President issues disaster declaration

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Wayne and other parts of Nebraska will receive disaster assistance after President Obama made a disaster declaration for storms that hit the state in early October.

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Federal Emergency Management Agency announced that federal disaster aid has been made available to the State of Nebraska to supplement state and local recovery efforts in the area affected by severe storms, winter storms, tornadoes and flooding during the period of Oct. 2-6, 2013, which included the Oct. 4 tornado that hit the east side of Wayne, causing more than $50 million in damages to public and private property.

News of the President's announcement was music to the ears of Wayne's mayor, Ken Chamberlain.

"We'll get aid on some of the uninsured costs that our insurance won't cover, which will be a big help," he said.

The President's action makes federal funding available to state and eligible local governments and certain private nonprofit organizations on a cost-sharing basis for emergency work and the repair or replacement of facilities damaged by the Oct. 4 tornado that hit the eastern edge of town, destroying or damaging 20 businesses as well as the city's sports complex and airport. The declaration also helps people in several other Nebraska counties who were impacted by severe storms, winter storms, tornadoes and flooding in Adams, Dawes, Dixon, Howard, Sheridan, Sherman, Sioux and Thurston counties.

Some of the uninsured costs the city will have to deal with include some of the city's power lines and transformers, as well as replacing the sod at the city's softball facility and more than $1 million in uninsured costs at Stan Morris Airport.

"It's not cost-effective to insure transformers, but when a tornado comes along and you lose several of them, it adds up pretty quick," Chamberlain said. "There is about $250,000 in power line-related costs alone that the disaster declaration will help cover."

Wakefield honors elementary school's Blue Ribbon Award

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

WAKEFIELD – Their school's primary color may be maroon, but that didn't stop the community of Wakefield from celebrating the color blue on Friday.

Wakefield Elementary School was honored earlier this year with the National Blue Ribbon Schools Award. The school was one of 286 schools across the country that received the designation for 2013, and elementary principal Jerad Wulf and reading teacher Jamie Manz traveled to Washington, D.C., earlier this month for the official national ceremony to accept the award for the school.

The two danced on stage to the song "Celebration" to help kick off a public ceremony Friday afternoon that included remarks from school and state education officials, as well as teachers and parents in the community who praised the work of students, teachers and the community in helping the school achieve this national honor.

In welcoming a gymnasium full of people to the ceremony, Wulf noted that Wakefield Elementary School was first nominated last winter by the Nebraska Department of Education. An extended application process that outlined strategies, programs and reasons for the school's success was undertaken, and the announcement from Arne Duncan, U.S. Secretary of Education, was made on Sept. 24.

Wulf said that the experience of traveling to the nation's capital to represent the school was a unique opportunity.

"It was a once-in-a-lifetime experience," he told those at Friday's ceremony. "I was amazed to be surrounded by passionate educators who are committed to the level of excellence in education that we see every day in Wakefield. The students and staff have strived for progress, which directly resulted in our nomination."

Wulf told the audience that the community is blessed to have an outstanding group of teachers who work hard to make sure their students learn and have success in the classroom and also praised the students and the community for their involvement.

Tower School kids learn responsibility

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

Civic responsibility is one of the lessons being taught to the students attending the ESU 1 Tower School in Wayne.

The students have undertaken numerous activities in recent months to help reinforce the idea of giving back to the community.

"We strive to teach civic responsibility to the students here and, in the process offer great educational experiences," Chantelle Hoffman, head behavior teacher at the school, said.

This summer, seven students and five staff members picked up trash along the Wayne fitness trail and at the five parks in the community. At the beginning of the school year, the project was undertaken again, this time with 10 students and five staff members collecting trash from this area.

After the Oct. 4 tornado, four of the older students and two staff members picked up debris from a cornfield northeast of Wayne that was affected by the tornado.

In October, a total of 19 students took part in the American Heart Association's Jump Rope for Heart and raised $608.24.

Throughout the fall, the students have folded and assembled newsletters for Haven House.

One of the more popular service projects the students participated in recently was the packaging of Mercy Meals in Norfolk.

"The students made fliers and set up donation cans to collect money from students, parents and staff to help offset the cost of purchasing and packaging the meals," Hoffman said. Nearly $200 was raised before the 10 students and staff traveled to Norfolk for the packaging event.

Several students commented on the activities and their involvement with them.

Timothy Grasmick, 9, said he enjoyed taking part in Jump Rope for Heart, although "it used up my free time."

Emma Matthies, 12, said "Mercy Meals was fun. As a group, we did about 10,000 meals, which are going to help people in the Phillipines." She also said Jump Rope for Heart was "fun."

Garrett Kraemer, 8, couldn't point to just one activity that was his favorite, stating that packing Mercy Meals, Jump Rope for Heart and doing work for Haven House were all fun.

"I like them all. At Mercy Meals, my job was to give them the bags to fill. Sometimes my arms got tired, but we took turns doing different jobs," he said.

Cole Pritchett, 9, also was involved in several of the projects, including Jump Rope for Heart, trash pick-up and filling packages for Mercy Meals.

"I got to be on TV when we were at Mercy Meals. I liked that and I liked going to the mall to have lunch afterwards," he said.

The team received a heroes' welcome with a ride on the city fire trucks back to the college, where they were greeted by the community.

Cold and snow made last Thursday the perfect night for a bowl of soup and hundreds of area residents took advantage of the annual Optimist Soup Supper to do just that. Several varieties of soup made deciding which to have the only problem of the night.

Optimist Club learns about Team Rubicon

Steve Elliott, Interim Dean of Arts and Humanities at Wayne State College, recently spoke to the Wayne Optimist Club, sharing information about the Team Rubicon Veterans who worked with Wayne residents cleaning up the community after the Oct. 4 tornado. Elliott said that the team came into the community and worked with the people to organize and provide the means to help clean up after the tornado. The team is made up of retired service men and women who are trained to organize and find sources to help with disasters of any kind. They worked beside the Salvation Army, which provided food and services for all the volunteers through the first two weeks of recovery. They provided about a million dollars of volunteer work. He noted that there were about 4,000 volunteers. President Jessica Von Fange then continued the meeting by having report updates from various committees. Plans for the annual Soup and Dessert supper was finalized for Nov. 21 at Our Savior Lutheran Church with proceeds going to Optimist Youth Programs. Plans were also made for the annual Krafts for Kids which will be Saturday, Dec. 7 at the Front Porch from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. This will be an opportunity for young children to spend time working with Optimist members making a craft or two while their parents take time to shop. The meeting closed with the Optimist creed.

Pet of the Week

The Pet of the Week at Tenderheart Animal Rescue is Tippi, a 6-10 year old white female cat with a couple of black spots. She has no ear tips, likely due to frostbite. She is very friendly but brooks no interference from other cats so would probably prefer a one cat home. Tippi is on the small side so she is easily picked up and does purr in response to attention. For more information or to adopt Tippi, call (402) 369-6030.

NeNPPD board agrees on power supply arrangement

At a recent Board meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Public Power District (NeNPPD), the Board of Directors reached tentative agreement with Big Rivers Energy Cooperative (BREC) for a new bulk power contract.

"BREC, based in Henderson, Ky., emerged as the finalist of our six-month competitive bid process by indexing their price to a constant 10 percent reduction over rates charged by our present supplier the Nebraska Public Power District," Mark Shults, general manager of NeNPPD, said.

This kind of competition is possible with the advent of multi-State Regional Transmission Organizations (RTOs) like the Southwest Power Pool.

Shults explained that the Southwest Power Pool, as an organization, acts as a market clearing house that permits customers and suppliers to find one another to make deals. This market wasn't possible a few years ago when utilities could refuse access to their own transmission lines, making competition impossible. Other local utilities that participated in the competitive bid process along with NeNPPD were Emerson, Wayne, South Sioux City and Wakefield.

Shults explained that NeNPPD's competitive bid process was initiated in April when NPPD voiced their expectation that bulk power customers, like NeNPPD, needed to sign new, very long term contracts with NPPD to secure NPPD's debt obligations into the future.

"We told NPPD at that time that we may in fact sign a long term contract with them, but only after we went out for bids," Shults said.

He stated that NeNPPD bids tires, trucks and all materials, adding, "Why wouldn't we bid out our single largest purchase decision which amounts to $13 million a year?"

The BREC deal will save NeNPPD's 6,500 customers $1.3 million each year. Also important to NeNPPD was the 10-year term of the BREC contract.

