Tornadic Terror

Three days of severe weather leave area, residents unsettled

By MICHAEL CARNES

The memory of last fall's tornado is still a fresh one for many Wayne-area residents, a memory that surely has been brought back a few times in the past few days.

Residents in just about every part of the three-county area have been under the gun in recent days as Mother Nature unleashed a series of dangerous severe weather upon the area, weather that included tornadoes, lightning and heavy rains that have left farms and homes either flooded, damaged or destroyed.

The action got started Saturday evening when western Wayne County and Cedar County experienced strong thunderstorms and a number of funnel clouds that hovered south and west of Carroll. That storm didn't produce any tornadoes in the county, but dumped a tremendous amount of precipitation on the area, with some residents in the three county area reporting in excess of six inches of rain over a 24-hour period into early Sunday morning.

Sunday was a day of rest from the severe weather, but activity picked up again on Monday, leading to the most devastating day of severe weather this area has seen since last October's tornado that struck Wayne.

A series of tornadoes dropped in Stanton County, then moved northeast into Wayne and Dixon counties late Monday afternoon. Two of the four tornadoes devastated the town of Pilger, located about 17 miles south of Wayne, while a third tornado tore through the east half of Wayne County, damaging or destroying an estimated 30 rural homes, farms and feedlot operations, as well as taking hundreds of head of livestock.

Randy Larson, the District 1 commissioner on the Wayne County Board, was one of the many residents south and east of Wakefield who were in the path of the storm. He told The Wayne Herald that a tree hit his house and some of his center pivots had been tipped over, but the damage he and his family experienced paled in comparison to that of his neighbors. "It looks a lot like what we saw in Wayne last fall," he said. "It took everything in its path. It's a major disaster. That's what it is, and that's what we're dealing with." While the Pilger tornadoes claimed two lives and injured more than a dozen others, the Wakefield storm left three injured, two of which were taken to area hospitals. One of the estimated 30 families in eastern Wayne County who were hit by Monday's storm suffered a second weather-related blow in less than a year. Monday's round of tornadoes put Providence Medical Center into a "code yellow" situation, which had the hospital prepare for any mass casualties that came from Monday's storms. Hospital officials said that they treated at least three people who were brought in from the Pilger storm by area rescue units, and nurses from the hospital performed triage at both the Pilger and Wakefieild-area

"For the second time since October of 2013, Providence Medical Center called a Code Yellow (multiple casualty incident) due to local tornados and potential catastrophic recovery," said Tom Lee, Providence Medical Center's CEO. "An additional 75 staff members and physicians reported to the hospital as Incident Command was set up, everyone ready to treat whatever injuries might arrive.

"In the end, PMC received three patients from Pilger, all three sustained injuries from the devastating tornado. Also, two ambulances and crews were sent to assist in triage during the search and recovery stage in Pilger and Wakefield. The physicians and staff at PMC live the mission every day, and it was even more evident Monday night. I am proud of everyone who works here, they make a difference every day."

People living in the three-county area may have felt like they were under siege by Mother Nature as severe weather slammed Wayne, Cedar and Dixon counties over a four-day period. On Tuesday night, this tornado touched down north of Laurel, coming one day after tornadoes ripped through rural homes in southeastern Wayne County.

Sand Creek Post & Beam swings open its doors again

Goeller: An obligation to 'keep ball rolling'

Of The Herald

Len Dickson said he remembered driving "way too fast" from his home south of Wayne to check out the damage left behind by an EF-4 tornado that destroyed his family business.

When he got to the site where he and his wife, Jule Goeller, had built Sand Creek Post & Beam, everything was gone, building and product was all over the place and some of the distinguishing characteristics of the area were suddenly missing.

One thing that wasn't, though, was the company's willingness to roll up their sleeves and get back to work. And, eight months later, the company was able to cut the ceremonial red ribbon announcing the completion of rebuilding their business in the tornado-stricken area where it has stood for the past 10 years.

"It's been an eye-opening experience," he told the reporter-estimated crowd of about 100 people gathered in the southern structure of the two-building setup Friday morning. "There has been a tremendous amount of support, and . . . the work level and commitment has been incredible and I can't say enough how much I appreciate that."

Goeller said the Oct. 4, 2013 tornado was a real challenging situation for her and her husband.

"It's funny how life throws you a curve sometimes, and Oct. 4 was a curve for a lot of us," she told those in attendance. "But one of the things we never thought about after the tornado was 'Should we keep the company going?' We had an obligation to our employees and our customers and our community, and we asked ourselves what we were going to do, as soon as we can, to make sure we keep the ball rolling. That was our main goal from day one, and it's so nice to see how everything has come together."

Goeller's and Dickson's commitment to rebuilding Sand Creek Post & Beam was not lost on Wayne's mayor, Ken Chamberlain, who praised the family for their efforts and the spirit they showed in the aftermath of last fall's devastating storm.

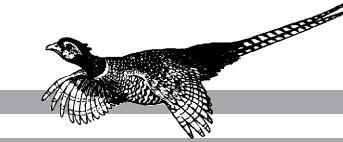

"When the tornado came through, I had struggled with a lot of things, and I met with Len and Jule and talked with them, and that energy and spirit was still there and it gave me a lot of strength and energy to see that," he said. "To know that their lumber was spread for miles and their product and buildings were destroyed, it didn't destroy their company. To see what you've come up with in eight short months is just phenomenal."

Pet of the Week

This week's Pet of the Week at Tenderheart Animal Rescue is Jessie, one lucky boy having been picked up on the highway between Wakefield and Wayne after a car straddled him. He was pretty insistent that his mother should come get him, but has settled in nicely at the rescue thanks to little Whoper s company.

