Category EF-4 tornado hits Wayne, major damage to east side

This screen capture of a YouTube video shot by The Weather Channel's Storm Riders team shows the power of an EF-4 tornado as it makes its way toward Wayne late Friday afternoon. The storm struck the southeast part of town and destroyed at least a dozen businesses and the Stan Morris Airport. Miraculously, only 15 people suffered tornado-related injuries and there were not deaths. The Wayne Herald will have continuing coverage regarding the tornado and the aftermath, and invites reader submissions of photos and stories to managing editor Michael Carnes at sports@wayneherald.com.

Industrial area, airport, sports complexes hit

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

It was your typical October breeze that was blowing around what was left of the Wayne Softball Complex Wednesday afternoon as a group of business leaders and baseball and softball association officials gathered.

The occasion was the presentation of a $25,000 check by Great Dane for help in repairing the complex, which was destroyed by a much bigger wind that blew through town Friday.

An EF-4 tornado with wind speeds of up to 170 miles per hour touched down south of Wayne late Friday afternoon. The storm was on the ground for 18 miles, traveling north toward downtown Wayne before veering off to the north-east.

By the time the tornado lifted about a half hour later, it had traveled 18 miles and destroyed almost everything in its path, including the softball complex, rugby park and adjacent Wayne Bark Park before turning its attention to the industrial area on the east edge of town.

The tornado damaged or destroyed at least 15 businesses on the east edge of town, as well as Stan Morris Airport, where all but one of the 10 buildings – including the recently-dedicated Nancy Braden Terminal – were leveled.

As the sun shined on those gathered for the Great Dane donation presentation, Wayne Mayor Ken Chamberlain reflected on how the community responded to what could have been an even bigger disaster than it was.

(Clockwise from top) the view along Highway 35 showed the mass destruction that wiped out more than a dozen businesses. Cleanup crews were on the scene quickly to pick up debris at the softball complex.

Great Dane rolls out its 100,000th trailer

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

A special tag on the lower left corner of the back of the trailer gleamed brilliantly as Don Decker and Terry Hanson shook hands Thursday afternoon.

In a special celebration at the Wayne Fire Hall, Great Dane Trailers officially unveiled the 100,000th trailer it has produced at its plant in Wayne. A gathering of representatives from Great Dane Trailers, Decker Truck Line of Fort Dodge, Iowa, and local city government and business leaders were on hand for the dedication of the ceremonial trailer, which was produced at the Wayne plant that has been in operation since 1986.

Dean Engelage, president of Great Dane, said the historical trailer is evidence of the kind of quality work and pride that comes out of the Wayne plant.

"The culture we try to replicate throughout all of Great Dane's factories and offices is the Wayne culture of quality," he said. "It's known throughout the company that this factory in Wayne builds, if not the best trailers in the company, definitely the best trailers in the industry. The commitment from every employee to build a quality product is pervasive in our work force."

The 257,000-square foot plant on the northeast edge of town employs more than 550 people and first began building Great Dane trailers with two production lines in 1986, and five additions to the plant have taken place since then as the company has grown. The company's 100,000th trailer, an Everest Super Seal trailer, was special built for the Decker Truck Line, which has more than 1,400 trailers in its fleet, the vast majority of them coming from Great Dane.

"The trailer sizes and design and instruction have all changed, but one thing has remained constant and that's the quality of the people (at Great Dane) and the quality of the product," said Don Decker, president and CEO of Decker Truck Line.

Decker said his company has served as the official carrier of Iowa State's football equipment for more than 20 years, and he said his drivers were happy that they didn't have to get hassled about it by some of the Wayne employees anymore.

"Our drivers would come back from picking up a trailer here and would talk about the crap they'd catch over here (from Nebraska fans)," he said, smiling. "It's commendable that you guys were able to correct that issue and get Ne-

The roof of Todd Lerch's home was blown off in Friday's storm, just three months after he purchased it.

Proud homeowner loses home after just three months

Editor's note: The following information was provided to The Wayne Herald by Jennia Bressler and with the permission of Todd Lerch.

He didn't hear the sirens. Todd Lerch, who lives in a trailer on Valley Drive in Wayne, had just finished dinner the evening of Oct. 4, when the lights went out. He was in the back of his home when the weather alert on his cell phone went off and he saw the tornado warnings flash across the screen.

Todd said the trailer shook a little, he heard the roar of a train, and looked up to see his roof fly off. He was pelted with debris and rain, then silence.

Todd has lived in Wayne since February of 2008. At one time, Todd had a good job, a wife and children – a normal life. When hard times hit, he lost it all. For the last five years, he has worked his way back to being a good citizen, friend, and contributing member of society. This July, Todd made a big step and purchased a refurbished 35-year-old trailer. It was the first time in his 48 years he had ever owned property and he was very proud of being a homeowner.

Todd admitted he was scared that night. He had been through tornadoes twice growing up on the farm near Clarkson when the family went to the cellar. He remembers feeling bad for those in Omaha who went through the tornado that happened on May 6, 1975, his birthday.

He said his first thought that night was regret. Because of the age of the trailer, he had a hard time finding homeowner's insurance, something that was strongly implanted in his mind growing up.

"My parents preached – if you are going to own something, have it insured," he said. Because of the circumstances, Todd was to the last step of getting that insurance, then things came up and he didn't.

His next thought was, "What will I do? Where will I go?"

Within minutes, an R Way off-duty staff was there checking on him.

A few minutes later Todd was settled in at Kirkwood House, R Way's 12 bed rehab facility in Wayne. It was later when he noticed the long scratches on his left arm from the falling debris. Todd said he was so glad that Wayne is offering free tetanus shots and will make sure he gets his.

Todd's belongings are now stored around town, most in a staff's storage unit which is one of the few left standing in Wayne. This happened because of the efforts of some staff, their families, and clients.

Todd said, "I am so glad that so many pitched in and helped me out because this would be a terrible thing for one person to go through alone." He asked for permission to buy donuts for all the Job Site staff and consumers. "Just a little way I can pay back."

According to R Way staff members, "Todd is a quiet, unassuming man. He rarely asks for help nor does he complain. He isn't asking for a handout right now and referred to others who are facing huge losses. But he does have his name on the list of those who need donations."

Todd did consent to this interview because he does want to stay here in Wayne, he does want to repair his home, and "it is ok to tell the story of one little part of the devastation that has hit my community."

Todd's goals – to keep taking his meds, rebuild, and be thankful that there was no loss of life.

On Monday night he made homemade cherry crisp for the "guys" at Kirkwood House.

A good beginning for his life to return to normal.

Tornado Sirens

"Why didn't the sirens give a better warning for the tornado last Friday? I never heard them? Why didn't they go off? I never heard the all clear so I just came back out of the basement. Don't you blow the siren until the tornado is here?"

Here's what we do: When the Weather Bureau issues a tornado watch or warning, the Wayne fire fighters park on hills west of town to "spot" tornados. If we get a call from the weather bureau radar system or the Wayne spotters that a tornado has been spotted within five miles of town, our police dispatchers set off the high pitched, one tone siren that runs for three minutes and then times out.

Tornados do what they're going to do. On Friday, the tornado was rain wrapped and hard to see and it took longer to get here after the siren warning than would be expected. The question then becomes "should we blow the siren again?" and the answer was "no" because in the past, Wayne used to blow the same one-tone siren for an all clear notice and we didn't want some people coming back up into danger thinking the tornado has passed.

Just so you know, we don't blow an all clear signal because there might be multiple tails or in the case of last Friday, it was so big and so quiet we couldn't tell in the moment where it was or where it was heading.

The tornado was gigantic, but

Thank God for modern technology – and neutral softball fields.

Wayne High was all set to host the C-2 district softball tournament this week at the Wayne Softball Complex. With the top seed and home-field advantage, hopes were high that the Blue Devils could get through their district and reach state for the 11th time in the program's 12-year history.

Fate and Mother Nature intervened, however – an EF-4 tornado with winds in excess of 170 miles per hour tore through the city's softball fields, leaving a random collection of downed light poles, twisted-up scoreboards, ripped-up trees and a random assortment of debris all over the complex.

By the time clean-up crews circled the complex and removed the chain-link fencing and much of the debris, it was obvious the district softball tournament would not be played in Wayne.

Thankfully, Wayne High softball coach Rob Sweetland had received a call on his cell phone that storms were approaching the area.

"We were at practice 45 minutes before that, and thank goodness for cell phones," he said. "I got the girls out of there and everybody got home."

Later that evening, after the storm had passed, it didn't take long with Sweetland to realize that his team would have to find a new "home" to play their district tournament. While there had been talk of moving it to Wayne State College, the fact that here was only one field available for play made school officials take a look at another site out of town.

"We went out later that night (to look at the damage), and I just knew there was no way we'd have another home game there this year," Sweetland said. "I know some of the girls were emotional about it, and understandably so; it was kind of like their second home."

Wayne High athletic director Rocky Ruhl spoke with officials from the Nebraska School Activities Association, the state high school sports governing body which oversees district and state competitions. They had received offers from several communities in the area, and ultimately settled on Wisner City Park's softball complex as the host site for the district.

Sweetland said the school wanted to make sure that, if they couldn't have home-field advantage, they'd go after the next best option.

"We wanted to host it and keep it neutral so it didn't work out to the advantage of another team," he said.

And while, technically, it's a neutral site for the seven schools competing in the tournament, the Wisner softball facility is one Wayne has had a lot of luck in over the years.

"We have had some success in Wisner over the years," Sweetland said, smiling. "We're 3-for-3 (in district tournaments) there, so we've had a lot of good experiences there and, if we have to go somewhere, that's a good place."

As for their hometown fields, Sweetland said the girls – especially the seniors – will be disappointed they didn't get to close out the regular season at home. That, however, is not the most important thing.

"Ultimately, these things can be rebuilt, so I was just glad nobody got hurt," he said. "We'll just go wherever we have to go to play."

Tornado flattens Wayne airport

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Tom Becker, the manager at Stan Morris Airport on the east edge of Wayne, was in Hartington when he got the news.

"As soon as I heard a tornado was heading for Wayne, I got in my pickup and came down," he said Sunday afternoon as he drove on one of the runways and surveyed the debris that was strewn in all directions along the airfield.

An EF-4 tornado with wind speeds of up to 170 miles per hour ravaged the industrial area on the east side of Wayne late Friday afternoon, but people coming in from the east on Highway 35 will see a glaring view of the damage the tornado left behind when they drive by what's left of the city's airport on the east edge of town.

Friday's tornado flattened all but one of the 10 buildings that were in place at the airport, including the brand new Nancy Braden Terminal that contractors were putting the finishing touches on when the storm hit.

"We were 23 days away from having our brand new building done, and all that hard work that everybody had done out here the last year or so is gone," Becker said.

Most of the 42 planes that were stored in hangars at the airport were damaged or destroyed. Only about a half-dozen or so made it through unscathed, and all of those were located in one hangar, located in the center of the group of buildings at the airport. That building received some damage, but managed to stay standing and minimized the damage of the contents inside.

As for the other planes and items that were in the other hangars at the airport – they were randomly located all across the airfield, as well as points north of the airport property.

"I don't see anything here that can be saved," Becker said. "We'll have to build all new again. One hangar is still up, but that will probably have to be torn down."

Also destroyed was the airport's automatic direction finder system used by pilots to help find the airport and land. The National Weather Service's weather reporting system on the northwest edge of the airport property was also destroyed.

"It took out about 90 percent of the runway lights as well," Becker added.

The twisted remains of what once was the Nancy Braden Terminal can be seen from along Highway 35 at the Stan Morris Airport. All but one of the 10 buildings at the airport site were leveled by Friday's tornado.

