Are your kids safe from social media crime?

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

If your son or daughter has any page connected with social media outlets like Facebook, Twitter or Instagram, you might be interested to know who is watching them.

Most social networking pages include a listing of "friends" that somebody has connected to their page. Most of these individuals are classmates, neighbors, friends or other family members.

Some of them, though, aren't who you think they are – and they may be stalking your child without you knowing it.

There are a number of ways for a perpetrator to gain access to your child's social media pages, according to Jason Sears, a former criminal investigator with experience in investigating Internet-related criminal activity who will present a Community Partnership for Youth program for parents next Wednesday at the Majestic Theatre in downtown Wayne. He will be working with Wayne Police officer Dominic Consoli during the hour-long presentation that begins at 6:30 p.m.

"A lot of these perpetrators will create Facebook or Twitter accounts, indicating they are someone of a different age or sex," he said. "They might say they're a 12-year-old male or female and try to get into a group of kids that age and start communicating, and they'll contact others by using Facebook's search feature to pick out children they find attractive, based on whatever their criteria is, and send a message."

These perpetrators will use any number of personal indicators that are common on the social media pages used by children – including their school, their car's license plate or other friends they have made connections with through their social media page.

"They may say they're a friend of somebody who is on their friend's list and say they could contact you to add to their list," Sears said. They may not make contact right away, but gradually they will make contact, and it escalates to where they start asking for pictures, pictures of friends and if they want to meet."

A lot of times, children put personal information on their pages, such as an address or their cell phone or family's phone, which helps a perpetrator further identify their target and can also open themselves up to identity theft.

"On some of the college kids who have open Facebook accounts, there is enough information available where you know where they go to school, what car they drive and who their friends are," Sears said. "One student actually had a scanned driver's license on their page, and it's not very hard to make a fake ID off of something like that."

Sears said that several law enforcement agencies are taking advantage of the social media technology that is in place to assist them in investigations.

"I've seen some investigations where they were able to determine who the perpetrators resembled, who their friends were, who investigators should talk to, and they were using open Facebook accounts that allowed investigators to see what they were doing," he said. "It has helped law enforcement immensely, and (the perpetrators) may not know it at all."

There is also a concern about children posting false information on social media pages – information that could damage another person's business, livelihood or reputation and leave them open to a criminal investigation.

Wayne State College athletic director Mike Powicki is excited to see the recent stadium renovation project at Memorial Stadium come to an end. Work crews made up for lost time to have the new Field Turf surface in place for Friday's Wayne High football season opener against Madison. The Wayne State team will play its first home game on the new surface on Saturday, Sept. 14.

Stadium renovation project a come-from-behind effort

Good weather, extra work has facilities ready to go

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

With all the efficiency of a finely-tuned two-minute offense, the drive to complete the recent stadium renovations at Wayne State College has reached the end zone.

The final touches were being put in place this week on a $1.5 million project that had to come from behind to get finished before the first scheduled contest on the new Field Turf surface at Memorial Stadium.

Wayne State athletic director Mike Powicki said the project has evolved and came together at just the right time as the 2013 fall sports season gets ready to kick off this week with a high school game between Wayne High and Madison christening the new field Friday evening.

"The end is in sight, and it's been a long process," he told The Wayne Herald as crews finished installation of the new iron fencing that surrounds Memorial Stadium. "It started as a new surface for football, and then other things got added on, and it was great to see it all evolve these last few months."

The project didn't get off to a good start this spring. A cool and wet May pushed the start of work back by almost a month, and there was some concern that things might not be ready for the start of the season.

"Early in May, we lost about 25 days of work that first month, which had a trickle-down effect through the summer, and that's why we're still doing work this week rather than being done Aug. 1 as we had planned," Powicki said.

Powicki said he was concerned that a summer similar to the scorching, dry one experienced here a year ago would make a mess of things. As it turns out, this year's summer season was perfect for both the football field and the soccer complex, which needed sod put in place in late July to be ready for play in early September.

"We really lucked out with the weather," Powicki said. "When we planted that sod on the soccer field, I thought that if it was going to be 105 like it was last year, the sod wouldn't take, and we'd be in a situation because our fall schedule is built around having a football field and a soccer facility."

"We laid that sod, though, and for two weeks after we had nice temperatures and cloud cover and lots of rain, so we couldn't have asked for better weather, and it's looking gorgeous now," he added.

The newly renovated soccer field was widened to meet NCAA standards and included fencing a new entrance and a new scoreboard.

And while there were concerns about the sod on the soccer field, crews were behind in getting the turf on the football field in place. "Normally it takes 20 days to install the turf, but they brought in two crews and worked nights and weekends and got it done in 8-9 days," Powicki said.

As crews worked on the turf, another crew was building the decorative fencing that replaced the old chain-link fencing that surrounded the south side of the stadium. Bricklayers built the posts, decorative rock was put in place, and the iron fencing installation was being finished by midweek, a couple of weeks after new fencing around the soccer field was completed.

The stadium also received a makeover on the press box, as new graphics were installed around the facility at the top of the stadium.

"Those are new digitally-printed graphics that are heat-sealed to panels on the press box, so it really makes the facility pop when you come over the hill from the east side," Powicki said.

Similar graphics have also been put in place as part of a separate renovation project inside the main entrance to Rice Auditorium. The Hall of Fame and All-American photos that once adorned the walls in the entrance to the auditorium are now part of an

Wayne St. professor gets national honor

By KATIE KASL
Of The Herald

If Sally Harms remembers correctly, the first words she uttered when she picked up the phone and found out she'd been elected to the National Science Teachers Association (NSTA) Board of Directors were "Oh, my."

That call came earlier this year; and, on June 1, the Wayne State professor of natural sciences began her term on the organization's board. As a previous council member for the NSTA, Harms will spend the next three years representing collegiate science teachers, as well as managing finances and the general running of the organization. She'll also help get new info out to science teachers and provide supporting documents to help teachers understand science standards. At conferences (including the 2014 national one in Boston and another conference this fall in Charlotte), Harms will assist with behind-the-scenes duties.

The NSTA, as Harms described it, is "the largest association of professional science teachers in the world." To become a member of its board of directors, an individual must be nominated – by their own doing or by someone else's, either is acceptable

Mixed in with the manicures and pedicures, the tanning, waxing and artificial nails and "all kinds of hair care," Barb Bailey offers – albeit jokingly – her own breed of psychiatry to the clients who visit her at Bailey's Hair and Nails.

The therapy isn't doctor-approved (however, there is a couch to relax on), but that certainly hasn't stopped the customers from coming back, taking a seat and lamenting over lost bottles of their favorite products.

"We're always busy," Bailey said.

The business used to be able to take walk-ins, she added, but not so much anymore. Now, it's all about planning in advance.

"Regulars have learned to make their next appointment while they're here," she said.

Bailey takes after her mom, who worked as a beautician in Winside for more than 40 years; and, when it came time for her to pick a career of her own, she chose a natural option, enrolling in classes at what used to be Norfolk Beauty College. She started her business in June 1996 with her daughter Sara by her side. Now, the two of

Girl Scout Recruitment event planned for Wayne

Girl Scouts Spirit of Nebraska will hold a Girl Scout Recruitment Event for Wayne girls at the Girl Scout Cabin, located on East Fourth Street, near Hank Overin baseball field on Thursday, Sept. 5 beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Local girls and their families are invited to come, make new friends and sign up for Girl Scouts. Currently, there are 67 active Girl Scouts in the area.

Girl Scouts is available to all girls, grades K-12, and can be customized to complement all the activities in their lives.

As girls get older there are several ways to enjoy Girl Scouting. These options are called "pathways" and girls can choose one, some or all of these to fit their lives.

Younger girls begin their Girl Scout experience in troops and then progress to the pathways which are: camp, events, series, travel, troops and virtual. Regardless of their schedule, there is time to do it all.

"I feel spending quality time with children is the most important thing I can do," said Amber Grimm, Norfolk Girl Scout Leader. "I want the girls to know how important it is to give back to others."

Girl Scouts is a values-based organization that helps girls build strong interpersonal skills, independence, leadership and a sense of responsibility. For more information please contact Kris Kinzie, (402) 369-3776 or Lisa Lindsay, (402) 369-3938.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

City Council Meetings

Regular City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in city hall at Third and Pearl Streets.

What Projects Are We Going to Build?

The FY 2013-2014 budget hearing for the City of Wayne is next Tuesday, Sept. 3 at 5:30 p.m. Sounds boring, but decisions are made then that show up later as projects around Wayne.

The portion of our budget that is set aside for long term, one-time-cost projects is called the Capital Projects Budget. Some of these projects are paid for out of property tax funds. The water and sewer projects are paid out of utility funds.

Many of the council's planned capital projects will be paid for using the city sales tax funds approved by the voters in 2008. Some of the projects planned over the next few years (not yet in order of priority) are new swimming pool, update of park and ball field bathrooms, new ball field lights at Overin Field, the city's 20 percent match for the Phase II Trail, park playground equipment, police cruisers, fire department heavy rescue equipment truck, additional softball field, water line to the airport, replacement roof membrane on the library-senior center, replacement roof membrane on city hall.

The local option sales tax brings in about $600,000 per year in revenues. The first $50,000 automatically goes to the street department, the next $200,000 goes to business development projects that match the economic development plan approved by the voters and the remaining $350,000 goes to fund the capital projects listed above.

The purpose of the public hearings is to seek comment from the public before or at the hearings about the use of tax and utility funds. A copy of the proposed budget is linked on line to the City of Wayne website at www.waynene.org

Sixty years and celebrating

Staff and students at St. Mary's Elementary School gathered on the steps of the school for a 'First Day of School' photo. This year marks the 60th anniversary of the school and a number of activities are being planned to celebrate this fact. The school offers classes for students in pre-K through sixth grade. In this photo, many of the younger students appear to be more excited to be in school than some of the older students.

Wayne State to host Just Juniors Day

High school juniors and their families are invited to attend the annual "Just Juniors" Day at Wayne State College on Saturday, Nov. 16 or Saturday, March 22, 2014.

Activities include information on the college search process, financial aid, an optional, free A.C.T. review, lunch, camp tour and more.

"Just Juniors is a great way for students to get started on their college search, while also getting a first-hand look at Wayne State and the programs and services we provide," said Kevin Halle, Director of Admissions

The day will begin with check-in at the student center at 8:30 a.m.

To register, call the admissions office at (866) 972-2287, (402) 375-7234 or online at wsc.edu/visit.

This group of young hunters and their mentors were all smiles following a successful hunt at last year's Logan Creek Pheasants Forever Youth Mentor Hunt.

Plans are underway for annual Youth Mentor Hunt

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

As summer turns to fall, thoughts of hunting become more prominent. The Logan Creek Chapter of Pheasants Forever has announced the date for this year's Youth Mentor Hunt.

This year's event will take place on Sunday, Oct. 13, beginning at 12 p.m. at the Izaak Walton Lake, northwest of Wayne.

"We are changing things this year in hopes of having less conflict with other activities and possibly allowing those who haven't had the opportunity to participate in the past, to be a part of this year's hunt," Jim Modrell, who is among those helping organize this year's Youth Mentor Hunt, said.

The day's activities are geared for those aged 12-15, and those attending must have taken a Nebraska Game and Parks Hunter Safety Course.

Youth taking part in this year's event will be served a hot dog lunch and then be able to take part in several activities including a live hunt.

"We would like to invite all youth, both boys and girls, who have an interest in the outdoors, to be a part of this year's Youth Mentor Hunt. We especially encourage those who haven't had the opportunity to be involved in past hunts, for whatever reason, to sign up for this year's hunt," Modrell said.

The Youth Mentor Hunt is limited to 20 youth, each of which is paired with an adult volunteer.

Each youth taking part in the hunt will receive a vest, a blaze orange hat and will be entered into a drawing to win a shot gun.

Modrell also encourages any adults in the community who would like to be a part of the planning committee or would like to volunteer to serve as a mentor to a young hunter to contact him.

"Our goal is to promote outdoor activities for our youth and help them develop a love for the outdoors," Modrell said.

For more information or to sign up a youth for the hunt, contact Modrell at (402) 375-4441.

Staab receives Ag Award at VIP Tour

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

Stan Staab, general manager of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District in Norfolk, received the Outstanding Contribution to Northeast Nebraska Agriculture and Families Award at the VIP Tour of the Northeast Research and Extension Center earlier this month.

Conducted at the Haskell Ag Lab at Concord, the tour showcased research being conducted at what was formerly known as the Experimental Farm. Presentations were given by a number of the staff at the Haskell Ag Lab on topics ranging from storm water as a resource to weed control with flaming and cultivation to alternative energy projects.

Twig Marston, director of the Center, told those in attendance, which included this year's VIPs, the Nebraska Natural Resource Districts in the Northeast Nebraska Experimental Farm Association District, that Staab has been with the NRD since 1979 and in Norfolk since 1986. He praised his work in three areas – flood control projects, trails projects and rural water systems.

In accepting the award, Staab said that while he worked on a number of projects over the years, "this is not a one-man award; I owe it to many people. On behalf of the staff at the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District, thank you."

The VIP Tour is held each August at the Haskell Ag Lab to showcase research being conducted both at the Research Center and throughout northeast Nebraska.

