WSC researcher says Wayne 'dodged a bullet'

Dr. Jason Karsky, who teaches Emergency Management at Wayne State College, conducted an analysis that revealed the Wayne area tornado rates as a Disaster Category 3 (DC 3) on a scale of 1 to 10.

Karsky has been conducting research on the impact of the Wayne tornado since it struck on Oct. 4. The tornado ripped through rural areas south of Wayne before making its way through the eastern portion of the community. The National Weather Service determined that wind speeds reached 170 MPH.

In his research, Karsky was able to determine the social impact of the disaster by utilizing Fischer's Disaster Scale, which was developed by sociologist Henry Fischer after the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks.

"What the research really reveals is that Wayne dodged a bullet. I don't want to think about what life would be like if the tornado ripped through the heart of the city. On the DC 10 end of the scale, communities face complete annihilation," Karsky said.

"What I like about this scale is it goes well beyond substantiating impact based on wind speed, injuries, or number of buildings compromised. At the heart of the analysis is an investigation into community disruption and readjustment after the tornado," Karsky said.

The DC 3 rating comes from a couple of key components. Social adjustment after the storm was affected to the point that adherence to normal routines was compromised for a significant number of individuals in the community. However, the impact of the tornado, while it did destroy some homes, mostly compromised businesses in the industrial park area of the community.

"This tornado rated high on the scale because of the severity and high on duration because of the perceived time to recover," Karsky said. "The silver lining is that the tornado was partial in scope, it wasn't widespread and a significant portion of the community did not experience long-lasting disruption."

"While the utilization of the scale isn't perfect, it definitely helps us wrap our heads around what happened here," Karsky said. "This rating in no way diminishes the struggles I know people are facing who have been injured, or lost their homes and/or jobs. I feel for those people. But what it does tell us is that this event could have been much worse, and we should be thankful for what we do have left."

Benefit concerts to be held

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

He's not Don Kirschner or Doc McGhee, but Nick Haase is helping out his community by setting up two benefit concerts this weekend.

The concerts, set for Friday at the Wayne City Auditorium and Saturday at the Knights of Columbus Hall, are benefit efforts for the Wayne Tornado Relief Fund to help those who were impacted by the Oct. 4 tornado that hit the east edge of town.

Tickets for the $10 show are available at the door, and the doors open both nights at 6 p.m. Each concert runs from 7 p.m.-1 a.m. with its own lineup that features acts with at least one member who is a native of either Wayne or Norfolk.

"I kept seeing on the news how the town got hit, and not a lot was said about the people living outside of town, so wanted to do something to give back to the farmers and businesses on the edge of town," Haase said.

Haase's family was one of several rural families whose houses were damaged by the storm, and after making connections with friends in the Norfolk area, they quickly put together a two-night musical event that will bring a number of area acts to Wayne and Norfolk.

The 10th annual Balloon Days Festival in Wakefield brought out a lot of bright lights and color. Saturday's evening glow event was full of bright lights and colors and balloon enthusiasts put on a great show as dusk fell on the community.

Auto parts business enjoys local support

By KATIE KASL
Of The Herald

When Jeanne Lindsay married her husband Larry, she not only gained her other half but a $49,107.28 auto parts business.

"I got him, and I got the works," she laughed.

But, as it turns out, the couple wouldn't have it any other way.

After 44 years at Wayne Auto Parts, the Lindsays could call it quits. They could be clinking glasses over supper every evening, instead of Larry putting in regular 11-hour days.

Their reason for staying, however,

$49,107.28: they truly enjoy what they do.

"We hope to be here as long as our health lets us," Jeanne said.

When the day comes that the Lindsays can no longer run the store, they plan to pass it on to their son Daryl, the third of five total employees at Wayne Auto Parts.

"We're strictly a family-owned business," Larry said.

Originally located at 210 Main Street, where Rustic Treasures is today, the shop opened its doors on November 3, 1969. It operated there for a year and a half before the Lindsays bought their current place, a building on the corner of South Main Street and Fairgrounds Avenue, and moved south. Their 44th anniversary, interestingly, will fall on the only day of the week, a Sunday, that they aren't open.

New FY sees drop in sales tax receipts

October has almost always been a good month for sales tax receipts collection in the city of Wayne.

This month was an exception to the rule, however, as the city's share of receipts for the first month of fiscal year 2013-14 was down compared to the same time last year.

City finance director Nancy Braden said the city brought in $49,107.28 in sales receipts from sales made in August, a drop of 16 percent from the same time period last fiscal year. The number is more than $3,000 below what the city was projecting as a monthly average, based on 2 percent growth from the previous year.

The last time October's receipts were lower than the previous year was in fiscal year 2006-2007. A dip from the previous October was also noted in fiscal year 2002-2003.

WAYNE HIGH TEAMS GO TROPHY HUNTING

It was a great week to be a Blue Devil in the world of high school sports, as Wayne High added a couple more trophies to their collection. The softball team (left) came home with a Class C state runner-up trophy after three days of softball in Hastings, and the girls cross country team (right) ran their way to a district championship and earned a trip to state this week in Kearney. Witness to life

The 17th annual Life Chain, organized by the Tri-County Right to Life group was held recently in Wayne. This year's event was rescheduled due to the tornado that struck Wayne on Oct. 4. Those attending spent an hour in prayer and held signs promoting the messages "Abortion kills children" and "Adoption is the loving option." Due to the rescheduling and numerous other activities scheduled for that day, the number of participants in this year's event were somewhat lower than normal. Above, Ben Klein holds his sign during the hour of prayer.

Auto Parts

Larry, who worked for a competitor for almost 9 years before Wayne Auto Parts was born, has been in the business for over half a century. In the years he's been running his own place, he's serviced two – now going on three – generations of customers. He's also seen the advent of modern technologies, and, when computers replaced the business' card files, something that filled the desks in Jeanne and Larry's office, the Lindsays breathed a sigh of relief.

"It was a full-time job for one person," Larry said. "We went to a computer system, and that eliminated that part."

Now, all their ordering, inventory-management and accounting is done electronically; and the technology has afforded the Lindsays the added bonus of having an endless supply of automotive necessities at, quite literally, their fingertips. Though independently-owned, Wayne Auto Parts is a CARQUEST company, meaning it has access to 37 warehouses across the country and can have parts delivered quickly – often times overnight.

"Our inventory has expanded tremendously over the years," Larry said, adding that the business can service cars, light and heavy trucks and farm equipment. It also has machine shop service and caters to commercial accounts, as well as smaller DIY accounts.

Last March, the Lindsays remodeled the front of their store to make it "more user-friendly," Larry said; and, in the process, created "a room for when you know what you're looking for," his wife added.

Jeanne took pictures of the process, collecting a total of 200 different shots that she compiled into a before-and-after album. She made a copy for Daryl, and the collection of photos, though only representative of a small portion of Wayne Auto Parts' history, is also proof of the pride the Lindsays take in their business.

McDermott remembers WSC days at Meet the 'Cats benefit

By RICHARD RHODEN
Of the Herald

It was a chance to build new relationships while rekindling old ones dating back almost two decades.

Wayne State College hosted the first Meet the 'Cats night at the National Guard Armory Sunday evening, and the guest speaker was none other than former Wildcat coach and current Creighton Bluejays leader Greg McDermott.

McDermott became the head coach of Wayne State in 1994, and after collecting 116 victories, two NCAA tournament appearances and even hosting a regional at Rice Auditorium, left after the 2000 season.

But he was able to build plenty of relationships with people in Wayne that have outlasted the years.

"I have a ton of friends here, people that were very helpful to me during that part of my life, besides being supportive to my professional career they were also great to my family," he said. "Those relationships don't die, and it is good to come and re-connect with some of those folks."

McDermott still has a deep connection with the town of Wayne, and he made that clear throughout his talk.

"Wayne is a special place to me, and I wouldn't be where I am at today if it wasn't for the support from Wayne State," McDermott said in his speech.

McDermott had a clear and inspirational message for the men's and women's basketball teams, pulling stories from prior experiences as well as characteristics he looks for in players to be successful.

Former Wayne State coach and current Creighton men's basketball coach Greg McDermott was the guest speaker at the first "Meet the 'Cats" benefit held Sunday at the Wayne Armory.

He talked about the dangers of social media, the importance of practice and work ethic, as well as the importance of discipline and expecting to win.

McDermott mentioned that despite being away from Wayne for a number of years, he still checks in on the sports programs here, looking at the NSIC standings weekly and following closely to Wayne State athletics. He told the players during his speech that someone is always watching you, whether you know it or not.