"There is a lot of uncertainty in the energy business today. The NeNPPD Board felt things are changing too fast to obligate our children to purchase power from any given company. We felt 10 years was a more realistic time frame for this kind of decision. A 10-year term simply wasn't offered by NPPD because of their debt situation," Shults said.

Beginning in 2017, NeNPPD customers will receive partial power from NPPD and partial power from BREC through 2021; and at that time, all power will be purchased from BREC through the end of the contract with the Kentucky cooperative.

The bulk power purchase contract with BREC begins in 2018 and runs through 2026. NeNPPD will remain a partial-requirements customer of NPPD through 2021.

Local Rotarians receive award

At a recent meeting, Wayne Rotarians Ann Witkowski and Tom Lee were presented plaques to recognize their support of the Rotary Foundation.

This is Witkowski's fourth Paul Harris Fellow award and Lee's second award. Rotarian members who give $1,000 to the Foundation are awarded this recognition. Many of the members in the Wayne Rotary club are multiple Paul Harris Fellows.

The Rotary Foundation is a not-for-profit corporation that is solely funded by voluntary contributions from members and friends of Rotary who support its mission to advance world understanding, goodwill and peace. By using Foundation grants, Rotary's 34,000 clubs from across the world develop and carry out sustainable humanitarian projects. WSC's Dunning is honored by Higher Education Compact

John Dunning, chief information officer for Wayne State College, received the Midwestern Higher Education Compact's Outstanding Service Award on Nov. 17, for providing exemplary leadership, committing to the Compact's principles, securing participation in the Compact's programs and services and increasing visibility for the organization.

The award was presented at the Compact's annual commission meeting dinner in Omaha. Accepting the award on John's behalf was friend and colleague, Michael Anderson, vice president for academic affairs at Wayne State College.

Dunning was nominated by his fellow colleagues for his commitment to the organization and his advocacy for guidance on MHEC's programs and services earlier this fall before being severely injured in the Wayne tornado that injured him on Oct. 4.

"This honor was bestowed on John before the accident," Compact President Larry Isaak explained. "We want John to know this was in recognition for his service to MHEC, which has been exemplary."

Dunning has served as chair of the Compact's Technologies Committee since 2011; however, he has been actively participating on the committee since 2005 and, along the way, has chaired numerous Request For Proposal committees that have resulted in technology contracts for the Compact, advocated for the organization at regional and national conferences, provided a voice for higher education in the technology community, influenced visibility for the organization in vendor negotiations and mentored Compact staff and Technologies Committee members.

Anderson, who was in the vehicle with Dunning when they encountered the tornado, offered details of the accident with the audience and stated, "It is really nice of you to honor John; he is a true leader, and on John's behalf and of Wayne State College and our president Curtis Frye, thank you," Anderson said.

After learning of the acknowledgement, Dunning shared, "It has always been a privilege and a joy to work with the bright, dedicated and wonderful people who comprise MHEC's staff and volunteer corps." He added, "To be recognized for working with them in the service of education and the public good is a profound honor."

Pacific Coast future still unclear, but will continue pay to staff

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

While the future of Pacific Coast Feather's facility in Wayne is still being decided, employees of the company here received some good news late Tuesday.

In a message posted on the Wayne PCF Facebook page, company President Joe Crawford announced that the company will continue to pay its employees through the end of the year, continuing employment status for all of its approximately 140 employees through Dec. 31, 2013.

In addition, Pacific Coast will provide Christmas bonuses for all eligible employees and will continue health insurance through Jan. 31, 2014 with no payroll deduction for employees who were on the payroll as of Oct. 3 and have not found other employment.

The news was surely welcome to those living in the area who are employed by PCF, as it was to Wayne Mayor Ken Chamberlain, who said he has yet to hear a final decision from the company, but is optimistic that they will rebuild here.

"I've talked with Gov. Heineman's office, and I know he and the owner of Pacific Coast are trying to make a connection," Chamberlain said. "I'm looking at it as they're still putting together what they need to rebuild so that, when they come to us and say they're ready, they'll say this is what they need. That's how I'm looking at the situation right now."

Pacific Coast employees with questions are asked to contact Cathy Vondrak or Barb Layton at the company's offices in Seattle, Wash., at (206) 336-2451.

Disaster

With all the debris hidden in the fields at the softball complex, Chamberlain said FEMA has encouraged the city to replace the sod at the field.

"The city has liability at the complex, so if somebody dives for a ball and suddenly they need a dozen stitches, that's one of those things you don't think of, but it makes sense for the safety of the kids who play out there to replace the sod," he said.

Federal funding is also available on a cost-sharing basis for hazard mitigation measures statewide.

Elizabeth Turner has been named as the Federal Coordinating Officer for federal recovery operations in the affected area. Turner said additional designations may be made at a later date if requested by the state and warranted by the results of further damage assessments.

Wakefield

"Our students are truly the reason Wakefield Elementary has been selected . . . and there is no doubt Wakefield is a great place to raise kids," he said. "The level of community support has impacted our school, and we have been afforded many opportunities that are not found in many communities our size."

Dr. Scott Swisher, deputy director of education at the Nebraska Department of Education, also praised the efforts of everyone involved in Wakefield's success.

"The real reward is not in receiving the banner or the celebration," he said. "It's in knowing that each of you has done, and will continue to do, your best."

Superintendent Mark Bejot also praised everyone for the role they played in helping the school earn this prestigious honor.

"It took everybody," he said. "Six years ago, this school began a school improvement process that was challenging, required sacrifice and re-learning and made everybody look at ways to improve the learning that goes on in our classroom, and that helped the school receive this award."

Bejot said that Friday's ceremony was about the award, and was also an opportunity for everyone involved to continue striving for their best.

"We all must remember to continue striving to improve," he said. "You don't have to be great to start something, but you have to start something in order to be great. And look at what you've started."

Hoffman said that packing the Mercy Meals involved several school and churches and allowed the Tower School students to meet and interact with other people in the one and one-half hours they spent packaging food.

"The students and staff would like to thank Dairy Queen here in Wayne for the discounts they have given us for the treats we purchase there after our outings and Godfathers for the pizza parties they have given us," Hoffman said.

Hoffman said the school is always looking for opportunities for the students to be involved in activities in the community and encourages anyone with ideas and suggestions for additional opportunities to contact the school at (402) 375-3005.

"Our ultimate goal is to teach our students social skills that allow them to experience success on all levels," Hoffman said. "These activities help reinforce what we teach in the classroom and help the students learn about responsibility."

Women's rugby team dominates, wins second national title

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Like baseball legend Yogi Berra once said – it's like deja vu all over again.

One year ago, the Wayne State women's rugby team made a dramatic goal-line stand to help propel them to a national title. So the irony wasn't lost on coach Darin Barner as he watched his team stuff an effort by Smith College to punch the ball in the end zone in the championship of the NSCRO Final Four Sunday afternoon in Cherry Hill, N.J.

Smith College's bigger, more physical team had an opportunity to score and cut into Wayne State's advantage in the second half. However, as it had done a year before, Wayne State's defense held, and the Wildcats were able to wear down Smith College and pull away with an 18-5 win to claim their second straight national title and cap an unbeaten 16-0-1 season.

Barner said the team's title defense was a lot more challenging road than winning the first time, especially since the team's equipment and facilities were damaged in the Oct. 4 tornado that hit Wayne.

"It seemed like we were running on seven cylinders instead of eight during October and weren't where we should've been (because of the storm)," Barner said. "But these girls really fine-tuned everything and went into this peaking at the right time."

The team, which took a trip to Philadelphia earlier in the week and visited the Rocky Balboa statue made famous by the "Rocky" movie, appeared to be in a precarious position after only building an 8-5 lead with a subzero-temperature 30-mile an hour wind at their back.

"I guess, since we were playing in the Philadelphia area, the girls got the Rocky Balboa speech at the half," Barner said by phone as the team traveled home Monday morning. "I told them we needed to go 15 rounds with them and tire them out, and that's exactly what we did."

The Wildcats built an 8-0 lead in the opening half when Kaylee Freese hit a 25-yard field goal off a penalty and Maggie Warick found the try zone from 15 yards away. Smith College scored late in the half, however; and with the wind at their back, they appeared to be in position to overtake the Wildcats in the second half.

"In that first half, with that wind, we needed to build a 20-25 point lead, so when we were only up 8-5 at the half, I knew we'd have our hands full," Barner said.

Smith College had a considerable size advantage over the Wildcats and were able to move the ball well early in the second half. They got inside Wayne State's 5-yard line on several occasions but were unable to push the ball into the end zone.