Steve Rasmussen, District Forester, spoke on the Northeast Arboretum and focused on the varieties of oak trees that are part of the collection.

Entomologist Tom Hunt told his audience about the work he and his team of graduate students are working on in the area of insect management and resistance management.

Recognized at the event were members of the University of Nebraska staff attending the event and members of the Experimental Farm Association.

Red Cross, Wayne Fire Department team up on Great Escapes program

The American Red Cross Wayne office and the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department have partnered to bring fire safety education to elementary students across the community.

Great Escapes is a fire safety program designed to teach fire safety and the importance of developing a home fire escape plan.

In partnership with the Wayne Fire Department, representatives of the American Red Cross and the Wayne Fire Department will present fire safety information to students enrolled in the Junior Fire Patrol Program.

The program includes a contest element in which students have been challenged to work with their families to create a home fire escape plan that meets the three main objectives of a plan:

- To have two ways out of every room;
- To have smoke detectors throughout the home; and
- To have a meeting place outside of the home.

"Red Cross volunteers and staff are trained to respond 24 hours a day to disasters," Shalle Wolff, Service Center Manager for the Red Cross, said. "Our most common disasters are home fires. Our partnership with the fire department involves education to prevent and prepare as well as responding to emergencies.

"The Great Escapes program is focused not only on educating children in school, but to also involve family members at home to make an escape plan and decide on a meeting place. Being prepared is critical to building a more resilient community," Wolff added.

Contest entries will be judged by Red Cross and fire department officials with a winning entry from each classroom receiving awards at the Junior Fire Patrol graduation ceremony. Winners of the Great Escapes will receive a ride to school on a fire truck after the Junior Fire Patrol program concludes.

Roundtable is Sept. 10

Wayne State College, the Office of Service-Learning and the City of Wayne will present "Campus and Community Conversations: Diversity of Cultures" from 7-9 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 10, in the Frey Conference Suite, Student Center on the Wayne State campus.

"These round-table conversations promote community member engagement across generations, across heritages, across belief and value systems and across interest groups," Karen Granberg, one of the organizers of the event, said. "Lively interactions can generate multiple perspectives and creative insights. Topics include family traditions, heritage, cultural perceptions and diversity in business."

The event will be hosted by Curt Frye, Wayne State College president, and Ken Chamberlain, mayor of Wayne. Alyssa Bish, student senate president at Wayne State College, will moderate and helped develop the questions for the session.

"As a freshman, I was nervous to meet people. The collaboration program was a safe, comfortable environment to collaborate about ideas and to help make Wayne State College a great place to go to school," Bish said. "Mayor Ken Chamberlain became involved and brings in community members and helps students make connections with them. He has been instrumental in students' opportunity to have their concerns voiced in an open community forum."

Bish is joined in her efforts by another student, Alexandria Ewing, a senior communications student and co-organizer of the event.

"This program is meant to call on similarities as well as differences and learn to accept them," Ewing said. "We also hope to create a more cohesive community."

The event is part of the Campus and Community Service Collaboration (CCSC) program. There is no admission charge. Free parking is offered in the Gardner Hall lot at 1118 Walnut Street on campus. Refreshments will be served.

Pet of the Week

The Pet of the Week at Tenderheart Animal Rescue is Costello, one of two black kittens who appeared at the farm last fall. His brother, Abbott, was adopted fairly quickly, but Costello is still waiting. He is a sweet cat, although a bit of a playboy with anything that comes to hand – I mean paw! He gets along very well with the other cats. While not fond of being held, he does like to have people around for petting and general interaction. For more information or to adopt Costello, call (402) 369-6030.

Members of the Wayne Ambassadors made a Welcome Call and conducted a ribbon cutting ceremony at Peper's Purses Boutique last week. Erica Schmeckpeper (with the scissors) is the owner of the store. Holding the Ambassador welcome plaque is her mother, Patsy Doehrman.

"If you put stuff up that's not true and start spreading gossip or rumors and start naming people, that's defamation of character, and it's a crime that can become a problem," Sears said. "Freedom of speech is protected, but not if it damages somebody else, and if somebody wants to pursue that, it's not hard to prove."

Sears said investigators are not only able to track down the perpetrator, but can also pinpoint the exact device that was used to transmit information.

"You can backtrack it to the device and the exact date and time the device was used and what phone line or servers were accessed," he said. "Every device has its own specific number attached to it."

Wednesday's program will present a lot of information for parents to help them understand how social media is used by their children and by those who would do harm to them.

"Parents need to be aware of what their kids are doing on their computers and phones," he said. "Kids make poor choices sometimes, and hopefully we can bring to light some of the things investigators have seen that people may not think is a big deal but ended up being a big deal for students, teachers or parents who were involved."

"Hopefully, we can open their eyes up to how secure their kids accounts are and help them deter somebody from getting information or trying to meet their kids. Social networking has a different effect on children than it does the parents, and hopefully we can show some of the negative things that are going on with social networking sites."

— and then they have to compile an extensive collection of information, including four letters of support. (Harms called the ones that were written about her "absolutely awesome letters.") Eventually, all this info makes it to a nominations committee, which goes through it before selecting two nominees to go on a ballot that is presented in a national election.

"It's a humbling experience to be nominated by people across the nation to be on the Board of Directors," Harms said. "It's indeed a privilege and a wonderful learning experience for me."

The science professor, who's been involved with the National Science Teachers Association organization for most of her teaching career, joined the faculty and staff of Wayne State in 2000 after teaching at the high school level since 1979. She earned her bachelors and masters degrees from Millersville University in Pennsylvania and her doctorate from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Since beginning her involvement with the NSTA, the group has introduced Harms to a variety of interesting people, both across the country and around the world, and given her the opportunity to learn many things from them.

"For me, it's a wonderful organization to be a part of," she said. "It really is a valuable professional development (tool) for me and other science professors."

"Rice gets so much traffic with games and camps and tours, and it had an old feel to it that I thought could be branded better," Powicki said. "We wanted to showcase our Hall of Fame, and some of those photos had faded and we wanted to do something so Hall of Fame members and their families can come back and look at those photos with pride."

The Hall of Fame program that will run in the kiosk will also be available on the Wayne State athletics website at www.wscwildcats.com, so people can look at the Hall of Fame information anywhere and anytime.

"The system has been built in and people can log on to the website and interact with the same features there," Powicki said. "We've dressed that area up like we have with the press box, and it really makes for a nice branded area for the college."

When all is said and done, the total cost of the project will come in at around $1.5 million, which is a little higher than was first estimated.

add, but we had set an aggressive goal with our fundraising and that helped us add those extra pieces to the project and help enhance the facility," Powicki said.

All that is left now is the track resurfacing project at Memorial Stadium, which had to be pushed back because of the delays in work on the football field. Powicki said that work should be completed sometime

Answering area teams' questions

Just to give you an idea of how old I REALLY am (I tell people I stopped celebrating birthday after my 29th), I am kicking off my fourth decade as a sports writer this fall.

A lot has happened in the 30 years I've been carrying media credentials around to football games, volleyball matches and sports of all levels, from youth to the pros. I've seen some amazing performances, some inspirational efforts and the occasional laid egg that left more than a few people perplexed.

Once you've been in the business enough, people start asking you questions like, "How is (insert team here) going to do this year?" or "Who is going to be the breakout star athlete in our area?" or even the classic "Did you lose a bet to get that haircut?"

I don't have the answers to these questions just yet, but I do have a few predictions that I'd like to toss out.

Now, these predictions are based primarily on a hunch, with a hint of evidence that I've seen from pre-season workouts and information I've received from area coaches. Check back a few weeks from now - if I'm on the money, I'll humbly accept all comments about my soothing genius. If I miss completely - these predictions never actually were published (despite all physical evidence to the contrary that will, no doubt, be mailed to me by numerous grumpy anonymous readers).

Wayne State football will shock some people - With a total of 17 starters back from last year, Wayne State's football team is going to be a lot of fun to watch, especially on the new turf at Memorial Stadium.

There was once a time when a 6-5 record would be enough for a Wildcat football coach to run for mayor. The Wildcats have posted a winning season for six straight years, so the bar is getting nudged a little higher these days and coach Dan McLaughlin will be the first to tell you he's fine with that - he's not happy with 6-5, and I think this team will be better than that.

Somebody will end Concordia-St. Paul's volleyball title run - Wayne State volleyball is in the mix for a ninth straight trip to regionals and will face a tough schedule once again this year.

The Central Region, once again, is loaded to the gills. Wayne State is preseason-ranked 20th and is the lowest of the eight region teams in the rankings at the start of the season. With all that talent, somebody has to knock six-time defending national champion Concordia-St. Paul off their perch this season. Wayne State has the talent to be in that conversation this year, and I've got a feeling this may be the year somebody other than the Golden Bears head to the Elite Eight. Maybe... THIS team???

Get on the Wildcat soccer bandwagon (while good seats are still available) - A new coach and a new attitude are going to make the Wildcats' soccer program a lot more exciting to watch in the years ahead. Coach Tom Cliff promises there will be more shots on goal this season, which means more scoring opportunities and less of a likelihood of the Wildcats losing 1-0 and 2-0 matches.

And now, in two sentences or less, here's how the area high school scene looks from my spot in the press box:

Wayne High football - State bound, this time with a winning record. Brutal schedule with three top-five teams, but I think 5-4 is doable.

Wayne High volleyball - It all depends on staying healthy. With everybody there and everything clicking, this team can make it to state.

Wayne High softball - No reason to believe this team can't reach the championship game for the first

Softball opens with big win at Blair

Team uses solid pitching, hitting to win two Saturday

The Wayne High softball team found a way to win a tough season opener on Thursday, then followed it up with a pair of wins in a rain-shortened tournament at home Saturday.

Two of the state's best programs locked horns in the season opener Thursday in Blair. Class B No. 3 Blair got out to a 2-0 lead early, but Wayne got a key hit from sophomore Danica Schaefer to ignite a four-run response in the fourth inning that was enough for Class C No. 4 Wayne to come away with a 4-2 victory.

The Bears touched Kendall Gamble for a pair of runs in the first inning to take the early lead, but a key double play by senior shortstop Jalyn Zeiss to get out of a third-inning jam seemed to spark the Blue Devils at the plate in the fourth.

"The momentum changer was the double play Jalyn made in the third, and we were able to come back and score four in the fourth and Hannah (Belt) came in and allowed one hit after that against a really good-hitting team," coach Rob Swetland said.

Gamble got Wayne on the board with an RBI single, and Schaefer followed with a shot that just missed clearing the outfield fence. The bases-clearing triple gave Wayne the lead and they wouldn't relinquish it from there.

"She missed a granny by about a foot," Swetland said. "She's really coming along and worked on staying down on the ball, and when she does she can muscle it."

Mother Nature forced a change in Saturday's Wayne Invitational tournament at the Wayne Softball Complex, but didn't slow down the Blue Devils as they were able to post wins over Tekamah-Herman and Twin River.

Wayne spotted the Tigers a run in the first inning of the first game, then scored three in the first and two more in the second on their way to a 6-1 win over Tekamah-Herman.

Kiera Hochstein scored three runs in the win and senior Victoria Kranz had two hits and four RBI's. Abbie Hix also had two hits, and Gamble and Belt combined on a two-hitter in the circle for Wayne.

Wayne touched Twin River for seven first-inning runs, added three more in the second and let the freshman duo of Belt and Ashten Gibson take care of the dirty work in a 10-0 win in Wayne's second game of the day.

Belt struck out six and allowed a hit in three innings before Gibson worked a scoreless fourth to end the Senior quarterback Jalen Barry leads a talented Wayne High football team into the 2013 season.

Coach feeling good about Blue Devils' football hopes

Last year was something of a learning year for the Wayne High football team, and coach Terry Bear hopes the lessons from 2012 can be applied toward a successful 2013 campaign in Blue Devil country.

Bear said he is excited about this year's team, which includes 13 returning starters from a team that finished 2-8 and nearly pulled off a first-round upset in the state playoffs before losing a heartbreaker at Fort Calhoun.

"I feel very good about the team this year," he said. "This will be our second season in the playbook and we have a number of players that saw a lot of playing time last season."

The Blue Devils return a ton of talent on offense, including Jalen Barry at quarterback. He has some good skilled people to work with, including running backs Demetrius Alexander, Curtis Moeller, Trevor Pecena and Payton Janke; and receivers Jared Anderson and Luke Rethwisch.

The Blue Devils also have some good returning size up front with people like Austin Keiser, Seth Trenhaile, Jake Thompson, Brandon Martian and Kody Frahm. The defense also looks tough, with Jose Vergara anchoring the defense at linebacker for the Blue Devils.

Bear said those returning starters will all be key to the team's success, as will returning letterwinners like Jack Belt, Brook Bowers, Drew Davie and Malik Knox.

"Our senior class is very skilled and offers quite a bit of speed," Bear said. "Our defense brings back some talented players and will create some issues for the opposing team, so I'm excited about what we can do this year."

Once again, Wayne will be the only Class C-1 team playing a nine-game regular-season schedule this year. They open up on the new turf at Memorial Stadium on the campus of Wayne State College this Friday, as they play host to an improved Madison team. They will also face Class B foe South Sioux City and preseason-Top 10 Columbus Lakeview during the month of September on the new turf, with West Point-Beemer and David City coming to town later in the year.

