New hotel close to being open for business

Final inspections taking place this week on Cobblestone Inn

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Kent Franzen can't wait to throw the doors open on the new Cobblestone Inn and Suites hotel.

One of the managing members of Wayne Hospitality Group LLC said the work is almost complete on the new 44-room hotel, and he was optimistic that the hotel could begin operations by the end of the week.

"The fire marshal is there now," he said late Wednesday morning. "If the inspection goes well, then we'll be ready. We want to be open so bad, we can taste it."

The $2.8 million project has been five years in the making, and ground was finally broken on the project last November. A mild winter and a dry spring has helped Brimark Builders and the local vendors supporting the construction effort get the building completed ahead of schedule.

"It was a goal to be open for Wayne State's commencement, but we didn't really want to commit to it," Franzen said. "Fortunately, the winter was really kind to us and I'm very pleased with the work Brimark Builders did, as well as the local vendors who supported the project."

The hotel will have 16 rooms with single king beds, with the remaining 28 rooms featuring two queen beds. The rooms will have granite countertops, a small refrigerator, microwave and in-room coffee service, and will have wired internet access available along with wireless access. The hotel will include a swimming pool, a 55-person meeting room and will have an average room rate of about $90 per night.

Northeast Nebraska Investors LLC helped hatch the idea for a new hotel five years ago, Franzen said, and active work on the project has been ongoing for the past three years. The Wayne Hospitality Group LLC includes Franzen and fellow managing members Brian Wogernese, Betty Reeg, Brent Pick and Ken Kwapnioski.

Having taken this long to go from initial ideal to its final physical presence on the east edge of town, Franzen said he will be happy when the hotel is open and its presence will help the business community in Wayne.

"(Seeing it open) will be satisfying, but what will be more satisfying will be to see the guests enjoying it and seeing it stay busy," he said. "I hope this hotel will be a force multiplier for Wayne and help other businesses and industry in town. We'll be able to hold more sports tournaments here, which helps other businesses. The reason why this hotel will be successful is because it helps the community."

Housing items dominate agenda as City Council meets Tuesday

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

The building of houses and their affordability were among the items discussed during a relatively short meeting of the Wayne City Council on Tuesday.

Acting as the Community Development Agency, the council adopted CDA Resolution 2012-3, a redevelopment plan for the Benscoter Addition Planned Unit Development Project in Wayne.

The action will add TIF financing for five lots in the re-development plan and allow for the construction of 5 Star Energy efficient homes.

Lou Benscoter of Benscoter Construction said the homes will be designed for families with two wage earners making $12-$14 per hour. He noted that those falling in this income category are often not eligible for other home ownership incentives.

"We plan to keep the costs down on these homes and make them energy-efficient. I really see a need for this type of housing in Wayne," Benscoter said.

Council member Doug Sturm said that with the addition of these five lots to the redevelopment plan, Benscoter Construction has nine homes that need to be built within the specified guidelines and said, "This is a lot of houses to be built. Don't ask for an extension."

The CDA also added two lots in the Western Ridge II Addition to a "rolling TIF" plan for single family homes.

On a related note, Kari Wren with the Wayne Community Housing Development Agency, presented a preliminary report from a housing study indicating the number of homes for sale in the community in the $100,000 to $150,000 category and the survey responses indicating the need for more housing in this price range.

Council members also approved a resolution which establishes housing construction loan incentives to builders in the city.

Council member Brian Frevert said he felt there should be a limit to the number of incentives received by each builder.

"I think we should limit it (the incentive money) to two homes per builder (contractor) and let others have a chance for at least a year or two. If after that, no one has asked for the money, maybe we can change the resolution," Frevert said.

At an earlier council meeting, the council approved $160,000 of LB840 sales tax

This fundraiser is going to pot(-tery)

For several months, Natalie Endicott and Diana Smith of Moments Artist's Boutique have been working with students at Wayne Elementary School and Wayne Middle School to create pieces of pottery as part of a fundraiser for the new elementary school playground equipment.

A total of 21 pieces, one for each class of students in grades kindergarten through sixth grade, have been completed and will be on display and part of a silent auction at the Elementary School's final concert on Thursday, May 10.

The items, ranging from cake plates to bowls, deviled egg containers to honey pots, will be on display at the high school gym from 6-9 p.m. on May 10 and bidding will close at 9 p.m., following the 7 p.m. concert. "These one-of-a-kind pieces of artwork contain finger impressions from each of the students and each piece is personalized to represent the students. We have students represented by basketballs, children wearing glasses and hair color matching the student they represent," Endicott said.

Moments donated the glaze for the project and the time to complete the pieces and the school purchased the bisqueware. All the pieces are functional and food safe.

One of the pieces which will be up for auction is fashioned in a music theme and contains the first portion of "Three Cheers,"

Looking Ahead in Wayne

By LOWELL JOHNSON
City Administrator

Here are a couple: No Political Signs on Public Right of Way

This is both a state law and city code. All political signs along the streets have to be set on private property and not on the terrace between the sidewalk and the street.

Who enforces this? If your political sign was on a city terrace or highway right of way, and it disappeared, we probably picked it up and you can get it back at the city street shop.

Mow Your Yard

Believe it or not, this is also both a state statute and city code.

If your grass or weeds are taller than 12" the owner of the property will probably get a notice from us to mow it by a certain date. If the lawn is still not mowed by that date, we photograph the un-mowed lawn, hire a contractor to mow it, haul the grass away and charge the property owner $90 per hour with a one hour minimum.

Dehumidifiers come with energy cost

Anyone from Nebraska can tell you that our summers can be hot. If they are from the eastern half of the state, they can also tell you that humidity makes those summer days feel even hotter.

In addition to being uncomfortable, high humidity levels can adversely affect your health. Excess moisture can contribute to an unhealthy environment in your home, even in the winter. Dust mites, molds, bacteria and other organisms that can cause respiratory problems thrive in moisture-ridden, high humidity areas. Some signs that excess moisture is present include condensation on windows during colder months, peeling wallpaper and damp patches on walls and ceilings.

Using a dehumidifier decreases the humidity in your home and helps decrease the occurrence of moisture-loving predators, making your home healthier and more comfortable. Running a dehumidifier comes with a cost, however. The monthly expense will often run from $15 to $35 in summer, but it can exceed $50 per month if the dehumidifier runs a lot. Here are some ideas of how you can manage humidity problems and save money at the same time.

- Set the humidistat so the dehumidifier does not run continuously. For basements, 50 percent relative humidity is recommended in summer.
- Help reduce peak electric use. Put your dehumidifier on the night shift. Put a timer on your dehumidifier to turn it on at 9 p.m. and off at 10 a.m.
- Close all windows and doors to the area. This will dramatically reduce the humidity coming from out- side air.

- Locate the dehumidifier in the area with the highest humidity but don't create a safety hazard by placing it in water. Dehumidifiers are not the solution to standing water (or running water) in basements.
- Position the dehumidifier away from the wall or furniture so air can circulate through the unit.
- Hook up a hose to drain the dehumidifier if emptying the tank is a chore.
- Frost can form on the coils and reduce dehumidification when the - room temperature drops below 65 degrees F. Frost can also form when the dew point is low. If frost forms, turn off the machine until the frost melts.

- Keep the dehumidifier clean. Wipe or vacuum dust and dirt from the coils and fan.
- If you have a choice of fan speeds, higher speeds are more efficient while lower speeds are quieter.
- For other ideas, visit with your local electric utility or visit www.nppd.com/save-energy.

National Hospital Week puts spotlight on people

A hospital is more than a place where people go to heal, it is a part of the community that fosters health and represents hope. From providing treatment and comfort to the sick, to welcoming new life into the world, hospitals are central to a healthy and optimistic community.

That's the message organizers are touting with the 2012 National Hospital Week theme "Making Miracles Happen." Health care facilities are celebrating across the nation the week of May 6-12. "National Hospital Week," first and foremost, is a celebration of people," Tom Lee, administrator of Providence Medical Center, said. "We're extremely proud of each member of our staff and we recognize the important role they play in extending a sense of trust to our patients and our communities."

National Hospital Week dates back to 1921 when it was suggested by a magazine editor who hoped a community wide celebration would alleviate public fears about hospitals. The celebration, launched in Chicago, succeeded in promoting trust and goodwill among members of the public and eventually spread to facilities across the country.

The general public is invited to come to the front lobby of Providence Medical Center for coffee and homemade cookies each morning from 9-11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday, May 7-11.

Dumb jocks hard to find in this group

Surely you remember the days of the "dumb jock."

He (or, on occasion, she) was the individual with a billion dollars in athletic talent and 10 cents worth of intelligence – brilliant between the lines, and absolutely clueless in the classroom.

There isn't an institution of higher learning that hasn't had a few of those individuals skate through its classrooms on their way to a college degree. The fact that they were the stud athlete on one (or more) teams on campus was usually a free pass for them to attend classes when they needed to, buy the answers from the smart kid in the class and, on occasion, have their final term paper written for them.

Let me tell you something – if what I saw during Monday's season-ending athletic banquet was any indication, you'd be hard-pressed to find one of those athletes among the group of kids representing Wayne State College these days.

Looking at some of the team grade-point averages that were noted during the banquet, it's impressive to see that not only are these young men and women outstanding athletes on the field . . . but they're pretty doggone sharp in the classroom as well.

The volleyball team earned an AVCA Team Academic Award for the sixth straight year. They only needed to achieve a 3.3 cumulative team grade-point average to earn the award. This year's team checked in with a pretty hefty 3.62.

And these girls aren't majoring in anything easy like basket weaving or sports writing (just kidding, journalism majors) – you have future teachers, pharmacists and exercise scientists in this group of young ladies.