A Homecoming that won't be forgotten

Members of the class of 2014 will not soon forget their Homecoming activities. Although coronation of the king and queen took place on Wednesday, culminating activities, including a football game and dance, scheduled for Friday, did not happen according to schedule. Friday's tornado postponed the football game and many of those in the Homecoming court could be found assisting with cleanup efforts throughout the weekend. Members of the Homecoming court included (left) Angie Nelson, Victoria Kranz, Meagan Backer, Ashton Schweers, crown bearer Eli Hansen, Queen Jaci Jenkins, Danny Melena (who was a member of the 2012 court), King Payton Janke, McKenna Frevert (a member of the 2012 court), crown bearer Sophia Spieker, Jake Lutt, Demetrius Alexander, Jalen Barry and Jared Anderson.

braska to switch to the Big Ten so we don't have to deal with that." He also added that there was a misconception about who Iowa State fans cheer for in the Nebraska-Iowa rivalry as well. "One of the biggest lies out there is that we cheer for the Hawkeyes when they don't play the Cyclones, and that's not true at all. We NEVER cheer for the Hawkeyes," he said as those in attendance laughed. Wayne Mayor Ken Chamberlain presented keys to the city to Engelage and Hanson, the longtime plant manager of the Great Dane plant in Wayne. "There are four things that contribute to the economic stability here in Wayne," Chamberlain told those in attendance. "The college, our ag community and our small businesses owners, and Great Dane has always been a leader here in Wayne and is proof to other businesses that if a business like Great Dane can make it here in Wayne, their business can as well." Hanson thanked those in attendance and complimented the work of the employees who helped make 100,000 trailers possible. "We very much appreciate Mr. Decker's business and the city of Wayne for allowing us to be here for 27 years and help build this business," he said. "Most of all, we very much appreciate the fine employees we have out on that hill. There are probably no better in the trailer industry right now than them."

Tractors, combines protect employees at Grossenburg

By KATIE KASL
Of The Herald

Usually, 5 o'clock on a Friday afternoon is a time for rejoicing. With the workweek over and the weekend just beginning, it's a time to go home and put one's feet up or find a set of bleachers somewhere to catch a high school football game.

On October 4, those leaving Grossenburg Implement along Highway 35 in Wayne would have another thing to celebrate – and it would amount to much more than the start of the first weekend of the month.

Russ Urbanec, a salesman at the dealership, was with a group of employees who were watching Friday's storm out the front window before the business was hit. The lights flickered, he said, then went out entirely. When the front door was ripped off, and the back window of a truck parked outside was blown out, Urbanec and the others took off running.

In another part of the building, Adam Hanzlik was also keeping an eye on the storm as it began its descent on eastern Wayne.

"We couldn't see it (the tornado) coming, and all of a sudden, we saw some stuff fly over," Hanzlik said. "We didn't know the back half (of Grossenburg) was gone."

The moment he and his coworkers noticed large objects catapulting through the air, they knew it was time to act – and fast.

Some, including Urbanec's group, made it to the storm shelter in the business' break room, where there was a shower and a broom closet that provided protection. Others, like Hanzlik, tried but didn't make it that far and, instead, crawled under farm equipment in the shop while the twister rolled through, and the building collapsed around them.

"I was just holding on for life," Hanzlik said. "It was pretty scary."

He hunkered down underneath a combine while the air pressure changed, and insulation swirled around him.

"It was very loud," Hanzlik said.

In the part of the building housing the break room, Urbanec took cover with fellow employees, as well as a couple of customers who were in the store at the time. "It was just a horrible sound," he said. "All of a sudden it got calm, and we got ready to push the door open."

Before they could, the tornado reared back up, and they were once again forced inside.

Miraculously, none of the employees at Grossenburg, including those who took shelter under various combines and tractors, were seriously injured. One walked away from Friday's catastrophe with stitches – the worst of the crew's injuries – and multiple vehicles were lost in the storm, but it's a small price to pay for what they did walk away with.

"Everybody's here to tell their story," Urbanec said.

Hanzlik took to Facebook late Friday night to let people know he was okay and to thank them for their concerns. The experience, he wrote, was the scariest thing he'd ever been through.

"I'm just glad everyone's okay," he told The Herald. "It was scary because it's still kind of unreal. You don't really expect something like that to happen here."

A plaque from Northeast Equipment, the predecessor to Grossenburg Implement, was lying in a hole hundreds of yards from the building following Friday's tornado.

Employees of Grossenburg gather immediately following the tornado to discuss a plan for dealing with the aftermath. "One minute it was raining, and the next, there was stuff flying through the air," Adam Hanzlik recalled of Friday's storm. The business, one of several that was completely destroyed by the EF4 tornado that ravaged eastern Wayne, has plans to rebuild and start over. Currently, it's operating out of a temporary shop at 803 Providence Road, Building #2, where it offers parts and sales services, and is hoping to have a prefab structure in place later this month.

Tornado Timeline

Here is a summary of some of the key moments that happened before, during and after Friday's tornado that hit Wayne:

Friday, 4:29 p.m.

National Weather Service (NWS) issues a hazardous weather outlook indicating that "tornadic thunderstorm development is possible the rest of this afternoon over eastern Nebraska . . . the storms are expected to be fast moving . . ."

Friday, 4:45 p.m.

National Weather Service issues a tornado warning for Stanton County, and soon after issues one for Wayne County. A small "rope tornado" touches down briefly northwest of Stanton, and is the precursor for the EF-4 storm that will eventually make its way toward Wayne.

Friday, 4:46 p.m.

National Weather Service issues tornado warning for southwest edge of Wayne County. Eight minutes later, weather spotters are paged and notified to be on the lookout.

Friday, 5:13 p.m.

Spotters report tornado on the ground eight miles southwest of Wayne. The storm is reported to be moving up to 65 miles per hour as it moved north and east across Wayne County.

Friday, 5:14 p.m.

A confirmed tornado touchdown is reported four miles south and two miles west of Wayne.

Friday, 5:15 p.m.

Storm chaser reports to the NWS a large multi-vortex tornado six miles south of Wayne. The weather service's Automated Weather Observation System (AWOS) located at Stan Morris Airport in Wayne is damaged and ceases data transmission.

Friday, 5:21 p.m.

The tornado is observed heading straight for Wayne from the south. The tornado enters the city on the southeast edge five minutes later.

Friday, 5:30 p.m.

NWS announces first results of Wayne Tornado. Substantial structural damage is reported on the far eastern edge of town, with numerous injuries. Mutual aid is requested from adjoining counties and agencies. As of press time, at least 37 different agencies have offered assistance.

Friday, 7:30 p.m.

Mayor Ken Chamberlain declares a state of emergency for the city of Wayne, and Nebraska Gov. Dave Heineman follows soon after with a disaster declaration. Reports begin of area fire and rescue volunteer efforts coming from other communities as far away as Lindsay, Tilden and Beemer.

Saturday, 7 a.m.

As the sun rises, a clearer view of the damage can be seen, creating traffic issues along Highway 35. Chamberlain announces the closure of Highway 35 later that morning, allowing for traffic heading to Lincoln for the Husker game to get through town.

Saturday, 11 a.m.

At a news conference at Heritage Homes, Chamberlain said the damage is "much worse than it appears," adding that it would have been much worse had the tornado not veered to the east shortly before hitting the town.

Saturday, 6 p.m.

Chamberlain announces that Highway 35 will be closed for much of the day on Sunday to allow for volunteers to safely remove debris from the highway's right-of-way. Volunteer efforts are coordinated originally through a 211 system, but later moved to a locally-based phone bank run by volunteers at the Community Activity Center.

Sunday, 5:41 a.m.

NWS issues preliminary results of Wayne Tornado. The storm was classified as an EF-4 with estimated peak winds of 170 miles per hour. The tornado traveled 19 miles and was 1.38 miles wide at its widest point. A total of 15 injuries were reported, but no deaths.

Sunday, 8 a.m.

Chamberlain meets with the Wayne City Council in an emergency session at the Wayne Fire Hall to discuss the storm and the city's reaction to what has happened and what lies ahead. "We're very fortunate," he said of the storm's path.

Sunday, 10 a.m.

Volunteer help floods the community from as far away as Minnesota. Chamberlain said more than 500 people helped pick up the right-of-way along Highway 35, and hundreds more could be found at the softball and rugby complexes.

Sunday, 2 p.m.

Gov. Dave Heineman arrives by Blackhawk helicopter after surveying the damage, and praised the efforts of the people of Wayne. "I know they're going to rebuild this community," he told the gathered media.

Sunday, 7 p.m.

At a news conference at City Hall, Chamberlain said that most of the businesses who were impacted by Friday's storm will have employees looking for work on Monday morning, and he said he would help the more than 300 people whose job status changed after Friday's storm.

Monday, 4:30 p.m.

Noting troubles with communication on the 211 system, the city sets up its own phone bank for volunteers and those needing volunteer help with cleanup efforts. The system (402-833-1800) receives more than 50 calls in its first few hours of operation, and several hundred calls were received the following day.

Many homes in rural areas in Wayne County were destroyed or damaged, including here at the Larry Haase residence.

The damage was widespread across the eastern edge of Wayne in the city's industrial area. Chief's Way was littered with damage as just about every business in the area was either destroyed or significantly damaged by Friday's tornado.

T-shirt sales to help with recovery effort

Among the clean-up efforts and donation collections, the people of Wayne have found another way to help victims of Friday's devastating tornado.

For $15 apiece, blue short-sleeved t-shirts emblazoned with the words "Wayne America Tough 10-4-13" can be purchased here in town. Currently, the shirts are being sold at Ameritas and Dairy Queen and may be available at other businesses in Wayne within the next few days. Available in sizes Youth XS to Adult 3XL, 100 percent of the proceeds for each shirt sold will benefit those affected by last week's storm.

For more information or to purchase a t-shirt, stop by Ameritas at 513 Main Street or Dairy Queen at 708 Main Street.

Mayor Ken Chamberlain (left) and Nebraska Gov. Dave Heineman discuss strategy with Nebraska Emergency Management Agency assistant director Al Berndt after the governor visited town Sunday.

Strategy discussions were aplenty on Saturday as various agencies worked to secure and clean up the Wayne area after Friday's tornado. Here, Jon Wren of the Nebraska National Guard, Wayne Fire Chief Phil Monahan and Wayne Police Chief Marlen Chinn discuss plans.

Tornado Hits

"We're very fortunate that there wasn't a lot of injuries, and when you hear the stories of how close we came, there's no reason we shouldn't have any fatalities," he said, noting that there were no reported deaths and only 15 injuries, the most severe being John Dunning, who was hit by falling debris while trying to escape his vehicle on the east edge of town after returning home from Chicago.

Chamberlain said he was home when the storm hit, but once it had passed and he knew his family was safe, he knew it was time to go to work.

"We've done a lot of training for something like this," he said. "In fact, not long ago we did a training on what we'd do if a tornado came through town. That training just started to kick in for us and it obviously was very valuable."

Chamberlain credited the work of Wayne County Emergency Manager Nic Kemnitz, who helped keep things organized throughout the process.

"I credit Nic for a lot of the work he's done behind the scenes that really has kept everybody on the same page and organized," he said.

Chamberlain also credited the work of the entire city staff, from the water treatment employees who immediately checked on the status of the city's water treatment plant to the electrical workers who worked around the clock for several days to get the city back on its own electricity.

"We finally got off the city generator (Tuesday) night. Those guys have been working 24/7 to keep the lights on in town," he said. "They (the city employees) are the best at what they do, and that's why we have them here."

