Preschool possibility discussed at meeting

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Offering free preschool options for parents without stepping on the toes of already-established preschool programs is a challenge Wayne Community Schools will need to address in the coming years. Preschool and bullying were the only topics questioned at the annual State of the Schools address, held Monday at the Wayne High School gymnasium. A reporter-estimated crowd of about 30 people sat in on a 75-minute discussion of some of the school's future goals and concerns. Superintendent Mark Lenihan said the school district is looking into the possibility of offering preschool options, beginning with the 2015-16 school year. Lenihan said the school district is researching the idea, but cautioned against the idea of infringing on private preschools and the Head Start program that are already in place in the Wayne community. "Our goal is to do our research and eventually move forward without hurting the established preschools in town," he told those in attendance. "We don't want to hurt the private preschools or Head Start, and we're going to spend the remainder of this school year and the next researching things to see what it would be like." During the public's question-and-answer period, Julie Osnes questioned if the school district would offer preschool for free and, if so, how would it not conflict with private preschools that are already in place. "There are some grants available for schools to start preschools, so it's something we need to look into," he said. "It would be free, but I would envision us putting a cap on the number of kids in the preschool." Lenihan said the recent numbers indicate there are about 300 preschool-age children in the Wayne community, and most of the area preschools are at capacity. "We think this preschool's goal would be to reach those who aren't accessing the preschools that are now in Wayne, and we want to do what we can to work with the existing preschools and not step on their toes." Lenihan also addressed the issues surrounding concerns with bullying in the school district, encouraging parents to take an active role in preventing bullying from taking place in the school. Lenihan said incidents of bullying should be reported to the school administration, and he asked parents to encourage their children to report any incidents to a teacher or guidance counselor. (From left) Lukas Rix, Laura Burtwistle, Quinn Nisley and Katie Jensen are a few of the faces you'll see around town. All four attended college here and either stayed or returned to Wayne after relocating elsewhere. Their reasons for making a home here include everything from job opportunities to the people who make up the community.

Why Wayne? Residents have good reasons why they stayed

By KATIE KASL
Of The Herald

When the students of Wayne State first infiltrate city limits, they do so in cars loaded down with the creature comforts of home and spend the next four or five – or maybe more – years almost broke and entirely sleep-deprived, yet still adamant to declare their college years as the best of their life. Their arrival, as regular as clockwork every August, means traffic on Main Street picks up; the line at the grocery store gets longer, and the time it takes to get a pizza via delivery on a Friday night increases by several minutes. These students while away time by the credit hour. They shuffle from one class to another, spending the moments in between filling chairs in the library, their shoulders hunched over textbooks, until their time here is up. When that moment arrives, and the tassel's been strung from the rearview mirror of their car, some stay while most don't; and those who stick around, filling jobs uptown, downtown and just out of town, must face the question, "Why Wayne?"

For Katie Jensen, not even the picturesque landscape of Colorado was enough to keep her from northeast Nebraska. Following her graduation from Wayne State in 2009, Jensen moved to Colorado Springs, where she landed a job doing graphic design work for a legal firm there. Eventually, she found her way back to Wayne but, upon returning, wasn't entirely convinced the town would become her home for the long-term. "The longer I've been here, the more I've found that it is my home," Jensen, a Wakefield native, said. "Wayne is a great community to live in, and the people here truly care about you." Her return to the community led her to a Leadership Wayne class, which, in turn, led her to the Pool Committee, softball and volleyball leagues and line judge duties at Wayne State volleyball games – all perfect fits for the active sports-lover. She's made best friends here, reaped the benefits of the support system they provide and met people who share her interests in slamming a ball across a net or sending it way out into left field. "Being involved is important because taking pride in your community only makes it a better place for you and everyone else to live," Jensen said. "No one wants to live in a boring town with nothing to do, so it's nice to see Wayne grow and add new activities and improve what we already have. It makes us stronger as a community and makes more people want to live here." Part of that draw, no doubt, can be attributed to the presence of the college. It brought Jensen, now a graphic designer with Sand Creek Post & Beam, a manufacturer of wood barn kits, to town and has shown her over the years, that, yes, the school can coexist peacefully with the town surrounding it. "It's great to see the college and community come together," she said. "Without one or another, neither would survive as well as it does."  Laura Burtwistle could be in Lincoln right now. The 23-year-old could be a newly-designated Husker alum, traveling "O" Street on her commute to and from work and taking the occasional weekend to drive three-plus hours back home to Chambers, Neb. But – here's the thing – she isn't. A visit to campus, plus the promise of a hefty scholarship package, made the college too hard to pass up; and, as a result, Burtwistle began classes in the fall of 2009, claiming her spot in the Class of 2013. "Wayne State was big enough to allow me to have my own independence but small enough that I could call my professors by first name and wave at someone I knew each time I walked around campus," she said. When Burtwistle accepted an internship with the Wayne Area Economic Development (WAED) office in the summer of 2011, and the town embraced her with open arms, she returned the gesture right back, embracing it as her new home. When her time with WAED ended, the organization asked her to return. "Without hesitation, I agreed," Burtwistle said. "It was a no-brainer to me that I wanted to stay in Wayne after graduation." She's been out of school for almost a year now and has, in that time, managed to stay busy. Burtwistle is currently employed by Wayne State College as an office assistant in the art, design and music departments, and, last year, she started LMB Visual Creations, a business that combines art, photography and graphic design. "It is my hope that, sometime in the future, I will open my own studio and an art gallery in Wayne," Burtwistle said. "I want to share my talents and what I've studied at WSC with the community I've grown to love. Bringing something new to Wayne, I think, is a great way to do that." In addition to work and her blooming entrepreneurship, Burtwistle is involved with the Wayne Marketing committee (she lent a hand to the Wayne Works videos, as well as the Welcome to Wayne signs). She's also the secretary for the Wayne Izaak Walton League and became a Teammate this past fall. "That's another great thing about Wayne: it's so easy to get involved, and people welcome the support you're willing to offer,"

Virus could have major impact on area pig population

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

Stressing the fact that the virus is "not harmful to humans or other animals," Brian Schantz, a veterinarian with Diversified Management said Porcine Epidemic Diarrhea Virus (PEDV) said the virus has spread through regions of northeast Nebraska. Schantz said that while he is unaware of any swine herds in Wayne County that have been infected with PEDV, cases have been documented in Cedar, Knox, Cuming and Dakota counties. "I would estimate that 40-50 percent of the sow farms I have contact with have reported the virus and the number is growing each day," Schantz said. PEDV is caused by the virus Coronavirus that causes severe diarrhea in pigs of all ages, but is most dangerous to newborn piglets. Statistics indicate nearly a 100 percent death loss to pre-weaned pigs. It causes severe diarrhea in pigs of all ages and vomiting. The virus is transmitted through oral contact with feces. The most common source of infected feces are the pigs, trucks, boots and clothing. The virus was first detected in the U.S. in May of 2013 and is believed to have come from China. It was located in Nebraska in late 2013 and is continuing to spread due in part to the cold weather, which allows the virus to survive for several months. Animals infected with the virus can infect other animals for up to four weeks. According to Schantz, several vaccines have been developed to protect against the disease, but none have been proven to be effective. The virus is very acute, infecting a swine herd very quickly. It is devastating to swine producers. "If piglets can be weaned at seven days of age rather than waiting several weeks, they stand a better chance of survival," Schantz said. If piglets can survive to three weeks of age, they can usually survive. Prevention of the spread of the virus is dependent on strict enforcement of biosecurity measures, including washing all items that may have come in contact with contaminated herds, including trucks, live-

Wayne firefighters battled a blaze at a workshop on Douglas Street late Saturday evening. Three firefighters were injured at the scene.

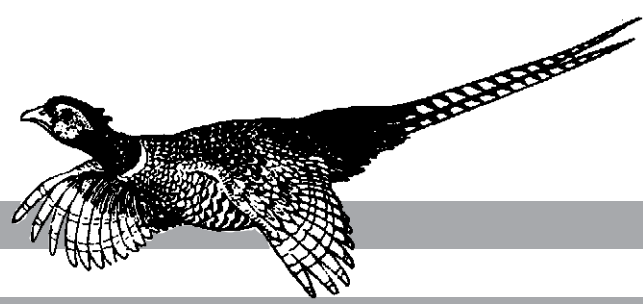

Three firefighters hurt fighting Saturday blaze

Members of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department responded to two fires on Saturday, both in the city of Wayne. At approximately 2:40 p.m., a grass fire was reported on the north edge of the Wayne State College campus. A strip of grass approximately 75 feet by 200 feet north of the maintenance building, toward the golf course, was burned. A second fire was reported at approximately 8:15 p.m. at 110 Douglas Street with a workshop on fire. When firefighters arrived on the scene, they found flames coming out of the roof of the building. Fighting the blaze was complicated by the fact that the building had a double roof and had been added on to several times. These factors led to firefighters fighting the blaze from the outside as a defensive attack. The State Fire Marshall determined that the fire was started by a wood burning stove. Three firefighters received injuries at the scene and were transported to Providence Medical Center in Wayne, where they were treated and released. The first incident occurred when a firefighter received a concussion and fractured

American Broadband continuing to negotiate with Viacom on channels

American Broadband's General Manager has issued the following statement:

Currently, American Broadband, along with several hundred other cable TV companies throughout the United States, is in negotiations with Viacom concerning several networks, including Comedy Central, Nickelodeon and MTV. It is the goal of American Broadband to maintain carriage of these networks. However, they are making efforts to notify customers that Viacom may pull their networks if an agreement is not reached.

"Programming fees account for the bulk of our customers' monthly bills. Our goal is to protect our customers from significant programming fee increases," said Joe Jetenksy, American Broadband General Manager. Viacom demanded an increase that is 40 times the rate of inflation over last year's fees for the same channels you get today - even if you don't watch them."

American Broadband will continue to keep their customers informed as to the negotiation progression through local media sources. For more information, contact American Broadband at (888) 262-2661.

Tower student helps fire victim 'have what he needs'

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

When nine-year old Cole Pritchett, a student at ESU Tower School in Wayne, learned that a classmate had lost his home and belongings in a fire, he knew he had to do something.

Early in March, the home Michael Coffman, 13, was living in with his foster family burned to the ground.

"The house burned all the way and we didn't save anything," Coffman said. He and his family were not home when the fire broke out, so they were not able to save any of their clothing or other belongings. However, Michael is grateful "nobody got hurt." The family has moved into a different home in Rosalie.

The boys' teacher at Tower School, Chantelle Hoffman, shared the news of the fire and immediately Pritchett raised his hand and offered to set up a plan for donations for the family.

