New signs in Wayne could welcome newcomers

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

The community of Wayne could soon have new signs welcoming visitors to Wayne following discussion at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council. Lukas Rix and Melissa Urbanec, representing the Wayne Area Economic Development Marketing Committee, presented information to the council on new "Welcome to Wayne" signs for the community. The foam signs would replace the aging, faded signs located at each entrance to the city. Photos of similar signs in Pender, Lyons and Oakland were viewed, and discussion was held on the benefits and costs of the signs, which will be 8 feet-by-11 feet and 30 inches deep. Council member Dale Alexander questioned what the signs do for the community. Rix told the council that the current signs are "stagnant" and Urbanec said "We want to welcome people to the community. The ones we have now are not inviting." Council member Kaki Ley, who has been a part of the committee working to design the new signs, said "I think it is important that we have these signs to welcome people to the community." Cost of the four signs, including the cement base and landscaping, is estimated at $30,290. The agenda item was for discussion purposes and no action was taken. It will be brought before the council again in the future. Following discussion, the council voted to approve allocation of $25,000 in the form of a grant and $75,000 in the form of a no-interest loan to Rainbow World Child Care Center for an expansion project. Wes Blecke, representing the LB840 Advisory Committee, told the council that the Rainbow World Board had requested a $100,000 grant, but after discussion by the Advisory Committee, that request was amended to a $25,000 grant and a $75,000 low-interest loan. Alexander made a motion to provide a $25,000 grant and $75,000 in a zero-percent loan. The motion was approved. Also approved was a request to amend the Wayne Housing Incentive Program to include a $5,000, three-year, zero-percent interest loan for renovation of multi-unit housing in the community. Paul Lindner, who brought the item to the council, told the council that there are a number of rental properties in the community that could benefit from the request. A stop sign will be placed on Sixth Street at the approach to Tomar Drive, near the Wayne Fire Hall. It was noted that, with recent building projects in the area, there is increased traffic, making the stop sign necessary for the safety of those in the area. Following action taken as the Community Development Agency and a public hearing, the council passed

Keenan battling Type II diabetes; fundraiser at Armory on Oct. 28

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

Approximately eight years ago, following surgery on a sore toe, Les Keenan found out he had Type II diabetes. For the most part, since that time the Winside native has been relatively healthy, managing the diabetes with pills and a controlled diet. He noted that he lost a sister to complications from diabetes so has been carefully monitoring his health. However, early this summer, he developed a blister on his left foot that wouldn't heal. A visit to his doctor and a blood test revealed a large amount of infection, which had spread to his blood. "On July 30, I had a doctor's appointment with the specialist, and by 5 p.m. that day I was in the hospital in Sioux City. The next day, I had surgery on my leg to remove the infection. They cleaned the area out and left the wound open. On Aug. 2 I had a second surgery on my leg," Keenan said. He was hospitalized until Aug. 5, when he returned to Wayne and began a five-week course of antibiotic treatment. A pic line was put in and the antibiotic was administered twice a day at Providence Medical Center. The treatment involved up to three hours each morning and several more each evening. The medication also made him very nauseous. "I lost 25 pounds since July because, for a long time, food did not taste

Judge, county board discuss future of paper in storage

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

It's not often that a soon-to-be retiree offers to clean up the accumulation of paper his office has generated on his way out the door. District Judge Robert Ensz, who is retiring at the end of this month, spoke with the Wayne County Commissioners on Tuesday about dealing with the massive amount of paper he has in storage at the county courthouse, the result of thousands of cases he has heard and made judgments on during the course of his career as a district court judge. Ensz came to Wayne County in 1991 and has served the seven-county district since then, and he talked with the county board about the paper he has in storage at the courthouse. "Judge Warren, before me, and I have both kept files in our cases, because sometimes when you sentence somebody, they come back two years or five years later, and some guys I've sentenced three or more times," he said. "You'd like to be able to look up the old files, and I've kept files on most of the cases." Ensz said whoever the new judge is, in all likelihood, won't have a need for all those notes and paper Ensz has stored away, and with the possible need for additional space for the county at some point down the road, he offered to help the county remove the paper from storage. "I don't think there's anything confidential in the files, other than exhibits that would need to be saved," he said. "It's just a lot of paper, and I'm thinking about what is the best way to deal with it." Ensz said there were 7-8 file cabinets full of paper, and numerous banker boxes that are filled to the top with paper. He estimated that more than a ton of paper would need to be dealt with. He told the board he could leave the paper there until a need for the space arose, the paper could be dumped in a landfill or it could be recycled. "You could load it up and dump it, I suppose, but that wouldn't be a very green idea," he said. Board member Kelvin Wurdeman agreed, adding, "I don't know if you'd want all that paper floating around (in the dump)." Wurdeman and board chairman Jim Rabe both suggested bringing a recycling truck to the courthouse at some point during the winter and take advantage of the slow time the county employees would have during that period to help move the paper out of storage and into a recycling truck. "We could do it this winter when we have some down time, and if we can get the truck on site, we could have our guys carry it out to the truck and do it all in one shot," Wurdeman said. Ensz, who will retire Oct. 31, said he won't be leaving town anytime soon. "It's really not something that needs to be done today or tomorrow. It's something I could help out with even after I officially retire," he said. In other board action, the county: - heard a report from emergency manager Nic Kemnitz on the need for securing

Expand Your Horizon Program continues at Wayne Public Library

"Glad You Asked" is the theme of the Wayne Public Library's fall program series, "Expand Your Horizon." The program is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 22 from 6:30-8 p.m. at the Wayne Senior Center.

During the third and final session, a panel will answer questions about Wayne city ordinances. Marlen Chinn from the Wayne Police Department and other city representatives will chair this session, fielding questions about parking issues, barking dogs, weeds, snow removal, etc. Many city ordinances are complaint driven, and this question/answer program is designed to answer concerns the people of Wayne may have about these issues.

This session is not meant to be a complaint forum, but a way for people to understand who to call and hear details on how complaints are resolved. If you have questions you would like addressed during the session, send an e-mail to rmclean@cityofwayne.org or send a note to the library by mail or in person.

Light refreshments will be served and there will be time for discussion, questions and answers each evening. For additional information call Rita, (402) 375-3135.

Warmer climate threatens Nebraska's water resources

By BENJAMIN WELCH
Nebraska News Service

LINCOLN - Things are about to start heating up.

So say a panel of five environmental scholars and professionals, who presented "Climate Change and Nebraska: What Does Our Future Hold?" recently at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln to warn of the dangers of a potential four-to-10 degree temperature increase in the state.

The speakers examined the scientific evidence for climate change, the impact this could have on the future and the steps that can be taken to assuage it.

Robert Oglesby, a professor of Earth and Atmospheric Sciences at UNL, said after considering all the factors, the one that is the cause for most alarm in Nebraska is the reduction of snowpack in the Rocky Mountains.

"We need that steady release of water due to the slow, steady melt of the snow in the spring through early summer to maintain river flow of the Platte," Oglesby said.

Song Feng, of the School of Natural Resources at UNL, offered a study into the effect droughts have had in the United States and the likelihood of their continuation in the future.

"The drought will become the normal condition by the end of the century," Feng said.

From 1980-2011, $195 billion in damage from 16 droughts has been amassed in the U.S., with an average damage cost of about $12 billion. This year's drought in the Midwest has cost $30 billion.

Adam Liska of the Department of Agronomy and Horticulture explained the ramifications of sea-level rise. The first ice-free arctic in likely 800,000 years could be possible by 2030-37. Four to six meters of ocean are expected to rise somewhere in the next 100-300 years, which will sink portions of Florida.

Record rainfall in some areas of the nation has caused expensive and destructive flooding.

"Everything's connected in this world," Liska said. "Climate change that goes on elsewhere in that region has tremendous impact on us." It's not all bad news, though. Changes in habits and regulation could curtail an otherwise unwelcome forecast.

Duane Hovorka, the executive director of the Nebraska Wildlife Federation, said making efficient energy a top priority could help save the environment.

According to an example Hovorka derived from the Rocky Mountain Institute, 80 to 90 percent of energy could be reliably derived from wind, solar and new gas efficiencies by 2050.

Therefore, at the same or less cost than being used today, America could achieve advances in reducing greenhouse gases and provide reliable energy.

"Human beings can be the solution. And we have to be the solution," Hovorka said. "It's up to us.

We can do it with current technology . . . We don't need magic."

Liska's data supported that view. He noted that oil demand by 2025 can drop by 50 percent with new breakthroughs in energy efficiency coupled with biofuels. Global energy could be reduced by 73 percent when utilizing vehicles like the Volkswagen X11, which achieves approximately 250 miles per gallon.

Currently, Nebraska's plan for the future isn't quite up to par with Hovorka's standards. He said the state's 20-year plan is to continue running coal plants, increase wind power by 10 percent and make modest investments in efficiency, even though the state will need 28 percent more power in 20 years than we have today.

"If you add these things together, there are opportunities," he said. "We can do this in Nebraska. But it's not blind hope; it's hope through action."

Open house on NPPD's Hoskins substation Oct. 23

Two open houses will be hosted by Nebraska Public Power District next week concerning the development of a route for a new 345,000-volt transmission line between the district's Hoskins substation located east of Norfolk in Stanton County, west to the Neligh area. The site for the new substation at Neligh has not been determined.

The line will enhance reliability of the transmission system, provide a high capacity line to north-central Nebraska, reduce existing system congestion to allow for better utilization of our generation resource mix, and provide for further wind development in the state.

The first open house, which will focus on a study area, is set for Tuesday, Oct. 23, from 2-8 p.m. at Northeast Community College's Lifelong Learning Center, located at 801 E Benjamin Ave., Norfolk. A second open house will be Thursday, Oct. 25, at the American Legion Building located at 115 W. Third in Neligh, also from 2-8 p.m. A complete visit of the various project information stations will take about 45 minutes to an hour to complete.

Landowners in the study area have been sent invitations to attend either of these two open house events. NPPD officials noted that no routes have been determined at this time. At the open houses in Norfolk and Neligh, NPPD will collect information from landowners on land use, pivots, wells, planned facilities, residences, and other information. Each landowner will have the opportunity to identify this information and have it recorded into a GIS system that will be used in developing potential corridors for the lines.

Additional information will be available on the need for the project, the route selection process, right-of-way activities, easement compensation, engineering, and environmental considerations.

The open house is one phase of NPPD's comprehensive public involvement process that is used on its transmission line projects. To develop line routes for the project, NPPD will meet extensively with the public to obtain comments and other valuable information needed for the route-siting/decision making process, beginning with the public open house sessions.

