School board approves budget for FY 2012-13

By CLARA OSTEN Of the Herald

Budget numbers for the Wayne Community Schools for the 2012-2013 fiscal year are very comparable to those in last year's

The total tax request for the district for the coming year is $1.1803. This includes 98.2617 cents for general fund expenses, 8.5274 cents for the repayment of bond funds, 6.1237 cents for the special building fund and 5.1243 cents for the qualified capital purpose undertaking fund (K-8).

"This is a good budget and it will take care of our needs," said Superintendent Mark Lenihan. "Our tax asking is basically the same as last year and we feel that being able to do this is good for taxpayers, rather than having a roller coaster budget."

He told the board that the district will try to keep expenses down and monitor spending closely to be sure they are on track with the budget.

Board members listened to an update on the renovation work at both the elementary school and junior/senior high schools.

Jon Carlson of Carlson, West, Povondra and Ed Cable of Holtze Construction explained the work that still remains to be done on the project, including tile work in several areas in the elementary school and on the south steps at the junior high school and clean-up in a number of areas.

Both men expressed a hope that the work would be complete before the board of education's meeting on Oct. 8.

Melody Hill, guidance counselor at Wayne High School, presented information on the ACT scores for Wayne High School students in comparison to those in the state and nation.

She noted that the graduating class of 2012 scored considerably higher on the ACT than the state average, 23.2 to 22.0.

Mrs. Hill also spoke of the benefits of John Baylor ACT prep course offered at Wayne High School. She told the board members that the class is offered at the school during a portion of the last class period, during the school's reading time and for a time after school, for a total of 45 minutes for each session. Those taking the course must commit to attending all 12 sessions and complete the required homework.

Discussion was held on the benefits of the program and the consensus was this was "another tool to help Wayne High School students succeed in test taking and qualify for additional scholarships along the way."

Preliminary enrollment figures show seven fewer students at Wayne Public Schools this year. However, that number could change before final numbers are submitted.

The board will next meet on Monday, Oct. 8 at 5 p.m.

A reporter-estimated 200 people gathered in the school theater Wednesday evening, Sept. 5, for a presentation of "Rachel's Challenge." The program was part of a daylong series of age-appropriate programs that were also presented at the elementary and junior-senior high school buildings earlier that day.

Rachel's Challenge centers around the life of Rachel Joy Scott, the first child killed by gunmen in the 1999 Columbine, Colo., school shootings. Scott's parents found her diaries after her death and discovered some very touching and well-written essays that talk about treating others with kindness and how one person can start a chain reac-

Magic Energy Saving devices generally not 'magical' Have you heard the news? There erage American home already has are manufacturers of electrical saving devises out there that can save you up to 50 percent on your home's power bill! Just hook the "Black Box" into your electrical service or plug them into a wall socket and start saving! Wow! Really? Hold on. Don't call their toll-free phone number just yet.

In the past few years, there has been a huge "surge" in scam "electricity saver" products. While some provide absolutely no benefit at all (and may actually consume energy themselves), most are simply power factor capacitors.

To describe power factor and without getting too technical, sometimes more power goes into a device than you would expect, because of a special kind of inefficiency. The actual energy used by your device is measured in kilowatt hours, and that is what you are charged for. If your device uses only 80 percent of the power going into it, the power factor is 80 percent. The power facyour device actually uses) divided by the apparent power (the total going into it). With large commercial and industrial customers, this can create significant expenses in providing electrical service, so utilities often install expensive metering equipment to measure the difference and charge for it. However, since this difference creates such a small amount of cost in a household, residential electric meters only measure the real power used and not the apparent power.

And even if electric utilities billed home users for bad power factor, modern appliances already have in. Consumer Reports says the ava power factor of 90 percent, which would make the maximum savings close to only 10 percent (if the utility actually charged for the power factor penalty, which they do not).

The electric utility industry often refers to these products as "Black Box Devices." They include a range of products that tout some new proprietary technology to save energy. Often, these devices target motors and may claim to condition, filter or control an appliance motor to reduce energy consumption. Be aware that some of these devices could damage your appliances and may void the appliance warranty.

The Electric Power Research Institute (EPRI) recently tested one product claiming to provide 30 percent energy savings. EPRI found it saved 0.23 percent. At the University of Texas at Austin, the best researchers could get was a 0.06 percent reduction in electric use for an average home with the same prod-

As a final comment, consider that if these devices actually saved power, then major electrical goods outlets, electrical wholesalers and big department stores would be selling them. However, you can't buy one from any of the major retailers anywhere. There must be a reason.

The old adage of "If it sounds too good to be true ... ," can be just as true with energy saving devices as other things.

For unbiased information on whether a product's claims will truly save you energy, or other ideas on how you can become more Energy-Wise, visit with your local electric this kind of power-correction built utility or go to nppd.com/save-en-

Health insurance providers raise questions about exchange guidelines

By KATIE WALTER Nebraska News Service

LINCOLN – Gov. Dave Heineman opened Thursday's health insurance exchange meeting reminding the audience of 100 that he's still not committed to drafting the healthcare exchange until after the November elec-

"Prior to Nov. 16, there's a very important date: the election on Nov. 6," he said.

