report children entering school don't have those necessary skills to succeed. In Nebraska, one goal is for all young children to have access to services, resources and informed caregivers that can effectively meet their social and emotional needs.

Some of these needs include home and classroom environments that allow children to explore their world freely while intentionally modeling and teaching positive social behaviors. Often times, when children bite, yell or hit, it's because they don't have more appropriate behaviors or skills to communicate or accomplish a particular goal.

UNL Extension educators and members of the Learning Child Team strive to provide strategies for teaching those skills instead of focusing on ways parents and teachers can help children stop using those challenging behaviors.

The Learning Team has developed several NebGuide publications that are available to families, educators and healthcare providers which provide specific strategies on ways to promote healthy social and emotional growth and development.

Residential Sales

3 great reasons to "green" your home before you sell.

Today it seems like everybody is talking about "green" ideas. With Earth Day just days ago, it is a great time to remind people that "green" can also sell houses.

1. Green homes sell faster. Buyers today are looking for green technology in the homes they are purchasing. When buyers are comparing houses, the houses with energy saving features are typically more desirable than those that do not have green technology.

2. Sellers can save money. By upgrading to better windows, a heat pump, or more insulation, sellers can save money immediately on utility bills. Buyers also look at utility bills as a way to choose between homes.

3. You can be more comfortable! Homeowners who "green" their homes say their homes are much more comfortable when there aren't any drafty areas. Also the homeowners say how much quieter things are with new windows. Having your home comfortable can be very rewarding.

Selling your home faster, saving money while selling, and being comfortable are 3 great reasons to green your home! If you have questions, call (402-375-3385) or email me at wendy@mwlco.net

Legion Auxiliary holds April 10 meeting

The Irvin L. Sears Ladies Auxiliary 43 met April 10 at the home of Eveline Thompson.

The meeting was opened by President Beverly Etter with colors in place. The POW/MIA flag was placed on the empty chair for missing veterans. A prayer was also offered.

The opening prayer was given by President Beverly Etter and was followed by the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag. The Unit citation Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion Auxiliary was recited.

The minutes were read and approved.

Treasurer Eveline Thompson gave the treasurer's report.

The Norfolk Veterans Home requested the presence of members at the annual Volunteer Award Program which was held April 13 at the Knights of Columbus Hall. A reception was held from 5:30-6:30 p.m. Guest speaker was Duane Hodge, former Norfolk Veterans Home Administrator. Attending were Eveline Thompson and Harold E. Thompson, Jr.

A certificate of service was given to the Wayne American Legion Ladies Auxiliary 43. This was official recognition and appreciation for volunteer service.

A 500 to 749 hour certificate was awarded to Harold E. Thompson, Jr. and a 750 to 999 hour certificate to Eveline Thompson.

Wayne County Government Day was held April 4 at the Wayne National Guard Armory. A total of 98 people were served that day. Bonnie Otte and Eveline Thompson from Wayne American Legion Auxiliary 43 helped serve the noon meal and brought brownies.

The Heroes Park Foundation conducted a press conference on April 13 at the Norfolk Veterans Home. The group will begin working late in April for the Heroes Park. Harold E. Thompson, Jr. and Eveline Thompson attended the meeting.

Closing ceremonies were conducted according to ritual. The closing prayer was read and the group conducted the Little Red Schoolhouse March for scholarships.

President Beverly Etter closed the meeting to re-open May 15 at 2 p.m. at the Eveline Thompson residence.

Order of Eastern Star holds monthly meeting

Wayne Chapter 194 Order of Eastern Star held its regularly scheduled meeting on April 16 with Worthy Matron Julie Claybaugh presiding.

Julie Osnes and Lynn Kramer gave a report on the Chicken a la King dinner which was held April 12. The dinner was very successful and many positive comments were heard by those attending. A huge "thank you" was extended to everyone for all their help and support.

