Four-term county commissioner faces Tuesday recall vote

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

The future of the senior member of the Wayne County Commissioners will be decided by his constituents on Tuesday.

Kelvin Wurdeman is facing a recall election on Tuesday, the result of a petition started in late January by rural Wayne resident Jerold Meyer. The petition received more than enough valid signatures to put the question of Wurdeman's continued representation as the District 1 Commissioner, a position he has held since 1999, up for a vote.

Wurdeman has come under fire over the past year after pleading no contest to charges of misdemeanor theft by unlawful taking and official misconduct. The charges came as the result of a sale of county-owned scrap metal by Wurdeman to a Norfolk recycling company in 2012.

Wurdeman has maintained that the money he received from the sale of the scrap metal was put in his district's petty cash fund, and that the time Wurdeman has been the subject of a recall. money was never in his possession.

In the request for the recall petition, Meyer wrote compromised his position as a representative of county government.

"Acting as Wayne County Commissioner, Kelvin Wurdeman has been caught, convicted and severely fined for the willful theft and fraudulent sale of county property. In the fall of 2012, enough signatures had been gathered to force a recall election, but Wurdeman that the crimes Wurdeman pled no contest to have was able to get the recall thrown out on grounds that signees were not read the entire language of the petitions. There was also no notation on the petitions as to whether or not the circulators were paid or volunteer circulators. Although it was not part of the ruling, the county also faced a timing dilemma, as the signatures were not verified until after absentee ballots had either state law by holding the election immediately mailing out recall ballots separate from the general election ballots.

Keeping son's memory alive has helped heal, develop relationships

By KATIE KASL Of The Herald

When Jacob's Room first opened back in 2006, Amy Woerdemann and her family had one goal in mind – they wanted to keep the memory of Jacob, their son and brother, alive.

Now, the toy (and more) store is shipping out hundreds of orders a week. It has a Facebook page, a website that boasts 3,000 products and suppliers in states scattered across the U.S.

But, for Woerdemann, there's more to her business than that.

"It isn't about the money," Woerdemann said. "It's really about helping people."

And she does it by offering high-quality, reasonably priced items that reflect the needs of her customers. If there's something they want that the company doesn't have, she'll even hunt it down for them.

"We have access to pretty much everything," Woerdemann said.

Jacob's Room, she explains, initially ing into its retail location at 202 Main Street in Wayne.

'Our Internet business has really exploded throughout the last year," Woerdemann said.

The shop's website, www.jacobsroom. com, carries a variety of products from companies like Radio Flyer and Melissa & Doug, among others. There are toys, games, puzzles, children's books, furniture, baby and infant goods and breast feeding started out as an online store before mov- items to choose from, and most of them ship directly from the manufacturer.

A $50 purchase nets free shipping, but any purchase – or merely stopping by to read the Jacob's Room story - can provide comfort.

In fact, that's been another plus of the company.

When Jacob passed away in August 2004, there were plenty of hard feelings on Woerdemann's part.

"I was angry for a lot of years," she said. Woerdemann asked God why He gave her Jacob, only to take him away.

It didn't seem fair, and it didn't seem right; but it made her realize that the loss of her son, though painful, gave Woerdemann her business, which, in turn, gave her the opportunity to connect with others like herself.

Not a week goes by that she doesn't receive an e-mail or phone call from a parent who's lost a child too.

The store has also attracted a loval fan base over the years, drawing customers were unanimously approved by the council.

Several agenda items were tabled until future meetings to allow council members time to gain additional information.

Area schools to honor new graduates Saturday

Although it seems like just last week there was snow, (oh, there really was snow last week), it is time for hundreds of high school seniors to become alumni of their respective high schools.

Four of the five schools in The Wayne Herald's coverage area - Wayne, Allen, Laurel-Concord/Coleridge and Winside will hold ceremonies at 2 p.m. on Saturday, May 11. Wakefield Community Schools has graduation set for Sunday, May 19 at 2:30 p.m

Graduation ceremonies for Wayne seniors will take place at Rice Auditorium on the Wayne State College campus.

The speaker at the 2013 commencement exercises will be Mrs. Phylis Trenhaile, instructor at Wayne High School.

In addition, featured addresses will be given by the Valedictorian and Salutatorian of the class.

Advantages, disadvantages of radiant barriers explained

Have you received a postcard in expect in Nebraska? Oak Ridge the mail lately with one of the following marketing lines?:

- Did you enjoy paying your utility bills this month?

– Did you know you may be paying up to 40 percent too much every month?

- See what the utility companies may not want you to know!

- Free Steak Dinner!

This technology was developed by NASA and is now being introduced to the general public!

Lately, a few companies have been using these lines to convince you to consider installing a barrier or radiation control coating. But will these actions provide significant energy radiant savings in your home?

On a sunny summer day, solar energy is absorbed by the roof, heating your attic, make sure the product the roof sheathing and causing the you install has an appropriate perunderside of the sheathing and the roof framing to become hot. These surfaces then radiate heat downward toward the home. Radiant out of the home. In Nebraska, barbarriers reduce that energy flow. Because the amount of heat radiation striking the top of the home's attic insulation is less than it would have been, the insulation surface temperature is lower and the heat flow through the insulation is reduced. By reducing the heat energy reaching the attic floor, radiant barriers also reduce the attic's ambient air temperature.

In the winter, radiant barriers can reduce indoor heat losses through the ceiling, especially during winter nights when the roof surface is coldest. However, radiant barriers also reduce beneficial daytime heat gains due to solar heating Public Power District want to help of the roof. Depending on your climate, level of attic insulation, and other factors, the net winter effect can be positive or negative.

So what kind of savings can you

National Laboratory (ORNL) is a multiprogram science and technology national laboratory managed for the U.S. Department of Energy. ORNL's calculations in Nebraska's weather zone (Zone 5) shows savings varies from $0.00 to $0.03 per square foot. For the typical 1,540-square foot attic in a Nebraska home, the first year's savings would vary from $0.00 to $61.60. Considering installation could cost more than $2,000, it may be more than 30 years for your energy savings to pay for the improvement. Detailed results of ORNL's findings can be found at www.ornl.gov/sci/ ees/etsd/btric/RadiantBarrier/RB-FactSheet2010.pdf.

Even so, if you determine that a radiant barrier is appropriate for meability rating to allow any moisture to "travel" through the barrier into the attic where it can be vented riers are often laid atop the home's existing attic insulation, with the reflective side up. Although this is the simplest installation method, there are several disadvantages:

 Dust will settle on the reflective side of the barrier, decreasing its effectiveness.

- Traffic (if the attic is used for storage) will damage it.

 Moisture can be trapped where it will soak the insulation and potentially lead to mold problems.

- Kitchen and bathroom vents and recessed lights should not be covered with the radiant barrier.

Your local utility and Nebraska you make the most of the energy they provide you. For assistance on making your home EnergyWise, contact your local utility or visit www.nppd.com.

The Wayne Herald – Thursday, May 9, 2013 4A Window is small, but 10th Street project gets started

With a rather small window to complete the project, work began Monday on the East 10th Street street renovation project.