For more information or to adopt Jessie, call (402) 369-6030.

Levi Otis Webb

Levi Otis Webb, 59, of West Point, died Friday, June 13, 2014 after

Services will be held Saturday, June 21 at 1 p.m. at the Salem Covenant Church in Oakland. Family will receive friends from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. before the service.

Levi Otis Webb was born Dec. 16, 1954 in West Point to James A. and Myrtle F. (Sila) Webb. Levi was a minister, starting "Footsteps in the Sand" ministries. He was a foreman on construction sites and also enjoyed working as a bouncer at area bars. Levi was known to many as the #1 Husker football fan. Friends and family knew game day was drawing near when his home and yard were covered with Husker flags, Herbies and Lil Reds. The love for his team has been passed down to all his children and grandchildren. A long time passion of his was powerlifting, setting many records and representing team USA in the World Games in Sweden in 1993. He enjoyed fishing and a great amount of time was spent looking for the "big one" at the Mighty Mo. Restoration of his chopper was a priority. He loved riding his bike and providing rides to his wife, children and grandchildren. Levi (Shrek) was a member of the Biker's for Christ, Christian Brotherhood and a ride captain for the Patriot Guard Riders.

Survivors include his wife of seven years, Helen; and his father James, both of West Point; his son, Jonathan Webb of Wayne; three daughters Angela and Terry Sievers of Wayne, Crystal Fiegenschuh of Princeton, Ill., and Tiffany and Ryan Fiala of Castle Rock, Colo.; step-children Stacy and Donnie Clegg of McCool Junction and Christina and John Barrera of Toledo, Ohio.; 14 grandchildren, Morgan and Terran Sievers, Courtney Webb, Abigail and Carter Fiegenschuh. Craig Derickson, NRCS State Conservationist said that $100,000 in assistance is now available to help producers properly dispose of animal carcasses. Impacted producers have until Friday,

According to Derickson, this initiative provides technical and financial assistance to help producers dispose of livestock carcasses on their farm in a safe manner. "Livestock producers with animal mortalities need to come to the NRCS office and sign up for the special initiative in order to be eligible to participate in the program. It is important for producers to understand the technical requirements for the animal composting practice. We want to make sure that producers have the assistance and information needed to dispose of animal carcasses in a manner that doesn't cause health and Impacted producers should visit their local NRCS office located in the USDA Service Center. There, NRCS will work one-on-one with producers to develop a recovery plan that best meets the needs of their operation.

NRCS can also provide assistance to producers impacted by other recent severe weather events. For example, NRCS can help with windbreak damage, replacing fences and repairing terraces and other conservation practices.

"The bottom line is that NRCS is here to help producers recover from these devastating storm events," Derickson said.

Ordinances approved as City Council holds short meeting

By CLARA OSTEN Of the Herald

Six ordinances received final approval, one received second reading approval and four resolutions were approved during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

In what was one of the shortest meetings in recent months, the council approved ordinances dealing with the definitions of a townhouse, the word "attached" and "breezeway" and approved ordinances dealing with parking regulations in the northwest and southeast quadrants of the city.

All of these ordinances had been previously discussed by the council and changes approved.

Resolutions approved during the meeting include the directing of the city clerk to assess moving costs to become a lien on property at 908 Circle Drive and approving the Nebraska Community Energy Alliance Interlocal Cooperation Agreement to form an Energy Grant Funding Group for housing and transportation. The agreement will allow the city to be part of an incentive program to obtain Department of Energy funds.

Council members also listened to information provided by Ken Kwapnioski of Arnie's Ford Mercury for the city's purchase of a half-ton ular session on Tuesday, July 1 at pickup which uses both compressed natural gas (CNG) and regular fuel.

Kwapnioski explained to the council the state bidding process for the purchase of vehicles and gave details regarding the vehicle.

Council members also approved a liquor license manager application for Go Mirage, LLC, doing business as G's Quick Stop for Toniessa Pro-

Bridge delay request denied

By MICHAEL CARNES

Of The Herald

Before awarding a $1.7 million bid to an Iowa company for construction of four bridges in northern Wayne County, a resident near three of the bridge projects asked the Wayne County Commissioners to save taxpayer money and delay work on his neighboring bridg-

The county board was set to approve a bid of $1,702,628 to Dixon Construction of Correctionville, Iowa, but Joel Hansen – whose property is located near three of the four bridges that were part of the bid asked the board to hold off on the awarding of those construction projects.

Hansen, who told the board he was speaking to them as a county taxpayer and not as an employee of the City of Wayne or a member of the Lower Elkhorn NRD board, said that a flood control recreation area similar to the Willow Creek Recreation Area near Pierce would provide more benefit to county taxpayers than the repair of three 80-year old bridges.

"If you closed all three of those bridges, I would be the only person who would have to drive out of his way to get to Wayne," he said. "There isn't a single person out there who would put extra mileage on their vehicle to take another road to Wayne, and the bridges are between 13 and 15 tons, so they'll withstand the traffic if you leave them like they are now.

"We have a limited population and a limited pool of funds, and you are talking a handful of residents out roll, to Dixon Construction on a 2-0 vote, with board there (who would benefit)," he added. "Spending up to member Randy Larson absent due to cleanup activities

Hansen said a feasibility study could be done by the LENRD in about a year's time, and depending on available funding, a flood control recreation area could be built in about a decade's time. Such an area could provide a tremendous amount of economic benefit to the county, he said.