The women's soccer team had a team GPA of 3.44 with majors that include ag business, biology and pre-med, pre-veterinary medicine and nursing – which means these young ladies are definitely using their heads for something more than putting soccer balls in the back of opposing teams' nets.

The women's basketball team had a 3.452 team GPA this year, ranking them 22nd in the nation among NCAA Div. II women's basketball teams. Women's track and field has a GPA of 3.221, and their male counterparts aren't far behind at 3.2.

This year, 24 Wayne State athletes posted a perfect 4.0 GPA, and 84 Wildcats were named to Northern Sun Conference All-Academic squads for 2011-12.

I don't know about you, but those are scores that are going to be of more than trivial use in the years to come for these young men and women. A potential employer isn't going to be as impressed with their average points per game or earned-run average as they will with the GPA they knocked out of the park while going to school at Wayne State.

It takes an amazing amount of discipline, hard work and dedication to be a good athlete. Take that times 10, and you have what it takes to be an outstanding student as well. To somehow do both – while also finding time to enjoy the college experience – is something this former college student would be unable to pull off back in my younger years. I admire the effort these young men and women put forth, not just between the lines, but in the classroom as well.

Congratulations to all the Wayne State athletes on their academic achievements. As impressive as the sports certificates and plaques you received will look on your wall – they will pale in comparison to the piece of paper you'll soon get as a result of all that hard work in the classroom.

Hey, I might be a tad selfish on this, but I'm all in favor of Laurel-Concord/Coleridge's move to the Lewis and Clark Conference in the 2013-14 school year.

WILDCAT THROWER AMONG NATION'S BEST AT DRAKE RELAYS

Buncek rewrites record book, may get shot at Olympic Trials

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Wayne State senior thrower Ross Buncek has been making a habit of rewriting the record book in the hammer throw this season.

While he's made progress little by little this season, he picked a really good moment to haul off with what may be the biggest effort in Wildcat track and field history Saturday at the Drake Relays.

Buncek let fly with an amazing 217 foot, 2 inch heave that helped him finish second at the nation's biggest all-star college track and field meet. He was one of five non-Division I athletes competing in a field of 29 throwers, and the record-setting throw put him in position to potentially qualify for this summer's U.S. Olympic Trials in Eugene, Ore.

After fouling on his first throw in the preliminaries, Buncek was just looking to find his rhythm and get himself in position to qualify for the finals. He let fly on an effort that eclipsed his previous best throw – done at the Wildcat Open on March 31 – by a full five feet.

"I fouled my first throw, so I was just trying to get a good mark to get in the finals," Buncek said of his record-setting heave. "When I let it go, I didn't think it was that big, but my fiance was jumping up and down on the hill."

Buncek

Buncek thought he had hit the 60-meter mark, but was surprised to see the result was more than 66 meters (measurements at the meet are in meters, not feet).

"I saw it come up on the screen and I was like, 'Wow, that was a big throw,'" he said of his 66-meter toss.

Buncek, who earned All-American honors indoors and outdoors in 2011 and again during the recent indoor season, was making his second trip to the Drake Relays. After experiencing the event last year, his hope was to come in and make a statement.

"I wanted to go in and test myself against good competition and show that I can be a major player in the hammer throwing community," he said. "It was exciting to throw against the best competition in the country, and there's no shame losing to the guy who won. I was very proud to do what I was able to do."

Being one of five non-Div. I throwers in the event, it shouldn't be a surprise that the so-called experts weren't giving Buncek much of a thought when it came to figuring out who would be in contention to win the event. As Buncek showed, however – you ignore him at your own peril.

"I have a little bit of a chip on my shoulder when I go in," he said. "Just because you have the money and resources and all this doesn't mean you can't get your butt kicked."

He credits the group of throwers he trains with at Wayne State for a lot of the success he's experienced this season.

"I'm part of a great training group, and I can't say more about our throwers here," he said. "I wanted to do See BUNCHEK, Page 2B

Area athletes perform well at Northeast Classic

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

NORFOLK – The area wasn't represented quite as predominantly as in years past, but athletes from the coverage area represented themselves and their schools well at the Northeast Nebraska Track and Field Classic.

The meet, held at Norfolk High School, featured some of the top performers in the region, and athletes from the area competed very well in the all-star format.

Wayne High came away with six medalists on the day, led by senior Caitlin Fehringer, who medaled in both hurdle events and helped the 400-meter relay team to a fifth-place finish.

"I thought our kids performed well," coach Dale Hochstein said. "Most of our kids ran personal bests, which is all you can ask for. We kind of found out where we stand in a number of events, and I thought we performed well overall."

Fehringer was third in the 100-meter hurdles, clocking a time of 16.2 seconds. She also came through in the 300 hurdles, finishing sixth at 48.34. She joined Cassie Heier, Jalyn Zeiss and Marissa Fallesen for a fifth-place finish in the 400-meter relay, finishing in a time of 52.05.

Quentin Jorgensen earned a pair of medals on the track Thursday. He joined Luke Trenhaile, Tyler Ellis and Ben Hoskins in a runner-up finish in the 3,200-meter relay – the best finish of the day for area athletes – and posted a fifth-place effort in the 1,600 with a time of 4:42.49.

"Quentin ran a personal best in his leg on the relay, and it was really good competition that he went up against in the 1,600," Hochstein said.

Laurel-Concord/Coleridge athletes came away with a total of four medals, two coming from senior jumper Amy Pritchard, who placed third in the triple jump and fourth in the long jump.

"Amy's been jumping really well this year, and for whatever reason she doesn't seem to jump her best on that track," Bears coach Nate Sims said. "I thought she still jumped well against some good competition, and that will help prepare her for districts."

The Lady Bears' 1,600-meter relay team ran their best race of the season, posting a time of 4:17.33 that was good for fifth place in a very tough field of teams.

"I can't remember multiple teams running 4:10 or better in that race there, so with some of the times that were run, fifth was pretty solid," Sims said. "We had a couple of teams in our district finish ahead of us, so we'll need to drop our time some more."

Mitch Heikes ran in three events on the day and came away with one medal, placing fifth in the 100-meter dash.

"Mitch was surrounded by some really good guys, so it was a good experience for him to maintain his form and stay relaxed, and I thought he ran well," Sims said.

Wakefield had three competitors in the all-star meet, and all three came home with some hardware. Josh Dolph earned a pair of fourth-place medals in the 800 and 1,600, Fernando Villarreal finished fourth in the 400, and Shelby Liermann

LCC leaving NENAC for L&C in 2013

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

The Lewis and Clark Conference will soon be one of a handful of super-conferences in the state of Nebraska high school athletics.

Last week, the conference's administrators voted to accept the applications of four of five schools from the NENAC conference, effectively bringing an end to that classic conference after the 2012-13 school year is completed.

Laurel-Concord/Coleridge's athletic teams will have a new conference home beginning in the 2013-14 school year after they were one of four schools to be granted membership into the Lewis and Clark Conference. They are joined by NENAC brethren Randolph, Plainview and Creighton.

Conference president and Winside superintendent Jeff Messersmith said the addition of the four NENAC schools puts the conference in great shape for the future.

"We're excited," he said. "The four schools we've added are logistically close and have a lot of activities that are similar and are very competitive," he said. "They're good in fine arts as well as athletics, so I think adding those schools really strengthens an already-strong conference."

The moves by the four schools will bring an end to the NENAC conference, which lost a member this past school year when Crofton left to join the Mid State Conference. The move by Crofton prompted other schools to look at other options for future conference afiliation, leading to the mass exodus by the four current NENAC schools to the Lewis and Clark Conference.

Randolph was the first school to make its intentions known, filing paperwork with the Lewis and Clark Conference in February. LCC followed suit last month and Plainview, Crofton and West Holt all followed after that. Only West Holt's application for admission was turned down by the conference.

"Crofton had already left for the Mid State, and Randolph had applied before we did and we kind of saw that the writing was on the wall, so we made our move," LCC athletic director Scott Petersen said of his school board's decision to apply for membership in the L&C.

Moving to what becomes one of two super-conferences in Northeast Nebraska will be a good move for the LCC extracurricular programs, Petersen said.

"It made a lot of sense because we play a lot of those schools already, and with our location it seemed like a good fit for us," he said. "With Coleridge already having ties to the conference and with us playing those schools, it's an easy transition."

With the coming co-op of Newcastle and Ponca in 2012-13, the Lewis and Clark Conference will be a 14-team conference, and will become an 18-team conference in 2013-14, assuming there are no other co-op arrangements made within the conference. Newcastle and Ponca will still participate separately in some activities, including football.

"When you look at it, with 19 schools in our conference it will give us a strong voice at NSAA district meetings and help us give some kind of say within our district," Messersmith said. "The nice thing is that we have a variety of sizes represented in the conference, with small schools like Newcastle and bigger schools like Ponca and Wakefield and Laurel."

Petersen said officials from the L&C contacted Laurel about changing conferences, which made the move easier for LCC.

Monday afternoon in Crofton the Blue Devils won a triangular with the host Warriors and Laurel-Concord. In fact, both the varsity and JV teams from Wayne won their respective events. The varsity carded a 181 to down Laurel-Concord by 12 strokes with Crofton posting a 207. Kaje Maly was medalist with a 42 followed by Max Morris with a 43. Tyler Schoh, Ezra Brodersen and Sean Ganseboom each carded a 48.

The Blue Devil junior varsity posted a team score of 193 to easily out-distance Crofton at 257. Eric Schoh paced the winner with a 44 while Jared Peterson followed with a 47. Ryan Grosz posted a 50 and Andrew Pulfer, 52 while Drew Holland's 53 was not included in the team total.

well for them, because what they do helps me do what I do, and I wanted to show what I can do against good competition."

Coach Marlon Brink said Saturday's effort was a great indicator of what Bunchek can do when he's pushed to be his best.

"He was excited to get into a field like that," he said. "He's had a lot of competition this spring, but he really hasn't been pushed like he was there, so he was really excited about going up against those athletes."

