County board certifies recall results

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

The Wayne County Commissioners held their first meeting without a District 1 commissioner, certifying last week's recall election results and putting the wheels in motion to find a replacement for ousted commissioner Kelvin Wurdeman.

The county board has not had to replace a commissioner since a 1983 resignation, and County Clerk Deb Finn told the two remaining board members – Jim Rabe and Dean Burbach – that it took about five weeks to appoint a new commissioner.

After certifying the election results, where 370 voted to remove Wurdeman and 77 voted against the recall, the two-man board voted to advertise and accept applications for the position between now and the end of the month. The County Clerk's office will receive the applications, and a three-person committee made up of Finn, County Attorney Mike Pieper and County Treasurer Karen McDonald will take a look at the applications and select an individual who will serve out the remainder of Wurdeman's term, which runs through 2014.

Although the election results were not certified until Tuesday, information about the certification was already on the county's website Monday afternoon, which drew criticism from the sister of the ousted commissioner, Patricia Wurdeman.

"When did you guys have a meeting to determine whether this election could be published on the website? (It said) that the board of commissioners has determined the elective office is now vacant . . . it shouldn't have been on the website until you made the decision."

Finn said that she had given the information to the county's webmaster Monday to be put on the website on Tuesday and was unaware, at the time of the question, why it was on the site. She received an e-mail later in the morning at the meeting that the information was scheduled to be put up Tuesday, but had accidentally been posted prematurely.

"Maybe it shouldn't have been sent to (the webmaster) until the board had made their decision. They should have made the decision to advertise (first), and it was taken out of their hands," Wurdeman said.

"We never made the determination," Rabe said. "The voters did."

Wurdeman also questioned whether or not the Board of Equalization meeting, generally held before the commissioner's meeting, could have been held because she had not seen a legal notice publicizing the meeting.

Finn said publication of that meeting notice had been made in the May 2 edition of The Wayne Herald, and the meeting went on without further disruption.

The board made a change in the employment status of Wayne County Emergency Manager Nic Kennitz, as he will go from part-time to full-time beginning June 1.

Kennitz presented information regarding comp hours he has accrued since being named to the position in late 2009. In the first four months of 2013 alone, the comp time accrued – based on the 15-hour work week the part-time job originally was assigned – has amounted to almost $1,600, and enough comp time is being paid out that it would be worth it for the county to move him to full-time status.

Kennitz said the county could apply for an Emer-

Pantry is 'backpacking' for kids

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

Earlier this spring, Wayne Community Schools and the Wayne Food Pantry coordinated a program in which students were given a free 'backpack' of nutritious food for the weekend.

The hope of organizers is that these food resources will support health, behavior and achievement of every student who is part of the program. Intended to assist those children whose families find it difficult to have enough food for the entire month, all children are eligible for the program.

The overwhelming response has led Food Pantry volunteers to continue the program throughout the summer months.

"We sent fliers home with the students and almost immediately had an interest in this program. We were surprised by the number of students and families taking advantage of the program," said Jenny Hammer, coordinator of the Wayne Food Pantry.

At the present time, approximately 70 students receive food each Friday. A backpack consists of two granola bars, a can of soup, a package of macaroni and cheese, oatmeal, a fruit cup and pudding cup. Organizers estimate the cost of each backpack at $6.80.

"For a number of reasons, the Food Pantry has been busy this year and because of this, and the high number of students who have received backpacks of food, we feel there is a need to continue the backpack program through the summer," Hammer said.

She noted that volunteers Jodi Pulfer, Teri Koenig and Amy Woerdeman have been instrumental in coordinating the program in recent months.

During the summer months, students requesting backpacks of food will need to come to the First Presbyterian Church, located at 216 West Third Street in Wayne, to pick up food.

Volunteers are needed to help put the backpacks together each week. In addition, monetary donations and donations of food are also needed to keep the program running.

"We want this to be a community/ecumenical-based program for everyone in the community and not just a Food Pantry program," Hammer said.

For more information, to make a donation or to volunteer to be a part of the Backpack program, contact First Presbyterian Church at (402) 375-2669 or e-mail fpc-wayne@gmail.com.

Busy Memorial Day at area cemeteries

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

All across the United States, people will take time this weekend to remember and honor those who have served their country in the military, as well as all those who have gone before us and formed this country into what it is today.

In Wayne, the Memorial Day Program will begin at 10 a.m. Monday, May 27 at Veterans Memorial Park in Greenwood Cemetery.

Music for the program will be provided by the Wayne High School Band, under the direction of Brad Weber.

This year's featured speaker will be Fr. Mark Beran, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church. He served as a military chaplain in Iraq.

Involved in the program will be members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, Am-Vets and Sons of the American Legion and their respective auxiliaries.

Following the program, a luncheon will be served at the Wayne Vets Club on Main Street in Wayne. The menu will consist of roast beef, mashed potatoes, gravy, vegetable, fruit salad and homemade pie.

In case of inclement weather, the program will be conducted at Wayne High School.

Flags at the cemetery will be put up Thursday, May 23 beginning at 6 p.m. and taken down on Monday, May 27 at 6 p.m.

The 2013 Memorial Day Program at the St. Anne's Cemetery, one-half mile east of the main street of Dixon, will be held at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, May 26.

The program will include a color guard, and taps. The Veterans from Laurel will assist.

Attendees are encouraged to bring lawn chairs and arrive by 2:15 p.m.

In case of inclement weather, the ceremony will be conducted at St. Anne's Parish Hall in Dixon.

The Concord-Dixon Cemetery Association will be hosting a Memorial Program on Sunday, May 26 at 2:30 p.m. at the Evangelical Free Church in Concord.

Area veterans are invited to attend and are asked to enter together at the beginning of the program. Laurel Vets Post Color Guard and Taps will follow at the cemetery at 3:15 p.m.

The Allen Memorial Day Program will be held on Memorial Day, May 27 at the East View Cemetery at 10:15 a.m. In case of inclement weather, ceremonies will be in commons at the Allen School.

Services will be sponsored by the Floyd Gleason Post 131 of the American Legion and Auxiliary of Allen.

In Carroll, members of the veterans' organizations will conduct a ceremony at Bethany Cemetery west of Carroll at 9 a.m. on Monday, May 27 and then move to the Carroll Auditorium for this year's Memorial Day program.

This year's guest speaker will be retired Judge Robert Ensz.

Following the program at the auditorium, services will conclude at Elmwood Cemetery at Carroll.

The American Legion and Legion Auxiliary are organizing this year's service.

The United Methodist Church will sponsor a Memorial Day dinner at the church following the program.

The Memorial Day observance at Laurel will take place Monday, May 27 at 10 a.m. at the Laurel-Concord new auditorium.

Fran Crowe will be this year's speaker during the program.

The Rev. Dennis Hett will give the benediction at the program and will the Rev. William Engebretsen provide the invocation at the school and a prayer at the service at the Laurel Cemetery following the program.

Patriotic musical selections will be provided by the Marian Mallatt Singers.

In Winside, the Memorial Day program begins at 10:15 a.m. at the Winside Audi-

Triplets going their separate ways after graduating from LCC

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

For some couples, Valentine's Day calls for the traditional triumvirate of a dozen roses, a box of chocolates and a romantic candlelight dinner.

Dave and Robin Camenzind received a rather unusual triple play 18 years ago, and recently experienced the pleasure of watching their triplet daughters – Lexi, Cassie and Sammie – walk down the aisle and receive their high school diplomas from Laurel-Concord/Coleridge High School.

Already the parents of three children and wanting another, the Camenzinds were having difficulty conceiving a fourth child and decided to go the in vitro fertilization route. A month later, they discovered they were about to double the head count in their home with triplet daughters.

"It changed everything," Robin Camenzind said with a smile. "It was overwhelming for us. We had to remodel a house, and

Two-time defending state champion Mitchell Klooz of LCC finished third, coming up two shots short in his bid for a three-peat.

LINCOLN – The Laurel-Concord/Coleridge team tried to hang on to a lead, while their leader tried to mount a late comeback Wednesday afternoon.

In the end, neither the Bears nor two-time defending state medalist Mitchell Klooz were able to come out on top, as both finished third to close out the 2013 Class C Nebraska State Golf Championships at Highlands Golf Course.

Klooz, who was gunning for a rare third state title in boys golf, had a rough outing on Tuesday, but mounted a late comeback to get within two shots of eventual champion, close friend and former Plainview teammate, Sam Meuret, who finished with an even-par 144 over the two-day meet.

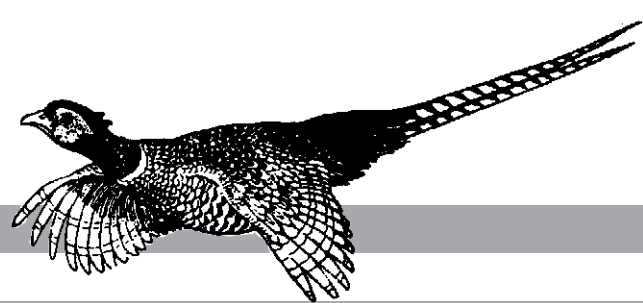

The Bears were leading a very tight team race going into the final nine, but could not hold off eventual champion Gibbon or late-charging Hastings St. Cecilia, who edged the Bears out by five shots for the runner-up trophy.

Still, coach Scott Petersen was happy with

Sharon Biggerstaff

Sharon K. Biggerstaff, 66, of Emerson, died on Friday, May 17, 2013, at the Pender Community Hospital in Pender.

Services were held Tuesday, May 21 at St. Luke's Lutheran Church in Emerson; Vicar Kaila Hochhalter officiated.

Sharon K. Biggerstaff was born Sept. 4, 1946, the daughter of Art and Doris (Schindler) Geise. She attended and graduated from Emerson High School. Sharon worked at the Emerson Cafe and grocery store for many years and most recently for CVA in Emerson. She retired in 2012. After retirement, Sharon volunteered at her church and the Emerson New To You Store. Sharon enjoyed spending time with her family, attending the activities of her grandchildren, visiting with and going to events with her close friends, bus trips and working in her flower and vegetable gardens. She was a long-time member of St. Luke's Lutheran Church and the Emerson American Legion.

Survivors include her children: Lonnie (Lisa) Biggerstaff of rural Wakefield, Kimberly (Dan McRae) Satterwhite of Emerson and grandchildren, Aaron Satterwhite, Brooke Satterwhite, Wyatt Biggerstaff, Nicole McRae and Sidney Biggerstaff; an aunt, Sally Stimson, and her beloved cat, "Max."

She was preceded in death by her parents, one uncle, one aunt and a step-brother.

Memorials are suggested to the family.

Burial was in the Rose Hill Cemetery in Emerson. Munderloh - Smith Funeral Home of Emerson was in charge of the arrangements.

Volunteers needed in all areas

Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity begins fourth build Habitat for Humanity's vision is a world where everyone deserves decent affordable housing.

The Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity has been in existence for a little over 10 years. In that time, the local group has been able to build homes for three area families, and the group is beginning its fourth build.

"We have a variety of ways that community members can become engaged with Habitat - no tool belt needed. Join your Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity efforts to make home ownership a reality for deserving families. We have volunteer opportunities on and off the construction site for individuals, groups and businesses," Don Buryanek, a long-time member of the Wayne Habitat for Humanity group, said.

The fourth home/build site is located at 117 South Lincoln Street, two blocks west of Godfathers and one-half block south. The basement has been excavated, footings are in and insulated concrete form walls are in the process of being placed.

