WAYNE COUNTY PRIMARY ELECTION

County Sheriff (Republican)

Note: No Democratic candidates

Republican winner likely to be county's new top cop

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

For the first time in 32 years, Wayne County will have a new

With longtime County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen set to step down at the end of this year after eight terms as the county's top cop, the Republican primary will be voters' opportunity to decide who should replace the longtime law enforcement leader.

With no candidates running on the Democratic ballot for the May 13 primary, the four candidates on the Republican side of the ballot are essentially vying to be the one voters elect this November. Two current county deputies - Clayton Bratcher and Jason Dwinell - and two members of the Wayne Police Department -Dominic Consoli and Cory Moeller – have been campaigning to be Janssen's replacement.

Of course, all four of the candidates don't see their campaigns as an opportunity to replace someone who has served in the position for more than three decades.

"You can succeed him, but he's leaving a big set of shoes to fill,"

Bratcher told The Wayne Herald in a sit-down interview earlier this week. "Working with him, I've learned a lot from him the last 5 1/2 years, and it's something I'm up to the challenge for."

"When I first became a police officer, he was very supportive and answered my questions, and I know he enjoys working with the younger officers and sharing his experience," Consoli added. "You don't really replace somebody who held the post 32 years, and 1 think everybody in Wayne County owes him a debt of gratitude for his service."

"He was part of my inspiration to run for sheriff," added Moeller, who worked in the department for 4 1/2 years before eventually finding his way to the Wayne Police Department. "I'd like to continue where he left off."

"LeRoy has had a great career, and there are some really big shoes to fill there," Dwinell added.

Dwinell, 41, has been with the sheriff's office for almost seven years, applying for a position on the force after serving in the U.S.

Army and graduating from Wayne State College. "As I've gotten into the job, I've really enjoyed it and am amazed

"Everybody thought that it was working well the way we had it structured," he said. "Obviously, we can re-evaluate things as we go from here, but right now we're going to start with the way things have been and continue forward from there."

Klooz said he didn't foresee any changes in staffing after the merger takes place, but as retirements happen, the district can take a look at where their resources are best placed and adjust accordingly

The new district, which will be called Laurel-Concord-Coleridge Schools, won't see any changes in state aid funding. This year was the first year neither district received state aid, and Klooz said he isn't expecting the new combined district to receive Klooz said the district could receive up to $250,000 for consolidating the school, thanks to recent legislation passed that gives money to districts that merge for the 2014-15 year. The state's school reorganizaofficially become a single entity this sum-tion board will decide those amounts when

'Don't dump, donate!' event comes to Wayne next week

Of The Herald

If you're a student at Wayne State College and have found that you've either accumulated too much stuff over the school year or just don't feel like hauling everything back home, the Wayne Green Team has a project to help you – and the environment – out.

The group's Green Move Out, scheduled for May 6-9, is a collaboration with the college, Micah's Closet and Rustic Treasures. Following the slogan, "Don't dump, donate!" the event will encourage students moving out of the dorms to donate their unwanted belongings rather than tossing them in

During the Green Move Out, volunteers from non-profit groups will staff five Dumpster locations across campus. Anything that is donated will be given to Micah's Closet and Rustic Treasures, where it will be resold with a portion of the sales going back to the volunteers.

"We are excited for our first 'Don't dump, donate!' project as we are confident we'll make a difference to help the environment and our community at the same time," Sandy Brown, with the Wayne Green items – all in reasonable condition.

has sponsored a project like this, Brown has some advice. and Brown reported that the group support from Rustic Treasures, Micah's Closet, Wayne State College and others in the community who are willing to try it."

And they're willing to try for good

The event, in addition to serving as a fundraiser for local non-profits, will reduce the amount of trash that ends up in our landfills; encourage people to reuse rather than waste, a behavior that is necessary for sustaining our planet; and lower the cost of transporting refuse to another location. It will also give students and other shoppers the opportunity to buy items at prices that are cheaper than what they'd be if purchased new.

"Donating your usable items rather than throwing them out provides both environmental and financial benefits," Brown said. "Of course, there's always the good feeling you get from doing something good, whether for the environment

"Usable items" include clothes, shoes, furniture and household

It's the first year the Green Team something is suitable for donation,

"A good question to ask is, 'Would already has "enthusiasm and great I buy this secondhand?" If you would, then you should definitely donate it," she said.

> For more information about the project or to volunteer your nonprofit group to help, contact the Wayne Green Team via e-mail at greenteam@cityofwayne.org or send the group a message on Facebook. (Look for "Wayne Green Team" when searching.)

> "Volunteers are still needed and encouraged to sign up," Brown said. "We need a lot of help.'

> There are a variety of one- and two-hour shifts - established during peak move-out times – that are available throughout the four days of the Green Move Out. Volunteers are needed Tuesday to Thursday, May 6-8 between the hours of 2-8 p.m. and Friday, May 9 from 12-2

> "Volunteer and you can earn a percentage of the funds raised through resale for your non-profit group," Brown said.

Plus, you'll be saving the planet one discarded item at a time.

State Nebraska Bank & Trust Teaching Excellence Award

Dr. Laura Dendinger, WSC professor of Business and Economics, will receive the State Nebraska Bank & Trust Teaching Excellence Award. Matt Ley, chief executive officer of State Nebraska Bank in Wayne, will present the award.

David Ley, the bank's chairman of the board, established the award in 1998 as a way of recognizing and strengthening outstanding teaching at Wayne State. David Ley and State Nebraska Bank of Wayne support the college in many ways, including scholarships and as a trustee of the Wayne State Foundation Board of Trustees.

This prestigious honor is awarded on the basis of rigorous standards that require a superior level of effective teaching. Dendinger also was Wayne State's nominee for the Nebraska State College System Teach-

Dendinger began teaching at Wayne State, serving as an adjunct family member from 1993 to 2000. She was hired as an assistant professor in 2000 and was granted tenure in 2006 as an associate professor and promoted to full professor in 2011. She earned a juris doctorate from University of Nebraska-Lincoln in 1985 and a bachelor of arts degree in political science, speech and organizational communications from Creighton University in 1983. She has practiced law from 1985 to the present, most recently general practice and formerly as a prosecu-

In addition to publishing and presenting in a variety of journals, textbooks and conferences, Dendinger has been active with many professional and community organizations throughout her career. She is a member of the Nebraska State Bar Association and is a certified mediator/facilitator. Her work with the community has included Haven House, Wakefield Community Foundation, Coleridge Community Educational Foundation, Northeast Nebraska Child Advocacy Center, and the Wayne United Way.