McDermott also used his son Doug as an example of what hard work and dedication can get you. He described Doug as being the fifth-best player on his sophomore team in high school, the same high school as Wildcat senior forward Ellen Hansen and Golden State Warriors forward Harrison Barnes. Four years later, as a sophomore at Creighton, Doug was a first-team All-American.

McDermott reminisced on his time here at Wayne State and how much things have changed from then to now.

"I can remember being at The Max, the coaches would be at one end of the bar and the players would be at the other half," McDermott said about the different time periods.

"That probably doesn't exist anymore anyway, but there was just a great bond between our team and the community."

Softballers a fun story to follow

Looking back on more than 30 years in the newspaper business, I thought I'd covered it all when it came to state tournament teams.

I've watched dominating teams roll through their opponents and make a state championship look easy. I've seen teams come, literally, from nowhere to win it all.

I've seen teams with all the talent in the world fall flat on their faces, and I've seen teams that should have won come up short because of everything from bad calls to that oh-so-fickle hand of fate.

I'd seen it all — or so I thought.

Those who made the trip to Hastings for the State Softball Championships saw a lot of outstanding talent play on the fields at the Smith Softball Complex. But when it comes to a great story, what the Wayne Blue Devils executed was priceless.

Two weeks before last Friday's championship game, the Blue Devils' home field was turned into a pile of twisted metal, shattered glass and snapped tree limbs. They were looking forward to having home-field advantage at districts — only to see their home park devastated by an EF-4 tornado.

Playing districts on a neutral field in Wisner, the girls came up short in their hopes for a 10th district title in 11 trips to state, having to settle for a wild card after losing twice to Guardian Angels Central Catholic. With that double-dose of downer going into the tournament, one had to wonder just how this team would react to the emotional weight that the previous two weeks' events had brought.

How they reacted was — what is the word I'm looking for here — incredible? No . . . amazing. Nah . . . how about SOOOOOOOO incredibly amazing?

This team came up with one big play after another and cheated tournament death so many times, you had to wonder if the Blue Devil logo needed to be replaced with a black cat. Nine lives? It seemed like each player had nine lives and was willing to give one up just when the team needed it.

The bottom of the order came through with key RBI's to open the tournament against Fillmore Central on Wednesday. Thursday morning, the defense got out of a bases-loaded, nobody-out jam in the bottom of the seventh to extend a game against Wahoo that they would eventually lose in the eighth.

Later that day, they were two outs away from a fourth consecutive loss to those dreaded GACC Bluejays when Nicole Craft came through with a three-run homer to send the game into extra innings. An inning later, freshman pitcher Hannah Belt got out of a bases-loaded jam to extend the game, and Lauren Gilliland capped a six-run ninth inning with a sacrifice fly that didn't seem to be that important — until GACC put up five in the bottom of the ninth before finally being eliminated.

Then, there was Friday morning's rematch with a Bishop Neumann team that had beaten Wayne earlier in the year. Everybody in Wahoo figured on an all-Wahoo final between the public and parochial schools in town — that is, until Wayne came to bat in the first inning.

It seemed Wayne would be on easy street after that seven-run explosion, but the Blue Devils had to figure out a way to come back after the Cavaliers launched THREE bombs in the third to turn a seven-run deficit into a one-run advantage.

And then there was Wayne, once again looking for that last-minute call from the governor, when Neumann's shortstop somehow missed the bag at second base on what would have been a season-ending force out at second. Two pitches later, Rylee Bessmer snaked a single through the defense to give Wayne a one-run lead.

Neumann would tie it and send it

Never say die for runners-up

Softball team plays three extra-inning games, takes second in state tournament

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

HASTINGS — It's been a wild rollercoaster ride these last two weeks for the Wayne High softball team.

Less than three weeks ago, the place any Wayne girl who has played softball called their home away from home was leveled by an EF-4 tornado that not only destroyed the Wayne Softball Complex, but forced the NSAA to move the district tournament Wayne was scheduled to host to Wisner.

Then, for just the second time in 11 trips to state, the Blue Devils had to wait for a wild card after losing the C-3 district final to Guardian Angels Central Catholic.

All the bumps in the road were worth it, though, because the Blue Devils came through and played some impressive softball in the Class C State Softball Championships last week in Hastings, coming away with the team's third state runner-up finish in the program's 12-year history, losing 10-6 to Wahoo in the championship game Friday at the Smith Softball Complex.

As the teams shook hands following the final out, the tears were evident on the faces of the players, particularly the four seniors who were hoping to cap their final season with a state championship. But whether those tears were from disappointment or merely the final release of emotion from a heart-wrenching three days of softball is anybody's guess.

"It's really been up and down," a tired coach Rob Sweetland said after his team received the second-place trophy and he handed out individual medals. "We had a tornado roll through our complex and districts moved on us, so to get to this game was quite an accomplishment for these kids and says a lot about their character. We had different people come through in different games, and it was a lot of fun."

Sweetland said the team didn't discuss the tornado or not being able to practice on their home field while getting ready for state, and did an excellent job of focusing and correcting some of the mistakes they were making at the end of the regular season.

"It's definitely something these girls are going to remember when they're older, but we didn't talk about it much once districts was over," he said. "We tried to focus on playing well down here and eliminate some of the mistakes we've made, so the tornado itself was more of an afterthought down here than an inspiration."

WAYNE OPENED PLAY ON

Wednesday with a 3-0 shutout of Fillmore Central/Exeter-Milligan, riding the four-hit pitching of freshman Hannah Belt and getting some key hits at the bottom of the lineup to come away with the opening-round win.

Wayne got on the board in the fourth when sophomore Danica Schaefer hit the first of three home runs in the tournament, a solo shot that broke a scoreless tie and gave Wayne some welcome momentum.

That lead would be extended in the sixth when two freshmen, Rylee Bessmer and Kiara Hochstein, knocked back-to-back RBI singles to give Wayne what would be a much-needed three-run edge that would be threatened by the Panthers in the top of the seventh.

Fillmore Central put two runners in scoring position with one out in the seventh before Belt and the Wayne defense got out of the jam to end the game. Having a three-run cushion helped ease some of the tension the girls were facing.

"Those two runs in the sixth were huge for us," Sweetland said. "If we don't score, they've got two on in the seventh in a 1-0 game, and that's a different situation. It was good to get those insurance runs and give Playoff win.

It was three days full of nail-biting finishes, epic blasts and incredible plays for the Wayne High softball team as they came away with a second-place finish in the Class C State Softball Championships in Hastings. In the photo above, Abbie Hix is greeted loudly at home plate by her teammates after hitting a three-run homer to break a 12-12 tie and put Wayne in the championship game. At left, senior shortstop Jaylyn Zeiss reaches as far as she possibly can to try to snare a line drive during the Blue Devils' opening-round win.

LCC (1-6) vs. Homer (1-6)

Friday, 7 p.m. at Homer

It's been a tough go for the Bears this season, as they have played one of the toughest schedules in all of Class C2 this season. After facing solid teams like Battle Creek, Lutheran High, West Holt and Hartington CC, this will be just the ticket to end the season on the right note.

Allen (2-5) vs. Winnebago (4-3)

Friday, 7 p.m. at Winnebago

Eagles won an exciting and emotional battle on homecoming Saturday against Pender to put themselves in position for a possible trip to the playoffs. Standing in their way is a high-octane offensive unit from Winnebago that needs a win to improve their playoff standing.

Wayne (5-3) vs. Norfolk Cath. (5-2)

Thursday, 7 p.m. at Memorial Field (Norfolk)

Wayne could upgrade from a first-round road game to a — get this — first-round home game for the playoffs. Norfolk Catholic is still stinging from a loss to rival Pierce, and with the possibility of the Knights actually going on the road for the playoffs, don't expect the Blue Devils to catch their hosts asleep at the switch.

Wakefield (2-5) vs. Ponca (3-4)

Thursday, 7 p.m. at Ponca

Wakefield's offense has been heating up the past few weeks, and now the Trojans have a chance at making the playoffs if they can win one on the road. Last year, the Trojans beat the Indians to win the district title. Can they beat Ponca again and get another postseason trip? Yip . . .

Wayne St. (2-5) vs. Conc.-SP (3-4)

Saturday, 1 p.m. at Memorial Stadium

The friendly confines of Bob Cunningham Field at Memorial Stadium have been a little TOO friendly for opposing teams. Three of the Wildcats' five losses this season are at home, and the Wildcats have lost 7 of 9 home games dating back to the 2011 Egg Bowl. Concordia-St. Paul is hoping to continue that trend of visiting teams coming away with a win — fat chance of that happening THIS weekend.

coach Rocky Ruhl said. "I thought the kids really stepped up and ran a great race."

