City wellhead protection plan goes forward

2 a.m. liquor sales makes it to last call

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

After more than a year of meetings and gathering information, several hours of public hearings and debate, the Wayne City Council approved a wellhead protection plan for the city of Wayne.

The three newest council members, Jennifer Sievers, Cale Giese and Nick Muir, all noted that since the item was tabled at the council's last meeting, they have spent time learning about the issue, meeting with and talking to those who have opinions on the matter and finding answers to their questions.

Mayor Ken Chamberlain said he applauded the efforts of the council members who took time to ask questions and find answers during the last two weeks.

Council members did request that when a new map is created, the city should request to the Department of Environmental Quality that the wellhead protection area include the city of Wayne.

Ordinances in regard to the time of sale of alcoholic liquor received approval.

Council members first gave final approval to extending the hours of sale on March 16 and March 29-30 and then approved Ordinance 2013-14 which will amend the city code to allow for the sale of alcoholic liquor until 2 a.m. on a permanent basis. The ordinances will take effect immediately.

Several public hearings were held in regard to two development projects planned for the city.

The first involved the redevelopment plan amendment for the Boyle's First and Second Addition and Subdivision of Boyle's Outlot. This involves an area recently purchased by Windom Ridge, Inc. north of 10th Street, near Careage of Wayne.

The developers, Lou Bencoter and family, plan to turn this area into a residential subdivision known as Angel Acres.

Council action taken Tuesday allows the project to use TIF financing on eligible portions of the project.

The resolution approved by the council stipulates that work done on the project using TIF funding needs to be bid out according to state bidding regulations.

During the time council members were acting as the Community Development Agency to discuss the plan, B.J. Woehler told the group "I have no problems with the development and TIF, but I have a problem with the process. I want to be sure the city is using the (TIF) money correctly and make sure it is done right."

Lou Bencoter told the council that if there are delays in approval to move forward, "it will cost a lot of money. This is a $4 million project."

Resolution 2013-15 also received council approval.

It allows for TIF funds to be used for a project known as Angel Village, which will be located west of the Cobblestone Hotel.

The project is also being developed by Windom Ridge, Inc. and will include single family 'step up homes' designed for seniors who wish to remain in their own homes, but prefer smaller homes.

Lou Bencoter told the council that he is not opposed to having other builders build in the area, but "want quality homes built there."

Council members approved a bid from Steve Harris Construction of Homer for the 10th Street paving project.

City Administrator Lowell Johnson told the council that the city had received four bids for the project with Steve Harris Construction's bid of $504,776.06 being the lowest.

The work is scheduled to begin on Monday, May 6 after the spring semester ends at Wayne State College and be completed before students return for the fall semester.

Approval was also given for professional services with Olsson Associates for the Milo Drive Paving and Utility Improvements Project. The area involved extends north of Highway 35 from a new intersection that will be created across the highway from the west Pacific 'N' Save entrance.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, March 19 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

County board gets info on sequester

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

A representative for Congressman Adrian Smith presented information from the District 3 representative to the Wayne County Commissioners regarding the recent sequester that has been the topic of a national debate.

Jessica Hendricks, a community liaison for the congressman, presented a two-page document with information regarding the recent budget battle between Democrats and Republicans in Congress.

According to the document, the sequester was passed as part of the Budget Control Act of 2011, which raised the debt limit in exchange for $900 billion in spending reductions. The bill also created a bipartisan committee to propose another $1.2 trillion in spending cuts over a 10-year period.

Without a proposal from the committee, the Budget Control Act put those cuts into motion automatically, which has now become known as the sequestration. Without a consensus being reached in Congress, the cuts took place last week.

In the document, Smith said that the national debt is approaching $17 trillion, and the nation's leaders should not further delay action in addressing the out-of-control spending.

"The President and some Democrats in Congress have called for tax increases to offset the sequester cuts, but not only is this counter to the agreement made in 2011, it would deepen our dependence on federal spending," Smith wrote. "We cannot tax our way out of debt, we have to address spending which is the true driver of our deficit."

Hendricks also asked about concerns the county has concerning their connections with the federal government. One of the most pressing concerns the county has, she was told, was the need to complete bridge projects, which are delayed due to the length of time taken by the Army Corps of Engineers to improve projects.

The board discussed the possible appointment of a flood plain administrator, acting on a request from the state's Department of Natural Resources, which has asked for written information about the county's flood plain administrator.

Previously, the county had appointed its highway superintendent to the position. After the position was eliminated, the county board chairman assumed the position.

The board agreed to delay providing the information and making a formal appointment until they can speak with officials from the City of Wayne about sharing in the position's duties.

In other action, the board: - agreed to bid out a paving project at the county courthouse that would re-pave the

Judge nominees' names forwarded to governor

The names of five nominees to fill two judicial seats have been forwarded on to Gov. Dave Heineman.

The 2012 retirements of Judge Richard Krepela and Judge Robert Ensz left two openings in the state's judicial branch. Krepela was a county court judge, while Ensz served as the judge for the Seventh Judicial District in Nebraska, which includes Wayne, Antelope, Cuming, Knox, Madison, Pierce and Stanton counties.

Five names have been submitted for consideration by Gov. Heinemann for the two seats. Nominated for the county court judge seat are Norfolk attorneys Patrick Carney and Dennis Morland, along with Michael Long of Madison, who serves as Madison County's deputy attorney. Nominees for Ensz's seat are Norfolk attorneys Michael Brogan and Mark Johnson.

Heineman is scheduling interviews with the attorneys throughout the month of March. It is not known when an announcement will be made as to who will fill the respective seats.

Gas leak found at old elementary

Wayne Volunteer Firefighters responded to a natural gas leak Thursday morning at the former Wayne Elementary School.

Travis Meyer, Head of Maintenance for the school, said he was in the west end of the building when he noticed the smell of natural gas in the east end of the building.

Representatives of Black Hills Energy shut off the gas before firefighters, wearing protective clothing and air packs, entered the building and opened windows and doors to ventilate the building.

A statement was released from Wayne Community Schools Superintendent Mark Lenihan stating:

"A gas leak was discovered at the old elementary building this (Thursday) morning. The situation has been resolved with quick action by our Head of Maintenance, Travis Meyer, The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department, city of Wayne Utility crews, Wayne Police, and representatives from Black Hills Energy. The building was closed by the school district after the 2011-2012 school year and remains vacant. The Wayne Community School District has started the process of eliminating the facility and should have the building razed by summer of 2013."

No injuries were reported in the incident.

Busy holiday results in record city tax intake

Sales tax figures for the City of Wayne were up more than 20 percent from the previous month, and up slightly from the same time last fiscal year.

According to figures released by city finance director Nancy Braden, the city received $55,997.00 in sales tax receipts for February, which are based on December 2012 sales. The holiday shopping season was a busy one in Wayne, as the total was the highest ever since the city began collecting sales taxes in fiscal year 2000-2001.

The February total keeps the city well ahead of its projected monthly average of $50,487.38. For the fiscal year to date, the city has received $265,080.08, an average of $53,016.02 per month for the first five months and well ahead of last year's record monthly average of $49,497.43.

Community support

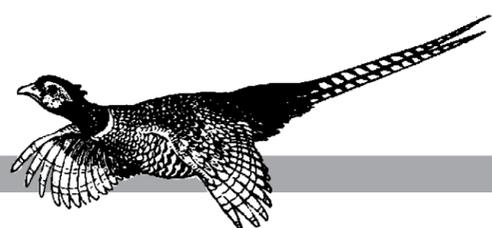

A benefit was held March 2 at the City Auditorium in Laurel for the Chad and Krista Young family. Nearly 250 people attended the event and approximately $5,000 was raised. Supplemental funds were provided by Thrivent Financial for Lutherans. Approximately 35 volunteers including friends, family, members of the Laurel Lions Club, Girl Scouts and Grace Lutheran Church helped with the event. The Youngs, who lost their home in a fire on Jan. 21 are currently staying with family members. Donations can still be made to the Chad and Krista Young Benefit Account at Security Bank in Laurel.

Mardelle Ellis

Mardelle C. Ellis, age 80, of Broken Bow, Ne. died Tuesday February 19, 2013 at the Jennie Melham Hospital in Broken Bow.

Memorial services will be on Saturday, March 9 at 3 p.m. at the Our Saviour Lutheran Church in Broken Bow with Minister Kathy Salts officiating. Memorials are suggested to the Our Saviour Lutheran Church.

Mardelle Corrine Ellis was born in Wayne on Nov. 30, 1932 to Harvey and Emelia (Frevert) Larsen. She and her younger sister, Janet (Larsen) Kneische, grew up on a farm southeast of Wayne. She graduated from Wayne High School in 1950 and attended one year of college at Wayne State. While in high school, Mardelle worked in a drug store which laid the foundation for her work later in life at Redman's Shoes, and as co-owner with her husband of Bowette Ladies Apparel and Fariss Men's Wear in Broken Bow.

Mardelle married Warren Leland Ellis on March 30, 1951 in Wayne. They lived in San Diego in 1952-53 while Warren served in the Navy. They then moved back to Wayne where they lived until 1962 when they relocated to Broken Bow. Mardelle had a strong faith and attended a women's Bible study every Monday morning and was a member of Our Saviour Lutheran Church. She was an accomplished seamstress, and enjoyed many years as a Custer County election volunteer. Mardelle's life was filled with many interests, but of them all, she especially enjoyed watching her children and grandchildren play sports, working in her flower gardens, and going to yard sales. While pursuing her interests, Mardelle made wonderful friends and memories that lasted a lifetime.

Survivors include her husband, Warren of Broken Bow; a daughter, Diane and Larry Larsen of Liberty; three sons, Roger Ellis of Aberdeen, S.D., Keith and Karen Ellis of Lincoln, Brad and Traci Ellis of Omaha; 13 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren; her sister, Janet and Victor Kneische of Wayne, and sisters-in-law Rose and Ken Nuernberger of Bettendorf, Iowa, and Barbara and Bob Andrews of Texas.

She was preceded in death by her parents and her father and mother-in-law Leland and Mary (Owen) Ellis.

Govier Brothers Mortuary in Broken Bow is in charge of arrangements.

Creek

What happens under the old city dump sites?

They have all been closed under the regulations for covering and ground slope in effect at the time.

Are those protections still adequate? We think so but it's time to check again.

Do we have enough water to water lawns if we have another year of drought?

No one knows yet how big our aquifer is that we all draw our water from nor how fast it refills. If we drain it, well, then we're done.

Using the minimum possible for turf would be prudent over time as we monitor how we are affecting our source. Simply, math shows that in drought years we are taking more water out than nature is recharging by rain

We'll report this information to you as we get it.

What's Under Your Lawn?

100 feet of soil, clay and sand, then water.

Why do you care?

Water and lawn fertilizer percolate downward over the years to the water we drink.

How do keep that from happening?

Many lawns have already been over-watered and over-fertilized in the past beyond what they need to be green. That is already moving down and it's too late to fix. All we can do now is limit our water and fertilizer use to what will stay in the six inch root zone for turf grass. What leaches below that keeps on moving down

What happens to the dry fertilizer that falls on our driveway and sidewalks?

A lot of it gets washed into the street and storm drain system and directly in with the fish in Logan

Bill would regulate herbicide spraying

By DEMETRIA STEPHENS
Nebraska News Service

LINCOLN – Nebraska's growing grape industry is feeling the burn of chemical drift.

