Third officer fired, appeal is filed with CSC

Date pending on Bolles' hearing

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

A third police officer on the Wayne Police Department has been terminated by the Wayne city administrator.

Jessica Bolles was terminated recently by Lowell Johnson, and has appealed her termination to the Wayne Civil Service Commission. The three-member board met Friday to look at submissions from both the city and Bolles legal counsel.

Scott Nordby, special counsel to the commission, said the next step in the process will be a hearing for Bolles before the commission. He said a date for that hearing has yet to be set, as he will need to consult with counsel for both parties and determine their pre-hearing needs before a hearing date can be set.

Bolles is the third member of the Wayne Police Department to have been terminated by Johnson in the past 13 months.

In February of 2011, Johnson suspended then-Chief Lance Webster and Lt. Phil Shear, terminating their employment two months later, citing a variety of misconduct on the part of both Webster and Shear. Webster, who was the city's top cop for 17 years; and Shear, who worked for almost 10 years in Wayne, appealed their firings to the Wayne Civil Service Commission in May of 2011. The three-member board upheld Johnson's decision in December of last year after a week-long hearing in early November at the Wayne Fire Hall.

Both Webster and Shear have filed subsequent appeals of the CSC's decision in Wayne County District Court. Those appeals were filed in early January, and Wayne County District Judge Robert Ensz is scheduled to hold hearings on those appeals in early August.

In the meantime, the city has listed on its website three new police officers to its staff, increasing the department's roster up to seven officers, along with three dispatchers. Marlen Chinn has served as interim police chief since last fall, with senior patrolman Brian Swanson and officers Dominic Consoli and Rick Haase joined by new officers Cory Moeller, Josh Jacobi and Dylan Jensen. The city has previously advertised for a full-time chief of police.

Johnson declined comment to The Wayne Herald on Bolles' termination or appeal to the Civil Service Commission.

Relay For Life more personal for Roeber

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

Cervical, prostate, skin, bladder, breast (in both men and women), bone, leukemia, ovarian, bowel, lymphoma, lung, throat.

These are just some of the cancers that have plagued members of Diane Roeber's family.

Because of this, Roeber has been a part of the Wayne County Relay For Life since its beginning in 1999.

"In 1999, when Relay For Life came to Wayne, I joined the cause as a walker on the State National Bank's team. I have many friends and family members affected by cancer and decided to take a stand and raise funds to find a cure. In 2002, I took over as treasurer of the Relay and continue to be involved in our fight to wipe out cancer by finding a cure," Roeber said.

Her involvement with Relay For Life became more personal in 2009.

"In September of 2008 I had an annual exam and mammogram. All test results came back normal. However, in mid-February, after being menopausal of three years, I began spotting and made an appointment with my gynecologist. On Feb. 27, the day before my 49th birthday, during the exam, the doctor saw what he believed was a prolapsed fibroid tumor," she said.

Roeber said in the back of her mind, she knew that the results would not be positive, but did not share her fears with anyone at that point.

When she went to the doctor on March 5, she went alone because her husband, Garry, could not get off of work.

"When the doctor walked in, I could tell that the news was not going to be good. I believe it was just as hard for him to tell me as it was to hear 'You have cancer,'" she said.

Roeber was diagnosed with a very rare form of cancer called adenocarcinoma with sarcomatous stroma. She was referred to Dr. Peter Morris, a gynecological oncologist at the Nebraska Methodist Hospital Cancer Center in Omaha. After consultation

Sales taxes up for May in city

The annual rugby tournament and recent positive trends in spending led to an increase in sales tax receipts for the city.

City finance director Nancy Braden said the city's May sales tax revenue came to $51,171.53 for sales made during March. That is almost $8,000 ahead of last year's total of $43,322.05, and marks the second time this fiscal year that sales tax receipts have topped the $50,000 plateau.

For the year, the city has received $383,988.71 in sales tax receipts, an average of $47,998.59 a month. It is on pace to eclipse the record total of $521,105.15 received in fiscal year 2009-2010.

An eclipse in the sky

The first annular eclipse in the United States in almost 20 years was visible in the western sky Sunday evening about an hour before sunset in Wayne County. Although seen as a partial eclipse here, the best place to view the eclipse was in other parts of the United States, from the Texas panhandle to northern California and parts of southwest Oregon. An annual eclipse takes place when the moon passes directly in front of the sun, but the moon isn't quite wide enough to cover the entire sun. The view leaves something that looks like a black hole in the center of the sun.

Nightmare on Egg Street theme for 2012 Wayne Chicken Show

Friday the 13th - shady, sketchy and altogether a little scary. Not this year.

Friday, July 13 marks the start of the 32nd Annual Wayne Chicken Show, and though the theme of "Nightmare on Egg Street" suits the ironic date, the activities planned are ones that won't keep you locked indoors.

Friday's Henoween in downtown Wayne not only brings the traditional Nissen Wine Tasting, a pie and ice cream social, pork sandwich feed, games and crafts, sidewalk sales and the World's Largest Chicken Dance, but also more intense contests and competitions.

At 3 p.m. in the Arnie's Ford parking lot, the second-ever Chicken Cooking Contest will take place, followed later that evening by the Egg Roulette, Saucy Hot Wing Eating Contest, Cutest Chicklette Contest and the much loved Cement Chicken Auction.

"Cement Chicken Auction funds are used to provide the free entertainment on Friday evening," Irene Fletcher, Wayne Area Economic Development assistant director, said. "Cement chickens are ready to be picked up by any local artist wishing to donate their time and talent to decorate the cement chicken for the auction. Completed chickens must be returned by July 1 and will be auctioned by Randy Bargholz at approximately 7 p.m. on Friday."

The Fuse, featuring Wayne alumnus Dave Remer and based out of Omaha, will provide the entertainment for Friday night on the First and Main Street stage beginning at 8:30 p.m., as well as Saturday in Bressler Park.

Henoween will wrap up with fireworks at Hank Overin Field and a street dance from 10:30 p.m.-12:30 a.m.

Saturday, July 14 starts with sneakers - literally. The 5K Run/1M Walk will kick off at 7:30 a.m. at Victor Park. Registration for this event is due by June 24.

Throughout the day, visitors and participants can plan for the Wayne Classic Men's USSSA Softball Tournament, a quilt show at the Masonic Lodge, an Eagles Club 5-point Pitch tournament, vendors of all kinds, a Live Rooster Crowing Contest and the Wayne Chicken Show Parade at 9:30 a.m.

As one might expect at this event, food is never in short supply. The Kiwanis Omelet Feed will begin at 7:30 a.m. in Bressler Park and last until 9:30 a.m., while the famous Chicken Feed won't be close behind, with serving scheduled from 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m.

The highly entertaining Chicken Show contests, which will begin at 1 p.m. in Bressler Park, includes Live Chicken Flying, Best Chicken Hat, Best Chicken Legs, Rubber Chicken Chuck, Egg Toss, Egg Drop and Catch, Hard Boiled Egg Eating Contest and the National Cluck-Off.

Newly added to this year's copious amount of events is a second street dance featuring local band Cactus Flats and the Adam Craig Band. Based in Nashville, Tenn., and formed in 2006, the Adam Craig Band is best known for its debut album "Four Square Miles," a collection of 12 songs that included the nationally-charted singles "Pencil Marks" and "Stay."

