Fire crews from five communities worked to put out a fire that started in a downtown building in Laurel early Thursday morning. The fire gutted the 1902 bank building and the nearby Thrivent Financial for Lutherans business to the south.

2 a.m. alcohol sales in Wayne clears first hurdle Ordinance would eliminate need

Although the majority of last week's meeting of the Wayne City Council revolved around the proposed Wellhead Protection Plan, council members did approve several ordinances during the meeting.

Council members gave second reading approval to two ordinances that will allow extended hours of the sale of alcoholic beverages to 2 a.m. for St. Patrick's Day and the Wayne Alumni Weekend (March 29-30).

The ordinances will be brought back for final reading at the March 5 meeting.

Also given approval was amending the city code for the sale of alcohol.

This ordinance will allow for the sale of alcoholic beverages until 2 a.m. year-round and eliminate the need for the council to establish ordinances each time a special request is made. Several years ago, state laws were amended to give individual cities the ability to add the additional hour to the sale of alcoholic beverages in those establishments authorized to sell alcohol. It does not change the time frame for carry-out sales of alcohol.

The ordinance will be brought back for second reading at the council's next meeting

Council members also gave approval for Dec. 31, 2013. the amendment of the city code in regard to the number of parking spaces for new retail tion for a Police Sergeant for the Wayne business construction. The change will allow the lots to be developed into retirement villa homes.

A public hearing was also held on the Planning Commission's recommendation to replat a parcel of land across the highway from Pac 'N' Save. This will allow for the parcel to be subdivided and developed into commercial lots.

Council members approved the recommendation from the LB840 Committee to grant a $240,000 Performance Based Loan over 20 years to develop and construct Angel Village, a 20-unit senior living complex.

Lou Benscoter, who plans to construct this complex, told the council that the homes will be designed as a "step down" for seniors who wish to move from their larger homes, but are not yet ready for a retirement facility. He said the project will create jobs in the community.

LB840 funds in the amount of $33,000 in a Performance Based Loan were approved to Wriedt Properties to help relocate six mobile homes in the Wriedt Trailer Court and make room for at least 12 market-rate apartments to be developed on the property. Council members noted that one-sixth of the funding will be allowed as each trailer is moved. The trailers need to be moved by

Wayne artist shows love of art through his metal sculpting

By KATIE KASL Of the Herald

Michael Fluent was a teenager when he first tried woodcarving.

"I did not do well at all," he admitted.

Then, while stationed overseas during the Vietnam War, Fluent found himself sitting in a jungle with a book on woodcarving that he'd borrowed from the library.

In the two or three months he was there with that book, he read it.

And read it.

And read it some more.

And then he came home and made art.

The process was a release for Fluent, one that eventually paved the way for ventures in other media.

"I have always admired art," Fluent said. Which would probably explain the female figure painted on the door to his shop in Wavne.

Not to mention the work on the walls of his bathroom in that same studio, art that even includes a painting that, Fluent says, helped move him to pursue a career in art.

His passion would probably also explain why. in addition to woodcarving, the Newcastle native has experience with clay and photography.

Fluent's current medium-of-choice, however, is metal, and he uses it to make everything from steel-and-glass jewelry to large-scale sculptures, examples of which can be seen throughout town: there's a tree at Providence Medical Center, butterflies at the Wayne Public Library and, in the near future, original pieces that will be installed at Miss Molly's.

Though a lot of his work stays in-state – he's displayed at the Norfolk Arts Center and the Noyes Gallery in Lincoln - Fluent admits that's he's also shipped pieces to both coasts. These creations, whether for himself or for others, provide ample opportunity for Fluent to try new techniques.

"I'm still experimenting, still learning," Fluent said. "(I'm) changing all the time."

Artist Michael Fluent, shown as he works on a current project in his studio in Wayne, started his career in woodcarving but now focuses primarily on metal sculpture.

For Fluent, rebar and railroad spikes create plasma.

become the ears on rusty, life-sized replicas of cornstalks. A hammer isn't just a tool to drive nails into wood; pound it against a sheet of metal shaped like a pine tree, and it creates texture. The flame of a blow torch, when applied to a leaf made of steel, brings out an array of rainbow colors in the substance.

Cornstalks, trees, leaves: it's not a coincidence. There's a pattern to Fluent's work.

"I go more towards realistic and nature, but I try to push myself out of that sometimes," Fluent said, describing his subject matter.

Granted, as much as Fluent likes to experiment with his art, one thing remains constant: the sculptor is a fan of the plasma cutter, a tool that can pierce through various metals by heating air with electricity to attitude to have.

"It has probably done more for my sculpture than any other tool," he said.

Cutting by hand gives Fluent a great deal of control, allowing him to be versatile in his creations, and he doesn't plan to veer from the process.

"I try to stay away from the machines, (from) computerized cutting," Fluent said.

Another constant: Fluent doesn't monitor his time when he works on a piece, meaning that, when someone asks him how long it takes to create a particular sculpture, he doesn't have a definite answer.

"I never keep track," he said. "It'd be too tempting to price it by hours. I don't want it to be an hourly job.'

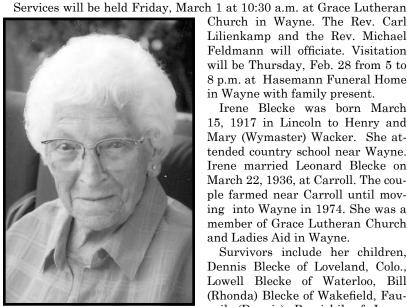

And, for someone as passionate about art as Fluent is, maybe that's not such a bad

Hispanic and women farmers and ranchers claims must be postmarked by March 25

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack has reminded Hispanic and Phone: (888) 508-4429 Claims Pewomen farmers and ranchers who allege discrimination by the USDA in past decades that there are 25 days remaining in the filing period closing March 25, 2013.

"Hispanic and women farmers who believe they have faced discriminatory practices in the past from the USDA have 25 days left to file a claim in order to have a chance to receive a cash payment or loan forgiveness," Secretary Vilsack said. "USDA urges potential claimants to contact the Claims Administrator for information and mail their claim packages on or before March 25, 2013."

The process offers a voluntary alternative to litigation for each Hispanic or female farmer and rancher who can prove that USDA denied his or her application for loan or loan servicing assistance for discriminatory reasons for certain time periods between 1981 and 2000. As announced in February 2011, the voluntary claims process will make available at least $1.33 billion for cash awards and tax relief payments, plus up to $160 million in farm debt relief, to eligible Hispanic and women farmers and ranchers. There are no filing fees to participate in the program.

The Department will continue reaching out to potential Hispanic and female claimants around the country to get the word out to individuals who may be eligible for this program so they have the opportunity to participate.

Call center representatives can be reached at 1-888-508-4429. Claimants may register for a claims package (by calling the number or visiting the website) or may download the forms from the website. All those interested in learning more or receiving information about the claims process and claims packages are encouraged to attend meetings in your communities about the claims process and contact the website at any time or call center telephone number Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Eastern Time.

Website: www.farmerclaims.gov riod: September 24, 2012-March 25. 2013.

Independent legal services companies will administer the claims process and adjudicate the claims. Although there are no filing fees to participate and a lawyer is not required to participate in the claims process, persons seeking legal advice may contact a lawyer or other legal services provider.

Under Secretary Vilsack's leadership, USDA has instituted a comprehensive plan to strengthen the Department as a model service provider and to ensure that every farmer and rancher is treated equally and fairly as part of "a new era of civil rights" at USDA. In February 2010, the Secretary announced the Pigford II settlement with African American farmers, and in October 2010. he announced the Keepseagle settlement with Native American farmers. Both of those settlements have since received court approval. Unlike the cases brought by African American and Native American farmers, the cases filed by Hispanic and women farmers over a decade ago were not certified as class actions. The claims process provides a voluntary alternative to continuing litigation for Hispanic and female farmers and ranchers who want to use it.

Audio and video public service announcements in English and Spanish from Secretary Vilsack and downloadable print and web banner ads on the Hispanic and women farmer claims process are available at: www.usda.gov/wps/portal/usda/ usdahome? contentidonly=true&co ntentid=PSAs_Print_and_WebBanner_Ads.xml.

NENCAP's Health Services Program will provide lead screening to children 12 months to five years of age at the Immunization Clinics for a fee of $10. Children may get lead poisoning from paint of homes built before 1978, tap water, food, pottery, dirt, dust and even from the air we breathe. Elevated blood levels can cause irreversible damage to the brain and nervous system; it can harm the kidneys and digestive system; and because lead reduces the ability for the body to produce red blood cells, it can cause anemia.

The Immunization Clinic is open to the public, and there are no income guidelines. Each child should be accompanied by a parent or guardian. Past immunization records are required. Proxy forms are needed when a parent or legal guardian is unable to accompany the child to clinic. Proxy forms may be obtained by contacting the Pender office at (402) 385-6300.

A suggested donation of $20 per child is appreciated to help defray administrative costs. If a child only receives one immunization, then the suggested donation is $13.50. No one will be denied immunizations for inability to make a donation. Immunizations are needed at ages 2 months, 4 months, 6 months, 12-15 months and 4-6 years.