The East 10th Street project runs from Main Street to the alley east of Windom Street. The asphalt overlay was milled off and the contractor has begun removing the concrete base.

The general contractor is Steve Harris Construction and the subcontractor working on removals and utilities is RW & Sons Construction. The engineer is Advanced Consulting Engineering Services.

The project involves replacing the street with new paving and storm drains, replacing the water main for the length of the project, and replacing one block of sanitary sewer that lies beneath the street. The bid for the construction work was $504,776.

Access to the Wayne Greenhouse is available on Nebraska Street going north of Ninth Street to the driveway south of the building or along the alley from Ninth Street down to the west side of the Greenhouse property.

The City has installed signs in an effort to help guide traffic.

Logan Street is also open north of Ninth Street to the parking lot on the east side of the Cup of Grace building for access for their patrons. At Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council, the CDA approved the purchase of two properties on the south side of East 10th Street in the first half block east of Main Street. # WHS Power Drive Team wins another state title

For the third straight year, Waye High School's Power Drive team is a state champion.

The team competed last weekend at the 2013 Power Drive State Championships at Werner Park in Papillion. At the rain-soaked championships, teams competed in design, documentation, a 60-minute endurance rally, and for top overall score.

Wayne High's Car S107 suffered from a flat tire late in the rally to take it out of contention in the endurance competition. However, hard work prior to the event gave the S107 the third-place award in documentation.

Car A39 battled back and forth for first most of the day until a flat tire put it into second place with 1 1/2 laps down. With less than two minutes to race, Wayne fought back and gained momentum on the firstplace car, and passed for the lead and race win with 30 seconds left in the rally. Additional honors of the day for Car A39 included second place in documentation, and third place in design.

Enough points were collected through the day's events for Car A39 to be awarded the 2013 Advanced Class State Championship.

This is the third straight state championship that Wayne has won, and the fifth year in a row to win the endurance competition in either standard or advanced class at the state event.

Recent weather can hurt trees

This recent snow storm brought has a split trunk or branches. These With high winds associated with unusually cold temperatures and heavy snow and ice that can cause damage to trees.

Eric Berg, community forestry and sustainable landscapes program leader at the Nebraska Forest Service, urges homeowners to use caution and follow a few tips when caring for storm-damaged trees:

- Safety should be the priority at all times. Use caution in and around trees during and after extreme weather as falling limbs and debris may pose a hazard long after the storm has passed.

– When inspecting trees for storm damage, look for splits or cracks in the trunk and major limbs, as well as disturbed soil around the trunk. This indicates a possible structural problem. If you suspect your tree sustained structural damage, contact a certified arborist.

– Never climb a damaged tree to remove limbs or attempt any type of tasks are best left to certified arborwinter storms, many young trees ists restaked to stabilize the root ball

- Never remove or trim branches that are interfering with power and prevent further damage. lines. Instead, contact your local power company.

– When removing fallen branches under the tree's canopy, watch for falling ice and limbs.

- Wait for the ice and snow to melt before pruning damaged branches that can be reached from the ground.

 Be wary of individuals who go door-to-door soliciting your business. Reputable tree-care companies are typically too busy to do this. - Say "no thank you" to anyone who offers to top your tree. Professional foresters and certified arborists agree that topping harms trees and increases the likelihood of structural problems, as well as a tree's recovery time after a storm.

- Check staking and guying maclean-up on a tree that is leaning or terials around newly planted trees.

Police Chief Marlen Chinn told the council that the current sirens are approximately 30 years old and outdated. The plan is to re-locate several of the sirens to allow for better coverage. This will also allow the number of sirens to be reduced from six to five.

Council members again debated the issue of allowing chickens in the city of Wayne and creating an ordinance to set up guidelines for poultry owners.

Former Council member Doug Sturm told the council that "having chicken feed in town will attract rodents. The city is already able to control a lot of what people can do and this is something the city should control. If we allow this, where are we going to stop?"

B.J. Woehler said he had opinions on both sides of the issue, but felt that if chickens were allowed in the city, "those with chickens need to make sure the neighbors know."

Paul Lindner told the council he felt the "issue was 'ridiculous' and it has not been an issue," Chamberthat neighbors should have the right to say 'no' to having chickens next to them, just like any other zoning changes." Mayor Ken Chamberlain said he felt the issue was similar to allow ATVs on city streets, an issue the council dealt with approximately a vear ago.

They grow up so fast these days

I've been in this line of work for 30 years, and at no point in my career have I had the opportunity to experience what I'm experiencing as the 2012-13 school year comes to a close.

I've covered state champions. I've covered national champions. I've interviewed Hall of Fame athletes, Heisman Trophy winners and weekend hackers

This, though, is a first.

This senior class is the first, in the course of my travels across this great state, that I have been able to watch grow and mature for all four years of their high school athletic careers

I've been blessed with the opportunity to work in a number of communities over the years, from the big cities of the Omaha-metro area and Norfolk – where I covered numerous schools - to regional areas like Fairbury and Ogallala, where a handful of schools were of concern; and small-town papers like Milford and Gretna that I had only one school to worry about for each week's sports pages.

These next two weeks, though, the Class of 2013 finishes off their high school careers, and I get to say aloha to the first class I've seen grow up from their status as freshfaced freshmen to the grizzled veterans they have become as seniors.

It seems like only yesterday that this year's graduating class of seniors were but young bucks (and does) who were seeking a chance to make varsity and, with any luck, make an impact on their school team. (They DO grow up fast, don't they, moms and dads?)

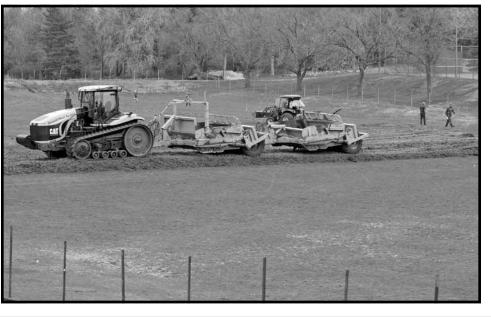

Some of them stepped into starting roles right away and were key elements in their teams' success. Others were role players who developed as the season went on, working their way into the starting lineup. And there were some who toiled in the anonymity of being a varsity benchwarmer or a contributor to the success of the JV team, working hard to develop their talents and waiting for the opportunity to contribute. Over the years, these athletes in the Class of 2013 found their way in one or more sports. Some were fantastic at one, while functional in another. Their success in one sport, more often than not, carried over into another sports season. For some, the struggles in one sport were but a warm-up for their "specialty" sports - they used one season to stay active and condition themselves for the sports they loved that would follow the next season. Some seniors were saddled with a lack of depth on their teams. Others dealt with the misfortune of playing in a sport where talent was in abundance, and they may not have stood out as well as they might have otherwise. Still, these kids worked hard, studied hard and have found themselves on the cusp of adulthood, ready to face the full-court press of life that awaits them. Michael Jordan once opined that it was because of the times that he failed in his life that he was able to succeed. The student-athletes who make up the Class of 2013 certainly have experienced failure on the field, and it is from those experiences that they will ultimately come away as winners in the game of life. It's been my pleasure to have watched the kids from Wayne, Winside, Wakefield, Laurel-Concord/ Coleridge and Allen grow and develop these past four years, and I wish all of you nothing but the best in whatever pursuits your life's journey takes you on. May you all get up one time more than you are knocked down before life's final buzzer sounds.