"The show is scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m. on Saturday at the stage in the Riley's and Final Touch parking lot," Fletcher said. "Admission is $5 at the gate. White Dog Pub will provide a beer garden, and Tacos & More will have the food concessions."

Crossing the finish line into Sunday's activities, the Crowing Motors Car Show is set to start at 9 a.m. and last until 1 p.m. at the Wayne Municipal Airport. The Last Cluck Poker Run will bring all the birds home at 1 p.m. Registration is at 11 a.m.

For more information about the Wayne Chicken Show or to become a sponsor or donor, contact the WAED Office at (402) 375-2240. Check out www.chickenshow.com for registration and entry forms. WAED also has new T-shirts for $15 apiece, and "cluck-tible" souvenir items available to prepare everyone for a great show.

"When birds of a feather stick together," WAED office manager Jessi Hansen said, "the WAED office and the volunteers really make things happen for the Chicken Show."

Roeber

and a CT scan of the abdomen, pelvic and chest regions, it was decided to do a radical hysterectomy.

On March 17, surgery was performed, including removal of 21 lymph nodes and surrounding tissue.

Information regarding Roeber's cancer was sent to the Mayo Clinic for further consultation. The diagnosis was "mesonephric adenocarcinoma with malignant stromal elements."

With only 30 other documented cases of this type of cancer, she was referred to Dr. Mohammad Zahra at the Carson Cancer Center in Norfolk.

Beginning on April 13, Roeber underwent 25 radiation treatments. These consisted of intensive radiation to the pelvic region from four directions. They were followed by an addition five "boost" treatments. On May 27, radiation therapy was complete.

Annual Hospice service planned for June 10

Providence Medical Center of Wayne is sponsoring the annual Hospice Memorial Service on Sunday, June 10 at 2 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, 516 North Main Street in Wayne.

This service is being held in memory of past patients of Providence Medical Center, Home Health Care, Palliative Care and Providence Hospice and others who we have known to have died between May 2011 to April 2012.

Following the service, cake and ice cream will be served in the church fellowship hall. The public is invited to attend.

For more information, please call (402) 375-4288.

"In just a little over three months, I had been through a lot. My family was awesome throughout the whole ordeal. My mom made the daily trips to Norfolk with me for five weeks. Garry (Diane's husband), Pam Nolte, Lesa Backstrom and my mother-in-law, Donna Roeber, took the days when my mom had other obligations," Roeber said.

She noted that it took nearly two years to get over the side effects of radiation.

Roeber said the prevalence of cancer in her family continues to be made evident. In fact, both of her parents were diagnosed with cancer within two days of each other in June of 2011. Her mother underwent a mastectomy and is doing well. Her father was diagnosed with bladder cancer and has undergone chemotherapy and the removal of his bladder and prostate.

Roeber will serve as this year's Hero of Hope at the Wayne County Relay For Life event June 1-2 and will share her story at midnight during this year's Relay.

"I originally began walking at Relay For Life as a way to help remember and honor all those touched by cancer. I believed that by doing my small part at Wayne's Relay, we could come closer to reaching our goal of beating cancer. After all the cancers that have surfaced in my family in recent years, I now have an even bigger reason to Relay," Roeber said.

Williams Form Engineering open for business

Dignitaries were in Wayne on Thursday to celebrate the opening of Wayne's newest corporate resident, Williams Form Engineering.

Participating in a ribbon-cutting ceremony were Ron Townsend, President of Williams Form Engineering, Lt. Governor Rick Sheehy, Nebraska Department of Economic Development (DED) Director Catherine Lang, Wayne Mayor Ken Chamberlain, and Wes Blecke, executive director of Wayne Area Economic Development (WAED).

"We are pleased to welcome Williams Form Engineering to the Wayne community," Sheehy said. "This project is a good example of how building a strong partnership involving private companies and government fosters economic development. Congratulations to Williams Form Engineering and the Wayne community on this exciting announcement."

For more than 80 years, Williams Form Engineering, based in Belmont, Mich., has manufactured quality products for the construction and fastener industries in the categories of concrete forming hardware and accessories; rock and concrete anchor bolts; and post tensioning systems.

The company plans to initially hire 15 full-time employees at its Wayne facility, in two shifts. This Wayne plant is the fifth such manufacturing plant in North America.

"Williams Form Engineering coming to Wayne will have a substantial impact on the community," Blecke said. "Williams is a sound company that will provide Wayne and the surrounding area with quality employment for years to come."

During remarks at the ribbon cutting, it was noted that one of the company's deciding factors for expanding to Wayne was the immediate availability of a building, a goal that the City of Wayne, WAED, and Wayne Industries had worked toward for a number of years. Among those instrumental in the construction of the Opportunity Building, were Dennis Linster and the late Marty Summerfield.

As it turned out, DED had such a program that awarded communities funding to construct speculative buildings to attract new and expanding companies.

Another key factor was the company's close proximity to Nucor Corporation in Norfolk. Williams Form Engineering is a customer of Nucor.

The city worked with the Northeast Nebraska Economic Development District to complete an application for DED's spec building program. A $250,000 Community Development Block Grant was subsequently awarded to the City in November 2007 for construction of a 20,000 sq.ft. metal shell speculative building on 6.57 acres in Kardell Industrial Park.

Williams Form Engineering is one of many new and expanding projects recently taking place in Wayne, including the grand opening of Cobblestone Inn; expansion and consolidation of one of Wayne's schools; the 25,000-square foot addition to Providence Medical Center, featuring wellness and therapy services, in addition to 3,000 square feet of outpatient space; opening of Dr. Burrows and Holloway Family Dentistry in a new building; the openings of Canine Design, Serenity Massage Therapy, Miss Molly's Drive Thru, Barb Frevert Photography, and Bomgaars expanding to a new, bigger building in fall 2012.

Finishing touches are currently being put on Williams Form Engineering building and production is expected to start by June 1.

Laurel-Concord/Coleridge senior Amy Pritchard came away with a third medal in the Class C girls triple jump, earning a second-place finish to cap an outstanding career.

Pritchard earns second, Dolph takes two at state

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

OMAHA – One area athlete ended her career on a positive note, while a second took some big steps toward making a solid career of his own at the state track meet.

Laurel-Concord/Coleridge senior Amy Pritchard and Wakefield sophomore Josh Dolph were the lone area athletes to come away with medals at the 2012 Nebraska State Track and Field Championships. Pritchard had the best finish in the season finale with a runner-up effort in the Class C girls triple jump, while Dolph made his mark in the quantity department, securing medals in the 800 and 1,600-meter runs.

All three medal-winning efforts came in the second day of competition Saturday, and both athletes were happy to end things on a positive note.

"It couldn't have ended any better for me," Pritchard said of her career-best mark of 36 feet, 8 3/4 inches, which came on her second jump in the preliminaries. "There was so much good competition down here, so I'm thankful for how I did."

LCC coach Nate Sims said Pritchard showed some good things in the long jump on Friday afternoon, which carried over into her triple jump efforts on Saturday.

