County meets with state, feds on tornado damage

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

By the end of this week, local, state and federal officials should have a pretty good read on the dollar amount in damages that took place when an EF-4 tornado struck Wayne County four weeks ago.

At a special meeting of the Wayne County Commissioners on Tuesday, the board met with state and federal emergency management officials to discuss what the county needs to provide to the state so that a federal disaster declaration can be considered for Wayne County.

"The state has to come up and do an initial damage assessment, and when we believe we have enough to ask for a federal declaration, then we can request a federal declaration from FEMA," Donnie Christensen, public assistance officer for the Nebraska Emergency Management Agency, told the board.

The board spent about three hours going over an inventory of items and man hours that the county used during and after the storm, from the number of signs that were lost to the number of man hours county employees and officials gave while working on storm clean-up and damage assessment.

"It's a waiting game. I've had them turn it around in two or three weeks, and others have taken two or three months . . ."

*— Donnie Christensen
State public assistance officer on the expected turnaround of a federal disaster request*

The storm that hit Wayne County is one of three that occurred during the first week of October that the state is packaging together in its planned request for federal assessment. On the same day tornadoes hit Wayne, Dixon and Thurston counties, a blizzard affected a number of counties in the panhandle in western Nebraska. Flooding in south central Nebraska also took place during the week of Oct. 2-6 that the state is expected to include in its federal request.

Mike Cappannari, FEMA external affairs officer, said the federal agency takes several factors into consideration in approving a federal disaster declaration request. While exact estimates won't be available until the end of the week, he said the total should surpass a financial threshold of approximately $2.5 million.

"But there are other factors that will be taken into consideration," he added, noting that concentration of damage and assistance provided by other federal agencies will be looked at by FEMA.

The process for a declaration request begins once capability to respond to a disaster goes beyond what can be done at the local level, Cappannari said. Once that is reached, the local entities will contact the state for assistance, and once it gets beyond the state's capability, federal assistance can be requested.

Christensen told the county board that he hopes to have a disaster request letter sent to FEMA by Monday, Nov. 14. Once the agency receives that information, it becomes a waiting game before the state hears back on whether or not the disaster declaration gets federal approval.

"It's a waiting game," he said. "I've had them turn it around in two or three weeks, and others have taken two or three months. The ones with huge amounts of damage generally get turned around quicker. With this one, it's probably going to be a month or a month and a half before we'll hear back."

Supreme Court hearing Shear case

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

A former Wayne police officer has appealed his termination to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

Philip Shear's case against the City of Wayne Civil Service Commission and the City of Wayne was heard by the Supreme Court on Thursday, Oct. 17. Shear and former chief Lance Webster were fired by city administrator Lowell Johnson in April of 2011 for a variety of charges, including creating a hostile environment within the police department, engaging in an extramarital affair with an employee he supervised, making sexual advances to employees in the department, using a city-issued cell phone for excessive personal calls and texts and other charges.

Johnson's firing was appealed to the Wayne Civil Service Commission, which upheld the appeal in December of 2011. That decision was appealed to district court, which upheld that decision in August of 2012.

The questions now before the Supreme Court are as follows:

— Did the trial court err in determining that the pre-termination hearing before the City Administrator did not violate Shear's due process rights to a meaningful hearing and that any defect in the hearing was cured by the proceeding before the Commission?

— Did the trial court err in determining that any of the City Administrator's or the City's allegations against Shear were supported by competent and relevant evidence, made in good faith and for cause, and in determining that the Commission's decision upholding termination of employment was not arbitrary and capricious?

— Did the trial court err in determining that the Commission's admission of evidence of cause beyond that set forth in the City's Basis of Employer's Evidence was not improper and the admission of such testimony did not violate Shear's right to be provided all evidence to be used against him?

Relief concert a big hit

More than 400 people attended a benefit concert at the City Auditorium Friday to help out Wayne-area tornado relief victims. Leafy Spurge was one of the acts playing on Friday, as Dave Broders (above) and Steven Lange (right) helped entertain the crowd. A second concert was held the following evening in Norfolk, and an estimated $5,000 was raised toward local tornado relief efforts.

Fourth-generation florist finds joy

By KATIE KASL
Of The Herald

It's been decades since The Wayne Greenhouse first opened its doors, and while owner Lou Wiltse isn't entirely sure what prompted her great-grandfather to start the business, she likes to believe it all began with a begonia.

Great Grandpa Hall, she explained, found the plant — discarded in an alleyway by its previous owner — took it home and nursed it back to health. The man, Wiltse said, loved to garden; and while Hall wasn't trained in greenhouse work when he moved to the states from Denmark, that didn't stop him from purchasing land on 10th Street and starting his own business.

Back then, there were no wind chimes, candy or candles. There were no tuxedos, home decor or gifts for children; and there certainly were no funky sunglasses or boot-toppers for the college kids across the street.

Instead, The Wayne Greenhouse specialized in the mere basics: plants, flowers and vegetables.

"In those days, they didn't do all the pretty things we do now," Wiltse said.

Today, she has a wide and varied inventory, plus the greenery that first put her shop into business back in 1921.

Wiltse gets new flowers, shipped to her via air, two or three times a week. A grower out of Holland sells the plants to distributors across the globe, who

Obituaries

Elizabeth Gemmell Norris

Elizabeth Gemmell Norris, 101, of San Angelo, Texas, died Saturday, Oct. 26, 2013 at the Rotary House of Hope on the Baptist Retirement Community campus.

A memorial service will be held at the First Baptist Church of San Angelo on Saturday, Nov. 2 at 10:30 a.m. Graveside interment services will be held in the spring of 2014 at the Elmwood Cemetery in Carroll, at the Gemmell family plots.

Elizabeth Ellen Gemmell Norris was born Jan. 28, 1912, in her parents' home outside Carroll. She was baptized in the Carroll Baptist Church at age 13. She graduated as valedictorian of Carroll High School in 1930 and received a General Elementary State Certificate at Wayne State Teachers College (Nebraska) in 1934. She subsequently received a Religious Education degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Ft. Worth, Texas; a Bachelor of Science degree in Education from Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau; and a Master of Education degree from University of Missouri at Columbia. She taught in rural, one-room schools in Wayne County in the early 1930s. In Missouri, she taught in a second-grade classroom in the 1960s in Dexter and at Fox Elementary School in Arnold during the summers. In the 1970s she taught remedial reading in Fredericktown, Mo., where she also was assistant elementary counselor.

Elizabeth met Charles Leonard Norris at a church camp in Colorado. They were married in the Carroll Baptist Church on Dec. 25, 1935. They lived in Clifton Hill, Mo., where Charles was pastor of the Southern Baptist church. After several years in Clifton Hill, Charles was pastor of Baptist churches in Texas, Missouri and Colorado. He was director of missions in several Baptist associations in Missouri. In each of these settings, Elizabeth's ministry — as wife of the pastor and wife of the missionary — was loving the people.

Elizabeth and Charles had been married over 48 years when he died Nov. 17, 1984. Since 1991, she lived at Baptist Memorials Retirement Community, San Angelo, Texas, where she had many friendships and was widely known as loving, outgoing, and remarkably energetic. She was active in the Sarah Sunday School class of First Baptist Church.

Donations may be made to Baptist Memorials Auxiliary, Rotary House of Hope or First Baptist Church—San Angelo scholarship fund.

Survivors include her children, Janel and Larry Howard, Charles (Estelle) Norris Jr. and Michael and Iva Norris; six grandchildren; 12 great-grandchildren; a sister, Wilma and Jesse Kidd; 17 nieces and nephews and their families.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Charles Leonard Norris; parents, Robert and Ellen Tharp Gemmell; brothers, Donald, John, Ralph, Fred and Allan Gemmell; sisters, Mary Elsie Whitney, Jeanne Margaret Smith and Jessie Martha Back; great-grandson Guthrie Ellison Howard; and her husband's brothers and sisters, Judson, Lyman, and Raymond Norris, and Ellen Norris, Florence Stewart, and Martha Weaver.

Darrell French

Darrell French, 84, of Carroll, died Wednesday, Oct. 23, 2013 at Providence Medical Center in Wayne.

Services were held Saturday, Oct. 26 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne. Fr. Mark Beran and Deacon Pat Gross officiated.

Darrell Marion French was born Dec. 13, 1928, at Concord to William and Ollie (Burton) French. In 1942, he moved to a farm west of Carroll. He graduated from Carroll High School in 1946. Darrell married Dorothy Christophersen-Schmale on Aug. 13, 1970, at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Emerson. The couple farmed near Carroll until retiring and moving into Carroll in 1995. They loved to go camping and traveling and spent several winters in Texas. Darrell enjoyed playing cards and was a member of the neighborhood card club.

Survivors include his wife, Dorothy; children, Ed (Tami Conner) Schmale of Carroll, Kathy (Ray) Johnson of Pilger, Janet (Chad) Ludwig of Wisner, Mary (Todd) Jenkins and Len (Khristy) Schmale of Carroll, Diane (Mike) Vovos of Wayne, David (Mary) French of Carroll, and Doug (Melanie) French of Wayne; 20 grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; sister-in-law, Melba French of Buhl, Idaho; brothers-in-law, Alvin Christophersen of Danbury, Iowa, Francis Schmale, Ferd Schmale, and Ed Schmale, all of Emerson; many nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; grandson, Kaden Schmale in February 2013; sisters, Marjorie Otte, Frances Roberts, Luella Hansen, Dolores DeArman, and Mildred Granquist; brothers, Dwight French and Dwain French.

Pallbearers were John Bowers, John Williams, Lonnie Hansen, Bill French, Dwight French, Gerald Otte, Joe Christophersen and Terry Roberts.

Memorials may be directed to the French family for later designation.

Burial was in Elmwood Cemetery in Carroll. Hasemann Funeral Home of Wayne was in charge of arrangements.

George Voss

George Voss, 92, of Winside, died Friday, Oct. 25, 2013 at the Norfolk Veterans' Home in Norfolk.

Services were held Tuesday, Oct. 29 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside. The Rev. Harrison Goodman officiated.

George William Voss was born March 19, 1921, at Winside to Ferdinand and Meta (Koepeke) Voss. He graduated from Winside High School and attended Wayne State College. He served in the United States Navy during WWII, from Aug. 10, 1942 until his honorable discharge March 1, 1946 with the rank of Yeoman, Second Class, VS USNR Service. George returned to Winside to work for Schmode-Weible Transfer, later starting his own corn shelling business. George married Beverly Benschhoff on June 21, 1953 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. In 1954, George and his brother, Howard, purchased the Weible Tavern. In 1959, the brothers purchased the Prince Produce Station, buying cream, eggs, and selling feed. They later added grain grinding and rolling to the business. Winside Grain and Feed was purchased by George and Howard in 1975. Over the years, George was a school bus driver for Winside Public Schools. He farmed and was a cattle feeder near Winside, retiring in 1991. On Oct. 24, 2011, George moved to the Norfolk Veterans Home. George was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and church council. He was a member of American Legion Post #252, having served as Commander, Service Officer, and Adjutant. He also was a former town board member. As a member of the Winside Volunteer Fire Department, he was Fire Chief for many years, and one of four founding members of the Winside Volunteer E.M.T. (Rescue Unit).

Survivors include his wife, Beverly Voss of Winside; a daughter, Brenda (Larry) Wells of Norfolk; five grandchildren, Kalynda (Hokamp)(Derek) Kuhl, Blaire Hokamp, Blake Hokamp, Hope Voss, Paige Voss; a great-grandson, Spencer Cole; sisters, Betty Ann (Marvin) Anderson of Hoskins, and Margaret (Don) Kay of Wayne; sister-in-law, LaVila Voss of Pierce; nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; an infant daughter, in 1957; son, Tim in 2012; two sisters and a brother-in-law, Lorretta Voss and Lorraine (Wayne) Denklau; four brothers, and a sister-in-law, Howard (Billie) Voss, Leo, Marvin, and William Voss; mother-in-law and father-in-law, Ben and Esther Benschhoff; and a sister-in-law, Carolyn Goton.

Pallbearers were Wayne Denklau Jr., Bryan Denklau, Rick Kay, Frederick (Fritz) Weible, Howard Dean Allvin, Kevin Anderson, Gary Anderson and Duane Kay.

Memorials may be directed to the family.

Burial with military rites was in Pleasant View Cemetery at Winside. Hasemann Funeral Home in Winside was in charge of arrangements.

Ruth Wacker

Ruth Wacker, 90, of Wayne, died Monday, Oct. 28, 2013 at Providence Medical Center in Wayne.

Services will be held Saturday, Nov. 2 at 11 a.m. at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne. The Rev. Ron Nelson will officiate. Visitation will be held Friday, Nov. 1 from 5 to 8 p.m. at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne with family present.

Ruth Hazel Wacker, was born May 26, 1923, on a farm near Wayne to Ernfrid and Goldie (Ireland) Allvin. She attended rural school at District #45 in Wayne County, graduated from Wayne High School, and attended Wayne State College. Ruth served in the Women's Army Corps stationed at Fort Sheridan, Ill. from 1944-1946. Following her military service, she returned to Wayne and worked for Dr. Goblirsch as a dental assistant. Ruth married Elmer Wacker on March 25, 1951, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne. The couple farmed near Wayne for many years, moving into Wayne in 1996. In 2006, the couple moved to the The Oaks Retirement Community in Wayne. Ruth was a member of Our Savior Lutheran Church. She enjoyed playing the piano and, most of all, her time with family.

Survivors include her children and spouses, Janet (Dan) Roberts of Fremont, Judy (Steve) Martindale and Deb (Bob) Clarkson of Concord, Myrna (Dave) Tuttle of Laurel, Mark (Nancy Breitreutz) Wacker and Byron (Liza) Wacker of Wayne, Ward Wacker (Denise) of Gordon, Eunice Wacker (Wm. Aaron) Woehler of Omaha; sister, Dorothy (Herb) Brader of Oakland; a sister-in-law, Judy Allvin of Norfolk; 21 grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren; nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents; husband, Elmer in January 2010; an infant son, Bruce; sisters, Violet Arp and Donna Nelson; brothers, Carl, Jerry, and Dean Allvin.

Pallbearers will be Ruth's grandsons, Tad Roberts, Eric Roberts, Dustin Roberts, Dane Martindale, Lee Clarkson, Zach Wacker, Brandon Wacker, Bryce Wacker, Brody Wacker, Austin Wacker, Will Wacker and Will Woehler.

Memorials may be directed to the family for a later designation.

Burial with military rites will be in Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne. Hasemann Funeral Home of Wayne is in charge of arrangements.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

City Council Meetings

Regular City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in city hall at Third and Pearl Streets. Shoulda, Coulda, Woulda -

We're On Our Own

Tornados: Your personal safety and that of your family at the moment of danger is yours alone. Did you prepare yourself ahead of time to give yourself options? Did you pay attention to early warnings? Were you waiting for someone else to tell you what to do or do you take control? In the moment of extreme danger on October 4th, Wayne area residents hit by the tornado were knowledgeable enough and had options to survive.

