Locals take effort to 'Stand For The Silent'

The presentation caught the attention of student Miranda Long, who was moved by the Smalleys' speech and, after sens-

"Kirk and Laura came here and talked to the students, and I decided to start a chapter because it didn't seem like (the speech) had made a difference," Long said. "I started looking for sponsors, but there didn't seem to be any interest in sponsoring the group, so I decided to talk to my neighbors."

Since the Stand For The Silent organization is not a school-sanctioned group, it requires only a local adult as a sponsor. When Long went next door to talk with Pam Henderson, it didn't take long for her to get her the sponsor she needed on board.

"The high school (administration) said they had a handle on it and we didn't need to worry about it, but our counselor at the middle school said she thought it was a good idea and encouraged me to talk to Mr. Ruhl," Long said. "He said he'd work with

Coaches Show debut is this week

There's an old saying in the media business about somebody having "a face made for radio," which infers that the individual in question, based on his or her looks, probably doesn't have much of a future in front of the camera.

The jury is still out (or, at the very least, they haven't informed me of the verdict yet) on whether or not my mugshot is camera-friendly. but The Wayne Herald's website at mywaynenews.com will have my smiling face on the home page every Wednesday during the school year with the mywaynenews.com Wayne State Coaches Show.

Last year, we started doing a weekly "show" for each of the sports teams at Wayne State College, posting a show each day during the week with coach's interviews and some video clips of Wayne State teams in action. The programs were well-received by fans and parents of some of the Wildcat players, so we decided to do something a little new and improved this year.

Now, rather than seeing a different show every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, you can see all three coaches each season in one nice package every Wednesday on the home page to mywaynenews. com. Go to the "Video" link on the home page, where you'll see the latest version of the mywaynenews. com Wayne State Coaches Show. The program will feature interviews and highlights with the Wildcat coaches, as well as some bonus interviews with athletes and officials from the school (our debut edition includes an interview with Wayne State's new athletic director, Mike on board as a sponsor for the show, and we're hoping to add another 2-3 sponsors as the season goes on. It's a fun feature we have added to our website, and I encourage you to check it out every Wednesday when a new edition pops up.

This week's edition is on the website at www.mywaynenews.com, so let me know what you think.

One of the items Powicki briefly mentioned as far as things that are going on at Wayne State College is the installation of a new artificial turf at the football stadium.

This has been a work in progress, and from what I gathered from the conversation, we should see the new field in place by the start of the 2013 football season.

In addition, look for some work to be done on the soccer field. The field is not official regulation size, but the school was able to use the field because it was already in use when official field dimensions were made and was grandfathered in before the change several years ago. The changes in the field will allow the college to play host to NCAA regional events if the opportunity presents itself.

There is a lot of construction going on right now at Wayne State College (some of which you'll actually hear on this week's Wayne State Coaches show on the web), which is a sure sign of the progress this school has made with its athletic department in recent history.

Wayne State fans are going to have to get used to some changes that are happening off campus that will affect the Wildcat program.

First is the addition of Minot State and University of Sioux Falls to the Northern Sun Conference. Both former NAIA schools are now in NCAA Div. II, and the addition of both schools is going to make some sports very competitive right away. One of the immediate changes we'll see is in football. Sioux Falls won a slew of NAIA national titles before making the move to NCAA, and it will be interesting to see how competitive they are right out of the gate in one of the tougher football conferences in the country.

Miscues hurt in 28-8 loss

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

WINSIDE - The Winside Wildcats were hoping to open the season with a solid win at home.

Instead, the Wildcats came out sluggish and made a number of key penalties on offense, which helped visiting Scribner-Snyder come away with a 28-8 win over the Wildcats in the season opener at Jim Winch Memorial Field.

It was a rough night at the office for the home-standing Wildcats, who made things difficult on themselves with 10 penalties – many of them false starts on the offense and five fumbles on the night.