"We came over from Wayne in 60-degree weather and get over here and there's cloud cover and it's windy, but our kids stepped past that and ran a great race."

Cassie Heier was just behind Pulfer in third place with a time of 21:07, Angie Nelson came in 13th place in a time of 22:06, while Molly Burbach ran to a 16th place finish in a time of 22:25.

Mandy Stabler and Marissa Munsell rounded out the Blue Devil squad with 30th and 31st place finishes with times of 23:30 and 23:38, respectively.

"I'm very proud of them. They always came to practice and worked hard, never complained, they pushed each other and are very positive," Ruhl said.

As a team, the Blue Devils finished atop the standings, collecting 33 points. Boone Central came in second with 35 points while Norfolk Catholic snagged the third and final team position for state with 49 points.

"We know our work is cut out for us. Columbus Scotus is the most dominant in all classes this year and it will take a great effort from us to try and knock them off," Ruhl said. "When we go to state we want to try and bring home some hardware but we would really like to get into the top three."

Ben Hoskins was the top finisher for the Blue Devil boys' team, taking a 13th place finish and earning a trip to the state meet as well. Hoskins finished with a time of 18:41 while fighting an injury bug along the way.

"We are going to get him healed up, and hope he can get into the top 15 area," Ruhl said.

Nolan Reynolds finished 27th in a time of 19:21, Luke Pulfer was 30th in 19:30, Jared Peterson finished 31st in 19:31, Bryce Sebade was 34th in a time of 19:41 and Cole Leonard rounded out the Blue Devils in 45th with a time of 20:19.

The team finished sixth overall, missing out on a trip to the state meet. Fort Calhoun won with 34, Boone Central was second with 48 and O'Neill was third with 68. Wayne finished sixth with 101.

"They gave everything they had. We knew it would be tough, but we fought to the bitter end," Ruhl said.

to extra innings, but then it was Abbie Hix to the rescue, as her three-run dinger sent Wayne to the finals and another rematch, this time against Wahoo.

Wayne's adrenaline got them off to a fast start against Wahoo, but before long, it was clear that there was nothing left in the tank. The team without a home field became a team of destiny at this year's state tournament.

They received plenty of well-wishing pats on the back from many of the fans at the state tournament who offered their sympathies after the Oct. 4 tornado. Fans from Fillmore Central presented Laura Gamble, mother of senior outfielder/pitcher Kendall Gamble, with a card and money to go toward the softball rebuilding project. Grand Island Northwest's team offered use of their field for practice the day before the tournament, then became their surrogate fan club and ignited the Wayne cheering section with their enthusiasm and cheers.

There were tears after the 10-6 loss to Wahoo in the finals, but it was hard to tell if they were tears of disappointment or just an extreme emotional release over what these young ladies have experienced the last two weeks. With all these girls have been through in the month of October, that they made it this far was a wonderful and amazing story that ended one step short of perfection.

But never mind the silver medals and the runner-up trophy – these young ladies and their coaches showed the heart and character of champions from start to finish these past two weeks. Coach Rob Sweetland and assistants Dave Hix and Kevin Hill kept his team on an even keel all the way through this tournament. If there was any quit in these girls, it was never exhibited between the lines or in the dugout.

And the way this team competed was something that the entire community can be proud of. From the senior leaders who have been such outstanding examples on the field to the young guns who will be called on to fill those shoes the seniors will leave behind, it was the kind of complete team effort that makes for a great story – especially when you consider all this team has been through the last couple of weeks.

Replacing an amazing four-year starter like Zeiss and outstanding leaders like Kranz, Gamble and Gilliland will be tough, but there are quality younger players who can step into those positions and keep Wayne's tradition of success on the softball diamond rolling along.

The only thing that will be impossible to replace, though, will be the journey this team took fans on this past season. It's the kind of story we're not likely to see happen again in these parts.

But, then again, I've been wrong before.

us a little breathing room."

THURSDAY MORNING WAS a frigid start to the day, but the Blue Devils and top-seeded Wahoo warmed up their bats in a hurry for the first of three extra-inning games the Blue Devils would play in the tournament.

Wahoo struck first with a run in the bottom of the first, but Wayne got two runs in the third when Jacylyn Zeiss and Victoria Kranz both notched RBI hits.

Wayne countered with runs in the third and fourth to take the lead, but Wayne came through with a big inning in the fifth, scoring five runs to take command.

Abbie Hix got the big inning going with an RBI double, Schaefer slapped a long two-run single, and Bessmer reached an error that brought two more runs home to give Wayne a 7-3 advantage.

But Wahoo took advantage of some shaky pitching in the sixth to score four runs and tie the game, then were in position to win it in regulation when they loaded the bases with nobody out before Belt struck out two batters and got Wayne out of the jam.

"That was a tough one," Sweetland said. "We had three or four walks in that big inning they had, and we probably should have went ahead and walked that girl who hit the big double, even with the bases loaded. We had opportunities after that, but we just stopped scoring, and you can't do that at state, especially against a team like Wahoo."

HAVING LOST THREE IN A ROW to Guardian Angels Central Catholic in the previous two weeks, the Blue Devils were staring a fourth straight loss and tournament elimination dead in the face when Nicole Craft came through with a big hit.

Craft had been struggling at the plate in the tournament but delivered a tournament-saving blow with one out in the top of the seventh, as her three-run shot helped Wayne get the game to extra innings and eventually eliminate their fellow Mid State Conference foes in a wild 12-11, nine-inning battle.

The game was scoreless until Kranz launched a two-run homer to center to get Wayne on the board. The Bluejays answered with five runs in the bottom of the inning and were two outs away from sending Wayne home when Craft tied up the game with her first tournament home run.

After both teams blew chances to win it in the eighth, Wayne came through with a monster ninth inning, scoring five runs before recording an out. RBI singles by Bessmer, Hochstein and Zeiss, along with a two-run double by Kranz, made it 11-6.

But it was a one-out sacrifice fly by Lauren Gilliland that would prove to be the most important run of the game, as the Bluejays came back with five in the bottom of the ninth before Wayne finally got the final out and survived the 11-6 edge.

"We had a runner on third and five in, and I said we needed that last one, and Lauren came through with that sacrifice fly that ended up being the game-winner," Sweetland said.

Kranz was 3-for-5 in the win over GACC, while Zeiss, Hix, Gilliland and Craft each had two hits. Belt struck out 11 and walked four to get the win in the circle.

BY COMPARISON TO THE first two games of the day, Wayne's 8-2 elimination win over first-time tournament participant Southern was something of a breather.

Zeiss took the first pitch of the game over the wall for a home in the bottom of the first, Hix added another solo shot, and Wayne jumped out to a quick lead and used that momentum to eliminate the Raiders.

Senior Kendall Gamble pitched a masterful five-hitter to get Wayne into Friday's winner-take-all session, striking out three and keeping Southern's bats silent for most of the night.

"The way we won this last one of the day was a lot better and the kids played well," Sweetland said. "Kendall pitched a heck of a game and got us a lot of ground balls, and it was good to see the girls putting some good swings on the ball and going up there with some confidence."

Zeiss had three of Wayne's 12 hits in the win, while Kranz, Hix and Schaefer each had two.

WAYNE CAME OUT WITH some smoking-hot bats on Friday morning against Neumann, hitting like a team that wanted to take home a trophy really bad.

Wayne plated 11 batters in the opening inning and saw seven of them come home to score. Schaefer hit her second home run of the tournament in the inning, and her two-run blast was complemented by a two-run single by Gilliland that gave Wayne a 7-0 lead before Neumann had a chance to bat.

It took a few innings, but the Cavaliers showed they could play Home Run Derby just as well – by the time they got out of the third inning, they had erased an 8-1 deficit by hitting three home runs, including a grand slam, to turn it around and lead 9-8.

Gilliland hit her first career home run in the fifth to give Wayne a 10-9 lead, but Neumann came back to take an 11-10 lead and appeared to have won the game when Nicole Craft's ground ball was hit to the shortstop, who tried to make the final out on a force play at second base.

There was just one problem – she missed the bag and Schaefer got there in time to keep the rally going.

After a passed ball moved the runners, Bessmer hit a two-run single that dribbled up the middle to give Wayne a 12-11 edge.