Nebraska can grow some varieties that other parts of the country can't, said Alan Vybiral, president of the Nebraska Wine and Grape Grower Association.

But last year, Barton Holmquist a grape grower near Eagle, Neb., lost three tons of grapes or about $3,000 because of suspected 2,4-D spray drift from a neighbor. The Nebraska Department of Agriculture tried to find who it was, but the spray could've travelled for an unknown number of miles, depending on wind and temperature, he said.

"You've all undoubtedly gone down a country road and smelled a skunk," he said. "That's a volatile chemical that's not too far different than 2,4-D."

Holmquist is one of about 24 grape growers in the state and one of three testifiers at an Agriculture Committee hearing Tuesday, March 5, who favored Legislative Bill 636, which would regulate herbicide spraying.

Sen. Norman Wallman of Cortland sponsored LB636, which focused on the herbicide 2,4-D, but includes other herbicides. Beginning April 15, 2015, and continuing yearly April 15 through Sept. 15, anyone spraying such chemicals would have to notify the Nebraska Department of Agriculture at least 72 hours in advance of an application if it's within four miles of a sensitive crop. He said he hesitated to propose the bill at first, as a corn and soybean grower who uses 2,4-D.

"But once I realized the magnitude and the loss the grape growers observed and the ongoing problems many are facing as a result of careless application, I decided something had to be done," Wallman said.

Sensitive crops include some fruits, vegetables, beehives and organic crops. If the ground is sprayed, crops grown there couldn't be sold as organic for three years, according to the National Organic Program.

About 16 off-target applications of chemicals were mentioned in a Nebraska Department of Agriculture newsletter, said Brent Meyer, superintendent at the Lancaster County Weed Control Authority.

"This is not a huge problem," he said, "but it is a serious problem and it happens." Off-target sprayers need to be punished under existing state and federal laws that say the chemical "label is the law," he said. If people don't follow the chemical label, there are already potential fines, so he said the weed control authority opposed the bill.

Other testifiers opposing the bill said the state's unpredictable weather would make it hard to notify the agriculture department in advance. The solution could be education about the existing laws and communication among neighbors. Several said Drift Watch, a voluntary program that maps sensitive crops, should be used by people who don't want to get drifted on and by those wanting to spray.

"If you turn something loose in the environment, you ought to be responsible for where it lands," said Sen. Steve Lathrop of Omaha, adding he didn't know if this particular bill solved the problem.

Scott Merritt, executive director of the Nebraska Corn Growers Association, said his group wasn't against organic or specialty crops, but the program should remain voluntary.

"Everybody has to take responsibility for some of their own."

Wallman said he could agree to change the four-mile rule, but he wasn't ready to withdraw the bill.

"Introducing it (the bill) is the least I can do to bring light to this important issue," he said.

Shalle Wolff, Service Area Manager of the Red Cross, spoke of the work done in northeast Nebraska by the local Red Cross Chapter. The Red Cross hosted last week's Chamber Coffee and then conducted a soup lunch fundraiser.

Red Cross Month honors the everyday heroes who help

During Red Cross Month, the American Red Cross recognizes the nation's Everyday Heroes who give of themselves and in some way help their community.

"Please remember those who help all of us here in northeast Nebraska by giving their time to help their neighbor," said Shalle Wolff, Service Area Manager "We want to thank our heroes during Red Cross Month – our volunteers, blood donors, class takers and financial supporters who help us assist those in need."

March was first proclaimed as Red Cross Month 70 years ago by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Since 1943, every president, including President Obama, has designated March as Red Cross Month. The American Red Cross is synonymous with helping people, and has been doing so for more than 130 years.

The Red Cross responds to nearly 70,000 disasters a year in this country, providing shelter, food, emotional support and other necessities to those affected. It provides 24-hour support to members of the military, veterans and their families – in war zones, military hospitals and on military installations around the world; collects and distributes about 40 percent of the nation's blood supply and trains more than seven million people in first aid, water safety and other life-saving skills every year.

"Here in the northeast Nebraska American Red Cross office, Red Cross volunteers and staff have responded to 28 local emergencies, assisted nine military families with emergency communications and trained people in lifesaving skills. And, people from this area donated nearly 9,000 units of blood," Wolff said.

"Red Cross Month is a great time for people to become part of the Red Cross and there are many different ways to do it," Wolff said. "They can develop a preparedness plan for their household, become a Red Cross volunteer, give blood, or take a Red Cross class, just to name a few."

The Red Cross is not a government agency and relies on donations of time, money and blood to do its work. An average of 91 cents of every dollar given to the Red Cross is invested in helping people in need.

The Northeast Nebraska Service Center has a number of activities planned for Red Cross Month, including Fire Safety Information Canvassing on Sunday, March 10, Disaster Training Boot Camp beginning Saturday, March 9, Great Escapes, Business Disaster Planning Lunch & Learn with the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce on March 27 and multiple fundraisers with local businesses and restaurants.

"Thank you for your support of the American Red Cross and March is Red Cross Month!" Wolff added.

Just Juniors Day at WSC is March 23

Area high school juniors and their parents are invited to attend the Just Juniors Day at Wayne State College on Saturday, March 23.

Activities include an optional, free ACT review workshop (pre-registration is required) for the students, as well as informational sessions for both parents and students.

During the day, campus tours will be offered, and an academic fair, sessions on student services, financial aid and scholarships will be presented.

"Just Juniors is a great way for high school juniors to get a jump start on their college search process, while also getting a first-hand look at Wayne State College and the programs and services we provide," said Kevin Halle, director of admissions.

The day will begin with check-in at the student center at 8:30 a.m., and will conclude with a tour of the campus in the early afternoon.

Pre-registration is required because space in the ACT workshop is limited. To register, call the admissions office, toll-free, at (866) 972-2287, (402)375-7234, or e-mail admissions@wsc.edu.

Registration can also be done online at www.wsc.edu/visit.

WSC Career Fair to be held March 20

The Wayne State College Spring Career Fair will be hosted in the Student Center on Wednesday, March 20 from 11 a.m.-3 p.m.

A wide variety of employers will be in the Student Center to discuss full-time, part-time and cooperative education (internship) positions.

For more information, please call the Wayne State College career services office at (402) 375-7425, or e-mail careerservices@wsc.edu. Check out the most updated Career Fair list of employers at www.wsc.edu/career_fair.

Foreign persons must report land purchases

Acting Wayne County USDA Farm Service Agency executive director Mark Moser noted that foreign persons with an interest in agricultural lands in the United States are required to report their holdings, and any transactions, to the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture.

"Any foreign person who acquires, transfers or holds any interest, other than a security interest, including leaseholds of 10 years or more, in agricultural land in the United States is required by law to report the transaction no later than 90 days after the date of the transaction," Moser said.

Foreign investors must file Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act (AFIDA) reports with the FSA county office that maintains reports for the county where the land is located.

"Failure to file a report, filing a late report or filing an inaccurate report can result in a penalty with fines up to 25 percent of the fair market value of the agricultural land," Moser said.

For AFIDA purposes, agricultural land is defined as any land used for farming, ranching or timber production, if the tracts total 10 acres or more.

Disclosure reports are also required when there are changes in land use. For example, reports are required when land use changes from non-agricultural to agricultural, or from agricultural to non-agricultural. Foreign investors must also file a report when there is a change in the status of ownership, such as the owner changes from foreign to non-foreign, from non-foreign to foreign, or from foreign to foreign.

Data gained from these disclosures is used to prepare an annual report to the President of the United States and Congress concerning the effect of such holdings upon family farms and rural communities in the United States.

For more information, contact the Wayne County FSA office at (402) 375-243, or visit the USDA website at www.usda.gov.

WillyCon XV to bring fiction, fantasy enthusiasts to WSC

WillyCon, the annual convention sponsored by the Wayne State Science Fiction and Fantasy Club, will be held April 5-7. This will mark the 15th year that WillyCon has been held at Wayne State College.

Anne Bishop, the New York Times best-selling author of 16 novels, including the award-winning "Black Jewels" trilogy and "Written in Red," the first book in a new urban fantasy series, will be the guest author. Her stories have been embraced by readers around the world and have been translated into several languages including Czech, French, German, Japanese, Portuguese, Polish, and Russian.

Peri Charlfu will be the guest artist for WillyCon XV. He grew up in Denver and Aurora, Colo., and attended Metropolitan State College, studying art and psychology, which he combines to use art as therapy. Charlfu has been selling his work for 28 years, almost exclusively in the science fiction convention market for about five years. He is guild master for Art and Artisans of Colorado and a founding member of the Stoneleaf potters guild. Although an accomplished and proficient graphic artist, Charlfu's first love is pottery. He is highly skilled in wheel-thrown and hand-built work. He mixes all his own stains and glazes, and has developed an underglaze technique that he uses in 90 percent of the items he produces. He has produced more than 30,000 pieces of pottery.

The fan Guest of Honor is Jeff Schipman, a 1997 graduate of Wayne State College. He hails from one of Nebraska's smallest towns, Worms (population 19), but currently resides in the largest, Omaha, with his wife, Dawn. He has a wide variety of sci-fi interests and is a die-hard Star Wars fan. He serves on the Board of Directors for Midwest Robots and Infected Entertainment, LLC. He was also a founding member of the Omaha Science Fiction Education Society. Schipman is an avid costumer and serves as the Base commander of the Central Base of the Rebel Legion as well as a member of the 501st Legion and R2-D2 Builders Club.

WillyCon XV will include a variety of activities for science fiction and fantasy fans. There will be an art show and auction displaying/selling science fiction and fantasy art, and a vendors' room with gaming supplies and miscellaneous items. WSC students and local artists are encouraged to submit their art. The art show, art auction, and vendors' area at WillyCon are open to the public.

Presentations and panels by students, faculty, and fans will be held to talk about such things as gaming, the possibility of time travel and society's fascination with immortality. There will also be a workshop on creating using burlap and yarn, and much more. There will be fun activities such as board games, card games, role playing games, a masquerade show, Halo, Rock Band, Game of Thrones and Star Trek tournaments, etc.

Budding writers and artists will not want to miss the author's workshop with a successful author to gather information about the craft of writing, or the artist's workshop with a talented artist on illustrative drawing, pottery, and painting techniques.

WillyCon is an inexpensive, fun-filled weekend suitable for all ages. Registration for the convention is $20 for the weekend. WSC students can attend at no cost.

For information, e-mail Ron Vick at RoVick1@wsc.edu (please include "WillyCon" in the subject line) or visit www.willycon.com.

WSC diversity conference set for March 17-18

Wayne State College will host a diversity conference with a performance in downtown Wayne and sessions on campus Sunday and Monday, March 17-18.

The event is sponsored by the Nebraska Humanities Council, City of Wayne, and the Wayne State College Office of Multicultural Affairs and the Office of Residence Life. There is no admission charge.

The Many Moccasins will perform on March 17 at 3 p.m. at the Wayne City Auditorium. The Many Moccasins Dance Troupe is an ensemble of professional Native American performers who utilize traditional Native American dance to entertain, educate and uplift audiences around the world. They have specialized in Native American entertainment for more than 11 years.

Steve Birdine will be the keynote on March 17 with sessions on Monday in the Niobrara Room of the Student Center on the Wayne State College campus. Birdine is a diversity educator and motivator. He exhibits the ability to both educate and entertain.