Bunchek is extremely passionate about the event, and likened the process to a ballet, where a certain rhythm must be achieved for the best possible throw.

"It's not like a lift or a jump where it's all one motion," he said. "It's three or four repetitive motions, and they have to be timed and ramped up so that when you are at the finish, you're at your maximum speed. You have to build up a tempo, so it's really a rhythm you come to learn and make sure it's nice and smooth and builds up to the finish."

Bunchek competes in the weight throw during the indoor season, but there is a difference between the 35-pound weight throw and the 16-pound hammer throw.

"They're a whole different ball game," he said. "The hammer throw is the great equalizer, because you don't have to be the biggest or strongest. Usually, the best technique wins out and I put in the effort to master the event, and I try to reflect that out there."

And don't let anybody tell you how easy it is to spin around at a high rate of speed in a small circle and time your throw just right.

"It's a completely unnatural motion and it's very trying on your body, and to do it smoothly and aggressively is something that takes time," he said. "You don't realize how much force 16 pounds carries until you get it up to speed."

While Bunchek's effort at the Drake Relays has put him in the conversation for a possible national championship and competing in the Olympic Trials this June, but the possibility of being crowned a national champion or competing for a spot on the Olympic team is the furthest thing from the senior's mind.

"I'm not prepared to think about (those things) right now," he said. "What I'm prepared to think about is what I have to do to do what I want to accomplish. I'm focused on myself, and if I perform how I want to perform, then win, lose or draw, I'm happy."

Brink is hoping that Saturday's throw is a sign of even better things to come.

"Hopefully, he'll throw even further at conference and nationals," he said. "We've had an athlete compete in a marathon after he used his eligibility, but I don't know if we've ever had somebody qualify (for the Olympic trials) while he was still in college or finishing his eligibility, so to have a chance at getting into the Olympic Trials is almost mind-boggling."

"I think they saw us as a good fit being right in the middle and had a number of things to offer with facilities and activities," he said, noting that Laurel-Concord High School's gymnasium is traditionally the host site for the Lewis and Clark Conference's championships in boys and girls basketball. "We have a lot of connections with the conference with that, and I also work for Newcastle and Coleridge and attend a lot of their meetings, so I think everybody is comfortable with each other."

As for the remaining NE-NAC schools, Elkhorn Valley and Neligh-Oakdale are reported to be looking into membership with the Niobrara Valley Conference. It is not known what West Holt's plans are, although they could go to the Niobrara Valley, Mid State, Goldenrod or Southwest conferences.

"West Holt did come and state their case, but with the way our conference tournaments are played, you'd be looking at two or three hours on the road, depending on where you're at, and then have to turn around the next day and go to school. Geographically, it just didn't work," Messersmith said.

Administrators from the current and incoming schools will have to work together quickly between now and next April, when final changes to the conference constitution need to be confirmed to bring the new schools in.

"We'll have to move rapidly over the next several months to have everything in place," Messersmith said. "This is going to be a new frontier we're venturing down, and there are going to be a lot of new opportunities for the kids in our conference."

It's not easy being a one-man sports department when you have five high schools (and one college) to worry about. It gets really crazy during conference tournament week, when I have to somehow cover three conference tournaments at the same time.

Last week, the Lewis and Clark Conference essentially signed the death certificate for the NENAC by approving applications by LCC, Randolph, Plainview and Creighton to join the conference beginning in the 2013-14 school year. The NE-NAC took a big hit last year when Crofton accepted an invitation to join the Mid State Conference, and with its biggest school jumping ship, it was only a matter of time before the other dominoes began to fall.

The addition of the four NENAC schools will create a super-conference of 19 schools, with Newcastle and Ponca competing as a co-op in everything but football until 2014-15. It will expand the geographic base of the conference, but bring in some outstanding athletic programs like Creighton football, Randolph basketball and Plainview wrestling, along with the LCC teams that have had a lot of success over the years.

And with Wayne in the Mid State and Allen, Winside, Wakefield being joined by LCC in the Lewis and Clark, my juggling act will become a lot easier to deal with.

Trojan boys second at L&C meet

HARTINGTON – The Wakefield boys took runner-up honors to lead the area effort Saturday at the Lewis and Clark Conference meet.

The Trojans scored 106 points and finished second to the host Wildcats in the annual meet of Lewis and Clark Conference schools, winning three events on the day.

Josh Dolph had a hand in two of the Trojans' three wins. He took top honors in the 800-meter run with a time of 2:06.71, then ran a leg on the winning 1,600-meter relay team, joining Augusto Villarreal, Jacob Lunz and Fernando Villarreal in a winning effort of 3:40.61.

The Trojans' other first-place effort came in the hurdles, as Jon Bodlak broke the tape first to win the 110-meter high hurdles title. He also finished a solid fourth in the 300 hurdles.

Second-place efforts for the Trojans came from Anthony Gustafson in the high jump, Jose Calderon in the 100 and Fernando Villarreal in the 400. Dolph also had a third in the 1,600 and joined Lunz, Evan Nicholson and Alex Conley in a third-place finish in the 3,200 relay. Augusto Villarreal was third in the 200 and 400, and Wakefield's 400-meter relay team finished third.

The Winside boys finished seventh in the 15-team meet with 35 points, highlighted by runner-up efforts by Colin Hansen in the triple jump and Alec Sindelar in the discus. Hansen also medaled in the long jump and 400-meter run, while Garrett Watters was a double medalist in the shot put and discus. Blaine Meyer, and John Hansen also picked up medals on the day for the Wildcats.

Allen's boys finished 10th and were led by Derek Torres, who was a double medalist in the two hurdle events. Charles Brahmsteadt and Kyle Finnegan both medaled in the 800 and scored medals in the 3,200-meter relay along with Austin Connott and Coty Reuter. Reuter, Connott and Brian Boese all medaled in two relays for the Eagles.

It was a tight team race on the girls side, with seven points separating the top four teams, led by the host Wildcats. Allen led the area effort with an eighth-place finish, Winside was 10th and Wakefield finished a point behind the Wildcats in 11th.

For the Lady Eagles, Courtney Reuter tied for fourth in the high jump and also medaled in both hurdle events and the 1,600 relay. Lindsey Jones, Rachel Finnegan, Candice Rastede and Vanessa Klug earned individual medals.

For Winside, Jayd Roberts led the way with a runner-up finish in the 100 hurdles, while Shelby Lienemann brought home a third-place finish in the discus. The Wildcats also got individual medals from Mckenzie Gray, Elysia Wagner, Carly Schwager, Jade Hogenkamp, Nazya Thies and Selena Finn, and scored in the 1,600 and 3,200 relays.

Sydney Rose of Wakefield was the only conference champion among the three area schools, taking home top honors in the 100 hurdles. Shelby Lierman and Katie Weinrich posted a 2-3 finish in the 3,200-meter run, and Taryn Hingst medaled in both the 800 and 1,600 for the Trojans.

Classic

From Page 1B came home in sixth place in the 3,200. "We were pretty pleased with how Josh did," coach Mike Hassler said of Dolph's two-medal effort. "He ran a personal best in the mile, then came back a half-hour later and did well in the 800. I think he was concerned that he wouldn't have anything left, but once he got going on the track I knew he'd be OK." Villarreal's effort was good for Hassler to see, as it followed up a similar time in a previous meet. "Fernando has been a definite surprise for us," he said. "He came in around 52 (seconds) in his previous meet, which took a second and a half off his personal best, so to see him do that again at this meet, it was great to see that wasn't an anomaly." Lierman has battled back from a torn ACL and is getting back down to her best efforts, which Hassler was happy to see at this meet. "It's been a slow recovery for her, and she's finally returning to her old form and getting her times down," he said. "She'll need to keep working on that, because our district is stacked in the 3,200 and we'll need to get that time down to have a shot at Omaha."

Winside had just one athlete competing in the meet, but senior Shelby Lienemann made the most of it by finishing sixth in a tough field in the discus. "It was a great day for her," coach Mark Tonninges said. "She was nervous coming in being the lone Winside kid there, and there were some outstanding throwers and it really helped her confidence to come in there and beat some tremendous girls. I'm hoping that will continue for her down the road."

Softball season ends at NSIC tourney

Although the season ended with a 1-2 effort at the Northern Sun Conference tournament, Wayne State softball coach Krista Wood thought her young team ended the season on a good note.

"We played really well," she said of her team's final weekend of play, which ended in a 6-5, eight-inning loss to Concordia-St. Paul. "We played Mankato really tough, then came out and beat Mary and we hit the ball hard against Concordia, but things just fell their way. I thought we played really well in the tournament."

Wayne State College went 1-1 on the opening day of the tournament in Rochester, Minn. The Wildcats were limited to one hit in a 2-0 loss to top-seeded Minnesota State, but stayed alive with an 8-2 win over University of Mary.

Minnesota State starting pitcher Kendra Huettl limited the Wildcats to just one hit, a sixth-inning double by Jordan King, and struck out 12 Wildcats in the game. The Mavericks scored single runs in the first and fifth innings to go on to the win.

"We played Mankato tough, but we just couldn't get anything going offensively," Wood said. "We were off balance in that game and didn't get into a rhythm at the plate, but we came out and hit the ball well against Mary and got people into scoring position and were able to come up with some key hits."

Kaiti Williams doubled twice and Wayne State College scored seven runs in the first three innings to stay alive in the tournament with the win over the Marauders.

Wayne State got off to a quick start, scoring two runs in the first inning without a hit as the Wildcats used a Marauder error, two hit batters and a walk to score two runs. The Wildcats put together three hits to score two more runs in the second, as Dani Sandel doubled and King singled, with both players scoring on a Williams double. Wayne State put the game out of reach with three runs in the top of the third as King produced a two-run single while Sandel added a run-scoring single.

