Council overturns vicious dog declaration

By CLARA OSTEN
Of the Herald

The actions necessary to deem a dog 'vicious' were debated during the May 20 meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Council members were faced with making the decision on whether or not a dog that injured a five-year old in an incident on April 22. The injury required a number of stitches and because of this, the dog was impounded and declared to be a 'vicious dog.'

The dog was properly licensed and vaccinated.

Following the incident, the owner appealed the decision of the police department and the matter was brought before the city council.

The owner of the dog, Josh Calken, spoke to the council at length on Tuesday and noted that the dog, a Great Dane, is "not inherently vicious and there has never been an incident prior to this when the dog acted out. I believe in this incident, Roosevelt (the dog) was startled by the child."

Calken said he and his wife are "sorry this happened and are planning to ensure this doesn't happen again."

He said they are planning to construct a fence on their property, have the dog leashed and muzzled at all times when off the property and not allow anyone else to have control of the dog.

Dr. Lauri Zink, a veterinarian at the Wayne Veterinary Clinic, spoke to the council and said "Great Danes are big, powerful dogs and Roosevelt is muzzled when he comes to the clinic to take his mind off what is going on."

She noted that the incident was "a mixed thing, because after years and years of working with animals, I know that sometimes kids move fast and if a parent is not watching closely, things happen."

Dr. Zink said in her opinion, having the dog muzzled and the yard fenced in "is a good thing."

Mayor Ken Chamberlain said that while he sympathized with the dog's owners, he also wanted to protect children and did not agree with overturning the police decision in regard to the dog.

Council member Matt Eischeid said he felt that in this instance, "I don't think the dog meets all the requirements necessary for him to be declared 'vicious.' I applaud the actions of the owners to see that this doesn't happen again."

Council member Jennifer Sievers said there are "two sides to the story and accidents happen. Kids need to be educated on how to approach animals and I don't feel this dog is vicious."

Following discussion, council members voted to overturn the police department's decision to declare the dog vicious on a 6-2 vote with Council members Jon Haase and Matt Eischeid. See COUNCIL, Page 4A

Tears of a champion

What do you do when you set a personal best, improve your school record AND win a state title, all at the same time? The emotion of the moment hit Wayne High senior Ashton Schweers after she cleared 5 feet, 5 inches to win the Class B high jump at the state track meet on Saturday. She later shared the moment with her mom and dad, Amy and Corby, becoming the first Wayne High girl in 17 years, and only the fourth in school history, to win a state title.

2014 Hero Of Hope grateful to help of many in cancer fight

On a Friday in October of 2012 Denny Spangler's daughter got married in Yankton, S.D. Denny took part in the event and "everything was wonderful."

Four days later he woke up in the middle of the night and felt like he had something caught in his throat. By noon that day he couldn't eat and made an appointment to see Dr. Melissa Dobbins at Wayne Mercy Medical Center.

When there was no improvement in his condition by Thursday of that week, and he couldn't even get water down, Dr. Dobbins sent Spangler to St. Luke's Hospital in Sioux City, Iowa. The doctor there put a tube down his throat to try to get it open.

However, the doctor told Spangler he had never seen anything like his case, as something was pushing on his esophagus from the outside.

Tests showed Spangler had cancer, with two tennis ball-sized tumors attached to the back of his spine. The tumors were pushing on his esophagus from the outside.

"I had had no symptoms before this," Spangler said. He also noted that approximately a year prior to that, he had had other tests that didn't show anything.

After the cancer diagnosis, Spangler met with Dr. Vohlquist, a surgeon who felt confident he could remove the tumor.

On Nov. 2, he had chest thoractomy surgery in Sioux City, Iowa. Dr. Vohlquist could not remove the tumor, but did perform a biopsy to confirm that the tumor was lymphoma.

After a five-day stay in the hospital, Spangler returned to Wayne to wait 30 days before beginning chemotherapy.

During this waiting period, he contacted different cancer institutions to determine options available.

"I found that the best program for me was the Cancer Centers of America. I went to Tulsa, Okla. where the best doctors for treating this type of cancer were located."

County ag land value making steep increase

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

If you own ag land in Wayne County, you might want to be sitting down when you get that valuation notice from the county later this week.

Notices of ag land valuation have been sent out by the Wayne County Assessor's office, and some ag land owners are going to see a rather significant increase in their land valuation.

County Assessor Dawn Duffy told the Wayne County Commissioners at last week's meeting that recent sales of ag land have helped push the valuation up more than 40 percent over the old land values.

A three-year study of 50 ag-related land sales found an increase in the average value of an acre of land in the county, which put the county's previous valuation at 47.7 percent of market value.

State law requires counties to have ag land values set between 69-75 percent, and with adjustments made in about every type of land except grassland, the new rate, which is 70 percent for 2014, falls within state requirements.

"There's not a lot we can do," Duffy said. "We have to follow state law, and other counties are having to do the same thing."

Duffy said the county did its best to try and level out the valuation changes between lower-quality soils, higher-quality soils and grassland rates. Bigger percentage increases were noted in lower-quality soil areas, while grassland rates were essentially unchanged because sales of grassland areas did not indicate a need for an increase.

"We had raised grassland rates last year and were looking into lowering them, this year, but we weren't able to do it," Duffy said. "The raises (in grassland rates) in other counties have brought our rates more in line."

Duffy said that she hopes this year's adjustment will bring the county more in line with where they need to be according to state law, and that future changes may not be so high.

"My hope is that what we did this year is bringing us to the point where we're not going to have to raise it near as much next year," she said. "We've tried to give land owners a heads up to be prepared, because they are going to see one heck of an increase on ag land. But, if you look at the sales that have taken place over the last three years, most of the landowners who have seen those numbers have been pretty understanding."

Duffy said a map noting recent ag land sales in the county is available for public

Hero Of Hope

Spangler said.

On Nov. 29, 2012 Spangler, and his wife, Nina, drove to Tulsa. They met with the team of doctors and nurses on Nov. 30 and had chemotherapy treatments on Dec. 1-2.

At this point, the couple developed a routine and traveled back to Tulsa in January, February, March, April, June, August and October of 2013 for treatments. By April, the doctors determined the cancer was in remission.

In April of this year tests showed that what was a tumor the size of two tennis balls has shrunk to 2.7 centimeters (approximately one inch).

"During my treatments, I never got sick but was mentally and physically fatigued. There are lots of things I don't remember and basically, I slept away 90 days during that time period," Spangler said.

He also noted that the Cancer Center in Tulsa is "a big complex with approximately 150 'motel rooms.' In-patient beds and critical care areas are also available.

"There were great doctors in Oklahoma. All the people there were very compassionate. They took care of my wife also. They did tell me later that I was a very sick man," Spangler said.

At the Cancer Center, Spangler met people from all over the United States, and from as close as the Wakefield area. He said he was able to witness miracles there everyday, and got to hear lots of stories and see outcomes similar to his.

In addition to his treatment at the Cancer Center, Spangler's recovery was aided by the compassion shown by members of the Wayne community and his fellow employees at Providence Medical Center.

"We were on church prayer lists, received cards, calls and other acts of kindness. The care and concern of this community has been overwhelming, to the point that at times, I didn't know what to say," Spangler said.

Spangler also has high praise for

Great American Comedy Festival to take place June 11-14 in Norfolk

Now in its seventh year of paying tribute to the legacy of Johnny Carson, the 2014 Great American Comedy Festival is set for Wednesday, June 11 through Saturday, June 14 in Norfolk.

"We invite all Northeast and North Central Nebraskans to take in a performance this year if they haven't done so in the past," said Lori Williams, the festival's executive director. "Where else can you find this kind of comedic talent all in one place so close to home?"

Here are some festival highlights:
- David Steinberg, longtime comedian and producer and host of Showtime's Inside Comedy, will receive the Johnny Carson Comedy Legend award on Saturday, June 14. He and his wife, Robyn Todd, will be on hand for the occasion.

- Jim Breuer, a former "Saturday Night Live" cast member, will headline the June 14 festival performance. Breuer currently has the most-requested comedy DVD on Netflix and says that he and his 91-year-old father, who lives with him, watch Johnny Carson video clips almost every night.

- Television and movie actress Caroline Rhea - of "The Biggest Loser" and "Sabrina the Teenage Witch" - will lend her stand-up comedy routine to the festival performances on Thursday, June 12, and Friday, June 13.

- Twenty up-and-coming stand-up comedians have accepted invitations to take part in the festival's stand-up competition Thursday through Saturday. They auditioned in front of and were selected to participate by Eddie Brill, the festival's artistic director and former talent booker for David Letterman.

- Comedy-magic will be the focus of the Wednesday, June 11, performance, including John Cassidy, the Guinness World Book of Records holder relating to balloons. His most famous trick is making himself suddenly appear inside a balloon. Also performing will be Joel Ward and Dana Daniels. The three performers were hand-picked for the festival by Richard Barrett, manager of the Comedy and Magic Shop in Los Angeles.

- After the comedy-magic show, "Johnny Under the Stars" will take place at Norfolk's Central Park - a free outdoor showing of "Tonight Show" highlights with Johnny Carson.

- In conjunction with the festival, local artist Karl Reeder is creating a large mural on the side of a building in downtown Norfolk featuring Johnny Carson images. It should be finished by the time the festival begins.

- The festival also features an amateur stand-up competition at 1 p.m. on Saturday, June 14, featuring eight comics who advanced from preliminary competitions earlier this year in Chicago, Denver, Omaha, Norfolk, Wayne and O'Neill. Omaha attorney Kris Covi will represent Wayne in the competition.