The upcoming round of open houses is the first of four rounds of public informational meetings NPPD plans to host.

For more information or questions regarding the open house, contact project communications coordinator Jill Novicki at (888) 677-3412.

At left, the drum majors, color guard and band members gathered on the field to await the results of the competition. This year's marching season will come to an end on Saturday, Oct. 20 when the band travels to Lincoln to march at Seacrest Field. A total of 125 students are part of this year's varsity marching band. Additionally, a number of students in cadet band travel to the marching competitions to assist with set up and take down of equipment before and after each performance.

Band gets superior rating at Schuyler, preparing for final performance at state

On Oct. 13 the Wayne High School "Pride of the Blue Devils" Marching Band traveled to Schuyler and participated in the Schuyler Central High School Marching Band Festival.

At this event there were a total of 11 Class C, B and A marching Bands. The Blue Devil Marching Band received a "Superior" rating and trophy, the Blue Devil Color Guard received the "Best Overall Color Guard" of the entire festival and trophy, and the Wayne Marching Band was awarded the "Best in Class B" trophy of the day.

"Thank you to Jeryl Nelson and Terry Bear for driving and loading and unloading the equipment vans that pull the equipment trailers. Thank you to Wayne Middle School band director Carrie Jensen for all her help with the band, the equipment and pit percussion. A special thank you to all the wonderful people who volunteered to be bus sponsors to and from Schuyler. The Wayne band would not have been able to attend this event without all their help. All their time, effort and support are greatly appreciated, way more than they can realize," band director Brad Weber said.

On Oct. 17, the Wayne Marching

Band was scheduled to participate in the WSC Cavalcade of Marching Bands Festival held at Cunningham Field on the Wayne State College Campus.

On Oct. 18, the Blue Devil Marching Band will perform at halftime for the home Wayne High School varsity football game. Band members are to be at Wayne State's Cunningham Field at Memorial stadium by 6:30 p.m. in their full marching band uniform. Band students are responsible for transporting their music and the instrument they play to and from the game.

On Saturday, Oct. 20, the Wayne

Marching Band will participate in their final marching band contest of the season. The NSBA State Marching Band Festival will be held at Seacrest Field in Lincoln. The performance is at 6 p.m., and will depart from the high school at approximately 12:15 p.m.

Many adult bus sponsors are needed for this trip to Lincoln to make it possible for the band to attend this event. If you would like to volunteer for this trip, please call Weber at Wayne High School, (402) 375-3150.

Wayne High School Art students Brittany Cudabeck and Samantha Glassmeyer painted trees on one of the walls at the Tenderheart Animal Sanctuary in preparation for the Open House of the facility. The wall will also have 'perches' for the cats to sit on. The work done by the girls was an extra project they took on, outside of regular class activities.

Progress continues on animal rescue shelter

More than a year of planning, building and fundraising have taken place since ground was broken on the Tenderheart Animal Rescue and next week an open house will celebrate the completion of the building.

Located six miles north of Wayne, and three-quarters of a mile east, Tenderheart Animal Rescue will conduct an open house on Tuesday, Oct. 23 from 5-8 p.m. The public is invited to tour the facility.

The 30 foot-by-45 foot building will be a temporary home to unwanted animals.

Renee Jacobsen, who is among those organizing Tenderheart Animal Rescue, has already taken in several animals while the shelter was being completed. She noted that the shelter will be large enough to allow for areas for cats and dogs, as well as an area for those considering adoption to spend time getting acquainted with their new pet. Kennel space has been constructed outside the building to allow for exercise for the animals.

Anyone wishing to learn more about Tenderheart Animal Rescue may do so by calling (402) 369-6030. Donations may be sent to 118 East Second Street, Wayne, Neb. 68787.

On Sept. 11, he visited with the infectious disease doctor in Sioux City and received a good report. However, another sore developed on his foot. On Oct. 11, he visited with his Sioux City doctor and it was found that a bone is protruding from the bottom of his foot.

An out-patient surgical procedure will be performed in the near future, and Keenan hopes that after that, he will be able to return to work.

"The days are getting very long. I am tired of watching re-runs," Keenan said.

He is grateful to family and friends who have provided help for him in the last three months and driven him to the hospital and numerous doctors' appointments.

Keenan, who has worked as a mechanic at Arnie's Ford Mercury since its opening in 1978, has not been able to work since July 19, and anticipates that it will be several more weeks before he is cleared by his doctors to return to work.

He co-workers and other friends in the community are organizing a benefit for him on Sunday, Oct. 28 at the Wayne National Guard Armory.

Pulled pork sandwiches will be served from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. Raffles will be held for a number of prizes that have been donated by local businesses and individuals.

Donations may be made to the Les Keenan Benefit at the First National Bank in Wayne.

Late rallies kill state hopes

Comebacks by Arlington, Fairbury send Wayne packing

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

HASTINGS – It's been said that the job is never complete until the work is all finished.

The same certainly holds true on the softball diamond, and it was Wayne's inability to finish off their opponents that ultimately led to the Blue Devils making an early trip home from the 2012 Nebraska Class C Softball Championships at the Smith Softball Complex.

Wayne had to rebound after giving up a six-run lead to survive its first-round matchup with Milford on Wednesday, then let leads get away late against eventual champion Arlington and third-place finisher Fairbury to see its hopes for a state title thwarted and have its season end with a 26-6 record.

"We didn't finish, and that's something that we talked about the last couple of weeks," a disappointed coach Rob Sweetland said after the Blue Devils' 7-6 loss to Fairbury in an elimination game Thursday afternoon. "They got the job done and we didn't."

The Blue Devils entered the tournament at the top seed in the eight-team double-elimination tournament, and early in Wednesday's opener against Milford, it looked like the Blue Devils were on course to show everybody why they were the top team in the tournament.

Wayne exploded for six runs in the second inning against the Eagles, but watched that lead evaporate quickly in the next two innings and actually had to come from behind and score three runs in the final two innings to outlast Milford, 9-8.

The Blue Devils got RBI doubles from McKenna Gibson and Hannah Gamble, and added RBI singles by Jalyn Zeiss and Victoria Kranz to post their big inning.

of the tournament, got in trouble in the third and fourth innings, as Milford responded with three runs in each frame to knot the game up at 6-6.

In the sixth, Milford used back-to-back RBI doubles to take an 8-6 lead and appeared to have seized control of the game. Wayne, however, scratched and clawed their way back in it, scoring a run in the bottom of the sixth when Lauren Gilliland started the rally with a single. Maddie Morris was put in as a courtesy runner and moved ahead on a Zeiss single. Both runners advanced on a stolen base, and Emily Leeper's groundout to second brought Morris home to make it 8-7.

Wayne had a chance to tie or take the lead after a walk to Gamble and Victoria Kranz was hit by a pitch, but Sydney Harris couldn't connect on a 2-2 pitch with the bases loaded and the Blue Devils entered the seventh trailing by a run.

In the seventh, Megan Hoffart led off with a walk and moved to second on a Gibson sacrifice. After Gilliland and popped up to third base, fresh-

Wildcats battle killer schedule

Almost a century ago, the New York Yankees put together a group of formidable baseball players known as "Murderers' Row."

The first six hitters in the Yankee lineup – Earle Combs, Mark Koenig, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bob Meusel and Tony Lazzeri – proved to be a nightmare for opposing teams who had to go up against the Yankees during the 1920's, prompting a sports writer of that era to refer to them by that notorious moniker.

The historical reference fits the team coached by Scott Kneif – a die-hard and unapologetic Yankees fan – quite well. Wayne State's volleyball team has been challenged with the 21st century equivalent of this famous lineup of sports terrorists this season, and they have proven to be up to the task of facing what has been, to say the least, an impressive lineup of nationally-ranked volleyball programs.

Over the years, the Northern Sun Conference has developed quite a reputation with the quality of its volleyball programs. In each of the last five years, the regional AND national champion in NCAA Div. II has been Concordia-St. Paul, but its coaches and players will tell you that winning the national title, by comparison, has been a heckuva lot easier for them than coming out of the meat grinder known as the NSIC.

In the month of October, this young Wildcats volleyball team has played six games, and four of them have been against teams who were ranked in the top 10.

Already this month, the Wildcats took No. 10 Minnesota State to five sets in Mankato, dropped a three-set match to the five-time defending national champions from St. Paul, rolled the last remaining unbeaten in former No. 1 Nebraska-Kearney and played then-No. 3 Duluth tough before losing at home.

On Tuesday, the Wildcats finished off a season sweep of a good Augustana team that was in contention for a spot in the ratings after upsetting Duluth over the weekend, and has also beaten Mankato. This weekend, they need to go on the road and play well against quality teams from Northern State and MSU Moorhead to maintain their spot in the upper half of the NSIC and keep their postseason hopes alive before their next three-game home stand.

Oh, and about that home stand – the three teams coming to town are current No. 4 Concordia, No. 13 Minnesota State and No. 1 Southwest Minnesota State. That's right – Wayne State will have played two No.1-ranked teams in a little more than three weeks' time and will have faced seven teams ranked in the top half of the nation in an 11-game period.

Boston Red Sox pitchers in the 1920's never had it THIS hard going into Yankee Stadium.

Mind you, Wayne State is no slouch in the Div. II volleyball hierarchy. This young team has been ranked in the bottom half of the AVCA coaches poll all season long, holding down the No. 18 spot this week while playing in a conference so tough that Winona State, a team that beat the Wildcats earlier in the season, is in fourth place in the conference standings, yet is unranked nationally (although I'm sure the fact they have only faced Southwest once and have yet to play Concordia or Mankato might have something to do with that).

But what's most impressive about this recent run of monster matchups is how well, in this observer's humble opinion, this young team has handled the heat being thrown at them by these volleyball titans.

The Wildcats lost a ton of senior talent from last year's squad that made the school's seventh consecutive trip to regionals. There were a lot of holes left to fill, and with the changing of the Central Region that replaced the RMAC with the MIAA and Great American conferences,

Wildcats knock off No. 1 UNK

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

You couldn't blame coach Scott Kneif and his Wayne State volleyball team if they were to run out of gas Tuesday at Rice Auditorium.

Playing four very good volleyball teams in a seven-day span is a tall order for any team, but the Wildcats rose up and finished off the recent home stand by winning their third game in a week's time with a four-set win over Augustana, winning 25-14, 18-25, 25-21, 25-23.

The Wildcats had to battle in the decisive fourth set, coming back from a 17-11 deficit and relying on some outstanding back row play from juniors Cori Hobbs and freshmen Courtney VanGronigen and Katie Hughes to finish off the week on a positive note.