"I knew they would need food, clothes, shampoo and other things, so I sent home a note with the other kids asking for these things and furniture they didn't need, money, gift cards and medicine," Pritchett said.

Within a short time, the students and staff at the school donated a variety of food, dishes, clothing, shoes, a TV stand, table and chairs, a rocker and two mattresses. Coblestone Inn and Suites donated sheets and towels.

The next step in the process was to find a way to get the donated items to Michael's new home.

With Miss Hoffman's help, the students found a horse trailer big enough to hold all the donations. A group of students at the school helped load the items and several students, teachers and Cole and Michael made the trip to Rosalie to deliver the items.

"I was really surprised by all the stuff. The best thing for me was probably the money, because I can use it to buy the things I need that I lost in the fire," Coffman said.

"I am glad I was able to do this for Michael. I did it so his family could have the things they need. Everybody needs clothing and food," Pritchett said.

Hurlbert accepted into RHOP at WSC

Hurlbert

Amanda Hurlbert of Wayne is among the more than 20 students accepted into the Rural Health Opportunities Program (RHOP) at Wayne State College.

RHOP is a cooperative effort between Wayne State and the University of Nebraska Medical Center (UNMC) and encourages students from rural areas of Nebraska to return to rural settings after graduation to pursue their career. Individuals selected obtain guaranteed admission to UNMC Colleges upon successful completion of studies at WSC and receive a full-tuition waiver at WSC.

A shortage of rural health practitioners in Nebraska prompted higher education institutions to implement the RHOP program in 1989. Selection of candidates is based on an applicant's residency in a rural Nebraska community, academic potential and commitment to practice in rural Nebraska.

Hurlbert is the daughter of Trevor and Holly Hurlbert. She lettered in academics, has been listed on the honor roll for 14 quarters, participated in Spanish Club, Health Careers Club, Future Business Leaders of America and Church Youth Group.

"We want to be proactive and try to limit what happens and deal with it as it happens," he said.

Reading from a prepared statement, Anne Liska noted some concerns she has seen and heard, and felt she needed to speak up now, fearing that a tragedy within one of the school buildings may be imminent if action is not taken today.

"I must speak up now because I don't want to live with the remorse if something should happen to a child," she said.

Liska asked the Wayne Board of Education for guidance on how to prevent bullying in the school district and encouraged the board to be aware of what is going on in the district with regards to bullying.

Lenihan did offer some options for adults to get involved in the effort, noting the local Stand For The Silent chapter and the recently-convened Community Partnership For Youth, a group of community leaders who look at specific items of concern, including cyberbullying.

Other highlights from the State of the Schools address included:

– Lenihan noted that the school district is at or above state average in a number of testing areas, adding that Nebraska State Accountability testing was starting this week.

– noted a pilot program involving senior students working with Chromebook laptop computers.

– discussed a fluctuation in the amount of state aid the district receives. This year's total of just over $1.5 million is down from the $1.93 million the district received four years ago. Land values in the district, however, are up almost $160 million while the school's tax levy has remained relatively stable.

– listed a number of building improvements that have taken place, along with projects on the horizon that include renovation of the high school track and new heating and air conditioning in both buildings' gymnasiums and the junior-senior high locker rooms.

The second injury was a cracked fibula from a fire hose that was being 'tagged' to a fire hydrant and came loose.

A third firefighter sustained a minor injury when attempting to break open a window to shoot water into the building. Due to icy conditions, equipment being used in the process caused the injury.

As a precaution, the residents in the homes to the north and south of the workshop were evacuated. However, no damage was sustained to either house.

The workshop was considered a total loss with the value of $22,000 in damage.

Mutual aid in the form of manpower was provided by the Wakefield Volunteer Fire Department and the Carroll Volunteer Fire Department. Providence Medical Center Ambulance crews and the Wayne Police Department also assisted at the scene.

Wayne Fire Chief Phil Monahan reminds all residents that due to the extremely dry conditions, a burn ban is in effect for Wayne County until the area receives significant precipitation.

stock trailers, shoes and clothing.

"It appears that the virus does not like heat or dry conditions, so hopefully when the weather warms up, the spread will slow," Schantz said.

The focus of those in the swine is preventing the spread of the disease. This includes taking extra measures to clean, disinfect and remove any unnecessary materials from the site and making sure barns and livestock trailers are dry and inspected for any feed, hair or manure that needs to be cleaned before animals are placed in them.

Producers need to also make sure that replacement breeding stock originates from a negative herd.

In response to the virus, the Wayne County Extension program will eliminate the weigh-in and rate-of-gain portions of the swine portion of this year's Wayne County Fair. Several other agencies have made similar decisions.

All those with knowledge of the disease and its spread stress that while PEDV is devastating to those herds and producers affected by it, the virus does not affect the meat, other animals or humans.

Burtwistle said.

In essence, a pencil and a piece of paper are what led Lukas Rix to Wayne.

He was in high school when he did the number-crunching, and the resulting figures helped him realize that Wayne State was the best deal when compared to the other colleges he'd been considering.

Its location didn't hurt either. Rix is from Lyons, Neb. A 50-minute ride to the east, and he's home. When he reversed this route several years ago and visited town for a tour of the college, he found that he liked the atmosphere there.

"Everyone was welcoming and took the time with me to make sure everything was in place for me to be successful," he said.

That would be enough to encourage him to enroll.

As a freshman in the fall of 2006, Rix already had his major picked out. He arrived in Wayne with a desire to study business and was greeted by a degree in management and marketing four years later. Work followed soon after, starting with a job at Sand Creek Post & Beam, where Rix worked directly with the company's marketing and sales department. In the spring of 2012, he and his partner opened the doors to Rustic Treasures, a thrift and consignment store overlooking Main Street.

"We have enjoyed watching the business grow, and we hope to evolve downtown Wayne as a destination for the region," he said.

Along with his work commitments, Rix serves on the WAED Board of Directors and is one of several young professionals who help welcome new residents to the community and connect them with potential employers. Both roles allow him to interact with others – people are, after all, the main reason he chose to make a home in Wayne – and give him the opportunity to encourage those around him to get involved in their surroundings.

"Whether you are passionate about the school system and want to serve on the school board or you grow vegetables and want to sell them at the Farmers Market, people need to find a way to engage themselves," Rix said. "That would catapult our community in the right direction."

When Quinn Nisley looks at Wayne, she sees a little bit of her hometown in the city.

She sees a small, stand-up community built on hard work, family and values. She sees a supportive group of people who have the opportunity to invest in one another; but, most importantly, she sees something she didn't think she ever would.

A home.

"It's funny: I never thought I'd stay in Wayne, America," Nisley said. "My grandmother said I'd live in Wayne my whole life. She passed away about two years ago, (and) so far, she's right."

For Nisley, the college selection process had a couple heavy influences. One was her father, a now-retired guidance counselor who was still working when Nisley was a student in high school. ("I had plenty of guidance," she said.) Another was the compact, close-knit environment she was used to. Stromsburg – where Nisley is originally from – is only about a fifth of the size of Wayne. When she graduated from high school there, she was one of 28 students to receive a diploma.

These two factors helped narrow down her options until she was left with one: Wayne State it would be.

Nisley pursued a few different programs at the college and then earned a bachelors degree in English writing in 2007. After graduation, she moved to Omaha, where she got a temp job – and a valuable lesson.

"I worked in a locked room with a handful of people and my computer," she said. "That lasted the summer. Omaha wasn't quite for me."

An opening at the Student Bookstore, where Nisley worked during her time as an undergrad, brought her back to Wayne. She got the job and served as an assistant manager there for two and a half years before another position became available to her.

Don't worry, though: Nisley's still at Wayne State. She works in the admissions office now, where one of her duties is promoting the college and the community.

"I don't have any trouble doing that, whether I'm on the clock or off," she said.

For Jensen, Burtwistle Rix and Nisley, Wayne started out as a temporary home – a stop on the route to somewhere else. Now that their respective graduations have come and gone, they're all back on familiar territory, and they all attribute either their return or their stay on the great things that can be found in their current home.

In fact, each and every one of the four name the people of Wayne as part of the reason they stuck around, and both Burtwistle and Rix use the word "progressive" when describing them.

The town, they said, is very accepting of new ideas and, with them, the individuals who can really, truly answer the question, "Why Wayne?"

Lots of new names in record book

Now that spring is here, it's time to do some spring cleaning of the "Bits and Pieces" file:

The Wayne High boys basketball team found their way into the all-time records in the state this season. Their 192 made 3-pointers was the 19th highest in a season in state history and a few short of the all-time school record of 204 set in 2011, which is eighth-highest in state history. Jalen Barry's 95 threes were seventh-highest of all time, just one behind recent standouts Jesse Carr of Ainsworth and Wes Eikmeier of Archbishop Bergan.

Barry and Ben Hoskins both found their way into the record books this winter. Barry's 95 3-pointers and 45.7 percent shooting from beyond the arc are new marks, and Hoskins set new standards for points in a season (523), with Barry close behind at 514 and rebounds (278). The team's 24 wins tied a school record, and Barry is among the school's all-time bests in career points scored, finishing with 1,205.

Two seniors on the Wayne High girls team left their impressions in the record books. Jalyn Zeiss (256) and Meagan Backer (201) both eclipsed the old team record for career steals. Zeiss set the new mark for steals in a season (85) and a game (13), along with assist standards for one game (10) and career (240). She and Ashton Schweers both made their mark in the percentage categories - Schweers has the new field goal percentage standard at 46 percent, while Zeiss hit 71 percent of her free throws this year.

Wakefield standout Lauren Lehmkuhl was a little busy rewriting Wakefield's record books after an amazing season on the basketball court.

The Trojan senior set at least a dozen game, season and career records this year, setting records in points, rebounds, steals, assists, blocks, made 3-pointers, field goal percentage and oil changes of the team bus (OK, one of those records I made up).

She holds the top five spots in team history for points and rebounds in a game and the top four for threes in a season. In her final six games as a Trojan, she averaged 27 points, 16 rebounds, 3.5 assists and 3.2 blocks. She helped lead a team that set team records for rebounds in a season (857) and free throws (293 of 456, 64 percent).

The thing I'll always remember about Lehmkuhl, though, is that she put up these eye-popping numbers with what looked like a minimal amount of effort. She wasn't flashy and didn't have any mind-blowing moves to do what she did - she just seemed to always be in the right place and calmly did what needed to be done to help her team. Players like that are fun to cover, especially at the high school level, and I'm sure Morningside is excited to have a talent like hers coming their way next season.