Blizzards: In the continuous blizzards of 2009-10, some highways were blocked for several days. Several towns north of Wayne were isolated long enough that grocery stores ran out of common food items. A couple of farms ran out of propane. People affected there had prepared and had options such as food, water and alternative heat and power sources. If they were caught on the road they had enough clothes and a cell phone to survive. They had options and one died.

Power Outages: In January 2007, a large area of Central Nebraska had a major ice storm and some places were out of power for 10 days. Do you have options if you are out of power for 10 days in the winter? That storm was so big you couldn't just go to the next town to stay or get a generator because they were in the same mess.

Isn't the government going to come and help?

1) Watching the government response to the hurricane in New Orleans is proof that as a community and as individuals, we're clearly on our own in moments of danger. That hurricane didn't appear out of nowhere like the Wayne tornado and those folks had time to leave before the storm. Many didn't leave. They left themselves no options in the moment of danger and died.

2) Meeting with FEMA this week to review tornado losses is interesting. The fact that South Sioux City just received their first FEMA aid after the Missouri River flood is more proof that we're on our own.

Winside students conduct Red Ribbon Week activities

Winside Elementary School kicked off Red Ribbon Week this week (Oct. 28-Nov. 1) with the Monday theme of Team Up Against Drugs. All students were encouraged to wear a sports team shirt along with their red ribbons.

Red Ribbon Week is the nation's oldest and largest drug prevention program. It originated in 1985, to honor the memory of DEA Special Agent Kiki Camarena, who was kidnapped, brutally tortured and murdered by Mexican drug traffickers while investigating and attempting to stop drug smuggling into the U.S. His efforts led to a tip that resulted in the discovery of a multimillion dollar narcotics manufacturing operation in Chihuahua, Mexico.

During Red Ribbon Week students sign pledges to remain drug free.

For the remainder of the week, students will Give Drugs the Slip by wearing slippers in school, Band Together Against Drugs by wearing bandanas, Take a PAWSitive Stand Against Drugs by wearing red, and Use Your Head: Don't Do Drugs by coming to school with a crazy hair-do.

Dates set for Tour of Homes

The Friends of the Wayne Museum have set the dates and announced the names of those who will have their homes open for this year's Tour of Homes.

Five homes in Wayne and the Wayne Museum will be part of this year's tour, set for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 22-23. Tours will take place from 5-8 p.m. on Friday and 11 a.m.-2 p.m. on Saturday.

Homes on this year's tour include Jason and Heidi Claussen, Chad and Courtney Maas, Sandy Brown and Matt Ley, Craig and Jill Walling and Chad and Cherry Sebade.

Advance tickets for the event may be purchased at all Wayne banks. Tickets will also be sold at the museum during the tour.

The Wayne County Museum, located at the corner of Seventh and Lincoln Streets, was built in 1900 by Dr. W.C. Wightman for $13,000. It took two years to build.

The Wightman family lived in the home until they moved to California in 1912. It was then sold to a local banker, Rollie W. Ley, for about $6,000.

The Ley family owned the house until 1976 when Mr. Ley's heirs donated it to the Historical Society for use as a museum.

Features include a reception hall of oak paneling, a built-in bookcase with curved glass doors, courting corner, stained glass and beveled glass windows and beautiful parquet floors. The house is listed on the National register of Historic Places.

It recently underwent exterior restoration and painting costing over $25,000. All proceeds from this year's Tour of Homes will help maintain this beautiful home.

A number of Christmas decorations, including many with sentimental value, will be part of the holiday display at the home of Jason and Heidi Claussen.

Members of the Friends of the Museum have extended thanks to the individuals who have given of their time and talent to decorate the museum - Jill Belt, Tracy Keating, Kate Lutt, Chelle Simon and the Museum Friends.

Refreshments will be served at the museum during the tour.

Jason and Heidi Claussen, 519 West First Street

Located on Wayne's brick-paved First Street, this cottage-style home, built in 1950, was purchased by the Claussens in 2010.

Several renovations have been made to the home, including refinished floors, a door and deck addition off the dining room, remodeled basement, new windows and HVAC.

Attracted to the home by its light-filled spaces, countryside view and solid foundation, Jason and Heidi were excited by the challenge of living in the small space.

The large yard gives them space to stretch and develop their vegetable garden. The intimate kitchen and dining areas have redefined their passion for cooking and entertaining while the deck addition serves as a seasonal outside dining space.

The Claussens' style of decorating is utilitarian, inspired by modern design and urban elements. They select diverse items that lend to the minimalist balance of interesting, honest and casual.

Wayne school board members honored

The Nebraska Association of School Boards, Board of Directors and staff, presented the 2013 Award of Achievement recipients of Wayne Community Schools during the Norfolk Region Meeting recently.

The Association is a private, non-profit organization that serves the needs of Nebraska public school districts and Educational Service Unit board members. Members from across the state may participate in board development training by attending workshops and conferences to help strengthen their role in governance, legislative advocacy, and stewardship of district resources in support of student achievement.

In recognition of their volunteer time and commitment to education, the Association commends continued participation and growth in knowledge and best practice governance.

Through the Awards of Achievement program the following board members were recognized for their outstanding excellence:

Level II - Wendy Consoli and Rod Garwood.

Level IV - Jeryl Nelson.

Level V - Dr. Carolyn Linster.

PMC to take part in national project

Providence Medical Center in Wayne will participate in a national pilot project for small rural hospitals focusing on transfers from the emergency department.

The project is supported by CIMRO of Nebraska and funded through the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS). The Nebraska Flex Program is also working in partnership on this effort. Nebraska is one of eight states participating in the pilot project.

While emergency care is important in all hospitals, it is particularly critical in rural hospitals where the distance from urban medical centers makes the effective triage, stabilization and transfer of patients essential.

For example, when a patient arrives at PMC's emergency department needing time-sensitive care that includes transfer to a tertiary care center, PMC's ability to quickly assess, arrange, and get the patient out the door with the necessary and appropriate information can be of life or death importance.

Data indicating how well a rural hospital serves this important care transition role is not currently widely available. This new pilot project will provide and support for Providence Medical Center and other rural hospitals to be trained to collect information on emergency department transfer communication and use the data to improve quality of care, safety, and outcomes for patients transferred from their emergency departments.

"Being a part of this group gives us the opportunity to focus even more intently on improving the lives of the people who live and work in our community and beyond," Valerie Hangman, RN, Providence Medical Center's QI Coordinator, said.

then sell to Wiltse. In the summer, she gets her roses from right here in the United States; in the winter, they come from South America.

"The flowers do come from all over the world," Wiltse said.

Despite the distance between her and her suppliers, Wiltse claims the flower-shipping process is a relatively quick one.

"They're into Miami one day and into my door the next," she said.

Growing up, Wiltse and her siblings all put hours into the business. In fact, she laughs about when, exactly, she began her foray into gardening.

"I started when I was born," Wiltse said. "We (my siblings and I) just grew up in the business doing what needed to be done."

For the kids in her family, life at the greenhouse was no different than it'd be if they were living on a farm. Everyone had a job. They pulled weeds, repaired plant benches and reglazed the glass panels of the greenhouse roofs. Wiltse was put on weed duty, an unsavory task given the possible presence of snakes (there were none); and then, when she was old enough, her parents promoted her to delivery duties.

Eventually, Wiltse graduated high school and moved to Lincoln, leaving Wayne and the greenhouse behind her. She got married, then returned home when it was time to start a family, and has been here ever since.

In 2003, Wiltse purchased the business from her parents, Kent and Lois, becoming the fourth generation in her family to run it. By that time, The Wayne Greenhouse had expanded to a location along Highway 35. The Plant Market, as it was dubbed, was built in the early 80s to replace the dated greenhouses at the store's original location. Its grand opening, ironi-

Lou Wiltse is the fourth generation of her family to run The Wayne Greenhouse at 215 East 10th Street. Her family's involvement with the business and her own love of gardening brought her into ownership in 2003. "Fresh flowers are always in style," Wiltse believes. "I think because they don't last forever that's why they're so special."

cally, was postponed by a spring snowstorm; and then, in another unseasonable fit by Mother Nature, the entire outfit was leveled by an F4 tornado earlier this month.

Right now, Wiltse is still on the fence about what to do with her plot of land in east Wayne.

"I haven't decided where I'm going to go yet, but it's going to be good," she said. "I've just got to hang on for the ride."

The circumstances, though unfortunate, have further cemented Wiltse's belief that adversity can be turned into something positive and that there are ways to survive and prosper after disaster.

"It certainly gives me the opportunity to do something neat and fun," she said. "I'm excited."

Despite her uncertainty about the future, Wiltse is sure of a couple other things.

For one, she's grateful for the support she's received both recently and over the years, as well as for the wonderful staff she works with – a group that consists of four or five college students, a delivery couple and another full-time employee.

"I have really good girls. They're so fun and very dependable and very helpful," Wiltse said. "They really do care about their customers because they're my customers too."

For another, she's thankful for flowers that still put a smile on her face and for work that is really, truly satisfying.

"It's a job that brings joy to so many people," Wiltse said. "How can you not be happy?"

And in case you're wondering, the answer is yes, Wiltse still gets flowers herself.

"I love getting them," she said. "I love that."

Bill Reeg nominated for 2014 TIME Dealer of the Year honor

Bill Reeg, dealer and president of Arnie's Ford in Wayne has been nominated for the 2014 TIME Dealer of the Year award.

Reeg is one of 57 dealer nominees from across the country who will be honored at the 97th annual National Automobile Dealers Association (NADA) Convention and Exposition in New Orleans, La., on Jan. 25, 2014.

The announcement of this year's nominees was made by Jed Hartman, group publisher, Time Inc. News and Business, and Tim Russi, president of Auto Finance for Ally Financial.

"The dealers nominated for this award are community heroes, as well as economic and civic leaders, who have time and again shown their dedication to making a difference," said Russi. "Ally is pleased to once again be supporting these dealers in their efforts to create vibrant, thriving communities."

Upon returning from the Marine Corps in 1967, Bill worked with his father at Arnie's Supermarket in Thirty-five years later, Arnie's Ford is still going strong and Reeg is an active member of his state dealer association. He has held various leadership positions in the Nebraska New Car and Truck Dealers Association, including board director (since 2010), chairman (2009), third vice chairman (2008), second vice chairman (2007) and secretary-treasurer (2006). He was appointed by Governor Heineman to serve on the Nebraska Motor Vehicle Licensing Board.

Reeg also gives back to the educational institution where he first learned the basics of business, serving as secretary-treasurer for the executive board of the Wayne State College Foundation.

"We have a very strong bond with Wayne State College, providing scholarships as well as donating to various building projects and other campus improvements," he said.

Reeg is also currently providing educational support for a young woman in Tanzania.

"She has no family and is studying toward her college degree," he said. Houses for Health, a home building project for families in Tanzania with severe medical issues is another favored charity.

Weich conviction set aside by judge

A former Wayne State football All-American has had his conviction for a crime he committed as a minor set aside in Pierce County District Court.

Randy Weich, 25, of Wayne was originally sentenced to 18 months probation on charges of creation of child pornography and possession of child pornography regarding a case that took place when he was 14 years old. The trial took place in Pierce County district court in 2007 when he was 19 years of age.

District Judge James Kube set aside and nullified the 2007 conviction on Sept. 26, stating in court documents that it is unlikely that Weich will engage in further criminal activity and finds further that it is in the defendant's best interests and is consistent with public interest to grant the motion.

The set aside also removed all civil disabilities and disqualifications that had been imposed as a result of the 2007 conviction.

Weich is a 2012 Wayne State graduate and was a two-time Div. II All-American punter for the Wayne State football team. Judge Kube complimented Weich for his accomplishments, both on and of the field.

Wayne girls third, two get medals

LCC's Aaron Haahr earns ninth in Class D boys race

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

KEARNEY – A first-timer and a somewhat-seasoned veteran brought home medals from the State Cross Country Championships and had the Wayne High girls on the brink of claiming some team hardware.

Junior Cassie Heier and freshman Marta Pulfer both finished in the top 10 to help the Blue Devils claim third-place honors in the Class C team race, just missing out on the runner-up trophy by three points. They were joined on the medal stand by Laurel-Concord/Coleridge sophomore Aaron Haahr, who earned a ninth-place medal in Class D boys action at the Kearney Country Club.

For Pulfer, it was an outstanding finish as she was able to come away with runner-up honors in the Class C girls race, finishing in a time of 20:29.7 in her first appearance at state.

"It feels pretty good," Pulfer said of her finish. "It was a fun race and I think I ran pretty well, but I don't think I left it all out there today."

Heier, a junior, earned a top 10 finish in her first trip to state last year, and upgraded to the No. 8 spot in the individual race with a solid 5,000-meter effort of 20:50.2.

"It was probably one of my better races," she said. "I almost tripped over by the second water station and had some water go up my nose, but I managed to keep going and I thought I ran a good race today."

Coach Rocky Ruhl echoed those sentiments, particularly with the way the team finished after coming in three points behind runner-up Norfolk Catholic and 18 behind champion Columbus Scotus.

"Coming into the race and seeing where people were ranked, we thought we might be in the mix if things went right for us," he said. "The girls ran their hardest and we did everything we could do to get third. I was hoping we could be in it for the top two, but having two in the top 10 and finishing third is nothing to get upset about. I'm re-

X-Country runners are toughest

*I've got to keep running the course
I've got to keep running and win at all costs*

*I've got to keep going, be strong
Must be so determined and push myself on*

– Lyrics from "The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner" by Iron Maiden, 1986

Fans will argue from here to eternity about how tough their sport is. You've got to be tough to play football because it's such a violent sport.

Wrestlers are tougher because of the pressure and the physical nature of the sport, particularly when you're involved in physical combat with your opponent.

Golfers are tough because . . . well, let's come back to that later.

Having watched high school athletes compete for more than 30 years, I would submit that the boys and girls who compete in cross country have to be the toughest kids in all of sports.

Watching these kids battle not only other runners, but the elements, the laws of gravity and the uneven terrain over the course of 5,000 meters (about 2 1/2 miles) is something that most normal-thinking members of the human race would only attempt if they were driving some sort of all-terrain vehicle.

Drive 5,000 meters? Not a problem. But RUN it? You must be insane.

Like any other sport, you have to work hard just to be competitive, and that work comes in the off-season for the cross country runner. How many times this summer did we see these kids running around town, getting hundreds of miles recorded during the heat of the summer to prepare them for a season where the weather is sometimes as random as the terrain they run on?