"Our team showed a ton of character in fighting back," Kneif said after the Wildcats improved to 16-6 overall and 8-4 in the NSIC. "We got down 17-11 in the fourth and got on a run, and our defense sparked us down the stretch. Augie has already knocked off Mankato and Duluth, so to get a season sweep with them says a lot about our team."

Katie Hughes had a double-double on the night with 13 kills and 23 digs, while Melanie Placke had 11 kills. Alex Armes had eight kills and eight blocks, Courtney VanGronigen had 20 digs and six aces, and Leisa McClintock had 36 assists and six blocks.

Tuesday's win capped what was a very positive week for the Wildcats, which started with an electric upset Wednesday over then-undefeated and top-ranked Nebraska-Kearney. Playing before a charged-up

Three Blue Devils run their way to state

ALBION – Wayne High won't send a team to the state cross country meet for the first time in six years, but there will still be some Blue Devil uniforms on the course at the Kearney Country Club this week.

Three Wayne High runners qualified as individuals during the C-3 district meet Thursday at the Albion Country Club, finishing among the top 15 in their respective races to earn a trip to state Friday afternoon.

Cassie Heier and Angie Nelson both earned trips to state with their efforts in districts. Heier, who has led the Blue Devils for most of the season, finished third overall with a time of 15:55. Nelson punched her third ticket to state in as many tries, as the junior finished 14th in a time of 16:52.

On the boys side, sophomore Ben Hoskins earned an invite to state after posting a solid sixth place finish with a time of 16:52 to lead the Wayne High boys team.

"Cassie ran an excellent race," coach Rocky Ruhl said. "She did a super job running in the top five and making sure she got in there,

Four area runners earn state trips

WAUSA – Four area runners will represent their schools this week at the state cross country meet a-fish earning trips to Kearney via the D-4 district meet Thursday at Rolling Hills Country Club.

Three of the four runners will compete in the Class D girls race Friday afternoon, as Winside's Mackenzie Gray and Laurel-Concord/Coleridge runners Sadie Petersen and Sammie Camenzind all finished among the top 15 to earn the trip to state.

Freshman runner Aaron Haahr also earned a trip to state, as he was the only LCC boys runner to finish in the top 15 with a ninth-place finish Thursday afternoon.

Gray earned an 11th place medal at state last year, and she ran a solid race Thursday and is looking forward to competing on a more hill-oriented course at state, according to Winside coach Jennifer Kesting.

The Blue Devil boys placed eighth out of 11 full squads with 129 points. The host Cardinals (49), Columbus Scotus (55) and Arlington (56) nabbed the three team spots for the Class C boys competition.

"You always hope you can get the team in, but there was some tough competition in our district this year," Ruhl said. "It hurts not getting the team in, but hopefully we can get our younger runners to continue pushing through. With what we have coming back, I think we can improve and get a team back to state. The experience our young teams had this year and a good off-season should create some good things for us."

Winside netters play three tough matches

The Winside volleyball team went 1-1 at the Hartington Invitational and lost a close five-set match to Hartington in action Tuesday.

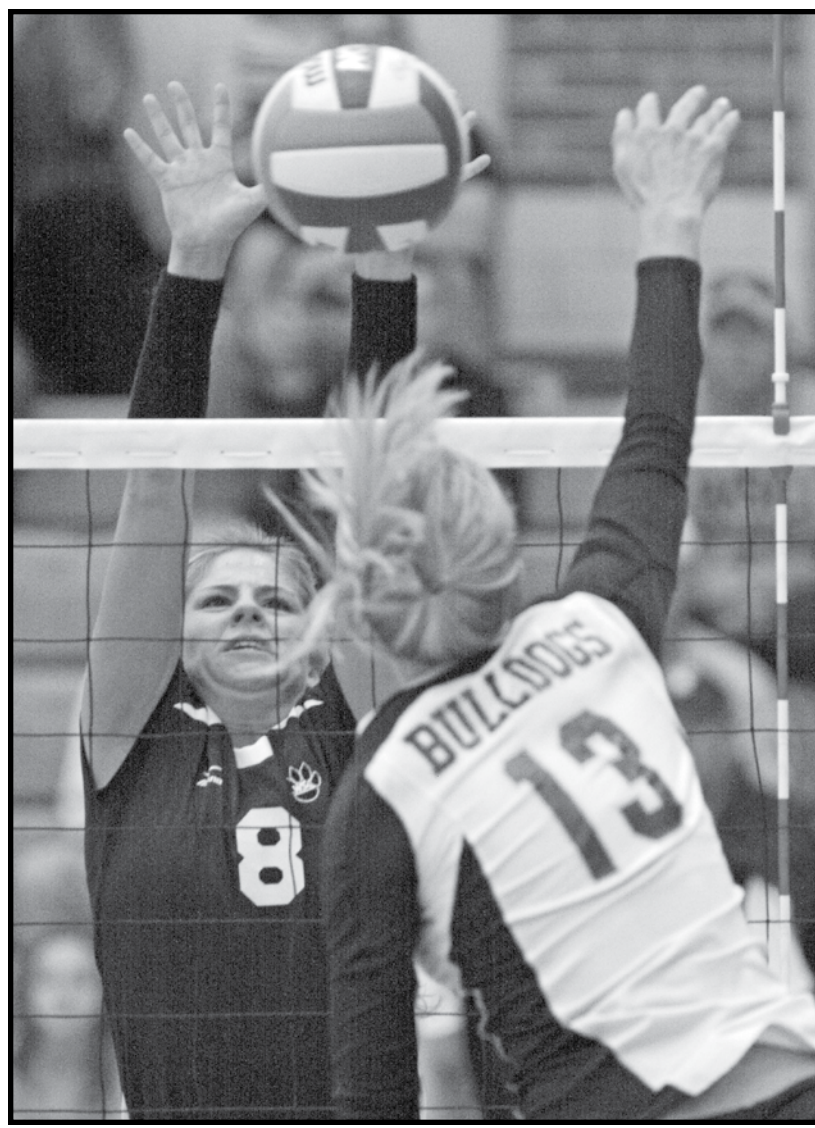

On Saturday, the Wildcats lost to Ponca in three sets, winning 25-6 before the Indians came back to win, 25-22, 25-22.

Nazya Thies led Winside with 13 kills and seven blocks, while Brittany Janke had five kills and Dana Doffin had five kills and three blocks. Shannon Gray had 27 assists, Thies had five ace serves and 13 digs, while the Gray sisters each had 10 digs and Jayd Roberts and Carly Schwager each added eight.

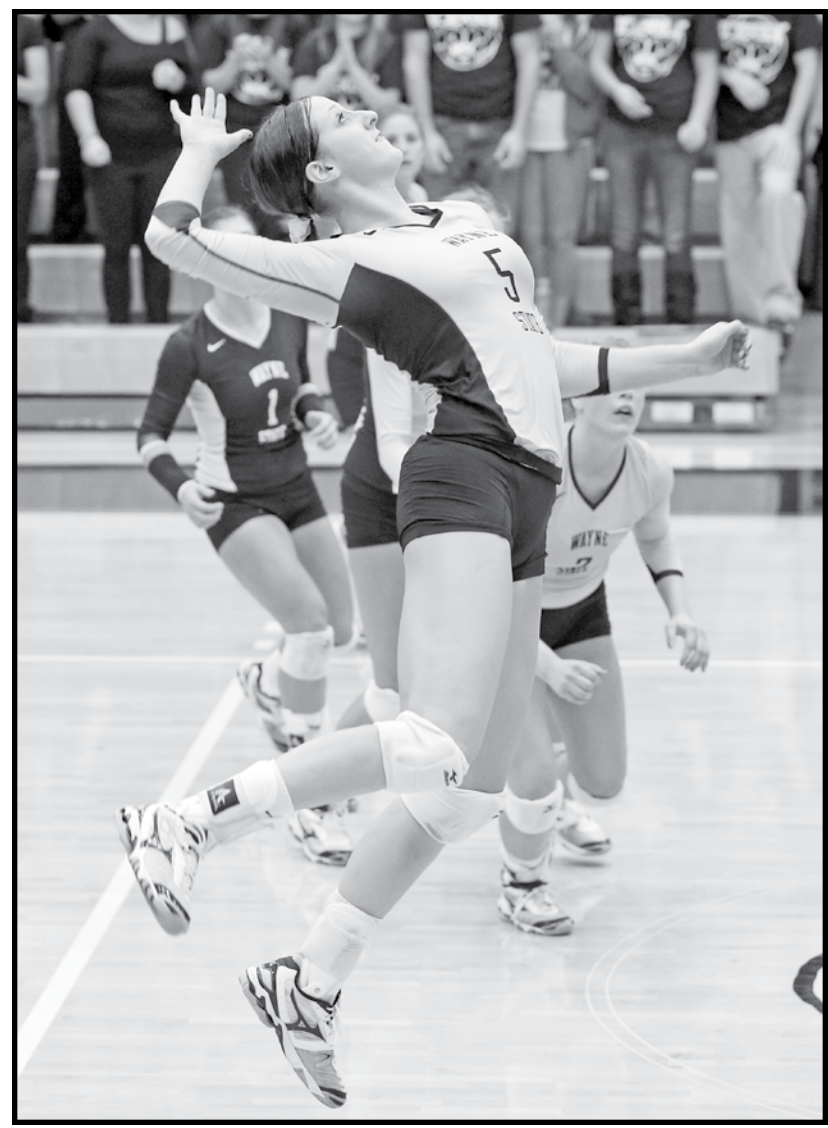

Winside beat Bancroft-Rosalie 28-26, 23-25, 25-12 in an exciting three-set matchup for third place.

Nazya Thies had 13 kills and eight blocks, Doffin added 11 kills and two blocks, Bridget Gray had seven kills and Janke had five kills and three stuffs. Shannon Gray had 29 assists, Thies had six ace serves and 13 digs, Roberts had a team-best 15 digs, while Schwager and Bridget Gray each had 14.

On Tuesday, the Wildcats lost at Hartington, losing 19-15, 26-24, 24-26, 25-23, 17-15. Nazya Thies had 26 kills, 12 blocks and 29 digs in a losing effort, while Doffin had five kills and nine blocks and Bridget Gray had 11 kills, three ace serves and 34 digs. Shannon Gray had 39 assists and 18 digs, Schwager had 27 digs and Roberts and Courtney Petzoldt each had eight digs.

crowd of more than 1,400 in Rice Auditorium, the Wildcats bounced back from a first-set defeat to roll the No. 1 Lopers in four sets, winning 16-25, 25-15, 25-15, 25-18.

"The crowd was great and it was electric," Kneifl said of the 1,411 in attendance to watch the last unbeaten team in the country go down at the hands of the Wildcats. "We came out a little flat the first set, but we stayed aggressive after that and the energy was out there and it was a great night."

