Featured entertainer at Wayne County Fair

Corbin feeling at home at top of charts

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

Growing up in Gilchrist County, Florida, Easton Corbin should feel right at home when he visits Wayne this weekend.

The 32-year-old country star, the featured performer for the 92nd annual Wayne County Fair, will be at the Wayne County Fairgrounds on Saturday for an 8 p.m. show, and he enjoys playing county fairs because it reminds him of his days growing up the small county in north central Florida.

"I really enjoy them," he said on a recent day off at his home in Nashville. "It makes me feel like I'm at home. I grew up in 4-H and FFA and showed cattle, so when I get around that atmosphere it makes me feel right at home."

He's been feeling at home at the top of the country charts since his arrival on the scene a few years ago.

His debut album reached the top five on the Billboard country charts, and he became the first male country artist in 17 years to have his first singles go all the way to No. 1. "A Little More Country Than That" was his first No. 1 single in 2009, and he followed that early in 2010 with "Roll With It." He became the first male country artist since Dierks Bentley in 2003 to hit the No. 1 spot with his debut release.

His quick rise up the charts - which included "I Can't Love You Back" going as high as No. 14 - made him an easy choice for Breakthrough Artist of the Year at the 2010 American Country Awards. He was nominated for seven awards that year and won three, including best breakthrough artist single and video for "A Little More Country Than That."

"It's tough out there for a new artist, so I was definitely surprised," he said of his early success. "It's something you always hope for and I was just blessed (to receive the awards)."

He has followed up his debut success with a solid second release, "All Over The Road." The album has generated a pair of top 10 hits, including "Lovin' You Is Fun" and the title track, which has been very popular among local country music fans.

"I didn't write the song, but I can remember hearing it and thinking that it was just a great song," he said. "It's just really a fun song that people can have fun listening to, and it makes you feel good."

Having that early success hasn't gone to Corbin's head, and he said the hard work on tour has helped him stay focused and continue to put on a good show every night.

"That early success was awesome, but you always have to keep working," he said. "We're doing our own stuff right now on tour and running pretty hard. We've been playing songs off the old records and we have some new songs with the third record we're working on."

Corbin has worked hard to make his name in country music, touring with the likes of Rascal Flatts, Blake Shelton and Brad Paisley. He draws on his biggest influences - Merle Haggard, George Jones and Keith

Tax receipts near record

For the second time this year, city sales tax receipts in Wayne eclipsed the $60,000 mark, according to information released Monday morning by city finance director Nancy Braden.

July's city sales tax receipts, which are based on sales made during the month of May, were $61,652.84, just shy of the record amount of $61,886.80 received in February.

For the fiscal year to date, the city has received $541,324.49, an average of more than $54,000 per month. That is almost $2,000 ahead of the projected monthly average, putting the city on target to eclipse last year's fiscal year-end total of $614,827.19.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

City Council Meetings

Regular City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in city hall at 3rd and Pearl Streets.

New Swimming Pool

The citizens' swimming pool committee and the city council meet last evening to discuss the pool committee recommendation to the council and to review the results of the community survey about building a pool.

No vote was taken, but the consensus was to split the proposed indoor/outdoor pool design concept into Phase I, which would be the outdoor pool to be built in 2015 and Phase II an indoor pool to be proposed at a future date if finances are available. The consensus was to build an estimated $2.8 million outdoor pool/aquatic center at the Community Activity Center site and to make more parking space available.

The consensus was also to ask voters if they will approve a 1/2 cent sales tax to build the pool with the sales tax ending as soon as the construction bonds to build the pool are paid off. The clear message from the community survey was to not increase property taxes to build any pool project.

The council will meet on Aug. 5 to vote on a resolution authorizing a ballot issue in the November election for voters to vote on approval of a special 1/2 cent sales tax increase. About $900,000 to $1 million is expected to be raised for pool construction from the current one cent sales tax that voters approved in 2008.

Thanks to these citizens who worked with us on the pool committee for nearly three years to develop the options for the council to consider: Heather Claussen, Jodi Pulfer, Nana Petersen, Tammy Evetovich, Jill Walling, Jeff Carstens, Alex Koch and BJ Woehler.

A big thanks also to those who took the time to complete the 260 swimming pool surveys of public opinion we received.

Scouting outing

Four Boy Scouts from Wayne were among those attending a week-long at Camp Wilderness Scout Camp in Park Rapids, Minn. (left) Zach Schenk, Andrew Simpson, Jon Worner and James Simpson took part in the camp and were able to spend time on the water, including rowing, motorboating, paddleboarding, small boat sailing and snorkeling. The boys also earned the Herman Stern Honor Troop Award while at camp. To earn this, the boys had to participate in several activities, including a 6am Polar Bear Plunge, a service project, performing skits at a campfire and a chapel service. Money received from the Wayne United Way helped send these scouts to camp.

Longtime volunteers

The Wayne Lions Club has volunteered to staff the information booth for the Wayne Chicken Show Days for 18 years of the Show's 34 year history. In the photo above, are Lion Fred Mann and Lion Faye Mann (seated). Fred has been a member of the Lions Club for 41 years and Faye for seven years. (back) Lion Charles Maier has the longest membership of anyone in the Wayne Club, with 44 years of service. The Wayne Lions Club is 53 years old. Lion Ruth Grone Maier has served the club for three years. Because of the rain during this year's Chicken Show activities, Lions Club members used towels to keep Chicken Show information dry and readable by those attending the event.

Scott Von Minden (right) and his friend, Bob Dodds, stand with their Harley Ultra Classics that they plan on riding to this year's Sturgis Motorcycle Rally in South Dakota. This year is the 50-year anniversary of Von Minden's first trip to the famed motorcycle rally.

Allen native celebrating 50th anniversary of Sturgis trip

By CATE VON MINDEN
Special to the Herald

Scott Von Minden, was only eight-years-old when he was first hit with Sturgis fever.

That was the year that he and his dad packed up their brand new 1964 300 Honda Dream and hit the road to the Black Hills of South Dakota for the annual Sturgis Bike Rally.

There was hardly room for little Scott, since they carried one change of clothes each, one sleeping bag to share, one tarp, two toothbrushes, a can of bug spray and not much else.

"And believe me, that bike is small – I know, because that sweet little beauty is sitting in my garage this very moment," says Von Minden, who now lives in Lincoln.

This summer marks the 50th anniversary of that first trip to Sturgis. Von Minden recalls how he and his dad, Merle Von Minden, and two other father and son teams – Herb and Mike Ellis and Larry and Scott McAfee – set out on their matching new Honda motorcycles. Sturgis, S.D. is a whopping 440 miles from their home town of Allen. The Von Minden bike was red, and the other bikes were white and black, respectively, representing Honda's entire color palette for that year.

Long before the area became a tourism mecca, The Black Hills region was one of the Great Plains' best-kept secrets. A small, isolated mountain range bordering South Dakota and Wyoming, the oval-shaped Black Hills feature a tangle of winding mountain roads perfect for motorcycle riding.

In the sixties, the Sturgis rally was minuscule compared to what it's grown into today – one of the largest in the world with hordes of bikers turning up for a week of fantastic riding and just plain fun.

Von Minden's fondest memory of that first trip is when they pulled their bikes off the road under Mount Rushmore, tossed their sleeping bags on the grass and slept all night under the watchful gaze of four presidents.

"Back then," he said, "no one cared if you did something crazy like that. Now, we'd go to jail."

Times have certainly changed since 1964, and "crazy" in Sturgis during the bike rally is now defined in a whole new way. Back then, the number of bikers attending the event numbered in the hundreds, versus the hundreds of thousands that attend today.

This year, Von Minden plans to go to the Sturgis rally with one of his best friends, Bob Dodds, of Lincoln. Dodds is also celebrating an anniversary. Forty years ago, when he was 17, Dodds and his family traveled 600 miles from Lincoln to Sturgis. His mom made him trailer his 1973 forest green Kawasaki 400 Triple, which his friends nicknamed "the popcorn machine" because of its distinct sound, and he rode in the back of the station wagon with his three younger siblings.

Von Minden camped at the Sturgis city park that year, 1974, and might have even run into Dodds, who was there camping with his family, but they really can't recall. By that time, Von Minden had graduated to riding his own tyrolean green metallic Honda CB450 and attending the rally with friends. He remembers that one of his buddies laid his bike down on the interstate and slid shirtless at 60 miles per hour before he landed in the ditch. The boy survived, but had some pretty bad road rash.

The guys like to reminisce about camping in the city park and seeing the sights. The rally was very tame and family-oriented. They rode their bikes as much as they could, but there were fewer paved roads in the region back then.

"Honestly," Dodds said, "My mother was pretty overprotective and hardly let me out of her sight, what with all those bikers around."

The two highlights of the three-day event were the hill climb and the short track races, which are still well attended today. Von Minden recalls that in 1974, when streaking naked was the prank of the day, one guy rode "bare assed" several times around the track, which added some shock value to the trip.