Heineman and other Republicans hope to see President Obama voted out of office and the subsequent repeal of the Affordable Care Act. Nov. 16 is the date when states are supposed to submit their blueprints for

Based on the testimony from a health exchange meeting Tuesday, Heineman said, "Everyone wants someone else to pay for it, and that's not possible.'

Heineman hosted health insurance exchange meetings on Tuesday that heard from health care advocates and industry professionals. Thursday's meeting heard from health insurance providers.

Health insurance exchanges are part of the Affordable Care Act that was signed into federal law in March 2010. The law requires states to draft their own plan within the federal guidelines, create a joint federal-state plan or rely on the federal government to create a plan. These exchanges are intended for those who do not currently have health insurance.

Thursday's meeting heard from CEOs of three Nebraska insurance companies: Blue Cross Blue Shield, United Healthcare and Coventry. All three were proponents of the state-based exchange.

William Tracy, CEO of United Healthcare of the Heartland, began a theme that echoed throughout the panel: "We don't have all the information to make deci-

The decisions referred to include regulatory questions on each exchange. While the three on the panel support a state-based exchange, they all had questions regarding who would regulate - the federal government or the state - and what would be covered.

When Steve Martin, CEO of Blue Cross Blue Shield. asked the governor to fight for Nebraska's sovereignty the best he can in terms of regulation, Heineman insisted, "We lost sovereignty the day they introduced this bill."

Heineman continued, "We have to go on bended knee to Secretary [Secretary of Health and Human Services Kathleen] Sebelius and ask, 'oh, is this OK?' before we are able to do anything."

The Department of Health and Human Services distributed a "Blueprint for Approval of Affordable Statebased and State Partnership Insurance Exchanges" in May, and a final updated copy was sent out in early August. The blueprint provides details on options available under a state-based exchange as opposed to a federal-based exchange.

All three CEOs agreed that it may not be possible to get all the exchanges up and running when enrollment opens in October 2013.

Michael Nelson, CEO of Coventry, said they would be able to meet the deadline because it's their business to be ready. When earlier provisions of the Affordable Care Act required insurance companies to extend group coverage to unwed children under the age of 26, allowing them to remain on their parent's insurance, Nelson said the deadlines were tight, but they were able to make it happen.

Repeating recommendations made at Tuesday's meeting, the insurance representatives suggested funding for the CHIP program as a source of revenue to operate the new exchange. This program is the Comprehensive Health Insurance Pool, which provides health insurance to Nebraskans who cannot obtain it otherwise. According to the Nebraska Health Association, the CHIP program will be phased out once the insurance exchanges are in place.

Wayne came from district and student group funds, and Superintendent Mark Lenihan said the message Rachel's Challenge brought is one he hopes has an impact on creating a more positive culture within

"It's a real positive message that was good for all of us to hear," he said. "It's really a simple message, but sometimes we need a reminder and I thought it was a good way for us to start the year and get the kids to focus on good behavior and to treat each other in a manner that's respectful and kind.

"We're hoping that the message will have a good impact on a positive culture in our school," he added.

The initial impact seems to be a positive one already - the start of a Friends of Rachel (FOR) group at the school drew significant interest among the school body, so much so that, Harman said, they had to turn away students who were interested in the leadership program.

"After the assembly, we had so many kids that we had to turn some away, because there was only so many we could do the training with at one time," she said. "The students here were great, and a number of them that I talked with afterward expressed how they are thinking more about their actions and their words, and to hear that is a very powerful thing."

The Rachel's Challenge effort tied into a weekend showing of "Bully," an award-winning documentary been impacted by bullies, at the Majestic Theater in Wayne.

Good crowds were on hand for each of the five free showings and post-movie discussions, including a standing-room-only Sunday afternoon showing that featured Kirk Smalley, organizer of the national Stand For The Silent movement, whose 11-year-old son, Ty, committed suicide after being bullied for a number of years in his small-town Oklahoma school.

After Sunday's showing, Smalley spent almost 90 minutes talking with those in attendance about the idea that many of our children actually have a plan to commit suicide.

"One in four kids in our nation have a (suicide) plan right now, he said. "We've got to quit hiding our heads in the sand about these things. The only way to stop it is to ask those questions and start those conversations with our kids and find out what's going on in their lives."

Smalley, a Nebraska native, choked back tears as he told those in attendance how he has to continually face his son's death every time he attends a showing of "Bully."

"Every time I watch this, I bury my boy. Every single time," he said "To do that over and over and over. it's not an easy thing for a guy's heart. But I have to do that for about the lives of families who have these kids (pointing to kids in the

"We need to come together as a community and show the state what we can do, and then Nebraska can show the nation what we can do, and then our nation can show the world what we can do," he said. Wakefield gets first home win since 2008 in 22-12 tilt

WAKEFIELD - After shaking hands with their opponents, the Wakefield football team took advantage of the chance to do something they haven't done at home in four years – sing the school fight song for the hometown fans.