And let's be honest – while sports like football and wrestling are most certainly more violent sports than cross country, those acts of violence either come in short bursts of 5-10 seconds on the football field or a minute or less on the wrestling mat.

In cross country, you must run non-stop for the better part of 20 minutes. And it's not like running around a track – you go uphill, downhill, on smooth terrain and uneven, running with the wind, against the wind or even into a cross-wind. You have to pace yourself at the start so that you can have a kick at the end to catch those few runners ahead of you – or avoid being caught by someone who's hot on your trail.

There are no time outs in cross country – you don't have a half-time show at the 2,500-meter mark. There's no time to stop and catch your breath, or towel off the sweat, or adjust your game plan with the coach drawing out X's and O's. Once the gun fires, there's no time to do anything – except run.

And run.

And run some more.

As you near the end of the race, you have expended every ounce of energy that you feel you have in your body. You've given all that you have – and you still have those last 200 meters to go. Other runners are trying to get past you, and you're trying to get past those who you were slowly catching up to. You begin writing checks on your body's account that are going to bounce sky-high as you will yourself to that final sprint, arms and legs moving furiously in an attempt to propel your body forward to that finish line that seems to move two feet further away for every foot you advance.

For some, like Wayne High freshman Marta Pulfer, it looks so effortless. Watching her run the final 1,000 meters, she looked like she could go another 5,000. She said after the race that she wished she had another 1,000 to run because she knew she could run down the winner from Mitchell.

But for other runners, that imag-

Rugby women to host Elite Eight

Winning a national title is one thing. Defending the crown is something different.

Wayne State women's rugby coach Darrin Barner has a chance to lead the Wildcat rugby club to a second straight Final Four appearance next month, but will have to go through another unbeaten, high-scoring opponent to earn the trip to Cherry Hill, N.J.

The 14-0 Wildcats face Minnesota-Moorhead in a 12:30 p.m. match-up at the House of Pain in Wayne, a battle of high-octane offenses that will be a scoreboard operator's worst nightmare come true.

"There should be a lot of points scored between the two teams," Barner said. "We're going to have to blitz them heavily to slow them down because they're so explosive."

After winning the NSCRO national title last year, Barner said defending that 2012 championship has been a tougher job than winning it.

"It seems like every week we've played, the other team knows they're playing the national champions from last year so it's their game of the year and we get a hail storm thrown at us every week," he said.

The challenge of winning the battle on the field hasn't been the only thing this team has tackled this season, though – the Oct. 4 tornado that hit Wayne damaged the Wayne Rugby Park, damaging one of the goal posts, moving the press box off its foundation and destroying the scoreboard and two trailers where equipment was stored.

"We've worked hard the last couple of weeks to make sure we could keep the playoff game here at the House of Pain," he said. "The field is definitely playable, and we're bringing in some portable equipment to make sure we have everything we need for the game."

The Wildcats will also have several key players who have been part of the team's success.

National tournament MVP Maggie Warrick provides leadership at the center position for the Wildcats, while Amber Kutnick's experience playing overseas and trying out for the U.S. Rugby team has paid off for her at flanker. Other key players, including Kaylie Freese at fly half and Jasmine Kavas at outside center, will be called upon to help the Wildcats this weekend.

Barner said Moorhead likes to play a run-and-gun style of offense that has proven to be quite prolific, as they have scored 136 points in their last two games.

"They have some quickness on the outside and can score in a hurry, so we're going to have to win the possession battle if we want to out-score them," Barner said.

The winner of Sunday's game will have three weeks to prepare for the NSCRO Final Four, which is Nov. 24-25 in New Jersey.

Admission to Sunday's game at the Wayne Rugby Park is free, and plenty of prizes and food will be available at the game. Fans can enter the game via the Tomar Drive entrance just south of McDonald's.

Devils drilled by Knights, 57-6

By RICHARD RHODEN
Of The Herald

NORFOLK – It was not the way the Wayne Blue Devils wanted to make its second consecutive Class C-1 playoff appearance.

Wayne went on the road to battle Norfolk Catholic to round out the regular season and left with a 57-6 loss to the three-time defending Class C-1 champions.

Offensively, we didn't play well," coach Terry Bear said. "Our plan wasn't very sound, we didn't take care of things up front, and we had too many turnovers."

Norfolk Catholic took a 17-0 lead early, scoring on all three possessions to begin the game.

The Knights got on the board first with a Zach Pospisil six-yard pass to Jacob Bellar on their first possession.

On Norfolk Catholic's second drive, they used a 10-play, 50-yard drive that was capped off with a Jackson Love one-yard run to take a 14-0 lead.

A 24-yard field goal by Chase Farlee extended the lead 17-0 for the Knights.

On its fourth possession, Norfolk Catholic coughed it up, recovered by Wayne's Demetrius Alexander to give the Blue Devils some hope. However, on its next play, Wayne gave it right back to Norfolk Catholic.

Ruhl said Heier and Pulfer both ran well to lead the team, and he was also happy to see a solid finish from senior Molly Burbach, who ran her best race of the year and came in 23rd at 21:32.8.

tricts and state, and that's what you want," Ruhl said. "She's really come on the last few weeks as a first-year senior and did things the right way for us."

Mandy Stabler was 60th to account for Wayne's fourth scoring runner, while Marissa Munsell was 70th and Angie Nelson was 75th.

Nelson's finish was something of a surprise, as she has usually been Wayne's second or third runner for much of the season. An illness slowed her down on Friday, but Ruhl said the result takes nothing away from the success she has had during her running career.

"She didn't have the race she wanted here, but we haven't been as successful as we've been the last four years without Angie Nelson," Ruhl said. "You hate to have your last race be a tough one like that, but she's had some outstanding races in her career and I'm glad she's been part of the team."

Ben Hoskins was the lone Wayne High participant in the Class C boys race, and a lingering injury slowed the junior down to a 63rd place finish, coming home in a time of 18:49.9.

"Ben was ready to go today and I was hoping he'd be able to run without the pain in his rib cage," Ruhl said. "It's tough coming back from that, and he's a competitor and wanted to go out and get after it. After the first mile, you could tell it was tightening up on him, but he fought hard and you hate to see an injury like that at the end of the year."

WAYNE WASN'T ALONE IN the area medal haul on Friday, as Laurel-Concord/Coleridge was able to bring home a medal in the Class D boys race.

The Bears qualified as a team with the minimum four runners finishing third at districts, and they were able to get an individual medal as Aaron Haahr made his second trip to state count with a ninth-place finish.

"I was a lot less nervous this time," Haahr said of his race. "I felt pretty good out there, and it was nice to be able to run as part of a team."

Coach Megan Virgil said she was impressed with how Haahr competed as a sophomore in the state meet. "He was competing hard all the way through and had a great run today, and I think he had a great time and was battling for that No. 9 spot and had a great finish there," she said.

Haahr's time of 17:29.8 led the Bears. Jordan Jensen was 90th, Adam Haahr placed 118th and Ethan Gubbels came home in 141st place as LCC finished 16th out of 18 teams overall.

"It was nice to have the team here," Virgil said. "We were able to get here out of a tough district and we didn't have the cushion of having a fifth and sixth runner, so we just tried to go out and have fun with it and the kids ran their race and did the best they could."

Junior Sadie Petersen was the lone LCC girl competing in the Class D race. She was up in medal contention for much of the race before running out of gas down the final stretch, settling for a 43rd place finish.

"She ran really hard and just ran with a lot of heart and ran out of gas at the end," Virgil said. "You have so much energy going there and it's tough when that happens, but she never gave up and she has a chance to come back next year and be a four-time qualifier for us."

inary wall shows up as they make that final turn and can see the finish line. Their bodies simply say "This is as far as we go" and the legs give out. However, even as the physical body crashes, the mind wills it to go on. Nothing less than reaching the finish line is acceptable, whether you finish first or 101st. "I MUST cross that finish line," the mind tells the body.

We saw it from a number of area runners at this year's state meet. Wayne's Ben Hoskins was running with a rib injury that made breathing a challenge, and he willed his way across the finish line. Angie Nelson, dealing with an illness, found a way to battle through the fatigue that hit her a mile into the race. Sadie Petersen and Jordan Jansen of LCC both needed medical help after finishing their races, their bodies giving absolutely every resource of energy for 5,000 meters.

Afterward, their emotions flowed as their exhaustion shattered whatever walls they had put up to overcome the pain they experienced. That emotional release comes so easy when you have asked so much of yourself that you have no energy left to hold anything back.

Every high school sport has its moments where you find out how tough you are as a human being, whether it's trying to stay alive in a 3-2 count with the tying run on in the bottom of the seventh or trying to gain that last yard or make that last finishing takedown to help your team to victory.

Watching the area kids give everything they possibly have on the hills and fairways of the Kearney Country Club, however, I think we found out just how much of a challenge cross country running can be - and how tough those who finished the race really are.

Wayne State volleyball splits at home

Wayne State bounced back from an exciting five-set loss to No. 4 Minnesota Duluth to salvage a split at home in volleyball action.

On Friday, the No. 17 Wildcats rallied from a two-set deficit to force a fifth set, but Minnesota Duluth escaped with a 15-12 win.

Both teams came out gunning in the first set with 15 ties and seven lead changes. With the score tied at 26-26, UMD got back-to-back kills to win the set. They continued their solid play in the second set and had another 20 kills and a .318 attack percentage to take a 2-0 advantage.

Wayne State came out of the intermission and gained momentum, hitting .364 with 14 kills and just two attack errors in the third set, then avoided two match points and took a 25-24 lead on kills by Lexi Malm and Cori Hobbs. With the score tied at 26-26, the Wildcats used another kill from Hobbs and a Bulldog attack error to win the fourth set and force a fifth and deciding set.

Wayne State took an early 5-3 lead in the fifth, but Duluth rallied and used three straight points to take 9-7. Wayne State got within one point at 10-9 on a Hobbs kill, but Duluth scored three of the next four points and came away with the hard-fought win.

Alyssa Fraundorfer recorded a career-high 18 kills on just two attack errors and hit .421 while also recording a team-high five blocks to lead Wayne State. Hobbs had her 16th double-double of the season with 16 kills and 11 digs followed by Lexi Malm with 13 kills and Elizabeth Gebhardt 11. Courtney VanGroningen had 29 digs with Katie Hughes adding 17, while Leisa McClintock had 56 set assists in the match.

Wayne State battled back the following afternoon, spotting St. Cloud State the opening set before coming away with a four-set win, 21-25, 25-23, 25-20, 25-14 to improve to 17-7 overall (8-6 NSIC).

St. Cloud State hit .394 in the first set to take advantage of a sluggish Wildcat start. The second set was tightly contested, but a Malm kill and a Husky attack error tied the match at a set apiece.

The third set saw the Wildcats hit .289 with 17 kills and four attack errors, and they pulled away in the fourth set with 17 more kills and just two attack errors for a .429 attack percentage.

Fraundorfer capped a stellar weekend with a career-high 20 kills and just three attack errors for a .515 attack percentage. She also had five blocks. Hobbs contributed 13 kills and 14 digs in the win while Gebhardt notched 12 kills with Malm added 10. Gebhardt and Malm each contributed five blocks to the Wildcat win. VanGroningen accounted for 19 digs with Hughes and Hobbs each recording 14. McClintock handed out 53 set assists.

Wayne State is on the road this weekend, visiting Minnesota Crookston Friday at 7 p.m. and Bemidji State Saturday at 4 p.m.

lic with its own fumble.

The Knights used that turnover to score another touchdown, a five-yard pass from Pospisil to David Engelhaupt to go up 24-0.

With under two minutes before the half, the Blue Devils used a six-play, 69-yard drive highlighted by a 54-yard touchdown toss from Jalen Barry to Jared Anderson that cut the lead to 24-6 before the half.

The second half was all Norfolk Catholic, as they kept their foot on the gas while Wayne was unable to string any offense together.

"I thought our defense played pretty well, but we kept them on the field and that's the problem," Bear said.

The Knights scored on its opening drive of the half after a 10-play, 58-yard drive that was finished off with a three-yard touchdown run by Engelhaupt to take a 30-6 lead.

After a 15-yard pass to Anderson to start the drive, Barry threw an interception, one of three on the day to put the brakes on the Blue Devil offense.

Five plays later, the Knights found the end zone again with another Engelhaupt touchdown run to extend the lead 37-6.

After another failed possession by Wayne, Norfolk Catholic scored again with a three-yard touchdown run by Love to take a 44-6 lead into the final quarter.

A lot of players from both teams saw the field in the fourth quarter, as Norfolk Catholic scored two more times, the first coming on a 39-yard scamper by Christian Sextro while Logan Hale added the final score of the game with a seven-yard run.

Wayne finished the regular season with a 5-4 record and received a No. 10 seed in the Class C-1 playoffs. They prepared for a long road trip as they face No. 7 Falls City (5-3) Thursday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. The winner will face the winner of the Milford-Lincoln Christian contest.

"I told the kids it is a new season. It is a one-and-done, or you take it five," Bear said. "We have to re-evaluate and break down some film, and we'll get after it."

LCC Bears end season strong with 59-18 victory over Homer

Laurel-Concord/Coleridge ended its season on a high note, lighting up the scoreboard with 59 points and accumulating 540 total yards in a 59-18 victory over Homer.

The Bears got onto the board first with a 42-yard scamper by Brett Haisch to lead 8-0.

Homer answered on the ensuing kickoff with an 82-yard return for a score. The extra point was failed, leaving an 8-6 lead for Laurel.

Dillan Wolfgram ran for a 55-yard touchdown with 4:18 left in the first quarter to lead 16-6.

On Homer's next series, Wolfgram intercepted and ran it to the end zone, extending Laurel's lead 24-6.

Wolfgram struck through the air as he connected with Jayden Reifenthrath for a 46-yard touchdown pass.

A 51-yard bomb from Wolfgram to Jackson Metheny extended the Bears' advantage 38-6.

Laurel added another touchdown before the half with a six-yard run by Haisch to lead 44-6 at half.

Laurel came out firing in the second half, as Cory Peterson ran the ball 31 yards to the end zone.

The Bears' final touchdown came on a 78-yard scamper from Haisch to make the lead 59-6 with 1:53 left in the third quarter.

Homer added two touchdowns in the fourth quarter to cut the lead to 59-18 and finish the game that way.

Offensively, Haisch led the way with 211 yards on 15 carries while Wolfgram added 143 yards on 11 attempts. Wolfgram was also four-of-five through the air with 98 yards and two touchdowns.

Haisch led the defense, recording 10.5 tackles while Calvin Casey added 5.5.

Emily Puls of Wakefield goes up for a tip against a Randolph defender during Lewis and Clark Conference tournament play in Wakefield.

Wakefield is upset victim in tourney

Wakefield was the No. 2 seed heading into the Lewis and Clark Conference volleyball tournament, but was bitten by the upset bug in the quarterfinals.