"They were physical and just kicked our butts 1-on-1, but they couldn't run much in the second half, and that's when things turned in our favor," Barner said. "The last 30 minutes, we were the better team even though we were the smaller team."

Wayne State got some breathing room midway through the second half when Warrick found the try zone again, this time from 30 yards away. Kayla Lavalais put the game out of reach on a score with four minutes to go, but Warrick's try earlier in the half was a key play in the game.

"That was huge," Barner said. "That first one was just massive because we thought they were going to score once or twice in the second half, so that one was big. To hold the No. 2 team in the country out of the end zone like that for 40 minutes was a one-in-a-million chance."

On Saturday, Wayne State faced a tough challenge in the semifinals against Millersville, but pulled away in the second half for a commanding 41-7 win to reach the finals for the second straight year.

Barner said the team's defense helped slow down a very quick and precision-oriented Millersville attack.

"Our back line played really good defense to keep them from getting their short game going," Barner said. "When they got tired in the second half and their short game started going nowhere, our smaller team was able to out-hit them, and we just overpowered them."

Warrick found the try zone twice in the first half to help Wayne State build a 12-7 advantage, and the Wildcat offense lit up the score-

D-2 regional setup cruel joke for WSC

Hey, did you hear the knee-slapper about the team that was so good that they couldn't get invited to a national tournament?

Yeah, Scott Kneiff and the Wayne State volleyball team are just yuckin' it up right now over that one – but not really.

On Monday night, the NCAA announced the tournament field for the Div. II volleyball tournament. Region play gets started this weekend, with the Elite Eight taking place in Cedar Falls, Iowa in early December.

Wayne State has been ranked in the top 25 all year. In fact, because they play in the toughest conference (without question) in the nation, their 22-10 record is a LOT more impressive than some of the better winning percentages recorded by some of the teams who are part of the 64-team field.

Here's the problem – the NCAA does not set up its regional tournaments for Div. II the same way they do for the big girls in Div. I.

In Div. I, the entire field is seeded and the conference champions and other qualifiers are sent all over the country. A team from Florida could play in a regional out in Seattle, for example.

Ah, but here in Div. II, we do things a little different – the regions are based off conference affiliation, with three conferences making up each of the eight regions. Conference champions earn automatic bids, while the remaining five spots go to the teams with the best record and strength of schedule.

If Wayne State were in any one of the other seven regions in Div. II, they would be a shoe-in for nationals. Some of the higher seeds in the other regions would be no match for this year's Wildcat team.

Alas, we are both blessed and cursed in Wildcat country to be a part of the Northern Sun Conference and the Central Region, which includes the MIAA and Greater American Conference.

The NSIC, of course, boasts six-time defending national champion Concordia-St. Paul. There is also a fine program at Minnesota Duluth (who swept Concordia to win the NSIC title over the weekend), as well as Southwest Minnesota State. Each of these teams were ranked in the top 10 for most of the season, and Wayne State held its own with all of them, beating Concordia and Southwest and taking Duluth the distance in the regular season.

All of that, though, isn't enough to get Wayne State into the big dance. Lesser teams in standard regions (by comparison with the Central Region) get invited to the show, but an outstanding team with a better record and a strength of schedule that many of the other 35 wild card teams in the 64-team field can't come close to comparing with has to stay home.

It's a shame we won't get to see this team go up against Central Missouri or some of the MIAA schools that will be part of this week's regional tournament. I think the Wildcats would hold their own, even as a No. 7 or No. 8 seed, and would make the regional tournament a more interesting one to watch than it already is (I'll go ahead and call the end to Concordia's six-year reign in Div. II right now – Central Missouri or Duluth will win it all).

Unfortunately, this is how it is in every sport at the Div. II level (except for football, which is much tougher with only 24 teams making the playoffs). Going in, you know that if you play in the Central Region, there won't be much room for error if you want to get to the NCAA tournament.

Wayne State did about everything it could do this volleyball season to keep its string of postseason appearances alive. Sad to say, that streak comes to an end for a team that, without a doubt, is unquestionably better than half of the teams in the NCAA tournament.

And that's no joke.

Wildcats slip past No. 11 Augie

Wayne State's women's basketball team prepared for a trip to Alaska with a big win to open Northern Sun Conference play Monday night.

In a game that featured 10 ties and 14 lead changes, Jordan Spencer's career-high 30 points helped the 5-0 Wildcats to a thrilling 70-65 Northern Sun Conference women's basketball win Monday over 11th-ranked Augustana at Rice Auditorium. The win was the 300th career coaching victory for Wayne State coach Chris Kielsmeier, who is now 300-79 in his 14th season of coaching overall and 121-35 in his sixth season at Wayne State.

Early on, it appeared as if the Wildcats would put the Vikings away, jumping out to a 17-4 lead working the ball inside to Spencer and Shantel Lehmann. The Wildcats took their biggest lead of the first half at 20-6 on a Millie Niggeling 3-pointer with 12:18 to go in the half.

Augustana came back, however, and put together a 21-7 run to take a 32-31 lead late in the half, going into the locker room with a two-point edge at 34-32.

The second half was a classic battle between the two conference rivals, with neither team leading by more than three points after the Vikings scored the first four points of the second half to take a 38-32 lead. The lead changed hands 13 times between the two clubs, and

Wildcats miss first regional since '04 Team falls in NSIC semis

For the first time since 2004, Wayne State's volleyball team will not be a part of the NCAA Div. II national tournament.

The Wildcats lost to eventual Northern Sun Conference tournament champion Minnesota Duluth in the semifinals of the conference tournament on Saturday, ending their season at 22-10. The Wildcats were not among the eight teams selected to compete in the Central Region tournament, which will be held this weekend in Duluth, Minn. The Bulldogs will be joined by fellow NSIC foes Concordia-St. Paul, Southwest Minnesota State and Northern State. Other teams in the tournament include MIAA tournament champion Central Missouri, Washburn, Nebraska-Kearney and GAC champion Arkansas Tech.

The Wildcats reached the conference semifinals with an impressive road upset to open tournament play Wednesday in Marshall, Minn. The 18th-ranked Wildcats made just seven attack errors and hit .317 to post a 25-15, 25-21, 33-31 sweep at Southwest Minnesota State.

Wayne State dominated early in the match, forcing 10 Mustang attack errors in the opening set while hitting at a .429 clip with no errors and 12 kills.

Wayne State got three straight kills from Alyssa Frauendorfer to break open a close second set, turning a one-point lead into a four-point advantage that gave Wayne State a two-set lead.

The third set was a wild one, as the Mustangs rallied from an 18-13 deficit and had six set point opportunities. Wayne State battled back each time and then got a pair of Mustang errors followed by a Frauendorfer kill to close out the match.

Senior Cori Hobbs had a stellar night at the net, finishing with 19 kills and no attack errors for a .442 hitting percentage. She also had 10 digs and six blocks.

Elizabeth Gebhardt added 11 kills and Frauendorfer had eight kills and a team-best eight blocks, tying her career high. Leisa McClintock had 36 assists.

Defensively, Courtney Van Gronigen led the team with 13 digs, while Katie Hughes added 11 and McClintock had 10.

Wayne State played the eventual conference tournament champions tough in the semifinals Saturday in St. Paul, Minn., but the Bulldogs were able to come away with a 25-18, 25-18, 25-23 win to end Wayne State's 22-10 season.

Duluth got out to a 3-0 lead early, and Wayne State never got closer than three points the rest of the set. Duluth again got an early advantage and hit .457 for the second set to take a two-set advantage.

Wayne State battled back and led for much of the set before Duluth rallied. Wayne State led 19-15 before Duluth came back to tie the match at 19-19, then scored five of the next seven points to hang on for the win.

Gebhardt led the Wildcats with 11 kills while Frauendorfer added nine and Hobbs had seven to go with 10 digs. McClintock had 28 assists.

Defensively, Hughes led the team with 18 while VanGronigen added 10.

'Cats fall to Augie, 70-45

Wayne State's 2012-13 debut in the Northern Sun Conference was a rough one, as Augustana held the Wildcat men to just 34 percent shooting and led from start to finish in a 70-45 win Monday at Rice Auditorium in Wayne.

Augustana jumped out to a 10-4 lead, but Wayne State got within one at 10-9 at the 10:29 mark on an Adol Aluong free throw. The Vikings then scored the next nine points and held a 19-9 lead with 7:49 to go in the first half.