The Trojans had plenty to sing about Friday night, getting a key goal-line stand on a two-point conversion and scoring a late touchdown to ice a 22-12 win over Stanton, giving the Trojans more wins this season (two) than they had combined in the previous three sea-

For the first time since their 2007 Class C2 state title run, the Trojans are 2-0 on the season, and that's something worth breaking out in song for, according to coach Mike

"We've been waiting for a home win for a while now," he said after his team's victory serenade. "We haven't won in Wakefield since 2008, and we started learning the fight song last year in hopes we could sing it here at home. "We didn't win at home last year, but we were finally able to bust it out tonight."

The Trojans' musical interlude came as the result of a great defensive effort against the Mustangs, who were still stinging from a season-opening loss to Madison and were looking to even their record against a Wakefield team they have had a lot of success with recently.

"I told our kids it was going to be a four-quarter game," Hassler said. "Stanton came in here 0-1 and they didn't want to go to 0-2, and we knew we were going to get their best shot."

The Trojans were the ones who found the end zone first, scoring late in the first half on a three-yard run by Josh Dolph to give the hosts a 6-0 halftime edge.

Stanton answered early in the third period on a three-yard gallop by Houston Huss, but Wakefield came right back with Dolph's second score of the night, a 23-yard run off the left side in the closing minutes of the third period. Justin Dorcey's two-point conversion run made it 14-6, and that conversion proved to be a key in the final outcome.

Wildcats save best for last in 20-6 home victory

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

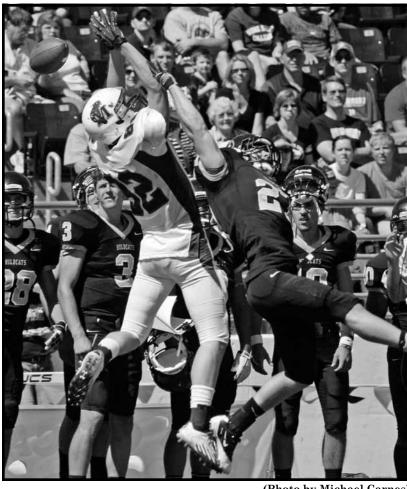

Saving the best for last might be a little hard on the hearts of their fans, but the Wayne State football team did that and find themselves at 2-0 on the young season.

Wayne State put together a 15-play, 75-yard drive midway through the fourth quarter, sealing the deal with a one-yard run by Nick Pulscher with 1:05 to play to give Wayne State a 20-6 win over Minot State in the Wildcats' home opener Saturday at Cunningham

"An ugly win beats a beautiful loss every time," coach Dan McLaughlin said. "We didn't play as well as I hoped we would, but we'll work on it and try to get better next week."

The Wildcats dominated play throughout much of the first half and had a 13-0 lead at intermission, but McLaughlin felt the Wildcats should have been able to finish more of their drives in the end zone, instead of settling for a couple of

"We were on the plus side of the field most of the first half and the defense played great, but we only had 13 at the half and I felt we should have had 28," he said.

Heier finishes first, Wayne teams second

Area runners battled through hot temperatures and a stiff breeze Tuesday to put together some solid efforts at the Wayne Invitational.

Both Wayne High teams finished second in their respective races at the Wayne Country Club, and coach Rocky Ruhl said both young teams are showing improvement.

"I thought we looked better than we did last Tuesday when it was hot like this," he said. "We're coming up the ladder and getting a little better each week."

Two area runners staged a close finish in the girls race, with Wayne High's Cassie Heier edging out Mackenzie Gray of Winside by four seconds, finishing in a time of 16:41.

"Cassie ran a great race Saturday (at the Lincoln Pius Invite) and ran well again today," Ruhl said. "I thought she competed well and did a great job of running in the hot weather, and she just keeps getting better."

Gray was among the leaders throughout the race, and Heier did a good job of moving up in the pack and took over the lead just past the halfway point in the race, holding off the Winside runner to take top

"I think this will help motivate her to run more on weekends," said Winside coach Jennifer Kesting. "She was right up front the whole way and I thought she ran really well. She can use the draft and hit

Sadie Petersen of Laurel-Concord/Coleridge finished a solid sixth overall, while teammate Sammie Camenzind finished 11th and earned a medal as well.

Cards humble Devils

SOUTH SIOUX CITY - Take away a few big plays, and coach Terry Beair feels the Wayne Blue Devils might have come away with a win Friday.

South Sioux City converted some big plays into points Friday night, as the Class B Cardinals improved to 3-0 on the year with a 26-7 win over the Blue Devils. "A few big plays, and the outcome may have been different. The defense played well, and if we take away a few big plays, we are right in the mix," he said after his team fell to 1-2 on the season. "I feel, as a team, we took a step forward in playing this game and got more mentally tough.'

The Cardinals took a 7-0 lead in the first quarter when Nate Rogers caught a 44-yard pass from Scott Manley, who threw four touchdowns on the night. The duo also connected early in the fourth quarter on a 16-yard pass.