"Now, naked riding is no big deal – as they say, what goes on in Sturgis, stays in Sturgis," said Dodds, laughing.

The two friends have gone back to the rally many times over the years. They haven't counted, but both say that they've probably made the trip about 25 times each. The event runs the first full week of August.

This year, Von Minden and his wife, Cate, and Dodds and his wife, Susan, and several other couples from the Roughriders motorcycle group of Lincoln, will ride to Sturgis for a week of riding and the kind of entertainment that you only find at bike rallies. Von Minden serves as president of the Roughriders, and Dodds is vice president. They no longer camp, but rent a couple of houses in Lead, S.D.

The guys switched to Harleys long ago. Now riding Ultra Classics, they have been members of HOG (Harley Owners Group) for many years.

Every year, Von Minden uncovers his 300 Honda Dream, which is in its original condition. He starts it up and, just to show it off, rides it to his neighborhood bar, Cappy's, for their annual bike show. Von Minden keeps the bike's many trophies in the house, but the Honda Dream is relegated to the garage.

"I'd like to display it in house," he says, "but my wife says 'no.'"

Loberg attends week-long camp

It was the tape that James Cheek found tricky. "It's hard to get it to do what you want it to," said the sophomore from Nevada, Iowa who was building a fort from cardboard boxes. Cheek was in a creation activity as part of a week-long invention-themed camp held July 13-18 for blind and visually impaired children from Iowa and Nebraska.

Cheek and his peers can attend more than a dozen such camps each year across Iowa, offered by Iowa Educational Services for the Blind and Visually Impaired. Invention Camp was held in Council Bluffs on the Iowa School for the Deaf campus. Campers attend partly to learn more about how to safely navigate new environments and experiences, but especially to meet friends.

"We talk to each other about problems we have at our school and we actually understand what it's like," said soon-to-be eighth grader Maura Loberg from Wayne, Neb. "We understand and relate to each other. My favorite thing is always being back with friends." Loberg is attending the camp for her fourth year, having skipped once because she just happened to win a national essay contest which rewarded her with a trip to Europe the same week.

Alongside Cheek and Loberg at Invention Camp are seven other students, aged 12-16. Students choose from a variety of camps based on age, interest and ability. During Invention Camp, they made paper, built forts and creations from cardboard boxes (and the dreaded tape), went on field trips, and participated in exercise and group games.

In the evenings, there is more socializing and relaxing. Tandem bike riding with a sighted rider, swimming and audio description movies are offered. Invention Camp was one of the more challenging themed weeks, with its campers being independent in their activities.

A new coat from future leaders

Sam Stevenson of Omaha (front) and Marc Osborn of Alameda, Calif., put their painting skills to good use at the Wayne Community Activity Center as part of the Launch Leadership Workshop that recently performed some community service projects in the Wayne area. The group is an all-volunteer organization that provides leadership training and development for middle and high school-age students. A total of 16 volunteers and 58 high school seniors worked on five service projects in town, including a food drive, helping at the local Food Pantry, talking with residents at Emeritus at the Oaks and creating awareness for violence against women for the Clothesline Project.

Haskell Ag. Lab plans Open House for August 13

The Haskell Agricultural Laboratory at Concord is planning an Open House Celebration of the 100-year anniversary of the Cooperative Extension System.

The event is set for Wednesday, Aug. 13 from 3-6 p.m. at the facility, located at 57905 866 Road, approximately one mile east of Concord.

The concept of Extension was established with the signing of the Smith-Lever Act of 1914.

The Aug. 13 celebration will highlight both Extension's past and the future. The Open House will begin at the farm shop with displays of past and current research and programs.

A one-hour tour of the farm will run every half hour, with the last tour leaving at 4:30 p.m. After each tour all will be served a special University of NE-Lincoln Dairy Store Centennial ice cream flavor.

The event is free and the public is encouraged to attend.

The lab at Concord grew out of local interest that Ag research be conducted in the region. The Experimental Farm Association took donation of a 320-acre farm from the C.D. Haskell family and turned it over to NU in 1957. About 10 years ago, the site, originally named the Northeast Nebraska Experimental Farm, was renamed the Haskell Agricultural Laboratory after the donors.

The facility continues to conduct research in beef cattle, swine, crop production and crop nutrition, pesticides and other ag and natural resources issues.

The research has been extended to farmers and ranchers in northeast Nebraska and beyond through Extension workshops and publications and has helped producers increase yields, decrease costs, and protect the environment.

In addition, Extension staff help youth and adults put knowledge to work in areas of 4-H and youth development, parent education, nutrition and health, food safety, community development, entrepreneurship and many more.

Red Cross offers tips to beat heat

Dangerously hot weather is predicted for Nebraska and Iowa, and the American Red Cross reminds everyone of the steps they should take to stay safe when the temperatures rise.

"In recent years there have been more deaths related to the heat than to all other weather events," said Tina Labellarte, Region CEO. "There are steps people can take to stay safe and beat the heat."

Here are some heat safety tips:

- Never leave children or pets alone in enclosed vehicles.
- Slow down, stay indoors and avoid strenuous exercise during the hottest part of the day.
- Take frequent breaks if working outdoors.
- Use a buddy system when working in excessive heat.
- Check on family, friends and neighbors who do not have air conditioning, who spend much of their time alone or who are more likely to be affected by the heat.
- Check on animals frequently to ensure that they are not suffering from the heat. Ensure they have water and a shady place to rest.
- Eat small meals and eat more often.
- Avoid extreme temperature changes.
- Wear loose-fitting, lightweight, light-colored clothing.

Excessive heat can lead to sunburn, heat cramps, heat exhaustion and heat stroke. To help avoid problems, stay hydrated by drinking plenty of fluids and limit drinks with caffeine or alcohol.

If someone is experiencing heat cramps in the legs or abdomen, get them to a cooler place, have them rest, lightly stretch the affected muscle and replenish their fluids with a half a glass (about 4 ounces) of cool water every 15 minutes.

If a person is exhibiting signs of heat exhaustion (cool, moist, pale or flushed skin, heavy sweating, headache, nausea, dizziness, weakness exhaustion), move them to a cooler place, remove or loosen tight clothing and spray the person with water or apply cool, wet cloths or towels to the skin. Fan the person. If they are conscious, give small amounts of cool water to drink. Make sure the person drinks slowly. Watch for changes in condition. If the person refuses water, vomits or begins to lose consciousness, call 9-1-1 or the local emergency number.

Signs of heat stroke include hot, red skin which may be dry or moist; changes in consciousness; vomiting; and high body temperature. Call 911 or the local emergency number immediately if some shows signs of heat stroke. Move the person to a cooler place. Quickly cool the person's body by immersing them up to their neck in cold water if possible. Otherwise, douse or spray the person with cold water, or cover the person with cold, wet towels or bags of ice.

Whitley – to develop his own voice and style that has proven to be a big hit with country music fans. His first album reached No. 4, and his follow-up, released in September of 2012, got as high as No. 2 on the country album charts.

Corbin is finishing up work on his third album, which he hopes will be released toward the end of the year. He's already having success with the first single on the album, "Clockwork," which has hit the top 40 on the country charts.

"It's a bad relationship song," he said. "It's that person in your life that's always there, and they always show up and you want to see them but you know the results aren't going to be good."

It's a good bet he'll have a better result after fans in Wayne get to see him on Saturday night.

Wood steps down as Wildcats' softball coach

Krista Wood was 270-154 in eight years as the Wildcats' softball coach.

After eight years of turning Wayne State softball into a tough out, Krista Wood is moving up to the Div. I level.

Wayne State College athletic director Mike Powicki announced Tuesday that head softball coach Krista Wood has stepped down to take the head coaching position at South Dakota State University, ending an eight-year tenure of success in building up the Wildcat softball program.

"We are extremely thankful to Coach Wood for her dedication and effort in building a very successful softball program here at Wayne State," Powicki said in a news release. "She is a true professional who is very deserving of her new position and I am sure she will have a tremendous amount of success at the Division I level."

The Wayne State job was Wood's first as a college coach, and she expressed gratitude for the opportunity to begin her coaching career here.

"I would like to thank Wayne State College and the Wayne community for giving me the opportunity to start my coaching career as a softball coach at Wayne State," Wood said. "It has been a pleasure having the opportunity to help mold the lives and careers of so many dedicated young student-athletes that have become great women. I also appreciate the support they have given the softball program throughout the years to help us accomplish all of our goals and dreams."

Wood added, "I will always have a place in my heart for all of the experiences and great number of people who have all been a part of my journey here at Wayne State. I wish Wayne State and all of its programs the best of luck in the future."

Wood spent eight seasons at Wayne State

College and became the school's all-time winningest coach, posting a 270-154 overall record and a 133-60 mark in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference. Inheriting a program that was 10-34 the previous year, she quickly turned Wayne State softball into an instant winner with a school-record eight straight winning seasons, three NCAA Tournament appearances, one NCAA super regional berth and one NSIC conference tournament title.