"The group is anxious to finish the basement walls and get the floor and walls in place. It's tough to see anything from the street if most of your progress is in the basement," Buryanek said.

A part of this build that is different from previous builds is that Wayne State College construction students, under the direction of Gary French and Dr. Kevin Miller, have already assembled all the first floor walls. The walls are currently stored in a shed until the floor is completed.

WSC students also helped with the forming and pouring of the footings. The plan was for students to place and pour the insulated concrete form walls and construct the floor and then place the walls. A combination of poor weather and late delivery of the styrofoam forms put the project four weeks behind schedule.

The group is now dependent on local volunteers to get us caught up and to finish.

"Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity has always relied on generous contributions of time and money from local individuals and groups and businesses. If you, your group or business would like to be a part of this build or even sponsor a build day, your help would be appreciated," Buryanek said.

Habitat is currently looking for individuals or groups to assist with the construction of the house, to provide lunches for workers and to assist with worksite cleanup. Any group or individual who would like more information, a presentation or wish to lend a hand, hammer or provide monetary assistance, please contact Don Buryanek at 403-369-0546, Kevin Miller at 308-207-5232 or Ann Witkowski at 402-375-0223.

Anyone curious about the progress of the project is encouraged to drive by the site at 117 South Lincoln Street. The next work day is Saturday, May 25, beginning at 8:30 a.m. Scheduled tasks are the completion of insulated concrete form walls and placement of bracing and scaffolding. There is a place for everyone in Habitat. No skill is too small - all are valuable.

Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity does have some basic safety requirements. On-site workers must wear safety goggles and hard hats, which will be provided. It is recommended that you wear hard-soled shoes and long pants on the job site. There is a short required safety presentation that must be viewed by each on-site worker and a liability waiver form must be filled out. Volunteers between ages 14 and 15 may not be present in the construction site but may help with cleaning, landscaping and painting under direct supervision.

Construction has begun on the fourth home being built in Wayne by the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity group.

Providence Physical Therapy Hosts seventh annual BikeFest

BikeFest 2013 was held May 20 at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. The goal of this event is to foster a safe riding experience for children and adults.

A total of 50 participants of all ages attended BikeFest.

"Despite our strange weather, we had a good turnout. Parents appreciated our help getting their kids ready for the 2013 biking season," said coordinator of the event Jean Harrold-Loberg, PT.

Physical therapists from Providence Physical Therapy completed bike fit assessments. The therapists recommended and adjusted proper bicycle seat height and helmet fit. Mark Evetovich, an avid bicyclist, performed minor bike adjustments and checked brakes and tire pressure.

Marlin Chinn and Lee Wrede with the Wayne Police Department performed bike licensing. Jared Heinen, physical therapy aide, and Grant Rutledge, a student physical therapist from UNMC, conducted bike rides on the Wayne Bike Trail and reviewed hand signals and bike safety. Britt Hermsen and Kim Ourada of the Wayne State College Bicycle Club distributed nutritious snacks donated by Pac 'N' Save and Quality Foods.

Janelle Pickering was the winner of the new bike donated by Providence Physical Therapy. Other prizes that were given away throughout the event included helmets and cycling-related prizes.

Anyone who was unable to attend BikeFest this year may contact the physical therapists at Providence Physical Therapy (402-375-7937) for bike or helmet adjustments.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

City Council Meetings

Regular City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in city hall at Third and Pearl Streets.

Decisions Have Consequences

Wayne Power Plant: Wayne built its first power plant in 1898. Since then, mayors and council members have made many choices about expansion and upgrades.

In 1997, Wayne Mayor Sheryl Lindau, council members and Gene Hansen and crew completed the most recent expansion of the power plant to a capacity of 20 megawatts. Wayne's highest peak load on the hottest day has been about 15 megawatts.

Why does this matter? Since 2008, the power industry in our area has changed dramatically. New wind generation and new power plants in the Midwest and Nebraska's new membership in a regional transmission system are creating a surplus of power available to northeast Nebraska. Wayne is under contract with NPPD for 10 more years but with our large and modern power plant, we will have the choice to contract for another 25 years with NPPD or shop around and buy only the energy we need each day from lower cost regional power sources and use our power plant for emergency outages.

These new developments have the potential for 20 percent or more annual savings in our cost of purchased power over time. We will be looking at new power purchase options in the next few months for mayor and council consideration.

Vacancy on the City Council

Council member Dale Alexander has resigned because of conflicts with his job, effective May 31, creating a vacancy on the city council in Ward 2, the northeast part of Wayne.

The mayor and council will give notice of that vacancy in June and residents of that Ward should contact Mayor Chamberlain to be considered for appointment to fill the vacancy. A map of the city council wards is available on the city website at www.wayne.org under the links government and city council.

Council keeps busy agenda

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

Several items were tabled and others voted down at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Council members first listened to a presentation from Pat Pope, CEO of Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) regarding contract negotiations between NPPD and the city of Wayne.

Pope explained that more than two years ago, NPPD decided to "take a look at where the future of energy is going and plot a course that is best for our customers." He explained how NPPD obtained information from its customers on their needs.

He also discussed what steps had been taken in recent years and those that planned in the near future.

He also told the council that NPPD is asking wholesale customers to sign a new 25-year contracts to show a guaranteed future revenue source to secure the best interest rate possible.

The city of Wayne currently has 10 years left on the current 20-year contract with NPPD and will explore other options before entering into any contract.

Acting as the Community Development Agency, council members voted against granting $97,000 in TIF funding to developers of property on west Highway 35.

Matt Ley, representing Wayne Main Street, told the council the group "does not want TIF money used to move a business from downtown Wayne. The business will most likely move anyway and our group does not feel this is the best use of TIF money."

The owners of the property had requested TIF funding to assist with the cost of site preparation, water, sewer and paving installation. A new retail building is scheduled to be constructed at the site, located directly north of Pac 'N' Save.

The council also voted down an ordinance which would amend the city code to allow poultry in the city of Wayne.

Council members Jon Haase, Jennifer Sievers, Rod Greve and Dale Alexander voted against the ordinance and council members Nick Muir, Jill Brodersen and Cale Giese voted for.

Council members tabled an ordinance that would allow for stop signs to be placed at the intersections of Fairacres Road and Sherman Street and Westwood Road and Sherman Street. The item will be brought before council for further discussion at the next meeting.

Also tabled was a vote on a resolution that would amend the city's housing construction loan incentives for builders in the community.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, June 4 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

School board holds special meeting

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

Bids for several projects, as well as that for new text books for the science department at Wayne Community Schools were approved during a special meeting of the board on Monday.

A bid of $58,961 from McGill Asbestos was approved for the removal of asbestos from the former elementary school building.

It is anticipated that the work will begin sometime in June and completed by mid-July.

A bid of $37,570 from Protex Central was also approved at the meeting.

The bid is for security cameras for both the elementary school and the junior-senior high school, as well as the technology center.

Discussion centered on the location of the cameras and the advantages of the cameras in question.

Funding for the purchase will come from the school's building fund.

New science text books will be used by students in grades three through 12 next year following the approval of a bid of $77,044.59 from Houghton Mifflin Harcourt.

School personnel noted that the series offers a number of additional features which will make for easier upgrades in future years and were pleased with the selection process.

The Wayne Community Schools' Board of Education will next meet in regular session on Monday, June 10 at 5 p.m. at the Junior-Senior High School Library.

Honored educator

Rita Keller (right), who retired in 2011 after 35 years in the field of education, was recognized by the Wayne Kiwanis Club as the recipient of 2013 Retired Educator Award. Making the presentation was Clara Osten, Wayne Kiwanis Club president.

The Winside School Band, under the direction of Kathy Hansen will provide music, as will the Winside School choir, under the direction of LeNell Quinn.

Following the program at the Auditorium, the group will process to Pleasantview Cemetery for the decoration of grave, a prayer, salute and the playing of Taps.

Prior to the service, Winside Legion members will be visiting area cemeteries, including Theopolis Cemetery, Immanuel Cemetery, Swedish Cemetery, Zion Cemetery, Trinity Cemetery, Hoskins Community Cemetery and Spring Branch (Peace Church) Cemetery.

The American Legion Auxiliary will host a Memorial Day dinner at the Legion Post in Winside following the program at Pleasantview Cemetery.

Wakefield's Memorial Day program is slated to begin at 2 p.m. on Monday, May 27 at the Wakefield Cemetery. In the event of inclement weather, the event will be held at the Legion Hall in Wakefield.

Captain Debra Bodenstedt, US Navy, Retired, will be this year's featured speaker.

Bodenstedt was born and raised in Wayne and graduated from Wayne High School. She joined the military in 1982 and spent 28 years in the military.

Those attending the program are encouraged to bring their own lawn chairs.

A freewill offering lunch will be served following the program at the Wakefield Legion Hall.

Flags will be put up at the cemetery by members of the Legion and Auxiliary beginning at 6 p.m. on Friday, May 24.

At a full-time salary of $40,870, based on a 37.5-hour work week, the county would receive enough from the grant that the additional cost to the county would amount to $380.

In other action, the board:

- appointed Terry Sievers as the interim road foreman for District 1.
- appointed Doug Deck of Hoskins as the county's noxious weed superintendent.

- appointed Dan Jaeger to fill out the unexpired term of Virgil Rolf on the Veterans Service Committee, which runs through 2016; and reappointed Eldon Thies to another five-year term on the committee.

- reappointed Georgia Janssen and Marie Janke to four-year terms on the Lodging Tax Committee.

- approved a federal fund purchase program supplement to the federal aid transportation fund purchase sale agreement.

- approved an application from the City of Wayne to place a sewer line in the county road right of way along Chief's Way.

- took no action on a proposed interlocal agreement with the Village of Winside for removal of a building in the city park, pending research on other interlocal agreements with villages in the county pertaining to liability issues.

- awarded the county courthouse cleaning services bid to Tiffany Guenther of the Osmond-based Clean To A T service company.

the way his team played in some cool and windy conditions on the wide-open track at Highlands.

"We're a little disappointed, but all in all we've had a great year and I'm really proud of the kids and how far they've come," he said. "With the addition of Mitchell to the lineup, we thought we could come down here and contend, and I think we did."

The Bears were within one shot of the lead after the first day of competition, but didn't hold up as well on the back nine on the second day. Klooz had the low round of the tournament on the second day, but it wasn't enough for the Bears to hang on to one of the trophy positions in the 15-team race.

"I think our inexperience may have to go us, but it took an unbelievable round by Hastings St. Cecilia to take us out of second place," Petersen said.

The Bears improved by one shot over the first day with a 328, but St. Cecilia knocked 26 shots off their first-day score to sneak in for second place and finish one shot behind the eventual champion Buffaloes, who led after the first day and maintained that lead.

Klooz had a rough first day, as his short game betrayed him on the way to a 4-over par 76. He came back strong on Wednesday, though, and cut an eight-shot deficit to his former teammate down to two before he ran out of gas.

"The first day, I putted really bad and didn't get it going, but I was hitting the ball really well today and only missed one fairway and one green," Klooz said. "I got a couple of putts to go, but left some others out there, and hats off to Sam because he played well both days and he deserves it."

Jamy McCoy came close to a top 15-medal finish, but faded late to finish the 36-hole tournament with a 164, three strokes short of a medal. Nate Granquist finished with a 172, Nathan Schmitt had a 183 and Brendan Groene carded a 184.