Michael Offerman caught a 10-yard strike from Manley in the second period to give the hosts a 14-0 halftime lead. Jalen Barry ended South Sioux's hopes for a shutout with a six-yard run midway through the fourth quarter, with Luke Rethwisch's point-after kick making it a 20-7 game before the Cardinals ended the scoring on Manley's fourth scoring pass of the night, a 10-yarder to Jordan Comstock.

in total offense on the night, with Barry going 10-for-19 for 118 yards. Payton Janke led the rushing attack with 28 yards on six carries.

The Blue Devils put up 176 yards

"We're still in a transition in putting in a new offense, and we had trouble moving the ball," Beair said

The Blue Devils will try to get back on the winning side of the ledger this week, facing a top-ten team in Columbus Lakeview Friday in

"We'll need to keep the teamwork up and have faith in each other and keep battling through the rest of the season," Beair said.

Wildcats go 3-1 in final road tune-up

The Wayne State volleyball team continues to battle through its growing pains and came away with another 3-1 weekend as it prepares for conference play this week.

The 18th-ranked Wildcats went 1-1 on the first day of the Mountain Lion Invitational in Colorado Springs, Colo., but won both matches on Saturday to take a 6-2 record into this weekend's NSIC home openers against Winona State and Upper Iowa.

"We definitely got better from the first week," coach Scott Kneifl said. "We played a lot of young players and we took positive things out of this past weekend, and we just need to keep getting better and be more consistent.'

"She's improving every time out, and she cut her time down from when she ran here last year and was able to finish sixth, so I thought she did really well," she said.

Angie Nelson and Miranda Long of Wayne High also earned medals to highlight the local effort in the girls race. Nelson was fifth overall while Long finished 10th, helping the Blue Devils to finish 10 points behind winner Norfolk Catholic.

The Wayne High boys finished a distant second to champion Pierce in the boys race, but came away with two medalists on the day and had all six varsity runners place in the top 20.

"I thought the guys are really getting a lot closer to running in a pack, and now we just need them to move up in the standings and keep getting our times better," Ruhl said. 'If we can do that, we can try to sneak up on some people once districts roll around."

Ben Hoskins was the top runner for the Blue Devils, finishing seventh in a time of 19:35. Jacob Reynolds finished 12th to earn Wayne's other medal on the day. Jared Peterson, Luke Pulfer, Cornelio Espino and Grant Anderson finished 16th, 17th, 18th and 20th, respectively, to just miss the medal stand.

LCC's Aaron Haahr led the Bears to a fifth-place finish, earning a 10th place medal after getting off to a fast start and leading the race

"He always has a strong start, and I thought it might catch up to him with the heat, but he was able to come in strong and get a medal," Virgil said. "We just have to work on finding a happy medium with him, but I thought he competed well."

"It's the same play we scored on twice last week," McLaughlin said of the connection. "They've got a little thing going with that route, and we protected it well and hit it again. Everything clicked on that play." Wayne State added another Martin field goal from 35 yards away to take a 13-point lead into the locker room, and the defense continued to play well for much of the game, making a key stop on fourth down inside the Wildcats' 2-yard line to keep Minot State out of the end

"There were three keys to the game, and I thought making that stop was one of them," McLaughlin said. "After that, we were pinned deep and Randy Weich was able to flip the field with a 62-yard punt, and that was a big play in the game for us.'

Minot State was able to score its only touchdown of the game, getting a four-yard pass from Zac Cunha to Wayne Peters to bring them within a touchdown with 7:32 to go.

Wayne State's offense stepped up on the ensuing drive, going 75 yards in 15 plays and chewing up almost 6 1/2 minutes off the clock with some clutch plays by Most, Pulscher and Charlie Davidson.

"Charlie and Nick did a great job finishing runs and getting us some first downs to maintain possession, and Nate executed things well on that final drive and made some key plays," McLaughlin said.

"Our defense played well Saturday," McLaughlin said. "I thought Jeff Pokorny had his best game here. He was phenomenal and made a huge difference, and Richard and Jared were solid as well."

Northwest Missouri State had other ideas, though, and used a furious rally to come back from a 3-0 second half deficit to defeat Wayne State Thursday, 4-3 in overtime, in the Wildcats' home opener.

After Wayne State built a 3-0 lead at the 58 minute mark, Northwest Missouri State scored three goals in the next 20 minutes to even the Wildcats at 3-3. Chelsea Fournier would score the game-winning goal six minutes into overtime.

"It was a tale of two halves," coach Molly Grisham said. "We had a great attacking first half, and Northwest made some adjustments and did what they needed to do. We needed to play 90 minutes and weren't quite able to get it done."

Wayne State got onto the board early in the first half as Macy Hagen scored her first goal of the season 11 minutes into the contest. The rest of the first half would remain scoreless as Wayne State outshot Northwest Missouri State 10-5 in the first half and took a 1-0 lead at

"Macy has been a defender, so to get her in the mix and see her put the ball away was really a good thing for us," Grisham said.