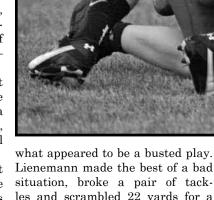

The Winside defense did its best to keep the visiting Trojans off the scoreboard. The Wildcats forced a fumble on the game's second play, only to see the offense turn the ball back over on the very next play.

The Wildcats couldn't seem to get anything rolling on offense in the first half, yet still found themselves in the game at halftime, as the visiting Trojans could only muster a 10-yard run by quarterback Bruce Schulenberg on their second series remaining. of the game. football coach Terry Beair summed up his team's approach with a simple acronym - KISS.

Keeping it short and simple paid off well for the Blue Devils, as they were able to jump on Madison in the first half and cruise to a 21-0 win over the Dragons in the 2012 opener for both teams at Madison High

Junior quarterback Jalen Barry threw a pair of touchdown passes and ran for a third, and Luke Rethwisch added a short field goal to get the Blue Devils on the right side of the ledger in the team's first game of the year.

"I thought we played with a lot of confidence," Beair said. "I kept the offense fairly simple, and we focused on doing our assignments correctly."

The Blue Devils hit paydirt on their second play from scrimmage, with Barry and Jared Anderson hooking up on a 90-yard pass. Rethwisch kicked a 28-yard field goal later in the period to give Wayne a 9-0 advantage.

Wayne's defense kept the Dragons' offense in check throughout the night, and Wayne took command in the second period when Barry hit Bradley Longe on an eight-yard connection, then called his own number for a 19-yard scoring run to give the Blue Devils a three-touchdown lead at intermission.

"Our offense did well, due to the fact we had a very strong presence from our line," Beair said. "Brad, Drew Carroll and Luke Rethwisch had big catches to keep drives alive, and we had a host of backs contribute to the offense like Trevor Pecena, Demetrius Alexander, Payton Janke, Brady Soden and Jose Ver-finishing third overall with a 105. That nobody from Wayne finished in double digits was of little concern to Johnson.

"The girls were good enough to win, and I saw great improvement and great maturity," he said. Their scores are really nothing to be concerned about right now. It's not what you shoot in August or early September that's important; it's how you shoot at the end of September and into October when it's time to get ready for districts and state. These girls keep getting better every day, and I wouldn't be surprised to see a couple of them in the 90's by districts."

Crofton's Mariah Zavadil was the only golfer in double digits, winning with a 99 and finishing three shots ahead of Oakland-Craig's Charli McNeill and six shots ahead of Pflanz. Cassidy Wiese finished four shots behind Pflanz in fourth place overall with a 109, and Marissa Wiese was four shots behind her sister in sixth place with a 113.

Holly Grosz finished 10th with a 115 and Emma Loberg was a shot behind in 11th with a 116. The Wayne JV team's top golfer, Kaitlyn McCallister, also placed in the top 20 medalists with a 16th place effort of 122 to lead the JV team.

number of sports, and for those who don't think the drive to the University of Mary is far enough, they should enjoy the extra-long road trip all the way up to Minot, N.D. (Football coach Dan McLaughlin said that when the Wildcats play at Minot next year, the team will have to leave Wayne on Monday afternoon to get there for Friday's walkthrough practice . . . and he wasn't joking).

Another change is with the setup of the Central Region. The RMAC is gone, and in its place is the MIAA and Great American Conference. This will impact a number of sports significantly, including volleyball seven of the preseason top 12 teams are from the Central Region, and 12 of the 35 teams in the preseason rankings (including schools that received votes outside the top 25) are in this region. Since only eight make it to the NCAA tournament, every game is going to be important for teams who want to think about playing deep into November. The change will also impact women's and men's basketball, and make softball and baseball an even tougher challenge as well.

That's OK, though - you need to beat the best to be the best, can't beat it.

and Wayne State is certainly not afraid of taking on that challenge. It should be a fun year of transition for the Wildcats.

To paraphrase some conversation I heard on the street recently - stuff around here is about to get real.

The traditional start of the fall sports season starts this week (although softball is already starting its third week and girls golf and some football debuted last week) and I'm sensing a lot of excitement in the area as teams get ready to start their seasons.