Field work begins

Construction work has begun on the field turf project at Wayne State College. Dirt is being moved from the football field at Memorial Stadium (above) to the soccer complex (right). The grass surface at Memorial Stadium is being replaced with an all-weather turf surface that is scheduled to be completed in time for the start of the 2013 season. Wayne State's football home opener won't be until mid-September, but soccer will play its first home game in early September, so the sod used to widen the field must be in place by mid-July.

Softball goes 2-2 at NSIC

Wayne State's softball team finished the season with a 28-16 record after going 2-2 in the Northern Sun Conference Tournament in Rochester, Minn.

The Wayne State College softball team suffered a heart-breaking loss, 6-1 in eight innings, Friday morning in the first round against Concordia-St. Paul.

Wayne State controlled the game for the first six innings, using a run in the first inning to hold up for a 1-0 lead entering the seventh inning. But with two outs in the top of the seventh, Concordia-St. Paul's Tessa Ewert changed the momentum of the game with one swing of the bat, hitting a solo homer to center field to even the score at 1-1 and send it into extra innings.

Things unraveled from there, as the Golden Bears used two walks and a Wildcat error followed by a two-run single and a three-run home run, to erupt for a five-run eighth inning as Concordia-St. Paul rallied to drop Wayne State into the losers bracket.

The Wildcats opened the scoring in the first inning when freshman Lexie Loos singled up the middle, then advanced to third when Jordan King reached base on a sacrifice bunt throwing error. Loos scored on a double play grounder by Vicki Nielsen.

Sara Scheffert suffered the hardluck loss in the circle, allowing six runs on six hits with eight strikeouts and three walks. Facing a win-or-else situation,

The Blue Devils avoided elimination in the opening round of the B-1 district baseball tournament with an exciting 3-2 win in nine innings over Douglas County West but had to turn around later that day to face top-ranked and top-seeded Norris, a challenge that proved too much for the Blue Devils to overcome.

"They're the real deal. They're good," Hoffman said after the Blue Devils ended their season with a 12-0 loss to the top-ranked Titans. "They swing the bat well and have some stud pitchers, and they brought it. We had nothing to lose, and I told the boys to just go out and RBI groundout in the third inning relax and play hard, and whatever to get Wayne on the board, and happens, happens. Under normal spring conditions, the Wayne High boys golf team would have a decided home-course advantage when they host the on a rare spring-like day, the Blue "Mac" Invite.

This, as you may already be aware, is not your normal spring.

The Blue Devils have not had much of an opportunity to practice and play on their home course, so it was something of a disappointment for coach Dave Hix to see the team struggle, particularly on the back nine, and finish the day with a 352 in the the rescheduled 11-team tournament Tuesday at the Wayne Country Club.

"It's not really a home-course advantage when you haven't been on the course that much," Hix said. The players were disappointed in their play, especially on the back nine, and our short game is still not where it needs to be.'

Putting was an issue for some of the players on the course, as they struggled on the greens for much of the day. All five Wayne golfers had a number of three-putt holes on their scorecard, Hix said.

Even with the up-and-down day Devils managed to place three golfers in the top 15 in their final meet before district action next week in Blair.

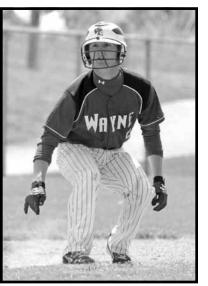

"We did take a small step back. but we still had three in the top 15, and we have a couple of days to get some minor flaws corrected," Hix said. "The big thing is that we need to get some more practice time outside.'

Kaje Maly, who was especially troubled with his putter on the front nine, ended the day in the top 10 with an 83 to lead the Blue Devils. Teammates Ezra Brodersen and Ryan Grosz also medaled, finishing 12th and 14th, respectively, with rounds of 87 and 88.

The Wildcats added three more runs in the top of the seventh inning to take a 6-0 lead. Kylee Simpson had an RBI single to highlight the inning, while Kelcie Bormann and Hagemann each drew basesloaded walks to bring home the other two runs.

Upper Iowa avoided a shutout in the bottom of the seventh by scoring three runs on three hits against reliever Cassy Miller, as starter Scheffert, who threw six shutout innings to start the game, came back in to get the final out and preserve the 6-3 win.

Nielsen hit a three-run homer while Scheffert pitched a complete game to lead Wayne State in a 4-1 elimination win over St. Cloud State Saturday afternoon.

The game was scoreless until the bottom of the fourth when Wayne State pushed three runs across the plate. Simpson led off the inning with an infield single, Bormann was hit by a pitch, and both players scored when Nielsen connected for a three-run homer over the right center field fence.

St. Cloud State scored in the top of the sixth to trim the Wildcat advantage to 3-1, but Wayne State got the run back in the bottom of the sixth to close out the scoring as Hagemann walked, moved to second on a Michelle Thille sacrifice bunt and scored when King reached on a throwing error.

Scheffert improved to 17-7 on the season with the complete-game win. She allowed just one run on six hits with two walks and two strikeouts.

Wayne State's hopes to continue in the tournament were dashed on a solo homer in the third inning, as Augustana ended the Wildcats' season with a 1-0 win.

Theresa McMahon's solo homer to lead off the third inning was the lone run of the game. Wayne State's best scoring opportunity came in the second when the Wildcats loaded the bases with one out, as Simpson and Hagemann singled, while Sam O'Brien reached on a fielder's choice. Augustana got out of the threat and shut down the Wildcats from there, limiting Wayne State to five hits.

Bormann suffered the pitching loss, giving up five hits and one run over four innings of work with two walks and no strikeouts. Miller worked the final two innings and allowed just one hit with one walk and one strikeout.

Wayne State has just one senior on this year's roster, Kallee Pfieffer, and ties a school record with a seventh consecutive winning season.

Wildcats finish high at UNL Invitational, set for conference

The Wayne State track and field teams competed Sunday at the Nebraska Invitational in Lincoln at Ed Weir Outdoor Stadium, joining athletes from Drake, Nebraska-Omaha and Nebraska.

The men's team had a pair of first-place finishes as William Ernst won the 100-meter dash (11.58), while Greg Tracy beat teammate Nathan Boggess in the 3,000-meter run with a time of 9:29.89. Jon Williams had a strong second place showing in the javelin (171' 5"), and Mike King was third in the 200-meter dash at 22.32 seconds.

The top finisher for the Wildcat women's team was Morgan Swanson, taking third in the long jump (16' 7 3/4"), with Sidney Blum fourth at 16 feet, 3 1/4 inches. Rebecca Davenport also had a fourthplace finish in the 400-meter hurdles (1:05.92), while Mackenzie Masching took fourth in the hammer throw at 172 feet, 1 inch.