McKenna Adams pushed the Wayne State lead to 2-0 on her first goal of the season, as she was assisted by Mallory Hoyton a goal at the 56 minute mark; and just over a minute later, the Wildcats scored again as Rachel Mabrey booted a free kick towards the net and Kayli Hopper headed it home for her first goal of the season.

that match," Kneifl said. "The thing we need to learn is to match intensity levels, and I thought we came out flat and made a lot of unforced errors.

Sieckmann had 16 kills in the losing effort, while McClintock had 31 assists and VanGronigen led the defense with 10 digs.

On Saturday, the Wildcats played much better and posted sweeps over Midwestern State of Texas (25-23, 25-22, 25-17) and Franklin Pierce (25-13, 25-12, 25-13)

"We played really well the second day," Kneifl said. "We had only 3-4 errors in the second match and played really clean. We had some struggles with serving in the first match, but we were able to overcome it."

Sieckmann led Wayne State in the first match with 15 kills, leading a balanced attack. Beiermann and Alex Arms each had eigh tkills, Hobbs put down six and Elizabeth Gebhardt had five. McClintock had 36 assists and Katie Hughes had

In the finale, Sieckmann and Hobbs led the way with 11 and 10 kills, respectively. McClintock had 28 assists and all 13 Wildcat players saw action in the win. Sieckman's play earned her a spot on the all-tournament team.

Wayne State opens Northern Sun Conference play this weekend with a pair of home games, hosting Winona State Friday at 7 p.m. and Upper Iowa at 3 p.m. on Saturday.

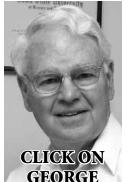

"It'll be nice to stay at home and not have to get on the bus," Kneifl siad. "Winona and Upper Iowa are both strong teams, so it's going to be a battle. They're very good teams and would probably be in the NCAA tournament if they were in any other region."

Despite his team's age, Kneifl said youth won't be an excuse to lean on.

'We're not going to use the fact that we're extremely young as a crutch," he siad. "This is a team that has to be good now, and we have to come out this weekend and

Visiting Hartington Cedar Catholic came into the game with momentum from a last-second win over Oakland-Craig, and they used that momentum to post a 27-12 win over the Bears in LCC's first home game

The Bears tried to stay with their guests through much of the first half and managed to keep the game close at intermission. Brett Haisch scored on a one-yard run, and Justin Saunders hauled in a 25-yard scoring strike from Kyle Kardell to keep LCC in the game at the half, trailing 15-12.

The Trojans salted the game away Coleridge Bears faced another in the second half, however, scoring a pair of touchdowns to come away with the 15-point win, dropping the Bears to 0-2 on the season.

On the up side was the team's sol-

The down came during the first match of that tournament, however, as junior hitter Ashton Schweers was lost for the season after blowing out her ACL while going up for an early spike in the Blue Devils' win over Central City.

"Losing Ashton is a huge hole in our lineup," coach Traci Krusemark respectively. said. "She does a lot of good things for us at the net, and we're going to miss her."

One of the good things Krusemark saw Saturday was how the younger players responded to the sudden loss of its leading hitter. The team played well throughout the day on Saturday and won two of three matches.

"I thought our younger girls stepped up and played pretty well," she said. "We eliminated a lot of errors and had a good hard-fought win against Crofton. It was a positive because we really need those younger girls to step up for us now."

Doomsday. The Apocalypse. The End of the World. Are you ready? Wayne State College can help you prepare with one of several events highlighting human culture's tendency to obsess over the end of all things as we know them.

The Fred G. Dale Planetarium began its 2012 fall season of public shows Sept. 7 with "Tales of the Mayan Skies," the story of how the ancient Maya interwove astronomy and culture to create a stable society that spanned 2,000 years. The show will be presented at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 5 and Nov. 2 and at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 21, Oct. 19 and Nov. 16.

The darker side of Mayan astronomy, at least according to the prophets of doom, will be explored at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 5 and Nov. 2 and at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 21, Oct. 19 and Nov. 16. "2012: The End of the World? NOT!" sorts out the science from the hype as it explores some of the many rumors surrounding the coming 2012 winter solstice and the dire predictions of the end of the world.

The Mayan civilization began about 500 BCE and flourished until the Spanish arrived in 1500 CE. The Egyptians and Sumerians are credited with being the first "astronomers" with their civilizations going back to 3500 BCE.

"The Mayans were very good record-keepers and initially their astronomy was accurate, but as time went on, errors began to accumulate and their astronomical predictions do not really match up with the current sky," said Todd Young, WSC professor of physics and director of the Dale Planetarium. "The main error was that they never really compensated for 1/4 day extra that the Earth takes to go around the Sun (our current calendar system compensates with a leap day every four years)."

"Their 'astronomy' was more of an 'astrology' and it was very much tied to their world view," Young continued. "They used the sky above to tell them when to plant and harvest crops, when the seasons were going to change, when to have certain ceremonies, when to get married, when to have kids, and even when to have a haircut!"