The nomination materials for the Teaching Excellence Award note that Dendinger "has an open and personable demeanor that makes her well-liked by students and faculty" and "her entire professional, academic, and personal life has been a record of service to students and to humanity in general as attorney, professor, counselor, advisor, friend and humanitarian."

Putting together a benefit concert isn't easy - especially when you have to deal with all of those chairs.

The first Renew Wavne concert. held Thursday at the Wayne Community Activity Center, went off with few noticeable hitches. A reporter-estimated crowd of about 700 enjoyed an evening's worth of Christian rock music with acts ranging from newcomers Shine Bright Baby and Finding Favour to co-headliners Kutless and Audio Adrenaline rocking the community center and providing a positive and uplifting atmosphere for those in attendance.

The idea for the show came as an opportunity to help out the community, according to Josh Sievers, who was the lead organizer for the pro-

"Back in September, we got an email about the 'Change A Life Tour' that featured these bands and were talking about it, but after October, we started getting the ball rolling,"

The aftermath of last fall's tornado served as an inspiration to help out the community, and representatives of the tour made contact with Sievers and started putting things in motion for the program.

Sievers said the Renew Wayne effort was an opportunity to get the new year going in the right direction, and helping tornado relief efforts and the Wayne Fire Department made it an easy sell to tour promoters.

"One of the nice things about this booking agency is that they'll book a group of bands like this together in the fall or spring, and it doesn't cost as much to bring them in," he said. "I asked them if they would be interested in doing it this way, and they were fine with it."

The Renew Wayne effort wanted to help address some needs in the community, and Sievers said the fire department needed new gear and a new Jaws of Life. That, and helping out tornado efforts, made it easy to get a lot of support from local churches and businesses.

"I asked Mike Varley at F&M Bank if there was still a need for tornado relief, and he said there definitely was, so we wanted to make sure and help out there as well," he said.

Volunteers from local churches, the Boy Scouts, the City of Wayne, Community Activity Center staff, the Wayne Armory and other people in the community made the behind-the-scenes work run quite smooth, and there were few problems that were noticed as the time came for Shine Bright Baby to open the show.

Sievers said band members were pleasantly surprised with the turnout for Thursday's program.

"For this being a weeknight and the fact that it was in a small town, I think they were very happy with the turnout," Sievers said. "I know some of the band members interacted with a lot of people and really seemed to enjoy it, and they were very happy with the crowd."

at how all-ecompassing it is," he said. "It's something I've enjoyed doing, and I feel I can do some good things as sheriff if I'm elected.'

Bratcher, 29, has been in law enforcement for most of his adult life, with two years of experience in the Nemaha County Sheriff's Office under his belt before joining the Wayne County office in December of 2008.

"This position is really the only one you can advance to in the office. It's a lot of hard work and responsibility, and I feel it's something I'm ready to do," Bratcher said. "I've worked at the job for seven years between here and Nemaha County, and feel I have the experience.'

Moeller, 44, began his career in the Wayne County Sheriff's Office 10 years ago, working for Janssen for 4 1/2 years before taking a job in the private sector to gain experience in management. He returned to the law enforcement field two years ago and continues his duties with the

Wayne Police Department. "I had an opportunity to work with people in management, and I like working with people," Moeller said. "I had an uncle who was the sheriff in Antelope County for 12 years, and when I got on with the sheriff's department here, I thought that someday I'd like to be sheriff, which is why

Consoli, at 46, is the oldest of the candidates but is the newer of the foursome from an experience perspective, joining the Wayne Police Department in 2007. He has experience as a domestic violence instructor, is a member of the Nebraska Law Enforcement Intelligence Network and has also trained in violent crime response and developing informants.

"I thought about running four years ago, but

I knew at the time that I didn't have the experience," he said. "Last summer, my family and I talked about it, and I decided last August to do so, and with the opportunity to enhance my background, I felt it was a good time to run for the position.'

All four candidates expressed an interest in adding to the department's five-member law enforcement team, while recognizing that the department runs a very tight ship from a budget perspective.

"We need more manpower for patrols, but we can't hire 10 people because we have a small budget," Dwinell said. "I think we can hire another deputy and build up from there, but it's hard for five sworn officers to cover more than 440 square miles. We're spread out kind of thin."

"I'd like to have another deputy on staff." Bratcher said. "Nemaha County has one more deputy than what we have here, and they have a smaller coverage area. I think it would make scheduling a lot easier and give us a chance to better cover the area and cut back on overtime. which would help us better protect some of the areas in the county that need it.

"It would be nice to have at least one more on staff so we could have better 24-hour coverage," Moeller said. "They're out there guite a bit, but they have a lot of area to cover when you think about going from Wakefield to Hoskins." "I think that open communication is important, so I'd hope to be a lot more visible as a department, particularly in our schools in the county," Consoli added.

That visibility factor is important for all four candidates, particularly in working on crimes that take place in the county. "Copper thieves are big right now, and we've County get to choose who gets the job."

been working hard to try and catch them," Dwinell said. "We've been working on it, but we need more manpower. We're fortunate these crimes occur less frequently than they do in other counties, but we still have a number of crimes to focus on in the county.'

"Copper thieves and drugs are most important right now, and I'd also like to get a handle on the drunk driving," Moeller added. "I'd like to see more patrolling, especially on the county roads, and I know that's something they've started."

"We're starting to see more calls from area farmers about the theft of copper parts, and we're also dealing with some more drug-related crimes as well," Bratcher said. "It's a challenge on some of these crimes because we can't be everywhere at once when it's five officers covering 444 square miles."