"If you look at Willow Creek, it was built 30 years ago and since then, Pierce County has added 123 homes around that lake on its tax rolls," he said. "I see people who make their lives here in Wayne County and then go to Stanton or Pierce and build $300,000-$400,000 homes around those lakes. Why wouldn't we want those property tax bases in our county?"

Board chairman Dean Burbach told Hansen that the projects had been on the county's 1-6 year road plans for sometime, and the board felt it was of utmost importance to improve the county's rural road system.

"Other people do use that system of bridges, and some of the dirt miles and small bridges have been a nuisance for them," he said. "We feel it's the taxpayers' money and we need to have our rural road system improved, and this is one way to do that. We just think it's vital to our road system and to the taxpayers out

'Cats future looks good for netters

Got a lot on my mind this week time for a good flushing of the "Bits and Pieces" file:

- If you wanted to get a peek at the future of Wayne State volleyball, you had an outstanding chance to do just that this past Saturday evening.

Three future Wayne Staters helped lead the Dark team to a four-set win over the Light team in the annual Northeast Nebraska All-Star volleyball game Saturday at the Cox Activities Center at Northeast Community College. If their play is any indication, the future is looking pretty good in Rice Audito-

Tekamah-Herman standout Erin Gross and Megan Gebhardt, Lutheran High star and sister of current Wildcat Elizabeth Gebhardt, combined for 17 kills and three blocks, giving the Dark team a pretty nice 1-2 punch at the net.

Also playing a role in the win was another Wildcat recruit, Riley Funk of Ewing. In fact, all three Wayne State recruits were among seven volleyball recruits who made up the Dark squad, including Wayne High's own Ashton Schweers (Morningside) and Meagan Backer (Northeast CC). Of the remaining three players, only one is not pursuing college athletics while the other two will play basketball, including Wakefield's Lauren Lehmkuhl (Morningside).

By comparison, the Light team had just four college athletes-inwaiting, three of whom plan on playing volleyball and none at a Div. II school. I was told the teams were drafted by the opposing coaches, which makes you wonder what kind of draft analysis the Light team was doing if the Dark got all the Div. II talent from the area.

- Been a busy month watching area members of the Class of 2014 play in all-star action in the area. We also saw six area kids play in the Northeast Nebraska All-Star Football Classic, we'll see six more playing this Saturday in the Northeast Nebraska All-Star Basketball games at Northeast CC, and later this month is the first Northeast Nebraska Softball All-Star Classic in West Point, featuring a pair of graduated Blue Devils in Jalyn Zeiss and Victoria Kranz, with Rob Sweetland coaching the West team.

got a few kids playing in state allstar games in Lincoln. One of these days, we'll actually let these standout athletes go on to their respective college destinations - but for now, it's nice to see them play one more time. (I think I'm finally getting old . . . I sound more like my grandpa wanting to hear me play trumpet one more time.)

Later this summer, we've even

- Leaving the home front, I had a chance to watch some great baseball at the College World Series as part of a Father's Day tradition with my daughter and I (thanks for the tickets, Mike and Sarah Naeve).

One of the things we like to do is pick a side. My daughter asks me who I'm rooting for, then goes for the other team (her mother used to do this a lot when we were married . . . which may be the reason why she's now my EX-wife, but I di-

As we were making our way up to our seats, we decided (again, I chose and she went the other way) that I would go for Virginia, while she would root for Ole Miss. As fate would have it, our seats were in the middle of a bunch of Runnin' Rebel fans, so - naturally - I got to be the weird guy cheering for the "other" team while all the Ole Miss fans started chanting some strange, cryptic cheer that may or may not

Kylie has always seemed to find a way to cheer for the team that wins the College World Series, but this year might be different – Virginia won on a walk-off double in the bottom of the ninth and are in the winner's bracket final later this week, while the Rebels have to battle through the consolation bracket.

The Reds didn't score there, but did get another chance early in the fourth, driving down the field and finishing the job when Lienemann rumbled and spun his way to a 19-yard score, stretching the ball over the goal line with 7:53 to go to provide the final margin of victory.

Boone Central/Newman Grove's Tyler Hedlund and Casey Wisnieski of Howells/Dodge were the recipients of the touchdown passes. Reedy finished 21-of-39 for 293 yards and two touchdowns along with two interceptions, however he only threw for 70 yards in the second half and was intercepted late in the fourth quarter to snuff out the White team's final drive.

Area all-star girls lead way in victory

NORFOLK - Sporting a combination of area flavor and future flash, the Dark All-Stars took care of the Light team in four sets, 25-14, 23-25, 25-21, 25-21, to win the Northeast Nebraska All-Stars volleyball match Saturday at Northeast Community College.

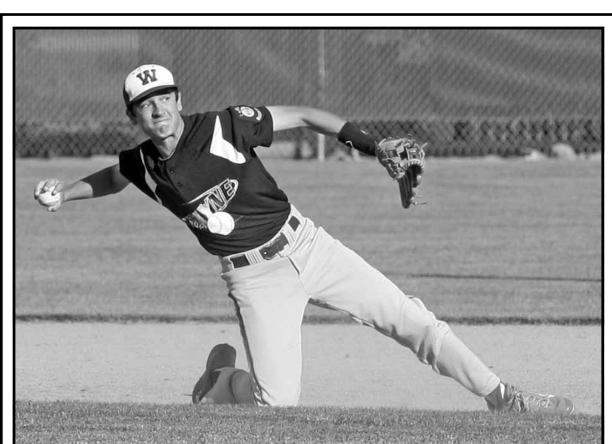

On paper, it would seem the Dark squad had the advantage in the talent department, with all but one member of the 10-player roster listing plans of playing college athletics in the future. The Dark squad played up to that potential, trading sets with the Light team before coming out on top in each of the final two sets to win the four-set matchup of the region's top volleyball talent.

