Chickens may get home to roost in Wayne

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

The home of the Wayne Chicken Show could soon become a year-round safe haven for poultry of all types.

At Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council, the board approved a request by Councilman Jim Van Delden to consider an amendment to the Wayne Municipal Code that would allow residents to keep poultry as pets within the corporate limits of Wayne.

On a 5-3 vote, the Council reluctantly agreed to have an amendment to the city code drawn up for consideration at a future meeting. The request was met with criticism by some board members, while others felt it appropriate that a city that hosts an annual summer festival dedicated to chickens should allow such animals to live within the city limits year-round.

"I don't have a problem with it, because this is the city of the Chicken Show," Councilwoman Kaki Ley said. "I voted against it when it came up before, but after looking at it more, there are other communities that allow chickens, and it's a pretty small animal. I think I have more problems with dogs in my neighborhood than I would with chickens."

Councilman Dale Alexander, who was joined by Jennifer Sievers and Jon Haase in voting against the request, said he had a problem with farm animals living inside city limits.

"This was brought to the council before and denied, and one of the reasons was that we had issues with farm animals on a property on the south edge of town," he said. "There's a difference between domestic animals and farm animals. If you want to open that up, do you want to bring other animals, like goats, into town?"

Sievers added, "Are you going to put a limit on whether they're going to be in a pen, and do you register chickens? We have to register dogs and cats, so are you going to have to register your chicken?"

Kevin Jurotich, a local resident who has raised chickens, said the animal creates much less in the way of animal waste than most dogs do.

"A chicken weighs 3-4 pounds," he told the council. "How much (waste) comes out of a 70-100 pound dog?"

Van Delden said the city should do as they did recently with allowing four-wheel all-terrain vehicles to be driven inside city limits, and if a problem arises, the city code can be changed back.

To me, it seems a little funny that we have the annual Chicken Show, and yet we've condemned the bird to not be allowed here the rest of the year," he said. "We tried it out (with the ATV's) and nobody got hurt, so why not try this for a year and see how it goes. If it doesn't work, then we can rescind it."

The Council met as the Community Development Agency, and was also split on a redevelopment plan and contract with Progressive Property Inspections, owned by Kelby Herman, and voted 5-3 to approve a resolution that will allow for the building of two five-plex apartments in the 500 block of Nebraska Avenue.

Feelin' the heat from Monday fire

You can literally see the heat rising from the aftermath of a control-burn fire that got out of control Monday afternoon northeast of Wayne. The Wayne Fire Department responded to the call, which came after a controlled burn started by county workers got out of control and started an abandoned house on fire.

County board sets May 14 date for recall special election

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

The Wayne County Commissioners officially set the date for a recall election of one of their own during Tuesday's meeting.

On a 2-1 vote, the resolution setting a Tuesday, May 14 date for the special election was passed by the county board. The target of the special election, District 1 Commissioner Kelvin Wurdeman, was the lone dissenting vote.

The resolution states that 342 signatures were gathered during a recall petition effort in February and early March. The recall election will be held among voters in District 1 of Wayne County, and will ask whether or not the three-term commissioner be removed from his seat.

The board also dealt with another empty seat in county government, discussing the resignation of Marlin Schuttler, who turned in his resignation letter to the county board late Monday.

The board had an item on the agenda to authorize advertising for the position, but chose to table the matter because they had not received Schuttler's letter in time for it to be placed on Tuesday's agenda.

The delay allowed the county board to discuss how to handle the employment circumstances surrounding the position, particularly in whether or not it should remain a part-time position or be returned to a full-time position.

Wurdeman said he had no problem with making it a full-time position, as long as there was work to do during the winter months that would be completed by the holder of the job title.

"I fought to make it part-time because there (wasn't enough work to do), and if there is not enough work for it, there's no need to make it full-time," he said. "Unless we have enough duties to justify it, then it's just not fair."

Wurdeman said the position could include snow removal duties at the courthouse and some other light work duties, and that would have to be determined by the County Commissioners before he would approve a return to full-time status for the position.

"I think we should advertise it as a part-time position and leave it at that, and if we want it to go to full-time, then we can add extra duties," he said.

Commissioner Jim Rabe agreed, adding that some potential applicants may not want to work on a full-time basis.

WSC receives service honor roll honors

Wayne State was named to the 2013 President's Higher Education Community Service Honor Roll, marking the third consecutive year the college has been recognized for service-learning.

This designation is the highest honor a college or university can receive for its commitment to volunteering, service-learning, and civic engagement. Wayne State is one of only 690 institutions of higher education to receive this honor nationally and among seven to be named to the honor roll in Nebraska.

"Wayne State College has a long, distinguished history of service to our region and Service-Learning plays an important role in our efforts," said Wayne State President Curt Frye. "We are honored to receive this award and proud of the mark of national distinction that comes with the honor. Much of the credit belongs to the students and faculty who worked so hard outside of their normal class requirements to provide such an important service to Northeast Nebraska."

Lisa Nelson, Service-Learning coordinator at Wayne State, submitted Wayne State's honor roll application in November 2012. The process entails selecting three service projects as models for Wayne State. More than 1,200 students participated in Service-Learning for this term and provided a total of 16,001 hours of service.

The Service-Learning Advisory Committee selected the Black Light Black Box

Theater project guided by Professors Pearl Hansen, Steve Elliot and Gwen Jensen, the Sense of Wonder project led by Professor Barbara Hayford, and the City of Wayne Historic Photo Restoration project guided by Assistant Professor Josh Piersanti and Instructor Matt Hepworth.

"This is the third year Wayne State College has been recognized with this national award," Nelson said. "I attribute our success in part to our campus and community 'team effort' mind-set. I believe this begins with the long standing ethos of service on our campus, the support of our administrators, and comes full circle with sincere, thoughtful, and respectful relationships between our community partners, faculty advocates, and students. In short, there are so many people doing great work to provide enhanced learning opportunities for our students while meeting a need in area communities. A great big 'thank you' goes out to all of our volunteers and Service-Learning participants. It truly is an honor to work with each of you."

"Congratulations to Wayne State College, its faculty and students for its commitment to service, both in and out of the classroom," said Wendy Spencer, CEO of the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS). "Through its work, institutions of higher education are helping improve their local communities and create a new generation of leaders by challenging students to the traffic and the aesthetics that two new apartment complexes would bring to the neighborhood.

"You have 10 homes on the block already, so what are those residents going to do for parking if they have company? There are some questions that have been brought up, and I think, before we go any further, they should be addressed," he said.

Councilwoman Kaki Ley was concerned about the aesthetics of the buildings, offering the thought that the layout makes it look like a box in the middle of a plot of land.

"There needs to be something to soften the exterior of the structure, like bushes or trees, that makes it something that looks nice," she said.

Councilwoman Jill Brodersen and Councilman Cale Giese both expressed concerns that they had not seen enough of the details of the project to make an informed decision on the proposal.

"We should have something visual to see what impact these buildings do have on that area of town," Brodersen said. "I feel like I'm going in blind here."

"I agree, I do feel a little bit blind on this," Giese said.

Herman presented a design of the exterior of the building to council members, noting that more than half of the parking would be terrace, off-street parking, with the remainder of the parking located in the rear of the lot. He said there would be enough parking to accommodate the tenants who would live in each building.

