By CLARA OSTEN Of the Herald

"This is a planning tool for the city of Wayne which will allow us to learn as much as possible and plan for the future," said Garry Poutre, public works and utilities superintendent, of the city's proposed Wellhead Protection Plan.

After approximately two years of research, planning and meeting with local residents and land owners involved, the city of Wayne's Wellhead Protection Plan (WWPP) will be discussed during a public hearing in conjunction with the Tuesday, Feb. 19 City Council meeting. The meeting location has been moved to the Wayne Senior Center and will begin at 5:30 p.m.

Poutre said that, in 2010, the city of Wayne received a grant from the Department of Environmental Qualty (DEQ) to development a wellhead protection plan for the city of Wayne.

The majority of the funding for the project came from the grant, with the remainder from the city of Wayne's water department and an in-kind match from the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District.

The city entered into an agreement with DEQ in January of 2011 and Poutre then worked with the consulting firm of JEO to put together a wellhead protection plan steering committee, consisting of local residents, city employees, city council members, and farmers/ landowners in the wellhead protection area.

"In Nebraska, there are approximately 100 communities that already have a wellhead protection plan that has been adopted by the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality," Poutre said. "The goal is to prevent groundwater pollution which could enter into the public water supply and make the wells unusable. Wellhead protection was incorporated into Nebraska's groundwater standards in 1991 to prevent groundwater pollution and insure a safe water supply. Public water supplies include all systems regularly supplying drinking water to 25 or more people or having 15 or more service connections.

Poutre noted that the DEQ knows where all public wells are located, and is responsible for determining the area that needs to be protected to ensure safe drinking water to all communities and other public water supplies.

The city of Wayne has two wellhead protection areas, both located north of the city.

The south area is just north of Wayne and includes two wells, one located one-fourth of a mile west of the intersection of Highway 15 and 21st Street, and the other a quarter-mile east of that intersection.

The north area is located six miles north of Wayne. Both of these areas are already a part of wellhead protection areas.

The wellhead protection plan consists of five steps: 1. Delineation. This process uses science and technology to determine the path of ground water that comes into the city's wells.

2. Contaminant Source Inventory. This step attempts to find any potential contaminant sources in the area determined to be where the city's water will come from during the course of 20 years and which has been determined to be the area that needs to be protected.

Poutre said that during this process potential contaminant sources were identified and mapped, and there were no contaminant sources of concern at this time. This is an essential part of the plan to inform the community of what's out there.

3. Contaminant Source Management. This steps works to develop a planning document to determine See WELLHEAD, Page 4A

Wurdeman facing second recall effort

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

The Wayne Herald learned late Wednesday that a Wayne County Commissioner is back on the hot seat again.

Less than three months removed from a successful block of a recall effort, District 1 commissioner Kelvin Wurdeman may soon face a second recall effort.

Last fall, Wurdeman pled no contest to charges of misdemeanor theft by unlawful taking and official misconduct. The charges were connected Thursday, Jan. 24 by rural Wayne resident Jerold Meyer.

"Acting as Wayne County Commissioner, Kelvin Wurdeman has been caught, convicted and severely fined for the willful theft and fraudulent sale of county property," Meyer wrote in his reason for the recall request. "As documented, the request of certain entities to have Commissioner Wurdeman removed from positions he holds on their boards has permanently damaged his ability and trustworthiness to assist Wayne County in governing effectively, confidently and honestly."

A recall of Wurdeman filed last fall by local resident Kelly Hammer had enough signatures to force a recall election, but missing verbiage regarding circulators' pay status was cited by District Judge Robert Ensz, who threw out the recall petition one week before a special election was sched-

to the sale of county-

owned scrap metal by Wurdeman to a Norfolk company early in 2012. Wurdeman had the check made out in his son's name, then forged his son's signature and cashed the check at a Wayne bank. Wurdeman maintained that the money was put in his district's petty cash fund and that the money was never in his possession.

Wayne resident Eric Smith enjoyed the opportunity to play Santa Claus for two months at Silver Dollar City in Branson, Mo. Smith worked with comedian Terry Sanders (left) and entertainer James Roach while listening to the Christmas wishes of boys and girls, both young and old, during the recent holiday season. Sanders will be in Wayne next weekend to play a benefit show for the Wayne State rugby team.

Santa Claus lives in Wayne? Smith was St. Nick in Branson

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

Do you believe in Santa Claus? If you've been to Silver Dollar City in Branson, Mo., this past holiday season, chances are you may have recognized ol' Kris Kringle as being somebody you might actually know.

Eric Smith and his wife, Ruth, took a trip to Branson last spring, and Smith – a big, burly guy who regularly sports a beard with a voluminous amount of hair – asked an employee what it would take to "be Santa Claus" at the world-famous family theme oark.

Told that somebody already had the job, Smith and his family came back to Wayne, only to get a phone call a couple of weeks later from the folks at Silver Dollar City, asking if he'd come down and interview.

"They turned down a couple of guys who went to Santa Claus University and hired me," he said shortly after returning home from his holiday duties.

Once he got the job, he went to work preparing for the role of the jolly old elf. He stopped shaving in late June so that he would have an extra-long beard in time for Christmas. He had his beard dyed white, then would add white makeup each day to complete the full effect.

Put on the big red coat, the boots and the hat and – voila – it was Santa Claus, ready to talk with kids of all ages.

And he literally talked with people of all ages, shapes and sizes. He held a five-day old baby one day, and got a peck on the Smith guessed that, over the course of two months, he saw about 40,000 people and took more than 1,000 photos a day. And, without fail, there would be kids who would question whether or not he was the real deal.

"Some of the kids would look at me and ask, 'Are you the REAL Santa Claus?' and I would ask them, "What do you think?" and they'd always answer yes," he said. "I had a few pull on the beard to check, but once they got their question answered, they'd pretty much bought in.'

While Smith spent much of the holiday season entertaining Christmas requests everything from iPads to "mote contro" (southern talk for "remote control") monster trucks, he also got some rather un- ing book and scribbled his Crayolas on evusual and touching requests from kids and ery page. He's been there since last January.

> When he wasn't working, Smith had a chance to interact with park-goers and ome of the people who work at the park.

One friendship he developed was with comedian Terry Wayne Sanders, who has worked at Silver Dollar City for more than 30 years and served as Santa's Helper while Smith was working.

"He was completely different from what I anticipated, and I really got to enjoy spending time with him," Smith said. "I had an image in a leather-bound book in my mind of what this experience would be like, but he stole my journal, replaced it with a color-

Obituaries Harold Dale Johansen

Dale Johansen, 83, of Hays, Kan. died Friday, Jan. 11, 2013 at his home. Memorial Services were held Friday, Jan. 25 at the First Presbyterian Church, Hays, Kan. Burial was in the Mount Allen Cemetery, Hays, Kan., with full military honors immediately following the service. Memorials are suggested to Hospice at Hays Medical Center, 2220 Canterbury Drive, Hays, Kan. 67601.

Harold Dale Johansen was born Aug. 16, 1929 in Coulter, Iowa to Carl and Agnes Johansen. He married Janice on Dec. 29, 1955 in Elgin, Iowa. Dale received his bachelors and masters degrees from the Iowa State Teachers College (University of Northern Iowa) in Cedar Falls, Iowa. He earned his Ph.D. degree in 1963 from the University of Iowa. Dale, Jan, and son, Tom, moved to Wayne where he began in administration at Wayne State College. In August of 1976, Dale took a job with Fort Hays Kansas State College, now Fort Hays State University, as Chairman of the business department in the School of Arts and Sciences. He was instrumental in forming the School of Business at FHSU and became the first Dean of the School of Business in 1978. In 1981, he was appointed as the Vice President of Administration and Finance at FHSU and remained in that position until he retired in 1991. The Johansen family has been a part of FHSU for many years.