"The law enforcement agencies around here are very proactive, and I don't believe the crimes we have here are much different than what they're seeing in other cities our size," Consoli said. "I'd like to go after the big (criminals) and catch them because I think that would help eliminate a number of the problems we're see-

The campaigning for this position will continue until the Tuesday, May 13 primary, and all four officers agree that it's been a pleasant campaign because of the professional working relationship the four officers share.

"We've all worked together for a long time, and after this is over, we'll still be working together," Bratcher said. "I think we all have positive attributes that would benefit the office, but only one of us can have it, so this is kind of an application process where the people of Wayne

So we CAN fill up Rice Auditorium

Ohhhh, so THAT'S what it takes to fill up Rice Auditorium.

Kudos to the work put out by the Wayne State volleyball team this past week, as they brought Nebraska and Creighton's volleyball teams to town for a special benefit game to help with rebuilding the Wayne Summer Sports Complex that was damaged in last fall's tornado.

The Wildcats were on the road last October when the storm hit, and with it being the middle of the season, they weren't able to do as much as they could at the time.

When the opportunity to bring the two Div. I powerhouses to Wayne presented itself, the team went all out to make it a great weekend for volleyball and for the community of Wayne. There was a great turnout darn near standing-room-only, in fact – and the crowd was totally into the outstanding volleyball that was showcased by the Huskers and the

For me, it was not only an opportunity to document a great charity event and see some top-notch volleyball, but it was a chance to actually see the old barn on the north side of town without any empty seats during a college athletic event, something that – believe it or not – Ihave yet to see in my five years from this spot in the cheap seats.

You see, I keep hearing stories from longtime Wayne residents about the "good ol' days" when Greg McDemott built the Wildcat men's basketball team into a solid program that won games and hosted NCAA regional tournaments.

"You couldn't get a seat at those games," the old-timers keep telling me. "The place was packed and rocking from opening tip to final

As great as those teams were, you have to wonder what it takes to get similar crowds to show up today for two Wayne State athletic programs that have established themselves over the last several years as consistent top-shelf, national-powerhouse programs. It's really kind of funny to think that Wayne State's volleyball team actually had the fifth-highest home attendance in all of NCAA Div. II this past season. At most of the home games I was at, you could have doubled the fannies in the stands and STILL not achieved 50 percent capacity. Some of the seats, I'm guessing, actually had dust on them by season's end because nobody sat in them to watch a team that was ranked in the top 20 all year and played in what is unquestionably the most difficult region in the country. Wayne State was ranked at season's end and, even though they had a better record than at least half of the teams in the 64-team field, couldn't get a bid to the national tournament because of

Seriously, when you have teams that compete at the level that Wayne State's volleyball and women's basketball teams play, it's an embarrassment to the team, the college and the community to play before all those fans disguised as empty seats. That it takes an exhibition game between two schools who will never play a regular-season game against Wayne State to fill up Wayne State's crib is something that, I hope, the community keeps in mind when the 2014-15 season rolls around a few months

Huskers sweep Creighton in exhibition

There have been many wonderful efforts made to help the community of Wayne bounce back from last fall's tornado - but few had the excitement and entertainment value of the show put on by the Wayne State volleyball team.

The Wildcats invited some friends from down south, as their Div. I sisters from Nebraska and Creighton hooked up in the "Rumble in Rice" volleyball exhibition Saturday afternoon at Rice Auditorium.

A standing-room-only crowd of ust over 2,000 people watched the two teams battle in a three-set match, won by the Huskers 25-15, 25-19, 25-22. The match featured a number of long points and exciting plays on both sides of the net and showcased two of the top volleyball programs in the nation, and funds raised from Saturday's game will be donated to the rebuilding of the Wayne Summer Sports Complex.

The team wanted to do something to help the community, so Knefil reached out to the two Div. I coaches – Nebraska's John Cook and Creighton's Kirsten Bernthal Booth – and as luck would have it, both teams were looking for a place to play a spring exhibition match.

"I'm good friends with both of them, and as it turned out, both teams' facilities were undergoing some construction this spring, so it worked out really nice," he said.

Once the announcement of the fundraiser was made in late February, it didn't take long for the 2,000 tickets to be snapped up by fans of both teams.

"Mitch DeBoer helped out, and we sold a lot of tickets online and sold it out in about a week and a half," Kneifl said. "It felt like Ticketmaster for a while in our office because we were filling all the ticket orders and it all went off without a hitch."

The benefit volleyball game was not only exciting for the fans to watch, but had its share of interesting storylines as well.

The daughters of Wayne High volleyball coach Traci Krusemark made special bracelets for the girls on both teams and were able to watch the action from behind both teams' benches. The Krusemark family was at home when the tornado completely destroyed their home south of town.

"Seeing Traci's girls behind the bench really helped put things in perspective for our kids and the girls who were playing," Kneifl said.

Also on hand was Wayne High senior men's basketball player Ryan Rolfzen, whose twin sisters - Amber and Kadie - both starred for the Huskers, as each recorded nine

"Ryan is taking my theory of volleyball fundamental class, and he's a very good basketball player but not a good volleyball player," Kneifl joked. On Friday, the University of Mary slammed six home runs, including a walk-off solo homer in the bottom of the seventh in the second game, to sweep Wayne State 13-2 and 3-2 in Bismarck, N.D.

The host Marauders scored four runs in three different innings to roll past the Wildcats in the opener. Wayne State scored single runs in the first and fourth innings. In the first, Megan Hagemann reached on a fielder's choice and scored on a Kelcie Bormann double down the left field line. In the fourth, Hagemann doubled and scored on a Kaiti Williams double to right field.

Sara Scheffert was the losing pitcher, allowing six runs on five hits. Cassy Miller pitched the final two innings and was charged with seven runs on eight hits with one walk and one strikeout.

The second game saw Mary win on a walk-off homer with one out in the bottom of the seventh.

Wayne State scored both runs in the third to take a 2-1 lead. Hagemann singled to left field and scored on a Williams home run. Mary tied the score at 2-2 with a single run in the fifth and then won on the homer

Jordan King was 2-for-4 with a pair of singles in the losing effort. Bormann suffered the pitching loss, allowing three runs on five hits with three strikeouts and one walk.