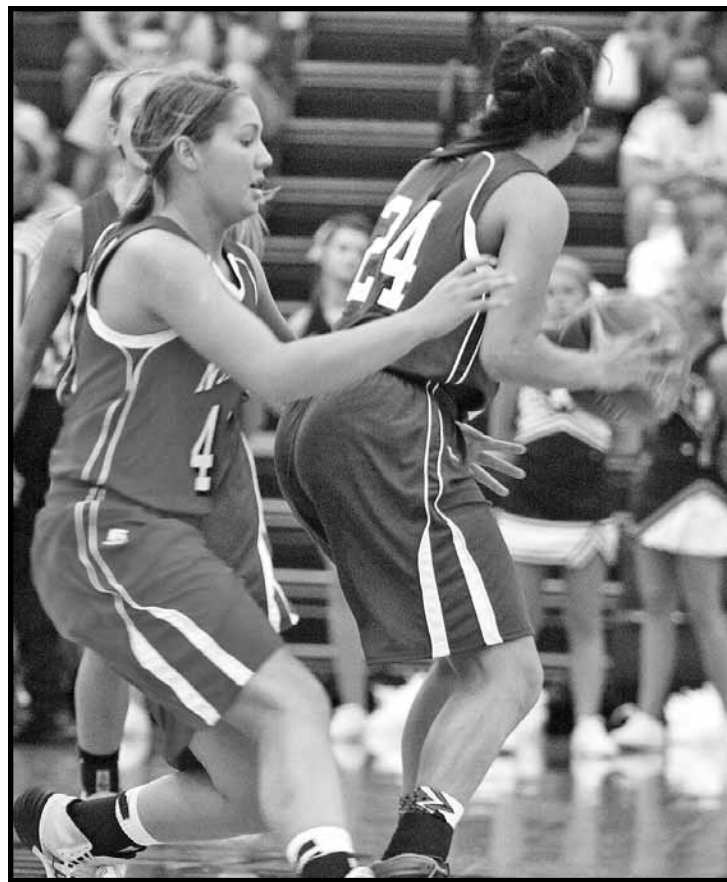

This past season, Wood guided Wayne State College to a 35-18 record, finishing fourth in the NSIC with a 20-8 league mark. Her team set numerous school records this season, including team batting average (.324), runs scored (296), doubles (80) and RBI's (274) while ranking second in hits (461) and home runs (42).

Prior to Wayne State, Wood was a graduate assistant coach for two seasons at St. Cloud State, helping the Mavericks to second- and third-place finishes in the North Central Conference in 2005 and 2006.

Formerly Krista Unger, she was a standout player at Nebraska-Omaha from 1999-2003, helping the Mavericks to the NCAA Div. II national championship as a sophomore. Wood finished her career as the all-time winningest pitcher at UNO with 106 wins and 530 strikeouts. In the 2001 national championship game, Wood fired a two-hit shutout with five strikeouts in a 4-0 win over Lewis University. She was a three-time first-team All-North Central Conference selection and an NFCA All-Region selection twice with the Mavericks.

Powicki said that a search for the next head softball coach at Wayne State College will begin immediately.

Early kudos are given to WSC duo

Wayne State College seniors Adam Stark and Jeff Van Den Top have been named to the 25th annual USA College Football All-American team as selected by members of football writers associations, head coaches, sports information directors, and the staffs of Lindy's Sports and USA Football News.

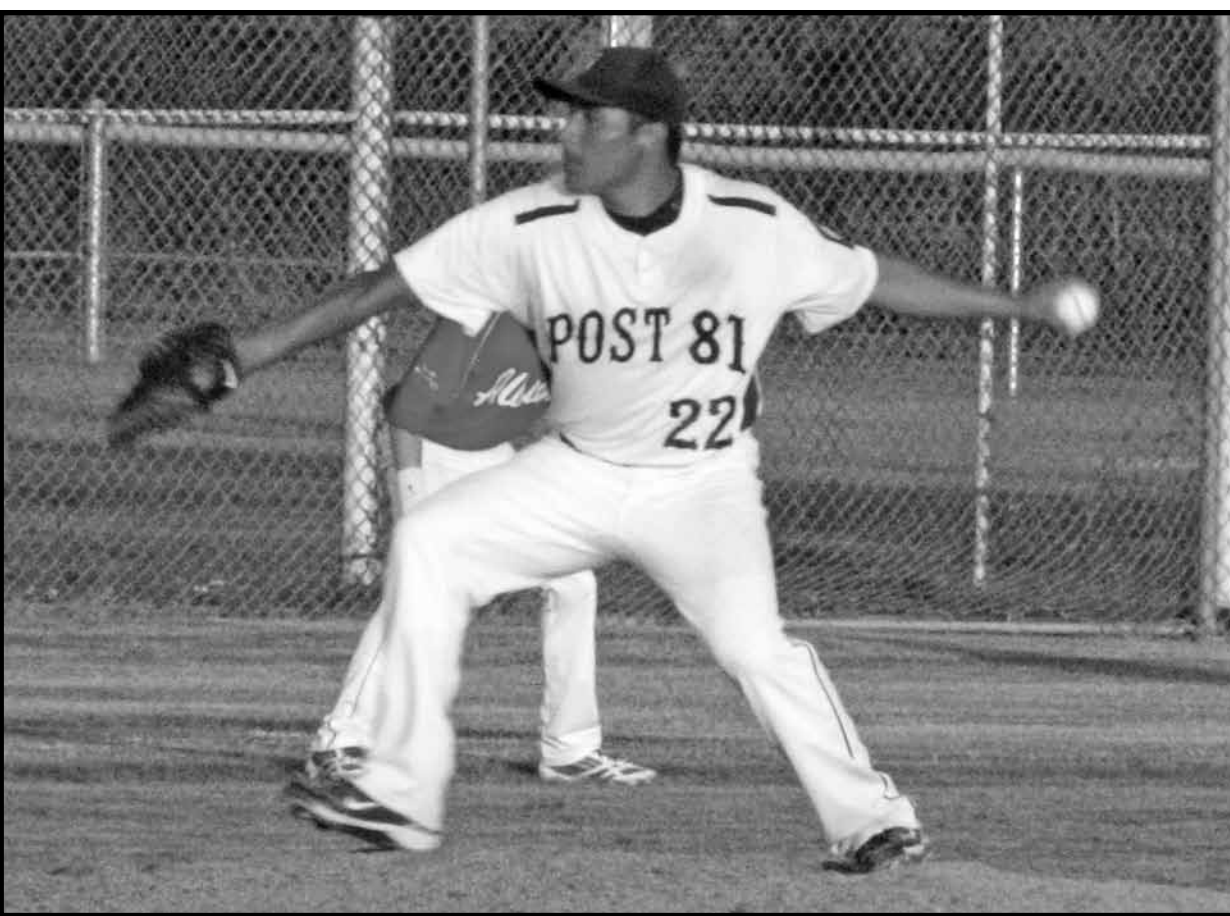

Van Den Top, a 6-foot-6, 255-pound defensive end from Hull, Iowa, ranked third on the Wildcat defense last season with 58 tackles and received NSIC South Division second-team honors for a second straight season. He was credited with 11 tackles for loss for 53 yards and had four sacks for 39 yards while leading the team with seven quarterback hurries.

Stark, a 6-foot-1, 190-pound wide receiver from Elkhorn, was an NSIC South Division second-team selection on offense last season after leading the Wildcats with 35 receptions for 723 yards and five touchdowns. He averaged 20.7 yards per catch and 72.3 receiving yards per game to rank eighth in the NSIC. Stark also had 13 kickoff returns for 217 yards and 13 punt returns for 40 yards last season.

Wayne State opens the 2014 season at home on Saturday, Sept. 6 against Bemidji State.

Area all-stars play well

Three area players took part in the Nebraska Coaches Association all-star basketball games on Monday in Lincoln. In the boys game, Jalen Barry (left) scored 12 points, including a 3-pointer and a pair of free throws in the final minute, but it wasn't enough for the Red squad as the Blues came back to post an exciting 115-114 win. In the girls game, Lauren Lehmkuhl of Wakefield (center) hit for 13 points and 11 rebounds to help the Red team edge the Blue all-stars, 77-76. Cameron Eddie of Laurel-Concord/Coleridge (right) played for the Blue team, scoring seven points in the contest.

Julio Perez fires a pitch home for the Wakefield seniors during action in the Class B, Area 5 tournament at Albion

Top-seeded Albion defeats Wakefield for Area 5 title

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

ALBION — Mistakes are a part of the game, and it comes down to what a team does with those extra opportunities.

Top-seeded Albion took advantage of Wakefield miscues when it counted, and that helped the host team come away with the Class B, Area 5 championship Tuesday as they posted a 10-1 win over Wakefield.

Albion led 3-0 in the fourth inning when Wakefield had an opportunity to close the gap, but a nice double play off a baserunning slip-up by Wakefield seemed to turn the momentum of the game in favor of the host team.

"We made a few errors at times, and it seemed like when we made mistakes, they were able to capitalize, and when they made mistakes we didn't," coach Jeff Keagle said after the game. "Sometimes, you get in some tough situations."