- A children's festival in downtown Norfolk on Saturday afternoon, June 14, will feature two performances by Sartran, an 8-foot "comichot."

- The annual Laugh and a Half marathon will take place in the morning of Saturday, June 14, starting at Norfolk High School.

Ticket and general information about the festival can be gained by going to www.greatamericancomedyfestival.com or by contact Williams at (402) 371-0792.

and Nick Muir voting against overturning the police decision.

In other action, council members discussed what the terms "townhouse," "attached" and "breezeway" meant and the need to more clearly define them in the city code.

During a public hearing in regard to the city code's definition of a townhouse, the council discussed parking, garage issues and entry ways on townhouses and the need to require each townhouse to be located on its own lot.

In regard to the word 'breezeway,' council members felt the code should indicate an actual width for a breezeway between buildings.

Ordinances dealing with all three words received first reading approval and will again be brought before the council at the next meeting.

Council members approved the appointment of Phil Monahan as Fire Chief for the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department. Monahan said that he is beginning his third year as chief of the department.

Action was also taken to allow for street closings in various parts of the city June 11-12 for Henoween and the Chicken Show.

In addition, an ordinance was passed to comply with state statutes in regard to the makeup of the members of the Civil Service Commission.

Ordinances amending the city code to match signs currently in place were approved on first reading.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, June 3 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers.

The dirt was officially turned on what will become a brand new home for Laurel's medical clinic. Doing the honors recently were Laurel Mayor Mark Patefield, Dr. Sam Recob and Patrick Roche, chief operating officer for Faith Regional Physician Services.

Ground broken on new medical building in downtown Laurel

Bigger and better are the key words used to describe what will eventually become Laurel's new medical clinic.

Ground was broken earlier this month on a brand new 3,500-square foot building that will be constructed on the corner of Second and Cedar streets in Laurel, allowing Laurel Medical Clinic to move from its current location at 701 Cedar Avenue.

Dr. Sam Recob said the move is long overdue for the growing Laurel Medical Clinic, which recently came under the Faith Regional Health Services banner.

"We're excited about it. The current clinic is not big enough, and (Faith Regional) agreed we needed something new and they're helping to support the project," Dr. Recob told The Wayne Herald.

The new clinic will have more examination rooms, and updated lab area and room for an eventual upgrade to a digital X-ray system.

"It's going to be a lot bigger and up to date," Dr. Recob said.

Construction of the new facility is under way, with an expected completion date sometime in October.

Schweers claims gold in high jump

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

OMAHA – The field was down to just two jumpers.

When Ralston's Claire Gause missed on her final attempt at 5 feet, 4 inches, a three-girl showdown for the Class B high jump title at the Nebraska State Track and Field Championships had come down to two girls dressed in blue – Bennington's Heather Showers and Wayne High's Ashton Schweers.

Showers was one of two girls in Class B who had jumped 5-4 in district action last week, but Schweers took command of the event on her first attempt at setting a new school record and personal best.

Schweers easily cleared the bar at 5-5, bettering her best mark by a half-inch and sending the senior into a shocked state of euphoria. She would have to wait and watch her opponent from Bennington try to match that jump, and when she couldn't do it in three attempts, the Blue Devil senior became the team's first champion in 17 years.

Schweers was the only Blue Devil to come away with a medal at this year's state track meet, but being the first Wayne High girl to take a gold medal since Sara Kinney won the 3,200-meter run in 1997 was a special moment for her.

"I knew I needed to jump my best today if I was going to compete, and it's just amazing," she said after her win.

Schweers came in as one of the top four jumpers in the field of 24, based on marks recorded at districts a week earlier. Last year, she competed at state just months after tearing her ACL during a volleyball game the previous fall, and that was on her mind as she recalled all she had been through to win a state title.

"When I was out, that was all I thought about," she said. "Making it to state last year after coming off my ACL surgery was just amazing, and to come back here after all that hard work and training and to see it's paid off, it was just so exciting."

As she waited to jump, Schweers said she was singing the Journey classic "Don't Stop Believin'" to keep her calm. That, and trying to keep to a regular routine while jumping on Saturday morning, helped her get her personal best on her first attempt, which put the pressure on the Bennington jumper to match it.

"That was my PR," she said. "I'd jumped 5-4 1/2 and broke the school record with that jump, so to (go 5-5) was just so exciting."

Even though she was competing with Showers, Schweers was hoping Ashton Schweers clears the bar at a school-record and personal-best mark of 5 feet, 5 inches to win the Class B girls high jump title.

Emotional moment for state champ

Thoughts, observations and other random stuff from the State Track and Field Championships:

– As somebody who has taken a lot of sports photos over the years, the one that I always enjoy is the image that captures an emotional moment in the life of a young athlete.

When Wayne High senior Ashton Schweers sailed over the bar at 5 feet, 5 inches Saturday morning, she bettered her personal best and school record by a half-inch and put herself in position among the final three jumpers going for a state title.

Almost immediately after she landed on the padding, the Blue Devil senior bounced up and began sobbing, knowing that she had just jumped a career-best mark (check out the reaction shot of her on the front page). I'm sure there was a lot of excitement running through her mind as she watched her two competitors miss their three attempts, allowing her to come away with a state title.

Schweers was the first Wayne High girl to win a state title since Sara Kinney won the 3,200-meter run in 1997 . . . and judging from the reactions when she went over the bar, I think all the Wayne residents in attendance (including yours truly) were all as thrilled to see her win as she was.

One year ago, Schweers managed to make it to state despite tearing her ACL during volleyball season. She rehabbed and was able to come back and compete at state last year, then had a great senior season to finish it off in style.

Quite a remarkable and inspirational effort – Ashton's is one of those that I'll remember for a while.

– I don't know about you, but if I'm in the hunt for a state title and came up short, I'd be a disappointed cat.

When you're a distance runner, though, there are a lot more things to look at than who finished first, which is why Sadie Petersen of LCC was smiling when I caught up to her in the finishing area at the southwest corner of the Burke Stadium track.

The junior led the 24-runner pack for much of the first half of the Class C 3,200-meter run Friday afternoon, but found herself in the middle of a five-runner pack and eventually came away with a fifth-place finish.

Bummed out? Hardly.

"I'm really pumped with my finish," the junior said. "This was exciting."

Really?

You bet – she didn't get the gold, but she shattered her qualifying time of 12:06.6 and improved it by 10 seconds, settling on a fifth-place finish with a time of 11:56.17.

Petersen said she was hoping to catch the pack at the end, but putting a big dent in her personal best time was an even more satisfying final result.

– Speaking of excited, I think if I had to give out an award for the most excited athlete to earn a medal from our area athletes, I'd have to give it to Allen sophomore Lexi Oswald.

She had just finished running the 3,200-meter run and came away with a nice effort, finishing fifth in the Class D girls event Friday afternoon – and still had enough energy to flash a big smile as she talked about earning her first state medal.

"It's an awesome feeling. I'm so excited," she said, holding a paper cup of water and talking with the small, but proud, group of Allen fans gathered near her after the race.

And not only did she medal, but she carved a fat 12 seconds off of her personal best. If you can knock off that much time AND win a medal? Well, who WOULDN'T be smiling about that?

– Remember the scene in the movie "Hoosiers," when the coaches had to measure the length of the court and the height of the net in the big

LCC girls take ninth overall; Dolph medals for Wakefield

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

OMAHA – Baseball isn't the only game of inches.

An inch or two was the difference between a state championship and a runner-up finish for LCC senior hurdler Kelsey Dietrich, who was just nudged at the wire in the Class C girls 100-meter hurdle finals Saturday afternoon at the Nebraska State Track and Field Championships.

LCC and Wakefield both came away with some hardware from this year's state track meet. The Trojans' Josh Dolph bounced back from ankle surgery a year ago to earn a pair of medals in his final state track meet, posting medal-winning efforts in the 800 and 1,600 on Saturday.

Dietrich, the Lady Bear senior, earned four medals at this year's meet, adding a sixth in the 300-meter hurdles and running on two medal-winning relay teams; but the close call at the end in the 100-meter hurdle finals was a disappointing finish.

Dietrich ran a 15.43-second effort in Friday's preliminaries and had the fastest qualifying time for Saturday's race. She ran next to Oakland-Craig junior Ashleigh Carr, and the two ran stride for stride in the middle of the track heading north on the west straightaway at Burke High School.

In the end, Carr got over the final hurdle a hair quicker than Dietrich and came across the finish line in 15.73 seconds, beating out the LCC senior by just three-hundredths of a second.

"It was kind of a bad time for me, so I was pretty disappointed," she said after the race. "But I've never made it to the finals in the hurdles before, so to come away with second place is still good."

Dietrich was more happy with her finish in the 300-meter hurdles

Winside, Allen both earn medals

By MICHAEL CARNES

OMAHA – Nobody likes to play the waiting game, especially if you're competing in the state track meet.

Winside senior Jayd Roberts had just finished her heat of the Class D 100-meter hurdles at the Nebraska State Track and Field Championships, and was waiting with the other girls she ran against to see their times posted on the large scoreboard at the north end of Burke Stadium.

They waited.

And waited

And waited some more.

It would be several minutes before meet officials discovered that

WSC claims pair of All-Americans

ALLENDALE, Mich. – Wayne State came away with two All-American honors and posted a pair of top-three finishes at the NCAA Div. II Outdoor Nationals.