This project is supported in part by Federal Immunization Program Funds awarded to Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership by the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services. The Immunization Program is also partially funded by the Pfizer Foundation.

Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership, in conjunction with the Nebraska Health & Human Services Vaccines for Children Program, offers Menactra (meningitis) for 11-18 year olds, Tdap (tetanus with pertussis) for 7-18 year olds, Hepatitis A for 12 months to 18 year olds, RotaTeq (rotavirus) for infants and Gardasil for VFC eligible 11-18 year olds, as well as other recommended childhood vaccines. some connections with Wayne, America.

"The Bully Effect: An Anderson Cooper Special" chronicles the journeys of a bullied child, a grieving parent, a victim of violence and a filmmaker turned activist. Each has become a powerful foot soldier in the high-stakes battle against bullying, inspiring a grassroots movement that has helped spark sweeping changes from school policies to state laws to federal legislation.

"The Bully Effect: an Anderson Cooper Special," presented in partnership with Cartoon Network and Stop Bullying: Speak Up, will premiere on Thursday at 9 p.m. The special will re-air on Sunday, March 3 at 7 p.m., and on Saturday, March 9 at 7 p.m.

"Bullying can have devastating consequences for children, parents and educators, and I'm very proud of our continuing work to focus attention on it," said Cooper. "Families, schools and organizations across the country

An upcoming documentary on CNN has are wrestling with how best to address the of- a visit to the White House. ten complex issues surrounding bullying, and we want to do all we can to help them in those efforts," he added.

> In the award-winning documentary "Bully," filmmaker Lee Hirsch embedded himself in schools across America and captured footage so raw and eye-opening, it sounded alarm bells and helped create a tipping point about how critical the issue of bullying has become. But then something else happened. In the year since "Bully" was released, the people featured in it have all gone through profound personal transformations.

> Viewers will revisit three characters from "Bully": Alex Libby, Kelby Johnson and Kirk Smalley.

Libby, a 12-year-old in Sioux City, Iowa, was confronted with slurs, threats and beatings on the school bus nearly every day. Today, he has become an anti-bullying rock star

Ever since Johnson came out as a lesbian in middle school, her entire family has been treated like pariahs in their hometown. She speaks about attempting suicide on three separate occasions. Now 19, her participation in "Bully" empowered her to raise awareness about bullying targeted towards the most at risk population for suicide – LGBT youth.

Smalley's story is both inspirational and heartbreaking. "Bully" introduced him as he buried his son Ty, days after he committed suicide. In "The Bully Effect," Smalley channels his unbearable loss into a new calling: empowering kids to take a stand against bullying. He mentions a number of communities that have joined in the effort, including Wayne.

Since his film's release, Hirsch has been on his team launched The Bully Project, an orga- culture of bullying, can be found online at with appearances on national television and nization created to inspire people to fight bullying. His goal is to get one million students to see "Bully" through their schools.

"We had this idea that if we can get a million kids to see the film, and their educators and their parents and the community, that would create an undeniable tipping point in our country," Hirsch said.

Hirsch has also helped create an anti-bullying curriculum based on the film so that students, teachers and administrators can take action in their own communities after watching the film together.

How about a lesson on setting up or managing an e-mail account?

Do you want to learn how to Skype? By the way, what is Skype?

Want to crop, edit and manage your digital pictures?

The Wayne Public Library will have a Photoshop class for all.

Computer classes have been scheduled at the library. This project is supported in part by the Department of Commerce, National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA) Broadband Technology Opportunity Program (BTOP), funded by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation as administered by the Nebraska Library Commission. Costs and fees will be paid for by these entities.

All classes are free to the library and participants in the classes. Instructors will be provided by Northeast Community College.

The classes scheduled at Wayne Public Library include:

Basic e-mail, 6:30-9:30 p.m, Monday, March 4, Instructor, T. Kolterman.

Skype is a service that allows users to communicate with peers by voice using a microphone, video by using a webcam and instant messaging over the Internet. The class is scheduled 6:30-9:30 p.m., Thursday, March 7, Instructor, P. Schinstock.

Classes on Saturdays from 9 a.m.-noon will be Facebook Basics, March 2, Facebook - Beyond the Basics, March 9 and Facebook for Business, March 16, all taught by P. Schinstock.

In April, Photoshop Elements will be taught by S. McBride. Classes will be held on March 20 and 27 from 9 a.m.-12 p.m.

"We will be taking registration for the classes," Rita McLean, adult services librarian, said. "Interested persons may call (402) 375-3135 or stop in the library. Class sizes will be limited because of the number of laptops and lab computers we have available. Since the library has wi-fi access, participants with their own laptop will be able to participate in some of the classes.'

"Wayne Public Library is one of over 40 libraries in northeast Nebraska to have the opportunity to host these free classes," McLean said. "If anyone has questions, please call the library.'

Wayne firefighters respond to fire early Wednesday

Wayne Volunteer Firefighters credit the use of working smoke detectors for the fact that only smoke damage resulted from an electrical fire in Wayne on Wednesday morning.

Firefighters received a call at approximately 5:30 a.m. of smoke at a residence at 525 Fairacres Road in Wayne.

When firefighters arrived, the fire, which was believed to be electrical in nature, was already out. However, there was smoke damage to the basement of the home.

"The fact that there were working smoke detectors in the bedroom of the home quite possibly saved the residents of the home," said Phil Monahan, Wayne Volunteer Fire Chief.

Monahan encourages everyone to check the batteries in smoke detectors and as we "Spring Forward" and change to Daylight Savings Time, change batteries.

Wayne Volunteer Firefighters were also called on Tuesday for assistance with ventilating an apartment complex in the 200 Block of West 13th Street. No one was injured in the incident.

No injuries in Friday accident

The Wayne Police Department investigated an accident that occurred Friday morning.

At approximately 11:30 a.m., a semi and pick-up were involved in a collision at the corner of Seventh and Windom Streets, near the K-D Inn Motel.

No one was injured in the accident and no other details are available at this time.

Bad vibe turns into wild card

It wasn't death row, but it sure felt like it.

Wayne High fans were milling about in the gymnasium at Battle Creek High School late Monday evening, trying to process the Blue Devils' 51-38 loss to Boone Central/Newman Grove in the C1-4 district finals. The automatic trip to the state tournament that came with the district title was gone, and so Wayne fans had to sit and wait . . . and wait . . . and wait for the outcome of another game about 90 miles away.

Things were looking gloomy for Blue Nation – Wahoo was down by 10, and their hopes for an undefeated season were circling the drain almost as fast as Wayne's hopes for a wild card bid to state.

Wahoo had cut the lead to four with four minutes to go, and Wayne fans were nervously looking for information from anybody with a cell phone – particularly those who might be listening to the game via the Internet (yours truly being one of them).

Then, in the span of a few minutes, despair turned to hope – a Boys Town player committed his fourth foul, then kicked a Wahoo player to earn a technical and automatic ejection. Wahoo hit three of the four foul shots, then nailed a 3-pointer on their next possession. A four-point deficit had turned into a two-point lead, and the looks of disappointment magically changed among the Wayne faithful.

Suddenly, the bad vibe of a death sentence waiting its final destination turned into a hopeful atmosphere, as if Wayne was somehow a finalist to be the host city for the 2020 Olympics.

Of The Herald

BATTLE CREEK - When the Wayne High boys basketball team walked off the floor at Battle Creek High School, the look of disappointment was obvious.

The Blue Devils had lost an opportunity to go to the state tournament, courtesy of a 51-38 defeat at the hands of Boone Central/ Newman Grove, who beat the Blue Devils for the second time in three meetings this season.

It's easy to feel the relief in Rocky Ruhl's voice after the game, once it was known that Wahoo had defeated Boys Town, giving Wayne the second wild card spot for the eight-team Class C-1 state tournament that will take place next week in Lincoln.

"It gives us a chance to have a second season," he said after the game. "You hate to lose the game, and this was a tough one for us. Boone Central came to play and made us miss things pretty bad tonight. Hopefully, we can regroup and get that chance to play again."

Early in the game, it looked as if the Blue Devils wouldn't have to worry about a second chance.

Wayne came out with full-court pressure on the Cardinals and took advantage of several mistakes. Jalen Barry's 3-pointer gave Wayne a 9-2 advantage midway through the first quarter, and the Blue Devils withstood a counter-attack by Boone Central to claim a 13-8 lead after Luke Rethwisch's basket in the final 30 seconds of the period.

Jalen Barry hit a 3-pointer to stake the Blue Devils to its biggest lead of the night at 16-8 early in the second period, but the Cardinals began heating up from the outside and ditched its man-to-man defense for a frustrating zone package that shut down the Wayne offense.

"We came in ready to go early on and handled their man-to-man pretty well," Ruhl said. "Our press was working for us, and then they switched to that zone and we started looking at the basket and wondering what to do with the basketball. We stopped valuing possessions like we needed to."

That helped Boone Central

bounce back, finishing with a 12-2 run that was keyed by 3-pointers from Carter Johnson and Pierce Korth to give the Cardinals the lead for good at 20-17.