Wayne State bounced back on Saturday with a sweep at Minot State, winning 5-1 and 8-3.

Medications can make a world of difference—if you take them the right way. Half the time, though, this doesn't happen, at least when it comes to drugs doctors prescribe for chronic condi-

Sometimes people miss doses. Or they might stop refilling the prescription or never get it filled in the first place. Why does this happen? Well, certainly cost or side effects of drugs can be an issue. Also, complex dosing schedules or multiple drugs can be really confusing. 2 You might feel as though you need a multi-page spreadsheet just to keep track!

The problem is not taking medications the right way can threaten your health, increase complications, and lower your quality of life. And sometimes skipping doses can increase the risk of resistant strains of certain "bugs."

Do you need help with taking your medications the right way? Lean on me. I can help you increase the benefits and decrease the risks of taking your medications. When we talk, it's helpful to know about all the medications you're taking and about any problems you've had in the past, such as allergic reactions or trouble swallowing. I can also answer questions like these:

·How soon can I expect to feel better? When I start to feel better, can I stop taking the drug?

•Do I need a refill, or can I stop when the bottle is empty?

·Are there any drugs, supplements, or foods I should avoid while taking this medication? ·Are there any special directions for taking or storing this medication?

·ls there a cheaper generic version available?

·What should I do if I have side effects? What are the most common ones?

·What should I do if I miss a dose?³

I can also help learn how to better manage your prescriptions. We can discuss a few tricks of the trade like these: •Make it a habit. Connect your medication routine with another well-established habit such as brushing your teeth • Use dosing containers. These contain labels for days of the week and dosing frequencies.

You can find them in our store, or ask about our convenient strip packaging, labeled for date and · Track it with technology. Options range from reminder pagers and wristwatches to smartphone apps and voice-command medication managers. We can discuss what might work best for you. You can also simply create a printable medicine record with columns like these:

·The name of the drug ·What it looks like

How much to take

When to take it

Start and stop dates

How it helps

·Who to contact if there's a problem⁴

As you can see, taking medications isn't a time to wing it! Fortunately, I can assist you. All you Nothing herein constitutes medical advice, diagnosis or treatment, or is a substitute for professional advice. You should always seek

WSC inks deal with Under Armour

Wayne State College announced a multi-year agreement that will make Under Armour the official and exclusive provider of apparel, footwear and uniforms for Wildcat athletics beginning July 1.

The agreement includes a combination of marketing assets and support, product discounts, premium customer support and revenue generation opportunities for Wayne State athletics.

"We spent a lot of time exploring various providers, involving our coaches and programs in the evaluation process," Mike Powicki, Wayne State athletic director, said. "We are extremely excited to be partnering with Under Armour and their vendor, The Graphic Edge. The quality of Under Armour brand and products, in combination with the level of their service we will receive, made them the perfect choice for this partnership. This type of partnership if forging new ground for Wayne State College athletics and will be an integral part of strengthening the Wildcat athletics brand."

Wildcat fans will have the opportunity to purchase custom Under Armour Wildcat gear with more information available in the future on wscwildcats.com.

Wildcat baseball adds three recruits

Wayne State baseball coach Brian Disch announced that three more players have signed national letters of intent to attend Wayne State College and play baseball for the Wildcats in the 2014-15 academic year.

Joining the Wildcat program are Mitchell Gullickson of Yankton, S.D.; Greg Houser of Omaha and Tanner Simons of Rapid City, S.D., who join Michael Gilbert of Bellevue West High School as members of the 2014 recruiting class.

Gullickson, a 6-foot-2, 160-pound outfielder/pitcher, is a three-vear starter and letterwinner in baseball. He was voted Most Valuable Player of the high school and Legion team in Yankton last year and led Class A in stolen bases with 19 in 21 games during the high school season last year as a junior while posting a .319 average.

Houser is a 6-foot-6, 225-pound lefthanded pitcher who has played the last two seasons at Butler Community College in Kansas. This season, Houser is 2-1 in five starts striking out 22 batters with just three walks in 20.1 innings pitched. Last season, he posted a 4-4 record in eight starts with a 5.90 earned run

Sons of American Legion support causes

The Winside Sons of the American Legion Squadron 252 are currently in the second year of conducting a 52-Gun Raffle.

Members of the organization sell tickets for 90 days, from June to September for weekly drawings for a pre-chosen gun.

"We have sold tickets both locally and to a number of other states," said Daryl Mundil, treasurer of the Winside SAL.

Proceeds from the raffle have been used to assist a number of veterans programs and children and youth programs in the Winside, throughout the area and nationally.

Among the groups in Winside who have received donations area the Boy and Girl Scouts, Winside Fine Arts program, Gage Wendte to assist with his surgery, Post Prom, the Winside Public Library, Carroll Volunteer Fire Department, Carroll Library and Carroll Ball Field. Donations were also given to the Wayne Food Pantry, Bedtime Bears event held at Miss Molly's, the Wayne Tornado Relief fund, the Wayne County Sharp Shooters 4-H Club, Jacob Kander Benefit and the Stanton County 4-H Shooting Club.

Additional funds were given to the Veterans Home in Norfolk and Norfolk Mercy Meals.

"We have sold tickets both locally and to a number of other states."

On a more regional level, the SAL made donations to the Ronald Mc-Donald House, the Siouxland Freedom Park, the American Legion Legacy School, Children's Miracle Network, American Legion National Emergency Fund and Husker Salute for Wounded Warriors.

The SAL also gives a percentage of the proceeds back to the American Legion Post #252, which will be used for a roof project for the Legion

"We would like to thank all those who have supported this program. We know not everyone can win (a gun), but the proceeds benefit a lot of programs. We are also looking at other projects for future funding," Mundil said.

The SAL also awards scholarships to Winside High School students and relatives of SAL mem-

Wayne County 4-H speakers compete

Three 4-H members participated in the 4-H Public Speaking Contest held at the Wayne County Courthouse on Tuesday, April 22. 4-Hers have the opportunity to prepare an actual speech or public service announcement. Public speaking allows the 4-Hers to increase their confidence in public speaking, which is a valuable life skill.