Nonetheless, speculation about the Mayan calendar drives apocalyptic beliefs for many people. A simple Google search about their calendar yields more than 300,000 hits, with many of them tied to countdowns to the end of the world. There's even an "App for that" available via iTunes.

"One of the Mayan calendars is called the 'long count' calendar and it has a cycle of 5,125.25 years. which comes to the end of its cycle on Dec. 21, 2012," Young said. "Some people are using this as another excuse to believe the end of the world is upon us. An ancient Mayan text regarding the long count calendar was initially mistranslated as stating the end of cycle would bring doom; later, more accurate translations noted the text actually says the end of the cycle is a time to celebrate and start anew. But I guess the initial incorrect translation got stuck in people's heads and has continued to spread." Science aside, should we sell our stocks and party until December?

"DO NOT sell your stocks, but you are welcome to party," Young said. "Nothing will happen on Dec. 21, 2012, except the beginning of winter. The end of the long count calendar will be just another day to take down the old calendar and put up a new one."

Popular writers and scientists alike have long been fascinated by the prospect of alien invaders crushing planet Earth. One of the more famous of these stories, War of the Worlds, will be presented at 7 p.m. Saturday through Tuesday, Oct. 27-30 in the Black Box Theater.

The play has been adapted by Todd Olson and is based on the original by H. G. Wells, which plays on humans' fears about the fragility of civilization. The work is licensed exclusively by Summerwind Productions. Plans are being made to air the

TV political ads don't make any difference

It's been far too serious in this corner of the newspaper lately - time to ighten the mood with evidence to prove that Darwin was wrong . . . better known as the "Bits and Pieces" file:

- How big of a waste of time and money are those political ads you see

A recent study in the Journal of Political Marketing found that more than $410 million was spent on political television commercials during the 2000, 2002 and 2004 elections. Over 1,200 congressional elections were analyzed, and of those 1,200, only 11 were decided by TV campaign ads (that's less than 1 percent, for those of you scoring at home).

Reports are that more than $1 billion is going to be spent by the Republicans and Democrats on TV advertising in this election year - and then we wonder why our nation is $16 trillion in the hole?

- From the "School administrators aren't THAT insane . . . or are they?" department comes this disturbing note: Grand Island Public Schools officials deny it, but the parents of a deaf preschool child insist that they were told their three-year old son had to change how he signs his name because wait for it – it violates the district's weapons policy.

The boy, named Hunter, uses a modified, cross-fingered version of what night appear to be two hand guns. It is approved as a registered sign for his name through Signing Exact English (S.E.E.), but that didn't stop school officials from insisting on the name change, something they later denied doing.

It sometimes makes you wonder if a requirement to be a school administrator includes the discontinued use of common sense.

Thanks for help, safe environment

As adult sponsors for Stand for the Silent, we would like to express our appreciation for the outpouring of community involvement and school support this past week as we work toward making the school environment a safe and nurturing place for all of our children.

First, the introduction of Rachel's Challenge was an amazing way to kick off a new school year. For those of you who did not attend this presentation, Rachel's Challenge includes strategies that equip stuand reduce feelings of isolation and despair in students by creating a culture of kindness and compassion. The smallest acts of caring can multiply if we make an effort to invest ourselves in the people we interact with every day.

Rachel, the first student killed in the Columbine shootings, stated in her journals that were found after her death, "I have this theory that if one person can go out of their way to show compassion, then it will start a chain reaction of the same. People will never know how far a little kindness can go.'

We also want to thank everyone that donated your time and resources to bring the movie "Bully" to our theater as a free showing for all who attended. Thank you Melanie from Project Majestic for your tremendous support of this project! Thank you to the Rotary Club and Wayne Public Schools for partnering with our group to make this possible! Thank you to the many donors that provided monetary support to make this possible! Thank you to Michael Carnes and the Wayne Herald for their continued support of this issue and the many articles you devoted to this topic! Thank you to the volunteers who assisted with concessions and selling merchandise, especially Nick Haase who was there helping for all six shows! Thank you to our facilitators that gave the audience a forum to discuss their reactions to the movie and their ideas for improving the school environment for the future of our students! Thank you to Godfather's Pizza and Pac-N-Save for donating food for the voland parents who have been attending our Stand for the Silent meetings and helping out on our many projects to keep the message of hope out there as we work toward safer schools for all. And last but not Bullying happens in every school across the United States and no school is exempt. However, with a community effort, we can make a difference for our children. Every day, 160,000 children in our nation stay home from school due to a fear of being harassed or harmed. Eighty-five percent of bullying involves more than just the perpetrator and the victim, but an entire group of people that witness the events. It is our belief that if we equip those students with the skills to have a voice and know how to react when they witness a bullying situation, the power of numbers will prevail and the students can change the environment they are in on a daily basis.