The Wildcats finished the national meet with 14 points and two All-Americans, as Wayne native Carly Fehringer was third in the hammer throw and Sara Wells placed second in the shot put. The Wildcats were the highest-finishing team at the national meet from the NSIC and finished tied for 18th in the arena to prove that they were the same dimensions they had played on in their home court?

 I'm sure if Winside coach Mark Tonniges had time, he could have found some kind of measuring device that would convince freshman Callie Finn that the Burke Stadium track's distance is the same as every other track she has run on this season, because she had a hard time believing that it was a 400-meter track.
 When you come from a small town to run in a big-time venue like Burke Stadium, it can be an intimidating experience. The venue is bigger, the field is bigger and the stakes are a lot higher. So it wasn't much of a surprise to see a first-timer like the Wildcat freshman distance runner with that look of intimidation on her face Friday morning.
 Of course, being the fun-loving coaches Tonniges and assistant Lee Koch are, they were able to make the freshman smile and laugh a bit about the situation. The coaches took the three Wildcats to see the comedy movie "Blended," and Finn said thinking about some of the funny scenes from the movie took the edge off her first-time jitters - and she finished eighth in the 1,600.

 - I still have the photo on file of Wakefield's Josh Dolph being carried off the track by Sydney Rose after earning a medal in the 800-meter run last year while running on - for all intents and purposes - one good leg.
 A beat-up ankle that had bothered Dolph all during his junior year had finally given out after he crossed the finish line last May. Surgery was done and he rehabilitated it over the summer in the hopes of making it back to Burke for his senior year.
 Not only did he make it back - he medaled twice on two solid legs, running solid races in both the 800 and 1,600 to end his career on a good note.
 And, what's more important - he was able to walk off the track under his own power with two medals hanging from his neck.

Morrow's strong finish wins WCC Men's Open

(top) Mike Varley was the top local golfer, finishing third. (right) Lance Morrow won the LCC Men's Open with a strong finish.

How you finish is probably more important than how you start, as two Norfolk golfers showed during the 2014 Wayne Country Club Men's Open on Sunday.
 Chris Bruening shot a 3-under par 69 on the first 18 holes of the 27-hole championship flight, but he struggled on the final nine and Lance Morrow followed up an even-round 72 with a 1-under 35 to win the tournament by two shots.
 Bruening struggled on the final nine, recording a 6-over 42 to finish the tournament at 111 and fell to an eighth-place finish overall. That opened the door for several golfers to move into contention, but it was Morrow's steady play throughout the day that made the difference.
 Morrow finished two shots ahead of Tyson Bodlak of South Sioux City, who shot 1-under 71 on the first 18 and finished with a 109. His score was ahead of a group of four golfers who shot 110, including Wayne natives Mike Varley and Joey Baldwin. Varley was third while Baldwin placed sixth.
 Sandwiched in between the two Wayne golfers at 110 were Doug Boever of Remsen, Iowa, and Will Anderson of Dakota City in fourth and fifth place, respectively. Alex Salmon of Lincoln shot 111 to finish seventh, James Dickerson of Omaha was ninth at 112 and Matt Meuret of Plainview topped four golfers at 113 to finish 10th.
 Also shooting at 113 and finishing 11th through 14th were Ryan Sturm of Commerce, Colo.; Bode Hill of Omaha, Blake Bauer of O'Neill and Travis VanHauten of Omaha. Preston Olson of Centura rounded out the top 15 with a 116.
 Three golfers closed strong on the final nine. Baldwin, Meuret and VanHauten each had a 2-under 34 to finish out the 27-hole championship flight. Morrow was the only other golfer to go below par on the final nine holes.

 There was some good competition in the other flights, as a total of 124 golfers competed in this year's open tournament.
 In the first, Sam Prue (71) edged Jason Claussen (72) by one shot for top honors. Chad Johnson (76) was third and Wade Olson (77) placed fourth.
 Doug Manz won a close race in the second flight, carding a 75. John McMenamin (76), Keith Eriksen (76) and Dave Andersen (77) rounded out the top four.
 Third-flight honors went to Jesse Johnson, who shot a 4-over 76. David Hempel (79) was second, followed by Jeremiah Johnson (79) and Carter Vahle (80).
 Joel Ankeny won a tie-breaker over Jerry Nelson to take the fourth flight after both golfers shot a 78. Jeff Bambas (80) and Ryan Hix (80) were third and fourth.
 In the fifth flight, Dave Blomenkamp shot a 79 to take first, followed by Marty Roth (80), Kyle Webster (82) and Max McDonald (83).
 In the sixth flight, Brad Penlerick shot 82 to win by two shots. Jason Berg (84), Brook Darnell (84) and Bille Rager (90) rounded out the top four.
 Seventh-flight honors went to Rod Doenhoefer, who shot 86 to win a tie-breaker with Andrew Baker. Bill Sharpe shot 89 and James Doenhoefer had a 90.
 In the eighth flight, Brad Jones won a tie-breaker over Dave Dunn after both had rounds of 91. James Curtiss shot 96 and Todd Koeber had a 105.

 to see her opponent match her jump. However, when she missed her third attempt, she calmly shook her opponent's hand and then jogged across the track to hug her coaches and her family who were watching from the fence on the north side of the track.
 "I always want to see the other jumpers make it, but when she missed, it just felt like all that hard work had finally paid off and I was just so excited," she said. "I knew I had to get (the 5-5 jump) done early and get that adrenaline going, and it was an amazing feeling."
 Schweers missed on all three attempts at 5-6, barely clipping the bar with her ankle on her final attempt. It might have been the only disappointment of the day for the senior, who plans on competing in track and volleyball at Morningside next year.
 "That last one, I had it and drug it with my ankle, but I'll get it next year," she said.
 Schweers was the only Wayne High athlete to come away with a medal at this year's meet, although Wayne had a number of qualifiers competing in the two-day meet.
 The girls 400-meter relay team was the closest to making it on the medal stand, as the foursome of Megan Backer, Rachel Rauner, Tarah Stegemann and Jalyn Zeiss finished 11th overall in a time of 51.01 seconds.

Freshman Marta Pulfer ran solid times in both distance events, finishing 16th in the 3,200-meter run and 22nd in the 1,600-meter run. Angie Nelson and Cassie Heier finished 21st and 22nd, respectively in the 800.
 In preliminary action, Rauner and Backer both competed in the 100 and 200, with neither advancing to the finals. Zeiss also ran in the 300-meter hurdles, but did not make the finals.
 On the boys' side, The 1,600-meter relay team of Demetrius Alexander, Cornelio Espino, Trevor Pecena and Tyler Pecena played 16th overall as the only finals entry for the Blue Devils.
 Both Alexander and Trevor Pecena ran in preliminary races on Friday. Alexander competed in the 100 and 200, while Pecena ran in the 400. Neither was able to advance to Saturday's finals.

later in the day, where she came away with a sixth-place finish and posted her best time with a mark of 47.00 seconds.

"I was pretty happy about that," she said. "I beat my PR in the 300's, so to do that and get a medal was good. I was hoping to win the 100's, but it was still a pretty good weekend."

All six of the LCC girls came away with at least one medal from this year's state track meet, helping the Lady Bears to finish ninth overall with 27.5 points.

Sadie Petersen was a double medalist in the distance runs, finishing fifth in the 3,200 on Friday and posting a seventh-place effort in the 1,600 on Saturday.

The medal-winning performances were good enough to put a smile on the junior's face, as she posted personal-best times in both events.

"I'm really pumped right now," she said after medaling in the 3,200 and cracking the 12-minute barrier with her time of 11:56.17. "I've never broke 12 minutes before, so I'm pumped."

Petersen led the pack early in the race and was in a group of five runners that led the 24-girl field for the entire eight laps. She wasn't able to pick up any momentum to get to the front of the lead pack, but was still happy with her effort.

"I've never ran in a pack that big before, so it was really fun to try and stay with everyone and keep that pace," she said. "I tried (to get around them), but I wanted to at least get my best time and I did."

She carried that momentum into Saturday's race, learning from her experience of competing in both events last year for the first time.

"I think I got carried away with it last year, so I just tried to keep it under control and I got another PR. I don't think I could have done much better," she said.

Both Ellie Arduser and Audra Corbit earned medals individually and on relay teams. Arduser was eighth in the triple jump and anchored the 400-meter and 1,600-meter relays that placed sixth and seventh, respectively; while Corbit tied for fourth in the high jump and was the third leg on the 400-meter relay. LCC coach Nate Sims said he was happy to see Corbit return to state after missing out last year, and she competed well in what was the toughest field among the state's girl high jumpers.

"A lot of times, 5-1 will get you a medal and to have nine go over 5-2 was really unbelievable," he said. "Audra really had to work for it in a tough field and performed well."

Corbit reached 5-2 and almost had a personal best, just missing on her last attempt at 5-4.

"Her first and third attempts at 5-4 were right there and she just clipped her heel on the bar," Sims said. "It was right there for her and she performed well."

Arduser didn't have her best day, but was able to get into the nine-girl final round of the triple jump and came away with an eighth-place medal with her best effort of 33 feet, 6 1/4 inches after missing out on a chance to qualify in the 200 on Friday.

"I think I did pretty good," she said after the event. "I was trying to go 34 or 35 (feet), but I placed and got a medal, which makes up for yesterday."

Both of LCC's relays ran in the slower heat, but both performed well enough to crack the top eight at the end of the day. The 400-meter relay of Arduser, Corbit, Dietrich and Cameron Eddie finished sixth, while the 1,600-meter tandem of Arduser, Dietrich, Eddie and Candice Rastede carried home a seventh-place finish – with both relays recording their best times of the spring.

