Bridges of Wayne County in need of repair

Half of county's 252 bridges need work, report says

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Almost 20 percent of the bridges in Nebraska are structurally deficient and in need of repair or replacement.

Here in Wayne County, that percentage is closer to 50 percent, and county officials continue to juggle finances in an effort to update and upgrade some of the more serious bridge issues in the county.

A recent federal bridge report found that 2,739 of the 15,370 bridges in Nebraska are considered structurally deficient, almost double the national average of 10.5 percent. Nebraska's number of structurally deficient bridges is just 30 fewer than California, a state with 20 times the population of Nebraska.

In Wayne County, 109 of the 252 bridges are structurally deficient, and another 17 are functionally obsolete.

Burbach

"We're quite a ways behind," said Wayne County Commissioner Dean Burbach. "We approved a $4 million bridge bond to focus on some of the major projects that need to be done. We'll get about 10 bridges done, which is a huge step forward, but there are still a lot of bridges that need a lot of work."

Most of the bridges in the county were built decades ago and were designed to last up to 50 years. Time and the advancement of bigger agriculture-related equipment have rendered some of those bridges to be in need of repair or replacement.

"We have a number of bridges that are getting outdated," Burbach said. "The equipment has gotten bigger and the bridges are too narrow for some of those vehicles. A number of them need to be replaced, and that takes time and we have to try to juggle it within our road budgets."

County road superintendent Mark Casey said that most of the 25 projects in the county's one-year road improvement plan are bridge projects, and there are about another 20 on the six-year plan as well.

Bridges are inspected every other year, and once a bridge is determined to be structurally deficient, it is included in future road improvement plans for consideration.

"We take into account the bridge, the average daily traffic and the traffic patterns," Casey said. "I like to think that we're going to fix the most important holes that we've got."

The $4 million bridge bond the county approved last year will ultimately be able to repair or replace 10 of the most important items on the county's bridge repair to-do list. About $2.5 million of bond is being used on about 10 projects, one of which began construction this week north and east of Carroll, with the remainder coming later this year or early in 2015.

Although there are a significant number of bridges that are structurally deficient in the county, county officials are limited in what they can do to repair or replace those bridges.

"We take that repair work into account when we put our budgets together, and the amount of state funding we get fluctuates depending on the amount of square footage of deficient bridges we have," Burbach said.

Casey said the county has received more than $190,000 in federal buyback funds that are funneled to the county through the State of Nebraska, and that money is specifically earmarked for bridge repair work.

"It can all be used for bridges, although there is some money that we can use at our discretion. But most of it is going back into our bridges," Casey said of the federal funding the county has received. "We have plenty of places to put it."

Heating, AC work highlights Monday board meeting

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

The majority of the items on Wayne Community School Board's agenda on Monday revolved around the start of the 2014-2015 school year.

Keith Moje with Otte Construction gave the board an update on this summer's heating and air conditioning project and said "this has been a positive experience for us. There are a couple of items to wrap up and we will be tweaking the heat and cooling systems in the coming weeks."

Mark Lenihan, superintendent of schools, thanked Otte Construction for their professionalism during the project.

During his administrative report, Lenihan also spoke on Administrative Days held in Kearney in late July. He noted that the event provides a good opportunity to talk with other administrators to discuss common issues.

Lenihan also told the board that the school's transition to Windows 7 is "basically complete and will allow for more security within the school's technology system."

In his budget update to the board, Lenihan said final numbers for land valuations within the district have not been released yet, but will be made available in time for the district to bring its budget to the state Department of Education by Aug. 25 for review and publication prior to the board's September meeting.

Several board policies were approved on second reading at the meeting, including those with the appointment of the superintendent, board operating procedures, emergency plans and drills and policies on questions to be asked on applications for certified and classified staff.

During the meeting, Suzanne Burbach was officially appointed and welcomed as the School Board Secretary. Burbach has been employed with the district for a number of years and is replacing Ann Ruwe, who retired from the position earlier this summer.

Lindsay McLaughlin, Wayne Community Schools Foundation Director, informed the board of a Sept. 27 tailgate event she is planning for both alumni and other interested persons. Plans are being worked out to watch the Nebraska football game and then have a dance. More details will be announced as they become available.

The board was also informed that two of the buses transporting students in the district have been equipped with cameras for increased safety of the students.