Williams finished 2 for 4 with a pair of doubles and two RBI's, while Sandel was 2 for 4 with a double, RBI and three runs scored. King added two singles and two RBI's and two runs scored, while Brittany Greenwood and Vicki Nielsen each added singles.

Sara Scheffert earned the pitching win, firing five solid innings. She allowed two runs on five hits with one walk and one strikeout. Sophomore Jordan Harris worked the final two innings for the Wildcats, retiring all six batters with two strikeouts.

The Wildcats had opportunities to win the game, but Concordia-St. Paul edged the Wildcats 5-4 in eight innings Friday to end Wayne State's season at 28-23.

Wayne State took an early 2-0 lead in the first as Sandel reached on a dropped fly ball to start the game and later scored on a sacrifice fly by King, followed by a Williams homer.

The Golden Bears came back with four unanswered runs to take a 4-2 lead into the seventh, where Wayne State rallied with two runs on a Williams single to tie the score.

Wayne State had runners on second and third with one out in the bottom of the seventh, but couldn't bring the winning run home. The Golden Bears used a walk, a hit batter and a fielder's choice to load the bases, then scored the game winner on a sacrifice fly.

Kassie Nurton was 3-for-4 with three singles and a run scored to lead the Wildcats offensively, while Williams finished 2-for-4 with a homer and three RBI's.

The future looks good for the Wildcat softball team, as many of the key players on this year's team are back next season.

"We were up and down all year, but toward the end we were playing really well and these young players started to grow up," Wood said. "I see a bright future for us. To have a winning record with a lot of new kids this year and to fight through the games we had, I'm really proud of them. We have some good kids coming in next year, so we'll still be young but I think we'll be better than we were this year."

Baseball splits at Winona, 0-2 in Kansas

Wayne State's baseball team earned a split on the road at Winona State last week, keeping themselves in the middle of the pack for next week's conference tournament as they head into the final weekend of play.

Junior lefthander Tadd Johansen fired a complete game five-hitter in the second game to help the Wildcats split a doubleheader at Winona State. The Warriors won the first game 3-2 in 10 innings, with the Wildcats salvaging the second game 5-2.

Coach Brian Disch said he was happy with how his team bounced back after the tough loss, but was concerned about his team's ability to get going early in the first games of doubleheaders recently.

"We've done a good job responding after the first game, but pretty soon we get into conference and hopefully regionals, and you need to win that first game there because usually you just get one game a day, so I hope we can get more prepared for that first game," he said.

Winona State opened the scoring in the first game scoring in the bottom of the second inning on a sacrifice fly for a 1-0 lead. The Wildcats took the lead in the top of the fourth when Justin Beranek doubled and scored on a Mike Bisenius home run down the right field line.

Winona State tied the score at 2-2 in the bottom of the sixth inning to send the game into extra innings, and the game remained tied until the bottom of the 10th, when Winona State struck against Wildcat reliever Taylor MacDonell. The Warriors opened the inning with a hit batter followed by three straight singles, one a bunt single, to score the game-winning run.

"We had some opportunities in the eighth and ninth, and they failed to get a bunt down in the 10th and then got a bloop single with two strikes to fuel that rally in the 10th," Disch said.

The story of the second game was the pitching of Johansen, as he held the Warriors to two runs on five hits over seven innings with five strikeouts and three walks.

Bisenius homered in the first inning to get the Wildcats on the scoreboard, and they added three runs in the third highlighted thanks to a two-run double from Keven Anderson and a bases loaded walk to Jake Ritzdorf.

The Wildcats hit the road for a non-conference two-game set at Fort Hays, Kan., and dropped a pair to the Tigers, losing 5-3 and 7-2.

The Tigers managed to hang on for the two-run win on Saturday, taking a 4-0 lead after three innings and holding off a Wildcat comeback effort.

"We played two close games this weekend, and Fort Hays has a talented team," Disch said. "We just didn't get the timely hits when we needed to."

Wayne State trailed 4-0 after three innings, but cut the deficit in half in the fourth when Beranek scored Ritzdorf on a fielder's choice and Acosta added an RBI single. They added another run in the seventh on a Travis Parsons double, but Fort Hays picked up an insurance run in the eighth to close out the win.

On Sunday, Fort Hays scored five runs in the bottom of the seventh to snap a 2-2 tie and go on to the win, dropping the Wildcats to 26-16 on the season.

Wayne State trailed 2-0 early, but scored single runs in the second and fourth innings, the second coming on a solo homer by C.J. Nolen, and the game stayed tied until the Tigers plated five runs off three Wildcat pitchers.

Wayne State closes out the regular season with a Wednesday doubleheader against Minnesota, Crookston and a four-game set with Concordia-St. Paul this weekend at the Chapman Complex.

Fehringer leads Wildcat track teams

Wayne native Carly Fehringer recorded a first-place finish in the shot put, while Nicole Brungardt and Alex Timperley each placed in three events to lead the Wayne State track and field teams Friday at the Kip Janvrin Open, hosted by Simpson College in Indianola, Iowa.

"This was a good meet for us," coach Marlon Brink said. "We wanted to try and get some marks to help with our conference rankings and boost the kids' confidence going into conference. Carly continued to throw well, and Nicole and Alex continue to compete at a high level."

Fehringer had the lone win for the Wildcats on Friday with a top mark of 45 feet, 5 1/4 inches in the shot put. She also finished fifth in the hammer throw with a top throw of 172 feet, 5 inches.

Samantha Garrison finished in a tie for first in the pole vault. Senior sprinter/jumper Nicole Brungardt placed second in the long jump and was third in both the 100- and 200-meter dashes. Sophomore Sidney Blum had a pair of top six finishes, taking fifth in the triple jump and sixth in the long jump.

The top finishes for the Wayne State men came from freshman Jon Williams in the javelin at 172 feet, 5 inches, and senior Alex Timperley in the triple jump at 44 feet, 7 inches. Timperley also scored a third-place finish in the long jump and was fifth in the 100. Brad Wright was fifth in the discus and sixth in the shot put.

The next meet for Wayne State College will be Saturday, when the Wildcats compete at the Nebraska Invitational in Lincoln in their final tune-up before next week's conference meet in Bismarck, N.D.

Blue Devils 1-1 on diamond to end regular season

The Wayne High baseball team finished the regular season with a 1-0 win over Platte Valley and a heartbreaking loss to top 10-ranked South Sioux City to take a 6-10 record into district play.

On Thursday, the Blue Devils came from behind against fourth-ranked South Sioux City to force extra innings, but the Cardinals scored a run in the top of the eighth and held on for a 6-5 win.

The Blue Devils trailed 5-1 in the sixth when they erupted for four runs to tie the game, highlighted by a two-run single by Toni Sinniger. Wayne had a chance to win the game in the seventh, but were unable to score and the game went an extra frame, where the visiting Cardinals plated a run to come away with the win.

Bradley Longe had two of Wayne's seven hits in the game, while Drew Carroll had an RBI double and Miles Anderson scored two runs. Sinniger pitched five innings, allowing six hits and three walks while striking out four. Brady Soden pitched three innings in relief, allowing five hits while striking out two.

Girls third, boys fourth at Mid State meet

NORFOLK - The Wayne High track and field team got some good performances in their final major meet before next week's district competition at the Mid State Conference meet Saturday at Norfolk Catholic.

The girls finished third overall in a close team race and were led by seniors Caitlin Fehringer and Marissa Fallesen, who combined to bring home seven medals on the day for the Blue Devils.

Fehringer was solid once again in the hurdles, finishing second in the 100-meter highs and fifth in the 300-meter hurdles. She also ran legs on two relay teams, as the 400-meter relay took second and the 1,600-meter relay was third.

Fallesen performed well in field events, finishing second in the long jump and fifth in the triple jump. She also ran a leg on the 400-meter relay team with Cassie Heier and Jalyn Zeiss.

Other multiple medalists for Wayne's girls were Emily Leeper, Kristin Carroll, Angie Nelson, and Zeiss. Nelson had three medals, including the two distance events and as part of the 3,200-meter relay team that placed third. Carroll was second in the 800, and Sarah Maxson was runner-up in the high jump with teammate Ashton Schweers placing fifth.

On the boys side, the 3,200-meter relay team of Sawyer Jager, Tyler Ellis, Luke Trenhaile and Quentin Jorgensen were conference champions, bringing home Wayne's only first-place finish on the day.

Jorgensen was a runner-up in both the 1,600 and 3,200 on the day,

Arbor Day Assembly

Arbor Day was celebrated in Allen on April 20 at an assembly for all students at the school with guest speakers Steve Rasmussen, state forester, and Annette Sudbeck, resource technician of the Lewis and Clark NRD.

Mr. Rasmussen opened the program by giving background history of the origin of Arbor Day and J. Sterling Morton. He then showed examples of various types of leaves and cones. He reviewed why some trees grow well in our area and other types do not grow in Nebraska. He concluded by encouraging students to read the Dr. Seuss book entitled The Lorax and go to the movie which has recently been released.

Then Ms. Sudbeck continued the program giving tips of planting trees. She emphasized that anyone planting a tree must think of the future when the tree is large so one must plant a tree in the proper place. She then explained how to dig the hole to plant a tree, fill it with dirt, and then water it.

Following their presentations, both presenters answered the many questions of the students. A special treat following the assembly was when each student was given a tree. The various kinds of trees given were Colorado blue spruce, arrowwood viburnum, ponderosa pine, common lilac, and burr oak.

Drive for our Troops

The Allen American Legion Auxiliary Post 131 teamed up with the Allen elementary classes and gathered travel size hygiene items for our combat soldiers that are still overseas.

Items that were collected were: toothbrushes, toothpaste, soap, deodorant, shampoo, combs, disposable razors, and baby wipes. A total of 32 bags for female soldiers and 32 bags for male soldiers were made. Also, some letters were written to the soldiers by the students that will be sent with a bag to a soldier.