Concerns were also raised about installation of fencing that would protect neighbors from the intrusion of lights from cars that park at the complex at night. Mayor Ken Chamberlain said he would like to see a 6-foot privacy fence that would shield the neighbors' view of the parking lot.

The council voted 5-3 in favor of the contract, which including fencing stipulations. Brodersen, Ley and Giese all voted against the proposal.

In other action, the Council:

- approved a mutual aid agreement renewal between the city and the Elkhorn Valley Mutual Aid Association.

- meeting as the CDA, the board approved the authorizing of the issuance of a tax increment revenue bond for Angel Acres.

- discussed annexation of property on the east edge of town, including the Williams Form property and the city airport. No action was taken.

- approved a $6,900 payment to Kirkham Michel for additional professional design services for the Windom Street Project.

- approved an increase in the amount of money available for construction loan incentives from $165,000 to $300,000.

- approved the installation of stop signs east of Main Street and North of Seventh Street at the intersection of Hillcrest Road and Walnut Street.

- approved changes in several ordinances relating to a purchase agreement between Woehler and the City of Wayne.

The council's next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, April 16 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

"You're going to have a lot of people that are going to be interested, but then when they know what it entails, they may not want the (full-time) job," he said. "It depends on who we get."

In other action, the county board:

- approved an interlocal agreement with Cedar County on a bridge replacement project on the Wayne-Cedar county line north and east of Carroll.

- approved a change of date for the first May meeting of the county board. The meeting will be moved up a day, to Monday, May 6, due to a health-related appointment for Wurdeman.

- delayed approval on a bid for repaving of the courthouse parking lot, pending the solicitation of references for one of the bidders.

- ordered the solicitation of bids for cleaning of the courthouse offices.

- instructed Brad Wieland to get bids on a proposal to replace flagpoles on the south side of the courthouse with newer, sturdier poles.

The county board's next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, April 16, at 9 a.m. in the county courthouse.

COULD TMD BE CAUSING YOUR HEADACHE OR JAW PAIN?

TMD stands for temporomandibular disorder, or temporomandibular joint dysfunction. It is the medical term used for issues and a variety of problems caused by the TMJ. TMJ is shorthand for temporomandibular joint which is the ball-and-socket joint that connects the jaw to the skull just in front of the ear. TMD appears to be caused by a variety of different problems, including arthritis, trauma to the jaw, jaw clenching or stress, poor alignment of the teeth, and night time grinding of the teeth known as bruxism.

TMD can produce many symptoms, including:
 •Pain or tenderness over the joint, especially when chewing, speaking, or opening the mouth wide, or the sensation that the jaw cannot move, open, or shut
 •Clicking, popping, or cracking sounds when you chew or move the jaw
 •Muscle spasms
 •A sense that the teeth aren't in alignment
 •Headaches and migraines

People suffering from TMD symptoms should see their dentist. Changes in diet and chewing habits, treatment of stress, correction of dental problems, and use of pain relievers and muscle relaxants can all be helpful. In certain cases a referral to a specialist may be given if the need arises for a more advanced method of treatment. We may also recommend an occlusal, or bruxism guard to help relieve the tension placed on the teeth during sleep at night. It is a plastic piece that fits over several or all of the teeth on the top or bottom and prevents the damage to the teeth and the stress on the muscles caused by the grinding and clenching of the teeth. If you are having symptoms associated with TMD give us a call today! Our team is ready to help you.

It might have looked a little strange for local golf fans, but two former Wayne High linksters were teeing it up for Wayne State during last week's Wildcat Spring Classic at the Wayne Country Club. Taylor Burke (left) and Colin Preston both competed for the Wildcats in action Friday and Saturday.

Wildcats play host to spring tourney

The Minnesota State men and Nebraska-Kearney women claimed team titles as the Wayne State golf teams hosted their annual Wildcat Spring Invitational over the weekend at the Wayne Country Club.

For the Wayne State men, Blake Bauer fired a three-under-par 69 Saturday in the final round to finish with a two-day total of 150, good for 18th overall, to lead the Wildcat men.

Garret Kuhl shot a 164 after a second-day round of 85, while Wayne native Colin Preston shot rounds of 86 and 80 for a 166. Brad Lanman shot 168 and Spencer Shadden shot 170 for the Wildcats, who shot a team total of 647 for the two-day tournament to finish 12th.

Minnesota State shot impressive rounds of 290 and 295 for a 585 to take the team title by four shots over runner-up Nebraska-Kearney. Concordia-St. Paul was third with a 592, while St. Cloud State (593) and Minnesota Crookston (596) rounded out the top five.

On the women's side, the Wayne State team improved by 26 shots on the second day to finish fifth in the five-team race with a two-day total of 800.

Zandria Cole led the Wildcats and finished 13th overall with a 185, shooting rounds of 93 and 92. Sarah Phinney and Taylor Burke finished at 201 and 204, respectively, after both shot second-day rounds of 96. Morgan Jones shot 210 and Emily Kaslon shot 233 to round out the Wildcat effort.

Nebraska-Kearney won the team title with a 675, finishing 16 shots ahead of runner-up St. Cloud State. MSU Moorhead shot 745 and Minnesota Crookston shot 796.

The two Wayne State teams will take part in the Upper Iowa Invitational this weekend in Waterloo, Iowa.

Blue Devils off to 2-1 start on diamond

After battling through a week's worth of rainouts, the Wayne High baseball team finally got on the field and won two of their first three games of the 2013 season.

On Thursday, the Blue Devils got off to a rough start at Crete. The host Cardinals jumped out to a 10-2 lead and held off a late Wayne rally to post a 13-7 victory.

The Blue Devils finished the game with four hits, two coming from junior catcher Luke Rethwisch. Brad Longe and Jack Belt each scored two runs and Curtis Moeller had a pair of RBI's in the losing effort. Drew Carroll allowed five runs in three innings and was credited with the loss.

On Monday, the Blue Devils rallied to post a 4-3 win over Guardian Angels Central Catholic/Scribner-Snyder in Wayne's home opener at Hank Overin Field.

The Blue Devils trailed 2-1 in the fourth before scoring two runs on a Longe single with two outs in the bottom of the sixth, giving Wayne a 3-2 lead. The visiting Bluejays tied the game in the top of the seventh and had a chance to reclaim the lead, but Rethwisch worked out of a bases-loaded jam in relief to send the game into extra innings.

Wayne got out of another tough situation in the top of the eighth, and Longe led off by beating out a ground ball and taking advantage of an errant throw to move all the way around to third. With two out in the bottom of the eighth, Steven Sherman delivered the game-winning hit when his line drive over the drawn-in infield found a safe spot down the left field line, scoring Longe with the winning run.

Jake Lutt pitched very well in Monday's matchup, striking out eight and allowing three walks and three hits in six innings of work. Rethwisch got the win in relief, striking out four and allowing one hit and two walks.

Offensively, Moeller had three hits and scored twice and Longe had two hits and two RBI's to highlight a seven-hit effort.

On Tuesday, the Blue Devils got over the .500 mark with a comeback-from-behind win over Pender, posting a 10-8 victory.