Wayne State countered with a 9-0 run of its own over the next 3:42 and pulled within one again at 21-20 on a David Andersen layup with 2:41 to go before halftime, but Augustana closed the half with a 25-22 advantage.

Wayne State kept it close early in the second half, as a Ryan Rolfsen 3-pointer at the 15:03 mark cut the Viking advantage to 37-33.

It was all Vikings after that, as Augustana went on a 17-0 run over the next 4:24 to take control of the game and lead 54-33 midway through the final period. The Wildcats couldn't bounce back, and the visitors left town with the 25-point victory.

Aluong was the lone Wildcat player in double figures with 15 points. He was also Wayne State's top rebounder with five.

As a team, Wayne State made just 17-of-50 shots from the field, going 3-of-15 from the 3-point line. The Vikings made 20-of-58 shots for 34.5 percent but did their damage at the free throw line, making 27-of-32 from the charity stripe.

Wayne State falls to 2-2 overall and 0-1 in the NSIC. The Wildcats conclude non-conference play Saturday with a 6 p.m. home contest against Peru State College at Rice Auditorium.

From Page 1B there were nine ties in the final 20 minutes.

The Wildcats never held a lead of more than three points in the second half until the closing seconds, when Addy Roller clinched the win with a pair of free throws to account for the five-point win. Wayne State took the lead for good with 1:57 to go on a pair of Ellen Hansen free throws to make it 66-65. Niggeling scored on a Spencer miss with :25 to go, and Augustana missed a potential game-tying 3-pointer before Roller was fouled and hit her free throws.

Spencer was the only Wildcat in double figures with her game-high 30 points, hitting 12-of-20 from the field and 6-of-8 at the line. She also led the team in rebounds with 11.

Hansen and Niggeling both added nine points as Wayne State shot 39 percent from the field and were 23-of-28 at the free throw line.

Wayne State won the rebounding battle over the Vikings 41-36, thanks to Spencer's 11 caroms while Kara Powell contributed seven rebounds in the win. Roller handed out four assists for the Wildcats.

Wayne State College shot over 50 percent and cruised to a 101-41 non-conference women's basketball win Wednesday Nov. 20 over York College.

Wayne State jumped out to an early 6-0 lead and never looked back, getting the lead into double digits with 12:24 to go on a Niggeling basket to make it 21-11. Wayne State led 46-20 at the half.

The second half saw more reserves see playing time as no Wildcat player saw more than 21 minutes of playing time.

Spencer paced the Wildcat attack with 17 points and nine rebounds. Jaylan Spencer had a stellar game off the bench with 16 points in just 15 minutes of playing time. Whitney Olson scored a career-high 13 points while Niggeling also reached double digits with 13 points.

Wayne State won the rebounding battle over York 53-31 as Jordan

Spencer and Powell had nine rebounds each. Roller and Niggeling each had four assists.

Wayne State heads to Fairbanks, Alaska for a three-game stand Thursday through Saturday, opening with a 5 p.m. game Thursday against Lees-McRae of North Carolina. They return to NSIC play next weekend with road games at University of Sioux Falls and Southwest Minnesota State.

Rugby

From Page 1B board in the second half with five more scores. Alex Feeley scored a pair of tries, while Jasmine Jovacs, Julianie Wilkey and Dori Haskell all found the try zone. Freese hit a pair of conversion kicks as well.

Amber Kutnink was named the tournament MVP and led six Wildcats on the All-Tournament Team. She was joined by Warrick, who was last year's MVP, as well as Wilke, Freese, Jovacs and Elicia Pursche.

Barner said the two-time champs will lose seven seniors who have been part of Wayne State's back-to-back title run, but a wealth of freshman talent will make the Wildcats a formidable team that can win it all again in 2014.

"We had our best recruiting class of freshmen ever this year, and that's something because they are so stoked right now and are ready to go for a three-peat," he said. "We're losing seven seniors, but with all the kids coming back next year, we've got a chance to reload instead of rebuild."

Wildcats sign baseball standout

Wayne State baseball coach Brian Disch announced that Michael Gilbert of Bellevue West High School has signed a national letter of intent during the NCAA early signing period and will play baseball for the Wildcats in the 2014-15 school year. Gilbert, a 5-foot-8, 190-pound catcher, is a three-year starter in football and baseball at Bellevue West High School. Gilbert hit .333 during summer Legion baseball in 2013, recording 44 hits with 14 doubles, four triples, 35 RBI's and 32 runs scored. He was an All-State honorable mention selection in baseball as a sophomore and in football was an All-District and honorable mention All-State selection at linebacker. "Mike is a hard-nosed kid that will fit well into our baseball program," Disch said. "He is a competitive person that can really swing the bat and will be a nice addition to our baseball family."

Don't get me started

We have much to be thankful for this Thanksgiving

If ever there was a time to be thankful here in Wayne, America, I think this would be it.

I don't know about you, but the Thanksgiving holiday and what it is supposed to mean for us has taken on something of an added significance this year.

It's been almost two months since our community was struck by an EF-4 tornado that all but wiped out the industrial complex on the east side of town. The storm was more than a mile and a quarter wide and packed winds in excess of 170 miles per hour as it stormed through Wayne County late that fateful afternoon of Friday, Oct. 4.

There should have been so much more that should have happened in the wake of that dangerous storm – the storm was headed straight for downtown Wayne before making a turn to the northeast a few miles south of town; it hit an area heavy in industry where hundreds of people are usually busy working and doing their part to help our community continue to grow; when you look at all the damage that was left behind, it should have amounted to a number of deaths and many injuries.

Thankfully – the storm's late-afternoon arrival on a Friday, and the path that it ultimately took, saved our community from the kind of unthinkable death and destruction that could have come as a result of that particular storm.

There was plenty of storm damage. A total of 20 businesses were destroyed or damaged by the storm – initial figures from the state put the financial loss estimates at more than $50 million. A total of 300 people were suddenly without work, although most were either able to get emergency unemployment benefits, find other work or were even paid by their employers during the down time. Two major public areas, the softball complex and airport, were destroyed by the tornado. There were 15 people who were injured in the storm, one of them critically.

But the one statistic that is most important from that incredible storm – zero, as in the number of deaths. More than anything else, that factoid is sufficient for us all to give thanks to as we celebrate this Thanksgiving holiday.

I know that I am thankful that I was able to come back to town that evening and find my home (and my dog, who toughed it out in the utility room as the storm raged a mile to the east) intact and safe. I'm also thankful to know that the people that I have personal and professional relationships with who had their lives turned upside down by this storm are going to be OK. Those who lost their homes have found housing to keep them until they decide what to do with the homes they lost almost two months ago.

When you look back on the size and intensity of the storm that hit Wayne, we have to consider ourselves lucky. The community of Joplin, Mo., was ravaged a few years ago by an EF-5 tornado that killed hundreds of people and all but flattened the community. Other cities – including, most recently, Washington, Ill. – have experienced incredible amounts of damage and loss of life because of tornadoes similar to the one that rolled through Wayne County nearly two months ago.

I don't want to take away from anything here, but when it all comes down to it, the most important thing we have in Wayne are the people who make up the community. The homes, businesses and all the material things that were in those places can be replaced. Most of the businesses that were leveled on that first weekend in October are either rebuilding or making plans to do so very soon – but you can't rebuild or replace the people who make this community the wonderful place that it is.

We're thankful that people like John Dunning, who was severely injured in the tornado, are going to be OK. The physical wounds that Dunning and 14 others experienced will heal with time, as will the emotional ones that come with it. We look forward to seeing John back home and back at Wayne State College soon, and we should be grateful that God spared so many lives when that storm hit our community.

I don't have a previous experience to point to in comparison, but I will say this about our community – I've never seen a town INSTANTLY come together as one for the best interests of the community the way Wayne did in the aftermath of that Oct. 4 storm.

The immediate reaction by city, county and state officials, emergency management, Providence Medical Center, the Wayne State College staff and students and all the groups and organizations that stepped in to help the town recover has been beyond amazing – and, at the same time, not the least bit surprising.

There is a reason why Wayne is the first-class city that it is, and that reason is the people who make up this community. The efforts that have been made to get us through what was a devastating moment in this city's history has been outstanding, from top to bottom.

The people of this community should be thankful of what has taken place these last few weeks – I know I am, and it will be one of the first things I'll give thanks to God for this Thanksgiving holiday.