"We ran a really good race and got our PR, which was awesome," Eddie said of the 400-meter effort. "I was worried that we wouldn't place, but we got a good time out of it and were really happy with what we did."

The 1,600-meter relay team's effort impressed their coach.

"Last year, we came out of the slow heat and got third, and this year we PR'd by more than four seconds and Ellie did a good job sneaking in for second in the heat," he said. "We ran really well the whole race, so it was a good finish for us."

For Dolph, coming away with two medals was quite satisfying, considering that he had to be carried off after earning a medal at last year's state meet.

Dolph's ankle had been a problem the entire year during his junior year, but he rebounded well from off-season surgery and rehabilitation to earn a sixth-place medal in the 800 and an eighth-place medal in the 1,600.

"It felt good not getting hauled off the track this year," he said.

Dolph ran in the fast heat in the 800 and knew he'd have to run a solid race to be in the medal hunt.

"I was hoping to break two minutes, and it was probably the fastest 800 I've been a part of, so I was pretty happy with the result," he said. "I knew that running with a two-time champ they'd go out fast, so I knew I'd have to get out fast if I was going to compete."

Dolph had to come from behind on the final lap to make the medal stand in the 1,600, then had to hang on at the end to secure his medal.

"It was a good way to end it," he said. "I knew that last lap would have to be my fastest and I was able to pick it up. It's been a long process to get back to where I was, but it was worth every step."

Both the LCC boys and Wakefield girls had entries in this year's state track meet that competed, but did not reach the medal stand.

For LCC, Brett Haisch and Aaron Haahr were both busy with multiple events. Haisch competed in the 400-meter dash and 300-meter hurdles on Friday, then threw the discus on Saturday. Haahr ran in both distance runs, finishing 18th in both the 3,200 and 1,600. Colton Jansen also ran in the 100-meter dash, but did not make Saturday's finals.

For the Wakefield girls, Lauren Lehmkühl competed in the 300-meter hurdles on Friday, but did not make Saturday's finals. Savannah Nelson competed in the long jump, while Josephine Peitz finished 16th in the Class C 800-meter run.

TAKING YOUR MEDS THE RIGHT WAY

Medications can make a world of difference—if you take them the right way. Half the time, though, this doesn't happen, at least when it comes to drugs doctors prescribe for chronic conditions.¹

Sometimes people miss doses. Or they might stop refilling the prescription or never get it filled in the first place. Why does this happen? Well, certainly cost or side effects of drugs can be an issue. Also, complex dosing schedules or multiple drugs can be really confusing.² You might feel as though you need a multi-page spreadsheet just to keep track!

The problem is not taking medications the right way can threaten your health, increase complications, and lower your quality of life. And sometimes skipping doses can increase the risk of resistant strains of certain "bugs."²

Do you need help with taking your medications the right way? Lean on me. I can help you increase the benefits and decrease the risks of taking your medications. When we talk, it's helpful to know about all the medications you're taking and about any problems you've had in the past, such as allergic reactions or trouble swallowing.³

I can also answer questions like these:

- How soon can I expect to feel better? When I start to feel better, can I stop taking the drug?
- Do I need a refill, or can I stop when the bottle is empty?
- Are there any drugs, supplements, or foods I should avoid while taking this medication?
- Are there any special directions for taking or storing this medication?
- Is there a cheaper generic version available?
- What should I do if I have side effects? What are the most common ones?
- What should I do if I miss a dose?

I can also help learn how to better manage your prescriptions. We can discuss a few tricks of the trade like these:

- Make it a habit. Connect your medication routine with another well-established habit such as brushing your teeth.
- Use dosing containers. These contain labels for days of the week and dosing frequencies. You can find them in our store, or ask about our convenient strip packaging, labeled for date and time.
- Track it with technology. Options range from reminder pagers and wristwatches to smart-phone apps and voice-command medication managers. We can discuss what might work best for you.²

You can also simply create a printable medicine record with columns like these:

- The name of the drug
- What it looks like
- How much to take
- When to take it
- Start and stop dates
- How it helps
- Who to contact if there's a problem⁴

As you can see, taking medications isn't a time to wing it! Fortunately, I can assist you. All you have to do is ask.

Nothing herein constitutes medical advice, diagnosis or treatment, or is a substitute for professional advice. You should always seek the advice of your physician or other medical professional if you have questions or concerns about a medical condition.

Carly Fehringer added another All-American honor to her resume with a third-place finish in the hammer throw at the Div. II national meet.

team standings, marking the fourth straight season - both indoor and outdoor - that Wayne State women's track has ended the season in the top 20.

Wells earned All-American honors Saturday night with a second-place finish in the shot put. It's the second outdoor All-American honor for the junior, who was fifth in the discus last season, and it marks her third All-American shot put honor after placing sixth in the event the last two indoor seasons.

Wells recorded her top throw of 49 feet, 9 3/4 inches during the finals on her second throw. National champion Jamie Sindelar of Ashland had a throw of 54 feet, also on her second throw in finals, to win the event.

Also competing for Wayne State in the shot put was Fehringer, who missed finals by just 3 1/2 inches but came in 13th place overall with a best throw of 46-10 3/4.

Fehringer kicked off Wayne State's run at the national meet with a great start, earning a third-place finish in the hammer throw Thursday afternoon to repeat as an All-American in the event.

Fehringer held the lead entering finals with a top mark of 198-11 in prelims, but champion Heavin Warner of Central Missouri and runner-up Cynthia Witt of Ashland each recorded better marks in the finals to slide Fehringer into the third spot.

Last year, Fehringer was the national runner-up in the hammer throw, and it marks the fourth time in her Wildcat career that she has collected All-American honors.

Two other Wildcats also competed in the hammer throw, as senior Emily Wells made the finals and finished in ninth place with a top throw of 181-6. Sara Wells had a best mark of 165 feet in the prelims and was 16th out of 22 competitors in the field.

Sara Wells and Michaela Dendinger placed 13th and 19th, respectively, in the discus on Friday. Wells had a top throw of 146-8 in the prelims to finish 13th, missing finals by five feet. She entered the national meet ranked fourth in NCAA Div. II with a top throw of 164 feet and was an All-American last season in the event, placing fifth. Dendinger, a freshman, came in 19th place in the field of 21 throwers with a best throw of 130-2.

the camera that would document their final times at the north end of the track was not turned on. As a result, Roberts was delayed for about 15 minutes while the other girls preliminary heats in Class B and Class D were run before her heat was run a second time.

Because of all those delays, Roberts had to hurry to make the long trek from the finish line on the track to the discus ring at the northwest corner of the school grounds. Throwing live without any warmups, she was still able to qualify for the finals and post a fifth-place finish, the best among the three area Class D athletes who came away with medals.

That's not to say the Wildcat senior wasn't happy with how things happened Friday morning.

"I was kind of hot-tempered for a while, but I knew I couldn't be mad when I got up (to the discus ring), and I was able to focus on what I needed to do up there," she said.

The inconvenience of re-running a race and not having an opportunity to properly prepare for another event might have been a problem were it not for her previous experience at state track.

"This was my third time here, so I knew what I had to do to get things done today," she said. "I just had my mind set that I had to do it, and my goal was to get to the finals in the discus and get a medal out of it, so I was pretty proud."

Roberts said she was able to get some of her pre-competition jitters out while waiting for her second effort in the 100-meter hurdles.

"I was pretty comfortable once I got up to the discus and just got my jitters out while I was running," she said. "I was a little nervous, but I was able to calm myself down."

Roberts was one of two Winside athletes to earn medals at this year's state track meet. It was a combination of senior experience and youthful enthusiasm, as the senior Roberts was joined on the medal stand by freshman Callie Finn, who took eighth in the 1,600-meter run.

For Finn, there were a lot of nerves coming into her first state track meet, but a trip to the movies helped take the edge off and she ran a solid race, coming from behind on the final lap to earn an eighth-place medal.

"I thought about the movie we watched Friday night," she said, referring to the movie "Blended" that she and her teammates went to see at a local theater. "I was laughing all the time when we watched that movie, so that helped me get through the nerves a little."

Finn was sitting in the 10th position as she started her final lap, but was able to move into medal position and held off a runner at the end to claim the final spot on the medal stand.

"I knew my last lap had to be fast if I wanted to place, so I really pushed it and gave it all I could and I got up there," she said.

The other area Class D medalist at this year's state meet was Allen distance runner Lexi Oswald, who made her second trip to state a memorable one with a fifth-place finish in the 3,200-meter run on Friday.

Oswald was all smiles after the race, as she obliterated her personal best with a time of 12:27.98 to score Allen's only points of the meet.

"It was my personal best by about 12 seconds, so that's a great feeling," she said with a smile. "I felt pretty comfortable throughout the whole race and had a good pace going, so it felt pretty good. It's an awesome feeling and I'm so excited."

Winside's other competitor this year was junior Jade Hogencamp, who ran in the 100-meter dash on Friday but did not qualify for the finals.

Allen had a handful of entries that joined Oswald in this year's state meet.

Austin Connot accounted for both of the Allen boys' entries, leading off Friday's 3,200-meter relay with Nick Brahmsteadt, Tayler Kumm and Wade Connot while running solo in the 800-meter un on Saturday.

For the Lady Eagles, Oswald was joined by Kaylen Smith and Cortney Reuter, who competed in Friday's prelims of the 400-meter dash and 300-meter hurdles, respectively; and Gabby Sullivan, who jumped in Saturday's Class D high jump.