Chamberlain also praised the volunteer support of people from all over the Midwest. Volunteer efforts are still needed, particularly in helping area farmers clear debris tossed in their fields by Friday's tornado.

"The people who are coming forth and wanting to help, and the people who are coming forth with their needs, we're getting those people together and helping with the cleanup process so we can get ready to rebuild," he said.

Chamberlain said there were some shortcomings that were noted in the aftermath of Friday's storm, problems that will be fixed in the immediate future.

"Our siren system is lacking and we know that, and it's ironic that we have new sirens that are going to be installed this winter, but we've just outgrown the old sirens," he said. "We'll make adjustments so the community is even safer and if we have to go through this again, we'll be ready."

In the end, that the community was able to ride out one of the most deadly tornadoes to hit Nebraska in recent memory with no loss of life is something Chamberlain said he'll always be thankful for.

"We had 35-40 kids out at the rugby park practicing 15 minutes before the storm when the police came to tell them to get out of here," he said. "We could have been in the middle of a softball tournament and had hundreds of people out here. I'm very thankful of the path this storm took, and very very thankful there was no loss of life."

Delay doesn't stop Devils in 21-13 triumph

By RICHARD RHODEN
Of The Herald

It may have been postponed three days, but that was only three extra days of motivation for the Wayne High football team.

Wayne stormed Bob Cunningham field for its delayed homecoming game and won a 21-13 thriller over West Point-Beemer that was able to distract citizens of Wayne for a few hours from the events of Friday's tornado.

"We were a little rusty with the layoff. We had a bunch of factors go into this, it's just a tough thing to get kids prepared for," coach Terry Bear said. "It's a momentum thing, and we have to turn right around and get ready for this Friday."

Wayne was able to get on the board first with a short three-play drive that featured passes from Jalen Barry to Jared Anderson and Payton Janke of 56 yards and 18 yards, respectively, and was capped off by a eight-yard run by Barry.

West Point followed on its next possession with a fumble that was recovered by the Blue Devils and brought an end to the first quarter.

After a punt from Wayne, West Point was forced to do the same. However, a 39-yard punt return by Trevor Pecena put the Blue Devils at the West Point 19, and Demetrius Alexander scored two plays later to give Wayne a 14-0 lead with 5:30 remaining in the half.

After a failed fourth-down conversion by West Point at the Wayne 11, Barry threw a pass that was tipped and intercepted by the Cadets, who used the turnover to put a touchdown on the board with little time re-

Wind-blown, but Wayne state-bound

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Maybe home-course advantage isn't what it's cracked up to be.

The Wayne High girls golf team qualified for state after finishing third on their home course in the C-3 district golf tournament at Wayne Country Club on Tuesday, edging out Battle Creek by 14 shots for the final team qualifying slot for next week's state tournament.

Coach Josh Johnson was hoping his team could take advantage of the familiarity factor of playing districts on their home course, but he's happy the team reached its ultimate goal of qualifying for state.

"We were able to qualify, and that was the ultimate goal," he said. "I was a little disappointed that we got third, but we get to play next week and that's the deal."

Playing in windy conditions with gusts of more than 30 miles an hour made it tough on everybody, as the

Softballers come along, get ready for district play

The Wayne High softball team geared up for districts with a runner-up finish at the Mid State Conference tournament and an easy win on their "new" home field at Wayne State College.

Playing about 72 hours after a tornado devastated their home field, the Blue Devils moved to the Wayne State softball facility and pounded out a 10-0 shutout of South Sioux City to cap a 23-5 regular season that, coach Rob Sweetland said, was beyond expectations.

"The younger girls have come along tremendously, and our senior leadership has been awesome, so it's been a fun year," Sweetland said after Monday's regular-season finale.

The Blue Devils scored in every inning in their win over the Cardinals. Danica Schaefer hit a home run and drove in four runs, while Abbie Hixx doubled and had two RBI's as both players had two hits.

That was more than enough for senior hurler Kendall Gamble, who went the distance and gave up two hits and four walks while striking out for. After the game, members of the South Sioux City team presented Wayne High players with a homemade gift pack as a show of support in the wake of Friday's tornados that destroyed the Wayne Softball Complex.

The Blue Devils came away with a runner-up finish in conference tournament action on Saturday in Norfolk. In pool play, they beat Pierce 9-0 and blasted Boone Central 13-1 but came up short in a comeback effort as they fell to Guardian Angels Central Catholic, 4-3.

"We were disappointed," Sweetland said of the team's loss in the conference final. "We left too many runners on, and we gave up some soft runs that we just need to clean up. But the girls know that."

In the Pierce game, Wayne only had four hits in the contest, but took advantage of six walks and a pair of Bluejay errors to come away with the win.

Victoria Kranz scored twice and got a hit while Schaefer scored twice to highlight the offensive effort. Hannah Belt threw a complete-game one-hitter, striking out nine and walking two.

In the win over Boone Central, four errors led to nine unearned runs for the Blue Devils, who scored

Wayne (4-2) vs. Pierce (3-2)
Friday, 7 p.m. at Pierce High School

It's been a long time since Wayne has been in a position where they could think about beating Pierce. After the emotional win Monday night, it's a short turnaround to play a Bluejay team that's reeling. Baseball legend Yogi Berra once said "Ya' gotta believe." Count me in . . .

Wakefield (0-5) vs. Wisner-Pilger (1-4)
Friday, 7 p.m. at Wisner

Wakefield did about everything they could do to get their first win on Monday but couldn't outscore LCC. Gators are only averaging 12 points a contest, so if the Trojans can keep that offense rolling, they shouldn't have any problems getting that first win of the year on Friday.

Eagles have faced some tough competition the last few weeks and just don't seem to have the depth to overcome their opponents. Going to be another tough one against a Pirates team that is looking to cement their playoff hopes with a win on the road.

Wayne St. (2-3) vs. SW Minn. St. (2-3)
Saturday, 6 p.m. at Memorial Stadium

After a big win at Augie, the Wildcats face arguably the most prolific offenses in the NSIC. Problem is, they're also one of the most porous defenses. They scored 48 at Sioux Falls last week - and lost. Get out the 3/8-inch spikes, boys . . . time to go watch a track meet.

Friday, 7 p.m. at Laurel

After getting their first win, the Bears have a little momentum against a West Holt team that's coming off back-to-back losses against undefeated Battle Creek and Lutheran High Northeast. The problem is, their wins are over teams who are a combined 1-16. Bears should give them a game, though.

Congratulations, Wildcats - it's been a rough first month of the season, but you got one in the "W" column. Now hang on tight - the top team in Class D2 in the power points is coming to town, and they're averaging more than 50 points a game. Blue Devils will dominate this one.

Bears win 34-33 thriller

WAKEFIELD - Two area teams looking for their first win of the season staged a high-scoring shootout on Monday night.

Wakefield and Laurel-Concord/Coleridge rescheduled their game after storms rolled through the area on Friday, but there was plenty of thunder and lightning when they reconvened three nights later.

The Bears came back from a touchdown deficit, lost the lead, then got it back and held on at the end for a dramatic 34-33 win over the Trojans at Eaton Field, giving LCC its first win in five tries while scores were a little higher than normal for a district tournament.

"It was a tough day in the wind, but everybody had to play in it," Johnson said. "We had a rough day, and I know the girls can play better, but to go through a rough day and still be able to qualify says a lot about the girls."

The Blue Devils had just one medalist finish in the top 10, as senior Emma Loberg notched a 107 to finish eighth overall.

"Emma has been right in there among our top three all year and was a conference medalist last week, so it was nice to see her rewarded for all the hard work she put in during the summer," Johnson said. "To go from 120 last year to 107 and a medal this year is something else."

Marissa Wiese shot 109 and would have qualified individually, as she tied for 10th place overall. Cassidy Wiese shot 112 and Holly Grosz and Cienna Stegemann each shot rounds of 119.

Blue Devil volleyballers net road wins

The Wayne Blue Devil volleyball team captured two wins in a triangular Tuesday night with wins over Pierce and Boone Central.

Wayne was victorious over Pierce with scores of 25-18, 21-25 and 25-17 while also defeating Boone Central with 25-20 and 25-21 scores.

In the Pierce match, Ashton Schweers recorded a double-double with 22 digs and 11 kills while Madison Frevert had seven kills.

Meagan Backer totaled 21 digs while Peyton Roach and Tarah Stegemann added 15 and 12, respectively. Emma Evetovich snagged 25 set assists in the match along with six digs.

In the win over Boone Central, Backer led the team with 16 digs, while Alyssa Schmale and Roach added 11 and 10, respectively. Schweers smashed seven kills and seven digs as Evetovich added 19 set assists.

Wayne was also able to collect two wins on Thursday over Logan View and Madison. Wayne beat Logan View 25-12 and 25-14 and cruised past Madison with scores of 25-7 and 25-12.

Frevert led the Blue Devils with eight kills over Logan View while Schweers and Paige Wacker added four a piece.

Evetovich recorded 16 set assists and Lexi Sokol scored four service aces. Backer led the team with 10 digs while Roach added eight.

In the match with Madison, Evetovich scored 12 set assists while Sokol and Schweers led Wayne with five kills each.

Backer was tops for the Blue Devils with 10 digs while Roach added five more.

maining in the half to make it a 14-7 game.

West Point took the opening second half kickoff and used a nine-play, 68-yard drive to make the score 14-13 as the extra point was botched.

Wayne answered the call with a 68-yard kickoff return by Brook Bowers to put the ball at the West Point 6-yard line, and they scored two plays later on a two-yard touchdown scamper by Alexander to extend the lead 21-13.

"Consistency is such a vital role in out teams' success, so keeping the momentum up for our team is crucial," Bear said.

After a West Point punt, Wayne pushed forward on a 10-play drive that went all the way to the Cadet 16, where a Barry fumble early in the fourth quarter gave hope to the Cadets.

After a second failed fourth down conversion by West Point, Wayne was unable to move the ball but pinned the Cadets deep in their own territory at the five-yard line.

West Point could not convert another fourth down at their own 43, and the Blue Devils ran six plays before sending Mike Cliff to attempt a 45-yard field goal that came up just short of the goalpost, giving West Point one last chance.

However, the first play for the Cadets was an interception by Janke to seal the victory for the 4-2 Blue Devils.

"Our defense played outstanding, I thought our offense put them on the field too long, but it's nothing that we should be shaken from," Bear said.

Wayne will have a quick turnaround, as they get ready for a showdown with Pierce on Friday.

"We have film on Pierce, so we are just going to stay focused on the task at hand, even though there are a lot of bigger things than a football game in this town right now," Bear said. "We will keep the kids grounded and get them to give us two hours of football."

With this win, the Blue Devils have essentially earned a playoff spot, and are striving for more.

"I hadn't been looking at the standings, but last year we made it at 2-8 and I would have never guessed that," Bear said. "This team is better than 4-2. I believe they could be 6-0, very proud of them and we just have to make sure to stay focused."

four runs in the first and nine in the third to cap the game on the 12-run rule.

Ashten Gibson tossed a three-inning no-hitter, striking out one and walking two. Nicole Craft had two hits and two runs scored, while Kranz and Schaefer both scored three times.

In the conference finals, Guardian Angels Central Catholic scored three runs in the fourth, then added an important run in the top of the seventh.

Trailing 4-1, Wayne scored twice in the bottom of the inning. Craft tripled and scored Jalyn Zeiss, who led off the inning by reaching on error. Kranz came up and singled Craft home to pull Wayne within one run. The senior stole second, but the Blue Devils couldn't bring her home as they fell in the conference finals for the second straight year.