Pender got out to a 6-0 lead early, scoring four unearned runs in the second inning. Wayne was able to chip away at the lead, and took advantage of a breakdown in the Pender pitching staff to score seven runs in the bottom of the sixth to complete the comeback.

Wayne had nine hits in the game, three coming from Rethwisch, who also had two RBI's in the win. Moeller had a pair of RBI's and Lutt and Jack Belt both scored two runs.

Soden threw four innings, allowing three earned runs and striking out three. Moeller came on in relief to get the win, limiting the Pender dragons to two hits over the final three innings.

In JV action, Wayne beat Crete 12-1 and handled Pender 13-2. Belt had three hits in the win over Crete, while Brandon Martian, Noah Braun, Joe Burrows, Micah Sprouls and Justin Hodge each scored two runs. Martian got the win with a one-hit, three-strikeout effort.

Against Pender, Braun had three hits and four RBI's, Martian scored three runs and drove in four, Burrows had two hits and Lutt had two RBI's. Dylan Sokol got the win on the mound.

The Blue Devils are back in action Friday at Norfolk, and will play Blair on Saturday at 11:30 a.m. at Werner Park near Papillion.

Allen boys track team off to good start at Hartington HARTINGTON — On a chilly, blustery day, the Allen boys competed very well at the Cedar Catholic Invitational in Hartington.

"The team competed very well, and we are improving as individuals daily," coach Dave Uldrich said. "As the season moves on, some of the efforts will start bringing in more medals. Until then, the team understands that they are a work in progress."

Temperatures hovered at 44 degrees, winds blew 15-20 miles an hour, and an occasional raindrop or two fell, but the Eagle boys hit several personal bests in a meet that featured some of the best track athletes in Class C and D in northeast Nebraska.

Leading the way for the Eagles was junior Austin Connot, who gathered the only two individual medals for the Eagles in the 400-meter and 800-meter runs.

Connot ran a 55.8 in the 400, good for fourth place; and a 2:16 in the 800, good for sixth. He also shared duties on the two relays that placed for the Eagles.

Two relays ran to medals. The 1,600-meter and 3,200-meter relays collected fifth place finishes. Members of the 1,600-meter relay were Connot, Jon Bausch, Brian Boese and Brady Krakau. Members of the 3,200-meter relay were, Connot, Wade Connot, Brandon Abts, and Coleman Kneiff.

Non-medaling personal bests were reached by Jon Bausch and Brian Boese in the long jump, Coleman Kneiff and S.T. O'Keefe in the 1,600, and Myles Flores, Trevor Stapleton and Caleb Thomas in the discus.

Perennial track powers, Battle Creek, Hartington, Crofton, Bloomfield, and Cedar Catholic headlined the 10 team field.

The Eagles travel to Homer on Friday, to compete in the Ivan Krumwiede Invitational. Meet time is set for 1 p.m.

Winside boys and girls track teams place at Stanton Invite STANTON — Winside's track team opened the 2013 season with some good first-meet performances Thursday at the Stanton Invitational.

The Winside girls finished a solid third in the six-team race and won four events on the day.

Nazya Thies picked up a pair of wins on the day, winning the high jump with a best effort of 4 feet, 8 inches, and joining Jade Hogencamp, Carly Schwager and Sophie Milendovich on the winning 400-meter relay team that finished in a time of 55.0 seconds.

Courtney Petzoldt earned three individual medals on the day, including a win in the 200-meter dash. She was also second in the long jump and fourth in the 400-meter dash.

Jayd Roberts had a good day in both track and field events as well. She won the discus with a toss of 95 feet, took runner-up honors in the 100-meter hurdles and was sixth in the 300-meter hurdles.

On the boys side, Colin Hansen had a big day for the Wildcats, winning three individual events. He claimed top honors in both the long jump and triple jump, and was also the first one home in the 400-meter dash.

Winside's boys scored well in the weight events. Caleb Lienemann earned sixth-place finishes in the discus and shot put, Garrett Watters was fourth in the shot and Gatlin Jensen finished fifth.

Wayne golfers open with dual win

The first round of the season for the Wayne High golfers proved to be a successful one, as they beat Schuyler 187-208 in a dual at Schuyler on Tuesday.

"It was a typical start of a season, competition-wise anyway, for most of the players," coach Dave Hix said.

"You always hope that they will be midseason form out of the chute, but it just doesn't happen with golf."

Ezra Brodersen led the Blue Devils with a 43, Kaje Maly shot 45 and Ryan Grosz added a 47. Jared Peterson shot 52 and Zach Keating rounded out the Wayne effort with a round of 53. Reed Trenhaile was the lone JV golfer for Wayne, shooting a 59.

The Wayne High golfers are back in action on Saturday, taking part in the West Point-Beemer Invitational on Saturday at 11 a.m. at Indian Trails Country Club.

Keeping kids safe from sex predators

Think for a moment, if you will, about a gymnasium full of children under the age of 18.

For the sake of argument, let's say there are 1,200 of them – 600 boys, 600 girls. Every age is represented, from the newborns all the way up to the graduating Class of 2013.

Now, what if I told you that 250 of those 1,200 children – almost 21 percent of them – will become victims of sexual abuse by their 18th birthday? And of those 250 children, 232 of them will personally know their attacker?

A 2010 study by the Centers for Disease Control determined that 1 in 4 girls and 1 in 6 boys will be victims of some type of sexual abuse by their 18th birthday. Using those ratios in the above example, 150 girls and 100 boys will have their childhood stolen, their world rocked and their lives forever altered at the hands of an individual – most of whom they would have some level of trust with.

In the course of research I did for my book, "Call Me A Survivor," I found these statistics, and as a 37-year survivor of child sexual assault (an anniversary I "celebrated" a couple of weeks ago), it made me sick to my stomach to know that there are that many children out there who are living with the torture that was forced upon them.

Even more distressing is the fact that more than 9 in 10 victims of child sexual assault have some direct relationship with their attacker. Whether it's a family member, a coach, a neighbor, a member of the clergy or an acquaintance (mine was the older brother of a classmate), the vast majority of victims of child sexual assault know who their attackers are. (And, as good as the concept of "Stranger Danger" is, it obviously doesn't do much to protect our kids from the people that they know who are just as dangerous to their well-being as those who might want to kidnap our children.)

The saving grace for these perpetrators of this crime is the phrase "our little secret." The attacker will tell the victim not to tell anybody about what happened, because their parents, other family members or friends "won't understand the relationship we share." They'll also threaten some sort of violence, such as killing their victim or a member of the victim's family. They'll hold the incident over their heads as some form of extortion, saying something like, "If you tell anybody about this, I'll make sure everybody knows that it's all your fault."

Boys and girls who have been through this experience need to know a few things:

– First, and most important, it's not your fault. Kids do not operate on any kind of sexual plane. They don't express themselves or act out in a manner that any intelligent-thinking individual would consider sexual in nature. People who carry out their sick, twisted, perverted sexual fantasies out on a child are completely and unequivocally responsible for their actions.

– Second, and probably as important is that if you have been a victim of sexual assault as a child, you need to tell somebody. You may find resistance at first, but you need to be persistent and consistent in the story that you tell. No matter who the attacker is, their crime needs to be kicked out of the darkness and into the light of truth. I was blessed to have two parents who loved their children and did everything they could to protect them from the evil that exists in this world. When I was attacked, I told my mother immediately and she jumped into action. We were able to get my attacker arrested.