Kearney had 18 kills in the first set, but the Wildcats matched that effort and were an amazing 14-of-15 in generating sideouts when the Lopers held serve.

"Our sideout percentage for the game was 93 percent, which is unheard of, especially against a team of their caliber," Kneifl said. "We served really aggressive and they really struggled passing the ball in system, which made for some great opportunities for us."

Wayne State carried that momentum after the second set for the rest of the evening, with Hobbs' 18 kills and 20 digs leading the team to victory. Placke had 12 kills, McClintock had 46 assists and Van-Gronigen and Hughes each had 17 digs, with Tatum Wroblewski adding 14.

Wayne State didn't need much time in disposing of a scrappy St. Cloud State team on Friday evening, handling the Huskies in a 25-18, 25-11, 25-17 triumph. Wayne State had 14 kills in the first set, forced the Huskies into 12 errors in the second set and encouraged another 12 errors in the final set to earn the sweep.

"We played really clean and came out and did some really good things," Kneifl said. "St. Cloud is a scary team. They're athletic and can do things to hurt you if you let them, and we never let them get into a flow."

Hobbs had 10 kills and nine digs to lead a balanced attack, while McClintock and Hughes each had seven kills. VanGronigen had 11 digs and Hughes added 10.

On Saturday, the Wildcats stumbled against third-ranked Minnesota Duluth, who rebounded from a Friday night upset at Augustana to sweep the Wildcats in Wayne, winning 25-21, 25-18, 25-23.

"We were up 17-15 in the first set and had some unforced errors, and great teams take advantage of

as well as the Titanic-like schedule this season, one could easily excuse this team from looking at continuing that string of postseason success.

This team will have none of that talk, though – five of its six starters are underclassmen, and only two seniors are in the lineup. Yet this team seems able to rise to just about any occasion and give that Murderer's Row of a schedule everything it wants. While most of us on the outside are looking at their postseason hopes, this team is able to keep its focus limited to the next game on the schedule and is playing well enough to keep the big goal of making it to the NSIC postseason tournament – and the national tournament – within reach.

Wayne State is in fifth place in the NSIC with eight games to go, and should be in the mix when the NCAA announces its first regional rankings two weeks from now. If the Wildcats continue to improve as they have this season and can handle this final stretch of what has been an overwhelmingly difficult schedule, the future will be very bright for this young team – and very scary for those who will have to face it down the road.

those," Kneifl said. "Duluth played extremely well, and I thought we maybe played a little uninspired. We didn't seem to have the same flow we had in the other two games, and Duluth has a quality team, no doubt about it."

Hobbs led Wayne State with 12 kills and 10 digs, Armes had nine kills and five blocks, VanGronigen had 14 digs and McClintock had 24 assists.

The Wildcats are on the road this weekend to face Northern State on Friday night and MSU-Moorhead on Saturday afternoon. They return home next weekend for a three-game set against three highly-ranked teams, including No. 1 Southwest Minnesota State, No. 4 Concordia-St. Paul and No. 13 Minnesota State.

Runners

"Mackenzie continues to run strong and aggressively," she said. "I am amazed at her natural running style and her ability to push when she really needs to. She stuck with the pack throughout the race and really increased her speed at the end to come in third. I am looking forward to seeing her run at Kearney, as she prefers running hilly course over flat ones like Bloomfield."

Gray will be joined by Petersen and Camenzind, both of whom ran at state last year and look to improve on last year's placings of 40th and 60th, respectively.

"Sadie and Sammie have been fun to coach," coach Megan Virgil said. "Both have worked extremely hard to be able to compete here at districts, and now we get to celebrate with a trip to Kearney."

Joining them will be Haahr, who likes to get out fast and ran a solid race to make it to state.

"Aaron just loves to get out there and run, so I knew he had a great chance to place (at districts)," Virgil said.

Neither school was able to qualify a team for state. The LCC boys were the closest, placing fifth out of 11 full teams. On the girls side, Winside was sixth out of 10 teams.

Cole McDaniel is hit by two Winona State defenders after catching a pass for the Wildcats during Saturday's 17-13 loss to the Warriors at Cunningham Field.

Late drive fizzles, Wildcats fall to Winona State, 17-13

Opportunities are hard to come by against a good football team, and Wayne State wasn't able to answer the door when it knocked.

The Wildcats led going into the fourth quarter, but Winona State scored 10 points in the final period and turned back a last-chance effort by the Wildcat offense to come away with a 17-13 win Saturday at Cunningham Field.

Wayne State had a number of golden opportunities to put the ball in the end zone in the first half, but had to settle for a pair of field goals and a frustrating turnover that came after Wayne State's special teams came up with a big play.

"We should have been ahead 21-7 at the half, but we couldn't convert those opportunities we had," coach Dan McLaughlin said. "The biggest sequence was when they snapped (the ball) over the punter's head and we got on it, and then we fumbled it right back to them."

"When you play a good team like Winona, you're only going to get so many chances. And when you don't take advantage of those chances, you're really going to hurt yourself," he added.

The Wildcats moved the ball fairly well in the first half and had two opportunities to find the end zone. A first-and-goal at the Warriors' 17-yard line looked to be a golden opportunity, but Winona's defense held and forced the Wildcats to settle for a 38-yard Max Martin field goal.

Late in the first period, a mishandled punt snap put Wayne State in fantastic field position near the Winona 20-yard line, but a fumble on their first play from scrimmage after the turnover resulted in Winona State regaining possession, and they were able to cling to a 7-6 lead at intermission.

"We were down there two times and had to kick field goals. You just can't let those opportunities get away against a good team like that," McLaughlin said.

The Wildcats did take advantage of an opportunity in the second half when Austan Pomajzl picked off a John Teigland pass at the Winona 40-yard line and ran 21 yards to the Warriors' 19. Two plays later, Charlie Davidson bowled in from seven yards away to give Wayne State a 13-7 advantage.

Winona State came back in the fourth quarter, however. A four-yard scoring run by Rayon Simmons - who became the Northern Sun Conference's all-time leading rusher after his 31-carry, 133-yard performance - and a 39-yard field goal by Jake Vercher made it 17-13 with 8:30 to go.

Wayne State drove down the field for the potential go-ahead score, but were unable to find the end zone. An illegal procedure penalty and a sack moved Wayne State back, and Winona State forced a turnover on downs and ran out the clock to seal the win.

"We had a first and 10 at their 22, and it just went backwards on us," McLaughlin said. "We had a nice opportunity at the end, and if we could have scored on that I think we win the game."

McLaughlin praised his team's defensive effort, which limited the Warriors to 314 yards in total offense, well under the more than 500 racked up last week in a loss at Southwest Minnesota State.

"I thought they played very hard and tackled a lot better than we did last week," he said. "The defense had a good day and played hard and put us in a position to be successful."

Quarterback Brian Kent, who split time with Nate Most, led the Wayne offense with 85 yards on 14 carries and 67 yards on 8-of-17 passing. Cole McDaniel led the receiving corps with 66 yards on five receptions.

Defensively, Nick Monzu led Wayne State with 12 tackles, while Jeff Pokorny added eight stops.

The Wildcats are 4-3 overall and will be on the road next weekend, visiting St. Paul, Minnesota for a 1 p.m. Northern Sun Conference game at Concordia-St. Paul.

Winside falls to Stuart, 46-8

WINSIDE - Winside's woes on the football field continued Friday, as visiting Stuart jumped on the Wildcats early and came away with a 46-8 triumph at Jim Winch Memorial field.

The Broncos, who are in the hunt for a playoff spot in Class D-2, got the scoring run going early on a 59-yard run by Alex Kunz. Kunz added another touchdown later in the period after Mitchell Dvorak scored on a 46-yard scamper.

The Wildcats couldn't slow down Stuart's ground game, which accounted for 248 yards on the day, led by Kunz's 156 yards on 17 carries. Stuart took a 32-0 lead into the locker room and added to their lead in the third period.

Winside avoided the shutout with a fourth-quarter touchdown, as Caleb Lienemann threw a 28-yard scoring strike to Levi Lange. Dylan Tweedy ran in the two-point conversion to make it 38-8 before the Broncos scored one final touchdown to seal the win.

Blue Devils fall in five

BATTLE CREEK - The Wayne High volleyball team locked up with Mid State Conference foe Battle Creek in what proved to be an exciting volleyball match on Thursday.

The two teams traded the momentum throughout the night, but the Bravettes were the last team holding it when all was said and done, and they came away with a five-set win over the Blue Devils, winning 19-25, 25-18, 26-28, 25-20, 15-11.

It was quite a battle throughout. The Blue Devils overcame their first-set struggles this season and were able to win the first set of the night before the Bravettes responded.

Both teams played very well in the third set, and the Blue Devils were able to hang on and take a 2-1 lead in the match. Wayne had their chances to close things out in the fourth set, but Battle Creek was able to force a deciding fifth set and hang on for the win.

Sydney Burke led three Blue Devils in double figures in kills with 15, while Madison Prevert added 12 and Lexi Sokol had 10. Sarah Maxon put down nine kills.

Emma Evetovich had 31 assists and Sydney McCorkindale added 17 in directing the offense. Meagan Backer had five ace serves, Prevert added three and Burke had two.

On defense, Jessica Biermann led Wayne with 25 digs, Backer had 20, Burke had 16 and Evetovich had nine.

The 13-12 Blue Devils host Hartington Cedar Catholic and O'Neill in a triangular Friday at Wayne High School.

Pender rolls Allen, 78-6

PENDER - Pender was just too much for Allen on Friday, as the Pendragons ran away with a 78-6 blowout win.

Five Allen turnovers in the first half helped the Pendragons race to a 36-0 halftime lead, and the Pendragons kept the throttle down in the second half to finish off the lopsided victory.

Allen, 1-6, avoided the shutout late in the fourth quarter when Brian Boese threw a 21-yard pass to Austin Connot. It was Boese's only pass completion of the night. Zach Crom was 5-of-19 passing for 45 yards, but threw three interceptions.

Offensively, Cole Stewart had 33 yards on 11 carries, Jake Stewart had 38 yards on 14 carries and Boese had 36 yards on 11 carries to lead the Eagle offense.

Defensively, Caleb Thomas had seven tackles, and Jordan Burke and Levi Madsen each had five.

yards in total offense. Lienemann rushed for 106 yards on 22 carries and was 2-of-7 passing for 26 yards. Gage Main rushed 17 times for 57 yards, while Tweedy had 11 yards on seven carries.