"Usually, how you jump in the long jump translates to the triple jump, and she was very consistent in her approach and in every phase of her jumps," he said. "She'd gone over 36 (feet) twice coming into state, and she went over 36 on four of her six attempts, so she had her best day by far and it was nice to see it happen at state."

"It was an awesome jump," Pritchard said of her silver-medal effort. "I just tried to stretch it out as far as I could and remember everything my coaches told me, and I got it."

She didn't quite match her 16 foot, 7 inch effort in the long jump that she recorded last year, but Sims said even that wouldn't have been enough to get her in the finals

Wakefield sophomore Josh Dolph said overcoming the first-time jitters he experienced at state last year helped him perform well at state as a sophomore. He had the biggest haul among area athletes, earning an eighth in the 800 and a sixth in the 1,600 in Class C.

Dirt Devils Invite set for June 1-3

More than 30 teams from across the region will find their way to Wayne next weekend for the annual Dirt Devil Invite softball tournament.

The 34-team tournament will include pool play in five different age divisions. Dirt Devil board member Doug Carroll said teams from South Dakota and other parts of Nebraska will play in the tournament, which runs Friday through Sunday, June 1-3.

All four of Wayne's Dirt Devil teams will be involved in action. All four fields at the Wayne Softball Complex, as well as the Wayne State College varsity field, will be in use during the three-day tournament. Teams from Omaha, Blair, Sioux Falls, Yankton, Bennington, O'Neill and Norfolk are among the teams that are competing.

A listing of the the teams involved in each age group is as follows:

- 10-Under – Golden Girls, Dirt Devils, Kelly's, Yankton, O'Neill Shamrocks, Red Rippers.
- 12-Under – Blair, Red Rippers, Kelly's, Yankton, Bennington, O'Neill, Dirt Devils, Golden Girls
- 14-Under – Golden Girls, Dirt Devils, Lakeview Blue Lightning, Red Rippers, O'Neill Mean Green, Yankton Yellow Jackets
- 16-Under – Kelly's, Oakland Lion's Rockets, West Point, O'Neill, Quake's White, Yankton
- 18-Under – Dirt Devils, Diamond Blacks, Platte Valley Bank, O'Neill, Yankton, St. Paul, Wimmer-West Point, Golden Girls.

No medals, but good efforts for WHS at state

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

OMAHA – Getting to the state track meet is an achievement in its own right, so Wayne track coach Dale Hochstein wasn't all that disappointed that his teams came away empty-handed from the 2012 Nebraska State Track and Field Championships.

"We want to be competitive, but at the same time they are one of the few (in the state) to get down there, so it's really the frosting on the cake to compete in that environment," he said.

The majority of the Blue Devil competitors at state were making one last effort at a medal this weekend, and that senior leadership at state helped open some eyes for the younger qualifiers who will be back next season, he said.

"This senior class has really meant a lot to the track program, and it was nice to see a number of them go down and compete and take the younger kids along and show them the ropes," Hochstein said.

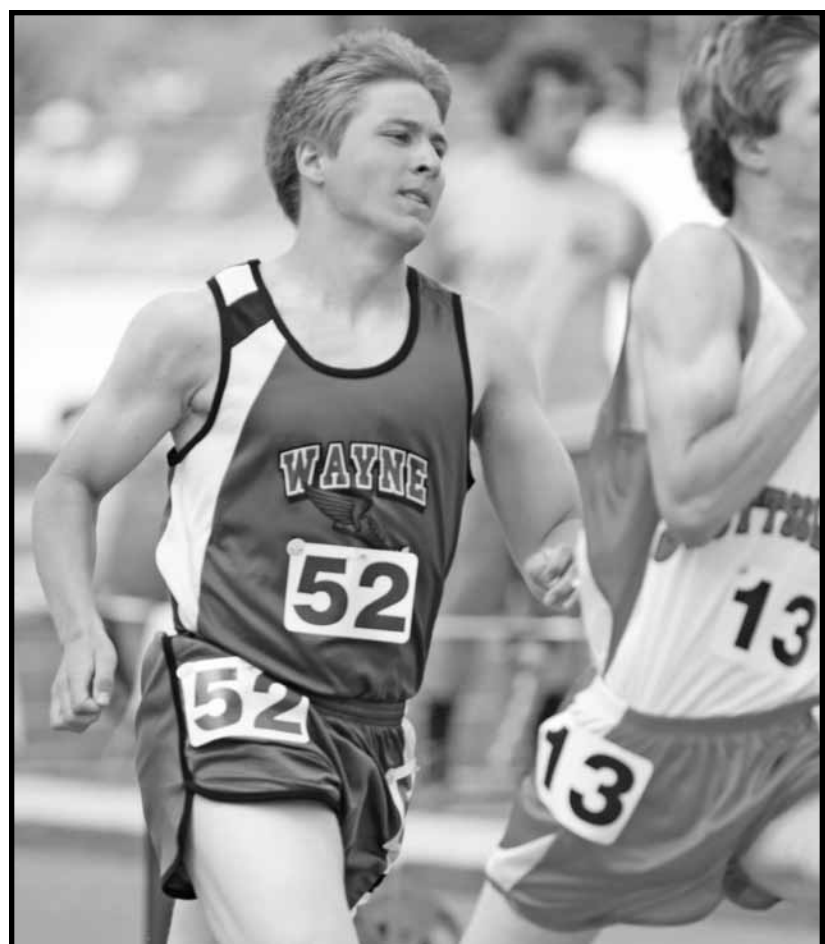

The Blue Devil girls were led by senior Caitlin Fehringer, who competed in three events. She ran the second leg of the 400-meter relay Saturday with Cassie Heier, Marissa Fallesen and Jalyn Zeiss, and also competed Friday in the 100 and 300 hurdles.

Fallesen was another multiple-event performer, as she added the long jump to her to-do list at state. Sarah Maxson and Ashton Schweers competed in the high jump, while Angie Nelson did battle in the 1,600-meter run.

"You're always hoping for a breakthrough effort down at state, and the girls kind of did what we expected them to," Hochstein said. "The 400 relay ran about where they've been this year, and Ashton cleared her best mark and was an inch away from being in the money and getting a medal."

On the boys side, all but one of Wayne's competitors were there for the final time, as seniors Quentin Jorgensen, Luke Trenhaile, Sawyer Jager and Tyler Ellis represented the Blue Devils on the track. The (top) Senior Caitlin Fehringer had a busy weekend for the Wayne High girls, competing in both hurdle events and running a leg in the 400-meter relay. (above) Quentin Jorgensen was also a three-event qualifier, competing in the 3,200 relay and both distance events.

Allen, Winside compete at state

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

OMAHA – Winside and Allen both had a short experience at this year's state track meet, as the Wildcat and Eagle qualifiers all had their events completed by the end of the Friday morning session at Omaha Burke Stadium.

Allen had both of its 3,200-meter relays competing in the Class D division, and senior Olivia Schneiders was back for another shot at a medal in the 3,200-meter run.

Winside, on the other hand, had a pair of first-timers doing battle, with senior Blaine Meyer throwing in the shot put and sophomore Jayd Roberts competing in the 100-meter hurdles.

Neither school was able to get on the scoreboard with a medal at this year's meet, but their coaches were happy with the way their athletes competed in the final competition of the year.