The junior division is for 4-Hers 8-10 years of age. They prepare an original speech relating to 4-H. The suggested length is under three minutes. A purple ribbon was awarded to James Dorcey of Wayne and a blue ribbon to Mason Topp of

Intermediate speech division participants are 11-13 years of age and prepare an original speech relating to 4-H. The suggested length of the speech is 3-5 minutes. Grace Heithold of Wayne earned a purple

The overall speech winner was Grace Heithold, daughter of Bryan and Mary Heithold of Wayne. Her speech was titled, "Time Travel to Your Favorite Food." James Dorcey was the reserve overall speech winner with his speech titled, "This Little Piggy." James is the son of Chad and Jean Dorcey, Wayne.

A Bit of Light

Beginning Sunday, May 4 at 10:30 a.m. and continuing Sunday at 6 p.m. and Monday through Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m., Praise Assembly of God, where Rev. Jason Pickering is the pastor, will be hosting Rev. Mike Peterson, an Assembly of God Evangelist.

In Ephesians 4:11-12 the Apostle Paul cites a number of ministries that God has given to the Church. Here are those verses as recorded in the American Standard Version of the Bible: "He gave some to be apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, unto the work of ministering, unto the building up of the body of Christ."

This is an interesting adaptation of these verses. Paul names some leadership ministry roles that are important for the Church (the "general church" with a "capital C") as well as for the world to see in action.

These roles have the specific purpose to prepare people for the work of ministering. The work of the "shepherd" (also known as a pastor) and the "teacher" in the life of the local churches that assemble from week to week. Apostles are "sent out" to share the Word of God in many places and in different ways.

The "evangelist" ministry is often considered to be the visitor (guest) from "out of town" who comes for a brief period of time to preach in a specific church. This individual prays about the words that should be preached as people come together to listen. Frequently in the lives of these individuals, the Lord also moves in unique displays of His divine power: people can be healed, born again, touched in their minds and emotions, as well as filled with the Holy Spirit - depending on what the Lord wants to say and do through the evangelist.

The bottom line of these two verses is that all of these ministry roles have the same purpose: to perfect and fully equip people who are in the local church (small C), in local communities to accomplish tasks that God wants to do in the lives of people. The Praise Assembly church family has been praying for several months that 1) people will be eager to attend these meetings - from all across the region, and 2) that those who gather will hear from the Lord, and 3) that lives will be touched and changed.

The public is invited to attend any - or all - of these meetings. The services will open with a time of worship before the guest begins to

The Nebraska State College System (NSCS) recently awarded over 100 Board of Trustee Scholarships to graduating high school seniors from Nebraska. A Board of Trustee (BOT) Scholarship provides full tuition for recipients and is worth nearly $17,000 over four years.

Among those earning the scholarship and planning to attend Wayne State College is Jared Peterson of Wayne, who will graduate from Wayne High School this May.

The NSCS also awarded the Governor's Opportunity Award to three recipients, one each at Chadron, Peru and Wayne State Colleges, member institutions of the NSCS. The Governor's Opportunity Award provides half of the college tuition costs and, like the BOT Scholarships, are renewable for four years.

The keynote speaker for the luncheon was Governor Dave Heineman. Married to First Lady Sally Ganem, a 30-year elementary school principle, Gov. Heineman has made education a cornerstone of his record 10-year term as Governor of Nebraska. Gov. Heineman has focused on prioritizing education, increasing parental involvement, improving the college going rate, closing the academic achievement gap, and other important edu- who served as the alumni speak cation initiatives, as well as creating high-quality jobs for our youth ron BOT recipient, is currently the to stay in Nebraska and be success-"I want to applaud the Nebraska State College System Board of Trustees for thinking innovatively about ways to boost enrollment and to increase Nebraska's college-going rate by expanding scholarship opportunities for students," said Gov. Heineman. "We want to ensure that more Nebraska students attend Nebraska colleges. Ensuring that every high school graduate in Nebraska goes to college is critical to our continued success as a state. Our task is to prepare our sons and daughters to compete in a knowledge-based, technology-driven, global, free-market economy."

When discussing the value of ed ucation, Gov. Heineman recognized the state colleges for their educational and economic contributions to Nebraskans. He encouraged the scholarship recipients to make the most of their education and acknowledged Nebraska as a place for hard working Nebraskans to enjoy, "The Good Life."

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes Managing Editor

We're all going to die ... someday

I'm going to die. And so are you.

And your friends, family and loved ones as well.

It's a reality that I seem to be more aware of today than at any point in my nearly 48 years of existence as a spiritual being in this physical realm

It's something that happens every minute of every day – somebody dies. And you could be next – or it could be me.

Without trying to make light of the ultimate darkness (whoops, I did it again), I've been thinking more and more of my mortality and trying to determine what it is that I NEED to do between now and the day when the expiration date God tattooed on the inside of my forehead matches up with the day on the calendar.

Lately, a number of my friends and loved ones have passed on. Some were expected, others were a shock.

I found out about an old college friend, Todd, after his brother posted a distress message on Facebook asking people who might have had contact with him recently. He was found in his house, dead of a heart attack – just

I met Todd in college, and we became like brothers during our time in college together and in later years. We were polar opposites politically, and he didn't share the passion for sports that I have. We found our common ground in our willingness to fight for the now-closed community college in Fairbury that we both attended, as well as a love for progressive rock bands like Yes, Genesis and Emerson, Lake and Palmer. Todd could belt out "Karn Evil 9" with the best of them, and he knew every lyric from just about every Yes album. He died a week before I was going to surprise him with tickets to a Yes concert in Omaha – I checked in the ticket in his memory, opting to sit alone physically knowing that he was there in spirit.

Mike was another good friend who died much too soon. Mike was one of those guys who was always good for a laugh and, as a wrestling coach, was always somebody you could just talk with and figure things out.

One day, as I was trying to overcome some personal struggles, Mike called me out of the blue. "Hey," he said, "I've got two tickets to see Sammy Hagar this weekend in Sioux City. Wanna go?"