Stand for the Silent aims to increase public awareness and education of this very important issue, increase the number of students and adults who have the knowledge and skills to stand up and support those who are victims and reach out to the perpetrators of these acts, and create programs within the school that support students in need. Please join us at our next meeting on Thursday, Sept. 20 at 7 p.m. in the High School Commons. we can make a difference!

A new month has started. While unseasonable weather lingers, natural disasters, the cycle of life and a looming election continue to captivate our minds.

Governor Dave Heineman, and U.S. Senators Mike Johanns and Ben Nelson have signed on in seeking federal relief to meet the estimated $5 million in costs and damages associated with the earlier fires.

Act (ACA), otherwise known as Obamacare, we have come to the planning and implementing stage. There are a few key components to keep in mind while looking at the ACA, first is the individual mandate and second is the Medicaid expansion. In June, the Supreme Court ruled that the individual mandate was constitutional. What exactly does that mean? It means that states must develop a statebased insurance exchange, join a regional exchange or be forced into an insurance exchange run by the change by Nov. 16 to the feds and federal government. Theoretically, a state exchange would serve as a clearinghouse for private insurance companies that would offer a variety of plans giving individuals and small businesses the opportunity to select what will best fit their needs while also allowing an individual to see if they might qualify for federal

The ACA would require states to expand Medicaid coverage but according to the Supreme Court, no state can be penalized if it chooses not to expand Medicaid coverage. This essentially makes the expansion optional. First, you need to understand that Medicaid is a program which provides health care to low-income individuals. The state and federal government share the cost, with the feds having oversight of the program. If we were to take part in the Medicaid expansion, the federal government would pick up 100 percent of the cost for covering the additional people for the first three years. After the first three years, the federal government would pay less of the cost forcing the state to pay more. Governor Heineman has been adamant in his refusal to expand Medicaid based on what it could end up costing the state, and possibly taking funding away from other programs. I agree with the Governor on this issue. Please keep in mind that whether it is federal money or state money, it all comes from the same place, you,

The state is required to submit a blueprint for our state-based ex-Governor Heineman is looking for public input. As always, if we can be of any assistance, contact our office at (402) 471-2716 or e-mail dbloomfield@leg.ne.gov.

Eating together as family a challenge

School is in full swing, which can dren eat together, children tend gether with a busy schedule. Why is important for children to eat meals together as a family? Children benefit emotionally and physically from eating meals together. A large national study of American teenagers found a strong link between regular family meals, academic success and a positive self-image. In addition, rates of alcohol use, drug use, early sexual behavior, and suicidal risks are lower when families eat meals

What is Agency Relationship? Agency

Relationship is defined as "where the client is represented by the agent and the agent acts on the clients behalf."

Wendy Vawser

A client is someone who is represented in writing by an agent. A customer is an unrepresented party. So exactly how does this affect you? You have a right to know whom, if anyone is actually representing you. By knowing this, you can control at least your side of confidentiality and fairness. When it comes time to negotiate money and terms, you want to know that you have someone with your interests at heart and not one agent trying to help both sides.

The Nebraska Real Estate Commission's form, (Disclosure of Brokerage Relationships) is a form that the commission requires all agents, clients and customers to fill out and sign at the earliest significant moment. This document states who is being represented and who is not. So know who is on your side, it will benefit you in the long run!

The form also details the duties of an agent who is representing a client and I will talk about these duties in my next column.

Tell me what you think about agency relationships. You can email questions and comments to: Wendy@mwlco.net.

Problem solving

Today's family life is often too busy for some families to make time to sit down together at mealtime. Families that work different ships may find it more challenging to find time to eat together. Here are some tips to help you find time to share

- Set a regular family mealtime. This will give your child a better chance to eat a variety of foods. If dinner doesn't work for your fam- ily meal. If it's impossible to eat ily, try making breakfast the fam- together everyday, set aside specific ing247.org/index.html.

 Make preparation simple and quick. Simple meals can taste as good as meals that take longer to prepare. This also give you more time to spend together as a family.

- Enjoy meal talk. Make easy conversation, don't nag or complain. Allow everyone a chance to talk.

- Keep mealtime short. A child needs enough time to eat, but sitting patiently for a long time is too much to expect. If kids get fussy, your family meal won't be fun.

Love having overnight guests

I came home from the NU volleyball game on Thursday eve to find Jon in my easy chair! He's not real good about alerting us when he will be around. He went from KC to Nebraska City to watch Dani play softball, slept here, went to Omaha to their branch office on Friday morning, and then to Norfolk that evening to see Myles play football for Lutheran High Northeast.

Fine with me; I try to keep clean sheets on the bed downstairs. Plus, he solved a shower problem in that bathroom by putting on a new shower head. I could not believe how many people have used that shower in the last year without telling me that the flow was greatly reduced!

Also, on Friday, the husband of a friend who restores vinyl floors came over and worked on our floor in the kitchen. It's shiny again!

This friend is a fellow nurse who lives in an area of Lincoln called Autumn Wood; where everyone is older than 55 and there are no steps into the homes. They have a neat house, but only one bedroom. And between them, they have six children! I think that's kind of like saying "Don't plan to bunk here" or admits that.