Each class was assigned an item and the winning class will receive an ice cream party. Because there was a close count by two of the classes, the auxiliary announced that the second grade and third grade classes win the ice cream.

The Allen American Legion Auxiliary Post 131 would like to thank Allen Consolidated School's administration for allowing them to team up with the students for this community drive for the troops.

Thanks also extended to the students for their hard work in gathering the items.

Ladies Night Out

A big thank you has been extended to all the businesses that made donations for the Ladies Night Out Event. It was a huge success. A total of 114 guests paid at the door, 21 vendors and lots of smiles and packages left the building.

Plans are in the work for next year. Thanks again for all your support to the American Legion Auxiliary!

Eagle Scout Mainz honored as Adams Award Recipient

An Eagle project by Nicholas Mainz to restore the Pioneer Cemetery in Monmouth, Ill. was honored as the Council's first recipient of the Glenn A. and Melinda W. Adams National Eagle Scout Service Project of the Year at the Illowa Council's Eagle Scout Recognition Dinner on April 25 at the Rock Island Arsenal.

Mainz, son of Michael Mainz, Wayne, is a member of Troop 355 chartered by the First United Methodist Church in Monmouth, Ill.

The National Eagle Scout Association (NESA) established the Adams Award in 2009 to recognize valuable service of an exceptional nature by a Scout to a religious institution, a school, community or other entity. The award recognizes a Scout for his Eagle Scout leadership service project, which is part of the requirements for earning the Eagle Scout Award. As a winner of this award, Mainz received a certificate and a bronze recognition for the Eagle Scout embroidered knot from the National Eagle Scout Association.

The Eagle Scout restored a historic cemetery that received burials from 1830 until 1865, around the time of the establishment of the city of Monmouth and Warren County, Illinois. Mainz trained a group of volunteers to follow historic conservation guidelines established by the Illinois History Preservation Agency (IHPA) on how to preserve historic cemeteries. They reset and repaired tombstones as well as washed damaging mold, lichens and rust off all stones in the cemetery. Mainz conducted his work under the auspices of the City of Monmouth, Illinois Historic Preservation Agency, and the Warren County Historical Association. During research conducted by Mainz he discovered that the cemetery contains the remains of county pioneers, War of 1812 vets, Civil War vets as well as victims of a local cholera epidemic and a tornado disaster of 1851. The early history of this city and county were preserved by the actions of this service project.

The project took five months to complete, with a total of 35 volunteers and 260 hours of labor. Mainz stated that he raised over $600 to pay for materials and received hundreds of dollars of donated materials and equipment. The repairs and resetting of the stones should last a lifetime. In order to begin work on the cemetery Mainz was required by the IHPA to apply for and receive a permit from the state agency. In order to obtain the permit Mainz was required to attend training with IHPA. His work conforms to the 1980 IL law that protects historic remains.

The Monmouth-Roseville High School junior said he chose the Pioneer Cemetery for his project because "when I was eight, I placed Memorial Day flags on the graves of vets buried there and was shocked at the number of broken and tipped over stones. It looked like no one cared. Each May as I placed flags there, I kept thinking someone should do something to save this piece of Monmouth history. I love history and I wanted to give back to the community to help save this important historical place so others a hundred years from now, could learn about the history of our town and county. Currently, an Assistant Senior Patrol Leader in his troop, the Monmouth resident plans to attend Monmouth College and major in history. His career goal is to become a Park Ranger history specialist at a National Historic Site.

The Illowa Council, is one of the largest youth-serving agencies in the 10 county Iowa-Illinois area serving over 7,200 youth with educational programs that instill values, develop social and leadership skills, and promotes physical fitness and environmental awareness. The mission of the Boy Scouts of America is to prepare young people to make ethical and moral choices over their lifetimes by instilling in them the values of the Scout Oath and Scout Law.

SMOKING AND ORAL HEALTH: ANOTHER REASON TO COMMIT TO QUIT

The oral changes from smoking range from harmless soft tissue changes to life-threatening oral cancer. Your dentist is trained to perform an oral examination to detect these conditions. Some of the more common of these are discussed below:

Smoker's Melanosis — Smoker's Melanosis is increased darkening of the gums, due to irritation from tobacco smoke. The amount of pigmentation increases with greater tobacco use. There is no treatment for smoker's melanosis, but within 6 to 36 months of quitting smoking the tissues typically return to normal color.

Periodontal Disease — There is evidence that smoking contributes to periodontal disease and that continued smoking results in a reduced response to periodontal treatment. There is a greater amount of bone loss around teeth in smokers and individuals who smoke are more likely to lose teeth than non-smokers. It is reported that more than half of advanced periodontal disease can be linked to tobacco use because the carcinogens in smoke decrease the ability to heal and can cause loss of tissues supporting the teeth.

Oral Cancer — Use of tobacco products is clearly linked to development of oral cancer. Oral cancers are found primarily in the floor of the mouth (under the tongue), the sides and underside of the tongue, and the soft palate (the back part of the roof of the mouth). The most important key to surviving oral cancer is early detection. The tissue changes in early cancer can be subtle and it is essential for your dentist to perform a thorough soft tissue examination to detect cancer at an early stage. A sample of these tissues may be taken for a biopsy for diagnosis. This is the only way to make a confirmed diagnosis of oral cancer, and helps in determining your long-term outlook. Another benefit to quitting tobacco is that as soon as an individual quits smoking, the risk for oral cancer and other conditions related to smoking such as lung cancer and heart disease begins to decrease. It is generally acknowledged that within 15 years of your last cigarette your health risks are similar to those of a non-tobacco user.

Canseco's Twitter hacked by aliens?

My 17th annual 29th birthday is just two weeks from today (Thursday), and I thought it would be a great idea to open up a few early presents from the "Bits and Pieces" file:

— From the "... and Elvis shot steroids into my rump" department comes this little bit of unintentional comedy: Jose Canseco recently deleted his Twitter account, only to reopen it a day later.

When questioned as to why his Twitter account was gone one day and back the next, his response was simple: "Some aliens deleted my acc(ount)."

He also responded that he saw Elvis and Michael (Jackson, we presume) and said that they told everybody hello, as well as claiming he died and came back to life as a vampire.

So goes the lesson, boys and girls — human growth hormone is not only bad for your physical health, but it makes a prime candidate for a backward-jacket fitting.

— From the "Because nobody cheers for people who can hack your mom's Windows XP operating system" department: The University of Florida may — or may not, depending on your point of view — have figured out the best way to use taxpayer dollars in funding its school.

A recent report noted that the school is eliminating all funding for teaching assistants in computer science, cutting the graduate and research programs and moving them into other departments, which would save the school $1.7 million.

Making up that difference, however, is a $2 million increase in the school's $99 million athletic budget (yes, you read that right).

Of course this makes sense (sarcasm alert) — the University of Florida has put out numerous NFL stars and three Heisman Trophy winners, but who can remember the last time a UF alum wrote any earth-shattering computer code?

— From the "I think we've discovered how to get those folks in the Legislature a pay raise" department: Lawmakers in New Zealand are looking at some ideas to improve the quality of health in that region, and one of the items under consideration is a real doozy, especially if you're a smoker — raising the price of cigarettes to $100 a pack.

The idea is one of many from the nation's Ministry of Health, which hopes to make the country smoke-free by 2025. Another option would be an annual 10 percent increase in the price of a pack of smokes between 2013 and 2025, which would bring the cost up to about $40 a pack.

Meyer thanks WHS baseball

I would like to thank Wayne High athletic director Rocky Ruhl and baseball coach Adam Hoffman for giving me the opportunity to help coach the Wayne High baseball team this year.

It has been a pleasure to be associated with baseball again. After having it be a big part of my life from age 5 through 43, I now realize how things have changed (coaching concepts, equipment, outside interests of players, etc.).

While working with Coach Hoffman, I met someone who, like me, has a passion for the game. I am sure he will be a success at any level he chooses to coach in. Believe me, Wayne High baseball is on the right track.

The thrill of coaching isn't measured by wins and losses, but the improvement you instill in the players. I have realized it during the season.

John Wooden visited with my mom one afternoon during a coaches clinic at my brother's school. He told her that he hated games, but loved practice because the players didn't learn during a game. I wondered about that, but now I get it.

To the parents of the players, you know what great kids you have. Now, I do too! And players, thanks, for listening to an old school baseball guy and giving some of his views on how to play the game a chance.

Pipeline issue is still ongoing

By ED HOWARD
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — When the feds turned down the original route for a "tar sands" pipeline to run through Nebraska's Sand Hills, the folks at TransCanada might have given you the impression that the decision itself represented some sort of national disaster.

The Canadian company said it would take its unarguably dirty tar sand glop and get it to the West Coast, instead of sending it to refineries on the south coast of Texas. So, there!

They failed to mention the political and other problems they would face in other states.

The original plan had the pipeline running over porous areas of the Sand Hills and the precious Ogallala Aquifer. In some affected areas, the water table is within a few feet of the surface.

Low n' behold, however, it didn't take TransCanada more than a corporate minute or two — once the initial fight was lost — to come up with an alternative route.

