Commissioners do away with work contracts

Larson says time for county to 'move forward'

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

The Wayne County Commissioners welcomed their newest member Tuesday with a busy docket that had the county looking at discussion of an interlocal agreement and removing individual contracts for road hours worked by the three-member board. The county talked with Maribeth Bobeldyke, a resident of the Beverly Hills Estates in the southwest corner of Wayne County, regarding the maintenance of roads in the subdivision. Bobeldyke asked if the county had any interest in helping the subdivision out with roads in the subdivision, which would require the county reaching agreements with several entities. "We can't do maintenance without an interlocal (agreement) with several different groups," Mark Mainelli, the county's road manager, said. "We basically can't without agreements with the SID, the state and the landowners association." The county would be taking on additional road miles to handle such things as snow removal in the subdivision, and it would open up a potential Pandora's Box if other subdivisions felt the county should add their subdivisions to the to-do list.

Mainelli said the county could enter into an interlocal agreement similar to one in Madison County and provide blading and gravel services a few times a year, but roads in the subdivision would have to be built up to state specifications.

The board decided to table the item, pending additional research before making a decision.

The board didn't need much time to decide on whether or not to continue offering contracts to themselves for road work performed outside of their traditional commissioner duties.

New District 1 representative Randy Larson felt the board needed to make a statement that it was moving forward from the recent controversy that led to the recall of longtime commissioner Kelvin Wurdeman by rejecting the individual contracts, which could pay each commissioner a potential $3,000 per year in additional income for work they perform on county roads, such as snow removal.

District 3 representative Jim Rabe was quick to point out that neither he, nor board chairman Dean Burbach, had ever made use of the contracts, inferring that Wurdeman was the only board member to take advantage of the extra income.

Lighting up Old Glory

July 4 is the day America celebrates its independence from British tyranny, and what better way to honor Old Glory than to light it up the way George Hinrich has at his residence north of Laurel. The Wayne Herald wishes everybody a safe and happy Independence Day.

Get ready to cluck at Chicken Show

The wait is over.

Next week marks a special weekend in Wayne – the weekend of the 33rd Annual Wayne Chicken Show.

Chicken Show festivities kick off on Friday, July 12 with "Henoween" activities downtown.

Friday's Flea Market and Sidewalk Sale will take place from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. The 10 a.m. Chamber Coffee will be hosted by US Cellular/Cellcom in the 200 block of Main Street.

The World's Largest Chicken Dance will begin at 6 p.m., followed by the first round of Egg Roulette at 6:30 p.m.

Don't miss the entertaining Cement Chicken Auction at 7 p.m. on the stage. More than 20 decorated chickens will be up for the highest bid. Proceeds from the sale of these fine feathered birds help fund the entertainment for the evening.

The Saucy Hot Wing Eating Contest will begin at 8 p.m. Register in advance at Pizza Hut or at their booth in the food court during Henoween.

Sweetwater will be performing for free entertainment Friday night at 8:30 p.m. Following Sweetwater will be "Light Up the Sky" Fireworks at 10 p.m. at Hank Overin Field, a teen dance sponsored by Big Red Country 104.9 and First Presbyterian Youth Group from 10 p.m. to midnight, and a street dance by Dave Merkel on Main Street from 10:30 p.m.-12:30 a.m.

Saturday, July 13 is full of Chicken Show games and activities. The Airport Fly-In, sponsored by Wayne Airport Authority and Becker Flying Service, will take place that morning. Wayne Rotary will provide a shuttle service from the airport to Bressler Park from 6 a.m. to noon.

The 5-kilometer Chicken Run and 1 Mile Walk will begin at 7:30 a.m. at Providence Medical Center (a different location than in previous years). Registration forms are available at the WAED Office, PMC or on www.chickenshow.com. Contact Heidi Keller at hkeller@providencemedical.com for more information.

The Wayne Classic Men's USSA Softball Tournament will take place all weekend. Contact Alex Koch at (402) 375-4803 for details. The beautiful Quilt Show can be viewed from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Masonic Lodge at 10th and Lincoln streets.

The Kiwanis Omelet Feed from 7:30-9:30 a.m. kicks off the events at Bressler Park. The suggested donation is $3.

The famous Wayne Chicken Show Parade starts at 9:30 a.m. Over 100 entries will be clucking their way up First and Main to Bressler Park. Don't miss it.

Eischeid sworn in as new City Councilman

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

Matt Eischeid, a trooper with the Nebraska State Patrol, was sworn in as the newest member of the Wayne City Council at Tuesday's meeting.

Eischeid will represent Ward 2 and replaces Dale Alexander, who submitted his resignation due to work obligations.

The council also approved the recommendation from the LB840 Committee in regard to a request from John and Molly Temme for $65,000 in LB840 funds for the purchase of four lots along East Seventh Street where Miss Molly's Drive Thru is located.

Council members discussed a number of stipulations for the interest-bearing loan, including combining the property into one lot and complying with state right-of-way regulations.

Council members, acting as the Community Development Agency, also amended the Redevelopment Contract for Angel Acres and authorized the issuance of an additional $150,000 in tax-increment financing (TIF) for the project.

Lou Benscoter, owner of the subdivision, told the Council that he had originally planned to develop one-half of the area at a time, but lots are selling in the subdivision, and he feels it would be a good idea to move forward with the entire project.

Jonah Brodersen came before the council with a request to have two ducks at his home for a 4-H project.

Council members asked about the recent denial of an ordinance allowing poultry in the city and determined that council could approve or deny any animal not specifically listed in the city code on a case-by-case basis.

Welcoming comforts are part of experience

By KATIE KASL
Of The Herald

Connie Hassler's room at her therapeutic massage business, Back in Touch, is a mecca of relaxation and one she's filled with welcoming comforts.

From the water fountain in the corner to the drop of essential oil she puts on a sheet covering the face cradle of her table, Hassler relies on the little things – in addition to her massage skills – to make sure every customer's visit is as serene as possible.

"I really, really like my room," she said, adding that it's "very relaxing."

In fact, the entire shop sounds, smells, looks and feels welcoming; and, Hassler laughed, if the staff of Back in Touch served food, they'd have every sense covered.

"Atmosphere is part of the experience," she said.

So music plays, and lights go out when a client stops by. In Hassler's room, they're greeted by a warmer and a handmade quilt on the massage table, plus a mural and a poster of John Lennon (both done by her son Mike, an art teacher in Wakefield) on the walls.

"A half-hour goes by like that," Hassler said with a snap of her fingers. "One hour goes by like that."

Before she opened Back in Touch in October of 1997, Hassler had a job in mental health addiction in Sioux City. When a foray into massage therapy proved rewarding, she changed careers, working by herself for a couple of years in a shop in the Mineshaft Mall before deciding it was too much for her to handle on her own.

"I was just so busy in two years that I couldn't keep up with the demand, so I advertised and went from there," Hassler said.

Her search for an extra pair of hands led her to Shanna Rastede, who joined Hassler in December 1999.

In June 2004, the shop moved to its current location at 114 West Third Street. Since then, Hassler has hired two other part-time employees, Melody Storm and Lisa Leseberg, and established an online presence. (Look for "Back in Touch Therapeutic Massage" on Facebook.)

"It's been very successful," Hassler said of the business. "It took off, (and) it's continued to stay busy."

Hassler explained that she's "blessed" to have her regulars and admitted to a "very loyal and faithful clientele."

In fact, she still sees some of the same people who visited her during her first months at her location in the

Up and running again

A re-activation ceremony was held July 1 for the Wayne Action Club. The Aktion Club, a club formed by the Wayne Kiwanis Club, serves individuals in the community living with disabilities. The group recently completed their first community service project, helping plant flowers on Main Street in Wayne. Other community projects planned are collecting food for the Food Pantry and planting trees around the community. As part of the re-activation ceremony, several members of the Fremont Action Club traveled to Wayne to congratulate the Wayne Club and share with those in attendance some of the activities and fund-raisers conducted by the Fremont club. Pictured here are several of members of the Wayne and Fremont Clubs with Kiwanis Club sponsors Charlotte Easland (left) and Sarah Townsend (third from left in the front row) and Sonja King, Kiwanis Club member who also assists with the Wayne members.

Wayne Rotary Club recognizes several members as Paul Harris Fellows

The Wayne Rotary Club recently presented 10 Paul Harris Fellow (PHF) awards to members and members of their families.

A Paul Harris Fellow award is recognition of a Rotarian who has reached the $1000 level of giving to The Rotary Foundation. Many of the 10 awards were for multiple PHF meaning the Rotarians pictured have already reached the $1000 mark and were on their 2nd, 3rd, or more Paul Harris Fellow recognition to the Foundation.

The mission of The Rotary Foundation is to enable Rotarians to advance world understanding, goodwill, and peace through the improvement of health, the support of education, and the alleviation of poverty. The Foundation is a not-for-profit corporation supported solely by voluntary contribution from Rotarians and friends of the Foundation who share its vision of a better world.

The Wayne Rotary club was founded 26 years ago and has a history of strong support of The Rotary Foundation with 57 Paul Harris Fellow awards and total contribution of just under $93,000. The club has consistently ranked in the top 10 clubs (out of 45) in per capita giving in the last several years.

City Council Meetings

Regular City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in city hall at Third and Pearl Streets.

Strategic Planning Retreat 2.0

With the appointment of Matt Eischeid to fill the vacancy in Ward 2, five of the eight council members will have served on the council for seven months or less. At the end of the council meeting last night, the mayor invited the council members to spend some time to get to know each other's concerns and goals for the community. Topics of priority to the council members were:

Community Business Growth and the use of sales tax LB840 incentive funds

Community Business and Residential Growth and the use of Tax Increment Financing incentives

Should curb appeal/architectural requirements be required for new apartment construction using city construction incentives?

Should architectural requirements be required for new apartment construction and commercial buildings everywhere in Wayne?

What is the best future use of the 26 acres of land currently used for the lagoon when it is retired in a couple of years? (Recreation, Commercial, Industrial?)