Neumann homered with one out in the seventh to tie the game and send it to extra innings, but Hix came up with the deciding blast in the eighth, launching a three-run missile over the wall as Wayne hung on for a 15-12, eight-inning win that guaranteed them a trophy with a trip to the finals.

Wayne out-hit Neumann 19-14 in the final game in the losers bracket, with Schaefer going 4-for-5 and Gilliland and Hix each recording three hits and four RBI's. Hix scored three times and Gamble also had three hits and two runs.

Belt and Gamble combined in the pitcher's circle, with Belt getting the win in relief after re-entering for Gamble, who replaced her in the fourth. The two combined to strike out 13 in the win.

WAYNE'S EMOTIONAL RUN fueled another fast start, but the team didn't have anything left in the tank in the finals for their rematch with Wahoo.

Wayne scored four runs in the first inning, as Gilliland brought Zeiss home with a bunt single, Schaefer added an RBI double and Bessmer brought a run home with a groundout. Wahoo would jump on the exhausted Blue Devils, though, scoring eight runs in the first four innings and getting a pair of insurance runs in the sixth to bring Wayne's 29-9 season to a close.

Even though they trailed after a three-run third inning, Wayne managed to keep things close. Zeiss had an RBI single in the fifth to make it 7-5, and after Wahoo added another run, Schaefer finished off a 4-for-4 day with her third home run, as the solo shot pulled Wayne back within two at 8-6 before Wahoo put the game out of reach.

"I thought, if we could stay out of the big inning we'd be OK, but I knew they were a good hitting team, and we needed to go punch-for-punch with them," Sweetland said. "When you play so many games and so many innings the last couple of days, I think the kids just ran out of gas."

Still, it was quite a run for the Blue Devils, who added the 2013 runner-up trophy to runner-up finishes in 2007 and 2009 and the back-to-back championship teams of 2003-2004 in the school's trophy case and leave the team with a lot of exciting memories.

"When they're older, they'll talk about how we were up and down and came back, but they're going to have a lot of memories of this one," Sweetland said. "Everybody had a role in our wins down here, and I think everybody can go back not totally satisfied but proud of what they did."

Wayne State volleyball gets payback on Augustana

The No. 17 Wayne State volleyball team traveled to Sioux Falls Tuesday evening and got some payback on Augustana, winning in straight sets 28-26, 25-18 and 25-10.

Wayne State's record stands at 16-6 overall and 7-5 in conference action.

After trailing 23-15 in the first set, Wayne State rattled off eight straight to tie the game at 23. After trailing points, with the match tied at 26, the Wildcats used kills from Lexi Malm and Cori Hobbs to win 28-26.

It was smooth sailing the rest of the way for Wayne State, as the second set saw the Wildcats in front for most of the duration, to win 25-18.

Wayne State never trailed in the third set as the Wildcats built a lead of 16-5 before winning the set and the match 25-10.

Hobbs recorded her 15th double-double of the season with 13 digs and 11 kills while Malm added nine kills with four blocks. Alyssa Fraundorfer accumulated nine kills and three blocks and Leisa McClintock recorded 35 set assists. Courtney VanGroningen led the team with 15 digs while Michaela Mestl threw in 12.

Wayne State also won two matches over the past week over Peru State and Upper Iowa, while losing a match with Winona State.

The Wildcats defeated the Bobcats on Wednesday night with 25-4, 25-11 and 25-12 scores. The Wildcats also beat Upper Iowa by 25-10, 25-14 and 25-23 but lost to Winona State 20-25, 25-22, 25-23 and 25-18.

The 1,086 people packed in Rice Auditorium to see the Peru State match were the seventh-largest crowd in school history.

Hobbs notched her 12th double-double of the year with 13 digs and 12 kills. Fraundorfer and Elizabeth Gebhardt added 10 kills apiece.

In the sweep over Upper Iowa, Hobbs once again recorded a double-double with 15 digs and 12 kills to pace the Wildcats.

Wayne State recorded 12 kills in the first set with a .312 hitting percentage to win 25-10.

The Wildcats continued its hitting streak in the second set with 13 more kills and a .382 hitting percentage to win handily 25-14.

Upper Iowa made it difficult in the third set, as the Peacocks led 22-20, but three straight attack errors by Upper Iowa gave Wayne State a 23-22 lead. Two more kills by Wayne State sealed the 25-23 win.

Malm and Gebhardt added six kills to Hobbs' 12. VanGroningen led the team with 16 digs, and McClintock added 29 set assists.

Former Wildcat and current Winona State athletic director Eric Schoh watched as the Warriors won a four-set match over Wayne State.

The Wildcats and Warriors split the first two sets while Winona State was able to grab the advantage in the third set.

Wayne State held a 21-17 lead in the third when Winona scored seven straight to win 25-23.

With the score tied at 13 in the fourth set, Winona State scored seven of nine to take a 20-15 lead and won 25-18.

Malm recorded a career-high 13 kills to lead the Wildcats while Hobbs, Fraundorfer and Gebhardt each added 10. VanGroningen, Hobbs and Mestl scored 21 digs each and Tatum Wroblewski added 14.

Allen defeats Pender on homecoming

The Allen Eagles scored when it counted to pick up a win on homecoming over Pender 40-38 Saturday night at Allen Field.

"The kids earned the win. We could have folded twice under the pressure that they put on us in the third period, but we withstood it, rebounded and took control at the end," coach Dave Uldrich said.

Allen was explosive early, as they raced out to a 20-8 halftime advantage. Brian Boese and Caleb Thomas led the offensive attack, as Thomas scored twice on 20 and four-yard runs, while Cody Thomas added a five-yard scamper.

Pender answered the call entering the second half, as they were able to take a 30-26 lead as the third quarter came to a close.

The Eagles answered twice in the fourth quarter, as they re-gained the lead with 8:42 remaining on a Tayler Kumm to Austin Connot for a five-yard touchdown toss.

The Pendragons scored with 4:41 to go to take a 38-34 lead. The Eagles had one last chance, and they made their way down the field, and with a fourth and three on the Pender nine, Kumm hit Caleb Thomas on a pass to take the lead for good.

Caleb Thomas was the workhorse on the ground for Allen, taking 22 carries for 109 yards. Boese added 65 yards on 12 carries while Austin Connot, Wade Connot and Thomas each caught touchdown passes.

"We only ran the ball outside four times all day, and we were a perfect three of three passing when they got impatient defensively," Uldrich said. "We need to use this momentum to get prepared for our finale."

With the win, the Eagles move to 2-5 and keep its playoff hopes alive. Allen travels to Winnebago this Friday.

"With the right combinations of things, the playoffs are still possible," Uldrich said.

Brian Boese braces for impact from a Pender defensive player in last Saturday's 40-38 victory for Allen's homecoming. Allen's record currently stands at 2-5, and the team still has a slim chance at a playoff berth with the right circumstances falling into place.

Wayne State football drops heartbreaker to Winona State in final minutes 45-41

There was an offensive explosion in Winona Saturday afternoon, and after multiple late-game touchdowns, the Winona State Warriors won their homecoming game 45-41 over Wayne State.

Winona State started the game with a 9-0 lead. The Wildcats were able to use a 47-yard field goal by Tyler Basch with four seconds left in the first quarter to make the score 9-3.

After a Wayne State fumble, Winona State added a touchdown to extend the lead 16-3.

The Wildcats used two touchdowns to grab its first lead of the game 17-16. Zach Osborn hit Adam Stark on a 62-yard touchdown pass, and with 1:04 left in the half, Charlie Davidson ran 27 yards for a touchdown to end a 10-play, 88-yard drive.

Winona State grabbed the half-time lead, however, with a 64-yard touchdown pass that made it to the Wildcat one-yard line. The Warriors scored on the next play to take a 24-17 lead at halftime.

Wayne State began the second half with Basch's second field goal to make the score 24-20.

After a Warrior touchdown, Stark caught his second touchdown of the afternoon on a 17-yard reception to cut the lead to 31-26.

Winona scored again, and Davidson was able to answer with a 57-yard touchdown run with nine seconds remaining in the third quarter to make the score 38-33.

A 20-yard pass from Osborn to Grant Otten, as well as a two point conversion, gave the Wildcats a 41-38 lead with just over a minute left in the game.

That was plenty of time for Winona State, as it only needed one play, a screen pass, to regain the lead 45-41.

With :48 remaining, Wayne State moved the ball to the Winona 44 where Stark caught and fumbled a pass that was recovered by the Warriors to seal the win.

Charlie Davidson was the workhorse for the Wildcats on the ground, rushing for 189 yards on 24 attempts with two touchdowns.