Dale was a true family man. As a young boy, at age 9, his mother suffered a stroke which paralyzed her on the right side. Dale and his dad became very close as they worked very hard to take care of his mom and the household. Throughout his life, he was a concerned and loving son, husband, father, and grandfather. Whether it was watching cartoons with his granddaughters or attending family events, Dale supported his family with love and compassion. He was very active in sports, particularly baseball and basketball. Upon graduation from high school in 1946, Dale began a prolific career as a pitcher in Iowa fast pitch softball. He started with the Coulter Cubs, then playing for several teams through the 1950's and was considered one of the top pitchers in the history of Iowa fast pitch softball. He was inducted into the Iowa Fast Pitch Hall of Fame in 1989. In 1951, Dale was drafted into the U.S. Army serving in the Army Security Agency at Vint Hill Farms, a base outside of Washington, D.C.. Softball was also an important part of his military career, as he pitched all over the east coast for the base team. His interests included all sports, in particular, softball, baseball, football and golf. He was a passionate fan of the Iowa Hawkeyes, Fort Hays State Tigers, New York Yankees, Chicago Bears, Oklahoma State Cowboys, and Kansas State Wildcats. In retirement, Dale and Jan were able to travel and watch their granddaughters' various activities including Elise's concerts, Madelyn and Molly's soccer games, and Kiley's golf tournaments for Hays High School (never missing a tournament) and FHSU.

Survivors include his wife, Jan, of the home; son Tom and Vicki of Stillwater, Okla.; daughter Mary and Mike Martin of Hays, Kan.; four grandchildren

He was preceded in death by his parents, Carl and Agnes Johansen.

Lola M. Erlandson

Lola M. Erlandson, 88, of Wakefiled, died Saturday, Feb. 2, 2013 at the Wakefield Health Care Center in Wakefield.

Services will be at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 9 at the Wakefield Evangelical Covenant Church with Pastor Kelly Johnston officiating. Burial will be in the Wakefield Cemetery. Visitation will be Friday, Feb. 8 beginning at 3 p.m. and include a prayer service at 7 p.m., at Thompson Chapel Funeral Home in Wakefield.

A STATE AND A STATE OF

Lola Mae Erlandson was born to Robert and Carol (Sexson) Erwin, on Aug. 5, 1924 at Concord. She grew up on the farm during "The Dirty Thirties" and wrote about many of her recollections of farm life with parents and brother Don. Lola graduated from high school in 1942 and continued on to Wayne State College for a certificate to teach school. She attended the Lutheran Bible Institute in Minneapolis, Minn. for two years and on to Salem, Va. to work in a Children's Home. Lola visited pastor friends in Quincy, Mass. and was on her way to Tanzania, East Africa in 1953. She taught at the Augustana School near Arusha, Tanzania for 15 years.

Upon return to Nebraska in 1968, Lola taught schools in West Point, and Allen. Her father died on New Year's Day, 1972 and she moved with her mother into Concord. On Sept. 30, 1978 she married Warren (Bud) Erlandson at Concordia Lutheran Church in Concord. She moved to the home farm of Bud's at Wakefield and retired from teaching. The couple lived there until moving into Wakefield in 1989 and to the Wakefield Health Care Center in 2012.

Lola was active in the Wakefield Covenant Church and Church Women. She enjoyed her quilting and won numerous ribbons. Her times spent with her brother, Don, and wife, Veora, and their two children, Myriam and Dan and their families, were dearly cherished. Fishing trips to Minnesota, and trips to Chicago, Utah, Colorado, and California to see Linda and Barry and family were high on the list.

Survivors include her husband, Bud of Wakefield; her brother, Don and Veora Erwin of Riverside, Calif., and niece Myriam and nephew Dan and their families; step-daughter, Linda and Barry Steiber of Citrus Heights, Calif., and granddaughter, Anastina Steiber; and grandson, Carl Steiber and step-son Loren Erlandson.

She was preceded in death by her parents.

Memorials may be directed in her honor to the Covenant World Missions.

Carolyn Harder sounded like the epitome of health when she answered her phone at Wayne Elementary School on Wednesday of last week.

She hasn't been ill.

Her peers at Wayne Schools, however, haven't had the same fortune.

"We've definitely had an increase in absenteeism due to sickness," Harder, a nurse at the school, admitted, adding that she first noticed it in her elementary students and then, later, in Wayne's junior high and high school population.

As reported by Harder, the school has had doctor-confirmed cases of Influenza A and B, as well as instances of strep throat and viruses involving the stomach, with the majority of these illness occurring during the three weeks since Christmas break.

"We always encourage people who are not feeling well to stay home," Harder said, referring to both students and staff members.

She advises ill individuals to abstain from attending classes for 24 hours after they've been feverfree without the assistance of medication and to get plenty of fluids and rest. To prevent sickness, Harder discourages students from sharing and strongly advocates hand-washing with soap and water.

"I'm a big stickler on not touching your face," Harder added.

Southwest of Wayne, it's a slightly different story.

"We've been pretty lucky," Tricia North, nurse at Winside Public School, said about the lack of illness around her. "We've had a few gone here and there.'

school hasn't witnessed much in the way of absenteeism is that most illness was experienced over Christmas break. Those who have been sick since school went back into session have, for the most part, stayed out of the classroom.

"Parents do a really good job trying to keep kids at home," North said.

According to the nurse, when a student does become sick during the school day, he or she is sent to North's office until a ride home can be arranged. Individuals are never sent back to their classrooms.

In addition to students, faculty and staff members are also advised to stav home when ill.

"We try to do the same for them," North said. "We try to be accommodating."

Though Winside has, so far, managed to escape flu season relatively unscathed, North said that steps are still being taken to prevent illness. Students are instructed to sneeze into their sleeve, cover their mouth when they cough, and use hand-sanitizer when they aren't able to wash their hands.

Conditions in Allen and Wakefield are, for the most part, similar to those in Winside.

"It hasn't been bad here at all," Angie Borg, who works as a nurse at the schools in both communities, said.

She claims numbers have been relatively low in the two places and that, in Wakefield specifically, the amount of individuals who have been ill on a single day has not exceeded 25.

Borg has seen sickness in students and staff alike, but admits that the latter has taken the brunt of flu season. Furthermore, she atively higher in elementary-aged individuals and that fewer of their high school counterparts have been affected because of an increased ability to tolerate unhealth.

Furthermore, Borg also admits to a prevalence in the type of sickness she's witnessed.

"We're seeing some stomach flu and more of the respiratory stuff," she reported, explaining that the stomach-related illnesses were common before Christmas break.

To combat the various ailments in Allen and Wakefield, Borg said that cleanliness has become a con-larly and, when sickness is at its peak, doorknobs too.

"Cleaning is just a big part," Borg summarized.

And it might just be the reason both Allen and Wakefield, plus Wayne and Winside, haven't had to cancel classes because of illness. Or it could be another reason, like the offering of flu vaccinations.

Either way, Carolyn Harden summed it up best.

"Our greatest concern is always our students' health," she said.

best management practices in both urban and agricultural settings. The basis for this is public education to make everyone aware that their lifestyles and practices can unknowingly affect the groundwater supply.

4. Emergency, contingency and long-term planning. The city of Wayne already has an emergency plan in place should something happen to the city's water supply, such as contamination or a natural disaster. However, a contingency plan involves more long-term planning and may include such items as obtaining a new, long-term source of water for the community.