Albion chased starting pitcher Julio Perez with three runs in the second inning, but reliever Alex Conley was able to keep the top-seeded Albion squad off the board, giving Wakefield an opportunity to repeat its late-inning heroics of the previous night.

In the fourth, Jake Lutt led off with a double to right center and Perez reached on a throwing error, giving Wakefield two runners in scoring position with no out. Conley lifted a fly ball to center field for the first out, and Lutt appeared to stumble and was late getting back to third to tag up, he tried to score, but a one-hop throw by Derek Gentrup was gathered by Tyler Hedlund, who tagged Lutt going by for the second out.

That momentum helped Albion break the game open in the fifth, as they scored four runs to take command of the game. They added three more in the sixth, then shut down Wakefield's last good scoring

The Wayne Broncos White team claimed their league title with a win over previously unbeaten Lyons-Bancroft.

Broncos White wins league

The Wayne Broncos White team went a perfect 4-0 and took down the top-seeded team to win the Tri-County League tournament last week.

Wayne opened with a 4-2 win over the West Point Royals, riding the pitching of Jonah Brodersen and Jacob Kneiff, who combined to strike out 11 batters. The Broncos got multiple-hit performances from Kneiff, Hagan Miller, Gunnar Jorgensen and Christopher Worderman.

Wayne advanced to the semifinals with a 7-0 win over Pender, thanks to the pitching of Miller and Josh Lutt. The duo combined for nine strikeouts and got solid defensive play behind them for the shutout. Jorgensen had three hits in the win and Blake Bartow reached base three times.

It was an all-Wayne semifinal between the Broncos White and Broncos Blue teams, with the White team coming out on top in an exciting 3-2 decision. Kneiff threw a complete-game victory and struck out eight while allowing three hits, and the defense once again came through with a solid performance. Kneiff had three hits and Miller added two for the winners.

In the championship game, Wayne took on top-seeded and undefeated Lyons-Bancroft and used a combination of great pitching and timely hitting to post a 9-4 win and claim the league title.

Miller threw five solid innings and relied on his defense to do the job before Kneiff shut the door in the sixth. Offensively, Kneiff had a big night with four hits and three RBI's, Brodersen had three hits and three RBI's, Jorgensen had three hits and drove in two and Lutt added three hits.

The Broncos White team finished their championship season with a 14-1 record.

Baldwin sixth at State Amateur

Wayne resident Joey Baldwin was tied for sixth after 36 holes in the Nebraska Amateur Championship at Norfolk Country Club.

Baldwin fired an even-par 72 to remain at 2-under par, just four shots behind leader David Clouse of Friend. Baldwin was tied with Josh Reinertson of Gibbon, who was among the first-day leaders before turning in a 2-over 74 to fall back to a tie for sixth with Baldwin and Lance Lawson of Norfolk, who shot a 73 on the second day.

A total of 62 players made the cut for the final two rounds, which were scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday.

Six Wildcats make NABC Honors Court Wakefield

Six Wayne State men's basketball players were named to the 2013-14 National Association of Basketball Coaches Honors Court.

Wildcat players receiving the honor included seniors Adol Aluong, Tyler Bauschek and Ryan Rolfzen along with juniors David Andersen, Jordan Holdsworth and Patrick Kurth. Wayne State had the most players honored of any school from the Northern Sun Conference listed for the award.

To qualify for the award, a student-athlete must be a junior or senior and a varsity player, maintain a cumulative grade-point average of 3.2 or higher at the conclusion of the 2013-14 academic year and have competed at their current institution for at least one year.

A record number 895 student-athletes from 335 colleges and universities in NCAA Division I, II or III and NAIA Division I and II earned NABC Honors Court distinction.

Wakefield's only run of the game came in the fifth when Aaron Carlson reached on a dropped fly ball by Gentrup that would have been the third out of the inning. Another error and consecutive walks to Zack Kvidera and Lutt brought Carlson home with Wakefield's only run.

Wakefield was held to three hits in the contest. Lutt's fourth-inning double was sandwiched between singles by Carlson and Evan Nicholson.

Wakefield reached the finals with an exciting come-from-behind win in Monday's elimination round, edging Columbus Lakeview for the second time in the tournament, 4-2.

Wakefield was down 2-0 in the sixth when Kvidera's RBI single scored Nicholson, who doubled to get Wakefield's rally started.

In the top of the seventh, Wakefield was two outs away from defeat when they rallied. A single by Hunter Schweers and a walk to Perez, was followed by a sacrifice fly from Carlson that included an errant throw which scored Perez to tie the game. Nicholson and Kvidera followed with RBI singles to help Wakefield turn a one-run deficit into a two-run lead that they held on to for the win.

"Our M.O. has been pitching and defense," Keagle said. "We're not a great hitting team, but we can put a few hits together and move the ball around. We pitched well and kept ourselves in the game and were able to put pressure on their defense, and we had a couple of nice hustle plays to score runs. It was a gutsy effort."

Kvidera got the win in relief and helped his cause with three hits in the game, while Nicholson added a pair of hits.

ment with a 9-2 win over Central City on Friday. Lutt opened the scoring with a two-run double in the first inning, and Wakefield broke the game open with four runs in the third inning to advance in the double-elimination tournament.

Lutt was the winning pitcher in Friday's win and helped his cause with two hits and two runs scored. Nicholson scored three times and Owen Salmon added a pair of hits.

On Saturday, Wakefield posted its first win over Lakeview, hanging on for a 7-5 victory. Wakefield broke the game open with five runs in the bottom of the sixth, but Lakeview scored four in the top of the seventh and had the tying run at the plate to make things interesting.

Perez had a two-run single and Conley scored a pair of runs to highlight the Wakefield victory.

In the winners bracket final on Sunday, Albion blew the game open late for a 16-4 win over Wakefield.

Wakefield trailed 3-0 in the fourth before scoring a run when Lutt brought Nicholson home on a fielder's choice. Albion broke the game open with six runs in the sixth and added three more in the seventh to put the game out of reach.

Tanner Perkins had a two-run single and Belt added an RBI single to the Wakefield effort in Sunday's loss.

Overall, Wakefield finished 23-15 and earned Ralph Bishop League championship and area runner-up honors for the second year in a row, which was impressive considering the team was made up of players from three communities, including Ponca and Wayne.

"Sometimes, when you get kids from a number of towns together, you might lack that team chemistry, but this is a team that bought in and it was a great bunch of kids who supported each other," Keagle said. "They did a nice job of coming together this summer. Wayne and Wakefield co-oped during the spring and that was a lot of a fun, and that carried over into the summer."

Summer recital

A number of piano students of Mrs. Marcile Uken recently traveled to Wakefield for a recital. Taking part were (front) Easton Blecke and Orion Spieker. (middle) James Torres, Liam Spieker, Sarah Tompson, James Tompson and Brooklyn Bierbower. (back) Ky Kenney, Elisabeth Torres, Andrea Torres, Breanna Kallhoff, Faith Junck and Treton Blecke.

A kindergarten audience listened to Lion Kathleen Johs, as she volunteered to read at a session during the Wayne Public Library's summer reading program.

Lions Club assists with Summer Reading program

Earlier this year the Wayne Lions Club had an invitation to participate or support the Wayne Public Library's Summer Reading Program.

The club purchased "The Littlest Lion," a children's book for the WPL youth collection. The Lions are promoting and partnering with the 'Reading Action Program' that allows children to keep their reading skills sharp during their vacation from school. The donated book is sure to delight and educate young readers about the five lion cubs that were born at the Omaha Henry Doorly Zoo. The story is told through Zuri, the smallest cub, who battled to survive and thrive in a special family. The new International Lion President, Joe Preston, will serve 2014-15 under the theme "Strengthen the Pride" which the local club has a goal to reach.

International Lion President Barry Palmer's theme was, "Follow your Dream." Lions service is more than a theme--it's the organizations reality and responsibility.

The "Reading Action Program" focused clubs to share the dreams of education by reading to youth and participating in Apples for Education, local support to the school. The Club has earned an award Banner Patch by participating in local education activities for youth in the community.

Lauren Gilliland awarded dairy scholarship

Local girls earn scouting awards

Girl Scouts Spirit of Nebraska recently recognized 59 Girl Scouts in the Columbus area who earned either their Bronze or Silver Award. These Nebraska Girl Scouts have joined the ranks of generations of young women whose projects make a difference in their communities and who earn a Girl Scout Award for this accomplishment.

Among those recognized were Karlee Woehler and Kecia Schenk from Troop 50192 in Wayne, who earned Silver Awards.

The Girl Scout Bronze Award is the highest honor a Junior Girl Scout (Grades 4-5) can achieve. This award requires a team project with a minimum of 20 hours of community service where Girl Scouts learn leadership and planning skills while making a positive impact on their community. Girls develop confidence and strengthen their character while discovering they can make a difference in the world.