"Blaine and Jayd both went down there and gave us a great effort, and I was really happy to see them get down there," Winside coach Mark Tonniges said.

Meyer, who only picked up the shot put this spring, had a best performance of 42 feet, 6 1/2 inches in the preliminaries. And while the mark wasn't enough to reach the finals, Tonniges said the senior performed well.

"I thought Blaine gave a good showing considering it was his first time at state," he said. "He got off a couple of good throws, and we knew he was competing against some big numbers and he threw about as well as he could."

Roberts ran her 100 hurdles race about a half-second slower than her qualifying time at districts, but ran a pretty clean race coming out of the outside lane.

"Jayd ran pretty well out there, and she's got a great experience that she can build on for next season, so we're happy to have gotten of that event for the second straight year.

 "She surprised us with that last year, but this year it took 16-10 to get to the finals, so she would have needed one of her best jumps ever just to get to the finals," he said.
 Dolph got the opportunity to compete at state last year as a freshman, and that experience helped him to score a pair of medals and meet some personal goals at this year's meet.
 "I was very satisfied with my run in the 800," he said. "My goal was to get here and get down around two minutes, and I thought if I could do that I would be able to place."
 "In the mile, I just gave it all I had," he added. "Tyler Bodlak ran a 4:36 down here (as a sophomore), and I wanted to do that or better and I got 4:35, so I was pleased with that. It was a good day."
 This year's effort was better than last year, when he was a first-timer competing in a new environment.
 "The first time I was here, I had no clue what was going on," he said. "It wasn't like a normal track meet. This year, I didn't have any nerves and it felt more natural and more right, so the experience really helped."
 "Josh was able to do what we were hoping he'd do," Wakefield coach Mike Hassler said. "He had it set in his mind that he wanted to be a medalist, and we couldn't be more pleased with how it worked out."

 Bodlak, a former Wakefield running standout, had set a high bar for future runners to reach, and Dolph was able to do that on Saturday, Hassler said.
 "He was going after Tyler's sophomore time," he said. "Tyler ran a 4:36.6 as a sophomore, and Josh got it by a little over a second, so he was more than pleased with that. Tyler kind of set the bar for Wakefield track, and Josh is judging himself on those marks so he was very pleased."
 Both coaches saw some good things from the other competitors who represented their schools at state, although none came away with a medal-winning performance.
 The closest to the medal stand was Wakefield high jumper Anthony Gustafson, who matched his career best and was the first one out of the top eight medalists, finishing ninth.
 "For a sophomore to go down and jump the way he did was great," Hassler said. "He had three good shots at 6-4, and with a little technique he could have gotten over. He showed he can compete with the best in the state."
 LCC's Kelsey Dietrich had a personal best in the 300 hurdles that would have been good enough for the finals in two other classes, Sims said.

 "She ran a 48.14, and that would have made the finals in B or D," he said. "She didn't get to the finals in C, but she ran really well for us."
 Lady Bear freshman Sadie Petersen also ran well in her first effort in the 1,600.
 "She PR'd in her first trip at state, and it was an eye-opening experience for her and she ran a solid race for us," Sims said.
 Hassler also saw some good things from the 1,600 relay, even with a late change after Dolph came down with a blister on his foot and had to be replaced by Jon Bodlak, who ran with Jacob Lunz, and brothers Augusto and Fernando Villarreal.
 "Josh got a bad blister after the 1,600, and Jon stepped in and ran his leg and the team ran close to its fastest time of the year, so the kids stepped up and gave us their best effort," he said.
 Both coaches saw some good things overall from their athletes, and those who are coming back will have a good experience to build on, including Dolph, who Hassler said will be a contender for a gold medal next spring.
 "Josh is setting his sights on a gold medal next year, and he showed himself what he can do down there," he said.

A former Wayne State coach is moving up in NCAA Div. I next year.
 Former women's basketball coach Ryn Williams is stepping down after four seasons at the University of South Dakota to take the women's head coaching job at Colorado State University.
 Williams had back-to-back 20-win seasons and two postseason appearances in his final two years with the Coyotes, including a 23-8 record and a trip to the Women's NIT in 2010-11. He was 76-47 in four years with the Coyotes.

 Williams takes over a Rams program that hasn't posted a winning season since the 2004-2005 season.

foursome opened the competition Friday in the 3,200-meter run, Trenhaile and Jager ran in the 800 on Saturday and Jorgensen was kept busy with the 3,200 on Friday and the 1,600 on Saturday.

"Sawyer had a good meet for us," Hochstein said. "He ran his best split in the 3,200 relay, and ran about the same time in the open 800, so I thought he had a good day for us."

"I know Luke was a little disappointed with his time," he added. "He ran his first lap a little harder than he's used to, and that can happen sometimes down at state."

Jorgensen, who has had a lot of success as a three-time medalist at the state cross country meet, just never got comfortable as he battled a sore knee on the Burke Stadium track.

"He's been nursing that along, and we were hoping to be able to get him through," Hochstein said. "He had a heavy load to go down there and run three races like that, and when you're not at 100 percent that can be kind of tough."

Sophomore Demetrius Alexander got some experience at state by running in the 200-meter dash.

"Demetrius got a chance to experience the big show, and he ran close to his best time and I hope that's an experience for him that will carry over (into next year)," Hochstein said.

And while the senior members of this year's Blue Devil track team ran their last races at this year's state meet, they leave behind a good legacy that, Hochstein hopes, the younger kids will be able to build on next year.

"There were a lot of conversations, on and off the track, about understanding what it's going to be like," he said. "We'll miss this year's senior leadership, but I like the fact that we have some young blood that got some experience down here, and they can take that experience back for next year and, hopefully, come back and compete again."

her down to state," Tonniges said.

The Allen boys 3,200 relay - Kyle Finnegan, Austin Connot, Charles Brahmsteadt and Coty Ruter - were going after their eighth straight medal at state, but came up short in what was a fast relay to open the Class D boys portion of the meet.

"The pecking order from our district didn't really change, and I thought we were competitive and that's what we tried to accomplish all year," Allen boys coach Dave Uldrich said. "We knew there would be three or four teams that would run away with the thing, and it would be a dogfight for the other four medals. We ran our best time plus a little, but it wasn't enough."

Even though the team didn't medal, Uldrich was happy with how his boys performed.

"When you get down there, sometimes you need a little extra mojo, but I was pleased with how the kids worked all year and the time and energy they put in," he said. "The objective was to get there and medal. We didn't get the medal, but we did get down there and that's a compliment to the kids."

The 3,200-meter relay of Candice Rastede, Vanessa Klug, Lindsey Jones and Olivia Schneiders also ran one of their best times of the year, but came up short of the medal stand as well.

"We had to run a really good race at districts to get to state, and we ran one of our best races there to get here," coach Denise Hingst said. "We had a few jitters coming in, but we still ran our second best time of the year, and that's all you can ask of them. Their best times came at the end of the year, and I'm really proud of how the girls ran."

It was a disappointing end for Schneiders, however, as the senior distance runner had to come off the track midway through the 3,200-meter run as a nagging thigh injury became too much to deal with.

The injury has bothered Schneider for much of the last month, derailing what has otherwise been an excellent season on the track.