Wayne once again competes in what is unquestionably the toughest district in Class C-1, as they will play on the road at Pierce and three-time defending champion Norfolk Catholic to close out the season. Wayne also has road games at O'Neill and Fort Calhoun, both of whom also made the playoffs last season.

Wildcats return 17 starters

The Wayne State football team has plenty of motivation entering the 2013 season.

Despite recording a sixth straight winning season in 2012 with a 6-5 record, ninth year head coach Dan McLaughlin says his team was disappointed with the 6-5 mark and adds the team is motivated to do better in 2013.

"It was disappointing to be 6-5 with the team we had last year," said McLaughlin. "We have a redemption/motivation factor this year to try and prove we are better than that."

The Wildcats return 17 starters from last season and have to replace All-American punter Randy Weich, three-time All-NSIC defensive end Richard Daniel, nose guard Jeff Pokorny, center Matt Peter and wide receiver/return specialist Kevin Paulsen.

"We have a good group of seniors showing great leadership and all the kids came into fall camp in great shape, which got us off to a good start," added McLaughlin.

At quarterback, redshirt freshman Zach Osborn has stepped to the forefront thanks to a strong spring and off-season. Senior Nate Most is also competing for playing time at quarterback after splitting time last season with Brian Kent, who has moved to free safety.

Senior running back Charlie Davidson, the 2012 NSIC Offensive Newcomer of the Year, became a workhorse for the Wildcats in the second half last season and finished sixth in the NSIC in rushing at just under 80 yards per game. He had a strong finish to the season with three straight games of 100 or more yards, highlighted by a season-best 150 yards on 36 carries in a 17-14 win at Upper Iowa. McLaughlin said true freshmen Alex Kline and Rashad Trimble have looked good this fall with senior Kendrick Hester providing depth at tail back for the Wildcats.

Hartington Cedar Catholic junior Chad Koch returns as the top fullback while sophomores Tyler Oeltjen and Tyler Johnson are also battling for playing time.

At wide receiver, the Wildcats return plenty of talent led by junior speedster Adam Stark, who had 28 catches for 584 yards and five scores last season averaging 20.9 yards per catch. Junior Cole McDaniel ranked third on the team last season in receptions, and according to McLaughlin "has jumped at us the most in the preseason living up to his potential."

Providing depth at the wide receiver position include junior returners Cody Calhoun and Johnny Saunders, transfer Toney Abraham and freshmen Nate Rogers and Nick Roth.

At tight end, Columbus senior Grant Otten has been outstanding in the fall, with Omaha Creighton Prep junior Joe Trouba and Lincoln East senior Tyson Clark also looking strong adding depth at the tight

Seniors to lead way for Wildcat netters

The 2013 Wayne State volleyball team will be looking to replace two stellar seniors from last year's team as a talented recruiting class and four returning starters look to continue the success Wayne State volleyball has experienced over the last decade.

The 2012 squad went 22-10, but ended their season in the first round of the NCAA Central Regional, falling 3-0 to Concordia-St. Paul, who went on to win a sixth straight NCAA Div. II national championship. It marked the eighth straight season that Wayne State qualified for the NCAA Div. II national tournament while the Wildcats finished 18th in the final AVCA Division II end position.

The Wildcat defense features a new look this year, going to a 3-4 under new defensive coordinator

"Our goal is to always win a championship but at the same time I want to see us play a little better..."

— Dan McLaughlin
WSC football coach

Mike Aldrich.

The top returner on the defensive line is junior defensive end Jeff Van Den Top, a second-team All-NSIC South Division selection last season after recording 42 tackles and 10 tackles for loss with five quarterback hurries. Junior Dylan Tolbert returns at the other defensive end slot while sophomore Eli Vosler and junior Jake Wright will battle for playing time as well.

Redshirt freshman Tony Gbogbo leads a group at nose tackle with sophomore Garrett Anthens and redshirt freshman Shawn Barker battling for playing time. The inside linebacker position features returning starter Nick Monzu who ranked fifth on the team in tackles last season with 57. Sophomore Nate Kroupa had a strong spring and looks strong at the other inside linebacker position while Iowa transfer Jeremy Nelson and junior Tyson McGill add depth and will contend for playing time this season.

McLaughlin feels the strength of the defense is at outside linebacker with the return of sophomore starters Nathan Scott and Zach Bierman. Redshirt freshman Trevor Meader and senior Craig Tigges will provide backup at outside linebacker.

Sophomore Jon Davis and senior Ben Radel return as starting cornerbacks. Joey Bierman and J'Ron Erby add depth in the secondary.

Senior Austan Pomajzl returns for his senior season at strong safety while Jared Curry moves from outside linebacker to safety this season. Former quarterback Brian Kent, junior Chase Samuel and freshmen Nick deBuhr and Steven Price will all compete for backup time at the safety positions.

McLaughlin said there are good battles going on at the kicking positions to replace the losses of Weich and placekicker Max Martin, both lost to graduation. Redshirt freshmen Tyler Basch and Tyler Lindsay are battling for the placekicking duties while Basch and senior Sean McClure are contending for punting chores to fill the shoes of Weich.

Another key loss to fill is in the return game where Paulsen, who became the school's all-time leader in kickoff return yardage last season, graduated. Davidson, Stark and Abraham will share kickoff return duties while Stark, Abraham and Nick Roth will handle punt returns this season.

Wayne State faces a tough schedule again in the 2013 season. The Wildcats open at Northern State on Saturday, Sept. 7 in a 6 p.m. contest. Wayne State plays the first of six home games on a new synthetic turf surface at Cunningham Field hosting the University of Mary on Sept. 14 at 1 p.m. The Wildcats battle AF-CA Div. II No. 11-ranked Minnesota Duluth in the annual Homecoming/Hall of Fame Game on Sept. 28. Another nationally-ranked foe that awaits the Wildcats this season is No. 2 Minnesota State in a Nov. 2 contest in Mankato, Minn.

"The first game is as important as the last one," McLaughlin said. "Our goal is to always win a championship but at the same time I want to see us play a little better – get better every day with great effort."

Good mix of vets, youth have high goals for WHS runners

Wayne High's cross country team looks to have a good mix of returning talent and young potential as it gets ready for the upcoming season.

"We had good numbers at our summer running, so we are ahead of schedule," coach Rocky Ruhl said. "I see improvement in the veterans and quality in our new runners, so expectations and goals are going to be high for the season."

Two individual state qualifiers are back from last year's girls team, as senior Angie Nelson and junior Cassie Heier return to the lineup. Heier was a state medalist last year for the Blue Devils, finishing 10th in Class C. Nelson has been to state three times, with last year being her first individual trip. Both girls will lead what looks to be a talented Blue Devil girls squad.

Also back for the Wayne High girls this year are returning letterwinners Dulce Torres, a senior; and Hannah Kenny, a junior. They will be joined by a number of athletes who will compete for varsity spots, including senior Molly Burbach, sophomores Mandy Stabler and Sylvia Jager and freshmen Marta Pulfer, Marissa Munsell, Jennifer Espino and Caitlin Janke.

On the boys side, Ben Hoskins earned a trip to state last year as a sophomore and will look to improve on last year's 32nd place finish at state as he leads what should be a very competitive boys team.

Seniors Jared Peterson and Bryce Sebade return to the Blue Devil lineup this year, along with juniors Luke Pulfer and Cornelio Espino. All four runners bring a good deal of experience to the lineup that should make up the core of the boys varsity lineup.

Wayne has a number of runners who will also compete for spots, including senior Parker Wren; sophomores Cole Leonard, Jacob Bear and Mason Reynolds and freshmen Nolan Reynolds and Garret Reynolds.

Wayne will be in a challenging district this year that includes the Fort Calhoun boys, who were the state runner-up in Class C; and the Boone Central/Newman Grove girls, who finished third. That district meet will take place Oct. 17 at Skyview Lake in Norfolk.

game on the 10-run rule. Schaefer hit a two-run homer for her first dinger of the year, and Zeiss was 3-for-3 with two RBI's to lead a 10-hit effort for the Blue Devils.

"We gave Tekamah a couple of extra outs, but the girls responded and our older girls showed some leadership out there," Sweetland said. "Our seniors are talking out there to the younger kids and helping them understand what's expected, and it's great to see our four senior captains take control of things."

The Blue Devils faced O'Neill on Tuesday and will compete in a tough Lincoln Public Schools tournament this weekend, facing Waverly, Omaha Gross and Lincoln North Star in their four-team round-robin bracket on Saturday.

"It's a competitive week for us," Sweetland said. "O'Neill is solid and has a lot of starters back, and Waverly beat up on a Seward team we saw this summer, so we'll see some good competition and some tough games this week."

Questions

time since 2009 and win it all for the first time since 2004. Solid defense, outstanding hitting and good pitching are what you need to win it all, and this team has the whole package.

Wayne High girls golf – Some good potential here and a good chance to get to state, due to a shaky district and home-course advantage for the district tournament. Scores have to come down if this team wants to contend for a state title, but if they play up to their capabilities, they should at least get a shot at it.

Wayne High cross country – Should be a return to state for both teams. Boys have defending state runner-up in their district this year but are solid in the top four, while girls have great mix of experience and talented youth that should net a team state trip.

LCC football – The key word here is rebuilding, as the Bears only have 25 out and just a handful of seniors. Lot of holes to fill at the skill position, but good experience on the line should be good for a couple of wins against a very tough schedule.

LCC volleyball – Five talented starters back from a young team last year with a coach who knows how to get the most out of her players. If they can get through perennial power GACC in districts, Lady Bears will be state bound and could make the final four.

LCC cross country – No room for injuries on the boys side if they want to go to state as a team. Sadie Petersen is the only girl and is a solid bet to return to state for the third time.

LCC girls golf – New program debuts at Laurel this fall, and there is enough to field a full team, which is always a good thing. Only one golfer with significant experience right now, while the others will learn and improve as the season goes on.

Wakefield football – Good talent at the skill positions and some concern on the lines. If Trojans stay healthy, they can repeat as district champs and win a game or two in the C2 playoffs.

Wakefield volleyball – A young setter, but great returning hitters to work with. Could see Wakefield facing LCC in a conference and sub-district final with LCC's move to the Lewis and Clark.

Allen football – Kind of like deja vu in Allentown as last year's young Eagles team is back and better. Eagles play a tough schedule but have the tools to be a playoff team and end a three-year postseason skid.

Allen volleyball – What Lady Eagles lack in height is made up for with quickness and smart play. Lost some talent from last year's district runner-up, but a trip to state is not out of the question for this team.

Winside football – Thin numbers leaves no room for injuries for the Wildcats this year. Tough schedule and question marks on the line could make for a difficult fall, but potential for success is on the horizon.

Winside volleyball – Some experience is back, but lot of holes left behind from a graduating class that made three trips to state in four years. Wildcats are quick and won't be an easy out for teams and should be improved by season's end.

Winside cross country – Wildcats' state qualifier from last year moved, so a lot of young talent that will have to develop. Quite a bit of youth that will improve as the season goes on and could get 1-2 runners in for state if they work hard.

McKenna Adams was the Wildcats' leading scorer last season. The Wildcats have a new coach in Tom Cliff and hope to improve on last year's 3-14-1 mark.

New era under way for Wildcat soccer

A new era begins for the Wayne State College women's soccer program in 2013 as Tom Cliff takes over as head coach of the Wildcats, becoming the seventh coach in the program's 16-year history.

Cliff brings 18 years of coaching experience to the Wildcat program, having served most recently as the head coach at Adams State in Colorado while also serving a four year stint at Northwestern College in Iowa from 2003-06. He inherits a team at Wayne State that was 3-14-1 last season, including a 3-11-1 mark in the NSIC. He has an experienced group of players with 18 returners along with seven new recruits coming back from the 2012 team that did not have a senior on the roster.

"It's a job that's been on my radar for a while, and this is an exceptional opportunity with the changes in the facilities and the enthusiasm for the program," Cliff said. "It's an up and coming place, and I'm excited about the future of Wayne State soccer."

One area of emphasis for Coach Cliff will be scoring more goals after last season's team recorded just 16 goals while being shut out nine times.

Offensively, Wayne State returns a go-to goal scorer in junior forward McKenna Adams, who was All-NSIC third-team last season after leading the Wildcats in scoring with 18 points on seven goals and four assists. Defensively, the team's top returner is senior defender Macy Hagen, who has started all but one match in her three years with the Wildcat program and was an All-NSIC honorable mention selection one year ago.

"We're definitely going to be focused on putting the ball in the net, and we want to be more aggressive and take some risks and not sit back," Cliff said. "You have to shoot 15 shots a game to be competitive in this league, and that's our goal."

Sophomore forward/midfielder Kelly Voigt is the second leading returning scorer on the team after notching two goals last season. Other returning players that scored goals last season include junior midfielder Mallory Hoyt (one goal, two assists), Josie Brown and Hagen.