Getting started on the city's 2013-2014 budget

Marking parallel parking spaces and timing of stoplights in downtown

Property maintenance in Wayne and Code Enforcement process? (guidance requested by staff)

Exterior area lighting discussed

When the sun sets and you need to go outside, the last thing you typically consider is how efficient your yard or area lights are. If you are concerned about what you pay for electricity; however, maybe you should. In fact, if you still are using one of those 175-watt mercury vapor yard lights from dusk until dawn, it is costing you around $100 a year.

Although many incandescent, fluorescent, and mercury vapor outdoor lighting systems have been replaced with metal halide or high-pressure sodium systems, new light-emitting diode (LED) technology is providing even greater savings. A comparable 65-watt LED fixture provides superior quality to that old mercury vapor light and uses less than a third of the energy.

LED lighting provides several potential advantages over metal halide and high-pressure sodium sources. Well-designed LED outdoor luminaires provide the required surface illuminance using less energy and with improved uniformity. LED luminaires usually have significantly longer life (50,000 hours or more, compared to 15,000 to 35,000 hours) and maintain their lighting level output better over the course of their life. Another LED advantage is that they contain no mercury, lead, or other known disposal hazards. And unlike mercury vapor, metal halide, and high-pressure sodium lights, LEDs come on instantly without a warm up time or relighting delay.

When shopping for a new LED light, note that product quality can vary significantly among manufacturers, so due diligence is required in their selection and use. Here are a few things to consider:

Durability

Outdoor lights often become perches for birds and the debris that comes with them. The luminaire should not collect and retain dirt or water on its top side, and the optical chamber should remain clean. Ask about the long-term reliability of gaskets and seals relative to the expected useful life of the LED. Many manufacturers will warrant their fixtures if it fails in less than five years.

Community Theatre bringing "Avenue Q" to town July 18-21

By KATIE KASL
Of The Herald

When Wayne Community Theatre's most recent musical production, "Avenue Q," hits the stage later this month, its cast will feature some human characters and some not-so-human ones.

The play, which has been a hit on Broadway, includes not only flesh-and-blood performers but also puppets. However, unlike other shows featuring such objects - think "Sesame Street," which is actually partly where the inspiration for the musical comes from - the puppeteers in "Avenue Q" are not hidden from view, meaning that the audience must be flexible and willing to focus more on the puppet and less on the person operating it and, also, that the cast must be willing to work with these non-human performers.

"One of my biggest concerns is to ask anyone in a very short period of time to maneuver a puppet to sing and dance at the same time," Melissa Derechailo, director of the musical, explained.

Though the task of operating a puppet may seem daunting, she said the actors and actresses are adapting well to the challenge.

"The cast has done a great job, and they're working very hard," Derechailo said.

Auditions for "Avenue Q" were held in early May, and the show is scheduled for performances at 7 p.m. on Thursday, July 18; Friday, July 19 and Saturday, July 20, plus a 2 p.m. matinee on Sunday July 21. Tickets for each show are $10 apiece, though a freewill offering will be accepted at the Sunday performance, and will be sold until the seating capacity at the theatre has been reached.

"I looked at a lot of shows," Derechailo said about selecting a musical. "The process takes a while."

When establishing criteria for the play, she considered how many people would audition. Derechailo explained that she didn't want a show with a cast that was too male-heavy, as, traditionally, not many men try out for parts. She also didn't want anything too large-scale, since performances are going to be held in the Majestic Theatre and space there is limited.

When it came down to it, "Avenue Q" fit the bill.

"I just really loved the show, and I've never directed before," Derechailo said, adding that she's filling in for the usual musical director, who was unable to take part this summer.

Not only did "Avenue Q," prove to be a good fit for the WCT, but it's also a show Derechailo was drawn to as a director.

"You really have to believe in the show," she said. "It has to speak to you."

If it doesn't, she explained, directing isn't nearly as fun, and the whole process becomes kind of "meh."

"It's a really fun show," Derechailo said, adding that the Tony-award-winning play is "very contemporary" and has a pop-rock feel to its musical ensembles.

"It has some good themes about finding yourself and figuring out your place in life," she said.

Despite being reminiscent of a PBS children's show, the puppets in "Avenue Q" will face a variety of subjects that are more mature than their television counterparts. Because of this, the play, which Derechailo describes as "Sesame Street for adults," is rated PG-13 and is not meant for all ages.

Whether or not it's fit for certain children is subjective and completely dependent on the guardian of the kids in question.

"Parents have to make that decision themselves," she said, explaining that the musical should be treated just like a movie.

Habitat for Humanity gets house frame set

Wayne Habitat for Humanity volunteers finished framing on Saturday, June 29 during a raise the walls event for the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity.

Gary French serves as the lead builder for the project, which is being built on a lot donated by Mike and Bonnie Fluent.

The house is located at 114 South Lincoln Street in Wayne. Juan and Maria Vargas, soon-to-be new owners of the home, helped in the building work as part of the required 'Sweat Equity' through the Habitat for Humanity program. The Vargas family includes Maria, Ana, Adriana, Elizabeth and Jasmine.

This home will be the fourth one built in Wayne since 2003.

The build is on-going, and more volunteers are needed in all areas and of all skill levels. For more information or to become a volunteer, please contact Don Buryanek at (402) 375-7282 or (402) 369-0546.

Elderfest quilt auction set for Chicken Show

Five of the Elderfest Year Quilts constructed for past celebrations and signed by all those in attendance at each event will be put on a silent auction during the Wayne Chicken Show.

The quilts will be displayed at Miss Molly's downtown location, Friday, July 12 from 4-8 p.m. and Saturday, July 13 from 9 a.m.-12 p.m. The winners will be announced Saturday at 12 p.m.

Proceeds from the auction will be used to defray expenses for the 10th year 2014 Elderfest celebration.

"Place your bids and own a piece of our local history," Cinda Brudigam, a member of the Elderfest Committee who is organizing the quilt auction, said.

WSC counseling center accredited by IACS group

The Wayne State College Counseling Center has been re-accredited through June 30, 2014 by the International Association of Counseling Services, Inc (IACS), an Alexandria, Va.-based organization of United States, Canadian and Australian counseling agencies.

The Wayne State College Counseling Center was evaluated by IACS against high standards of counseling practice and was found to offer competent and reliable professional services to its clientele. Approval by IACS is also dependent upon evidence of continuing professional development as well as demonstration of excellence of counseling performance. The Wayne State College Counseling Center has met requirements for this accreditation since 1999.

The Wayne State College Counseling Center is directed by Lin Brummels and offers personal, academic, disability, nutrition and career counseling. A number of services are available including substance abuse education and evaluation, violence prevention and group support for some campus organizations. It is one of only two college or university counseling centers in Nebraska accredited by IACS.

Ladies Night Out

Hats of all sizes and shapes were a common theme in downtown Wayne on Thursday evening as part of the second annual Ladies Night Out. This year's theme was "Sip and See Shopping Spree," and those in attendance were encouraged to wear hats. Local merchants and numerous other vendors lined the streets and offered attendees the chance to check out offerings such as purses, crafts, jewelry and cookware. A number of those participating offered shoppers food and drinks as well. Those who had their tickets stamped at each of the participating vendors were entered into a drawing for a number of door prizes and gift baskets. Due to the overwhelming success of the event, organizers are already making plans for next year's event.

Contracts

"I haven't turned in any time, and you (Burbach) haven't either," he said. "I don't see that we need to ever turn anything in."

The contracts were originally put in place to protect the county in situations where a county board member might be involved in a claim resulting from his use of county equipment. County Clerk Deb Finn said she checked with the county's insurance representative and was told that the county's insurance policy listed the commissioners separately to make sure they are covered on all county equipment, so the contract was not needed.

"In my own opinion, I can't see that I would use this and consider (the work) part of my job," Larson said. "We're at a turning point here with trying to move forward, and I see no more perfect opportunity than right now to change that, and I recommend that we don't need this (contract)."

Rabe agreed before the board's unanimous vote to nix the contracts, adding, "We can still do the work and don't need to turn our hours in."

The county board also agreed unanimously to advertise for bids from area contractors for hauling asbestos from the scene of a fire earlier this year east of Wayne.

Emergency manager Nic Kimmittz and Sheriff LeRoy Janssen talked with the board about the issue, noting that the asbestos has to be removed and taken to an approved waste facility for proper disposal. The nearest state-approved site for handling asbestos waste is at a waste facility near David City in Butler County.

Larson said that if a company can move the waste at a cost of less than $5 a mile per truck, they might be able to get in under the $5,000 threshold before bids would be required.

After some discussion, the board decided to go ahead and advertise bids in The Wayne Herald and Morning Shopper and would award the bid at a later meeting. The county is required by state and federal law to show progress on removing asbestos from the property, which is located just east of Wayne.

In other action, the Board:

– approved special liquor permits for the Wayne County Ag Society for the upcoming County Fair and an August wedding reception and dance scheduled at the fairgrounds.

– renewed its HVAC service agreement with Trane of Ralston.

– authorized the county inspector to go ahead with tie outs and remounting of land monuments for bridges along the recently completed Highway 15 repaving project.

– approved voting credentials for Janssen as the county's representative to the NACo convention later this summer in El Paso, Texas.

– appointed Larson to vacant positions on boards where the county is represented. Larson will join Burbach on the Area Agency on Aging, join Rabe on the Northeast Nebraska Juvenile Services board and serve on the Northeast Nebraska Economic Development and Wayne Business and Industry boards.

The board's next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, July 16 at 9 a.m. in the county courthouse.

City attorney Amy Miller swears in Matt Eischeid as the newest member of the Wayne City Council during Tuesday's meeting.

After discussion, the council voted 5-2 in favor of the request with council members Jennifer Sievers and Matt Eischeid voting against and council member Jill Brodersen abstaining.

Approval was given for the purchase of two pickups for use by city crews.

A bid of $24,421 from Arnie's Ford Mercury was approved for the purchase of a three-quarter-ton, four-wheel drive pickup to replace a 1995 truck currently being used by the city. Cost for the vehicle will be split between the water and sewer departments.

After discussion, a bid of $25,640 was accepted from Arnie's Ford Mercury for the purchase of a one-ton, four-wheel drive pickup for the electrical distribution department.