Barry hit a layup with :32 to go in the first half to make it a one-point game at intermission, but the Blue Devils would never regain the lead again.

"We came out and shot pretty well and could have extended (the lead), but we let them get back in it and we needed to take good shots and value our possessions," Ruhl said.

Boone Central/Newman Grove came out hot in the second half. Wvatt Mazour scored eight of his teamhigh 15 points in the third period, including a couple of 3-point baskets that helped fuel the Cardinals in the third quarter after Grant Anderson tied the game at 25-25 with a pair of free throws.

"We saw (Mazour) against Norfolk Catholic, and he had a great game then," Ruhl said. "But most of it was just his quickness, and he hit some threes that were beyond the line. He was just in that zone, and it's a lot easier to hit those when vou're ahead and in the groove."

Boone Central closed the third period on a 9-2 run, the only Wayne basket coming on a 3-pointer by Barry with less than two minutes to go. The Cardinals led by eight after three periods and withstood one last Wayne rally to win the district title and earn the trip to state.

Barry had 15 points and Grant Anderson added 12 for the Blue Devils, who had to overcome the minimal play of a flu-ridden Brady Soden. The senior gave a good effort early in the game, but the illness seemed to sap his strength, and he spent much of the second half on the bench. Without him in the lineup,

And, then, came the news - Wahoo 69, Boys Town 62. The governor called – Wayne's state title hopes got a second chance at life. Let the rejoicing, high fives and screaming teenage girls commence.

It would have been a shame to not see this Wayne High boys basketball team compete at the state tournament this season. When this team is healthy and clicking on all cylinders, they're fun to watch and very tough to beat.

The team that faced Boone Central/Newman Grove for the third time in 2012-13 was not THAT Wayne High team – although the one that was out on the floor the first 12 minutes that sprinted to a 17-8 lead looked a lot like it.

From about the middle of the second quarter on, the Blue Devils played scared. After the Cardinals ditched their man-to-man pressure for a frustrating zone defense, getting a good look and following up with a good shot suddenly became as foreign to this team as speaking Swahili to the average sports writer (I have a hard enough time with the English language, as some can attest).

Couple that with the man in the middle, Brady Soden, suffering the effects of a nasty flu bug. Brady was a warrior for much of the first half, but the bug beat the big man down and he spent much of the second half either on the bench or in the locker room. Without Soden's bulk in the middle, Wayne's inside game suffered and the Blue Devils weren't able to get the automatic bid to state.

And so, we had to sit and wait to see if basketball season would get a reprieve.

The call came from the governor, via the Fremont radio station's broadcast on the web. And now, Wayne has a second chance to win a state title. I look forward to watching this team battle for all the marbles next week in Lincoln.

Watters sets state record for rebounds

When your team goes 0-23 during the course of a basketball season, it's sometimes difficult to find anything positive to talk about.

With a team made up of seven players, the Winside boys were almost always outnumbered by their opponents this past season, but the Wildcats did find some good in a campaign full of seemingly insurmountable odds.

"I knew he had been getting a lot of rebounds, but I was just astounded when I saw that on the state See BAD VIBE, Page 2B chart," coach Jeff Messersmith said.

"I called Santee's coach to see what he had Garrett down for, and they had him for 40. It was unbelievable.

Buzzer beater gives 'Cats win

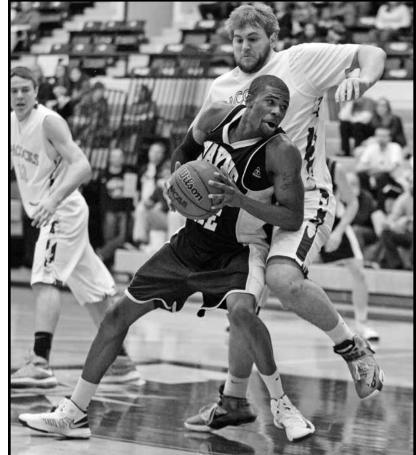

Senior Amry Shelby hit a fadeaway 13-footer from the left of the lane as the buzzer sounded to give Wayne State a thrilling 62-60 win over Upper Iowa Saturday in their final regular season game on Senior Night at Rice Auditorium.

The shot capped an exciting finish, set up when the Wildcats drew a shot-clock violation after an outstanding effort against the Peacocks forced a turnover with 7.6 seconds left.

Upper Iowa held the lead for the entire first half, taking a 35-31 advantage, and built that lead to as many as six points before the Wildcat defense came to life.

Wayne State trailed 39-35 when they went on their big second-half run. They held the Peacocks without a point for almost nine minutes. scoring 14 unanswered points to take control of the game midway through the second half, leading 49-39 after a LaTroy Wright layup.

The Peacocks bounced back, however, going on a 14-2 run of their own to regain the lead at 53-51. A 3-pointer by Ryan Rolfzen and a basket by Shelby put the Wildcats back in front at 56-53, but Upper Iowa forged another tie, and the game was tied at 60-60 when the Wayne See BUZZER, Page 3B

On Friday, the Wildcats rallied from a 46-34 deficit with 9:14 to play and managed a 53-50 win over there. Wayne State got a three from Winona State, avenging an earlier Addy Roller to give Wayne State a 39-point loss to the Warriors on the road.

The Wayne State defense rose to the occasion, holding the Warriors scoreless for 6 1/2 minutes while scoring 12 straight points, the final three coming on an Ashton Yossi trifecta to tie the game at 46-46.

The game was touch and go from 49-48 lead, but Winona countered with a pair of free throws with 1:57 to go. "If you watch the film, it just seemed that the ball was going to him on every play, and I knew right then that we had something really crazy going on," he said. "And after those two games, it started to get a little harder, and people tried to block him out a lot more.'

With only seven players on the roster, Watters did have the advantage of playing almost every second of every game. Except for one game where he got in early foul trouble, Watters rarely came out.

While Watters, who has averaged 6.7 points and 9.1 rebounds in his first three years as a Wildcat, is happy to have his name in the state record books, he's hoping his senior year will be a season where Winside can improve and put up some positive numbers in the win column.

"We're just getting some kids developed, and we're going to have to work hard this summer," he said.

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

The community of Wayne and Wayne State College must have made quite an impression on Amry Shelby.

As a senior at Marion (Iowa) High School, he helped his team reach the state tournament for the first time in 52 years, earning first-team All-State honors and being one of the hotter recruits in the Midwest.

Shelby committed to then-coach Rico Burkett to come to Wayne State College and play for the Wildcats in the spring of 2009, where he would major in sport management. Shortly after Shelby committed, however, the school fired Rico Burkett, the team's coach the previous nine years.

Shelby considered going to another school, but then he thought about the people he met and what he saw on his visit to Wayne, America.

"Initially, I did think about it, because I had built a relationship with Coach Burkett at the time," Shelby said. "But then I remembered my visit here and all the players that were here at the time, and I really liked the school, so everything fell into place."

The feeling, evidently, was mutual, especially after the 5-foot-11 junior guard spun and shot the gamewinner Saturday in his final home game at Rice Auditorium, a 62-60 win over Upper Iowa. The senior was mobbed by teammates and fellow fans after he took the pass from fellow senior Derrell Williams, drilled the length of the floor, faked right, spun left and calmly fired the winner as time ran out.

"It's a great way to end it," Shelby said. "It was my first game-winner, and it was special to hit it in Rice on Senior Night.'

It also ended a special four-year relationship for the fan favorite, who has battled injuries this season and, in spite of that, finished off a career where he played in all but two of 111 games, starting 107 of them for coach

Boone Central's Beau Bremer was able to dominate inside against the smaller Wavne lineup.

"Brady's our glue in there, and if we can get him back and keep everybody healthy, that will help us," Ruhl said. "He had an IV on Saturday and tried to come back, but by halftime he was just shot. He's a good presence inside with his size and has a great shot and can finish, and that allows Grant and Ben (Hoskins) to open things up, and when we had to go with them inside, it kind of evened things out."

With the wild card, Ruhl is hoping that the Blue Devils can have the kind of new life that Norfolk Catholic got a couple of years ago, when Wayne upset them in the district finals and the Knights went on to win the C-1 title.

"It's a second chance for us," he said. "We're 0-0 now, and our goal is to win state. Norfolk Catholic did it when we beat them two years ago, so now we've got a shot."

Allen boys' season ends in subdistrict loss

The Allen boys basketball team closed out the season with a loss to Winnebago and a loss in subdistrict play to end the season 5-16.

The Eagles had trouble handling the quick pace of Winnebago, finishing the game with an 82-46 defeat.

"After playing with them in the first quarter, I thought Winnebago just stepped it up and took control of the game. They're a very talented team," coach Matt Hingst said.

Jacob Stewart led a balanced Eagle attack with 10 points and five rebounds. Jon Bausch and Brandon Sullivan each had six, Brian Boese added five, Shelby Jacobsen and Austin Connot both had four, Raylson Ubedel had three and Landon Kraft and Zach Crom both had two.

The Eagles were in the play-in bracket for the D1-6 subdistrict tournament at Wausa, and Emerson-Hubbard brought the season to a close for the Eagles with a 42-28 decision.