Volleyball and cross country teams get their seasons started this week, and that means we are now fully locked and loaded for another school year's worth of sports excitement. I'll be at the Wisner cross country meet Thursday, along with a volleyball triangular at Winside, then it's a Friday worth of football at Wayne State College for the Blue Devils' home debut against O'Neill.

Since all the Wayne State teams are on the road this weekend, you will find me located in front of my TV set all day Saturday, watching college football.

Ahhh, fall sports season - ya' just season opener weren't looking good for a Wakefield football team that was hoping to shake the bad memories of three straight losing seasons.

Tekamah-Herman jumped out to a 20-0 lead early in the game on the strength of three long scoring plays, but Wakefield decided that they had had enough and went on a little scoring binge of their own.

The Trojans scored 35 unanswered points over the three-plus periods of the game, coming away with an impressive 35-20 win over the Tigers in the 2012 season opener for both teams.

"I wouldn't be telling the truth if I said the guys didn't have me worried," coach Mike Hassler said of the Trojans' shaky start. "I knew we were better than what we were showing. I've seen it all summer. I think it was a combination of some first-time starters and guys being a little overexicted and trying to do a little too much."

The Tigers were in command of the game early on, but Wakefield was able to right the ship and get things turned around by the end of the first period. A long run by Josh Dolph set up a 23-yard scoring strike from Evan Nicholson to Jacob Lunz that got the Trojans on the board late in the first period.

"We needed something good to happen, and I think we got that with Josh's big run down the sidelines that set up Jacob's touchdown catch,"

Wakefield's defense took over the game after that first Trojan score, and by the time the teams headed to the locker room for halftime, Wakefield's 20-point deficit had turned into a 21-20 halftime advantage, thanks to two touchdown runs by Heath Greve, who finished with 164 vards on 23 carries.

"We got a huge pick from Lunz and several big hits from Alex Conley and got Tekamah off the field quick, and after that, our offense really started to click and the guys did a great job of communicating with the coaches, which helped us exploit some things.'

Wakefield's size took over in the second half, and the defense came up with a key play in the third when Dolph returned an interception 37 yards for a touchdown. Wakefield added an insurance score in the fourth on Dolph's 3-yard run to put the game out of reach.

"After the first quarter, we only gave up about 50 yards of offense and really controlled the time of possession, and our size up front really wore them down the second half," Hassler said.

The Wakefield coach was proud of his team, particularly in the way they bounced back from the big deficit early.

New coach leads Blue Devil netters

For the first time in two decades, volleyball players at Wayne High School are getting used to a new coaching system and style.

Traci Krusemark took over the team this season from Joyce Hoskins, who stepped down after 19 years as the Blue Devils head coach. So far, the transition to a new coaching system has been a smooth one.

"I think they're eager to learn some new things from a new coach, and the girls have been practicing well and they have a great work ethic," Krusemark said. "I'm excited to be a head coach at Wayne High, and I think the girls are looking forward to being competitive this

The Blue Devils had a solid campaign last year, going 22-9, and Krusemark said she will work on developing her team's solid base of serving and passing this season.

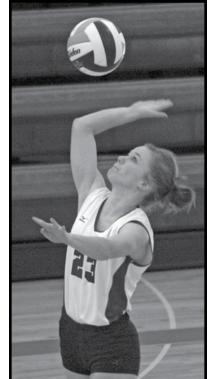

"Passing and serving are very important, and I told the girls that we have to do that well if we're going to succeed," she said. "Most teams have hitting and offense, as we do, but we need a solid base of passing and serving, and if we can build that, I think we'll be fine against some of the teams we see this sea-

New coach to lead Wakefield volleyball team

Timarie Hansen moves from assistant to head coach this year for the Wakefield volleyball team, and she inherits a scrappy team that is hoping to improve on last year's 15-

The Trojans have three starters and six letterwinners back from last season, and Hansen likes the quickness the players are showing in preseason workouts.