"Those four have been very consistent for us all year long, so their scores were about what we were expecting and when somebody had a bad round, there was somebody there to pick things up," Petersen said.

Klooz, McCoy and Groene will return to the Bears lineup next season, and Petersen said the LCC team should have a solid foundation to build on for the 2014 season.

Triplets

we already had three kids in the house."

The three sisters were all born on Feb. 14, 1995, and stayed in the hospital until the end of March. The doctor sent one home every other day for a week, Camenzind said, "so it wouldn't overwhelm us."

During their time in the hospital, Camenzind said the nurses and doctors watched the three girls in their early development and kept notes on what they saw in her girls. Looking back, she said, it was amazing how what they saw actually came true.

"They said that Cassie would be the dramatic one, Lexi would be easy-going and Sammie would be athletic, and that's kind of how it's turned out," she said.

The trio said growing up as one of a threesome was never a big deal for them, and they never lacked for somebody to play with.

"Some kids don't have a sibling to play with them, or have an older or younger sibling that they can't relate to, but we've always had each other," Lexi said.

"I thought it was a lot of fun, because we've always been best friends and can always count on each other and relate with each other," Cassie added.

Growing up as a triplet meant having three of everything for the girls, which mom and dad didn't have a problem with – until they became old enough to drive.

"We had to share a car at first," Sammie said, "but eventually, mom and dad had to get each of us one because we weren't all in the same activities."

"And there were three prom dresses and three graduation cakes," their mom added.

While all three girls were involved in just about every club and organization at the school, all three had different interests when it came to sports. Lexi played volleyball, Sammie played basketball and ran cross country and track, while Cassie plays softball for Ponca's town team and is involved in tumbling.

"There were a few clubs where we weren't all involved, but pretty much about every club we were involved in," Lexi said.

That created some challenges for mom and dad, who wanted to be there to support all the girls' activities.

"Sometimes, when Lexi was in volleyball and I was in cross country, there would be a game and a meet the same night in different places, so one parent would have to go watch one of us and the other came to see the other one," Sammie said.

While all three of them have a variety of different interests, they do have several similarities. All three love bright colors, country music (the name Kenny Chesney induced quick smiles on all three faces) and a variety of popular TV shows like "Criminal Minds," "Duck Dynasty" and "The Voice."

All three have chosen health-related fields for the careers as well, somewhat following in the footsteps of their mom – a nurse – and their dad – a veterinarian.

However, the three sisters will not be going to the same college. In fact, each Camenzind daughter has chosen their own school to begin their career paths. Lexi will study exercise science and physical therapy at Wayne State College, Cassie is going into nursing at Briar Cliff University in Sioux City, while Sammie is beginning work on her occupational therapy degree at Southeast Community College in Lincoln before transferring to a four-year school.

Going their separate ways for the first time will definitely be something all three daughters – and their parents – will have to get used to.

"It's going to be tough trying to get everybody moved and spend equal time with them," their mom said.

"I think it will probably bring us closer together," Lexi said. "When we get back together for the holidays, it will be different, but I think we'll be closer."

It's a rather unique way to celebrate Valentine's Day for the Camenzinds, but Robin said she wouldn't have it any other way with her triplets.

"They've always shared in everything, and it's been interesting watching them grow up," she said. "It's been interesting, but it's been fun."

Anderson claims Class B gold

Wayne high jumper gets school's first title since '03

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

OMAHA – It wasn't the finish Grant Anderson was hoping for, but it's one he has grudgingly accepted.

The Wayne High senior became the first Blue Devil since 2003 to earn a gold medal at the Nebraska State Track and Field Championships, claiming top honors in the Class B boys high jump Friday afternoon at Burke Stadium.

But it was the final result in the event that left Anderson disappointed, as he had to beat Tyler Ross of Milford in a jump-off to win the title at 6 feet, 6 inches, well short of where he was hoping he would finish at day's end.

"I really wanted (the all-class gold medal), but I'm just too competitive, and right now I'm just disappointed," he said. "I always wanted to be a state champion and thought it might be in basketball, but this is all right. I'm sitting here complaining about winning a state championship, and I should be happy with what I've got."

Late last month, Anderson became the only high jumper in the state this spring to crack the 7-foot mark, setting the standard while winning the Mid State Conference title in Madison. He was hoping to do that again and beat the winning Class A jump of 6 feet, 10 inches, to claim the all-class gold medal.

"I really wanted that all-class gold, but I need to remember this is my first year and things will probably be all right tomorrow," he said. "I think I just wanted it too bad and just didn't flow over the bar like I usually do."

Anderson was one of four competitors still left with the bar at 6 feet, 6 inches, and he and Ross both cleared the bar on their second attempts, leaving them as the last two jumpers left when the bar was moved up to 6 feet, 7 inches.

After both competitors missed on their three attempts, a check of the previous jumps found that both had identical misses at the same height, which put the two in a jump-off situation. Both competitors missed on a fourth attempt at 6-7, and the bar was moved down an inch for another round of jumps. Ross missed his attempt at 6-6, and Anderson easily sailed over the bar to earn the gold medal.

Anderson said he was nervous at the start of the day but was more concerned about his consistency in attacking the bar.

"I always vomit before about every athletic event, but after that Wayne High senior high jumper Grant Anderson had to go to a jump-off before claiming the Class B state title Friday afternoon. The University of Nebraska recruit cleared the bar at 6 feet, 6 inches, to earn Wayne's first gold medal since 2003.

Things that were seen at State Track

Things I saw, and thought I saw, while dealing with professionally-frustrated Omaha Public Schools employees, cleverly disguised as NSAA state track meet gatekeepers, at the state track meet:

– Many of the athletes who earn medals at the state track meet do so using a healthy dose of talent, a window of opportunity and an ability to rise to the occasion in front of thousands of people from around the state.

Then there are athletes like Wakefield junior Josh Dolph, who used all of that and a rather sizable dose of heart and determination, to come away with a medal and run his personal best in the Class C boys 800-meter run Saturday morning.

Did I forget to mention the kid pulled it off with only one healthy leg?

The red-headed runner's left ankle and he have not been on speaking terms for more than a year, and while he'd also like to contribute in other distance events for the Trojans, he and the ankle seem to have a rather uneasy agreement – he can run 800 meters a day, and that's it.

This was Dolph's third trip to state, and he said he didn't run that well his first two times in Omaha. On Saturday, the ankle held off long enough for him to record a personal-best time of 2:00.38 to finish fourth and, more important, give that ankle a well-deserved break. He was scheduled to have surgery on the ankle this week and will be in rehab this summer with the goal of being ready to go for next football season.

And, with a little luck, maybe the ankle will hold up for 1,600 and 3,200-meter races next year.

– Grant Anderson doesn't like to lose.

To anybody.

At anything.

So it was a little funny to interview the Wayne High senior moments after winning a jump-off to claim the Class B state high jump title. Judging by the way he was responding to questions, in the aftermath of the competition, you'd have thought somebody had won the pink slip to his car in a poker game.

Anderson had the only 7-foot high jump in the state, pulling off the feat at the Mid State Conference meet in Madison late last month. He was hoping to better the 6-foot-10 mark set by the Class A state champion earlier in the day Friday, which would have given him Wayne's first-ever all-class gold medal.

Unfortunately, he didn't jump as well as he has for much of the season. He was one of two jumpers remaining at 6-foot-7 and nearly had it on the second attempt before his feet clipped the bar. He missed a third attempt – and a fourth in the jump-off with Tyler Ross of Milford – but won the Class B gold medal after the bar was moved down to 6-foot-6.

The fact that he finished his senior year as a state champion started to seep into his mind, though, and he had a funny comment about this disappointment in not going higher.

"I'm sitting here complaining about winning a state championship, and I should be happy with what I've got," he said.

Time heals all wounds, Grant, and I'm sure the realization that you going down in history as one of Wayne High's state track and field champions is something you'll always take a tremendous amount of pride in. Congratulations and best of luck jumping at Nebraska.

– Speaking of time healing wounds, I thought one of the neat area stories at this year's track meet was the effort of another Blue Devil high jumper, Ashton Schweers.

Last year, she came down to Omaha and performed fairly well for a first-timer, and there was a lot of optimism coming into the start of this school year that she was going to be one of Wayne High's athletes to watch.

Ellie Arduser of Laurel-Concord/Coleridge was the only area athlete to earn three medals. She earned a fifth in the 200-meter dash (pictured) and was on two scoring relays.

Arduser bags three for Bears

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

OMAHA – It was a weekend of firsts for several area high school track and field standouts at the Nebraska State Track and Field Championships.

Six of the eight area athletes who earned medals were first-time award winners this past weekend at Burke Stadium, and one of them got three for the price of one at this year's state meet.

Laurel-Concord/Coleridge sophomore Ellie Arduser brought home a trio of medals from this year's track and field finale. She got one for herself with a fifth-place finish in the 200-meter dash finals and joined fellow first-timer Cameron Eddie and repeat medalists Kelsey Dietrich and Sammie Camenzind for medal-winning efforts in the 400 and 1,600-meter relays.

Arduser could have been a contender for a fourth medal as well, but a false start in the 100-meter prelims on Friday negated that opportunity.

"I was just really nervous coming into that race and really wanted to go, but I moved a little," Arduser said after completing her day Saturday. "I just used that anger to get me going in the 200."

Arduser bounced back nicely from the 100-meter miscue, easily winning her heat and taking the third fastest time into Saturday's final.

"I was just really nervous coming in, but I wanted to get on that curve as fast as I could, and it was really exciting," she said.

And as exciting as that was, she and her relay teammates were thrilled with the effort they put out in their two relay races on Saturday.

Both efforts were season bests for the foursome, with the 400-meter relay notching a fifth-place finish at 51.55 seconds and the 1,600-meter relay coming out of the slow heat to nail down a third-place effort with a time of 4:10.12.

The 400-meter relay edged out Archbishop Bergan in the first section of the race Saturday morning, and the final outcome for the last four spots in the top eight were as close as you could get, with only four-hundredths of a second separating fifth from eighth.

The 1,600-meter relay effort was dominant in the slower section of the final race of the day, as they won their heat by more than five seconds. That time was just two-hundredths of a second behind the runner-up team from Crofton, which finished almost five seconds

Wayne native leads talented WSC throwers into Div. II national meet

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

When Carly Fehringer was looking at where she wanted to go to college, Wayne State was not where she thought she would wind up.

After a stellar high school career at Wayne High School, the daughter of Dan and Shelly Fehringer was hoping to strike out on her own, either as a softball player or a track and field athlete, at a school away from home.

Fortunately – for both her and the school – she found that the best opportunity for her to excel and succeed in college, and in sports, was right in her back yard. And now, she has a chance to become a national champion.

The Wayne State junior carries the second-best mark in the women's hammer throw into this week's NCAA Div. II Track and Field Championships in Pueblo, Colo. She'll go for the gold on Thursday afternoon and will be one of four Wildcats with a chance to compete for the national title in that event.

Fortunately for head coach Marlon Brink, it was a connection Fehringer made with Wayne State's only female NCAA national champion, Katie Wilson, that helped the school get the local standout, who was a state medalist in the shot put and an All-State softball player during her athletic career at Wayne High School.

"Katie was probably as big an influence on Carly coming to Wayne State as any of our coaches were," Brink said. "Katie was a national champion, and she told her that this was a great school, and that was probably one of the bigger impacts on helping us get Carly to come here."