Stark caught nine balls for 162 yards and two touchdowns.

Osborn was 24 of 51 for 318 yards and three touchdowns with one interception.

Wayne edges David City in regular season home finale

By RICHARD RHODEN
Of The Herald

Wayne high's football game on Friday had everything: rain, cold conditions, big hits and tension to the final second.

The Blue Devils overcame a 17-7 deficit entering the fourth quarter and scored two touchdowns to escape Bob Cunningham field with a narrow 20-17 victory over David City.

"It's been our knack all year – making adjustments at the half, and the kids keep fighting, and it pays off in games like this," coach Terry Bear said. "We had kids step up, make some plays, and you get to see a good game."

As the sky spewed rain during the early part of the game, both teams played with a ground-and-pound mentality. It was the last time that Wayne's seniors would take the field at Memorial Stadium in the regular season, and they made the most of it.

"All the seniors did a really good job of stepping up and believing. I'm proud of them," Bear said. "We worked together as a team. I'm proud of the coaches making adjustments and players believing in the plan."

David City got onto the board first with a one-yard touchdown run from Ben Danielson.

The Blue Devils were sparked on the ensuing kickoff with a 64-yard return by Brook Bowers that put the ball inside the David City 10-yard line.

Wayne scored two plays later on a one-yard scamper by Mike Cliff to tie things up at 7-7.

Wayne's defense spent most of the first half on the field, as David City had success running the ball and slowly chipping away on drives.

The Scouts scored again in the second quarter on a two-yard run by Wyatt Kastl to give David City a touchdown advantage 14-7.

Wayne was unable to do much of anything on offense and was forced to punt the ball back to David City.

The Scouts took a 14-7 lead to halftime and only allowed Wayne's offense to run 15 plays total on offense.

from both teams, as David City was able to play keep-away from the Blue Devils while adding a field goal to its lead to take a 17-7 lead into the final quarter.

Jalen Barry and the Wayne offense woke up in the fourth quarter and scored touchdown with a toss from Barry to Jared Anderson of three yards to get within 17-14 with just under five minutes to go.

On Wayne's next offensive possession, the Blue Devils had the same success and capped off the drive with a 19-yard touchdown pass from Barry to Anderson, who made a diving play to help Wayne take its first lead of the game at 20-17 with just under two minutes to play.

David City had one last chance to regain the lead, but their hopes were dashed when a bone-jarring hit from Trevor Pecena put the ball on the turf and it was recovered by Demetrius Alexander to seal the win for the Blue Devils.

"We came off of a hard game against Pierce, but this is a possession team. They're going to keep the ball on the ground, and you could see their strength was not passing," Bear said.

The Blue Devils are now 5-3 and have solidified a non-losing record for the first time in years. Wayne will finish off the regular season with a showdown at Norfolk Catholic.

"We are going to work on stopping the run. They are more versatile than this (David City), but I think we match up well with them, and the kids showed heart and passion, so I'm very proud of them," Bear said.

Wakefield handles Homer, 21-6

WAKEFIELD – After a slow start to the season, the Wakefield Trojans are hitting their stride at just the right time.

The Trojans won for the second straight week on Friday, knocking off Homer 21-6 and putting 2-5 Wakefield in position to defend its district title from a year ago with a win this week at Ponca.

Wakefield scored three times in the first period, getting a pair of touchdown passes from Evan Nicholson and a 25-yard field goal by Heath Greve before adding a late insurance score on a short scoring run by Nicholson.

"It was our best effort of the season, hands down," coach Mike Hessler said of the win. "The boys played a complete game for the first time all season. We executed well on the defensive side of the ball and did enough offensively to win."

The Trojans held Homer to just 176 yards in total offense while the offense put up 274 yards on the night. Hessler said the Trojan defense played well for most of the evening.

"With the exception of one blown coverage, we played an outstanding game on the defensive side of the ball," he said. "I was very proud of our execution. For the first time all season, we had 11 guys doing their job and trusting that their teammates would do theirs, and we did a good job taking away the things Homer needed to do to be successful."

Wakefield showed good balance on offense. Nicholson was 16-of-21 for 151 yards in the air, and Levi Nelson rushed for 105 yards and caught one of Nicholson's two touchdown passes.

"This was the most balanced we've been all year. To rush for more than 100 and pass for more than 150 on a rainy night isn't too bad," Hessler said. "We've found something that works for us, and we are going to keep rolling with it."

The Trojans will face Ponca on Thursday in Ponca, and the winner will get the automatic bid to the state playoffs as the district champion.

"It's for the district title for the second year in a row, and that's what we wanted when the year started," Hessler said. "We'd better strap it up because it will be the most physical game of the year, and we sell out for each other and leave it on the field, I like our chances."

Don't get me started

An ode to those who volunteered

EDITOR'S NOTE – A reader brought in a copy of a column written by former Wayne Herald editor Chuck Hackenmiller back in the late 1980's that was an ode to the married members of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department who had taken their spouse out to a special appreciation dinner back in the day.

Taking into consideration the amazing response the community has seen in the aftermath of the Oct. 4 tornado, as well as the content of Hackenmiller's column, we felt it appropriate to use this space this week to re-run the column as a way of giving thanks – not only to the members of the Wayne Fire Department who gave of themselves in service to the community, but to all of those who had a hand in the effort, from law enforcement to the thousands of volunteers who have helped the community pick up from this devastating event.

The column is written from a wife's perspective, but the sentiment holds true regardless of gender.

Safely Home

One quick glance at the clock. It's getting awful late. As time ticks away, I start to worry about my husband's fate. He'd been gone for hours since that fire whistle blew. Didn't even finish his meal. Just 'out the door' he flew. What kind of fire was it? A car? Chimney? Or shed? Poor guy. Temperature outside's 10 below. Hope he covers his head. Had plans to go out tonight, you know, to a popular movie show. Gee, do you suppose that he's okay? I wish someone would let me know. Another hour quickly gone. Still haven't heard anything yet. He won't come home, I'm sure until all responsibilities are met. There will be washing to do 'cause after he's done facing a fiery hell his clothes will be carrying soot and that lingering smoke smell. Oh, I knew he faces danger each time he answers a call and that I'm supposed to be supportive of everything he does and all. But golly, what if he slipped or lost his way inside a burning building that was collapsing as his breath was being denied. Stop! Don't dwell on the 'what ifs' and think on the positive side of how proud I am of my husband as he heads for the firetruck ride. Because he's doing a great service and fighting without fear, something that could be so deadly. Oh, how I wish that he were here! Another hour passes. Wait! He's back! I see the pickup's light. But I can't let him know that I worried about him tonight. He'll say: "Why are you up? Shouldn't you be sleeping in bed?" You want to say: "thank God you're home!" But settle for a hug instead. No, nobody said it was simple or an easy way of life.

But let me tell you one thing, I'm darn proud to be a fireman's wife.

EDITOR'S NOTE – This letter was forwarded to us from Pastor Ray McCalla at First Presbyterian Church in Wayne. The letter is written by a young girl who wants to help the community recover from the tornado, and we were touched by the hope she included with the letter. ****

Scrutinizing good time laws

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Kids know if they behave in church they're likely to get a treat, or money. Do well in school, same thing. Do well in life; good things will come your way. We reward good behavior for good people.

But what about bad people? Can rewards make a difference in how they behave? The Nebraska State Corrections System has used "good time" for years to help reward inmates who behave well and also to give them an early release date, which eases prison overcrowding. The Department of Correctional Services is at about 149 percent of capacity. Yes, that's more inmates than the space was designed for.

So, prison good time – which starts the minute the inmate enters the system – is a necessary tool. One good time day for each good day in the system. In essence, sentences are cut in half for well-behaved inmates. That's in a perfect world. Sometimes the lines are blurred and sometimes the bad guys get the same breaks.

Take the highly celebrated case of Nikko Jenkins, the 27-year-old Omaha inmate who lost minimal good time for what some consider to be pretty serious infractions behind bars. Jenkins allegedly: assaulted a guard while on furlough to attend a family funeral in Omaha; helped incite a prison riot; attacked several inmates and participated in gang activities behind bars. For all that, he lost about a year and a half in good time. Within a month of his early release from prison, he allegedly killed four people in Omaha. That incident has rightly concerned the governor and some lawmakers and law enforcement officials.

The Chairman of the Legislature's Judiciary Committee, Sen. Brad Ashford of Omaha, has called on Gov. Dave Heineman's administration to change the good time rules administratively. That's because the Legislature's filibuster king – state Senator Ernie Chambers of Omaha -- has vowed to fight any effort to reduce good time. For his part, he knows that good time is a valuable tool for controlling inmate populations and granting early release to alleviate overcrowding.