"I definitely like our quickness," she said. "We have very good senior leadership that is really showing on the floor. They're doing a great job motivating the other girls, and these girls love to hit the floor, and I like to see that."

Senior all-conference selections Sydney Rose and Lauren Lehmkuhl are back, as well as senior Paige Ellis, who moved from a hitter position to setter late in the year and gave Wakefield an added weapon in the setting department.

"She started out at right side, and then she came in as setter when we moved Sydney to the libero position, so we're looking for both of them to contribute for us there," she said.

Lehmkuhl was solid as a middle hitter last year, and she and junior outside hitter Whitney Echtenkamp, along with junior hitter Tianna Gnat and sophomore Emily

One concern for Hansen is the thin numbers of taller players who can be solid blockers at the net.

"We have two middles with good height and a utility player who can come in and put up a block for us, but we don't have a lot beyond that," she said. "We're really going to have to be scrappy and be quick to the ball, and these girls are showing that they can do that."

The Trojans are hoping to be a competitive opponent in the Lewis and Clark Conference this season, and Hansen feels Wakefield will be able to compete with most of the teams in the conference.

"I really like our feistiness and the girls' willingness to learn," she said. "They're showing that they want to do a great job this year."

Kiley Thompson, a 5-foot-7 outside hitter, is the lone returning starter from last year. She is joined by juniors Cameron Eddie, who will be called upon as a setter, junior middle blocker Kelsey Dietrich, and junior outside hitter Erin Gubbels.

Despite the inexperience in varsity play, Cunningham feels this team will develop into a talented squad this season.

Bears hoping to get back to state playoffs

A good mix of senior leadership and young talent, along with a desire to play deep into the playoffs, has Laurel-Concord/Coleridge football coach T.J. Shiers looking forward to the upcoming season.

The Bears were able to make it into the playoffs before losing to Oakland-Craig, ending a 4-5 campaign in 2011. Shiers said the team is hoping to get back to the postseason and win a playoff game, which the Laurel program has not been able to do the past several years.

"Our first day, that was one of the team goals that we talked about," he said. "It's been a while since we've won a playoff game, and that's what we're shooting for this year. We want to get in the playoffs and win a game, and then see what

The second-year coach has some great talent back from last year, with nine starters back from last year's playoff team.

Senior quarterback Kyle Kardell completed 58 percent of his passes last year and threw for eight touchdowns, and he leads an offense skilled positions.

"We're senior-heavy in the skilled with all the teams there," he said.

positions with a lot of experience back, and our line is young and athletic and we've seen some good things there as well," Shiers said.

Senior running back Austin Roach and junior Brett Haisch give the Bears a good 1-2 punch in the backfield, and receivers Justin Saunders, Nathan Schmitt and Zach Shear are all capable receivers who should be able to help the Bears open up their offense.

Senior center Austin Gothier leads the LCC offensive line, with junior Ethan Hirschman and sophomore Chayce Hirschman also back in the lineup as a starter. Other letterwinners expected to return include senior Shawn McCoy and juniors Calvin Casey and Ben Barelman.

Last year, the Bears had to learn a new system with a new coach, but familiarity is going to make this year's team a much more talented group, Shiers said.

The Bears face some challenging non-district games early against Battle Creek and Hartington Cedar Catholic, but Shiers feels his team that has plenty of experience at the can compete in its district this year. "I think we'll be able to compete straight season, but the new coach is a familiar one to Wildcat volleyball fans.

Teresa Watters is back in the saddle as the Wildcat mentor this year. She took a year off after her family adopted a daughter, but has returned to the lineup with a fresh outlook on things.

"I love the sport and the girls, and I really missed being a part of it and wanted to get back in the game,"

The Wildcats made it to state for the third consecutive season last year, going 24-7 in their first year after Watters stepped aside. They lost half of their starting lineup from last year's team, but the cupboard isn't completely bare for the Winside coach the second time

"We have five seniors coming back, three of whom are starters, and we also have Jayd Roberts back, so we have a good core group," Watters said of this year's

Eagles hoping for return to playoffs

Allen's football team doesn't have a lot of depth, but coach Dave Uldrich said the Eagles will be bigger, stronger and faster than they were a vear ago.