Fehringer said she was looking at schools like Concordia University in Seward, among others away from home, and was trying to decide whether to compete in softball or track and field.

"I wanted to get away from home, but they have a great program here and it keeps getting better, and I'm glad I chose Wayne State," she said.

And what a quality decision it has been.

Fehringer has quickly taken to the hammer throw, an event she didn't have to choose from in high school, and has quickly established herself as the Northern Sun Conference's most dominant thrower, as well as one of the nation's best.

She has qualified for nationals five times in indoor and outdoor competition, earning All-American honors indoors earlier this year with a third-place finish in the weight throw.

This year, she has been simply amazing in the hammer throw. Her throw of 206 feet, 11 inches earlier this season shattered the school record, and she became the first woman in Northern Sun Conference history to surpass 200 feet in the conference meet, winning this

Laurel-Concord/Coleridge was among seven teams who are within 11 shots of the lead after the first day of competition Tuesday at Highlands Golf Course. The Bears shot a 329 and trailed only Gibbon (328) in the 15-team race heading into Wednesday's second day (see front page for details).

Mitchell Klooz tried to help this putt home on No. 18, but the ball curled just to the right of the lip of the cup, ending his day with a par for a 4-over 76. He was eight shots off the pace heading into the second day as he was trying for his third straight Class C state individual title.

"It looks like we're where we were hoping to be," coach Scott Petersen said after Tuesday's opening round. "We wanted to put ourselves in position to contend on Wednesday, and we did that."

And they did it with a rather interesting combination of four first-time qualifiers and a two-time defending state individual champion.

"We have four first-time qualifiers on the team, and they've handled the circumstances pretty well," he said.

And while the first-timers played fairly well, two-time defending champion Mitchell Klooz had his troubles with the putter early on, which led to an opening-round 76 that put him eight shots behind Sam Meuret of Plainview in Klooz's quest for a third straight state title.

"Mitch wasn't as sharp around the greens and on the green today, but when he gets hot he can get a lot of birdies, so I'm not ready to count him out just yet," Petersen said.

Jamy McCoy is one of five golfers who are tied for 13th after the first day of competition, finishing with a nice round of 80.

"He's played very consistent for us this year and has a great short game and hits the ball straight," Petersen said. "He knows how to get the job done out there."

The Bears also got some nice rounds of golf from Brendan Groene (86) and Nathaniel Granquist (87), while Nathan Schmit rounded out the day for LCC with a 94.

David City was three shots behind the Bears in third place with a 332, followed by Hartington Cedar Catholic at 333 and three teams - Hastings St. Cecilia, Elgin Public/Pope John and Valentine - are tied for fifth at 339, which means the team title was up for grabs heading into the final day of competition.

"It's wide open," Petersen said. "There are four or five teams who are capable of winning it, and we're one of them."

Things

Early in volleyball season, though, she went up for a spike and came down awkward, blowing out her knee. Repairing and recovering from a torn ACL is not a short-term gig, and there was a feeling we wouldn't see her back in a Wayne uniform until next fall.

Ashton would have none of that negative discussion about her athletic resume, however - she worked very hard in rehabilitation and was able to get back in time for track season. And not only did she come back faster than some had anticipated, she came back even better than she did last year.

That she was able to get back to Omaha eight months after a rather significant knee injury was impressive, especially coming into state with the fourth-best district effort that made her a contender for a medal.

There was no medal this time, but it was a medal-worthy effort to bounce back the way she did, one that I was particularly impressed with.

- Hell hath no fury like an irate sprinter.

When LCC's Ellie Arduser false-started in the Class C 100-meter dash preliminaries Friday afternoon, I got a close-up look at the disappointment and frustration on her face as she walked by me inside the track area. I'm not sure if she was mad at the starter keeping the runners in the blocks for so long or was mad at herself for the little hitch she had right before the gun, but she was certainly not happy with somebody.

In between her 100 and 200 prelims, I ran into her coach, Nate Sims, and he said he hoped she responded the way she had earlier in the season when she felt she had been wrongly denied a first-place medal in the 100 at an area meet. Mad as she was, she came back to dominate the 200 and left no doubt who the best sprinter in the meet was that day.

That's pretty much what she did - she blew away the rest of her heat in the 200 preliminaries Friday and took the third-fastest time into the finals, then came back and earned a fifth-place medal on Saturday.

It was part of a solid three-medal day for the Lady Bear sophomore, as she was joined by Sammy Camenzind, Kelsey Dietrich and Cameron Eddie on the medal-winning relay teams that came through with season-best, medal-worthy efforts.

Whatever you do, though, don't ask her why she didn't get four. The look she gives off when she's mad is lethal.

- Part of the fun for athletes during the state track meet is some of the team-oriented activities that take place, whether it's at the team hotel or in one of the chain restaurants in and around the Omaha area.

Coaches sometimes find out things about their student-athletes that they may not have been aware of, particularly with the kids' ability to do such things as, say, eat.

Winside jumps coach Lee Koch noted that his senior high jumper, Nazya Thies, can go pound-for-pound with the big boys at the dining room table. During a trip to Perkins in Omaha, she knocked back three large pancakes, a huge omelet and a large bowl of ice cream with chocolate chip cookies. With her rather slim frame, the coaches are still trying to figure out exactly where she hid all that food.

I think I just gained three pounds typing that last paragraph.

- Two out of three ain't bad for Allen's Rachel Finnegan.

Prior to the finals of the Class D girls 400-meter dash, there were three things she said she's never done before: break the school's 400-meter record, win a state medal and do a post-race interview with the local media.

Finnegan earned a sixth-place medal in the race and handled the post-race interview, although she admitted before the interview that she'd never been interviewed by a newspaper reporter before. Suffice to say, she did a fantastic job, and she's got two more years to improve her personal-best time and handle those post-race questions from the press.

Now, Rachel, about that school record...

And now, to quote Alice Cooper - school's out for the summer. And so am I...

Wayne Ponies 2-0 in Pender tourney

The Wayne Ponies came away with a 2-0 finish in pool play during a tournament in Pender over the weekend.

In the first game, Wayne won a thriller over Arlington 3-2 in seven innings. Tristan Miller had the game-winning hit in extra innings, driving home Tucker Nichols from third with a base hit to get the win. Beau Bowers was 2-for-3 with a double and an RBI to lead the offensive effort. Ryan Jaixen got the win in relief on the mound, while Adam Bentjen pitched well in a starting role.

In their second game, Wayne took care of Emerson with a 17-5 victory. Wayne scored 11 runs in the first inning and cruised to the easy win. Bowers was 3-for-4 and had a double, triple and four RBIs in the win. Justin Dean and Tyler Lutt each had two hits, Brennan O'Reilly added a triple, and Jaixen had a hit. Hunter Jorgensen got the win on the mound.

Wayne's championship game against Howells-Dodge was rained out but will be made up on Friday.

(Photos by Michael Carnes) (clockwise from top left) LCC's Sadie Petersen medaled in the Class C girls 3,200-meter run. Cameron Eddie ran the lead leg on the Lady Bears' 400-meter relay team. Josh Dolph of Wakefield gutted out a fourth-place finish in the 800-meter run, while teammate Anthony Gustafson tied for sixth in the high jump. LCC's Sammie Camenzind led off the Lady Bears' third-place finish in the 1,600-meter relay, and Allen sophomore Rachel Finnegan came away with a seventh-place medal in the Class D 400-meter dash.

12-under Devils win big

The Wayne Dirt Devils 12-under team kicked off the season Monday with an easy win over Bancroft, scoring a 12-0 decision in three innings.

Tori Kniesche threw a no-hitter for the Devils, striking out five and walking three to get the win in the circle.

Offensively, Annie Kniesche was

3-for-3 at the plate, while Tori Kniesche, Sidney Biggerstaff, Abby Ankeny and Meghan Battles each had two hits.

Arduser

behind the championship team from Fillmore Central.

"We just ran awesome today," Arduser said of the relays' efforts. "We got a personal best in both relays, so we were really happy to get that today."

Those efforts, coupled with a medal-winning performance in the 3,200 by Sadie Petersen, put the Lady Bears in 11th place in the final Class C team standings. Their 17 points finished seven points out of the top 10, with Kearney Catholic dominating the field with 100 points to take the team title.

Petersen, in her second trip to state, ran a solid race in the heat on Friday afternoon. She was in among a group of runners who trailed four-time champion Marissa DeWispelare of David City Aquinas and came home with a sixth-place finish in a time of 12:12.01.

"It was definitely easier," Petersen said of the difference between this year and last year's first time at state. "The nerves were still there, but it wasn't as bad as it was last year. I felt really good out there today, and I tried not to get boxed in and got it going the last 200 meters."

Allen sophomore Rachel Finnegan also made the most of her trip to state. She finished third in her heat to qualify for the finals and ended the weekend with a seventh-place finish in the Class D girls 400-meter dash with a time of 1:01.47.

Finnegan was thrilled to come away with a medal and said her only disappointment was not being able to break the school record in the event.

"I just ran so hard today, and I came down here hoping that I could get a medal. To know that I've got one is just really great," she said. "I really wanted to get the school record, but there's always next year."

On the boys' side, two Wakefield athletes finished the meet with medal-winning efforts, battling through nagging injuries to earn a state medal.

On Friday morning, Anthony Gustafson worked his way through a nagging toe injury and jumped 6 feet, 2 inches to tie for fifth overall in the high jump.

After just missing out on a medal in his first trip to state last year, getting on the medal stand this year was a very satisfying experience for the Trojan junior.

"It was fun to get down here last year, but to come back and finally place was great," he said. "I was a little nervous early on and needed to get the bugs out, but it was fun and hopefully I can come down here next year and see if I can do a little better."

Classmate Josh Dolph has had ankle problems throughout the season but battled through the pain long enough to get a personal best and earn a fourth-place medal Saturday morning in the 800-meter run. He just missed cracking the 2-minute barrier, finishing in a time of 2:00.38 to finish 2 1/2 seconds behind the champion from Nebraska Christian, Hans Epp.

Dolph, who had to be helped off the track by meet workers and fellow Trojan Sydney Rose after the race, was happy his ankle held out long enough for him to earn a medal.

"I felt the whole race that I ran pretty well, and, in the homestretch, I felt I had something left so I could finish strong," he said. "It wasn't easy, but I was able to get out there and make the most of it. I just tried not to think about (the injury) and tune it out, and now I'll go and have surgery on it next week and get ready for next year."

There were a number of athletes who represented the area at the state meet who were unable to finish the weekend with a medal.

In Class C, LCC's Brett Haisch ran in the 300-meter hurdles, finishing last in his heat with a time of 45.87 seconds. Dietrich ran in both hurdle races for the LCC girls, finishing seventh in her heat in the 100-meter hurdles (16.77) and eighth in her heat in the 300-meter hurdles (50.47). Wakefield's Sydney Rose also ran in the 100-meter hurdles, placing seventh in her heat with a time of 17.35 seconds.

In Class D action, the Allen girls' 3,200-meter relay of Vanessa Klug, Candice Rastede, Lindsey Jones and Alexis Oswald finished 13th with a time of 10:50.02. Oswald also ran in the 3,200-meter run, finishing 13th with a time of 13:13.32. Brittany Sullivan was eighth in her heat in the 300-meter hurdle preliminaries with a time of 52.18.