Garry Poutre, public works superintendent, spoke to the council on the two bids received, and noted that the low bid of $25,499 was received from Husker Auto in Lincoln, but additional work would need to be done on the vehicle before it would become part of the city's fleet. Also discussed was the cost for the city employees to travel to Lincoln to get the vehicle.

It was noted that the city is required to accept the lowest responsible bid, and after taking into consideration the other details, council members voted to award the bid to Arnie's Ford Mercury.

Council members Jill Brodersen, Kaki Ley and Jon Haase volunteered to be a part of a committee to review requirements for architectural reviews for new structures built within the city.

Mayor Ken Chamberlain told the council that while the issue first came to light due to a number of apartment complexes being built in the city, he wanted the review to include all buildings and projects within the city that use any type of city incentive to fund the project.

Wendy Vawser spoke to the council on the item, asking if some type of ordinance could be drawn up to ensure that new buildings fit into the neighborhood in which they are built.

"I am all for buildings, but some of those that have been built recently stick out like a sore thumb. I would like to see some type of ordinance that says they need to fit the neighborhood," she said.

Chamberlain re-appointed Jill Sweetland to a three-year term on the Planning Commission.

Following the regular portion of the meeting, the council recessed and conducted a committee-of-the-whole discussion on the upcoming year's budget.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, July 16 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Otis, Colo. and driven by Gary Gibson of Pueblo, Colo. collided when the spreader slowed to turn left onto a county road and was struck by the semi-tractor and trailer one mile north of the Highway 98 and Highway 57 Junction.

The semi-tractor and trailer struck the fertilizer spreader as it attempted to avoid a collision and pass it on Highway 57 but then left the roadway, going into the west ditch before it struck a tree and caught on fire.

The driver of the semi sustained burns on his left arm and back and also sustained a possible head injury. The other occupant of the semi, the driver's 14-year-old son, Tristen Gibson, sustained only minor injuries. All three vehicle occupants were transported to Faith Regional Health Services in Norfolk by Winside Rescue Units.

The driver of the fertilizer spreader received minor facial injuries. Seat belts were in use in each vehicle.

The semi-tractor was considered a total loss, and the fertilizer spreader sustained serious damage but was not considered a total loss.

Highway 57 was closed for approximately five hours to clean up the damaged vehicles.

The Wayne County Sheriff's Office was assisted at the scene by the Winside and Carroll Fire and Rescue Departments, the Nebraska State Patrol and the Nebraska Department of Roads.

The Wayne Dirt Devils 18-under softball team more than held their own with the elite softball teams in Nebraska, taking runner-up honors in the USSSA Class A state tournament this past weekend in Lincoln. Team members are (front) McKenna Gibson, Jalyn Zeiss, Maddie Morris, Caitlin Fehring, Cassidy Miller, Emily Leeper, Hannah Gamble, (back) assistant coach Dave Hix, Shelby Wobken, Abbie Hix, Megan Hoffart, Lauren Gilliland, Jade Bottger, Kendall Gamble, Sydney Harris, Victoria Kranz, Kristin Carroll and coach Kiley Koch.

Devils battle Nebraska's elite, finish second in USSSA state

To be the best, you have to go up against the best.

The Wayne Dirt Devils 18-under softball team certainly made themselves a better team over the weekend, as they held their own quite well against elite Nebraska teams and finished second in the USSSA Class A state tournament this past weekend in Lincoln.

The Devils, which boast four college-age players on their team – two junior college and two playing at Wayne State – faced off against teams that were loaded with Div. I talent, many of whom are playing at Nebraska or Creighton.

Their coach, Kiley Koch, was extremely happy with the effort the Wayne girls put forth at Doris Bair Park.

"That's the best seven games in a row I've ever seen these girls play, and it was against some great competition," she said. "It was a great weekend overall."

The Devils opened play Saturday morning with a 2-0 win over Nebraska Gold, as Cassidy Miller threw a two-hit shutout, striking out 10. Offensively, Jalyn Zeiss and Kristin Carroll each had two hits. Zeiss tripled and scored a run, while Carroll doubled and had an RBI. Abbie Hix added an RBI single, and Shelby Wobken and Victoria Kranz also had hits.

In their second game, Wayne continued to play well in a 3-0 win over Nebraska Sizzle. Miller again got the win, tossing a three-hitter with nine strikeouts. She tripled and had two singles at the plate, while Zeiss had a single and two stolen bases, and Kranz and Caitlin Fehring added hits.

Wayne lost its first game of the tournament to eventual champion Nebraska Gold, 2-1. The Nebraska Gold team was comprised almost entirely of recruits to the University of Nebraska, and Wayne managed to hold their own quite well, as they were out-hit 6-5. Miller struck out three and walked one in the losing effort. Hix had two hits, while Fehring homered, and Miller and Sydney Harris each had hits.

Wayne stayed alive with a 5-4 win over the Omaha Quakes. Shelby Wobken got the win in the circle, scattering four hits and striking out two. McKenna Gibson scored two runs, while Zeiss and Carroll added hits, and each scored a run.

Wayne stayed alive in the losers bracket with a 4-1 win over Echoes Elite Gold out of Omaha. Miller and Wobken combined on the win. Fehring had two hits, including a triple, and added two RBIs and two runs scored. Kranz was 2-for-3 with a run scored, Miller added two hits and an RBI, and Zeiss and Hix added singles.

Wayne reached the championship game with a tough 1-0 win over the Blue Diamonds. Miller held the Diamonds scoreless, striking out six and allowing two hits and two walks. She also had the game-winning RBI in the bottom of the last inning, scoring Hannah Gamble with the winning run. Zeiss had two hits, while Hix and Gibson added singles.

In the last game, Wayne fell to Nebraska Gold 11-0. Miller got the only hit of the game, and Carroll and Wobken combined in the pitcher's circle.

Two unbeatens set to reunite in Wayne next week

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

While the last undefeated American Legion state championship team in Wayne is gathering next weekend during the annual Wayne Chicken Show, another undefeated state championship baseball team is planning a get-together that same weekend.

The 1968 Wayne High baseball team, coached by Mike Mallette, finished a perfect 11-0, winning three of their games on no-hitters, to win the Class B state high school baseball championship, defeating Norris 8-1 in the championship game at the old University of Nebraska baseball diamond.

The team blistered the ball at the plate that spring, hitting a very fat .352 as a team. The first 10 players on the team, including two pitchers, hit at a .368 clip, according to a story taken that year from The Wayne Herald.

Randy Helgren led the team that season with 17 runs and 16 stolen bases. Doug Farrens was the top hitter on the team, hitting a very impressive .433 with seven extra-base hits among his 13 safeties in 30 trips to the plate. Dave Tietgen hit .376 and led the team in RBIs with 13, while Helgren hit .323.

George Eynon was simply unhit-table that spring, striking out 78 batters and having a hand in three no-hitters in the 1968 season. He led off the season with a 6-0 no-no against Allen, blanking Dodge 15-0 and combining with reliever Wayne Magdanz on a 10-0 whitewashing of Seward Concordia in the state semifinals.

Wayne got to the state tournament with an exciting 4-3 win over O'Neill in the district finals at Wayne. Many of the players on that team thought that was the team's toughest game of the season, as O'Neill was also undefeated com-

Drew Carroll lines a base hit for the Wayne Seniors during tournament play over the weekend in Lincoln. The Seniors went 2-2, winning their first two before losing on Saturday and Sunday.

Seniors finish 2-2 in Lincoln tourney

The Wayne American Legion Seniors played well and finished the weekend 2-2 at a tournament in Lincoln.

On Friday, the Seniors opened with a thrilling win over Kearney Little Casesar's, posting a 1-0 win. Wayne scored the game's only run in the top of the fifth inning, as Danny Melena brought home Joey Lenihan with a single, one of four hits in the game for Wayne.

Corey Doorlag got the win on the mound, striking out nine and scattering seven hits in six innings before Drew Carroll pitched a quiet seventh for the save. Doorlag had half of Wayne's four hits, with Carroll picking up the other single.

On Saturday afternoon, Wayne's bats came up big in a 10-run fourth inning, which helped the locals to an 11-8 win over Dinsdale Auto of Lincoln. Wayne trailed 2-1 before coming up with its big inning, then held off a late comeback to seal the win.

Doorlag, Brady Soden and Jordan Backer each had three hits to lead Wayne's 12-hit attack. Carroll, Lenihan and Bradley Longe also added singles. Soden got the win with five innings of solid work, striking out four and allowing six hits.

Wayne's first loss in the tournament came Saturday evening, as they dropped an 8-7 thriller to Lincoln Amigo's. Wayne scored five in the third to take the early lead, but

Fire still burns, but Zeiss says it's time to hang it up

Four years ago, my first writing assignment as managing/sports editor of The Wayne Herald was to cover the Wayne American Legion Seniors as they hosted the Class B state tournament at Hank Overin Field.

Standing in the third-base coaches box, waving players home and offering words of encouragement to his hitters, was Jeff Zeiss. He's been a part of the Wayne baseball program for a long time, and after the Seniors were eliminated that summer, he mentioned that he thought he was going to hang it up at the end of the season.

Four years later, he's finally getting around to turning in his uniform.

Next Tuesday is Seniors Night for the Wayne American Legion baseball team, and the Seniors will play Norfolk in a nine-inning game in their final home game of the season. It will also be Zeiss' final home game as a member of the Legion baseball coaching staff, ending a run of almost 30 years as the program's mentor.

While he insists that next week's final home game be all about the seniors' final home game and not his, there's no denying the influence he has had as the team's coach over the years, a run that started after graduating from Wayne High School in 1980.

Zeiss played baseball at Wayne State and took advantage of an opportunity to help legendary coach Hank Overin out with the program.

"I helped him out in the summers, and one game he threw me out at third base and said 'Do your thing,'" Zeiss remembered. "I think I gave our cleanup hitter the bunt sign with runners on first and second."

Aside from two short periods of time away from town, Zeiss has been a part of the Wayne American Legion baseball program for more than 35 years, dating back to his playing days, where he was part of a state championship team in high school as well.