Kranz was 2-for-3 with an RBI to highlight a six-hit effort. Belt took the loss, striking out nine while giving up six hits.

The game Saturday was a rematch of a battle held 48 hours earlier at the Wayne Softball Complex, won by the host Blue Devils 4-2.

The Blue Devils drew first blood in the second inning when Schaefer doubled to put two runners in scoring position. Lauren Gilliland followed with a single to score Kranz, and Schaefer came home when Kendall Gamble hit into a fielder's choice to make it 2-0.

Guardian Angels came back to tie the game in the fourth, but Wayne regained the lead in the fifth when Kiara Hochstein doubled to the opposite field in left and came home when Rylee Bessmer reached on an error. They added an insurance run in the sixth when Gilliland singled home Hix.

Hannah Belt threw a complete game win for the Blue Devils, who take the No. 1 seed into the C-2 district tournament that has been moved to Wisner City Park for games Thursday and Friday.

Wayne State Coaches Show

Exclusively on mywaynnews.com

Interviews with Wildcat coaches and highlights from each week's events Available every Wednesday afternoon mywaynnews.com's Michael Carnes sits down each week to talk to Wayne State coaches about their teams' efforts throughout the 2013 season. We'll recap the previous week's games and talk about upcoming opponents.

Wildcats outlast Augie, 10-7

Wayne State football scored 10 quick points on Augustana and rode the defense on its way to a 10-7 victory in Sioux Falls.

The Wildcats stand at a 2-3 record as they recorded their fourth straight win over the Vikings.

In Wayne's second possession, a 36-yard field goal by Tyler Basch gave the Wildcats a 3-0 lead.

Wayne State wasted little time on its next possession, as Zach Osborn connected with Adam Stark on an 80-yard touchdown toss to extend the lead to 10-0.

Augustana put together a long drive that ate up 7:19 of the clock in the second quarter, but a 37-yard field goal was missed by the Vikings.

After a Wildcat punt, the Vikings drove the field again but this time missed a 34-yard field goal to send to the locker room down 10-0.

Defensive prowess was the story in the third quarter, as neither offense was able to generate anything as both teams combined for 50 yards in the quarter.

Augustana moved the ball down the field early in the fourth quarter but was denied as Ben Radel snagged an interception to keep the Vikings off the board.

After a Wildcat punt, Augustana traveled 61 yards en route to a touchdown to get within 10-7 with 3:46 remaining in the game.

Wayne State was able to take some time off the clock on their next drive, but was forced to punt from near midfield.

Augustana got the ball back on their own nine after a punt from Sean McClure with only :24 left. The defense held tough for the Wildcats, not allowing Augustana to move the ball and ended the game.

Charlie Davidson was the workhorse for the Wildcats, running the ball 26 times for 53 yards. Osborn was 11-of-21 through the air for 188 yards and a touchdown.

Nick Monzu led Wayne State with 11 tackles as Nathan Scott added 10.

Wayne State takes aim at Southwest Minnesota State this weekend in a NSIC South Division game at Bob Cunningham Field with kickoff at 6 p.m.

DAVID CITY – It was a 1-2 finish for two Wayne High girls runners as the Blue Devils posted a runner-up finish Thursday at the Aquinas Invitational.

Marta Pulfer was the medalist in the girls race, breaking the tape in 20:49 to lead the way for Wayne High. Cassie Heier finished right behind her younger teammate, coming home 15 seconds later at 21:04.

both finished in the top 10 to help Wayne finish nine points behind winner Columbus Scotus. Nelson earned a 10th place medal, while Burbach was 18th.

The Wayne High boys got a top 10 finish from Ben Hoskins, as he came home in eighth place with a time of 18:06. Wayne's other three scoring runners came home in a solid pack, with Luke Pulfer in 35th, Nolan Reynolds in 36th and Bryce Sebade in 39th. The effort was good for a seventh-place finish out of 12 teams at the meet.

Wayne State 1-2 on volleyball road trip; #1 Concordia-SP next

It was a tough night for the No. 15 Wayne State Wildcats, who traveled to Kearney to play in-state rival UNK, and lost in straight sets to the No. 8 Lopers 25-13, 26-24 and 25-12.

Ten Wayne State attack errors in the first set did them no favors, as the host Lopers were able to ease their way to a 25-13 win.

The Wildcats made it interesting in the second set with multiple blocks from Elizabeth Gebhardt, but UNK was able to tough out the 26-24 win.

Wayne State never had a chance in the third set, as they fell behind early with seven straight Loper points and Nebraska-Kearney went on to claim the three-game sweep.

Katie Hughes led the Wildcats with 17 digs while Courtney VanGroningen totaled 14 of her own.

Lexi Malm recorded six kills as Gebhardt added five more. Leisa McClintock snagged 18 set assists.

Wayne State split a road trip last weekend, defeating MSU Moorhead Friday night in straight sets but losing a five-set thriller to Northern State.

At Northern State, the Wildcats committed 36 attack errors en route to a 25-20, 23-25, 23-25, 25-13 and 15-10 loss but swept MSU Moorhead 25-18, 25-21 and 25-20 on Friday.

The Wildcats dropped the first set but came back strong in the second set. Wayne State fell behind in the third set, but was able to squeak out a close 25-23 set.

Ten Wildcat attack errors hurt Wayne State in the fourth set, as the Wolves were able to gain control and carry that momentum on to the five-set win.

Katie Hughes and Cori Hobbs each notched double-doubles, as Hughes scored 21 digs and 10 kills while Hobbs accumulated 13 kills with 11 digs. Leisa McClintock racked up 40 set assists along with Courtney VanGroningen pitching in 18 digs.

It was smooth sailing for the Wildcats in Moorhead, as they won in straight sets over the Dragons.

Hughes and Hobbs recorded double-doubles again, as Hughes collected 11 kills and 16 digs while Hobbs notched 12 kills and 14 digs.

Wayne State, 12-4, has a pair of home games this weekend, taking on No. 1 Concordia-St. Paul Friday night at 7 p.m. and Minnesota State Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Thriller

The Bears drew first blood midway through the opening period when Dillan Wolfgram dove in from a yard out for a 7-0 lead. Wakefield scored four minutes later on a pass from Evan Nicholson to Anthony Victor but missed the extra point to make it 7-6.

The two teams traded touchdowns again in the second. Nicholson hit Josh Dolph for 21 yards and the Trojans converted the two-point conversion. LCC counted with Wolfgram's second touchdown run but missed their extra point in the closing seconds to make it 14-13 at intermission.

The two teams went back and forth in the second half. Alex Conley made a leaping grab over a defender for an 18-yard scoring pass from Nicholson to make it 20-13, but the Bears countered with two scores, both coming off of tipped interceptions. Wolfgram ran 67 yards for one score, while Brett Haisch hit on a four-yard plunge to make it 26-20.

Wakefield came back with Dolph catching a 36-yard pass from Nicholson to give the Trojans a 27-26 lead early in the fourth. LCC came right back, though, as Haisch broke loose for a 64-yard run. Wolfgram's two-point conversion run was key, as it gave LCC a 34-27 advantage with 8:08 to play.

Wakefield would find the end zone one more time, as Dolph and Nicholson hooked up for the third time on a four-yard connection with 4:44 to go, but the PAT was missed, and LCC was able to hang on for the win.

Nicholson had a monster night at quarterback in a losing effort for Wakefield, going 38-of-55 for 430 yards and five touchdowns. He was picked off three times, however, and all three were on tipped passes.

Dolph and Nick Gonzalez both hit triple digits in receiving yards for the Trojans. Dolph had 12 carries for 143 yards, while Gonzalez had 100 on four catches.

Wolfgram ran for 172 yards on 198 carries and scored three times for the Bears, while Haisch had 96 yards on 12 carries with a pair of scores.

LCC is at West Holt on Friday, while Wakefield travels to Wisner-Pilger.

Lady Bears come away with two wins

The Laurel-Concord/Coleridge Lady Bears were able to tough out a close five-set thriller with Creighton, winning 23-25, 25-20, 25-10, 21-25 and 15-13.

Audra Corbit led the Bears in kills with 17, Ellie Arduser scored 15, and Erin Gubbels and Kelsey Dietrich recorded 12 and 10 each, respectively.

Cameron Eddie racked up 55 set assists. Candice Rastede led the team with 13 digs, followed by Arduser with 11.

"The girls were determined to win," coach Patti Cunningham said.

"They were aggressive and kept working hard."

On Tuesday, the Lady Bears improved to 10-8 with a 25-20, 25-8, 25-16 win at Hartington High.

Arduser had a team-high 10 kills while Corbit added nine kills and three blocks. Eddie had 27 assists and Brittany Wolfram recorded three ace serves.

"The team worked hard to stay in system and keep our opponent off balance," Cunningham said. "They were aggressive at the net and service line, which kept Hartington out of system."

Carly Schwager tries to hit past the Niobrara-Verdigre block during Winside's Pink-Out Night match on Tuesday.

Winside falls in four to Niobrara/Verdigre

Winside played host to Niobrara/Verdigre on Pink-Out Night Tuesday, but the Wildcats were unable to come out victorious, losing in four sets 19-25, 25-21, 25-17, 25-9.

Winside was able to gain an advantage by winning the first set, but was unable to continue the momentum in losing the next three.

Carly Schwager recorded a double-double in the match, scoring 23 digs and 11 kills. Jayd Roberts racked up 28 set assists and eight digs while Morgan Jensen added 30 digs along with three service aces in the contest. Ellie Jaeger notched five kills with two blocks and two digs while Carly Thies added seven kills along with a solo block, service ace and dig.

Winside's record falls to 5-13 on the season.

Cards fell Eagles, 52-0

After a one-hour delay because of the weather Friday night, the Allen Eagles football team was never able to get on track, losing 52-0 to Randolph.

The power in Randolph went out, combined with the fact that there were limited medical personnel on site as well as two tornado warnings contributed to Allen's late arrival in Randolph.

The team sought shelter in Allen High School until the coast was clear.

Allen's defense struggled, while the offense was unable to get anything going, which contributed to the 52-0 outcome.

Randolph scored 30 points in the first quarter and 14 more in the second to take a 44-0 halftime advantage.

The Eagles were only able to muster 96 yards of total offense. Caleb Thomas led the Eagles with 54 of those yards on the ground. Taylor Kumm rushed for 43 yards, 39 of which came on a single play.

Austin Connot led the Eagle defense with 13 tackles, while Thomas and Wade Connot recorded 11 and seven, respectively.

Allen's record now stands at 1-4 on the year and 0-2 in District action.

Allen plays host to Emerson-Hubbard Friday night at 7 p.m.

'Everything happens for a reason' is mantra at Hands With Heart

By KATIE KASL
Of The Herald

If Susan Wells decided to turn the story of Hands With Heart Massage Therapy into a paperback best-seller, she'd probably title it "Everything Happens for a Reason."

It'd be a fitting name, considering it took a fateful string of events to lead her to where she is today.

Wells' tale started five years ago. After living in corporate America for two and a half decades, she decided it was time for a career change. Wells didn't tell a lot of people about her plan to swap social work – a job she loved, though she didn't necessarily enjoy everything about it – for massage therapy, and when a friend of hers, privy to her intentions, put an idea in her head, it was hard for Wells to ignore it.

That friend told her to call Diane Peterson, owner of Peterson Therapy Services (PTS), because she knew she was looking for a massage therapist to complement her physical therapy business on Main Street. The two women weren't exactly strangers – both had worked on the Elderfest committee together during previous years – and Wells' request to join Peterson so she could complete her internship – 100 massages at a reduced rate because she was a student – with PTS was granted.