Student-led workshops will be hosted at 9, 10 and 11 a.m. with a break for lunch at 12 p.m. Workshops will resume at 1 and 2 p.m. with a wrap-up session at 3 p.m.

Hopefully, a state title is on deck

Here are some thoughts, observations and random acts of March Madness from the "Bits and Pieces" file:

By the time some of you read this, the Wayne High boys basketball team will have already played their first-round game at the state tournament, a tournament that they are very capable of winning.

The Blue Devils have put together an outstanding season in 2012-13, taking a 22-5 record into a state tournament bracket that, to be honest, is about as wide open a bracket as I've seen in 30 years of covering high school sports.

Six of the eight teams have the talent to go all the way and win this thing. Considering the way these tournaments sometimes go, it wouldn't be the least bit surprising to see No. 7 Boone Central/Newman Grove meet No. 8 Lincoln Christian in the finals — although my money is on the Wayne-Wahoo winner meeting Kearney Catholic.

It's hard to believe that Wayne hasn't won a state title since the 1956 team beat Hebron 61-56 to take the Class B title. This year's team has the talent to end that long dry spell, and if they're hitting on all cylinders, I don't know if there's a team in the bracket that can beat them.

Regardless of the outcome, it's been a fantastic year for Rocky "Blue Shoes" Ruhl and the Blue Devils. Hopefully, we'll have a state championship to talk about on this page next week.

We talked about it briefly on the Wayne State Coaches Show on mywaynews.com, but I've got to say that this past season was probably one of Chris Kielsmeier's best coaching jobs in his five years as the Wildcat mentor.

This year's team had very little resemblance to the team that went 32-3 and made the school's first-ever Elite Eight appearance a year ago. In fact, only one starter and two off the bench (one of whom missed more than half the season with an illness) were a part of that ground-breaking team.

With all the new faces on this year's squad, I know there were a lot of nights that Kielsmeier's frustration was palpable. This team looked brilliant at times, and mesmerizingly ugly almost as often — which you have to expect from a group of kids who are trying to play within a very intricate system run by a very demanding coach.

Kielsmeier expects the best out of everybody who is part of the program, so playing the youth card is not one you're going to hear him play very often. Still, considering the inexperience and the balance that the Northern Sun Conference showed this year, finishing 17-10 is not a bad way for this team to go. They had the capability of winning 20-plus games and sneaking into the national tournament — and they also were fortunate to win enough games to avoid a losing season.

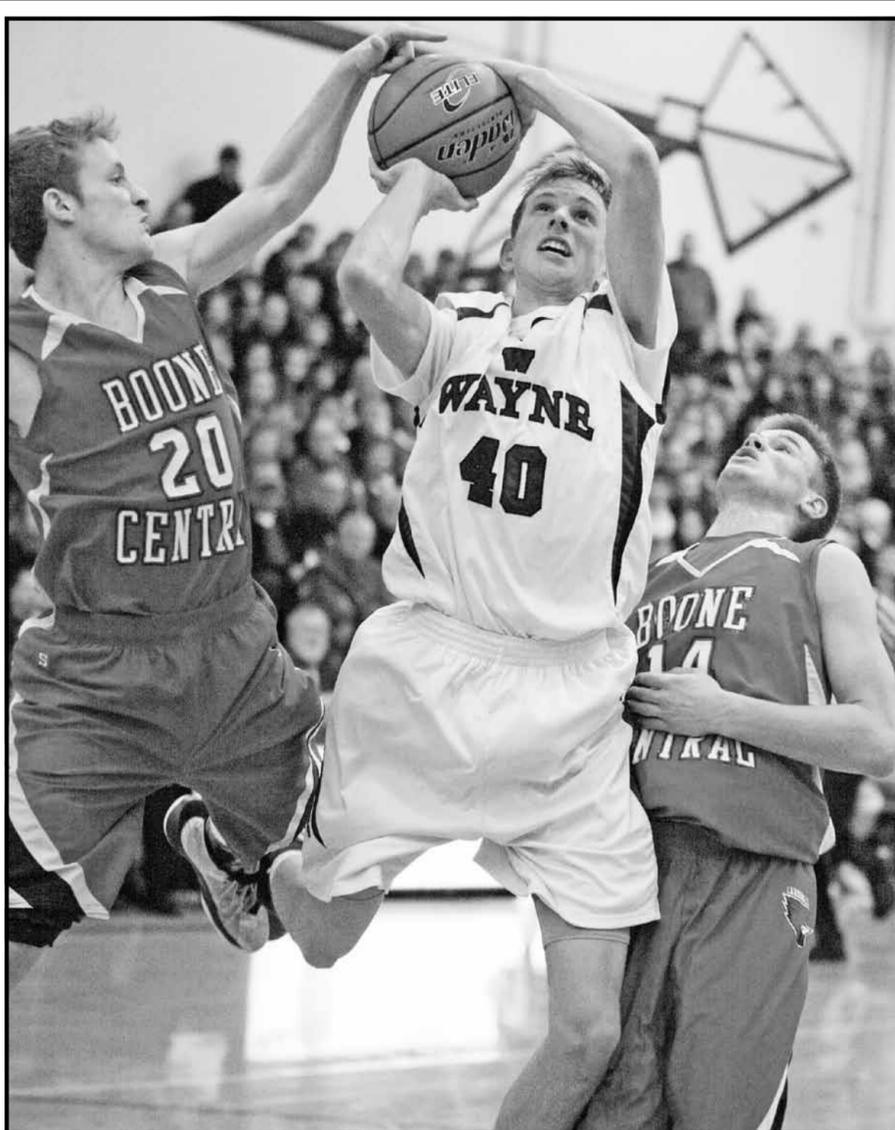

The good news for this program comes from the fact that there are no seniors on this year's team. Assuming everybody returns and is healthy, there will be an abundance of experience that will be augmented with the arrival of some very good incoming freshmen. Another year in this system, and a lot of hard work in the off-season, and we might see this team get back to where it was in 2011-12.

The Wayne State men have a different kind of challenge ahead of itself as Paul Combs is faced with replacing this year's senior class.

Leaving are a four-year floor general (Amry Shelby), a three-year dominator in the paint (Derrell Williams) and bench sparkplug Ayron Worthington, who transferred here two years ago and gave the Wildcats a lift in his sixth-man role.

Replacing somebody like Shelby, who was the team's leading scorer all four years and leaves as the No. 3 all-time scorer in Wayne State history, is next to impossible. What

Will they meet again?

It's not out of the realm of possibility that two Mid State Conference teams could play for all the marbles in the Class C1 State Boys Basketball Championships this week in Lincoln. Grant Anderson (40) and the Wayne High Blue Devils are the No. 4 seed for this week's tournament, while Boone Central/Newman Grove, who has won two of three meetings between the two teams, is seeded seventh. If both teams can win Thursday and Friday, they would meet for the state title Saturday at 4:30 p.m. at the Bob Devaney Sports Center. Stay up to date on the Blue Devils' efforts on our website at mywaynews.com, and look for a special section highlighting the Wayne High run to state in next week's edition.

Drahota tabbed to new job at WSC

Wayne State athletic director Mike Powicki announced that Shane Drahota has been hired as assistant athletic director for internal affairs, beginning his new position with the Wildcat athletic department on Monday.

"We are extremely excited to be adding Shane to the Wildcat Athletics family," Powicki said. "Shane brings a wealth of knowledge and experience in the areas of compliance and student athlete services, as well as expertise in overall intercollegiate athletic administration."

Drahota will play a very important role in Wayne State College athletics' continuing to improve and enhance how we serve our student athletes, coaches and Wayne State College."

Drahota comes to Wayne State from Minnesota State University in Mankato, Minn., where he served as assistant athletic director for compliance and student services since November 2007. At Minnesota State, he oversaw compliance and rules education efforts for 20 sports and also served as the women's bowling coach for two years.

Before joining Minnesota State in compliance, Drahota served as the assistant athletic director for communications at the University of South Dakota for a year and half. He supervised the school's sports information department while also overseeing marketing and ticket components for USD athletics along with community relations and corporate partnership programs.

Drahota began his career in collegiate athletics serving as the assistant director for athletic communications at Minnesota State for eight years before moving on to South Dakota. He has also served on the NCAA Div. II Women's Soccer Central Region committee and was a district coordinator for the CoSIDA Academic All-America program for three years.

Drahota is a native of Jackson, Minn., and owns a master's degree from Minnesota State in athletics administration. He received his bachelor's degree from Minnesota State in 1999 in management and human resource management. He and his wife Liz have one son, Dayne.

Spencer on NSIC team

Wayne State sophomore Jordan Spencer was named to second-team honors on the 2012-13 NSIC Women's Basketball All-Conference team that was announced Tuesday by the league office.

Spencer, a 5-foot-11 sophomore forward from Omaha, was the lone Wildcat on this year's all-conference squad. She led Wayne State in scoring this season, averaging 15.5 points to go along with 6.5 rebounds per game. She ranked seventh in the league in overall scoring, 13th in field goal percentage (.475) and 20th in rebounding.

Spencer had five double-doubles this season, and she scored in double figures in 22 of 27 games this season with six games of 20 or more points. She was named the NSIC Player of the Week on Jan. 2 after scoring 23 points to go with 11 rebounds in an 85-47 win over Chadron State on Dec. 31. Spencer scored a career-high 27 points in a 59-57 win at Minnesota, Crookston on Jan. 11.

Wildcat teams end year with NSIC defeats

Wayne State men, women fall in conference tourney

The basketball season came to an end for both Wayne State teams, as the Wildcat men and women were both first-round victims on the road in the Northern Sun Conference Tournament last Wednesday.

The Wayne State women could not overcome a 44-26 rebounding deficit and a career-high 22 points by Northern State's Sadie Stotesbery, as the Wolves ended an 11-game losing streak to the Wildcats with a 69-59 win at Aberdeen, S.D.

Northern State snapped an 11-game losing streak to the Wildcats dating back to Feb. 1, 2008.

The Wildcats got off to a strong start, making four of their first six shots from the field while taking a 14-7 lead following an Ashton Yossi layup at the 14:02 mark. Northern State then scored the next 10 points and held Wayne State without a basket for the next 5:50, as the Wolves took a 17-14 lead.

The game stayed close until the Wolves put together another scoring spurt at the end of the half giving Northern State a double digit lead. With Wayne State trailing 23-21 following a Jordan Spencer basket with 3:40 to go in the half, the Wolves went on an 11-2 run to close the half and took a commanding 34-23 lead at halftime.

The Wolves opened the second half scoring the first six points and took a 40-23 lead before Wayne State finally scored at the 16:12 mark on a Yossi 3-pointer. The Wildcats trailed by double figures for most of the second half and cut Northern's lead under double digits for the first time in the half at the 9:42 mark when Addy Roller made a layup to pull the 'Cats within 51-42.

The closest Wayne State could get after that was eight points at 55-47 on a Roller 3-pointer with 6:39 remaining. Northern State staved off any chance of a Wildcat comeback by making 15-of-16 free throws in the second half.

Spencer led Wayne State with 16 points, followed by Roller with 15 and Yossi with 12.

The Wolves held a commanding 44-26 advantage on the glass over the Wildcats. Wayne State's top rebounder was Shantel Lehmann with eight followed by Ellen Hansen with six.