In 1992, after marrying his wife, Jacki, and moving back to Wayne from Kansas, he was hired to help Overin and Jerry Morris coach the Midgets (now Juniors) in 1992. When Morris moved to Omaha a couple of years later, and Overin retired not long after, the program was all Zeiss' and he continued

Jeff Zeiss has spent most of the past 30 years hanging out along the third-base line as coach of the Wayne American Legion baseball teams. He will be stepping down at the end of this season, ending more than three decades of involvement in the town's summer Legion program as a player and coach.

Doerr gets academic Div. II nod

Mickey Doerr of Wayne State has been selected to the 2013 Capital One Academic All-America Div. II Men's Track/Cross Country Team.

Team members are selected by the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA). Doerr received second-team All-American honors, marking the second straight year that he has been named Academic All-American after earning third-team recognition last season as a sophomore.

Doerr

Doerr, a junior from Bloomfield, recorded a perfect 4.0 grade-point average majoring in history and science education. A sprinter on the Wildcat men's track and field team, Doerr placed a season-best second in the 200-meter dash at the Mount Marty Twilight Meet with a time of 22.76 seconds. He also had season-best times of 11.41 seconds in the 100-meter dash (UNL Pre Drake Meet) and 51.55 seconds in the 400-meter dash at the Nebraska Invite. Doerr also ran a leg on the 1,600-meter relay team that finished seventh at the NSIC Outdoor Championships.

Amigo's came back with four in the fifth to take a 7-6 advantage. Wayne would tie it in the top of the sixth, only to see the home team reclaim the lead and go on to the win.

Longe and Soden each had two hits in a losing effort for Wayne, while Melena, Carroll, Lenihan and Doorlag added hits. Melena and Longe each scored twice, and Lenihan had two RBI's. Brandon Martian took the loss in relief of Lenihan.

Wayne's final game of the tournament didn't end well, as they dropped a 10-0 decision to the Millard Sox, falling to 18-5 overall on the season. The Sox limited Wayne to three hits and broke the game open with three in the third and three more in the fifth to go on to the win.

Backer, Carroll and Doorlag all had hits for Wayne. Longe took the loss on the hill.

Devils 14-under team 1-2 in South Dakota

The Wayne Dirt Devils 14-under team went north of the border to compete in the South Dakota State Tournament, going 1-2 in weekend action.

The Dirt Devils opened up the weekend with a 7-1 win over Diamond Thunder. Wayne brought some thunder of its own, as Danica Schaefer hit a home run and Jamie Gamble added a double to lead an eight-hit attack. Hannah Belt, Ashton Gibson, Kiara Hochstein, Jenna Trenhaile, Sierra Scardino and Taylor Gamble also added hits. Gibson got the win in the circle, scattering five hits while striking out five.

The Devils ran into a tough matchup in their second game, dropping an 11-1 decision to the Dakota Fury. Nicole Craft tripled, and Hochstein scored the team's only run. Belt struck out five and allowed nine hits in a losing effort.

In their final game, the Rapid City Kraze outscored the Devils 11-1 to knock them out of the tournament. Schaefer had an RBI, and Belt scored a run for Wayne.

In other action, the Devils split a doubleheader with Tekamah on Wednesday, winning the opener 12-1 and losing the nightcap 7-4.

In the first game, Schaefer tripled, singled and scored twice; Gamble had two hits and scored twice; and Gibson doubled and scored a run. Bent tossed a no-hitter, striking out three and walking two.

In the nightcap, Schaefer, Gamble and Craft each had hits, while Taylor Gamble, Jamie Gamble, Craft and Jacque Sherman scored. Gibson took the loss in the circle, striking out eight in a losing effort.

Zeiss

coaching both teams until 2010, when now-Wayne High coach Adam Hoffman came on board to take over the Seniors program.

Zeiss is still part of the team as Hoffman's assistant on the Seniors team and still has the energy that he's had since he got into coaching 30 years ago.

"I still have a love for the game and the fire's still burning," he said. "I want our kids to go out and compete, and, if they give their best effort and can look at themselves after the game and say they gave their best, I can live with that."

It's a philosophy that has served Zeiss and the Wayne program pretty well over the years. Although Wayne hasn't won a state title (the Juniors were runners-up in 2007), there have been a lot of quality athletes and solid teams that Zeiss has coached.

Coaching has changed over the years, and coaches have to be willing to adapt, Zeiss said. That has become even more of a challenge these days as more demands are made on the time and energy of our young people.

"They're being required to be at so many different things, between work and lifting weights at school and camps for other sports, and a lot of other towns around the area have the same challenge," he said. "The challenge is to make sure you have enough players, and we've had to bump up some Ponies to play Juniors and make sure Wayne continues to have a Juniors and Seniors team, because a town our size should have both teams."

And it's not just the time demands of other sports that distract today's kids.

"The challenges are a lot different today from what they were years ago," he said. "We used to live out here (at the ballpark) as players, and you don't see that a lot now with today's kids, between all of those demands and social media and video games. There's just not enough time these days."

And while the fire still burns after all these years, the responsibilities in Zeiss' life have changed. His kids have grown up around Hank Overin Field, but now grandkids are starting to enter the picture, as well as a job change and the addition of head girls basketball coaching duties at Wayne High.

"Some days when I come home, I basically say 'Hi, Jacki' and 'Bye, Jacki' and am on my way, and I want to spend these coming years with my family," he said. "Jalyn will be a senior, and Jake's at Briar Cliff now, so there are a lot of changes in the family, and I'm content with (stepping down)."

Zeiss said he carries a ton of memories of players, situations and games over the years, including the opportunity to coach both of his sons, Jake and Jason. And while he may be stepping away from the day-to-day duties on the baseball diamond, Zeiss said he'll have a ton of wonderful memories to look back on.

"Other than my family, this is one of the greatest things I've been a part of, and the relationships I've developed over the years are something I'll always treasure," he said. "The kids that I've coached have come through here and given a great effort, and there are a lot of great memories of those kids and those teams that I'll cherish."

Juniors win two of three, fall in league

The Wayne American Legion Juniors won two of three games in action last week before losing a tough battle in Ralph Bishop League tournament action.

On June 22, Wayne outlasted Louisville 6-3. Jake Lutt had a pair of hits, Noah Braun had a two-run double, Lucas Longe had a two-run hit, and Jack Belt scored twice for the winners. Lutt went the distance on the mound, striking out six.

"Jake threw really well and kept us in the game," coach Joe Wendte said. "When he pitches like that, we can play with anybody." Two days later, Wayne battled Battle Creek on the road and came up a run short, losing 3-2. Curtis Moeller pitched well in a losing effort, striking out seven. Lutt, Braun and Brook Bowers all had hits, and Bowers and Moeller scored runs. Wayne defeated Logan View in action Friday in Hooper, 12-5. The team did a good job working the count at the plate and got some solid hits, highlighted by Longe's double.

"We put the ball in play with two strikes and got some key hits that way," Wendte said. "We need to find our identity and come up with ways to score runs the way we did in this game."

On Monday, Wayne lost a 2-1 decision to Wisner, with the deciding run coming on a controversial double down the line that allowed Wisner to score the deciding run.

Belt, Braun and Mike Reyes all added hits for Wayne. Braun scored three times and had three RBIs, while Belt and Longe each scored twice. Belt got the win, striking out eight in six innings before giving way to Lutt, who pitched an inning of scoreless relief.

Wayne will play in consolation action this week before heading back home to Hank Overin Field for district tournament action, which begins next Friday, July 12.

ing into the game. Many of O'Neill's players were also in the 1966 Midgets state tournament that the undefeated Wayne squad won and came into that tournament undefeated as well.

In the championship game, Eynon threw a complete-game two-hitter after throwing two innings earlier in the day against Concordia. He gave up a solo home run in the second after Wayne had staked him to a three-run lead in the top of the inning. The only other hit he gave up that game was a one-out triple in the fourth, finishing with seven strikeouts and two walks. It stayed close until the end, when a two-run single by Steve Kerl in the sixth gave Wayne some breathing room, as they broke the game open with four runs in the inning before adding their final run in the seventh. The team returned home to a heroes' welcome, as a motorcade of about 40 cars met the team at the Wakefield corner on Highway 35 east of town and escorted them home. Once in town, the team earned a visit from then-Gov. Norbert Tiemann, who had been in Wayne earlier in the day for a town hall meeting at the Wayne City Auditorium.

Seniors on the state championship team included Eynon, Farrens, Gordie Jorgensen, Steve Kerl, Larry Hix and Lynn Lessmann. Several of the players on the 1968 high school state championship team were also part of the undefeated 1966 Class B American Legion Midgets state championship squad that went 24-0 under coach Hank Overin.

The team will meet along with the 1966 American Legion state championship team after the Wayne Chicken Show parade Saturday at 11 a.m. at Bressler Park.

Those taking part in the Wayne Isaac Walton League's annual Youth Fishing Derby wait patiently for the fish to bite.

Fishing derby attracts young fishermen

The Wayne Isaac Walton League held the annual Youth Fishing Derby on June 15. A total of 38 youth and their families participated in the event. Despite only a few fish being caught, everyone had a good time. A casting competition was held to determine prize distribution.

"The Ikes would like to thank all local businesses who donated to the event, and also, we would like to offer a special thanks for the memorial donation from Harold Seevers family," Erin Eilers, Ikes president, said. The monetary donation was used to purchase additional prizes for the derby. Because very few fish were caught, the Nebraska Game & Parks was contacted and recently stocked approximately 1,500 fingerling bass into the lake. Additionally, the Ikes organization is looking into getting bluegill stocked, as well, this year.