LCC's Audra Corbit set a new record as well this season. The junior center blocked a school-record 10 shots in a game against Ponca this season. Teammates Cameron Eddie and Ellie Arduser both found their way among the all-time bests in Laurel history. Eddie is fourth in career points with 937, second in points per game this season at 17.7 and third in points for a season with 408. She set single-game records for free throws made in a game (14), and also has the best numbers for free throws attempted in a season (173) and career (437). Arduser made her way into the top 10 for season field goal percentage this year, hitting 51.2 percent from the floor.

On the wrestling mat, Winside's Caleb Lienemann wrote his chapter into the Wildcats' storied history. He set single-season records for wins (43) and pins (36), with 25

Wildcats go 3-3 in crossover tourney

The Wayne State softball team swept in-state rival Nebraska-Kearney and went 3-3 against MIAA competition to highlight a busy week last week.

Last Wednesday, Wayne State swept Nebraska-Kearney 6-2 and 4-3 in non-conference college softball at the Pete Chapman Complex.

A six-run sixth inning in the opener helped the Wildcats rally to take the first game. UNK scored single runs in the second and third innings for a 2-0 lead, and Loper starter Taryn Trosper held Wayne State to just one hit until the Wildcats erupted for six runs on five hits in the sixth inning.

Kelcie Bormann doubled down the left field line to open the inning and scored on Melanie Alyea's single. Megan Hagemann then tied the game with a double down the right field line that scored pinch-runner Tiffani Housh. Becca Kalhorn followed with a pinch-hit RBI single that scored Sam O'Brien for a 3-2 Wildcat lead. Jordan King and Lexie Loos drew bases-loaded walks while Kaiti Williams reached on a fielder's choice to score the sixth run. Bormann pitched a complete game four hitter for the win, improving to 6-1 on the season. She struck out nine and walked two in the win.

In the second game, O'Brien and King each record two hits while Hagemann added a two-run homer as the Wildcats held on to complete the sweep.

Wayne State opened the scoring in the first as King doubled and scored on Hagemann's two-run homer to center. Wayne State scored two more in the third on a two-run double by O'Brien, then held off a Loper rally to finish the sweep.

O'Brien and King were both 2-for-3 in the win, and Sara Scheffert fired a complete-game win, allowing three runs on six hits with three strikeouts and three walks.

The softball team faced some tough competition in the Missouri Western Regional Crossover, going 3-3 against teams from the MIAA.

On Friday, Wayne State won a wild 11-10, nine-inning thriller over Central Missouri and beat Northwest Missouri State 6-2.

In the first game, Wayne State rallied from a 4-0 deficit and won a wild one in extra innings. Central Missouri broke a 9-9 tie with a run in the top of the ninth, but Hagemann hit a two-run single to center, scoring Vicki Nielsen and Loos with the winning runs.

Loos was 5-for-5 at the plate and scored three times to highlight a 16-hit attack. Hagemann, King, Bormann, O'Brien and Alyea each had two hits.

Nielsen and Williams both hit home runs in the win over Northwest Missouri State, overcoming a 2-0 deficit with single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings before adding three insurance runs in the seventh.

Nielsen tied the game with her home run to lead off the fifth, and Hagemann's round-tripper helped close out the scoring for the Wildcats. Bormann got the win in the circle, throwing a complete-game six-hitter with three strikeouts.

Defense hurt the Wildcats on Saturday as they dropped games to Missouri Western (4-3) and Washburn (9-7).

In the first game, Wayne State put up three runs in the fifth inning, highlighted by King's RBI triple, to cut the host team's lead, but could not get the tying run home. Hagemann was 2-for-3 with a double to lead the offense, and Scheffert took the loss in the circle.

Wayne State led 7-0 in their matchup with Washburn, but Washburn pounded out 15 hits and were able to erase the Wildcat advantage, scoring two in the bottom of the sixth to complete the comeback.

Melanie Alyea was 2-for-2 with two RBIs in the losing effort, while Monique Alyea had a two-run single. Scheffert again took the loss.

Wayne State salvaged a split on Sunday, beating Missouri Southern 8-2 before losing to 12th-ranked Emporia State, 4-1.

In the first game, O'Brien went 3-for-3 at the plate, and three Wildcat pitchers limited Missouri Southern to three hits in the game.

Wayne State broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth when O'Brien had an RBI single and Becca Kalhorn came through with a pinch-hit two-

Wayne High senior high jumper Ashton Schweers got the season off to a good start at the WSC Indoor Invite, clearing 5 feet, 2 inches to take first in the high jump.

Devils show stuff at WSC

It was a good day for the Wayne High track and field teams, as they came away with five first-place finishes and a trio of runner-up efforts in Saturday's big-school division of the Wayne State Indoor Invitational.

The 3,200-meter relay team of Angie Nelson, Alyssa Schmale, Kiara Hochstein and Cassie Heier staged an impressive comeback, coming from behind to win the race in a time of 10:47.97. They were one of three first-place efforts for the Blue Devil girls, including first-place finishes by Marta Pulfer in the 3,200-meter run and Ashton Schweers in the high jump.

On the boys side, first-place efforts were earned by the four-lap relay of Demetrius Alexander, Trevor Pecena, Tyler Pecena and Tayib Toussaint. Toussaint also took top Demetrius Alexander ran well on the track for the Wayne High boys at the WSC Indoor Invite.

Wildcats take two from UM-Duluth

The Wayne State baseball team opened Northern Sun Conference play Sunday with a 2-0 and 5-3 sweep over Minnesota Duluth at the Pete Chapman Complex in Wayne.

Sophomore starter Eric Browning was masterful in the opener, recording 10 strikeouts over six innings and getting some timely hits from his offense to get the shutout.

Wayne State broke a scoreless tie in the fourth when Curtis Bussard singled, moved to second on a C.J. Nolen single, advanced to third on a walk to Nick McIntee and scored on a bases-loaded walk to Brandon Lalk.

The Wildcats put up an insurance run in the fifth when Zak Leighton singled and later scored on a Jake Perez single through the right side.

That's all the run support needed for Browning, who improved to 2-2 on the season by allowing just two hits over six innings with 10 strikeouts and three walks. Bussard earned the save in the seventh, fanning two of the three batters he faced.

The second game saw the Wildcats build an early 3-0 lead, then hold off a pair of UMD rallies.

The Wildcats struck for three runs in the third to take the early advantage. Kevin Andersen was hit by a pitch and scored on Alex Schleppebach's double for the first run. Leighton's sacrifice fly to center field scored Schleppebach while Nolen came through with an RBI single that scored Bussard, who doubled.

After Duluth cut the lead to 3-2 in the fifth, Wayne State came back with a run in the bottom of the sixth as Jake Perez doubled and scored on a Bulldog throwing error.

The Bulldogs rallied again in the top of the eighth inning, but Wayne State responded and put the lead back to two runs in the bottom of the eighth when Perez doubled and scored on Michael Herman's single.

Qualifiers lead Wayne High track

Both Wayne High track and field teams return a good mix of state meet experience from the previous year and should make for an entertaining spring season.

Balance and state experience are the key words to describe this year's girls team, as Wayne returns six state track qualifiers from last spring to go along with girls who experienced district finals or state level completion in every sport thus far this year.

"We have balance in returning qualifiers in the throws, jumps, sprints and middle distances," coach Dale Hochstein said. "The distance core will also be solid this season with several members of last fall's strong cross country team to add to the mix."

Leading the way will be returning state qualifiers Ashton Schweers (high jump), Jalyn Zeiss (sprints/relays), Angie Nelson (distance), Cassie Heier (distance), Meagan Backer (sprints/jumps) and Lexi Sokol (shot put), whose status is dependent on her recovery from a knee injury late in volleyball season.

Currently, Wayne has 38 athletes and have individuals who can score in every event. Keeping everybody healthy and putting them in the right position will be important this season.

"It's just going to be a matter of finding out how healthy we stay and how competitive we can be as we match up with some of the state's best competition in the B-4 district that will be held at Columbus Lakeview this year," Hochstein said.

The Wayne boys team enters the season with only two returning state qualifiers in sprinter Demetrius Alexander and middle-distance runner Trevor Pecena but have some quality individuals to fill in gaps and have gained another year of experience.

"Like the girls, the boys have experienced success in their other seasons, so we are hungry to continue with that drive and determination."

Golfers look ahead to big home meets

Wayne High will definitely have its sights set on the postseason in golf this spring, as the Blue Devils will have a chance to finish the season and earn a trip to state on their home course.

Wayne Country Club will host the Blue Devils' district meet this May, and coach Dave Hix is hoping that home-course advantage will work wonders for what should be an improved team.

"Hosting districts should give us a boost to qualify for state, and we have three big events here this year with our meet, the Mid State Conference meet, and districts," Hix said.

Three starters are back from last year's team, and all three are expected to lead the way on the links.

Seniors Kaje Maly and Jared Peterson are both back in the lineup this season. Maly was the team's top golfer from last year, and the senior duo should give Wayne a solid 1-2 punch in the scoring column.

Also back from last year is junior Zach Keating, who showed improvement later in the year after struggling early, he will be joined by Reed Trenhaile and senior Jalen Barry, whose leadership in football and basketball should also come into play on the golf course.

"We're a small group with some experience," Hix said. "We have three letterwinners back from a team that won conference last year, so we're looking forward to seeing what we can do on the course this spring."

Curtis Bussard gets the fourth inning started with a single. He later scored to help Wayne State post a doubleheader sweep of Minnesota Duluth on Sunday.

Browning earns baseball honor

Eric Browning of Wayne State was announced as the Northern Sun Conference Baseball Pitcher of the Week following his performance over the weekend against Minnesota Duluth. It's the first time that Browning has received NSIC Baseball Pitcher of the Week honors.

A 6-foot-1, 190-pound sophomore right-hander from Lyons, Browning struck out a season-high 10 batters in six innings of work Sunday while allowing just two hits in a 2-0 win over Minnesota Duluth to open NSIC play. He improved to 2-2 on the season with the win and now

Hochstein said. "With only 23 athletes, depth will not be our strength, and we will have to rely on some quality athletes to score."

The boys' strengths will come in the sprints, jumps and middle distance, and Hochstein is hoping to see some improvement in the throws and distance events.

Wayne will face a tough schedule that includes the addition of the Columbus Scotus Relays on April 1. They will also run in a strong Elkhorn Invitational and should have some athletes compete in the Norfolk Catholic Invite before closing with conference and districts.

of those pins coming in under a minute and eight coming in 17 seconds or less (including an eight-second pin, tying the fastest in team history). He is the 26th Winside wrestler to post 100 career wins.

The end-of-season awards are coming in, and a number of area athletes have been honored for their efforts this winter.