"This was a very tough way to end the season," Hingst said. "I thought the mood of the team changed when Jake was called for a charge early in the game."

Sullivan led the Eagles with 10 points, Stewart added six and 10 rebounds, Crom had five, Jacobsen put in three and Boese had two.

Williams and Rolfzen each scored 15 points, while Shelby added 12 and moved into fourth place on the all-time scoring chart at Wayne State with 1,561 points, passing Brad Joens, who scored 1,556 points during his career from 1997-2001.

On Friday, the Wildcats couldn't contain Winona State standout Clayton Vette, who torched the nets for a game-high 31 points to help the No. 18-ranked Warriors to a 73-64 win.

Wayne State led early in the game at 15-14 with 12:45 to go in the half on a basket by Ayron Worthington, but Winona State took the lead for good with an 8-2 run midway through the first half.

Wayne State wouldn't go away, however. The Wildcats forged several ties in the second half and kept things close until the end. The Wildcats were within two at 57-55 on a pair of Wright free throws with 5:38 to go, but Winona State was able to pull away late. Vette scored seven straight points in one stretch to build the lead back up to nine and give Winona State the win.

Williams led the Wildcats with 21 points, while Shelby added 16 and Wright put in 15. Williams led the board attack with nine.

The win Saturday ended the regular season at 17-11 (11-11 NSIC) for the Wildcats, the most wins for the team since they went 26-6 under Greg McDermott in the 1999-2000 season, a year where they lost in the regional finals.

Wakefield's upset hopes fall short in OT

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

PONCA - Wakefield coach Mike Clay was hoping his team could commit a last-second larceny and steal a ranked contender's title hopes.

Unfortunately, the Trojans' hopes of coming back from an 11-point deficit and winning one at the buzzer fell short, and Hartington Cedar Catholic recovered and managed a 49-45 win over Wakefield in the finals of the C2-7 subdistrict tournament Friday at Ponca High School.

The Trojans made a mad dash from an 11-point deficit in the final period, and when the defense came up big in the final minute, it was up to the offense to hit the game-winner and extend Wakefield's season.

"We had a chance to steal it right there, and we didn't get a look at the end," Clay said after his team ended the season 14-10. "We had an opportunity at the end of regulation, and we just didn't get a good look."

The maroon-clad Trojans looked to have a good chance at hitting the game-winner after rebounding a missed Cedar Catholic shot with :47 left. Wakefield ran the clock down to get a final shot and worked it into the right corner to Josh Dolph. Dolph was tightly guarded and wasn't able to get a good look at the basket, forcing up a 12-footer that caught the side of the backboard and caromed harmlessly out toward the court as the buzzer sounded.

That Wakefield was able to make a game of it after being down 37-26 after three periods was a testament to the team's ability to play tough defense down the stretch.

"We said (at the end of the third period) that we just needed some more stops defensively and rebound the ball and just needed more movement on defense," Clay said. "We really played well and gave it a run." The Trojans got some much-needed support on the offensive end. Evan Nicholson drilled a trifecta from the right wing to get the Cedar Catholic advantage down to six points, and after a turnover, Jacob Lunz drilled the first of two fourthquarter 3-pointers to make it a fivepoint game.

Lunz hit another three with 2:10 to go, then added a pair of free throws a minute later to knot the game up at 39-39, setting up the exciting finish.

"For Jacob, he's more comfortable facing the basket and playing out on that wing than inside, and he and Evan have been a spark for us all year on offense," Clay said.

After Cedar Catholic dodged the last-second bullet in the fourth, they came out strong in overtime, scoring a pair of quick baskets to take a four-point lead, then added a 3-pointer in the final minute that gave them a six-point lead and ended the Trojans' hopes for advancing to the district finals.

"We struggled against their zone and were able to get some movement and get a couple of threes, and that really helped spark us and helped us get it to overtime," Clay said.

Lunz led Wakefield with a gamehigh 19 points, while Nicholson added 10 and Jon Bodlak put in six.

While Hartington Cedar Catholic was able to take a 20-6 record into the district finals, Clay said the Trojans got where they hoped they could get - in the subdistrict finals with a shot at the best team in the tournament.

"We talked about being in this place at this time," he said. "We knew Cedar was the best team in our subdistrict, and we wanted to get our best shot at them. We played well and saved our best for last, and that's all I can ask of these kids."

Softball team looks to experience

2012 was a rebuilding year for the Wayne State College softball team, having to replace a group of six graduated seniors that included All-American pitcher Katie Goetzinger and three-time All-NSIC first baseman Jennifer Radley.

A young Wildcat team gained valuable experience and posted a sixth straight winning season under head coach Krista Wood going 28-23 overall while tied for seventh in the rugged Northern Sun Conference with a 13-13 league mark.

The 2013 Wildcat squad will still be relatively young, as the 20-player roster features just one senior and three juniors to go with eight sophomores and eight freshmen. Eleven of the 20 players on this year's team are newcomers, meaning the returning players will have to blend together with the newcomers.

"I am really excited for the upcoming season," remarked coach

The Wildcats return five position starters along with two starting pitchers from last year's team. Headlining the group is sophomore first baseman Kaiti Williams, a second-team All-Northern Sun Conference selection who was the team's second leading hitter last season with a .360 average and a teamhigh 14 doubles with five homers and 27 RBI's. Junior Vicki Nielsen posted a strong .333 average last season with 54 hits and can play multiple positions for the Wildcats. Wayne State opened the scoring in the second inning, as C.J. Nolen doubled to right, stole third and scored on Michael Herman's infield groundout.

Bemidji State took a 2-1 lead in the third, but Wayne State tied the score in the bottom of the fourth as Justin Beranek was hit by a pitch, advanced to third on Nolen's single to right, and scored on another Herman groundout. They would score the eventual game-winning run in the bottom of the sixth when pinchhitter Tanner Lancaster walked and scored on Tom Doran's single to left.

Nolen led Wayne State at the plate, going 2-for-3 with a run scored. Johansen improved to 2-0 on the season with the complete game win. He allowed four hits and two runs, both earned, while record-

Bemidji State countered with runs in the bottom of the fifth and sixth innings to tie the score at 2-2 and send the game into extra innings. The Wildcats had a scoring opportunity in the eighth, as Nolen and Frericks each singled with Nolen advancing to third with just one out. But Bemidji State got Michael Herman to hit into a double play to get out of the inning.

In the top of the ninth, Wayne State scored the go-ahead run with two outs and no runners on base. Blake Brisson singled and advanced to third on a Bemidji State throwing error. Keim struck out, Wildcats play Ohio Dominican in but reached first base on a third strike, wild pitch allowing Brisson

I was really nervous when we football field because I saw how many other band members were there to perform at the parade and pre and half time shows of the Chick-fil-A Bowl in the Georgia Stadium. I was worrying about messing up the notes and getting laughed at.

When we started to play on the football field, I got all the notes right and met others standing near me from Griffin, Ga., and Topeka, Kan. We had our assigned spots with other people who played the same instrument as we did and needed to be at that spot at the football game. We practiced playing the "Star Spangled Banner" repeatedly and then the songs we were to play at the football game.

Because of a Falcons game, we couldn't practice in the stadium; we had to pretend we were lining up in the tunnels of the stadium and move onto the field in 30 seconds.

As we quickly marched on the field, a boy said, "For Narnia." I had no idea why he said that, but a kid beside me was laughing so hard that when we got in position and started playing, he could hardly trip to Atlanta Chick-fil-A Bowl play at all.

A really fun area was the 4-D theater with chairs that rocked, poked us in the back, and showed the video of a crazy scientist trying Peachtree Street with an estimated to find the secret formula of Coca-Cola. Wearing our glasses, it looked like bubbles, boards, and balls were coming right out at us.

Everyone had to make a stop at the Taste It area where 65 different flavors which the Coca-Cola Company produces worldwide were being served. Many of us tried all of phy with a gold rating. Not only did them and liked some much better than others.

The tour ended by receiving a free bottle of Coke and walking through the souvenir shop. We learned a lot and had fun.

While we were eating, they announced the trophy winners for concert and marching band competition which took place on Friday. After that, we danced for one hour on a crowded dance floor where hundreds of kids were squeezed together. The best part was when Landon and Jake lifted me up, and I started to crowd surf.

To say we were intimidated is an understatement. We were nervous that we wouldn't stand out to the judges. Because of this, we marched as a team, and everyone tried his her hardest.

Our band was on the street, ready arrived at the gigantic high school la. The closing activity of the band's trip to the Chick-fil-A Bowl was performing in the pre-game The meal of lettuce, buns, meat, and half-time shows at the LSU vs. Clemson football game on New Year's Eve. While we were getting ready for both the pre-game and half-time show, it was chaotic! Since there was a Falcons game on Sunday when we had our mass band rehearsal, we had to practice on a high school football field for three hours and couldn't practice inside the dome. We couldn't really practice entering from a tunnel and getting organized in our spots. Inside the dome, we went down by the tunnels and were all very lost trying to find the people we had stood by in rehearsal. Finally, everything worked out and each type of instrument was positioned in groups. For pre-game we played "Dancing in the Street," "Moves Like Jagger," and "The Star Spangled Banner." For half-time we played "Party Rock Anthem." Even though it was a very long trip and very hectic when we were getting ready for our performances, I will personally never forget it.