A public hearing on the proposed rules and regs changes will be held Thursday, November 7, in Lincoln. Omaha lawmaker Heath Mello says he has taken a wait-and-see attitude on the matter. If the changes are adopted, it will be a great first step, Mello said. But it's a much more complicated issue than just making rules and regs changes. Mello is part of a working group looking at alternative sentencing, mental health and drug courts and overcrowding.

Currently, prisoners can lose time for the most serious offenses such as murder, manslaughter, inciting a riot, escape or drugs. But it's only three months lost if there is no death or serious injury involved and one year if there is. Under the proposed change, those penalties would double.

Heineman has called for an end to automatically awarding good time. He said violent convicts should have to earn good time. Corrections Department spokeswoman Dawn Renee Smith said good time is taken away when appropriate. If the punishment were used more often, it could lose its significance.

The Omaha World-Herald has reported that over the past five years, inmates have been punished for 92,000 infractions, yet good time credit was taken away in less than 5 percent of those cases. Courts can impose additional prison time for crimes committed behind bars, but the prison system can take away or add good time as it sees fit. They say they routinely use other punishments instead of keeping prisoners behind bars longer.

Omaha State Sen. Steve Lathrop says the troubling thing is that there's no relationship between good behavior and good time. That dispels the assumption that good time is also taken away for bad behavior. He said the Jenkins case is an appalling example of how the system doesn't work right. Smith said good time is just one of many deterrents that can keep prisoners in line.

Sen. Beau McCoy of Omaha, one of several lawmakers running for the gubernatorial nomination, says he'll introduce a bill in January to reform state laws on the matter and to ensure that the death penalty is used. Heineman has noted that endless debate and state legislators' efforts to repeal capital punishment have left murderers unconcerned about the prospect of execution.

Both issues must be carefully studied and changes applied only if they are going to be enforced. Alas, the system is no better than the sum of its fallible parts.

Keep an eye out for insurance scammers

In the weeks since the tornados ripped through District 17 I have had a number of people express concerns to me on how insurance companies have been handling claims.

If you are having issues with your insurance company you may want to contact the Nebraska Department of Insurance.

ment of Insurance is charged with reviewing insurance companies and ensuring the fair treatment of consumers. They often handle reviews dealing with the claim handling process and complaint handling process. You can contact the Department of Insurance at (877) 564-7323 or you can find the complaint personal numbers such as Social Security Number, bank accounts and credit card numbers. Most banks or credit card companies will not ask for those numbers over the phone or on an unsecured website.

It has come to my attention that on Friday, Nov. 1, the Judiciary Committee will be holding a hearing to examine the impact of the United States Supreme Court's ruling regarding the Defense of Marriage Act on the State of Nebraska. The hearing will start at 9 a.m. in room 1113 of the State Capitol.

If you have feelings one way or another on gay marriage I would encourage you to make your feelings known before this hearing is over. You can do this by either attending this hearing in person or by sending written testimony to Sen. Brad Ashford, chairman of the Judiciary Committee. You can send written testimony, via email, to the committee clerk at ovandervoort@leg.ne.gov. Make sure you state your name, address, phone number and that you would like it to be part of the official record.

Remember, Nebraska voters have defined marriage as being between one man and one woman and this hearing does not change that, it could, however, serve as a backdrop for future legislation which could.

As always, if we can be of any assistance, contact our office at (402) 471-2716 or e-mail dbloomfield@leg.ne.gov.

Youth beef symposium set

The Nebraska Youth Beef Leadership Symposium at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln will offer two sessions this year in order to reach high school students earlier – one for freshman and sophomores and another for juniors and seniors.

"This educational symposium will allow students to network with beef industry leaders and hear about innovative cattle production practices," said Dennis Brink, UNL animal science professor.

The first session Nov. 22-23 will be geared toward freshman and sophomores and will give them an introduction to the beef industry – an overview, interaction with faculty about current research, meat science, beef quality assurance, marketing and an introduction to careers.

Jennifer Hansen
Thurston County

They will also have an opportunity to work on a team project and do a media blast campaign about beef and the benefits of it in the diet.

The Nov. 23-24 session will be geared toward juniors and seniors and will follow the traditional route of NYBLS – more in-depth information about the beef industry, meat science, marketing and the opportunity to work with a professional chef. Teams will take in presentations, but also will have the opportunity to work with the chef to create a new beef dish with exciting flavor combinations.

In addition, four $500 UNL College of Agricultural Sciences and Natural Resources will be awarded to juniors and senior participants.

For more information about the Nebraska Youth Beef Leadership Symposium, including a list of sponsors, or to register, visit its website at nybuls.unl.edu.

More information also is available by contacting Alli Raymond at (402) 472-0204, e-mail araymond2@unl.edu or Dennis Brink at (402) 472-6446, e-mail dbrink1@unl.edu. Registration is $30 due by Oct. 31. Late registration is $50 by Nov. 8. Registration includes all materials, meals and lodging.

Minerva Club learns of life back in the 1890's

Hallie Sherry hosted Minerva Club on Oct. 14 at the Senior Center.

President Connie Webber opened the meeting with a humorous look at the English Language. Twelve members were in attendance.

Minutes of the Sept. 23 meeting were read and approved. The Treasurer reported making a $30 donation to the Historical Society.

Historian Hollis Frese highlighted items from the Sept. 30 and Monday, Oct. 14, 1967 minutes. One dollar yearly dues were collected and plans made Sept. 30 to celebrate the club's 50th anniversary at the October meeting. Guests for the anniversary tea were the ACME, U.D. and Monday Club members.

The birthday song was sung for Phyllis Rahn.

Hallie Sherry presented a program on the Decade of the 1890's. Several books with appropriate pictures and stories were displayed. A number of examples of the nation rising to greatness in the era were highlighted. It was 30 years after the Civil War and in the eastern part of the country the population had grown and industry was expanding, particularly in Iron and Steel products. Skyscrapers dotted the city landscapes. The typewriter and X-ray machines were developed.

The western part of the nation was also being settled. The early settlers endured many hardships battling the elements and loneliness. Their necessities were education, church and law and order. The Homestead Act was beneficial in helping settle the west. An Open Door immigration policy was an important part of the nation's growth.

Hollis Frese will host the Monday, Oct. 28 meeting at the Senior Center.

LWML holds its fall rally in Wayne Oct. 15

The women of Lutheran Women's Missionary League (LWML) Wayne Zone met Oct. 15 at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne. The theme of the fall rally was "Rivers of Water" based on John 7:37-38.

Those attending began the day by singing "Amazing Grace" led by Pastor Lilienkamp. He began with the invocation and prayer and gave the opening devotion entitled "What Difference Does it Make." He talked about "post modernism" – there is no real truth according to the world. In Psalms it says that we are blessed and connected with God by a stream of water through baptism. It does make a difference.

Bea Kinslow, president of Grace Evening Circle, welcomed all. She led the birthday song for Pastor Klaus Raab from Trinity Martinsburg.

Zone President Janice Anderson opened the business meeting with the LWML pledge. Minutes of the 2012 Fall Rally were read and approved as read. Treasurer's report was given and will be filed for financial review. The financial review committee found the books to be in order.

Those on the committee were Delores Koch of St. Paul, Concord and Ada Hunt of Hope, South Sioux City. Vice President Monica Ebmeier presented the ballot. Vice President: Rose Mason, Secretary: Eu-nice Johnson. Pastoral Counselor: Pastor Harrison Goodman, Pastor William Engebretsen, and Pastor Mike Feldmann. Ballots were handed out. Voting took place and tellers Connie Schutte of Immanuel, Laurel and Patti Mattes Trinity, Martinsburg collected the ballots. Applause was given to the Pastors for being so involved in the LWML and for leading members in their spiritual growth.

The District Report was given by President Janice Anderson. She reminded everyone that pictures of National Convention will be on the LWML web site. Nov. 1 is the Leaguer deadline. She encouraged the societies to send pictures to the Leaguer of what your society has been doing—a special event or other things. Grant proposal guidelines for the 2014 District Convention is on the LWML web site. Deadline for the grant proposals is Jan. 1, 2014. Plans are being made for the district convention. In appreciation for our Pastors, there will be no cost

Praise Assembly of God planning special event

Praise Assembly of God, located at 1000 East 10th Street in Wayne is a church that has a heart for building people up and for acquainting them with the message of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

This happens through meeting together, worship times, reading and studying the Bible, as well as praying together.