"She has been struggling with some injuries and it's been piling on," Hingst said. "We tried to get her healed up, but it just became too much. She ran her best times this year and was able to get down to state, and she has nothing to be ashamed of."

Dirt Devil teams open campaigns with victories

The 10-under and 12-under Wayne Dirt Devil softball teams both came away with wins to open the 2012 summer campaign.

The 10-under squad posted a pair of wins over teams from West Point, beating West Point 1 by a 15-4 count on Monday and dominating West Point 2 in a 12-1 decision Tuesday.

In Monday's win, Emily Longe, Avianna Doring and Tori Kniesche all had hits to lead the Wayne offense. Tori Kniesche threw a no-hitter, striking out seven and walking two in the win.

On Tuesday, Kniesche threw another no-hitter, striking out 10 and walking five. She got out of a one-out, bases-loaded jam in the first with back-to-back strikeouts to end West Point's only real threat. Avianna Doring was 2-for-2 with two RBIs and Sydney Biggerstaff had a walk, a hit and an RBI.

In 12-under action Monday, Wayne came away with a 5-1 win over West Point, riding the pitching of Ashton Gibson, who struck out nine and allowed one hit and one walk.

Offensively, Jacque Sherman had two walks and two runs, Taylor Gamble had an RBI double and scored a run, and Kennedy Maly, Jamie Gamble and Annie Kniesche each had hits.

He was All-District Honorable Mention for football in 2011 and was a baseball team captain in 2012. Lenihan's helped the 2010 Wayne Junior Legion place third at State and finish as 2010 B-5 District Champions.

McIntee is a 5-foot-9, 185-pound catcher from Randolph High School in Minnesota where he was a four-year starter in baseball. While at Randolph, McIntee was named All-Conference in baseball his freshman, sophomore and junior seasons. He was named St. Paul Pioneer Press Prep Player of the Week in baseball in 2011. His 2010 baseball team set the school record for most wins in a season and in 2011 the baseball team was Conference Champions. During the 2011 season, McIntee hit .495, had 13 doubles, 3 home runs and 36 RBIs.

Morris is a 6-foot-1, 160 pound pitcher/shortstop from Twin River High School where he was a four-year starter in baseball. Team accomplishments while at Twin River include 2009 American Legion Class C Area 6 Jr. Baseball Tournament Champions and 2009 state baseball tournament. In the 2011 baseball season, Morris held a .482 batting average with 12 extra base hits and had a 4-2 record as a pitcher with 70 strikeouts in 39 2/3 innings pitched with an ERA of 1.24.

Murphy is a 6-foot-1, 170-pound pitcher/outfielder from Columbus High School where he was a three-year starter in baseball. He ranked among the Class A leaders in batting average and hits offensively along with wins, strikeouts and ERA on the mound to help Columbus to a 17-14 record this season.

Wildcat basketball adds three signees

Wayne State men's basketball coach Paul Combs announced the additions of Ben Galemmo from Cincinnati, Ohio; Tremain Monroe of Norfolk and Latroy Wright of Greensburg, Ind. to the 2012-13 Wildcat recruiting class.

The three join Garrett Borgrud of Deerfield, Wisc., and Will Nixon of Plainfield, Ill., who signed with the Wildcats during the NCAA early signing period last November.

Galemmo is a 5-foot-11 point guard from nationally-known Moeller High School in Cincinnati, where he was a three-year starter and four-year letterwinner. He averaged 9.7 points, 4.1 assists and 2.3 steals per game this past season and finished as the school's all-time leader in three point field goals. Galemmo shot 44 percent from the three point line and 91 percent from the free throw line, which led the Greater Catholic League in Cincinnati. He played on two district champion teams as a junior and senior and helped Moeller High School to a state runner-up finish as a sophomore. Galemmo was an All-Greater Catholic League first-team selection as a senior and earned second-team honors as a junior.

Monroe is a 6-foot-1 guard from Norfolk High School, where he averaged 13.3 points and 4.5 rebounds per game for the Panthers this season. He helped Norfolk to a 24-2 record and a berth in the Class A State Tournament as the Panthers finished second in the final Omaha World-Herald Class A rankings.

Monroe earned All-Greater Nebraska Athletic Conference honors and was selected Honorable Mention All-State this season.

Wright is a 6-foot-4 guard that is transferring to Wayne State from Olney Central College in Illinois. He helped Olney to a 25-8 record this past season and a 12-4 Great River Athletic Conference record that was good for the league title. Wright averaged 9.3 points, 4.8 rebounds and 3.3 assists while shooting 51 percent from the field and 73 percent at the free throw line. Wright will have two seasons of eligibility with the Wildcat program.

WSC baseball players honored

Mike Bisenius and Travis Parsons of Wayne State were named to the 2012 Daktronics Baseball All-Central Region Team as selected by sports information directors throughout the Central region. Both players earned first-team honors and are now eligible for All-American status.

Bisenius, a 6-foot-3, 200-pound senior outfielder from Sioux City, Iowa, is a repeat first-team All-Central Region selection after posting a .314 batting average this season with 10 homers and 44 RBI's. He led the Wildcats in home runs, runs scored (45), total bases (104) and walks (32). Bisenius finished the season tied for third in the NSIC in home runs, tied for fourth in walks, tied for fifth in triples (3), seventh in slugging percentage (.605), tied for ninth in RBI's and total bases (104) and 10th in runs scored. He earned first-team All-NSIC honors for a second straight season and received his first NSIC Gold Glove honor after making just two errors from his right field position this season. He was also named to the NCBWA (National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association) All-Central Region Second Team this season, and was honored as a second-team Rawlings/American Baseball Coaches Association Second Team and Central Region Gold Glove Second Team.

Parsons, a 6-foot-1, 200-pound senior first baseman/outfielder from Loveland, Colo., earned first-team All-Central Region honors as a utility player after recording a .366 average with seven homers, a team high 15 doubles and 44 RBI's starting 27 games in left field and 23 at first base. He ranked fourth in the NSIC on-base percentage (.478), fifth in slugging percentage (.610), eighth in average and tied for ninth in runs batted in. He led the Wildcats in multi-hit games with 19 and had the team's longest hitting streak at 13 games to start the season. Parsons was also stellar in the field making just one error while recording a .996 fielding percentage. Last season Parsons was an NSIC Gold Glove selection at first base.

Austen Wisroth joined Bisenius on the second-team list of the 2012 Rawlings/ABCA (American Baseball Coaches Association) All-Central Region Baseball Team.

Wisroth, a 6-foot-2, 190-pound senior pitcher from Torrington, Wyo., was 6-2 in 11 starts this season for the Wildcats with a 2.48 ERA. He ranks sixth in the NSIC in earned run average and is sixth in fewest runs allowed (22) by an NSIC pitcher this season while giving up just three home runs. Wisroth fired three complete games this season with two shutouts, and had 55 strikeouts in 69 innings pitched allowing 65 hits and 22 runs (19 earned). He was a second-team All-NSIC selection this season and was first-team All-NSIC and second-team Daktronics All-Central Region as a sophomore. He finished his Wildcat career ranking third in career strikeouts with 247, fourth in career innings pitched at 254 and is tied for fifth all-time in wins with 25.