Everyone knows about Coca-Cola, but after visiting the World of Coke, I know much more about the company.

We first walked from the lobby into the Loft where we watched a video and saw old product signs of the Coke Company. Next, we moved into an enormous two-story area divided into many sections.

Parade

by Lindsey Sullivan Our small Allen Band of only 50 students got the opportunity to travel to Atlanta, Ga., to compete in the parade and participate in the pre-game and half-time performances at the Chick-fil-A Bowl.

While in Georgia, we toured and experienced many different places and events. The event that really stood out for me was competing in the parade.

We were the last high school band to march. In front of us was Virginia's number one high school band, having won that state's marching band contest 10 years in a row. Behind us were the Clemson and Louisiana State University

Citizens group will be benefit to safety of our youth

It was an annual ritual – graduating seniors getting together for a party hat only they knew about.

No parents.

No school teachers or administrators.

No law enforcement.

Not even their older and younger siblings.

The party was held at a secret location, complete with alcohol and, on occasion, drugs. It was a rite of passage for the graduating class – until someone was injured at the event.

As word spread around town, the "secret" party became news. It became a nightmare for everybody involved, including the school superintendent and a local pastor, who used the party as inspiration for a Sunday sermon, saying it was time for the community to do something about it.

I had just come on board as editor of the Gretna Guide and News shortly after that party took place, and I got to see the formation of a locally-based group of concerned citizens who wanted to make sure their community was safe for their children, regardless of age.

The work of this group eventually led to the end of the traditional secret senior party, thanks to efforts to educate parents and open lines of communication between the adults in the community. In the 4 1/2 years I was there, I never had to write a story about an alcohol- or drug-related tragic ending for a young life, thanks mostly to an open line of communication between the adults in the community.

A similar effort is being made here in Wayne, and when I talked with Gretna superintendent of schools Dr. Kevin Riley, he said such an organized effort would be a valuable asset for our community.

"It's been a very valuable group here," he said. "The key is parent involvement and parent networking, and it's all about safety as we move kids through their adolescent years.'

Making parents aware of what's going on with their kids seems like a simple idea, doesn't it? And yet, there is so much we, as adults, are unaware of when it comes to our children.

The secret senior party was something that wasn't on the radar of moms and dads until Gretna's committee of concerned citizens started making nor's tax proposal bills, LB405 and man Services, Education, Agriculthe public aware of what was going on. Letters were sent to the local news- LB406, were removed from consid- ture and the Legislature's Planning papers (yes, Gretna has two of them – and I worked for both during my career), and letters were mailed by the school to the parents.

Capitol View Plenty of politics to ponder

SO YOU SAY YOU WANT TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR ..

WHAT MAKES YOU THINK

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OF THE STATE OF NEBRASKA ...?

YOU'RE QUALIFIED TO BE

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

The Wayne

Nebraskans love to ponder. Will it rain? Will it snow? Will the football team ever win another national championship?

Even with the Legislature in session, there's plenty of time to think about politics now that the lame duck Governor has killed his own tax proposals, the lieutenant governor's office has a new occupant and the senior U.S. Senator has decided not to seek another term in a couple years.

It's a veritable field day with a wide-open governor's race now that the perceived front-runner, former Lt. Gov. Rick Sheehy, has stepped down in a potential scandal over the extreme misuse of a state-issued telephone and returned campaign funds to contributors. A week or so of speculation about his successor was ended when Governor Dave Heineman chose recently termlimited former state Senator Lavon Heidemann of Elk Creek to be the light governor. Heineman's criteria that whoever would serve for the next two years couldn't be a candidate in the next governor's race seemingly threw a wet blanket on the pool of contenders.

Now that current state Senator Charlie Janssen of Fremont has declared his candidacy for the governor's race, it appears that the Republican ship of state is listing more to the right as the Democrats line up on the shore trying to appear as anything but clueless, or candidateless. Not since Ben Nelson termlimited as governor in 1998 has there been a Democrat governor.

Nelson's successor was former

Capitol (the Executive Branch) before being elected U.S. Senator.

Now Johanns has announced that he won't run for re-election and has thrown the door open for the usual list of suspects to start posturing for that seat. Among them, Heineman himself and others such as Attorney General Jon Bruning and State Treasurer Don Stenberg, both of whom lost to Nebraska's newest Bruning and Stenberg could also ponder the governor's race now that University of Nebraska Regent Tim Clare of Lincoln has decided not to seek that seat. Add Auditor Mike Folev and former state Senator Tony Fulton to that list as well.

Omaha State Sen. Steve Lathrop and former Nebraska Regent Chuck Hassebrook of Lyons are two Democrats keeping an eye on both races. And never rule out Bob Kerrey, Lincoln Mayor Mike Johanns who Republican U.S. Senator Deb Fisch- whose unpredictability is always predictable. Following that playbook, don't forget that former Lt. Gov. Rick Sheehy was once a Democrat. With a couple years for things to blow over, he could view the Senate seat as a possibility.

Legislative Council and the Governor with their findings and recommendations. After submitting the eport, the commission shall meet at least once per year to evaluate the tax code to keep it current with Nebraska's changing economy. I think this is a much better approach than what was offered in LB405 and LB406. Hopefully, this will allow us to find a tax structure that will avoid undue harm to any area of our state economy. I would hope as this process unfolds, this group of individuals will come up with suggestions to relieve the excess burden now placed on landowners for funding our schools. The failure to consider property tax change was one of the large defects in LB405 and LB406. served his time in the northeast cor- er in the May primary. Of course, ner of the second floor of the State

The effort paid off immediately – the year after the party that sparked look at our current tax structure, the community's interest, less than half of graduating seniors attended the party. Eventually, the party became a thing of the past, Riley said.

"It dwindled to the point where there really hasn't been one the last four or five years, but if you back off of it, it will come right back, and we've stayed on it every year," he said.

The community organization has spawned a variety of opportunities for parents to communicate with their children and the school district. The committee helped select the school's sexuality education program, provided suicide information forums, and helped update parents on everything from childhood depression to issues relating to drugs, alcohol and tobacco.

"Over the years, it's grown into something of real value," he said.

Such a committee would be of tremendous value to Wayne as well, especially in dealing with some of the alcohol and drug issues that are a part of our community.

There are a number of concerned citizens in this community – leaders in their respective fields – who are a part of the local effort here. The most important people in this group, though, has to be the parents. It's the moms and dads of our children who need to be involved in this effort that is going to make this a success.

It's not easy being a parent in this day and age. There is so much going on, and so many avenues for our children to travel, that it's amazing nobody's head spontaneously explodes from the overload. I don't know how some families juggle school, sports, social media, church and other activities without somebody completely losing their minds.

That's why this opportunity to network with fellow parents and concerned community members is such a great opportunity for families in Wayne. Parents can get some welcome information, not only from their school and community organizations, but from their fellow parents - the kind of information that will help their kids grow up in a safe, healthy community.

While I think that we need to those bills were not a good option for our state. We need to study the tax structure and take our time deciding what is in the best interest of Nebraskans. Senator Paul Schumacher has introduced a bill (LB613) that, I think with some modification, may do that.

LB613, which was heard by the Executive Board of the Legislature on Feb. 19, would create the Tax Modernization Commission. This commission would be made up of the members of the Revenue Committee, the chairpersons from the

The Tax Modernization Commission would be charged with looking at six elements for successful tax modernization but they are not limited to just six. The six elements would be fairness, competitiveness, simplicity and compliance, stability, adequacy and complementary tax systems. During 2013 the commission would hold at least five hearings throughout the state to receive public input on ideas of tax modernization as well as have an

GED students: current test set to expire at end of 2013

The clock is ticking for those people who have not dent of the GED Testing Service. "Our first year results completed the current version of the General Education Development (GED) test.

The current paper version of the test, known as the 2002 Series GED test, will expire at the end of 2013, along with incomplete test scores. It will be replaced with the new 2014 Series GED computer-only test on Jan. 2, 2014. The new GED test will be aligned with the Common Core Standards in an attempt to focus on knowledge and skills that most strongly correlate with success in college and career readiness. The standards are being implemented in kindergarten through grade 12 across the nation.

"More than a million adults have started but not finished the current GED test," said Nicole Chestang, executive vice president of GED Testing Service. "As a nation, we cannot afford to let millions of working-aged adults miss this opportunity to complete and pass the GED test, opening doors to college, training, and better jobs.'

Nancy Schultz, adult education program director at Northeast Community College in Norfolk, said she has three binders of names of students who have started the GED testing program and many of them have just one test left to complete. "If you have started testing with us, come back and we will help you finish."

The GED test contains five sections (writing, social studies, science, reading and mathematics) that can be taken separately, but each must be passed to receive a high school credential. "But all five must be completed by students who have started by the end of the year, or they will have to start over with the new computeronly test and there is no refund of fees for past testing," Schultz said.