After Wells finished her internship, she moved into Peterson's building and, in fact, just celebrated her fourth year there in September.

"I'm independent. I'm not an employee of hers (Peterson's), but I do have to say she's a blessing, and I wouldn't be here without her," she said.

When Wells is not at Hands With Heart in Wayne, she can be found teaching massage therapy classes in Omaha. (She instructs online courses too but laughs that you can't really receive a full education in the field via the Internet.) Two days a week, Wells swaps 208 Main Street for Missa Sue's Salon & Spa in Laurel. There, she works alongside Melissa Graham, who gave Wells the okay to move in as the replacement for a massage therapist who had worked there in the past.

"Between the two places, I have a really thriving practice. I'm really busy," she said, adding that Graham "is great to work with also."

A Neligh native, Wells moved to Wayne in 2004. She opened Hands With Heart in September 2009 and has been receiving positive reactions from her customers – and the community, in general – ever since.

"Whenever I have an open house, the Chamber is hugely supportive, and I just find, when I do something new, my clients are really very supportive too," Wells said.

It's like that in both Wayne and Laurel, a fact that could be attributed to her dedication to her clients.

"I am very much a problem-solver," Wells said. "I like to have the knowledge and tools to help them."

She utilizes complementary therapy, which combines conventional medicine with practices like massage or acupuncture in the treatment of certain ailments. If a customer comes in with complaints of a sore this or a sore that, Wells uses myofascial release or trigger therapy, two practices that address specific parts of the body and can be implemented to reduce pain in those areas.

This summer, she kicked her knowledge up a notch and, on Sept. 8, graduated with her associate's in massage therapy from the Universal College of Healing Arts in Omaha.

"I really love to learn how to deal with different things and different problems," Wells said.

One thing she does heed, however, is that massage therapy is not a quick-fix for all of life's aches and pains. Though a single session can do wonders for a person, Wells believes that it may take two or more visits with a therapist for complete relief.

"You didn't get your problem overnight. I can't fix it overnight," she said. "It may take some longer than others."

It's a process she enjoys, and, if a client comes in one day with a problem, then returns a few sessions later with it alleviated, she knows she's done her job and done it well.

"I love that. I love when I can help someone feel better," Wells said. "I also pride myself on listening to my clients and making them feel heard and tailoring their massage session to what their needs are."

Sometimes, they're just stressed and tired; and other times, their shoulder aches, or their lower back hurts. To combat these complaints, Wells offers Swedish and deep tissue massages, plus massage therapy facials, which she described as "very luxurious" with "lots of creams and lotions."

And, of course, don't forget about the hot towels.

"I love to give them," Wells said. "It's so much fun to see people enjoy them."

There are also hot stone massages. They last 60 minutes each, utilize stones that have been warmed up in a Crock Pot and have, in the past, come with reactions that range from "I feel 10 years younger" to "that felt like an out-of-body experience."

If any of this sounds like something you'd be interested in, Wells (semi-seriously) recommends not getting it done over your lunch break.

You might not want to return to work afterwards.

Creative abilities

Emma Osnes, a senior at Wayne High School, took Homecoming decorating to a new level when she created 13 life-sized superheroes and a mural to decorate the hallways of the school. Pictures of Super Man, Wonder Woman, Thor, Flash, Green Lantern, Batman and Robin, The Hulk, Iron Man, Black Widow, Captain America and Hawkeye and Aqua Man, along with the Joker and Loki were completed in approximately one week. In addition, she created a mural that she said will also be used as a background for her senior pictures.

Light bulb choices now more complex

When we used to shop for light bulbs, most of us related the amount of light a bulb produced to its wattage size. We expected a standard 100-watt incandescent bulb to be about twice as bright as a standard 60-watt incandescent bulb and chose accordingly.

These days, our choices are not that simple. With the phase-out of most standard incandescent bulbs and a store's lighting section being taken over by halogen bulbs, compact fluorescent lamps (CFLs) and light emitting diode (LED) lamps, the world of light bulbs became a lot more complex.

What are Lumens?

Instead of thinking "watts," we need to consider lumens. Watts measure the amount of energy required to produce light, whereas lumens measure the amount of light produced. The more lumens in a light bulb, the brighter the light.

The following is a list of light output ranges of traditional incandescent lamps:

- 40-watt bulb = 350-749 lumens;
- 60-watt bulb = 750-1,049 lumens;
- 75-watt bulb = 1,050-1,489 lumens;
- 100-watt bulb = 1,490-2,600 lumens.

The Federal Trade Commission has worked with manufacturers to develop a new label to help consumers purchasing energy-saving bulbs. It looks similar to nutrition labels on food and will have more concise information about the bulb's output and energy savings.

The labels will include: brightness (in lumens), estimated yearly energy cost, life-expectancy of the bulb, light appearance and energy used.

Contrary to energy-efficient lamps' past appearance, today's options do not come only in bluish hues. We can choose a light bulb based on whether the light looks "cool," bluish, "warm," yellowish, or somewhere in between.

Finally, remember not all of today's energy efficient lamps can be dimmed. While halogen incandescent dim in the same way as their inefficient incandescent counterparts, CFLs and LEDs specifically designed to be dimmed are necessary in fixtures or lamps with dimmer switches. The bulb's packaging should specifically say whether the lamp can be dimmed or not.

Your local utility and Nebraska Public Power District want to help you make the most of the energy they provide you. That includes assisting you with selecting the appropriate energy efficient lamps to meet your lighting needs.

For more ideas on how you can make your home EnergyWise, contact your local utility or visit www.nppd.com.

Opinion

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes
Managing Editor

Do you believe in miracles?

I took a rare Friday night off to do a little radio play-by-play of high school football, and my broadcast partner and I had just made the turn north on Highway 81 when we heard the news.

First, it was a tornado warning for Wayne County. I was concerned to hear that my home county was under a severe weather threat, but went on with my preparation.

And then I heard something that stopped me — a tornado was spotted south of Wayne and headed toward town. We continued on toward our destination, but my thoughts were back home as I wondered if my staff was safe, and would I have a house and dog to come home to when I got home.

As it turns out, the station's tower is on the Northeast Public Power grid, which went black as the tornado ripped through the east end of town. We headed for home and I returned to my car at the 81-98 junction and blasted past every speed limit sign for the next 21 miles as I wondered what I would see when I finally got back into town.

What I saw that night, and have seen in the days since, was something far beyond anything I could have imagined as the sun set that evening.

First, and most important, was that the tornado had made a slight turn east, avoiding the residential and downtown area and the incomprehensible death and destruction that would have been left behind. That the tornado hit where AND when it hit greatly reduced the potential human loss to a little more than a dozen injuries, only one of them serious (and our prayers go out to John Dunning, who was seriously injured by falling debris).

But what I noticed, and continue to be most proud of as a resident of Wayne, America, is the attitude our community has taken toward the aftermath of this amazing storm. I have yet to find someone who offered a thought of despair or negative emotion — it has been a universal effort to come together as a community, clean up that which was torn apart and prepare for the rebuilding of that which was destroyed in Friday's tornado.

Our city and county leadership in the aftermath of this storm has been nothing short of phenomenal. In fact, I'm not sure there's a word in the English language that can properly and accurately convey the quality of work that has been executed by the City of Wayne, Wayne County, Providence Medical Center and the various law enforcement and emergency management personnel who have been on the scene.

If somebody from out of state wants to know what kind of people Nebraskans are, all you would need to do is show them the people of Wayne, America in action these last few days. From those involved in the command center to the hundreds of volunteers who have been there to offer all kinds of assistance, the spirit of community and the work that has been done here is nothing short of amazing.

And as I think about all the wonderful people who have been part of this recovery effort, I can't help to think just how lucky we were that the storm hit where it did.

That it took out our industrial area and demolished more than a dozen businesses is bad enough — but can you imagine where we'd be right now if that storm had happened, say, after lunch on Thursday? Hundreds of people work out in that area, and there's no telling how many would have died or been hurt if the storm had hit earlier in the day or at any time other than when it did.

And what about the town itself? The storm was tracking on a direct path toward downtown Wayne along Highway 15. At its widest point, the storm was more than 1.3 miles wide and could have easily centered itself over the city and come right on through. It's a good bet this week's paper wouldn't have made it to the street. In fact, it's a pretty good bet that the majority of this town would be piling up an unthinkable amount of debris and human life after this EF-4 monster rolled through.

I'm pretty sure I can speak for the entire community when I say that we were extremely blessed to have come through this epic storm without any loss of life. People are without homes and without jobs right now, and as important as those things are, understand that those things CAN be rebuilt. There is no replacing the life of a loved one, and there were a lot of families in the storm's path who are realizing this truth and taking comfort in the knowledge that, while their homes are destroyed, their lives were not.

There are certain things about this storm that we will never fully understand, like how it could pulverize the softball complex, leave standing a hotel and modular home area north and west of the facility virtually untouched, then destroy a building just east of those homes. There are countless stories of near-misses and "where were you when . . ." stories that we hope to tell here in the coming weeks, but it's more evident with every passing day that we are a town full of miracles and miracle-workers.

Al Michaels once asked us "Do you believe in miracles?" After what we've been through the last few days, and what lies ahead in the recovery and rebuilding of Wayne, America, the answer is clear:

Yes.

World-class auction in Pierce

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

What happens when four months of hype on the world stage meets a northeast Nebraska community of 1,700 people?

Well, in the case of Pierce and the much ballyhooed Lambrecht Chevrolet automobile auction, folks from the area step up to the plate and the History Channel turns it into a three-hour documentary, "History Made Now: Wheels of Fortune."

Unless you have been under a rock or on another planet for the past few months, you know the story of Ray and Mildred Lambrecht, Chevrolet dealers from 1946 to 1996, who locked the doors to the dealership 17 years ago and left about 20 new and very low mileage cars inside. More than 400 used cars were left in a field near the Pierce Golf Course. Weeds and trees grew up on the Lambrecht-owned land, and thieves started helping themselves to parts. Finally, the couple — now in their 90s — decided it was time to sell.

Enter well-known Minnesota auctioneer Yvette VanDerBrink. Her company agreed to do the sale, which included many original parts and fixtures and signage — you name it — from the dealership, as well as the cars which ranged from a 1928 Durant 2-door sedan owned by Lambrecht's uncle to a Silver Anniversary 1978 Corvette Indianapolis 500 Pace Car with 4 miles on the odometer.

As VanDerBrink's crew pulled the "new" old cars — never titled or licensed — from the building, the hype began. Major national newspapers, online and print car publications such as "Old Cars Weekly" and "Barn Finds" and "Hemming's Motor News," all did stories and showed pictures of the collection. The poster child became a 1958 Chevrolet Cameo pickup with a dented roof (something from the ceiling fell on it over time) and 1.3 miles on the odometer. That vehicle also was the first to sell at Saturday's (Sept. 28) auction, and it went to a man from New Hampshire who paid $140,000. He said he was going to display it "as is." The Corvette sold for $80,000 to an online bidder from Nebraska. A red and white 1963 Impala 2-door hardtop with 11 miles went for $97,500 to a bidder from Ohio. The Durant sold for $8,000.

There were more than 3,600 bidders online and many, many more in person, as nearly 15,000 people milled about on the rain-dampened grassy field where the cars had been staged. Folks from Connecticut to California, Georgia to Washington state and many places in-between watched the sale, which started with a set of four Chevy hubcaps that went for $400. A bidder from Germany parked his rental car at the high school parking lot where members of the student council and several athletic teams were charging $20 per car. He joined others who walked the 1.5 miles to the auction site, which was marked by the bright yellow flags of the funnel cake concession and other vendors.