The board will hold a special meeting to approve financial claims on Wednesday, Aug. 27 at 4 p.m.

The next regular meeting of the board will be Monday, Sept. 8 at 5 p.m. in the junior-senior high school library.

Perlman on hand for 100th

Harvey Perlman, Chancellor of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and his staff have been touring northeast Nebraska this week. Among his stops was the Northeast Research and Extension Center, Haskell Ag Lab at Concord. Perlman was able to take part in the annual VIP Tour conducted at the Center on Tuesday. After viewing the various research projects being conducted there, Perlman spoke to this year's VIP's, members of the 4-H Council, Extension Boards and 4-H leaders in the 28 county northeast district. He told his audience he was "proud of the partnerships that exist between UN-L Extension and producers." He noted that the land grant university system helps bring science to the producers who can benefit from the research being done throughout the state. Also this week, the Haskell Ag Lab is celebrating the centennial of the signing of the Smith Lever Act. In 1914, the Smith-Lever Act provided for mutual cooperation of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Land-Grant Colleges in conducting agricultural extension work. An open house was conducted at the Concord facility to showcase research being conducted and to allow the public to ask questions of the research scientists who work at the facility.

Dog days of summer end with a dive

Fall may not arrive until mid-September on the calendar, but the unofficial end of summer always comes with the closing of the local swimming pool, and a fundraiser at Wayne's pool for the Wayne Bark Park brought more than 50 canines by for a last cool dip, raising almost $300 for the park. Here, Jennifer Parker gets ready to catch her diving dog, Sadie.

Simpson part of East Shore theater camp

James Simpson, son of Jeff and Colleen Simpson of Wayne, recently attended the East Shore Performance Camp in Seeley Lake, Mont.

The performance camp is hosted by the Missoula Children's Theater, which is headquartered in Missoula, Mont.

Simpson was invited to audition to attend this year's camp because of his involvement in the 2013 Missoula Children's Theater performance of "The Frog Prince" that was sponsored by the Wayne Community Theater.

He was one of 40 participants selected from 300 children who auditioned this spring for this year's camp experience.

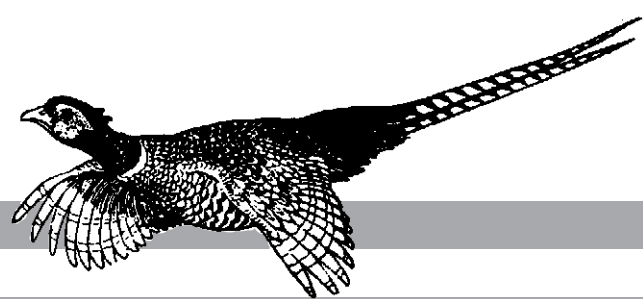

Simpson spent one week working on various areas of the performing arts. He had the opportunity to write and perform in a musical with fellow campers, as well as learning various dance routines and songs

Winside PRIDE strives to assist community

A group known as Winside PRIDE was formed in June of 2011. In the past three years the group has held fund raisers to update the community park. Elementary students sold pop in the spring. The first year a total of $1,346 was raised with Hannah Gubbels as the top seller. The second year the group raised $1,068 with Hannah again being the top seller. This last spring $880 was raised with Madi Janke being the top seller.

"We would like to take this time to thank all the Winside Elementary kids who helped sell pop and making this fund raiser a success each year, raising a total of $3,294 toward new equipment for the park," said Jenni Topp, a member of the group.

During March of this year, a Richard Ditman Memorial March Madness Fund Raiser was held. The event was organized by Richard's wife, Jackie Ditman, and Mark and Jodi Creighton, Richard's daughter and son-in-law, all of Texas.

For $20 and signing up over the internet, participants could fill out the March Madness bracket that was listed on CBS Sports Fantasy under the name Richard Ditman Memorial. This year's winner was Chris Mann of Winside. He received $100 for winning; however, he was gracious enough to donate it back to Winside Pride. The activity raised $980.

"We thank them for the great idea and helping us raise money towards our cause. Please watch for advertising in February and March of 2015 to join the fun and help remember Richard Ditman with one of his favorite past times," Topp said.