The Norfolk Daily News announced its All-Area teams, and a number of athletes have been honored. In wrestling, Winside state champions Caleb Liemann and Marcos Escalera were named to the team; Wayne High's Jalyn Zeiss made second team and Ashton Schwers earned honorable mention.

On a sadder note, it was tough watching Creighton's postseason run come to such an abrupt halt as it did Sunday against Baylor in the NCAA tournament.

I know there has been a lot of interest from people around these parts on the play of Doug McDermott and the work of his father, Greg, who is a former Wayne State coach who left quite an impression on the community during his time here.

Suckstorf named Coach of the Year

Wayne State assistant track and field coach Brett Suckstorf was named the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association National Indoor Assistant Coach of the Year.

Suckstorf, a native of Pierce who is in his fourth year as an assistant throws coach with the Wildcat track and field program, coached three athletes who qualified in five events for the NCAA Div. II Indoor National Track and Field Championships. Each athlete earned All-American honors to help Wayne State score 12 points and tie for 16th in the team standings. Carly Fehringer was second in the weight throw with teammate Emily Wells eighth, while Sara Wells placed sixth in the shot put.

At the NSIC Indoor Championships, Suckstorf's throwers placed 1-2-3 in the shot put and 1-2-5-8 in the weight throw to account for a total of 47 out of 54 points for the team.

Eighth-grade boys win Pender tourney

The Wayne eighth-grade boys basketball team beat Pender, Bancroft and Howells-Dodge to win the March Blowout Tournament in Pender.

In their 40-25 win over Pender, Mason Lee, Edgar Anderson and Jack Evetovich led the way with six points apiece. Brennan O'Reilly had five, Beau Bowers and Austin Fernau each had four, and Ryan Jaixen, Justin Dean and Zane Jackson each had three points.

In their 36-32 win over Bancroft, Jaixen had 15 points, and Evetovich added 10 to lead the way. Bowers and Anderson each had four, and Dean scored three.

In the 40-35 win over Howells-Dodge, O'Reilly had 11, and Jaixen had 10 to pace Wayne. Evetovich scored seven, Dean had six, Bowers had five, and Lee scored one.

Seventh boys take first in Pender

The Wayne seventh-grade boys team won first-place honors at the March Blowout Tournament in Pender.

In their 38-16 win over South Sioux City, Tyler Gilliland led the way with 15 points while Marcus Fertig added eight.

In their 41-17 win over the host team, all eight players scored, led by Fertig and Drew Buck with eight points apiece. Buck pulled down 13 rebounds.

Perez and Lalk both went 2-for-4 to lead an eight-hit attack. Dylan McGill got the win on the mound, going six innings and allowing five hits and two runs while striking out three. Bussard pitched a scoreless ninth with two strikeouts to get his second save of the day, following relievers Chad Kim and Ryan Zweck.

The 8-7 Wildcats (2-0 NSIC) host Northern State in doubleheaders Saturday and Sunday at the Chapman Complex. Game time both days is 12 p.m. They host University of Mary in a 1:30 p.m. doubleheader on Wednesday.

The stories about the McDermotts have been amazing to read during the course of this season, but I thought the family showed a tremendous amount of class and character while being under the media's microscope this season. My experience with the elder McDermott is mostly from when he was at Wayne State and I was working at the Norfolk Daily News, but it's not hard to see that the apple didn't fall very far from the tree with his son.

It's sad to see their time together as coach and player come to an end, but it will be exciting to see how the son fares at the NBA level – and how dad adjusts to life without No. 3 in the lineup.

Allen track teams will look for improvement

Allen's track and field teams will rely on a young and improving team that will include some experienced athletes, as 17 boys and 12 girls make up the two rosters this year. The Allen teams will be led by seniors Austin Connot and Lindsey Jones, both of whom have experience running at the state meet. Senior boys Myles Flores and Takota Burnham and Lady Eagle senior Morgan Bathke will also provide their leadership on the teams this season. Connot and Jones will both be a part of Allen's relay teams. Connot runs the 800 and will also be part of the 3,200-meter relay, while Jones will compete in the jumps, run the 400 and probably be a member of at least one relay team. Flores will give Allen an athlete to watch in the throwing events, Burnham should do well in the 3,200, and Bathke is expected to be in the sprints, relays and compete in the jumping events. Allen has a number of underclassmen who should step up this season. "The work it takes to compete in track and field is a valuable lesson for life, and these athletes are a tremendously fun and hard-working group of people," coach Dave Ulrich said.

Area athletes perform well at WSC Indoor meet

Area athletes accounted for seven first-place finishes during the season-opening Wayne State Indoor Invitational on Friday at the Wayne State Recreation Center. Allen's 3,200-meter relay teams dominated the day, as both came away with first-place finishes. The boys team of Tayler Kumm, Nick Brahmstead, Austin Connot and Wade Connot finished first in a time of 9:23.75, while the Lady Eagles foursome of Lindsey Jones, Lexi Oswald, Kaylen Smith and Gabby Sullivan broke the tape in 11:02.56. Sullivan was also a winner in the girls high jump, taking first with a leap of 4 feet, 10 inches. Wakefield had a hand in three first-place finishes as well. On the boys side, Josh Dolph took top honors in the 1,600-meter run with a time of 5:00.22, and Anthony Gustafson won the high jump by hitting the 6-foot mark. Savannah Nelson was a winner in the girls 400-meter run, finishing in a time of 1:05.39. Winside also came away with a first-place finish, as senior hurdler Jayd Roberts won the event in a

Ice Dam Prevention

This winter, take these steps to avoid costly and potentially dangerous ice dams:

- Keep your attic well ventilated. The colder the attic, the less melting and refreezing you'll have on your roof.
- Keep the attic floor well insulated to minimize the amount of heat rising through the attic from within the home.
- As an extra precaution against roof leaks, have a contractor install a water-repellent membrane under your roof covering.

Wakefield track teams to be improved

Wakefield's girls track team will be loaded with numbers, while the Trojan boys will have to rely on quality to overcome a lineup that is smaller than previous years.

The Wakefield girls team will be the biggest in recent memory, as 31 young women will make up this year's track squad.

While they're big in numbers, the team will be short in experience, as 21 of those athletes are either freshmen or sophomores.

"I'm glad to see such a big jump in our numbers," coach Mike Hassler said. "The biggest question facing us right now is finding a spot for all these young ladies on the track where they can be competitive. You will probably see a lot of girls being shuffled around in the early track meets. It's a great problem to have and a really good step in the right direction for our girl's track program."

Losing their only state qualifier from last year to graduation, the Trojan girls have some good veterans returning, led by seniors Lauren Lehmkuhl and Whitney Echtenkamp. Lehmkuhl will lead the way in the hurdles while Echtenkamp will anchor the distance events.

Other returning letterwinners that will look to have an impact are Taryn Hingst and Josephine Peitz in the distance events.

While the girls are big on numbers, the boys track team will be a bit smaller than in years past. However, in those limited numbers the boys team returns several experienced competitors who have been top performers in the area over the past several years.

"With the addition of high school baseball, our numbers are down a bit from the past," Hassler said. "I think the baseball program can be a good thing for our school, and I'm just happy to see our athletes active in a sport during the spring. That is the most important thing."

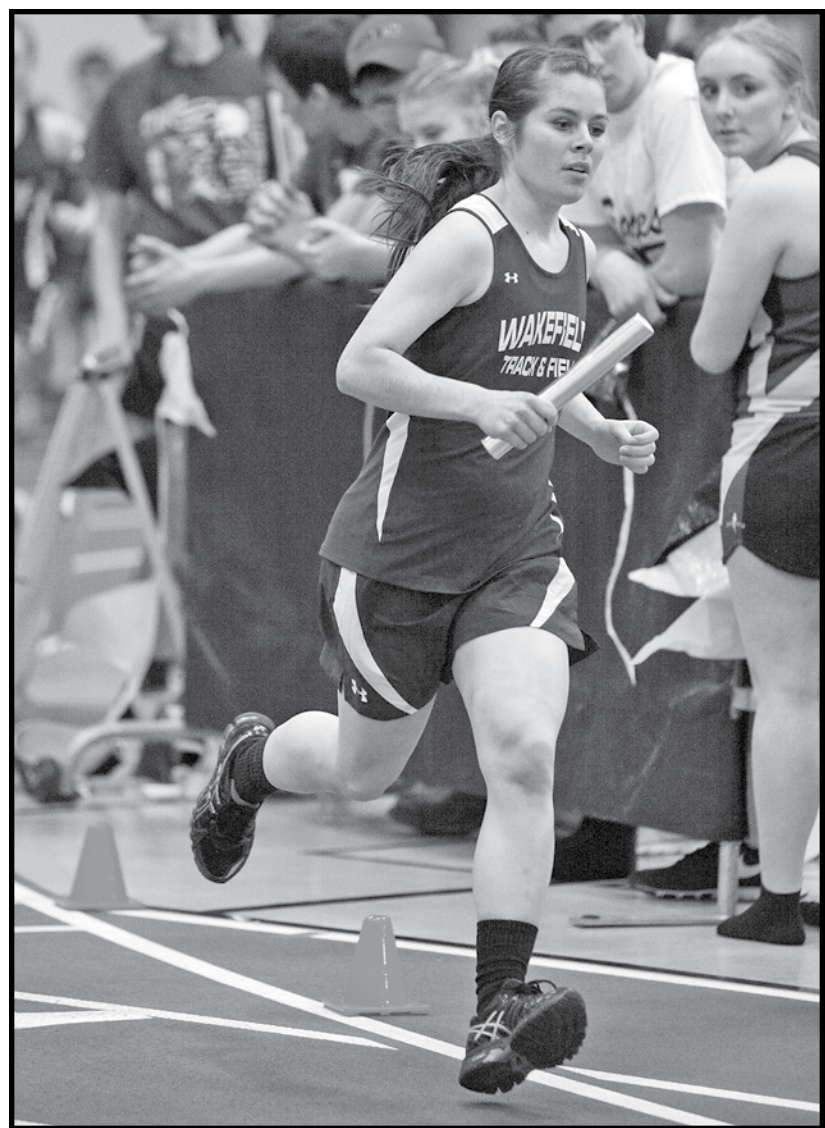

Big things could be in store for two returning state qualifiers.

Josh Dolph enters his senior season as a three-time state qualifier and three-time state medalist. After battling an injury through the second half of last track season, Dolph had corrective surgery on his ankle and enters his final season healthy for the first time since his freshman year.

Also returning is two-time state qualifier and medalist Anthony Gustafson in the high jump.

Other veterans returning for the Trojans are letterwinners Jacob Newton, Nick Gonzalez and Anthony Victor, all of whom were consistent scorers last year and come into this year with more strength and experience.