Other returners for the Wildcats include seniors Norma Volkmer, Caitlin Hollinger and Kara Naumann, juniors Jordan Hobza and Alex Mathers along with sophomores Makenzie Adams, Hannah Thayer, Rachel Mabrey, Natalie Poppe, Bridget Hansen, Hannah Hirsch, Kelsea Lambert and Dana Ormiston.

Seven newcomers joining the Wildcat program this season include junior college transfer Hali Henwood (Northwest Junior College in Wyoming) along with freshmen Kylie Comba (Millard South), Heather Gunderson (Millard South), Valerie Hernandez (Waverly), Erin Slattery (Omaha Skutt), Kelsey Engstrom (Lincoln Pius X), Hailey Smith (Millard South) and Kara Noesen (Bellevue West).

Wayne State opens the 2013 season on Thursday, Sept. 5 at Northwest Missouri State. The first of nine home matches for the Wildcats at the renovated WSC Soccer Complex will be Sunday, Sept. 8, hosting Washburn at 2 p.m. Wayne State closes out the non-conference schedule at Missouri Western on Sept. 13 before opening conference play at home on Sunday, Sept. 15 against Augustana.

"For us, it's more about being competitive and implementing our philosophy that's going to win us games down the road," Cliff said. "We're trying to embrace a blue-collar work ethic that goes with our community and our school."

Top 25 Coaches Poll.

"We are really excited about the start of fall camp. We have some players who saw extensive playing time last season, along with a talented freshman class," coach Scott Kneifl said. "We expect the competition for playing time to be very intense throughout the season, which will continue to make us better."

"Having 11 freshmen and sophomores and four seniors gives us an interesting dynamic, which we hope will have us playing extremely well at the end of the season," Kneifl commented. "Accepting roles and learning to play together will be instrumental in the success of our team."

Returning for her senior season is outside hitter Cori Hobbs. The AVCA All-Central Region and second-team All-NSIC selection was the go to player last year when it came to attacking as she led the Wildcats with 363 kills and her total attacks of 1,332 were more than double of the next closest player.

Also gearing up for her senior season is Tatum Wroblewski, who ranked fifth in digs on the team last year with 147 and was second on the team in service aces with 24.

"Cori had a breakout season for us last year, and we will once again expect a lot out of her this season. Cori is a very good all-around player who can terminate the ball in crunch time," Kneifl said. "Tatum is very experienced at the right back position and has a potent serve that fuels our offense. She is a very talented setter and one of the hardest workers in our program."

Wayne State has no juniors on this year's team, but a talented sophomore class brings a lot of youth and experience to the 2013 squad.

Leisa McClintock is the starting setter and looks to improve on her stellar 2012 campaign. A second-team All-NSIC honoree last season, she paced the Wildcats in assists with 1,123 and her 9.94 assists per set ranked seventh in the NSIC. She also ranked sixth on the team in kills with 134, was third in blocks with 79 and was also third in service aces with 23.

"Leisa did a very nice job of running our offense last year as a red-shirt freshman. Her ability to attack from the setter position makes our offense more difficult to defend," Kneifl said.

Another returning sophomore is starting libero Courtney VanGroningen, who was the team leader in digs last season with 480 and her 4.25 digs per set ranked ninth in the NSIC. She also led WSC in service aces with 33 on the year.

Katie Hughes also returns for her sophomore season and brings valuable experience she gained in the second half of last season. Hughes had 144 kills as a true freshman in 2012 to rank fifth on the team and was quick on the defensive side of the net to rack up the second most digs on the team with 426.

"Courtney had a great redshirt freshman campaign as our starting libero last season. Her defense from the left back position and serve receive skills will continue to help our team stay in system and allow our offense to have a balanced attack."

"Katie had a great second half of the season and was a major reason for our success last year. We look for Katie to start where she left off and be a vital part of our team," Kneifl said.

Elizabeth Gebhardt and Jennifer Nakata also return from last year's team as sophomores, as Gebhardt is expected to contend for a hitting position and Nakata will add quality depth in the back row.

"Liz will surprise many people this season. Her length and how she studied behind a three-year starter last season will help her become a lock down right side blocker that can terminate," Kneifl said. "Jenny improved a lot throughout last year. She has a very good all-around skill set and her serve receive game is much improved. She will compete for time at the defensive specialist position."

The Wildcats also look forward to getting back two middle hitters this season as Katie Beiermann and Lexi Malm return from season-ending injuries in 2012. Beiermann played in 10 matches last year and racked up 29 blocks and 29 kills in that time. Malm appeared in 28 matches to rack up 97 kills and was second on the team with 80 total blocks.

"Katie is coming off a season where she was playing the best volleyball of her career and ended with a season-ending knee injury. She has rehabbed very hard and we look for her to give us leadership out of the middle blocker position," Kneifl said. "Lexi is coming off a very serious knee injury from last season. She will not be 100 percent at the start of fall camp, but her experience at the middle blocker position will help our team immensely."

Six talented freshmen recruits join the Wildcats for the 2013 season and will add depth or contend for court time right away.

Alyssa Frauendorfer led Humphrey High to back-to-back State Championships in 2011 and 2012, racking up 491 kills, 132 blocks and 18 aces during her senior season to lead the Bulldogs to a 33-2 record.

Katie Kurtz is a graduate of Papillion-LaVista South, where she was in the Class A state championship game all four years of her high school career.

Michaela Mestl graduated from Kearney Catholic and adds another state championship to the Wildcat freshman class, as her team went 36-0 in 2012 on their way to the Class C-1 championship.

Alex Opperman graduated from Omaha Gross where she was named honorable mention Class B All-State as a senior as she helped her team to the Class B State tournament.

Sydney Rose graduated from Wakefield, where she was named All-Conference in volleyball four straight seasons and earned honorable mention Class C-2 All-State volleyball selection by the Omaha World Herald and Lincoln Journal Star.

Alexis Steffen graduated from Hartington Cedar Catholic where she led the Trojans to the Class C-2 State Championship in 2012 with a 31-5 record.

Wayne State faces another rigorous schedule in 2013 as the Northern Sun Conference features three teams ranked in the preseason top 25 with six-time defending national champion Concordia-St. Paul (1), Minnesota Duluth (4), and Southwest Minnesota State (6). The Wildcats also have No. 3 Nebraska-Kearney on their schedule this year. Wayne State was ranked 20th in the AVCA Div. II Coaches Top 25 preseason poll picked for a fourth-place finish in the NSIC preseason coaches poll.

The Wildcats open the season with four straight top 25 matchups at the Concordia-St. Paul Tournament in St. Paul, Minnesota, Sept. 6-7, with games against No. 9 Indianapolis, No. 11 Colorado Mines, No. 1 Concordia-St. Paul and No. 21 Wingate. That tournament is followed by a trip to Pueblo, Colo., the next weekend for the CSU Pueblo Tournament. Wayne State has 11 home matches, beginning Thursday, Sept. 19 against the University of Sioux Falls at 7 p.m.

MEDICATION STORAGE

What's the worst thing that can happen if you take a medication that is past its expiration date? The medicine will just be a little bit weak, right? Wrong. Although that's true in most cases, some outdated medications can become toxic and actually make you sick.

Knowing how to store medications, as well as when and where to dispose of them safely, is just as important as knowing how and when to take your medications. Follow these tips and you'll be on the right track.

When your pharmacist sends you home with a new medication, keep it in its original container, which has your name and dosing information on it. Be sure to re-lock bottles with child-resistant packaging. Many medications—especially those harmful to children—are put in foil packaging. If you find these difficult to open, talk with your pharmacist. For each medication, the law provides for one type of package without child-resistant features. If you don't have children in your home, these might work best for you (although consider whether young children ever visit your home). But whatever you do, don't transfer your medications into an empty bottle. Someone else may take them, not knowing they belong to you. It's been known to happen.

If you're unsure, ask your pharmacist about the best place to store your medications. To keep children and pets safe, store medications in a high, locked cabinet. If that's not possible, find a place that's difficult for children to see and reach. Remember: A young child has no idea that these colorful objects are not candy. And even over-the-counter medications and vitamins—particularly those containing iron—can be dangerous, especially if taken in large amounts by children.

To keep a medication safe and potent, keep it out of direct sunlight in a cool, dry place. Some medications are affected by humidity, so the bathroom medicine cabinet isn't always best. Other medications require refrigeration, but don't keep medications there unless instructed to do so by your doctor or pharmacist.

It may be wise to keep a reserve supply of medications, in the event of an emergency. For example, if you need medications for a chronic condition, such as diabetes, asthma, HIV, or a psychiatric condition, carry at least a three to five day supply with you in a purse or briefcase in labeled containers. Make sure these are in child-resistant containers and that your purse or briefcase is kept out of the reach of children.

As for medication disposal, make it a part of your spring (and fall) cleaning ritual. Check expiration dates, but even if the medication is not dated, think of it as expired at six months after purchase. Also, dispose of a medication if it has changed colors or developed an unusual odor—even if it's not past its expiration date. Don't put medications or vitamins into open trash containers or down the toilet. Instead, take all expired medications to your pharmacist for proper disposal. This is the best way to protect family pets, children, people who might scrounge through your trash—and the environment.

Medications are expensive, so it may be tempting to use them, even when they've expired. If this is your thinking, just remember the greater potential cost to you: your health and safety.

Five returning starters highlight WHS volleyball

The Wayne High volleyball team should be an entertaining one to watch this fall, with five returning starters back from last year's 16-16 squad that finished as district runner-up.

Second-year coach Traci Krusemark has a lot of returning talent this year, and is excited about her team's chances for success this season.

"Our team has put in a lot of work over the summer, so we are excited to begin practicing," she said. "We have quite a few returning players with varsity experience, so we are looking to build off of last year's season."

Two seniors and three juniors are back with starting experience this season, led by seniors Meagan Backer and Ashton Schweers. Backer is an experienced libero who is a quick defender and will be a solid back-row player for the Blue Devils. Schweers' junior season was cut short due to an early knee injury, but she recovered well and qualified for state in the high jump in track and field and looks to make an impact on the volleyball floor in her senior year.

Juniors Lexi Sokol, Madison Frevert and Emma Evetovich also return to the lineup this season. Sokol and Frevert will give Wayne a great 1-2 punch at middle hitter, and Evetovich developed into a solid setter and will help direct the offense this season for the Blue Devils.

Other letterwinners who are back this year include seniors Jaci Jenkins and Paige Wacker, juniors Alyssa Schmale and Sydney McCorkindale and sophomores Peyton Roach and Tarah Stegemann. Jenkins, Schmale, Roach and Stege-mann will contribute at outside hitter; Wacker will hit from the right side, and McCorkindale will give Wayne another solid setter to run the offense.

The Blue Devils face some tough competition once again this season, with early-season matchups against Boone Central, Guardian Angels Central Catholic and Norfolk Catholic all coming in September. They'll get a good feel for where they are at when they open the season next week in the Northeast Nebraska Classic at Wisner-Pilger.

Wayne's first home matchup of the season will be Tuesday, Sept. 10 against Schuyler.

Quarterback Evan Nicholson is back for the Wakefield Trojans, who are looking to defend their district title of a year ago.

Trojans gunning for district honors

Wakefield bounced out of a long losing streak last season and put together an impressive run to win a district football title last year.

After last season's 6-3 effort, coach Mike Hassler is hoping the team can continue its progression and be a contender for another district title in 2013.

The Trojans have eight starters back from last year's state-qualifying team and will need some younger players to step up this season.

"We were hard at it in the weight room, and we need some younger players to grow up quick and have our veteran backfield make up for some of the inexperience early on," he said. "Our district is wide open this year, and this group doesn't want to go back to the dark ages. Our goal is to play for a district championship - period."

Seniors Evan Nicholson and Josh Dolph will help lead the Trojans' skill players who are back from last year. Nicholson is a three-year starter at quarterback, while Dolph is the team's leading rusher. They lead an experienced group of senior leaders that includes Heath Greve (running back/linebacker), Julio Perez (line), Anthony Gustafson (wide receiver/defensive back) and Daniel Gustafson (running back/linebacker).

Anthony Gustafson was the team's leading receiver from last year, while Greve was the leader on defense with 109 total tackles. Perez returns to help anchor the front line for Wakefield, while Daniel Gustafson recorded 76 tackles as a starter at linebacker.

With some holes to fill on the offensive line, Tim Anderson will make a move from tight end to center this season. Alex Conley will be a solid two-way threat at running back and linebacker after starting on defense last year as a sophomore.

Five other letterwinners are back from last season. Levi Nelson started a couple of games at linebacker and will look to be a two-way threat at running back as well. Juan Delgado and Christian Chinichilla will both be back and will be asked to contribute on the front line. Nick Gonzalez is looking to nail down a starting spot at defensive back, while Anthony Victor will see time at wide receiver for the Trojans.

Last year, Wakefield broke out of a two-season slump with a season-opening win at Tekamah-Herman. This year, the Tigers come to town for the season opener on Friday at Eaton Field, and the Trojans will play two road games in three weeks before coming back home the last weekend in September to face Battle Creek.

No new runners for LCC cross country

While the Laurel-Concord/Coleridge cross country team is short on numbers, they're long on experience and returning talent and should have some individual and team success in 2013.

Junior Sadie Petersen is a two-time state competitor who is the only girl on the LCC roster this season. Senior Adam Haahr, also a state competitor from last year, leads a four-man boys team that will have an opportunity to compete in team standings this season.