Local residents are being asked to mark their calendars for Saturday, Oct. 18 as Winside PRIDE will be presenting "YES MA'AM," featuring Winside alumni Mary Brugger Mau. The group will fill the evening with music from USO at Home and the 50s era. The evening will also include a meal and silent auction. Tickets can be purchased at Winside State Bank, Winside Store and Jensen's Café, or by contacting Joni Jaeger, Anna Janke or Jenni Topp. Tickets are $35 a couple or $20 for single. Tickets will be on sale starting Saturday Aug. 16 through Wednesday, Oct. 15.

Class of 1949 gathers to celebrate

Fifteen members of the Wayne High School Class of 1949 gathered to celebrate their 65th class reunion. Nine guests

Members met at the Student Center on the Wayne State College campus for a meal and reminiscing. Phyllis (Foster) Tingstad traveled the farthest, coming from Green Valley, Ariz.

Others from out of state included Dick and Liz Baller of Beloit, Wisc.,

Russell Bichel of St. Charles, Mo., Fauneil (Palmer) Barton and her daughter, Lynn, of Crystal, Minn.

Attendees from Nebraska included Donna (Baier) Boeckenhauer of Wakefield, Adelyn (Claussen) and Vern Lenz of Fremont, Ginger (Hein) and Jim Nissen of Lincoln, Lois (Spahr) and Claude Harder of Fremont and Lois (Wieland) Lessman of Omaha.

Wayne attendees included Lila

(Dorman) and Ken Splittgerber, Delmar and Betty Heithold, Bernadine (Hollman) Backstrom, Fern (Pievenitzky) and Keith Erickson, Virginia (Straight) Dranselka and Joann (Wert) and Fritz Temme.

Fifteen members of the class are deceased - Dick Dion, Robert Foote, Mitzie (Heinz) Schriver, Harold Korn, Kenneth Lipp, Doris (Milliken) Mann, Maxine (Nelson) Garrison, Donna (Pflueger) Scrivner, Bernita (Reeg) Thomas, Reita (Schlander) Howe, Marlene (Sieckmann) Grebin, Claire (Simmerman) Andresen, Donald Tietgen, Patricia Wert and Dorothy (Young) Hale.

A group of 12 of the attendees also had breakfast together on Sunday morning at Tacos & More.

This was the first reunion that Russell Bichel had attended.

Poker Run proceeds

A poker run was held on Sunday, July 13 as part of the Wayne Chicken Show. The poker run traveled through the ravaged areas of Northeast Nebraska, including the towns of Wakefield, Pender, Wisner, Pilger and Stanton. This year, part of the proceeds were designated for Northeast Nebraska tornado relief. Mick Kemp (right), a member of the Poker Run Committee, presented a check to Mike Varley, representing the Northeast Nebraska Tornado Relief Fund. A separate donation was also made to the MS Society, with part of the proceeds from the poker run. Donations to the Northeast Nebraska Tornado Relief Fund will go to residents in the Wakefield and Laurel area only. Funds will be distributed through the Wayne United Way. Anyone requesting assistance from this fund is asked to fill out a form that can be found at F&M Bank in Wayne. Anyone with questions is asked to contact Varley at (402) 375-2043.

Pet of the Week

This week's Pet of the Week at Tenderheart Animal Rescue is Bert, a 2 year old pit bull that comes to us from Madison County. He is a very sweet boy, although he does throw his weight around. He has been fine with all of the dogs and is disinterested in cats. We will be careful in the placement of this boy to insure that he treated appropriately.

For more information or to adopt Bert, call (402) 369-6030.

Submissions sought for Winside History Book

Anyone who is still writing an article for the new Q125 Winside History book, is reminded to complete and get them into a committee member within the next week.

Information will then begin being submitted to the designer.

The committee would still like to receive more information and photos of military individuals currently or serving in the last 25 years from the Winside area.

Book pre-sales at the discounted price of $65 are still being accepted. If the book needs to be mailed, add $10 per book.

Books will be completed by the June 2015 Winside Q125 celebration.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

By LOWELL JOHNSON
City Administrator

City Council Meetings
Regular City Council meetings are at 5:30 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in city hall at 3rd and Pearl Streets.

New Swimming Pool
The city council will meet next Tuesday to approve the ballot language for the November ballot. The plan is to build an outdoor pool/aquatic center with a zero depth entry, diving boards and competition lanes attached to the Community Activity Center in 2015 and demolish the old pool on 13th Street for an estimated cost of $2.9 million.