Negative campaign turns voters away

Nobody has asked for my advice on how to run their campaigns for Congress this November – and pardon me for being so self-assured on this – but they should.

Reports are that, thanks in large part to the Supreme Court's determining that corporations' money spent on campaign advertising is the equivalent of free speech, we will see unprecedented millions of dollars spent on advertising between now and the first Tuesday in November – with the vast majority of it being spent on negative advertising.

I don't know about you, but I'm already sick and tired of the negative campaign ads that seemed to assault every available channel on TV these last few weeks – and the mud is already being flung back and forth in the days since the Nebraska primary.

Already, we are seeing the two U.S. Senate candidates – Republican Deb Fischer and Democrat Bob Kerrey – assaulting each other's character and, occasionally, voting record on a variety of topics. Some ads are being paid for by the candidate's political party, but more and more are being paid for by groups called Super PACs (Political Action Committee) that are funded by high-roller billionaires and major corporations that hide under the anonymity their Super PAC provides.

We are also seeing the two political parties bash the other side with a non-stop assault of e-mails being sent to all media outlets across the state.

Here at The Wayne Herald, we receive almost daily e-mail blasts from the Nebraska Democrat Party, which seems hell-bent on attacking the character (and, occasionally, the record) of the Republican candidates for Senate. For most of May, the party was attacking the state GOP's leading candidate, Jon Bruning, focusing primarily on his business dealings that have helped him become a millionaire while serving as Attorney General (frankly, I was more offended by Bruning's AND Don Stenberg's using their elections to the A.G. and Treasurer seats as nothing more than a springboard for the U.S. Senate race than by whatever business entities Bruning was involved in, but that's another column).

Now, the Democrats seem intent on going after every little thing Deb Fischer has to say, including her inference that Kerrey isn't a Nebraskan (and, while he IS a Nebraska native, he was not a resident of the state when he filed for the Democrat nomination – and, no, pulling out the roll-out bed in the couch of your sister's basement doesn't make you a resident). Of course, the GOP and their related Super PACs have gone out of their way to attack Kerrey's residence status, to say nothing of his liberal leanings and how he has distanced himself from Nebraska's values since leaving the Senate for a job as president of a New York university.

All of this negative advertising is turning people off from the political process in general. Voter turnout in Wayne County was just over 30 percent – less than 25 percent in the city of Wayne – numbers that I find appalling.

But it's hard to blame the people for not wanting to vote – with all the mudslinging going on between the candidates, their political parties, their Super PACs and the mainstream media (even certain small-town columnists aren't completely innocent here), it's no wonder that people are tired of the nonsense taking place, both on the campaign trail and in the halls of Congress.

I'm a proud independent voter, and unlike some people who seem intent on voting ONLY for those of the political party they are "members" of, I base my votes on the person, my perception of that person's character and whether or not that individual would be the best one to represent me in public office, whether it's the Mayor of Wayne, my state legislator or a member of Congress.

In recent years, I have discovered that voting based on political parties is an invitation to our nation's eventual Armageddon, which appears closer with every election as the Democrats and Republicans continue spending all of their time, energy (and OUR tax dollars) fighting each other, rather than solving the federal deficit ($15 trillion and growing), the war on terror (weren't ALL our troops supposed to be home by now?), education (I still can't use the phrase "No Child Left Behind" without laughing hysterically) and others.

This November, I'm going to spend a lot of time researching the candidates for President, U.S. Senate, Congress and the Nebraska Legislature. I'm not going to rely on Fox News, MSNBC, CNN or the major network news, as they have all proven to be biased toward one side or the other. Based on that research, I will make my decision and vote for the INDIVIDUAL – not the party – that best displays my values and hopes for this nation's future.

How much a candidate spends, in time and money, telling me why THEY should be elected will go a lot farther toward influencing my final decision. The more time they spend telling me how bad the OTHER candidate is, the less likely they will get my vote this November.

Based on what I've seen so far – a lot of write-in or Libertarian votes are going to get my approval the first Tuesday in November.

Capitol View

Bruning was more vulnerable

By ED HOWARD
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN – Joe Ricketts is a very rich guy originally from Omaha who has a super PAC called Ending Spending.

In the aftermath (aftershock?) of the Republican senate primary, it might be appropriate to rename it Spending at the End.

Ricketts tossed $250,000 into the race on the Friday before Election Day to finance a couple of television advertisements. One sang the praises of state Sen. Deb Fischer, the other slapped Attorney General Jon Bruning around as a guy whose ethics, even on a good day, were questionable.