Defensively, Brian Greunke led the Wildcats with 8.5 tackles, Lienemann added six and Tweedy had 5.5 tackles. Garrett Watters picked up 4.5 stops and Main had four.

The Wildcats are 0-7 on the season, and close out the 2012 campaign at home Thursday with a matchup against Newcastle.

A Message from your State Senator

COMMON SENSE CONSERVATIVE PRO-LIFE

SENATOR DAVE BLOOMFIELD

LEGISLATURE 17TH DISTRICT

WHAT MAKES A LEGISLATOR EFFECTIVE?

Experience. This I have obtained. I was appointed midway through the term of a State Senator who no longer wanted the job. This was just weeks before session started. With a patient and loving wife, a dedicated staff and many late nights I "got my feet on the ground".

Cooperation. This I enjoy. With the help of fellow senators, I was able to "Prioritize" and help pass Senator Tony Fulton's LB 521 (an important pro life law) during my first year.

Wise bill selection. Some senators introduce a lot of bills, I do not. Every bill I introduced last year (there were only 3) is now law. This gives me a two year average of 75%. Each senator is allowed one priority bill each year, here I am at 100%.

Common sense. Most folks in Nebraska are blessed with this attribute. Some forget how to use it, a few have it "educated" away but most of us still try to use it. When appointing me, Governor Dave Heineman said "Dave is a common-sense Nebraskan". I hope you think so too.

Confidence of his constituents. This I need from you in the form of your vote on November 6th.

Allen netters outlast Winside

WINSIDE – Allen outlasted Winside in an exciting four-set volleyball match Thursday at Winside High School, edging the Wildcats 25-22, 25-20, 27-29, 25-17.

Allen looked poised to dominate the first set, thanks to kills by Courtney Rueter and Vanessa Klug that helped stake the Lady Eagles to a 23-17 advantage.

Winside would make a game of it, with Dana Doffin and Nazya Thies both putting down kills to help pull Winside within 23-21 before a kill by Brittany Sullivan and Klug ended the first set.

Winside got out to a 3-0 lead early on a kill and ace serve by Carly Thies and a Nazya Thies kill, but Allen responded by going on a 12-4 run to lead 12-7. Kills by Sullivan and Rachel Finnegan helped fuel the rally, which carried Allen to the two-set advantage. Winside was one point away from being swept before mounting a late comeback. Nazya Thies blocked an Allen attack to tie the third game at 24-24, and Allen fought off two set points before a Nazya Thies kill and an Allen hitting error ended the game.

Allen came out and dominated the final set, jumping out to a quick 12-4 lead and pulling away from there. Winside got as close as seven points at 21-14 after a Bridget Gray kill, but Allen was able to hang on for the four-set win.

Lindsey Jones had 16 kills, Brittany Sullivan added 15 and Klug had 10 for the winners. Lindsey Sullivan had 31 assists, Brittany Sullivan and Candice Rastede each had five ace serves and Jones had two blocks. Lindsey Sullivan had 21 digs, Brittany Sullivan added 15 and Jones and Rastede each had 13. For Winside, Nazya Thies had 25 kills and 10 blocks, Brittany Janke added 12 kills, Carly Thies had five and Gray and Doffin each had four. Shannon Gray had 35 assists, while Jayd Roberts added eight. Doffin had four blocks, Nazya Thies led the Wildcats defensively with 24 digs, while Bridget Gray had 18, Roberts had 17, Carly Schwager had 11 and Shannon Gray had 10.

Wakefield wins two over E-H

Wakefield handled Emerson-Hubbard twice in the past week, sandwiching wins over the Pirates around a three-set loss to Hartington Cedar Catholic.

On Thursday, the Trojans took care of Emerson-Hubbard on the road in four sets, winning 25-16, 22-25, 25-21, 25-16.

Lauren Lehmkuhl had a huge night at the net, posting a career-high 30 kills to go along with 18 digs defensively. Tianna Gnat had 12 kills and 10 digs and Emily Puls had 10 kills and three blocks. Sydney Rose directed the offense with 49 assists and also had 17 digs on the night.

On Tuesday, the Trojans dropped a three-set decision to host Hartington Cedar Catholic, 25-13, 20-25, 25-15, but rebounded to post their second win over the Lady Pirates in a week's time, winning 25-19, 25-20. Statistics and highlights from the game were not available at press time.

Wakefield will be one of the host teams for the Lewis and Clark Conference tournament that starts Monday. They will face Bloomfield in the first round Monday at 5 p.m.

Lady Bears 1-2 in area matchups

Laurel-Concord/Coleridge came away with a straight-set win on the road last week before falling in three sets at home in a pair of NE-NAC matchups.

Last Tuesday, Oct. 9, the Lady Bears made easy work of Elkhorn Valley in Tilden, sweeping the Falcons, 25-10, 25-16, 25-18.

Kiley Thompson led a balanced attack with nine kills, while Audra Corbit had five, Kelsey Dietrich had four and Erin Gubbels and Ellie Arduser each had three. Cameron Eddie had 22 assists, Gubbels had four ace serves, Eddie had three aces and Arduser had six digs.

"The team played to win throughout the match, and we served aggressively and kept them out of their system," coach Patti Cunningham said.

On Thursday, the Lady Bears were swept by visiting Neligh-Oakdale, as the Warriors came away with a 25-18, 27-25, 25-17 win. Thompson had six kills, Dietrich added five and Corbit and Gubbels both had three. Eddie had 16 assists, Corbit had four blocks, Dietrich added three, Gubbels had 14 digs and Thompson added 10.

On Tuesday, Ponca defeated LCC, winning 25-16, 23-25, 25-16, 25-18.

"We needed to be much more aggressive and consistent," Cunningham said. "The stats show we could score against Ponca, but we continued to make too many costly errors that disrupted our momentum and rhythm."

The Lady Bears were led by Corbit with 10 kills and five blocks, while Gubbels, Thompson and Dietrich each added eight kills. Eddie had 37 assists and Dietrich and Arduser had 12 and 11 digs, respectively, for the 8-17 Lady Bears.

Wayne State's Norma Volkmer (16) battles Jessica Parker of Minot State for control of the ball during Saturday's matchup. The visiting Beavers came away with a 1-0 win.

Wayne State soccer team falls to Minot State, U Mary

A Minot State crossing pass 3:05 into the contest bounced off a Wayne State defender into the Wildcat goal for the lone goal of the contest, giving the Beavers a 1-0 win over Wayne State College in college soccer action Saturday at the Wayne State Soccer Complex.

Wayne State had several scoring chances in the contest, but Minot State goalkeeper Marie Torres made eight saves to give the Beavers the shutout win. The Wildcats held a 15-11 advantage in shots on goal over the Beavers, including 8-6 in shots on goal.

Sophomore forward McKenna Adams led Wayne State with six shots, including three on goal, while Norma Volkmer notched three shots, all on goal. Freshman Courtney True made five saves while allowing one goal in the hard-luck loss.

On Sunday, the University of Mary used the wind to their advantage by scoring four first-half goals in a 4-1 win over the Wildcats.

The Marauders scored in the first minute of the match when Arika Westbee blasted a 30-yard shot that hit the bottom of the crossbar and went into the goal. The Marauders scored again near the eight-minute mark as Alex Bachman-Williams found the back of the net from the top of the box. Mary would add two more goals later in the half to take a 4-0 advantage.

Wayne State had the wind in the second half and scored in the 69th minute, as Adams notched her sixth goal of the season with an assist from Makenzie Evans.

Mary held a 14-11 edge in shots over the Wildcats, including 8-6 in shots on goal. Adams led Wayne State with four shots, while Mallory Hoyt had three shots with two on goal. True made four saves in a losing effort.

Wayne State, 1-12-1 overall and 1-9-1 in the NSIC, will be at home again this weekend, hosting Upper Iowa Saturday and Winona State Sunday in a pair of 1 p.m. matches.

Scouts shut out Wayne, 2-6 Blue Devils still in playoff hunt

DAVID CITY – Two teams in the hunt for a playoff spot knocked heads Friday, but Wayne was the only one knocked dizzy from the collision.

David City took a 24-0 halftime lead, thanks in part to an interception return for a touchdown, and held the Blue Devils to 161 yards in total offense to post a 36-0 shutout Friday at Memorial Field.

"David City was able to shut down our offense, and they didn't allow us to establish any type of rhythm in the game," coach Terry Bear said as his team fell to 2-6 on the season.

The Scouts opened the scoring on a nine-yard run by Austin Havlena, and the defense scored the first of its two times by picking up a safety late in the first period.

Havlena scored on another touchdown run, and a Jalen Barry pass was picked off and returned for a score, giving the home team a 24-point halftime edge.

"Their defense put good pressure on up front and were able to contain Jalen for most of the night," Bear said.

Bear felt his defense played fairly well, but just couldn't hold off the David City attack.

"It was tough on our defense. They were on the field the majority of the night, and they did have some nice stops, but it was a tough night for our team," Bear said.

The Blue Devils are still mathematically alive for a playoff spot, and will close out the regular season at home against perennial Class C-1 power Norfolk Catholic at Cun-man Danica Schaefer nursed a two-out walk to put the winning run at first base. Zeiss responded, taking a 1-1 pitch the opposite way down the right field line, bringing Hoffart and Schaefer home with the deciding runs.

"I told the girls I had all the confidence in the world (in them)," coach Rob Sweetland said after the game. "The girls just stuck with it and believed they could do it."

Zeiss was 3-for-5 with three RBI's in the win, while Gamble added two hits and Hoffart scored two runs.

"We came out well, and they started hitting the ball and it was an up-and-down game, and the girls just stuck with it," Sweetland said.

Thursday's matchup with Arlington turned into a defensive battle. Both teams used the windy conditions to hit solo home runs, with Kranz delivering her shot in the top of the second inning to tie the game at 1-1.

Wayne took a 2-1 lead in the third when Schaefer doubled and scored on a Leeper single, but Arlington answered with a run in the bottom of the inning to tie the game at 2-2.

Wayne got a good rally going in the sixth when Leeper led off with a double and Gamble reached on an error, putting runners at second and third with nobody out. Wayne was only able to plate one run, however, as a Harris fielder's choice brought Leeper home to make it 3-2.

Arlington combined small-ball infield hits with a game-changing grand slam homer in the bottom of the sixth, tagging Gibson for seven runs and closing out a 9-3 win that dropped Wayne into the losers bracket.

Wayne trailed 2-0 early in the game against Fairbury, but got three runs in the second on an RBI single by Hoffart, scoring Kranz; and a two-run single by Gilliland, scoring Hoffart and Gibson, to take a 3-2 lead.