The new 2014 GED test will be based on emerging national and state standards. It will offer dual performance levels where test-takers can earn a high school equivalency as well as an additional endorsement that indicates career and college readiness. The test will be delivered solely on computer and offered only in official testing centers.

After a one-year implementation plan, the GED Testing Service reports a majority of the 40,000 adults who have taken the GED Test on computer are passing at higher rates and finishing faster. "We've been hearing for months that testing on a computer is simpler and less stressful for test takers," said Randy Trask, presishow that GED test takers are ready for technology, comfortable with testing on computer and even performing better." Northeast is part of the pilot program.

GED classes are held in sessions where students are provided specific instruction in the five subjects. Schultz, who serves as the chief GED examiner at Northeast, said the college also offers one-on-one individual teaching of students with volunteers. "I will literally drop what I'm doing and work on special one-on-one testing arrangements for students who need to complete their test," Schultz said.

Schultz said it takes time to complete a GED. She said has seen some students complete the program in three months while for others, it has taken years. "The GED is not a giveaway. When students test, they have to show competency in front of an examiner who is timing them. It's a very difficult process," she said. "If someone who needs extra assistance in preparing for the GED waits and comes in later in the year, they may not make the end-of-the-year deadline.'

Schultz said Northeast also has four volunteer GED coordinators in the college's 20 county service area. She said volunteers tutor students in their hometowns, but they will have to come to the Northeast campus in Norfolk to take the tests.

Northeast GED students take part in a cap and gown graduation ceremony each spring. Schultz said the number could be close to 100 this year because people may be coming in to finish up their degree before the deadline.

Schultz encourages anyone who knows of someone who wants to start or needs to complete their GED, to do so quickly in order to meet the deadline for the current version of the test.

The GED test has opened doors to better jobs and college programs for more than 18 million graduates since 1942. Last year, nearly 800,000 adults sat for the GED test, which is accepted by virtually all U.S. colleges and employers.

For more information, contact Schultz at (402) 844-7254 or nancyjs@northeast.edu or Adult Education Administrative Assistant Dawn Fosdick at (402) 844-7255 or dawnf@northeast.edu. Lifestyle one area that Nebraska 4-H is concentrating their efforts.

Inspiring college, career readiness

Through the college and career

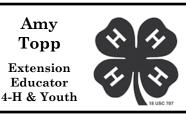

College and career readiness is readiness workgroup, youth are learning about preparing to make decisions about their college and career paths.

> One resource that was developed by Nebraska 4-H in 2011 was the Career Explorer Website and the Career Explorer App. If youth are interested in the Career Explorer Website they can visit 4h.unl.edu and scroll down to Career Explorer by Nebraska 4-H. Here they can click on this interactive website. The second option to explore is if youth have an iPad or iPhone, they can download the App for free at the iTunes store.

Career Explorer will help youth connect the dots between the choices they make every day and the opportunities they could have in the future. Youth will begin with a Luck of the Draw card and from there they will be in control, making ongoing decisions about their education and future career opportunities. At each stage of the game, vouth will be able to enter the workforce, get additional education, or explore training programs. Youth will have access to more than 450 careers with up-to-date salary information and summaries for each career.

The Career Explorer Website also came to life in six locations across the state in 2012. These educational opportunities were known as the Connecting the Dots Career Exploration events in which high school Freshmen and Sophomores had the opportunity to participate in an actual event. They participated in a career simulation activity, similar to what they would do on the website. In addition to this piece, in- in. dividuals highlighting local careers were present at each location to answer questions of the youth and highlight facts about their careers. There were also representatives present from local community colleges, state colleges and the University of Nebraska. These are great partnerships that exist and they are all working together to help continue the education of youth in their communities.

- maybe it's time to reconnect with an old friend...
- or perhaps your son or daughter is off at college...
- your out-of-the-blue thoughtfulness will make someone's day brighter

Acme Club met Feb. 18 at the Senior Center for lunch and a meeting following. Elinor Jensen was the hostess. Joann Temme, president called the meeting to order. Ruth Victor gave the thought for the day. "To have a friend be a friend. Even as we age, widening our circle of friends is possible, necessary and healthy. Life changes can end friendships, but make new friends or renew old friendships. It's like a job, you have to work at it. It doesn't happen on its own. You can never have too many friends." Roll call was whether you received any Valentines. Plans are being made for Guest Day which will be March 18. The Birthday song was sung for Ruth Victor and Pat Straight.

Elinor gave the program about Mesa Verde National Park. This park is perched high in Southwest Colorado where the air is thin, the history is rich and the views are spectacular. Mesa Verde, Spanish for "green tableland," was first discovered by trappers and prospectors in the 1870's. After visiting the site in 1872 and again in 1876, a New York newspaper reporter began efforts to preserve the archaeological sites built by ancestral Puebloans, who inhabited Mesa Verde for more than 700 years (500 AD to 1300 AD). On June 29, 1906, President Theodore Roosevelt declared it a national park to "preserve the works of man."

For the first six centuries, they primarily lived on the mesa tops. It was not until the final 75 to 100 years that they constructed and lived in the cliff dwellings they built beneath the over hanging cliffs.

Date night just got more interesting

Today, Mesa Verde National Park preserves a spectacular reminder of this ancient culture. The park contains over 4,000 known archaeological sites including six hundred cliff dwellings, and the mesa top sites of pithouses, pueblos, masonrv towers and farming structures. Ninety percent of the cliff dwellings contain ten rooms or less. One-third have only one or two rooms.

Most famous of the cliff dwellings are Cliff Palace with 150 rooms, Long House with 150, Spruce Tree House with 130 rooms and Balcony House with 40 rooms. The best preserved cliff dwelling and the easiest to reach is the Spruce Tree House. You can take a self-guided tour and the total hiking distance is about a half of a mile. There is usually a ranger present onsite who can answer any questions. This is also one of the sites in the park that is open year-round. Some of the larger dwellings psych as Cliff Palace which is visited by thousands each year. Balcony House can be toured with a ranger guide and you must purchase tickets in advance. These sites are also only reachable from April to October or November.

No matter which sites you choose to visit, you will still be amazed by the architecture of these ancient structures. At some sites you will be allowed to climb wooden ladders down inside, so you can actually see what it was like 1,000 years ago.

While still farming the mesa tops they continued to reside in the alcoves, repairing, remodeling and constructing new rooms for nearly a century. By the late 1270's the population began migrating south into present-day New Mexico and Arizona. By 1300, the ancestral Puebloan occupation of Mesa Verde ended.

Wildflowers are abundant from May through September in Mesa Verde. The entrance to the park is between Cortez and Mancos. Park roads are scenic drives with sharp curves, steep grades and reduced speed limits.

The next meeting of Acme Club will be March 4 for lunch at the Senior Center, with Ruth Victor, the hostess.

Raising dental awareness

Each February, the American Dental Association (ADA) sponsors National Children's Dental Health Month to raise awareness about the importance of oral health. Dr. Rob Burrows, a dedicated dental professional of Wayne, visited the Pre-K/Kindergarten combination class at St. Mary's School, taught by Gail Hochstein. A few days before Dr. Burrows' arrival, the students began an experiment using hard-boiled eggs in different solutions to demonstrate the importance of good dental care habits. During his visit, Dr. Burrows helped to conclude the experiment by examining and discussing the eggs in each solution: water, vinegar, orange drink, and soda pop. The entertaining story of "Ogallala Sam" and the lemon drops was also read to the students. Dr. Burrows has been coming to St. Mary's school and providing this important service for many years.

Prairie, grasslands are disappearing

By JOHN CRABTREE Center for Rural Affairs

Prairie and native grasslands are disappearing rapidly, taking soil and habitat as well as hunting, ranching and other economic opportunities with them. Congress should ensure that federal farm and crop insurance subsidies don't exacerbate the loss of these vital natural resources.

Fortunately, Representatives Kristi Noem (R-SD), Tim Walz (D-MN) and six bipartisan co-sponsors, including Representative Jeff Fortenberry (R-NE), recently introduced legislation that creates a nationwide "sodsaver" law that would slash subsidies that contribute to the destruction of native grassland

The Protect Our Prairies Act would prohibit federal payments this year. If your Representative is and reduce crop insurance premium a co-sponsor, thank them, if not, call subsidies by fifty percent on new- them and urge them to sign up.

ly broken native sod. The Act also closes loopholes by requiring that newly broken sod be isolated from other crop acres when calculating insurable yields. And operators would be required to take a percentage of the county average yield for any newly broken native sod until they are able to show a multi-year yield history. These two provisions are crucial to removing the federally subsidized incentive to bust up native grassland.