5. Public Education. "It is our iob to continually educate the community on ways to protect the quality and quantity of the water supply. We want the public to know about potential contaminants and what can be done to protect groundwater and our drinking water," Poutre said. "I encourage everyone interested in learning more about the wellhead protection plan to come to the Feb. 19 public hearing to express your views on the WHPP. If you have questions before then, feel free to contact me by phone at (402) 375. 2896, or by e-mail at eldist@cityofwayne.org," Poutre said. "Groundwater provides approximately 85 percent of the water used for human consumption in Nebraska. Our job is to ensure that when the citizens of Wayne turn on the faucet to get a drink of water, the water is safe. This document provides us with a plan so we can learn and prepare for the future," Poutre said. The proposed wellhead protection plan is available for inspection at Wayne City Hall, or on the city's website.

Parenting even more rewarding

A small disclaimer - this week's sports column isn't about sports per se, but does have a sports connection to it (plus, I'm on a deadline and am working on less than four hours of sleep, so give The Bleacher Bum a break one time, huh?).

Tuesday was my daughter's 23rd birthday, and sports has been a big part of Kylie's life, even from the moments before she was born.

Kylie chose to come into this world early on a Monday morning. If you're the lone writer on the staff of a small-town newspaper with a Wednesday press day, this is the absolute worst possible time to interrupt the work schedule.

Of course, an event like this must be tended to, and with the now-former spouse having a small window of time between being admitted to the hospital and having the C-section done to bring our newborn child into the world, I was able to squeeze my coaches' interviews in (driving to and from the hospital at speeds that would land most mortal humans in jail – who knew a brokendown Mazda could go THAT fast, even uphill?) and get back to the hospital while my now-sedated wife rested before the big event.

Our daughter was born during the noon hour, healthy and happy, and is now on the verge of becoming an elementary school teacher, finishing up her student teaching in Gretna to earn her degree from UNL.

I mention this because we have a number of coaches who, themselves, are parents – two of whom have recently joined this wonderful fraternity.

Last year around this time, Nate Wall and his wife, Karla, adopted a beautiful baby boy. The Walls have been wanting to share their love and talents with a child of their own, and this opportunity was a rare gift from God that both have taken to like a duck to water. Wall's almost constant companions at Wayne High games are his wife and new son, who can generally be found somewhere behind the Blue Devil bench, cheering the team on to victory. I'm sure the Walls have already begun the process of introducing their baby boy to the fine art of the game of basketball – I'm still trying to get Nate to confirm that his late-night video sessions take place in between midnight feedings and diaper changes – and I'm sure the family is going to have a long and happy life together. Being an adoptive parent takes a very special group of people. There are thousands of children in our world whose lives have been turned upside down, for whatever reason, and could have their situations reversed through the loving act of adoption by a family with open hearts and giving souls. I have a second daughter that was given up for adoption when she was a baby. and I'm so thankful that the family we presented her to has given her everything she needs to be a success in life. The Walls are going to be outstanding parents to their adoptive child, and The Bleacher Bum gives two big thumbs up to Nate and Karla for the challenge they have taken on. Last month, Nate Sims and his wife, Emily, gave birth to their son, Callan. Like my daughter, Callan wasn't the least bit concerned about his parents' work schedules, coming into the world the morning after Sims and the Laurel-Concord/Coleridge Lady Bears battled Wavne. Callan checked in at 7 pounds, 9 ounces and 21 1/2 inches long, and I'm sure it won't be long before father and son start breaking down film together. One thing both coaches have in common is that they both have a vast network of potential babysitters. The Walls completed their adoption hours before Nate had to coach a basketball game in West Point, and as coaches of girls bas-

Laurel-Concord/Coleridge The Lady Bears claimed the final cham-Activites Conference on Thursday with a stellar comeback, beating Randolph 37-33 to claim the championship trophy Thursday at Creighton High School.

"It's been a good conference, and five. it's sad to see it disbanding," LCC coach Nate Sims said of the honor of being the last NENAC girls basketball champion. "There has been a lot of success in a number of sports for this conference, so for us to end on a high note is a nice feeling."

It didn't start out that way for the Lady Bears, however.

For most of the first half, the LCC eam had a devil of a time finding the bottom of the basket. Randolph held the Lady Bears scoreless, and LCC missed their first 17 shots from the field and shot an abysmal 4-for-30 from the floor in the first 16 minutes

In spite of the poor shooting percentage, LCC was still well within striking distance, as they trailed 17-11 at intermission.

"That was definitely some uncharted territory," Sims said of his team's first-half offensive woes. We had a lot of good looks that just wouldn't go, and the kids did a great job of battling through it."

Sims said he stressed his team's defensive play, which helped keep them in the game and set up the team's second-half comeback.

"We were getting good looks and just needed to attack the rim a little See PARENTING, Page 2B more, but I told the girls we played

The Lady Bears used defense and pionship of the Northeast Nebraska balanced scoring to post their second-half comeback. Sophomore Audra Corbit was the lone Lady Bear in double figures, finishing with 11 points, while Kiley Thompson had eight and Cameron Eddie put in

> "That's been one of our strengths," Sims said of the team's balanced scoring. "On any given night, somebody can step up and take the (scoring) role. It's tough to completely take away somebody, and when they tried to run a box-and-one, I knew it was something we could take advantage of."

The 13-7 Lady Bears have now won 10 in a row since a five-point loss to Hartington Cedar Catholic in early January. Some of the bumps son run of success, Sims said.

"It certainly helps that some of those (early) losses we had were against quality teams, and we had chances to win those games," he said. "We used those games to improve ourselves and getter, and it's paid off in the long run.

"Even with that competition, you still have to have the mental toughness to battle through those tough losses," Sims said. "If you can do that and you have faith in your teammates, you'll be better in the long run."

The Lady Bears close out the regular season with home games Friday and Saturday against Wisner-Pilger and Neligh-Oakdale.

ketball teams, I'm sure they could get a night out with their spouses AND provide some additional incentive for those conditioning wind sprints at the end of practice - first one done gets the job for the night, or the last one done has to handle diaper changes for the next week (I can assure you that the latter would get me to run at Olympic-level speeds – I still have nightmares remembering some of the messes I had to clean up all those years ago).

Teaching and coaching are challenging jobs, in and of themselves, but all the wins in the world don't quite match up to the rewards of being a parent. Both Wall and Sims will have a lot of wins and losses during their coaching careers, but none will be as fulfilling, or as challenging, as the joys and gifts that come from being a parent.

corner. With time winding down on the shot clock, he calmly drilled a 20-footer from the baseline to break the tie, and the Huskies escaped with the four-point win

Shelby scored a game-high 21 points and Williams added 17 to lead the way for the Wildcats. Aluong had six rebounds and shared high honors in assists with LaTroy Wright, as they both had four assists.

The Wildcats bounced back from the disappointing loss on Saturday, getting a career-high 17 points from Jordan Holdsworth to come away with a 65-55 win over Minnesota Duluth to improve to 13-9 overall and 7-9 in the NSIC.

Holdsworth did most of his damage in the first half, scoring 15 points to help the Wildcats take a 31-24 halftime lead.

It was a close game for much of the first half, but Holdsworth went on a one-man, 8-0 run, thanks to a pair of 3-pointers and a layup, Aluong hit a layup off a Wright assist and Ty Bauschek made two free throws to give the Wildcats the seven-point halftime lead.

Williams powered home a slam dunk early in the second half to fuel another Wildcat rally, and Shelby hit a basket to give Wayne State an 11-point lead, essentially putting the game out of reach. The Wildcats led by as many as 22 points before settling on the 10-point victory

Four Wildcats finished the game in double figures, led by Holdsworth's 17 points. Williams added 14 points and seven rebounds, Shelby scored 13 and Wright finished with 10.

Wayne State will be on the road this weekend, visiting Northern State Friday night at 8 p.m. followed by a Saturday night 6 p.m. Northern Sun Conference game at MSU Moorhead.

Wakefield wrestlers win own invitational

The Wakefield Trojans put themselves in good shape heading into this week's district action, as they came away with the first-place trophy at their own invitational on Saturday.