Wayne added a run in the third when Kranz scored on a fielder's choice by Hoffart, and seemed to be in command in the fifth when Harris launched a two-run homer to center field for a 6-3 Blue Devil advantage.

Wayne's defense struggled in the final innings, however. An error in the sixth led to a run for the Jeffs, and two errors and a misguided fielder's choice allowed Fairbury to tie the game with two runs in the bottom of the seventh.

"We just made too many mistakes defensively to help McKenna out," Sweetland said. "You're not going to win with however many errors we had. We just made too many mistakes today."

Wayne was unable to score in the eighth inning, and Fairbury answered with an RBI single with one out in the bottom to end Wayne's season with a 7-6 win.

For five Wayne seniors – Gamble, Gibson, Hoffart, Leeper and Harris – it was the final chapter in a four-year high school career that saw the girls be a part of a state tournament program each year. Sweetland said the seniors did a fantastic job during the course of their time in the program.

"I've coached some of them since they were on the (Dirt Devils) 12-under team, and it's hard to see them go out like this," he said. "They've improved a lot and been to state four years, and some of them started for three years. They've all had great careers here, and the kids gave it their all and that's all I can ask. We just didn't get it finished."

Van Phillips
FOR LEGISLATURE District 17
A Stronger Voice for Northeast Nebraska ...

We need a state senator who will fight for Northeast Nebraska and defend our values.
Pro-Life: I am pro-life, oppose partial-birth abortion and oppose taxpayer funding of abortion.
Agriculture: I'm proud to be the only candidate endorsed by the Nebraska Farm Bureau as a "Friend of Agriculture". Farming is the backbone of Nebraska's economy and I'll fight every day for our farmers and farm families.
Jobs: Regulation and taxation are hurting job creation. We need to cut regulation and keep the tax burden low to support our small businesses so they can create more good-paying jobs.
Taxes and Spending: Hard working families deserve to keep more of what they earn. I'll fight to cut wasteful state spending so our seniors, families, farmers and small business owners can have the tax relief they deserve.

LCC Bears fall to Gators, 18-15

WISNER – Both Laurel-Concord/Coleridge and Wisner-Pilger were looking for their first win on the football field this season.

Both teams were guaranteed one win after Homer was forced to forfeit the second half of its season, due to a lack of players available to compete. Wisner-Pilger got their forfeit in midseason, while the Bears will get their win this week, as their season was set to end with a matchup against the Knights.

The Bears and Gators battled for 48 minutes Friday in a district matchup, but the host Gators scored midway through the final period and held off the Bears at the end to come away with an 18-15 triumph.

The game was back and forth throughout the night. The Gators struck first eight minutes into the first period on a 16-yard pass from Kalih Mauch to Devon Dixon, but the lead lasted only long enough for Bears' senior Justin Saunders to return the ensuing kickoff 74 yards for an LCC touchdown. Brad Steffen's point-after kick gave the Bears a 7-6 advantage.

The Gators regained the lead late in the first half on Mauch's second touchdown pass, an 11-yard strike to Sam Ferguson. The Bears responded after intermission, though, as quarterback Kyle Kardell called his own number on a five-yard run. Kardell found Brett Haisch with a two-point conversion pass to give LCC a 15-12 lead heading into the fourth quarter.

The Gators were able to march down the field early in the final period, with Devon Dixon scoring what proved to be the game-winning touchdown on a 20-yard run with about eight minutes left in the game. The Bears had their chances to overcome the deficit, but were unable to do so as they fell to 0-7.

Offensively, the Bears had 117 yards in total offense. Kardell was 8-of-18 passing for 64 yards, and Dillan Wolfram led the ground attack with 28 yards on five carries. Zach Shear was LCC's top receiver with 29 yards on three catches, while Wolfram had 16 yards on three receptions.

Defensively, Haisch led the Bears with 10 total tackles, while Saunders had seven and Wolfram and Calvin Casey each had five.

With this week's forfeit by Homer, the Bears will end the season with a 1-7 record.

Ashland, last year's national runner-up, was selected as the top team in the poll followed by Bentley (Mass.), who beat the Wildcats in last year's Elite Eight.

Augustana is the only other NSIC team ranked in the preseason poll, coming in at No. 13.

You don't HAVE to vote (R) or (D)

Less than three weeks from now, most of us will be going to the polls to elect our next "representatives" in local, state and federal government positions.

When it comes to the local elections, we have seen candidates for office act in a professional, courteous and dignified manner at all times. I have had several meetings with both of the candidates for the District 17 seat in the Legislature – Van Phillips and Dave Bloomfield – and when it comes to the race, their focus is 100 percent on the issues and what THEY will work to accomplish if they are elected this November.

If only we could say the same for some of the candidates running for federal office.

While there hasn't been a lot of hoo-hah raised in the District 3 seat for Congress between Adrian Smith and Mark Sullivan, the stench that has rolled unchecked from the campaign offices of the two vying for Ben Nelson's soon-to-be-evacuated seat in the U.S. Senate would curl the nose hairs of even the hardest of fecal-shoveling souls.

Deb Fischer and Bob Kerrey are the Republican and Democrat, respectively, running for Nelson's open seat this November, and to say this campaign has been a mud-slinging, name-calling catastrophe would be like calling the Pacific Ocean moist.

The tremors from Fischer's seemingly unbelievable rally to upset the expected winner, Jon Bruning, in the Republican primary had yet to subside before the first bombs were lobbed, and the two parties have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on TV ads that have been long on nonsense, while offering little in the way of any palatable inspirational message to get undecided voters (like myself) to lean their direction.

With all the nonsense both sides are saying about the other side, pulling a random name out of the phone book to write in the ballot for U.S. Senate in Nebraska almost seems a better option. My guess is that Mickey Mouse will do very well in this race when the Nov. 6 election comes around.

Most of you are "registered" with your county clerk as a Republican or a Democrat. In this day and age, the party you are registered with is of little relevance, because both parties' leadership arms have lost their way as far as what their party stands for. As a result, candidates who run for office under either party's moniker must toe the company line, which both parties seem to think is based on some form of mutually-assured destruction through character assassination, fact altering and seeing which one can be caught in the biggest lie.

It is not the policy of The Wayne Herald to offer any kind of endorsement for any candidate, whether it's for the Wayne Board of Education or the President of the United States. Having said that, I will encourage you to pay very close attention, during these next two weeks, and think very hard about the candidate you choose for public office, from the Wayne City Council to the top office in the country.

Locally, these candidates are people you know and people that you can trust to make the decisions that will have the most positive impact on our community, school and county. Your representative in the Nebraska Legislature will also work hard to properly represent this region in Lincoln when the Unicameral meets next January. These are all positions that have no real connection with the Democrat or Republican machines that have corrupted our federal system.

When it comes to the two Congressional races and the White House, though, we must take a very long, hard look at those who seek to "represent" us in these positions. In all honesty, we stopped voting for true representation in Washington a long time ago. Both of the political parties are nothing more than puppets for those with the money and power to influence either side of the aisle. Any and every effort to place a candidate independent of either party is met with resistance, not only from the parties themselves, but the mainstream media (ex. the three major networks, CNN, MSNBC, Fox News, etc.) who seek to control the information being put out regarding those who "represent" us in Washington. Both parties have made every effort to minimize, or even eliminate, the Libertarian party as a third option for voters to consider this November, in spite of the fact that the party and its Presidential candidate, Gary Johnson, have jumped all the legally-required hurdles to get on the ballot in all 50 states.

That's right, folks – you DO have a choice this November, and you don't HAVE to vote for a Republican OR a Democrat on Nov. 6. You can choose an independent candidate, a candidate from another party such as the Libertarian or Green parties, or you can write in a name of your own choosing.

Some will say that voting for anybody other than a Democrat or a Republican is a "wasted" vote. Don't believe that garbage for a second – who you vote for is entirely up to you, and there is no requirement that your selection be tied to one party, or ANY party, for that matter.

In 2008, my friends told me that not voting for a Republican or a Democrat was a wasted vote. My argument (which the last four years have proven to be dead-on accurate) was this – the mess that has been created in Washington lies squarely at the feet of two political parties: Democrats and Republicans. My vote is for REAL change in Washington, and there was not then – nor is there now – a single Republican or Democrat on the ballot that can offer the kind of change I want out of Washington.

That's how I plan to vote this November. How you vote is entirely up to you – just make sure that you vote for the candidate YOU believe is best – not the one the political parties want you to vote for.

Capitol View

More of an effective legislator

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

A number of new faces will be joining the ranks in the nation's only one-house Legislature in January. They will have big shoes to fill as they try to become players quickly during a year that features the crafting of a new state budget and other routine business that might be overshadowed by on-going debate about pipelines and health care issues and the economy.

So we continue to look at what it takes to be an effective Nebraska State Senator.

Last week we told you that top on former Sen. Sandy Scofield's list is broad experience. The Panhandle native said a senator also needs to be articulate, able and willing to study issues and quick on his or her feet.

Former Sen. John Lindsay of Omaha agreed with Scofield's assessment, adding that being a state senator is hard work. It is hard work and time consuming to get elected and even more time consuming to learn the issues.

A successful state senator has to be willing to adapt. You may be 100 percent certain that you are correct about an issue, but you have to realize there are 48 other senators in there and they probably think they have the right answer too, Lindsay said. Bismarck was right, he said, "Politics is the art of the possible."

Keeping a sense of humor is also essential. You have to be able to laugh at yourself, no matter how tough the issue or prolonged the debate, the fight and the fallout. Take it seriously, but be able to let it go when necessary, he said.

An effective senator also has to know his or her district, something that is often learned in the door-to-door campaign for the job. The people and the issues are important, whether urban or rural. It may seem easier in Lincoln and Omaha where multiple districts and senators can relate to a like issue with natural allies. But urban senators also have to understand rural issues. He agrees with Scofield on the importance of speaking Sandhills.

When he chaired the Legislature's Judiciary Committee, Lindsay took the senators on an interim study road trip with stops in O'Neill and Valentine and Chadron, among others. He said he discovered that even in rural areas, the issues many might term as "farm issues" were different for dry land and irrigated crop farmers.

The fundamental problem is that rural senators don't understand that urban senators are trying to understand the rural perspective. Veteran lawmaker Ernie Chambers, who represented the inner city of Omaha, was a long time member of the Legislature's Agriculture Committee. It's all about perspecive, Lindsay said. I probably see things driving through the Sandhills that someone who has lived there for years takes for granted. The same is true for a rural senator looking at Omaha or Lincoln issues.

Be it urban or rural, it is not a bad thing that state senators work hard to understand each other's perspective. It may be hard work. But nobody ever said that compromise or lawmaking comes easy.