Three members of the Dark team will become very familiar faces to people in this area, as Wayne State recruits Megan Gebhardt, Riley Funk and Erin Gross helped lead the team to victory in Saturday's matchup at Cox Activities Center.

The Dark team dominated the first game, racing out to a big lead early behind the net play of Gross, who finished with a match-high 12 kills and two blocks; and Gebhardt, Payten Gamble pitched well early on to get the win, while Tyler Lutt came on in relief and kept Pierce from mounting any kind of comeback.

In the nightcap, Sprouls went the distance, striking out seven. Gamble had a huge game in the finale, going 4-for-5 with a triple and three runs scored. Noah Braun was 3-for-4 and scored twice.

Devils 18's team sweeps to wins

The Wayne Dirt Devils 18-under team was in action, sweeping a doubleheader and winning both ends of a triangular last week.

On Thursday, Wayne went up to Yankton and swept a doubleheader, beating their hosts 6-5 and 2-1.

In the opener, Hannah Belt threw a solid game in the circle, striking out 10 to get the win. She had plenty of offensive support, highlighted by Danica Schaefer's two-triple, two-RBI game. Jalyn Zeiss had a pair of doubles and an RBI, Victoria Kranz recorded two singles, Abbie Hix had an RBI double, Lauren Gilliland had an RBI single and Nicole Craft singled in the win.

In the nightcap, McKenna Gibson gles and Zeiss and Sierra Scarding got the win in the defensive battle and the offense managed five hits in the win. Zeiss singled and doubled, Kranz had an RBI single and Hix and Gilliland added singles for the Dirt Devils

The Dirt Devils came out on top in both games in their triangular with Scribner and the Norfolk Impact on Tuesday in Scribner.

In the opener, the Dirt Devils outlasted their hosts 5-2, riding the sixstrikeout pitching of Belt. Kendall Gambled, singled, tripled and drove in a run to lead the offensive charge.

In the second game, Wayne beat the Norfolk Impact 6-4. Zeiss had two singles and an RBI, Kranz added a pair of hits, Hix had an RBI single and Gamble singled in the win. Gibson got credit for the win in the pitcher's circle.

The Devils 18-under team will take part in the Fire and Ice Tournament this weekend in Columbus. They will play at the Norfolk Impact next Thursday before heading to Sioux Falls, S.D., to compete in the South Dakota division of the USSSA state softball tournament.

BRAN stop in Laurel a blast for bicyclists

A panoramic view of what looks like a small village on the football practice field at Laurel-Concord/Coleridge High School where the BRAN participants camped out for the night.

By MICHAEL CARNESOf The Herald

They started trickling in a little before 10 a.m. Thursday. They came alone, in groups and even in tandem.

More than 600 bikers and their respective entourages rolled into Laurel on Thursday as the 34th Bicycle Ride Across Nebraska (BRAN) made its annual trek across the state, with Laurel serving as the fifth of seven stops on this year's week-long, 476-mile

As they rolled into town from the north on Highway 20, they received plenty of welcomes from local residents who cheered them into town, provided snacks and water and helped them get situated at the football practice field next to Laurel-Concord/Coleridge High School. The football field looked like a mini-village with hundreds of tents randomly pitched around the field.

For one rider, the BRAN trip has become an annual pilgrimage

Al Roeder of Omaha is one of a handful of bikers who has been part of each of the 34 BRAN rides. The 68-year-old retired high school science teacher said the trip has been a lot of fun to be a part of over the years.

"It's some sort of mental imbalance, I guess," he said with a laugh when asked why he takes part in the yearly excursion. "Really, it's the people, the beautiful scenery, the blue skies – it's just a lot of fun."

The BRAN bikers have traveled from east to west for the last 33 years after the first year's journey – which was a real learning experience for all involved.

"We went from Fremont to Scottsbluff that first year, and that was a mistake," Roeder said. "Once we got to Scottsbluff, we were on our own to get home, so that was a real adventure." Now, bikers park their vehicles at the final destination – Waterloo for this year's journey – and take a nine-hour chartered bus ride to the starting point, which was Rushville. Semis carried their bikes, luggage and tents to the starting des-

Semis carried their bikes, luggage and tents to the starting destination. Once the bikers put their bikes together and hit the road, the semis carried the rest of their equipment to Cody, Springview, Atkinson, Verdigre, Laurel and Lyons before making the final stop in Waterloo on Saturday.

Thursday's ride from Verdigre to Laurel turned out to be a perfect day for a bike ride, Roeder said, noting that weather is always a challenge when you're riding that many miles.

"Today it was fantastic. It was cool, dry and a good wind from the back," he said. "It was nothing like when we left Rushville on Sunday. We had rain, hail, lightning and the wind in our face. That was a lot less fun. You don't get days like this very often."

The people of Laurel treated their guests quite well on Thursday. Plenty of porta-potties were seen at the practice field, and the high school was open to allow riders to do everything from take a shower to charge their portable electronic devices. A pie and ice cream social was held in the old gymnasium, and there was plenty of food, drink and entertainment that was a short shuttle wide avery

All of that is important in making for a positive experience for bike riders when they come into town after a long bike ride.

"It's not glamorous, but one of the first things some communities fall down on is bathrooms," Roeder said. "Every morning around 5 a.m., about 800 people are hitting the toilets, and if you don't have enough available, it's a problem.