"Our numbers may be small, but we really do have some quality track athletes in those numbers," Hassler said. "If we can finish in the top half of most meets, we will be doing pretty good. It's always nice to return a lot of veteran athletes. It's fun to watch all the hard work from the previous season start to pay off."

LCC golfers led by four talented seniors

The Laurel-Concord/Coleridge golf team should be in the mix for a Class C title this spring, as most of last year's lineup is back from a team that finished third in the state last year.

Four seniors lead the way for the Bears, including two-time state champion and Liberty University recruit Mitchell Klooz, who finished third in the state last year and is gunning for another top-three finish this season.

"We have four outstanding senior players returning from last year, and they're all very good players who are capable of top-10 finishes," coach Scott Petersen said.

Last year was a very good year for the LCC linksters, who won nine of 11 meets and claimed the district title. They'll be looking for more this season, with Klooz joined by classmates Jamy McCoy, Brendan Greene and Corey Peterson.

The Bears have some promising players coming up, including sophomores Ethan Gubbels and Nolan Casey. If one of those players can step up into the fifth varsity spot and play consistent golf, the Bears should be in the mix at season's end.

Good mix of returners will help Wildcats

The Winside track and field teams should have a good mix of senior leadership and young talent that will improve throughout the season, coach Mark Tonniges said.

Senior Jayd Roberts is a returning state qualifier for the Wildcats, having qualified in the discus last year. Roberts will also be a competitor for the Wildcats in the 100-meter hurdles, where she just missed qualifying for state last year after making it as a sophomore.

The Winside girls also have a pair of sprinters in Jade Hogenkamp and Carly Schwager, who should be in the mix this season, and will likely help out the 400-meter relay team this season as well. Sophomore Kelly Tweedy should also be competitive in the girls shot put this season, and freshman Callie Finn shows promise on the track as well.

On the boys side, senior Caleb Lienemann will lead the team in the field events, as he is looking to improve in both the shot put and discus events. Freshman Hayden King could be a surprise for the team in the jumps as well.

A total of 19 letterwinners are back for this year's team, and Tonniges said Winside's athletes will be competitive this spring.

"We are a young team with some good senior leadership, and we will try to fill positions at meets," he said. "Throws should be our strength this year, with the track having some hopeful production."

Returning qualifiers will lead LCC track

The Laurel-Concord/Coleridge track and field team will have some solid performers on the girls side and could have some surprises on the boys team this year.

A total of 16 letterwinners return from last year's teams, and coach Nate Sims said it will be interesting to see how the teams stack up in their new home in the Lewis and Clark Conference this spring.

Three-fourths of the 400-meter relay team that placed fifth in the state last year are back, led by seniors Kelsey Dietrich and Cameron Eddie and junior Ellie Arduser, who also qualified in the sprints and finished third in the 200-meter dash.

LCC also scored well in the 1,600-meter relay at state, finishing third. Arduser, Dietrich and Eddie were also a part of that relay, and Dietrich was a qualifier in the hurdles as well.

Also back in the fold is distance runner Sadie Petersen, as the junior looks to make her third trip to state this spring.

On the boys side, hurdler Brett Haisch is hoping to help lead a young boys team. He qualified for the 300-meter hurdles last year and will look to get back in 2014.

Trojan golfers should improve

The Wakefield golf team is short on numbers, but coach Chad Metzler is hoping the team will show some improvement this season.

Tim Anderson was a solid golfer for the Trojans last year, and Metzler is hoping that experience will help the team out this spring.

"Tim gives us a solid returning golfer with experience," he said. "I look for Evan Nicholson to be a big contributor as well, and Zach (Pommer), Heath (Greve) and Matt (Christensen) will get better as their experience level increases."

The Trojans struggled last season, but with more experience and a positive attitude, Metzler is hoping the team can move up the leaderboard this spring.

"We've got a good group of kids," he said. "We're looking forward to the season."

Northeast Community College students take part in PTK induction ceremony

A special ceremony was held recently on the Norfolk campus of Northeast Community College to welcome the newest members into its international honor society. Students were installed into Northeast's Phi Theta Kappa (PTK), Tau Chi chapter during the spring 2014 induction ceremony held in the Lifelong Learning Center.

Area students who have qualified for PTK during the spring 2014 semester include:

Allen: Brittany Sullivan.

Wakefield: Kayla Rewinkel

Wayne: Sarah Maxon

Keynote speaker Michele Gill, dean of health and wellness at Northeast, told the students the College will help them gain confidence in themselves, give them a place to call home, provide a safe atmosphere to grow and allow them to try new endeavors. "Northeast will engage you in ways that you may not even imagine, provide you with opportunities to be a leader and learn leadership roles, build your communication skills, make mature decisions, and find your voice. Don't be afraid to engage and grow while you are here," she said. "Dream big, find your voice, and continue to build your intellect, achieve all that you can and learn as much as you can."

Four Tau Chi 2013-2014 officers were honored during the event: Valeria Perez, West Point, president; Jordan Sherman, Dorchester, secretary/treasurer; Heidi Seamann, Spalding, vice president of scholarship; and Ray Partee, Norfolk, vice president of leadership.

Since the installation of Northeast's Tau Chi chapter in 1996, some 2,779 students have been inducted into the international academic honor society for two-year colleges. For more than 80 years, membership in Phi Theta Kappa has signified a singular honor and a willingness to embrace the Society's shared commitment to academic excellence. To be eligible for PTK, students must have earned at least 12 credit hours and achieved a minimum grade point average of 3.5 or above out of a 4.0 system.

Don't get me started

In spite of dad's best intentions, wedding is here

If you're the dad of a little girl, it's the day you both look forward to and dread more than a trip to the dentist – your daughter's wedding day.

My oldest takes the walk down the aisle this weekend. She and her boyfriend of more than three years, Dan Negrete, are getting hitched in a small church in Omaha on Saturday, and I'll be on hand to assist in giving away the bride.

As the dad, it's my job to make sure my daughter grows up safe, happy, healthy and educated – all important factors that can be easily compromised when a member of the opposite sex who does not appear on the family tree is introduced.

And, in spite of all my best intentions at making sure I kept my daughter safe from all those evil boys out there in the world . . . she is taking the big walk down the aisle this weekend and getting married.

There were others who came before the one who my daughter will marry this weekend – all, miraculously, are still alive only because justifiable homicide is not a sufficient defense for such things as dealing with the individual who breaks your daughter's heart and leaves her crying in the middle of your apartment the night before her birthday (as one ex-boyfriend did the night before her 17th birthday).

Because her dad is still young enough to remember how teenage boys think about some members of the opposite sex, there were very high standards that had to be met before anybody could date my daughter. Some claim that these standards are unreasonable to ask of a teenage boy – I prefer to look at them as challenging them to rise to a high enough level that they can learn to respect the opposite sex enough to look at them as something other than a notch on their bedpost.

When she was younger, Kylie would always whine about the requirements I had for would-be suitors to date her. She was instructed that, before they could go out, she would have to introduce me to him in a neutral location, and the two of us would have a conversation (with my daughter present, of course).

Two questions would be asked during this meeting:
– Do you know what time 10 p.m. is?
– Do you know what the word "NO" means?
If the would-be boyfriend could answer both questions correctly, he had my blessing to take my daughter out on a date. One wrong answer, however, and he would be informed that he could leave immediately and avoid being buried alive in a remote location along the nearest river. (Of course, I would never actually commit the act of murder . . . but when you are interrogating somebody whose intentions with your daughter may not be up to your standards, what's wrong with injecting a little fear in the mind of a scraggly-looking teenager who looks like he's trying out for the role of Jim Morrison in a remake of a movie about The Doors?)

Eventually, though, your daughter grows into a beautiful, young woman who, for whatever reason, doesn't need dad's intimidation tactics to find Mr. Right. While she may have been frustrated and disgusted with the way you dealt with her high school-age boyfriends, she learned that there are certain standards a young lady needs to have if she wants to find the man of her dreams – and they'd better be pretty darn high.

And so it was, when Dan came into her life, she had found a guy who puts her needs on the same level, if not higher, than his own. He treats her with respect, gets her goofy sense of humor (we're not sure where THAT comes from) and can be the yin to her yang and be the cool head of reason when she gets frustrated with life's bumps in the road.

As a bonus, Dan likes a lot of the same music that Kylie grew up with (another of my quality parental influences) and is a big sports fan who enjoys a Sunday afternoon full of football (although he's a Patriots fan – I guess we all fall short somewhere). And the rest of the family seems to think he's a pretty nice young man – which might be why Kylie went AROUND her dad to get Grandma's and Aunt Jenni's approval before he was brought before the one guy that would have the "final" say (and, yes, as much as I like to think I'm completely independent of outside influence, the opinions of my sister and my parental units, many times, trump my own personal thoughts).

And so, this weekend, I get to fulfill my duties as my daughter's daddy, leading her down the aisle toward the man who will become her husband. It's a day I always hoped I would see and share with my little girl, a day when I put my trust in another human being to care for her and love her as much as I have, and always will. She is marrying the man of her dreams, and I can't think of a better person to call a son-in-law.

My daughter, Kylie, and her husband-to-be, Dan.

It sounded like a good idea . . .