A Norwegian firefighter who stayed at one of the Norfolk fire stations because of a shortage of motel rooms (nearly everything within a two-hour driving radius of Pierce was sold out months ago) was among the observers. A woman from Texas parked herself in her portable camping chair and worked on her needlepoint as her husband looked at cars and visited with other attendees.

One woman spoke of the great meal she had at the Methodist Church in Pierce Friday night. In a town with limited dining opportunities in the face of a massive crowd, the locals stepped up. There was a strong odor of barbecue smoke drifting from downtown out into the neighborhood where a teen girl manned a corner water and pop station, 75 cents each, thank you. A family near the high school opened their garage to sell breakfast goodies and even provided a picnic table and canopy for diners to use.

The owners of many "For Sale" cars in the area from Pierce to Norfolk had them on display. Some that didn't run were on the backs of flat-bed trailers. Some were classics, some strictly hot rods, some maybe just parts cars. But the visitors were stopping and looking — maybe even buying. That's opportunity. One local resident displayed excellent marketing skills in signing his event the "Man Cave Yard Sale."

On a non-Husker-Football Saturday, it was THE thing to do. And the world caught a glimpse of Nebraska ingenuity and pride.

Dr. Don Hickey to be recognized for work

The USS Constitution Museum will hold its annual Chairman's Dinner and Awards Ceremony on Thursday, Oct. 17 in Boston, Mass.

During the dinner, the Museum will recognize several individuals who display characteristics the USS Constitution has come to represent: dedication to community, commitment to purpose, and excellence in all endeavors.

Dr. Don Hickey, historian, author and professor at Wayne State College, will receive the Samuel Eliot Morison Award. This award, named in honor of the renowned maritime historian, is given for artful scholarship and desire to preserve our past for future generations.

A longtime student of the War of 1812, Hickey was called "the dean of 1812 scholarship" by the New Yorker. An award-winning author, Hickey has written seven books and nearly 100 articles on the war. He is best known for The War of 1812: A Forgotten Conflict and Don't Give Up the Ship! Myths of the War of 1812.

Hickey joins elite company with the honor. Previous winners of the Samuel Eliot Morison Award include journalism and broadcast giant Walter Cronkite; Tip O'Neill, who served as Speaker of the House from 1977 until his retirement in 1987, making him the only Speaker to serve for five complete consecutive Congresses, and the second longest-serving Speaker in U.S. history; and David McCullough, American author and historian, and a two-time winner of the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award and a recipient of the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the United States' highest civilian award.

"This is a special honor to me for several reasons," Hickey said. "Morison was the most prolific and accomplished historian of the 20th century. Old Ironsides is our most famous warship, and the museum in Boston dedicated to honoring this iconic ship is one of the best-run facilities of its kind in the nation. I'm humbled by the honor. I certainly never thought I'd get an award that earlier went to someone like Walter Cronkite or David McCullough."

As the memory and educational voice of USS Constitution, the Museum proudly reminds the community of her legacy and the many ways in which citizens can pay tribute to her years of service. From a fighting warship in 1812 to being named America's Ship of State in 2009, "Old Ironsides" is not only a hometown hero but an American icon.

The 2013 Award recipients to be honored by the Museum at the Seaport Boston Hotel on Oct. 17 in addition to Hickey: Peter H. Smyth, President and CEO, Greater Media, Inc. will receive the Charles Francis Adams Award, given in honor of one of the Museum's founders. This award is presented to a person who has given of himself or herself for the betterment of the community; Herbert P. Dane, Life Trustee, USS Constitution Museum will receive the "Old Ironsides" Exemplary Service Award in recognition of his dedication to the USS Constitution Museum.

"It is an honor to be able to present these men who are distinguished in their own fields with these awards," said Anne Grimes Rand, President of the USS Constitution Museum. "Each award has significant meaning and the recipients were thoughtfully selected for the contributions that they have not only made to our community, but also to the Museum and the preservation of history for future generations."

The USS Constitution Museum serves as the memory and educational voice of USS Constitution. Through collecting, preserving and interpreting the stories of "Old Ironsides," the Museum is able to share the history of the ship and her crew with the public. Hands-on, interactive programs and exhibitions create a positive and memorable experience for all ages by inspiring within them appreciation for the freedom that Constitution symbolizes. Nebraska in Top 10 for flu vaccination

It's time to get flu vaccine for 2013-2014 season

Did you know? Nebraska's flu vaccination coverage ranked in the top 10 nationwide for the 2012-2013 flu season. Just over 50 percent of Nebraskans 6 months old and over got their flu vaccine last year according to data from the Centers of Disease Control and Prevention. October marks the start of another flu season and it's time to get vaccinated.

"Flu isn't circulating in Nebraska yet so we've got a little lead time. Take advantage of it and get flu vaccine now," said Dr. Joseph Acierno, Chief Medical Officer and Director of Public Health for the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services. "Your body will have time to build immunity and you'll be protected when flu shows up on our doorstep."

The CDC recommends flu vaccine for everyone six months and older.

While flu can make anyone sick, certain people are at greater risk for serious complications, and it's extremely important they receive a vaccine:

- Young children
- Older people
- People with chronic lung disease (like asthma and COPD), diabetes (type 1 and 2), heart disease, neurologic conditions and certain other long-term health conditions
- Pregnant women.

Flu vaccine is safe, effective and rigorously tested. The most common reaction is soreness and redness at the injection site. If you don't like needles, FluMist is a nasal spray available for healthy people 2-49 years old. After you're vaccinated, it takes about two weeks for your body to build immunity.

Flu can be a serious disease. It can hit you hard and fast and make you sick for one to two weeks. Severe cases of flu can lead to hospitalization and even death.

Flu season arrived early last year and the season was more harsh than usual. Public health officials can't predict what's in store for this year but they say getting vaccinated is the best way to protect yourself and your loved ones from the flu. DHHS officially started flu surveillance Sept. 30. Surveillance shows where the flu is and how fast it's spreading across the state.

DHHS uses multiple surveillance systems to track flu viruses, including sentinel physicians who report the number of people with flu-like illness weekly, lab tests, school surveillance, hospital data, emergency department data and death reporting.

For more flu information, visit the DHHS website at www.dhhs.ne.gov/flu.

Learn to stretch out your paycheck School Lunches

Many families are struggling with finances during this difficult time. Managing money is a skill that almost everyone can learn and benefit from, especially to teach youth about saving money.

For example, one of the most common money mistakes is making a major purchase impulsively. Wait a day or two to evaluate if the purchase is necessary. Another financial mistake is buying an item on sale just because it's on sale. This also can be hard on the checkbook. Learning to rethink these and other expenditures can help you manage your money wisely.

To stretch your paycheck, here are some helpful suggestions:

1. Make a list of "fixed" expenses, such as a house payment or rent; automobile payments, school or other loans; or periodic payments, such as insurance payments or a child's orthodontics. Be sure to include deposits into a savings account.
2. Pay "fixed" expenses first.
3. Balance "flexible" spending. Flexible spending usually includes expenses that vary from month to month, such as groceries, maintenance on an automobile, clothing, etc.
4. Learn to identify the difference between needs (essentials) and wants (extras) in your spending plan.
5. Keep track of miscellaneous expenses. Spending a dollar a day in a vending machine at work may not seem like much, but if you multiply a dollar times five (for each day of the week) times 52 weeks, it adds up to $260 a year.

Angela Abts
Dakota County

6. Comparison shop. Check prices, product guarantees, and service at two or more places when purchasing costly items, like a major appliance or a car.

7. Use credit with care. Be sure to limit credit card purchases to an amount that can be comfortably paid within a given time frame. Using a credit card for small purchases is, however, fine if you always pay the total balance and don't accrue interest charges. Keep track of credit card expenditures to minimize surprises when the bill arrives. Try carrying an index card or small notebook to keep a running total of credit card expenditures if you have difficulty managing credit.

Can parents help children learn the value of a dollar?

Here's an easy exercise that can help parents teach children about purchasing power. Choose a time when a supermarket is not likely to be crowded. Ask a child to choose two grocery items from the same shelf and help the child compare the size of the boxes; the number of servings; price and/or price per serving, which usually is posted. Or, help them check how many of two or three different items, such as grapes, potatoes, and/or bananas they might purchase for the same amount of money.

Children also benefit from learning that price is influenced by the place of purchase. For example, a candy bar is likely to be least expensive at a supermarket or discount department store; more costly at a convenience store; and still more costly at a movie theater or sporting event concession stand.

A great resource for families to learn strategies on saving money is called America Saves. The website is www.americasaves.org. Another on-line resource available from eXtension is "Managing Money in Tough Times." There are several topics about money with articles and webinars.

For more information about financial management and resources, please contact the University of Nebraska Lincoln Extension Office in your local county or visit the website at www.extension.unl.edu.

World Heart Day

Dr. Barbara Engebretsen of Wayne State College (center) helped Wayne State College students Zach Gothier of Anthon, Iowa and Garang Lual of LaVista provide blood pressure readings for free on and off campus, Sept. 26. Wayne State College Health, Human Performance and Sport students became partners with the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Dept. and the WSC Service-Learning program to create a World Heart Day celebration. World Heart Day encourages everyone to live a heart-healthy life by exercising, eating healthy and eliminating tobacco use to reduce the entire family's risk of heart disease and stroke. The mission of World Heart Day is to educate people about cardiovascular diseases. Every day 15,000 people die from problems that arise from tobacco use. One in every two smokers will die of tobacco-related diseases. Someone who stops smoking even after 15 years, can lower the risk of heart attack to the same level as someone who has never smoked. Free blood pressure checks were available with bilingual community health workers at five of the nine locations.

Northeast Community College extended campus campaign receives Kiewit Foundation Grant

A campaign to construct a new Northeast Community College extended campus in O'Neill has received a $350,000 grant from the Peter Kiewit Foundation.

"This is a matching grant, meaning the Kiewit Foundation will provide the funding once all of the funds for the project have been raised," said John Madsen, capital campaign co-chair. "We are challenging the community to help us raise the remainder of the funding to receive the matching dollars from Kiewit. Expanding the opportunities for present and future students of Northeast Community College in this region is essential to our economic stabilization and continued growth."

The new Northeast Community College Extended Campus in O'Neill will replace an existing facility that was constructed in 1938. The one-time elementary school building no longer meets the needs of today's highly technical learning environments and does not have the space to expand training for businesses and industries.

In addition to more classrooms and lab space, the new extended campus building will feature a separate facility with large overhead doors that will be designed for industrial and agricultural training classes. The Northeast Board of Governors has also purchased a building site on East Highway 275 next to the Farm Credit Services of America building that is capable of supporting future expansion.

Campaign Co-Chair Nicole Sedlacek said the Peter Kiewit Foundation grant is a huge boost to their efforts to raise the remainder of the funding for the project. "We are so thankful for the generosity of the Kiewit Foundation. It also means we really need the local community to come forward to help support this project," she said. "The Foundation won't provide us the $350,000 grant until we can raise the remaining dollars for the campaign. The new extended campus is a project that will definitely benefit the north central Nebraska region through expanded educational offerings."

Dr. Michael Chippis, president of Northeast Community College, thanked the Peter Kiewit Foundation for the grant funding. "I appreciate the Kiewit Foundation's commitment to provide this generous grant to Northeast's extended campus capital campaign. I would encourage residents to consider contributing to this project, a project that will help improve their lives and the lives of their neighbors for generations to come. It will help address critical workforce shortages, attract and retain business and industry and keep the region vital and strong. Such an investment in the new Northeast Extended Campus will allow residents to have stock in the effort and help us reach the campaign goal," Dr. Chippis said.