– The third thing you need to do is to talk to somebody who can help you deal with the mental and emotional damage that you will experience. Just as you can't un-drop a broken glass after it falls out of your hands and shatters on the floor, neither can you un-do the experience of being a victim of child sexual assault. What you CAN do, though, is talk with a counselor who can help you deal with the emotional baggage that comes with such an experience. You can also talk to a fellow survivor, share each other's experiences, and support each other.

The Nebraska Legislature has a bill, LB143, which is currently sitting in the Education Committee, that would help schools work with children who are victims of child sexual assault. Our own Sen. Dave Bloomfield sponsored this bill, and I would encourage you to contact him (contact information is at the end of his column on this page) and move the bill to the Legislature's consent file for approval in this term of the Legislature. Hopefully, the bill will be the start of a statewide effort that will help our kids not only share their stories, but help them avoid the horror of sexual assault altogether.

Also, this month is Sexual Assault Awareness Month, and I'm thrilled to have been asked to be the guest speaker at a special event next Wednesday at Wayne State College's Ramsey Theater. The 7 p.m. event, sponsored by GAMMA, the Wayne State College Counseling Center and Haven House, will include information on sexual assault awareness. I will be speaking on my experience as a survivor of sexual assault and, hopefully, helping my fellow survivors understand that there is hope and they don't have to look at themselves as victims or as people who are unworthy of the good things life has to offer us all.

One day, I hope that I can walk into a gymnasium full of children and know that the ratio of those who are victims to those whose lives are free of the horrors of child sexual assault is close to zero. Until then, we must continue the effort to keep our children safe and bring sexual predators of our nation's youth to justice.

Capitol View

Costly proposal, but worth it

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Like many of his Sandhills neighbors, freshman State Senator Al Davis of Hyannis watched last summer as wildfires consumed acres of some of Nebraska's most scenic countryside, areas of rugged forested land which are home to once secluded cabins.

Likewise, similar fires consumed hundreds of thousands of acres from the Panhandle to Northeast Nebraska and a lot of places in between. Nebraska officials called 2012 the worst wild land fire year on record with nearly 500,000 acres burned, 65 structures lost and at least $12 million spent on fighting the fires (more than 390 fires recorded by mid-July 2012).

So what's another $1.75 million in anticipation of a problem which experts say will "occur far more frequently than in the past, spread and grow very rapidly immediately upon ignition, and burn over large areas for weeks. They are difficult to control and threaten lives, property, communities and infrastructures statewide," Davis told the Natural Resources Committee recently.

His bill (LB634) directs the Nebraska Forest Service, among other things, to contract with private aviation companies to place two single engine air tankers during the fire season at airports near Chadron and Valentine, the most heavily-forested and some of the most rugged areas of the state. Davis said the planes would provide rapid initial attack across a broad area of western Nebraska on both private and public lands, keeping fires small and less destructive. The Legislature's Fiscal Office estimates that would cost $750,000 a year, the largest chunk of the projected cost.

The bill also calls for the Nebraska Forest Service to thin forests to reduce fuel loads, substantially reducing wildfire risk, intensity, and rate of the spread, and reduce risks to residents, communities and emergency personnel. Expanded training programs for volunteer firefighters, private landowners, and communities in order to increase fire suppression effectiveness and safety would rack up another $150,000.

Development of a Nebraska-based incident management team that would serve as a comprehensive resource to augment and help manage large wildfire operations carries no additional cost. The committee offered an amendment to the proposal that would require the state Emergency Management Agency to develop the team as a resource for wildlife management. The committee also added the emergency clause to the proposal, which would mean that it would go into effect as soon as it is passed by the Legislature and signed by the governor.

The bill had 17 proponents, including Davis, at the public hearing and no opposition. Davis told the committee "we're going to have serious problems (with these fires) for years to come. We need this kind of support for our volunteer firefighters, our communities and our state."

Nebraska Forest Service Director Scott Josiah called the 2012 wildfires "a huge wake-up call. As these fires become bigger and more intense, we need better incident management."

Spending $1.75 million to prevent a $12 million loss makes sense. Let's hope that Davis' 48 colleagues and the governor agree.

Legislative Update

Debate gets hot and heavy in Unicam

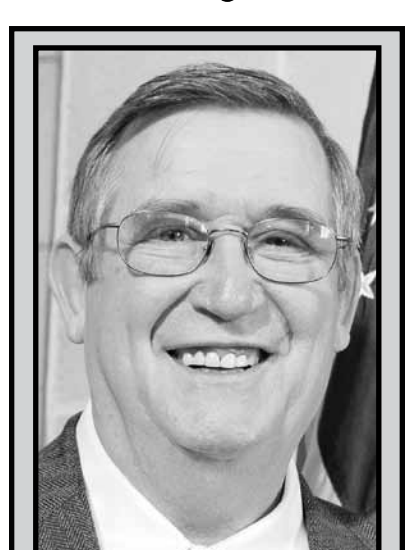

This week marked the start of all-day debate for the Legislature, the committee hearings are pretty much behind us.

Most of the debate this week focused on LB528, presented by Sen. Sara Howard of Omaha, which would allow for expedited partner therapy (EPT) for the treatment of chlamydia and gonorrhea. EPT is the practice of allowing a physician who diagnoses a patient with either of these "sexually transmitted infections" (STI), which is the new politically correct name for what was called venereal disease, to prescribe, provide or dispense medications to that patient's partner(s) without examination of said partner or in some cases several partners.

I understand that we have high numbers of chlamydia; according to the Center for Disease Control (CDC) as of December 2012 there were only 28 states that had a higher positivity rate than Nebraska. Another CDC report from December 2012 shows that only 30 states have a higher gonorrhea rate than Nebraska.

I agree that something needs to be done but I don't think that this bill is the answer. In most cases, if your child has been diagnosed with strep throat and is on medication, and a few days later your throat is scratchy and you call the doctor hoping to get some medications, they usually want to see you before giving you the medication. Why should getting medication for a STI be any different?

This bill provides no protection for a doctor who prescribes medication to a partner of their patient without seeing them or even talking to them, who then has a reaction to the medication. For years, the state has allowed a doctor to treat your minor child for an STD if they went in and saw the doctor. This bill would allow said minor child to receive a medication for chlamydia and gonorrhea without ever seeing a doctor and without the knowledge of the parent or guardian.

Much to my chagrin this bill did advance to Select File. I fear for any doctor that might write such a prescription. I repeat, there is no protection from liability for the doctor in this proposed law.

Time to talk about sex abuse

If you follow the headlines, you know that child sexual abuse happens. It happens often and close to home. This reality can be overwhelming, but it's important to remember that child sexual abuse can be prevented if we all play our part.

April is Sexual Assault Awareness Month, and communities across the country are standing up for child sexual abuse prevention by proclaiming "It's time . . . to talk about it!" All adults have a role in child sexual abuse prevention, and this year's campaign encourages individuals and communities to support healthy childhood sexual development by talking early, talking often, and taking action.

By talking about healthy childhood sexual development, adults are able to support the children in their lives. When adults support age-appropriate behaviors, model healthy boundaries and speak up to other adults, they are an ally to prevention. It's also our job to respect children, model healthy behaviors and boundaries, and confront adults when they act in ways that are not appropriate.