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

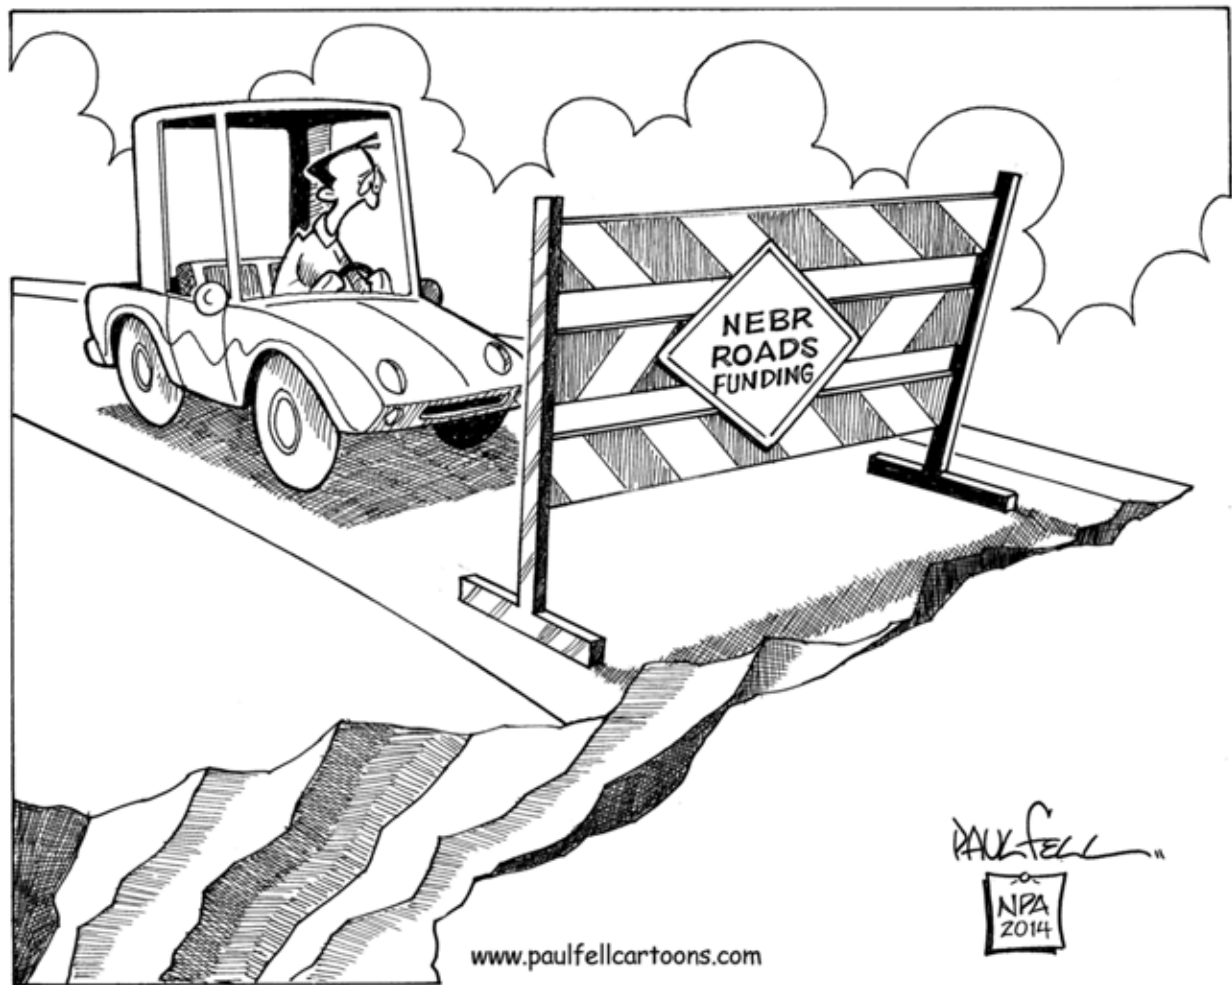

If you have spent any amount of time traveling Nebraska's highways, you have probably been frustrated by potholes, loose asphalt chunks in the road, sharp drop-offs and construction delays.

If you have been following this year's legislative session, you probably took an instant liking to Sen. Annette Dubas' bill (LB1092) that would allow the state to issue up to $200 million in bonds (as amended) to finance construction of state expressways and other new highway projects identified as part of the Build Nebraska Act passed by lawmakers three years ago. That law earmarked one-fourth of one cent of the state sales tax to go to new road construction.

The term-limited senator from Fullerton felt good about the bill at introduction in this year's 60-day session. It would bring Nebraska into line with 48 other states that allow the bonding authority for such projects. She originally proposed $400 million in bonds. The Revenue Committee advanced an amended bill limited to $200 million. She said the bonding authority would allow the state Department of Roads to deal with increasing uncertainty in federal highway dollars.

The state has relied on motor fuel taxes and some fees on motor vehicles to pay for road building. Dubas' proposed changes would allow for general state tax dollars to pay for road building and allow the state to borrow money, by issuing bonds, to finance highway projects. Not only is the bonding allowed in 48 states, but it is commonly used by local governments in Nebraska to build local schools or city streets. The state has resorted to bond funding only once, in the 1960s, to complete Interstate 80 at a time of uncertain federal funding.

Dubas and a handful of supportive colleagues should have seen a red flag early in the session when State Highway Commissioner Rodney Vandeberg and others testified in support of the bill, but state Department of Roads Director Randall Peters spoke in opposition. A yellow caution flag came out when the committee voted 6-2 to advance the bill to the full Legislature for debate. Revenue Committee Chair Galen Hadley of Kearney and Sen. Tom Hansen of North Platte voted against advancement.

Hansen said he prefers the state's current "pay-as-you-go plan" for financing road construction. Hadley worried that if Nebraska runs into another recession, future lawmakers might be forced to rescind the Build Nebraska Act to use that revenue to fund schools and other services. He questioned how the state would pay off the bonds.

"You can't default. You have to find a source," he said.
Dubas said that the state has an estimated $9.8 billion in highway needs over the next 20 years and that the $60 million a year raised by the Build Nebraska Act is not enough. As the first of three rounds of debate started on the measure, proponents noted that the amended bill would allow bonds only until 2017 and only if interest rates were 5 percent or below.

With the session scheduled to reach its 60-day limit by April 17 (lawmakers are only working 4-day-weeks now), time is becoming crucial. Thanks to veteran lawmaker Ernie Chambers of Omaha and a handful of opponents, debate has already consumed five-and-a-half of the allotted eight hours for first-round consideration. Chambers said there are no guarantees that future Legislatures would not allow more bonds to be issued. He also questioned whether the roads department would even use the authority.

Dubas worries that she may not have the 33 votes needed to end a filibuster. If she breaks the filibuster and the measure advances and is finally passed, she'll need 30 votes to break the expected veto by the governor who supports the existing "pay-as-you-go plan."

Sometimes slowing things down a bit allows us to more closely examine an issue. Yes, sometimes the filibuster serves a good purpose, especially if it makes us think more clearly and brings an issue into better focus.

Legislative Update LB887 dies without senator's support

We have 12 days left in the Legislation session, and if you have watched any of the debate, you know that the body is on edge.

This week started with the long-awaited debate on LB887, the Wellness In Nebraska plan, or sometimes referred to as the Medicaid expansion bill. Sen. Kathy Campbell of Lincoln worked on this bill over the interim to try to craft legislation that more senators could get behind and support.

After eight hours of debate, Sen. Campbell called for a cloture vote on Wednesday morning. The vote was 27-21 with one present and not voting. It needed 33 votes to proceed to a vote on the actual bill. As a result, this bill will not be heard again this session. It met the same fate as my priority bill: it died on a technicality.

I did not support LB887, and I had let Sen. Campbell know last year that I would have a very hard time supporting any bill that would expand Medicaid. Proponents claimed that the passage of LB887 would bring in roughly $350 million yearly from the federal government until 2020. It was also argued that this would allow more individuals to seek healthcare, but no mention was made about number of doctors

Rotaract presentation

Wayne State College Rotaract club members told the Wayne Rotary Club about the various projects they have been involved with this school year at the club's recent meeting. Some of the projects discussed were: highway clean up, grocery bingo on campus, making cards at Careage, and helping with the WES carnival. A new project is meeting with some sixth graders before school and reading the book "Long Walk to Water" with them. The Wayne Rotary club gave a financial donation to this project. Courtney Fogle, the President of W.S.C. Rotaract stated, "Rotaract has done a lot for the community by integrating out service projects into the communities public schools. By doing this, the word spread not just through the college students but by the youth of the community who can help to make a difference just as we the college students are trying to do." Pictured are (front) MaKenna Lofgren and Courtney Fogle. (back) Darius Agoumba and Barbara Engebretsen (Rotaract Sponsors), Alli Newberg, Anna Bracker, and Keri Norton.

Ambulance donated to Northeast Community College's EMT/paramedic program

Students in Northeast Community College's EMT (Emergency Medical Technician) and paramedic program now have the opportunity to take part in additional hands-on experience with a new piece of equipment.

College officials have accepted the donation of a 2004 Osaage Type II ambulance from Norfolk Ambulance Service, Inc. The company is owned by Ardith Kutchera. Several of Kutchera's present and past paramedics are all graduates of the Paramedic program at Northeast.

"The donation of this ambulance will greatly enhance our on campus emergency medical technician and paramedic classes," said Doug Dekker, director of emergency medical services and the paramedic program at the College. "Currently if an on campus class wants to practice skills inside an ambulance, those scenarios have to be simulated in a classroom. This ambulance will also allow the program the opportunity to conduct demonstrations at high school or college career fairs."

"I'm very thankful for the program at Northeast," said Kutchera. "My son took the paramedic classes here and now current students are going to have the opportunity to have additional experiences in a working unit. We are very pleased we can help."

Kutchera's son, Mike Wanke, is a paramedic for Norfolk Ambulance. "Initially, Ardith and I were both thinking about donating this ambulance to the program, but never said it out loud to one another. It's for a good cause and it will help students with additional hands-on experience. I know it will be put to good use."

Dekker said people's lives often depend on the quick reactions and competent care of emergency medical technicians and paramedics. "EMTs and paramedics provide this vital service as they care for and transport the sick or injured to a medical facility. The Northeast Community College Paramedic program provides students with the required knowledge and skills to care for patients who are injured due to trauma or suffer from medical problems. Instructors not only teach, but work as paid professionals in the paramedic field."

After successful completion of the paramedic program, students will be eligible to take the National Registry for Emergency Medical Technicians' certification exam, and acquire a Nebraska license to practice as an advanced provider.

The program is approved through the State of Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services Regulation and Licensure. EMT-Basic is a prerequisite for acceptance into the Northeast paramedic program.

For additional information on the program, contact Dekker at (402) 844-7720.

Building youth's assets our responsibility Birthdays

Why do some young people grow up with ease, while others struggle? Why do some youth get involved in dangerous activities, while others spend their time contributing to society in positive ways? Why do some youth beat the odds in difficult situations, while others get trapped?

Many factors shape young people's lives and choices - economic circumstances, family dynamics, genetics, traumatic events.

Research by Search Institute has identified 40 concrete, positive experiences and qualities - called Developmental Assets - that have a tremendous influence on young people's lives.

The eight categories of developmental assets are:

- 1. Support - Young people need to experience support, care, and love from their families and many others. They need organizations and institutions that provide positive, supportive environments.
- 2. Empowerment - Young people need to be valued by their community and have opportunities to contribute to others. For this to occur, they must be safe and feel secure.
- 3. Boundaries and Expectations - Young people need to know what is expected of them and whether activities and behaviors are "in bounds" or "out of bounds".
- 4. Constructive Use of Time - Young people need constructive, enriching opportunities for growth through creative activities, youth programs, congregational involvement, and quality time at home.

5. Commitment to Learning - Young people need to develop a lifelong commitment to education and learning.

6. Positive Values - Youth need to develop strong values that guide their choices.

7. Social Competencies - Young people need skills and competencies that equip them to make positive choices, to build relationships, and to succeed in life.