After a two-year hiatus from the postseason, Uldrich is hoping the Eagles can make it back to the playoffs in 2012.

"We're looking to be more consistent, and we've had a couple of tough years but we're looking to get back into the playoffs," he said.

Four seniors lead the Allen squad this year, including quarterback Zach Crom, who ran the Eagle offense last season. Also back are Jon Bausch, Jacob Stewart and Shelby Jacobsen, all of whom were key players on the offensive and defensive lines for Allen last year.

The four seniors lead a group of returning players that were young and inexperienced a year ago, but should be older and wiser in 2012.

"We don't have many kids out, but the core group we have understand what we want to get done out there," Uldrich said. "Everybody is getting a lot of reps in practice, and we're coaching everybody all the

The Eagles face a challenging schedule in Class D-1 this season, including a district schedule that includes some solid teams from Hartington, Pender and Randolph.

"It's going to be a balanced district," Uldrich said, "Pender, Randolph and Hartington are solid and have a lot of people back, and Emerson-Hubbard will have a nice club as well. We need to be ready to play every week, but I think we can do that this season. We've put on about 15 pounds a player and ten quicker and stronger, so hopefully that will pay off."

The Eagles will see where they stand right away, as they play at top-ranked Howells-Dodge in the season opener. They will host Omaha Nation in their home opener on His works are in private collections in Europe and North America.

The competition was announced in the December 2011 issue of Sculpture magazine, attracting entries from around the United States as well as from Canada. According to James O'Donnell, Dean of the School of Arts and Humanities at Wayne State, "This type of competitive exhibit process for outdoor sculpture has become very common for colleges, universities, galleries, corporations, and municipalities, and our jury was delighted with the entries we received. After quite a bit of deliberation, the jury chose The Thinker as the winning piece."

According to Mozhnevsky, "For me, sculpture is a language which was born in spaces between the words. Explanations of what I am intending, or thinking or capturing in my works can sometimes close things for people, make them see only as the piece speaks to me. 'The Thinker' represents the continuous flow of thought. I believe that simple lines evoked by natural forms provide the greatest freedom for our emotions and imagination.

"One of the educational benefits of hosting this outdoor sculpture competition is the direct engagement that our students have with the work," reports Steven

As you are aware, the fall campaigns have begun. We have all seen and heard the negative ads for the national races. I do not intend to use any negative nonsense tactics in my campaign. I will run on my beliefs of fiscal responsibility, smaller and less intrusive government, the right to life for the unborn and simple common sense in government. Thank you for your strong support in the Primary Election.

I will be depending on you again this fall if I am to continue serving you.

Campaigns need to stop negativity

Is there hope for Washington?

A lot of the focus here in Nebraska is on the battle between Republican Deb Fischer and Democrat Bob Kerrey. Unfortunately, most of the focus of their respective campaigns seems to be on how bad the other candidate is, rather than on what their candidate will do for Nebraskans if we choose to elect them this November.

This promises to be the most expensive campaign, from an advertising perspective, in state history. Both candidates are throwing millions of dollars into TV campaigns (and doing very little in print, but that's another column for another week) that spend more time pointing out the negatives of the other candidate, while offering minimal information about what the other candidate will do if we elect him (or her) this November.

Go to both candidates' websites and try to find a news release that focuses on their candidates' platform or plans. You'll have some searching to do – when I checked both sites Tuesday, you had to go down almost a dozen stories on the Kerrey page to find a story whose headline made no mention of Fischer. The Fischer website's first page of blog entries were exclusively focused on criticisms of the Kerrey platform.

As someone who is smart enough not to associate himself with either of the two major parties – but must choose from one of these two candidates this November – the fact that you have to dig that deep into a candidate's own website to find any meaningful information about that candidate's stand on the issues is, to say the least, frustrating.