"You also want food that is relatively close by, because people like to kick back after all those miles and not do a lot of walking," he added. "Access to facilities and a nice, quiet place to fall asleep at the end of the day are really appreciated."

Roeder has ridden the last 26 BRAN rides with his daughter, Shannon, who started riding on the back of the blue-and-pink tandem bike when she was nine years old. Roeder said he enjoys the friends he has made along the bike route the last 34 years, and hasn't decided how many more times he'll make the statewide

"Sometimes I think I'll quit at the age of 70 or 40 rides, but it's a lot of fun and I still enjoy it," he said. "We've made a lot of good friends over the years, and these are just the best people in the world."

There were a lot of smiles on the faces of riders who rolled into Laurel on the BRAN route as they completed their journey from Verdigre late Thursday morning.

Having a charging station for electronic devices is a welcome site for those who participated in the 34th annual Bike Ride Across Nebraska. This one was located near the new gym at the high school.

Al Roeder of Omaha has been on all 34 BRAN rides, including the last 26 with his daughter, Shannon.

After a long bike ride, there's nothing like a cool patch of grass and a soft hay bundle to catch an early-afternoon nap.

Tom Granger of Topeka, Kan., pitches his tent while talking with Bob Frank of Richardson, Texas.

Brock Koranda, Carter Kvols and Gibson Roberts pull a wagon full of cold bottled water to offer to thirsty BRAN bikers after they stopped in Laurel on Thursday.

On Friday morning a long line of tractors could be seen making their way out of Wayne toward the Haskell Ag Lab at Concord. Here the convey crosses Highway 15 two miles north of Wayne.

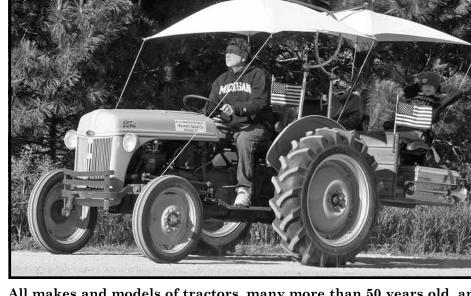

Tractors from Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota were part of the 84-mile route for this year's Tractor

Members of the Wayne community, including Ken Kwapnioski and Brian Kemp (left) served a chicken sandwich meal to those involved with the ride.

A great deal of reminiscing and discussion took place among tractor owners and members of the community as part of this year's event.

All makes and models of tractors, many more than 50 years old, and most equipped with umbrellas, were part of this year's ride.

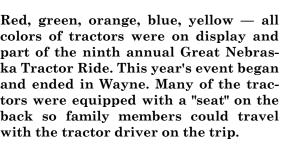

Tractor owners and their families enjoyed a meal at the Commercial Building on the Wayne County Fairgrounds.

The tractors made their way back to Wayne on Friday afternoon before having a meal at Heritage Homes.

Tractor enthusiasts of all ages were able to view all the tractors at the Wayne County Fairgrounds on Thursday evening.

According to an article on The Federalist website, millennials seem to think that authority figures are untrustworthy idiots, and they point the blame to some of today's modern culture, including the book "The Hunger Games," the recent movie blockbuster "The Fault In Our Stars" and even the cartoon classic movie "Finding Nemo."

Even some of the stories from earlier generations are, allegedly, causing people to not put any trust in authority figures. Such classics as "The Great Brain" series and children's stories like "Paddington Bear" and "Amelia Bedelia" seem to make us think that the authority figures we deal with in our day-to-day lives are, like the characters in some of these books and movies, complete dolts.

Of course, we'd have to assume that the writer of this story didn't take into account the 535 blabbering morons in Congress, the clueless President and Vice President of the United States, or even some of the government officials who "represent" us at the state level who just might, believe it or not, have more of an influence on our day-to-day lives than Amelia Bedelia. Surely THEY haven't negatively influenced the millenials' perceptions of how somebody in a position of authority is supposed to conduct themselves in an honest and forthright manner. Now I'm not a woman, but I wouldn't think that the ladies' room at Applebees would be the place to check to see whether or not I'm "with child" or not. However, the program the state is starting up is being done as a way to combat what has been a difficult problem for that state.

Alaska has the highest rate of fetal alcohol syndrome in the country, and they are doing a study to see if posters warning women of the dangers of drinking while pregnant are more effective if they are posted on pregnancy test dispensers. The posters include information and encourage women to participate in a survey and will also supply condoms where possible.

Minimum wage petitions afoot

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association

Notwithstanding action of the Legislature, there's a move afoot to raise the minimum wage in Nebraska for the first time in five years.

The current minimum wage -$7.25 an hour - matches the federal wage. Twenty-one states have minimum wages higher than that. Washington state has the highest at $9.32. Seattle has a minimum wage of $15 per hour. Two Nebraska border states. Colorado and Missouri. have rates of $8 and $7.50 respectively. Nebraska lawmakers failed to approve an attempt in April to raise the rate to $9 an hour in three steps over the next three years. The bill stalled at the first of three rounds of debate on a 20-20 vote.

With time running out in the session, Omaha Sen. Jeremy Nordquist and term-limited Lincoln Sen. Danielle Conrad were joined by some colleagues in announcing a petition drive under the banner of Nebraskans for Better Wages to get the issue of a $9 minimum wage over the next three years before the voters in November. Nordquist, noting that the living wage in Omaha is $8.70 an hour, said he supported the bill and the petition drive because Nebraska's middle class is shrinking and the median household income along with it.