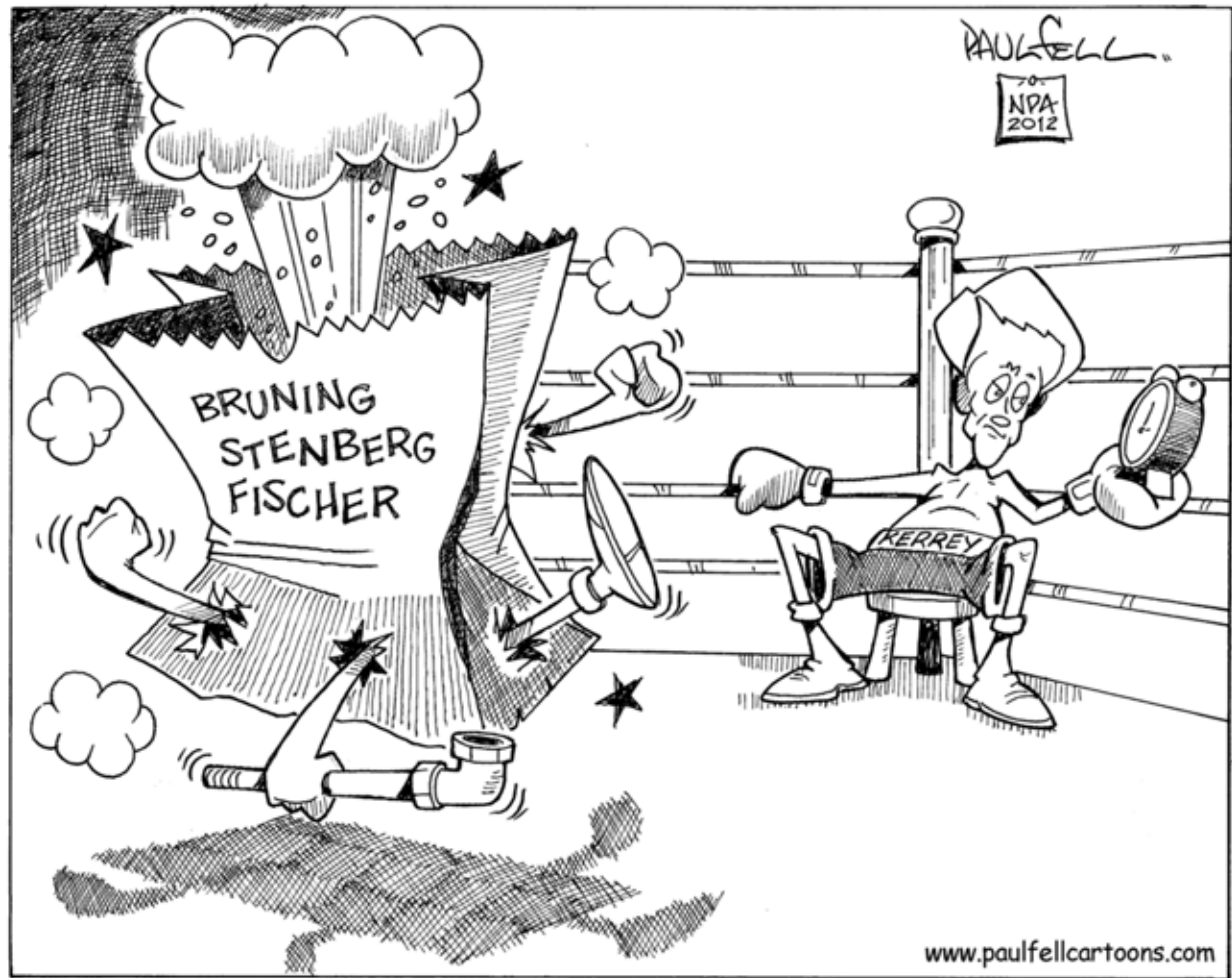

This development was so predictable it wouldn't have gotten even one shouted "Surprise!" from Gomer Pyle.

The new route would run east of the Sand Hills area — or most of it. Critics contend the pipeline would still pose a threat of aquifer pollution in some areas.

The Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality, under a newly enacted law, will review TransCanada's new proposal.

The fight over the pipeline, and the product it would transport, was/is national in scope.

Opponents include a host of scientists and environmental groups who say the bitumen taken from the tar sands is the dirtiest on earth, and that mining and using it would be a disaster.

Meanwhile, proponents in Nebraska and elsewhere maintain it would make America less dependent on other foreign sources of energy. And it would create jobs. Both assertions are subject to scrutiny.

The Christian Science Monitor reported that testimony offered by experts working for TransCanada itself shows that the company actually expects the pipeline to feed the export market and actually increase the price of gasoline in the Midwest, as the current oversupply in the region is reduced.

And while TransCanada has estimated the job creation number at 20,000, independent estimates by the State Department and Cornell University predict a range of 2,500 to 6,000 temporary construction jobs with no significant impact on long-term job creation.

Gov. Dave Heineman has always supported the general idea of a pipeline, but acknowledged public opinion in Nebraska in opposing the route first sought by TransCanada.

If the Department of Environmental Quality signs off on the new plan, it will likely build support for the pipeline in the Legislature.

The pipeline would run some 1,700 miles from Canada to the Texas coast and cost an estimated $7.6 billion.

Summit on entrepreneurship is held

Dear Fellow Nebraskans:

This week, I was pleased to host business and government leaders from our region for the fourth and final national summit on entrepreneurship and innovation in Omaha. As Chair of the National Governors Association, my initiative, Growing State Economies, has focused on ways states can encourage job creation and improve state economies through encouraging and fostering entrepreneurship and business innovation.

More than 40 states participated in discussions to help small businesses grow and employ more Americans. When listening to other states, one thing was evident — Nebraska is in an enviable economic position. We didn't get here by luck, though. It has taken a lot of hard work and holding true to some basic Nebraska principles. We invest in our most important priorities, education and jobs creation, and we don't spend money we don't have.

We are fortunate to have one of the strongest economies in the country. Our unemployment rate is 4 percent while the national average is more than double at 8.2 percent. Nebraska is recognized nationally as a top 10 state in which to do business.

Our strong position is the result of years of planning and implementing business-friendly policies. Six years ago, a new package of economic incentives known as the Nebraska Advantage went into effect that has helped attract outstanding new business opportunities to Nebraska while helping existing busi-

We worked closely with the Legislature to develop the Nebraska Advantage, which was the first comprehensive update to Nebraska's economic incentives since the mid 1980's. Our goal was to stimulate statewide economic development and job creation.

Last year, we passed the Nebraska Internship Program that is an important component of Nebraska's strategic economic plan. It is designed to enhance technology and innovation. With this initiative, Nebraska has one of the strongest public policy strategies in place to advance business recruitment and development.

Intern Nebraska is a win-win for students seeking valuable business experience to further shape their future careers and to keep our youth in Nebraska. Students have hands-on opportunities that help them fully experience the true operations and inner workings of their chosen career paths.

Additionally, it is an opportunity for business owners who are focused on developing a quality workforce to meet the demands of our vastly changing global economy. We're excited about providing young Nebraskans with career opportunities.

The National Association of Colleges and Employers' 2011 Internship and Co-op Survey recorded that businesses hired 58 percent of interns as full-time employees. Since Intern Nebraska began, 141 companies and 403 internships have been approved for program participation. The internships are in both rural and urban Nebraska.

I encourage Nebraska businesses to start planning now for summer internships, because research supports that businesses which plan internship programs and recruitment efforts early are more likely to describe the overall internship program experience in more successful terms.

Many businesses are currently gearing up to hire summer interns and posting available internships online at www.internne.com. Applications from interested businesses are currently being taken at this same online address where there also are guidelines posted.

Dancers from The Many Moccasins Dance Troupe will be in Wayne on Sunday, May 6 as part of the Celebrate the Arts event, hosted by the Wayne Optimist Club.

Wayne Optimist Club to host Native American Dancers as part of ninth annual Celebration of the Arts

Optimist Clubs around the world are committed to providing hope and a positive vision to bring out the best in kids.

Nine years ago, members of the Wayne Optimist Club started a new youth appreciation project called Celebrating the Arts to honor students from northeast Nebraska who are not necessarily the best athletes or brightest scholars, but instead make the world a better and brighter place through visual, literary, applied or performing arts.

The Wayne Optimist Club's Celebration of the Arts will be held Sunday, May 6 at Our Savior Lutheran Church, at Fourth and Main Streets in Wayne. The event will begin at 3:30 p.m. with an educational and entertaining exhibition of Native American music and dance featuring Lewis "Bleu" St Cyr from Winnebago, Nebraska which is free and open to the general public.

Celebrating the Arts is a unique awards program that combines an awards banquet recognizing elementary, middle school, junior high and senior high students from up to twelve different area schools with a special art-related program or presentation.

The schools participating in 2011-2012 include Allen Consolidated Schools, Emerson-Hubbard Community Schools, Laurel-Concord/Coleridge Public Schools, Pender Public Schools, St. Mary's Catholic School-Wayne, Wakefield Community Schools, Wayne Community Schools, Winside Public Schools, and Wisner-Pilger Public Schools.

Lewis "Bleu" St Cyr, from the Ho-Chunk and Oglala Lakota Nations, is a descendant of White Cow Killer and Red Cloud and is a member of the Bear Clan.

He is an enrolled member of the Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska. Lewis is a nationally known flute player and champion dancer in the men's grass dance, prairie chicken dance, and hoop dance categories. He has been dancing since the age of three when he was brought into the arena by his uncle. Lewis was given the right to hoop dance four years ago by a good friend and military veteran Lowry Begay who saw the gift of the hoop in Lewis and taught him the basics of the dance and the responsibilities that accompany its performance.

Begay told Lewis, "Continue on and create your own style to bring happiness and healing to all that you dance for." Lewis performs with The Many Moccasins Dance Troupe which he co-founded with his mother and brother in 2001 and sings with his family drum, The Ho-Chunk Singers. The Many Moccasins Dance Troupe uses the traditional styles of Native American music and dance but incorporates a unique contemporary theatrical twist to provide an opportunity for all people to view a range of traditional Native American dance styles. Some of the dances typically performed by the multigenerational ensemble of twenty-five professional performers include the men's fancy feather dance, women's fancy shawl dance, and the popular hoop dance as well as specialty dances particular to certain tribes, such as the fish dance or the applique dance.