Since 1980, the Peter Kiewit Foundation has awarded $489 million in grants. An additional $40 million has been provided to fund 2,175 scholarships for deserving college and university students in Nebraska. The Foundation is a private, independent philanthropic trust created from the personal estate of Peter Kiewit. Kiewit, who born in Omaha in 1900, live his entire life in Nebraska's largest city. Under his leadership, his company eventually became one of the largest employee-owned businesses in the United States and is one of the largest contractors in the world. Kiewit died in 1979.

The Northeast Community College Capital Campaign is expected to be completed by the end of the year. After funds have been secured, construction will take approximately 12-18 months. At present, the campaign has raised $2.1 of its $2.8 million dollar goal. The original goal was $2.5 million but was increased by $300,000 at the request of area business and industry representatives who said the technical training facility portion of the new extended campus needs to be larger in order to meet their training needs.

Minerva Club begins new club year

Minerva Club began its 117th year in Wayne by gathering on Sept. 23 at the Wayne County Museum.

Marian Clark hosted the meeting. Eleven members attended. Roll call was show and tell giving all present a glimpse of items popular in the Decade of the 1880's. Club President Connie Webber gave the history of the pansy, the club flower, noting that there are 400 named varieties in the pansy family including some smaller compact versions such as the viola and the violet. The club colors are the pansy's vibrant lavender and gold.

Historian Hollis Frese highlighted the history of the museum where her mother, Wilma Johnson, was a curator and tour guide. The home itself has many unique and interesting features and seemed well suited to become the museum.

Annual dues were collected. New business included a motion to give a monetary donation to the museum.

Marian Clark presented the program "Decade of the 1880's." She told of her great-grandmother, Maria Wills Fox, a widow with six sons coming from the Lee County, Ill. area in 1875 to settle near LaPorte in Wayne County and how the family played an active role there. Then Clark reviewed some of the early Wayne County and LaPorte history. Many new things came to be during the 1880's, among them Edison had just invented the phonograph; kerosene was becoming plentiful and lamps replaced the tallow dip for light; the 'tintype' process of photography became very popular for inexpensive portraits; and elderberry blossom tea was used as a remedy to cure colds. Popular social events were quilting parties, spelling bees and dances.

Hallie Sherry will host the Monday, Oct. 14 meeting at the Senior Center.

Poll exposes drought losses in Nebraska

Eighty percent of rural Nebraskans with farming interests experienced a loss of business income because of last year's drought, according to the Nebraska Rural Poll.

Poll responses also indicated rural Nebraskans' priorities for water uses have shifted since they last were surveyed on the issue, in 2004.

The 18th annual University of Nebraska-Lincoln poll was sent to 6,320 households in Nebraska's 84 nonmetropolitan counties in March and April. Results are based on 2,317 responses.

Nebraska was wracked in 2012 by what has been described as the worst drought in at least 50 years. Eighty-eight percent of rural Nebraskans with occupations in agriculture reported decreased farm production in 2012, with 42 percent saying they experienced this to a great extent.

Eighty percent of respondents said they lost income. While national reports tended to focus on the near-record farm income levels due to higher prices, the poll shows that for Nebraskans in the middle of the drought, price increases could not overcome production losses.

"It serves as a reminder that agriculture faces unique production and economic risks and points to the critical nature of delayed action in Washington, D.C. over future agricultural policy," said Brad Lubben, UNL public policy expert.

With memories of that drought in mind, rural Nebraskans also appear to be rethinking priorities for water use. Seventy-three percent rated indoor use in existing homes as a high priority; 56 and 51 percent listed livestock and crop irrigation, respectively, as high priorities. In 2004, only 48 percent of respondents listed livestock as a high water-use priority.

Only 28 percent of respondents listed indoor use in new housing developments as a priority use, and only 10 percent listed outdoor recreation, down from 34 and 18 percent, respectively, in 2004.

Poll respondents seem to be saying "we can't just build businesses and homes and add new uses without knowing the water will be there," said Lubben.

Randy Cantrell, rural sociologist with the Rural Futures Institute, added: "There's a message here for economic developers. They have to be participants in these discussions about water."

Seventy-three percent of poll respondents said they had voluntarily reduced water use in response to last year's drought.

"That strikes me as a positive note about rural Nebraska's willingness to contribute," Cantrell said.

Also, 75 percent reported loss of wildlife and wildlife habitat.

The Rural Poll is the largest annual poll of rural Nebraskans' perceptions on quality of life and policy issues. This year's response rate was about 37 percent. The margin of error is plus or minus 2 percent. Complete results are available online at ruralpoll.unl.edu.

Annual Broadband Conference to take place Oct. 16-17 in Kearney

The Nebraska Broadband Initiative's annual conference aims to show professionals how businesses are taking advantage of broadband technology. The Broadband Connecting Nebraska Conference will be Oct. 16-17 at the Younes Conference Center in Kearney.

"We are really trying to build awareness across all industry segments about the impact of technologies and broadband in particular," said Rod Armstrong, the AIM vice president of strategic partnerships. "We want to highlight some success stories from across the state of companies, ag producers and organizations that are doing some really innovative things through broadband."

The keynote speaker at the event will be Jack Uldrich, a global futurist and bestselling author of the book "Jump the Curve: Staying Ahead of Emerging Technologies."

"Just about everyone is impacted one way or another by technology these days," Armstrong said.

"There are some great examples across the state of small companies and small communities that have extended their market reach globally; they're managing fleets of trucks across the country and just a wide range of activities that are improving their business organizations through broadband."

Registration opens for the conference at 7:30 a.m. on Oct. 16.

The day's topics will include data and information security, marketing through broadband and entrepreneurship through broadband, e-commerce, business management through broadband and people attraction through broadband.

The next day will also begin at 7:30 a.m. and will feature a panel of broadband providers and community members.

For registration information and a complete agenda, visit www.broadband.nebraska.gov.

Loan options are available for those affected by disaster

I found this information on the Umass.edu site. It has a great summary of programs available after disaster.

Of course federal crop insurance covers crop losses due to tornadoes and other natural disasters. Normally, you can go to the USDA website but of course our federal government is in disarray and those sites are not up at the time of this writing.

The following information about disaster assistance programs for Agriculture (Small Business Association, USDA, FEMA) was compiled September 2011 in response to Hurricane Irene. In most cases the low interest loans are for uninsured or underinsured property.

Through its Disaster Loan Program, SBA has been a major source of assistance for the restoration of commerce and households in areas stricken by natural and human-caused disasters. SBA offers direct loans to businesses to help repair, rebuild and recover from economic losses after a disaster, but about 80 percent of the agency's approved direct disaster loans are made to individuals and households (renters and property owners) to help repair and replace homes and personal property (rather than to small businesses). The program generally offers low-interest disaster loans at a fixed rate.

The SBA Disaster Loan Program includes several categories of loans: SBA Disaster Loans Available to Homeowners and Renters Assistance is provided via loans rather than grants and, therefore, must be repaid to the federal government. Homeowners, renters and personal property owners located in a declared disaster area (and in contiguous counties) may apply to SBA for loans to help recover losses from the disaster.

SBA's Home Disaster Loan Program falls into two categories: personal property loans and real property loans. These loans cover only uninsured or underinsured property and primary residences. Loan maturities may be up to 30 years.

Personal Property Loans
A personal property loan provides a creditworthy homeowner or renter with up to $40,000 to repair or replace personal property items, such as furniture, clothing or automobiles, damaged or lost in a disaster. These loans cover only uninsured or underinsured property and primary residences and cannot be used to replace extraordinarily expensive or irreplaceable items, such as antiques, recreational vehicles or furs.

Real Property Loans
A creditworthy homeowner may apply for a "real property loan" of up to $200,000 to repair or restore the homeowner's primary residence to its pre-disaster condition.

The loans may not be used to upgrade homes or build additions, unless upgrades or changes are required by city or county building codes. A real property loan may be increased by 20 percent for repairs to protect the damaged property from a similar disaster in the future.

SBA Disaster Loans Available to Businesses

As with Home Disaster Loans, SBA disaster assistance for businesses is in the form of loans rather than grants and must be repaid. Three types of SBA disaster loans are available to businesses: Business Physical Disaster Loans, Economic Injury Disaster Loans and Pre-Disaster Mitigation Loans.

The following sections briefly describe each of type of loan. The maximum loan maturity for a Business Disaster Loan is 30 years.

Business Physical Disaster Loans
Any business, regardless of size, located in a declared disaster area may be eligible for a Physical Disaster Loan through the SBA Disaster Loan Program. Physical Disaster Loans are made available to repair or replace damaged physical property. The maximum loan amount is $2 million. Physical Disaster Loans may be used for repairs and replacements to real property, machinery, equipment, fixtures, inventory and leasehold improvements that are not covered by insurance. Physical Disaster Loans for businesses may utilize up to 20 percent of the verified loss amount for mitigation measures in an effort to prevent loss should a similar disaster occur in the future. Interest rates for Business Physical Disaster Loans for businesses must be no lower than 4 percent and no higher than 8 percent.

Economic Injury Disaster Loans (EIDLs)

EIDLs are available only to small businesses as defined by SBA size regulations, which vary from industry to industry.

For example, to be considered small, most manufacturing firms must have no more than 500 employees and most retail trade firms must have no more than $7 million in average annual sales. Small agricultural cooperatives and most private and nonprofit organizations that have suffered economic losses as the result of a declared disaster are also eligible for EIDLs.

The maximum loan amount for an EIDL is $2 million. The loan can have a maturity of up to 30 years and has an interest rate of 4 percent or less.

Pre-Disaster Mitigation Loan Program
To support the Federal Emergency Management Agency's Pre-

Disaster Mitigation Program, SBA may make low-interest, fixed-rate loans to businesses to finance measures to protect commercial property, leasehold improvements or contents from disaster-related damages that may occur in the future.

A business that participates in the program may borrow up to $50,000 each fiscal year. The business applying for the loan must be located in a participating pre-disaster mitigation community.

Additionally, if the mitigation measures are designed to protect against flooding, the location of the business must be within a special flood hazard area. The interest rate for a Pre-Disaster Mitigation Loan is fixed at 4 percent.

FOR PHOTOS OF FRIDAY'S STORM, LOOK FOR THE WAYNE HERALD ON FACEBOOK.

Thoughts, prayers go out to Wayne community

The first hint I had came in a text from Ann, who was in Hartington, watching the Lutheran High-Cedar Catholic football game. We were listening via computer to the Hartington radio station doing a play-by-play and I had sent a short message (all I'm capable of) saying it was a good game. She responded by asking if I had heard of the tornado that hit Wayne?

Then, I was on the phone to Jon, to be sure he knew about the radio broadcast, and he had heard from this friend, Brian, who was on the scene. All we knew then was that the John Deere dealership and Heritage Homes had been hit. I immediately thought of Providence Hospital and the nursing home. We switched to the national weather service on the TV. There were pictures from Wayne! One was of a huge green tractor that had been totally upended. Unbelievable. And sickening.

There were football games cancelled, and emergency responders from all over the area converging on Wayne. My friend from church had just been there the Sunday before to watch her granddaughter play softball for Morningside at Wayne State. She thought it was a very nice town, and I said it would be the other one in Nebraska I would have retired in. Now, it had been hit, and hit hard!

The next morning, there was more: the airport, the pillow factory, some homes south of town. There was Traci Krusemark, whose family had all been in the basement while their house was demolished. (And people wonder why we insist on houses with basements in Nebraska.) Every time I saw more, I sobbed more. I could not stop crying.