Ponies finish on a good note with third-place finish, league wins

The Wayne Ponies baseball team finished the season on a good note, winning their final league game of the season and taking third-place honors in the Wisner Livestock Baseball Tournament. In tournament action, Wayne opened with a tough 2-1 loss to eventual champion Dodge/Howells. The Ponies got a good pitching effort from Adam Bentjen, who went all the way and struck out five in a losing effort. On Saturday, Wayne stayed alive in the double-elimination tournament, defeating Logan View 7-3 and knocking out the host Wisner squad, 9-5. That earned them a rematch with Dodge/Howells, who took a high-scoring affair by a 13-

10 count to knock Wayne out of the tournament. Caden Korth struck out five in the win over Logan View, while Tyler Lutt pitched 5 2/3 scoreless innings in the win over Wisner. Bentjen came on in relief in the last game to take his second loss to Dodge/Howells. Offensively, Tucker Nichols had the hot bat with five hits for Wayne. Bentjen had four hits, including a double; Korth had a homer and three total hits; Justin Dean doubled and recorded three hits; Lutt added three hits; and Lucas Longe, Ryan Jaixen and Brennan O'Reilly each had two hits. In their final league game of the season, Hunter Jorgensen had a big day in helping Wayne to a 10-0, five-inning shutout over Lyons. Jorgensen dominated the Lyons bats, throwing a complete game with 11 strikeouts. He helped his own cause with a long solo homer to highlight a 10-hit attack. Jaixen, Nichols and Beau Bowers each had two hits in the win. In other action, Wayne defeated Tekamah-Herman Gold, 8-5, on Wednesday. O'Reilly had three hits in the win while Will Anderson added two hits, including a double. Jorgensen went 5 1/3 innings and struck out five before Tyler Lutt struck out three to get the save. Wayne's Ponies finished the league docket with a 7-3 mark after starting the season 0-2.

The Winside Sons of the American Legion recently presented a check to the Winside Q125 committee. The presentation was made during a recent Q125 fundraising 5 Point Pitch Tournament. Pictured are representatives of both groups. They include (front) Susan Rabe, Dave Bloomfield, Trevor Topp, Jeff Farren, Brian Petzholdt, Bud Neel, Daryl Mundil and Gene Jensen.

The Winside Sons of the American Legion made a $1,000 donation to the Winside Museum recently. The money will go toward re-roofing the museum. Involved in the presentation were SAL members (left) Daryl Mundil, Brian Petzoldt, Mark Bloomfield, Gene Jensen and Jeff Farren and Museum representative Bill Burris.

Community, national projects benefit from 52 Gun Raffle

Last year, Winside Sons of the Legion Post 252 conducted a 52-gun raffle. Tickets were sold and a total of 52 guns were given away to lucky winners, one gun each week. A large number of local projects and organizations benefited, including Girl and Boy Scouts, The Winside Museum, Q125, 4-H shooting organizations, deer blinds at the Elks Club for wounded veterans, Vets home in Norfolk (activity fund and Heros Park), Winside Post Prom, Winside American Legion and Legion Auxiliary, Winside and Carroll Volunteer Fire Departments, Winside and Carroll Public Libraries, Nick Wylie Benefit, Junior Law Scholarship, two Sons of the American Legion Scholarships, Wayne Food Pantry, Carroll Baseball park and PRIDE in Winside organization. In addition, money was sent to national veterans organizations, including Ronald McDonald House, Mercy Meals, Children's Miracle Network, Child Welfare Foundation, Legion National Emergency Fund, Legacy Scholarship Fund for those children who have lost a parent during wartime and Husker Salute. The SAL is now in the process of selling tickets for a second 52 Gun raffle. Tickets are available from any SAL member or at the banks in Wayne, Wakefield, Winside, Wisner, Beemer, Stanton, Hoskins, Pierce and at The Station in Carroll. The last day to purchase a ticket is Sept. 15. "The group is very grateful for the support of the community in regard to this project and hopes to be able to assist a number of local and national organizations in the coming year, especially those associated with the military," Daryl Mundil, a member of the group, said.

12-under Devils earn 10-3 win

The Wayne Dirt Devils 12-under team earn a win on the road at Bancroft last week, posting a 10-3 triumph on Wednesday. Meghan Battles pitched well for the second night in a row, picking up the win from the pitcher's circle. The Dirt Devil offense was led by Annie Kniesche, who had two doubles on the night. Avianna Doring, Marrison Lutt, Maysn Dorey and Elizabeth Fertig also added hits.

Broncos post 15-0 shutout

The Wayne Broncos Blue team finished their regular season play Monday with a 15-0 shutout of the West Point Royals. Jonah Brodersen pitched a complete game, allowing only three hits, and got great support from the Blues' defense. Offensively, they were led by Edgar Ficke-Anderson, who hit a home run. Up next for 9-2 Wayne is the Tri-County League Tournament.

10-under Devils sweep doubleheader

The Wayne Dirt Devils 10-under team swept a doubleheader from West Point to highlight recent action. Wayne posted a pair of 6-4 wins over West Point in league action last week. In the first game, Kayla Fleming had three hits, including a double, and Mikensie Arenas added a single. Londyn Nelson got the win, striking out five. In the second game, Nelson struck out eight to get another win.

Kendall Dorey had two hits and Fleming and Sydney Redden both added hits. Bancroft outlasted Wayne 8-3 in league action Wednesday at Bancroft. Nelson had two hits and Dorey, Mikaela McManigal and Aliah Schultz added hits. Nelson struck out six in a losing effort. Wayne competed in a tournament in Sioux City over the weekend, going 1-1. In the first game, they lost to the Metro Sliders 8-5. Dorey, Fleming, Arenas and Nikki Fertig all had hits. Nelson struck out eight in the circle. In the second game, Wayne outscored Remsen (Iowa) 20-14. Dorey had three singles, Nelson had two doubles and a single, Fleming, Arenas and Bentjen each had two hits and Fertig, McManigal, Schultz and Hope O'Reilly added hits. Arenas pitched well in her first outing, coming on in relief and striking out two.

4-H state horse expo is July 14-18

Representing more than 50 counties across Nebraska, 390 exhibitors will gather in Grand Island, Neb., July 14-18 to compete in the 2013 Fanner State Park State 4-H Horse Exposition. 4-Hers who earned blue and purple ribbons at one of Nebraska's six district 4-H horse shows are qualified to compete in their specific events. Lazy worker gets shot by foreman

Happy Birthday, America. Here's some real fireworks to light up, courtesy of the "Bits and Pieces" file:

— From the "I'll go get that milk at the store for you, honey . . . be back in a week" department: a Canadian couple recently celebrated a milestone with their 2006 Chevy Silverado pickup truck after it eclipsed — brace yourselves — one MILLION miles.

The couple runs a long haul business and uses their truck for work and play. The truck has seen an average of 500 road miles a day for the past seven years, and some of their work has included hauling trailers down south to help with those whose lives were impacted by Hurricane Katrina.

Now if they want to put some real HARD miles on that pickup, they could take over the sports editor's job here and cover sports in the dead of winter.

— From the "Either the morale in the office improves right now, or somebody's gonna get shot" department: a shop foreman at a Las Vegas auto shop is in custody after shooting his co-worker for the unthinkable crime of not working hard enough.

The man was arrested after police responded to a call at a body shop, where he reportedly told a co-worker he wasn't doing his job. The co-worker and the foreman exchanged verbal pleasantries, which escalated to fist-cuffs before the foreman exited the shop, went out to his car and retrieved a .22-caliber pistol that was used to shoot the co-worker four times.

We are instituting a similar policy here at The Wayne Herald, with one small adjustment — rather than being shot, employees here will be attacked by publisher Kevin Peterson, who will brandish a pitching wedge.

The exception to this policy will be management, which will be disciplined with a well-placed putter.

— Tell me nobody saw this coming: members of Spain's soccer team had just defeated Uruguay in the Confederations Cup tournament recently, and were looking to celebrate the big win.

Soooo, they did what ANY major sports team might do in a situation like this. That's right . . . they hired an all-female Brazilian band and invited them back to the hotel after the gig for a night of strip poker.

Well, as you may have guessed, the band left with a little more than their instruments. They also took cash and other valuables from the players' hotel rooms. Interesting, though, is that the players are denying that these events even occurred. What exactly happened is still up for debate and hopefully they'll get it figured out before their next match, because being distracted by naked Brazilian musicians is not going to be an excuse that holds much water with their fans if they should get beat.

— Well, HERE is some good news if you like to fly (and with what they're charging these days, it's a wonder ANYBODY could afford to fly the friendly skies): the Federal Aviation Administration is going to relax the ban on the use of personal-electronic devices at low altitudes and on runways.

If you're deep into a round of Bejeweled Blitz on your iPhone (something that I would NEVER have a need to take part in, cough, cough), you know how frustrating it is to be dropping sets of jewels, only to have your game interrupted by a flight attendant who tells you to turn your phone off.

You can't even read your Kindle during takeoff, thanks to these crazy rules. I have never been convinced that Junior's Gameboy in row 24 has any effect on the equipment in the cockpit, and it seems the FAA is finally seeing the light on the myth of portable device interference on the airplanes communications system.

— I'm sure there are better ways to deal with the frustration of watching your favorite team lose a heartbreaking game for the league championship than what some fans of the Boston Bruins chose.

An adult entertainment video website reported that it was tracking its traffic in Chicago and Boston during Game 6 of the Stanley Cup Final, and noticed a rather interesting trend. While the game was in progress, traffic to the website from both cities was down more than 20 percent. When Chicago scored two goals in the final 90 seconds to beat Boston and win the NHL championship, traffic at the adult site shot up dramatically in Boston. While Chicago's traffic was still down about 20 percent, traffic from Boston actually INCREASED by 20 percent.

Maybe taking the dog for a walk, washing the dishes or turning off the TV and curling up with a romance novel would have been a better — and cheaper — way to ease the frustration of watching your team choke in the biggest game of the year.

— Annnnnnnnd finally, an Omaha family has discovered a rather unique approach to having their roof replaced after the owner came home to a scene he wasn't expecting — the shingles from his roof were gone.

Neighbors told him that a roofing company had been at his house that morning doing the work, then left suddenly. As it turns out, the workers went to a house on NORTH 146th Street, when they should have been at a house on SOUTH 146th Street with the same numerical address.

The home owner brought along law enforcement as they tracked down the owner of the roofing company, who explained that his crew had gotten the wrong address. He offered to fix the mistaken roof for free, but the homeowner made the smart decision and had his own contractor take care of the work — while the offending roofer's insurance takes care of the cost of the new roof, which replaced the old roof that didn't need replacing in the first place.