Wayne State will compete Friday and Saturday at the Northern Sun Conference Championships held at Howard Wood Field in Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

- Wayne's baseball season came to an end in districts on Monday, and it should be noted that yours truly has something of a personal connection with the Norris baseball team that knocked them out of the postseason.

Jason Cullison, coach of the Norris baseball team, is a very good friend of mine and has previously worked as the head wrestling coach at Newman Grove. The guy knows his baseball – he and his dad, Ron, coached numerous state championship teams in Beatrice's American Legion program. He's done quite well for himself as Norris' mentor they are No. 1 in Class B and have six kids who will play ball in college.

ments this spring have been played in cold, windy and wet conditions, it was difficult for the kids to adjust to mild temperatures, dry conditions and a pleasantly light spring breeze wafting through the Wayne Country Club. One can hardly blame the kids for struggling with having to hit a golf club without the restrictions of winter gear protecting them from the cold conditions.

I shudder to think what their dads will do if they have to play in conditions like that for the Wednesday men's golf league. Then again, some of their dads will have concerns much bigger than the temperatures when their carts hit the fairways.

Wayne track teams getting set for districts

The Wavne Track teams tuned up for Districts at the Battle Creek Invitational on Thursday.

In girls action, Wayne won seven events. Cassie Heier had a hand in three wins, taking first in the 800 and triple jump while joining Jalyn Zeiss, Meagan Backer and McKenna Frevert in the 400-meter relay.

Backer was an individual winner as well, taking first in the 400-meter dash. Wayne was dominant in the field events, with Ashton Schweers (high jump), Lexi Sokol (shot put) and Bailey Bentjen (discus) winning their events.

In boys action, Wayne was first in five events. Trevor Pecena was the only multiple winner, taking first in the 400 and joining Payton Janke, Jared Anderson and Demetrius Alexander in winning the 1,600-meter relay. Ben Hoskins won the 3,200, Kody Frahm took the discus and Jared Anderson won the high jump.

Wildcats split with Upper Iowa, swept by Augie to close season son, the Wayne State baseball team stumbled into the postseason after a four-game sweep by Augustana.

On Thursday, the Wildcats split with Upper Iowa, as the Peacocks took the opener 9-6 before Wayne State responded with a 12-2 win in the second game.

The Peacocks got on the scoreboard early, scoring one run in the top of the first inning. The Wildcats would tie the game at 1-1 in the bottom of the first when Kevin Andersen drove in Blake Brisson.

Upper Iowa would then tack on three runs in the top of the third inning, aided by a two-RBI single from William Loza to take a 4-1 advantage. Wayne State cut into that deficit in the bottom of the third, scoring one run off an RBI by CJ Nolen to pull within 4-2.

Wayne State would then tie the game at 4-4 in the bottom of the fourth when Scott Doggett had an RBI and Brandon Lalk scored on a wild pitch. The tie game would not last long, as Upper Iowa scored four runs in the top of the fifth inning for an 8-4 lead.

Brett Keim was a perfect 3-for-3 in the game while also scoring two runs. Andersen led the team with two RBI's while Nolen and Doggett each had one. Tadd Johansen suffered his second straight loss for Wayne State.

In the nightcap, Wayne State got on the scoreboard in the bottom of the first inning when Nolen drove in Brisson.

The lead did not last long for Wayne State, as Upper Iowa scored two runs in the top of the second inning to take a 2-1 advantage. That would be the final lead of the game for the Peacocks, as the Wildcats scored two runs of their own in the bottom of the second to take the lead for good. Nolen drew a walk for an RBI and Lalk drove in Bussard for the second run of the inning.

The Wildcats opened the game up in the third inning when they scored four runs to take a 7-2 lead. The big inning started with an RBI by Bussard, and then Brisson laid down a sacrifice bunt to score Tanner Lancaster. Nolen then drove in another run for the third score of the inning and later would score on a fielding error to cap the inning.

The Wildcat scoring continued in the bottom of the fifth inning with two more runs. Lalk recorded the first

After splitting its final two home games of the sea- RBI of the inning by crushing a triple to right center to score Nolen, and Keim then singled to score Lalk.

The Wildcats outhit the Peacocks 15-5 in game two while being led at the dish by Nolen, who went 3-for-3 with four RBI's and two runs scored. Lalk had two hits with two RBI's and one run scored. Bussard, Brisson, Keim and Doggett each had two hits. Freshman pitcher Eric Browning improved to 4-1 on the season.

The road was not kind to Wayne State on Friday and Saturday in Sioux Falls, S.D., as Augustana swept the Wildcats in a four-game set. They swept Friday's doubleheader 10-3 and 11-1, and lost on Saturday 2-1 and 10-0 to take a 26-18 record (18-12 NSIC) into the conference tournament.

On Friday, the Vikings limited the Wildcats to four hits in the opener. Bussard hit a solo homer in the third inning to pull Wayne State within 4-1, but Augustana matched that run in the bottom of the inning and scored two in the fifth to take the lead for good. Bussard had two RBI's to lead the offensive effort. Tom Doran took the loss on the mound.

In the second game, Wayne State committed five errors and were held to four hits as the Vikings finished off the Friday sweep.

It was 1-1 in the third after Brisson scored on a Nolen groundout, but Augustana took the lead for good with two runs in the third, then added four in the fourth to pull away. Eric Schwieger took the loss for the Wildcats, who were limited to four hits in the game.

On Saturday, Wayne State managed just two hits in each of the two games with Augustana, spoiling a fine opening-game pitching performance by Mike Frericks.

Frericks struck out 10 and walked two in six innings of work, allowing just two runs on two hits.

Unfortunately, the Wildcat bats weren't able to help out. Andersen hit a solo homer down the left field line in the seventh, but Wayne State couldn't get anything going after that.

In the nightcap, Curtis Bussard gave up five runs on five hits in the first inning, and that was all Augustana would need as they shut down the Wildcats' bats. Keim had a fifth-inning double and Bussard led off the game with a single, accounting for the only two safeties in the first game for Wayne State.

LEARNING THE BASICS ABOUT VITAMINS

Vitamins are essentials - the substances your body needs to function normally. You can usually get the vitamins you need from a healthy, balanced diet.1 Add a "rainbow of color" to your diet and you increase your chances of getting what you need.

But some people lack certain vitamins, so they need supplements.<sup>1</sup> Ask your doctor whether or not you do. And, remember: too much of a good thing can be bad for you. So be careful not to overdo.

Here are the basics about vitamins:

Vitamin A helps with vision, bone growth, and reproduction. It also plays a role in cell division and promoting healthy surface linings in eyes and other places in your body. Sources of vitamin A include beef and chicken liver, carrots, sweet potatoes, pumpkin, spinach, and cantaloupe.<sup>2,</sup>

B vitamins such as B6 and B12 are versatile, helping with many of the body's functions. This includes forming red blood cells and helping your body get or make energy from food (a process called metabolism). You mostly find B vitamins in proteins such as tuna, salmon, poultry, beef liver, and dairy products. Some foods, such as breakfast cereals and breads, are also fortified with B vitamins.<sup>4</sup>

Vitamin C helps the body form collagen (a fibrous protein) in blood vessels, bones, cartilage, and muscle. Fruits high in vitamin C include guava, oranges, kiwi, and strawberries. Vegetables high in vitamin C include raw red and green sweet peppers, Brussels sprouts, broccoli, and sweet potatoes.