By: Pat Meierhenry

A friend who is a district rep for John Deere in York County was told to be in Wayne on Saturday morning. The Lutheran High football team went on Sunday. Friends and neighbors are shown raking, hauling, stacking. So much debris! Where will it all go?

As Traci said, "That's what people in Nebraska do; they pitch in." And, of course, in the light of no fatalities, we can all say a prayer of thanksgiving.

On Thursday eve, the Norfolk football game over here on Seacrest field had been interrupted by lightning. That night, the weather alert sounded here in Lincoln, and we learned that a tornado had touched down east of Hickman. Since it has been nine years since it destroyed the town of Hallam and Norris school, we know that is a tornado area. But not in October, and not in Wayne!

A friend and I are talking about going to see Celtic Thunder when they play here at the Lied. The tickets are kind of pricey. Since we each lost a parent and a brother in the past year, we have decided to pay the price and go! As she said, "we may not be here next year."

I know we should live each day as if it is our last; certainly, 25 years in hospice should have taught me that. But, somehow, we never think it will happen to us. We have learned, too, that one of the Big Farmer's cousins has lost their home to the flood waters in Colorado. But, again, no lives lost.

Wayne will rebuild. I know that. You will grieve, and you will pick up and move on. Because that is what folks in Nebraska do! God bless!

Dealing with storm damaged trees

By STEVE RASMUSSEN
Nebraska Forest Service
District Forester

Last week's tornado dealt Wayne's homes, businesses and trees a hard punch.

In areas of the direct hit from the tornado, trees were either snapped off or completely stripped of their branches. These trees are easy to recognize as needing to be removed.

However, in locations away from the direct damage of the tornado, assessing the trees and determining the appropriate actions to take with the tree is more difficult. Three primary factors to consider when trying to assess the damage to the tree and subsequent removal or pruning needs include: the amount and type of damage, the size / age of the tree and whether there is a "target" in the vicinity of the tree.

1. The amount of damage is usually the first indicator of whether the tree can be "saved" or should be removed. As a rule of thumb, if there is more than 50 percent of the tree affected with broken branches and major stem damage, then the tree will have a very difficult time recovering from this large loss of photosynthesis (food making) capability and sealing off large wounds. Cracked limbs will be most likely to fail in the future with snow or ice weight or wind storms.

If there are large cracks in the trunk or with large branches, then the tree should be removed. Also, if the tree has a lean caused from the winds this will most likely indicate damage to the root system and perhaps an unstable base. If the new lean is more than 15 percent and toward a "target", then the tree should probably be removed.

2. The size of the tree (may or may not be an indicator of age) and this makes a difference on the safety of the tree. Obviously smaller trees less than 25 feet tall will be less dangerous to leave and try to let the tree recover. The taller the tree, the more dangerous it is to leave in the landscape if it is damaged. Also, younger trees will be able to recover from damage more quickly, have smaller wounds to seal over and could be salvaged with pruning work. Pruning off damaged branches may be done to help the tree.

3. The location of a "target" that could be hit with the failure of the tree is another important consideration. If the damaged tree is within the height distance to a home or building, in an area of frequent use, or within falling distance of important power lines, then the tree is a higher candidate for removal for safety reasons compared to a tree in the back yard away from these "targets".

Other guides and considerations include:

– Safety should be the priority at all times. Use caution in and around trees during and after extreme weather as falling limbs and debris may pose a hazard long after the storm has passed.

– When inspecting trees for storm damage, look for splits or cracks in the trunk and major limbs, as well as disturbed soil around the trunk. This indicates a possible structural problem.

– Do not climb a damaged tree to remove limbs or attempt any type of clean-up on a tree that is leaning or has a split trunk or branches. These tasks are best left to professionals with proper equipment.

– Never remove or trim branches that are interfering with power lines. Instead, contact your local power company.

– If branches have been broken off, prune/trim back to the branch attachment with a smooth cut just outside the branch collar. No wood dressing or "tree paint" is needed.

– Say "no thank you" to anyone who offers to top your tree. Professional foresters and certified arborists agree that topping harms trees and increases the likelihood of structural problems, as well as a tree's recovery time after a storm.

– Check staking and guying materials around newly planted trees. With high winds associated with storms, young trees may need to be straightened and restaked to stabilize the root ball and prevent further damage.

– Do not fertilize damaged trees.

– If the tree is removed, plant a new tree back to replace the lost benefits from the removed tree. Although the removed tree is a "loss", it is also an opportunity to locate a new tree, add diversity into the landscape and contribute a positive addition for the next generation to enjoy. Plant a tree back into the landscape if one is removed.

We have some very good tree pruning and tree planting information at the UNL – Extension & Nebraska Forest Service office in the basement of the Wayne courthouse for tree owners.

Red Cross offering assistance from Wayne tornado

The American Red Cross provided assistance with food, clothing, comfort and care to the communities of Wayne and Macy following the devastating EF4 tornado on Friday night.

A Red Cross emergency response vehicle was in Wayne earlier this week, with trained volunteers driving through the community providing meals, snacks and water to homeowners who have been impacted, volunteers and first responders.

Red Cross volunteers from Wayne, other areas of Nebraska and southwest Iowa worked together to help staff the resource center at the National Guard Armory in Wayne. Various community volunteers and groups had been working outdoors.

Tina Labellarte, Nebraska/Southwest Iowa Region CEO, thanked 211 staff and volunteers for helping coordinate information for volunteers over the past couple of days and noted that real-time needs are now being coordinated locally. A Tornado Relief Hotline has been established by the City of Wayne at (402) 833-1800, offering an easy way to register to volunteer or report a need for help in clean-up efforts.

"Wayne community leaders are a strong team making great decisions in difficult times. All the community volunteers are doing a great job, including those from churches, schools, Red Cross and other helping agencies," said Labellarte. The American Red Cross Wayne office at 106 W. 3rd St., Wayne, as well as the resource center at the Armory will be open from 8 a.m.-6:30 p.m. daily. Red Cross may be reached locally at (402) 375-5209.

People can make a donation to support Red Cross Disaster Relief by visiting www.redcross.org, calling (800) 733-2767 or texting the word REDCROSS to 90999 to make a $10 donation. Donations will be added to your mobile phone bill or deducted from your prepaid account.

Contributions may also be sent to someone's local Red Cross chapter or to the American Red Cross, P.O. Box 37243, Washington, DC 20013.

Due to unforeseen mechanical and structural issues, Laurel Volunteer Rescue and the City of Laurel has had to purchase a new secondary ambulance to adequately cover the area. Donations would be appreciated and can be made at Security Bank in Laurel.

Wayne, Nebraska
October 1, 2013

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session at 9:15 a.m. on Tuesday, October 1, 2013, in the upstairs conference room of the Courthouse.

Roll call was answered by Chairman Burbach, Members Larson and Rabe, and County Clerk Finn.

Advance notice of this meeting was published in the Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on September 19, 2013.

A current copy of the Open Meetings Act was posted in the meeting room and accessible to the public.

The 9:30 a.m. appointment was removed from the agenda and the amended agenda was approved on motion by Rabe, second by Larson. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

The minutes of the September 17, 2013, meeting were approved as printed in the Commissioner's Record.

Assessor Duffy told the board the half-day position in her office wasn't working well with their schedule; she asked if the individual working ½ days in the Assessor's office and ½ days in the Road's office could work 4 full-days a week in the Assessor's office, and possibly become full-time.

The board questioned why the office needed to go from 2 ½ employees to four employees in a year. Duffy said they have a large program upgrade coming, and many things have come up that were not anticipated. Duffy also noted that the office had four employees at times in the past.

The part-time position will be changed to 3 full-days per week in the Assessor's office, and 2 full-days per week in the Road's office. The position will then be re-evaluated in ninety days.

The Wayne Farmer's Market would like to have a beer sampling during the Market on October 17th or 24th. Bill Melena requested permission to conduct the sampling on the courthouse grounds. The board was concerned with the precedent this would set, especially since numerous couples get married at the courthouse. They suggested the Farmer's Market consider different locations for beer sampling.

Phil Lorenzen of D.A. Davidson & Company provided information on using Rural Road Improvement Districts or a voter approved bond issue for road/bridge construction financing.

The county could pledge Highway Allocation funds for current road maintenance and capital improvement projects.

Projects would need to be completed and certified by the Engineer before the permanent bonds could be issued.

The process would be:

1. When construction contracts have been approved and engineering and construction pay requests are pending the County would authorize Bond Anticipation Notes.

2. Upon completion and certification by the Engineer, the county would issue its permanent longer-term bonds.

As projects are completed bonds will be issued, which could be Fall of 2014. The first bond payment would occur in FY2015/16

The issuance of bonds using Highway Allocation funds to make the bond payments would be the best option for the county. The budget will be reviewed to determine how this could be done without raising the tax dollar request or going over the restricted funds lid.

Culvert quotes for Project C-90(555) located on 572nd Ave, Mile 850, 4.0 miles east and 1.8 miles south of Winside were opened and reviewed. Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to accept the quote of $19,820.00 submitted by B's Enterprises. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Culvert quotes for Project C-90 (590), located on 852nd Rd, Mile 561, 4.0 miles north and 0.1 mile west of Hoskins were opened and reviewed. Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to accept the quote of $15,420.00 submitted by B's Enterprises. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

The residents of Beverly Hills Estates Subdivision had asked how much the county would charge to provide road maintenance and snow removal services in their subdivision. They also wanted to know if a culvert would be installed so that LA Drive could be extended to the county road. The board does not accept the dedication of streets in private subdivisions, so the subdivision is responsible for their own street maintenance. The board had considered preparing an interlocal agreement with the residents of Beverly Hills Estates Subdivision to provide services for a fee, but after further discussion, they unanimously decided not to provide services of this sort to private subdivisions.

A proposed Interlocal Agreement with Cuming County for bridge replacement, Project C-90(547), located 9,700 feet east of Nebraska Highway 15 and 846 Road, was reviewed. The agreement states that Wayne County and Cuming County will split the costs of preliminary engineering, construction materials, construction labor and supervision of construction. Wayne County will install the culvert pipes with county forces. Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to approve the agreement. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

A proposal from Robert Woehler & Sons Construction, Inc. to remove the existing septic tank at the Noxious Weed Control building and to install service to the new city sewer line on Chief's Way was reviewed. Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to accept the proposal submitted by Robert Woehler & Sons Construction, Inc. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Fee Reports: None.

ReTree Nebraska

President Curt Frye of Wayne State College was among individuals planting trees during the ReTree WSC tree planting on Sept. 26 to celebrate Nebraska ReTree Week. Honorary tree planters and volunteers planted five trees on the Wayne State College campus. Wayne State College volunteers joined other ReTree Nebraska volunteers who were expected to plant an estimated 500 shade trees during ReTree Nebraska's fall planting initiative. The five trees provided to Wayne State College were awarded by a ReTree Nebraska mini grant funded by the Nebraska Environmental Trust, a beneficiary of the Nebraska Lottery. The theme of ReTree Nebraska Week, Sept. 22-28, was "Plant it Forward."

Willow Bowl dedication

President Curt Frye (right) congratulates Alumnus Irv Hoffbauer '51 at the dedication of the renovation of the Willow Bowl, Sept. 27, on the Wayne State College campus. Hoffbauer provided funds to hire the architect to develop the reconstruction plan. The Willow Bowl, completed in 1938, evolved from what was originally a campus lake completed in 1922, which for two years allowed Wayne State students to ice skate in the winter and swim in the summer. The Willow Bowl was constructed using the broken cement from the pond and mortar to form the stage and seating of the amphitheatre.