Julie Osnes reported on working in the concession stand at the Majestic Theatre. The dates for working in the concession stand are July 12-15. This is also Chicken Days weekend. She suggested that this could be a joint effort with the Mason and members are encouraged to contact her concerning their availability to help. There are several time frames to be filled. Organizations willing to work in the concession stand receive a percentage of the proceeds for their efforts.

Linda Teach provided information concerning the academic scholarships provided by the chapter. Applications have been received and are currently being reviewed for final selection.

There was information concerning Nebraska Grand Chapter which will be held May 8-10 in Lincoln. This is the final year that Grand Chapter will be held in Lincoln. Beginning in 2013, Grand Chapter will be held in Kearney.

The April birthdays and anniversaries were read and acknowledged. Information was shared concerning those members who are ill or in distress.

The Charter was draped in memory of departed member Sister Mary Lou Reeger. A memorial in her name will be sent to the Masonic Home for Children in Fremont.

After the business meeting, a lunch was served, with Joan Marr chairing the serving committee.

The next meeting will be May 21 at 7 p.m. with Ardyce Stanley chairing the serving committee.

The Reason for Your Sneezin'

Winter is milder than usual in many parts of the country this year. Warmer weather has brought earlier pollination of trees and you guessed it - an earlier hay fever season as well. If you suffer from hay fever, buckle your seat belt. You and about 35 million other people may be in for a rougher ride not only this year, but also in years to come.¹

But what exactly is hay fever? And how can you know for sure whether your sniffles and sneezes are due to a late winter cold or an early hay fever attack? Hay fever is a nasal allergic reaction to airborne particles such as pollen from trees, grasses, and weeds. It's more likely to be hay fever than a cold if your symptoms last longer than a week or so and your nasal discharge is clear. Also, colds can cause body aches and fevers, but allergies don't.²

The symptoms of hay fever may include: Runny or stuffy nose; Sneezing; Coughing, along with postnasal drip; Itchy eyes, nose, and throat; Dark circles under the eyes; Sore throat or hoarse voice; Facial pressure or pain; Fatigue.^{3,4}

You can do many things to ease the discomfort of allergies. First, track pollen counts in your area. In general, it may help you to know that pollen levels tend to be highest in the morning during ragweed pollen season (late summer and early fall). They tend to be highest in the evening during grass pollen season (spring and summer). And, as you probably already know - sunny, windy days are often the worst.⁵

See if you need help selecting over-the-counter allergy medicines such as nasal sprays and rinses and oral medication. I can also answer your questions about any prescription medications you might need. And if your hay fever is really wreaking havoc, ask an allergist about whether you're a good candidate for allergy shots. They can provide long-term relief by making you less sensitive to pollen.⁶

Mobile Food Pantry coming

A mobile food pantry will be at First United Methodist Church in Wayne, 516 Main Street, on Saturday, April 28 from 10-11:30 a.m. The food pantry is supported by the church and those in need are encouraged to come get food at no cost. There are no income or residency requirements for obtaining the food, the majority of which is non-perishable. The mobile food pantry is a traveling food pantry that delivers food directly to families in need. The goal is to provide food wherever there is need. No appointment is necessary to obtain the food. According to Pastor Pete Phillips of First United Methodist Church, the plan is to have the food pantry available on the last Saturday of each month in April, May, June and July and then assess the needs of the community to determine if it continues making monthly visits. Those planning to visit the mobile pantry are asked to bring boxes or bags to assist carrying the food. For more information, call the church office at (402) 375-2231.