Wakefield opened with an easy win over Osmond, posting a 25-4, 25-11 victory. Lauren Lehmkuhl had seven kills and two blocks to lead the Trojans' net attack, while Tianna Gnat recorded four kills and McKenzie Rusk and Emily Puls each had two. Puls had three ace serves and Savannah Nelson recorded 11 assists in the win.

Wakefield's hopes of getting to the semifinals were dashed by seventh-seeded Randolph, as the Cardinals posted a straight-set upset with a 25-18, 25-23 triumph.

Lehmkuhl had 14 kills, Gnat added five and Puls put down three in a losing effort for the Trojans. Lehmkuhl had three blocks and 14 digs, Whitney Echtenkamp had 14 digs and Nelson had 21 assists for the 20-7 Trojans.

In a triangular Thursday, Wakefield beat Winnebago and Homer in straight sets.

In the first match, Lehmkuhl had six kills and Puls added five to help Wakefield to a 25-12, 25-9 win over Winnebago. Nelson had 18 assists and Lehmkuhl and Rusk had four and three blocks, respectively.

The Trojans then disposed of Homer in two quick sets, winning 25-9, 25-14. Lehmkuhl led the attack with 11 kills while Puls had four and Rusk and Gnat had three apiece. Nelson had 46 assists and Echtenkamp had 10 digs to lead the defense.

Wakefield will compete in subdistrict play Monday and Tuesday at Wayne High School.

Lady Eagles advance to L&C finals

The Allen Lady Eagles punched their ticket to the finals of the Lewis and Clark Conference volleyball tournament with an exciting five-set win over Laurel-Concord/Coleridge.

The two teams went back and forth in a five-set thriller Tuesday at Ponca High School, and the Lady Eagles won the final two sets to take the match, 25-21, 28-30, 12-25, 25-17, 15-8 to improve to 19-6 on the season.

"This match could have gone either way," coach Cheryl Greve said. "Laurel is a solid team with some strong players, and our girls just played aggressively and with a lot of heart."

Allen got balanced play at the net with Lindsey Jones and Gabby Sullivan recording 14 and 10 kills, respectively, to lead the way. Courtney Reuter and Sammy Sullivan each had seven kills in the match. Rachel Kneiff had three ace serves and Lindsey Sullivan recorded 39 assists in the win.

On Monday, the Lady Eagles hosted the first two rounds of their quadrant in the 17-team conference tournament and came away with two wins, sweeping Winside 25-12, 25-7 and taking out Creighton in three sets, 26-24, 24-26, 25-17.

In the Winside match, Jones had eight kills to lead a balanced attack. Lindsey Sullivan had 14 assists and Jones had seven ace serves while Sammy Sullivan notched three. Gabby Sullivan had two blocks.

In the Creighton match, Jones had 21 kills and Reuter added seven. Kneiff put down five, and Lindsey Sullivan had 29 assists.

In regular-season action last week, Allen beat Homer in four sets, 25-20, 17-25, 25-15, 25-19. Jones had 19 kills, four blocks and hit at a .317 clip for Allen, while Reuter had six kills and Gabby Sullivan added five kills and three blocks. Lindsey Sullivan had 30 assists.

Allen will face Emerson-Hubbard in the finals Friday at 7 p.m. at Laurel-Concord/Coleridge High School in Laurel.

Allen Eagles battle in final game of season, fall 48-28 at Winnebago

A 48-28 loss put an end to Allen's 2-6 season Friday in Winnebago.

Allen put the first points on the board with a 39-yard pass from Tayler Kumm to Austin Connot, but Winnebago answered on its next drive to take an 8-6 lead.

After Allen drove much of the field, a fumble stopped them short of scoring, and gave momentum to the Indians. Winnebago scored off the turnover to take a 14-6 lead.

After stopping the Eagles again, the Indians added another touchdown before the end of the first quarter to lead 22-6.

The thunder of Caleb Thomas and the lightning of Brian Boese struck for the Eagles, as they tore their way through the Indian defense en route to the end zone to cut the lead 22-14.

After a defensive stand, Kumm hit Austin Connot on a 49-yard pass to tie the game at 22-22, but a game-ending injury to Boese spelled doom for the Eagles, as the offense lost momentum.

"When we shifted our kids to different positions offensively and defensively, we lost our momentum but we played hard," coach Dave Ulrich said.

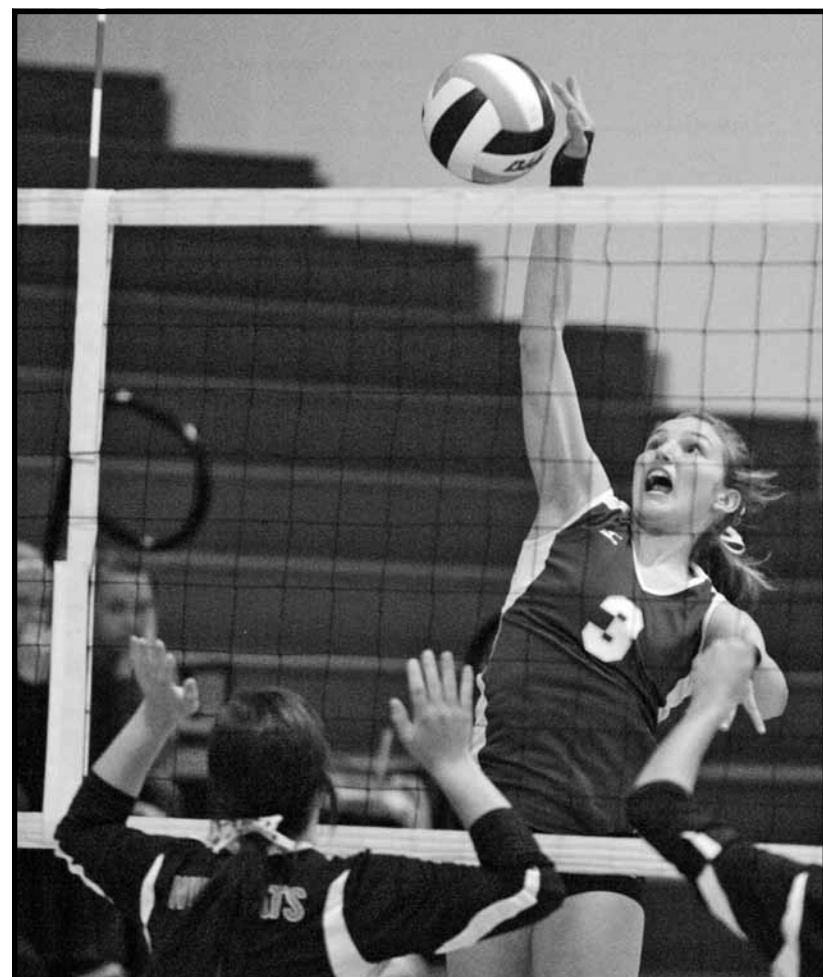

Winnebago extended the lead 28-22 before the half and continued to pour it on in the second half.

Four interceptions and two more fumbles in the second half led to the 48-28 loss for the Eagles.

The final Allen touchdown came on a defensive fumble recovery by Myles Flores.

Boese led the Eagles rushing attack before the injury with 98 yards on 12 carries while Thomas added 27 yards on eight attempts.

Kumm was 4-of-15 with 140 yards and two touchdown passes, but also threw four interceptions. Defensively, Thomas led the way with 15 total tackles while Austin Connot added 11 and Wade Connot had seven.

Gabby Sullivan goes up for a kill in Allen's win over Winside in the first round of the Lewis and Clark Conference tournament.

Winside volleyball falls in conference tourney

It was a rough go for the Winside volleyball team in the opening round of the Lewis and Clark Conference tournament on Monday in Allen.

The Wildcats were taken out in short order by the host Lady Eagles, as Allen posted a 25-12, 25-7 win over Winside. Carly Thies finished with four kills and three blocks, Kelly Tweedy had three kills and Jayd Roberts had six assists. Morgan Jensen had eight digs, Roberts had seven, Carly Schwager had five and Alex Bargstadt recorded three.

In consolation action, Winside took care of Walthill in two sets at Allen on Tuesday, winning 25-10, 25-9. Thies had six kills while Tweedy and Roberts each had three and Bargstadt had two. Roberts had 10 assists, Thies had six blocks and four ace serves, Jensen had three aces and nine digs, Tweedy had nine digs and Roberts had six digs.

Winside takes a 6-23 record into subdistrict play, which is set for Monday in Pender. Seedings will be announced on Thursday.

Wildcat wrestlers begin new season

The Wayne State club wrestling team will kick off its sixth season in the "new era" with a dual tournament this weekend.

The Wayne State Duals and NC-WA Invite will be held Friday and Saturday, Nov. 1-2 at Wayne High School. A total of 18 wrestlers are on the roster this season, including seven returning letterwinners and five national qualifiers from a team that finished third in the Great Plains Conference last season.

Returning national qualifiers include sophomores Matt DeGarmo, Ryan Burnison and Travis Schmitz, junior Jon Williams and senior Jon Mullen.

Wayne State will host Kansas State, Winona State and Wichita State at this weekend's event in Wayne.

WSC picked third in women's hoops

The Wayne State women's basketball team was picked to finish third in the Northern Sun Conference preseason women's basketball coaches poll announced last week.

The Wildcats were tabbed to finish behind Concordia-St. Paul and Minnesota State overall, with last year's tournament champion Augustana right behind in fourth. Five of the top eight teams in the poll hail from the South Division of the NSIC, with Winona State coming in at No. 8.

Junior Jordan Spencer was selected as a player to watch this season for the Wildcats after leading the team in scoring (15.5 points per game) and rebounding (6.7 per game).

Wayne State returns five starters and nine letterwinners from last year's 17-10 team. They open the season with an exhibition Sunday at Iowa State, and face Peru State on Saturday, Nov. 9 at Rice Auditorium at 7 p.m.

Wildcats 18th in AVCA coaches poll

Wayne State fell one spot to No. 18 in the latest American Volleyball Coaches Association Div. II coaches poll.

Wayne State fell to Minnesota Duluth in five sets, which helped the Bulldogs move up a spot to No. 3 this week. The Wildcats came back to beat St. Cloud State to improve to 17-7 on the season.

Concordia-St. Paul is still at No. 1, and Southwest Minnesota State (8th) and Northern State (23rd) also represent the NSIC in the top 25. Other Central Region teams include No. 5 Central Missouri, No. 7 Nebraska-Kearney, No. 11 Washburn and No. 20 Truman State.

Area athletes lead NECC netters in action

Brittany Sullivan of Allen and Nazya Thies of Winside were both instrumental in Northeast Community College's 25-20, 25-18, 25-13 loss to Central Community College on Thursday.

Sullivan led the team with 10 kills, while Thies had 16 digs in the loss.

The team also had a four-set win over Iowa Lake Community College to improve to 14-19 on the year, winning 25-13, 25-22, 23-25, 25-23. Sullivan had 11 kills and 22 digs in the win, Thies had 22 kills and two blocks.

Hitting-pitching league hosted by WSC

Wayne State College is hosting a hitting and pitching league at the Wayne State Recreation Center, beginning Nov. 23.

Participants will be part of a team of 4-8 players and will meet for one hour each week, with the exception of Nov. 30. Each session will include instruction, drills and a pitching and hitting game directed by the Wayne State baseball coaching staff.

For more information on the camp, e-mail assistant coach Josh Merrigan at jomerril@wsc.edu or call the baseball office at (402) 375-7449. Registration information is also available at www.wscbaseball-camps.com.

Late comeback helps Concordia outlast Wayne State

Concordia-St. Paul scored two touchdowns in a span of 1:25 to rally in the final three minutes for a 28-24 win over Wayne State Saturday at Bob Cunningham Field.

Wayne State led 24-13 with 10:16 left and appeared to have control of the game after the Golden Bears missed a 42-yard field goal with 5:10 to play.

But Concordia forced a fumble and got the short field at Wayne State's 21-yard line, scoring four plays later on a 10-yard pass from Jared Russo to Jermaine Clemon with 2:37 to go. The duo hooked up for the two-point conversion to make it a 24-21 game.

Wayne State then had a three-and-out on their next series, and the Golden Bears responded with a four-play, 67-yard drive, capped by Russo's 21-yard strike to Cordell Smith with less than two minutes to go to take the lead.

Wayne State had one last chance and got as far as the Golden Bears' 31-yard line until Zach Osborn was hit from behind and fumbled. Concordia recovered and ran out the clock to seal the win.

Concordia-St. Paul took the opening kickoff and drove 62 yards on six plays, capped by a Tre Spears two-yard run to go up 7-0.

Wayne State tied the score later in the quarter on a three-yard scoring pass from Zach Osborn to tight end Joe Trouba, but the Golden Bears responded on the ensuing kickoff as Corey Cole raced 100 yards to give Concordia a 13-7 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Wayne State opened the second half with the ball and on fourth-and-1 from Wayne State's own 41, and capitalized in a big way as Charlie Davidson took an option pitch from Osborn and raced 59 yards to the end zone for a touchdown, putting the Wildcats back in front 14-13 with 13:23 to go in the third quarter.

After an interception by linebacker Nick Monzu, Wayne State notched a 36-yard field goal by Tyler Basch, then made it 24-13 early in the fourth when Cole McDaniel was on the receiving end of a 28-yard scoring pass from Osborn, giving the Wildcats an 11-point lead with 10:16 to play.

Concordia-St. Paul took the next drive and drove to the Wayne State 24, and after a missed 42-yard field goal with 5:10 to play, it appeared that Wayne State would end its five-game home losing streak before the Golden Bears mounted their late-game comeback.

Davidson had 122 yards rushing on 27 carries and one score to lead the offense, moving past the 1,000-yard mark for the season with 1,029 following his sixth 100-yard game of the season. Osborn completed 18-of-36 passes for 251 yards and two scores with one interception. Junior wide receiver Adam Stark had a team-high five catches for 63 yards followed by senior tight end Grant Otten with three receptions for 41 yards.

Defensively, Monzu had a team-high seven tackles with one sack, 2.5 tackles for loss and one interception. Jeff Van Den Top added six stops for the Wildcats.

The Wildcats drop to 2-6 overall with the loss. They are on the road Saturday, traveling to top-ranked Minnesota State for a 1 p.m. battle.

Men ninth, women 13th at NSIC

The Wayne State men's cross country team finished ninth and the women placed 13th at the Northern Sun Conference Championships held at Yankton Trails Park in Sioux Falls, S.D.

Justin Brueggemann was Wayne State's top finisher, coming in 40th out of 111 runners in a time of 26:56 on the 8,000-meter course. Greg Tracy was next in 57th place at 27:28, with fellow senior Garang Lual right behind in 59th in 27:34.