The Girl Scout Silver Award is the highest honor a Cadette Girl Scout (Grades 6-8) can achieve. This award requires a project, either as an individual or part of a team, with a minimum of 50 hours of community service where leadership is demonstrated while using planning and communication skills.

Dwaine Spieker publishes second book of poetry

Rogue Faculty Press has announced that Dwaine Spieker of Wayne has published his second book of poetry. It is entitled "The Way Magellan Must Have Felt."

Spieker, whose last collection of poetry, A Garden Of Stars, won the Nebraska Book Award for Poetry in 2010, has once again plumbed his life's experiences through the lens of his unique artistic vision and facility for poetic precision.

In Magellan, Spieker stays true to the elegant and powerful style he exhibited in his first collection, rendering in vivid metaphor the mystery, joy and heartbreak present in life's journey.

Local without being provincial, the poems in Magellan are like small, perfect gifts one receives and wants to keep in some holy quiet place.

The book is available through Rogue Faculty Press.

allocates $5,000 annually for scholarships, funded by Nebraska's dairy farmers through the dairy checkoff.

Gilliland recently graduated from Wayne High School. She plans to attend the University of South Dakota in the fall. She is the daughter of Terry and Shelley Gilliland of Wayne.

The scholarship winners were selected based on leadership, work experience, participation in activities, academic performance, involvement in dairy and financial need. The recipients must reside in the Nebraska

Division of Midwest Dairy Association and be a farmer who funds Midwest Dairy, or the farmer's spouse, child or grandchild.

THE LINK BETWEEN ORAL & OVERALL HEALTH

Here's a great sound bite for you: The health of your mouth may mirror your overall health. What's the link? For one, good dental care helps prevent a buildup of bacteria and inflammation from gum disease. And that may help protect other parts of your body.¹

Researchers need to conduct more studies to confirm the possible links, but evidence is growing.

Heart and blood vessels. Research suggests that heart disease and stroke may be linked to bacteria in your mouth.¹ For example, a recent worldwide trial of nearly 16,000 people showed a strong link between oral health and heart health risk factors in people with chronic heart disease. Gum bleeding was linked with higher levels of "bad" cholesterol and high blood pressure.² Other studies show that heart attacks are more common in people who have dental disease.³

Diabetes. Research also shows a connection between diabetes and gum disease. But which leads to which? It actually goes both ways. Gum disease may get worse if you have diabetes. Some even call it the "sixth complication of diabetes." People with diabetes who have gum disease also have trouble controlling their blood sugar levels. And this may make it harder to manage their disease.³

Other possible links. There appears to be a link between gum disease and premature birth and low birth weight. Affecting the other end of the lifespan, early tooth loss may be a risk factor for Alzheimer's disease. There's also a bit of evidence pointing to a link between bone and tooth loss and weak and brittle bones (osteoporosis).¹

Overall wellbeing. Taking good care of your teeth and gums can also affect your general quality of life. If you're in pain or have missing teeth or infections, that can affect how you speak, eat, and interact with other people.⁴ As you can see, good dental health isn't just about staying cavity free.

How can you know whether or not you have gum disease? After all, millions of people don't know they have this serious infection.⁵ The obvious step is to see your dentist. Also, check for signs and symptoms of gum disease such as:

- Red, swollen, or tender gums
- Bleeding when you brush or floss
- Loose teeth
- Bad breath
- Sores or pus in your mouth
- A change in your bite or the way your partial dentures fit⁶

Here's another important thing to know about oral health. Certain medications, such as antihistamines and diuretics, can have side effects that affect your mouth.⁷ Bring me a list of your medications and we can talk over how to minimize or manage any side effects you may have.

While you're in our store, stock up on the products you need to maintain good oral health: Toothbrushes, toothpaste, and floss for daily brushing and flossing. Don't forget to replace your toothbrush every three to four months—sooner if the bristles become worn. Combine these daily practices with regular dental checkups and a healthy diet. And, you'll be well on your way to good oral health—and a healthier body, too!⁸

Nothing herein constitutes medical advice, diagnosis or treatment, or is a substitute for professional advice. You should always seek the advice of your physician or other medical professional if you have questions or concerns about a medical condition.

Tips offered to prevent poisoning

Summer is the busiest time of the year for the Poison Center. Days are longer and children are out of school spending more time outdoors where they can be exposed to poisons.

Insect Repellents: DEET-containing insecticides should be applied sparingly and only applied to exposed skin and clothing. Lower concentrations of less than 10 percent have been found to be just as effective as higher concentrations.

Bee Stings: The bee population has started to increase and will be at its peak until the first freeze. If you are stung- call the poison center. Close observation for allergic reaction is important, especially in the first hour after a sting.

Poisonous plants/berries: Berries are attractive to small children and can cause some unpleasant symptoms. If you're not sure if your plants are poisonous or if you want a list of toxic plants, the poison center is here to help you.

Bleach: Household bleach has many uses around the house but it can cause problems if it gets in the eye or is swallowed. Bleach should never be used with other cleaning products. When it comes in contact with other cleaners that contain acids or ammonia - a dangerous gas can form causing serious breathing problems.

Hydrocarbons: These are chemicals found in gasoline, kerosene, lighter fluid, cleaners and some insecticides. They are among the top ten causes of childhood poisoning deaths in the United States. Make sure you store these up and out of reach after use.

Food Poisoning: Barbecues and picnics are some of the favorite ways we enjoy summer, but it's important to take some precautions. Remember to keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. The USDA recommends fully cooking all meats to ensure bacteria are destroyed. Meats should be cooked to 160 degrees. Always use a food thermometer as you can't tell if meat is fully cooked by looking at it.

Program the number of the poison center into your phone before you leave for vacation. By calling 1-800-222-1222 anywhere in the country you will reach the poison center. Call the poison center before you head to the emergency room for a poisoning. The call is free to the public and you will be given expert advice and save yourself money.

Special worship, special visitors

The Mercy Air Care helicopter was on site at the Allen United Methodist Church during a recent special worship service honoring Emergency Service Personnel. Wayne High Class of 1959 holds 55th class reunion

During the weekend of Chicken Days the Class of 1959 from Wayne-Carroll High School and Wayne Prep (Hahn High) celebrated their 55th reunion.

The week end began with both classes meeting to have pie, ice cream and conversation at the Woman's Club Room on Friday evening.

Saturday morning found them gathered at the park for egg omelet and then watching the parade. That evening the group enjoyed a catered meal by "Chef's On The Go" at the Cobblestone Hotel.

Ron Blecke shared a video of both classes from years back. A booklet with information and pictures from those not present was compiled by Ron Blecke.

To begin conversation, the class members shared how they met their spouse and any other tidbits of information. It was noted that since the last reunion five years ago three classmates Larry Kramer, Sharon (Gunderson) Corbit and Kerry Miller have passed away from Wayne Carroll High and none from Wayne Prep (Hahn High) Hahn.

Class members and spouses in attendance included Ronald and Carol Blecke of Rocky Mount, Mo.; Larry Brandstetter, Red Oak, Iowa; Barbara (Cook) Sprague, Lincoln; Darrel and Phyllis (Dunklau) Rahn, Wayne; Bob and Mardelle

(Jones) Haberer, Crofton; Willis and Lorna (Labs) Hollman, Wisner; DeVern and Nyla (Mikkelsen) Wegner, Wisner; Lois (Raulston) Evens, Highlands, Calif.; Jerry R (Richter) Young, Des Moines Iowa; Ariel and Shirley (Stuthman) Gordon, Stafford Springs, Conn.; Robert Kluge, Fairbury; Doug Finn Pueblo, Colo.; David and Nancy (Sherbahn) Warnemunde, Winside; all from Wayne Carroll High School.

Those from Wayne Prep were Dennis Blecke, Loveland, Colo.; John and Anita Fuelberth, Ginny (Haberer) Otte and Pat Sherry from Wayne.

It was decided to have the class of 1959 celebrate 59 years in the year of 2018. Ronald Blecke will send out a questionnaire for input as to when and where it will be held. Phyllis Rahn took care of local arrangements for the event.

Dealing positively with life's challenges

Research on strong families across the country and around the world reveals useful approaches to dealing with stress and crises in one's life in a positive manner. The following ideas come from worldwide research on strong families, involving more than 24,000 family members in 35 countries. Here are some approaches your family can use during difficult times: Look for something positive and focus on that positive element in a difficult situation. Pull together rather than apart. Don't see the problem as an individual's problem but as a challenge for the whole family. Get help outside the nuclear family when needed. Seek help from extended family members, supportive friends, neighbors, colleagues, members of your religious community, professionals in the community, or others. In a manner of speaking, it takes a whole village to resolve a crisis. Create open channels of communication. Challenges are not met when communication shuts down. Keep things in perspective. "These things, too, shall pass." Adopt new roles in a flexible manner. Crises often demand that you learn new approaches to life and take on different responsibilities. Focus on what is most important and minimize fragmentation. Without focusing on the essentials, the details, details, details can get you edgy, even hysterical. Give up on worrying or put your cares in a box. Worrying usually causes people more misery than the actual event they are worrying about. Sometimes it's best to stuff the worry down or resolve to worry

10 minutes a day and then forget it. The mind simply has to rest.