Vitamin D works with calcium to maintain bone strength and quality. Vitamin D is also involved in cell growth, as well as nerve, muscle, and immune functioning. And, it can reduce inflammation in the body. Few foods contain vitamin D. However, it is found in fatty fish such as salmon and tuna, and in fish liver oils. Orange juice, milk, and yogurt may be fortified with vitamin D. You may also get some vitamin D from sunlight.<sup>5</sup>

Vitamin E is an antioxidant. It helps protect cells from damage. Vitamin E also is involved with immune function and metabolism. Sources of vitamin E include wheat germ oil, sunflower seeds, almonds, peanut butter, and sunflower or safflower oil.

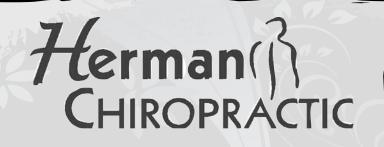

Sometimes doctors prescribe vitamins. But sometimes vitamins may interact with certain medications.<sup>89</sup> If you have questions about any of this, I'd be glad to talk it over with you. I can also answer your questions about Health Mart brand vitamins. Or, you can go to www.healthmart. com to learn more about the Health Mart Vitamin Finder. This is a new internet-based, personalized tool to help you make smart decisions about vitamins.

NPPD's Hoskins to Neligh 345,000-volt Electric Transmission Line Project JPEN HOUSE

Nebraska Public Power District will host open house meetings in Neligh and Norfolk to receive public comment on proposed and alternative lines routes and substation sites for a 345,000-volt transmission line from NPPD's Hoskins Substation, located northeast of Norfolk, west to a substation site yet to be determined in the Neligh area. This transmission line is being built to enhance transmission system reliability and provide opportunities for additional renewable energy generation.

This third round of open houses will deal primarily with line routes and substation sites. Anyone residing in or owning property along the proposed routes is encouraged to bring the legal description of his or her property to an open house. In addition to receiving public comments, NPPD will provide information on the project.

For more information, call 1-888-677-3412.

Wednesday, May 15, there is an early dismissal of 1 p.m., as it the last day of the school year for grades K-6. There will also be a pizza party at the Allen park for grades K-3.

Allen T-ball Registration Any child ages 4-7 interested in playing t-ball can stop at the school and pick up a registration form. The cost is $20 and includes a T-shirt. Most games will be played Monday nights in June. Sign-up deadline is Monday, May 13.

Memorial Day, Fundraiser

Following the Memorial Day services on Monday, May 27, a fundraiser meal from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. will be held at the Allen Fire Hall. The money will be used to help defray the medical expenses for Mr. Lacy's wife and for scholarships to send current Allen students to summer band camps.

Since the 1988-89 school year when Richard Lacy became a part of the school faculty, many Allen alumni have had the opportunity to participate in musical productions, musical concerts and contests, and major Bowl parades and football games.

Mr. Lacy has dedicated time and and we want to show our appreciation with this fundraiser. Plan on attending the 10:15 a.m. Memorial Day service at Eastview Cemetery and enjoy a meal and fellowship following in the fire hall.

During her tenure with NEHI, will be presenting their class plays Linda has worked with housing agencies throughout Nebraska to keep affordable and quality housing available to people of Northeast Nebraska. Linda plans on continuing working with Allen Consolidated School Music Department, spend more time with her grandkids and travel. Linda will remain NEHI's Homebuyer Education Counselor.

Allen Community Club

The Allen Community Club met

April 15 at the gas station. President Dean Chase called the meeting to order. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved.

Old business was discussed. We are within $4,000 of raising the funds for an electronic digital sign to be placed on the school grounds where the present outdated sign is located. All school, community organizations, church, etc. notices of events will be put on that sign. Anyone wishing to make a donation to that fund may do so in the sign account at the Security Bank.

A second project of the Allen Community Club – the new playground equipment – was also discussed. It was decided what equipment to or-Security Bank into the playground effort for the benefit of our students, account. Raffle tickets for an iPad, a television, and/or gift certificate will be sold for one ticket for $5 and three tickets for $10.

Allen Book Club

Allen Book Club discussion of the book "Save Me" by Lisa Scottoline will be held in conjunction with the book club's salad buffet, Thursday, May 16, at 6 p.m. at the Allen Fire potato salad, baked beans, rhubarb Hall. Please contact an Allen Book crisp. Club member if you would like to read the book or attend the salad buffet. Public is welcome.

Allen Park Improvement

The Allen Community Club is working to replace the aging playground equipment at the Allen Park. Please watch in the Allen News and the Allen, NE Community info page on Facebook. They will share information about many fun and exciting events to come in the near future to help them raise money needed to accomplish this task. By: Michael Carnes Managing Editor

One day, gay will be a non-issue

- I'm a 46-year-old managing editor. I'm white. And I'm straight.
- But what if I wasn't?
- You know . . . straight.
- Would you still greet me on the street the way you do today?
- Would you still buy me a beer, or a cup of coffee, or lunch at The Max?

Would you still stop me and tell me how funny, witty, thought-provoking or positive you thought last week's column was?

Last week, the mainstream media made a big deal out of the announcement by Jason Collins, a journeyman NBA basketball player who was on the cover of Sports Illustrated announcing his sexual orientation to the world.

Collins isn't a big-name player but is well known among NBA players, coaches and team officials. He is a free agent and has played for six teams n 12 seasons.

He doesn't put up huge statistical numbers but is a dependable player and has been touted as "a pro's pro," meaning he does the things a professional player should to give his best effort to the team, both on and off the

He's no Kobe Bryant or Blake Griffin. He doesn't wow us with amazing plays or score a zillion points.

He's just a dependable, quality, professional basketball player - who is

So why would that last point matter to anybody? Outside of the fact that no professional athlete for a major sport has come out of the closet before their retirement, why should it be something we needed to know about His bill was amended by a Rev-

Homosexuality has been a part of our world forever. It's mentioned repeatedly in the Bible, and everybody from entertainers to world leaders – many of whom you all have enjoyed or supported in one form or another - are as gay as the day is long.

Does the Earth's axis violently tilt the other direction if somebody you know comes out of the closet and announces to the world that they are homosexual? Does the Earth crumble and fall away into the outer reaches of space? Did your marriage, or relationship with your significant other, suddenly implode under the weight of the publication of Jason Collins' Sports Illustrated article?

I've had the pleasure to know several people who are homosexual. I've worked with several over the course of my 30 years in the media business. Some of the kids in my neighborhood who I played sports with, hung out with at parties and grew up alongside are as gay as I am straight

Capitol View Wind energy bill advances

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

The Wayne

Nebraskans are keenly aware of a term called "wind chill" or the wind chill factor. It is the perceived decrease in air temperature felt by the body on exposed skin due to the flow of cold air. Said temperatures are always lower than the air temperature where the formula is valid. That would be just about everywhere. Likewise, the "heat index" is used to describe an apparent temperature higher than the air temperature.