Legislative Update

Ag industry is important to Nebraska

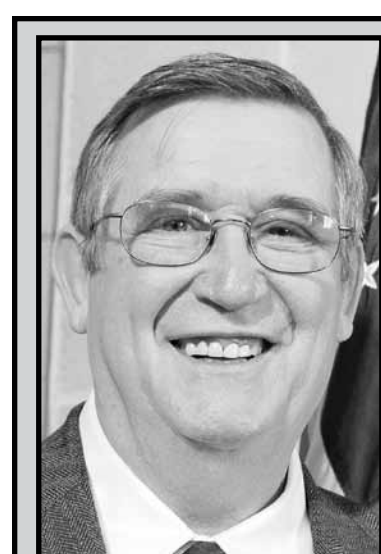

According to the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, as of February 2012, Nebraska's farms and ranches accounted for 45.6 million acres, which is 93 percent of the state's total area.

This is no surprise to those of us in rural Nebraska. We know the role and the importance that the agricultural industry plays in the state. I'm sure, however, it would surprise you, as it did me, to hear that there are children in our state that think that the eggs they buy in the grocery store come from a cow! This is because eggs are found in the dairy section.

On Friday, Oct. 5, I took part in a joint Agriculture and Education Committee hearing that was addressing the inclusion of agriculture into the lessons being taught in public schools. The hearing was a result of an interim study introduced by Sen. Kate Sullivan of Cedar Rapids. The purpose was to look at whether or not agriculture is incorporated in a consistent and thorough manner in our school curriculum. The question is, are we providing students in kindergarten through twelfth grade with good agricultural literacy? It would appear from the testimony we heard that we are not!

In this past session, Sen. Sullivan introduced LB884, which would have created the Agricultural Literacy Task Force, but the bill never made it out of the Agriculture Committee. At the time the bill faced opposition from the Nebraska Department of Education, which did not see the need in creating yet another task force when they already have task forces in place that could look at these concerns.

We are blessed to have organizations such as "Nebraska Agriculture in the Classroom". They can go into classrooms across the state to tell students about agriculture, but there obviously needs to be more. The key is going to be finding a way to tie agriculture into the standards for social studies, science and economics – it is a great way for teachers to provide hands-on and real-life learning situations by thinking outside of "the box."

We owe it to our future generations to make sure they understand our food and fiber systems. Agriculture is Nebraska's most important industry. We must find a way to teach our youth not only where our food comes from but how it is produced. Young people need to understand that there are great opportunities in Nebraska involving agriculture. The list of opportunities is nearly endless including, production, research, marketing, transportation, sales, education and a host of others. This is an issue that deserves our attention.

Vote for better leaders this November

To the citizens of Wayne County and the United States of America: In the near future, Wayne County will have two elections that we have the privilege and duty to vote in. One of these elections may be the most important that we have ever voted in. Take the time to study the candidates. Try to decide if they are honest and have the integrity and common sense to lead our governments. Please vote your convictions for better leaders.

Let's keep our country free.

START ISSUANCE OF CANNING SUGAR

Allen's United Methodist Church will begin today (Thursday) at the 35 War Price and Rationing Boards in the Sioux City OPA district, it was announced this week.

This year a quota of 4,979,998 pounds of sugar for canning has been set for the district and 7,113,283 pounds of sugar were issued for canning purposes, sugar being given according to the amounts designated on the application.

With a quota set for the district, each of the 35 ration boards have been allotted a certain quota to be issued each month throughout the canning season, and each board must stay within its given quota. If quotas were not established stated Hugh J. Robertson, district rationing executive and boards issued canning sugar during June as they did last year, refiners, wholesalers and retailers would not have sugar available to take care of the certificates issued. At the present time there is virtually no fruit available for canning, but the district office will issue the five pounds of sugar so housewives can preserve strawberries which are arriving on the market. The district OPA office asks persons who do not do home canning not to apply for sugar because it will work a hardship on those who do can annually.

Medicare open enrollment comes early this year

Help will be available to help individuals evaluate their Medicare Prescription Drug Plans at the Wakefield Senior Center on Monday, Oct. 22 and the Ponca Senior Center on Tuesday, Oct. 23.

The Wakefield Senior Center will take appointments from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Call (402) 287-2149 to set up an appointment. The Senior Center in Ponca will take appointments for 9:30 a.m.-1 p.m., and appointments can be made by calling (402) 755-4180.

Appointments will also be done at the University of Nebraska Extension Office in Dixon County, located at the Haskell Ag Lab near Concord as requested. To make an appointment there, call (402) 584-2234.

People with Medicare need to enroll in a prescription drug plan earlier this year. The open enrollment period for Medicare Part D now occurs from Oct. 15, 2011 through Dec. 7, 2012.

There has never been a better time to find out about Medicare coverage. Whether you have original Medicare or a Medicare Advantage plan, there are several new benefits including lower prescription costs, wellness visits, and preventive care. People who take advantage of open enrollment may be able to save money and get improved coverage.

Medicare beneficiaries who typically use the December holidays to discuss health care options with family or friends should move that conversation to an earlier date. Medicare decisions for 2012 must be made no later than Dec. 7. Your health needs change from year to year, and your health plan may change the benefits and costs each year, too. That's why it's important to evaluate your Medicare choices every year.

This year's earlier enrollment period ensures Medicare has enough time to process changes, so new coverage can begin without interruption on January 1, 2013.

Other options include:
Visit www.medicare.gov/find-a-to compare your compare your current coverage with all of the available options in your area, and enroll in a new plan if you decide to make a change. Call (800) 633-4227 24 hours a day, seven days a week, to find out more about your coverage options. TTY users should call (877) 486-2048.

NPPD's Hoskins to Neligh 345,000-volt Electric Transmission Line Project

OPEN HOUSE

Nebraska Public Power District will host open house meetings in Norfolk and Neligh to receive public comment on a 345,000-volt transmission line from NPPD's Hoskins Substation west to a substation site yet to be determined in the Neligh area. This transmission line is being built to enhance transmission system reliability and provide opportunities for additional renewable energy generation.

Public comment is a key component of choosing a route for this line. Landowners in the study area are encouraged to attend an open house and provide NPPD with information related to their property (irrigation, buildings, environmental, future plans) that will play a role in determining a route for the transmission line. Informal open house meetings will be held from 2-8 p.m. at these locations.

4-H encourages youth to volunteer

The 4-H program offers numerous opportunities for adults and youth to volunteer. For youth who volunteer, the benefits are enormous.

Youth volunteers develop live skills with increased self-esteem, development of empathy for others and numerous other positive youth development factors. Volunteering promotes positive citizenship among youth when they engage and feel connected to their community. When youth volunteer, they are also able to form lasting relationships with peers, adults and others.

Adults can have a great impact on youth volunteerism. Youth volunteer for a number of reasons. However, most of these reasons focus on being approached or asked by the organization, the student's school, or family and friends. If you ask the youth to volunteer, they probably will.

Jennifer Hansen
Thurston County

Youth are extremely busy these days, but volunteering remains an important part of youth development. You can help youth to volunteer in a number of ways. First, help youth to find opportunities to volunteer. Perhaps you can think of a club or county 4-H activity where volunteers are needed. Youth are very capable of handling most volunteer activities. As the leader, your role may be to provide the leg work in finding volunteer opportunities. Second, be sure to ask and encourage youth to volunteer. Often youth do not volunteer because they have not been asked.

Third, help youth to work through some of those obstacles that may be in their way. Transportation and lack of time may be issues that prevent youth from volunteering. Can you help to arrange a carpool for the volunteer activity? Can you give suggestions for volunteer activities that maximize the free time that these youth may have?

Fourth, tap into the interest of the youth. For example a 4-H member who is interested in the animal science projects may be very interested in volunteering at a 4-H livestock judging workshop or an animal shelter. Fifth, highlight some of the extra benefits that volunteering can provide. Volunteer activities are beneficial in and of themselves, but they also provide the volunteer with some other benefits. Volunteering may add to the 4-H member's resume for future careers or college scholarships.

Sixth, you can act as a positive role model with your volunteer service. Role modeling encourages youth volunteerism. Finally, encourage families to volunteer together.

Minerva Club meets

Twyla Lindsay hosted the Monday, Oct. 8 meeting of the Minerva Club at the Senior Center.

Ten members responded to roll call by recalling a 'Teen Idol' we had when we were teens. President Connie Webber opened the meeting by having members complete a math quiz.

Historian Hollis Frese shared the minutes from the Oct. 14, 1985 meeting when the club constitution and by-laws were revised. Program was "Under the Ice Cap: The Nautilus". At the Oct. 28 meeting Verna Rees reviewed "The Lone Eagle," a book about the life of Charles Lindbergh.

Members were delighted that Elvis Presley was in the building and made a short visit to the meeting. It was interesting to hear about his early years. He was born to a very poor family who lived in a small, two-room house in Tupelo, Miss. In fifth grade he won a $5 prize in a singing contest. After graduating from high school at age 18, Elvis became an usher at a movie theater and a truck driver. He continued his singing career and became even more popular when he added in his 'special moves'.

He met his first wife, Priscilla, while in the army and stationed in Germany. They had a daughter, Lisa Marie. He purchased "Graceland" for the family home. Today it ranks as the second most popular place in America to visit; the White House is first.

Twyla Lindsay led the group in reminiscing about Elvis's popular hit songs and movies. She also highlighted other facts about his life and how generous he was. His struggle with drugs would eventually lead to his death in 1977 at age 44.

The next meeting of the group will be held Monday, Oct. 22 at the Senior Center hosted by Hallie Sherry.

CROP Hunger Walk raises awareness

The Wayne Community CROP Hunger Walk was a success on Oct. 14.

More than $1,100 was contributed by neighbors and friends to support the hunger-fighting efforts of Church World Service, both here at home and around the world. The local Food Pantry and WACAM will receive approximately $275 to aid area residents in need, and the rest of the money will make possible the global work of Church World Service.

"Just think, the funds raised here in Wayne and in CROP Hunger Walks across the U.S. will make a difference in the lives of people around the world – from supplying clean water to thirsty villages in Kenya, to aiding dairy farmers in Bosnia, to assisting earthquake survivors in Haiti as they rebuild their homes and lives following massive devastation," said Deb Hammer, one of the organizers of the event.

"Again, thank you to all who worked so hard to make this year's CROP Hunger Walk such a resounding success. Special kudos, too, to Hana Nelsen and Devan Henschke who raised $165 each, tied for our #1 CROP Walkers this year. Colton Spahr raised $128. Thank you to all 24 walkers coming out to help support funding for the hungry," Hammer added.

More than $1,100 was raised during the annual Wayne community CROP Hunger Walk that was held Sunday.