Chambers puts G&P on notice

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
Nebraska Press Association

Have you ever used the words Sen. Ernie Chambers and hunting and fishing in the same sentence? Sure, he's a veteran lawmaker, the self-proclaimed defender of the downtrodden (that's how he describes himself in the Nebraska Legislature's directory) and contrary to ordinary on a lot of things.

But seasoned legislative reporters and observers know that the urban legend from Omaha is also an animal rights advocate – dating back at least a decade and probably more. He's been in the nation's only one-house Legislature for 39 years. He recently told the Legislature's Executive Board and an official from the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission that he would oppose every Game and Parks request of the Legislature next session as long as the agency allows mountain lions – which he calls "regal animals" – to be hunted.

Game and Parks official Roger Kuhn was seeking approval for accepting donations of land and a playground structure. The Commission is a non-code agency, meaning it is not under the direct control of the Governor (as are most state agencies). It is run by a Commission whose members are approved by the legislative and executive branches. The Commission has approved a trial mountain lion hunting season for next year, based in part on an increased number of sightings of the big cats in populated areas. Chambers says the season was spawned by misplaced fears that mountain lions are going to eat "the grandchildren of Nebraskans." Officials have said there are fewer than 60 mountain lions living in the wild in Nebraska.

In November 2012, Nebraska voters overwhelmingly passed a constitutional amendment to add the rights to hunt and fish. That makes 17 states that guarantee such a right. The measure to get it on Nebraska's ballot passed at a time when Chambers was not serving because he had been term-limited. It's hard to say if Chambers' presence would have blocked the passage, but in 2008, he did introduce a bill to ban hunting, fishing and trapping. It didn't pass, and it wasn't the first time he had offered what some said was an outlandish measure.

In 2007, he filed a lawsuit against God in Douglas County District Court seeking a "permanent injunction ordering Defendant to cease certain harmful activities and the making of terroristic threats." That same year he brought a complaint against a Nebraska State Fair show, "Kachunga and the Alligator," for putting the alligators "under stress for no reason other than cheap entertainment."

Back in 2004, Chambers offered a series of amendments in an effort to block a proposed constitutional amendment to protect Nebraskans' right to hunt, fish and trap. Among his proposed amendments was one that would have preserved the right to hunt Osama bin Laden, another that would have protected the right to trap "the Man in the Moon" and hunt for "Martians" and a third that would have protected the right to hunt for "a way to protect the Constitution from frivolous amendments."

The Game and Parks Commission says hunting and fishing make a significant contribution to Nebraska's economy. Studies have indicated that the state's anglers spend nearly $203 million annually. Chambers has said the constitutional amendments are unnecessary because in a mostly rural state blessed with miles of wide-open spaces, hunting and fishing are very popular. Perhaps this latest foray will show us if the commission regulating those activities enjoys the same popular support.

Stay safe on the roads during winter

With winter weather approaching, it's time to review several winter safety tips. During a winter storm, blowing and drifting snow can cause reduced visibility and affect road conditions. The best way to keep your family and yourself safe is by being prepared for winter weather before it strikes.

One of the primary concerns is the winter weather's ability to knock out heat, power and communications services, sometimes for days at a time. Heavy snowfall and extreme cold can immobilize an entire region.

There are several ways to be engaged and prepared for winter weather. It is important to listen to weather forecasts regularly, and check your emergency supplies whenever a period of extreme cold is predicted. Have a week's worth of food and safety supplies available at home. Remember, your primary concern is staying warm.

Additionally, before planning any kind of trip, it is important to monitor local media outlets and check 511 the Nebraska Advanced Traveler Information System. This system provides 24-Hour weather and travel information by dialing 511 free of charge or by accessing the and use well-traveled routes, giving yourself plenty of time to reach your destination.

– Let others know where you are going, when you will arrive and what route you will be taking.

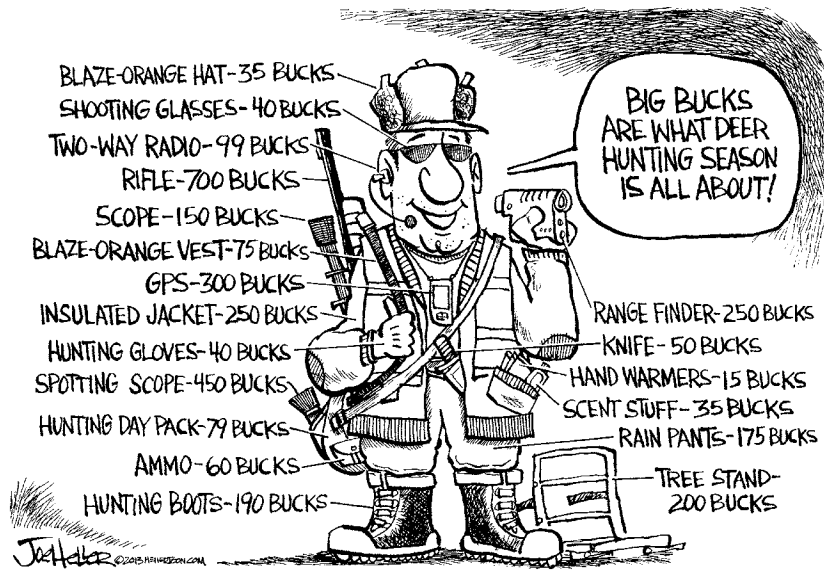

– If you do become stranded while traveling, stay with your car until help arrives. Wind chill and freezing temperatures can be life threatening.

– If you become trapped in a winter storm while driving, stay in your car. Run your engine for a few minutes every hour to reheat the interior of your car, making sure your exhaust pipe is not blocked. Keep a window cracked to prevent the buildup of carbon monoxide.

Motorists are encouraged to have a winter weather survival kit in the trunk or secured in the cargo area of their vehicle. These items typically include an emergency first aid kit, ice scraper, shovel, small bag of sand or abrasive material, a flashlight with extra batteries, blankets or a sleeping bag, nonperishable snacks and jumper cables.

Finally, travelers in need of non-emergency roadside assistance are encouraged to utilize the Nebraska State Patrol Highway Helpline by dialing *55 from their cell phone when safe to do so, or (800) 525-5555 from any landline.

Please, be prepared and be safe.

website at www.511.nebraska.gov or on your mobile device at www.ndortraveler.nebraska.gov.

The Nebraska State Patrol and Nebraska Department of Roads offer these additional safety tips:

- Always wear your seat belt.
- Never drive faster than conditions allow.
- Never use cruise control in wet, slick or snow-packed conditions.
- Increase following distance, so that you can react to other vehicles around you.
- Drive with your headlights on and make sure all vehicle lights and windows are clear of snow.
- Travel during daylight hours

Discovering what kids need to succeed

For more than 50 years, Search Institute has been a leader and partner for groups around the world in discovering what youth need to succeed. Their research, resources, and expertise help partners in organizations, schools and community coalitions solve critical challenges in the lives of young people.

Search Institute focuses on deepening understanding and working with partners to improve the lives of young people in three critical areas:

- Developmental Assets: www.search-institute.org/research/developmental-assets, Search Institute framework of strengths and supports, which has become the most widely recognized and most frequently cited approach to positive youth development in the world.

- Developmental Relationships: www.search-institute.org/what-we-study/developmental-relationships, those relationships that help young people attain the psychological and social skills needed for success in education and in life.

- Developmental Communities: www.search-institute.org/what-we-study/communities, a focus on creating contexts and settings that attend to young people's developmental needs and are aligned for collective impact.

The Developmental Assets is the part of the Search Institute that I refer to in working with youth. The 40 Developmental Assets are used as building blocks of healthy development. The assets are tools that youth use to grow up responsible, healthy and caring. Teaching responsibility, learning to live a healthy lifestyle and caring for those around us are also goals that 4-H possesses.

In my October column, I shared the 20 External Assets which are part of the 40 Developmental Assets. This month, I am focusing on the 20 Internal Assets. The Search Institute has identified building blocks of healthy development. The Internal Assets include the categories of Commitment to Learning, Positive Values, Social Competencies and Positive Identity.

The Internal Assets include:
COMMITMENT TO LEARNING
Achievement Motivation - Young person is motivated to do well in school.

School Engagement - Young person is actively engaged in learning.
Homework - Young Person reports doing at least one hour of homework every school day.

Bonding to School - Young person cares about her or his school.

Reading for Pleasure - Young person reads for pleasure three or more hours per week.

POSITIVE VALUES
Caring - Young Person places

high value on helping other people.
Equality and Social Justice - Young person places high value on promoting equality and reducing hunger and poverty.