More to the point - it's nauseating.

Earlier this week, I pointed this out to Chris Triebsch of the Kerrey campaign after receiving an e-mail titled "Fischer Beckoned to Tampa for More Quiche and Mimosas with David Koch." The e-mail exclusively pointed out Fischer's unwillingness to debate Kerrey on the Fox News Channel, but said she would join billionaire David Koch during the Republican National Convention, where she is serving as a Nebraska delegate.

I told Triebsch this it was disappointing to see Kerrey's campaign taking this rhetoric, rather than using the platform to tell us what Kerrey would

Triebsch responded, saying that Kerrey is not attending the Democrats' convention, then – predictably – spent the next two paragraphs referring

"I know you have been on our press release list for some time, so you must have seen all of Senator Kerrey's proposals on Medicare reform, his Social Security plan, his proposals for the Norris Amendment, his proposals in the aftermath of the wildfires in north central Nebraska, etc. Where are Fischer's proposals?

"Even more disconcerting is that Fischer won't commit to a Fox News debate under the premise that she wants to stay in Nebraska to debate. Don't you think that is odd given where she is today?"

We have major issues that our nation – and our state – are facing as we move deeper into the 21st century. As voters, we have no time for nonsense such as the garbage that the two political parties are passing off as "information" regarding their respective candidates' campaigns for public office, whether it's President of the United States or one of the "representative" seats in Congress.

Most notable is the federal deficit – it's passing the $16 TRILLION mark as we speak, and it's sliding faster and faster downhill with each passing day. Congress has not passed a budget in three years, and our government is spending money at a rate that would make a drunken sailor say, "Whoa,

There is no farm bill to speak of right now, thanks to the inability (or unwillngness) of Congress to act on the measure. In fact, nothing of real substance has happened within the House or Senate for months, because everybody seems hell-bent on blaming the other side for what ails our nation (at least those who aren't too busy running for re-election right now) rather than working together to get things done.

With all of that going on in Washington – never mind the other issues such as abortion, gay marriage, etc. – is it any wonder why we're sick and tired of all the negative verbal garbage being spewn by the political candidates who are asking for our vote this November? Is it any wonder that people are literally running AWAY from the GOP and Democrat parties and choosing to align themselves as political independents or members of the Libertarian, Green or other political parties?

And yet, the campaigns of Bob Kerrey and Deb Fischer continue to insist on telling us how horrible their opponent is, how their opponent hasn't read this or done that, how their opponent is having dinner with big-money interests, or whether or not their opponent continues to beat their spouse? (OK, that last one isn't being suggested . . . but it's probably the only approach that has yet to be inferred by either party.)

Here's a suggestion for the parties – stop wasting your money, and our time, telling us how bad your opponent is, and spend the next 9 1/2 weeks telling us what your candidate will do for Nebraska if we vote for her (or

For those of us voting this November, I also have a suggestion - pay close attention to what Deb Fischer and Bob Kerrey say in their ads between now and Nov. 6, and vote for the candidate you feel does the better job of avoiding the negative campaign rhetoric. That's the kind of representation we REALLY hope for in Washington right now - more action,

A farmer north of Kearney has already cut his corn crop, leaving only two rows of wilted stalks, some without even a mini ear on them, in the middle of the field awaiting an adjuster's inspection.

These are the sights in the midst of one of the state's most gripping droughts since the "Dirty Thirties." The aftermath of a mild winter that left little snow in the Rockies to melt and fill the North and South Platte tributaries to the Platte River, the statewide lifeline that some years has been teeming at the banks.