8. Positive Identity - Young people need a strong sense of their own power, purpose, worth, and promise.

If your organization is concerned about the youth in your community and would like to implement the 40 Assets of Youth Development, contact Anita Hall with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension (ahall1@unl.edu) to learn how this can occur.

Acme Club holds March 17 meeting

Acme Club met March 17 at the Senior Center with five members present for a no-hostess meeting.

Vice President Ruth Victor called the meeting to order in the absence of President Joann Temme.

Mrs. Victor gave the Thought for the Day - "Wearing of the Green."

What was originally a holy day honoring a Christian saint has become a day to celebrate all things Irish.

St. Patrick is credited with converting the Irish from paganism to Christianity in the 400s. He died March 17, 461.

He was born in Britain in 389 to a nobleman's family. At age 16, he was kidnapped by Irish raiders, and sold as a slave to herd livestock.

He recalled his Christian heritage and spent much time in prayer. After six years, he escaped and returned to his homeland and studied for the priesthood. In 432 he returned to Ireland and spent 30 years establishing schools and churches.

Much folklore surrounds St. Patrick. One story is that he drove the snakes out of Ireland by commanding them to rush to the sea and drown. There were never any snakes in Ireland.

Dolores Utecht has taken Easter tray favors to the hospital.

Betty Wittig gave a program about the Itaipu Dam. It is a hydroelectric dam on the Parana River located on the border between Brazil and Paraguay.

The name Itaipu was taken from an isle that existed near the construction site, which means "the sounding stone." The dam is the largest operating hydro-electric facility in terms of annual generation. The concept behind Itaipu Power Plant was the result of heavy negotiations between the two countries during the 1960s. Construction began in January of 1970 with the opening date of May 5, 1984.

The construction of the dam required 40,000 workers, mostly recruited from Brazil. To house them, a whole new community was built, including hospitals, schools, parks and churches. Unfortunately, 149 of these employees were killed during construction. Course of the seventh biggest river in the world was shifted, as were 50 million tons of earth and rock. The amount of concrete was used to build the Power Plant would be enough to build 210 football stadiums. Iron and steel used would allow for construction of 380 Eiffel Towers. Itaipu is one of the most expensive objects ever built.

In 2008 the dam generated 94,684 megawatts, the largest amount of power ever produced by a single dam. This electricity supplies Paraguay with almost 90 percent of its power and Brazil with approximately 25 percent.

While the Itaipu Dam is an amazing achievement and was selected by the American Society of Civil Engineers as one of the Seven Wonders of the Modern World, its construction did come at a cost. Almost 10,000 families had to be relocated before their homes were flooded by the growing reservoir. Also, the spectacular Guaira Falls was submerged under the lake and then dynamited to allow safe navigation of the river.

The Guaira Falls, also known as the Seven Falls, was thought by many to be the most spectacular natural water feature in the world. It had a total height more than twice that of the Niagara Falls and a water flow that was more than double.

American composer Philip Glass has written a symphonic cantata named Itaipu, in honor of the structure.

The next meeting of the Acme Club will be Monday, April 7.

"A Bit of Light"

Praise Assembly of God Church in Wayne continues presenting the mid-week "High Point" activity for children in grades K-6. The children and their leaders meet at 6:30 p.m. each Wednesday evening for music, stories, skits, crafts, and a snack. A Bible Study for adults runs concurrent with "High Point"; and both groups dismiss at 7:40 p.m. The public is invited to join "Family Night" at Praise Assembly at any time.

On March 30 in the morning service, Jane Pickering (wife of the pastor of the church) and the women in the congregation will be in charge of the service. Under a theme of learning about the "Heart of God", the music and preaching will include the participation of women in every role in the service. The service begins at 10:30 a.m., following the 9:30 Sunday School classes (for all ages).

This past Sunday morning, Rev. Jason spoke on the subject of "Being at home with God's family: the Church". The Body of Christ is the "Family of God", put together by the Holy Spirit into an "Assembly" of believers in Jesus, designed to fulfill the will of God on the earth. This happens as the Holy Spirit gives life to everyone who is in this unique "Body" of the Lord. 1 Corinthians 12 is a picture of how each part of this living assembly functions in worship and in service. And Acts 2:42-44 shows how this Body works together to meet the needs of each other.

Pastor Jason made the comment that, sadly, "in the West we focus on U-S rather than on the L-O-R-D."

"The plan is that when one suffers, the entire Body suffers. It takes the whole Body to do the work of the Lord. We listen to the voice of God and we fulfill His plan." Each member of Christ's Body is dependent on the Head of the Body, which is Christ Himself. Christ works in His Church because He is over it all.

Among the pastor's admonitions on March 23 was the suggestion that we continue to pray fervently for Pastor Saeed, imprisoned in Iran for being a Christian leader, reminding the congregation that "Nothing is impossible for God."

Fishers of Kids celebrate math

Fishers of Kids School celebrated math with a Parent/Child Night on March 14. Students and parents played a variety of math games, measured with scarves and made shapes with geo-boards. Snacks in the shape of cylinders and rectangles were served for their enjoyment. The students' next event will be their Closing Program/Graduation on Friday, May 9. Anyone interested in an age appropriate Christian Preschool education, please contact Grace Lutheran Church at (402) 375-1905.

Farm Loan Program changes create flexibility for new and existing farmers and ranchers Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack has announced increased opportunity for producers as a result of the 2014 Farm Bill. A fact sheet outlining modifications to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) Farm Loan Programs is available here.

"Our nation's farmers and ranchers are the engine of the rural economy. These improvements to our Farm Loan Programs will help a new generation begin farming and grow existing farm operations," said Secretary Vilsack. "Today's announcement represents just one part of a series of investments the new Farm Bill makes in the next generation of agriculture, which is critical to economic growth in communities across the country."

The Farm Bill expands lending opportunities for thousands of farmers and ranchers to begin and continue operations, including greater flexibility in determining eligibility, raising loan limits, and emphasizing beginning and socially disadvantaged producers.

Changes that will take effect immediately include:

- Elimination of loan term limits for guaranteed operating loans.
- Modification of the definition of beginning farmer, using the average farm size for the county as a qualifier instead of the median farm size.

- Modification of the Joint Financing Direct Farm Ownership Interest Rate to 2 percent less than regular Direct Farm Ownership rate, with a floor of 2.5 percent. Previously, the rate was established at 5 percent.
- Increase of the maximum loan amount for Direct Farm Ownership down payments from $225,000 to $300,000.
- Elimination of rural residency requirement for Youth Loans, allowing urban youth to benefit.
- Debt forgiveness on Youth Loans, which will not prevent borrowers from obtaining additional loans from the federal government.
- Increase of the guarantee amount on Conservation Loans from 75-80 percent and 90 percent for socially disadvantaged borrowers and beginning farmers.
- Microloans will not count toward loan term limits for veterans and beginning farmers.

Additional modifications must be implemented through the rule-making processes. Visit the FSA Farm Bill website for detailed information and updates to farm loan programs.

AN UPDATE FROM DAVE

The wind is blowing

The building is still progressing but we are not putting roof sheets on, obviously, because the wind is too bad. A blanket is laid to thaw the ground. It will be ready for the sewer and water lines when they are ready.

Three crews are working. There is always something being done even when the wind is blowing. Things are progressing.

Things are looking a lot better in this area of town. The airport terminal is going up. Other buildings are up, but still have inside work to do.

The sales guys are making service calls. Most of the planters are ready, but there are still three to pick up in the country and one drill. There is still time to get everything done.

The filter sale goes until the end of March. You still have time to get your tractor checkups and your planters checked. Temperatures keep going back and forth. We can still work.

Basically we are working on everything we need to get out for the Spring. We will be having meetings with people who have brand new equipment. We will call these people to brief them on monitors, etc. We plan on meeting two weeks prior to planting depending on the soil temperature and weather.

For all your questions you can call us at our temporary office on Providence Road, 402-375-3324 or for service, call 402-833-0088.

UNL turf experts: golf courses may have suffered major winter damage

University of Nebraska-Lincoln turfgrass specialists are warning that this winter may have done serious damage to golf courses across much of the nation, including Nebraska.

It's too early to tell for sure, said Zac Reicher, but turf-sample analysis is sparking concern.

Many parts of the state saw unusually variable temperatures – a day or two in the 50s or 60s, followed by a quick dive to sub-freezing, even sub-zero, temps. In addition, many parts of the state have been unusually dry. Together, those developments, especially accompanied by typical Nebraska winds, can suck moisture out of the grass, leaving it susceptible to winterkill.

On the other hand, on some golf courses that were watered lightly on those warmer days, as is recommended, the presence of extra water may have caused a different type of winterkill if temperatures plunged.

"So, you're damned if you do and damned if you don't," Reicher said.

In fact, some golf courses – or home lawns, especially in open, exposed areas, for that matter – might have suffered winterkill from both factors, just a matter of feet apart. Sections of turf on a hill would be more susceptible to drying out because of wind, while sections in lower elevations would be more susceptible to freeze damage from existing moisture.

Extended deep snow and ice cover across the eastern half of the nation likely will take a toll on turf there, too. Although the exact type of damage is different with snow and ice cover, the result is the same, said Bill Kreuser, another UNL turf specialist.

The worst-case scenario, Kreuser said, is that some golf courses might have to shut down to reseed this spring.

Kreuser has just begun research evaluating spring green-up of golf courses and is tracking golf-course conditions this spring with a survey at www.surveymonkey.com/s/ winterkill.

"There's lots of moving parts, plus we still have some winter left," Kreuser said. He encouraged golf courses to take steps now to assess damage.

For more information, Kreuser and Reicher have posted a comprehensive guide in turf winterkill at turf.unl.edu.

Thoughts shared during Ag Week

Well, my bracket is a mess by now! I guess that's what is supposed to happen during the "Big Dance", but I felt really bad for Doug McDermott last night.

There has been a lot of discussion regarding milk prices lately. I did pay four bucks a gallon yesterday, and yes, that's more than a gallon of gas. One woman is quoted as saying that's really bad. I actually do not see the comparison. We need both, and I guess we are going to have to pay for both, through the nose!

My question to that woman was, "Have you ever milked cows?" I wonder if she realizes that is not an eight to five, five day a week commitment. And, even more, I wonder if she realizes what an investment a dairy operation is these days.

We like milk, and we go through at least two gallons a week. And I have vivid memories of milking in a three-sided shed before and after school, seven days a week. A friend in Kimball reports that he had to tie the tail of one of their cows because she would slap him with it to remind him she was still there! And the trouble with those tails was that they were often wet and sloppy with excrement. Which is a fancy name for it.