Fifth Sunday event at Our Savior Lutheran

On Sunday, April 29 at 3 p.m. the Wayne community has the opportunity to participate in the next 5th Sunday Music Event. It is called "Come Together and Worship" and will be hosted by Our Savior Lutheran Church. The choir and handbell choir of the church will participate, as well as their organist, Mark Kannitz. Additional musicians in the community who will be involved in the worship will be Jamie Young (Music Therapist), Rev. Todd Thelen (pastor at Concord Evangelical Free, drummer), Yvonne Hansen (Narrator), A number of Wayne State students (Will Green, Curtis Gneuwch, Jill Stara), Bill and Deb Dick-ey, Phil and Sherry Pfaltzgraff, Jeff Dose, and local pastors. The service will be a completely "blended" style of worship – with music and scripture flowing together under a theme of "Loving God – and Loving One Another." The musical styles will include traditional hymns, instrumental music, solos, guitars, contemporary praise and worship, scripture, and other narration. "Three years ago, the '5th Sunday Music Event' was a worship gathering like this – and it just seemed like it was time for the community to 'Come Together and Worship' again," said Phil Pfaltzgraff, one of the organizers of the event.

Praise Assembly announces weekly activities

The congregation at Praise Assembly of God invites everyone in the community to participate in the opportunities for the whole family to learn to follow the Lord more fervently – day by day. The Wednesday Bible Study "Let's Trust Genesis!" resumes on May 2 at 7 p.m. in the Fireside Room. This is a look at the early chapters of the Bible from the standpoint that "It's true!" The study involves a lot of scripture reading, discussion, and the consideration of video and other teaching aids from "Answers in Genesis" and the "Institute for Creation Research." The Bible Study is held each Wednesday at 7 p.m. Saturday evenings at 7 p.m. is the meeting of the "Hour of Prayer," held in the sanctuary of the church. This is a time for intercessory prayer for needs of people in the community. The Sunday schedule, that will include the 5th Sunday Music Event this weekend, begins with a fellowship time at 9:15 a.m. for Bagels, Bananas, Coffee, and cookies. Sunday School classes for children and adults begin at 9:30 a.m. The morning worship service begins at 10:30 a.m. in the sanctuary with praise and worship. This gathering for the whole "church family" includes a time of prayer for needs, worship of the Lord in familiar hymns, gospel songs, and contemporary songs, and preaching from the Bible. Rev. Dennis Preston, interim pastor at Praise Assembly, will be back this Sunday after a couple of weeks of vacation. Tim and Yvonne Hansen will also present the monthly "Missions Report" as well as teach the weekly "Kids' Korner" for children (during the time of the ser-