The Congressional Budget Office estimates that Protect Our Prairies will save nearly $200 million over the next ten years, tax dollars that will otherwise be spent to destroy remaining prairies and grasslands. Senator John Thune (R-SD) secured the same provision in the Senate Farm Bill last year, and it is expected to remain in the Senate bill

State crop budgets are available online

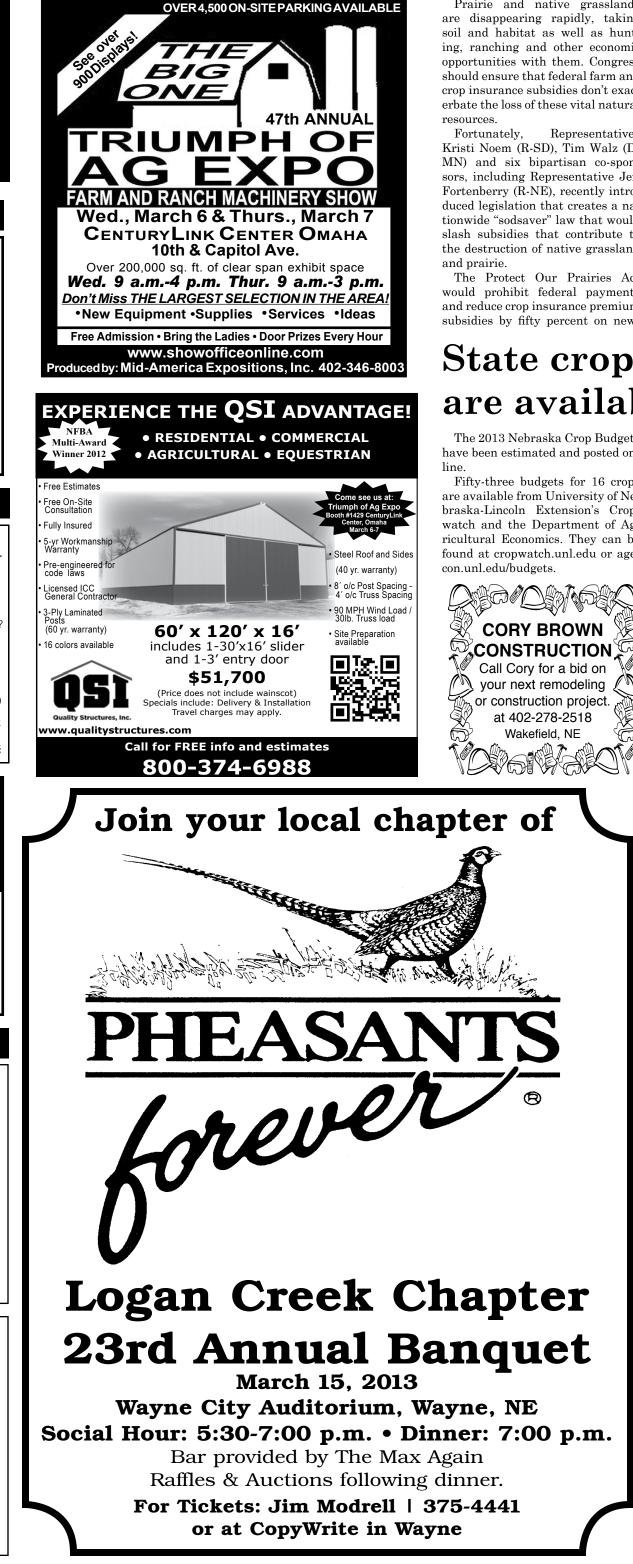

The 2013 Nebraska Crop Budgets have been estimated and posted on-

Fifty-three budgets for 16 crops are available from University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension's Cropwatch and the Department of Agricultural Economics. They can be found at cropwatch.unl.edu or age-

One challenge in estimating the budgets was determining prices for materials used in production, said Roger Wilson, extension farm management/enterprise budget analyst. Costs per acre have increased again this year, varying from 7 to 13 percent for the corn budgets. The corn budget with the largest increase is conventionally produced continuous corn on dryland. A number of different corn budgets show a 7 percent cost increase, mostly notill or reduced till systems. Cost increases for the different soybean production systems range from 12 to 20 percent. The budget with the lowest per acre cost increase is for a gravity-irrigated, ridge-till system. The budget showing the highest cost increase is the pivot-irrigated, no- till system using Roundup Ready seed grown after corn. The no-till fallow budget showed the least increase in cost (5 percent) for wheat production while the notill following a row crop showed the most (12 percent). In addition to estimating a total cost of production per acre, each budget also shows the cash costs of production. While these budgets do not estimate returns, they are based on a given yield which is used to calculate both a total and a cash cost per unit of production, Wilson said. Generally, prices of inputs are higher. However, this year the price of all fertilizers included in the budgets are expected to be lower except for anhydrous ammonia. Two areas where prices have increased substantially from last year's budgets are real estate costs and crop insurance. Wilson emphasized that the budgets are estimates based on assumptions.

Now is time to think about seeding lawns for 2013

Here is a reminder that coming up on Monday, March 4, there is a meeting many people should be interested in. It is an estate planning meeting and it will be held at the Learning Center at the Northeast Community College campus in Norfolk

The cost for a single registration is $30, or a couple can register for $50. This covers materials, catered lunch, and expert presentation. Preregistration is required by March 1 to hold a seat at this event.

Upon completion of this event, the participants will have the knowledge necessary to begin the process of estate planning or to critically evaluate and change an existing plan, based on their goals.

Topics will include: planning with the end in mind, estate planning basics, how to manage family in estate planning, various estate tools that you can use to meet your goals, how business transition compliments your estate planning goals, and understanding and working with "the other generation.'

Meeting presenters include extension educators Tim Lemmons and Al Vyhnalek, and family lawyer Tom Fehringer. For more information or to pre-register, call (402) 370-4000.

stress from Kelly Feehan.

Seeding to repair thin or bare areas may be needed. It might seem a little early to talk about seeding lawns; however there are questions about dormant seeding and drought tolerant grasses to use.

If lawns are thin or have bare areas that need seeding, start planning now. Late summer is the best time to seed cool season grasses like Kentucky bluegrass and tall fescue; however, most people will not want to wait until September to repair Here's some more information on a damaged lawn. May into June is seeding lawns that suffered from when warm season grasses like bufson grasses are dormant or spring seedlings are killed. seeding. Dormant seeding is done when soil temperatures are below 40 degrees and the seed can be worked into soil with at least a stiff tine rake. The timing is typically between Thanksgiving and St. Patrick's Day.

The advantage to dormant seeding is the seed is in place to germinate as soon as conditions allow: giving seedlings time to establish before summer heat arrives. The risk is the seed will germinate too early and seedlings may be killed by cold temperatures.

It is also challenging to achieve good seed to soil contact with dormant seeding. While seed can be broadcast on the ground or even on top of snow with the hope that freeze thaw cycles will work to move seed into the soil, this is risky.

Core aeration with a hollow tine aerator is ideal for opening holes for seed to fall into. But core aeration cannot be done when soils are frozen, covered with snow, or too wet or dry. At this time of year, a stiff tine rake should be used prior to and after dormant seeding to help achieve some seed to soil contact.

Spring seeding of cool season turfgrass is best done in April. The advantage is reduced risk of cold temperature injury. The risk is wet spring weather would delay seed-

Other seeding times for cool sea- before seedlings establish and the and purchase quality seed. The

If planning to overseed thin or seed bare areas in April, consider reserving a hollow tine core aerator now. When soil conditions allow in April, heavily core aerate the area and then heavily overseed with certified quality seed. Seed falls into the core holes to come in contact with soil.

For any area dormant or spring seeding, adjustments will need to be made in spring herbicide applications. Herbicides will kill turfgrass seedlings as well as weeds. If needed, the herbicides mesotrione (Tenacity) or siduron (Tupersan) can be used in the seed bed and will likely provide three to four weeks of preemergence control of crabgrass.

Postemergence herbicides, those applied for dandelions and other broadleaf weeds, will need to be delaved until well after seedlings are established. Ideally, after the new grass has been mowed two to three times. Be sure to read and follow label directions for waiting periods on new seedings.

As for a more drought tolerant grass to plant, there is no miracle grass. Kentucky bluegrass (KBG) and turf-type tall fescue are still the best cool season turfgrasses for Nebraska. If you are overseeding thin or bare areas, reseed with the same type of grass that is already ing and/or hot temperatures arrive there. Do select improved cultivars new varieties tend to have a deeper tenance, drought tolerant grass. green shade that you may notice if Established buffalograss will easplanted near or within an older established area.

KBG and tall fescue can both be lower maintenance grasses that require less irrigation. The issue is not in the grass, but in the fact that would need to start from scratch most people manage these to be which can be expensive and time high maintenance grasses that require more inputs than necessary. Mow the grass at 2 1/2 to 3 inches using less gasoline, buffalograss height to conserve water.

Buffalograss is a very low main ily survive on average rainfall and with once a month or less mowing. However, it is a gray green not blue green in color and has a shorter season of growth. Back in the bed and breakfast 'business'

It's almost news time here in the townhouse, and we have just listened to Lutheran High Northeast boys punch a ticket to the State basketball tournament.

In order to do this, Ann texts me when she sees which radio station is at the game; then, I go to the computer and get it "live and on air." A really great feature for the computer. Sometimes, we can even see the game, if the Norfolk Daily News decides to live stream it. In fact, I'm thinking the Big Farmer is a little miffed when they don't do that; he thinks they should be at all the games!

So, we are still in the bed and breakfast business, at least, a little bit.