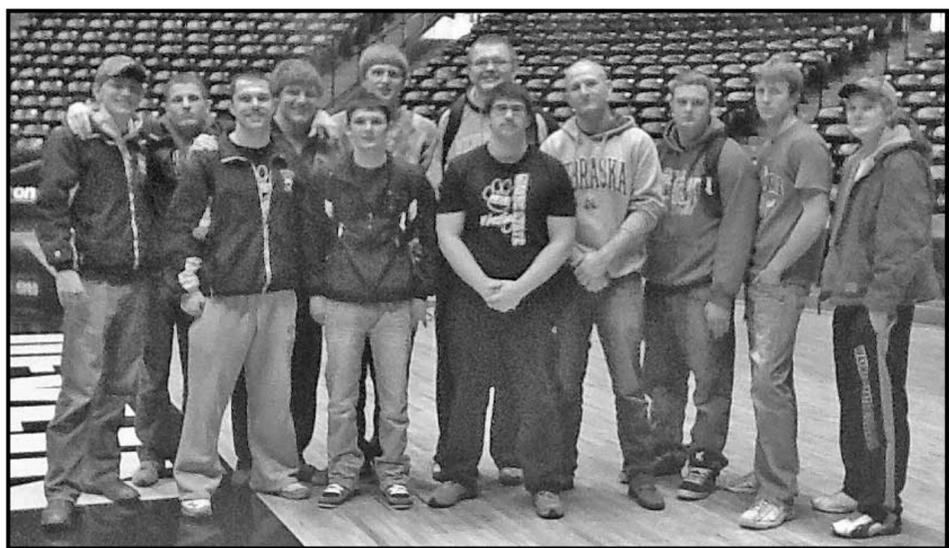

Wayne State, which finished the season 17-10, had 15 turnovers in the game compared to 19 on the Wolves. Roller was credited with three assists while Yossi had four steals and Katie Hoskins had two blocked shots.

The Wayne State men were run over by a hot-shooting Bemidji State team, as the Beavers shot 62 percent in the first half and never let Wayne State back in the game, cruising to a 71-54 win Wednesday evening in Bemidji, Minn.

Wayne State never led in the contest as the host Beavers shot a sizzling 62 percent (18-of-29) in the first half to set the tone for the game. Bemidji led 8-2 early and was ahead 13-8 at the 11:37 mark, but that's as close as Wayne State would get to the Beavers the rest of the night. Bemidji State scored the next seven points to take a 20-8 lead and held a double digit lead the remainder of the half while taking a 40-22 lead at halftime.

Senior guard Amry Shelby was the lone bright spot for the Wildcats in the first half, scoring 15 of Wayne State's 22 points while going 6-for-13 from the field. Wayne State shot

WSC wrestlers sending seven to NWCA national tourney

By LAURA BURTWISTLE
Special to the Herald

Seven really is a lucky number.

The Wayne State College Wrestling Club will send seven wrestlers to The National Collegiate Wrestling Association's national tournament after a hard-fought conference tournament.

The Wayne State College Wrestling Club placed third in the Great Plains Conference Championships at Wichita State University on Saturday with 92 total team points, only two above Northwest Missouri State. Wayne State placed behind Lindenwood University-St. Charles in first and Air Force Prep Academy in second, both schools with populations over 10,000 students. The Wildcat wrestlers placed first among the National Collegiate Wrestling Association (NCWA) Division II schools.

"It was a team effort that allowed us to earn third place," coach Greg Vander Weil said. "The seven qualifiers get a lot of attention, but without those other five guys, we wouldn't have beaten Northwest Missouri by two points. Coach (Aaron) Schuett and I felt the team effort and camaraderie of support is what propelled us to third place."

The seven wrestlers that advance to Nationals include sophomore Jon Williams of Glenwood, Iowa; se-

Williams placed second at the conference tournament and finished with a record of 2-1 in the 174-pound weight class. He is a two-time national qualifier and was conference runner-up both years.

Matthew Peter placed fifth in the conference tournament in the 149-pound weight class. He finished with a record of 3-2 and had three pins during the meet. Matthew is a four-time national qualifier.

DeGarmo received third-place at the conference tournament with a record of 2-1 in the 184-pound weight class, and Rob Peter placed fourth in the 197-pound weight class. Rob is a two-time national qualifier and team captain for the club, looking to finish strong at nationals and competing with his brother Matthew at the national tournament for the first time.

Schmitz finished third with a record of 3-2 at the conference meet in the 235-pound weight class, while Burnison placed seventh in that division and earned a wildcard for a trip to nationals. Mullen placed second at the conference tournament in the 285-pound weight class and is a three-time national qualifier.

Four sign with WSC for track

Wayne State College track and field/cross country coach Marlon Brink announced the signing of three student athletes to national letters of intent to continue their track and field/cross country careers at Wayne State College. Signing with the Wildcats were Mary Alderson of Fremont, Emily Kaup of Stuart and Aryn Smidt of West Point, who join Michaela Dendinger of Coleridge and Andrea DeSimone of Plattsmouth as members of the 2013 Wayne State women's track and field/cross country recruiting class. Alderson is a sprinter from Archbishop Bergan High School, where she will be a four-year starter in track. Last season as a junior, she placed sixth in Class C at the state track meet in the 200-meter dash with a time of 26.80 seconds, and also qualified in the 100, 400-meter relay and high jump. Kaup is a versatile runner from Stuart High School. She has qualified for the state meet in Class D the past two seasons and placed in the 800-meter run both times. She was second in Class D as a sophomore with a time of 2:22.41 and fourth in 2012 with a time of 2:22.45. Kaup received All-Niobrara Valley Conference honors in track in both the 400 and 800 in 2010, 2011 and 2012. She also has academic success being named Principal's Niobrara Valley All-Conference Academic in 2011 and 2012.

Smidt is a two time Class C state cross country medalist from West Point-Beemer, where she ran cross country for two seasons. She will compete in both cross country and track at Wayne State. Smidt finished sixth at the 2012 state cross country meet in Class C as a senior with a time of 15:28.4. She also placed fourth at the 2012 District meet with a time of 15:57. In 2011, Smidt placed 13th at the state meet as a junior with a time of 16:10.0. She was named all-state in cross country in 2012 and broke the school record at a meet five different times during her senior season.

Baseball team 1-2 in Florida trip

Wheeling Jesuit of West Virginia edged Wayne State College 10-9 in 11 innings Tuesday afternoon at the Russ Matt Central Florida Baseball Invitational in Winter Haven, Fla. The loss marked the midway point of a six-game road trip for the 4-5 Wildcats, who lost two of their first three on their annual spring break journey.

Wheeling Jesuit held a 4-0 lead entering the bottom of the third, but Wayne State scored runs in four straight innings to take a 7-4 lead.

The Wildcats first run in the third inning came on a Brandon Lalk single that scored Justin Beranek. In the fourth, the Wildcats used singles by Michael Herman and Blake Brisson and a Tanner Lancaster hit by the pitch to load the bases, with Herman scoring on an Alex Krefl double play ball.

Wayne State trimmed the lead to 4-3 in the fifth when C.J. Nolen tripled and scored on a Lalk single to right field. The Wildcats then took the lead in the sixth inning with four runs for a 7-4 lead. Wayne State had just two hits in the inning, a bunt single from Brisson and an RBI single by Brett Keim, while taking advantage of one Cardinal error and a hit batter.

In the top of the eighth, Wheeling Jesuit scored three runs to tie the score at 7-7 and took a 9-7 lead in the top of the ninth with two runs. Wayne State forced extra innings by scoring twice in the bottom of the ninth. Beranek led off the inning with a walk, and Nolen was hit by a pitch. Michael Frericks then singled to score Beranek, while a Michael Herman sacrifice bunt scored Nolen with the tying run.

Wheeling Jesuit took advantage of two WSC errors in the 11th inning to score the eventual game-winning run. Wayne State was unable to score in the bottom of the inning, giving Wheeling Jesuit the win.

Nolen led Wayne State's nine-hit attack, going 2-for-4 with a triple, three runs scored and two RBIs. Lalk and Brisson each added two hits.

Notre Dame of Ohio defeated Wayne State College 16-6 Monday afternoon. Wayne State had 15 hits in the game but left 12 runners on base, while Notre Dame pounded out 16 hits and took advantage of six walks and four Wildcat errors.

Keim led Wayne State at the plate, going 3-for-5. Brisson was 2-for-3 with a double while Beranek, Nolen and Lalk each had two singles.

Senior Tom Doran (0-2) was tagged with the pitching loss, giving up eight runs on seven hits over 5 1/3 innings' work with four strikeouts and one walk.

Wayne State scored four runs in the seventh and four more insurance runs in the ninth inning and used seven strong innings from senior starter Tadd Johansen to defeat Ohio Dominican 9-1 Sunday afternoon in the Wildcats' opening game of the spring break trip.

The Wildcats opened the scoring in the top of the second when Tanner Lancaster walked and later scored on a Keim RBI single. The score remained 1-0 until the bottom of the sixth inning, when Ohio Dominican scored to even the score at 1-1.

Wayne State took the lead for good in the top of the seventh, scoring four runs on just one hit with two Ohio Dominican errors and a pair of walks. In the ninth, Wayne State added four insurance runs, highlighted by RBI doubles from Kevin Andersen and Kris Ely.

Wayne State finished the game with 11 hits compared to seven for Ohio Dominican. Keim finished 3-for-5 with an RBI and run scored while Andersen was the only other Wildcat with a multi-hit game, going 2-for-5 with a double, RBI and run scored.

Johansen improved to 3-0 on the season by working seven strong innings. He allowed just six hits and one run with six strikeouts and one walk. Sophomore Nick Ragan pitched the final two innings and gave up one hit with two strikeouts.

From Page 1B he meant to this program, both in what he did on the court and his leadership off it, is not easy to replace. Finding somebody who can fill that role is going to be a major task for Combs and his staff. Wayne State does have some good returning talent next year, and if they can find a way to replace their top two scorers and senior leaders, the program is heading in the right direction for the 2013-14 season. - I had a chance to speak with Shane Drahota, the new assistant athletic director for internal affairs at Wayne State College, and I have a feeling he's going to be a good fit for the athletic program because he's a fan of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Now anybody, and I mean anybody, can be a front-runner and root for the Evil Empire, also known as the New York Yankees (I can already hear the wheels to Scott Kneifl's office chair spinning as he reads this and begins to craft a carefully-worded response as one of the Yankees fan on the Wayne State staff). But it takes real courage to root for a team that not only has struggled on the field, but one who has done so for generations.

As a fan of a team without a history of championship titles (I'm a lifelong Seattle Seahawks fan, you may remember), I gravitate toward those who root for the underdog.

Chris Kielsmeier is an unashamed Chicago Cubs fan. He gets rooting for a bunch of lovable losers like the Cubbies (rebuilding for their next World Series ring since 1908). Chris and I chatted with Shane in the hallway of the athletic office Monday afternoon, and you could sense a camaraderie building between those of us who root for lovable losers and avoid the temptation of cheering for the Evil Empire. Welcome to Wayne, Shane - and don't let Kneifl bother you with his chirping about A-Rod, whose home run totals came from a syringe (not that I'm an anti-Yankee fan or anything...).

- Speaking of baseball: it's less than two weeks until spring, which means the first events of spring sports are days away. Would it be too much to ask for a week off in between winter and spring sports seasons? Evidently... it is.

 tional, but had strong finishes to represent the club well at the conference tournament.