Proponents must submit 83,000 verified signatures by July 3 to get the measure on the ballot. They will submit more in an effort to ensure the quota in case some signatures are invalidated. Nebraska law requires petition circulators to gather signatures from 7 percent of registered voters and that total must include at least 5 percent of registered voters from each of 38 coun-— two-fifths of Nebraska's 93 counties. Petitioners are being paid $10.50 to $12.50 an hour to collect valid signatures.

Looking at the politics of the measure, Democrats generally support struggling small businesses because it and claim that Republicans don't it adds cost to their bottom line. because they are all about corporate America and big profits. Republicans blast Democrats for their sense of entitlement at any cost.

RAISING MIN. WAGE WILL COST NEBR. JOBS

The question remains, where does the money for the increased wages come from?

Bob Hallstrom, a lobbyist for the Nebraska Federation of Independent Business, said studies show that raising the minimum wage hurts employment and often results in the lowest-paid employees losing their jobs. He said small business owners have to decide what to cut. Or, prices have to be raised with the cost passed on to the consumer. He cautions that an increase in the minimum wage, particularly on the heels of a recession, is a concern for received more than $300,000 in do- is a good move.

Nordquist contends that states that have raised the minimum wage have found those fears are overblown. He said higher pay for low-income workers would benefit Nebraska's economy by lifting wages broadly and putting money in consumers' pockets.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, an estimated 3.6 million U.S. workers in 2012 were paid at or below the federal minimum wage, including about 32,000 Nebraska workers. Nebraska ranked 13th-highest for the percentage of hourly workers making at or below minimum wage and second highest among neighboring states.

Nebraskans for Better Wages has nations so far. Union groups such as the Nebraska State Education Association, the state AFL-CIO the Nebraska State Council of Electrical Workers and the Nebraska State Utility Workers are among major donors to the cause. Conrad has a contract to receive $30,000 from the group for campaign management consulting.

Proponents say that raising the minimum wage would allow more families to make ends meet. Opponents say it will be a burden to small businesses and will force them to increase prices to make ends meet.

The issue will obviously directly affect Nebraskans. Thus, putting it to a vote of the people in November

In legislative news, on June 9, the United States House of Representatives adopted the Walberg Amendment to the 2015 Transportation, Housing and Urban Development Appropriations bill.

The amendment was offered by Congressman Tim Walberg (R-MI). along with a few others. The amendment eliminates a provision in the 2015 Transportation, Housing and Urban Development Appropriations act that would have allowed the Secretary of Transportation to once again discuss motorcycle safety initiatives with state legislators. In 1998, Congress made it illegal for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) to lobby state legislatures. Prior to this law, NHTSA spent tens of thousands of dollars traveling to states when those states were debating the helmet law.

I am pleased this amendment to the bill was adopted by the U.S. House of Representatives, which advanced the bill on June 10. The issue of motorcycle helmets, like many other issues, is best decided at the state level. The money that NHTSA would waste traveling from state to state to lobby would be better spent on other issues, or better still, not spent at all.

DIABETES, CHOLESTEROL, AND BLOOD PRESSURE

The last couple of decades tell a "good news, bad news" story about diabetes. That's the disease that makes it tough for your body to control blood sugar. Here's a snapshot: In the last 20 years, the number of adults with diabetes has more than tripled. Nearly one in 10 now has the disease.² That's certainly not good news.

But there are some bright spots in recent reports. In general, control of blood sugar has improved and rates of serious complications from diabetes have declined a great deal. If you're at risk for diabetes or already have it, consider these three questions:

1. Are you making good lifestyle choices?

Where people haven't made progress, lifestyle has a lot to do with it. For example, it's no secret that the obesity epidemic is growing, right along with the diabetes epidemic.¹

Think about the lifestyle choices you make. Yes, you've heard it all before, but it still holds true: Make healthy food choices—and understand diabetes meal planning. Exercise 30 to 60 minutes most days of the week. Move to or stay at a healthy weight. And manage your stress as well as you can.³

2. Do you know your diabetes ABCs?

Knowing your numbers is also a big piece of the diabetes story, especially if you are at risk for or have high blood pressure or high cholesterol. High blood pressure is when blood moves through your vessels with too much force. Cholesterol is a fat-like substance that can cause plaque buildup in arteries. Combined, these three give your heart and blood vessels a triple whammy.⁴ These are the diabetes ABCs:

•A is for the A1C test. That's the test that shows what your blood sugar levels have been the past three months. In most cases, you want to shoot for a number below 7.

•B is for blood pressure. A great goal is below 140/80. The top number measures pressure in vessels as your heart beats. The bottom number measures pressure when vessels relax between beats.⁵ ◆C is for cholesterol. Ask your doctor or me the numbers you need.

3. Are you managing your medicines?

If you have type 1 diabetes, you must use insulin. Some people with type 2 diabetes need pills and/or insulin to meet target blood glucose levels.⁶ Although lifestyle is a first line of defense, cholesterol medications such as statins can help control cholesterol levels.⁷ As for high blood pressure, there are many classes of drugs to keep this silent killer at bay.

It may not be easy keeping track of all this, especially if you're taking multiple medications. That's what I'm here for. I can explain how each drug works, what side effects to watch for, and how to make sure you're taking them all properly.

So, what's your diabetes story? Together, let's make sure it has a happier ending.

Summer is in full swing with many community organizations working on service projects. Most of us have done some type of a community service project, such as picking up trash along a roadway, donating resources for a food drive, and/or selling food at a community event. This is one step to be more community focused for youth audiences. A core activity of positive youth development programs should deal with service learning opportunities for youth. What does this mean?