All four boys who are part of the LCC roster were on the team last year, and that experience is going to be helpful this fall, coach Megan Virgil said.

"I have all my cross country runners returning, and they're ready to compete at a higher standard," she said. "Their goal is to make it to state."

Haahr is the only senior on the boys team and is joined by three sophomores, including brother Aaron Haahr, Jordan Jansen and Ethan Gubbels. All four were competitors last year for the Bears, and if they can run strong and compete in a pack, they should score pretty well as a team this season and compete for a trip to state.

Petersen has had success in cross country and track for LCC the past two seasons, and while she is the only Lady Bear in the lineup this season, Virgil likes her chances for making another trip to Kear-

Sadie Petersen has been to state twice and is looking for a third trip as she leads the LCC cross country program, which has five returning starters from last season.

Eagles older, stronger heading into season

Last year, the Allen Eagles football team was a young bunch that struggled to a 2-6 campaign.

Most of those players are back, and with a year's experience under their belts, coach Dave Uldrich is hoping the Eagles can get back to the playoffs after a three-year hiatus.

"We're very excited to get this season started," Uldrich said. "We are healthy, stronger and filled with much more experience. We've spent the last two seasons taking our lumps and picking up experience, and it's time for our upperclassmen to meet the challenge."

Senior leadership will be important to this year's team, and Uldrich is looking to four-year starter Austin Connot, an all-district performer at end; and three-year starting center Trevor Stapleton to help lead the way.

Several other seniors are expected to play key roles in the team's success, including starting defensive tackle Levi Madsen, starting guard Myles Flores, defensive specialist Takota Burnham and two-way starter Cole Stewart.

Uldrich said the Eagles will have several juniors on the 20-man roster who should contribute, including three-year starter Caleb Thomas, who will play key roles at linebacker and running back. Brian Boese is also being looked at as a two-way player, Brady Krakau will help bolster the offensive line and Coleman Kneif is looking at the quarterback slot. Wade Connot, Nick Brahmsteadt and Brandon Abts are also expected to see some action this season.

Sophomores Austin Crom and Kenny Kramer both missed last season with injuries but should be contributors this season if they stay healthy. Several freshmen could see time in the lineup as the season progresses.

"Our seniors represented the school well at the University of South Dakota team camp this summer, and we had a great summer of conditioning," Uldrich said.

The Eagles will get a good indicator of where they need to be with traditional power Howells-Dodge opening the 2013 calendar on Sept. 6 in Allen. They are among five state qualifying teams from 2012 who are on the schedule, along with Hartington, Randolph, Pender and Niobrara-Verdigre.

"We've got some momentum building up, and now we want some wins," Uldrich said. "The kids' attitudes are tremendously positive, and we're looking forward to this season."

(Herald file photo) McKenzie Rusk leads a group of talented players back for the Wakefield volleyball team this season.

Trojans have good returning group

The Wakefield volleyball team has a host of talent back from a competitive team that played well for most of the season in 2012.

Five starters return from last year's 23-10 team, and the Trojans will have returning talent at every position except setter, where an incoming freshman will step in to lead the team.

Senior Lauren Lehmkuhl was the go-to girl for the Trojans last year, as she recorded 500 kills last season. She will be joined at the net by fellow senior Tianna Gnat at outside hitter, with juniors Emily Puls and McKenzie Rusk returning at middle hitter and right side hitter, respectively.

Whitney Echtenkamp was a solid performer at libero last year, and the senior will be the defensive leader once again for the Wakefield girls. They'll look to Savannah Nelson to direct the offense, as the freshman looks to step into the role after the graduation of Wayne State recruit Sydney Rose, a three-year starter at that position.

"It is great to have so much experience back on the floor," coach Timarie Bebee said. "We have a couple younger players who are stepping in and playing key roles on the floor for us, as well."

The Trojans open the 2013 season at the Northeast Nebraska Classic, Sept. 5-7 in Wisner.

Bears will be young team

Last season was a challenging one for the Laurel-Concord/Coleridge football team, and it's not going to get any easier in 2013.

The Bears lost several key players from last year's 1-7 team, and third-year coach T.J. Shiers said he will be looking to fill a lot of holes on this year's team.

"We're in a rebuilding season. We lost nearly all of our skill positions, so we have a lot of roles that need to be filled by underclassmen," he said.

The good news, however, is that the new skilled players will be working behind an experienced offensive line that includes four players with experience in the trenches.

Two-year starter Chayne Hirschman and versatile Ethan Hirschman will help lead things up front. Ethan Hirschman, at 6-foot-3 and 265 pounds, can play any of the five positions up front and will be a leader on the offensive line. Billy Barelman had a good summer in the weight room, and he and Ben Barelman are expected to help out up front.

Cory Peterson is the team's most experienced skill position player, and he returns to the team at wide receiver this year. Calvin Casey saw time up front but will move to the fullback position to help the backfield along with running back Brett Haisch. Dillan Wolfgram is expected to step into the quarterback position.

"We have nearly all of our linemen back from last year, so that will hopefully be a strength," Shiers said. "We will be very inexperienced at the skill positions and have a first-time starter at quarterback, so our focus will be on not turning the ball over."

Other lettermen who should make an impact this year include running back and linebacker Brad Steffen, wide receiver and defensive back Isaac Hanson, and linemen Dominic Anderson, Nolan Casey, Eric Surber and Zach Hauptmann.

The Bears do have seven starters back from their 4-2 defense from last year, and Shiers has his entire coaching staff back from last year, which will help from a continuity perspective.

"It's the first time in a few years that our players have had the same coaching staff and same offensive and defensive schemes, so the consistency and familiarity should benefit our players," he said.

The Bears face a tough schedule once again this season, beginning with their Sept. 6 home opener against Battle Creek.

Five starters return for Lady Bears

Last year, there were a lot of holes to fill in the starting lineup for the Laurel-Concord/Coleridge volleyball team.

This year, it's a different story - all but one starter returns from last year's 10-20 rebuilding year, and coach Patti Cunningham enters her 20th season as the Lady Bears' mentor with hope that this year's team will have learned a lot from last year's rebuilding season.

"Last season, we had one returning starter and needed to replace five, and this year we have five starters back, so the athletes will be challenged to make good on that significant difference from day one," she said.

Directing the offense will be senior setter Cameron Eddie, who did a good job running the offense last year and finished with 508 set assists. She was also a contributor in other areas, recording 34 ace serves, 124 digs and 13 blocks.

The Lady Bears will have a good double-team at the net with middle blockers Kelsey Dietrich and Audra Corbit. Dietrich, a 5-foot-8 senior, had 27 blocks and 116 kills last season, while Corbit, a 6-foot junior, added a team-best 63 blocks and recorded 131 kills.

On the outside, LCC will have a pair of talented hitters in senior Erin Gubbels (81 kills) and junior Ellie Arduser (96 kills), both of whom are also solid passers. Gubbels led the team with 198 digs last season, while Arduser had 184.

Other returning letterwinners from last year include senior Brittany Wolfgram, a defensive specialist; and senior Taylor Pigg, who should see more time this season.

Cunningham said there are three players to watch on this year's Lady Bears squad, including senior Kelsey Kardell and juniors Candace Rastede and Michaela Nitz.

The Lady Bears will compete in a new conference this year, as LCC joined Randolph, Creighton and Plainview in a move from the now-defunct NENAC to the Lewis and Clark Conference. The Lady Bears will look to extend their season this fall past last year's subdistrict semifinal loss to perennial power Hartington Cedar Catholic.

The Lady Bears open the 2013 season on the road next Thursday, Sept. 5 at Randolph. Because of the installation of a new gym floor in Laurel, their first scheduled home game against Plainview will be played in Coleridge on Thursday, Sept. 19. Their first game on the new floor in Laurel will be Oct. 3 against Creighton.

Lady Eagle netters to rely on quicker lineup

The Allen Lady Eagles were one win away from a state tournament berth and will be looking to take the next step in 2013.

The Lady Eagles have three starters and two other letterwinners back from last season's 19-13 season that saw them lose to Howells-Dodge in the district finals. And while there are some holes to fill from last year, coach Cheryl Greve likes what she sees out of this year's Allen squad.

"We did lose two very strong seniors off last year's squad, but we have some young talent that is hoping to step in and help out," she said. "We aren't very tall, but we do have some quickness on the team and are looking to make the most of that asset."

Senior starter Lindsey Jones and sophomore Gabby Sullivan are the two tallest players on the team, both checking in at 5-foot-8. Jones has been a four-year starter for the Lady Eagles and is a two-time all-conference performer who will anchor the defense as a middle blocker. Sullivan developed last year as a freshman and will be a player to watch as a returning letterwinner at middle hitter.

Junior Lindsey Sullivan and sophomore Lexi Oswald are also back as returning starters for the Lady Eagles. Sullivan is a solid setter who has a lot of quickness and has done a good job developing at the position. Oswald played well as a freshman outside hitter last year and is expected to contribute as the team's libero this season.

Senior Morgan Bathke also returns to the team this season. Greve said she will give the Lady Eagles some solid play as a defensive specialist. Senior Sammy Sullivan is back in the lineup after spending most of last season on the injured list.

The Lady Eagles have several other players who should develop into key performers this season, including junior hitter Brooke Hingst, sophomore defensive specialist Kay Stapleton, sophomore right side hitter Mariah Keiser and freshman outside hitter Rachel Kneifl.

The Lady Eagles kick off the 2013 season Sept. 5-7 at the Northeast Nebraska Classic in Wisner.

Four back for Winside XC

The Winside cross country team has four starters back from last year and will field a full boys squad this season.

Tanner Westerhaus and David Greunke lead the returning runners for the Wildcat boys, while Victoria Coffin and Breanna Lemke-Elznic are back to run again for the Wildcat girls.

While they are small in numbers, coach Jennifer Kesting said the team is working hard and having fun as they get ready to compete this season.

"We're going to have fun, run a lot and make as much progress as we can," she said.

The Wildcats will compete in a number of events this season, starting with next week's Wisner-Pilger Invitational at Indian Hills Country Club in Beemer.

Seven starters return for Winside football in 2013

First-year Winside football coach Mark Tonniges is looking to build on last year's 1-7 season with seven starters returning from last year's team.

"We've had a major change of attitude and things very positive, and we're working on improving each week," Tonniges said.

Four linemen are back from last year's team, with Zach Jones, Zane Jensen, Sam Wolfe and Brock Carlson returning. With those four back, the Wildcats will have some stability on the front line.

Caleb Lienemann is moving from quarterback to running back this year, giving the Wildcats a good 1-2 punch with the return of fellow senior Gage Main. Marcos Escalante should also see time at back this season.

The Wildcats are low on numbers this year, with only 16 players suiting up for football this season. Tonniges is hopeful, however, that what the team lacks in numbers will be made up for with solid play and a positive outlook.

Winside faces a challenging schedule with a new twist this year. With Newcastle moving to a co-op with Ponca, the Wildcats replaced the game with Humphrey. Winside will play at Humphrey on Sept. 20.

Winside opens the regular season at Scribner-Snyder on Friday. Their home opener is the following week when Bancroft-Rosalie comes to town on Sept. 6. With the change in scheduling, Winside won't have a bye week until the final week of the regular season.

Winside has home games with Bancroft-Rosalie and Lyons-Decatur on back-to-back weeks, then has another back-to-back home set with Osmond on Oct. 4 and Wynot on Oct. 11.

Asbestos taken from home

In July, Environmental Services of Norfolk was hired by the Wayne County Commissioners to properly dispose of a vacant farmhouse northeast of Wayne. The house was destroyed by fire earlier this spring when a county tree pile burned out of control on the property. The farmhouse contained asbestos siding and shingles, forcing the need for a controlled cleanup which took place on Aug. 26 in compliance with the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality and the Nebraska Health and Human Services asbestos abatement program. Wayne County Emergency Management personnel were on the scene while the cleanup took place, monitoring the removal of the potentially hazardous materials.

Wildcat netters return four starters

Winside has a young and energetic volleyball team that's ready for action, according to coach Teresa Watters.

Four starters are back from last year's 16-13 team that finished as district runner-up, and all four returning letterwinners are expected to contribute this year.

"We're a young, energetic team that is excited for the upcoming season," she said.

Leading the charge is the only returning senior on the team, Jayd Roberts. She will handle setting duties for the Wildcats this year after recording 82 assists and 213 digs last year.

"She brings with her the expertise of a setter and the poise of a varsity leader," Watters said of Roberts.

Three juniors with varsity experience return to the team this year. Morgan Jensen, Carly Schwager and Carly Thies are all back to help the team improve this season.

Jensen will be the team's libero after recording 111 digs last year. Thies is the leading hitter from last year, recording 104 kills and 14 blocks, while Schwager is expected to contribute quite a bit at outside hitter to go with her defensive skills.

"Our returning juniors gained valuable experience last season that will benefit the team this year," Watters said. "Our freshmen and sophomore classes have also shown enthusiasm and have a strong commitment for the team."

Winside will play its first two triangular seasons on the road, going to Elkhorn Valley Sept. 5 and Hartington on Sept. 7. Their first home date is a triangular with Walthill and Bancroft-Rosalie on Sept. 10.