Mike lived south of Kearney, so a trip to Sioux City was a good six-hour journey. I lived in Omaha, but he picked me up and took me to the show. We had a blast (we laughed for years about the bikini-clad "waitress" who had WAY too much to drink backstage and was on the verge of turning the concert into a strip club-worthy performance), and I think he sensed that

When I got the news that Mike was battling cancer, it was a big shock to those in the wrestling community who knew him. He put on a good face 17)! When all was said and done, we agribusiness, irrigation districts, and tried to tell everybody that he'd be back, knowing full well that his cancer was terminal and he wasn't coming back. We got a call that he was on his way out, and a bunch of us met in Kearney in the hopes of seeing him before he passed away – we missed him by about an hour.

At his memorial service, the stories of Mike made everybody laugh, cry and smile. He had the ability to make anyone feel good about who they were. They played the song "Eagles Fly" by Sammy Hagar at his service – I have that CD in my collection and, to this day, can't listen to that song without remembering him and getting emotional about it.

Just this past weekend, an old friend of the family passed away. My mom's close friend, Lois, lost a long battle with cancer, and I was disappointed that my work schedule prevented me from going to her memorial service with my mom.

Lois and her husband, Chuck, were very dear friends to my parents. My dad and Chuck worked together, and Lois was one of my mom's closest friends after we moved to Milford. Chuck served on the City Council and helped me gain an understanding of how city government works when I first started in the newspaper business. Lois was one of those "second moms" that we had as kids back in the day, a parental type of influence who would offer the same advice that your parents gave you – and yet, it made a lot more sense, at the time, coming from people like Lois.

I've been rather fortunate in my life to have come this far without losing a lot of those special people who have been a part of my life. Aside from grandparents, other close relatives and a few personal and professional friends, I've managed to avoid staring death in the face more than some.

But I know that there is one thing we'll never avoid in this life, and that's the end of our physical experience on this earth. There are many things I hope to accomplish between now and that day when God decides he needs my help in another place, and losing important people like these in my life has me taking a long, hard look at that to-do list.

We're all going to die someday. What do you need to accomplish before that day comes? Don't wait to get it done - who knows how much time you've really got left?

Legislature is 'finally' finished

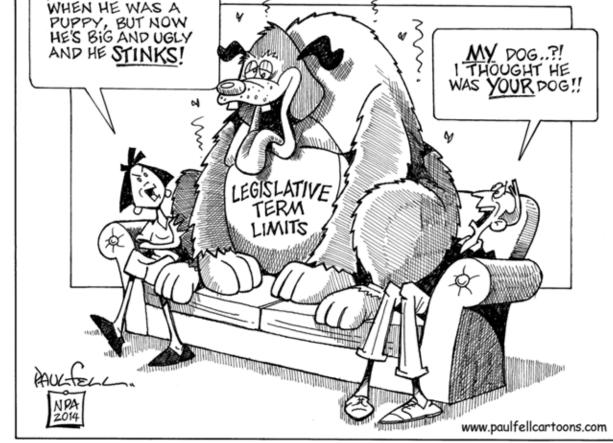

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent Nebraska Press Association

It took what seemed like forever, but the 103rd Legislature Second Session is finally over. As has been the practice in recent years, lawmakers passed a number of bills and then delayed the final day to allow the governor time to act on the bills (five days from time of receipt) and then override any vetoes.

That final day is also set aside for ceremony and recognizing the accomplishments of the departing senators, at least six of whom (four departing and two who still have time left on their terms) are hoping to stay involved in politics through higher office.

But, before the ceremony, veteran lawmaker Ernie Chambers of Omaha hamstrung progress with a repeated series of amendments to final reading bills in an effort to get his pound of flesh from those who thwarted his two previous efforts to stop the statewide hunting season on mountain lions. For nearly five hours, he offered amendments and spoke of his love and respect for the beautiful and graceful big cats while simultaneously skewering his colleagues who kept him a mere two votes short of passing the repeal. To their credit, his colleagues took it in stride, obviously seasoned by a record number of filibusters during this short 60-day session.

When it was over, lame duck Governor Dave Heineman spoke proudly of the $412 million in tax relief over the next five years thanks to bills passed by lawmakers during the often-contentious session. Just what that will mean to the average Nebraska taxpaver is the subject for another time. Heineman also spoke proudly of a prison reform measure that is aimed at addressing overcrowding, even though it doesn't include the abolishment of good time that he had sought. Lawmakers will work with a Council of State Governments task force to establish a 1986 through 1994 and again from Dubas, Fullerton; Tom Hansen, long-term strategy.

Term-limited Sen. Tom Carlson, Holdrege, one of six men running for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, spearheaded a water bill noted by Heineman as "noteworthy legislation that preserves our water supply for generations to come." Carlson's colleague Beau McCoy, Elkhorn, is also seeking the nomination but can return to fill out his legislative term if he is unsuccessful. Likewise, Sen. Charlie nod. Janssen, Fremont, has time left in the Legislature if his bid for Republican nomination for state Auditor is unsuccessful.

Term-limited Sen. Brad Ashford,

2006 through this year, is seeking the Democratic nomination for the Second District Congressional seat. Term-limited Amanda McGill, Lincoln, is seeking the Democratic nomination for State Auditor; and term-limited Pete Pirsch, Omaha, is seeking the Republican nomination for Attorney General. Blood Drive

Allen Consolidated Schools is having a blood drive on Monday, May 5th. The schools needs everyone's help to make it a huge success and beat their goal.

Meeting blood collection goals is important to ensure there is always the right unit of blood, for the right patient, at the right time. Take the time to be a hero and donate blood and help your community in the process. You can bring a friend and help even more.

Athletic Awards Night

The Athletic Awards Night was held April 28 in the Allen Gym. This year's seniors receiving the Senior Athlete Award (by being in two sports their senior year) were: Sammy Sullivan, Lindsey Jones, Austin Connot, Myles Flores, Morgan Bathke and Takota Burnham.