Other Wayne State finishers were Taylor Witt (62nd, 27:41), Adam Hochstein (67th, 27:57), Corbin Lehn (87th, 28:56), Nick Schmidt (98th, 29:54), Joey Black (102nd, 30:17) and Michael Eaton (106th, 32:03).

The Wayne State women were led by Cristina Murillo, who was 56th out of 124 runners overall with a time of 23:39 on the 6,000-meter course. Next for the Wildcats was Aryn Smidt in 82nd place at 24:25. Cassidy Tinsley and Andrea DeSimone followed in 98th and 105th, respectively, with times of 25:39 and 25:54.

Other finishers included Jaden Wamstad (110th, 26:16), Laura Camacho (114th, 26:47), Holli Erickson (116th, 27:01), Nicole Garrison (117th, 27:04), Molly Kingsley (118th, 27:20) and Jordanna Trausch (120th, 27:49).

Wayne State will compete in the NCAA Central Regional Championships on Saturday, Nov. 9 at Yankton Trails Park in Sioux Falls, S.D.

Soccer team drops pair

It was a hard week on the road for Wayne State's women's soccer team, as they dropped a pair of 5-0 defeats.

On Saturday, Winona State scored two goals in the first half and added three more in the second half for the 5-0 win. The host Warriors held a commanding 29-1 advantage in shots over Wayne State, with Wildcat senior Norma Volkmer credited with Wayne State's lone shot in the contest.

Winona State had four corner kicks to Wayne State's none with the Wildcats called for six fouls to just one on Winona State. Wildcat freshman goalkeeper Kylie Comba had 14 saves in the contest.

On Sunday, Upper Iowa scored four first-half goals and went on to shut out the Wildcats, dropping them to 1-14-1 overall and 1-11-1 in the NSIC.

The Peacocks were aggressive in the first half, using a 17-3 advantage in shots to score four goals on the Wildcats, including one with just one second left in the first half. The Peacocks added another goal at the 69:26 mark of the second half to make the final score 5-0.

Upper Iowa finished with a 23-12 edge in shots. Wayne State had one more corner kick than UIU, 5-4. McKenna Adams had a team-high five shots with three on goal. Kelly Voigt and Norma Volkmer each added two shots for the Wildcats. Comba was credited with four saves in the contest.

Wayne State will close out the season at Southwest Minnesota State on Thursday and Sunday at 1 p.m. against University of Sioux Falls.

Let us help you honor those men and women who have served or are now serving in the Armed Forces in defense of our country. We want them to know how proud we are of them!

On November 12, we will publish a special feature to pay tribute to our Veterans. These men and women have given their time and sometimes even their lives to serve our country.

Mail or bring in a short biography and photo of your special veteran before November 6. Please include $10 per biography. Each photo should be labeled on the back with the Veteran's name, your name, address and phone number. Also include a self-addressed stamped envelope and we will return your photos to you.

Guest Editorial

Hold accountable those 'representing' us

EDITOR'S NOTE - This was recently submitted by Wayne resident Beverly Neel.

There is a lingering atmosphere of disgust and disbelief with the action or inaction displayed by elected officials sent to Washington D.C. to do the peoples' business. One must step back and take a look at the whole picture rather than pick and choose a target. Each party, each elected official, is responsible for the disarray taking place the past five years at the very minimum.

How is a governing body to govern when the Commander in Chief and Senator Majority Leader adamantly declare it will never pass? They do not pretend to have the courtesy to even read, digest and critique a proposal from across the aisle. They automatically decline to work with or accept anything other than their own view. That is not the way governing nations set about to protect and serve its citizenry. We are not a nation lacking intelligence, resources, responsible citizens and more, but our elected officials have ignored the pleas of those who have elected them to represent their voice.

Yes, we are all guilty for the votes we cast or did not cast, but the most important question here is "how do we pick America up by the boot straps and move forward?" That depends on how willing each side of the aisle is to do the job they were elected to do. Be a voice for you and me. Their personal agendas have no place in the governing body. When they were elected, their personal agenda should have been placed on the back burner and America's agenda placed up front to address the needs of her people and govern in an equal give-and-take mode.

Not every situation brought to the table will receive overwhelming support from either side, and it should not. These elected officials need to work to get to the consensus that supports the American populace to serve her people well and honestly. Much of this has been lost over the decades of my own adulthood.

So it is us, the voters, who can and should let our voices be heard by our elected officials, and it is our duty to hold them accountable to the American people, not to their agenda. I personally have a difficult time understanding the theory of paying those government employees sent home because of the imposed "government shutdown" and receiving their back pay. If they were to receive back pay, then they should have been at their desk, or wherever their workplace is, to qualify for the back pay. Vacation time should have been used by these employees in lieu of back pay as they would have received the same pay but were legitimately away from the "office" and on their own time. What about those who applied for unemployment benefits and will get back pay. Does the unemployment system work that quickly to get the benefits out? If so, are those benefits then due back into the government coffers?

America, let's wake up and listen to the news, read the papers, dissect what is being given to us. Do not take everything as the gospel truth. We, as American citizens and voters, have the duty to protect our rights and privileges, and that includes finding the facts and fiction of the news media reports. It will take time, but are we not deserving of a clear and honest view of the happenings in our government process? I believe we are. We cannot take a blind trip down the party line and expect to see the clear vision of America. We need to look to both sides of the aisle and see that what is out there in the best interest of America is being done by all. Loyalty to one party over another is not the best path of governing. Each party has good and poor judgment legislative matters, and it is up to you and me to let our officials know we do not appreciate the name calling, finger-pointing, back-stabbing methods of the current governing body. It is time adults begin to behave as such. It is time that some step aside and allow new ideas and methods to enter into the governing of America. Watching what has occurred over the past two or three decades on each side of the aisle would make one think "why would anyone want to serve in this governing body?" If anyone has a solid game plan on how to get America back to governing for the people, let them step forward, and let's have a conversation.

Legislative Update
Hearing is Nov. 1

I would like to take one last opportunity to remind all of you that on Friday, Nov. 1, the Judiciary Committee will be holding a hearing to examine the impact of the United State Supreme Court's ruling regarding the Defense of Marriage Act on the State of Nebraska.

The hearing will start at 9 a.m. in room 1113 of the State Capitol. If you have feelings one way or another on gay marriage, I would encourage you to make your feelings known before this hearing is over. You can do this by either attending this hearing in person or by sending written testimony to Sen. Brad Ashford, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

You can send written testimony, via e-mail, to the committee clerk at ovandervoort@leg.ne.gov. Make sure you state your name, address, phone number and that you would like it to be part of the official record. I know that a few of you have already sent a letter to the committee, but I wanted to let the rest of you know that there is still time.

Remember, Nebraska voters have defined marriage as being between one man and one woman, and this hearing does not change that; it could, however, serve as a backdrop for future legislation which could.

Legislative Update
By Dave Bloomfield
State Senator, District 17

As always, if we can be of any assistance, contact our office at (402) 471-2716 or e-mail dbloomfield@leg.ne.gov.

Letters Welcome

Letters from readers are welcome. They should be timely, brief (no longer than one type-written page, double spaced) and must contain no libelous statements. We reserve the right to edit or reject any letter.

Cattle deaths spell tragedy

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

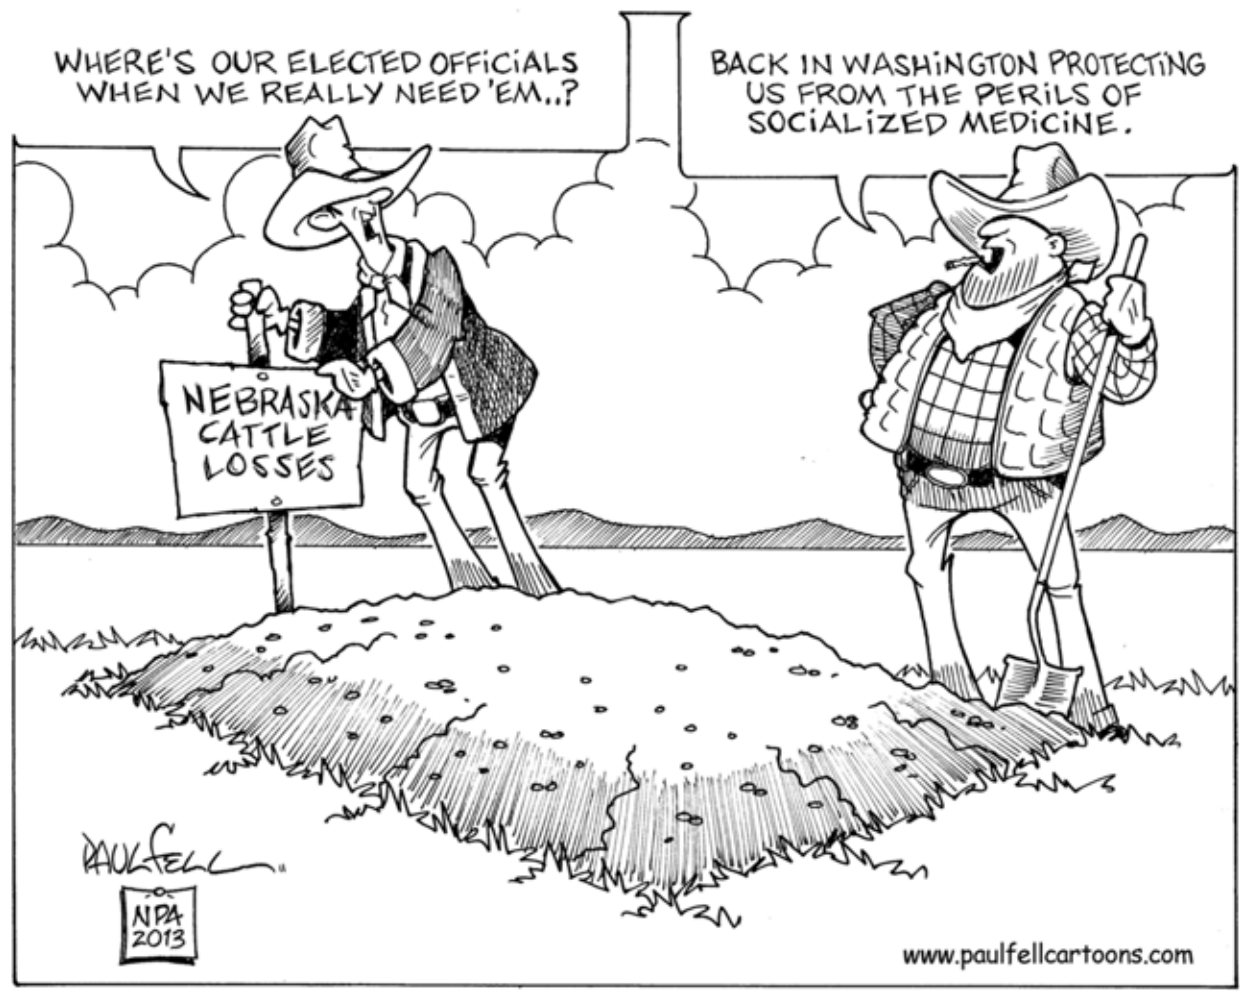

There's never a good time for a blizzard in the High Plains . . . but there are some really bad ones. The bookend blizzards in January 1949 were probably the most historic of the worst ones. An estimated 500,000 farm animals died in that storm as ranchers were contemplating spring calving on the cusp of economic recovery from World War II.

Many of those same areas were just hit again the first weekend of this October when a mix of rain, heavy snow and 70 mph winds came. As I discovered in the 1970's flying over the Sand Hills with a couple of state senators and the Nebraska National Guard, the wind usually blows out the back sides of the hills and keeps life-saving grass exposed. The area looks from the air like a rancher has left a boot heel imprint that stays open.

But when rain accompanies the snow, the white stuff goes on like frosting, and the blowouts are coated as well. Cattle instinctively walk with their backs to the wind . . . and sometimes they walk for long distances without the distraction of grass on which to nibble. In the storms of 1949 and this October, that walk was a death march.

My trip 40 years ago was with then-state Sen. Howard Lamb of Anselmo. He explained winter and the danger of blizzards in the sprawling 43rd District, which has always had more cows than people. Current Sen. Al Davis, a Hyannis rancher, recently spoke of the impact of the October storm on the district that covers 17,000 square miles, bigger than several New England states combined.

Davis and others emphasize the overwhelming economic impact of cattle loss to a rancher. Ranchers were on the cusp of selling calves, which is what generates their annual income. The calves that died represent a full year's earning. The storm also killed cows pregnant with next year's calves, so next year's income is gone. And then there's the loss of future calving potential.

All this came at a time when the federal government was shut down and application for the livestock indemnity program - a safety net for such disasters on ranches - was also shut down. Ranchers had to pay for disposal of the dead carcasses to prevent the spread of disease. A spokeswoman for the Nebraska

Cattlemen's Association said the losses were the worst in at least 50 years.

Three people died in a weather-related automobile accident in Dawes County in northwest Nebraska. The 1949 blizzard killed six. The state's worst-ever blizzard, the Schoolhouse Blizzard of 1888, killed 235 school children who were stranded in a number of country schools. Many died when heating oil ran out. Others died while trying to get to shelter elsewhere.

The reluctant hero of that blizzard was schoolteacher Minnie Freeman, who led 13 students from their school to her house about a mile away. A mural of that rescue is featured on the east wall between the north doors and the Rotunda at the State Capitol. It's a grim reminder of the perils of weather and winter in this expansive state.

Folks who exhibit the cussed independence it takes to live in these mostly square states out west also exhibit a tremendous spirit of self-reliance. They'll weather this economic crisis and the pending cold and moist weather to come. A fund has been established to help. The Cattlemen Relief Fund, P.O. Box 1125, Chadron, Neb., 69337 is currently accepting donations. Give if you can. It's a great idea.

Celebrating state's community colleges

Dear Fellow Nebraskans:

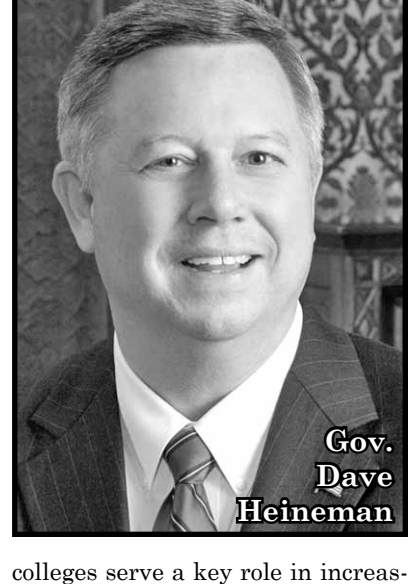

This week I'd like to highlight the work of Nebraska's Community Colleges. Education and jobs are key to Nebraska's future. An important mission for our state is to ensure that our students are prepared to compete in a 21st century, technology-driven, global, free market economy. Nebraska's six community colleges provide excellent opportunities for students to learn the skills they will need today in order to be successful in the future.