All performances include dancing, drumming, flute playing, regalia, narration, and storytelling for the purpose of educating people about Native American culture and history. In addition to traveling and performing around the world with his own dance troupe, Lewis has been on tour with the award winning Native American musical group "Brule" and AIRO since 2006. He has performed in front of numerous large audiences including the 2008 Aboriginal People's Choice Awards in Manitoba, Canada; the 2009 Reservation Economic Summit in Las Vegas, Nevada; and the 2011 Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, California. Lewis has also worked with Dreams of Eagles Dance Troupe, Three Feathers Dance Troupe, Native Spirit Productions, Rike Leaf and Tribe of One, and Eagle and Hawk Band.

Lewis graduated from Winnebago High School in 2005 and from Wayne State College, with a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration-Human Resource Management, in December 2011.

He is co-owner and lead DJ for G&L Productions, a professional mobile disc jockey service in Winnebago. In addition to being a professional performer and DJ, Lewis is also a motivational speaker and leader in his community, serving as the Winnebago Homecoming Celebration Pow Wow Head Man Dancer and Arena Director, an honor that was bestowed upon him by the tribal community. He was selected to be a peer mentor and Red Road Peer Leader in the Winnebago School and continues to be a consultant for Native Exposure, working with organizations on youth leadership and cultural issues. Lewis hopes to create change for his community and tries to always inspire young people with his words and performances.

Exercising requires ability, desire

Exercising is dependent on how you value being fit. Your mind and your perception of your ability to exercise, along with your desire to engage in physical activity, have the most influence on how much exercise you actually do. There is no question that, if you do not enjoy doing physical activity or don't think you are good at it, you will not be motivated to do it.

Studies with older women have shown that a person's perceived health benefits from regular exercise motivated many to overcome mental barriers such as lack of confidence in their ability to exercise and lack of time. Here are some strategies to help intention become reality:

A place to exercise needs to be near your home or work. It is important that you don't have to go out of your way to exercise as that will give you an excuse not to do it. If you want to take dance lessons or join a gym, make sure it is close to where you live or on your way to or from your workplace.

Choose physical activities that you enjoy such as hiking, biking, gardening, walking or any activity that gets you moving. Combine basic strength training with aerobic and balance exercises that improve your ability to function. Combining strength training with cardiovascular exercise of different intensity creates a time-efficient workout.

Try going to dance classes such as Zumba or Bollywood that are inspired by Latin, Indian or ballroom varieties. Using computer-based activities such as Wii, interactive video games, online exercises or fitness podcasts might also be a choice.

Set a S.M.A.R.T. goal. To stay motivated, set a goal that is Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Realistic and Time-Sensitive. Setting

Sandy Preston

a goal "to lose weight" is too vague. Instead, set a specific, measurable goal such as losing 30 pounds by cutting daily calories and walking three days a week along with participating in an aerobics class three days a week. Is that goal realistic? Is it achievable? What is the time frame in which to accomplish your goal?

Set a schedule. Regular exercise is a MUST. Make the time everyday to achieve your weight loss goal. Set up your schedule on your computer, on your phone, on a calendar or a to-do list. Use what works for you to ensure that you schedule exercise daily.

Practice positive self-talk that you can change your behavior. Replace "I can't" with "I can do it". Positive messages will help you stay fit and healthy. Small steps in managing your daily activity will help you lose weight if you couple it with healthy eating and a healthy attitude. Positive self-talk is a great habit that tells your mind that you care about your body and your health.

Take small steps today toward making small changes that will lead to a healthier body, mind, and spirit.

Lutheran Women gather in Winside

The women of Lutheran Women's Missionary League (LWML) Wayne Zone met April 24 at St Paul Lutheran Church at Winside.

The Workshop began at 8:30 a.m. with registration. The theme was "Walking in Green Pastures" based on Psalms 23.

Christian Growth Leader Connie Schutte welcomed everyone. Pastor Timothy Steckling led the hymn singing and gave the opening devotion from John chapter 10. Lorraine Prince St. Paul Society President greeted and thanked all for coming.

Zone President Janice Anderson read a poem entitled "Good Morning God". She gave the district report. She reminded us of the LWML District Convention which will be June 29-30 at Lutheran High Northeast in Norfolk, hosted by the Plainview Zone.

The convention will begin with servant events in the morning. Friday Evening will be a Special 70th anniversary Dinner with entertainment honoring the 70th anniversary of LWML. Saturday, June 30 will start with the communion service at 8 a.m. Interest sessions will be held mid-morning. All mission grants have been paid.

Connie Schutte read a reading on the Psalm 23. The Christian Growth Committee members Connie Schutte, Pat Janke, and Rose Mason performed a wonderful skit on Psalm 23. The group recited the LWML Pledge.

Pastor Steckling gave an inspiring Bible study using Psalm 23 as the bases and how God loves green pastures and He is our Shepherd.

Roxanne Fox from the Norfolk Rescue Mission was the main speaker. She told her story of how she and her husband needed help and the Mission opened their doors to them. She is now the Women's Director for the Mission.

She explained about the New Life Program. She told how they feed anywhere from 30-50 people three meals a day 365 days a year. The Mission totally depends on donations for food, clothing, furniture and paper products. They have a food and clothing bank. They also take furniture and other items because these people come with nothing and when they leave the Mission they will need everything to get started.

They have the "dining room ministry" which is when you receive a meal you are required to go to Chapel. The Mission has helped many people find the Lord and get them back in society. The zone societies collected many boxes of food and paper items for the Mission and also $600 cash to help with other costs.

Pastor Steckling gave the ingathering devotion.

Offering and attendance report was given by Lorraine Prince. Offering collected was $212 and those attending were 45 members, 3 Pastors, and 5 guests present for a total of 53. Pastor Steckling led the closing prayer and table prayer. A salad luncheon was served.

The LWML is the official women's auxiliary of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. For 70 years the LWML has focused on affirming each woman's relationship with Christ, encouraging and equipping women to live out their Christian lives in active mission ministries and to support global missions.

Thrivent Chapter 30268 meets May 5 and 12

The Wayne-Dixon County Chapter No. 30268, Thrivent Financial for Lutherans, will meet on Saturday, May 5 at 12 p.m. at Tacos & More in Wayne.

The meeting is open to any benefit and/or associate member of Thrivent and anyone who would like to know more about Thrivent products, benefits and investment opportunities. Interested persons do not necessarily need to be of the Lutheran faith to inquire or attend. The Chapter is contacting each of the 10 sister Lutheran churches affiliated with Chapter offering them a time to seek volunteers from their respective churches to be congregational advocates. Each church may have eight advocates. For any church member serving in a Chapter Leader position, it is best that that member not be considered an advocate.

The Chapter is looking into hosting an informative meeting and catered meal of the churches in early July to bring in the Thrivent financial representatives serving members in each of the sister congregations to give an overview of what Thrivent has to offer. It will also be a time to welcome the congregational advocates and answer any questions they or their church may have for serving as an advocate. The group is looking forward to providing more details in the near future. At this time, if any of the sister congregations would like to provide their fellowship hall for this group meeting and meal, the chapter leaders would welcome hearing from you. You may contact any of the Chapter Leaders.

Chapter Leaders include Don Leighton, President - St. Paul, Winside; Beverly Ruwe, Vice President - Immanuel, rural Wakefield; Barbara Junk, Financial Director - Trinity, Winside; Arlene Gnirk, Congregational Advocate Director - Trinity, Hoskins; and Beverly Neel, Records Director - Trinity, Winside.

Center Circle Club meets

Members discussed possible places to go for their June tour. Rose Janke and Dianne Jaeger will be on a committee to plan it.

The next meeting will be Thursday, May 17 at Helen Holtgrew's. Roll call will be "Bring your favorite recipe for summer salad or cool drinks." Election of officers will be held.

Members played 13-point pitch for fun, with prizes going to Helen Holtgrew, Cleora Fisher and Betty Andersen.

About 60 families were served during a recent stop of the mobile food pantry at the United Methodist Church in Wayne.

Families served by mobile food pantry during recent Wayne stop

A mobile food pantry was in Wayne April 28 and served approximately 60 families.

"The truck arrived at 9 a.m., and local volunteers unloaded and prepared for the pantry.

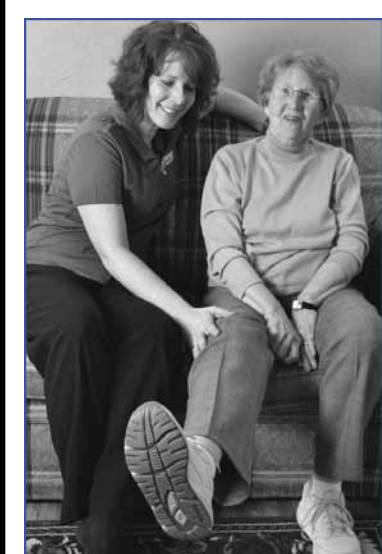

"People lined up early, some nearly an hour early," said Pastor Pete Phillips of First United Methodist Church, who hosted the mobile pantry.

People brought boxes, bags, even laundry baskets for their food.

"We gave away 5,900 pounds of non-perishable food and boxes upon boxes of breads, pastries, fresh fruits and vegetables," Phillips said.

He added that this ministry is guaranteed through July, and hope to be able to provide it year-round for years to come.

"People of all ages showed up to receive food. They were very grateful and some were even hesitant to take too much. Volunteers walked with them as they made their way through the fellowship hall encouraging them to take as much as they needed. We carried the boxes for them and even helped load their boxes of food into their cars. It wasn't long before people were using the phones to call their friends and family members to let them know about the event," Phillips said.

Holling Camp becomes Arboretum affiliate

Carol Joy Holling Camp, Conference and Retreat Center has received accreditation as an affiliate site of the Nebraska Statewide Arboretum.