Acme Club members take armchair tours

Seven members of the Acme Club met April 16 at the Senior Center for lunch and a regular meeting. Before the meeting, members remained in the dining room of the Senior Center to watch the "Train Travel" film Rita McLean showed on the TV. The meeting was called to order by President Joann Temme. Ruth Victor gave the Thought For the Day. Scotch Tape is the brand name of pressure sensitive tape created by Richard Drew. In 1925 a Detroit car manufacturer was looking for an effective masking tape to use for painting cars. The Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company (3M) developed a tape. But, producing the tape was expensive, so employees cut down the amount of adhesive on the tape by not putting it in the center. The new tape did not stick. The car painters cried to the company salesman, "take this tape back to those Scotch bosses of yours and tell them to put adhesive all over the tape." The missing adhesive was again applied, but the name "Scotch" tape remained. It stretched out, the length of the Scotch Transparent Tape sold in the U.S. every year could circle the Earth 165 times. Verdelle Reeg thanked the group for the rose she received from the club in honor of her and Ray's 65th wedding anniversary. A thank you note was received from the Nebraska Children's Home for the Easter donation. The program for the day was an "Arm Chair Tour" with each member telling about a special place they visited while on a trip. Delores Utecht told about a bus ride she and her husband, Mel, took when in Germany in 1990 to the Kehlsteinhaus, known as the Eagles Nest in English-speaking countries. It was commissioned by Martin Burmann and given to Adolph Hitler for his 50th birthday on April 20, 1939. He was to use it as a tea house for diplomats and a retreat; however, it is said that he only visited it about 10 times and most of those times were for no more than about 30 minutes. He did receive Andre Francios Poncet, a French Ambassador to Germany in October of 1938. The chalet-stye structure is situated on a ridge at the top of the Kehlstein Mountain. The road to the house is four miles long and 13 feet wide. It has five tunnels, one hairpin turn and climbs 2,600 feet. Mrs. Utecht said it was a rather scary trip and she was glad to be back down. The Eagles Nest remained unscathed from bombing of the Allied Forces during World War II. Since 1952 it has been open to the public as a mountain top restaurant with a spectacular view and can only be reached by special mountain buses from Obersalzberg. Ruth Victor showed pictures she had taken in Washington, D.C. when she visited there with two sisters and a brother-in-law. Some of the places visited were the Vietnam and World War II Memorial Walls, Korean Memorial, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery and other monuments and statues. In 2004 Bonnadelle Koch and a friend were on a trip to Halifax, Nova Scotia. While there they went to the cemetery where over 100 victims of the sinking of the Titanic are buried. The markers are small, gray granite with the name and date of death and laid out in three long lines. One of the more well known Titanic markers is for an unidentified child, known as "The Unknown Child." In June of 1996 Elinor Jensen and her husband, Delbert, were on a trip to Alaska. While they were at Fairbanks, they were given the opportunity to go with a driver from their motel to five miles outside of the city to the valley where Mary Shields lives in a log cabin that she and her husband built. Mary was originally from Wisconsin. While attending college, she spent two summers in Alaska with Camp Fire Girls. The second summer she remained in Alaska. Mary Shields was the first woman to finish the Iditorod Race in 1974. The Iditorod is the most popular sporting event in Alaska. Mary completed the race with eight dogs, the smallest team in the race. Most mushers have 12 to 16 dogs. The race is 1,049 miles in length, beginning with a ceremony in Anchorage. The official race begins the next day in Willow and ends in Nome. The Iditorod begins the first Saturday in March. The Jensens got in the pen where the sled dogs were kept and saw Mary's sled and her very large garden. They then had tea and desserts before returning to Fairbanks. Verdelle Reeg spoke about a trip she and her husband, Ray, took to the East and one to the West. On the trip to the East, they went on a tour of the Capitol building in Washington, D.C. While their daughter, Jana, was still a student they took a camping trip to western states by riding in a pickup with a camper mounted on it. When Betty Wittig, husband, Al, and their daughter, Brenda and her family entered Walt Disney World at Orlando, Fla., on a trip they were asked to be the grand marshals of the parade that day. Each was given a Mickey Mouse hat with their name on it, which she showed to club members. They wore them as they rode in a carriage at the front of the parade, waving at the other visitors as they rode by. A relative's wedding was the reason Joann Temme and her husband, Fritz, went on a trip with other relatives to Riverton, Wyo. in August of 1996. On the way they stopped in Douglas, Wyo. to find a place to eat. It was suggested to them to go to Ayres Natural Bridge Park, located between Douglas and Genock as it is a pretty and nice place to have a picnic. The park's name is derived from the rock formation of the same name. Over the course of years, a bend in a creek wore away at a wall of solid rock, creating a natural opening. The creek eventually shifted course, forming a 30-foot high by 50-foot wide arch, today known as Ayres Natural bridge. Joann showed pictures of the park and also of the beautiful outdoor reception of the wedding. The next meeting of the Acme Club will be Monday, May 7 at 9 a.m. at Taos & More for the last meeting of the club year and election of officers for next year.

4-H public speaking contest held in Wayne County

Six 4-H members participated in the 4-H Public Speaking Contest held at the Wayne County Courthouse on April 17.

The 4-Hers have the opportunity to prepare an actual speech or public service announcement. Public speaking allows the 4-Hers to increase their confidence of public speaking which is a valuable life skill.

The junior speech division is for 4-Hers 11 years of age and younger. They prepare an original speech relating to 4-H. The suggested length is under three minutes. Purple ribbon winners were Grace Heithold and James Simpson, both of Wayne. Receiving a blue ribbon was Miranda Fehringer of Wayne.