Youth are able to examine the issues in the community and develop a plan to achieve the project. They are able to apply knowledge, skills, and critical thinking to the problem.

There are three components to a service learning project: youth involvement; meaningful service;

Service learning ties in well with citizenship and leadership development for youth audiences. What does citizenship mean to you? The definition of citizenship is the character of an individual viewed as a member of society.

This definition happens to follow the mission of the National 4-H program to empower young people to be well-informed citizens who are actively engaged in their communities and the world. 4-H is a valuable program to teach all youth about using positive character traits to help within the community.

The service learning projects that youth are able to address can fall into the 150 different 4-H projects offered in Nebraska 4-H. All 4-H youth can challenge themselves to try new service activities within their projects to develop of sense of volunteerism for their community.

Learning about service learning, citizenship and leadership happens all the time within 4-H activities. Youth might serve as an officer of a club to learn about parliamentary procedure, join a committee to plan out an event for the club, or be a part of the service learning project.

One of the capstone events familiar to many is the 4-H CWF (Citizenship Washington Focus) trip that youth attend during their high school career. 4-H teens learn about citizenship and how they are a contributing member of society; travel to Washington, D.C., to see the United States government in action and learn about the past through historical sites, and plan a service learning project that they could complete after the project.

There are many opportunities for youth to serve our local communities. For more information about the 4-H and Youth Development, please contact the University of Nebraska Lincoln Extension Office in your local county or visit the website at 4h.unl.edu.

Program offers latest info on diabetes since we first began working in the field of diabetes education. We now know that the complications associated with diabetes can be prevented or delayed. Our growing knowledge of various foods and their effect on blood sugar levels enables people with diabetes to eat food they like, choose when and how much to eat. and still control blood-sugar levels.

The Control Diabetes for Life program on Wednesday, June 25 will be offered from 1:30 - 4 p.m. at Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department, 215 N Pearl Street in Wayne.

It is the best time in history to have diabetes, especially in light of the difficulties our parents and grandparents would encounter had they been diagnosed decades ago. Today people with diabetes can choose from a wide variety of nonnutritive sweeteners and can even figure out how to fit sugar-containing foods into their meal plan. With carbohydrate information now readily available for most foods, diabetics can easily learn to count carbohydrates at each meal. This allows diabetics to fit virtually any food into their meal plan. Stacie Petersen, B.S.N. and Cer-

Fitting diabetes into your lifestyle is the key message. Diabetes does not have to dictate how you live. University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension and Franciscan Care Services of West Point invite you and your family members to participate in this diabetes educational program. Participants will learn about current issues related to diabetes from educators with over 20 years of team-teaching experience.

On Wednesday, June 25, is the second of three programs in the 2014 Control Diabetes for Life series. Topics that will be addressed during the two-hour program are: Medications: What They Are and How They Work; Sleep Well Tonight; and Update on Sugar Substitutes and Sugar in Beverages along with other helpful hints. Participants will receive recipes for diabetic appropriate foods. Team-teaching the program will be Deborah Willcox, R.D. and L.M.N.T., and Stacie Control Diabetes for Life is a joint project of University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension and Franciscan Care Services of West Point. The program is offered free-of-charge. Control Diabetes for Life will help participants learn to control diabetes and prolong the onset of complications from the disease. These sessions are designed to supplement the education that you receive from your local diabetes education team and are not a substitute for diabetes classes through your local health care providers.

Participants are asked to preregister by calling UNL Extension office in Wayne County at (402) 375-3310. Please register by Monday, June 23, so the proper number of handouts may be prepared. Nebraska School Food Service Association has approved this session for two hours of continuing education credits for food service staff for attending.

Education groups honor NECC's Roeber

Two educational organizations have recognized Mike Roeber, Northeast Community College agriculture/livestock judging instructor, for outstanding contributions in and out of the classroom.

The Association for Career and Technical Education of Nebraska (ACTEN) and Nebraska Agriculture Educators Association (NAEA) honored Roeber during the Nebraska Career Education Conference recently in Kearney. He was selected as the ACTEN's Outstanding Postsecondary Teacher. His award application will now go on to the Region V Association for Career and Technical Education (ACTE) competition next spring. Also at the conference, the NAEA honored Roeber for 25 years of teaching agriculture education courses.

Weed Research Tour to focus on weed resistance

By STEVAN KNEZEVIC

UNL Weed Extension Specialist

A Field Day focusing on weed resistance to herbicides will be held Thursday, June 26 at the Haskell Ag Lab, located two miles east of

The tour will highlight the importance of herbicide mode of action, and how to use the Site of Action Numbering System to reduce potential for weed resistance in Nebraska. Also, 20 herbicide studies will be shown during the Field Tour. Studies will show comparison of many EPP, PRE and POST herbicides for corn and soybean, as well as control of volunteer Roundup-Ready soybean in Roundup-Ready corn.

This will be a minimum 3-hour long event, which will start with presentations of several topics for discussions, and then a Field Tour. Topics for discussion will include: Herbicide Mode of Action and Site of Action Groupings, How Weed Resistance Develops, Weed resistance in Midwest and Nebraska.

Field Day will start with registration at 9 a.m., presentation at 9:15 and Tour at 10:30 a.m.