My aunt June was like that; on the farm, they had a huge upstairs with several beds and we were overnight guests there more than once. tion, but we can usually accommo-There was an extra bedroom on the first floor, too. ironing board, and storage.

I grew up in a house with no spare bedrooms. If adults came to stay, we kids were relegated to a "studio couch" in the living room. Ever since I was married, I've enjoyed houses with lots of bedrooms. I love it when I can put up extra folks! Obviously, that led to a bed and breakfast.

But, even now, in our much smaller abode, we have an extra bed in the "office", a queen size in the basement, and a hide a bed in the big room in the basement. And they do get used! We love having overnight guests. Washing sheets are no big deal with a washer and dryer and perma press. Cleaning bathrooms are not quite so fun, but not that tough, either. Great conversations have been held over our breakfast table. We are expecting guests for the football game on the 22nd, and the nurse who has to be on call periodically will be here the 23rd.

It is best if you have a reservadate you! Even my mom had a hide a bed in her retirement apartment. You never know who will need a

"bring an air mattress." She kind of just for the sewing machine, the Or gullibility, I don't know which! Adjustments for next year's pasture leases may be needed

The following article by Allan Vyhnalek, Extension Educator in Platte County may be of interest to

One of the harder phone calls to deal with this past month was from a land owner that was concerned that the tenant left their cattle on a pasture too long given the drought and the pasture was turned into a 'road'. The landlord was willing to take less rent and get the cattle off. The tenant, whom had a lease valid until Oct. 20, was unwilling to take the cattle off early, as this means that they'd need to start feeding the cattle with expensive hay.

It is easy to see how this is difficult for both parties. Everyone understands that leaving the cattle on the pasture too long reduces the long-term health of the pasture. The pasture will basically take a lot longer to recover if it has been severely overgrazed.

The easier way to handle this situation in the future is to include a clause in your written pasture lease for dry conditions. When it is too dry to continue using a pasture, the tenant should be required to take the animals out. In addition, the rent owed should be adjusted lower,

Other important clauses should be considered. What if there is a severe hail? What if the pasture burns in a fire? The clause for drought should probably be expanded to include these two disaster situations

In addition, it seems to me that discussions should occur about when grazing starts next year. If we get adequate rain and grass starts normally then this is a moot point. But if it doesn't rain, or if the grass is slow starting because of over grazing in 2012, delaying the start of grazing should be a reasoned apmet on Sunday, Sept. 9 at the Methproach for 2013 management of the odist Church. pasture. The rent owed should also be adjusted accordingly.

In most situations, the livestock utes were reviewed by Kayla Janke, drinking water is not an issue. But a clause should also be added to include provisions for livestock water if the water source goes dry.

Another possibility based on this year's drought, is that pastures which receive moisture could become over-run with weeds. This would never be a problem when the pasture is grazed appropriately. However, when that thatch canopy is opened, seeds which have been in the ground for years now start to grow. A discussion about the expense of weed control is appropri-

Mayor Chamberlain proclaimed the month of September as "Stand for the Silent" month.

Wes Blecke, Executive Director of Wayne Area Economic Development, provided the Council with the six-month LB 840 update.

requested that Ord. 2012-38 be pulled from the agenda. This ordinance was to extend the hours of sale of alcoholic liquor on Thursday, November 1st. The Ordinance died for lack of a motion Discussions took place in regard to amending the municipal code to allow Councilmembers who get employed by the City to complete or finish their current term in office with the approval of a majority of Council. A councilmember has accepted a position with the City whose term expires in December. This change would give the Council the ability to say whether or not the Councilmember can or cannot finish a term on a case-by-case basis. The reason for this is that there is the potential for an elected official to get employed right after an election.

Council consensus was to have staff prepare an ordinance amending the Wayne Municipal Code for Council consideration at the next APPROVED:

In recognition of National Farm Safety & Health Week, September 16-22, our local businesses remind you to stay safe year-round by following these basic tips:

- •Don't allow "extra riders" on farm vehicles, and never let children ride as passengers.
 - · Always look behind you before starting or backing up farm machinery, especially when children are present.
 - · Maintain machinery regularly, with particular attention to protective shields, rollover protectors and seat belts.
 - Keep chemicals and pesticides safely locked up and out of children's reach, and always follow label instructions when using these materials.
- •Know basic first aid, CPR and emergency response procedures. Make sure everyone on the farm knows these procedures as well.
- ·When not using tractors, always make sure they are disengaged by shutting off the power, locking brakes and removing keys from the ignition before dismounting.

Avoid wearing loose clothing that could become entangled with moving equipment parts.

· Some areas should be off-limits to children. These include grain bins, silos, manure lagoons, pesticide storage areas, animal pens and roadways where there is frequent equipment travel.

> • Wear protective clothing or sunscreen when working for prolonged periods in the sun. A hat will also help provide sun protection.

·Lift heavy items with your legs rather than your back, and avoid steep slopes when moving heavy equipment.