Integrity - Young person acts on convictions and stands up for her or his beliefs.

Honesty - Young person "tells the truth even when it is not easy."

Responsibility - Young person accepts and takes personal responsibility.

Restraint - Young person believes it is important not to be sexually active or to use alcohol or other drugs.

SOCIAL COMPETENCIES
Young person knows how to plan ahead and makes choices.

Interpersonal Competence - Young person has empathy, sensitivity and friendship skills.

Cultural Competence - Young person has knowledge of and comfort with people of different cultural/racial/ethnic backgrounds.

Resistance Skills - Young person can resist negative peer pressure and dangerous situations.

Peaceful Conflict Resolution - Young person seeks to resolve conflict nonviolently.

POSITIVE IDENTITY
Young person feels he or she has control over "things that happen to me."

Self-Esteem - Young person reports having a high self-esteem.

Sense of Purpose - Young person reports that "my life has a purpose."

Positive View of Personal Future - Young person is optimistic about her or his personal future.

Acme Club meets Nov. 18, Golden Gate Bridge cited

The Acme Club met at Tacos & More on Nov. 18.

Bonnadell Koch was hostess with all members present for the dessert and coffee meeting.

Members received another favor that Sandy Moriari, Delores Utech's daughter, sent from Arizona.

Joann Temme called the meeting to order. Ruth Victor gave the Thought for the Day, "What makes a house a home? The pretty trees, flowers and lawn, fresh coat of paint, new window treatments, carpet, furniture? No, it's you, the love and joy shown to those who enter your house."

"Be thankful for these blessings all the time, not just at the Thanksgiving season, and remember to thank God for being so great and good to all."

The group voted unanimously to give the amount that would be spent on a gift exchange at the Christmas meeting and contribute it to the Love Fund. Also, a name will be selected from the Tree of Love to be given as a gift and a monetary gift will be sent to the Nebraska Children's Home.

Elinor Jensen showed tray favors she made and is taking to the hospital for Thanksgiving.

Bonnadell Koch gave the program on the Golden Gate Bridge, another Wonder of the Modern World, declared by the American Society of Civil Engineers.

It is a suspension bridge spanning the Golden Gate, the opening of the San Francisco Bay into the Pacific Ocean. It links the U.S. city of San Francisco on the northern top of the An Francisco Peninsula to Marin County. The bridge is made of steel and carries six lanes of traffic. Its total length is 8,981 feet; it is 90 feet wide and 746 feet high. Its longest span is 4,200 feet with a clearance of 220 feet at tide.

It took just over four years to build, with construction beginning Jan. 5, 1933 and ending April 19, 1937. It opened May 28, 1937.

Before the bridge was built, the only short route between San Francisco and Marin County was by boat across a section of San Francisco Bay. Ferry service began in 1840 for purposes of transporting water to San Francisco. It was the largest ferry operation by the late 1920s.

During construction, 11 men lost their lives, with 10 of them losing their lives when a section of scaffold fell through the safety net. The safety net was suspended under the floor of the bridge from end to end.

During construction, the net saved the lives of 19 men who became known as the Halfway-to-Hell Club.

As of May 30, 2012 a total of 1,970,331,117 vehicles have crossed over the bridge since it opened to traffic on May 28, 1937.

The next meeting of the Acme Club will be the No Host Christmas observance on Monday, Dec. 2. It will begin at 12 p.m. at the Wayne Senior Center.

Diabetes program is Dec. 4

Stress can sneak up on you and can be rough on your health. Studies have shown that stress can affect everything from your blood glucose to your digestion to your ability to get a good night's sleep. If it is not managed, stress can even shorten your life by raising your blood pressure and cholesterol and damaging your heart.

The December session of Control Diabetes for Life, which will be held in Wayne on Wednesday, Dec. 4, will help participants take a serious look at how they handle stress.

It will also help everyone understand the importance of managing stress effectively. Techniques for managing stress will be discussed. All family members of people who have diabetes are invited to participate in the educational session offered at Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department, 215 N. Pearl St., Wayne, on Dec. 4 from 1:30-4 p.m.

Topics that will be addressed during the two-hour program are: Re-energize! Find More Energy to Exercise; Back to the Basics; Oral Health; Gender Gap - How Diabetes Is Different for Men and Women; and Holiday Stress Management along with other helpful hints. Participants will receive recipes for diabetic-appropriate foods.

The team teaching the program will be Deborah Willcox, R.D., LMNT; Stacie Petersen, R.N., B.R.N. and Certified Diabetes Educator both of Franciscan Care Services in West Point; and Debra Schroeder, UNL Extension Educator in Cuming County. The team has over 20 years of experience in teaching diabetes programming. Guest instructor will be Terry Nelson, Physical Therapist with Franciscan Care Services, who is conducting extensive research on exercise's effects on diabetes and quality of life for his D.P.T.

Participants are asked to pre-register by calling UNL Extension-Wayne County at (402) 375-3310. Please register by Monday, Dec. 2, so the proper number of handouts may be prepared.

The Nebraska School Food Service Association has approved this session for two hours of continuing education credits for food service staff for attending.

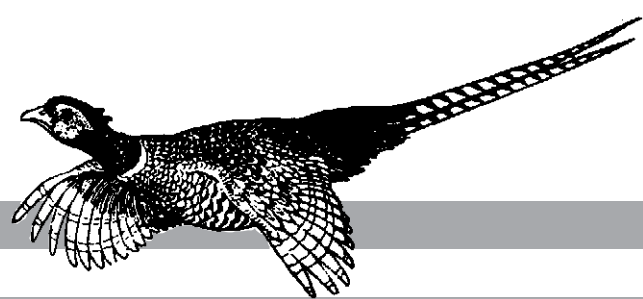

This program is offered free-of-charge by UNL Extension and Franciscan Care Services of West Point.

Praise Assembly welcoming Christmas message

The church family at Praise Assembly of God in Wayne will welcome in the four weeks prior to Christmas Day (called Advent) with the weekly lighting of the "Advent Wreath", hung from the ceiling just above the chancel of the church. In many churches, the four colored candles around a central white candle (called the "Christ candle") stand for specific topics that are remembered each year. However, at Praise Assembly, the four candles will refer to special people who are part of the Christmas story. Part of the church pattern is to have one child light each week's candle while a second child reads something about that particular candle. Following this Sunday's 10:30 a.m. worship service, members of the congregation who want to participate in the "hanging of the greens" will gather at 1:30 p.m. to decorate the church building for the holiday season.

In his "Thanksgiving Message" this past Sunday morning, Rev. Jason Pickering presented three principles for Thanksgiving, using several different Bible passages. The first principle (from Ephesians 5:20) is to "be thankful for all that you enjoy." The second principle (from 1 Thessalonians 5:18) is that "in every circumstance I can give all thanks to God, and the third principle (from Psalm 150) is that I need to "thank God for everything in my life." Pastor Pickering emphasized that "When I am giving thanks, I am clarifying who I am in proper relationship with God, the Great 'I Am.'" Romans 1:20 indicates that God can even be seen in the things that He has made. It is indeed a very sad thing to not believe. Why? Because in the very act of giving thanks, we are acknowledging that Someone bigger than you and me is actually in charge of all things. What a wonderful season, and a reason for the season is to Give Thanks. Praise Assembly of God Church invites everyone to attend the mid-week "Family Night" activities (children's ministry and also Adult Bible Study) on Wednesday evenings at 6:30 p.m. On Sunday mornings, there is a Sunday School class for all ages starting at 9:30 a.m., followed by morning worship at 10:30 a.m. Sometimes people find that in these weeks before Christmas their relationship with the Lord is renewed as they become involved in the activities that remind them of the arrival of Jesus, the Savior of the world.

Hoag, Frenzen among those honored at annual AG-ceptional Women's Conference

A rural Carroll native is among two Northeast Nebraska women who have been honored for their significant achievements in the advancement of agriculture.

Mary Pat (Finn) Hoag, the Norfolk Daily News' agricultural and youth editor, received the inaugural Award of Merit at the fifth annual AG-ceptional Women's Conference on Nov. 22 at Northeast Community College in Norfolk.

Jan (Volk) Frenzen of Fullerton, a rural Battle Creek native, was named the 2013 AG-ceptional Woman of the Year. Both women were surprised with the honors by conference organizers.

Hoag, an award-winning reporter, recently marked her 40th anniversary with the Norfolk Daily News. She has been the agricultural editor since 1977.