Weed resistance to herbicides is not a new thing.

started using chemicals for weed control. Weed scientists predicted in mid-1950s that repeated use of any herbicide could lead to shift in weed species, and that herbicide tolerance in weeds can increase with repeated use of the same herbicide. Very soon after that (early-1970s) the first cases of weed resistance occurred in pigweed species showing resistance to atrazine. Worldwide about 368 herbicide-resistant weed biotypes reported to be resistant to 19 different herbicide modes of ac-

In Nebraska, we have about 20 weed biotypes that are resistant to five main herbicide modes of actions. The list of weed species include: common waterhemp, redroot pigweed, Palmer amaranth, kochia, shattercane, marestail and giant ragweed. The type of resistance includes: triazine, HPPD, ALS, growth regulators and Glycine. The newest type of resistance is the glycine type (glyphosate-Roundup) confirmed in four Nebraska's species (waterhemp, marestail, kochia,

Workshop to give insight on how to stop wildfires

Some of our readers have homes along the Missouri River. It is a bit of a drive, but you may want to consider attending this coming work-

The Nebraska Forest Service is coordinating a workshop for Friday, June 27 that will help homeowners with recommendations and actions to help protect their homes from wildfires. The workshop will focus on homes located in heavily wooded areas. With more home development happening among the wooded locations in north Cedar and Knox counties and other areas, there is an associated growing chance of the loss of property and life to wildfire. The workshop raises the awareness of the risks of building amid flammable landscapes and provides help in making the ownerships as safe as

There are many factors to consider before making a fungicide application for this purpose and decisions shouldn't be made in haste. In general, foliar fungicide use following hail is not necessary for several

Many of the diseases that are favored by wounding are not controlled with foliar fungicides, such as those caused by bacteria (especially Goss's wilt and blight), common smut, and stalk rots. Furthermore, foliar diseases that can be managed with foliar fungicides, such as gray leaf spot and southern rust, do NOT need wounds for infection. The development of some of these diseases following a hail event might more likely be attributed to the rain and periods of increased relative humidity that accompanied the storm rather than the hail itself.

There is little to no research data from fungicide trials conducted on hailed corn this early in the season at these early growth stages. Most of the trials were done much later in the season (V12-R2) and results are probably not representative of our current scenario. If you are considering trying a fungicide on your corn after a hail event, please use untreated check strips to check your yields and see whether the applicaestimated to be $2,236,600. It is anticipated that funding will be provided by any or all of the following: local bank, Wayne Area Economic Development, TIF, and owner

FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

The City of Wayne has determined that the project will have no significant impact on the human environment. Therefore, an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA) is not required. Additional project information is contained in the Environmental Review Record (ERR) on file at the Wayne City office, 306 Pearl Street, Wayne, NE 68787 and may be examined or copied weekdays 8:00 A.M to 5:00 P.M.

PUBLIC COMMENTS Any individual, group, or agency may submit written comments on the ERR to the Wayne City Clerk's office. All comments received by July 7, 2014, will be considered by the City of Wayne prior to authorizing submission of a potential request for release of funds. Comments should specify which Notice they are addressing

RELEASE OF FUNDS

The City of Wayne certifies to the Nebraska Department of Economic Development (DED) that Ken Chamberlain in his capacity as Mayor consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to the environmental review process and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. Approva of the certification satisfies its responsibilities under NEPA and related laws and authorities and allows the City of Wayne to use HUD program funds.

OBJECTIONS TO RELEASE OF FUNDS

DED will accept objections to its potential release of fund and the City of Wayne's certification for a period of fifteen days following the anticipated submission date or its actual receipt of the request (whichever is later) only if they are on one of the following bases: (a) the certification was not executed by the Certifying Officer of the City of Wayne: (b) the City of Wayne has omitted a step or failed to make a decision or finding required by HUD regulations at 24 CFR part 58; (c) the grant recipient or other participants in the development process have committed funds, incurred costs or undertaken activities not authorized by 24 CFR Part 58 before approval of a release of funds by DED; or (d) another Federal agency acting pursuant to 40 CFR Part 1504 has submitted a written finding that the project is unsatisfactory from of environmental quality Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedures (24 CFR Part 58, Sec. 58.76) and shall be addressed to DED at PO Box 94666, Lincoln, 68509-4666. Potential objectors should contact DED to verify the actual last day of the objection period.

THANK YOUS

Thank you to all who gave cards, flowers, memorials, food & prayers after the death of Don Pedersen. Seeing all of you at the visitation & funeral was very, very comforting.

Barbara Jo Pedersen; Randy, Rozan & Family; Terry, Diana & Family; Brent, Brenda & Family; Beth, Ron & Family

Thank you to everyone that sent a card, gift, visited or prayed for me since my recent surgery. They all helped to speed my recovery. A special thank you to Pastor Sarah Rusk for her visits, prayers and words of encouragement to my family. Also I do not want to forget a thank you to Doctor Recob, Doctor Gurbuz and his wonderful staff at Mercy Heart Center. Our children were all also a great help to both of us. Shirley Woodward

We would like to thank everyone. Othe hugs, cards, food, words of comfort and other kind deeds following the death of our Mom and Grandma, Agnes Buresh. We are truly blessed to live in a community with so many wonderful people. Clara, Katie, Emilie and Anna Osten

Wayne Family Medicine, Dr. Melissa Dobbins and Barb Fish would like to thank Lisa Nelson, Dr. Pam Langlie-Willer and WSC Service Learning Department for their interest in the Reach Out and Read Program. Dr. Langlie-Willer's Infant and Toddler class created great age appropriate packets to go with the books, which are given to children at their Well Child visits from ages 1-5. WSC also donated 260 books that were funded through a Service Learning sub-grant. We have enjoyed working with WSC on the common goal of educating and emphasizing the importance of reading and childhood development for our local patients. Thank you, we look forward to working with you