Congregation members meet on Wednesday evenings at 6:30 p.m., offering a Bible Study for adults and an energetic program called "Kids Praize" for children up through grade six.

The Sunday Schedule begins at 9:30 a.m. with Sunday School classes for all ages and morning worship at 10:30 a.m. Rev. Jason Pickering is the pastor of Praise Assembly.

There is a special end-of-the-month activity for the whole family on Thursday, Oct. 31 in the parking lot of the church. It's the annual kids-friendly "Trunk or Treat". Everyone is encouraged to bring the whole family, and walk through the parking lot to meet folks dressed up in Bible costumes - each with the trunk open and ready to hand out "treats" to all. The timing for this event is from 5-7 p.m., coordinating with Grace Lutheran Church across town who also offering this to families during the same time period.

Rev. Pickering is preaching a series of sermons on the subject of Faith. The faith spoken of in the Bible is available to all (Romans 12:3), and is a gift that must be exercised and strengthened, based on the fundamental belief that God has done so much for us in Jesus Christ (Romans 3:22). This gift of Faith (actually in the Bible it is called a "law of faith") is ours, even though we have no merit, no rights, no standing, and no hope before a righteous God. The Lord declares that even the most offensive, perverted, and degenerate sinner can be made right with God.

"It is a marvelous gift, and it is available to everyone," Pastor Pickering said.

Barb Engebretsen gave a presentation on the history and purpose of Aqua Africa during the LWML fall rally held recently in Wayne.

unique philosophy of "development over aid" is what set the organization apart and has effectively employed a model of using clean water as a foundation to introduce Micro-Democracy and Resource Management to South Sudanese communities.

Each water well provides 8,000 liters of clean drinking water a day for 500 people. The effect on a community's health and well-being is clear. Within weeks, stomach problems and headaches diminish. A community of 500 saves 357 hours from collecting and transporting water each day, allowing them to rebuild important aspects of their economy. Each well saves 214 trees that are otherwise burned to purify surface water.

Monica Ebmeier gave the ballot report. New officers are as follows: Vice president – Rose Mason;

Secretary – Eu-nice Johnson, and Pastoral counselor – Pastor William Engebretsen. Monica thanked members for putting their names on the ballot. Pastor Engebretsen installed the new officers.

Monica Ebmeier gave the closing devotion. The meeting closed with the singing of "Lutheran Women, One and All".

Bats problematic for homeowners in winter months

Winter is approaching and many mammals are getting ready to hibernate. Bats are one of these mammals and homeowners may find bats in their homes, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln program coordinator for the Internet Center for Wildlife Damage Management said.

When dealing with bats in homes, homeowners should focus on prevention, said UNL's Stephen Vantassel.

"Make sure that your house remains tight," Vantassel said. "Any gap three-eighths of an inch or larger needs to be sealed."

Vantassel said that unlike other animals, bats cannot chew through walls. That means that homeowners should ensure that bats aren't already inside when sealing small holes.

"If homeowners are premature and seal up the house too quickly, they force the bats into the living space," Vantassel said. "When in doubt, install a one-way door."

A one-way door will let a bat out but not in.

There are ways to tell that a bat has been getting in your home through a small gap, Vantassel said.

There may be bat feces around the opening, as well as subtle smudge marks accompanied by an odor.

A homeowner may have bats in the home and not see them in the living space, Vantassel said.

Vantassel said that the bat should be captured and released outside, provided that owners are positive that there was no bat-human contact.

Vantassel said that if a person wakes up in a room with a bat, they should assume that they were bitten and have the bat tested for rabies.

"We err on the side of caution, even though the vast majority of bats don't have rabies," Vantassel said. "This is a lottery you don't want to win."

Holiday Tour of Homes, wine tasting planned in Winside

Winside's Q125 committee will be hosting a Dec. 7, 2013 Holiday Tour of Homes.

There will be eight beautiful homes on the tour, four in the village of Winside and four country homes.

Homes to be toured include Randall and Connie Bargstadt, Tad and Jamie Behmer, Jan Topp, Jon and Sheila Jaeger, Verneal and Carmie Marotz, Mickey and Sue Topp, Kent and Vicki Owen and Jerry and Susie

Rabe.

Participants can start at any of the homes for tickets and maps or can purchase them in advance at Winside State Bank, Jensens AK Cafe, Winside Store, or Fuggles Bar in Winside. This event will be held from 1-5 p.m. that one day only.

Following the tour, a Wine and Cheese Tasting will be held at the Winside American Legion from 5-7 p.m. This will be hosted by Jim's Fine Wine and More of Norfolk. A silent auction will also be held available. There is a separate charge for the tour and the wine tasting.

Center Circle Club plans future Christmas events

Betty Andersen hosted the Oct. 17 Center Circle Club with nine members and one guest, Linda Andersen, present.

Club president Georgia Janssen called the meeting to order. Secretary Janice Jaeger took roll call "bring a trick or treat for your secret pal" and also read the minutes of the last meeting. In the absence of the treasurer, Dianne Jaeger gave that report.

Old business discussed was the Christmas dinner/trip on Thursday, Nov. 21 to Tekamah. Members from Winside will leave at 10:30 a.m. for a 12:30 p.m. lunch at the Masters Hand. Georgia and Dianne will drive.

A copy of the Amended Club By-laws was handed out.

Members agreed this year's Christmas donation will be made to the Wayne Disaster Relief program and will be collected in December. Sharon will look into making a reservation in Norfolk for a Dec. 5 lunch.

Secret Pals were revealed and new ones drawn for. The birthday song was sung to Cleora Fisher. Ten point pitch was played with prizes going to Georgia Janssen, Irene Fork and Helen Holtgreen.

Down but not out: advice offered for harvesting fallen corn

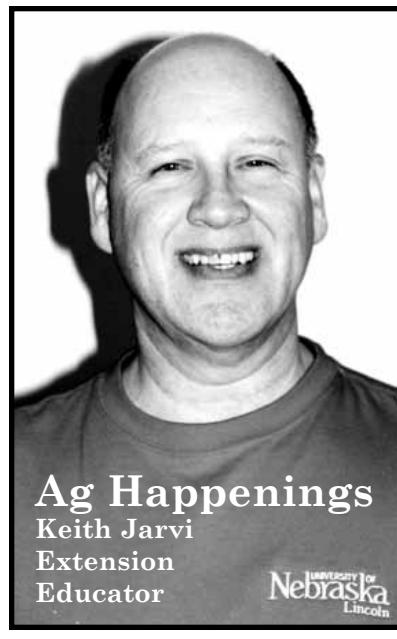

Some area corn growers are facing a challenge after the tornado and high winds swept through unharvested fields on October 4, knocking down stalks or stripping ears from still-standing stalks. Growers have to figure out how to gather as much as 150 bushels an acre or more of corn from the ground.

It is corn that's too low to pick up with a standard corn head and often too much to safely turn cows into without a lot of management.

Last year growers in central and western Nebraska got into a similar situation with high winds knocking down corn on Oct. 16-17. Here is some information from an article that appeared in cropwatch.unl.edu last year.

As with any crop loss, contact your crop insurer to review your coverage before taking any action that might affect it. And, if the loss isn't enough of a problem, large areas of volunteer corn will be the next challenge.

A survey of extension educators and specialists working with affected farmers indicated there is no simple solution to harvesting the downed corn. Some farmers first harvest any standing corn with a combine,

Ag Happenings

Extension
Educator

and then return to the field to try to reclaim the corn on the ground through one of several routes.

Some growers used a V-rake to window the stalks and then came back in with a windrow pick-up (bean) head on their combine to pick up stalks and ears from the ground. Harvest needs to be slow, as little as 1.5 mph, and the stalks and clumps of dirt will be hard on the combine and may cause it to plug. One grower had good luck tying down the rake's wheels to keep them from riding up and floating over the corn stalks. Not surprisingly, this harvest process can be hard on rake teeth.

Other growers used a flail chopper to finely cut the standing stalks and leaf material, then used a hay rake to gather the cut material and corn on the ground into windrows. Then they used a combine with a windrow pick-up bean head set to run close to the ground.

After the flail chop, other growers are baling up the plant material and corn and processing it for feed. It's recommended that the nutrient content of the feed be tested due to the above average level of corn it contains. Some growers went the human route and paid FFA or other youth groups to manually harvest affected fields.