Hoag, a daughter of Patrick and the late Marilyn Finn of rural Carroll, grew up on her family's purebred livestock farm near the Cedar-Wayne County line. The 1970 Laurel-Concord High School graduate earned a bachelor of arts degree in education with majors in broadcasting and journalism from Wayne State College.

Hoag has educated her readers by writing stories related to the great diversity of the ag industry from farm sites and fields; by attending conferences, conventions, county and state fairs; and through personal interviews. Additionally, she has told the story of agriculture through her photography.

"Mary Pat has earned great credibility with agriculturalists who identify her attention to detail, accuracy and fair reporting," said Corinne Morris, conference chairwoman and dean of agriculture, math and science at Northeast College.

Hoag has been recognized numerous times for her reporting and photography, including the Nebraska Press Women's most prestigious honor, the Communicator of Achievement Award in 2002.

The National Association of Extension 4-H Agents recently presented the Norfolk Daily News a first-place award for its 2012 4-H edition. Hoag has coordinated the newspaper's annual 4-H edition for 36 years.

Hoag completed a two-year commitment in the Nebraska Leadership Education/Action Development (LEAD) Program, which offered her international ag opportunities, highlighted by three weeks of study-travel in South America. She was recognized by the University of Nebraska at Omaha with its "Andy Award" for international reporting for her six-part series, "Discovering Another America."

Hoag

Morris said Hoag has a passion for agriculture.

"I wonder how many scrapbooks in northeast Nebraska and beyond contain articles that Mary Pat has written to promote our sons and daughters' achievements in agriculture. She has done a remarkable job of chronicling the history and importance of agriculture to society, as well as the people involved. She has truly made a difference in all of our lives."

Frenzen grew up on a purebred swine and cattle farm south of Battle Creek. "My parents, Jim and Stella Volk, instilled in all four of their children a love for agriculture and laid the foundation for our Christian faith, family values and a strong work ethic, as well as a sense of humor," she said. Frenzen graduated from Battle Creek High School. In 1983, she graduated from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL) with a bachelor of science degree in agriculture. She majored in animal science and was active in the Block and Bridle Club, serving as an officer. She also was a member of the UNL Meats and Livestock Judging teams.

She married Craig Frenzen on Nov. 28, 1987. The couple moved to Fullerton, where she brought with her a small herd of purebred Yorkshire sows and continued to raise purebred Specific Pathogen-Free (SPF) hogs.

Frenzen sold breeding stock and exported hogs to Mexico and China until 1999. She served on the Nebraska SPF Swine Board of Directors.

When the Frenzens left the hog business, they increased their cow herd and expanded their crop enterprise as well.

"We synchronize and AI (artificially inseminate) all of our first-calf heifers and a few select cows," she said. "Our daughters maintain ownership of some cows (and) have exhibited Polled Hereford and commercial breeding heifers at county, state, and national shows. We also utilize fence-line weaning for the replacement heifers we retain, and sell the balance of our calf crop off the cows in early fall prior to harvest."

The Frenzens raise corn and soybeans in rotation, utilizing no-till farming. In 2010, the couple presented at the No-Till Conference in Salina, Kan., discussing the use of cover crops, and how no till has helped them conserve moisture, save fuel and increase soil fertility.

"My mom is a creative individual who brings her passion to our family's farming operation," said daughter Katie. "The best part of watching my mom's busy life is that she has an incredibly sincere devotion and love for her work in agriculture."

The Frenzens' daughters, Katie, Jamie and Emily, have all been active in 4-H and FFA. They have participated in 4-H public speaking, style revue, photography, Quilt Quest and baking, as well as beef, swine and goat projects and served as club officers.

All three have served as Fullerton FFA Chapter and have earned gold medals on the state level in creed speaking, public speaking and/or ag demonstration contests.

The couple's two oldest daughters have achieved the State FFA degree. Jamie was the state FFA convention pianist for two years, and Katie served as the 2009-10 state FFA president.

Katie is completing her degree in ag education through UNL while student teaching at Crofton. Jamie is a junior at Wayne State College majoring in foods and nutrition and business. Emily is a sophomore at Fullerton High School.

Past AG-ceptional Women recipients are Jan Miller of Belden, Bonnie Schulz of Battle Creek and Nancy Kirkholm of Homer.

"The AG-ceptional Women's Conference brings together an excellent line-up of speakers, workshops and networking opportunities for ag women. It's like no other conference in the region," Morris said. "Women contribute so much to agriculture, and this is our way of telling them thank you for all they do for the industry."

More than 400 registrants, vendors and sponsors attended this year's conference, conducted in the Lifelong Learning Center on Northeast's campus in Norfolk.

Keep trees fresh this holiday season

Christmas is just around the corner and for some families that means the hunt for the perfect tree has started.

Each year, 25-30 million American households enjoy a fresh Christmas tree, said University of Nebraska-Lincoln forester Dennis Adams.

Freshness is important to consider when selecting a tree. "Gently stroke the needles," Adams said. "If green needles drop off, the tree is not fresh."

Another test is to lift the tree and strike the butt on the ground. If there are large amounts of green needles falling off, it might be wise to select another tree, Adams said.

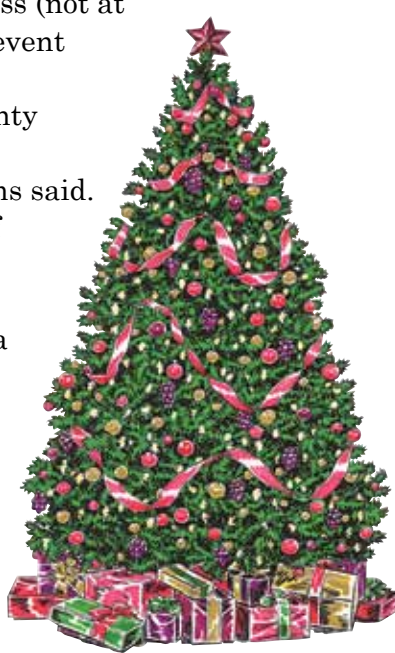

Once a fresh tree has been selected, steps should be taken to keep it fresh. If the tree is not going to be erected soon, keep the butt end in a pale of water in a cool, protected area such as a garage until it is ready to be placed in the home. Saw a half inch off of the tree butt straight across (not at an angle). This will remove clogged pores that prevent the tree from taking in water.

Mount the tree in a sturdy stand that holds plenty of water. "Add water daily to keep the stand filled," Adams said. "A Christmas tree may absorb a gallon or more of water daily for the first few days depending upon size and condition."

If the tree is allowed to dry out, it may become a fire hazard. "A fresh tree is no more combustible than a fresh flower," Adams said.

After the holidays, the tree can be used as firewood or a winter bird feeder. Boughs may be used for mulch for flower beds.

For a list of Nebraska grown trees, visit http://www.nda.nebraska.gov/publications/promotion/christmas_trees/trees.html.

Landlord/tenant meetings upcoming; holiday plant tips offered

Here is another reminder that the Landlord/Tenant Cash Lease workshops offered in Ponca (Dixon County) and Laurel (Cedar County) on Thursday, Dec. 5 will help landlords and tenants put together a lease that is right for them and help maintain positive farm leasing relations.

The Ponca workshop will be held at the Community Hall and be from 9 a.m.-12 p.m. The Laurel workshop will be from 2-5 p.m. at the Laurel Learning Center. A Monday, Dec. 16 meeting in Norfolk is also planned.

This free workshop is sponsored by the Nebraska Soybean Board and the North Central Risk Management Agency. Refreshments and handouts are provided. Registration is requested by calling the host county of the workshop (Dixon County (402) 584-2234, Cedar County (402) 254-6821. Please register by three days prior to the workshop (by Dec. 2) to ensure that there are enough handouts and refreshments.

Here is some information from Kelly Feehan on some holiday tree/plant tips. To keep Christmas trees fresh and avoid drying, buy a fresh tree and don't let the basin run out of water. Use at least a one gallon capacity tree stand and keep the stand filled with water. If the water drops below the base of the cut trunk, a seal of dried sap will form over the stump in four to six hours; preventing the tree from absorbing water even after the tree stand is refilled. If a seal does form, the tree can be taken out of the stand and a fresh cut made; or one-half inch deep holes can be drilled into the trunk one-half inch apart; which might allow the tree to begin absorbing water again.

Sounds like a lot of work; so be diligent and don't let tree stands dry out. We often hear about adding something to water, like sugar or a commercial product, to help keep Christmas trees fresh. Research shows additives are not beneficial. Plain tap water will keep trees fresh as long as they can take up water.