The Trojans finished with four champions and eight medalists overall. Winning individual titles were Irvin Escobar (113), Nick Gonzalez (120), Devin Anderson (138) and Caleb Thomas (160). Anderson earned his 100th career win on his way to the top of the medal stand.

Also earning medals for Wakefield were runner-up Justin Dorcey, third-place medalists Christian Chinchilla (170) and Alan Lopez (285), and fourth-place finisher Steve Sarmiento (195).

The Laurel-Concord/Coleridge Bears had one champion on the day and finished eighth in the 14-team meet.

Austin Roach was the Bears' only champion, claiming top honors at 170 pounds. Fourth-place medals went to Drew Lunz (138), Brett Haisch (182) and Ethan Hirschman (285)

DENTURE CARE: As a family dental practice we see patients of all ages. Some of our patients have either full dentures or a removable partial denture. In many cases we recommend and place implants to stabilize the denture, or even replace missing teeth. In cases where we can't and for our patients that prefer dentures we recommend these guidelines for care.

•Wash dentures in cold or warm, not hot, water. Be careful not to drop dentures on a hard surface, as they break easily. A good idea is to clean them over a sink full of water or towel

•Wash dentures daily with denture cleaner, hand soap, or dish soap. NO abrasive cleaners.

•Clean all denture surfaces by scrubbing thoroughly with a special denture brush. •After the adjustment phase, take your dentures out when you sleep to relieve pressure on your gums. If you cannot be without your dentures overnight, take them out for at least a couple of hours every day. Let them soak in a cleaning solution and don't let them dry out.

•Continue to brush your mouth (including your gums, palate, and tongue) with a soft- bristled subside as you grow accustomed to your dentures. Call your dentist if discomfort persists. NEVER try to adjust or repair your dentures on your own.

Full dentures have an average life span of 5 to 10 years. The fit of your dentures will change over time. When your dentures get too loose, your dentist can add a layer of material to the underside of the base so that they conform better to your mouth. This is called relining. The fit can also be corrected by making a new base. If the chewing surfaces become worn, your dentist can attach new teeth to the existing base. It's easy to keep your dentures looking good and fitting well for a long time by taking proper care of them Our team is here to help you!!

Conference tournament.

The Wayne Blue Devils managed to come away with a pair of fourthplace medals and finished sixth in the 10-team conference meet, and coach David Wragge said he was happy to see Aaron Svenson and Schuvler Schweers end the day with medals.

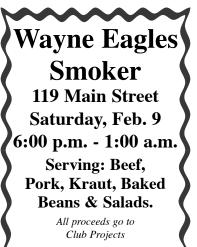

"It's awesome for those two kids to come through and get medals," he said. "This is not an easy conference, that's for sure. There were some very talented wrestlers and teams here, and it was nice to see those two do what they had to do to place and get a medal."

Svenson wrestled a tough consolation match with Dion Nemec of O'Neill, and a late comeback effort came up short as Svenson finished fourth at 126 with a 3-2 loss.

Schweers found the going tough in the 182-pound consolation match with Jesse Mayo of Madison. The Blue Devil freshman managed to avoid a pin and lost by technical fall to take fourth-place honors.

The Blue Devils wrap up the season this weekend at the B-2 district wrestling tournament at Boys Town. The top four individuals qualify for the state tournament, and Wragge said his charges will need to put it all together if they want to make it to next week's state tournament in Omaha.

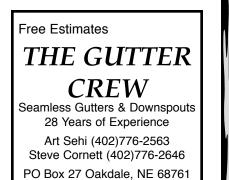

"There was a lot of tough competition here (at conference), but that's the way it is from here on out and we need to learn to compete with it and do what we have to get through," he said. "It all depends on how we

WBDA getting ready to host tourney

By ERICA BLAKLEY Of The Herald

The Wayne Basketball Development Association is gearing up for its annual Wavne Youth Basketball Tournament.

"We will have another full tournament again this year," Lee Stegemann said. "There are approximately 50 teams that will play in this tournament."

The tournament will be played at four locations in Wayne - the Wayne Community Activity Center, Wayne High School, Wayne Elementary School and the Wayne City Auditorium. The City Auditorium is a new host to this tournament, with the recent installation of new basketball hoops and a scoreboard.

Tournament play begins on Saturday, Feb. 16 from 8 a.m.-8 p.m. and will run through Sunday, and second place will be awarded in four or five Feb. 17, if necessary.

Boys and girls in grades 4-8 are eligible to parthree games. The WBDA combine grades to fill may full-court press up to a 15-point lead. No divisions, with same-grade teams playing each other in the first-round games, if need be. Players must compete in their own grade classification, except for younger players. Younger players may participate in older divisions. Each player may only play on one team.

Deadline to enter is Sunday, Feb. 10. The WB-DA will not guarantee placement by phone. They must have your check, roster and all required information. They also reserve the right to refuse the entrance of any team. Registration fee is $80 per team, payable to WBDA.

"I have sent out around 250 forms to coaches and club people," Stegemann said.

Team schedules will be mailed or e-mailed on Monday, Feb. 11

Medals will be awarded for first, second, and third place in each full division. Medals for first team brackets.

All games will consist of four six-minute quar-press allowed for grades 4-6. Each team is allowed two time outs per half, one 60-second and one 30-second timeout. Timeouts do not carry over. Overtime will be two minutes, with one 30-second timeout, and if a second overtime is needed, it will be a sudden victory situation.

Admission into the tournament will be $4 for adults and $2 for students, kids under age 5 will be free. Passes for two coaches and all players will be provided. Meal tickets for coaches will also be provided.

This tournament is made possible by volunteers and coaches, Stegemann said.

"Approximately 50 teams, 500 kids and 400-500 adults will be in attendance at this tournament," Stegemann said. "We will need lots of volunteers."

If interested in volunteering please contact Stegemann at (402) 518-0839 or Alex Koch (402) 375-4803

"I would just like to thank Alex Koch for all his ticipate. Each team will be guaranteed to play ters, with clocks stopped on all whistles. Teams help and participation in the tournament set-up process," Stegemann said.

Blue Devils earn big overtime victory

NORFOLK - After stumbling in beater to win in regulation missed Wayne High girls basketball team got back on the winning side with a gutsy overtime win at home Tuesday.

The Blue Devils got key 3-point shots in the extra session from Meagan Backer and Angie Nelson and posted a 44-37 win over Hartington Cedar Catholic to even their record at 11-11 on the season. The win came after being eliminated in the conference tourament by Boone Central/Newman Grove, who posted a 50-47 win over the Blue Devils Thursday in Norfolk.

"We were down five in the fourth, and came back and had a chance to win in regulation, and Meagan and Angie hit some big threes for us in the overtime," coach Nate Wall said.

It was a tight affair throughout on Tuesday. Wayne held a slim two-point lead after one period, but Cedar tied the game and took a four-point lead into the final period. Wayne's hopes for a buzzer the consolation round of the Mid the mark, but the Blue Devils got State Conference tournament, the hot in overtime, hitting 6-of-10 from the foul line to finish strong and get the win.

Sarah Maxson tossed in a gamehigh 14 points in the win, while Backer added 12 and Rachel Rauner put in eight.

The Blue Devils nearly pulled of a magical comeback in the consolation game against the Cardinals, trailing by six with seconds to go.

The Blue Devils got a 3-pointer from Tarah Stegemann to cut the Cardinal lead in half, and Wayne stole the inbounds pass and had a chance to tie the game. Maxson tried to hit a miracle shot from half court, but the shot just missed and the Cardinals slipped away with the win.

Nelson led all scorers in the game with 16 points, while Maxson had eight and Backer and Stegemann each had seven.

The Blue Devils face Concordia at home Thursday and close the regular season Friday at Madison before opening subdistrict play next week.

Pirates handle Winside boys

The Winside boys have had their struggles this season, but played Emerson-Hubbard tough in a makeup game over the weekend.