The wind chill factor coming from the office of lame-duck Governor Dave Heineman has turned up the heat index on the Legislature's Revenue Committee and, most recently, on the 30 senators who gave firstround approval to a measure aimed at increasing the number of wind turbines being built in Nebraska.

The bill, LB104, offered by Omaha Democrat Steve Lathrop, a potential candidate for the post Heinemann will vacate in a couple years, would provide state tax incentives for companies that create sources of renewable energy. Lathrop said Nebraska is the fourth largest producer of wind energy but lacks economic incentives for companies to invest in the state. He said the state has wind energy potential and is facing a time-sensitive opportunity that can significantly grow Nebraska's economy.

enue Committee proposal, adopted 27-0, that essentially replaced the bill with provisions of LB501, a bill originally introduced by Sen. Galen Hadley of Kearney. As amended, the bill would expand the definition of qualified business to include renewable energy producers in the existing incentive tiers. It also would to include wind, solar, geothermal, hydroelectric, biomass and transmutation of elements.

Sen. Jeremy Nordquist of Omaha said the discontinuation of federal production tax credits at the end of 2013 adds a sense of urgency. He noted that developers have to get projects started by the end of the year to get tax credits. Nordquist and Sen. Jim Scheer of Norfolk urged colleagues to advance the bill to help get the developments start-

Legislative Update Budget bills up for debate in Legislature

Granted, these friends have had their issues in dealing with homophobic individuals over the years. Some of my friends came out of the closet down to 19 working days left in the early. Others felt they had to get away from family, or the town they grew up in, before they felt comfortable with their true sexual identity.

One friend, who has since passed away, told me stories about how his family had washed their hands of him when he told them he was gay. He told me of his sexual orientation after college, but I told him it was the worst-kept secret in the world, because even in college we knew there was something different about him – and it didn't matter, because he was our friend, and we knew who he was and what he was about.

There are a lot of myths and outright lies about who homosexuals are and what their intentions might be. Some believe that homosexuals are such deviants that their sole intention is to rape our children, in spite of the fact that study after study has proven that sexual orientation is not a determining factor in the likelihood of somebody committing pedophilia (although if that WERE true, there are hundreds of homosexual priests in the Catholic church who have a lot more explaining to do regarding the hypocrisy of their religion than just molesting little children, but I digress).

You might find this surprising, but there are homosexuals living here in Wayne and in Wayne County. You may know them – and then again, you may know them but not KNOW them. Why? Because, in the grand scheme of things, it's really none of your business.

There are people who work in this community, and in this area, who are homosexuals. I've had some pointed out to me during my four years here in Wayne, and it hasn't changed my perception of who they are one bit. Some of them are actually easier to talk to, friendlier and have a lot more going for them than some heterosexuals that I know. Would my perception of them be any different? Not at all.

When you get right down to it, homosexuals aren't any different from any other group of human beings. They are a part of all ethnic backgrounds, races and genders. Contrary to what some religious zealots believe, many of them are strong of faith and attend church, even though most churches take a negative view of their sexual orientations.

Hopefully, one day, their sexual orientation will be as much a non-issue for us, as an alleged civilized society, as their race or religious background has become.

session with several issues waiting ments last year fearing a large into be addressed. We will start next week with General File debate on the budget bills.

The Appropriations Committee released the proposed budget this week, and it will no doubt be a weekend reading project for many senators and staffers, me included. There has been a lot of talk lately about how much better our economic outlook is than what was originally predicted. This is in part because of the projected $125 million dollars the state is expecting to see

Heath Mello of Omaha, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, has also cautioned the Legislature on the fact that this is a one-time influx of money, and it should go to the cash reserve. The cash reserve is what you will often hear senators refer to as our "rainy day fund" or savings account. Like many of you, the state has had to dip into that savings in the last few years in order to balance our budget (which, thankfully, is required of us) without making cuts that would completely eliminate programs

According to the OpenSky Policy Institute, the Government Finance Officers Association suggests that states have 16.7 percent of their general fund budgets in their "rainy day fund" or cash reserve account. In 2007, Nebraska had 15 percent of our general fund budget set aside; today we will have 15.7 percent set aside if we adopt what the Appropriations Committee has proposed. budget, my focus will be on making sure that the programs and services that are essential to our state are provided for and that we are building our cash reserve back up for the next time we see a recession.

LB407, the bill dealing with state aid to schools, is also up on Select File debate Tuesday. While I do not see us reaching it on Tuesday, I am positive it will be debated again next week. Like I said last week, there are many factors that go into the very complicated state aid formula.

Last week, I incorrectly stated that nine out of ten District 17 schools stood to lose money under the original Education Committee proposal. Six out of 10 of the schools in our district stand to lose money under the original committee proposal from the TEEOSA portion of their funding and under the current compromise amendment, which is what we will be discussing this week

As I look at the numbers now, no school should lose dollars to their total funding. This is a case where we cannot give everyone what they want, but we can make sure the schools have what they need. Remember, there is a difference between what we need and what we want.

I know that there has been some concern in the district regarding funding, and I understand that concern. My staff and I met with Sen. Kate Sullivan (chairperson of the Education Committee) this week to go over the state aid numbers for the schools in our district. After talking with her and her staff I think this is a defendable plan.

and operating its third wind energy project in Nebraska. He said that the company's continued investment in our state and our natural resource enhances Nebraska's portfolio of providing renewable energy sources.

Governors are certainly allowed to change their minds. Former Governor Bob Kerrev used to change his mind and stand on major proposals almost daily. So, we'll give Heineman a pass for seeing things differ-ently seven months later. But one has to wonder what's blowing in the wind this time. Is it more than just a matter of "priorities?"

Could it have something to do with the Governor not getting his way on his sweeping tax proposals in January? Or is it just more hot air, the kind that could probably turn a few turbine propellers and light a few more Nebraska homes economically and efficiently. Let's drop the grudges and illuminate the future.

Scammers use lots of tricks to gain peoples' trust. Then they get people to send money through a money transfer service like ours and attempt to STEAL it.

Smart people fall for scams every day. Test your knowledge of money transfer fraud and learn how to protect yourself.

-----A SMOOTH GETAWAY

Your aunt is on vacation abroad and emails you. Someone mugged her and stole her wallet. She urgently needs money to pay her hotel bill and for travel back home and asks you to send it using a money transfer service.

Of the choices below, select the one that's the best choice.

- A. Call her and other family members to confirm she's in trouble.
- B. Email her back and ask for more details.
- C. Check out one of her social networking accounts and see all the great vacation photos and immediately get the money and research how to send it to her.

The Best Answer: A. Call her and other family members to confirm she's in trouble.

Fraudsters play on your emotions of wanting to help a friend or family member in need with the Emergency or Imposter Scam. A key to this scam is the fraudster's ability to establish an extreme sense of urgency, but before you send any money, independently validate the situation-even if the person who contacts you asks you NOT to contact or tell anyone.