There is often silence and discomfort when it comes to the discussion of sexual development. It's important to understand that this is a normal experience we all share. By opening up communication, sharing age-appropriate information with children, and educating one another — we are taking steps toward a safer community.

Choose to start the conversation about healthy childhood sexual development. Whether you are a parent, educator or community member, it's time for you to start talking early and often to support an environment where children are safe.

It's time . . . to talk about it! Please join us in our prevention efforts by attending the Sexual Assault Vigil on April 10, 7 p.m., at Ramsey Theater at Wayne State College, sponsored by GAMMA, WSC Counseling Center and Haven House. Michael Carnes, author will be the guest speaker.

Pfaltzgraff and Pfriends concert is Monday, April 8

Students and faculty from Wayne State College and some friends in the community will present the 10th concert in the "Pfaltzgraff and Pfriends" concert series that bears the title, "I Don't Play This Instrument," at 8 p.m. on Monday, April 8 at First Presbyterian Church in Wayne.

The "Pfaltzgraff and Pfriends" concerts are informal programs that take place two or three times each year and present area musicians who perform music that focus on a common theme. People who will perform during this concert are playing on new instruments that they usually don't perform with. A number of the performers are part of the "Class in" program, which is a series of semester-long tutorials on various instruments and also in vocal instruction.

Cultural event April 9 to focus on diversity

Wayne State College, the Office of Service Learning and the City of Wayne invite the community to participate in Campus and Community Conversations: Diversity of Cultures a part of the Campus and Community Service Collaboration (CCSC) program from 7-9 p.m. on Tuesday, April 9 at the Frey Conference Suite, located in the Student Center on the Wayne State campus.

"These roundtable conversations promote community member engagement across generations, across heritages, across belief and value systems and across interest groups," said Karen Granberg, one of the organizers of the event. "Lively interactions can generate multiple perspectives and creative insights. Topics include Family Traditions, Heritage, Cultural Perceptions and Diversity in Business."

The event will be hosted by Curt Frye, Wayne State College president, and Ken Chamberlain, mayor of Wayne. Alyssa Bish, student senate president at WSC, will moderate the conversations.

WSC to present musical program

Wayne State College choir members will perform during a program titled, "Musica Antiqua et Nova," which stands for "music old and new" at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 9 in Ley Theatre, located in the Brandenburg Education Building on the Wayne State College campus.

"This year we are once again performing traditional madrigal repertoire for the first part of the concert and then finishing with vocal jazz," said Ron Lofgren, choir director at Wayne State. "The two styles are not so different as one might suppose, but getting used to the twentieth-century harmonic language is always a challenge."

Lofgren has selected two major, quite difficult pieces, for both parts of the program.

"La guerre" (The Battle) by Clement Jannequin is a long piece with onomatopoeic sounds in the music meant to represent the sounds of battle, from cannons firing to horses galloping and arrows being loosed.

"It is a famous and interesting piece, and a challenge for any group that attempts it," Lofgren said. "In the second part of the program we're performing an unaccompanied arrangement of "Africa" as originally performed by Toto. It is a very demanding piece that especially shows the capabilities of two soloists in the tenor section."

"Matona, mia cara" by the great master from the end of the Renaissance period, Orlando di Lasso will be performed. The comical text represents a German mercenary serenading an Italian lady.

Suggested by a student, another interesting piece will be "Star Wars – John Williams is the Man." It consists of several movie themes by John Williams set for men's ensemble.

Two Beatles tunes will be included. "Can't Buy Me Love" and "Blackbird" will be performed.

Financial strategies for uncertain times

With a fragile economy, high unemployment rates, employee benefit cutbacks, and other negative economic realities, it seems like there is one source of financial uncertainty after another in many people's lives.

Research indicates that "feeling out of control" is a major cause of unhappiness and stress. Most people don't like living without at least some type of game plan.

What to do? Control what can about your personal finances and develop contingency plans for negative life events. Below is a description of six strategies to take charge of your finances during uncertain times:

1. Program Your Dollars - Develop a spending plan (budget) where income is greater than or equal to savings plus household expenses. There are several online resources to assist with budget preparation. Download a worksheet that can be completed with a pencil and a hand-held calculator, or download a spending plan spreadsheet that uses pre-programmed software to make income and expense calculations with a computer.

Sandy Preston

2. Build Precautionary Savings - Having a chunk of money in the bank increases feelings of control during a financial crisis. Many financial experts today recommend holding more than the "standard" 3 to 6 months of expenses because it is taking laid-off workers longer to find new jobs. For example, eight months of $2,000 monthly expenses equals $16,000. Realistically, many people don't have savings anywhere near this level, but it is important not to give up. Any amount of savings is better than none and, the more money people have set aside, the bigger their "war chest" to tap during a financial crisis.

3. Downsize Your Debt - A financial crisis event is less stressful when an individual or family isn't carrying a lot of non-mortgage debt and making payments equal to 10 percent or more of net (take-home) income. Pay off outstanding balances as quickly as possible. The Web site www.paydowndebt.unl.edu has a debt repayment calculator that shows the time and interest saved by accelerating debt repayment. Once debt is repaid, previously owed monthly payments can be reallocated to build up emergency savings.

4. Build Human Capital - Do everything you can to make yourself "marketable" to employers in a tough economy. Learn new skills and cultivate new business contacts. In addition to keeping up with your profession or trade, invest the time to learn technological skills such as social networking and the use of a smart phone. Many employers now expect new and current employees to have these skills.

5. Practice Healthy Behaviors - Like outstanding debt, health problems compound the effects of a financial crisis. Do what you can to stay healthy and avoid non-routine medical expenses. Eat nutritious food, exercise at least 30 minutes a day, lose weight (if necessary), and quit smoking (if applicable). Good health is an important part of a person's human capital. When people "invest" in their health, they reduce the risk of incurring expensive medical bills. If health insurance ends as a result of unemployment, seek alternative coverage through COBRA or the purchase of an individual health insurance policy. To keep costs down when income is reduced, consider purchasing a high-deductible policy.

6. Develop a "Sideline" Source of Income - When you're concerned that your "day job" might end with a pink slip, it helps to have another source of back-up income. Investigate opportunities to freelance your skills during off-work hours and develop a base of satisfied customers. A sideline business can also provide an opportunity to learn new skills and expand your network. In addition, there are opportunities to save for retirement in tax-deferred savings plans for the self-employed (e.g., SEP and Keogh plans).

Praise Assembly celebrates "Resurrection Sunday" and designates approaching Saturday as a work day

Praise Assembly of God Church in Wayne celebrated "Resurrection Sunday" this past weekend in a number of ways.
 A breakfast was served, prepared by the men of the church. An Easter Egg Hunt for children began around 9:20 a.m. and the morning worship celebration featured a musical entitled "He Paid the Price" and a sermon by Rev. Jason Pickering on the subject of "When Jesus Walked Out..."
 The focus of the entire morning was to celebrate the triumph of Jesus Christ over death, hell, and the grave. As the pastor said, "No other religion can point to an empty tomb when searching for the founder of a religious movement. The Resurrection is central to all of our beliefs as Christians." The Pastor reminded the congregation that God has honored Christ — Who has become the head of the Church, and God also comes to each one of us when we — by faith — accept Jesus' sacrifice on our behalf. It is truly a reason to rejoice.