The Wildcats actually held a first-quarter lead for the first time this season, but Emerson-Hubbard came to life in the middle two periods, outscoring Winside 22-7 to come away with a 48-35 victory.

The Wildcats relied on the tandem of Colin Hansen and Garrett Watters, who each scored a gamehigh 15 points to help keep the Wildcats in contention.

Winside went cold in the second and third periods, and the Pirates were able to turn a four-point deficit into an 11-point advantage on their way to the victory.

Keith Mundil added three points and Bryce Meis scored two.

Allen teams earn road wins at Winside

Lady Eagles win by 22, boys by 12

Allen's boys and girls basketball teams both managed wins over Winside in Lewis and Clark Conference action Tuesday at Winside High School.

The two teams paused in between the girls and boys games to honor Veterans from both communities with a pregame ceremony. Allen's girls came away with a 51-29 win in the opener, while the Eagle boys played well in the second half and finished with a 52-40 win over the Wildcats.

Both teams struggled to get consistent play on the offensive end, but Allen seemed to right the ship a little better in the second half to pull away with the win.

Allen had two players share top honors in the scoring department, as Lindsey Jones and Brittany Sullivan both had 11 points. Vanessa Klug added six points for the winners.

Senior Nazya Thies had the hot hand for the Wildcats, finishing with a game-high 15 points. Mallory Stubbs tossed in six for the Winside girls.

The boys matchup was a close game for much of the first half, but Allen went on a late run to take a Allen 25-18 halftime lead.

Winside got as close as three points on a couple of occasions in the second half, but Allen was able to build its lead to as many as 17 points in the fourth quarter and hang on for the 12-point win.

Jacob Stewart had a huge night for the Eagles, finishing with a game-high 29 points on the night.

Zach Crom was the only other Eagle in double figures, finishing with 10 points.

Garrett Watters had a doubledouble with 20 points and 13 rebounds for the Wildcats, while Colin Hansen scored eight and Brock Carlson added five.

Wayne State's women needed a She converted the two foul shots big win this past weekend, and they got it Friday night.

Jordan Spencer made two goahead free throws with 8.5 seconds to play, and Ashton Yossi sealed the win with two more charity tosses with four-tenths of a second left to give the Wildcats a 69-65 win Friday over St. Cloud State in a key NSIC matchup at Rice Auditorium.

The game came down to the final minute of play, as the Huskies rallied from a seven-point deficit to tie the game at 65-65 on a 3-pointer by Rachael Moen.

The Wildcats worked the ball inside to Spencer, who drove aggressively to the basket and was fouled.

with 8.5 seconds left, and Wayne State's defense came up with a key steal that wound up in the hands of Yossi, who put the game out of reach with her two charity tosses with less than a second to go.

Both teams started slow, but the Wildcats went on a 12-point run after the Huskies scored the first basket of the game, giving Wayne State a 12-2 lead seven minutes into the half.

Wavne State led by 13 at 19-6 on a Spencer layup with 11:11 to go in the half, but the Huskies rallied and got as close as four on a trey by Moen, settling on a six-point deficit at the half, 28-22.

St. Cloud continued its momentum and took a 31-30 advantage with 17:23 to go, and the teams exchanged the lead until Wayne State put together a 10-1 run, capped by two free throws from Kara Powell, to make it 51-42 with 11:30 to go. The Wildcats would lead by eight until late in the game, when the Huskies made their final surge.

Taking advantage of a couple of turnovers, St. Cloud was able to trim a seven-point deficit down to nothing in the span of 80 seconds to tie the game, setting the stage for Spencer's late-game heroics.

Yossi scored a game-high 21 points in the win, leading four Wildcats in double figures. Freshman Addy Roller had 18 points, Spencer put in 10 and Ellen Hansen had a double-double with 10 points and 10 rebounds, notching her fifth-doubledouble of the season.

On Saturday, the Wildcats once again got off to a slow start, but came through with a big second-half run to put away Minnesota Duluth, 62-47, and improve to 13-7 overall (9-7 NSIC).

The two teams had trouble finding the bottom of the basket in the first half. Wayne State led 4-0 early, but went more than six minutes Moorhead Saturday at 4 p.m.

without a basket as the Bulldogs ran off 11 straight points.

Wayne State found its rhythm for a short time, going on an 11-4 run to take a 15-8 advantage on a layup by Hansen with 8:48 to go in the half. However, that would be the last points the Wildcats would score in the half, as the Wildcats' defense had to slow the Bulldogs down to keep the score close, with the visitors leading 20-15 at the break.

Duluth scored the first five points of the second half to lead by 10, but Wayne State held Duluth scoreless for almost eight minutes to fuel a 20-0 run that turned the momentum of the game around. Wayne State went from a 10-point deficit to a 10-point lead after a layup by Hansen midway through the second half.

Yossi was one of three Wildcats in double figures, finishing with a game-high 19 points. Both Spencer and Hansen had double-doubles in the win. Spencer had 16 points and 10 boards, while Hansen had 12 points and a team-best 13 rebounds.

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes Managing Editor

Sheehy abused the privilege and set a bad example

My younger nephew, John, once looked up to Rick Sheehy.

John (the face of the Canham Maytag ads you see in this newspaper) met the then-lieutenant governor of Nebraska during a field trip to the State Capitol a couple of years ago, and was so impressed with the state's No. 2 guy, along with former Speaker of the Legislature Mike Flood, that he now has aspirations of his own to get involved in politics when he grows

This past weekend, John had a birthday party to celebrate his upcoming 11th birthday, and while the kids were playing and swimming in a hotel pool, the adults at the party were talking about the guy my nephew hoped to one day emulate – although we're pretty sure, at this point, that there are some parts of Sheehy's character he'll choose to avoid replicating – and the Omaha World-Herald report about him making more than 2,300 calls on his state-issued cell phone to women he was having affairs with while still married to his wife of 29 years.

My nephew is one of those young children who has a big heart and chooses to see the good in people, rather than their dark sides. He was very disappointed to hear that the lieutenant governor he looked up to had put himself in this position, although not near as disappointed as the governor who asked for Sheehy's resignation.

Politicians fooling around on their spouses is nothing new under the sun. The memories of Bill Clinton and the intern, John Kennedy and Marilyn Monroe and any number of senators, representatives, governors and politicians of all shapes and sizes, from small communities to the nation's largest cities, are too numerous to mention. They are, after all, human beings making human mistakes that are made every single day.

The difference, though, in the case involving Rick Sheehy is twofold.

First, Sheehy was cheating on his wife, who filed for divorce last summer, well before news of his adult phone conversations hit the streets. His inability to take seriously his wedding vows brings his character into question, and it was already widely known in political circles that Sheehy's philandering would be potential fodder in the event the Nebraska Democratic Party ever got serious about presenting a viable candidate to run for governor in 2014 (something that party has been amazingly inept at doing of the school administrator's organization, and who oversee school lands and funds. in the past few election cycles).

Second, Sheehy abused the privilege of his position by using a piece of ate-issued communication equipment to conduct his off-hour, personal lustful conversations with other women, including a Bellevue doctor and a former Holdrege school board president, both of whom he reportedly had affairs with. State-issued equipment is supposed to be used only in the execution of state-related business - more than 2,300 late-night conversations, many of them sexual in nature, would not be considered affairs of the state. (If nothing else, this should be a wake-up call for people at all levels of government in the state to think twice about abusing their position in local, county or state government for personal benefit.) And what of the vast number of late-night calls to his "ladies in waiting?" I realize that Sheehy, as the governor's right-hand man, has to spend a lot of time on the road. The guy did log more than 60,000 miles last year alone conducting the state's business. Knowing that, I'd just like to know where the guy found time to sleep, between all the travel, meetings, personal appearances and late-night conversations with four women who weren't his wife. (A report in the Omaha World-Herald indicated that, during July of 2011, he called one woman 102 times for a total of 852 minutes, and another 18 times for a combined 104 minutes. By comparison, he talked with his wife 14 times that month, never for more than five minutes).