(Photos by Michael Carnes)

(top) Winside senior Jayd Roberts had to re-run her 100-meter hurdle preliminary before competing in the discus, but managed to finish fifth in the discus. Freshman Callie Finn battled back on the final lap to earn an eighth-place finish.

Devil 12's start 4-1-1

The Wayne Dirt Devils 12-under softball team got the season started on the right note, winning five of their first six games.

The 12-under team opened the season May 20 with a 13-2 win over Norfolk Kelly's. The Devils got a solid pitching effort from Tori Kniesche, who recorded nine strikeouts. Avianna Doring and Grace Lindsay both had doubles.

The Devils went 2-1-1 at the Summer Slam in Vermillion, S.D.

In action Saturday, Wayne posted an 18-2 win over BV Impulse and played to a scoreless tie against the Sergeant Bluff Crush. In the opener, Doring had three hits and Sidney Biggerstaff had a triple and two singles. Kniesche helped her cause with a triple and two doubles at the plate and struck out 12 in four innings of work in the circle.

Against the Crush, Kniesche struck out an amazing 20 batters, but Biggerstaff and Doring were the only players to get hits as Wayne had to settle for a scoreless draw.

On Sunday, Wayne picked up a win with a 15-3 decision over the Vermillion Vipers before losing to the Hartford Fusion, 9-0.

In the Vermillion game, Doring had two hits, including a home run, and Lindsay and Londyn Nelson each had hits. Nelson got the win in the circle, striking out two.

Against Hartford, Wayne was limited to three hits, as Kniesche, Doring and Biggerstaff had singles. Kniesche struck out 10 in a losing effort.

In league play Tuesday, Wayne posted a 15-7 win over West Point. Biggerstaff homered and singled, Lindsay doubled and singled and Kniesche tripled to lead Wayne. Nelson and Kniesche split pitching duties and each struck out four.

Jordan Spencer earns Raymond scholarship

Wayne State women's basketball player Jordan Spencer is the initial recipient of the Butch Raymond scholarship sponsored by Sanford Health.

The $5,000 scholarship, announced by the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference, is given to one student athlete from each of the 16 NSIC institutions. It is in recognition of Butch Raymond, the NSIC Commissioner from 2004-2014. Over the past decade, Raymond led the NSIC from an eight-team league to a 16-team super-conference which has won 13 national championships while achieving a high level of academic success.

To be eligible for the scholarship the applicant must be a senior in 2014-2015, have a grade-point average of 3.2 or higher, be participating in intercollegiate athletics and plan to work in a health-related field or attend graduate school in a health-related field. The student-athletes will be publicly recognized at a home athletic event during the 2014-15 academic year.

Spencer, a 5-foot-11 forward from Omaha, will be a senior on the Wayne State women's basketball team in 2014-15 and she carries a 3.356 GPA while majoring in biology. On the court, she was first-team All-NSIC selection after leading the Wildcats in scoring at 16.2 points per game. She also averaged 6.2 rebounds and shot 51 percent from the field to rank fifth in the NSIC, while also ranking eighth in the league in scoring.

Spencer helped Wayne State win a third NSIC regular-season title in the last four years while advancing to the NCAA Tournament for the fourth time in the last five seasons. Wayne State was 28-5 overall and 19-3 in the NSIC.

Dirt Devil 10-unders go 1-2 at Summer Slam

The Wayne Dirt Devil 10-under softball team opened the season with a league loss and a 1-2 effort at a tournament in South Dakota.

Last Monday, the 10-under dropped a 6-5 decision to Kelly's of Norfolk. Wayne trailed 6-2 going into the last inning and rallied to make it interesting, but the rally came up a run short.

Hope O'Reilly and Kendall Dorey each had hits and scored for the Devils, while Sydney Redden also came home to score. Dorey struck out seven and walked seven in a losing effort in the circle.

The Dirt Devil 10-unders team 1-2 over the weekend at the Vermillion Summer Slam Tournament in Vermillion, S.D., beating Yankton Fury Wildcats 14-5 before losing to Sergeant Bluff-Luton 9-6 and the Sioux City Stangs 11-6.

In the win over Yankton, O'Reilly, Redden and Dorey led the Dirt Devils offensively. Dorey struck out six and walked six to get the win.

Against Sergeant Bluff-Luton, Mikaela McManigal had a triple to highlight the offensive effort. Dorey struck out 11 and walked five in the circle.

Against Sioux City, O'Reilly, McManigal and Aliah Schulz all had hits to lead the offense. Dorey struck out eight and walked 10 to take the loss.

14-under Devils stumble

The Wayne Dirt Devils stumbled out of the gate to start the 2014 summer season, going 0-3 in action at the Summer Slam Classic in Vermillion, S.D.

In pool play Saturday, Wayne lost to the Yankton Extreme 12-3 and fell to the Sioux Falls Smash, 7-1.

Highlights included a six-strikeout effort for pitcher Ashten Gibson, while Taylor Gamble highlighted the offensive effort with a home run in her first at bat of the season. She scored Gibson on the homer.

In single-elimination tournament play Sunday, the Dirt Devils dropped a 7-0 decision to the Brandon Blast.

The Dirt Devils will play host to their annual tournament this weekend at the Wayne Summer Sports Complex. Action begins Friday and continues through Sunday.

Browning earns all-region honors

Eric Browning of Wayne State has been voted to the 2014 Daktronics Baseball All-Central Region team, receiving first-team honors.

Browning is one of 16 first-team All-Region selections that advanced to the Daktronics Div. II Baseball All-America ballot, voted on by Div. II sports information directors from across the country.

Browning, a 6-foot-1, 190-pound sophomore pitcher from Lyons, was a first-team All-NSIC selection for the Wildcats after posting an 8-3 record this season with a 1.93 ERA. He had three complete games and three shutouts and struck out 76 batters in 65.1 innings pitched while allowing just 14 earned runs on 48 hits.

Browning ranked second in the NSIC this season in strikeouts per game (10.33) and was third in the league in earned run average, opponent batting average (.205), strikeouts and wins. He allowed just one home run all season.

Browning had a strong finish to the season, winning his last four starts that included a no-hitter with 13 strikeouts in a 4-0 win at Minnesota Crookston on April 18. He also fired a two-hit shutout with nine strikeouts in a 6-0 win over No. 24 Augustana on April 25, and extended a 19-inning scoreless streak with five shutout innings in a 3-2 win at Upper Iowa on April 30. Browning closed out his season with eight innings of one-run ball, allowing just six hits while helping Wayne State upset No. 6 and NSIC regular-season champion Minnesota State on May 7 in the opening round of the NSIC baseball tournament.

Three Wildcats earn regional honors

Bussard, 6-foot, 170-pound sophomore outfielder/relief pitcher, received NSIC Gold Glove honors as an outfielder while also being named second-team All-NSIC as a relief pitcher. Defensively in center field, Bussard did not record an error this season while notching 64 putouts and 12 assists with a perfect 1.000 fielding percentage. At the plate, he posted the second-highest batting average on the team at .312 with one home run, 11 doubles and 15 RBIs. As a relief pitcher, Bussard made 20 appearances and had a 2-1 record with a 1.69 ERA. He tied a school record with nine saves this season, working 21.1 innings and allowing just four earned runs with 26 strikeouts and 12 hits.

Williams earns all-region honors

Kaiti Williams of Wayne State was named to the NFCA All-Central Region softball team, earning second-team All-Region honors.

It's the second All-Region honor for Williams, who was named to the Daktronics All-Central Region Second Team. The NFCA All Region Team is voted on by members of the National Fastpitch Coaches Association.

Williams, a 5-foot-7 junior outfielder from Papillion, was a first-team All-NSIC selection for the Wildcats this season after leading the team in batting with a .440 average. She had 10 home runs and 45 RBIs this season and her 73 hits were the second most in a single season by a Wildcat player. Williams set a new school record with 115 total bases while recording the second-highest batting average in a single season.

Williams led the NSIC in batting average and was ranked third in hits per game (1.38) and on-base percentage (.495). She led Wayne State in multi-hit games with 21 and multiple RBI games with 13. Williams was a second-team All-NSIC selection the previous two seasons.

Brink signs two for WSC track

Wayne State men's track and field coach Marlon Brink announced that Nate Lechtenberg of Papillion and Brady Metz of Grand Island will join the Wildcats in 2014-15.

Lechtenberg signed a national letter of intent while Metz comes to Wayne State as a preferred walk-on. The two join Richard Sweeney of Blair as members of the 2015 men's track and field recruiting class.

Lechtenberg is a 6-foot, 185-pound hurdler from Papillion-LaVista. He was the Class A-4 District champion in the 110-meter hurdles in a personal best time of 14.86 seconds while placing third in the 300 hurdles at 40.50 seconds. Lechtenberg is listed fourth on the all-class charts in the 300 hurdles with a season best time of 39.8 seconds and is eighth in the 110 hurdles at 14.86 seconds.

Metz is a 6-foot-1, 180-pound triple jumper from Grand Island. He is a two-year letterwinner in track and field while also lettering three years in football and two years in basketball for the Islanders. Metz has a season-best mark of 42 feet, 3 inches in the triple jump, which is the third-best jump in school history.