Eat well, exercise, love each other, and get adequate sleep. Often adults forget that they are biological beings, not unlike kindergartners. We all need a good lunch, and we need to play. We need to have our hair stroked, and we need a good nap.

Create a life full of meaning and purpose. All people face severe crises in life. You will not be able to avoid these challenges. Rather, your aim can be to live a useful life of service to your community. This brings a richness and dignity to your life, in spite of the troubles you endure.

Actively meet your challenges head-on. Disaster in life does not go away when you look in another direction. But, it is also helpful sometimes to withdraw for a time and replenish yourself.

Go with the flow to some degree. Sometimes you are relatively powerless in the face of crisis. At this point it can be useful to simply tell yourself to "let it go."

Prepare in advance for the challenges in life. Healthy family relationships are like an ample bank balance: If you have kept your relational accounts in order, you will be able to weather life's most difficult storms ... together.

Know how to laugh and know how to cry, for both are essential to maintain an emotional balance in life.

Do not blame others for your fate but work with others to build a more satisfying world for all.

Take life's challenges one day at a time. In especially tight situations, you sometimes need to take things one hour at a time or perhaps one minute at a time.

Realize that suffering can be a catalyst for positive growth. Crisis, by definition, is a difficult time in your life. However, it also can be a turning point, planting the seeds for a satisfying and successful future. This is hard to internalize but useful to remember.

Identify spiritually with the grand procession of life: Through good times and bad, we, as individuals, come and go, but life from whence we all spring is eternal. There is something satisfying and soothing about that thought.

Reframing a Difficult Family Situation.

Strong families know how to manage difficult times in life creatively. Many counselors believe that one of the most important things a family can do in a time of crisis is to reframe the situation, i.e., look at what is happening to the family from a different perspective. For example, if a mother is a member of a National Guard unit that is being deployed outside the United States in a time of national uncertainty, this is clearly a significant challenge for the father, children, grandparents, and other loved ones left behind. Countless questions come up: Will Mom be OK? Can everyone left behind adjust to life without her for a while? Can Dad and the kids share the many roles

Mom plays while she is gone?

But in many critical times such as this one, families often have little choice in the situation. Each individual family member can spiral down into depression or anger over the difficulty he or she will face when Mom leaves. Or the family can hold a series of group discussions and focus on how they can work together to meet the challenges they face. They can find ways to maintain communication with Mom, even though she will be physically absent, to ensure she will keep a strong psychological presence in the family. Dad can figure out ways to adjust and hone his skills as a parent to new levels of competence. The kids can brainstorm ways they can contribute to the family's well-being and fill in the gaps caused by Mom's physical absence. Grandparents, often eager to contribute to the family's welfare, can offer suggestions on how they might help.

If the family can see the situation as not only a serious difficulty but also an opportunity to strengthen their bonds with each other, the challenge can be met. The key is positive communication with each other: Anything mentionable is manageable. In essence, if we can find the courage to talk with each other about a problem, we can find ways to solve it.

"I wouldn't ever want to go through something like that again," people are likely to say, "but I wouldn't take a million dollars for the love we now share with each other as a result of our ability to support and care for each other till the crisis was over." Families sometimes fall into disarray during times of crisis. Those families that can recover from the initial shock and sense of despair and band together to find solutions to their difficulties commonly say they feel stronger and more appreciative of each other as family members.

'A Bit of Light'

Rev. Jason Pickering, pastor at Praise Assembly of God, continued in his series on "Prayer" in the Sunday morning sermon on July 20.

His emphasis tied the "results" of prayer to the discipline of praying in a message called "What Does the Harvest Look Like?" In his words: it is impossible to have a harvest without first being diligent in praying, even though sometimes it seems as if God is silent. "Never fear," he said. "God calls to us even in the silence - which is often louder than an audible voice."

One of the aspects of prayer is that the Lord is working on us when we pray. We are all - as believers - in the process of being changed. And as we spend time praying, God is working in our lives. Why? Because in those moments, we are putting ourselves at the disposal and discretion of God.

Prayer is a time of "sowing something": 1. You reap as you sow. 2. You reap where you sow. 3. You reap what you sow. 4. You reap in relation to the amount you sow, and 5. You reap the same kind as you sow. There is always a harvest - a spiritual harvest - of the kind the Lord has planned.

One of the scriptures which Pastor Jason used on Sunday morning was Galatians 6:6-10, a somewhat familiar passage in which the writer (the apostle Paul) tells the church at Galatia that there will always be a harvest, a reaping of what is sown. In those verses Paul tells the young church that they will reap "according to the flesh" if there is sowing done in the flesh. And there will be a harvest "according to the Spirit" if there is a sowing in spiritual things.

Living here in an agricultural area, the Pastor asked a farmer in the congregation how long it is for corn to go from planting to harvest. The reply: "104 days from the planting to the grain bin." The point of this was to remind all of us who were listening that there is a timing in the plan of the Lord.

Earlier that morning in Sunday School, a comment was made that Noah preached about the impending judgment of the Lord for all of the many, many years he and his family built the ark (120 years); and there were only eight who heeded the preaching and were on the ark of safety.

Pastor Jason closed with these "ABC's of Prayer." Abide in Him, Believe, and Continue to pray.

On Sunday, the activities begin with Sunday School at 9:30 a.m. and the morning worship service at 10:30 a.m. The midweek Bible study as well as children's activities begin at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday evening at Praise Assembly of God Church, located at 1000 East 10th Street in Wayne.

"Remember, there is always a place for you at Praise Assembly. We welcome you to join with us anytime: We are Seeking God, Serving God, and Sharing God," Pastor Pickering said.

Winside pastor conducts Mystery Trip

Pastor Judy Carlson of the United Methodist Churches of Winside, Wausa, and Randolph recently got 29 women to attend a Mystery Trip. The ladies knew they were meeting at the Golden Living Center in Wausa for a worship/singing service with the residents and that they would be touring Pastor Judy and her husband Larry (Yogi) Carlson's log cabin home but the rest of the day was a mystery. Pastor Judy led the group to the small northeast town of Winnetoon, for a dinner at Elaine's Tavern and Cafe before touring the very interesting historic town. A guided boardwalk tour was given through beautiful wild grasses, flower beds, trees, an old school house, the blacksmith, outhouses, post office and general store and many other interesting buildings. The village's post office is maintained by Gayle, the lady who instigated and maintains this historic little town. After the visit in Winnetoon concluded, the group traveled back to Wausa United Methodist Church where they were treated to ice cream, fresh fruit and beverages. The ladies would recommend others looking for a fun outing to go visit at Winnetoon.

Remembering The Beatles

It was 50 years ago this spring that the Beatles came to America; I know because the papers have been announcing it. In 1964, I had one baby and was expecting another, working two evenings a week as a nurse, and feeding the Big Farmer and the hired men he brought in for meals. In fact, one hired man was living with us then!

Needless to say, I was only vaguely aware of the "Beatles invasion." I didn't watch Ed Sullivan religiously, but I do remember the crossed arms and bland expression. I remember a couple songs that had cute lyrics, like "Yellow Submarine." Mostly, I was oblivious.

In later years, I came to appreciate the general enthusiasm, and learned a few more of their songs; "Yesterday," for one. But I guess I just never hopped on the bandwagon. Thus, I was not totally excited when I heard that Paul McCartney was coming to Lincoln. Ticket prices were a bit steep, and it was one of those things I could take or leave.

Well! I'm thinking now I should have figured out a way to be at the Pinnacle Bank Arena last Monday night! I don't think the folks who were there have come back to earth yet. I have to admit that a 72-year old man singing for three hours straight, without an intermission, is pretty amazing.

They interviewed attendees as they left at 11 p.m.; they were universally excited. Didn't matter if they were 15 or 50, they were all raving about the performance. Consensus has been that it was the biggest concert yet, with Cher's a close second.

A young lady in our church, a music major at Wayne State, got a call the night before from a friend who had a spare ticket; she was still talking about it after church Saturday eve, and she had the shirt to prove it!

A fortyish guy I know said he got tears when Sir Paul sang "Yesterday." A fiftyish friend was still gushing at lunch on Saturday. I think the way he cuts across generations was the interesting thing for me. Although I have to admit I haven't met any 80-year olds who were there. This is not to say they weren't; I just haven't talked to them.

I've decided I'm going to have to get with it; before there aren't any original members left, and learn more about what "Beatlemania" is about. I'm not promising they will surpass my love for John Denver and Kenny Rogers! I'm just saying all these folks can't be wrong!

Organic farms tours set for Aug. 16

University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension Organic Farm Tours from 1:30-5 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 16 will help organic producers learn more about increasing soil health by incorporating cover crops into their cropping systems.

Tours will start at 1:30 p.m. at the Larry Stanislav farm two miles north of Abie. Participants will join Stanislav to discuss his diverse cropping system of spring wheat, corn, soybean and cover crops.