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society inducted new members on May 1. The new members are: Rebecca Boeshart, Alexis Oswald, Mariah Keiser, Breanne Benstead, Gabrielle Sullivan, Austin Crom, Samantha Sullivan, and Nikole Stewart.

Senior Tea

The Senior Tea will be held at the First Lutheran Church on Friday, May 2 at 10 a.m. This will be the Class of 2014's last day of school. Graduation is Saturday, May 10.

FFA Banquet

The annual FFA banquet will be held on Friday, May 2 at 6 p.m. Tickets can be purchased from an FFA member or contact the school. The Labor Auction will start off the evening at 6 p.m. followed by the meal at approximately 6:30 p.m. There are four seniors who will be giving their retiring addresses: Lindsey Jones, Liz Nelson, Kristyna Muller and Morgan Bathke.

Spring Concert

The Spring Concert for grades fifth – 12th will be on Tuesday, May 6 at the Allen gym at 7 p.m. The community is invited to attend.

Community Clean-up

The Annual Community Cleanup will be held on Thursday, May 8. Volunteers with or without pickups/trailers will meet at 1 p.m. in the school parking lot to supervise junior high student workers.

Elementary Track Meet

The K-6 grades elementary Trackmeet will be on Wednesday, May 7 at 1 p.m. at the football field. Everyone is invited to cheer on the students while they compete in their track events.

Nebraska 4-H National Shot Gun Team

Congratulations have been extended to Myles Flores for making the Nebraska 4-H National Shot gun team. He is the son of Santos and Patricia Flores.

Allen Community Club The Allen Community Club met

April 21 at the Fire Hall.

President Greta Kraemer called the meeting to order. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and approved.

Bills relating to the Easter Egg Hunt and playground equipment were approved to be paid. A donation to the Summer Recreation Program will be made. Greta extended thanks to all who helped with the successful installation of the playground equipment.

The grass on the south side of the park has been re-sowed. Grass seeding on the north side will be done after building of the new rest rooms is complete. Various types of edging around the park was discussed, and Greta will look into prices for the various suggestions. Many children enjoyed playing on the new playground equipment after the Easter age by May 15 to take the class. The Egg Hunt, where it is estimated over 60 children participated.

Upcoming Community Club events are the June 13 and June 18 BRAN and Tour de Nebraska bike rides through Allen where the club will be serving food and the June 13 Great Nebraska Tractor Drive through Allen where pie and ice cream will be served.

Anyone willing to help with the food preparation and serving is to contact Greta Kraemer or Larry/ Kathy Boswell. Welcome to Allen banners and balloons will be put up welcoming the riders as well as those attending Isom's Love-a-Lop Swap Meet that weekend. Anyone with an older tractor is requested to bring the tractor to town the afternoon of June 13 and park it near the park where the antique tractor drivers can enjoy looking at the John Werner reported the community spring clean-up day will be May 8. Volunteer workers with or without pickups and trailers are to meet at the school parking lot at 1 p.m. on that day. Dean Chase reminded everyone that the cemetery cleanup is May 24 at 1 p.m. Anyone wishing to have a garage sale on Saturday, June 14 is to call Marcia Rastede at 635-2214 to be included on the garage sale map. The Community Club will again have a firework stand located at the gas station parking lot with sales from June 25 to July 4. Anyone with a car trailer, preferably with two doors, who is willing to let it be used for that time, should contact LaDonna Miles at 635-2032.

Allen Update

Please send Kathy Boswell your alumni class news, name and address changes, and death notices for publication in the next Allen Update as soon as possible. The next all-school reunion will be July 3-5, 2015, but we want to send a newsletter as soon as we can get it writ-

Classic Club

Security Bank's Classic Club upcoming trips: Saturday, May 17 -"Wicked" at the Omaha Orpheum. Paying homage to the classic Wizard of Oz story, this cautionary tale about love, friendship and trust, reveals that there are indeed two sides to every story. Prior to the performance at the Orpheum, lunch is included at Mimi's with some shopping time at Village Point.

On Wednesday, June 4, the group will be going on the Tri-State Summer tour to Ponca State Park, Sioux City, Iowa and Vermillion, S.D. The first stop on the trip will be at Ponca State Park for a hayrack ride and visit the new Missouri River Resource and Educational Center. Enjoy a sack lunch at the Park before leaving for Sioux City where the group will tour the Peirce Mansion. Next stop will be Palmer Candy Company for some good 'ole candy shopping. The last stop will be at the Valiant Vineyards near Vermillion, S.D. for a tour of the Vineyard and sample various wines made by the Nygaards. Before heading home, the group will enjoy a buffet meal served at the winery.

Choose a helmet that meets or exceeds safety standards established by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

- Choose a helmet that fits, rather than one a child will grow into. To adjust fit, adjust sponge pads that are provided with the helmet: A helmet should fit snugly, moving only one inch when pushed either to the front or back. The front edge of the helmet should fit two finger widths above the eyebrows; front and back straps should form a "V" just below the ear. If a helmet tilts forward, adjust the rear straps; if a helmet tilts backward, the front straps may need to be tightened. When the chin strap is buckled, all straps should be equally tight. To test fit, place one finger between the chin and the chin strap: when the child's mouth is opened, the strap should fit snugly, but comfortably.

- If an accident occurs or if a helmet is badly jarred or cracked, replacing it is recommended.

- Following rules of the road: ride with the traffic, rather than facing the traffic; ride in a bicycle lane or next to the curb; obey traffic signals; and practice defensive-driving/riding - stay alert and keep your mind on your riding. Remember also that bicycles are prohibited on some roadways and, in some cities and towns, from some sidewalks. Children are always watching adults, so be sure to model bicycle safety skills.

 Periodic bicycle maintenance lubrication; checking tire pressure and condition; brakes; pedals; lights or reflectors, also is recommended.

For more information on bicycle safety please visit www.safekids. org and/or other youth development topics, please contact visit the website at www.extension.unl.edu/ child-youth or contact the University of Nebraska Lincoln Extension Office in your local county.

for USDA disaster assistance programs

USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) executive director Dan Steinkruger has informed farmers and ranchers that they can sign-up for disaster assistance programs, reestablished and strengthened by the 2014 Farm Bill. Sign-up for disaster assistance programs started

"USDA FSA has made the implementation of the disaster assistance programs a priority since President Obama signed the Agricultural Act of 2014 on Feb. 7, 2014," Steinkruger said. "The implementation of these programs will provide disaster assistance to farmers and ranchers who suffered previous losses or are currently experiencing severe drought."