Senior Eric Held of Hinton, Iowa, finished seventh in the conference with a record of 2-1 in the 157-pound weight class, and senior Allyn Gonsor of Fremont placed sixth with a record of 2-3 and two pins. Gonsor was one spot from qualifying for nationals.

Freshman Tanner O'Gorman of Waverly placed fifth in the 125-pound weight class with a record of 2-1. Freshman Robbie Thomsen of Pender and senior Eric Timmerman of George, Iowa, tied for seventh place in the 165-pound weight class at the conference meet. Thomsen finished with a record of 1-2, and Timmerman finished with a record of 2-2.

The advancing wrestlers have only a few days to rest before they finish their season at the national tournament.

"We'd love to have All-Americans at Nationals," Vander Weil said. "It would be nice to have guys place on the podium in the top eight in the nation, but it's a tough challenge."

The NCWA National Wrestling Championships will take place at the Allen Events Center in Allen, Texas, March 14-16.

Softball starts 4-2 on Florida trip

The Wayne State College softball team opened the 2013 season Sunday at the National Training Center Spring Games in Clermont, Fla., winning four of their first six games on the week-long road trip.

On Sunday, the Wildcats rallied for a 5-4 win over No. 17-ranked West Virginia Wesleyan in the opener before falling to Grand Valley State of Michigan in the second game of the day, 4-3.

The first game saw Kylee Simpson record the game-winning hit for the Wildcats. Sophomore first baseman Kaiti Williams tied the score earlier with a two-run single before Simpson notched the game-winning hit.

The second game saw Wayne State nearly rally from a 3-0 deficit, as the Wildcats left the bases loaded in the top of the seventh inning with one out before falling to Grand Valley State.

On Monday, the Wildcats split a pair of games, cruising past Felician College (N.J.) 9-1 in five innings in the first game of the day before falling to unbeaten Gannon University (Pa.) 5-2 in the second game.

The opening game saw Wayne State erupt for six runs in the bottom of the fifth inning, ending the game on the eight-run rule.

Wayne State finished the game with 11 hits while holding Felician to five. Vicki Nielsen paced Wayne State at the plate, going 3-for-4 with an RBI and a run scored. Williams and Kelcie Bormann each went 2-for-2, with Bormann recording three RBIs.

Wayne freshman Cassy Miller notched a win in the circle in her Wildcat pitching debut. She pitched three innings and allowed one run on five hits with four strikeouts. Bormann pitched two innings of scoreless relief.

The second game saw Wayne State outpace Gannon 9-6 but come up short in the loss to the Golden Knights.

Simpson and King each had two singles to lead Wayne State at the plate followed by Sam O'Brien's solo homer and a double by Bormann.

O'Brien delivered a two-out, walk-off homer in the bottom of the seventh to give the Wayne State softball team a thrilling 7-5 win over Lewis University of Illinois Tuesday afternoon. Earlier in the day, Wayne State held off Assumption College of Massachusetts 7-6 to give the Wildcats two wins on the day.

Williams led a balanced Wildcat attack at the plate against Assumption, going 3-for-4 with two runs scored. O'Brien was 2-for-4 with a double and two RBIs.

The second game saw the Wildcats rally in the bottom of the seventh inning for a thrilling 7-5 win over Lewis University (Ill.).

Wayne State rallied in the bottom of the seventh with two outs and no runners on base. Bormann walked and moved to second on a wild pitch. She then scored on Megan Hagemann's single to right field making the score 5-5. O'Brien then stepped to the plate and bashed a walk-off homer over the left field fence, her second homer of the year.

 just 33 percent from the field in the first half on 9-of-27 including 1-for-9 from 3-point range.

Early in the second half, the Wildcats pulled within 14 points at 44-30 with 17:48 to play on a Derrell Williams layup, but Bemidji State scored the next seven points to take a 51-30 lead at the 13:30 mark, and Wayne State could never get closer than 15 points the rest of the game.

Shelby closed out a stellar career in a Wildcat uniform with 21 points, moving into third place on the school's all-time scoring list with 1,582 points. His 21 points moved him past Dennis Siefkes, who had 1,576 points from 1969-73. Seniors Derrell Williams and Ayrton Worthington also reached double figures scoring 10 points apiece. Williams grabbed six rebounds for Wayne State, while LaTroy Wright had four assists.

Wayne State finishes the season at 17-12, the most wins for a Wildcat men's basketball program since 1999-2000. It is also the team's first winning season since the 2007-08 season, when the Wildcats were 16-13. The Wildcats lose three seniors off this year's team: Shelby, Williams and Worthington.

A number of patrons took part in the book party at the Lied Winside Public Library on Feb. 9.

Lied Winside Public Library awarded grant

The Lied Winside Public Library held a book party on Feb. 9 to celebrate the gift of 64 elementary and middle school library-bound books that were received through a grant from the Libri Foundation of Eugene, Ore.

This grant was awarded with funds donated in memory of Jodie Jackson-Willett, with matching funds from the local library foundation. The Libri Foundation awards grants periodically to small, rural libraries.

The day included book talks and a display of all the new titles, sharing one of the books with the children as a read-a-loud, door prizes and feasting on a cake which was baked and decorated by Darci Janke of Winside.

Control Diabetes for Life series to begin March 27

The first of three programs in the 2013 "Control Diabetes for Life" series will be held Wednesday, March 27.

Yes, we have come a long way since we first began working in the field of diabetes education. We now know that the complications associated with diabetes can be prevented or delayed. Our growing knowledge of various foods and their effect on blood sugar levels enables people with diabetes to eat food they like, choose when and how much to eat, and still control blood-sugar levels.

It is the best time in history to have diabetes, especially in light of the difficulties our parents and grandparents would encounter had they been diagnosed decades ago. Today people with diabetes can choose from a wide variety of non-nutritive sweeteners and can even figure out how to fit sugar-containing foods into their meal plan. With carbohydrate information now readily available for most foods, diabetics can easily learn to count carbohydrates at each meal. This allows diabetics to fit virtually any food into their meal plan.

Stacie Petersen, B.S.N. and Certified Diabetes Educator will review the latest products on the market to help hold your diabetes in tight control by selecting the products that will work best for you. Included in her review will be blood glucose meters, insulin pens and even apps available to help track what you eat and record blood sugar readings without using pen and paper.

Fitting diabetes into your lifestyle is the key message. Diabetes does not have to dictate how you live.

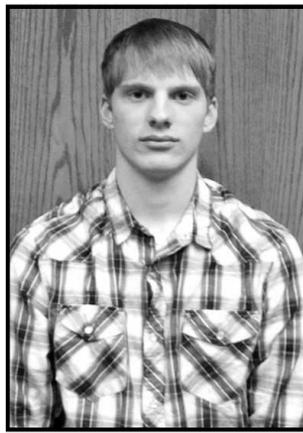

University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension and Franciscan Care Services of West Point invite diabetics and their family members to participate in a new and exciting diabetes educational program. Participants will learn about current issues related to diabetes from educators with over 20 years of team-teaching experience.

Topics that will be addressed during the two-hour program on March 27 are: New Tools for Weight Loss including: What's New in Diabetes Care; Weight Loss with Diabetes; and Developing Compassion for You along with other helpful hints. Recipes for diabetic appropriate foods will be shared to help you with food management goals. Team-teaching the program will be Deborah Willcox, R.D. and L.M.N.T., and Stacie Petersen, B.S.N. and Certified Diabetes Educator both of Franciscan Care Services in West Point and Debra Schroeder, UNL Extension Educator in Cuming County.

The program will be offered on Wednesday, March 27, from 1:30-4 p.m. at Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department in Wayne.

Control Diabetes for Life is a joint project of University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension and Franciscan Care Services of West Point. The program is offered free-of-charge. Control Diabetes for Life will help participants learn to control diabetes and prolong the onset of complications from the disease. These sessions are designed to supplement the education that you receive from your local diabetes education team and are not a substitute for diabetes classes through your local health care providers.

Participants are asked to pre-register for Control Your Diabetes for Life by calling Wayne County Extension Office at (402) 375-3310. Please register by Monday, March 25, so the proper number of hand-outs may be prepared. Nebraska

Tyler Wurdeman

Tyler Wurdeman enlists in National Guard

Tyler Wurdeman, 17, of Wayne enlisted into the Nebraska Army National Guard on Feb. 25.

Tyler is the son of Joyce and Kelvin Wurdeman. He is a junior at Wayne High School. This summer Tyler will attend basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C. and in August will return home to complete his senior year at Wayne High.

After graduation he will complete his Advanced Individual Training for the 189th Transportation Company as a Wheeled Vehicle Mechanic.

MSG Dale Alexander requests you "congratulate Tyler and his family when you see them in the community!"

School Food Service Association has approved this session for two hours of continuing education credits for food service staff for attending. SOURCE: Amy Topp, UNL Extension Educator.

Northeast Community College President Chipps testifies before Education Committee

The president of Northeast Community College said the word 'community' would have new meaning for Nebraska's community colleges if a piece of legislation is adopted and signed into law.

LB 651 would eliminate property tax levying authority and provide state funding for Nebraska's community colleges. The legislation is sponsored by 43rd District Senator Al Davis.

Dr. Michael Chipps spoke on behalf of the Nebraska Community College Association before the Legislature's Education Committee Tuesday afternoon. He said the legislation would remove local support from the state's community colleges, which currently totals more than $125 million annually and accounts for approximately 42% of the community colleges' budgets. At Northeast, this is more than $15 million dollars.

Chipps said Nebraska would be seriously financially challenged by adding community colleges to its budget. "Imagine what it would take for the state to assume the cost of the numerous facilities and employees on all the community college campuses across Nebraska? So, even if the Legislature based this decision only on a fiscal note, the resulting financial impact to the state would be staggering," he said.

The Northeast president said if LB 651 is enacted, it would migrate from local to state control and greatly hinder the ability of community colleges to properly and promptly address local education and workforce training needs.

"Today's community colleges stand ready, willing, and able to respond quickly, efficiently, and effectively to the needs of students, communities, businesses and industries," he said. "I have personally witnessed replacing local governing boards with well-meaning, but weak advisory councils resulting from such legislation. Local governing boards are not weak. They clearly understand the needs and challenges that face each of the community college service areas."

Chipps said the bill would remove most, if not all, of the support used currently to provide quality career/technical education. This would include programs in areas of high local need such as machining, welding, construction, and electrical, among others.

"Over the long-term, community colleges would revert to two year junior colleges, offering mostly academic courses for transfer to senior institutions," he said. "Of course, this correspondingly greatly weakens the college's ability to impact local economic development activities and spur rural revitalization."

One of Chipps' biggest concerns is how the proposed legislation would impact students. He said it would certainly erode affordable and accessible education and place more of the financial burden on the backs of students. "It is almost certain that eventually the tuition of our community colleges would more than double, and as a long-term result, higher education would eventually lose its foothold as a great equalizer."

Chipps encouraged lawmakers to not advance LB 651 if they believe Nebraskans wish to keep a community college education affordable and accessible. "By moving toward more state control of community colleges, students will suffer the most. As what has transpired with such plans in other states since tuition and fees would need to dramatically increase to support the lack of available funding to keep our doors open."

Regional Blueprint Conference date set

On Wednesday and Thursday, April 3-4, the Northeast Nebraska Economic Development District (NENEDD) will co-host an economic development conference with Northeast Community College in Norfolk.