These colleges are Central Community College, Metro Community College, Mid-Plains Community College, Northeast Community College, Southeast Community College and Western Community Colleges.

They have campuses spread all across Nebraska with each Community College serving a designated area of Nebraska.

The community colleges are actively involved in educating the State of Nebraska's greatest resource - our students. They are helping them as they grow and develop into the community leaders of tomorrow.

Nebraska's community colleges are locally governed and have a major emphasis on occupational education. They were designed to be the most accessible postsecondary educational system in the state offering an affordable, high-quality education, and geographically situated around the state. Our community colleges serve a key role in increasing the number of college bound students in our state.

Additionally, the colleges serve as a link between businesses and higher education to create programs which result in a highly-skilled workforce. Nebraska's community colleges are a link to the future for our local communities, regions and the state. The community colleges focus on applied technology, vocational, and occupational education and training.

As part of Nebraska's P-16 Initiative, our overall objective is to strengthen our state's education system from pre-school through higher education. For the past four years, Nebraska's P-16 Initiative has focused efforts on eight goals.

Goal five is to improve Nebraska's college going rate to the top 10 tier nationally.

I'm pleased to report that, according to the most current data available, Nebraska is now a top 10 college-going state. We're ranked 7th in the nation with 69.5 percent of Nebraska students continuing on to college after high school. Community colleges are a key part of this effort.

We invite you to discover for yourself the quality of educational programs offered at these institutions and the affordability of attending a community college. I encourage prospective students and their parents to make time for a personal visit to these campuses as they prepare to make the important decision of selecting a college. Nebraska's Community Colleges offer a great opportunity to further your student's education.

Education success and economic success are directly linked. We want our graduates and young professionals to be prepared for high-quality, high-skill jobs with dynamic companies doing business in Nebraska.

A high school education is no longer sufficient. Every student needs at least two years of college. Education is an investment that will pay dividends for individuals, families and communities throughout Nebraska for years to come.

Students share thoughts on the Wayne tornado

The following stories were submitted by Joan Hansen, third grade teacher at Wayne Elementary School.

A number of her students wrote journals about their activities and feelings after the tornado hit the eastern edge of Wayne on Oct. 4.

Tornado By Brogran Foote

Friday, October 4 began as a rainy day off from school because of Parent, Student, Teacher conferences. My sister took care of my brother Hunter and I. We had to go get her paycheck from Subway in Hartington, NE so Hunter, Courtney and I played "I Spy." Before we got home we went to the college and got my sister's dentist payment, so we put it in the Burrow's dentist mailbox.

Then we went to the courthouse to get her car licensed. Finally, we went home.

My mom called my sister and said we were in a tornado watch, but I did not know that because I was playing "Minecraft" on my Kindle Fire HD. My dad came home first, and then my mom. My mom told me to get downstairs, so I did. I got all my favorite stuff and got in the utility room. I sat there thinking what the tornado could do and the houses that would be destroyed. I was sitting on my blanket and my brother was sucking on his thumb, and calls it "MeMe." I don't judge him because I have one too. My mom did not let me go upstairs because we thought our shed was gone, but it was not gone. My mom, Dad, and sister saw five or four funnels mix into one! I did not hear the tornado, but somebody told me it sounded like a train and they were on the east side of town.

After the storm, our camper moved about 20 feet. Our playground was destroyed, and our car was smashed into our camper. Our yellow slide is in cornfield. The new airport garage was destroyed. I could have gotten hit because it wrecked Krusemark's and they are only 1 and a half miles away. Krusemark's house is unbelievable with no top and no walls! On Saturday, my dad fixed our roof that had lost shingles. That afternoon and Sunday, my dad and I went to help the Haase's clean their farm place. My grandparent's house was okay but a tree fell down close to their house. It's gone now. My neighbors animals were okay.

Afterwards, I was glad towns came to help, like Norfolk, Pender, Sioux City, Randolph, Laurel, Lindsey, Wakefield, Winside and Hartington. After the tornado, lots of stuff was gone. The new stuff on the east side was demolished. The new office and airport garage were destroyed. Grossenberg building was on the tractor equipment. There goes harvesting for the year. Prime Stop does not have a ceiling after the tornado, and inside the windows were broken. Someone's car was beeping nonstop, but then it finally quit.

The tornado was 2 or 1 mile long. Wayne is on news like Channel 4, Today, the Weather Channel and more. It went up Northeast for two more hours. Wayne has the United States record because it was in the longest tornado for now. It is mostly the thing everybody is talking about because we're not supposed to have tornadoes in October. Wayne, NE will never forget October 4, 2013.

Wayne, NE Tornado! By Tasha Petersen

On October 3, 2013 after school Mom picked me up and we headed for grandma's house in Elk Point, SD. Next Mom went to pick up my aunt Dawn in Jefferson. Then went home and got ready for bed. The next day, they got up and went to school because my Mom is a teacher. After school they came back to our house to get ready to go to Kansas City. They ended up in the basement.

At grandma's we were getting ready for supper. We cooked yummy goulash. We were watching the news and it said Wayne was under a tornado watch. Next I asked grandma for her phone to make sure Mom was ok. She was in the basement and safe. I told her "I am scared." She told me not to worry. She is ok.

At John Deere there was kids taking toys and leaving. Part of the Airport is gone. In Elk Point my cousins Bret and Ben were watching for a tornado to warn us. At grandma's we were about to go to the basement just to be safe.

We will always remember October 4, 2013 By Easton Blecke

Friday October 4th began as a rainy Friday off from school because of student parent teacher conferences. I went to Ben's house and Ben and I were building tracks. Then we found a roly polly and put him on the track. But he was dead.

My dad came to get me at 1:00. We waited in the Dairy Queen line for 25 minutes then pulled out because it was taking forever. So we went back home. Treyton and I were staying home alone. We played legos and then popped some popcorn and watched a movie. After our movie we went to pay lego's some more but then our Mom texted us and told us to get into the storage room and turn on the TV. Then, about five minutes later our Mom and Dad came home. We got food, shoes and coats. We were watching the TV and all of a sudden, the siren went off and so did the power. Treyton and I were playing cards. Then I heard a sound like a train coming at our house. About 10 minutes later the lights came on.

On Sunday, October 6th we drove around town with our grandparents. Then we ordered pizza and ate it for supper. We saw a grain car in the Logan Creek. NAPA was destroyed. The softball complex was destroyed too. And that Friday was a bad Friday.

The Tornado! By Coby Dickes

Friday, October 4th began as a rainy day off from school because of Parent, Student, Teacher conferences. In the afternoon Mom and I were playing Scrabble. Then the tornadoes started to land and it was coming toward our house! So we went into the basement at my house and then the lights started to flicker and the power went out. I got my puffer fish and my dog as fast as I could but when we came up our place was fine.

But John Deere, the softball field, Koenig fertilizer, Napa, Airport and the Plant Market were destroyed. At the airport there was only one little airplane left and there was also a gas leak. So mom, dad and I helped pick up the rubble where the tornado hit and my uncle had to spend Saturday and Sunday at my house because it was going to hit Ponca. He has a dog named Butterscotch and they are okay. The power finally turned back on at ten-thirty p.m. and we had supper at Dairy Queen after the tornado.

Wayne will never forget that day.

All about the Wayne NE Tornado!

By Hailey Schroeder

Friday October 4, 2013 began as a rainy day off from school because of parent, student, teacher conferences. On Friday I went to my daycare at the rec. Then my dad picked me up at 4:30 because he just got done early.

Then we drove home. My Mom called us and told us to go to the store to get supper. Then we were done at the store and we were 30 seconds away from our house. And she told us to get to the basement. She was already down there, but then she had to go to my cousin Courtney because she was home alone. When Courtney's Dad came home, my mom came back home.

She helped us put grocery's away. Next we rushed to the basement, but it didn't look like it was going to tornado. My Aunt Julie told us to get to the basement but we were already down there. My aunt Julie knew because she is an assistant Fire Chief for Wayne Fire Department. It started to hail when we got down there. And the wind picked up and blew very, very, very hard. All of the suddenly it was quiet and my Dad said it's done, let's go back up stairs and my Mom said let's stay right here. Later we knew it was done.

So we went to get my grandma because she was kinda scared. Then my aunt Terri called and asked if we were okay and we said "yes." And she said that Grossenburg just got hit but Uncle Don is okay! Then me, my Mom, Uncle Pat, Cousin Danny, Cousin Courtney went to look and then a little later we had to leave because the ambulance was coming and it was getting dark and power lines were down. Then when we were walking home my Uncle Don came by and jumped off the truck and one of Don's workers dropped him off, but he asked if we could bring him home. Just then Aunt Terri texted my mom and told her she would pick him up at our house. On Saturday I didn't get to see my dad very much because he was busy hooking up electricity for people and businesses.

There were probably 12 houses destroyed and 10 businesses totally ruined. Everybody is okay at the moment. There were 2 guys from the hospital taken to the hospital. Only one person was very injured and a dumpster landed on him. He is in a coma for 3 days and he broke his leg.

I will always remember October 4, 2013.

Tornado

By Brooklyn Kruse

Friday, October 4th began as a rainy day off from school because of Parent, Student, Teacher conferences. I was playing outside with Joslyn, my neighbor and we were catching grasshoppers. We caught 3 and 1 dragonfly.

My sister was at Nina's house for a play date. But she was just fine. Andy my brother was at Aiden's house. I wish they were there but they came home when it was done. I was watching TV when they said a weather warning for Wayne. I rushed down stairs in my dad's office and he was there. We checked the weather and we called my Mom. She works at Norfolk but she was not there. She was at an airport. After the tornado, Lindsey came over and her Mom, Dad, sister and me drove around and we went through the softball complex. The new shed they built is flat down and the grass is all ripped up and there was a grain bin that had a big dent in it. We saw a lot of trees down. The plane at the airport is ruined and John Deere is also wrecked. When we got back, we had a block party. The whole neighborhood was there. We saw a football in the grass at the end of the street. It was in the gutter by my house and it was orange and purple. It came from somewhere that was hit by the tornado. I am so glad that no one got hurt. Because of the fierce destructive tornado, October 4, 2013 will long be remembered.

Wild Tornado in Wayne Nebraska

By Erin Avery

Friday, October 4th began as a rainy day off from school because of Parent, Student, Teacher conferences. It was to rainy to go outside. So I just sat around the house. Then the afternoon came. I was watching TV when the T.V. lost signal and the sirens went off.

My sister was at her friends house, so my sister had to come home. Then we all got to the basement. My dad was on our front porch looking for the tornado. My sisters and I were sad. Soon the power went out. I sat on the bed trying to hold the dogs down stairs. When the tornado was over. We watched the news and saw pictures of houses and businesses that were wrecked. We heard three tornados came together and made a huge tornado two miles wide! We also heard there was a person in his car then his car started picking up, so he had to jump out his door.

Mrs. Krusemark's house is gone. When the storm was close to their house Mr. Krusemark was watching for the tornado then he quickly came down and had to hold the door closed till it was over. Then Mr. Krusemark went upstairs but came back to the basement and told them they needed another home. The tornado was two blocks away from our new house. The east is really badly damaged and the west isn't. Then the next day I didn't do much.

My family is thankful that no one was hurt, but we won't forget it.

Tornado on Friday, October 4, 2013

By Maiah J. Davis

Friday, October 4, 2013 there were parent, student, teacher conferences no school because of them. It was a stormy Friday morning. My Amazing home-schooled friends came over. Allesandra is 7, Luke is 5 and Talia Persanti is 2. They came over while their mom was in Sioux City. My entire family was home. Allesandra and I were crafting. Luke and Hannah were chasing cats. Talia was playing Barbies and Isaac was locked at the computer. We were playing peacefully then B E E E E P! Isaac got off the computer. My Dad was cooking potatoes, but then he came downstairs Flash! the lights went out. I already had flashlights down stairs cause Luke was turning off the lights. Allesandra, LUke and Talia were worried sick about their parents. We went to Isaac's room for about 20 minutes. We read a couple books while the lights out. Afterwards we went upstairs, untouched and had potatoes and toppings.

An hour later Allesandra's dad came and picked them up. The next day we went to see the damage. I was so hurt that I found my eyes watering. I was heart broken. John Deere was smashed to a crumb. The airport was toppled, Primestop had a gas leak, but McDonald's didn't have a scratch.

Forever, I, Maiah J. Davis, will always remember Friday, October 4, 2013 Wayne Tornado.

The fierce tornado in Wayne NE

By Madison Urbanec

Friday, October 4, 2013 began as a rainy day off from school because of Parent, Student, Teacher conferences. My mom, my brother and I were at home. My dad was at John Deere. They didn't hear the loud sirens go off. They say Dave's back window popped out. He said, "Everyone get to shelter." They don't have a basement so they went to the customer bathroom. One guy was under a combine and two guys were under a small tractor. One guy has glass cut in his face but nobody else got hurt. My mom, my brother and I were so worried. Then when my dad came home, I gave him a big hug. To me he was a hero!

The next day we helped my dad find most of his stuff, but we couldn't find his marble business card hold that we made for him. Only the east side of Wayne got hit. Last we went to the Ministorage to check on our van, and it still worked! So now that's my dad's car. Saturday we went to Sioux City because he had to get out of town. Then Sunday we went to church, and rented the "Croods" and relaxed for the rest of the day.

Because of the fierce tornado, October 4, 2013 will be well remembered.

Work and family: today's juggling act

Working families are under stress as they try to balance demands of job, children and spouse.

Strategies are needed to prevent stress overload and burnout.

As individuals attempt to juggle two jobs and a family, they often try to become "superpersons," wanting it all, having it all, and doing it all. Balancing work and family is both a female and male issue. The consequences of not being able to achieve a balance between the worlds of work and family are serious. Families need to adopt some strategies to help them manage their juggling act so they don't "drop too many balls."

Strategy 1. Adapt to change. Adapting to any demand for change is a necessary task, whether it be new employment or a new family member. Responsibilities of household chores need to be shared by everyone.

Strategy 2. Adjust your expectations.

Adjusting expectations about your family life and household tasks is a must. Determine the things that are really necessary, and those that are optional in work and family life.

Strategy 3. Be a good employee. Job demands for time and energy are great. For most individuals, job fulfillment and satisfaction are important in managing stress.

Strategy 4. Get your family's support.

Women are more likely to be satisfied if their spouses are supportive of their work outside the home. Extended family support is also helpful.

Strategy 5. Take time for yourself. Taking time for ourselves can be a critical source of renewal. Me time is very necessary and legitimate and can provide bottom-line benefits for everyone.