The disaster assistance programs consist of the Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP), Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP) and the Emergency Livestock, Honeybee, and Farm-Raised Fish Program (ELAP). These programs provide assistance to farmers and rancher that suffered eligible losses on or after Oct. 1, 2011. In addition, the Tree Assistance Program (TAP) is available for orchardists and nursery tree growers who suffered disas-

"All farmers and ranchers that experienced a loss are encouraged to contact their local FSA County Office," said Steinkruger.

Producers also are encouraged to contact their County Office ahead of time to schedule an appointment.

For more information, producers are encouraged to review the LFF Fact Sheet, LIP Fact Sheet, ELAP Fact Sheet, and TAP Fact Sheet at www.fsa.usda.gov/farmbill under the Resumption of Disaster Assistance Programs or visit your local FSA County Office.

Here is another reminder that we will be having tractor safety training at the Haskell Ag Lab east of Concord on Wednesday and Thursday, May 28-29.

Federal law prohibits youth under 16 years of age from working on a farm other than their parents. Certification through the course grants an exemption to the law allowing 14 and 15 year olds to drive a tractor and do field work with mechanized equipment for employers other than their parents. This program is two full days from 8 a.m.-5 p.m., so prepare accordingly. The cost of the program is $60 payable on the first day.

Pre-registration is strongly encouraged. Please let us know in the May 20 if you want to attend and to get further details. The phone number is (402) 584-2234.

The first pest to watch out for is alfalfa weevils. Most alfalfa weevils overwinter as adults, and then become active and lav eggs. In the last few years some areas of the state have received damage to regrowth after the first cutting due to a combination of late larval feeding and adult feeding. This is something to be aware of after the first cutting.

Getting back to the present, based on growing degree days, alfalfa weevil larvae should be feeding, and small pinholes may be visible in the new alfalfa growth near the tips of the plants. While alfalfa weevil damage has been spotty in much of Nebraska over the past few years, the potential for damage always exists.

Alfalfa weevil and also clover leaf weevils feed on first cutting alfalfa as larvae, and regrowth after the first cutting as adults (and sometimes larvae). While research con-shown that clover leaf weevil larva feeding does not result in yield reduction to first cutting alfalfa, alfalfa weevil feeding can cause severe losses to yield and quality of the first cutting.

Educator

It is essential that fields be monitored for alfalfa weevil feeding now. Damage consists of small holes and interveinal feeding on the newest leaflets near the stem tips. The larvae are a small (1/16 to 3/8 inch in length), pale yellowish green, becoming a darker green when larger. These legless worms have black heads and a white stripe the length of the back. The alfalfa weevil larvae spend nearly all their time on

Once the alfalfa is about 4-6 inches or so in height, take a bucket, carefully cut some stems at ground level (30 to 50 per field, from various spots in the field) and shake the stems against the side of the bucket. Annual Water Quality Report For January 1 to December 31, 2013

This report is intended to provide you with important information about your drinking water and the efforts made by the City Of Wayne water system to provide safe drinking water. This report will not be mailed, and a copy of said report is available for public inspection at the office of the City Clerk, 306 Pearl Street, Wayne, NE

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can obtained by calling the EPA's Safe Drinking Water Hotline

(800-426-4791) Source Water Assessment Availability:

The Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality (NDEQ) has completed the Source Water Assessment. Included in the assessment are a Wellhead Protection Area map, potential contaminant source inventory, vulnerability rating, and source water protection information. To view the Source Water Assessment or for more information please contact the person named above on this report or the NDEQ at (402) 471-6988 or go to www.deq.state.ne.us

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health.

Sources of Drinking Water:

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and groundwater wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from

The source of water used by City Of Wayne is ground water.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

* Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems agricultural livestock operations and wildlife Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally occurring or result from urban storm water runoff industrial, or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas roduction, mining, or farming. Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and

Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems. Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

Drinking Water Health Notes: Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791). Infants, young children, and pregnant women are typically more vulnerable to lead in drinking water than the general population. It is possible that lead levels at your home may be higher than at other homes in the community as a result of materials used in your home's plumbing. If you are concerned about elevated lead levels in your home's water, you may wish to have your water tested. Flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using your tap water will clear the line of any lead that may have leached into the water while the line was idle. Additional information is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791) or the DHHS/Division of

How to Read the Water Quality Data Table:

The EPA and State Drinking Water Program establish the safe drinking water regulations that limit the amount of contaminants allowed in drinking water. The table shows the concentrations of detected substances in comparison to the regulatory limits. Substances not detected are not included in the table. The state requires monitoring of certain contaminants less than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants do not change frequently. Therefore, some of this data may be older than MCL (Maximum Contaminant Level) – The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology. MCLG (Maximum Contaminant Level Goal) – The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health.

MCLGs allow for a margin of safety. AL (Action Level) – The concentration of a contaminant which, if eeded triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system MRDL (Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level) - The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water.

MRDLG (Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal) – The level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health.

N/A – Not applicable.

Units in the Table:

ND - Not detectable ppm (parts per million) = mg/L (milligrams per liter) – One ppm or one mg/L corresponds to 1 gallon of water in a million gallons of water.

ppb (parts per billion) – One ppb corresponds to 1 gallon of water in a billion gallons of water.

pCi/L (Picocuries per liter) - Radioactivity concentration unit. ug/L (micrograms per liter) - Measurement of radioactivity NTU (Nephelometric Turbidity Units) - A measure of water clarity QRAA (Quarterly Running Annual Average) — An ongoing annual average calculation of data from the most recent four quarters.

90° Percentile — Represents the highest value found out of 90% of the samples taken in a representative group. If the 90° percentile is greater than the action level, it will trigger a treatment or other requirements that a water system must follow.

TT (Treatment Technique) – A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.