Winside's four qualifiers all competed in field events. In girls' action, Jayd Roberts - a qualifier in the hurdles last year - finished 11th in the discus with a toss of 103 feet, 10 inches; and Nazya Thies placed 14th in the high jump, clearing 4 feet, 10 inches. For the boys, Colin Hansen was 15th in the triple jump at 40 feet, 1/4 inch; and Garrett Watters was 14th in the shot put with a best toss of 43 feet, 4 1/2 inches.

 first one all of that was gone," he said. "I was just getting crazy in the air and didn't flow over the bar this time. I just didn't jump my best today."
 Coach Dale Hochstein was happy with the senior's performance, which gave Wayne High its first state champion in track and field since Caleb Garvin won the Class B discus in 2003.

 "Entering Burke and that atmosphere for the first time is always a strain on the nerves, and when you add the expectations he had, it's not easy," he said. "You could tell he was nervous, but Grant did a good job working through that. He had the clearance on several jumps to go much higher but just couldn't get the timing down."

 Hochstein said that the University of Nebraska recruit did very well for an athlete who had not competed in the event since his freshman year.
 "With the spring we had, he really only had eight chances to compete, but he studied the event and drove himself to improve at a remarkable rate," he said. "He left Wayne High and northeast Nebraska with some special moments, and it will be great watching him move on to the next level."

Lexi Sokol (above) and Ashton Schweers both just missed in their medal pursuits at the state track meet. Sokol was 10th in the shot put, while Schweers tied for ninth in the high jump.

Class B girls high jump competition with the fourth best height in district competition but was one of three top-five jumpers who weren't able to make it to the medal stand.
 The Blue Devil junior, just eight months removed from major knee surgery, cleared the 5-foot mark but was one of six jumpers who went out at that height. She finished tied for ninth in her second trip to state in the event.
 Sophomore Lexi Sokol also came close to making the medal stand in her first trip to state. She came away with a 10th place finish in the girls shot put, finishing seven inches short of reaching the finals with a best toss of 37 feet, 7 1/4 inches.

Cassie Heier was the only Blue Devil competing in multiple events at this year's state meet. She finished 20th in the 800-meter run and ran the third leg of the 400-meter relay with Jalyn Zeiss, Meagan Backer and McKenna Frevert. Their relay effort was good for 14th overall.
 Angie Nelson posted a 22nd place finish in the 800-meter run on the girls side. Both Demetrius Alexander and Trevor Pecena ran in the preliminaries in the 100 and 400, respectively. Alexander ran an 11.42 in the 100 to finish seventh in his heat, while Pecena ran a 52.17 to finish fifth in his heat. Neither runner qualified for the finals.

Fehringer

 year's title with a heave of 203 feet, 6 inches.
 Her 206-11 effort was the top throw in the nation until later in the season, when Findlay's Jessica Rowland posted a mark of 210 feet, 3 inches.
 Fehringer credits her success to the coaching of throws coach Brett Suckstorf and a deep throwing lineup that includes four national qualifiers - Fehringer, Lachel Milander, Emily Wells and Mackenzie Masching - among some of the top throwers in all of Div. II.
 "It's been very exciting," Fehringer said. "With the group that I'm with, we're always pushing each other to get better, and the tough competition in practice really helps. And Brett works us hard and pushes us in the weight room. He does a great job making us better."
 "That's something else," Brink added. "When they go to practice every day, they're competing with some of the best in Div. II. There is great chemistry there, and they really push each other and chew each other's butts if they're not performing up to their potential in practice or in the weight room. They really get after it."

 All four throwers are ranked in the top 25 nationally (Nos. 2, 4, 11 and 21, respectively), and the final outcome on Thursday will ultimately come down to which thrower is the most consistent of the bunch, Brink said.
 "Carly has been really consistent this year, and that's the one thing that works in her favor," Brink said. "She should make the finals, and then it comes down to coming through and hitting that one big throw to win it."
 And for as much as Fehringer thinks she can win it, she knows

 Wayne native Carly Fehringer has the second-longest throw in the nation in the hammer throw this season and is one of four Wildcats who will be in contention for a national title at this week's NCAA Div. II meet in Colorado.

Fehringer, Suckstorf honored as region's best by coaches

The Wayne State College women's outdoor track and field team collected two awards from the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association, as junior Carly Fehringer was named the Central Region Women's Field Athlete of the Year while assistant coach Brett Suckstorf was honored as the Central Region Women's Assistant Coach of the Year.
 Fehringer, a junior from Wayne, recorded the fifth-best throw all-time and the second best mark in the hammer throw this spring with a throw of 206 feet, 11 inches. She also set a new NSIC meet record and was conference champion in the hammer throw at 203 feet, 6 inches and was fourth at the Drake Relays in the hammer with a mark of 202 feet, 10 inches in a field that consisted of mainly Division I competitors. Fehringer, an All-American during the indoor season in the weight throw, also ranks 14th nationally in the shot put with a season-best mark of 47 feet, 9 1/4 inches, and will compete in both events this weekend at the NCAA Div. II Outdoor National Championships in Pueblo, Colo.

 Suckstorf is in his third season with the Wildcat program and led the Wayne State throwers to eight national qualifying spots, including three automatic marks, for this weekend's national championships. He guided four qualifiers in the hammer throw (Fehringer, Mackenzie Masching, Lachel Milander and Emily Wells), and two each in the discus (Emily Wells and Sara Wells) and shot put (Fehringer and Sara Wells). Fehringer and Sara Wells were NSIC outdoor champions in the hammer throw and discus respectively. Suckstorf helped coach Wayne State throwers in sweeping five of the top six spots in the hammer throw at the NSIC Championships.

the champion could be a Wayne State Wildcat NOT named Carly Fehringer.
 "Lachel could come home with the national title, too, and Emily and Mackenzie can both place in the top eight, so I'm excited to go down there and see what we can do," Fehringer said. "I know I can do it, and it's just a matter of whether or not it's there that day."
 The result of that event could catapult Wayne State to its highest-ever finish in the Div. II national championship team race. With the right results, Brink said the hammer throw, alone, could position Wayne State for a top-ten finish.
 "It would be awesome if we could get a 1-2 finish," he said. "It happens once in a while in some events, but usually not in the throws. But I'm excited to see what they can do. If things fall right, we can be a top 10 team, and I think we have the potential to do that."

And while most of Wayne State's work will be focused on the hammer throw, the Wildcats will be busy in other field events as well this weekend.
 In addition to her work in the hammer throw, Fehringer and Sara Wells will both compete in the shot put, where both are ranked in the top 15. Wells is ranked sixth in the nation after winning the Northern Sun Conference title two weeks ago, while Fehringer is ranked No. 14. Those two will compete on Saturday afternoon.
 On Friday afternoon, Emily Wells will take part in the women's discus competition. She is ranked No. 11 in the nation after finishing third in the NSIC Championships.
 Brad Wright is the lone Wildcat male competing in this year's national championships. He will take part in the men's discus competition, where he is ranked No. 15 nationally, on Friday afternoon.

Ptak steps down at Northeast

A top administrator at Northeast Community College has stepped down. Dave Ptak, vice president of Human Resources (HR), submitted his resignation.

Ptak, who has served the College on its administration team the past seven years, has expressed an interest in returning to the practice of law.

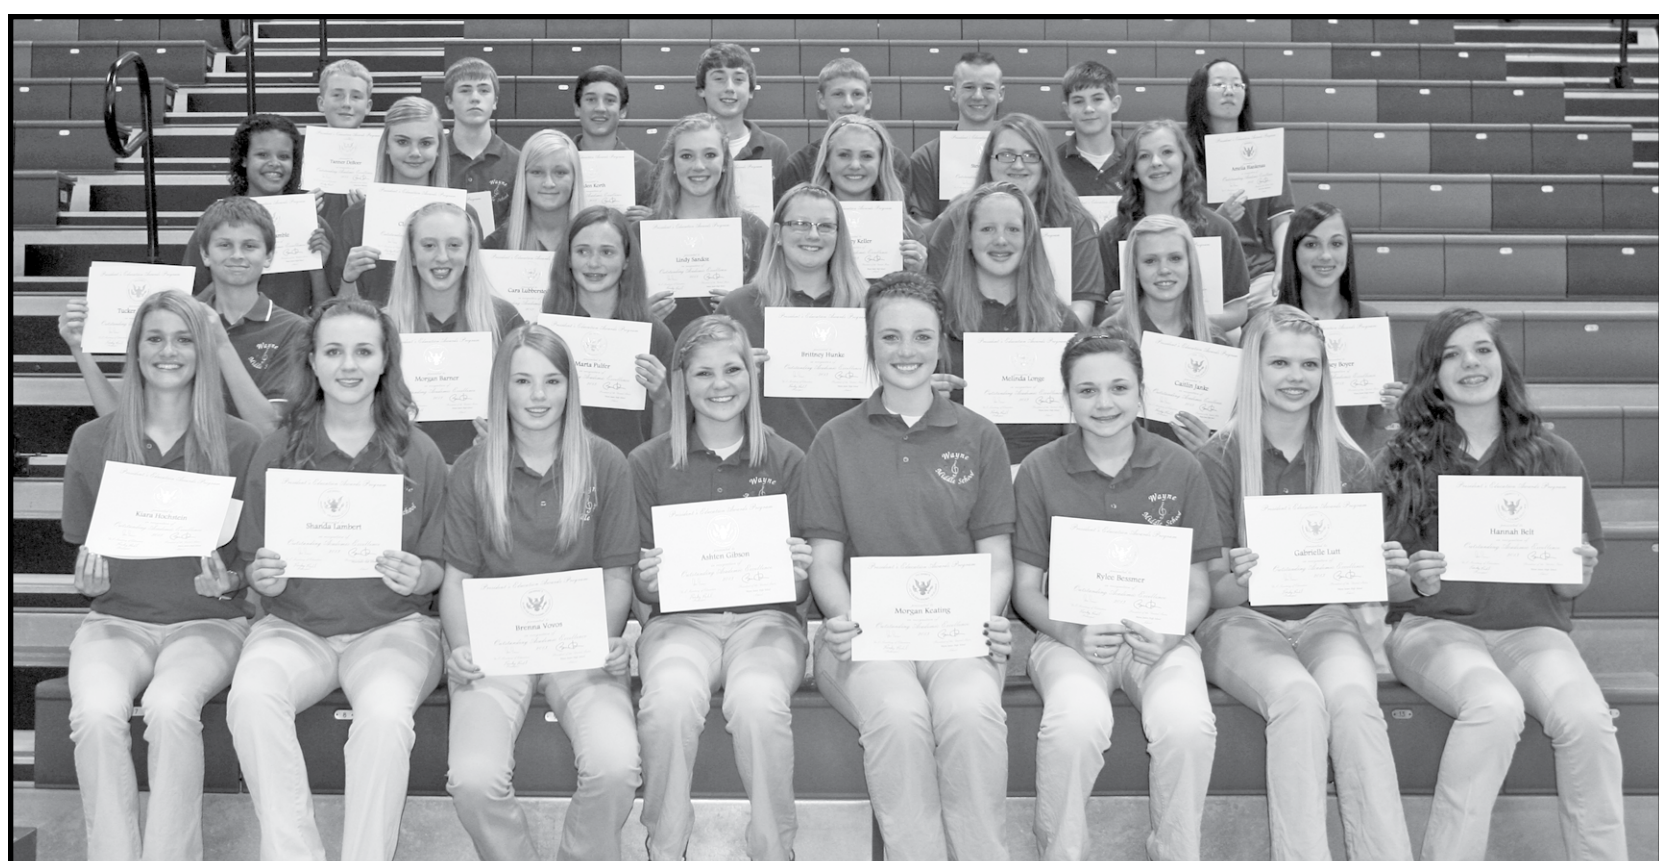

Before joining Northeast, he served as city attorney for Norfolk and also was in private practice.