Strategy 6. Take time for your spouse.

Studies show the demands of work can seriously undermine the marital bond. People are too tired and worn out to be good partners. Take time for your partner.

Strategy 7. Take time for your children.

Children need guidance, love, nurturing and discipline. It is important for parents to attend school and other activities, listen to and talk with their children, work together and play together and teach the values and ideals they deem important, because if they don't, children will adopt someone else's.

Strategy 8. Use high quality child care.

Researchers have found that the parents experience less guilt and stress at work if high quality child care is used.

Praise Assembly discusses faith

In his sermon on Oct. 27, Rev. Jason Pickering, pastor of Praise Assembly of God Church, asked the question: "What are you doing each day that requires faith in God?"

He told his audience, "It is impossible to remove references to faith in the Bible - especially when it applies to the power of God being released in supernatural ways that make differences in the lives of people."

Pastor Pickering cited five principles about faith, based on a text from Hebrews 11:1-2:

1. Faith is acting on what you see God doing: NOW.

2. We must be careful: anything we want to do in the Kingdom of God that is not motivated by faith is called "sin" in the Bible.

3. It is not possible to please God without faith.

4. If we have faith without love, we are of no value. Why? Because love treats others the way that we would want to be treated - if we were in the other person's position.

5. The law of faith declares that faith is an act - and is connected to our deeds or behavior.

The comforting fact (also mentioned in the Bible) is that God has given to every person a "measure of faith".

This weekend the Sunday morning service is at 10:30 a.m., which follows Sunday School for all ages, starting at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday family activities begin at 6:30 p.m.

The congregation will celebrate its Missions Sunday on Sunday morning, Nov. 17, and will connect it with the "Harvest Festival."

The money spent in our community has so much more impact than many people realize.

Only a small portion stays with the business that a person initially purchases from.

The rest continues to be dispersed further into the community through things like employee wages and purchasing supplies from other local businesses.

It's a giant ripple effect that does nothing but benefit everyone in the community.

Broadband plans are announced

The Nebraska Broadband Initiative has released a series of regional plans outlining priorities and strategies on broadband usage throughout the state.

"Broadband is key for economic development and quality life," said Charlotte Narjes, the special programs coordinator for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's Center for Applied Rural Innovation. "We hope that Nebraska continues to move forward economically."

Roger Terry, a professor of agricultural leadership, education and communication, said that rural areas use broadband to help retain young people and recruit families to their area.

"Rural areas want to see an increase in economic development and to be sure that they can sustain their economy in their areas," Terry said. "They also see broadband usage and application as an opportunity to increase the quality of life and the well-being of rural families."

On Nov. 1, the Nebraska Broadband Initiative will host a state broadband plan kickoff. The event will be at 1526 K Street in the lower level. There will be a video conference at the event linking up to sites across the state.

For more information on the event, go to www.nitc.nebraska.gov.

The plans can be found at broadband.nebraska.gov/RegionalPrioritySummary.

To learn more about the Nebraska Broadband Initiative, visit www.broadband.nebraska.gov.

Roast beef dinner planned in Winside

Winside United Methodist Church members will host their annual roast beef dinner on Sunday Nov. 10 at the church, located at 207 Jones Street.

Serving will be from 11 a.m.-1:30 p.m. This annual event is open to the general public.

They will be serving roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans, lettuce salad, bread and butter, dessert bar and drink for a small charge. Carry outs are available locally by calling (402) 286-4914 or calling the church that day at (402) 286-4481.

Crop Walk

The Annual Wayne Community Crop Walk was held Oct. 13. Many of the walkers have shared their time volunteering in the community with the clean up from the tornado in addition to taking time to come out and walk for Communities Responding to Overcome Poverty.

Acme Club holds Oct. 21 meeting

The Acme Club met at Tacos & More on Oct. 21 with eight members present for dessert and coffee.

Pat Straight was hostess and began the meeting by reading the children's story "Love You Forever," a book she had read with her sons when they were small.

President Joann Temme called the business meeting to order. For roll call members told about a book or poem they shared with their children. Ruth Victor gave the Thought for the Day - "Happiness is a choice, a lot of unhappiness is of your own making. You don't have to look for it, it's there all the time. It's not luck or good fortune, it's fulfillment and satisfaction. Be cheerful and the joy will come to you."

Members decided to give a donation to Thrivent to be used for the Wayne area Tornado Relief Fund.

Mrs. Straight gave a program about the Hutterite Colony she visited at Lake Andes, S.D. this summer.

Hutterites are a faith group stemming from the Radical Reformation of the 16th century. Hutterites and Mennonites share common roots. Both of these groups are anabaptist and trace their beginning to the same era.

The religion of the Hutterites is unique in that they believe in community of goods, in which all material goods are held in common. All members of the colony are provided for equally and no assets are to be kept for personal gain. They do not have personal bank accounts; rather, earnings are held communally and funding and necessities are distributed according to one's needs.

Since the death of their namesake, Jakob Hutter in 1536, the beliefs of the Hutterites, especially living in a community of goods and absolute pacifism, have resulted in hundreds of years of odyssey through many countries.

Nearly extinct by the 18th and 19th centuries, the Hutterites found a new home in North America. Over 125 years their population grew from 400 to 42,000.

Today most Hutterites live in western Canada and the upper Great Plains of the U.S. They colonies are all rural; many depend largely on farming or ranching, depending on their local, for their income. Some also run industrial hog, dairy, turkey, chicken and egg production operations.

In Dakota, they had a flock of 13,000 turkeys. A group of 44 colonies joined to create a turkey processing center where their poultry can be processed.

At Lake Andes, they raise Piedmontese cattle. These cattle are fed and bred to produce longer and leaner animals and the meat is more tender. They take these animals to shows and have received many awards. The bulls are imported from Italy and crossed with other breeds so they can be of various colors.

Mrs. Straight's son, Don, is the business manager for this cattle operation.

The Hutterites do not send their children to an outside school, but, instead, build their own at the colony.

In contrast to the plain look of the Amish and Mennonites, Hutterite clothing can be vividly colored, especially on children. Most clothing is homemade at the colony. In the past, shoes were homemade, but not are mostly store-bought.

Meals are taken by the entire colony in a dining or fellowship room. Men and women sit in a segregated fashion. Special occasions sometimes allow entire families to enjoy meals together.

The next meeting of the Acme club will be Monday, Nov. 4 with Verdelle Reeg as hostess.

More pessimism in rural areas

Rural residents were feeling quite pessimistic about their present and future in this year's Nebraska Rural Poll this year.

Poll organizers note that the poll is taken annually in late winter and early spring, so it reflects opinions at that time; those opinions can change in a matter of months as conditions change. In February and March, for instance, rural Nebraskans no doubt had drought on their minds and the overwhelmingly red state still might have been smarting over President Obama's re-election.

Still, the increase in pessimism in the last year was striking, they said. In 2013, only 34 percent of respondents said they expected to be better off in 10 years, down from 45 percent last year and the lowest in the 18-year history of the Nebraska Rural Poll. The proportion of respondents who said they expect to be worse off in 10 years was at an all-time high - 32 percent, up from 20 percent last year.

Rural Nebraskans also were less positive about their current situation, with 42 percent saying they were better off than they were five years ago, compared to 51 percent in 2012. The proportion of rural Nebraskans who believed they were worse off than they were five years ago increased from 21 percent to 26 percent.

The 18th annual University of Nebraska-Lincoln poll was sent to 6,320 households in Nebraska's 84 nonmetropolitan counties in March and April. Results are based on 2,317 responses.

Although the poll found unprecedented levels of pessimism about the future, it did reflect a fairly consistent trend over its history: Respondents tend to be most pessimistic or doubtful in times of uncertainty, not in the midst of bad times, said Becky Vogt, poll manager.

Earlier this year certainly qualified, as rural Nebraskans were reflecting on 2012's drought, considered the worst in at least 50 years, and wondering whether it would continue through this year's growing season, noted Brad Lubben, UNL public policy specialist.

National politics also might have played a role in rural Nebraskans' pessimism, said Randy Cantrell, rural sociologist with the Rural Futures Institute. It wasn't just that Democrat Barack Obama was re-elected in 2012, with only 38 percent support statewide in Nebraska. It might also reflect the heightened ideological battles that don't seem to subside even after elections are over, feeding into the angst of voters.

The Rural Poll is the largest annual poll of rural Nebraskans' perceptions on quality of life and policy issues. This year's response rate was about 37 percent. The margin of error is plus or minus 2 percent. Complete results are available online at ruralpoll.unl.edu.

Wanted ... Church news

The Wayne Herald would like to print information and schedules from area churches.

All information submitted to the Herald by Monday at 5 p.m. (delivered to the Herald office) or emailed by 8 a.m. on Tuesday will be included in that week's edition of the paper.

CPR Renewal courses set at Northeast College

The Allied Health Department at Northeast Community College in Norfolk has scheduled additional one-credit CPR-Healthcare Provider Renewal courses in November and December.

The course, with course number HLTH 0205/13F and CRN

#60186, will be held Monday, Nov. 11 from 6-10 p.m. in the Ag/Allied Health building, Room 216. The course, with course number HLTH 0205/13F and CRN #60187, will be offered Monday, Dec. 9, at the same time and location.

This course is specifically designed to provide in-depth training, including two-man and use of the automated external defibrillators (AED). It is for those who hold a professional license, work in a health care facility, or volunteer with a fire department or emergency medical service (EMS), and for those who need to renew their card.

Students are asked to bring their current certification card to the class. Brandon Lubke is the instructor with a cost of $19.

Students must pre-register. To register, call Northeast Community College at (402) 844-7265.

Funds available for windbreak renovations

The USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) has funding available for landowners and operators to restore windbreaks. Funds and technical assistance is currently available from NRCS through their Cooperative Conservation Partnership Incentive program.

Windbreaks are one or more rows of trees or shrubs planted to provide shelter from the wind and to protect soil from erosion. They are commonly planted around the edges of fields on farms. If designed properly, windbreaks around a home can reduce the cost of heating and cooling and save energy. Other benefits include providing habitat for wildlife.

According to Nebraska NRCS Forester Constance Miller, several windbreaks in the state have suffered heavy tree loss, and are in need of renovation.

"Windbreaks that were planted to help protect cropland, farmsteads and livestock have suffered heavy tree losses due to dry conditions, disease and age. This program can help landowners reestablish trees and get these windbreaks back to providing protection from the wind and heat in the summer and capturing snow and blocking the cold in the winter," Miller said.

Interested individuals may file an application at any time, but the ranking of applications on hand to receive funding will begin Aug. 14, 2013. The first step is to visit your local NRCS field office and complete an application.

For more than 75 years, the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service has helped agricultural producers with conservation plans.

NRCS Conservationists will work with landowners on their farm or ranch to develop a conservation plan based on resource goals. Conservation planning assistance is free and does not require participation in financial programs.

For more information about this and the other conservation programs available through NRCS, visit www.ne.nrcs.usda.gov.

UNL to host Youth Beef Leadership Symposium for high school students

Youth interested in Nebraska's beef industry can attend the Nebraska Youth Beef Leadership Symposium Nov. 22-24.

The symposium will be held at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's East Campus in the Animal Science Complex.

Youth need to be at least freshman in high school. There will be two sessions available, one for freshman and sophomore students and another for juniors and seniors.

"It's an excellent opportunity for youth to engage with each other and specialists on campus, extension personnel and industry leaders," said Lindsay Chichester, UNL Extension educator. "It's fun. They have a really good time with it."

Check-in for freshman and sophomores will be at 11:30 a.m. on Nov. 22.

The freshman and sophomore session will provide an introduction to the beef industry and provide information about career options. The youth will be put into teams and each team will complete a media blast on the nutrition benefits of beef in the diet, which will be presented to parents and guests at the luncheon on Nov. 23.

The junior and senior session will be held Nov. 23-24.

Check-in will be held at 1:15 p.m. on Nov. 23. The session will feature in-depth information about the beef industry, meat science and marketing. Youth will have the opportunity to work with a professional chef and a meat science specialist to create a new beef dish.

The culmination will be presentations in a "booth" atmosphere where UNL students and faculty can also interact with the groups about their projects.

Registration is $30 per student. The registration fee is due Oct. 31. Registration after Oct. 31 and before Nov. 8 is $50.

Four CASNR $500 scholarships will be awarded to juniors and seniors.

To register or for more information, visit animalscience.unl.edu/ANSCExtensionYouthProgram-NYBLS.

Leafy Spurge Task Force to meet Nov. 7

The quarterly meeting of the Nebraska Leafy Spurge Working Task Force will be held Thursday, Nov. 7 at the RC&D office in Bassett.

The meeting will convene at 12:30 p.m. with the following topics to be discussed: Biological Control, Legislative Update, Public Relations and an update from the Advisory Committee.

New business will include: Planning for the 2014 annual meeting, 2014 dues and the election of officers.

This meeting is open to the public and anyone interested in noxious and invasive plants are encouraged to attend.

USDA's Farm Service Agency issues ACRE revenue payments

Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Director Dan Steinkruger announced that both non-irrigated corn and non-irrigated soybeans have been determined eligible in Nebraska for revenue payments, called "ACRE-ACRE" payments, under the provisions of the 2012 Average Crop Revenue Election (ACRE).

Additional Nebraska crops qualifying for ACRE revenue payments include both irrigated and non-irrigated barley and dry peas.

"The impact to our corn and soybean yields resulting from the extreme drought conditions during the 2012 growing season caused revenue declines that are now compensated by the ACRE program" Steinkruger added. ACRE revenue payments will assist in mitigating the portion of a revenue loss not covered by crop insurance indemnities.

The ACRE program, as a part of the 2008 Farm Bill, provides a revenue safety net which protects declines in either yield or price. Nebraska qualified to have irrigated and non-irrigated acreages of corn and soybeans considered as separate crops. ACRE crops may be eligible for payment when the actual state revenue is less than the crop's state ACRE guarantee.

In order to earn payments, each farm participating in ACRE must also hit the "farm trigger", which means the actual 2012 farm revenue is less than the farm's benchmark revenue. Benchmark revenue is calculated using a 5-year average yield, and a 2-year average national market price. Actual revenue cannot be determined until the end of a crop's marketing year, which was Aug. 31, 2013 for 2012 crop corn and soybeans.

Under the provisions of the 2008 Farm Bill, farmers and landowners had an opportunity each year to elect participation in either the ACRE program or the Direct and Counter-cyclical Program (DCP). The ACRE election could be made in any year, but was then irrevocable through the end of the Farm Bill. In exchange for the revenue protection offered by ACRE, participants gave up 20 percent of their direct payments. ACRE payments are calculated using 85 percent of the planted acres, not to exceed a farm's base acres.