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

I don't ever want to milk another cow, even with a milker in an all automatic barn. I really appreciate being able to go to the store and reach into the cooler and "pick two."

Meat isn't cheap, either. One good thing is that we don't seem to need as big a helping anymore. We can split a steak instead of each eating one. But we still eat meat.

This week is National Ag Week, and I remind you to consider the farmer who milks the cows, feeds the pigs, and calves the stock cows. He does this in all kinds of weather. While he's doing his chores, the value of his investment is appraised higher and higher, and when he gets his tax statement, he wonders if it's all worth it.

Then he goes to an implement show and catches his breath at those prices! I marvel at the fact that his combine can tell him the yield on each acre, propel itself down the rows, and keep him air conditioned the whole time!

Oh, and don't forget about the PETA folks who think we don't care for our animals in a humane fashion!! As Loren Schmidt remarked once, "I think they've been watching too many Disney movies."

All in all, farmers have a LOT to contend with, not the least of which is the blame for rising food prices. There are a lot of things we can do without, but we all do have to eat. So, instead of bad mouthing them, I suggest we thank them! And replay the ad that ran during the Super Bowl last year, the one with Paul Harvey and the Dodge pickup! God made a farmer! And God watches over him. Amen.

Siouxland Garden Show has arrived

Finally the Siouxland Garden Show is here, and we don't want you to miss it.

The show this year will be at the Convention Center in Sioux City Iowa on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, March 28-30. Over 50 exhibitors will showcase innovative garden products and services, 15 educational seminars will be presented by regional experts and 22 "How To" sessions will be held. "Make and Take" on-site sessions are where you can purchase kits and put together garden favorites like rain barrels, garden buckets, fairy gardens, flower arranging, gutter gardening, flower presses, bath balms, and more.

New to the show will be a Farmer's Market where local producers will be selling their winter produce. Local wineries will also be present for wine tasting and sales.

"How-to" sessions include demonstrations by local chefs Nick Gunn of McCarthy and Bailey's Irish Pub, and Keith Whitrock of Eldon's Restaurant on how to cook with local produce. Other sessions include Eating Your Yard – Edible Landscapes, Backyard Aquaponics, Heirlooms in the garden: Why Save Seeds, Healthy Cooking with Herbs, Garden Weddings and Parties, and many others.

Educational sessions include Saving Plant Biodiversity for Future Generations, Creating New Plants, Gardening in Challenging Conditions, Shrubs: Seasons of Interest and Fruit Springtime in Holland, and of course many others.

There are many more sessions and plenty of activities for all ages, including a Kids Corner.

This event is co-sponsored by the University of Nebraska Extension and Iowa State University Extension. The cost to attend the event is only $5 for one day, $9 for a two day pass, or $12 for a three day pass. Children under 12 can attend free.

For more information and a schedule of events go to www.siouxlandgardenshow.org. Hope to see you there; this will be a fun event for everyone.

When properly cared for, trees can provide benefits for generations. When deciding which tree to plant, ask yourself the following questions: Why am I planting the tree(s)? What are the characteristics of the planting site? What is the condition of the soil in the planting site? How much time am I willing to spend maintaining the tree(s)?

The tree's function, form, size and location, as well as site characteristics such as soil and environmental conditions, and pest and disease problems, are all important to consider. Choose plants well adapted to your site to maximize their chances of success.

For a list of trees recommended for Nebraska under various conditions, go to retreenebraska.unl.edu/Documents/TreesforEasternNebraska.pdf.

1872—The first Arbor Day is held in Nebraska City, through the efforts of J. Sterling Morton. More than one million trees were planted in Nebraska during the first Arbor Day.

1972—The Arbor Day Foundation is formed to celebrate the 100th anniversary of Arbor Day and to carry on the mission of the tree-planters' holiday.

1989—The "Trees for America" program kicks off with a visible public service campaign featuring John Denver.

1990—The Arbor Day Foundation begins working with the U.S. Forest Service to plant trees in America's national forests that are in need of reforestation. Since 1990, the Foundation, through the generous donations of its members and corporate partners, has helped the Forest Service plant nearly 13 million trees in our national forests.

1992—Rain Forest Rescue program is formed to save valuable land in South and Central America. So far, more than 48,000 acres of rain forest land has been preserved.

1993—Lied Lodge & Conference Center opens in Nebraska City. The lodge is owned and operated by the Arbor Day Foundation.

2001—The Arbor Day Foundation encourages people to vote for America's National Tree. The winner was the oak tree.

2005—The first Nature Explore Classroom is constructed at Arbor Day Farm in Nebraska City.

2006—Enterprise Rent-A-Car celebrates its 50th anniversary by teaming up with the Arbor Day Foundation to plant 1 million trees in the U.S., Canada and Europe for the next 50 years. Enterprise's 50-million tree pledge is the largest ever made to the Foundation.

2008—"Exploring Trees Inside and Out" traveling exhibit opens at the Pacific Science Center. The traveling exhibit is part of the Nature Explore program, a collaborative project of the Arbor Day Foundation and Dimensions Educational Research Foundation and sponsored by Doubletree Hotels.

2008—Tree Campus USA launches as 29 colleges and universities are recognized for following best tree care practices on campus.

2010—The Arbor Day Foundation passed a milestone of planting 20 million trees in 20 years in our National Forests through an enduring partnership with the U.S. Forest Service. The Foundation's first National Forest tree-planting project was in 1990 in the wake of the Great Yellowstone Fire.

2010—The Arbor Day Foundation surpassed more than one million members, each sharing our mission, caring for our earth, and engaging in good work of deep and lasting value.

Wayne, Nebraska

March 18, 2014

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session at 9:15 a.m. on Tuesday, March 18, 2014 in the upstairs meeting room of the Courthouse.

Roll call was answered by Chairman Burbach, Members Larson and Rabe, and Clerk Finn. Advance notice of this meeting was published in the Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on March 6, 2014.

A current copy of the Open Meetings Act was posted in the meeting room and accessible to the public.

The agenda was approved. The minutes of the March 4, 2014, meeting were approved as printed in the Commissioner's Record.

Quotes for replacing the fixtures and flooring in the second floor restrooms were presented by KimBerly Hansen. The quotes submitted by Steve's Plumbing & Drain Services, and Jason Sears Flooring were approved.

FirstNet is a federal project to build a nationwide broadband network for first responders. The design and build of the network will be based on information received during a series of meetings. Counties have been asked to appoint a representative to attend these meetings, someone that understands the county's current communication system. Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to appoint Nic Kernitz to work with FirstNet. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Kernitz reported that the impact of power outages on KTCH radio station is being discussed. A rural power outage took KTCH Radio off the air during the approach of the October 4, 2013 tornado, leaving them unable to broadcast emergency information until power was restored.

A motion was made by Rabe and seconded by Larson to recess the meeting and open a public hearing on the Logan Valley Golf Course liquor license application. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

A public hearing on the retail liquor license application submitted by LVGC LLC dba Logan Valley Golf Course convened at 10:01 a.m. Those in attendance included Chairman Burbach, Members Larson and Rabe, and Clerk Finn.

Advance notice of this hearing was published in the Wayne Herald on March 6, 2014.

The purpose of the hearing was to receive public testimony on the retail liquor license application of LVGC LLC dba Logan Valley Golf Course. The new license would replace the one held by Emerald Enterprises Inc. dba Logan Valley Golf Course.

No oral or written testimony was received.

A motion was made by Rabe and seconded by Larson to close the hearing and reconvene the commissioner meeting. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

The commissioner meeting reconvened at 10:30 a.m. Brian Chamberlain, a representative of Ho-Chunk Development, asked for a resolution or letter of support for LR41CA. This legislative resolution would place a constitutional amendment on the General Election ballot that modifies current horseracing guidelines. The modification would permit wagering on previously run races; participants would not know where or when the original race took place.

Ho-Chunk Development feels people should be given the chance to say whether they would like this type of racing in Nebraska. Legislative approval of LR41CA would be required first. Chamberlain is hoping to get Senator Bloomfield's approval by asking the counties in his district to support passage of LR41CA. Chamberlain said he already received support from Dakota and Thurston counties and would like to have Wayne County's support also.

After discussing the request, the board agreed to support letting the voters decide if this kind of wagering should be permitted. A motion was made by Larson, seconded by Rabe, to support a resolution that would put the question on the ballot. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

One bid was received for lawn mowing services for the courthouse grounds. Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to accept the bid of $130 per mowing submitted by Hytrek Lawn Service. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

One bid was received for sprinkler service for the courthouse grounds. Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to accept the bid of $75.00 for spring, and $105.00 for fall service submitted by Claussen Irrigation. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Bids from Y&Y Service and Hytrek Lawn Service were received for fertilizing/weed control services for the courthouse grounds. Additional information will be obtained before the bid is awarded.

No bids were received for mowing Pleasant Valley or Sons of Herman cemeteries. Delinquent real estate taxes were offered at public auction on March 3rd. The Return of Delinquent Sales Tax Proceedings listed 20 parcels sold for a total of $2,363.69. The report will be placed on file.

A withdrawal of Cusip #3128X23A1 as proposed by State Nebraska Bank & Trust was approved on motion by Larson, second by Rabe. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

A 3-year renewal of the election services agreement for ballot layout, coding, printing, and voice file services with Election Systems & Software, LLC was approved on motion by Rabe, second by Larson. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

A 5-year renewal of the towel and rug service contract with Apparea was approved on motion by Rabe, second by Larson. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Kevin Kai submitted ROW Application No. 14-03-01 for Renz Electric to bore electrical service at three locations along mile 853 of 585th Ave. Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to approve the application. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

No action was taken on ROW Application No. 14-03-02 submitted by Willard Malchow. A revised application will be submitted.

ROW Application No. 14-03-03 was submitted by Qwest Corporation dba CenturyLink QC for Telcom Construction to dig deep pits along mile 577 of 850th Rd to allow for bridge replacement. Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to approve the application subject to further communication. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

A motion was made by Larson, seconded by Rabe to recommend the NE Liquor Control Commission approve the LVGC LLC dba Logan Valley Golf Course retail liquor license. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

The proposed purchase of real estate was discussed. County Attorney Pieper recommended the board designate someone to conduct negotiations; he will draw up the necessary papers if/when an agreement is reached. An appraisal is necessary if the purchase price exceeds $100,000.

A Journey With The Lord Life is but a stopping place, A pause in what's to be, A resting place along the road To sweet eternity. We all have different journeys, Different paths along the way, We all were meant to learn some things, But never meant to stay... Our destination is a place Far greater than we know. For some, the journey's quicker, For some, the journey's slow. And when the journey finally ends, We'll claim a great reward And find an everlasting peace, Together with the Lord.