Don't get me started

Feeling bad for today's parents

My daughter is all grown up now – she's a recent college graduate, has a full-time job and is well on her way to realizing her dreams and living the kind of life that I hope she will lead.

And I am soooooo glad that I don't have to worry about her anymore, at least from the perspective of having to deal with some of the trash that passes for today's entertainment for the younger generation.

I always laughed at the adults in my life when they were trying to figure out why I enjoyed listening to the rock band KISS. Especially funny were those psychopathic, Bible-thumping born-again Christians who INSISTED, and had unrefutable evidence, that the band's name was an acronym meaning Kings In Satan's Service. They just couldn't understand why we would subject our young minds to such filth as was being put out by the rock bands of that time (and probably are confused as to why their music is still popular almost four decades later, but I digress).

I always used to joke with my friends about the older generation, and we all said we'd never be like them when it came time for us to raise our children. We'd GET the new music because we grew up in a time when there was such an amazing variety of talent and types of rock and roll. We grew up in the era of guitar rock, bubblegum pop, disco, new wave and heavy metal.

Well, I guess I've become that older generation.

I didn't watch the Video Music Awards on MTV the other night, but in seeing some of the video clips and photos from that program, I was thoroughly disgusted by some of what I saw, particularly from the likes of one Miley Cyrus, who acted in a manner more befitting a porn star than a pop princess as she gyrated and acted as if she were pleasuring herself with a giant foam finger as she performed at the awards.

There was once a time when the "M" in MTV stood for what it was programming, which was music. The network played nothing but music videos of the popular artists of the day, and it was a new way for us to enjoy our favorite music and have some kind of visual artistic reference to attach it to.

Today, the "M" stands for something completely different. The network doesn't play nearly as many music videos as it once did, settling instead for the kind of garbage programming that takes the lowest common denominator and dumbs it down to a level that even dogs can't understand. In the 21st century, the "M" now stands for the IQ level of who its programming is geared for – morons.

I truly feel sorry for today's parents when it comes to what passes off as entertainment for their youth, and so it isn't surprising to me that some of the kids out there act with such a complete lack of respect – not only to the adult figures in their lives (which is expected to a certain degree, because they ARE kids and kids have always rebelled against their adult counterparts), but to each other. They emulate that which they are exposed to in the world of entertainment, and so it's no surprise to me to hear some of the coarse language and openly sexual references that are made sometimes.

And it's not just the music (at least, that's what they call it) that kids are being subjected to. There are worthless "reality" TV shows and open displays of sex and violence in programming on TV. And don't even get me started on the Internet – with all the trash that gets passed around through social media, YouTube and any number of "entertainment" websites that are out there, it's a wonder our kids don't just completely implode from all of the trash they subject themselves to.

Today's parents have to deal with all of this nonsense. They somehow have to police all of this horrible behavior that is being exhibited by the likes of "entertainers" like Miley Cyrus and hope that their children understand that it is not something they should reflect or emulate. I was lucky that I had a child who actually liked her dad's era of music more than her own (mainly because music from boy bands like Backstreet Boys and tarts like Britney Spears weren't allowed to be played in my house – and rap music was a definite no-no). And while I'm certainly not going to say that the music of my day was full of saintly behavior, I had the luxury of growing up in a world where perspective was used extensively by the adult figures in my life and that it was important to remember that the music was more of a temporary escape from the real world than a how-to for daily existence with your fellow man, and that perspective was passed on to my daughter.

I'm happy that having to explain why the young lady that today's kids remember as Hannah Montana on the wholesome Disney Channel is prancing around like a drugged-out slut on national TV. I don't know if anybody saw the screen capture of Will Smith and his family as they watched this pathetic performance – the kids looked disgusted, Will's wife looked horrified and Will had the classic "how in the world am I going to explain this to my two kids sitting next to me?" look on his face. I'm sure it's a look a lot of parents would have had if they were watching this horrible display being put on by Cyrus and Robin Thicke, who seemed to enjoy being the object of Cyrus' sexual affections as he sang on stage.

I don't know where all of this is leading us as a society, but I hope our youth understands that the kind of behavior exhibited on MTV is not the way they should live their lives, and that they turn away from this horrible excuse for music that has got to be the worst form of trash ever displayed in today's modern media.

Capitol View

History replaced by progress

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Another Nebraska community has demolished an historic brick school building so it doesn't stand in the way of progress. Despite recent efforts to save the building and its twin across town, local officials said hallelujah when the dilapidated property was purchased from a stubborn owner after years of negotiating.

A section of the school that had the name carved in elegant terra cotta will be incorporated into the new neighborhood being created and will pay homage to the past, according to the mayor. That's a familiar bone thrown to preservationists who have failed in their attempts to convince those in power of the economic sense behind adaptive re-use that has proven, time and again, that renovation costs much less per square foot than demolition and building new.

It's also a way to cover up the fact that those same city fathers failed to address the deterioration early on by prohibiting or, at least, punishing those who did inappropriate things with the massive structures. In this case, the owner stored grain in part of the building at one point and that attracted countless vermin that exacerbated the deterioration process. Time and inattentiveness did the building in.

Here's a call to elected officials and citizen watchdogs alike to start paying attention to Nebraska's historic built environment and exploring ways to creatively re-use it at best. At the very least, how about deconstructing it instead of demolishing it. There is value in using old brick and wood and steel and glass. Recycling building materials. Saving the environment and energy.

Across the state, it's hats-off to the Wayne County Fair Board, which saved the 52-stall horse barn, which stood for four decades at State Fair Park in Lincoln. The structure was purchased a couple years ago when the University of Nebraska took over the state fairgrounds after the fair was moved to Grand Island. It was in place for the Wayne County Fair last month. The 40-foot-by-260-foot open-air facility was purchased to replace old wooden horse barns that were deteriorating. New life for an old structure. Total cost, not counting volunteer labor and in-kind donations, between $60,000 and $70,000.

What about that former state fairgrounds in Lincoln? Work progresses on the remodeling of the old 4-H Building and a new addition. Work also continues on the deconstruction of part of the Industrial Arts Building, which will have a new second floor addition but retain its iconic trapezoidal shape and elegant Palladian windows on the first floor. Note the new structures at the Grand Island State Fair campus feature brick facades with that same window style.

Saving the Industrial Arts Building was a rallying point for preservationists who rarely win in battles with major universities. A website, a Facebook group, a designation from the National Trust for Historic Preservation as one of the 11 most endangered buildings in 2011 and a sympathetic developer all helped save the structure. Architect's estimates at the time said renovation of the IAB would cost $90 to $125 per square foot. Demolition and building new would cost $175 to $250 per square foot. Makes economic sense.

New life will allow the IAB to stand for years into the future as a tribute to the elegant exposition style architecture that was the Nebraska State Fair. Imagine, incorporating history INTO progress.

Legislative Update

NSAA transgender vote doesn't happen

Last week I mentioned the Aug. 21 meeting of the Nebraska School Activities Association (NSAA) where they were supposed to take a vote on regarding transgender athletes.

That vote did not happen. The proposed policy was discussed but the NSAA has changed the game plan once again and it will now need to make its way through the NSAA's legislative process. Meaning, one of the six association districts will need to pass the proposal at their upcoming November meeting. Once it has been approved by one of the districts it will need the approval of three more districts before going to the general assembly in April of 2014. I think this change in plans happened in large part to an outcry from Nebraska citizens.

With September just around the corner, the state is preparing to start the implementation of recently adopted laws. Except when specifically stated, Nebraska laws go into effect three months after the Legislature adjourns. On Sept. 6, juveniles who have been convicted of first degree murder will no longer face a mandatory life in prison without the possibility of parole. They will now face sentences that can range from 40 years to life. Additionally, we increased the penalties for the human trafficking of minors. As of Sept. 6, local governments will no longer be able to inflate the fee when you request public records. The law passed last session allows local governments to charge for copies of public records but it cannot be above the actual and reasonable costs. There are limits to this new law, but normal day to day needs should be handled without huge costs.

Sunday, Aug. 18, I took part in the dedication of the new hanger and terminal building at the Wayne airport. Governor Dave Heineman was on hand, as was Congressman Adrian Smith. There were also representatives from Sen. Johann's and Sen. Fischer's offices. The airport is now named the Stan Morris Field and Nancy Braden Terminal in honor of very dedicated members of the Wayne community. Congratulations to all involved.

On Sept. 2, I plan to take part, along with American Legion Post 252, from Winside, in the "Veterans Day Parade" at the Nebraska State Fair. Sept. 2 is actually Labor Day, but it is the day the fair honors all veterans with free admission and a parade. This will be the second year that Winside has participated in the parade. I would like to see other veterans groups look into the possibility of attending next year. It really is a good time, and you never know who you might run into.

On Sept. 7, I plan to attend the "fish fry" at the Legion Hall in Homer. This will be their first fry of the season. The Homer Legion always does a nice job and I would encourage you to attend and enjoy a good meal.

GED deadline looms for students nationwide; Classes available at Northeast Community College Northeast Community College continues to advise those people who have not completed the current version of the General Education Development (GED) test to do so immediately.

Nancy Schultz, adult education program director at Northeast Community College in Norfolk, said she still has three binders of names of students who have started the GED testing program and many of them have just one test left to complete. "If you have started testing with us, come back and we will help you finish."

The current paper version of the test, known as the 2002 Series GED test, will expire at the end of 2013, along with incomplete test scores. It will be replaced with the new 2014 Series GED computer-only test on Jan. 2, 2014. The new GED test will be aligned with the Common Core Standards in an attempt to focus on knowledge and skills that most strongly correlate with success in college and career readiness. The standards are being implemented in kindergarten through grade 12 across the nation.

More than a million adults have started but not finished the current GED test," said Nicole Chestang, executive vice president of GED Testing Service. "As a nation, we cannot afford to let millions of working-aged adults miss this opportunity to complete and pass the GED test, opening doors to college, training, and better jobs."

The GED test contains five sections (writing, social studies, science, reading and mathematics) that can be taken separately, but each must be passed to receive a high school credential. "But all five must be completed by students who have started by the end of the year, or they will have to start over with the new computer-only test and there is no refund of fees for past testing," Schultz said.

The new 2014 GED test will be based on emerging national and state standards. It will offer dual performance levels where test-takers can earn a high school equivalency as well as an additional endorsement that indicates career and college readiness. The test will be delivered solely on computer and offered only in official testing centers.

After a one-year implementation plan, the GED Testing Service reports a majority of the 40,000 adults who have taken the GED

Test on computer are passing at higher rates and finishing faster. "We've been hearing for months that testing on a computer is simpler and less stressful for test takers," said Randy Trask, president of the GED Testing Service. "Our first year results show that GED test takers are ready for technology, comfortable with testing on computer and even performing better." Northeast is part of the pilot program.

GED classes are held in sessions where students are provided specific instruction in the five subjects. Schultz, who serves as the chief GED examiner at Northeast, said the college also offers one-on-one individual teaching of students with volunteers. "I will work on special one-on-one testing arrangements for students who need to complete their test," Schultz said.

Schultz said it takes time to complete a GED. She said she has seen some students complete the program in three months while for others, it has taken years. "The GED is not a giveaway. When students test, they have to show competency in front of an examiner who is timing them. It's a very difficult process," she said. "If someone who needs extra assistance in preparing for the GED waits and comes in later in the year, they may not make the end-of-the-year deadline."

Schultz said Northeast also has volunteer GED coordinators in the college's 20 county service area. She said volunteers tutor students in their hometowns, but they will have to come to the Northeast campus in Norfolk to take the tests.

Northeast GED students take part in a cap and gown graduation ceremony each spring. Schultz said the number could be close to 100 this year because people may be coming in to finish up their degree before the deadline.

Schultz encourages anyone who knows of someone who wants to start or needs to complete their GED, to do so quickly in order to meet the deadline for the current version of the test.

Wayne Rotary Club President Dan Rose (left) shakes hands with Jim Griesen, District Governor for Rotary District 5650. Griesen visited the Wayne Rotary Club during a regular meeting recently

Rotary District Governor visits Wayne Rotary Club during recent meeting

Jim Griesen, District Governor for Rotary District 5650, recently spoke to the Wayne Rotary club at their regular morning meeting.

He was accompanied by his wife,

Margaret.

Rotary District 5650 is composed of 45 clubs in Nebraska and southwest Iowa. Also, during their visit, many of the club members and spouses attended an evening Rotary get-together which was hosted by Wayne President Dan Rose and his wife, Kyle.

Griesen has been a member of Rotary International since 1978. He is currently a member of Lincoln Club No. 14. He serves as a Professor in the UN-L Department of Educational Administration. Both he and his wife have been active in Rotary, are Paul Harris Fellows, and members of the Bequest Society.

DG Griesen told the Wayne club polio eradication is still a major effort by Rotary worldwide.

"The last one percent will be the toughest to conquer, but many countries and organizations are combining efforts to make it happen," Griesen said.

He also talked about the 2013-2014 goal, "Engage Rotary, Change Lives." Ron Burton, President of Rotary International explains that Rotarians need to get engaged, "... by getting them involved, by getting them inspired, and by making sure that all Rotarians know just what a gift they have in Rotary."