Participants will also learn how Stanislav has reduced tillage and managed weeds using a roller crimper and flamer, said UNL Extension soil scientist Charles Shapiro. Stanislav has participated in a Ceres Trust Grant to incorporate a roller crimper into his cropping system.

Starting at 3:30 p.m. participants will tour Randy Fendrich's farm.

Fendrich also participated in the grant. He will discuss his cultural practices and crop rotation using a roller crimper and a 12-row flamer/cultivator that he built himself for weed control.

At 4:30 p.m., Randy Anderson, USDA-ARS research agronomist at the North Central Agricultural Research Laboratory in Brookings, S.D., will present an update on his research findings.

Anderson, a weed ecologist, will discuss the goal of his research program to develop a continuous no-till cropping system for organic producers. He will present results on converting red clover fields to cropland without tillage and describe the impact of under seeding clovers in winter and spring wheat on downy brome growth.

Producers will learn how to minimize the need for tillage to control weeds and how a system based on winterkilled cover crops can control weeds adequately to grow no-till.

Though this is focused on organic producers, any producer wanting to decrease input costs will find this information useful.

Producers using no-till rotations can learn more about how continuous no-till rotations can improve land productivity, farm economics, soil health and resource-use efficiency in the Great Plains.

After the tours, a free dinner provided by the Fendrich Family will be served at 5 p.m. Reservations are needed. Please call Wendy at (402) 584-3837 to RSVP or for more information about the tour or directions.

AN UPDATE FROM DAVE

We'll need to be making a few changes from our last update. We talked about having our open house on Aug. 7 and we are not going to be able to make that timeline. We are not going to have enough time to get everything done to make that work. So we will postpone until after harvest.

We would probably be ready right before harvest, but it would be hard to lose 2-3 days during harvest to have the open house. We want this harvest to go better than last year.

We'll be in the building by then. We have been moving parts and we ask that you have patience with the parts department. We'll get it all worked and find the parts you need.

We'll probably wait until November to have the open house. We'll get harvest all wrapped up and be in the building for awhile and make sure everything is working and we know where things are.

It's Wayne County Fair time. We are taking a display out the fair and we will have some of our people out there and you can visit with them.

As we move into the new building, there may be some trouble with the phone system. Please call the after hours cell phone if you can't get through on the other line.

If you need anything, call us at 402-375-3325 or if there is an emergency, the after hours number is 402-369-0255.

Reports of soybean aphids cropping up in the region

We are beginning to get reports of soybean aphids in southwest Minnesota and South Dakota. The numbers are very low here in northeast Nebraska, so we aren't sure what will happen.

Start scouting now, as populations can start late and build fast. In 2011 we monitored a soybean field in Dixon County that was almost devoid of aphids on July 22, but by Aug. 18 was over 2,000 aphids per plant in areas of the field that were left untreated.

The soybean aphid is soft bodied, light green to pale yellow, less than 1/16th inch long, and has two black-tipped cornicles (cornicles look like tailpipes) on the rear of the abdomen. It has piercing-sucking mouthparts and typically feeds on new tissue on the undersides of leaves near the top of recently colonized soybean plants. Later in the season the aphids can be found on all parts of the plant, feeding primarily on the undersides of leaves, but also on the stems and pods.

Soybean aphid populations can grow to extremely high levels under favorable environmental conditions. Reproduction and development is fastest when temperatures are between 70 through the mid 80's. Aphid numbers can change rapidly (populations can double in 2-3 days). The aphids do not do well when temperatures are in the 90's, and are reported to begin to die when temperatures reach 95 degrees. When temperatures drop below 48 degrees, development stops.

Soybean aphids injure soybeans by removing plant sap with their needle-like mouthparts. Symptoms of soybeans infested by soybean aphid may include yellowed, distorted leaves and stunted plants.

A charcoal-colored residue also may be present on the plants. This is sooty mold that grows on the honeydew that aphids excrete. Honeydew by itself makes leaves appear shiny.

Soybean plants appear to be most vulnerable to aphid injury during the early reproductive stages. Heavy aphid infestations during these stages can cause reduced pod and seed counts.

Nebraska aphid populations can reach economically damaging populations in late July, but most reach economically damaging populations in August, while soybeans are in the mid-reproductive stages (R4-R5). In some years there are many fields where the aphid populations peak in late R5 (beginning seed) to early R6 (full seed). Most economically damaging populations occur in the northeast part of the state.

The current recommended economic threshold for late vegetative through R5 stage soybeans is 250 aphids per plant with 80 percent of the plants infested and populations increasing.

Depending on economic conditions, this generally gives you about five to seven days to schedule treatment before populations reach economically damaging levels. If populations do not increase during these five to seven days, you may be able to eliminate or delay treatment. Determining if the aphid population is actively increasing requires several visits to the field. Factors favorable for aphid increase are relatively cool temperatures, plant stress (particularly drought), and lack of natural enemies. There are some agrichemical interests that are recommending treating for aphids at very low numbers. These people are flat-out trying to steal your money. Here is why. Many experiments by Midwest universities are almost in complete agreement. One experiment that shows a response a low numbers does not mean it will happen often, and this is what these interests are using to try to sell insecticide.

Aphid populations below or even at the economic threshold do not cause yield loss (it takes 600-800 aphids per plant to do so), so treating before populations reach 250 aphids/plant only increases the probability of aphid resurgence. In addition, we have observed that many fields support a non-increasing, low population of aphids (e.g. less than 100 aphids/plant) through August. Treating these fields would be a waste of time and money. Tank-mixing insecticides with glyphosate or other herbicides can be problematic because application methods for herbicides (e.g. lower pressures, large droplet producing nozzles) are not optimal for good insecticide efficacy, and may remove natural enemies. Tank-mixing with fungicides can be effective because application methods for fungicides and insecticides require high water pressure for adequate penetration and coverage, however, only conduct this practice if soybean aphid thresholds are met.

Several insecticides are labeled for the soybean aphid. A list of registered insecticides, rates, preharvest intervals, etc. can be found at entomology.unl.edu/instable/soy-aphid.shtml. Pyrethroids have a relatively long residual, and work best at temperatures below 90° F. Organophosphates have a fuming action, and may work well in heavy canopies or high temperatures.

Spraying flowering soybean poses a threat to honey bees. Communicate treatment plans to nearby beekeepers and follow label precautions to minimize honey bee kills. When there is concern about honey bees, pyrethroids are the better insecticide choice and spraying late in the day is preferred. Additional sources of information can be accessed through the UNL Entomology Website at www.entomology.unl.edu and the CropWatch newsletter at cropwatch.unl.edu.

Rural fire department grants offered

Providing financial assistance to fire departments in rural areas and rural communities is crucial to suppressing Nebraska's wildland fires. This year the Nebraska Forest Service, through funding from the U.S. Forest Service, is providing $187,112 in federal financial assistance for 91 Nebraska community projects through the Volunteer Fire Assistance Program.

"Nebraska's rural firefighting resources are often the first line of defense in meeting expanded protection needs for wildland-urban interface fires," said Don Westover, wildland fire protection program leader for the Nebraska Forest Service. "Of 490 local fire departments in Nebraska, 97 percent are volunteer. These departments provide, at no cost, wildfire and emergency protection service to 56 percent of the population and more than 99 percent of the state's land area."

The VFA program allows the NFS to cost-share up to 50 percent of the costs of firefighting equipment with Nebraska fire districts. Commonly purchased items are protective clothing, communications equipment, water tanks, breathing apparatus, safety equipment, fire prevention materials and firefighter training. Large items such as fire trucks, fire stations and town sirens do not qualify.

The need for rural firefighting equipment is much greater than the financial assistance made available through the federal program. Rural fire departments submitted 142 project applications requesting more than $983,000, leaving more than a $795,000 shortfall.

Rural fire department needs are abundant. Some departments are working with equipment that is more than 20 years old. Their hoses leak, their protective clothing is worn and their equipment needs repair.

First participants in Conservation Stewardship Program can renew for five more years

The first participants of the Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP) have until Sept. 12, 2014, to renew their contracts and make decisions on additional conservation activities that will benefit priority natural resource issues.

The Conservation Stewardship Program is offered by the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS). It is the Farm Bill program that helps farmers and ranchers take conservation investments to the next level. The program provides farmers and ranchers who are already established conservation stewards financial and technical assistance to further improve water quality, soil health and wildlife habitat.

About 20,000 CSP contracts nationwide are reaching the end of their initial five-year contract period. In Nebraska, there are 1,057 contracts that may be renewed for an additional five years where participants agree to install additional conservation measures.

"CSP farmers are conservation leaders and go the extra mile to conserve Nebraska's natural resources," NRCS State Conservationist Craig Derickson said. "The 2014 Farm Bill continued that strong commitment and heightened the program's focus on generating conservation benefits."

Since CSP began in 2009, more than 58 million acres have been enrolled in the program nationally - an area the size of Indiana and Wisconsin combined. In Nebraska, 4.8 million acres have been enrolled.