Lincoln Highway gets spotlight

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Car enthusiasts and fans of American history gathered in Central Nebraska this week to celebrate the 100th Anniversary of America's first cross-country highway. The Lincoln Highway, named after President Abraham Lincoln, was dedicated in 1913 and was soon well traveled. It morphed decades later into U.S. Highway 30 across a number of Midwestern states and took on different numbers in other parts of the country.

But still, it represented the first direct route from Times Square in New York to Lincoln Park in San Francisco. Kearney, Nebraska — the site of the official two-day celebration of the Lincoln Highway Association — sits at the mid-point, 1,733 miles from each of the aforementioned destinations.

So, it was fitting that some 250 automobiles and their drivers and passengers converged on Central Nebraska to celebrate. Cars and drivers of 140 of those vehicles made the trek from each coast in little more than a week. They drove everything from early Model T Fords to luxurious Packards and Lincolns. Some came in more modern cars. A 1915 Packard Twin-Six, the first mass-produced 12-cylinder auto, was shipped to the festivities from the Packard Museum in Warren, Ohio. It is owned by the family of Henry Bourne Joy, the president of Packard Motors who convinced Congress to name the highway after his favorite U.S. President. Joy actually drove the car on the old Lincoln Highway years ago.

Another auto enthusiast trailed a 1948 Tucker to the event. The late Preston Tucker made 51 of the cars before he was forced out of business by the Big Three. It had an innovative center mounted headlight that

Legislative Update

Not in session, but a lot on the agenda

Just because we are not in Lincoln, you cannot assume that there is nothing going on.

On the federal level, it was a busy week for the United States Supreme Court, which handed down several rulings on issues ranging from voting rights, rights for same-sex couples and on custody of a small child involving the Indian Child Welfare Act. For the most part, these decisions will have little to no direct, immediate impact on those of us here in Nebraska.

In an historic 5-4 vote, the United States Supreme Court overturned the Defense of Marriage Act (DOMA), saying it turned the unions of same-sex couples into a turned to light the way around corners when the driver turned the steering wheel. The car also had a rear engine, unheard of at the time. Tuckers are rare and command high dollar (in the millions) when they sell. The Chicago owner drove the car in the official celebration parade on the bricks of Central Avenue in Kearney.

Joy promoted the road along with industrialists Carl Fisher, founder of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, and Frank Seiberling, president of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. The highway was officially completed in 1935. Joy spread the word years ago as he traveled the road.

A young soldier named Dwight D. Eisenhower traveled coast-to-coast on the highway with an Army expedition in 1919. As President in 1956, Eisenhower signed the National Interstate and Defense Highways Act. The expedition of 24 officers and 258 enlisted men had traveled the full length in 62 days to test military mobility on the heels of World War I, the Great War.

In addition to lots of cars — some pretty special ones — and a lot of people, 101 year-old Bernie Que-neau also attended the festivities. In 1928, he was a 16-year-old Eagle Scout who traveled with his troop in an REO Speedwagon in a celebrated cross-country trip along the Lincoln Highway.

Absent from the National celebration in central Nebraska, which drew visitors from more than 20 states and a handful of foreign countries, were Nebraska Governor Dave Heineman and Lt. Governor LaVon Heidemann. Official reason? Scheduling conflicts. NOTE: Heineman is term-limited and NOT running for higher office. Heidemann was appointed only after agreeing not to seek higher office. But the state was represented by Secretary of State John Gale who recently announced his re-election campaign. Probably just a coincidence.

Legislative Update
By Dave Bloomfield
State Senator, District 17

will not have any impact on same-sex couples in Nebraska.

In 2000, with almost 70 percent of the vote, Nebraska voted to ban same-sex marriages. This rule does complicate the waters of marriage because now a Nebraska couple can go to Iowa and be married, come home to Nebraska and receive some federal benefits (those based on where the marriage occurred) while being unable to receive other benefits that are based on where the couple lives. This in no way changes the fact that in Nebraska marriage can only be between one man and one woman. I do think this ruling will probably encourage some of my more liberal colleagues to introduce a bill to allow same sex marriage in Nebraska.

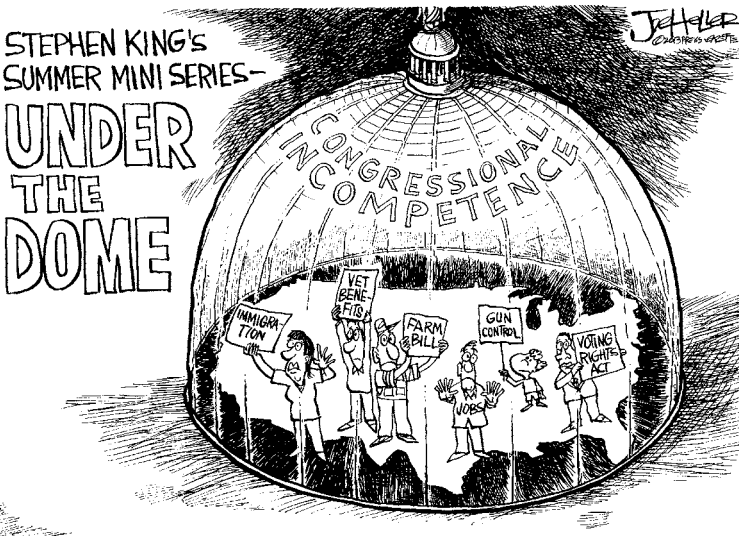

On the home front, on July 1, the state motor fuels tax is set to increase 1.7 cents. This will make the tax 26.3 cents per gallon. Currently, we are enjoying the lowest fuel tax the state has seen since 2008. The gas tax is comprised of three different parts: fixed, wholesale and variable. State law allows state officials to change the variable component every six months based on the needs to make sure that there is funding available for highway projects and maintenance. This tax does fluctuate every six months, usually without notice; I just thought I would point it out this time.

I had the opportunity to meet with the South Sioux City Chamber of Commerce on Monday, June 24. There seemed to be a great deal of concern with a legislative study that has been proposed for the Pappio-Missouri River Natural Resources District (NRD). The Pappio-Missouri River NRD is made up of all or part of six different counties, Dakota, Thurston, Burt, Washington, Douglas and Sarpy. There are 11 directors on the board and according to the web site all of them have an Omaha address. I find myself wondering about fair representation of our agriculture producers with this make up. I think the study is overdue.

On Friday, June 28, Sen. Lydia Brasch (Bancroft) and I attended a public meeting in Onawa, Iowa with folks from the Iowa Department of Natural Resources and the U.S. Corps of Engineers. It seems that perhaps we did not learn well in 2011! The Corps, under the direction of Game and Parks and the Endangered Species Act, is once again creating "habitat" for the pallid sturgeon. The piping plover was not mentioned, but I would venture a guess that our little fine feathered friend is receiving special attention too.

A quilted was constructed especially for the Wayne Chicken Show and includes six embroidered blocks with pictures of chickens. The quilt will be raffled off on July 13.

Quilt Show planned for Chicken Show

Piecemakers Quilt Guild will hold a Quilt Show in conjunction with the 33rd annual Wayne Chicken Show on Saturday, July 13 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Masonic Lodge, across the street from Bressler Park.

Members of the group have created a unique chicken theme quilt that will be raffled at 3 p.m. that day. The quilt features six vintage embroidered windvane blocks. Raffle tickets can be purchased in advance from any guild member, at Henoween on Friday night, and at the show on Saturday.

Piecemakers Quilt Guild meets on the second Thursday of most months at 7 p.m. at Providence Medical Center. Special events are scheduled throughout the year, including a member/guest picnic in August, Sac City Quilt A Fair road trip in September, classes and project days.

Each year the group creates one quilt for the Chicken Raffle and a baby quilt to welcome the Providence Medical Center New Year's Baby.

Guests and new members are always welcome. For more information about the group, contact officers Ilene Nichols, Connie Upton, Diane Zach or Irene Fletcher.

Local student to walk in footsteps of U.S. leaders on Worner, son of Greg and Tami Worner, of Wayne, is attending the Junior National Young Leaders conference in Washington DC.

Jon was nominated for this conference by his fifth grade teacher, Mrs. Phylis Trenhaile.

His extracurricular activities include Tae Kwon Do, Boy Scouts, football, basketball and piano lessons. He is sponsored by the Lions Club, and the Optimist Club.

His career aspiration is to become an engineer. This conference will impact him by teaching him how to be a better leader.

This spring and summer, over 250 outstanding middle school students from across the United States will take part in a leadership conference in Washington, D.C. Themed "Voices of Leadership: Reflecting on the Past to Create the Future," the Junior National Young Leaders Conference (JrNYLC) introduces young people to the rich tradition of leadership throughout American history, while helping them to develop their own leadership skills.

"The aim of the Junior National Young Leaders Conference is to inspire students to recognize their own leadership skills, measure their skills against those of current and former leaders and return home with new confidence in their ability to exercise positive influence within their communities," said Marguerite Regan, Ph.D., Dean of Academic Affairs for the Congressional Youth Leadership Council

Jon Warner

(CYLC), the organization that sponsors JrNYLC. "Young people are not only welcome in Washington, D.C., they actually keep this city and our country running."

During the six-day program, students take part in educational activities and presentations and explore relevant sites, such as Harpers Ferry National Historical Park, West Virginia and Washington, D.C.'s museums and memorials.

In addition to examining notable U.S. leaders and historic figures, students study the impact of leadership throughout critical periods of American history including the Civil War and Reconstruction, World War II, the Great Depression and the Civil Rights Movement. Upon completion of JrNYLC, students will have gained a greater sense of the role of individuals in American democracy, as well as the responsibilities of being a leader.

CYLC is a nonpartisan, educational organization. Since 1985, the Council has inspired more than 200,000 young people to achieve their full leadership potential.

Everything you ever wanted to know about rabbits

Editor's note: This information is from a UNL Neb Guide and is the first of a two-part series.

It is gardening time and my garden is not only full of tomatoes and pumpkins, but rabbits. Here is some information about rabbits that might help you in the management of your garden production po-hibited east of U.S. Highway 81.

Rabbits have large incisors similar to those of squirrels, rats, and mice. These incisors, coupled with the tendency to gnaw, lead many to think of rabbits as rodents. Rabbits are actually classified as lagomorphs because they have two pairs of upper and lower incisors, one behind the other, whereas rodents only have one.