"During his time at the college, Northeast has implemented many excellent policies and procedures which Dave has had a role in developing," said Northeast President

Dr. Michael Chipps. "The Northeast family thanks Dave for his contributions to the College and we wish him the best in his chosen profession."

Jennifer Happold, Northeast Human Resources coordinator, will oversee the HR office in the interim.

The Human Resources Department is responsible for employee-related matters at the College from the time people inquire for a job to when they retire. The department's duties include coordinating, hiring and employee evaluation processes, administering the college's benefits program, and managing personnel issues, among others.

The clinic hours will be from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. at the United Methodist Church located on 516 N. Main Street in Wayne. For an appointment or for more information regarding the WIC or Immunization programs please call (402) 385-6300.

NENCAP's WIC Program provides nutrition education and supplemental foods to income eligible pregnant, breast-feeding or postpartum women, infants, and children to age 5 years.

NENCAP's Immunization Program provides childhood immunizations to VFC eligible children. Immunizations are needed at ages 2 months, 4 months, 6 months, 12-15 months. School required immunizations are need prior to entry into kindergarten (ages 4-6) and 7th grade. Lead screening is also available by appointment only to children ages 12 months to 5 years of age.

Each child should be accompanied by the parent or guardian. Past immunization records are required. Proxy forms are needed when a parent or legal guardian is unable to accompany the child to clinic. Proxy forms may be obtained by contacting the Pender office at (402) 385-6300.

A suggested donation of $39 per child would be appreciated to help defray administrative costs. If a child only receives one immunization, then the suggested donation is $19.50. No one will be denied immunizations for inability to make a donation. This project is supported in part by Federal Immunization Program Funds awarded to Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership by the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services.

Adult vaccine (MMR, Hepatitis

A, Hepatitis B, Tdap, Pneumovax, TB testing) is available to the public for a mandatory fee at all immunization clinics to anyone 19 years or older. These fees cover the cost of the vaccine. Call the Pender office at (402) 385-6300 for more information.

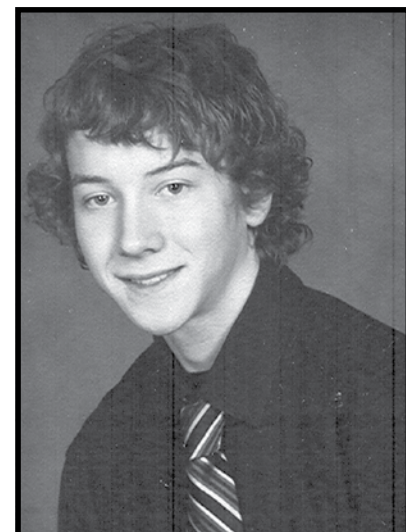

NENCAP's Home Visitation Program offers services to families who are expecting or have children up to the age of nine. Information is available for those interested at the WIC and Immunization Clinic. This program provides free one-on-one education and resource to families and children in Northeast Nebraska in order to ensure and strengthen their well being.

Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership (NENCAP), headquartered in Pender, is one of nine Community Action Agencies in Nebraska. NENCAP manages several different programs as determined by identified needs of residents in the 14 county service area.

The Agency serves over 10,000 clients a year due to successful outreach efforts. Northeast Nebraska Community Action Partnership (NENCAP) programs include the Commodity Supplemental Food Program; Family Services; Immunization; Weatherization; Head Start; Women, Infants, and Children Nutrition; Early Intervention Services Coordination; Operation Great Start and Operation Building Blocks.

The agency serves Knox, Antelope, Pierce, Madison, Stanton, Cuming, Thurston, Dakota, Burt, Wayne, Dixon, Cedar, Washington and Dodge counties. For more information on NENCAP programs, call (800) 445-2505.

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes
Managing Editor

Sleeping in can really cost you

With all the corruption and scandals going on in Washington right now, you need some good news, or at least something to tickle your funny bone.

With that in mind here are a few silly thoughts and observations from the "Bits and Pieces" file:

— How much IS that extra 10 minutes of sleep you get when you hit the snooze button worth to you? And is it worth donating to a cause you despise?

The ThinkGeek.com website poses those questions with a fictitious device it has "for sale" on its website: the SnuzNLuz (pronounced Snooze and Lose) Wifi Donation Alarm Clock.

"Wake up to the smell of . . . Animosity," the site states in promoting the alarm clock, which connects via WiFi to your online bank account, donating money to an organization you hate each time you hit the snooze button.

The promotional pitch for the alarm clock indicates that you can connect your banking institution to your favorite hated charity (for example, butchers could donate to PETA, and Republicans can donate to the ACLU . . . we journalists would probably go with the Department of Justice's investigations unit right about now). Every time you hit the snooze bar, a donation is made in your name to the organization you hate the most.

I don't know about you, but if such an alarm clock were in use in my house, I don't think I'd ever sleep there — the last thing I want to do is donate my paycheck to either of the two major political parties. They're already sucking my bank account dry with the taxes they're hitting me up with.

— Hey, are you working too many hours? Be careful — you just might kill yourself.

A 24-year-old employee at an international advertising firm in Beijing was found dead from a heart attack after work one day. He had been working overtime for a month, never leaving the office until 11 p.m. each day.

What a wimp — 11 p.m. is an early night for me. Then again, I usually don't roll into the office until 9:30, take a two-hour lunch break, a two-hour dinner break and spend a lot of time out of the office doing "interviews" (don't tell the boss, but this usually consists of long conversations at one of the local watering holes with friends who are ALSO, ahem, working as hard and as late as I am).

— From the "Today the mayor's bunkbed, tomorrow the White House" department: the community of Dorset, Minn., has picked its mayor — a 4-year-old boy.

Each year, the community pulls a name out of the hat at random, and that individual holds the title of mayor for the year. This year, the honor belongs to one Bobbie Tufts.

According to reports, the new mayor likes to play, dance, sing and talk to his fellow townsfolk. He also likes to fish with his parents, and his favorite bait are leeches.

Wow — this kid is a PRIME candidate to be President of the United States. He goof's off, gets nothing done and hangs out with blood-suckers — just like the current office holder.

— Are you sick and tired of life on Earth? Here's your chance to start anew . . . on Mars.

The nonprofit Mars One organization has received about 78,000 applicants from citizens who would like to set up a homestead on the Red Planet. The group hopes to land the first four permanent residents on the planet in 2023 as the vanguard of a permanent colony, with more colonists arriving every other year thereafter.

Sadly, none of the 78,000 applicants are sitting members of Congress. Then again, that might be for the best — no sense screwing up TWO planets with those bozos.

— When the guy tells this barber to "take a little off the top," he might want to be careful: a barber shop in Brisbane, Australia is doing big business by offering haircuts given by — you guessed it — topless barbers.

The barber shop features topless female barbers cutting hair while wearing only hot pants or underwear (which, oddly enough, is what I wear at the office on Casual Fridays). People from as far as 850 miles away come to get a scalp massage and a shave.

The owner says that all of the barbers are "fully qualified." At what, I'm not sure . . .

— Annnnnnd finally, because we need more adults inspiring our youth to greatness, here's one from the "If you have to give up your day job, this may not be the best option available" department that probably won't make the cut:

A woman in England has given notice to the school where she has taught at so that she can launch her own business — a pole dancing studio.

What started as a hobby for the 36-year-old woman (pole dancing is a hobby? Who knew?) has become a full-time venture that includes her competing in the national British Pole Superstars Championship. She says that she has received support from her former employer and fellow teachers, as well as her boyfriend.

And here's the, uh, kicker — she plans to continue doing it until . . . and I quote . . . "I can't get my leg over my head anymore."

Capitol View

Remembering 'First Gentleman'

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Bill Orr was the First Gentleman for the four years that his wife served as the nation's first Republican woman ever elected as Governor. He died May 5 at age 78.

Kay Orr was the eighth woman to serve as a state governor. She was not only the first Republican but also the first woman elected governor over another female major party candidate and the first (and only) woman to serve as Governor of Nebraska. There have been 34 women governors in the United States.

With all of those firsts under the roof of the governor's mansion, Bill Orr was one traditional guy. The First Gentleman in a world of First Ladies. He once told a reporter that he loved to eat and knew that he had to learn his way around the kitchen as his wife focused on her political career.

An insurance executive with a penchant for community service, Bill Orr rose to the task when plans were approved for a much-needed upgrade of the aging governor's mansion. Once quoted as saying that "recipes were like the Dead Sea Scrolls" to him, he organized a cookbook and sought celebrity recipes. Proceeds from the sale of the books would help finance the restoration.

Among the contributors to the cookbook were Warren Buffett, then-first lady Barbara Bush, Johnny Carson, Tom Osborne, Bob Devaney, actress Katharine Hepburn and former first lady Nancy Reagan. Stories about Orr and his cookbook appeared in the New York Times, People magazine and Fortune magazine. Copies of "First Gentleman's Cookbook" are still available in paperback on Amazon.com.

In his corporate life, Bill Orr was senior vice president of marketing and sales for Woodman Accident and Life Insurance. Family friend and former co-worker, Tom Henning, told the Omaha World-Herald that "Bill truly believed in life insurance and disability coverage for the peace of mind it brings a family. It wasn't about making a profit, for Bill. He really believed in his mission to make things better for people."

Orr was a storyteller and often used self-deprecating humor. He hit the campaign trail with his wife and friends say he loved meeting people and telling them a little about himself, always reminding them that she was the candidate.

I last saw Bill a couple years ago at a garage sale at his daughter's home in southeast Lincoln. My wife and I were attracted to the Saturday morning sale by a sign that said "Really Old Stuff." After I watched the former governor haggle with a couple over the price of a ceramic rooster cookie jar, I told the Ors that I had seen the sign about really old stuff.

"Well, you found us," Bill Orr quipped without missing a beat.

Legislative Update

Time running out for 2013 Unicameral

As this is written, there are only 11 legislative days remaining in this session.

We started this week by debating whether or not the death penalty should be repealed. LB543 was introduced by Sen. Ernie Chambers of Omaha, which would abolish the death penalty in Nebraska. Sen. Chambers has introduced a bill to do this 37 times. In 1979, the bill was passed by the Legislature, but it was vetoed by Governor Thone.

I remember my mother telling me, "The state should not take a life until it has the ability to give it back." This is one of the times that I have not taken my mother's advice. I feel that there are some crimes that do, in fact, warrant the death penalty. The bank murders in Norfolk come to mind. There is video evidence that proves them guilty beyond any doubt.

In 1976, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld capital punishment, and since that time, Nebraska has executed only three. (Nebraska is very thorough in this process.) After eight hours of debate, Sen. Chambers moved to invoke cloture, meaning he needed to get 33 votes, something he rarely does. The cloture vote failed with a vote of 28-21. After a day and a half of debate, the discussion of abolishing the death penalty was over for this year.

I am sure that Sen. Chambers (a very determined man) will bring it back again as soon as possible. He feels that the punishment is not used in a fair manner. There is some evidence to back his claims. I think we should probably look at some changes in the way the ultimate punishment is handled, but I do think we need to keep the law on the books. I could go along with changes that required DNA or video evidence be available, and I would also be in favor of placing a limit on the number of appeals. If the death penalty is to be a deterrent, it cannot take 20 years to be carried out.