The Wayne Club meets every Wednesday morning at 7 a.m. at Tacos & More. For more information on the work of Rotary, contact President Dan Rose or Connie Dangberg, Membership Chair.

Staff recognition

The Wayne State College Support Staff Senate invited the campus community to submit nominations for annual Support Staff Recognition Awards. Two individuals were selected to be awarded for their service to Wayne State College. Awards were presented at the WSC opening meeting held recently. Award winners were Cathy Hobza (above), office assistant for the School of Natural and Social Sciences and Denise Mostek (below), office assistant for the Vice President for Academic Affairs. Rick Gathje, president of the Support Staff Senate, congratulates Mostek (left).

Wayne Optimist Club holds re-organizational meeting

The Wayne Optimist Club recently held the annual re-organizational meeting at the Coffee Shoppe with Jessica VonFange in charge of the business portion of the meeting.

She handed out the tentative projects for the year 2013-14 to be approved. Chairmen and dates were assigned to the projects. Special thanks were given to those who helped in anyway to the success of the Henowen steak and pork loin fund raiser of the year. Also thanks were given to Mike Varley, who chaired the District Golf tournament in June.

Cindy VonFange reported on the International Convention in Cincinnati. Cindy and Jessica Von Fange were delegates from Nebraska.

Arrangements were made for the WSC Expo/Back to School Picnic Aug. 18 and the Punt, Pass, and Kick event on Aug. 25th. The NOW (New Optimist Welcome) Picnic planned for Sept. 15 was discussed. Members are encouraged to make contacts and let Jessica know ASAP so invitations can be mailed out.

The next meeting will be Tuesday Sept. 3 at 5:30 p.m. for those wishing to eat, with meeting beginning at 6 p.m. The name of the speaker for the evening will be e-mailed to the members when the reminders are sent out.

Learning tradition continues

Students returned to campus this week at Northeast Community College. Nearly 600 new freshmen students attended a Fall Orientation session on Sunday. The students heard from College President Dr. Michael Chipps, toured the campus and took part in several fun activities. Northeast Community College is celebrating its 40th year of existence this school year.

Lifestyle

The Wayne Herald

Parents as first teachers is important

The years from birth to age 5 are important times in a child's learning ability because the brain is developing at a faster pace than it does at any other point in a child's life. Parents play an important role in their child's life, and it's crucial to be there and be engaged during this developmental stage.

It's important for parents and others working with children to allow the kids to play, investigate and have the freedom to do their own thing within a safe, structured environment. Parents should take the time to play with their kids to help them learn. Some preschools today are so concentrated on teaching children how to read, learning numbers and learning letters, that they are skipping the steps young children really need: learning by playing.

Relationships are an important factor because children need security and nurturing in order to grow. They need to be secure in their environment. Families should give children lots of hugs and spend time with them to let their children

Amy Topp
Extension Educator
4-H & Youth

know they can be depended on. This builds trust in children. When they have a sense of safety and self-assurance, they can learn. This trust in relationships needs to happen before kids get into a more structured learning environment.

Another important factor is emotional development. Children need to feel good about themselves despite frustrations and failures. Encouragement from the parents helps with good self-worth so they can go on by saying "it's okay that didn't work out the first time, but I'm going to keep trying." Instead of constantly yelling "No" or "Don't do that", parents should help their children understand why they shouldn't do that particular thing or why they should move on. That helps develop trust and understanding.

Children are very social. Some of the first things they learn are "hi" and "bye". They are watching everything around them, and it's important for them to learn social concepts from their parents. If a stranger comes and wants to hold the child, parents should talk to the person and have the person interact with the child. After the child becomes more comfortable with this stranger, then the stranger can hold the child. The child needs to trust this person before he or she invades the child's space. Parents can help the child with social skills by helping them meet new people.

Families are a child's first teacher and the home is the first classroom. Many parents think a child will learn when he gets to school, but that's not true. Social relationships, language and every day things are vitally important for parents to share with their children and teach their children before they get to school. The home is the perfect place for kids to be educationally stimulated. Toys can be great, but the simple things like measuring cups in the kitchen, fruit or other things in the environment are important for kids to play with. They need time to feel the dirt outside and experience things around them when in a safe environment.

Parents should also be mindful that every child grows at his or her own pace. Some parents think there's a problem if their child isn't developing in one area to the level they have read about for that age or they are not at the same level as a neighbor child the same age. They think something is wrong because the child is very developed in a different area, but not in another. Children sense their parents' worry. Parents need to remember they work with their child to build social skills, trust and create a learning environment, but their child may not be the textbook child. There is give and take on all developmental areas.

There are many resources for parents with questions on development and also tips for talking to their children, how children respond, how children are feeling at each month of their age and more.

Through UNL Extension, parents can go to the Building Better Children Facebook page and get weekly information about young children and also ask questions about their child's development (www.facebook.com/home.php?#!/pages/Building-Better-Children/115011145207914) or www.extension.unl.edu/child-youth.

Class of 1947 gathers in Wayne

The Wayne High School Class of 1947 met in Wayne Aug. 14-15 for their 66th reunion. Several classmates met for a Dutch treat meal at Geno's Steakhouse on Wednesday and greeted early arrivals for the reunion. The reunion luncheon was held at noon on Aug. 15 at Tacos & More. Seventeen classmates and nine spouses gathered for a fun, informal afternoon of reminiscing and taking photos. Several of the classmates who were unable to attend the reunion had sent letters. Roll call was read for these people and the letters or updates on these friends were shared with the class. Reunion memory scrapbooks from previous reunions were passed around the tables for everyone to enjoy talking about. These included pictures and articles starting with the class Minuet picture from second grade. The picture also has students who were kindergarten and first grade that members of the class were not able to identify. Those attending the reunion from other states included Darrell and Carolyn Hart of Janesville, Wis. and Dottie (Mullen) Tiede of Plover, Wis.

Those attending from Nebraska included Jim and Ginger Nissen of Lincoln, Jim and Anita Bush of Norfolk, Marion (Foote) Raymer of Fremont, Willis and Donna (Sorensen) Johnson of Norfolk, Adeline (Hoeman) Anerson of Winside, Ray Roberts of Carroll, Gilbert and Bernice Gramberg of O'Neill and his sister, Rodella (Gramberg) Wacker. Attending from Wayne were Cyril and Bev Hansen, Lester and Eline (Test) Menke, Fritz and Faye (Beckman) Mann, Rae and Bill Kugler, Hollis (Johnson) Frese, Ruth (Shufelt) Victor, Joanne (Poster) McNatt and Pat (Hook) Straight.

2013 Rural Futures Conference is Nov. 3-5

The 2013 Rural Futures Conference, set for Nov. 3-5, aims to build on last year's inaugural conference by getting rural communities more engaged through a variety of activities that seek to build and strengthen partnerships between them and University of Nebraska faculty. Registration opens Sept. 1 at ruralfutures.nebraska.edu/conference for the conference that is hosted by the University of Nebraska's Rural Futures Institute. The conference will take place at The Cornhusker, A Marriott Hotel, in Lincoln. The conference theme, Beyond Boundaries, is meant to encourage participants to step beyond typical boundaries and work together to create positive rural futures. The conference will bring together people from all walks of life to celebrate the importance of rural and create energy and enthusiasm for new and innovative ways to address complex opportunities and challenges that affect rural people and places. Last year's conference drew about 475 participants to begin a conversation about how to create knowledge and action resulting in resilient and sustainable communities. Many of those participants were faculty from NU and other universities; this year, organizers hope to get more community representatives and non-university partners to attend as RFI's vision emphasizes partnerships among community leaders, business and industry and the university. Secretary of Agriculture Tom Vilsack has been invited to speak on strengthening rural partnerships at the close of the conference. Complete details on these activities and the entire conference agenda are available at ruralfutures.nebraska.edu/conference. Registration costs $150, but a discounted rate of $40 will be offered to high school and college students.

Nebraskans with private water wells can have their drinking water screened for nitrates during Husker Harvest Days in Grand Island on Sept. 10-12.

To find out the nitrate level in the water they drink, well owners can bring a cup-size sample of water in a clean bottle to the Natural Resources Building, Lot # 1106 on the southeast side of the Husker Harvest grounds, East Avenue and Second Street. Samples can be brought by on Tuesday and Wednesday between 8 a.m.-5 p.m., and on Thursday between 8 a.m.-4 p.m. There is no charge for the screening, and they can get the results while they wait.

Because drought conditions continue to exist across the state, wells are experiencing declines in their water tables. As a result, nitrate, which tends to concentrate in the upper level of the water table, can be drawn down to the point where water containing high nitrate is drawn into the well. For public health reasons the Department of Health and Human Services recommends that private well owners have their water tested for nitrate concentrations and total coliform on an annual basis.

Nitrates are a concern for infants under six months of age and pregnant women, as well as anyone who has a compromised immune system. High levels of nitrates interfere with the blood's ability to carry oxygen and can cause "blue baby" syndrome.

Livestock, especially cattle and hogs, are also susceptible to nitrate poisoning. In cattle it results in lower milk production and loss of calves; in hogs it results in loss of piglets.

In addition to nitrate screening, water supply specialists will be on hand to answer questions, and information on water quality will be available.

The screening at Husker Harvest Days is sponsored by the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services, Division of Public Health. For more information contact the Water Well Standards Program at (402) 471-0546.

The Department of Health and Human Services, in conjunction with the National Ground Water Association, is proud to promote "Protect Your Groundwater Day" on Tuesday, Sept. 10. The focus of "Protect Your Groundwater Day" is to bring awareness to protecting the state's most important drinking water source - groundwater.

Corn Board honors new appointments

Two new board members were appointed to the Nebraska Corn Board at the start of the 2013-14 fiscal year.

David Bruntz, farmer from Friend, was appointed to District 1, and Debbie Borg, farmer from Allen, was appointed to District 4.

David Bruntz, and his wife, Ann, raise irrigated and dryland corn and soybeans along with feeding cattle. He has served as President of the Nebraska Cattlemen, regional Vice President of the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA), as well as on the executive committee for NCBA. Bruntz has served 15 years on the local coop board and on the Friend Area Foundation. In addition to his role on the Corn Board, he is currently on the Nebraska Cattlemen's Foundation.

Debbie Borg is a partner in TD Borg Farms, a fifth-generation family farm, raising corn, soybeans, alfalfa and backgrounding cattle. Besides serving on the board, Borg has been involved in the Nebraska Soybean Association, Nebraska Farm Bureau, Nebraska AgRelations Council, Syngenta Young Leader program and numerous volunteer organizations within her community, FFA and 4-H. She has been married to her husband, Terry, for 18 years and they have three children, Hanna, Heidi and Hunter.

With the addition of two new board members, the Nebraska Corn Board met on Aug. 13 and elected officers, during their meeting in Lincoln.

Tim Scheer, District 5 director from St. Paul, was elected to remain chairman of the board. This will be Scheer's second term to serve as board chairman.

Curt Friesen, District 3 director from Henderson, was elected to remain vice-chairman of the board for his second term.

David Merrell, District 7 director from St. Edward, was elected to remain secretary/treasurer of the board for his second term.

Alan Tiemann, at-large director from Seward, will remain to serve as the past-chairman of the board, for his second term also.

"The Nebraska corn industry has some great new leaders representing them with Dave and Debbie on the board," said Don Hutchens, executive director of the Nebraska Corn Board. "They, along with our officer team, will play a dynamic role in helping the Nebraska economy through its market development, research, promotion and education, and in supporting the mission and vision for Nebraska's 23,000 corn producers that pay the corn checkoff."

Bruntz and Borg's appointments concluded the service of Dave Nielsen of Lincoln, (District 1) and Bob Dickey of Laurel, (District 4). "I also want to thank Bob and Dave for their years of dedicated service to the 23,000 corn farmers across the state," added Hutchens. "Both of them brought distinguished leadership and significant ideas that continue to move the board and industry forward."

Wedding, support group both bring back memories

My last shifts at the hospital in Norfolk were now 22 years ago; I can hardly believe it. And in the 30 years prior I had worked there, I had never had to move patients for a tornado warning.

My luck ran out that summer, and I think I actually had to do that two or three times. And always on the night shift, of course.

On one of these, I had all new moms and their babies in a hallway, waiting for the warning to pass. And as I looked around, I noticed that four of these were from the Winside area!

Well, one of those babies is all grown up now and we had the pleasure of seeing her get married on Saturday in Wayne. Those years went very fast! And as I told her parents, they raised good kids in the 4-H barns and on the John Deere tractors!

All the way there and back, we remarked at all the green and lovely fields of corn and beans. SO much better than last year at this time! Of course, a week of hot, dry wind may change things, but we enjoyed the sight while we could.

In my twenty-plus years with Tabitha hospice, I've sat in on two separate grief groups. Grief groups are offered two or three times a year, usually by a social worker, for the families we have worked with, but also, for anyone who has suffered a significant loss. Both times, I went with a friend, and never because I felt the need for myself. So, I've been fortunate.

I remember that in one, a nursing home employee who participated out of curiosity realized that she had never really grieved the loss of her husband in Vietnam, and of course, that had been many years ago. It made me realize the importance of grieving.