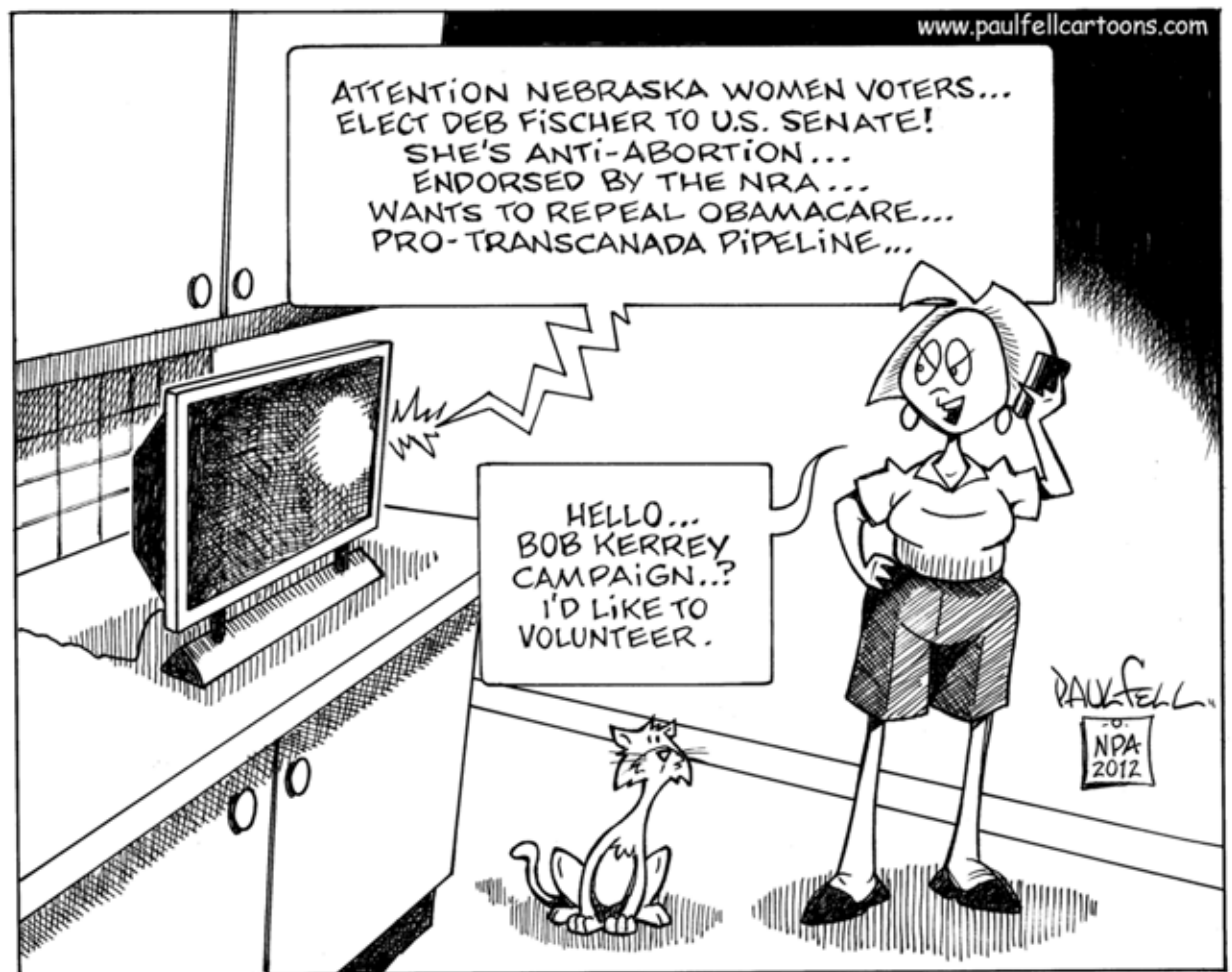

Fischer, the feisty lawmaker/rancher from Valentine, stunned everyone with a come-from-way-behind victory to win the GOP nomination and the right to face Democrat Bob Kerrey – a former governor and two-term U.S. Senator – in November. One of them will succeed retiring Democratic Sen. Ben Nelson.

Ricketts put his money on Fischer not long after Tea Party icon Sarah Palin endorsed her.

Bruning had been the frontrunner throughout the race, which included almost-perennial Republican senate hopeful Don Stenberg, the state treasurer.

Much is being made of the Palin/Ricketts connection, in Nebraska and nationally. There's no doubt that Fischer was very well served by both endorsements.

The view from here: Ricketts' blasting of Bruning's ethics – which have been subject to question about as often as President Obama's birth certificate – gave Fischer a solid, last-few-days boost in Omaha and its environs.

The further view from here: Don't overdo the Palin/Ricketts angle.

And don't underestimate Bruning's longstanding negatives.

The guy wears his ambition like a pair of oversized ruby earrings. And the fact that he made millions in office through business dealings that a lot of people saw as tacky (but not illegal) did its damage.

Fischer's victory was statewide. There are 93 Nebraska counties and she won in 77 of them. It added up to a win by five percentage points. Darn good for the woman who was constantly seen as being in third place. The demographic reality in Nebraska is that big victories in the Omaha area and a couple of other population centers are enough to lock up a statewide election. The last-minute Ricketts gambit might have put Fischer over the top in the east, but the statewide vote showed Bruning was far more vulnerable than had generally been realized.

Legislative Update

Ag, General Affairs committees detailed

Last week, I began a discussion on interim hearings and the various resolutions introduced for the Health and Human Services Committee to study over the interim. This week, I would like to tell you about some of the resolutions before my other two committees: Agriculture and General Affairs.

Agriculture Committee meets once a week on Tuesday afternoons during the regular legislative session. It is my favorite committee assignment. I am familiar with many of the issues brought before the Ag Committee, and believe Senator Tom Carlson, the current Agriculture Committee Chairman, has done an excellent job in guiding this Committee over the past two years. Some of the resolutions before the Agriculture Committee this interim are: LR507, examines establishing a statewide Farm to School initiative in Nebraska to encourage partnerships between farmers and school districts to increase fresh local food availability in schools; LR511, examines Nebraska's kindergarten through twelfth grade education standards and curricula to determine whether agriculture is incorporated as an essential component; LR528, evaluates whether Knox County producers and sales facilities would benefit from the entire county being either inside or outside the brand inspection area; LR558, examines legislation that has been proposed or enacted in other states to protect against disruption of agricultural operations; LR575, examines the interests and role of the Department of Agriculture relating product as well as the final price to the customer.

Many committees introduce non-specific interim studies such as LR586 in case an issue comes up during the interim that a committee will want to hold hearings on and possibly introduce legislation. The General Affairs Committee hears bills that deal with gambling, the Nebraska Lottery, alcohol, the Nebraska Liquor Commission, tobacco, the state electrical code, libraries, and chartered limousines and buses. It is also a one-day Committee, which meets on Monday afternoons during the first half of the legislative session. It is a Committee that brings in people who are very passionate about their views on issues such as gambling, alcohol, and tobacco.

The chairs of the various committees decide which resolutions will have hearings and are in charge of scheduling those hearings. If you are interested in any of the above hearings, you can watch the Nebraska Legislature's website for more details these interim hearings. That website is www.nebraskalegislature.gov. Please remember that interim hearings are usually held in late summer or during the fall. You may also contact our office if you have any questions on interim hearings or other matters before the Legislature. My e-mail is dbloomfield@leg.ne.gov, or call the office at (402) 471-2716.

to incidents of livestock neglect and abandonment, particularly with respect to safeguarding livestock health; and LR577, researches the needs and resources related to food insecurity in Nebraska.

There were only two resolutions introduced for the General Affairs Committee to study this interim: LR586 examines issues under the jurisdiction of the General Affairs Committee, and LR594 examines several policy issues regarding the definition of a flavored malt beverage. While this may seem like a rather silly thing to study, the final outcome will affect the taxes on this

Outdoor play benefits children

School is out for the summer with many opportunities to learn outdoors. Children can play anywhere and with anything, but the world of nature is an especially inviting place for play.

Play is more than just fun and games – it is vitally important for children's healthy development. The Alliance for Childhood defines play as a set of behaviors that are freely chosen, personally directed and intrinsically motivated. Play integrates all types of learning, including physical, social emotional and intellectual.

Open-ended play in nature or with nature objects enhances curiosity and triggers the imagination. For example, a hollow log can be a tunnel to another place. Mud could be made into mud pies. Sticks could be used to build a teepee, or be used as a walking stick or for scratching letters into sand. Children also increase their physical fitness when they run, explore, climb, find secret hiding places, dream up stories and have outdoor adventures.

By participating in a child's outdoor play experience, parents can help children develop math, language and even science skills. For example, math skills develop when a child learns to count the number of ants on the ground; language skills develop when a child learns the name of a new animal; and science skills develop when a child gets to see how a rainbow forms after rain.

Angela Abts
Dakota County

Parents should also be actively involved in teaching a child about nature safety. They could warn younger kids not to play with sharp objects or not to eat something they picked up from the ground.

The length of time spent playing outdoors depends on the child and the number of children out playing, but children should be allowed to go outside every day. Some children may have to learn how to play outside and that it's OK to get dirty, while others may catch on quickly and spend hours exploring.

Provide children the chance to play in a variety of outdoor spaces, as different settings will inspire different kinds of play. These places don't have to be far from the home or the city. Parks provide ample opportunity for kids to connect to nature. Even spending time to watch squirrels and birds in one's own backyard is educational.

For more information about summer activities for children, please contact the University of Nebraska Lincoln Extension Office in your local county or visit the website at www.extension.unl.edu/child-youth.

Close to Home

Rent or Buy? What's Best?

The quick answer is almost always to buy, whenever the mortgage payment is less than the rental fee.

The recent resurgence in rentals seems to be directly related to the economy and buyer's uncertainty about their jobs. However, a surge of consumers renting, eventually results in higher rents because of increased demand.