On Monday, we were notified that the Governor had vetoed LB553, introduced by Sen. Jeremy Nordquist of Omaha, which would change the actuarial valuation of retirement systems and school employee retirement provisions.

The purpose of this bill was to address shortfalls in the school employee retirement program, as well as the retirement funds for the State Patrol and judges. In the Governor's letter explaining his veto, he said that this would cost the state $20 million a year or $500 million for 25 years. While he was good with addressing the short-term shortfalls, he felt that there should be a study completed before we make long-term changes to the pension funding. I happen to agree with the Governor, which is why I did not support to override the veto. The motion to override the veto was successful with a vote of 32-1-16.

This is something we need to study and find a long-term solution that the state can afford. LB553 is not the ultimate answer — too many taxpayer $$$$$.

Conservation Reserve Program General Signup 45 now underway

Farm Service Agency (FSA) County Director, Kristi Hanau has announced that the Wayne County FSA Office will hold a Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) General Signup from now through June 14, 2013.

"Producers and landowners are urged to take action now in considering the environmental and financial benefits of CRP as the signup period is only four weeks and it is anticipated that this may be the only opportunity to enroll in General CRP for several years," said Hanau.

"CRP is an important program in Wayne County for protecting environmentally sensitive land from erosion and sedimentation, improving air quality and ensuring the sustainability of our groundwater, lakes and rivers. CRP helps protect Wayne County's natural resources, preserve wildlife habitat, and outdoor recreation related to hunting and fishing," said Hanau.

To be eligible, a producer must have owned or operated the offered acreage for at least 12 months prior to the end of the sign-up period (with some exceptions). The land must be cropland planted to an agricultural commodity four of the six crop years from 2002-2007, and be physically and legally capable of being planted. Offers for new acreage and acreage already in CRP, but expiring on Sept. 30, 2013, will be considered. Offers will be ranked according to the Environmental Benefits Index (EBI). A cutoff score will determine offers accepted.

FSA provides 50 percent cost-share assistance to establish the conservation cover and an annual rental payment based on the productivity of the soils and the average dryland cash rent value. Rental rates were recently updated in Nebraska and increased substantially in many counties.

Hanau encourages producers and landowners to also look into CRP's other enrollment opportunities, including Continuous CRP, State Acres for Wildlife Enhancement Initiative, the Highly Erodible Land Initiative and the Pollinator Habitat Initiative. These programs are open on a continuous, non-competitive basis and provide even further financial opportunities and incentives.

For more information on CRP and other FSA programs, visit the local FSA Service Center or fsa.usda.gov.

The state of older Americans and savings

As part of Older Americans Month, America Saves is stressing the need for all Americans to save for their future.

With Americans, especially women, living longer, the reality is that Americans need to save more money for retirement or to work longer.

The numbers are shocking. In 2012, the average credit card debt among adults aged 65 and older was $9,283.

One-third of senior households have no money left over each month or is in debt after meeting essential expenses.

The share of Americans 65 and older in the labor force went from 12.1 percent in 1990 to 16.1 percent in 2010. Sixty percent of women over 65 across the country lack the incomes to meet basic expenses.

Tips to Prepare to Live Debt Free in Retirement

1. Start saving, keep saving, and stick to your goals.
2. Know how much you will need for retirement.
3. Save at work and/or through a Roth IRA.
4. Find places to cut back so you can save more.

Already Retired and Need Help: You Gave, Now Save

Millions of low-income seniors continue to miss out on nearly $1.2 billion in benefits that can help them pay for their health care, prescriptions, food, utilities and more.

These aren't handouts—by working hard their whole lives, older adults have paid into the programs that can now provide them support needed to remain healthy and independent.

BenefitsCheckUp (www.benefitscheckup.org/campaign) — a service of the National Council on Aging (NCOA) — is the nation's most comprehensive web-based service

Sandy Preston Dixon County offering information on benefits programs, specifically programs for people with Medicare and limited income and resources.

The Eldercare Locator, a public service of AoA and administered by n4a, is a nationwide service that connects older adults and their caregivers with information on senior services. The Locator is available both online (eldercare.gov) and as a toll-free hotline at (800) 677-1116.

Older Americans Month is a proud tradition that shows our commitment to honoring the value that elders contribute to our communities. This year's Older Americans Month theme — "Unleash the Power of Age!" — highlights the significant contributions made by thousands of older Americans across our nation. The event is organized by the Administration for Community Living and the Administration on Aging.

ARTHRTIS ACHES AND PAINS

About 27 million Americans have osteoarthritis (OA), which is the most common type of arthritis in older people.^{1,2} Hands and weight-bearing joints such as knees, hips, and lower back often take the biggest hit.^{1,2}

OA develops when the cushioning tissue in joints (cartilage) breaks down. Then bone may rub on bone, causing inflammation, stiffness, and pain. When arthritis is advanced, you may hear grinding noises or your joint may become enlarged.³

What's the cause of osteoarthritis? It could be a combination of things. Joints can simply lose their cushioning with repeated wear and tear over time. And an injury can hasten this process. Extra pounds can also harm your joints. Sometimes OA runs in families, too.²

You can learn better ways to move to protect your joints. Your doctor may even recommend physical or occupational therapy.¹ If you need a cane, make sure a professional fits it for you. You can also buy a brace or knee sleeve or special devices to help open jars or do other challenging tasks.^{2,4} Don't overlook our store's resources.

When pain flares up, it may be tempting to curl up in a ball and try to ignore it. That may be exactly the wrong thing to do. Although rest is important, moving may also help ease your pain. Some types of exercise can relieve stiffness and improve flexibility, while others promote strength or endurance. It may also help to switch to less weight-bearing activities, for example, swimming or cycling instead of running.⁴

If you've put on some extra weight, do your best to lose it. Did you know that with every pound you gain, your knees must handle four more pounds and your hips six more pounds of pressure? And, obesity may add insult to injury. That's because body fat may release chemicals that also cause joint damage.¹

What else can you do? Heat or cold may help ease the pain of arthritis. And pain medications may be essential as well. Stop by, and I can help you sort out the differences between the types of medications used for arthritis. Some require prescriptions; others do not, such as aspirin, acetaminophen, and ibuprofen.^{2,4}

NSAIDs (nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs) can also be effective in treating symptoms. That's because, with arthritis, fluid builds up when the body tries to compensate for lost cartilage. The resulting inflammation can cause pain and warmth around the joint.³

In more severe cases, you may need other types of treatment such as injections, splinting, or surgery such as a joint replacement.

As for alternative remedies, recent studies show that acupuncture may bring relief for some people. The oral supplements glucosamine and chondroitin may help with moderate to severe osteoarthritis pain. But studies in the knee show these don't appear to improve cartilage changes.² Whatever you do, steer clear of unproven supplements. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has warned the public about certain products marketed as "natural" dietary supplements for conditions such as arthritis. If you're not sure about a certain product, please ask me.⁵

Grace Evening Circle holds quarterly meeting

The Grace LWML Evening Circle met May 14 at 7 p.m. with President Bea Kinslow opening the meeting with prayer.

Secretary Lanora Sorensen took roll call of seven members, and Pastor Carl Lilienkamp was present. She also read the minutes of the Feb. 12 meeting, which was approved.

Treasurer Lee Larsen gave the treasury report, which was approved and filed for audit.

President Kinslow gave the correspondence report, including a thank-you from the Irene Blecke family and a notice of the Nebraska LWML Northeast District to have the Bi-Annual Convention at Lutheran High Northeast campus of Norfolk on June 20-21, 2014, with the Wayne Zone LWML ladies hosting it. The theme will be "I am the Vine, You are the Branches." More information will be available after the July Executive Board meeting of the Wayne Zone at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Lorraine Johnson will be the chair person for the Grace Ladies Aid to plan the LWML Wayne Zone Fall Rally to be held at Grace Lutheran Church this October.

President Kinslow read a prayer letter from Janet Borchard of their Bible translations in Papua, New Guinea, and now they are starting on the New Testament of the Bible.

Mary Lou Erxleben also heard from the Borchards of their work in New Guinea.

For Christian Growth, Darlene Lilienkamp gave the "Readings and Objects" in the 12 resurrection eggs. She was assisted by Janet Casey.

A discussion was held on asking Mission Service Chair Verna Mae Baier to find out from the Norfolk Rescue Mission whether they need food, old pillow cases or items that could be collected by the Evening Circle. She will be taking the old Bibles, etc. that have been collected to Norfolk in the near future.

Verna Mae Baier and Marilyn Rethwisch audited the 2012 treasurer's books on Feb. 17, and all is in order.

Mites for Missions were collected. President Kinslow closed the meeting with all praying The Lord's Prayer.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, Aug. 13 at 7 p.m.

Pastor Carl Lilienkamp gave a screen visual lesson on The Lord's Prayer.

Baptism and confirmation held at Winside Methodist Church

The Winside United Methodist Church congregation had the honor of witnessing both a baptism and the confirmation of four of its youth on Sunday May 19.

Officiating the ceremonies was Pastor Judy Carlson.

Gage Tyler Wendte received the Sacrament of Baptism during worship witnessed by his mother Jennifer Hancock and sponsors Shawn M. Thompson, John and Amy Rose Hancock and Amy Hancock. A Baptismal Certificate was presented by Lay Leader Linda Barg and Patty Skokan. Children's Ministries also made a presentation.

Following the baptism, a Confirmation ceremony was held for Gage Tyler Wendte, Christian Jon Cautrell, Makinah Nicole Stenwall and Fauneil Jaye Olander.

At the baptismal font, Pastor Judy reminded them of their baptism. At the Altar, candles were lit in remembrance that "Jesus is the light of the world." At the podium, they signed a paper indicating they were ready for church membership; and, lastly, they took their confirmation vows, with participation from the congregation.

The youth each received a corsage from the youth group. Helen Holtgrew, representing the United Methodist Women's group, presented them with a Mission donation certificate in their honor, and Rose Janke presented each of them with a Prayer Shawl.

Gage is the son of Jennifer Hancock; Christian is the son of Nick and Connie Cautrell; Makinah is the daughter of Scott Stenwall and Stacy Caup; and Fauneil is the daughter of Chris and Sara Olander.

The confirmands planned the worship service, each gave a Bible reading and selected the music for the morning. The Pastor's message was "The House of Grace."

Prior to the baptism and confirmation, Pastor Carlson recognized Winside United Methodist Church members of 50 years or more. They were Helen Holtgrew, Johanna Berg, Bonnie Wylie, Helen Hancock and Herb and Arlene Wills.

Gallon Grads are recognized

LifeServe Blood Center has announced the names of the of 2013 Gallon Grads.

The Gallon Grad program encourages high school students ages 16 and older to donate a gallon of blood before graduating from high school. This year, a total of 180 students over 50 counties in the Life-Serve Blood Center tri-state region of Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota were recognized with this honor.

The following local high school students from Laurel-Concord/Coleridge High School are being recognized as Gallon Grads this year:

- Jason Kneifl, 24 lives saved through blood donation.

- Hannah Burbach, 27 lives saved through blood donation.

In order to become a Gallon Grad, students had to make eight whole blood or four double red cell blood donations before graduation. Achieving this milestone required a large commitment from these students, who took time from their busy schedules to make blood donations at their local high school blood drives and at blood drives that took place within the community.