"This program allows landowners to reach the next level of conservation and opens the door to trying new conservation activities," Derickson said.

To learn about technical and financial assistance available through CSP, visit www.nrcs.usda.gov/GetStarted, the Conservation Stewardship webpage www.nrcs.usda.gov/wps/portal/nrcs/main/national/programs/financial/csp/ or local USDA service center. For more on the 2014 Farm Bill, visit www.nrcs.usda.gov/FarmBill.

An update was given regarding the LB840 Fund. Nancy Braden, Finance Director, advised the Council that this year the City has loaned out $721,000 out of a $3.2 million dollar block of funds that is to be collected over a period of 15 years. With the loans we have borrowed, the interest we have payable, and the commitments we have made (totals approximately $2.8 million), we are left with about $370,000 in LB840 monies. Part of the commitment is $259,000 for tornado relief. If we unallocate that amount, the remaining amount left to loan out would increase to $629,000.

APPROVED:
Ordinance 2014-15 amending Sec. 90-10 Definitions (Attached).

Res. 2014-55 approving application for Retail Class B Liquor License – GCSR, LLC, d/b/a "Dollar Plus."

Wayne, Nebraska
July 15, 2014

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session at 9:00 a.m. on Tuesday, July 15, 2014 in the upstairs meeting room of the Courthouse.

Roll call was answered by Chairman Burbach, Members Larson and Rabe, and Clerk Finn. Advance notice of this meeting was published in the Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on July 10, 2014.

A current copy of the Open Meetings Act was posted in the meeting room and accessible to the public.

The agenda was approved.
The minutes of the July 1, 2014, meeting were approved as printed in the Commissioner's Record.

Sheriff LeRoy Janssen's resignation will result in a vacancy in the office of county sheriff from August 1, 2014 - January 1, 2015. Jason Dwinell was nominated as sheriff during the Primary Election. The board asked Dwinell to complete Janssen's term-of-office and he agreed. Motion by Rabe, second by Larson to appoint Jason Dwinell as Wayne County Sheriff effective August 1, 2014 - January 1, 2015. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Larson-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Lauran Logfren and Joanne Field thanked the board for the 2013 contribution to the county library association. The Carroll library used the funds to provide for additional service hours; Winside used the funds to purchase books for the children, their summer reading activities, and e-books. The Wayne library used the funds primarily for electronic resources, noting the popularity of books on CD & DVD, and access to ancestry.com. The commissioners were asked to consider increasing the contribution to the association in 2014 from $10,000 to $13,000, and to determine the distribution of any additional funds.

Road/Bridge Project Manager Mark Casey discussed current projects with the board and noted some minimum maintenance roads are in rough condition as a result of recent weather. Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to authorize Casey to sign Army Corp of Engineers Permit Verifications and the STP and HBP Buyout Fund Certification. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Janssen presented bids for removal of all old and unclaimed property in the north side of the garage at 510 Pearl Street. Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to award the bid to "X". Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried. While contacting bidders Janssen found that due to the scrap value of the property, some bids were for the county to pay the bidder, other bids had the bidder paying the county. As a result of the clarification a motion was made by Larson, seconded by Rabe to rescind the previous motion awarding the bid. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried. Motion by Larson, second by Rabe to award the bid to Gubbels Salvage for their payment to the county of $800 for possession and removal of unclaimed property in the north side of the garage. Roll call vote: Larson-aye, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye; motion carried.

Rabe stated he will be soliciting bids for a gravel trailer.
A listing of the delinquent real estate taxes and delinquent special assessments was reviewed and will be placed on file.

Emergency Manager Nic Kemnitz gave a tornado recovery update.
Duane Schroeder expressed his concern that there is no way to communication with the public-at-large if there is a loss of power in an emergency situation, noting that internet goes down and cell towers are overwhelmed. Schroeder thought the best option to provide information throughout the county would be the local radio station. He felt it would be worthwhile for representatives of the city, county and radio station to meet and see if a mutually satisfactory decision could be reached.

Sheriff Janssen stated a meeting had been held with the radio station a few months ago. The radio station wanted a generator donated that they could just plug in to. The group had requested the radio station do an electrical study to determine their needs, but that information has not been provided.

The meeting was recessed at 11:52 a.m.
The meeting reconvened at 3:47 p.m. The purchase of ADA signage and approval of the health insurance policy renewal was carried forward to the August 5, 2014 meeting.
The meeting was adjourned.

The Wayne County Board of Equalization met in regular session at 1:15 p.m. on Tuesday, July 15, 2014 in the upstairs conference room of the courthouse. Those in attendance included Chairman Rabe, Members Larson and Burbach, Assessor Duffy and Clerk Finn. Advance notice was published in the Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on July 10, 2014.

A current copy of the Open Meetings Act was posted in the meeting room and accessible to the public.

Motion by Burbach, second by Larson to approve the agenda. Roll call vote: Burbach-aye, Larson-aye, Rabe-aye; motion carried.

Assessor Duffy submitted the following exhibits for the 2014 Wayne County Protest Hearings: the NE Assessor's Reference Manual; NE Ag Land Valuation Manual; 2014 Reports and Opinions of Property Tax Administrator for Wayne County; IAAO Book of Mass Appraisal of Real Property; the IAAO Property Assessment Valuation book, 2nd edition; County Board of Equalization manual; three books of sales for Wayne County of residential, commercial, and ag property; Wayne County's sales used to determine the value for 2014; a copy of the certification of the assessment roll for Wayne County filed with The Wayne Herald; the property valuation card for each of the protested properties; Residential Data Collection Book by Rick Stuart; Residential Quality, Condition & Effective Age Seminar Book by Rick Stuart; IAAO Course 2, Income Approach to Value; Houses, 3rd Edition by Henry S. Harrison; House Construction, Design & System, IAAO #937; Marshall & Swift Residential Square Foot Method, IAAO #960; and the Assessment Procedures manual.

The following protests were reviewed:
Protest 14-01: NW¼ Section 29-T27N-R1E, Leon & Rosemary Sohler. Protested land valuation $824,895; Requested land valuation $724,895. Summary of reasons for requested change: Why such a drastic change in taxes and valuation all at once, wouldn't it be better if raised in smaller amounts each year? If land values declines how many years will it take for valuations to decline?

Assessor Duffy recommended no change to the valuation. Sales indicate our values are in line with the requirements of state statutes.
Protest 14-02: Pt W½ NE¼ 18-26-1, Lisa Kruger. Protested land valuation $367,100; Requested land valuation: No figure listed. Summary of reasons for requested change: After making payments on a note and paying taxes there is nothing left. How do you expect farmers to make a living when you take so much out to cover taxes? What is going to happen when interest rates go up and income levels drop?
Duffy recommended no change to the valuation. Sales indicate our values are in line with the requirements of state statutes.

Protest 14-03: E½ NW¼ 30-27-1, Lisa Kruger. Protested land valuation $352,505; Requested land valuation: No figure listed. Summary of reasons for requested change: This parcel has approximately 10.5 acres of pasture and it is usually wet, and the whole thing is sand.
Duffy recommended no change to the valuation. The land use is drawn correctly with 10.54 acres of grassland. Sales indicate our values are in line with the requirements of state statutes.

Protest 14-04: SW¼ 19-25-5, Dale R. & Margaret L. Krusemark. Protested land valuation $539,060; Requested land valuation $394,675. Reason for requested change: Valuation is too high for rent & price of crops and the return of income. The roads are so bad that I cannot move my crops down the road to get to my place. Summary of verbal testimony provided by Dale Krusemark: How do I get access to roads and get them improved? Don't have access to the farm ground because the roads are impassible. The land doesn't have value if you can't get at it. I pay taxes and think I am entitled to some roads.
Duffy recommended no change to the valuation. There is no evidence to suggest that land along or near minimum maintenance roads sells for less than those on gravel roads, or that the value should be reduced.

Protest 14-05: E½ NW¼ 28-26-5, Dale R. & Margaret L. Krusemark. Protested land valuation $441,720; Requested land valuation $318,785. Reasons for requested change provided in Protest 14-04. Summary of verbal testimony in Protest 14-04.

SEWER CLEANING NOTICE

Over the next few days, the City of Wayne Sewer Department will be having sewer mains cleaned in various parts of the City.

In the cleaning process, high pressure water is forced through the sewer main line, which pushes the air from the sewer main into the service lines of homes and businesses. If this happens, it can result in the air exiting through the toilet, causing the water to shoot out of the toilet bowl. This air should exit through the sewer vent of the building, but inadequate venting or location of toilets can cause the air to exit through the toilet.

This is a rare occurrence, but can be remedied by covering the toilet bowl with a towel and keeping the lid closed. This will keep most of the water in the bowl rather than on the floor.

Again, during the next week, when the toilets are not in use, cover them with a towel and keep the lid down.

If you have any questions about the sewer cleaning process or the areas the sewer main cleaning will take place, you may call the Wastewater Treatment Plant at 402-375-5250.