"Volunteering, walking, donating – we all have shown that citizens of Wayne are truly citizens of the world. See you next year at the CROP Hunger Walk, and God bless!" she concluded.

Sermon series continues at Praise Assembly of God

The Rev. Jason Pickering, the pastor of Praise Assembly of God Church in Wayne continued his series of sermons this past Sunday with "Jesus Is Coming Soon – part 4".

These sermons are designed to encourage the believers to be faithful in witnessing - and to remind all people of the imminent return of the Lord; and the pastor used several scriptures to drive his point "home."

– 2 Timothy 3:1 reminds us that "in the last days" difficult times will come; however, they are not impossible times;

– James 5:1-3 reminds us that we must trust in the Lord, even though financial markets do not look good; – Matthew 6:25-34 is a reminder that we must hold fast to God's promise and trust Him with all that we have - or don't have (no matter what situation we find ourselves walking through).

In the times of difficulty, it is important that Christians be encouraging one another – and to the world around. The image in scripture is that of a "City on a Hill" – and the Family of God needs to be a community of hope and promise. In Pastor Jason's words: "Let your trust in God be a testimony of God's promise and faithfulness! Jesus is coming soon."

The congregation wants to invite the Wayne community to the first "Trunk or Treat" on Wednesday, Oct. 31 in the parking lot of the church from 5-7:30 p.m. "Come and walk our parking lot for candy!" said Pastor Jason. It's a great and safe place to have fun and enjoy yourselves as a family – all while getting candy!

At Praise Assembly of God Sunday School begins at 9:30 a.m., Morning Worship at 10:30 a.m., and the Sunday "LifePoint" Bible Study and Prayer Meeting at 6:30 p.m. "Kids' Praise" for children in grades K-6 and the mid-week Bible Study for Adults meets on Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.

Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid plans fall events

Grace Lutheran Ladies met Wednesday, Oct. 10 at The Oaks.

President Rhonda Sebade called the meeting to order and welcomed guests, Carolyn Kraemer, Lanora Sorensen and Cyril Hansen, and Pastor Mike Feldmann, and 25 Aid members, who answered roll call.

The meeting began with the group saying the LWML Pledge in unison.

Second Vice President Ellen

Heinemann gave the opening devotion on "Katie Luther, Forever Faithful". Like Katie's life, our lives are a witness to God's faithfulness as well.

Mites were collected, with the focus on Prison and Jail Ministry, noting the U.S. has the highest incarceration rate in the world and it is growing.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved as read.

A thank you card from Bob and Milly Thomsen was read.

The Treasurers report was read and filed for financial review.

The group voted to hold Aid meetings at The Oaks every three months for a year, starting in January.

The birthday song was sung for LaVon Biermann and Esther Baker, with each receiving a lighted birthday cupcake.

The next meeting will be Nov. 14, 2012, with Verdell Reeg and Milly Thomsen as hostesses.

Pastor Feldmann led the Bible study on Psalm 46, emphasizing we are not to fear or worry, God is our refuge and strength. Members concluded by singing "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God", reciting The Lord's Prayer, and the table prayer.

Hostesses were Delores Utech and Betty Wittig.

Surgery results in having live differently; appreciate friends

Well, it's into week three post-operatively, and I've learned a bit about living without bending more than 90 degrees: it's hard!

A reacher comes in very handy, IF it is where you need it when you drop something!

I'm doing dishes by hand, because the lower rack of the dishwasher is too low. When you do that, you don't use very many dishes. Sometimes, I don't even put them away; how lazy is that?

Friends who bring in casseroles are most welcome; the Big Farmer appreciates them even more than I do. As usual, my appetite after surgery is kind of poor.

Friends who just drop in to visit are a great distraction. And keeping in touch by e-mail is a great help.

I walk to the mailbox with my walker every day and appreciate the fall colors; I don't think we have to go to the East to see colorful foliage, even after a very dry year. I'm looking forward to the day that I can walk around the neighborhood again.

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

My taste in books has become very tame; I just don't read anything that is violent, sad, or too mysterious. I'm rereading some Mitford stuff, and the last two days, I've dug out two books by Robert Fulghum. Remember him? He wrote "All I Ever Needed to Know I Learned in Kindergarten." He actually has four books of essays like that; some not as clever, but most are entertaining.

We now get three daily newspapers; Ann subscribed to the Norfolk paper for her dad's birthday so he can read the Lutheran High news. I'm surprised at how much I enjoy it. We trade the Omaha paper for the Lincoln with a neighbor, and since neither of us can now bend over, we have a chair sitting outside our front door just for that purpose. I know, it looks odd, but one does what one has to.

Speaking of Lutheran High, their football team is still unbeaten, and we are so excited for them. Thanks to the Norfolk Daily, we can even watch a few games on the computer via video streaming. Technology is amazing.

On another note, our friend, Jim Krajicek, said "Hi, Mom", last night when his mother walked into the room. Keep those prayers going! Thanks.

Lawn treatments should wait until next spring

Nebraskans may be seeing more lawn and garden damage this fall from critters. Reports of lawns looking like sows have rooted them up aren't uncommon.

However, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension specialists say the best thing to do is to just plan on reseeding damaged spots next spring or while grass is dormant.

Many critters, such as raccoons, skunks, opossums, turkeys and even badgers, are just hunting for grubs and earthworms to eat, said Dennis Ferraro, UNL herpetologist.

Ferraro and Zac Reicher, UNL Extension integrated turfgrass management specialist, said as of right now, there really is nothing you can do. Both have had a higher number of calls this fall about animals digging up people's yards.

"The good news is with cooler temperatures, the grubs will be moving down into the soil," Reicher said.

He added that is why it's important to apply grub control each year.

"If you had grubs this year, they almost always come back to the same lawns year after year, so plan on using preventative grub control next July," he said.

Critters often are out looking for grubs this time of year. The thing that makes this year different is since adult beetles only lay eggs in damp soils, even if a lawn just had a little irrigation, it is softer than a lot of other areas, so they are attracted to irrigated areas and areas that are green.

"That is why folks with nice green lawns may be feeling a lot more hurt than in past years," he said.

Reicher said the average homeowner should instead be focusing on what to do to bring lawns back.

"Many lawns are already in bad shape because of the drought," he said. "So, homeowners should plan on dormant seeding anytime near Thanksgiving into March."

Reicher said it is too late to seed now and expect germination before winter, but it may also be too early where some of the seed may germinate only to die in the winter.

Livestock Market in Norfolk.

The market was steady on all classes. There were 925 head sold. 300-400 lb. steers, $165 to $195; heifers, $160 to $180. 400-500 lb. steers, $155 to $180; heifers, $140 to $160. 500-600 lb. steers, $145 to $168; heifers, $130 to $150.

600-700 lb. steers, $140 to $155; heifers, $125 to $140.

700-800 lb. steers, $135 to $150; heifers, $120 to $135.

800-900 lb. steers, $130 to $145; heifers, $120 to $130.

400-700 lbs. holstein steers, $95 to $105.

Landlord/tenant cash lease workshops planned, renting cornstalks for grazing

It's a ways away, but I want you to be aware that if you rent or lease farmland, you should be interested in coming to a free workshop hosted by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in Wayne at the Fire Hall.

This workshop will help landlords and tenants establish and maintain a positive farm leasing relationship. It is being sponsored by the Nebraska Soybean Board and the North Central Risk Management Education Center. This workshop will be on Tuesday, Nov. 7, from 5:30-9 p.m. If you cannot make this date/time, there are meetings on Nov. 5 in Dakota City at 11 a.m. and on the morning of Nov. 7 at the Pender Fire Hall. Handout materials, a meal, and refreshments are provided.

The purpose of the meeting is to help producers and landowners deal with the volatility of their cash rents. Landlords are trying to be loyal to their tenants, yet want a fair return for the land asset. Tenants want to be sure to stay in business, yet feel the pressure of bidding to keep the land base that they have been farming. It is very helpful if both the tenant and landlord can attend together.

Topics for discussion include: expectations from the lease, including goal setting for the rental property; lease communication; determining appropriate information sharing for both the tenant and landlord; tips for farm leases that include relatives; irrigation system questions as they pertain to setting lease rates; alternative cash lease arrangements; flexible provision considerations for your situation. Other topics like grain bin rental will be covered as time allows.

A team of UNL Extension Educators will be on hand to discuss these topics and provide common sense tips during the presentation. Managing the 2012 drought and implications for 2013 will also be discussed.

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension Educator

Again, this workshop is free and handouts and a meal are provided, but participation is limited and registration is required to reserve a spot. Please register by Nov. 3 by calling the Wayne Co. Extension office at (402) 375-3310 or e-mail Wayne-County@unl.edu.

How much rent should a corn producer get for allowing animals to graze crop residue? There is no single number that works in all situations. The amount will vary according to the level of service being provided by each party, such as fencing, watering, and care of the cattle. The Cornstalk Grazing Cow-Q-Lator may provide some help in answering the question. It is an Excel spreadsheet available online at westcentral.unl.edu/web/westcentral/agecon3.

This spreadsheet uses grain yield to estimate forage availability. If a user enters corn yield the tool will estimate the dry matter available. Generally the stalk harvest efficiency is set at 50 percent.

There is a cell available for "Acres rented." While lessees need to match this cell with the value in the "Acres needed" cell, corn producers have a set number of acres available which they should enter into the "Acres rented" cell. They should then adjust entries into the cells "Total number of animals," "Average animal weight," and "Days on cornstalks" until the "Acres needed" cell matches their acres available.

The Cornstalk Grazing Cow-Q-Lator illustrates the effect of travel distance on transportation and monitoring costs. The example in the online spreadsheet shows that the cost of transportation and supervision exceeds the cost for leasing the stalks when cattle are moved 75 miles. Corn producers will find that the farther they are from the cattle's home, the less their stalks are worth. However, they may be able to provide animal care and supervision and reduce the owner's costs, thus increasing the value of their crop residue.

The critical calculation for the lessee is the total cost per head per day. The cattle producer will be comparing that number against the cost per head per day of other options. The corn producer can adjust the cost per acre for cornstalks until the total cost per head per day is competitive compared to the lessees other options.

In a normal year, winter grazing costs about half of summer grazing but supplemental feed is commonly provided. Grazing rates for different areas may be found in the Nebraska Farm Real Estate Highlights.

While the Cornstalk Grazing Cow-Q-Lator may provide a way for corn producers to estimate the value of their crop residue, there are many issues that must be addressed between the lessee and lessor. An important one is who builds the fence around the corn fields if one is needed.

For more information on cropping and livestock information, go to cropwatch.unl.edu.