 This Saturday will be a work day at the church as preparations continue for the development of the "Angel Acres" subdivision just to the east of the church building. With the addition of a street through the housing development, there is a need to do some work on the church property.

This weekend the church schedule will be the normal schedule (Fellowship Time at 9:15 a.m., Sunday School at 9:30 a.m., morning worship at 10:30 a.m., and the weekly LifePointe Bible Study and Prayer meeting in the sanctuary at 6:30 p.m.).

All those without a church are reminded, "There is a place for you at Praise Assembly of God. If you and your family are looking for a church where the Bible is preached, where heartfelt worship takes place, and where prayer and fellowship together are part of each gathering, then we invite you to join with us sometime this week."

Members of Thrivent Financial for Lutherans hold March meeting

Wayne-Dixon County Chapter No. 30268, Thrivent Financial for Lutherans, met on March 9 at The Max in Wayne.
 Those in attendance included President Don Leighton, Vice President Beverly Ruwe, Financial Director Barbara Junck, Congregational Advocate Director Kathleen Johs and Records Director Beverly Neel.
 President Leighton called the meeting to order. As the organization had just completed a Social Security Matters Program and prayer was offered at that time, we dispensed with prayer.
 Financial Director Junck provided the financial report with statements on balances in the Operating Funds and in Care in Community Funds.
 Those present voted to approve all new Congregational Advocates and all new Thrivent members.

 There were 72 people registered for the Social Security Matters program and the meal was provided by The Max. Door prizes were also provided by Thrivent representatives and awarded based on "Name that Tune." Burt Heithold provided accordion musical entertainment.
 Thrivent representative Stephanie Beckwith conducted the Social Security Program. Tyler Uthof, John Gunter and Matt Dendinger were also in attendance, representing Thrivent. Prayer was offered by Chapter Vice President Beverly Ruwe. Good points were gathered from the program and may be something to consider again in a year or two.
 The chapter received a request for $1000 from Camp Luther quit auction. The group voted to deny the request as the Care in Community funds are earmarked for medical requests only.

 Relay For Life will receive $125 from the Chapter from Operating Funds to assist in bottled water, pop and fruit for the booth for this year's event. Items would be available to all participants, not a single team or group.
 Members discussed the Chapter annual meeting. Dates chosen were Sunday, Oct. 20 and Sunday, Nov. 3, so we may ask Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne if they will allow the Chapter use of their fellowship hall. If not, Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne will be asked. Discussion of the meal will come later.
 The next Chapter meeting will be held Saturday, April 6 at 12 p.m. at Tacos & More in Wayne.

Micah's Closet is in search of donations

Staff at Micah's Closet in Wayne have announced that the store will be open varying hours during the month of April, as they are "Spring Cleaning."

All area residents are encouraged to remember Micah's Closet as they do spring cleaning of closets. Donations of used clothing will be accepted at the store.

Residents are also reminded the Food Pantry is at the First United Methodist Church on the last Saturday of each month from 10-11:30 a.m.

Minerva Club gathers at Senior Center

Minerva Club met on March 25 at the Senior Center with MaryAnn DeNaeyer as hostess.

President Connie Webber opened the meeting by reminding members it was National Waffle Day and Greek Independence Day. Ten members answered roll call by sharing their plans for Easter.

Minutes were read and approved. Donna Hansen gave the treasurer's report. Historian Hollis Frese read the minutes of the March 5, 1917 meeting which told of the brilliant success of their meeting when members of various community clubs were guests. Over 200 ladies attended.

President Webber reviewed the Decades In History program theme for the 2013-2014 Minerva Club year. Each member will base their program on a decade beginning with Sept. 1880-1889. Current officers will fill the slate of candidates for the next year. Election will be held in April.

Mary Ann DeNaeyer will handle the details of selecting a book for the Wayne Public Library in memory of member Lila Brown.

Members voted to travel to the Tea Room in Bancroft for the May meeting. Because the restaurant is not open on Mondays, the group will attend on Tuesday, May 14. They plan to dine at 1 p.m.

The birthday song was sung for Connie Webber, Twyla Lindsay, Arlene Ostendorf and Joyce Mitchell.

Mary Ann DeNaeyer presented her program about Mother Teresa since March is Notable Women in History month. Mother Teresa was born in 1910 and died in 1997. Mother Teresa founded the Missionaries of Charity, which ran the hospices and homes for people with HIV/AIDS, leprosy and tuberculosis; soup kitchens; children's and family counseling programs; orphanages; and schools. Members of the order must adhere to the vows of chastity, poverty and obedience, and give "Wholehearted and Free service to the poorest of the poor". She was the recipient of numerous honors including the 1979 Nobel Peace Prize. In late 2003, she was beatified, the third step toward possible sainthood, giving her the title "Blessed Teresa of Calcutta". A second miracle credited to Mother Teresa is required before she can be recognized as a saint by the Catholic Church.

She was admired by many; in 1999, a poll of Americans ranked her first in Gallup's List of Most Widely Admired People of the 20th Century. However, she has also been criticized for failing to provide medical care or pain killers because she felt that suffering would bring the patient closer to Jesus. Many people question the use of donations Mother Teresa received since accounting practices were very primitive.
 Minerva Club will meet Monday, April 8 at the Senior Center with Lois Youngerman as hostess.

Winside American Legion Auxiliary plans events

Roy Reed Unit No. 252, American Legion Auxiliary of Winside met on March 2.

The meeting was called to order by President Rose Ann Janke and Chaplain Adeline Anderson providing prayer. Members recited the Pledge of Allegiance, read the fourth stanza of the Star-Spangled Banner and recited the Preamble to the Auxiliary Constitution.

Members in attendance were President Janke, Chaplain Anderson, Treasurer Bonnie Wylie, Secretary Beverly Neel, Donna Edwards, Evelyn Herbolzheimer, and Marilyn Morse.

Beverly will take the check to District 3 Convention and mail the other to the Department.
- The annual Bingo party at the Norfolk Veterans Home was scheduled for Thursday, March 28. The group will take $20 in prize money and will serve angel food cake, cherry pie filling and whipped topping.

New Business included:

- The Girls State Selection Committee conducted two interviews and both young ladies have been accepted to participate in the program in June 2013 on the campus of the University of Nebraska - Lincoln. After the Unit receives notification from Department that all applications are in order, they will be able to publicize the names.

- Poppy Day 2013 will be held at Shopko Hometown in Wayne on Saturday, March 25 with Beverly Neel, Bud Neel and Dennis Otte from Wayne taking care of the event. The auxiliary will continue to set out collection cans at Jensen's Café, Fuggie's and Co-op Store.

They will distribute Poppies at the Winside Auditorium as the public attends the annual Memorial Day Program on Monday, May 27, 2013.

The auxiliary will begin to create Memorial poppy wreaths for the cemeteries at the April 6 meeting. Members are asked to come a bit early to get started. What is not finished at that time, will be completed at the May meeting. Last year the women created 185 poppy wreaths. The Unit ordered 1,800 small poppies for this project.