The plan is to fund the construction and demolition with municipal bonds to be repaid through a 1/2 cent local option sales tax that would end when the bonds are paid off.

Operating costs are projected to be similar to the current operating costs of the existing pool.

Overin Field Grandstand Repair or Replacement
The citizens committee appointed by the mayor and council to review options for repair or replacement met the first time last evening.

They started with three options to pursue: 1) rebuild the grandstand and ball field in a new location, (this is needed debate because of the current limitation of left field fence, some grandstand zoning set back issues and the field lighting also needs to be replaced) 2) restore the existing grandstand and bring it and the restrooms and storage areas up to current building and accessibility codes, 3) demolish and replace the existing grandstand and restrooms with a new facility with about the same seating capacity.

The general consensus was to focus on options 2 and 3 because of lack of funding. We're having the grandstand inspected by the same structural engineer we used at the airport after the tornado and the committee will use it to help make its decisions.

City Budget Hearing Sept. 16
Our annual budget hearing for the city operations and utility departments will be at the regular council meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 16. The budget proposes to increase the number of certified police officers from 7 to 8 and proposes no change in the city mill levy on property and a 1 percent increase in water and electric rates, pending notice from NPPD of their rate change in September. We'll have a copy of our proposed budget linked on line to the city's web site two weeks ahead of the hearing and a copy of our last financial audit is also linked to our website.

Scouts take part in Philmont experience

Several members of Wayne Boy Scout Troop 174 and scouts from other local troops returned from their biannual trip to Philmont Scout ranch near Cimarron, New Mexico from July 16 – 30.

This rugged camp covers 214 square miles of vast wilderness with trails ranging from 6,500 feet to 12,441 feet in elevation.

This year's crew hiked 79 miles and participated in many activities that are considered strenuous by the Boy Scouts of America.

The crew bushwacked during the opening days of the trek, which included two dry camps that required all water to be carried in by the Scouts. The trek included climbing and descending steep, narrow streambeds, climbing Mt. Phillips, the Tooth of Time and crossing numerous mountain ridges. Many of the views allowed the Scouts to see multiple states, large valleys and meadows.

The program included burro racing, black powder shooting, shotgun shooting, fly-fishing, rock climbing, blacksmithing, touring a gold mine and a conservation project. The hike taught the Scouts how to hang food to avoid black bears and to deal with mountain lions. The backpacks weighed up to 50 lbs. and included the tents, clothing, food and other necessities.

The Scout experience also included touring the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo. and the Golden Spike Observatory in North Platte.

Dr. Joe Mtika a native of Malawi, Africa, completed a 32-mile run from Wayne to Norfolk on Saturday. The run was a fundraiser to raise awareness for Mtika's private school in Africa that he hopes to start up next year. Joining in the run was Zachary Nordhues, 12, of Wayne. Nordhues has Down Syndrome and participates in several walks for Down Syndrome awareness throughout the year.

WSC alum completes run to Norfolk for Africa school

Wayne State College student Peter Mutayoba of Tanzania drove the safety car behind runner Dr. Joe Mtika a native of Malawi, Africa on Saturday for a 32-mile run from Wayne to Norfolk.

The goal of the run was to raise funds for Mtika's private school in Africa. Mtika said that he used the run as a way to raise funds and awareness for the private school he started in Malawi.

Joining in the run was Zachary Nordhues, 12, of Wayne, who came out to cheer Mutayoba and Mtika on for their effort. Nordhues has Down Syndrome and participates in several walks for Down Syndrome awareness throughout the year. He ran a very small portion of the route with Mutayoba.

The exact amount of money raised from the run is still being tabulated. Mtika said that Norfolk Private School Malawi is scheduled to be able to accept students beginning next year. Those who'd like to make a donation can send contributions marked for the Norfolk Private School Malawi to First Presbyterian Church in Norfolk. For more information, contact Peter Mutayoba at pemutay1@wsc.edu.

LEDs Help You See 'Green'

Nebraska customers can save money, energy with new light incentive

Columbus, NE – On Jan. 1, 2014, Nebraska Public Power District and its wholesale customer utilities began offering incentives to residential electric customers for the purchase and installation of light-emitting diode (LED) bulbs.