Rabbits can bear two to six litters per year because females can breed immediately after giving birth and because breeding stimulates ovulation. Cottontail nests, called forms, are shallow, cup-shaped depressions lined with fur. The mother places fur over the young to help protect them. The young and their nests remain well hidden, even in closely-mowed turf. Avoid disturbing nests of young rabbits as the mother will return to care for them at a safe time. If you suspect a rabbit has been abandoned, leave it there but keep people and domestic animals away.

Cottontails seek shelter under several miles from their dens to areas containing their preferred food.

Rabbits can cause damage any time of the year. During spring, rabbits prefer young, growing vegetation, like tulips, garden vegetables (carrots, peas, beans, lettuce, and beets), clover and turfgrass. In winter, rabbits gnaw through the tender bark of young trees and shrubs to eat the green, inner bark. Jackrabbits also can cause damage to agricultural fields by "mowing" travel paths through crop fields and eating new shoots. Woody plants tend to receive significantly more damage from rabbits during winters with substantial snow.

On open rangelands, the greatest damage can occur during years of drought, synchronous with high populations of jackrabbits.

Rabbits also provide recreational and economic benefits to Nebraskans. In the 2008-2009 hunting season, an estimated 7,200 hunters harvested around 2,700 jackrabbits and 44,000 cottontails in Nebraska. About 10 percent of those purchasing a small game license in 2008 hunted cottontails, but fewer than one percent hunted jackrabbits. Revenue raised through these hunting fees alone amounted to $216,000. Others enjoy watching rabbits or following their trails in the winter snow.

Disease Significance

Tularemia is the most significant disease associated with rabbits. Tularemia is caused by a bacteria that can be contracted by humans through the bite of a rabbit, tick, or flea, or by handling the carcass of an infected animal. Tularemia symptoms in humans include fever, swollen lymph nodes, and swelling around the bite, typically appearing within 3 to 14 days of exposure. The infection is rarely fatal to humans provided victims receive antibiotics quickly. To reduce the risk of contracting tularemia, avoid direct contact with rabbits that are found dead, emaciated, or exhibit abnormal behavior. Take precautions against ticks and fleas and wear latex or vinyl gloves when handling and butchering rabbits. Discard any rabbits with livers covered with small white spots.

Finally, in case of illness, inform medical personnel of any contact with rabbits, because the symptoms of tularemia are easily confused with the flu.

Rabbits infected with the Shope's fibroma virus have fleshy finger-like growths protruding from various parts of their body. These growths occasionally make rabbits look like they have antlers and led early Europeans to believe that infected rabbits were a different species. This may have given rise to the mythical "jackalope."

Whereas rabbits afflicted with the Shope's fibroma virus can raise concern among onlookers, it mostly affects cottontail rabbits and is not contagious to humans. Rabbits, like most mammals, can carry ticks infected with other tick-borne diseases, such as Lyme disease. Since these diseases typically manifest themselves with flu-like symptoms, consider a tick-borne illness if anyone has symptoms within three weeks of being outdoors or handling rabbits.

Installation service held for pastors at Grace Lutheran Church

Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne held a celebration service on June 30 to install its present Senior Pastor Carl Lilienkamp as Associate Pastor and at the same time to install its present Associate Pastor Michael Feldmann as Senior Pastor.

As a result of mutual agreement, and the willingness of the congregation to extend calls, both pastors will assume new positions of responsibility. Both Pastors Feldmann and Lilienkamp, being established at Grace and in Wayne, hope to continue serving at Grace Lutheran Church as long as God permits.

Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, Nebraska District President Russell Sommerfeld preached and conducted the installation. Pastor Herb Biermann, Emeritus Pastor at Grace, assisted in the installation. Dr. J. Gordon Christensen of Council Bluffs, Iowa, was the guest organist, and the Grace Lutheran Bell Choir provided special music.

Following the service, there was a special carry-in dinner for congregation members and guests. A whole hog was grilled/smoked as the main meat, with the congregation providing side dishes. The Board of Elders and Mission Council made the arrangements for the service and meal.

Lin Brummels continues high standards at Wayne State College Counseling Center

The Wayne State College Counseling Center has been re-accredited through June 30, 2014 by the International Association of Counseling Services, Inc (IACS), an Alexandria, Va. based organization of United States, Canadian and Australian counseling agencies. The Wayne State College Counseling Center was evaluated by IACS against high standards of counseling practice and was found to offer competent and reliable professional services to its clientele. Approval by IACS is also dependent upon evidence of continuing professional development as well as demonstration of excellence of counseling performance. The Wayne State College Counseling Center has met requirements for this accreditation since 1999.

The Wayne State College Counseling Center is directed by Lin Brummels and offers personal, academic, disability, nutrition and career counseling. A number of related services are also available including substance abuse education and evaluation, violence prevention and group support for some campus organizations. It is a college counseling center that serves Wayne State College students and is one of only two college or university counseling centers in Nebraska accredited by IACS.

IACS was established in 1972 to encourage and aid counseling agencies to meet high professional standards through peer evaluation and to inform the public about counseling services that are competent and reliable.

For more information, call (402) 375-7321.

Midland University announces Spring 2013 Dean's and President's Lists

Midland University in Fremont has recognized the outstanding achievements of students with the announcement of the President's List and Dean's List for the 2013 Spring Semester. Overall, 65 students were named to the university's President's List while 231 students earned a spot on the semester Dean's List.

Keri Lunz of Wakefield was named to the President's List.

"Being named to Midland University's distinguished lists is an honor that highlights the dedication and hard work put forth by each student," said Midland President Ben Sasse. "This award celebrates valuable traits that these students will carry into future successes."

To qualify for the President's List, students must complete coursework with a semester GPA of 4.0. In order to qualify for the Dean's List, students must complete all coursework with a GPA of 3.5 or higher.

Spring award members stand out in an expanding, and especially active, Midland student body. As a whole, the university's student population has grown more than 86% in the last three years with individuals participating in over 250 performing arts opportunities and more varsity sports than any other college in Nebraska.

A full look at Midland University's Spring 2013 Dean's and President's Lists can be found at MidlandU.edu/2013Honors.

Workshops held in 4-H beef, robotics

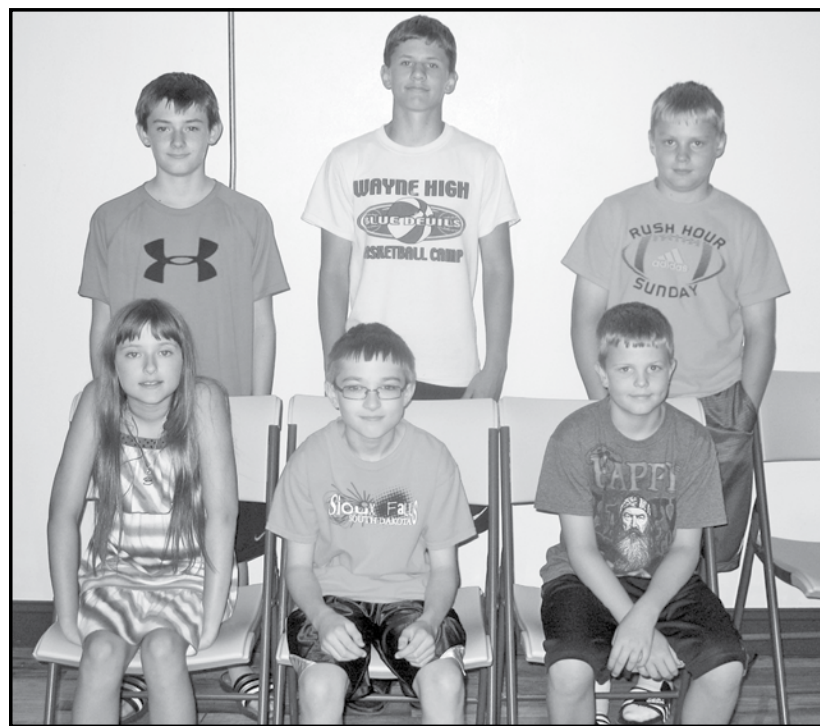

Twelve 4-Hers participated in two different robotics classes taught by Shannon Jarvi, UNL Extension Intern for Dakota County. The beginning class built an NXT Lego Robot and were able to program the robot using sound, light and motion sensors. The advanced group, youth who had attended the training in 2012, also were able to program their robots but also built a robot with multiple sensors as well and did additional programming. In addition to following some of the challenges in the beginning class, they also designed their own challenges.

Right: Those attending the second session of the robotics class were (front) Sarah Tompkins, James Tompkins and Trace Naeve (back) Aaron Fleming, Brennen O'Reilly and Cade Janke.

Above: On June 26 a number of 4-Hers participated in a showmanship clinic at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. James Felt, Wayne County Beef Superintendent and Morgan and Tarrin Quinn assisted the 4-Hers in learning about showmanship and some basic grooming tips for their beef projects. Other workshops that were held included a modeling workshop taught by Sylvia Jaeger, Anna Loberg, Emma Loberg and Marta Pulfer. The 4-Hers learned helpful ideas for modeling and were able to comment on the models and their accessories and appropriateness for the outfit. Seven 4-Hers were able to practice their woodworking skills and construct a flower box for their Level I woodworking project. Keith Jarvi, Extension Educator of Dixon County assisted the 4-Hers.

Potato leafhopper treatment, sprayer calibration important

Potato leafhoppers have the potential to hurt alfalfa in Nebraska every year.

This is generally a second and third cutting pest and has been common in Nebraska recently. Southerly winds bring this insect into Nebraska, as is does not overwinter here. There have been a lot of strong southerly winds the last couple of weeks, so it is probable we have potato leafhoppers in the state. So, it is time to begin scouting.

These small (1/8 inch long), bright green, wedge shaped insects may cause severe damage to alfalfa by injecting a toxin into the plant as they feed. This feeding results in a distinctive yellow or purple triangle shape at the tip of the leaf. First year spring planted alfalfa fields are particularly attractive to and vulnerable to potato leafhoppers, as are fields planted last year. In older fields, these insects are usually a problem on second and third cuttings.