The event will be held at the Lifelong Learning Center at 801 East Benjamin Avenue.

This educational conference is a part of the Northeast Nebraska Regional Blueprint effort and is open to anyone who would like to attend. Registration is $29 for one day or $49 for both days and is required by Monday, March 25.

On Wednesday, April 3, the conference will focus on current workforce challenges in Northeast Nebraska. The morning keynote, Ed Andrews of Smart Solutions Group in Iowa, will speak on building a skills ready labor force and communicating the strengths of our region to site consultants.

Morning breakout sessions will highlight: skills ready solutions for workforce development, recruiting families & professionals, workforce & logistics and will also include a Northeast NE Labor Study presentation.

The afternoon keynote, Norma Owne of the Avadon Group in North Carolina, will bring perspective and insight from leading-edge workforce development practices she has designed and implemented across the country. The afternoon will also include relevant breakout sessions with topics ranging from engaging veterans in our workforce to youth involvement as well as a successful communities panel.

On Thursday, April 4, the conference will center on site development. The morning keynote, Courtney Dunbar of Olsson & Associates in Omaha, will highlight the importance of site preparation and morning breakouts will include topics on brownfield development, downtown revitalization, Federal policy and Location One Information Systems.

The first afternoon keynote, Steve Dodd of Burlington Northern Santa Fe Rail Road in Kansas, will educate attendees on how to prepare for rail development. The second keynote, Mike Fastenau of Black Hills Energy in Iowa, will share some of the different strategies of site development.

Full agendas, as well as conference, booth and sponsorship registrations, are available at www.nenedd.org. Booths are free to registrants but space is limited. If you have any questions please contact Lisa Hurley at (402) 379-1150 or e-mail lisa@nenedd.org.

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes
Managing Editor

Tripping hockey coach gets karma

OK, boys and girls – March Madness will soon be upon us, so let's get ready with a little late-winter cleaning of the "Bits and Pieces" file:

– This week's entry in the "Why parents with agendas and/or anger issues shouldn't be allowed to participate in youth sports" department: A youth hockey coach in British Columbia is getting more than his just desserts after intentionally tripping two opposing players after a youth hockey game a few months back.

During the postgame handshake, the idiot (calling him an adult would be incorrect) did a leg-sweep and tripped up two players, one of whom suffered a broken wrist as a result of the assault.

The individual received a 15-day jail sentence, but that's not all – his wife has divorced him and he has lost clients from his construction business over the incident.

That, ladies and gentlemen, is what we like to call karma.

– This just in from our "There is no connection to the fact that the toilet is empty and we're having chicken soup for dinner" bureau: Workers at an airbase in Sweden have been noticing a little extra, umm, flavor in their cup of coffee in recent days.

That's because the water in the coffee maker came from a radiator in the kitchen.

The problem was discovered when the heating system was shut down for maintenance work. Somebody reconnected the pipes incorrectly, and the water from the radiator wound up going into the coffee machine.

Workers had noticed the coffee hadn't tasted good for a few days, but since the coffee is black and the radiator water is a light brown color, nobody noticed the reason why until the water was turned off later.

Next time I go to Starbucks, I'm going to take a close look at their piping system.

– Now THIS is how you celebrate winning the lottery: Two brothers in Kansas purchased a lottery ticket that turned into a $75,000 winner. They celebrated the occasion by buying drugs and, get this, blowing up their house.

According to reports, one of the brothers went to refuel a butane torch they were using to light their bong, and vapors from the fuel found their way to the furnace room, where the pilot light provided the ignition.

One brother went to the hospital with second-degree burns, while the other has found a new home – in a Wichita jail.

– From the "If you behave, Johnny, we'll have enough left over to get you an ice cream cone" department: An Italian restaurant in Washington is encouraging families to make sure their kids are on their best behavior when they come in for dinner.

The small restaurant hosted a family with three children between the ages of 2-8, and the server was so impressed with the good manners the kids exhibited, that they gave the family a 15 percent discount on their meal.

The item on the receipt noting the discount said "well behaved kids." It makes you wonder if they have a surcharge for those little rugrats that go running around the place.

– If your child is stuck to the refrigerator door, this may be of interest to you: surgeons in Russia had to operate on a toddler recently after the child swallowed more than 40 refrigerator magnets.

The problem began when the child's mother noticed that all of the magnets from the family's icebox had gone missing. After searching the house for them, she began wondering about her child, who had fallen ill. An X-ray confirmed that a bunch of the circular magnets were in the child's digestive system.

The pediatric surgeon said this isn't the first time he's had to take magnets out of a child's intestinal track, but taking out 42 of them is a first for him. This makes me wonder – somebody is actually keeping track of the NUMBER of magnets kids are swallowing these days???

– From the "That McDonald's logo makes your knees stand out" department: Women in Japan are making a little extra coin in a rather unusual way – wearing advertising on their thighs.

A public relations company offers women money for wearing a small temporary tattoo with the business' logo and information. The tattoo is generally worn in the space between a knee-high sock and a skirt.

Women have to post pictures of their legs with the ads on their social media pages, and if they wear them for eight hours in a day, they get paid for their trouble.

Any business here in town that would like to take advantage of a similar service I'm offering on my bald head, call me here at the paper.

– Annnnd finally, from the "copying and pasting the news and calling it our own" department: A professor at West Liberty University has told students that they may not cite Fox News as a source for their assigned essays and term papers, saying "The tagline 'Fox News' makes me cringe. Please do not subject me to this biased news station."

She also said students can not use the satire site The Onion, although her only objection to that "source" is that it is a parody-related news siter – as opposed to the major news networks like Fox – or MSNBC, which regularly employs parodies of journalists.

Capitol View

Ernie Chambers: He's baaack

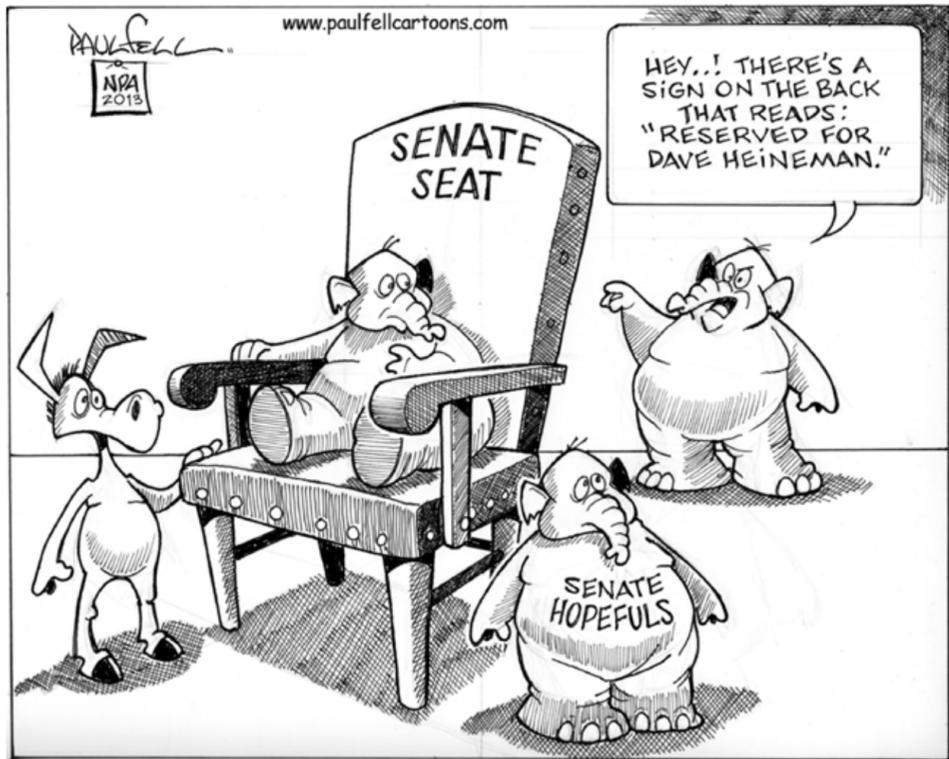

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

The return of Omaha Senator Ernie Chambers from his four-year term-limit-driven exile has also meant a return of discussions about the death penalty.

A couple of Chambers' bills deal with the way Nebraska courts decide whether to execute someone (LB542) as well as an outright repeal of the death penalty (LB543) and replacement with mandatory life in prison without parole.

In 134 years, 37 people have been legally executed for the crime of murder in Nebraska. The first was Samuel Richards who was hanged on January 15, 1879. Allison Cole and Allen Grammer were the first to die in the electric chair on December 20, 1920, the only time the state had back-to-back executions on the same day. Mass murderer Charles Starkweather, convicted in 1958 for killing 11 people, was the last to die in the electric chair (June 15, 1959) before the United States Supreme Court banned executions in 1972.

Three men have died since that ban was lifted in 1976. Harold Lamont "Walkin' Wili" Otey died on September 2, 1994, for the death of Jane McManus in Omaha. John Joubert was executed July 17, 1996, for the deaths of Bellevue area newspaper carriers Danny Eberle and Christopher Walden. Robert E. Williams was the last one electrocuted on December 2, 1997, for the deaths of Catherine Brooks, Patricia McGarry and Virginia Rowe in Lincoln in 1977. In 2008, the state Supreme Court ruled that electrocution was cruel and unusual punishment. A year later, the Nebraska Legislature adopted lethal injection as the method of execution. The state's highest court set the first execution under the new method for June 14, 2011, but stayed that execution based on a defense attorney's objection that the sodium thiopental the state purchased from a company in Mumbai fails to comply with U.S. pharmaceutical standards.

Nebraska law requires that someone convicted of murder be subjected to a second trial by jurors to determine if the aggravating factors surrounding the crime outweigh any mitigating factors. If they do, a three-judge panel then decides whether the death penalty is warranted. They look at nine aggravating circumstances, such as whether the murder was done for hire or to cover up evidence of another crime. Chambers' LB542 would eliminate one that says: "The murder was especially heinous, atrocious, cruel, or manifested exceptional depravity by ordinary standards of morality and intelligence." He told the Legislature's Judiciary Committee that aggravator "is the most litigated, judicially 'interpreted, tweaked and defined,' confusing, unworkable, disagreed upon aggravator in the litter."

Chambers' LB543 would abolish the death penalty and replace it with mandatory life without parole. Opponents of the death penalty emphasize that such a move prevents the execution of an innocent man. On March 25, 1887, William Jackson Marion was hanged for the murder of John Cameron. However, Cameron turned up alive in 1891.

Marion received a posthumous pardon by the State of Nebraska on the 100th anniversary of his execution.

Proponents of the death penalty say it will work as a deterrent only if administered in a timely fashion. Starkweather was executed almost exactly a year after his sentencing; the shortest time on death row was the four months served by Gottlieb Neigenfind. He was executed March 13, 1903. By 1994, that number had jumped to 17 years for Otey, the first person executed after Starkweather. The most recent prisoner to be scheduled for execution has been on death row for more than 30 years. Carey Dean Moore was convicted in 1979 of the murder of two Omaha cab drivers. He has received six stays of execution since then, including the one dealing with the lethal injection drug.