Mandatory water restrictions went into force in the Capital City Aug. 9, for the first time in a decade. The rules are simple. No lawn watering on Mondays. In 2010, 75 percent of the farm bill spending actually went to food assistance programs. Like everything else, particularly in government, this is a lengthy process. As of right now, the U.S. Senate has passed their version of the farm bill and the House Agriculture Committee has a version ready but it has not been voted on by the full U.S. House of Representatives. Wayne State College student Gabriella Hernandez of Council Bluffs, Iowa (left) won a t-shirt design contest that was created to involve incoming students and give them an opportunity to show their Wildcat spirit. Criteria for the contest was that it had to be made up of two colors and printed on a black shirt including WSC, Wayne State College or Wildcats showing school spirit. Of the eight final designs, Hernandez won with her Fear the Wildcats/Meow design. Gabriella won a $100 gift certificate to the Wayne State College Bookstore and a t-shirt she designed. Her winning design will also be sold at the bookstore. Hernandez's design was unveiled last week in front of a large audience of incoming freshmen students by Tim Barnes, manager of the Wayne State College Bookstore.

Rotary Youth Exchange friendships endure; students reunited this summer

Youth Exchange student Lucas Geitner (2010-2011) and his brother Tilmann paid Wayne America a return visit.

Traveling from Genthin, Saxony-Anhalt, Germany, the Geitners returned to see old friends and host families in Laurel and Wayne.

The Wayne Rotary Club hosted Lucas in 2010; however, Lucas attended school in Laurel as part of the mutual exchange between himself and LCHS student Emma Engebretsen. While Emma spent the year in Haan, North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany, Lucas spent the year at Laurel-Concord High School. His host families were Mike and Patty Sherman of Belden, Dave and Karla Kardell and Bill and Barbara Engebretsen of Laurel.

At the end of Lucas' year and after Emma had returned, Lucas and his mom, Karin, and brother, Tilman, joined the Engebretsens for a family vacation to the Black Hills, Fort Robinson and western Nebras-

While here for their return visit, Lucas and Tilmann spent time with former host families and old friends, boated at the lake and rode 4-wheelers. Because Tilman is a trained nurse in Germany, Providence Medical Center Director Tom Lee, also a Rotarian, treated the Geitners and Barbara Engebretsen to a wonderful tour of the hospital

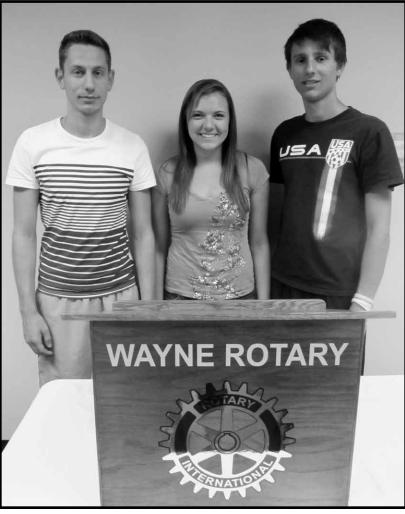

Tilman was extremely impressed with the facilities and hospitality. Tom and Tilmann were able to share and compare health care practices between countries.

Rotary International is devoted to community, regional and international service. One of the four guiding principles is the advancement of international understanding, goodwill and peace among professionals united in the ideal of service. Friendships and understanding gained through the Youth Exchange program are perhaps some of the most powerful means to realizing these principles.

These systems include interface and sensors for EKG, Hand-Grip Heart Rate Monitor, Surface Temperature, Blood Pressure, Hand Dynamometer, Spirometer and O2 Gas. The sets will provide resources for use by NPS members in outreach activities while also being able to make available a system that could be borrowed by teachers who have participated in workshops, thus reducing scheduling conflicts and enhancing availability.

Enjoying the fruits (and vegetables) of others' labors

It's Tuesday morning, and I have one job today; taking care of a lug of peaches. I no longer can them the way my mother always did, but put them in freezer bags and know I can enjoy them in cobblers and pies all winter long.

We have a tradition, and it involves Colorado peaches. As long as I can remember. Mom insisted on peaches from Colorado. They are "cling free", meaning the stone pops right out without digging.

I have to admit that the Missouri peaches I've been buying from the local vegetable truck have been equally tasty and just as easy to get the stone out. But when it comes to putting up, they have to be Colo-

More and more people are discovering the "joy" of gardens, and I'm all for it. But I've done my time in the dirt. I don't have a crew of folks to feed, it's just the Big Farmer and me most of the time, so we can afford the produce from the vendor.