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension Educator

Newly developed resistant varieties will protect from potato leafhoppers fairly well, but alfalfa in the seedling stage may still be damaged. All fields should still be scouted, as large numbers of leafhoppers may still cause a problem, even in resistant variety fields.

Treatment decisions are based on numbers captured by sweep net. A sweep net is the only reliable way to scout for potato leafhoppers. There do not have to be many to cause a problem. At today's prices, roughly 1/2 leafhoppers per sweep could justify a treatment, depending on plant height. A large number of insecticides are registered for control, and all with provide good results when applied properly. Commonly used insecticides include Mustang, Warrior, Baythroid, and Lorsban. If possible, refer to the UNL Department of Entomology Web site at <http://entomology.unl.edu/instabs/> for a list of suggested insecticides and treatment levels.

Uneven pressure throughout the sprayer boom can mean uneven application of pesticides. The first step in sprayer calibration is to determine that the spray pressure is equal throughout the spray boom.

Be sure to check pressure all along the boom because there might be a restriction in the line and uneven pressure. If the pressure is not even through the boom, you'll be wasting your time trying to calibrate the sprayer.

Check and compare the cab pressure with boom pressure. If there is a difference, make note on the cab's pressure gauge how much higher or lower the boom pressure is so you will know the exact operating pressure of the sprayer.

Set up the pressure gauge with quick-attach fittings that can snap in place on the nozzle fitting. Select glycerin-filled stainless steel gauges, as lesser quality gauges won't last.

Three basic things affect the number of gallons applied per acre. These include:

Speed: If you run the tractor twice as fast, you'll apply half the rate, if nothing else is changed.

Nozzle Spacing: The typical nozzle spacing is 20 inches, but 30-inch nozzle spacing is just as effective if 110-degree nozzles are used. Most new air-induction nozzles are only available in 110 degrees. Another reason for 30-inch nozzle spacing is that most farmers are still planting 30-inch rows. If you want to use drop nozzles, add extensions to have drop nozzles. Thirty-inch nozzle spacing also allows for 50 percent larger nozzles. That, in turn, provides for using lower application rates without going to extremely small nozzles. Avoid nozzles that require less than a 50-mesh nozzle screen because smaller screens tend to plug.

Nozzle Flow Rate: This is determined by the nozzle orifice size, pressure, and solution density. Remember that anything heavier than water will come out more slowly than water and anything lighter than water may come out faster. Adjust the sprayer accordingly.

Sprayer calibration provides the information you need to determine the amount of spray solution (both pesticide and carrier) being applied per acre. For more information see NebGuide G1756, "Fine-Tuning a Sprayer with the 'Ounce' Calibration Method" available at local UNL Extension offices or online at www.go.unl.edu/dr3.

'Tourist season' allows for catching up, reminiscing

Our "tourist season" has begun. Especially since we no longer do much traveling, we are always eager to have company, either for coffee or lunch or even overnight. We still have an informal bed and breakfast here.

This townhouse is 1,600 square feet on the ground floor, and another 1,600 in the basement. There is a nice size bedroom and bathroom in that basement; plus, a large family room. The rest of the space is taken up by two store rooms. So, of course, we brought too much stuff. But that's a subject for another time.

A nurse friend who lives in Waco and works in surgery at Bryan has to be on call about once a month. Waco is too far away to be on call, so she stays here. We have really enjoyed her company; she's a good conversationalist.

Friends in Sonoma, Calif., used to stay at the bed and breakfast when visiting her mother at the Louisville Care Center. After several visits, some even including their children, they ceased to be customers. They usually get to Nebraska some time during the year because they still own a farm in Cass County. And, once in awhile, they stop in here. That was two weeks ago, and I fixed lunch.

Last week, my cousin and his wife from Prescott, Ariz., came through and for their visit, it was Valentino's pizza. On Thursday, three adult children of a nurse friend from Norfolk met in Omaha at the airport and came here the next day. We had a wonderful visit, catching up on their lives and reminiscing about Norfolk. One lives in Virginia; he used to stay on the farm and once helped build a tree house for Kay and Ann. Another lives in Portland, and the sister is in Tacoma, Wash.. They were in high school when I first met them, 50 years ago. That called for roast beef, good Nebraska beef, and cinnamon rolls for breakfast.

After they left on Friday, I scurried around to fix a light lunch for a classmate, who was in town for doctor's appointments. She's on a diet, so it was mostly lettuce salad and fruit. When she was gone, I had a nap!

Now, we are expecting the couple from Orlando, but we have a two week break to get ready. Meanwhile, I went to a wedding reception on Saturday evening. This bride has worked at Tabitha almost as long as I have, she is 50 years old, and has never been married. Neither has the groom, who is about that age, also. His 89-year-old grandmother came from Michigan, as did his mother, a retired hospice nurse, and his sister, a nurse from Buffalo, New York. As you can imagine, it was a happy celebration.

Then, today, it was back to Waco, in that country church, for the funeral of an aunt who was my Godmother. She would have been 92 the end of this month. She has been in the nursing home in York with hospice care for 13 months, so it was time for her to go. Therefore, it was not a sad time at all. We sang Beautiful Savior, Heaven is My Home, and Abide With Me, all those old familiar hymns. I guess it's my age, but I seem to go to a lot of funerals. It's more fun to have guests.

Northeast Nebraska Resource Conservation and Development Council meets to work on projects

The Northeast Nebraska Resource Conservation & Development (RC&D) Council met on June 24 to handle regular order of business and make plans for upcoming projects.

On Thursday, July 11 in northeast Cedar County a Habitat Management Tour will be held from 2 - 5 p.m. This is a no-fee workshop. The tour will examine techniques used for managing grassland habitat for wildlife. Biologists will share what they've learned in trying to re-invigorate old Conservation Reserve Program lands for a more productive wildlife habitat, and discuss long-term management and maintenance. Later that same day the Wining & Dining Event will be held at the new Nissen Winery & Outlaw Trail Center. There is a cost to attend and pre-registration is required since this event is limited to 40 people. Council members will help prepare the meal and serve as hosts for the evening.

A Dixon-Wayne County Cemetery Tour will be Saturday, Sept. 28, and begin in Wakefield. Historian and local expert, Brad Kellogg, will lead it. One grant request has been submitted and a second will be developed to assist with marketing this event.

The Northeast Nebraska Weed Management Area finalized plans for signage that will be placed at public boat ramps along the Missouri River from Ft. Randall to Ponca. They will soon do an aerial survey of that area with the addition of areas along the Niobrara and Elkhorn Rivers to get an accurate assessment of the spread of several noxious weeds. In August a landowner workshop will be offered at Niobrara State Park to inform and educate attendees on what they found and steps being taken to control the spread of these weeds.

One new project was approved - a Pollinator Workshop. Bees and other pollinators are in trouble due the lack of habitat and more. This morning event will focus on what farmers can do to help pollinators thrive again. A workshop for gardeners is also being considered. Watch for more information on both of these activities.

The next RC&D meeting will be Monday, July 22 beginning with a tour of the aronia berry field, high tunnel and orchard at the Sandy Patton and Gary Bodenstedt farm near Brunswick. The public is welcome and encouraged to attend. Call the RC&D, 402-582-4866, or email them at northeastrcd@plyw-telco.net for more information.

Welcome, Allen Alumni

The Fourth of July weekend is a big weekend in Allen.

There are many events being held to welcome the Allen Consolidated School Alumni. Honor classes this year are: 1962 and 1963 who will meet in the Allen Fire Hall on Friday at 5 p.m. See below for all the events happening over the weekend.

Allen Parade

The theme for the parade in Allen this year is "Honoring Our Rural Community" The parade will be held Saturday, July 6.

Children, pets, tractors, farm equipment, vehicles, floats, or fire trucks - all are welcome. Those wishing to be a part are asked to line up at the Allen school parking lot by 10 a.m. Parade begins at 10:30 a.m. and ends at the Village Park where lunch will be available. Entries may be parked for a "Show and Shine" following the parade.

There is no entry fee for the parade and it will take the same route as Homecoming parades.

Fun and Food in the Park

Many carnival-like activities will provide entertainment for everyone. A free-will offering lunch of taverns, hotdogs, chips, and drinks will be served.

Income from this "Fun and Food in the Park" event will go to the purchase of new playground equipment. Over half the amount needed for the equipment and ground cover has been raised and thanks goes to those who have donated and/or purchased raffle tickets already. Raffle tickets for a 46-inch television, an iPad, and/or gas certificates can be purchased from any Community Club member or at the bank. The cost is one ticket for $5 or three tickets for 10. The winners will be drawn at the alumni reunion banquet.

Kid's Carnival

There will be a Kid's Carnival by Love-A-Lop on Saturday, July 6 at the Allen Park following the parade from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. They will have

Train Rides, a bounce house, game booths with prizes every time.

Other games are: Furby toss, Spinning Wheel, Kiss the Pig, Rainbow Roll, Driving Range, Yatzee Roll, Quarter toss, Scuffle Board, Cream Can Toss, Bottle Ring Toss, Bottle Bash, Duck Pond. Kids of all ages are invited to join in on the fun!

All-School Social

There will be an All School Social on Friday, July 5 at the Allen Fire hall. The Allen Development group will be serving burgers, salads, dessert, and drink. They will be serving from 5-8 p.m. at the meeting room. The All School Reunion will then continue beginning at 5 p.m. in the truck bay of the fire hall.

Dixon County Museum

The Dixon County Museum in Allen is Open for the summer season through August. They will be open on Sunday from 2-4 p.m. Everyone is welcome, so please come and visit.

Memorial Fireworks

There will be a fireworks display Saturday, July 6 at the Isom-Hill Athletic Field following the Alumni banquet.

These Memorial Fireworks are to honor your loved one. Before each aerial display, an announcement will be made honoring someone or some group.

Vacation Bible School

First Lutheran Church's Vacation Bible School will be held on Monday, July 15 through Friday, July 19 from 8:30-11:30 a.m. The program will be held during worship on Sunday, July 21 at 9 a.m.

Mission Project

Allen's United Methodist Church is collecting aluminum cans for a mission project. You may drop off your un-crushed cans at the church. There is a container outside near the doors.