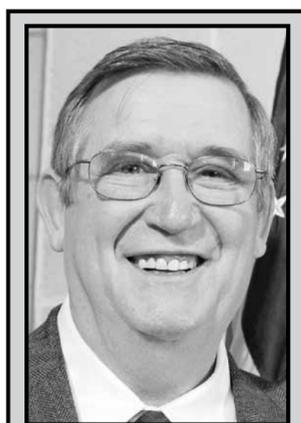

Legislative Update Cleaning up things In 2013 session

February 2013 has come and gone, and with it the first one-third of this Legislative Session.

Most of what has been dealt with thus far is what I would refer to as "clean-up legislation". This includes such things as updating regulations to assure that we are in compliance with federal regulations, eliminating a few boards and commissions that are no longer needed or used, and other such "housekeeping" things.

There have been some things done that are important; such as blocking the major tax changes as proposed by the governor. I am also now convinced that there will be no salary increase for the constitutional officers of the state. I am sure that we have successfully blocked that from advancing out of the Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee.

In addition to what is or is not happening here at our Capitol, there are other important activities taking place in Lincoln. Four schools from District 17 have sent teams to the 2013 Girls State Basketball tournament. Congratulations to Class B South Sioux City Cardinals, Class C-2 Homer Knights, and Class D-1 Pender Pendragons and Emerson-Hubbard Pirates. As this newsletter is being written, the outcome is yet unknown.

Next week the boys teams will be in town with District 17 teams from Class B South Sioux City Cardinals and Class C-1 Wayne Blue Devils. Congratulations.

As always, if we can be of any assistance, contact our office at (402) 471-2716 or e-mail dbloomfield@leg.ne.gov.

Red Cross month recognizes heroes

March is Red Cross Month and the American Red Cross recognizes our Everyday Heroes who help their community by giving of themselves - the volunteers, blood donors, class takers and financial supporters who help us assist those in need.

March is also a great time to become part of the Red Cross by doing such things as developing a preparedness plan for the household, becoming a volunteer, giving blood, or taking a Red Cross class. People will have an opportunity to become an Everyday Hero by registering for one of the Disaster Boot Camp Classes, downloading the Red Cross Apps or attending a Red Cross event in their community.

The Red Cross responds to nearly 70,000 disasters a year in this country. It provides 24-hour support to members of the military, veterans and their families; collects and distributes about 40 percent of the nation's blood supply and trains more than seven million people in first aid, water safety and other life-saving skills every year.

Last year the Nebraska/ SW Iowa Region, assisted 17,838 military families, trained 24,649 people in lifesaving skills, and helped 607 families live through a devastating fire, flood, or severe storm and counted on the Red Cross for mental health counseling, shelter, food and/or clothing.

We thank those whose generosity enables us to continue our work, and encourage everyone to become an Everyday Hero during Red Cross Month by helping their neighbors.

Retirement May Be Far Off, But the April 15 Deadline for IRA Contributions Isn't.

You have only so many years to prepare for retirement. That's why contributing to your Individual Retirement Account (IRA) is so important. Fortunately, you still have time to maximize your 2012 IRA contribution before the April 15 deadline.

By contributing now, your retirement savings can have more opportunity to grow. Even if you already have an IRA elsewhere, it's easy to transfer it to an Edward Jones IRA and begin receiving the face-to-face guidance you deserve.

To learn more about the advantages of an Edward Jones IRA, call or visit today.

Pet of the Week

Otis is the Pet of the Week at Tenderheart Animal Rescue. He is a male orange and white cat with beautiful markings. We are not sure of his age, but believe he is at least two years old. He does have to be on a special diet for urinary tract infections, but it doesn't cost more to feed him. He is very friendly and loveable. In fact, if you are sitting down near him, you better be ready for him to make himself at home in your lap. He is up to date on all his shots, wormed, and is fiv/leukemia negative.

No time to cook? Try these options

How many of us have decided what to make for supper inside the grocery store after work?

A "Restaurants and Institutions" survey found that about 70 percent of the adult U.S. population doesn't decide what to eat that night until 4 p.m. or later. Many consumers are looking for foods that are easy to fix quickly, but many convenience foods available today are high in fat, sodium, and costly. Here are some suggestions on how to simplify meal preparation.

– Cook when you have time—double or triple a recipe and freeze the extra servings for future meals. Plan to serve hot-cooked pasta into one meal; mix leftover pasta into a pasta salad the next night. Another pantry shelf with canned fruits and vegetables, pasta and rice to speed meal preparation.

– Prepare meals using a slow cooker or crock-pot. In order to keep your food safe in a crock-pot, it is very important that the internal temperature of the food reach 165 degrees F and only use recipes that include a liquid.

– Collect recipes for one-dish meals that are similar to meals-in-a-box or bag. Consider preparing a casserole. This is a great idea to use leftover meats, vegetables, pasta or rice.

Remember that food safety is essential to keeping you and your family safe. Refrigerate or freeze leftovers within two hours after meal preparation. Be sure to store leftovers in small, shallow, covered containers. Reheat only the portion of the leftover that will be eaten to an internal temperature of 165 degrees Fahrenheit, and do not reheat them more than once.

Do not forget to celebrate National Nutrition Month in March. There are several resources for the family to review on the UNL Food Website, especially the "Cook It Quick" newsletter found at food.unl.edu/web/fnh/cook-it-quick-newsletter-january-2012.

For more information about food, nutrition, and health resources, please contact the University of Nebraska Lincoln Extension Office in your local county or visit the website at www.extension.unl.edu/fnh.

Engagements

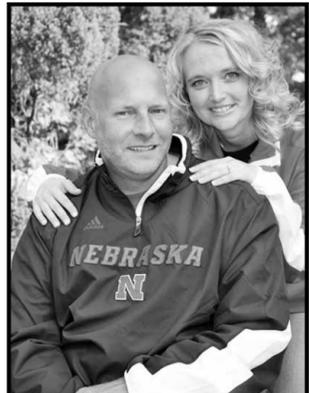

Davis-Hurlbert

Sarah Davis, daughter of Mike and Suanne Davis of Grand Island, and Dustin Hurlbert son of Scott and Robyn Hurlbert of Carroll, have announced their engagement.

The future bride is a 2003 graduate of Grand Island Senior High and attended Southeast Community College in Culinary Arts. She is employed by Hy-Vee.

The future groom is a 2005 graduate of Wayne High School in Wayne. He is also employed by Hy-Vee.

The couple are to be married April 27, 2013, in Wood River. They will be moving to Des Moines, Iowa, in May to further their careers with Hy-Vee.

Zabokrtsky - Wohlers

Kiley Khea Zabokrtsky and Matthew Scott Wohlers both of Wayne, will exchange vows on March, 23, 2013 at The First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

Parents of the couple are Ralph and Vicki Check and the late Jeff Zabokrtsky of Endicott and Wayne and Paula Wohlers of Syracuse.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Wayne State College. She is employed with Social Services at Providence Medical Center in Wayne.

Her fiance is a graduate of the University of Nebraska. He is employed by Pioneer DuPont as an Account Manager.

Minerva Club meets

Minerva Club met Feb. 25 at noon at the Senior Center with Arlene Ostendorf as hostess. President Connie Webber opened the meeting by challenging members to a brain exercise. The topic for roll call pertained to Oscar winners. Eleven members responded with comments.

Historian Hollis Frese read from minutes of the club meeting January 29, 1917. The program was 'Social Ethics of New York Society'. Conditions of the war were discussed.

Minerva along with Acme, Monday and Shakespeare women's clubs was invited to the UD Club meeting. Eighty ladies were in attendance.

"Decades of History" was chosen as the program theme for the next year. Programs will be given in chronological order, beginning in September with the years 1880-1889.

A history of Mardi Gras was presented by Arlene Ostendorf. Many countries celebrate this season from Epiphany through Shrove Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday. It is of French/Catholic origin. The celebration in Rio De Janeiro draws 2 million people accounting for 70 percent of Brazil's tourists.

The Mardi Gras tradition came to the United States in the 17th century when King Louis XIV of France defended his country's claim on the Louisiana Territory. New Orleans is 'where the good times roll', where a carnival atmosphere with colorful costumes, parades, parties, dancing and sports competitions prevail. Pancakes are one of the more traditional foods served.

Lois Youngerman will host the Monday, March 11 meeting at the Wayne Senior Center.

Eagles Auxiliary meets, chili cook-off winners named

The Wayne Eagles Auxiliary met March 4 with Vice President Jan Gamble presiding. It was decided not to hold events for St. Patrick's Day or Easter this year. The date of Saturday, April 20 was reserved for the Auxiliary Progressive Supper. A committee will be calling members to host the different courses of the meal. The winners of the Fiesta of Fire Chili Cook-off held on Feb. 23 were Sherri Widner, first place; Mike Sievers, second place and Brooks

Widner, third place. A total of eight different chilies were judged. State President Anita Bishop also made her official visit that evening. She had various items of sale to fund her State President project, "Eagles Ending Domestic Violence." The Eagles meeting times will change with the first meeting in April. Meetings will begin at 8 p.m. Members are reminded to come into the Aerie and try out the two new stationary tables and chairs. The next meeting will be Monday, March 18 at 7 p.m.

BISPHOSPHONATE THERAPY AND THE ORAL CAVITY

What are bisphosphonates?
 Bisphosphonates are a class of drugs that are used to prevent bone loss and weakening. Some of these drugs can be taken by mouth, while others must be given intravenously at a hospital or clinic. Are there side effects to my mouth from taking these drugs?
 Yes, there is an important but rare side effect you should know about. Less than five years ago, doctors began reporting cases of individuals having difficulty healing after undergoing tooth extraction or other invasive dental procedures, a phenomenon called osteonecrosis of the jaw. The only common factor in these patients was that they were taking bisphosphonate drugs. As a result, most doctors agree that there is an association between osteonecrosis of the jaw and bisphosphonates.

What can I do to avoid this condition if I am taking bisphosphonates?
 You should discuss with your dentist ways to minimize the risk of needing invasive procedures (extractions and oral surgery).

Frequent professional cleanings, attention to home care, and careful observation of any changes in your mouth are a good start. It is best to attempt to preserve teeth, rather than extract them. The best scenario is one where dental work is planned and executed before therapy with bisphosphonates is started.

Should I stop taking my bisphosphonates before dental procedures?
 No. Not without the advice or instruction by your physician. These drugs have been shown to be stored within the bones and slowly released over time. It is believed that, even when not taking the medications, the drugs can persist in the bone. There is no evidence that stopping the medication will reduce the risk of developing osteonecrosis of the jaw.

Research discovers plants can protect themselves against broad range of disease

By studying how a disease-causing bacterium attacks plants, University of Nebraska-Lincoln researchers have made important discoveries about how plants defend themselves against invaders. The information is helping them improve agricultural crops' armor against a broad range of diseases.

Plant pathologist James Alfano, graduate student Anna Joe and co-authors recently reported their findings in the European Molecular Biology Organization Journal. The work builds on Alfano's earlier discovery of a component in plant immunity that was reported in Nature, the international weekly journal of science, in 2007.

"It's exciting," said Alfano, a member of UNL's Center for Plant Science Innovation. "My work has always been about trying to make plants better at tolerating biotic stress. This paper is getting very close."

For Alfano, the trail to improve crops began with a bacterial pathogen. Pseudomonas syringae disables a plant's immune response by using a syringe-like mechanism to inject virulence proteins into plant cells, which helps the pathogen infect its host. He identified HopU1 as one of the bacterium's toxic proteins that suppresses immunity.