Don't get me started

Nebraska woman is a BIG eater

Summer may not officially start until June 21, but why wait to get the summer off to a good start with a good purging of the "Bits and Pieces" file: - Here's a tip if a lady by the name of Molly Schuyler wants you to take her out to dinner: be prepared to have your credit card's limit to be tested. The Bellevue woman recently went to an Amarillo, Texas steakhouse that is famous for its offer of a free 72-ounce steak if you can eat it in less than an hour. She came in just after breakfast and knocked back the big hunk of meat, along with a baked potato, shrimp, salad and a bread roll. Oh - did I forget to mention that she ate all of that in less than FIVE minutes? Then went back for seconds? And ate another 72-pound steak meal in TEN minutes? This woman is not one to mess with if you're looking to get into an eating contest - she calls herself a "bottomless pit" and recently won a competitive chicken wing-eating competition in Philadelphia, taking the $22,000 cash prize after consuming a mind-blowing 363 chicken wings in 30 minutes.

All of this talk about eating steak is making me hungry . . . let's move on. - There is only thing crazier than being a fan of a bad pro football team, and we just discovered what that is this past week.

The National Football League recently auctioned off the game-worn jersey worn by former New York Jets quarterback Mark Sanchez the day he collided into the butt of teammate Brandon Moore, causing him to fumble the ball and leading to a New England touchdown.

The infamous "Butt Fumble" game (at least, infamous to long-suffering Jets fans) of two seasons ago has been the cause of much pain and frustration for fans of the team - and has become the inspiration for one fan to actually BUY the jersey in an online auction.

The California man - who, evidently, hasn't suffered enough from the meddling he gets from friends for being a Jets fan in the first place - would actually jack the bid up by $100 after other bidders were adding $5-$10 to the bid. By the time all was said and done, he came through with the winning bid of - brace yourselves - $820.

The man said he will frame the jersey and hang it on his wall until - and I quote - "we win a Super Bowl or I can get together enough money to put it on a rocket ship and shoot it to outer space because I don't think it belongs on this planet anymore."

For the sanctity of the current status of the gene pool, let's hope he's wearing the jersey when it's shot into outer space.

- From the "Liars figure, figures lie and corporations are full of both" department: A Wyoming Institute of Technology study claims to have "conclusive" evidence that solar panels are draining the sun of its own energy.

The study, which was commissioned by the Halliburton corporation (yes . . . THAT Halliburton), states that the solar panels actually pull energy from the sun, which forces more energy to be released than the sun is actually producing. They equated it to sucking water out of a waterfall until the river above the waterfall runs out of water.

Halliburton officials state that solar panels could eventually create the worst man-made climate disaster in the history of the world - which, obviously, would be MUCH worse than all the oil spills that have destroyed countless animal and plant life, poisoned our water and damaged our ecological system (and please note the sarcasm in the previous statement).

Letters

Our nation is being weakened

Worshipping foreign gods has sapped their strength, but they don't even know it. - Hosea 7:9

EPA has proposed a regulation that would give the agency jurisdiction over "waters of the U.S." where "waters" would be constituted as any land or land features where water pools or flows during a rainfall or snowfall event for a limited period of time . . . NSA has been spying on citizens like you and I by monitoring phone calls . . . the Common Core education standards are in place to allow the state to teach the children, rather than the teachers teaching the children . . . the Affordable Health Care Act forces Christians to pay for the murder of babies.

These are a few examples of the United States of America being weakened; however, many people are ignorant or do not care enough to do anything about it.

What can you do?

- VOTE. Do your research and decide which candidates will best fight for the people of this nation.

- Inform government leaders where you stand on issues. Many times, our leaders can be swayed by the opinions of the people. But many times, they don't know what the people want.

- Stand up for the truth. If you don't stand up for the truth, you are just as guilty as the person telling the lie. Germany was full of fearful citizens when Chancellor Adolf Hitler rose to power. And you know what happened next . . .

- Call upon the name of Jesus. "If My people, which are called by My name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." 2 Chronicles 7:14.

Capitol View

Can't we all just get along?

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Nebraskans have survived what has to be one of the meanest ever primary elections, fueled in large part by more than $3 million in campaign funds from organizations outside the state and from the personal coffers of several millionaires running for office.

The advertising in a six-man Republican gubernatorial primary and a four-man Republican U.S. Senate primary went negative early. Many of those TV and radio commercials and mass mailings were funded by Political Action Committees with agendas that would likely be a mystery to most Nebraskans. Images of President Obama, Nancy Pelosi and Harry Reid flashed across TV screens night and day as each candidate seemed to say they were best suited to fight these national figures.

Confusing at best for a freshman political science student trying to understand what that would have to do with whoever occupies the second floor governor's office in the northeast corner of the State Capitol. Probably incomprehensible for the typical Nebraskan working to keep food on the table and a roof overhead.

To say nothing of the definitions of candidates being touted as a Nebraska conservative, a real conservative or a true conservative in a state where many people would probably tell you straight up that they are personally conservative in not just their politics, but most of their lives. You don't expect much more in a state where the nationally recognized college football team runs the ball straight at its opponents more often than not.

Quite frankly, in the aftermath of the barrage of printed and spoken words, most people don't care if somebody is conservative or liberal anymore, as long as they are civil.

The Merriam-Webster dictionary defines civility as "civilized conduct; especially courtesy and politeness or a polite act or expression." The late Rodney King, the Los Angeles construction worker who survived a beating during an arrest by four police officers that resulted in riots in 1991, put it best. "Can we all get along?" he asked after a trial in 1992.

That's a good question for Nebraskans right now.

"Civility means a great deal more than just being nice to one another," says P.M. Forni, director of the Civility Project at Johns Hopkins University. "It is complex and encompasses learning how to connect successfully and live well with others, developing thoughtfulness, and fostering effective self-expression and communication. Civility includes courtesy, politeness, mutual respect, fairness, good manners, as well as a matter of good health. Taking an active interest in the well-being of our community and concern for the health of our society is also involved in civility."

Way back when, the nation's first president, George Washington said, "Every action done in company ought to be with some sign of respect to those that are present."

Forni adds that one should remember the power of words. "The thought that they might cause unnecessary hurt or discomfort should inform every conversation." He adds, "Respecting others' opinions doesn't mean abandoning your own."

Singer-songwriter Emmylou Harris said, "We have to be more thoughtful and more educated and more informed. I turn on the TV and I see these grown people screaming at each other, and I think, well, if we don't get our civility back, we're in trouble."

I also like what nationally syndicated columnist George Will has to say on the subject. "Taking offense has become America's national pastime; being theatrically offended supposedly signifies the exquisitely refined moral delicacy of people who feel entitled to pass through life without encountering ideas or practices that annoy them."

So, how about it Nebraska? Can we be civil as we head into the general election? I think we should try.

From the Governor's office

Asking Nebraskans to 'Click It Or Ticket'

Dear Fellow Nebraskans:

We are entering the time of year when the traffic on Nebraska's roadways will increase with weekend trips to events, recreation areas, and visits to family and friends. I want to remind all drivers and passengers to buckle up every time for every trip no matter the distance. Each of us has a personal responsibility to buckle our seat belt, and ensure that our passengers do the same.

Nebraska law enforcement agencies, public safety officials, and community partners are participating in the national "Click It or Ticket" mobilization for the 10th year. An intensive public information campaign combined with law enforcement support is a safety effort to get all drivers into the habit of buckling up. The annual "Click It or Ticket" mobilization began on May 19 and continues through Sunday, June 1.

Nebraska recorded 211 traffic fatalities in 2013, one less than in 2012. For the first four months of 2014, our state reported four fewer fatalities than for the same period one year ago. The primary responsibility for all drivers is to drive safely and that requires your full attention when operating a vehicle. That means using seat belts and appropriate child restraints to prevent or reduce injuries and to save lives.

During the first four months this year, 71 percent of passenger vehicle occupants were not using seat belts at the time of their crash. This is only slightly lower than for the same period last year. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says wearing a seat belt increases the chance of surviving a serious collision by up to 50 percent. Having an airbag adds an additional 10 percent to the chance of survival. Of the 59 passenger vehicle fatalities recorded through April, only 18 of the 59 passenger vehicle occupants were wearing seat belts. Twenty-one of the 22 nighttime fatally injured passenger vehicle occupants were not using seat belts.

The "Click It or Ticket" campaign is one of the cornerstones of our highway transportation safety efforts. The use of seat belts is a vital component. The Nebraska State Patrol along with 57 other sheriff's offices and police departments from across the state will be placing a priority emphasis on the use of seat belts and age appropriate child restraints. Buckling up saves lives.

I want to remind all Nebraskans that roadway maintenance and construction activity increases during the summer months. Pay close attention to orange signs, barrels, and cones in and around work zones. In construction zones, slow down and be patient - this is a sign of progress. When involved in a crash, be sure to safely move any interstate or highway crash vehicles to the side of the road whenever possible. Remember that state law requires drivers to move over for emergency vehicles.

Law enforcement officers will be conducting many special enforcement operations during the next two weeks that will include checking for seat belt and proper child restraint use. Please help make "Click It or Ticket" 2014, a success and buckle up for safety.

Easy ways to build assets for kids

Family Support is the No. 1 External Asset of the 40 Developmental Assets of the Search Institute. Love and support, it sounds easy.

We know we give it. Everyone does. Right? But giving your child consistent love and support can be tricky. How often does your child feel supported when you come home from an exhausting day and he or she wants to talk-but you want a break?

When your child messes up, do you provide support?

Young people know our body language. They listen to what we say and don't say. They notice when our words and our actions do not match. Supporting and loving our children refer to the many ways we affirm, love, and accept them, both verbally and nonverbally. When we hug them or say "I love you," the expression is obvious. Paying attention to them, listening to them, and taking an interest in what they're doing are less obvious ways of giving support, but they're just as important.