Capitol View Nothing new in Legislature

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

The Wayne

Developing a long-term relationship with the Nebraska Legislature leads one to understand that when it comes to lawmaking, very little is new under the sun.

Take for instance, Senator Ken Haar's suggestion (LB323) that a committee be formed to monitor how state aid is distributed to schools. The lawmaker from Malcolm calls it the School Finance Review Committee that would consist of four members of the general public appointed by the governor; four school administrators or officials appointed by the State Board of Education; four school board members appointed by the chairman of the Legislature's Education Committee; three members of the Legislature appointed by the Executive Board of the Legislative Council; a representative of the governor appointed by the governor; and the state property tax administrator, who would be a nonvoting member.

That's 17 people who would be charged with not only understanding the convoluted way in which school aid is determined and administered, but also be willing to be the keepers of that knowledge over time in the face of term limits. Haar, who was just elected to his second and final term in the nation's only one-house legislature, said the committee is needed because term limits keep turning out lawmakers after they master an understanding of how the school funding formula works.

Admittedly it's a great idea, but not a new one. Back in 1988, lawmakers passed a bill (LB940) to create the School Financing Review Commission to do an in-depth study on school finance and produce recommendations for change. The underlying motive was to give both the executive and legislative branches of government a voice and an understanding.

The result was the long-studied and hardfought Nebraska Tax Equity and Educational Opportunities Support Act. It was a fitting name for an unwieldy problem. It was also the topic of a doctoral dissertation by the legislative liaison for the Nebraska Council of School Administrators, a fresh-faced young man from Gering named Mike Dulaney. In 1990, when he did the research and wrote the dissertation, he discovered that at least 73 measures dealing with school finance were on the table between 1975 and 1990. Dulaney is now the executive director school finance is still a hot topic.

The history of school finance in Nebraska dates to 1855 when the Common Schools Act was passed and a property tax levy of not less than three mills to the dollar was established. By 1864, a State Auditor's report indicated that there was "corruption in school funding." In 1867, the Territorial Governor reported the "school finance law was disorganized and in disarray." Nebraska's first Governor, David Butler, was impeached because he had "not deposited $17,000 in school funds into the state treasury." State Treasurer "Honest John Gillespie" was also impeached.

In 1854, the Kansas-Nebraska Act established the Nebraska Territory and stipulated that land sections 16 and 36 were to be reserved for the purpose of being applied to schools. There were nearly 3 million acres set aside for that purpose. Thirty years later, a committee was formed to investigate school land practices because the Board of Public Lands allegedly let speculators gain control of much of the land. Among the more than 600 bills up for consideration in the 2013 Legislature is one dealing with the folks as state aid to schools. The State Aid to Weak School Districts measure allocated $50,000 from the treasury. Under the law, K-8 schools had to meet a seven-month attendance requirement and set the maximum levy allowed by law to receive state aid. The money, a whopping $125 per district, was to be used for the teacher's wage.

In 1907, lawmakers passed the first bill listed

Decades of allegations and bills and formulas set the stage for the introduction of LB940 and that first commission. Under the watchful eye of then Education Committee Chairman (and later Speaker of the Legislature) Senator Ron Withem, the commission persevered and finally called for the automatic repeal of the existing formula on June 30, 1991, and called for a new school finance system to be in place by January 1, 1992.

Over an eighteen-month period, from 1988 to 1989, the commission held 21 meetings, five public hearings and listened to dozens of presentations by staff and outside experts in order to arrive at its conclusions. On January 1, 1990, the commission formally issued its final report entitled, "Funding Nebraska's Schools: Toward a More Rational and Equitable School Finance System for the 1990s.'

More on school aid next time.

This isn't the kind of personal behavior that should be representing the people of Nebraska at any level, especially in the State Capitol. Any individual who is willing to cheat on his spouse, in my view, won't think twice about compromising his or her position as a leader in state government, leaving himself and his administration open to any kind of corruption

And think of the example he is setting, particularly for young aspiring politicians like my nephew. Fortunately, he has some solid role models to choose from in how to conduct himself and stay true to his ideals (it also helps to have an unabashed political cynic like his uncle to tell him the real story that the mainstream media refuses to tell about some of our government officials), and I'm sure that, if that is the path he chooses to follow, he'll make an outstanding representative at any level of government and be the kind of person that people will be proud to have as their mayor, governor – heck, even President of the United States.

I just feel bad for my nephew that he has to see somebody who he looked up to be shown for the unfaithful, ethically bankrupt individual he really

Legislature is hearing a bill that apmeetings, procedures and officers. Within Article 5 you will find that it says that schools which have a classification of Class II (there are 18 in the state, none of which are in District 17) will have six members and Class III schools will have six members unless the board of education provides for a nine-member board. Most schools in Nebraska (all schools in District 17) are considered a Class III school. Class IV schools (Lincoln Public Schools) shall consist of seven members and may include a nonvoting student member. Class V (Omaha Public Schools) schools shall consist of 12 members and may also include a non-voting student member.

As a result, it takes action of the Legislature for the makeup of the Omaha School Board to be changed. Yes, the Legislature COULD take action to change the size of our local school boards, but they could not do it for individual school districts, but only for a certain class or size of schools like we are doing for the Class V schools right now. (Relax; I don't see this happening for Class III schools.) It is happening with Omaha Public Schools in an attempt to address issues that have been brought to the Legislature's attention by the senators representing that area.

I am all for local control, LB125 does not remove local control; it simply reduces the size of the board from 12 members to nine in the hopes that the board can act more efficiently to address problems within OPS. I did vote to advance LB125 out of committee and then again on the floor. I would like to see some changes made to the bill, namely that the election of the school board members be held in conjunction with a general election rather than the city election. This is a critical point in my opinion because part of the school district falls outside of the Omaha city limits and crosses county lines.

I have also received numerous calls and emails inquiring about my position on Governor Heineman's 471-2716 or e-mail dbloomfield@leg. tax proposals. LB405 and LB406 ne.gov.

Legislative Update By Dave Bloomfield State Senator, District 17

as introduced are bills that I cannot support. I have real concerns on how these proposals would impact the agriculture and manufacturing industries in our state. I will continue to watch these bills until they have been heard by the Revenue Committee. There will no doubt be changes in them. Perhaps something more palatable will emerge. We must also remember that there are spending cuts that can still be made and programs that need not be expanded. Revenues to the state may have increased, that does not mean we should go on a spending binge

Please understand my opposition to the bills as written, does not mean that I oppose the tax cuts. I do believe we must be very careful, however, where and how the tax burden is shifted. No one or two sectors of our state can or should bear an overwhelming portion of that burden.

Energy Efficiency for Valentine's Day

How about a different idea this Valentine's season? Rather than running to the floral shop or greeting card section, why not impress your Valentine with a gift that says you care, while reducing the energy used at home?

Have you considered buying a programmable thermostat and properly setting it for winter and summer use? This could reduce heating and cooling costs by more than 10 percent. Today's models are simple enough for most homeowners to install themselves and offer up to hour-by-hour programming for the home's temperature. One rule of thumb is that each degree in Fahrenheit the thermostat is set back over an eight-hour period translates to a one percent savings in heating costs

Though it is certainly not traditional for this time of year, look at buying a new high-efficiency refrigerator/freezer. When compared to units made 30 years ago, today's units only use a third as much energy. That can translate to saving well over $100 per year in energy costs.

Have you looked at the new, high-efficiency clothes washers lately? About 90 percent of the plest way to ensure your buying quality, energy efficient appliances is to purchase those with the "Energystar" on their label.