Potted chrysanthemums are a popular flowering holiday plant; especially at Thanksgiving. Potted mums bloom for up to one month when given proper indoor care. Place a mum in a window where it receives bright light but no direct sun. Check each day to make sure the soil is moist. Do not allow the mum to wilt, but do not let the pot sit in water. Keep the plant at temperatures between 60 and 65 degrees Fahrenheit at night. Daytime temperatures can be 10 to 15 degrees higher.

Chrysanthemum varieties used for flowering potted gift plants are usually not suitable for planting outdoors in Nebraska. However, if you would like to save a mum to try in an outdoor garden; then check to see if there is more than one plant in the container. If so, separate the plants and plant one per six inch pot; then provide it with adequate water and cool temperatures, around 60 degrees, throughout winter and early spring.

Organic crop workshop to be held Jan. 11 in Columbus

University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension and Nebraska OCIA will co-sponsor a no-till organic crop rotation workshop from 1:30-4 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 11 at Central Community College, 4500 63rd St., in Columbus.

Randy Anderson, USDA-ARS research agronomist at the North Central Agricultural Research Laboratory in Brookings, S.D., will present his research findings followed by a farmer roundtable discussion on cropping systems. Cost to attend the workshop is $15. Registration is at the door and the event is open to the public.

Anderson, a weed ecologist, will discuss the goal of his research program to develop a continuous no-till cropping system for organic producers. He will present results on converting red clover fields to cropland without tillage and describe a no-till cultural system that suppresses weed growth in soybean more effectively than tillage-based management. Though this is focused on organic producers, any producer wanting to decrease input costs will find this information useful.

Anderson also will discuss the impact of under-seeding clovers in winter and spring wheat on downy brome growth. Producers will learn how to minimize the need for tillage to control weeds and how a system based on winter-killed cover crops can control weeds adequately to grow no-till.

Anderson's research focuses on reducing the need for weed management inputs by understanding the aspects of weed population dynamics. He developed a population-based approach to weed management that reduced input costs for weed management 50 percent compared to conventional practices. He looks at the benefit of crop diversity and crop sequences that are synergistic and improve growth efficiency of the following crop, thus crop yield can increase without needing to increase resource inputs such as fertilizer or water. He has observed that tolerance to weed interference is greater with synergistic sequences, thus possibly reducing the need for herbicides.

Producers using no-till rotations can learn more about how synergistic crop sequences are improving land productivity, farm economics, soil health and resource-use-efficiency in the semiarid Great Plains. UNL will share an update on organic research results using crimper and flamer to manage weeds.

A round table discussion will follow so producers will have a chance to discuss their crop rotations and how they can reduce tillage and improve soil health.

For more information about the workshop contact Liz Sarno at (402) 309-0944.

Remembering a fallen president

Fifty years ago Monday, we watched TV all day as they buried a President. The most memorable moment was John John saluting as the horse drawn caisson went by.

A couple of years later, I made coats just like the ones Carolyn and John wore that day for Sue and Jon for Easter. I think we all remember that salute!

I've enjoyed all the memories of folks who have written about where they were that day. Many were in school and had the unusual experience of seeing teachers cry and school called off early.

I had an eight-month-old baby and was keeping a two-year-old and a four-year-old for a friend who had back surgery in Omaha. Diapers, without a washer and dryer, in a cold winter month, posed problems. I had been to Winside to use the Laundromat, which was a real luxury for me. When I got home, the television was on and the news was bad.

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

I did not watch full time, not with three little ones around, but it was on all the time. On Sunday, after church, we went immediately into the living room to turn on that black and white set again, and watched the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald live! Amazing!

This summer, I read "Killing Kennedy" by Bill O'Reilly. He included some facts about Oswald I had not heard before. The writing held my interest, and even though I knew the outcome, the tension built as the story unfolded. I started with "Killing Lincoln," by the same author, last fall. The similarities have often been outlined. Again, I learned things about that awful night I had not read before.

I now have "Killing Jesus" on my table by my chair, but I have not gotten very far into it. The first chapters deal with the barbarianism of the Romans of that time, and I had trouble sleeping after reading it. I don't know if I can continue. I've never seen the movie, The Passion of the Christ, for that reason.

A friend who visited the Texas Book Depository absolutely does not believe that bullets from that window could have killed John Kennedy. I don't know. All I do know is that a lot of dreams for the future were also shot down that day. JFK was a handsome, charismatic person who proved the power of words. And, by the way, his speech writer was from Nebraska, as was his appointment secretary.

Mostly, I wonder what happened to those words from his inauguration, "ask not what your country can do for you, but rather, what you can do for your country." Many young men and women have answered that question by volunteering in the Armed Forces, but there are way too many who are expecting the country to do for them!

THANK YOUS

Thank You From The Haase Family!

We don't know how to begin to thank everyone who helped after the devastating tornado. We had early warning and quick response from the Wayne Fire Department, Winside and Stanton. The day after, all the neighbors, friends, relatives and volunteers with heavy equipment and generators to start the clean-up. Salvation Army delivered food for Team Rubicon and volunteers to walk the fields. So grateful to all who brought food, cards and donations. The bands that gave their time and talent for the tornado relief concert.

Thank you so much and God Bless everyone!

The family of Mabel Petersen wishes to thank everyone who showed expressions of sympathy during Mabel's illness and at her passing. Special thanks to Wakefield Health Care Center, Hospice, Our Savior Lutheran Church, Dr. Martin, and Providence Medical Center. We will long remember your kindness.

We would like to express our heartfelt appreciation to Fontanelle Hybrids, Greenline Equipment, Winside & Pilger Farmer Coops, our family, friends and neighbors in the Winside, Hoskins, Carroll, Pilger and Stanton communities for their support, time, labor, equipment, food, beverages and donations and help in any way to make the harvest bee for Kurt Marotz so successful. Special thanks to VerNeal and Carmie Marotz, Reg and Dianne Gnirk and Skip Deck for organizing the event.

The Kurt Marotz Family
The Kevin Marotz Family

THANK YOU ...to my family and friends for all the attention shown to me since falling and fracturing my hip last month. I offer my sincere gratitude to Dr. Tyrance and all those at Faith Regional where my surgery was performed and to Dr. Martin at Providence Medical Center. Special thanks to everyone at PMC who cared for me in oh so many ways following my surgery. I appreciated those of you who daily took the time to talk to me, which allowed me to get to know each of you a bit better AND made me feel safe and comfortable. You give new meaning to the term 'skilled care.' I wish you all a very happy Thanksgiving and a blessed Holiday Season with your families.

Alyss Temme and her family want to thank everyone for the prayers, cards and flowers when she was at Mercy Hospital in Sioux City. Thanks to Pastor Michael Feldman and Pastor Carl Lilienkamp for coming to see her. To all the doctors and nursing staff for the great care that was given. Also to Providence Medical Center for treatments after coming home. To Dr. McCorkindale for his help. Thanks to the people who brought food over.
Ron, Alyss and Mike Temme

WHAT IS THANKSGIVING ALL ABOUT?

Yes, it's family gatherings, good food and prayers for the many blessings. But there is much more! It's the remembrance of those who have helped others in many ways unknown to the general public.

Addressing the issue of court appointed guardians/conservators this season, with the tripling of governmental entities paper work, telephone conferences and traveling time, preparing the annual court mandated reports for court appointed guardians, my humble THANKS are to Trine McBride, Wayne Housing Authority; all the employees at the State National Bank and Trust, Wayne; Wayne Herald staff; Harder and Ankeny, accountants; Al Pippitt; the manager of the Wayne Golf Club; Wayne County Court Magistrate KimBerly Hansen; Rusty Parker, State Farm Insurance; and last but not the least is Citizens State Bank, Laurel for the hundred times I needed a notary.

As I attended a recent Elderlaw workshop in Lincoln, the attorney stated Court appointed guardians/conservators are relinquishing their guardianships due to the degree of difficulty with the new regulations which is leaving a severe shortage of guardians for those who with no family or distant family, are in desperate need of someone to assist them in paying bills and making decisions. My last annual court mandated report took approximately eight hours of paperwork (with the assistance of all the citizens mentioned above) to compile, fill out, and send to various interested parties.

A guardian/conservator no longer stands alone. And I am deeply thankful to all who were there for me to fulfill my duties as a guardian! Shirley A. Kraemer, Ph.D. Nationally Certified Guardian/Conservator