In 2011, consumers filed more than 73,000 imposter scam complaints according to the Federal Trade Commission's Consumer Sentinel Network database.

The agents at Copy Write are always on the look out for possible scams.

Claims are made that 22 million new college degrees at the Associate's or above are needed and that nearly 5 million more workers with at least postsecondary certificates will be required.

Situations That Might Give You Pause

Twenty-one of the top 25 occupations with the most job openings do not require a postsecondary degree. A majority of new jobs in the future (more than 70 percent) will be found in occupations that can typically be entered without a four-year college degree or more. Short- to long-term on-the-job training will be valued.

About 5 million college educated individuals are in jobs that do not require even a high school diploma.

Many individuals who do not have a college degree are earning more than college graduates in certain fields.

Not all majors are equal. Choice of major substantially affects employment prospects and earnings. The salary payoff for majors in engineering, technology and the hard sciences is much greater that the social sciences, almost double by mid-career.

Majors that link to occupations and jobs are more likely to result in employment and lower unemployment rates overall. For example healthcare, education, and technical areas have lower unemployment rates and are less affected by economic downturns.

The improved wage payoff for some college majors is not seen until earning the Master's degree. Biology is an example where the earning differential increases substantially when the Master's degree is secured.

Where you get your college degree matters. In some cases, the cost of tuition and loss of salary while attending school will not reap benefits equal to the investment.

College graduation rates average around 53 percent, but differ widely by institution. Where a person at- tion decisions is an intricate dance tends postsecondary education may between personal desires versus affect the individual's completion economic realities. Make informed 10 percent of graduates owing more than $54,000.

What's trending today:

1. Some individuals feel that persons majoring in the hard sciences should be encouraged to complete college degrees through lower tuition rates. Others feel that if you are in a major that will earn more, the tuition should be higher.

2. Massive open online courses are gaining momentum in higher education discussions primarily for the potential of reducing college costs while providing low cost college courses.

3. Discussions are being held by parents, counselors, students, and higher education officials regarding the return on investment (ROI) for attending college, suggesting that the economic outlay may not be a good investment given the economic benefits expected.

4. In the United States, only 44 percent of young people felt that their postsecondary education improved their employment possibilities. For college graduates, the number is 55 percent, not a resounding salute to postsecondary education institutions. While 87 percent of postsecondary education providers felt that they were adequately preparing students for the workforce, only 49 percent of employers agreed - a difference of 38 percent.

Wedding Zabokrtsky-Wohlers united in March 23 rite

Kiley Khea Zabokrtsky and Matthew Scott Wohlers, both of Wayne, were married March 23, 2013 at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

The 5 p.m. ceremony was officiated by Pastor Peter Phillips.

Parents of the bride are Ralph and Vicki Check of Endicott and the late Jeffrey Zabokrtsky. Grandparents of the bride are Margaret Reese and Robert Kotas, both of Fairbury. Parents of the groom are Wayne and Paula Wohlers of Syracuse.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents.

She wore a white strapless gown with embroidered accents down the side of the bodice. The shirring falls from the neckline into the billowing tucked skirt and semi-cathedral train. The crinkle organza material added texture throughout the entire gown. The A- line gown was finished off with a lace up back.

She carried a bouquet of calla lilies which was bound by her grandmother's necklace.

Maids of honor were the bride's sisters, Cody Zabokrtsky and Jenik Zabokrtsky, both of Fairbury. They wore a Chiffon dress with layered skirt. Bridesmaids were Carey Tejkl of Leigh and Wendy Boitnott of Avoca, both sisters of the groom. They wore satin empire ball gowns with illusion halters.

Best man was Casey Schroeder of Wayne, friend of the couple.

Groomsmen were Tucker Tejkl of Denver, Colo., nephew of the groom, Loren Tejkl of Leigh, brother-in-law of the groom and Jason Boitnott of Avoca, brother-in-law of the groom.

Candlelighters were Lindsey Korthals and Brynn Novotny, both of Fairbury and nieces of the bride.

Flowergirl was Bryn Boitnott of Avoca, niece of the groom. Ringbearer was Tristan Korthals of Fairbury, nephew of the bride.

Ushers were Jill Belt of Wayne, friend of the couple and Cally Jo Tejkl of Lincoln, niece of the groom.

Personal attendant was Terri Davis of Wayne, friend of the couple.

- BARBARA

Mr. and Mrs. Wohlers

Organist/pianist Colleen Jeffries accompanied soloist Dr. Mark Mc-Corkindale of Wayne, friend of the couple, as he sang "I Will Be Here' and "The Rose."

Attending the guest book was Molly Schroeder of Wayne, friend of the couple. Handing out programs were Bailey Boitnott of Avoca, niece of the groom and Hailey Schroeder of Wayne, friend of the couple.

A reception, dinner and dance followed immediately at the Wayne Armory. Hostesses were Nancy Gordon of Grand Island, aunt of the bride and Sam Johnson of Endicott, friend of the couple. Cake servers were Marcia Sivley of Bowling Green, Ky., aunt of the bride and Deb Jacobi of Osmond, cousin of the bride.

Photography was by Vicki Check.

The bride is a graduate of Fairbury High School and Wayne State College. She is employed at Providence Medical Center in Wayne in Social Services.

The groom graduated from Syracuse High School and the University of Nebraska. He is an account manager for DuPont Pioneer.

After a honeymoon in the Bahamas, the couple resides in Wayne.

Praise Assembly Church concludes sermon series of Praise Assembly of God in Wayne, subject of "Stewardship" this past Sunday morning.

Rev. Pickering preaches in the Sunday morning service and also presents the Bible Study at the Sunday evening "LifePointe Bible Study and Prayer Service". This past Sunday evening was a prayer meeting, modeled after the May 2 "National Day of Prayer", with materials prepared by Deb Dickey, a member of the music ministry team at Concord Evangelical Free Church.

In his Sunday morning remarks, Rev. Pickering mentioned these important points: God is able to make all grace to abound in our direction; God takes care of each of us. And along the way, the pastor also reminded the listeners that God builds relationships in our lives that cause us to grow.

"There is a story in every life," he said. "And as we interact, God changes us: bit by bit". As he concluded, Pastor Jason left the congre- Study and Prayer Service at 6:30 gation with three principles: 1) Be p.m.

The Rev. Jason Pickering, pastor thankful for all we enjoy (Ephesians 5:20; Romans 8:28), 2) In every circoncluded a series of sermons on the cumstance I can give all things to God (Psalm 23:4), 3) And be diligent to thank God in every circumstance of my life. Why? Because I have talents and abilities to give to God. Even time is something I can give to the Lord. The result of all this? A blessed life.

> Rev. Pickering and the congregation of Praise Assembly, located just east of the new "Angel Acres" subdivision in Wayne invite everyone to attend the congregational gatherings each week.