Rather than considering the purchase of a throw blanket, blanket the attic in insulation. Since attics are fairly easy to get into, they are often the most cost-effective insulation project vou can do in vour home. In Nebraska, vou should have at least enough insulation to provide a R38 value. If you are not sure if you have adequate insulation in your home, visit with your local electric utility. You might be eligible for an incentive, too.

Energy efficient Valentine's giving does not have to come with a larger price tag. There are lots of things you can give or do that will not break the bank.

It may sound crazy, but how about a new pleated furnace filter? A clean filter helps your heating and cooling system maintain its efficien-energy used to wash clothes is used heating the cy. Note that pleated filters have more surface water. So if you purchase a unit that makes the area than the cheaper fiberglass filters. While most out of cold water washing, you can realize you may not need to replace your filter monthly, some significant savings. Remember, the sim- you should check it on a regular basis to ensure it is clean enough to function properly. Dirty filters reduce airflow, which causes your system to run longer and consume more energy.

Here is a bright idea. An LED light bulb will usually last more than 20 years. Over the course of its lifetime, you will save more than $100 when compared to using standard light bulbs. Most LED light bulbs are fully dimmable and many screw into your existing light sockets.

How about a simple idea; a tube of caulk? Most tubes cost less than the average Valentine's card. More importantly, the money saved in heating and cooling costs usually pays for the caulk in less than one year. Some types of caulk have rated lifetimes of over 25 years, which means energy savings for years to come!

For more great ideas on how to make you and your Valentine EnergyWise, contact your local utility or visit www.nppd.com.

Supporting Scouting

Members of the Winside Sons of the American Legion (SAL) recently presented a check for $500 to the Winside Girl Scout Troop. The money will go toward the purchase of color guard flags and stands for the girls to use when participating in activities at school and in parades. Currently there are three groups of Girl Scouts in Winside - Daisys with six girls and two leaders; Brownies with eight girls and two leaders and Juniors with six girls and one leader. Pictured (left) are Ashelyn Abler, Marshawn Gubbels (Brownie Leader), Hannah Gubbels, Jamie Janke, MaKenna Russell, Heather Hardisty, Haylee Hardisty, Aubrie Ewards, Nevaeh Rastede, Keith Mundil (representing the SAL), Tara Behmer (Junior Leader), Brooklyn Behmer, Kylie Cautrell, Aubreanna Rodriguez and Jaden Rastede. A total of nine members and leaders were not present for the photo.

> Take time for yourself. Just 10 to 20 minutes of quiet reflection may bring relief from chronic stress as well as increase your tolerance to it. Use the time to listen to music, relax, and try to think of pleasant things. If you feel your muscles begin to tense, take a minibreak and breathe deeply, inhale to the count of six, pause for a second and then tively that it CAN be done. By making it work, you put a positive spin on negative thoughts which can help you work through stressful situations.

Keep laughing. Humor is a great way to relieve stress. Laughter releases endorphins - natural substances that help you feel better and maintain a positive attitude. Studies suggest laughter may lower blood pressure, boost the immune system and increase circulation as well.

If new stressors are challenging your ability to cope or if oncehelpful techniques seem to have lost their effectiveness, you may need to look for new reinforcements. There are plenty of books, websites, and support groups dedicated to helping people get through tough times. You may also find it helps to talk to someone about the stressors in your life, e.g., a good friend or a professional counselor. Sometimes an outside perspective makes all the difference

Remember, stress is a part of life it's never going to completely disappear, but you have the tools to keep stress from taking over your life. Put the small steps listed above to good use.

Praise Assembly events are set

Praise Assembly of God, located at 1000 East 10th Street in Wayne, is a church that focuses on "Biblecentered teaching, heartfelt worship, and fervent concern for others that is supported by regular times of prayer."

The church has services on Wednesday (6:30 p.m. "Kids' Praize" and "Adult Bible Study") and Sunday's (Sunday School at 9:30 a.m., Morning Worship at 10:30 a.m., and "LifePoint" Bible Study and Prayer at 6:30 p.m.).

The congregation will be having its "Annual Church Hall Meeting" within the next couple of months.

In his Sunday morning message on Feb. 3, Rev. Jason Pickering included these key points in his message: "The marks of the healthy church are 1) a hunger for God, 2) a love for others, 3) a commitment to God's Word, 4) a dedication to evangelism and missions, and 5) a commitment to the restoration of the New Testament Church."

"There is a place for YOU at Praise Assembly. Look for the church on FaceBook at 'Wayne Praise.' Hope to see you this weekend!" Pastor Pickering said.

Twenty nine Nebraska LEAD 31 Fellows recently returned from the 2013 International Study/Travel Seminar to Hong Kong, Vietnam and Taiwan.

"Our international study is designed to provide first-hand appreciation and understanding of our international community and the potential for people of all nations to work together," said Terry Hejny, Nebraska LEAD Program director and group leader.

During the Jan. 12-24 seminar, LEAD Fellows attended briefings at the U.S. Consulate offices in Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh City and met with American business, agricultural trade and commodity groups. Additionally, LEAD Fellows were able to meet with officials at the Hanoi University of Agriculture, the Vietnam Farmers Union and the Taiwan Council of Agriculture, Executive Yuan.

"The people-to-people encounters provided the members of Nebraska LEAD Group 31 an opportunity to view characteristics, conditions and trends of Hong Kong, Vietnam and Taiwan and determine relationships to issues and situations in our country," Hejny said.

LEAD 31 Fellows that participated in alphabetical order are: Sondra Anderson, Harrisburg; David Bray, Omaha; Brandon Carter, Gothenburg; Brock Elsen, Sumner; Josh Fries, Imperial; Jeff Henn, Omaha; Chandra Horky, Sargent; Jerad Hutchens, Lincoln; Tom Jasnoch, Ogallala; Tony Johanson, Oakland; Suzanna Klaasmeyer, Hershey; Sara Lemburg, Ewing; Matt Miller, Mitchell; Sean Minahan, Plattsmouth; Gerri L. ### Taste of Chocolate

Wayne Optimist Club will hold the second-annual Taste of Chocolate fundraiser this Sunday from 2-4 p.m. at The Oaks. Along with a large variety of chocolate treats, there will be entertainment for the afternoon consisting of music for those wanting to listen and enjoy their favorite chocolate. Tickets can be purchased from Optimist members or at the door. Tickets will be $10 for one or $18 for two. Proceeds go toward scholarships to area high school graduates. Several businesses will provide chocolate treats as well as members so "there promises to be something for everyone's taste buds."

Rant for the week— don't

Well, all the hype is over, and another Super Bowl is in the record books. Since Sam Koch is from Seward, we kind of pulled for the Ravens. And they almost lost it! But in our eves, the real winner was the Dodge commercial: God Made a Farmer. People have been sending that to me for years, but I loved this version, complete with neat photos. We also liked the Clydesdale foal that grew up to pull a Budweiser wagon.

But enough about that; I want to ask this week just what is wrong with women??? Do they not have any pride?

We have a lieutenant governor, married, with children, having an affair with a doctor while carrying on hours of cell phone conversations with three other women. When did he sleep? And why would he use a state-issued cell phone? How dumb is that? But what's wrong with these women? They knew he was married!

Just as all those gals who slept with Tiger Woods knew, and he was also a father. Is it such a thrill to be used by a celebrity? How about the fellow who was actually going to be on reality TV with a show called My Babies' Mamas, featuring 11 children by 10 different women. Believe it or not, after criticism from both the left and the right, that show was cancelled. Again I ask, what is wrong with those women?

A letter to Ann Landers today says she has "been with" her guy for 10 years and they have children, but, for some reason, he doesn't want to get married! What should she do? Duh! I shudder to think of all the poor kids in this country who don't have dads, or don't know who their fathers are, and are growing up without father figures.