Although, there is always a need for rentals, especially when consumers are getting their finances in order, this does not mean that renting is the best financial choice for everyone.

With interest rates at an all time low and banks starting to lend again, buyers are realizing that now is a great time to lock in a low mortgage payment and start building equity.

If you have your finances ready and your credit is in order, then now is a great time to start the pre-approval process with your local financial institution and begin looking for properties that fit your wish list! There are many good properties on the market right now and more being listed each week.

Trends come and go, but low interest rates are rare. By building equity in a property, you can increase your financial worth and enjoy your home in the process. I would be happy to speak with you and help you through this process.

Links Between Childhood Asthma & Obesity

Asthma is a chronic disease that causes airways to become inflamed. Does your child have this disease? If so, you're no doubt familiar with symptoms such as coughing, wheezing, chest tightness, and trouble breathing. Today, a whopping nine million children under age 18 have asthma - or have had it in the past.<sup>1</sup>

But with rates of childhood obesity climbing this number could quickly skyrocket. Why? Because children who are overweight or obese are more likely to have asthma than children of a healthy weight. Overweight or obese children have double the risk of asthma as their normal-weight peers if they become or remain heavy in their early school years.<sup>2</sup>

Extra weight isn't considered a cause of asthma, simply a contributor. But what, then, accounts for the connection between the two? One theory is that a hormone found in fat tissue increases the body's chronic inflammation. And this may increase the risk of asthma.<sup>3,4</sup>

Extra weight also sends kids with asthma to the doctor and emergency room more often and requires higher doses of asthma medications.<sup>5</sup> In fact, a recent small study found that overweight and obese children needed about twice as much of a commonly used asthma medication (an inhaled corticosteroid) as healthy-weight kids. These findings are similar to those reported on earlier in adults.<sup>6</sup>

If your child has asthma, don't forget that I'm here to help you and your child manage this condition as well as you can. Remember that your child's asthma management plan may be different than another child's. I can help guide you in understanding how and when to use asthma medications. Getting the right care by a knowledgeable allergist or physician can help in figuring out whether a child has asthma, what is triggering it, and how to move forward to treat it effectively.<sup>7</sup>

'The Farmer's Wife's son's daughter'

Randa graduated from Norris Public High School on Sunday, May 20. My, how time flies.

The Farmer's Wife, for years, has given me a "lifetime" subscription to the Wayne Herald for my birthday. And I have always found it interesting to see the familiar names of my classmates and friends as their kids make the headlines in whatever they are involved with. Since I'm not on Facebook, it's the best way for me to keep up with current events in Northeast Nebraska, other than from Mom's column, three sisters and a certain best friend in Wayne.

Randa's parents both competed in high school and college athletics so it only made sense that we would push our first born into various sports teams and activities. I can remember at an early soccer game I was watching while the ball was heading towards one of the goals I glanced back and noticed Randa at midfield picking a Dandelion and admiring her work. At an early age she was never about the "game" but the world and everything around it.

Another time she was involved in a "scrum" that tends to develop in a 7-8 year old soccer game and swung her leg to kick the ball and accidentally kicked one of the opposing team members in the leg and knocked her down. Again the game headed towards the goal as we looked back and saw Randa helping the player up to her feet and telling her how sorry she was. She has always been kindhearted as well. Much more aware of feelings and friendships than winning or losing.

Her first big break was the part of Sara Brown in "Guys and Dolls" as an eighth grader, and I remember getting "goosebumps" when she started singing her first song. Since then she has acted and sang in 8-9 musicals from "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" to "Sound of Music", "Wizard of Oz" to her most recent and maybe her best performance as the lead in "Aida", a contemporary opera revised by Elton John. Four years of show choir, three years of

All-State Music, Norris High prom queen and most recently the National Choral Award, which earned her a picture on the "Wall of Fame" at Norris High. When I asked her what is her next step after college she quietly said, "Cut a record."

On a recent trip to Simpson College to try out for their theater program, she advised her dad that she planned to double major in music and theatre. The husband and wife music and theater department heads were hesitant to allow her to attempt that, knowing it will be a lot of work. But she was determined to do it, and told me, "Its OK. I just won't have a life, I'm used to that."

But, in reality, she HAS had a life to this point. Probably has done, seen, met, and participated in more than most of us will in a lifetime. Of all the awards and accolades she has received the one that stands out is when she was voted Most Supportive on her Speech team recently. Because, as she has shown us, it's not the game but the people and world around it.

Take lots of pictures and video tape, and cherish your children's moments no matter how big or small. They turn into men and women so quickly. Congratulations, Randa and on behalf of all your parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins, and friends - thanks for the "goosebumps"

Love Dad

2012 Water and Natural Resources Tour examines Missouri River Flood

This summer's University of Nebraska water and natural resources tour will spend three days visiting parts of Nebraska and Iowa that were most affected by last summer's record flooding on the Missouri River.

The tour is July 17-19, leaving from and returning to Hardin Hall on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Campus at North 33rd and Holdrege streets.

"We'll not only look at residual damage, but just as significantly, restorative efforts since flood waters receded and what we have learned from the actual flood," said Steve Ress, tour co-organizer and communicator at UNL's Nebraska Water Center, part of the Robert B. Daugherty Water for Food Institute.

"The flood disrupted the lives of thousands and extended for more than three months, breaking through levees and flowing beyond vulnerable lowlands to destroy homes, businesses and highways," said tour host and co-organizer Mike Jess, a retired UNL lecturer.

From Decatur to Hamburg, Iowa, tour participants will inspect a variety of locations where the flood's destructive impact will be fully evident.

"Near Tekamah, they will see where over-bank flows attempted to occupy a former river channel last used by the river more than a hundred years ago. We'll also see large tracts of cropland that remain unproductive from accumulations of fine-textured sediment left by the floodwaters," Jess said.

Some of the cropland bordering the river is covered by several feet of fine, blowing sand, resembling pictures from the 1930s Dust Bowl, Ress said.

Salvaging native forests, restoring river habitat and repairing levees and other infrastructure since the flood also will be featured.

Elsewhere, participants will see Omaha's Eppley Airport, where an ambitious water-well de-watering network allowed commercial air traffic to continue unabated throughout the duration of flooding, despite the fact that the airport borders the river.

The tour also will stop at Omaha Public Power District's coal-fired power plant near Nebraska City. There, special pumps, a series of temporary dikes and elevation of a railroad coal supply line permitted uninterrupted production of electricity throughout the flood, Jess said.

Last year's Missouri River basin flooding was caused by a combination of snowmelt in the northern Rocky Mountains and record-setting rainfall runoff in Montana and North Dakota.

The tour is co-sponsored by Omaha Public Power District, U.S. Geological Survey Nebraska Water Science Center, Nebraska Public Power District, Kearney Area Chamber of Commerce, Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District and the Nebraska Water Center.

Registration is $645 single lodging occupancy or $545 per person double occupancy and includes all meals, transportation expenses, activities and lodging in both Omaha and Nebraska City. To register, contact Jennie Nolllette at the Kearney Area Chamber of Commerce at (308) 237-3168 or email jnolllette@kearneycoc.org.