Nebraska had approximately 17,000 farms participating in ACRE in 2012. Individual questions on payments and calculations should be directed to the local FSA Office where the ACRE contract is administered. For more information on DCP, ACRE and other FSA programs, visit your local FSA Service Center or www.fsa.usda.gov.

Celtic Thunder provides enjoyable evening

I seldom watch TV, but I check TCM every day and if there is a great, classic musical scheduled, I settle in to enjoy. Also, I notice what is going on with NET. They show a few Nebraska volleyball games, which we appreciate, and when they are doing fund raising, they often have a group called Celtic Thunder. I didn't know much about them, except that they can sing!

They tour in the US almost every year, and have been in Lincoln before, as evidenced by the reruns of their shows on PBS. But it's sometimes hard to enjoy them when interrupted by the hosts asking us to call a toll free number and make a pledge. Don't get me wrong, I know the station needs support, and we need to help, since we do enjoy things like NU volleyball and state high school wrestling finals. But I always hoped to see them perform "live and in person."

Friend Marsha e-mailed that she was coming to see me on Oct. 25, and if that was going to work, she would request it off from work. Since we worked together for years in Home Health in Norfolk, we always have plenty to reminisce about. Plus, she has been shouldering more and more of the "nitty gritty" demanded by Medicare, and it's always interesting to hear the latest.

When the time came closer, I noticed ads that said the Irish guys would be at the Lied Center on the evening of the 25th. We had already decided she was going to stay overnight, so I asked if she was interested in hearing them. She said, sure! Then, I got on line and discovered that the tickets were kind of pricey. I asked if she was certain about going.

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

Her answer was very positive; "You and I have each lost a parent and a brother this year. We need to do these things while we can." And she added that her brother had lived his life like that; come to think of it, so had mine. When I called to reserve the tickets, the gal informed me that it was a fund raiser for NET, so that explained the price.

Well, it was worth it! If you've heard them, you know that there are six singers, and they are all soloists in their own right. Their stage features a Celtic cross, and steps that resemble ancient stones in the Emerald Isle. There was some great lighting, but we were most intrigued by the excellent musicians who accompanied them. The fellow at the keyboard never looked at a note; I don't think any of them did, actually. There was a bass viol and a violin, a couple of guitars, and one fellow who did it all; flute, string, and something that looked like a bagpipe. Two were in kilts.

And, of course, the group finished the evening in their kilts, singing

"Ireland" in their big voices. It was a wonderful show, and a memorable one for Marsha and me. I'm really glad she talked me into it. It was worth the money! Of course, now, I wish I could go on the cruise they are doing next month! Don't think that's going to happen, however.

Don't let the little spooks get you this Thursday!

Time to test for soybean cyst nematode

Here is my annual issue on a topic that still needs a lot of attention. We need to get all area fields tested for the presence of a "stealth pest", the soybean cyst nematode (SCN). In our meetings with growers and consultants over the last several years, we have often heard the comment that some area soybean fields are not yielding as well as they have in the past, or that they have not reached yield expectations relative to the type of soil and varieties planted. While many different causes can reduce soybean yields, recent discoveries suggest that you should consider looking into the soybean cyst nematode as a potential yield-robbing problem.

The soybean cyst nematode (SCN) is the most serious pest of soybeans in the United States, causing farmers millions of dollars in losses each year. It is a "stealth" pest in that often SCN will reveal no specific symptoms and its effects are often not dramatic. Many farmers do not know their fields are infested with SCN until a severe problem develops. Up to 30 percent yield losses can occur without obvious symptoms.

All counties in northeast Nebraska now have at least some fields with proven SCN infestations. This fall would be a good time to check your fields for soybean cyst nematodes, particularly if you have a field that has been dragging in yield recently. SCN is field specific, not all fields in an area will be infested. Most infestations occur when soil from an infested field

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension
Educator

is carried to a new field by equipment, flooding, or wildlife.

If you decide to take a soil sample for soybean cyst nematode, this can be done at any time of the year, but populations will be highest at harvest. Often people take soil samples after harvest when things slow down. The test is free and is covered by the Soybean Board. Local extension offices should have sample bags but they can be put in any soil sampling bag. Take samples 6-8 inches in depth in the old soybean row in several places in the field. Mix them together into one sample like you would for a fertility test.

Once in a field, soybean cyst nematode will never go away. The key to keeping soybean fields at high production levels is to keep the population of soybean cyst nematode low by crop rotation and the use of resistant varieties. If the nematodes are not detected soon enough and numbers become high, fields will need to be rotated to a non-host crop for several years. Most seed companies have SCN resistant soybeans available in Nebraska. In fields found positive for soybean cyst nematode, plan to monitor the population every few years. Populations can and do change.

Contact your local extension office for more information.

AN UPDATE FROM DAVE

Dave Olson -
"The old building is gone!"

Dave Olson

All the steel is gone and the concrete is torn up. The 48x96 building has the sheeting done and the steel is going up this week. Hopefully it will be completed in two weeks, depending on the weather. We plan to be working out of this building this winter.

Finalized plans are done and the blueprints are ready for the 56,000 sq.ft. building. Completion of that building will be determined by the weather. We are anticipating to be done in 6 months.

There are 4-5 service trucks out every day working to get customers through harvest. We are also working out of several farm locations doing service work.

We are open for parts in their new location on Providence Road next to Herman Chiropractic.

Thank you so much to each and everyone that showed up at 7 am on Saturday October 5th to help us clean up. We are so grateful to have such great people in our lives.
Kory & Lisa Leseberg

We wish to say a big thank you to all of you that made our difficult time easier. Thanks to Hasemann Funeral Home for your help and courtesy.

Special thanks to Father Beran and Deacon Pat Gross, and to all of St. Mary's Parish for the music, coffee hour and wonderful luncheon.

A heartfelt thanks goes out to Dr. Lindau, staff and Hospice team at Providence Medical Center for your extraordinary care and compassion.

Thank you, especially, to Mom's great neighbors and friends for being there and helping whenever you could with meals, visits or just thoughts and prayers. Your thoughtfulness, generosity and support is greatly appreciated.

The Family of Elaine Pinkelman
 Swede Fredrickson — Cleone Fredrickson

Thank You

They say people come out of the woodwork when one hits the lottery. The tornado was powerful, but it was no Powerball. However, the people of Wayne and the surrounding communities have reached out to our family with open arms, food, equipment, gifts, and prayers to turn a crisis into a celebration of what we have. We can fix what was broke, buy what was lost, and still have one another to hold! Thank you everyone for all you have done.

The family of Ellen Lueders would like to thank the family and friends who sent cards and flowers, those who stopped by the house to bring food and stayed to give us a hug or a shoulder to cry on. A very special thank you to Hillcrest Care Center and Dr. Recob for taking such good care of Ellen these last six months when we no longer were able to let her stay in her own home. We would also like to thank the doctors and staff of Providence Medical Center who took care of her during her stays over the last few months. Everyone was very understanding of her needs and did their best to make her as comfortable as possible. The family wants to say a very sincere and special thank you to Gary West. He always had time for her. Ellen thought the world of him and would often listen to him more than she did her own family. Thank you to Rev. Ron Nelson for coming and visiting with us and for officiating over the funeral service, to Carolyn Harder and Mark Kanitz for the beautiful music and to the ladies of Our Savior Lutheran Church for the wonderful lunch. Thank you also to Scott and the others at Hasemann Funeral Home for everything they did and for being so thoughtful and understanding to us all. "Thank You" just does not seem enough to say to all who have been there for us during this difficult time. Ellen was loved by her family and friends and will be deeply missed, and even though she is no longer here with us, our memories will keep her in our hearts forever.

Myla Foote, Bill & Elaine Lueders, Chris Lueders, Joanie and Mel Miller and families

After being in the hospital for a month and home for a couple of weeks, it's about time for me to send out a big "THANK YOU" to all who phoned, sent cards and stopped by for a visit while I was in the hospital. A special thanks to Dr. Martin and the PMC staff for their care; Fr. Beran, Fr. Mac, Deacon Pat Gross, Sister Deana and my family for the visits and what they all they did for me. It was greatly appreciated! I can't help but say a "Big Red Thank You" to Dr. Martin and the PMC staff for getting me released to go home in time to watch the Nebraska football game. Love you and God's blessings to all! Ed Carroll

A heart felt thanks to the Emerson Rescue Unit for assisting me on Monday evening, October 21st and checking on me afterwards. It was very much appreciated.
 Vern P. McAfee

The family of Reuben Linn thanks you for the cards, memorials and food. Hillcrest Care Center was so kind and caring of Reuben. Thank you to Hasemann Funeral Home for their kindness and expertise and to Pastor Todd Thelan for the service and the ladies who served the lunch.
 God Bless You All.
 The Linn Family

Thank you to everyone who helped make our Annual Halloween Dance another success!

We once again had a great variety of costumes and look forward to seeing them all again next year. We would also like to thank those who purchased raffle tickets. The winners of the raffle drawing were Judy Echtenkamp of Wayne and Barb Junck of Carroll and Mashala Davis of Norfolk. All proceeds from the dance will be put towards the funding of a new chassis for a tanker truck. Once again, thanks to everyone for your continued support! See you all next year!

Wayne, Nebraska
October 15, 2013

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session at 9:00 a.m. on Tuesday, October 15, 2013, in the upstairs conference room of the Courthouse.
Roll call was answered by Chairman Burbach, Members Larson and Rabe, and County Clerk Finn.

Advance notice of this meeting was published in the Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on October 10, 2013.

A current copy of the Open Meetings Act was posted in the meeting room and accessible to the public.

Approval of the Signature Estates plat was removed from the agenda and the amended agenda was approved on motion by Rabe, second by Larson. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

The minutes of the October 1, 2013, meeting were approved as printed in the Commissioner's Record.

Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to open a public hearing to amend the budget. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

A public hearing to receive taxpayer support, opposition, or observations relating to the proposed amendment to the 2013-14 budget convened at 9:06 a.m.

Those in attendance included Chairman Burbach, Members Larson and Rabe, and Clerk Finn.

Advance notice of this hearing was published in the Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on October 10, 2013.

The proposed amendment would allow the county to use Highway Allocation funds in the Road/Bridge Fund to make bond payments on road/bridge projects, rather than creating a separate Road/Bridge Construction Fund. There would be no change in the total amount of personal and real property tax dollars requested, and no change in the unused budget authority. The hearing closed at 9:25 a.m.

Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to reconvene the commissioner meeting. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to amend the 2013-14 budget as proposed. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to adopt Resolution No. 13-27. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Resolution No. 13-27: WHEREAS, Wayne County is pursuing using Highway Allocation funds and bond issuance authority found under Section 66-4,101, R.R.S. Neb. 2009 for major bridge repair or replacement; and

WHEREAS, a proposed amendment to the 2013-14 Wayne County budget would allow the county to use the Highway Allocation funds in Road/Bridge Fund to make bond payments on road/bridge projects rather than creating a separate Road/Bridge Construction Fund; and

WHEREAS there would be no change in the total amount of personal and real property tax dollars requested, and no change in the unused budget authority; and

WHEREAS a public hearing was conducted on October 15, 2013 to hear support, opposition, criticism, suggestions or observations to this proposed amendment to the 2013-14 budget;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners that the 2013-2014 Wayne County is amended as proposed and the tax requests for 2013-2014 are approved as follows: General Fund - $4,090,289.63, County Improvement Fund - $141,880.97; Total - $4,232,170.60

Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to recess as Board of Commissioners and convene as Board of Equalization. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Motion by Rabe, second by Larsen to reconvene the commissioner meeting at 10:00 a.m. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Phil Lorenzen of D.A. Davidson recommended the board issue a mix of Highway Allocation Bonds and Rural Road Improvement Bonds. The debt financing could be issued in pieces as construction progressed. Lorenzen was directed to start the paperwork; final project information will be forwarded to him.

On behalf of her parents, LeRoy and Ione Rubeck, Linda Kirsch rejected the county's attempt to purchase a strip of Rubeck's property for public road purposes. County Attorney Pieper requested the Rubecks put their response, or a counter proposal, in writing and drop it off at his office. Pieper also noted that the county would continue moving forward.

Barry Grossenburg and Dave Olson of Grossenburg Equipment told the board they are rebuilding the Wayne dealership recently destroyed by the tornado. Grossenburg said he would like to pay the same taxes the next five years as he paid the last five years, and then work towards paying on the new valuation. Larson recommended they visit with Wes Blecke at Wayne Area Economic Development about funds available for businesses impacted by the tornado, and the availability of economic development funds.

Culvert bids for Project C-90(547), Bridge C009013825 located on Road 846 between 577 and 578 Avenue and Project C-90(582), Bridge C009004705 located on Avenue 581 between 852 and 853 Road were reviewed. Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to accept the bid of $34,592.36 for Project C-90(547) based on delivery date, and to accept the low bid of $28,917.44 for Project C-90(582). Both bids were submitted by Midwest Service & Sales Company. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

The return of distress warrants issued on November 1, 2012 was reviewed. Fifty-seven warrants totaling $17,912.90 were issued; twenty-one warrants totaling $13,503.41 were paid.

Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to recess for lunch as 12:04 p.m. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

The meeting reconvened at 1:18 p.m.

The board met in emergency session on October 7 and October 9 in response to the EF4 tornado that hit Wayne County on Friday, October 4, 2013. Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to reaffirm action taken during the emergency meetings: 1. Haul debris to airport, 2. Authorize county to assist with debris removal from Logan Creek and on private property pending insurance approval, 3. Appoint Dallas Hansen as Debris Manager for the county, 4. Request the Blue Cell team to fulfill the positions of Planning Section Chief and one support staff member for a few days at Command Center, 5. Authorize Chairman to sign Logan Creek Cleanup agreement with Alter Scrap Metal, Inc., 6. Authorize contracting for assistance with finance administration. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

County-owned property damaged by the tornado was discussed with Dave Warnemunde and Scott Watters of Warnemunde Insurance. The Noxious Weed Control building, and the building and garage used by the Department of Health and Human Services were total losses. The county will receive a replacement cost settlement after values have been determined. Building inventories were provided.

The two pickups used by the Weed Superintendent had full coverage. Damage to the pickup mounted sprayer will be determined. The oil-recycling trailer only had liability coverage.

Amir Azimi and Greg Hood from the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services expressed their appreciation for the county relocating their personnel after the tornado. The five staff members will be relocated to the office most recently used by the State Patrol, which is located in the southeast corner of the courthouse basement. Azimi offered to provide ADA evaluations and design assistance when the board considers permanent locations.

Noxious Weed Superintendent Doug Deck met with the board to discuss relocation of remaining property from the Noxious Weed building. The pickups and sprayer have been moved to the County Yard in Wayne. The contents of a file cabinet remained intact, and will be moved to an office in the courthouse basement. Relocation of the spraying equipment and chemicals was discussed, a containment unit will be necessary.