Hugs for Soldiers – Care Packages

Some troops are living without the basic comforts of home. Many military personnel stationed in the primitive areas of Afghanistan are living in tents on cots and sometimes on the ground. They have no laundry facilities.

The Care Packages and letters they receive will certainly brighten their day.

With the help of Allen's Elementary classes, the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 131 of Allen is trying to ensure no soldier is forgotten.

In the time between April 29 and May 10, students in Grades K-3 collected 604 items and were the winners of the collection contest. As winners, they were awarded an ice cream party. Students in grades 4-6 collected 189 items for a total of 793 items sent off to soldiers in Afghanistan.

Memorial Day Service and Fundraiser

Following the Memorial Day services on Monday, May 27, a fundraiser meal from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. will be held at the Allen Fire Hall.

The money will be used to help defray the medical expenses for Mr. Lacy's late wife and for scholarships to send current Allen students to summer band camps. There will also be a silent auction.

Since the 1988-89 school year when Mr. Richard Lacy became a part of the school faculty, many Allen alumni have had the opportunity to participate in musical productions, musical concerts and contests, and major Bowl parades and football games. Mr. Lacy has dedicated time and effort for the benefit of our students, and we want to show our appreciation with this fundraiser. Plan on attending the 10:15 a.m. Memorial Day service at Eastview Cemetery and enjoy a meal and fellowship following in the fire hall.

Legion Auxiliary Events

The Allen American Legion and Legion Auxiliary will be putting up the Avenue of Flags at Eastview Cemetery on Friday, May 24 at 5 p.m.

Community members are invited and encouraged to come out and help to honor those who gave the ultimate sacrifice to serve our great country.

State Track

Congratulations have been extended to Rachel Finnegan, a sophomore at Allen Consolidated School. She placed sixth in the 400 meter dash at the State Track meet last weekend in Omaha. She is the daughter of Ron and Carol Finnegan.

Community Garage Sales

Allen Community Garage Sales will be on Saturday, June 8.

Anyone who plans on having a garage sale, please contact Marcia Rastede by June 5 so the address can be put on the map. Maps will be available at Security Bank and Countryside Gas.

Marcia Rastede can be contacted at (402) 635-2214.

Allen Alumni Weekend

Allen Alumni weekend has something for everyone. Beginning Friday morning, July 5, breakfast will be served at the Allen Senior Center. Friday evening brings a light supper at the Fire Hall with time to socialize and visit with honor classes 1962 and 1963. Saturday morning, July 6 the Methodist Church will serve breakfast at the Fire Hall.

Something new this year: a Saturday morning parade with entries including farm machinery, four wheelers, kids and pets, which starts at the school and ends at the park. The Dixon County Museum will also be open. That evening, the banquet at the school will begin at 6:30 p.m., followed by Memorial Fireworks at the football field at 9:30 p.m. More information and entry forms coming as the date approaches.

Mini Youtherans

First Lutheran Church's Mini-Youtherans are kicking off to Summer Fun.

They will meet on Saturday, May 26 at 12 p.m. in the basement of Concordia Lutheran Church for lunch and head over to the park for some obstacle course fun.

Senior Center

Enjoying the family 'techies'

Just like all of you, I'm sure, we have "techies" in the family. It's nice to have Monte or Alex to call on when I'm stumped. Alex has even put all my icons on his laptop, so he can help me out from wherever he is! I know that's probably just basic for him, but it boggles my mind.

Monte loves to find gadgets, and they are out there. When he bought our current computer, he had it rigged for voice so that, presumably, Mike could use it. But apparently, his voice is too soft, so we could never get it to work like it should.

Lately, he has found on the internet a gadget that makes it much easier to change the new TV (which he also purchased recently) to TV, DVD, or Netflix.

We need the latter because he also signed us up for Netflix. We had actually heard of it, but knew nothing about it, of course. It seems that you can watch all kinds of series that are no longer on regular programming, AND you can watch them all at once.

I know that he and Sue did a marathon of Downton Abbey, which they only heard of in the third season. I cannot imagine that. We did three episodes of Cheers, and that was all we could tolerate of that ditzy Diane at once.

By: Pat Meierhenry

Now, we hear of something called "Netflix adultery." Know what that is? That is when you sneak viewing time of something you both wanted to watch, ahead of your spouse. Is that serious? Serious enough to call it adultery?

It seems that many spouses admit to viewing ahead while their loved one is asleep, some even doing it from the bathroom. And, apparently, it does cause problems when the offended one finds out; mostly, I guess, because they had agreed to watch together.

Shoot, we have been watching TV apart for years, and no one here is put off by it. I catch the musicals on TCM; he has ESPN for obvious reasons. For years, we had only one TV; in this house, we've had two. There was an outlet in the basement, so we used it. But the one down there doesn't even play DVDs, so that gives you an idea of how old it is. I can play my old videos on it!

I seriously doubt that we will ever sue each other for Netflix adultery; I wonder who coined that phrase anyway? You all know my view on television by now; everyone watches too much of it anyway. But it's not adultery!!

Disc Sharpening Is Available

Drift Watch: Be mindful of buffer strips

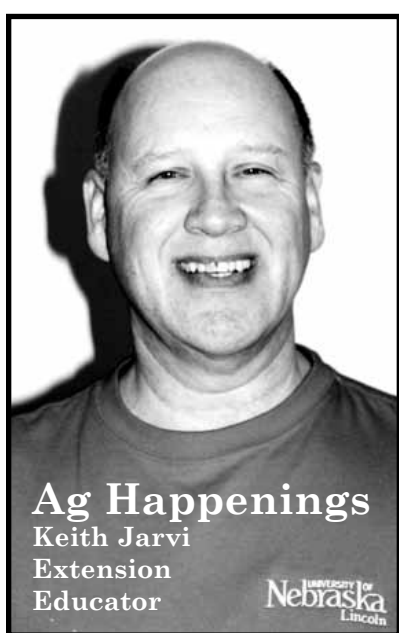

Most of the results of high crops prices are positive. However, in the rush to make money, sometimes we forget about environmental stewardship.

Two of our biggest problems when we get in a rush, or a bit greedy, are spraying which results in drift to non-target organisms, and pesticides in our water, particularly our surface water. Please consider these two programs for environmental stewardship.

The Nebraska Department of Agriculture's Pesticide Program would like to remind outdoor pesticide applicators — especially those applying volatile herbicides such as 2,4-D and dicamba — to be mindful of the increasing number of commercially-grown sensitive crops in our agricultural landscape. Applicators are reminded to read and follow the label directions, including any timing, temperature, and wind speed restrictions. In addition, please utilize DriftWatch (www.driftwatch.org) to locate commercially-grown sensitive crops in your spray area, and adjust your application accordingly. Sensitive crops include orchards, vineyards, fruits and vegetables, organic crops, nurseries, and tree crops.

DriftWatch is a voluntary service; however, new commercial crop locations are added frequently. Applicators can register their business area in DriftWatch, which then allows them to receive e-mail notifications when sensitive crops are added to their spray area.

All outdoor applicators should benefit from this service, including

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension Educator

those making pesticide applications to roadsides, lawns and other turf sites, and agricultural fields. Please remember your non-commercial neighbors as well. Many of us have fruit trees and gardens on our acreages.

Unfortunately, while driving around recently, I have seen many row crops planted right to the edge of surface water streams, ponds, and wetlands. Keep in mind that most of our herbicide labels require a buffer, that is, the herbicide and some of our other pesticides can not be applied near any surface water within a certain number of feet depending on what the individual label says. To be sure you are in compliance with pesticide labels, consider the buffer strip program.

The Nebraska Buffer Strip Program was implemented in 1999 through fees assessed on pesticides registered in Nebraska. Cropland adjacent to perennial and seasonal streams, ponds, and wetlands can be enrolled in buffer strips, which are designed to filter agricultural chemicals such as fertilizers and pesticides. Two kinds of buffer strips are eligible — filter strips, which are narrow strips of grass; and riparian forest buffer strips containing trees and grass. The minimum widths are 20 and 55 feet, respectively; the maximum widths are 120 and 180 feet respectively. The program is designed to be used in conjunction with the USDA Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP), or other programs; however, it can be used by itself as well. Rental rates are calculated as follows:

1. For irrigated cropland where CRP, CREP, or other governmentally funded programs are also used, rental rates are $250 per acre, minus payments from the other programs.

2. For irrigated cropland where CRP, CREP, or other governmentally funded programs are not used, the rental rate is $225 per acre, minus any other program payments.

3. For non-irrigated cropland enrolled in CRP, CREP, or other governmentally funded programs, the rental rate is equal to 20 percent of the average CRP soil rental rate.

4. For non-irrigated cropland without CRP, CREP, or other governmentally funded programs, the rental rate per acre is equal to 120 percent of the average CRP soil rental rate, plus $5 per acre, minus the payment rate from any other programs.

In no case may payments from all programs exceed $250 per acre. Not a bad payment to take a few acres out of production to prevent polluting our surface water. Contact your local NRD or NRCS office to apply for these funds.

May is time to control leafy spurge

By Ruth Vonderohe
UNL Extension Educator

Leafy spurge is found primarily on untilled land such as pastures, range, roadsides, woodlands and farmsteads. Leafy spurge is a noxious weed according to the Nebraska Seed Law and the Nebraska Noxious Weed Law. It is also mildly poisonous to cattle and can effectively ruin the carrying capacity of patches where it is growing because cattle soon learn to avoid grazing near it.

Leafy spurge is a persistent, deep-rooted perennial which reproduces by seeds and roots. Leafy spurge has a somewhat woody crown below the soil surface. Each crown area produces several upright stems giving the plant a clump-like appearance. In addition, new stems arise from buds on lateral, secondary roots. Stem growth starts in April, making leafy spurge an early, vigorous competitor with forage and pasture plants. The plant bears numerous linear-shaped leaves with smooth margins. Leaves have a bluish-green color but turn yellowish or reddish-orange in late summer. If you break off a leaf, a white sap will run from the injury.

Leafy spurge produces a flat-topped cluster of yellowish-green, petal-like structures called bracts, which bear the true spurge flowers. The showy, yellow bracts appear in May and give the plant a "blooming" appearance. The true spurge flowers, however, develop about 10 days later and have small, green bracts. The distinction between bract appearance and true flowering is important for timing herbicide applications. Spring-applied herbicides are more effective when applied on plants with developing flower parts.

Seeds are borne in pods which contain three gray-brown, sometimes speckled, oblong, smooth seeds. At maturity, pods pop open, throwing seeds up to 15 feet from the parent plant. About 140 seeds are produced per stem and seeds may remain viable in the soil for up to eight years. Leafy spurge seed's peak germination time is later-April to early-May. Leafy spurge seedlings can vegetatively reproduce within 7-10 weeks after germination. New seedlings develop throughout the summer but usually do not flower during the first year.

The two best times to treat leafy spurge is at bud stage in the spring or in the fall about two weeks before the first frost.

For control methods, consult UNL Extension publication "Guide to Weed Management in Nebraska with Insecticide and Fungicide Information" (EC130), page 142 in the 2013 edition or page 138 in the 2012 edition. The publication is available at your local extension office.

Home of the Free, Thanks to the Brave.

In times of war and peace, the men and women of our military dedicate themselves to serving our country. Their commitment, patriotism, sacrifice and courage keep our country safe and strong. On Memorial Day, we honor those who have lost their lives in the line of duty, and salute those who serve today.