- Memorial Day Dinner plans are beginning. LeNell Quinn has offered to cook the roast beef for the meal. She and Rose Ann Janke are to check prices at Lou's in Norfolk and Thies Family Locker and Co-op Store in Winside and have those figures for the April meeting. The Unit will be responsible for purchasing the meat. Other items on the menu include mashed potatoes, gravy, corn, homemade roll and a variety of favorite desserts.

Beverly Neel is coordinating the plans and will get postcards sent to members for the desserts and for helping in the kitchen. A change in the dinner this year will include having guests walk past the counter and pick up their meal and dessert and seat themselves.

The Unit conducted a Draping of the Charter ceremony for member Eva Mae Thies, who passed away in January 2013. President Janke, Chaplain Anderson and Donna Edwards participated.

Easter grocery shopping challenges

So far, no April Fool jokes! But it's early yet.

We are enjoying leftover ham. And therein lays a tale. I typically shop two local grocery stores; Russ' and HyVee. Once in a blue moon I check out Trader Joe's, just because they have such unique stuff; and there is an Ideal grocery that is famous for its meat. But I tend to do the just the first two. Russ' always rewards loyalty with dollars off on turkeys at Thanksgiving time and ham at Easter. This year, I had a card in the mail that said I was entitled to $8 off on any ham of my choice. That's a fair amount! And worth going for.

So, I sat down with Russ' flyer last Tuesday and made a list of the things I was going to need for the holiday dinner and some things that were "on special". Their local brand is called Best Choice, and I flagged those items with BC. I put the card and the list in the car, so it would be there when I needed it. (If you have been in a grocery store with your list still at home, you will know what I mean.)

The next day, I drove south on 70th street to get the car washed.

By: Pat Meierhenry

Thanks to all the snow and ice and slush, it was looking pretty sad. Because of the scooter hauler attached to the back, I can't go in just any car wash. But this one, just south of Pioneer, accommodates it nicely.

Coming out of the car wash, I saw the grocery store across the street and thought I might as well get that job out of the way, too.

Grabbing a cart, I headed to the dairy section. Hmm, no BC cream cheese, as the ad had said. Well, the milk is a deal, $1.99 a gallon, so grab a couple of those. Then, no BC yogurt, either. I wonder what the problem is?

I looked over the hams. They were big! I picked out a spiral cut and put it in the basket and went on my way. FINALLY, it dawned on me that I was in a HyVee store instead of a Russ', which was probably why there were no Best Choice brand items!!

I sheepishly put the ham back; I didn't think they would honor my $8 off card there, and headed to the checkout counter. After I put those bags in the front seat of the car, I headed to Russ' and bought the BC items that were on sale, and picked out a nice ham and utilized my loyalty card. I had the carrier put the groceries in the back seat, and hoped he did not notice the HyVee bags in the front. Then, I headed home and wondered how long until I join my friend in the Alzheimer's unit on 84th Street!!

Irrigation, soils courses available

University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension provides two online short courses on irrigation and soils at marketplace.unl.edu.

The courses combine the convenience and flexibility of online learning with the opportunity to obtain continuing education unit (CEU) credits.

UNL Extension educator Chuck Burr said the virtual learning environment is especially suited for those whose schedules or location may prevent them from attending traditional extension training opportunities. The modules are intended for crop consultants, agency personnel, crop producers and others interested in improving their soil science or soil fertility management and irrigation management skills.

"UNL Extension still offers programs for those who prefer traditional, classroom-style training," Burr said. "However, the new online course on irrigation management allows participants to learn at the click of a mouse."

UNL Extension educator Keith Glewen added, "The courses are designed to assist online learners in acquiring new knowledge. This in turn can result in management decisions which have a positive impact on financial and environmental outcomes."

The soils course aims to expand the participant's knowledge of soil science, including the origins, physical properties and chemical properties of soil. Understanding this information benefits those making management decisions related to soil fertility and crop production. This in turn can improve the efficiency of fertilizer applications, reduce nutrient loss and improve crop yields.

The irrigation management course will help increase awareness and understanding of irrigation management concepts. Agricultural water users can optimize water use efficiency and protect the quality of water resources by applying basic information about irrigation systems, crop water use and management practices.

Reducing irrigation application amounts and increasing uniformity of application leads to reduced deep percolation and runoff. The result can be reduced irrigation costs, increased efficiency, increased yields and reduced surface and groundwater contamination.

Contact Burr at chuck.burr@unl.edu for details on the irrigation short course, and Glewen at kglewen1@unl.edu for information on the soils short course.

Dealing with brown evergreens

Thanks to Kelly Feehan for this timely information . . .

With so many evergreens turning brown, questions are being asked about how to care for these evergreens and if and when they should be pruned or removed.

After a hot, dry summer and fairly dry winter, it is not surprising to see Arborvitae, poorly sited Yews, or broadleaf evergreens like boxwood, holly and rhododendron turning brown. These plants are not well adapted to Nebraska and we often see them browning in spring. It is somewhat of a surprise to see Colorado blue spruce, eastern red-cedar and well-sited white pines, which are better adapted to Nebraska, turning brown. Reports of browning in these evergreens are being made across the state. I lost a 30 foot tall blue spruce in my backyard this year.

If any of the above evergreens are affected, it is best to delay pruning or removal until the evergreens can be assessed for signs of life. However, for Scotch pine turning brown, the sooner these are removed the better as they are most likely infected with pine wilt nematode. If an evergreen is yellowing or browning, check a number of branches for signs of life before removal or pruning. Bending, scraping and crumbling are the steps to follow to determine if a branch may still have some life in it. Try to bend a few branches in two to check if they are pliable. Gently scrape the outer

Even if an evergreen is not turning brown, it is still experiencing heat and drought stress. Nitrogen will only force lush growth that requires more water and uses stored food reserves that may be keeping the evergreen alive.

When checking evergreens, if numerous branches are brittle or easily snap in two, and no green tissue can be found beneath the bark or in the buds, the evergreen is dead or soon will be. Removal and replacement is needed. When replacing plants, select a plant better adapted to the site. If the plant that died was adapted, consider why it died. It may simply be a matter of extreme heat and drought. However, practices like planting too deep, over or under-watering, mulching too deep, or over fertilizing may have led to the evergreen's death.

To select plants adapted to a site, assess the growing conditions of the site first. Then compile a list of plants that require those conditions or are known to at least tolerate them well. For trees and shrubs, go to nfs.unl.edu. From that list, select a plant that fits the site for size, function and aesthetics. Too often we see a plant we like and then plant it into the landscape without first considering if it will be adapted to the location. This leads to our having to increase inputs for the plant, especially watering; to an ugly plant; or to a dead plant and the extra expense of removing and replacing it.

bark of branches to look for green tissue underneath. Look for buds and crumble a few between the fingers to check for green tissue. If any of these signs of life are present, give the evergreen plenty of time to begin new growth this spring. As a rule, we recommend waiting until early June to prune or remove brown evergreens.

For evergreens showing signs of life, provide adequate moisture without overwatering. The soil needs to be moist, not saturated. Equal amounts of water and oxygen are needed for healthy root growth and function. Do not fertilize evergreens, especially with nitrogen.