This new accreditation comes as a result of work by camp staff to diversify and expand the plantings on the property near Ashland.

"The accreditation is acknowledging our progress in plantings of specific specimens, collections and groupings," said Bud Dasenbrock, life member of the arboretum. "We have intentionally planted a variety of things in both landscaping and in native woodlands and prairies. Both types of plantings are very important to the sustainability of Carol Joy Holling Center as a place for guests to experience and enjoy the outdoors."

Dasenbrock served as the first president of the Nebraska Statewide Arboretum and is passionate about environment education for youth and adults.

Roger Maxon, director of site and facilities at Holling, said he hopes the new accreditation will attract more volunteers. "As we grow in our understanding of what it means to be an arboretum, we will need more help to plant and maintain our spaces," he said.

Maxon and Dasenbrock are looking to develop signage and educational materials for guests to better appreciate the plantings. Dasenbrock said, "Having appropriate interpretation of the plants will open so many doors to environmental education opportunities for both summer campers and retreat guests."

Carol Joy Holling Camp serves about 2,500 campers during the summer through residential and day camp experiences, and about 17,000 conference and retreat guests annually.

Information about Carol Joy Holling Camp, Conference & Retreat Center facilities and programs can be found online at www.caroljoyholling.org.

Members are asked to come a little early so they can start making the seven-poppo wreaths for Memorial Day for seven area cemeteries.

Notices have been sent to the membership advising of the Memorial Day dinner on Monday, May 28. Members are asked to bring either a salad or dessert to serve 12-15 adults or make a monetary donation in kind.

Membership dues for 2013 may be sent to Membership Chairman Beverly Neel, 57580 847th Road, Wayne Neb. 68787-7080. Senior dues are $21 and Junior dues remain at $3. ## Minerva Club holds April 23 meeting

Minerva Club met April 23 at the Wayne Senior Center with Mary-Ann DeNaeyer as hostess.

Twelve members answered roll call by reading a thought-provoking adage. President DeNaeyer opened the meeting by reading both serious and humorous reflections about life. Minutes were read and approved. Donna Hansen gave the treasurer's report.

Historian Hollis Frese read the April 4 and 25, 1936 minutes. Even though the Thirties were hard economic times, the Minerva Club donated $1 to buy the Crippled Children's Society fundraising stamps. They also gave $1 to the "Fight Cancer With Knowledge" campaign.

The birthday song was sung for Marilyn Wallin, Marian Clark, Donna Hansen and Fauneil Bennett who have summer birthdays when the club does not meet.

Mary Ann DeNaeyer presented the program. She honored National Math Education Month by testing members' math skills and logic. She provided puzzles to be solved and then explained why the puzzle outcomes worked even though each person had used different numbers.

The club will go to Prenger's in Norfolk for the Monday, May 14 meeting. Members are to meet at the Our Savior Church parking lot. Hollis Frese, Joyce Mitchell and Marian Clark will provide cars. Departure time is 11:15 a.m.

Contemplating weather, technology and driver's licence examiners

My goodness, tomorrow is the first of May! Mike went to Norris High School to see Randa in Aida yesterday, and he reports that the corn south of Lincoln is up!! I was in Norfolk for Jacey's confirmation, and the farmer I talked to said his corn and beans are all planted. Has this ever happened before? Also, Lincoln had an inch of rain yesterday, but I don't think northeast Norfolk had anything but fog and cloud cover. I sure hope these crops get enough moisture!!

Since I did not check e-mail yesterday, and had not looked at it yet today, I thought I had better get to it about nine o'clock this evening. Sure enough, there was a page of forwards. Some of course, are really cute, or really funny, or very inspirational, but a lot are not; or they are some that have been around before, sometimes, often! I have one friend who does not share her email address and just plain tells us she does not want that stuff. Another one blocked my message to her, saying she had installed a filter and after I filled in the proper information, she would clear me to send emails!

Somehow, both those things seem rather rude, so I have not done it. Plus, sometimes, I'm glad I got the stuff, if it's really cute, or really funny, or very inspirational. But, all in all, it's become another daily task, hasn't it? And my friends wonder why I'm not on Facebook!

I had to renew my driver's licence last month, so headed over to the DMV, which is not far from our house, took a number, and sat down to wait. I've learned the hard way not to go there at the end of the month or at the beginning of the month. Also, morning is best. So, while I waited, a gentleman looked around and wondered aloud where he could get a number. I pointed to the sign that said he should check the proper box on the computer and one would pop right out. He did that, and then sat down and began to complain about technology!

He is 54 years old, does not have a computer, and has only an old cell phone that is not activated, but that he carries in his car because he could use it to dial 911, if he should ever need to. I can appreciate where he's coming from, but I don't think I could go back to that, either.

It was not a good Monday for the guy who finally called my number, either. He asked if I needed my glasses to drive and I said no; so, he told me to look in the little thingie and read the top line. I couldn't! So, I put my glasses back on and read it, and told him where the lights were.

Without a smile, he took my picture, looked at it, and said my glasses were causing too much glare. I said I would tilt my head, but he said I should take them off. By this time, I was not happy with his attitude, and my picture looks exactly like that of a crook! I think they need some lessons in that department on how to deal with the customer. I can appreciate that doing that kind of thing all day long would get old, but hey, it's a job! And it's not out in the weather, the hours are good, the benefits are, too; so what's the problem?

Later in the week, I had to use that picture for ID, and I hated to pull it out of my wallet. We got my Mom's house sold, and I had to go to the title company to verify that I had given permission to my sis to carry out those transactions. You know, we need photo ID for almost everything these days, and I don't like it that mine looks like a crook! But I guess I'm stuck with it for five years, so let's hope I don't have to show it very often!

And I still think they guy could have been pleasant! How hard is that?

Benefits noted for early planting of soybeans

Planters are rolling throughout the state and, given the size of today's equipment, corn planting is rapidly progressing.

Based on UNL research led by Dr. Jim Specht and summarized by Extension Educator Jenny Rees, we would encourage you to consider planting your soybeans as soon as possible, preferably by the first 7-10 days in May for the northern third of Nebraska. While evening temperatures have been low, consider the percent risk of frost for emerged plants, not planted seeds. The above recommendation considers a 10 percent risk of frost 7-10 days after planting, the time when soybeans would most likely emerge.

Why plant early? Five years of UNL small plot and on-farm research has proven that early planted soybeans yield more than late planted beans – regardless of whether the spring has been cold and wet or warm and dry.

Soybeans are a photoperiod-sensitive crop so the goal is to allow the plant to use the sun's energy to accumulate as many nodes as possible before day length begins to decrease after June 21. Nodes are important because that's where pods, seeds, and ultimately yield are produced.

Three years of on-farm research have resulted in an average of 3 bu/acre yield increase, with a range of 1-10 bu/acre depending on the year and the planting date range of early versus later planting. With today's soybean prices, a 3 bu/acre yield increase adds up. An extra $45 an acre (if prices remain near $15 a bushel) is significant.

Dr. Specht recommends a fungicide/insecticide seed treatment to reduce the risk of damping off disease and bean leaf beetles which tend to feed on early planted soybeans. As entomologists, we are not too concerned with early bean leaf beetle feeding, as our own research has shown little benefit for controlling early bean leaf beetle foliar feeding. Save some money there and go with disease control if you want.

We want you to be safe, so don't lose any sleep rushing to plant soybeans. However, no need to take a few days off between corn planting and soybean planting. For more information, check out cropwatch.unl.edu for more articles on planting soybeans early. Have a safe planting season.

Remember we will have tractor safety training for 14-15 year olds at the Haskell Lab on May 31-June 1. Contact the Dixon County Extension Office to pre-register and get more information.

NOTICE

The Wayne Public Works Department wants to remind all residents that blowing lawn mower clippings into the street is prohibited and is a violation of City Code, Section 58-94. These grass clippings and other such debris left on the street will travel to the storm sewer inlet and can block them. The blocking of the inlets can cause local flooding from storm water accumulation.
Because the water from the storm sewers runs into Logan Creek, the grass clippings can negatively affect the creek with the chemical content in the grass from lawns that have been fertilized and treated with weed killer.
When mowing, please mow the first few rounds so that the grass blows in towards the lawn and when finished, sweep up the grass that has been thrown into the street.
We thank you for your cooperation during this mowing season.

OPPORTUNITY TO TEST YOUR WELL!
Wayne, Nebraska - 23 million people in the U.S. rely on private wells for drinking water; however, there are currently no drinking water standards for private well water and no requirements for private well testing.
To help owners better understand their private well and get a baseline reading for nitrate in their well water, the City of Wayne, in cooperation with Wayne County 4-H, will hold a Test Your Well Night on May 17, 2012, from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. at the Wayne Fire Hall Meeting Room, 510 Tomar Drive.
Many people generally do not think about their drinking water - it comes out of the tap and that is the end of it. While public water systems must comply with state and federal drinking water standards, private well owners are responsible for testing and maintaining the quality of their well water.
Interested well owners are asked to bring a sample of their private well water in a clean container to the Test Your Well Night to be tested confidentially for nitrate at no charge. Well owners will also have the chance to learn more about groundwater, private wells, nitrate, and pollution prevention; and have their questions answered. Municipal water will NOT be tested.

It shall be unlawful for any owner, agent, occupant or person in possession, charge or control of any premises described in subsection (a) of this section to allow to grow or to maintain any weeds or other rank growth of vegetation 12 inches in height or greater so as to be injurious to the public health, declared to be noxious by the state, conducive to fires or combustion, or creating a nuisance.
The Superintendent of Public Works & Utilities shall cause to be published in a legal newspaper of general circulation throughout the city a general notice to owners, agents, occupants or persons in possession, charge or control of real estate within the city to cut and remove weeds and other rank growth of vegetation from such premises.