These include:

– Wednesday evening: "Kidz' Praize" activities for children K-6; and the Adult Bible Study called "Let's Trust the Bible" (6:30-7:40 p.m.);

- Saturday evening "come and go" prayer time: 7-8 p.m.;

Individuals medaling for the Sharp Shooters included: Austin Arens earned top kneeling with a 93, first place with a total of 374, and first place on the test with a 468. James Simpson captured second place with a 369. Hunter Van Houten earned top standing medal with a 92. Andrew Simpson claimed the fourth place medal with a 372. Andrew also earned a medal for scoring a perfect 100 on the test.

The Sharp Shooters BB Gun Team#1, consisting of Austin Arens, Andrew Simpson, James Simpson, Joshua Greunke and Ky Kenny captured the State BB Gun Title with a combined score of 2280 out of 2500 points. Second place went to Kimball County with a 2277 and third went to Grant County with a 2259. The Sharp Shooters also won the Top Team Test score medal. The Sharp Shooters BB Gun team #2, consisting of Connor and Landon Boysen, Cameron Muhs, Sam Perry and Hunter Van Houten finished tenth place out of nineteen teams. "I am really proud of how the Sharp Shooters performed," said Darin Greunke, Leader and Coach. "We had some great shots and some flyers. But our test scores took us over the top in the team race." With the win, the Sharp Shooters have qualified to compete in the Daisy National BB Gun Championship Match to be held in Rogers, Ark. at the end of June. In Air Rifle, both sporter and precision events were conducted on April 14. Sporter Air Rifle consisted of shooting 60 shots for score in three positions, prone, standing, and kneeling. Precision Air Rifle is 40 shots all from the standing position. Precision Air Rifle also allows the use of Olympic Style equipment, jackets, pants, shoes, etc. Medaling for the Sharp Shooters was James Simpson, Second Place, high prone and standing scores in sporter division. The team consisting of Andrew and James Simpson, Ky Kenny and Hunter Van Houten ended the day eighth out of nine teams. "We had a young team this year. We are still learning the ins and outs of air rifle shooting," Greunke said. For more information about the Sharp Shooters 4-H Club or the 4-H Shooting Sports program, contact Darin Greunke, Leader at (402) 286-4895.

Afraid of losing 'the filter'

Finally, a warm, sunny day with no wind! We really appreciate this kind when it's been a long time since the last one. We did feel sorry for the UNL grads on Saturday; they received their diplomas in Hawks Championship Center and that was it! We need to have backup plans in Nebraska when planning outdoor activities.

I've been mulling a question lately: when a person seems to lose her filter, is that an early sign of dementia? By filter, I mean whatever it is in our brains that helps us weigh the social consequences of things we say.

Lately, my friends and I have been noticing that as our parents reached old age, they said things, out loud, in public, that they would not have said when they were vounger. For instance, my friend Kay doesn't like to take her mother shopping anymore because she will spot someone who is overweight and announce, "Look at that fat woman over there!" It's down right embarrassing.

Alice she needed an elevated stool in her bathroom. Apparently, Alice did not feel the need for one, but Mom did!

Eventually, in the last year of her homes; for instance, she kept telling of conversation are literally dying. okay? I'll do the same for you.

Several comments by aides in longterm care facilities indicated that this behavior is common there.

My mother-in-law, who completely lost her memory in her later years, never exhibited dementia and never made remarks that would hurt someone's feelings.

Speaking of memory, one person commented that losing our hearing contributes to memory loss as the brain works so hard to hear that it stops storing memory. That makes an interesting observation.

I think we all fear Alzheimer's. An article in today's paper says that the tangles and plaques that are typical of the disease begin to appear 10 to 20 years before the symptoms we are familiar with. So, is the loss of a "filter" an early warning sign? I don't want to be guilty of saying things that are not socially acceptable. How do we keep from it? The older we get, the more we worry about things like that.

Oh, well, the things I worry about life, she did develop dementia. Does usually don't happen, so I'm going I told her my Mom did the same this mean Kay's mother will, too? to assume that's the case with this, thing in her later years. And she I tried doing some online research also. I'm going to do everything I had no problem telling her friends and found that one expert believes can to keep my filter healthy. If you what they should be doing in their that the cells that govern this kind notice I'm losing it, try to ignore it,

Tractor Safety Training in Concord and tree care topics discussed

We will soon be holding Tractor Safety Training in Concord at the Haskell Ag Lab. The training will take place on Wednesday and Thursday, May 29-30.

Federal law prohibits youth under 16 years of age from working on a farm other than their parents'. Course completion grants an exemption to the law allowing 14and 15-year-olds to drive a tractor and to do field work with mechanized equipment. The most common cause of death in agriculture accidents in Nebraska is overturn from tractors and all-terrain-vehicles (ATV). Tractor and ATV overturn prevention are featured in the class work

Classes consist of two full days of instruction, plus homework assignswer such as water once a week with a certain amount of water. This might be too much on a clay soil or for a red oak tree, but too little on a sandy soil or for a river birch.

As a general recommendation, the Nebraska Forest Service recommends watering trees immediately after planting and again the next day. Then water three days later and again three days after that.

From then on, the key is to monitor the soil around the tree and irrigate as needed. During dry summer spells, balled and burlapped (B&B) trees should be watered about once every seven to ten days if planted in growth

When mulching, use organic mulch like shredded wood. Mulch the tree at least out to the tree's drip-line (ends of the branches). Next to the trunk, keep the mulch only one inch thick. Outward, toward the edge of the root ball or at the tree's drip-line, mulch can be up to three inches deep but no deeper.

Staking should be done on trees that are tall and leggy and in high wind areas. Keep in mind trees are staked to anchor the root ball, not to eliminate movement of the stem or tree canopy (branches and leaves).

The goal is to prevent the root ball from rocking and breaking new clay soils and once a week if plant- roots. When staking, use materials ed in sandy soils. Sprinkler systems that will not rub against the trunk may provide sufficient water un- and create wounds. Do not stake too high on the tree and only stake a tree for one year after planting. If large trees are moved with a tree spade, they may require staking for two years.

ments. Classes are from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. each day. The first day of class will consist of intensive classroom instruction with hands-on demonstrations, concluding with a written test that must be completed satisfactorily before the student may continue driving tests the next day.

Classroom instruction will cover the required elements of the National Safe Tractor and Machinery Operation Program. Homework will be assigned to turn in the next day. The second day will consist of testing, driving and operating machinery. from not enough. This is especially common in heavy clay soils or in over-irrigated lawns. Too much water will suffocate the roots which need oxygen as much as they need water. As a rule, maintain a consistently moist soil 8-12 inches deep and be sure to moisten the soil outside of the root ball. The amount of water and frequency of watering needed to do this depends on the type of tions. There really is no standard an-nursery stock selected, soil texture, species planted, and weather condi-

til the hottest part of the summer. However, during the hottest, driest part of summer, a newly planted tree is likely to require additional water. Container-grown trees will dry out faster than B&B trees. Monitor trees and soil moisture closely.

Mulch protects tree roots from extreme temperatures, eliminates weed and grass competition, conserves soil moisture, and keeps lawn equipment away from tree trunks. However, too much mulch can trap moisture at the base of the trunk and negatively impact root