Following this lead, Alfano and colleagues studied how HopU1 operates. They found that it modifies RNA-binding proteins, a type of protein important in the process of turning a plant's DNA code into proteins. RNA-binding proteins were not previously known to be part of the immune system.

In the current journal article, Alfano's team and scientists at the Sainsbury Laboratory in Norwich, U.K., report that they have identified how one of the RNA binding proteins targeted by HopU1, glycine-rich protein 7, or GRP7, acts in the plant's immune system. They discovered that GRP7 helps makes receptor proteins, which sit on plant cell walls and act as a surveillance system detect pathogens. By knocking out GRP7, the pathogen reduces the number of receptor proteins and, therefore, is more likely to go undetected long enough to infect its host.

In addition to helping elucidate how this bacteria attacks plants, identifying GRP7's involvement in innate immunity gave the researchers a potential tool to help boost immunity in plants. They genetically modified Arabidopsis, a well-studied plant, to make more GRP7 and found that the change enhanced the plant's ability to fend off pathogens, presumably by boosting the number of receptor proteins.

They also found that the immunity boost is effective against many other pathogens, including many viruses and fungi, as well as bacteria. "It's actually a really good thing when you find something that's more broadly important for a number of diseases," Alfano said. "It really increases its potential value." It's particularly important for Midwestern agricultural crops, which are generally more susceptible to fungi and insects than bacteria. Researchers now are testing whether proteins like GRP7 can enhance immunity in soybeans.

Next, they will test for strengthened immunity in other agricultural crops and against a wider range of pathogens. They also continue studying the molecular pathways involving GRP7 to better understand and find new ways to improve innate immunity in plants.

Because GRP7 also is found in animals, including humans, Alfano's research may lead to improvements in human health as well. His co-authors are: Anna Joe from the UNL Center for Plant Science Innovation and the School of Biological Sciences; Byeong-ryool Jeong from the UNL Center for Plant Science Innovation and the Department of Plant Pathology; Valerie Nicaise, Freddy Boutrot, Isa Westedt and Cyril Zipfel from the Sainsbury Laboratory; and Dorothee Staiger from the University of Bielefeld, Germany.

State's deer harvest down 30 percent

Drought and an outbreak of epizootic hemorrhagic disease (EHD) in 2012 caused significant reductions in whitetail deer populations, permit sales and harvest.

The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission responded to the outbreak in October by reducing antlerless permit quotas and hunters responded by purchasing fewer permits and harvesting fewer deer.

Deer permit sales in 2012 declined 13 percent to 122,214. Total deer harvest fell 30 percent to 60,548. The whitetail buck harvest fell 29 percent to 26,309; whitetail antlerless harvest dropped 36 percent to 24,974; mule deer buck harvest declined 3 percent to 7,325; and the mule deer antlerless harvest fell 8 percent to 1,940.

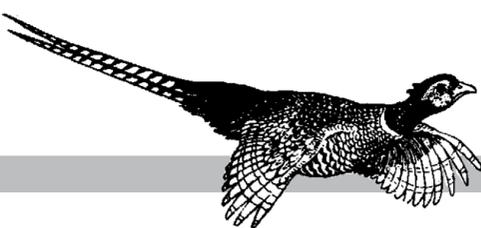

"Mule deer were less affected by EHD, but there has been significant mortality due to meningeal worms over the past five years," said Kit Hams, Game and Parks' big game program manager.

Whitetail buck harvest declined 50 percent in the Calamus West and Loup West units in 2012. 35 percent in Calamus East, Elkhorn, Keya Paha, Loup East, Missouri and Wahoo units, and 25 percent in all other units, except the Frenchman, which was down 8 percent. Whitetail buck harvest also decreased on the following permits: Landowner (41 percent), Youth (37 percent), Archery (36 percent) and Muzzleloader (32 percent).

"Statewide mule deer and whitetail populations are similar to population numbers of 10 years ago," Hams said. "Most herds will recover over the next four or five years. Loss of habitat due to drought, increased corn and bean production, and a goal to keep deer populations at a level acceptable to most landowners will likely keep deer numbers well below those seen the past few years."

The Nebraska Game and Parks Board of Commissioners will consider deer and other big game recommendations for 2013 at a meeting March 8 in Kearney. The deer season recommendations are designed to allow for controlled herd growth in most areas of the state. Staff recommends a reduction of approximately 4,000 deer permits and 86,000 bonus antlerless deer tags.

Nothing like state basketball

As usual this month, we have overdosed on basketball, and there is another weekend coming up! But we don't mind, it's all fun.

Our company from Randolph arrived on Wednesday evening, carrying sleeping bags and pillows. I heard some giggling in the big room in the basement, but they were tired and it didn't last long. They left the house the next morning in time for the 10:30 a.m. games.

I tagged along that evening to East High, across the street, to watch Wynot girls take Giltner out of the tournament. They were amazing!

There really is nothing like state basketball. I reiterated that to myself as I looked around the gym and listened to the sounds of two school bands trying to outdo each other, and two groups of cheer leaders trying to out yell each other. I was sitting with friends from Giltner and we had to laugh when the ushers shooed us to the far end of the north side, saying the area closest to the door was for students. What the gentleman, who probably works for East High, did not realize was that in a school the size of Giltner, the students who were not on the floor in the game, or up high in the band, were not that great in number.

Actually, of course, that basically left a few boys in costume. The guys who come to support their gals' teams are very creative when it comes to dressing for the game. You may have seen some of the pictures; animal costumes, wigs, sunglasses, dresses, etc. It's all fun.

Anyway, even though they were down by fifteen points at the start of the third quarter in the championship game, Wynot repeated as champs in their class for the third time!

In fact, the Lincoln Journal Star had an interesting article about northeast Nebraska being a "hotbed" for girls' basketball. Eleven of the teams in the lower classes were from there, and all but one got past the first round. Then, they basically had to start knocking each other off.

On Saturday afternoon, we had to keep clicking back and forth between Lincoln Southeast, where the grand daughter of a friend was playing, and Creighton University, where Doug McDermott was burning up the net and the Blue Jays won a game with Wichita State to be declared Valley champs! And that building was FULL!

The only damper came with NU's games; even though Coach Miles says coming within seven points isn't good enough, I'm encouraged. And after winning 10 in a row, the ladies were no match for Penn State, even with the Big Farmer yelling at the ref from his recliner!

Now, bring on the high school boys' teams!

Anatomy of beef cattle? There's an app for that

A new app from NUbeef takes the user inside the carcasses of beef cattle.

NUbeef-Anatomy allows users to navigate through the anatomy of beef cattle and learn more about bones and muscles found in the carcass. The app functions as a digital beef anatomy textbook, said Steven Jones, professor of animal science at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, who developed the media with EdMedia's instructional multimedia designer Vishal Singh.

"It is helpful for students to understand where each muscle is located in the beef carcass, its composition and eating quality," Jones said.

The information offered in the app could be used by animal science and veterinary students, 4-H and FFA members, meat processors, chefs, consumers and others.

As a user views each cross-section, they can view a picture of a selected muscle and learn about the anatomical and physical features of each muscle.

Anatomical information for each muscle includes action, origin, insertion, blood supply and innervation. Meat related information about the muscle includes composition and the eating qualities of tenderness, aroma, flavor and juiciness.

"This makes the app relevant to chefs and consumers as they determine proper methods of preparation," Jones said.

The NUbeef-Anatomy app is available in the Apple iTunes app store for iPhone and iPad for $4.99. For more information, visit the store at itunes.apple.com/us/app/nubeef-anatomy/id597656234?mt=8 or the IANR website at ianrhome.unl.edu/mobileapps/beefanatomy.

About 500 expected to be trained for wildfires

In the next several months, the Nebraska Forest Service's Wildland Fire Training Program expects to train about 500 firefighters across the state to prepare for another major wildfire season. Continuing intense drought, increased forest fuel loads and the spread of eastern redcedar, at a rate of about 38,000 new acres per year, have created an explosive potential for very large and more complex wildfires statewide. More than 1,500 wildland fires were reported in Nebraska last year.

Through May, the Nebraska Forest Service will offer classes to promote safety and review the most effective firefighting techniques for wildfires, fireline safety refresher training (Red Card training) and the Nebraska Wildland Fire Academy.

Private pesticide applicator training set

Private pesticide applicators whose licenses expire in 2012 and those seeking first-time certification can find information on pesticide safety education programs at their local University of Nebraska Extension offices.

Licensing as a private applicator allows farmers to purchase and use pesticides classified as restricted use by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in their own farming operations.

Extension provides the educational program, while the agriculture department is responsible for licensing. The training fee is $30. An applicator may also certify by self-study or online training for a $60 training fee.

In 2001, the Nebraska Legislature created a state pesticide license fee of $25 for private applicators. The fee covers a three-year license period.

A training is scheduled for Thursday, March 14 at 1 p.m. and 6 p.m. at the Fire Hall, 510 Tomar Drive in Wayne.

For additional sites contact the UNL Extension Office-Wayne County at (402) 375-3310 or check online at pested.unl.edu, where you will find the Private Training Schedule.

UNL Extension Board - Wayne County meeting planned

The UNL Extension Board - Wayne County will meet on Tuesday, March 12, 2013 at the courthouse meeting room in Wayne. The 7 p.m. meeting is open to the public. An agenda is available at the Extension Office at 510 Pearl Street, Suite C, in Wayne.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON APPLICATION FOR NEBRASKA AFFORDABLE HOUSING PROGRAM FUNDS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on Tuesday, March 19, 2013 in the Wayne Area Economic Development office, 108 W. 3rd Street in Wayne, NE, the Wayne Community

Housing Development Corporation (WCHDC) will hold a public hearing concerning an application to the Department of Economic Development for a Nebraska Affordable Housing Program (NAHP) Grant. This grant is available for local affordable housing activities.

WCHDC is requesting $295,000.00 for the Purchase/Rehab/Resale of eight (8) existing homes on scattered sites to first time buyer households with less than 80% Area Median Income in the counties of Burt, Cuming, Dodge, Thurston, Washington, and Wayne. Funds will be used for the purchase, rehabilitation and direct assistance of up to 20% down payment assistance, and gap financing where necessary upon sale to the homebuyer ($240,000 for Activity 0531), housing management ($36,000 for Activity 0580) and program administration ($19,000 for Activity 0181). One Hundred Percent (100%) of requested NAHP funds will benefit low and moderate income persons. Total funds utilized in the project will be $971,000 of which $676,000 in other funds will be secured by homebuyer first mortgages through local financing and a WCHDC line of credit. The grant funds will be matched with project proceeds, interim loan financing and below-market interest rate loans. No persons will be displaced as a result of the NAHP or these activities.

The grant application will be available for public inspection at WCHDC at 108 W. 3rd Street, Wayne, NE. All interested parties are invited to attend this public hearing at which time you will have an opportunity to be heard regarding the grant application. Low income persons are particularly encouraged to attend or submit written comment. Written testimony will also be accepted at the public hearing scheduled for 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday, March 19, 2013 at Wayne Area Economic Development/Chamber office at 108 W. 3rd Street, Wayne, NE. Written comments can be addressed to Kari Wren at 108 W. 3rd Street, Wayne, NE 68787 and will be accepted if received on or before March 19, 2013.

Individuals requiring physical or sensory accommodations including interpreter service, Braille, large print, or recorded materials, please contact Kari Wren at 108 W. 3rd Street, Wayne, NE 68787 or (402) 375-5266 no later than March 14, 2013.