The next time you are exhausted, say so. If you are mad, be honest. If you do not tell your child what you are feeling, he or she will read one message from your body and hear the opposite. And children usually interpret inconsistent messages as meaning they have done something wrong.

Be consistent. Be loving. Develop an openness so that your child always knows that you are available and you will love her or him, no matter what.

PEO chapter prepares to award scholarships

P.E.O. Chapter AZ met in the home of Ginny Otte on May 20. Assisting hostesses were Deb Morlok, Marilyn Carhart, Margaret McClelland and Lucille Peterson. Margaret McClelland presented the proposed changes to the by-laws that will be voted on at the state convention. President Jill Walling will represent Chapter AZ at the state convention to be held in June. Shari Paige will also attend to help at times when Jill cannot be there. Discussion was held on a proposed fund-raiser to support the P.E.O. scholarship. A biennial scholarship in the amount of $750 is presented to a junior or senior girl to attend Wayne State College. Selection for that scholarship for the 2014-2015 academic year will soon be made by the Wayne State College Foundation. A committee is also working to select a recipient for the Helen Bressler scholarship. This scholarship, in the amount of $5,000, was established by the family of Helen Main Bressler, a 75 year member of P.E.O., to honor her and the ideals she valued and expressed. The scholarship is also for a junior or senior girl at Wayne State. Applications may be picked up at the Financial Aid office in the Student Center and are due by June 30. A program was presented by Lauren Walton on healthy products to use for personal care. The next meeting of Chapter AZ will be on Tuesday, June 3 at the home of Betty Reeg.

Sleep issues, diabetes set to be discussed

The epidemic of diabetes in the United States is being fueled by multiple medical, social and demographic forces. Among the forces is sleep apnea, which is now recognized as a major contributor to the development of diabetes. The Control Diabetes for Life program on Wednesday, June 25 will be offered from 1:30-4 p.m. at Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department, 215 N. Pearl St. In sleep apnea, people stop breathing for periods of 10 seconds or more while they're asleep, sometimes hundreds of times a night. These periods without breathing, known as apnea, both disrupt sleep and lower the level of oxygen in the blood. When breathing restarts after an apnea, it is generally with a loud gasp or snort. Fifty percent of men with Type 2 diabetes have sleep apnea, compared with an estimated four percent of middle aged men overall. Several recent studies have suggested that insulin sensitivity - the body's ability to respond to insulin - decreases as sleep apnea severity increases. Those affected by the disease are encouraged to learn more about sleep apnea, sleep problems and their link to diabetes during the summer session of Control Diabetes for Life, which will focus on Getting in Touch with Your Diabetes Self-Management. Set a goal to take control of your diabetes. Aim for lower blood glucose levels to feel better now and stay healthy for years to come. Topics that will be addressed during the two-hour program on June 25 include: Medications: What They Are and How They Work; Sleep Well Tonight; and Update on Sugar Substitutes and Sugars in Beverages.

tified Diabetes Educator; Deborah Wilcox, R.D., L.M.N.T., of Franciscan Care Services in West Point and Debra E. Schroeder, UNL Extension Educator in Cuming County. Guest Day held at Grace Lutheran Church

Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid met on May 14 for the annual Guest Day. Vice-President Ellen Heinmann led the group in the ice breaker: using the word SCARF, those in attendance were to come up with words pertaining to missionary work and hopefully words that would make SCARF an acronym. A lot of words were shared and several acronyms: among them - Sharing Christ Across Regions Faraway, Serving Christians Affirming Resurrection Faith and Serving Children Attending Rural Foreign Missions. This also served to tie the two programs together. President Rhonda Sebade welcomed the 13 members, 15 guests and Pastor Lilienkamp. The LWML pledge was recited in unison. She then shared the Mission Grant Story for May: Lutheran Friends of the Deaf in their work on Bible Story Books in Sign Language and Written Text. Beginning with a grant in 1944 at that year's LCMS convention, they develop and disseminate resources for Deaf Ministry in congregations and training for church worker and religious interpreters. This grant is to help them publish new curriculum to replace those published 1950-1970. The devotion was read in unison. A newsletter from Alie Hansen, who was on her way to Southeast Asia as a linguist/Bible translator for Wycliffe, spoke of her delay because she is engaged and she and Christopher will be married before they go to together to Asia. She had been the speaker in 2013. Secretary Louise Green read two thank you notes and the newsletter from the seminarian student, Ryan Janke. He has received his vicarage assignment and he and Dani and baby, August, will be moving to serve the congregations in Hubbard and Iowa Falls, Iowa in the fall. LaVon Biermann will write to him this month. Vice-President Ellen Heinmann led a devotion about how Godly women should be clothed, citing Pro 3:25 and Col 3:12 among others. "She is clothed with strength and dignity" "clothe yourself with compassion, kindness, humility gentleness and patience." She introduced Kelly Jacobs to speak of her trip to Kenya. Having been born in Africa while her parents were missionaries there, Kelly had always wished to go back to Africa. While attending Concordia Seward, she was given that chance after meeting a missionary from Kenya who invited her and a friend to intern with deaconesses in Kenya. He believed they should learn by immersion, so they spent 10 weeks with several different deaconesses visiting, having Bible studies, singing and being a part of the people's everyday lives. Although most of the people had little to share, Kelly said they were humbled by their service and willingness to share whatever they did have. And even not knowing the Swahili language, when they were all singing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" each in their native tongue, she realized how connected we all are: One Lord, One Faith, One Baptism! Kelly will be attending St. Luke Seminary in the fall in their pre-Deaconess program. Jen Claussen from Swan's Clothing Store presented a short program on many different ways to tie scarves. The birthday song was sung for Delores Helgren, Darlene Lilienkamp, Melvy Meyer and Ruth Korth. The Lord's Prayer and the table prayer were said before dessert and coffee were served by Fauneil Bennett, Louise Green, Ellen Heinemann and Rhonda Sebade.

Our Savior's Joy Circle holds May 14 meeting

The Women of Our Savior Lutheran Church, Joy Circle, met on May 14. President Phyllis Rahn welcomed everyone and gave announcements. The program was given by Molly Temme from Miss Molly's Coffee Company. Before coming to Wayne and opening her Coffee Shop, Molly shared she was a helicopter pilot. She started her education being home schooled by her mother during which time she remembers doing community services for schools. Molly started flying with a crop duster. At the age of 18, she moved to Texas and flew helicopters while she attended college. She received a private license in Lubbock, Texas and a commercial license in New Mexico. In Oregon, Molly worked for a firefighting company. Then, a move to an Army Base in Yakima, Washington, she continued firefighting on the Army range. Molly flew about 3 1/2 years doing firefighting. Due to budget cuts, contracts were cut which caused these missions to stop. When asked how her parents felt about her wanting to fly, she told the group her parents said, "It is safer doing what God wants you to be than not." The meeting closed with Ruth Grone Maier giving devotions based on Psalm 95:1. She went on to talk about Martin Luther and his music. In 1522, Luther translated the Bible so the common people were able to read it. He also introduced congregational singing and formed both adult and childrens choirs. Luther's emphasis on music came after his work on the Holy Bible. In 1524, his first hymnal was written containing 8 songs. Two of the songs were based on the Ten Commandments. The words of his great hymn "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" are based on words of hope and love. There will be no Joy Circle meeting in June since Guest Day at Our Savior's will be on June 25.

AN UPDATE FROM DAVE

Last Friday they finished the roof on the building. They kind of fought the wind a little bit. I figure we'll probably have some warm days now right after they got that done. They have had some warm days that allowed them to get all the trim and all the gutter work done. The outside of the building is basically done except for putting downspouts on.

They continue to work on the inside plumbing, electrical and sprinkler system. There are a lot of different crews in and out. The data people for our computers are working now. They have a ways to go. We hope to be using part of the shop in three weeks by about the middle of June. I think we'll get that done.

I don't know if the sweet corn from our plot will be ready for the Grand Opening celebration, but it will be close.

We're planting that field for demonstrating the Reinke system. Also have a weather station out there to be used to demonstrate our monitoring system for monitoring soil moisture. We will be growing a crop in part of that section like our customers. The monitoring system is called Field Connect through John Deere. We have a probe in the ground at three different depths to monitor the moisture. It shows rain events and irrigation events and shows what kind of moisture is available there. We are actually renting the units. We can get a computer print out off of what's out there. This allows you to build a history and after a couple of years, it will help the farmers to manage the moisture better, especially irrigating.

We're coming up on hay season. There is plenty of twine and net wrap available. We've delivered all our pre-season large quantities, but we have more available at our parts office on Providence Road.

We will not be open on Sundays anymore as planting season progressed pretty fast, but you can call the emergency number (402-369-9255) if an emergency does come up after hours. We hope to start shutting down the long distance shops in about three weeks. We will probably bring in the guys from Dakota City first and then as we get more room available.

We will probably start to do combine checkups in the new building. That is what we are concentrating on next.

Dave Olson

Food poisoning can affect everyone, but older Americans are at a greater risk, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension food specialist said.

Older people are especially at risk because as people age, stomach fluids become less acidic and microbes have a greater chance of surviving, said Julie Albrecht, food specialist in the university's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

"Stomach acid is the first line of defense against microbes," Albrecht said.