Wayne, Nebraska

February 19, 2013

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session at 9:00 a.m. on Tuesday, February 19, 2013 in the upstairs conference room of the Courthouse Roll call was answered by Chairman Burbach, Members Wurdeman and Rabe, and Clerk Finn.

Advance notice of this meeting was published in the Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on February 7, 2013.

A current copy of the Open Meetings Act was posted in the meeting room and accessible to the public.

The agenda was approved.

The minutes of the February 5, 2013, meeting were approved as printed in the Commissioner's Record

As Chairman of the Board of Equalization, Commissioner Wurdeman requested the Board of Equalization's public hearing be removed from the agenda and rescheduled in March. Motion by Rabe, second by Wurdeman to approve the amended agenda. Roll call vote: Rabe-ave. Wurdeman-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Assessor Duffy requested executive session for personnel discussion. Motion by Rabe, second by Wurdeman to enter executive session at 9:41 a.m. to discuss personnel issues; attendees to include the commissioners, Duffy, and Finn. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Wurdemanaye, Burbach-aye; motion carried. The board reconvened in open session at 10:16 a.m

Motion by Wurdeman, second by Rabe to recess the commissioner meeting and convene public hearing on the proposed One and Six Year Road Improvement Plan. Roll call vote: Wurdeman-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

A public hearing on the proposed One and Six Year Road Improvement Plan convened at 10:30 a.m. Those in attendance included Chairman Burbach, Members Wurdeman and Rabe, Clerk Finn, Jeff Wagner of Mainelli Wagner & Associates, Inc., Patty Wurdeman, Linda Kirsch, and Mike Carnes of The Wayne Herald.

Projects in the road improvement plan were reviewed. There are 25 projects scheduled for 2013. Wurdeman added Project C-90(596) to the One-Year Plan.

Linda Kirsch questioned if the big bridge (Bridge C009002110) on the road with three bridges, (Mile 848 of 568th Avenue), was on the state easement. She stated the road is not where it is supposed to be, which means the bridge is on Rubeck property. Kirsch also asked what the plans are for the curved road going through their (Rubeck) property. Rabe responded he did not know where things stood; he thought they were trying to get a correct legal description. Kirsch told the board "no more surveys"; they are to stay off their (Rubeck) property.

Motion by Rabe, second by Wurdeman to close the hearing at 11:16 a.m.

Motion by Rabe, second by Wurdeman to adopt Resolution No. 13-02. Roll call vote: Rabeaye, Wurdeman-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Resolution No. 13-02: Whereas, the County Highway Department has prepared and presented a One and Six Year Plan for Highway Improvement for Wayne County, Nebraska, and; Whereas, a public meeting was held on the 19th day of February 2013, to present this plan, and all objections and recommendations to said plan were considered; Therefore, be it resolved by the County Commissioner of Wayne County, Nebraska, that the plan and data as furnished and/or revised are hereby in all things accepted and adopted. The formation of a coalition to research and implement solutions for stream channel erosion and degradation had previously been discussed with Mark Mainelli of Mainelli Wagner & Associates, Inc. A resolution expressing support to pursue potential funding sources for grade control mitigation projects was proposed. Motion by Wurdeman, second by Rabe to adopt Resolution No. 13-03. Roll call vote: Wurdeman-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried. Resolution No. 13-03: WHEREAS, much of eastern Nebraska consists of soils which are highly susceptible to erosion and stream degradation; and

WHEREAS, the erodible streambeds of eastern Nebraska are unstable and are widening due to degradation which results in damage to public and private infrastructure such as bridges, culverts, utility lines, loss of farmland, etc. and

WHEREAS, the Hungry Canyon Alliance, Inc. is a coalition of counties in Iowa which was developed specifically to research and implement solution to the problem of stream channel erosion and degradation of western lowa, and

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of Commissioners/Supervisors of Wayne County, Nebraska would support a similar coalition of counties seeking County, State, and Federal funding sources to limit stream channel degradation in the impacted region of eastern Nebraska.

Wakefield City Administrator Jim Litchfield presented a payment plan for the City of Wakefield and Dixon County to reimburse Wayne County $95,325.05 for their share of Project C-90(548) Wakefield East. The City of Wakefield will make payments over six years; Dixon County will make payments over five years. The payment plan was accepted.

A supplemental program agreement for Project No. BRO-3100(1), Winside East, located 2.4 miles east of Winside (Allemann) was reviewed. Motion by Rabe, second by Wurdeman to approve the agreement, which increased the State share of construction and construction engineering phases to 20% of all eligible and participating project costs, not paid for with Federal funds. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Wurdeman-aye, Burbach-aye, motion carried.

Motion by Rabe, second by Wurdeman to adopt Resolution No. 13-04. Roll call vote: Rabeaye, Wurdeman-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Resolution No. 13-04: Whereas, Wayne County and the Nebraska Department of Roads (NDOR) have previously executed Project Program Agreement BM1248 for a transportation project for which the Local Public Agency (LPA) would like to obtain Federal funds;

Whereas: Wayne County understands that it must continue to strictly follow all Federal, State and local laws, rules, regulations, policies and guidelines to applicable to the funding of the Federal-aid project; and

Whereas: Wayne County and NDOR wish to enter into Supplemental Program Agreement No. 2 setting out modifications and/or additional duties and/or funding responsibilities for the Federal-aid project.

Be It Resolved: by the Board of Commissioners of Wayne County, Nebraska that: Dean Burbach, Chair of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners is hereby authorized to sign the attached Supplemental Program Agreement No. 2 between Wayne County and the NDOR. Wayne County is committed to providing local funds for the project as required by the Project Program Agreement and any Supplemental Project Program Agreements. NDOR Project Number: BRO-3100(1), NDOR Control Number: 32011, Project Location: Winside East.

A supplemental program agreement for Project No. BRO-7090(20), Wayne West, located 2 miles west and 0.6 miles south of Wayne (Temme) was reviewed. Motion by Wurdeman, second by Rabe to approve the agreement, which increased the State share of construction and construction engineering phases to 20% of all eligible and participating project costs, not paid for with Federal funds. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Wurdeman-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried Motion by Rabe, second by Wurdeman to adopt Resolution No. 13-05. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Wurdeman-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried. Resolution No. 13-05: Whereas, Wayne County and the Nebraska Department of Roads (NDOR) have previously executed Project Program Agreement BM1248 for a transportation project for which the Local Public Agency (LPA) would like to obtain Federal funds; Whereas: Wayne County understands that it must continue to strictly follow all Federal, State and local laws, rules, regulations, policies and guidelines to applicable to the funding of the Federal-aid project; and Safety Committee members Burbach, Hansen, Allemann-Dannelly, and Duffy presented several concerns:

- Signs need to be re-installed to mark the handicapped parking spaces. The signs will 1. be re-installed after the work on the parking lot is complete.
- 2. The board should reconsider their decision not to put treads on the refinished steps; three complaints have been received this winter. Rabe and Wurdeman felt people should wipe their feet, and noted that people could slip even if stair treads were installed.
- 3. The decorative candles placed in the windows in December operate on numerous extension cords. They need to be replaced with battery-operated candles. This will be reconsidered next season
- Floor tile is breaking on the main floor; there is replacement tile in the attic. Someone will look into that.
- The carpet needs to be cleaned in several areas of the courthouse. Stanley Steamer will be contacted for an estimate.
- The courthouse parking lot continues to sink. The board will get a couple of people to look at the parking lot.

Whereas: Wayne County and NDOR wish to enter into Supplemental Program Agreement No. 1 setting out modifications and/or additional duties and/or funding responsibilities for the Federal-aid project.

Be It Resolved: by the Board of Commissioners of Wayne County, Nebraska that: Dean Burbach, Chair of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners is hereby authorized to sign the attached Supplemental Program Agreement No. 1 between Wayne County and the NDOR. Wayne County is committed to providing local funds for the project as required by the Project Program Agreement and any Supplemental Project Program Agreements. NDOR Project Number: BRO-7090(20), NDOR Control Number: 32067, Project Location: Wayne West.

Wayne County owns the South 1/2 of Lots 1, 2 & 3, Block 4 in the Pleasant View Cemetery of Winside for pauper burials. The County had been asked if it would consider transferring some of the lots back to the association. Rabe presented the Cemetery Association's new proposal - to exchange the grouping of lots for lots located randomly throughout the cemetery. The commissioners agreed it was not necessary to have all of the pauper burial lots in a grouping; the exchance was approved. Rabe will check if specific paperwork is necessary to complete the exchange with the cemetery association.

As per the Lodging Tax Committee's recommendation, grants of $100 for the Carroll Fire Department Pancake & Omelet Feed, and $1,000 for Elderfest 2013 were approved on motion by Rabe, second by Wurdeman. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Wurdeman-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Replacement of the east half of the courthouse parking lot was discussed. The county will tear out and haul away the concrete; Wurdeman will talk to a couple of contractors to determine if bid specifications are necessary for the rest of the project.

Motion by Wurdeman, second by Rabe to recess the meeting for lunch at 12:03 p.m. Roll call vote: Wurdeman-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Motion by Rabe, second by Wurdeman to reconvene the meeting at 1:13 p.m. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Wurdeman-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.