I'm now involved in a class called Grief Share, out of a need for myself. But I'm seated with two recent widows, and another woman who has had to admit her spouse to an Alzheimer's unit.

I've come to the conclusion that the death of a spouse, especially after a long marriage, is a special grief. One commented that they were in the habit of doing what we have been doing the past few years, reading the paper and having our coffee the first thing in the morning, and then, commenting about the things we are reading. I'm realizing that would be a very lonesome activity if I were doing that alone.

Another lady's husband was Charlie Keller, the long time head of the Wilber Czech Days parade. He died four months before the latest Czech Days. She and her family put a float together for the parade with a sign that said, "Charlie Keller is gone, but the polkas live on." I thought that was a very brave, hopeful thing to do. And I'm more convinced than ever of the power of music, even in grief.

I'm looking forward to the rest of the sessions, as I'm guessing that some of the benefit will come from the participants, as much as from the group leader. There is a certain power that comes from sharing with others and promotes healing. I intend to tap into that power as much as I can.

Researcher shares tips on lawns

Here are some lawn tips from UNL researcher Zac Reicher.

Similar to previous summers with adequate rainfall, areas of Kentucky bluegrass have turned an off-color yellow (chlorotic) on and off in the last few weeks. We are still unsure of what could be causing this. What we do know: Only the young leaves are yellow, so it is probably not related to nitrogen or other nutrients mobile in the plant. However, iron deficiency could explain the symptoms because Fe is relatively immobile in the plant. There are no obvious lesions present so it is not caused by above-ground diseases.

We do not see it in tall fescue or perennial ryegrass. Some cultivars of Kentucky bluegrass see it when soil temperatures are at their seasonal highs. We see it almost exclusively on irrigated turf and most frequently during wet periods during the summer. We know from past experience that this is a visual effect and long-term health of the plant is not an issue.

Therefore, immediate action is probably not needed other than to improve aesthetics. Reducing irrigation in the short run should help. Increasing drainage and reducing compaction with more frequent aeration should also help in the long term. We would not recommend a fungicide, insecticide, or > 0.5 lbs N/1000 sq ft (avoid almost any N in August except on golf greens or sports turf in use).

We often see symptoms similar to this in the spring, but those are usually attributed to denitrification and iron applications do not help then. However, a low rate of iron may be effective now.

Ag Happenings

Extension
Educator

Since most of the chlorotic leaves are the youngest and higher in the canopy, mowing should remove much of the yellowing as the grass continues to grow.

Though this has been a relatively good growing season for turfgrass throughout the region, many areas are still showing damage from the summer, fall, and/or winter of 2012-13. Mid-to late-August or very early September is the time to dramatically improve turf areas and improve resiliency to future stresses. For a Kentucky bluegrass lawn there are three options:

- For a moderately thinned lawn (no larger than softball-sized holes), aggressive fall fertilization and broadleaf weed control applied in late September through late October should dramatically improve the lawn.

- For areas with larger than softball-sized holes, aeration and/or power raking followed by overseeding will help reestablish turfgrass into the thin areas. Aggressive fall fertilization and broadleaf weed control applied in late September through late October is required to further improve the lawn.

- If the lawn is severely damaged or has been perennially problematic because of species, soil type, drainage, etc., now is the perfect time to start over with complete renovation. This may include regrading, tillage, and/or incorporating organic matter into a clay soil followed by reseeding and aggressive post-seeding care for most effective establishment.

This should be done in August to very early September if you are choosing to use a cool-season grass like Kentucky bluegrass or tall fescue. Wait until May if buffalograss will be the future grass on the lawn. Though a number of advertisements are touting new miracle grasses such as Cutting Edge or Canada Green, locally purchased turf-type tall fescue, Kentucky bluegrass, or buffalograss are still the best grasses for lawns in the Northern Great Plains.

For more information on other grass species and other turf topics go to turf.unl.edu.

Ergot emerging in cattle populations

Cattle producers should be on the lookout for ergot, a fungus in grasses that causes circulatory problems in livestock that consume them.

Ergot has been confirmed in several surrounding states, including Missouri and Iowa, said Richard Randle, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln beef veterinarian. He and colleagues are aware of at least a couple of unconfirmed reports in Nebraska.

Climatic conditions are key to ergot's presence, and they were ideal in some parts of the state this year. Early moisture followed by heat causes certain grasses - especially rye, but also brome, wheatgrass and others - to grow quickly and develop seed heads faster than cattle can consume them. Ergot then can move in and infect the seed heads.

Producers should watch their animals for tips of ears and tails falling off as the fungus can shut off the blood flow to extremities, Randle said. As it progresses, it can affect cattle's feet, causing them to become lame, or cause swelling in the tops of hooves. Rear legs are typically most affected. Ergot poisoning is unlikely to be fatal but because it can make cattle less tolerant of heat, they can be more susceptible to death from excessive heat. If they are removed from the source of the fungus, they are likely to recover.

Ergot shows up larger than typical seedheads, usually dark brown, purple to black.

Ergot poisoning does not affect meat from cattle.

Debra Finn, Wayne County Clerk

Wayne, Nebraska August 20, 2013

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session at 9:15 a.m. on Tuesday, August 20, 2013, in the upstairs conference room of the courthouse. Those in attendance included Chairman Burbach, Members Larson and Rabe, and Clerk Finn. Advance notice was published in the Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on August 8, 2013.

A current copy of the Open Meetings Act was posted in the meeting room and accessible to the public.

Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to approve the agenda, and to approve the minutes of the August 6, 2013 meeting. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Rich Siefken asked what could be done with a location along mile 846 of 578th Ave where water goes over the road very easily. Larson will visit with the landowners on both sides of the road to determine the impact on each of them. They also discussed options to stabilize the ditch in front of the Altona church. A final decision was not reached.

Resolution No. 13-21 was approved on motion by Larson, second by Rabe. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Resolution No. 13-21: WHEREAS, the County of Wayne is the owner and holder of Certificates of Tax Sale No. 53 and 54 of parcels of real estate, issued to the County of Wayne for all delinquent and regular taxes thereon, and which having been regularly advertised and offered for sale at tax sale and remaining unsold for want of bidders, was sold to the County of Wayne, and Certificates of Tax Sales No. 53 and 54 issued thereon under the provisions of Section 77-1809 (Reissue 2003), and

WHEREAS, more than three (3) years have elapsed since the issuance of such respective certificates of tax sale and by reason thereof the right of redemption of the owners or claimants of such respective tracts has expired and less than six months has elapsed since the right of redemption expired.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Michael E. Pieper, Wayne County Attorney be and he is hereby directed, as promptly under the circumstances as is reasonably possible so to do, to institute action to foreclosure the lien of all taxes delinquent, whether regular or special, on all real estate within Wayne County, Nebraska, which, having been heretofore advertised and offered for sale and remaining unsold for want of bidders, was sold to the County of Wayne and Certificates of Tax Sales No. 53 and 54 issued thereon.

ROW Application No. 13-08-03: Keith Thomsen requested permission for Cushing Co/Kevin McClure to trench an underground power line for a machine shed 1/8 mile north of the intersection of 853 Road and Y Road. Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to approve the application. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

ROW Application No. 13-08-04: Northern Natural Gas requested permission to install cable from the existing rectifier to both pipelines, approximately 850 feet north of the intersection of 580th Avenue and Highway 35. The cable was to be placed a minimum of 36" deep. Northern Natural was asked to place the cable the required depth of 6 feet; they agreed. Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to approve the application. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

ROW Application No. 13-08-05: Louis Benscoter requested permission to run water and sewer line to houses he will be building west of the intersection of 21st Street and Centennial Road. Benscoter will check into the costs of trenching vs. boring at this location and bring that information to the board.

Benscoter also asked the board to consider paving East 21st Street from its intersection with Centennial Road to Highway 35; he said he was not concerned with paving north of that intersection.

Wayne County Library Association representatives Lauren Lofgren and Joann Field reported the 2012-13 county funds were used to purchase materials in electronic format. This included books on CD and DVD's, downloadable audio books and eBooks, and subscribing to Ancestry.com. The Wayne and Winside libraries are participating in the Overdrive downloadable books program, and Advantage - a collection of digital books only available to patrons. The budget request for 2013-14 was for $10,000 with $5,000 going to Wayne, $3,500 to Winside, and $1,500 to Carroll.

Melissa Rabbass reported the Health & Human Services building would be open to the public by mid-September. An ADA assessment needs to be conducted and the building included in the county's ADA Policy and Transition Plan for the Title VI Program.

Larson reported he accepted the materials quote submitted by Builders Resource for materials to roof the District 1 shop. The roofing work will be done by employees of the roads department.

Burbach reported that he spoke to L&L Construction about the pitched roof on the Health & Human Services building. L&L Construction was awarded the contract in August of 2012, and they still have not started the work. Burbach stated he has spoken to them several times; last week they pushed the start date back an additional six weeks. The board agreed they would hold L&L Construction to their bid.

Larson reported Lowell Heggemeyer wants a permanent easement across county property lying south of Lot 7, Block 27, Original Wayne. The easement adopted by the board was personal to Heggemeyer, and terminates upon the death of Heggemeyer or if Heggemeyer transfers the property. Larson stated he wants to accommodate Heggemeyer, but he hesitates to give a permanent easement that could restrict the county's future plans. Larson will discuss options with Joel Hansen at the City of Wayne's Planning Department.

Gene Carroll of Viera asked if the county would construct a driveway to a tower in the SE corner of the SW 1/4 of Section 3 - Township 25 North - Range 4 East, at 57949 851st Rd, Wayne, NE. The request qualifies under the county's driveway policy. A ROW application will be submitted for electrical line once they have determined if the installation will be trench or bored.

Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to recess the meeting at 12:01 p.m. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to reconvene at 12:59 p.m. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Safety Committee member Deb Allemann-Dannelly reported that a walk-through of each of the county shops has been completed; recommended improvements were distributed. Allemann-Dannelly asked the board to consider assisting in updating the Safety Committee Policy Statement.

Emergency Manager Nic Kemnitz reported the 2012 Local Emergency Operations Plan is complete and local entities are in the acceptance phase. Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to adopt Resolution No. 13-22; roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Resolution No. 13-22: WHEREAS, the Board of Commissioners of Wayne County, Nebraska, pursuant to Nebraska Statute, is vested with the authority of administering the affairs of Wayne County, Nebraska; and

WHEREAS, it has been determined that a Wayne County Local Emergency Operations Plan has been developed in order to provide for a coordinated response to a disaster or emergency in Wayne County, the Cities of Wakefield and Wayne, and Villages of Carroll, Hoskins, Sholes and Winside, in Wayne County; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Commissioners of Wayne County, deems it advisable and in the best interest of Wayne County to approve said Local Emergency Operations Plan;

WHEREAS, the acceptance of this 2012 Local Emergency Operations Plan supersedes all previous approved Wayne County Local Emergency Operations Plans;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Commissioners of Wayne County, Nebraska, that the Wayne County Local Emergency Operations Plan be, and hereby is, approved.

The possibility of obtaining a used 20 kW generator for the emergency management trailer was discussed. Sheriff LeRoy Janssen reported a used generator has been located and potential funding sources have been identified. The board requested Janssen look into options for a new generator before a decision is made.

Janssen also reported on the availability of the NACo Dental Discount Program for residents of Wayne County. This is not an insurance plan or a Qualified Health Plan under the Affordable Care Act; it provides discounts at certain health care providers. A representative will be asked to present plan information to the board.

Bid proposals for pickups at state bid price were reviewed. The board will order pickups for Road District #1 (2), Road District #2, and the Noxious Weed Department. Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to order the following from Armes Ford of Wayne: 2013 Ford F150 Super Cab 4x4 short box with step bars $24,803.00; 2014 Ford F250 Super Cab 4x4 long box with 5th wheel prep, gooseneck hitch kit and brake controller $27,797.00; 2013 Ford F150 Super Cab 4x4 long box with step bar $25,039.00; and 2014 Ford F250 Regular Cab 4x4 with step bar $24,828.00 Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to recess until Thursday, August 22nd at 9:00 a.m. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

The meeting reconvened on Thursday, August 22, 2013 in the upstairs conference room of the courthouse. Those in attendance included Chairman Burbach, Members Larson and Rabe, and Clerk Finn.

A budget work session was held. The 2013-14 budget hearing is scheduled for Tuesday, September 3rd at 1:30 p.m.

Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to adjourn. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

THANK YOU

THANK YOU

What a great honor to have the new terminal named after me. I want to acknowledge the dedication of the Wayne Airport Authority. Without their willingness to look to the future, apply for the grants and commit the local funds, the improvements at the airport would not happen. They are a great group of gentlemen to work with. I thank them too.
Nancy Braden

Thank You!!

The Airport Authority expresses their thank you to all the Veterans and Veteran's Riders, the Wayne State Marching Band, Girl and Boy Scouts and the family and friends that attended the dedication program of the Nancy Braden Terminal.

Gov. Dave Heineman said "It was a great event."
Thank you all
Mitchell Nissen - Chairman
Jerry Conradt - Event Chair

Thank you to all of the local businesses for their donations.

Special thanks to those loved ones, friends and neighbors for all they did for my family and me during my fight with cancer.

Bless you!