The Partnership for Food Safety Education has four core practices for safe food handling. They include:

- Clean: Keep hands clean and wash surfaces often.
- Separate: Keep raw meats separate to avoid cross-contamination.
- Cook: Cook foods to their proper temperature, which are 145 degrees Fahrenheit for steaks and roasts and 160 degrees Fahrenheit for ground beef.
- Chill: Refrigerate promptly. See this cold storage chart for proper storage times at www.fightbac.org/safe-food-handling/chill.

Albrecht said that even healthy older people still need to be concerned about food safety.

"Many people believe that because they're healthy, they're not going to be at risk," Albrecht said.

Habits may also play a role. Albrecht said that elderly people may be at a higher risk of food poisoning due to them leaving food out for more than two hours.

People need to be aware of how to properly protect themselves against microbes that can cause illness.

"Microorganisms have been changing," Albrecht said. "There are even some microorganisms that are causing food poisoning that didn't cause it 30 years ago."

UNL Rodeo team ready for national finals event

In numbers greater than any year since 1986, four University of Nebraska-Lincoln Rodeo team members will be going to Casper, Wyoming, June 15-21 to compete in the College National Finals Rodeo.

According to its website, the CNFR is considered the "Rose Bowl" of college rodeo, said Bump Kraeger, one of UNL's Rodeo Team's coaches.

Matt Cover, a senior agribusiness major from Ashby, will be competing in team roping.

Lindsay Adamson, a sophomore business management major from Cody, will compete in breakaway roping.

Bryce Dibbern, a junior animal science major from Riverdale, qualified for the steer wrestling event.

Austin Jarvis, a junior animal science major from King, North Carolina, will be in the bull riding event.

The National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association will crown individual event champions in these events, in addition to saddle bronc riding, bareback riding, tie-down roping, barrel racing and goat tying.

Over 400 cowboys and cowgirls from over 100 universities compete in Casper each year. Contestants compete all year on one of NIRA's 11 regions for a chance to rope or ride at CNFR.

Between now and June the four team members will be practicing, Kraeger said.

Jarvis said qualifying for the CNFR has been his goal ever since he started college rodeoing.

"Finally reaching this goal has been an absolutely amazing journey, and I can't wait to get to Casper."

Kraeger said there are two avenues to qualify for the college national finals. One is to qualify as a team - the top two teams of every region qualify for the national finals. The other way is to qualify in the top three of each event.

The UNL team has had one or two CNFR qualifications on a regular basis, the most recent in 2011. However, four is the most since 1986, the last time there was a team (six members) qualification.

In addition, Dibbern, was elected as student director of the Great Plains Region. Elected by the student body of the region, Dibbern will serve a two-year term, and has also gained an extra year of eligibility.

"Being elected as the Great Plains Region student director means a lot to me, as I am very passionate about the sport of rodeo," Dibbern said. "I instantly saw this as my opportunity to challenge myself to step forward and be the voice for the region. It is going to push me to be a representative and an advocate for the sport of rodeo."

Memories of childhood home

The Big Farmer once figured out that what we were farming when we left the farm had once supported four other families besides ours.

Of course, I reminded him then that the standard of living for most families had changed since then. I know I was very glad when my folks got electricity and indoor plumbing! I was equally thrilled when the day came that I had an automatic washer and dryer at Apex Farm. Those things cost money. So did the machinery we used, the silos we built, and the kitchen we remodeled.

As you drive through any rural area, you see the remnants of those farm families; sometimes, it's a tumble down house; on other farmsteads, a barn still stands. Eventually, it seems, those buildings either collapse, or get torn down, or are used as a training exercise for the local volunteer fire department. Whenever I see one still there, looking lonesome, I wonder about the stories those walls could tell.

The one I grew up in was not quite two miles north of Waco; there were two bedrooms and only one closet, so eventually, the porch was enclosed and my brother slept there and had his very own closet. There was half a finished basement, where the annual butchering took place, and all the canned goods were stored.

When my folks moved off, it was sold to a neighbor, Jim, who married a nurse friend, Donna. They raised three kids there just as my parents did. And, of course, there were some changes; for instance, some patio doors to the south led to a nice deck.

I met an older gentleman at the Utica Senior Center once who told me he had lived there as a boy, but it was rented and they had to move when my parents were married, since my grandfather owned that quarter. We laughed at how the one closet connected the two bedrooms, making a great place to hide and go from one room to the other.

Donna died of leukemia a few years ago, and a neighbor told me last winter that Jim was not doing well there by himself, especially after he lost a son, too. The family was planning to move him to long term care and were trying to find someone who would move the house. I wondered if that would happen. I did know that the parsonage at the country church had been moved, so maybe someone would want to do the same here.

A month ago, Sue and I were on Highway 34 coming back from Central City, so I suggested that we turn north at Waco and check out the "old home place." I almost didn't know we had come to the right spot.

I knew that Jim had taken the half mile shelter belt out. I had heard that the outbuildings were gone. But, so was the house! Apparently, there were no takers, and it had been bulldozed into a pit and burned. What a strange feeling. There had always been lots of trees around the house, too, but there are none now. I suppose the whole place will be planted. A better way to use it.

But, as I said, a very strange feeling. And yes, kind of sad. There were lots of memories there, both good and bad, and now it will be hard to retrieve them, for me and for Jim's kids. Time marches on!

USDA funding for telecom services

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announced that USDA is accepting applications for grants to enhance telecommunications and broadcast services in rural areas.

"This funding will help small, rural communities across the country gain access to communications technologies to improve health, education and other services," Vilsack said.

The funding is available from the Community Connect Grant Program, the Distance Learning and Telemedicine Program, and the Public Television Station Digital Transition Grant Program.

Through the Community Connect Grant Program, USDA plans to provide up to $13 million to fund broadband in unserved areas to support economic growth and deliver enhanced educational, health care and public safety services. Awardees must serve an area where broadband does not exist, provide a community center with broadband access, and offer broadband service to all residential and business customers. Details are on page 29405 of the Federal Register.

USDA has had many successes through this program. Since it was created in 2003, USDA has approved more than $142 million in more than 240 Community Connect projects to bring broadband service to rural communities that lacked it.

Also in a notice in today's Federal Register, USDA is making available up to $19.3 million in Distance Learning and Telemedicine (DLT) program grants to fund access to rural education, training and health care resources. The DLT program finances telecommunications-enabled equipment and advanced technologies for people who live and work in rural areas. Since 2009, USDA has invested almost $150 million in the program. These investments compliment other USDA efforts to improve rural communications.

In the Public Television Station Digital Transition Grant Program, USDA will provide up to $2 million as part of the Department's continued support of rural telecommunications and broadcast services. Funds can be used to acquire, lease or install equipment or software to complete the transition to digital broadcast signals.

Landscape conditions discussed

Here are a few odds and ends we have been seeing around our landscapes.

Late leaf emergence of shade trees is common this spring on oak trees. In most cases, it is due to our cooler spring temperatures this season. With some trees, leaf buds that were produced last fall may have sustained winter injury due to the combination of high winds and extreme cold temperatures this past winter. In all cases, do not prune or remove a late leafing tree or shrub until after June 1 to allow time for growth to occur.

Perennials that were exposed to the cold winds of last winter were severely affected in many areas, and our unusually cold spring has kept recovery at a snail's pace. In my personal situation, we had given up on some Euonymus plants in our front yard. Only after we began to dig them up last Wednesday did we notice they were still alive and beginning to green up at the base. Our rhododendrons were in similar sad fashion but did survive. It is up to you whether you want to replace them or wait for the slow recovery to occur, as it will take some time.

Similarly, our roses started to sprout to life just last week. Pruning roses after winter injury is needed following our cold, dry winter. Remove all winter killed wood back to healthy tissue, making the pruning cut just above on outward facing leaf or leaf bud. If tender roses were killed down to the graft, watch for regrowth occurring from below the graft. If this is the only growth that occurs, it is best to remove the entire rose. The growth is coming from the root stock rather than the desirable grafted portion and this growth is typically not desirable in the rose garden. We may have to replace our roses since the growth is very low on the plant.

Extension

There are many different species of flea beetles that you may encounter in Nebraska landscapes, but the apple flea beetle might be one that is unfamiliar. Apple flea beetle is metallic greenish purple in color, and are approximately the size of an eye of a needle. Apple flea beetles have many of the same traits as other flea beetles; they are small in size, jump when disturbed, and feed on the foliage of various crops. Apple flea beetles will feed on apples, but also many other plants, especially those in the rose family – roses and plums for example. Defoliation of plants is worst when populations of the pest are high, so early identification is important.

As always, great information from UNL is available on the internet and from watching Backyard Farmer. Backyard Farmers website is byf.unl.edu, where there are resources such as the horticulture update that covers many current issues in our home gardens.

Wildflowers celebrated statewide in early June

"For us of the minority, the opportunity to see geese is more important than television, and the chance to see a pasqueflower is a right as inalienable as free speech." Aldo Leopold

Wildflowers are an important part of any region's identity. Nebraska Wildflower Week celebrates this "sense of place" through wildflower-related events and activities the first week in June, when many of Nebraska's prairies and gardens are at their prime.

Nebraska Statewide Arboretum serves as coordinator for Wildflower Week activities, bringing together organizations and individuals across the state that recognize the value of wildflowers, not only for their beauty but also for what they imply and symbolize.

"Where wildflowers are thriving, it is a sign that the environment is healthy," said Bob Henrickson, arboretum assistant director whose nursery production work with the arboretum concentrates on native and regionally appropriate plants. Opportunities for wildflower enthusiasts across the state include guided tours, presentations on wildflower plantings, exhibits, prairie runs and more. Events, photos and more information will be updated at arboretum.unl.edu/wildflower.