At least, the above mentioned women who took up with politicians or golfers did not have children, I will give them that. BUT, they were being taken advantage of! Don't they get it? I believe feminism has sold females a bill of goods, and they have fallen for it. They are being used and abused, and I'm sick and tired of hearing about it.

It's bad enough to read about all the sex trafficking that goes on; most of those girls are innocent victims. But these are adults, who should know better. For the life of me, I cannot understand dating anyone who was still married. How many women have fallen for that line, "My wife and I are not getting along. She doesn't understand me."?

It's sad, and maddening, and it doesn't seem to end. And to think that Rick Sheehy wanted to be our governor! Mothers, don't let your daughters grow up to sleep with married men! Or, better yet, don't let them sleep with any guy until they have a ring on their finger. That's my rant for the week. And I'm sticking to it!

Online resource for wood prodcuts

A new resource helps producers market forestry products. The Wood Products Exchange, created by the Nebraska Forest Service, is a free online service that facilitates the exchange of forestry-related products and services, making it quicker and more efficient to match buyers and sellers

The NFS online exchange accepts only forestry-related listings: sawmills, tree shears, post peelers, graders, logs and lumber, wood chips, wood pellets and woodshop services

Other NFS online wood products resources include a directory of timber buyers and forest products manufacturers, both primary and secondary. An interactive map assists in locating buyers and manufacturers. To submit a listing for the free online Wood Products Exchange, contact Dennis Adams at dadams2@unl.edu or Adam Smith at asmith11@unl.edu. Access the Wood Products Exchange at nfs.unl. edu/exchange.

The market was lower on the 20 head sold.

Nebraska women will learn how to care and plan for their farms, their communities, their families and themselves at the 28th Women in Agriculture Conference, one of the longest-running women's conference of its kind, Thursday and Friday, Feb. 21-22 at the Kearney Holiday Inn. The theme of this year's conference is "Communicating in Challenging Times," and it features a variety of workshops, "funshops" and speakers, including renowned animal scientist Temple Grandin.

Grandin, a professor of animal science at Colorado State University, is a world leader in the design of livestock handling and cattle processing facilities. Her designs emphasize reducing animal stress. Grandin also consulted with such companies as McDonald's, Cargill and Tyson. Along with her research in animal handling, Grandin has both written and spoken about her experience with autism, which she sessions during the event. Topics include livestock and grain marketing, crop insurance, family communication, business transition and beef nutrition.

R.P. Smith, a cowboy poet from Broken Bow, will entertain for the Thursday evening program, followed by "funshops," opportunities to network and socialize in a lowpressure setting.

Those interested can register online at wia.unl.edu. They can also register by calling (800) 535-3456 or by faxing their form to (402) 472-0776. Hard copy registration forms can be sent to Women in Agriculture, UNL Agricultural Economics, 303 Filley Hall, Lincoln, Neb., 68583. The early-bird fee of $100 per person is due by Feb. 8. Following that date the fee is $120 per person. Fee includes workshop materials, registration and meals. Lodging is available at the Kearney Holiday Inn, 110 2nd Ave., (308) 237-5971.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Public Notice - Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District Amended Groundwater Management Area Rules and Regulations to become effective February 25, 2013 ORDER OF DESIGNATION

WHFREAS. the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (District) has established a ground water management area throughout the entire District and, under Neb. Rev. Stat 46-739, is authorized to adopt controls for the conservation, protection, development, and sound management of natural resources within the management area;

WHEREAS, the District established a ground water management area for ground water quantity in accordance with Neb. Rev. Stat. § 46-712;

WHEREAS, one objective of the management area is to protect ground water quantity to ensure that an adequate supply of ground water is available for beneficial uses (the Objective)

WHEREAS, the District adopted certain goals to support the ground water quantity objective, including minimizing pumping conflicts and protecting municipal and domestic ground water supplies (the Goals).

WHEREAS, Rule 12 of the Rules and Regulations for the Enforcement of the Nebraska Ground Water Management and Protection Act in the District (the Rules and Regulations) support the Goals and the Objective by establishing Action Levels aimed Parcel ID at long-term ground water quantity protection; WHEREAS, during the 2012 irrigation season a severe drought impacted the ground water 5138 quantity supply in many areas of the District, 5149 causing numerous pumping conflicts and 5154 impacts to domestic ground water supplies. 5164 During that irrigation season, the District 5177. received over 200 individual complaints 5189 about impacts to domestic wells. To date. 5209 domestic users have spent over $500,000 to repair impacted domestic wells, including 5226 approximately $110,000 in cost-share from the 5238 District: 5260 WHEREAS, following the 2012 irrigation 5276 season, the District observed declines in all 8107. 243 irrigation wells in the District's monitoring program. The District observed the lowest ground water levels in 36 years of data 1069 collection at one-third of those monitored 1094 WHEREAS, the 2012 irrigation season 1121 exposed sensitive areas in the District that 1161 are more vulnerable to ground water quantity 1172 issues and conflicts due to varying ground 1177 water uses or varying climatic, hydrologic, 8157 geologic, or soil conditions. Because of these 8158 factors, the uniform application of the Action Levels in Rule 12 to the entire District would 8223 fail to carry out the intent of the Nebraska Ground Water Management and Protection Act in a reasonably effective and equitable 1425 manner within these certain sensitive areas. 1588 As a result, it was necessary for the District to 1590 adopt different controls for different portions 1595 of the management area in order to meet the 2171 Goals and the Objective within these sensitive areas: 2182

Rev. Stat. § 46-743 to consider proposed amendments to the District's rules and regulations for the management area; WHEREAS, the District considered the

for the general health and welfare of the District and for the conservation, protection, development, and sound management of natural resources within the management area, to adopt the proposed amendments to the District's rules and regulations for the management area. Copies of the Order, Amended Rules and Regulations indexed to the Order as Exhibit A, and Quantity Subarea Map indexed to the Order as Exhibit B, are available for public inspection at the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District office at 601 East Benjamin Avenue, Suite 101, Norfolk, Nebraska 68701, and on the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District website at www.lenrd.org;

WHEREAS, the District finds it necessary to publish its Order as passed by the District during its January 24, 2013 board meeting, pursuant to Neb. Rev. Stat. § 46-744 once each week for three consecutive weeks within the affected Quantity Subareas; WHEREAS, the Amended Rules and Regulations of the District: Clarify and amend the General

New names added to the unclaimed property database in 2012 will be printed in the annual unclaimed property report to be published in 16 Nebraska newspapers in March and April, as required by law. Treasurer Stenberg urged Nebraskans to check for their names in the tabloid when it appears in their local newspapers. Nebraskans also can check for their names in the unclaimed property database at any time by going to the Treasurer's website at www. treasurer.org. A search box for unclaimed property appears on the home page.

Scrapbooking fundraiser set for Feb. 23

The Wayne Optimists Club is sponsoring a Scrapbooking fundraiser.

Any and all scrapbookers, card makers or crafters are invited to join the group and help raise funds for youth activities in this area. The event will be held Saturday, Feb. 23 from 9 a.m.-7 p.m. at Our Savior Lutheran Church, 421 Pearl Street.

The Optimist Club will have Close to My Heart consultant Amy Hall and Stamp'n Up consultant, Bev Schrieber available during the day to answer questions and share Make'n Take projects.

The cost of the all day event, inand you'll be entered into a drawing for a Night Out on the Town.

You could win:

- A gift certificate to Geno's Steakhouse
- 2 movie passes at the Majestic Theatre
- A bottle of champagne

It may really pay off to be an early bird this year!

Citizenship Award winner

At the recent Winside PAW (Pride At Winside) Assembly, Superintendent/Elementary Principal Jeff Messersmith awarded Kindergarten student Korbin Carlson with the Citizenship Award and a movie pass. Korbin is a super role model, great listener, and hard worker.