Spring Affair is set for April 27

Spring Affair, the Midwest's largest gardening event, will be Saturday, April 27, at the Lancaster Event Center from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. More than 500 varieties of plants will be offered at the day-long plant sale, with educational talks, "talkabouts" and garden vendors all under the same roof.

"For This Place" is the theme of the 2013 event. UNL Extension Horticulture Specialist Kim Todd said the need for regionally appropriate planting influences both plant selection and the event's educational offerings. "After a summer like 2012, gardeners are taking a second look at their landscapes and making more careful decisions about plant selection."

Plants are selected for regional suitability, uniqueness, demand and are provided by Bluebird Nursery Inc., of Clarkson, Neb. Gardeners will find perennials, herbs, native plants, temperennials, vines and a variety of trees and shrubs.

Admission to the sale is free. The plant sale, plant talks and vendors of garden art, sculptures, furniture and other items are all under one roof in Pavilion I, on the northeast edge of the Lancaster Event Center.

Prom

Simple ways to cut prom costs

The costs of attending the prom can start to pile up pretty fast. For cost-conscious parents and teens, a little relief from those mounting costs can go a long way toward ensuring the night is still magical but not a budget-buster.

Finding ways to save money come prom season can be simple, and the following are a handful of ways parents and teens can make such a memorable night more affordable.

- Rent your gown. Guys rent their tuxedos for the prom, and gals can follow suit by renting their gowns for the night. Many stores rent gowns, and since teens likely won't wear the gown ever again, renting is more practical than spending hundreds of dollars on a dress that's destined for the closet once prom night has come and gone.

- Borrow your accessories. Guys and gals can save money on accessories by borrowing certain items from Mom and Dad and other relatives. For the guys, in lieu of purchasing a fancy wristwatch or set of cuff links for the night, borrow Dad's items instead. Girls can borrow a necklace or earrings from their mother, grandmother or an older sibling. Buying accessories like jewelry for the night can be very expensive while borrowing such items is free. And none of your friends will ever know the difference.

- Split the cost of a limo or take Mom or Dad's car to the prom. Renting a limousine is considered a prom night tradition, so teens who must have a limo can split the cost with as many friends as possible to save some money. If a limo is beyond your budget, you can have just as much fun without the limo by borrowing Mom and Dad's car. You can still head to the prom with friends if you borrow a car instead of renting a limousine, especially if Mom or Dad happens to drive a minivan.

- Take your own photos. Many of today's teens have their own smartphones, which may come with a high definition camera built in. These cameras are capable of taking great photos, which can save teens and their parents money on the cost of potentially costly photography. You can still order a photography package if you want some professional quality photos, but choose a smaller package and leave the rest of the night's photography up to you and your friends.

Easter Egg Hunt

Children from pre-school to third grade were invited to the annual Easter Egg Hunt to be held at the Allen Park on March 30.

The Hunt was held at the Allen Fire Hall, due to the rain and possible scattered showers for the morning. The event was sponsored by the Allen Community Club.

The golden and silver eggs were found by Brooklyn McCorkindale, Kamren Arrowood, Samuel Sachtjen, and Carly Dickens. After the egg hunt, the group played some carnival games and took pictures with the Easter Bunny.

Monsanto Grant

Recently, Monsanto mailed a post card to farmers concerning a grant available for school math and science projects. Farmers are being asked only to nominate a school. The school is responsible for applying for the grant money. The deadline is April 15. (This is not the same fall program that Dixon County has benefited from in the past.)

Entrants must be at least 21 and grow at least 250 acres of grain, not be connected with Monsanto, or be a seed dealer. (Check the site for official rules.) The more nominations the school receives, the better its chance of winning a $10,000 or $25,000 award. Grants are an excellent way to bring outside dollars into our small community.

All-State Basketball Nominees

Brittany Sullivan, daughter of Steve and Steph Sullivan, and Lindsey Jones, daughter of Jay and Shelly Jones, were selected for the Omaha World Herald All-State Honorable Mention D-1 basketball teams.

Students must be at least 12 years and are asked to bring online the parental release form and bring to first class. Students must attend all four sessions. Service Learning project explores link between Russia, U.S.

Wayne State College Professor Dmitry Pobedash, Fulbright Scholar-In-Residence from Russia, is teaching a course this semester called "Russia and U.S. Interactions in a Globalizing World."

Pobedash is offering opportunities to students in the course to present in nearby communities and Wayne in the next couple of weeks as part of a service-learning project, including a visit at 10 a.m. Friday, April 5 at Majestic Theater. There is no admission charge.

"These presentations will be a great opportunity for community members to meet and speak with Dmitry," said Lisa Nelson, service-learning coordinator at Wayne State College.

Presentations will begin in Wayne at the Majestic Theater on April 5 at 10 a.m. and at 12:30 p.m. at Grace Lutheran Church on April 14 for a senior citizens recognition event.

The group will also visit The Little Red Hen Theater in Wakefield and the school in Madison, with date and time to be announced.

"The course is to help students understand how cultures, governments, societies, and individuals co-exist and communicate in increasingly interdependent - both in material and in ideational spheres - yet politically divided world," Dr. Pobedash said. "Students prepared presentations to demonstrate the links that exist between Russia and the USA in various spheres: music, education, history, and politics."

As part of a Service-Learning project, students have prepared cultural presentations illustrating some of the cultural similarities between the nations.

Wayne State College has been awarded one of only 50 Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence grants for the 2012-2013 academic year. Dr. Pobedash is an associate professor of international relations at Ural Federal University in Yekaterinburg, Russia. He is teaching classes on world politics, international relations, and Russian language and culture during the 2012-13 academic year.

Dr. Pobedash will also assist Wayne State College in establishing a partnership with Ural Federal University that will allow faculty and students from both institutions to study and teach at the other school. He will remain in Wayne until May 15.

The Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence (SIR) Program, sponsored by the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs of the United States Department of State, enables U.S. colleges and universities to host foreign academics to lecture on a wide range of subject fields for a semester or academic year. Preference is given to institutions developing an international agenda and that have been underserved in opportunities for international experiences.

The Fulbright Program is the flagship international educational exchange program sponsored by the U.S. government and is designed to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries. The Fulbright Program has provided nearly 300,000 participants - chosen for their academic merit and leadership potential - with the opportunity to study, teach, conduct research, exchange ideas and contribute to finding solutions to shared international concerns.

"Thank You" to everyone that sent cards for my "70th" birthday. To all of those who surprised me with a party on Saturday - what a day it was. Thanks for the flowers, plants and gifts and for all of the food and cake that my family prepared for this lovely party. Thanks again, Jo Ann Paulsen

The family of Kaden Schmale would like to thank everyone for all the cards, calls, visits, food, prayers and thoughts throughout his illness and at his death. We had no idea how many people his life touched. He was a special young man. We all miss him dearly and rejoice in the day we will see him again. Your kindness will never be forgotten.
Kaden's family

Thank you to all of our friends and community of Wayne for their support following our house fire. Huge thanks to Chief Monnahan and the Fire Department for their quick response. Thanks to Anne Hoeman for setting up mealtrain.org and all the people that brought us meals and help while we went through the long clean up process. We are very grateful for everything and will certainly pay it forward. Please make sure you have multiple smoke detectors and test them! It's a small price to pay for saving lives and homes.