Senior division speech participants are 14 years of age and older who write a 5-8 minute long speech relating to 4-H. A purple ribbon was awarded to Andrew Simpson of Wayne.

The Public Service Announcement (PSA) Category is open to 4-Hers of all ages. 4-Hers create and present a 60-second PSA relating to the state theme. This year's theme is "Join the Revolution of Responsibility." The emphasis is on the presentation of a PSA for radio and for that reason they are scored on the content of the material and the delivery. Receiving a purple ribbon was Kayli Naeve of Wayne and Trace Naeve of Wayne earned a blue ribbon. Both competed in the Junior Division.

The overall speech winner was Andrew Simpson with his speech, "My Road to Nationals in 4-H Sharp Shooting." James Simpson was the reserve overall speech winner with his speech titled, "Learning By Doing." Both are the sons of Jeff and Colleen Simpson of Wayne.

The overall PSA winner was Kayli Naeve and the reserve overall winner was Trace Naeve, children of Michael and Sarah Naeve of Wayne.

The top contestants in each of the junior, intermediate and senior divisions of the prepared speech and the junior, intermediate and senior divisions PSA categories are eligible to represent Wayne County at the Regional Public Speaking Contest on June 8 in Norfolk. Those eligible in the prepared speech category are: Miranda Fehringer, Grace Heithold and James Simpson. In the PSA category, Kayli Naeve and Trace Naeve are eligible to compete. Awards sponsor for the 2012 Public Speaking Contest is Beck Ag, Inc (Stephanie Liska, Wayne). Rosettes and ribbons are sponsored by the Wayne County Ag Society.

Those involved in the Wayne County 4-H Public Speaking Contest included (front) Miranda Fehringer, Grace Heithold, Trace Naeve, James Simpson, (back) Andrew Simpson, Kayli Naeve and Judge Stacey Keys.

Remembering Chuck Colson

A long time ago, I became aware of a man named Chuck Colson. At the time of Watergate, I don't think I paid that much attention to the guys who were indicted and sent to prison. But later, when this big guy with dark glasses and permanent lines in his forehead started talking about a conversion experience before going to prison, I did notice. And I bought his book, Born Again.

Since he gave much credit to CS Lewis and Mere Christianity, I bought that, too. But I confess I'm not sure I read it. However, Colson's book impressed me enough that I bought more copies and gave them away.

I used to spend a lot of time in my car, going from one home health or hospice patient to another, and I would frequently hear Colson's short treatise on world affairs called Break Point. He had an unusually intellectual and persuasive way of interpreting events from a Christian viewpoint that I came to appreciate.

For several years, I supported Prison Fellowship Ministries, founded by him. And for many holidays, our church in Louisville paricipated in Angel Tree gifts for children whose parents were in jail. After our move to Lincoln, I lost track of this stuff.

A couple of weeks ago, my cousin Lyn told me that Chuck Colson has sustained a brain hemorrhage and was in critical condition. I added his name to my prayer list. And last week, I learned that he had died.

I have been struck by the way the newspapers have given us the news. One I read last night said that if Chuck could be forgiven, there was hope for all of us! Good grief, I thought, NO sin is too great to be forgiven; doesn't he get it?

Today, someone sent me a tribute to Chuck that mentions the Manhattan Declaration. I guess I had heard of it, but had not really researched it. So, I went to its website. Wow! It's impressive; not just the treatise itself, but the list of clergy who have signed it. It gives you hope, it really does.

And in this day, when it sometimes seems that traditional Christian beliefs are being attacked from every side, it's important to see that not all is lost.

So, today, in honor of Chuck Colson, I'm reading the Declaration, and sharing it with friends via the internet. I encourage you to go to its website and see it for yourself. And while you are at it, give thanks for the life of a man of great integrity, compassion, and energy. The need for Prison Fellowship has never been greater. Keep the ministry on your prayer list, too. Thanks!