Depending on the amount of grain left in the field and the difficulty of mechanical harvest, livestock feeding may be a good option for some growers. On beef.unl.edu, UNL Extension Educator Rick Rasby notes that feeding weaned calves or yearlings would be an option. With this much corn, you would want a class of livestock that you would want to put pounds on as compared to maintaining weight (cows that are gestating). Both are inexperienced at grazing corn residue and will slowly adapt themselves to the high grain diet. They will first graze the perimeter and any grass waterways, then the corn. Both would need to be supplemented with protein and with an ionophore to counter potential acidosis.

Cull cows also may be an option. Most cows will be experienced corn stalk grazers and will find the corn quickly and founder will be a concern. Fill the cows up with hay before turning them out on these fields. Although cull cows will not need a protein supplement, it would be good to add an ionophore in a supplement.

Rasby says he would not graze pregnant cows unless the fields were pregrazed with either weaned calves, yearlings, or cull cows. If you could get the ear drop to three to five bushels per acre, there would be less risk with pregnant cows.

In some cases, the amount of grain in the field may require that grazing areas be limited by cross-fencing or over stocking. Even with excellent management, some calves may founder.

Strip grazing limited areas throughout the fall and winter requires a lot of time and continual management, but may be one of the best ways to harvest these fields with livestock. If the ground freezes and you're still regularly moving an electric fence, a rechargeable hand drill can be handy for drilling in frozen soil to create a hole for a for an electric fence rod.

Storms, fires among many challenges farmers and ranchers must face

"Are you sure you want to do this the rest of your life?" That is a direct quote from the wife of a rancher in western Nebraska, after the devastating snow storm. It has haunted me all week.

The guy has only been ranching for four years, and he has had drought and wildfires, and now, sixteen cows have died and some others are sick; plus, there may be still births come spring.

I can relate! There were many times I said something like that to the Big Farmer in the thirty years we were on Apex Farm. And some of those times, he wasn't sure, either, but you don't just get out of a cow-calf operation. You typically stay in it for the long haul.

I remember losing a bunch of cows because they bunched up during a storm. I also remember getting a call from Hoskins about 8 p.m. one evening, asking if we knew where our cows were!

They had pawed at the snow until it piled up by the fence enough that they just walked over it; then, putting their backs to the wind, walked south into town. Fortunately, George Langenberg just opened a gate to his corral at the end of main street and we trucked them back home the next day. I don't think he even charged us for an overnight stay!

In today's paper, there is a story about a young couple here in town who have two darling little boys. Mom works at a local nursing home as a CNA; Dad has had trouble finding work. He's now employed at a minimum wage job. A family of four really can't make it work on that kind of income. I don't want to sound critical, because my heart does go out to them.

But, my thought was, Dad has to get a second job. There are a lot of fast food places hiring. They all have flexible hours that would work around his primary one. A farmer does not work a forty hour week; never has, probably never will. Unless those computers and robots really get going. And I know for sure there were many weeks that our Dad did not make minimum wage for his work.

I don't know what the young rancher out west has decided. I'm betting the wife who asked the question is looking for a job. And he might even be looking, too; lots of farmers have to have a second income to make it work. It depends on how much he loves ranching, and raising those cows. But the forty hour week is an illusion; many families do not make it on that.

I would hope that not all the ranchers throw in the towel, because I still eat beef. But I don't eat Beginning farmer looking for CRP to be torn out or farmland for 2014 year and beyond. Interested in cash rent or share crop.

Dealing with storm damaged trees

By Steve Rasmussen, Nebraska Forest Service District Forester

The early October tornado that hit areas of northeast Nebraska dealt homes, businesses and trees a hard punch. In areas of the direct hit from the tornado, trees were either snapped off or completely stripped of their branches. These trees are easy to recognize as needing to be removed.

However, in locations away from the direct damage of the tornado, assessing the trees and determining the appropriate actions to take with the tree are more difficult. Three primary factors to consider when trying to assess the damage to the tree and subsequent removal or pruning needs include: the amount and type of damage, the size / age of the tree and whether there is a "target" in the vicinity of the tree.

1. The amount of damage is usually the first indicator of whether the tree can be "saved" or should be removed. As a rule of thumb, if there is more than 50 percent of the tree affected with broken branches and major stem damage, then the tree will have a very difficult time recovering from this large loss of food making capability and sealing off large wounds. Cracked limbs will be most likely to fail in the future with snow or ice weight or wind storms. If there are large cracks in the trunk or with large branches, then the tree should be removed. Also, if the tree has a lean caused from the winds this will most likely indicate damage to the root system and perhaps an unstable base. If the new lean is more than 15 percent and toward a "target", then the tree should probably be removed.

2. The size of the tree (may or may not be an indicator of age) makes a difference on the safety of the tree. Smaller trees less than 25 feet tall will be less dangerous to leave and try to let the tree recover. The taller the tree, the more dangerous it is to leave in the landscape if it is damaged. Also, younger trees will be able to recover from damage more quickly, have smaller wounds to seal over and could be salvaged with pruning work. Pruning off damaged branches may be done to help the tree.

3. The location of a "target" that could be hit with the failure of the tree is another important consideration. If the damaged tree is within the height distance to a home or building, in an area of frequent use, or within falling distance of important power lines, then the tree is a higher candidate for removal for safety reasons compared to a tree in the back yard away from these "targets".

Other guides and considerations include: 1. Safety should be the priority at all times. Use caution in and around trees during and after extreme weather as falling limbs and debris may pose a hazard long after the storm has passed. 2. When inspecting trees for storm damage, look for splits or cracks in the trunk and major limbs, as well as disturbed soil around the trunk. This indicates a possible structural problem. 3. Do not climb a damaged tree to remove limbs or attempt any type of clean-up on a tree that is leaning or has a split trunk or branches. These tasks are best left to professionals with proper equipment. 4. Never remove or trim branches that are interfering with power lines. Instead, contact your local power company. 5. If branches have been broken off, prune/trim back to the branch attachment with a smooth cut just outside the branch collar. No would dressing or "tree paint" is needed. 6. Say "no thank you" to anyone who offers to top your tree. Professional foresters and certified arborists agree that topping harms trees and increases the likelihood of structural problems, as well as a tree's recovery time after a storm.

In addition, for more information about caring for storm-damaged trees and proper tree care practices or to view a video about pruning storm-damaged trees, visit the Nebraska Forest Service's Web site at www.nfs.unl.edu. To locate a professional arborist in your area, visit the Nebraska Arborists Association Web site at www.nearborist.org.

Mayor Chamberlain pulled Agenda Item No. 3 – Action to formally name the Wayne Municipal Airport, Stan Morris Field, and Nancy Braden Terminal because he was advised from an Airport Board member that this was not a formal action taken by the Airport Board. Until such time as that happens, this will not be on the agenda.

Tom Jacobsen gave a presentation on a proposed multi-unit housing project he would like to build on property he is purchasing from the Carharts on West 13th Street and wanted a sense from the Council not only about the project, but also about being approved for tax increment financing. He wants to build 3 eight-plex units and one twelve-plex unit. There will be 90 parking stalls and 76 bedrooms. Council consensus was that this was a good location for apartment complexes.

Public hearings were held on the following matters:

- > Redevelopment Plan for Sebade Housing, LLC
- > Special assessments in Street Improvement District No. 2010-5 (Benscoter Addition)
- > Special assessments in Sanitary Sewer Extension District No. 2010-1 (Benscoter Addition)

- > Special assessments in Water Extension District No. 2010-1 (Benscoter Addition)

City Clerk McGuire stated that the pay application on the 10th Street, Main to Windom Street Improvement Project was not ready for approval this evening, so no action could be taken on the matter.

Council consensus was for staff to prepare a draft down payment housing loan incentive program for new construction/rehab with a payback/refinance period of 7 years, and bring the same back before Council at a future meeting. A list would be developed identifying what would qualify for rehab.

Mayor Chamberlain brought the Council up-to-date on the events that have taken place since the tornado on October 4, 2013. He noted that Highway 35 will be closed to traffic from 7:30 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. until further notice.

Councilmember Brodersen volunteered to spearhead the volunteer efforts.

Mayor Chamberlain advised the Council that if the tornado is determined to be an F4 or F5, the company who provided the aerial photograph of Wayne will fly over and do another aerial photograph of the City at no cost. However, if the tornado is an F3 or less, the company will charge the City $15,000 for said service. Council consensus was that if the tornado was determined not to be an F4 or F5, they would like the company to still take an aerial photograph of Wayne for $15,000.

Garry Poutre, Superintendent of Public Works & Utilities, updated the Council on the electrical system.