My "road trip" bunch went to Saline County last week. We started in Crete and had kolaches there, then stopped at the Senior Center in Wilber to eat them with the coffee brewed there.

Summer's drought having impact on lawns and trees

Here's some information on lawns and trees from Kelly Feehan.

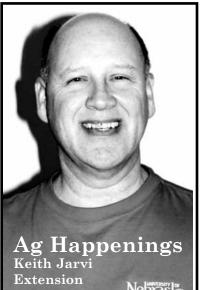

Our hot, dry summer has led to an increased need for seeding or over-seeding thin or dead lawn areas. Mid-August to mid-September is the ideal time to seed cool season grasses. Kentucky bluegrass may be seeded up until late September, but the sooner the better. Correct seed-bed preparation is critical for successful establishment of new

With a complete lawn renovation, most areas are tilled prior to seeding. This often turns up weed seeds and removes what turfgrass competition there is to increase weed pressure. For complete renovations, this is fine; however, if you only need to seed thinned areas or patches the best method of seedbed preparation is heavy core aeration and then power rake the area prior to seeding. This provides openings for seed to soil contact.

With the long range forecast calling for continued dry conditions, irrigation to keep the seedbed moist will be important for seedling survival. The following are overseeding tips taken from the publication Improving Turf in Fall found at www. turf.unl.edu.

Just before aerating, mow the area to be overseeded to one and one-half inches tall to reduce competition from the established grass. Aerify the area by punching 20 to 40 holes per square foot with the largest tines available. A lawn cannot be aerified too much so make at least two to three passes over the lawn. After aeration, power rake to aid seed to soil contact by removing thatch and other plant debris.

If a soil test indicates the need for phosphorous, apply a starter fertilizer to the area to be overseeded. Seed the area using a dropseeder or a power overseeder, also known as a slit- or slicer seeder. Make two to four passes over the lawn in different directions when seeding.

Lightly water the overseeded area to keep the soil surface moist. This could be as much as three to four times a day until seedlings are rooted. Once rooted, reduce the frequency of irrigation and increase the depth; moistening the soil 4 to 6 inches deep. Maintain a moist but not saturated soil for root health and water efficiency.

Mow often to limit competition from the established grass. Mow at 1.5 inches until the new seedlings are tall enough themselves to have been cut twice. Then, gradually increase the mowing height to three inches and maintain this height of Mr. and Mrs. Chu, established thereafter.

Disaster assistance available for area small businesses counties in Colorado, Kansas, South Dakota and Wyoming are now eligible to apply for low-interest federal disaster loans from the U. S. Small Business Administration (SBA).

"These loans offset economic losses because of the drought that began July 24, 2012, in these primary Nebraska counties," announced Alfred E. Judd, director of SBA's Disaster Field Operations Center-West.

Cedar, Dixon and Wayne Counties are included in the 70-county

"SBA eligibility covers both the economic impacts on businesses dependent on farmers and ranchers that have suffered agricultural production losses caused by the disaster and businesses directly impacted by the disaster," Judd said.

Small, nonfarm businesses, small agricultural cooperatives, small businesses engaged in aquaculture and most private, nonprofit organizations of any size may qualify for Economic Injury Disaster Loans (EIDLs) of up to $2 million to help meet financial obligations and operating expenses which could have been met had the disaster not oc-

Small, nonfarm businesses in 70 private, nonprofit organizations, Nebraska counties and neighboring a maximum term of 30 years, and are available to small businesses and most private, nonprofits without the financial ability to offset the adverse impact without hardship," Judd said.

> By law, SBA makes EIDLs available when the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture designates an agricultural disaster. Secretary Tom Vilsack declared this disaster on Aug. 1, 2012.

> Businesses primarily engaged in farming or ranching are not eligible for SBA disaster assistance. Agricultural enterprises should contact the Farm Services Agency (FSA) about the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) assistance made available by the Secretary's declaration.