Time to scout for alfalfa weevils

It's interesting how the popularity of corn has changed the markets for some of the crops grown in rotation in our area. Alfalfa is worth a lot more since a lot of it has been removed to grow corn. Now large round bales are getting twice what they were a year ago. This makes it even more worthwhile to scout your alfalfa crop for problems, especially if you are marketing high quality first cutting alfalfa.

The first pest to watch out for is alfalfa weevils. Most alfalfa weevils overwinter as adults, and then become active and lay eggs. In the last few years some areas of the state have received damage to regrowth after the first cutting due to a combination of late larval feeding and adult feeding. This is something to be aware of after the first cutting.

Getting back to the present, based on growing degree days, alfalfa weevil larvae should be feeding, and small pinholes may be visible in the new alfalfa growth near the tips of the plants. While alfalfa weevil damage has been spotty in much of Nebraska over the past few years, the potential for damage always exists.

Alfalfa weevil and also clover leaf weevils feed on first cutting alfalfa as larvae, and regrowth after the first cutting as adults (and sometimes larvae). While research conducted in northeast Nebraska has shown that clover leaf weevil larva feeding does not result in yield reduction to first cutting alfalfa, alfalfa weevil feeding can cause severe losses to yield and quality of the first cutting.

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension Educator

It is essential that fields be monitored for alfalfa weevil feeding now. Damage consists of small holes and interveinal feeding on the newest leaflets near the stem tips. The larvae are a small (1/16 to 3/8 inch in length), pale yellowish green, becoming a darker green when larger. These legless worms have black heads and a white stripe the length of the back. The alfalfa weevil larvae spend nearly all their time on the plant. They curl into a C-shape when disturbed.

Once the alfalfa is about 4-6 inches or so in height, take a bucket, carefully cut some stems at ground level (30 to 50 per field, from various spots in the field) and shake the stems against the side of the bucket. Average the number of weev-vil larvae per stem. In general at today's prices if 1 or more weevils are found per stem and the alfalfa is less than 12 inches tall, an insecticide treatment may be necessary.

When alfalfa reaches a certain height, it may be more profitable to cut the alfalfa early rather than to treat. Finally, many insecticides are registered to control alfalfa weevil. Check the with your local extension office or ag supplier.

Celebrate Arbor Day April 27

On April 27 communities and individuals across Nebraska will celebrate a holiday with Nebraska roots - Arbor Day.

"Celebrating Arbor Day by planting trees contributes to the community in so many ways. Aside from the beauty they provide, trees benefit the environment and save tax dollars through stormwater capture, energy savings from shade and providing desirable public spaces," said Graham Herbst, Nebraska Forest Service's community forestry specialist for eastern Nebraska.

Arbor Day is a perfect time to spend time with family and give back to the community, and there are many ways to take part in the celebration.

"Plant a tree in your home landscape with your children, grandchildren or neighborhood children. Purchase a tree to be planted in a local park or school campus. Volunteer to be part of a local tree-planting effort," said Amy Seiler, western Nebraska community forestry specialist for the Nebraska Forest Service.

If you're unable to plant a tree in your community, take some time and explore your local community forest. Springtime brings many beautiful flowering trees like redbud, magnolia, serviceberry and fruit trees.

Trees are also a great way to commemorate special events or to honor the memory of loved ones.

When properly planted and cared for, trees live for many years and significantly reduce energy costs, beautify the landscape, attract wildlife and improve the environment, making them the perfect long-term investment.

"All of these opportunities allow you to spend time with family or friends and continue the legacy of tree planting in Nebraska," said Seiler.

After planting, visit retreenebraska.unl.edu so your tree can be counted toward ReTree Nebraska's goal of planting 1 million trees in Nebraska communities by 2017.

ReTree Nebraska is a cooperative effort of the Nebraska Forest Service, Nebraska Statewide Arboretum Inc., University of Nebraska Rural Initiative, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Agronomy and Horticulture, Nebraska Community Forestry Council and the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at UNL.