At the start of this new 2014 year, final provisions of the 2007 Energy Policy Act began phasing out the standard, 60-watt, incandescent light bulb. Production and importation of the 100-watt and 75-watt standard incandescent lamps have already been closed out over the past two years under the same policy.

Fortunately, customers have an excellent alternative. City of Wayne Electric utilities will provide customers with a $5 account credit for each 60, 75, or 100-watt LED equivalent to the standard bulb they buy, with up to 10 credits available per residential account this year. Customers can purchase these LED lamps wherever they desire, but the package must be identified as ENERGY STAR® qualified.

The Environmental Protection Agency's ENERGY STAR program encourages installation of LED lamps that use 75 to 80 percent less energy than equivalent incandescent light bulbs and have a rated life that is 25 to 50 times longer. LEDs do not contain mercury, which eliminates some disposal concerns.

LED lamps offer additional advantages over compact fluorescent lamps (CFLs), which have long been touted as energy-efficient alternatives to standard light bulbs. LEDs illuminate instantly when their power switch is turned on. Their light output is not diminished in cold weather. In fact, LEDs last longer in cold areas. LEDs offer a variety of color temperatures that allow customers to match the appearance of standard incandescent bulbs or the bright white of most office environments. Many LED lamps are dimmable, but customers should confirm this prior to purchase, as manufacturers are required to indicate whether they are or not on the packaging.

NPPD and its wholesale customer utilities are contributing approximately $100,000 toward this campaign which will run through the end of December 2014. To receive the incentive, customers submit a completed program application along with a copy of their sales receipt to their local electric utility. A brochure containing the program's application form is available on NPPD's website, www.nppd.com, under "Saving Energy" and "For Your Home."

Always there when you need us, NPPD's mission is to safely generate and deliver reliable, low-cost, sustainable energy and provide outstanding customer service. Working in partnership with the state's rural public power districts, cooperatives and municipalities, NPPD helps serve an estimated 600,000 Nebraskans in 86 of the state's 93 counties with retail or wholesale electric power and energy-related products and services. For more information about NPPD visit www.nppd.com.

State Fair exhibit will connect consumers, farmers

A new exhibit at the Nebraska State Fair will connect consumers with the farmers who raise and grow their food.

"Raising Nebraska: Your food and the families who grow it" is a permanent, year-round agriculture exhibit located in the new Nebraska Building on the Nebraska State Fairgrounds.

Its debut at the Nebraska State Fair Aug. 22-Sept. 1 at Fanner Park in Grand Island, is part of an effort to educate consumers about what Nebraska is doing toward food production and feeding the world and what production agriculture looks like for Nebraska, said Beth Janning, UNL Extension educator, who will be on-site year-round to manage the exhibit and work with visiting groups.

"We are hoping this exhibit allows consumers to realize that farmers are doing the best they can, using technology to produce the best food in the state for our consumers," she said. "We hope consumers will realize the 'farm to fork' process and that our producers care about the food they raise and the animals they care for."

Raising Nebraska will not only tell the story of the state's No. 1 industry, but also explore agricultural research, production and innovation. The learning experience will include a wide range of interactive displays. It features a full-sized pivot-irrigation system, a video theater enclosed in a grain bin, a 50-foot-long floor map of Nebraska, a virtual combine ride, an interactive dinner table and other educational experiences.

"All the exhibits will be interactive," Janning said. "They will also show the science involved with agriculture and showcase what Nebraska agriculture is really about and what we do best. We raise high quality crops and livestock to provide the food, feed and fiber for the world."

While it will make its debut at the 2014 Nebraska State Fair, Janning said the exhibit will also be available throughout the year for school groups, trade teams and other visitors by appointment. It will also be open on Tuesdays from 9-11 a.m. and Thursdays from 2-4 p.m. for anyone wanting to tour the building following the fair this fall. Programs focused on science and Nebraska agriculture are available by appointment.

In addition, the exhibit is looking for volunteers with a passion about Nebraska agriculture to spend some occasional time in the building during the rest of the year, Janning said. Anyone interested, can contact the office.

For more information, visit www.raisingnebraska.net.

Raising Nebraska is a collaborative effort of the Nebraska State Fair, which is providing the building; the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, which is responsible for coordinating the efforts of the state's commodity boards; and the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, which is developing and managing the 25,000-square-foot educational experience area.

No Thrivent meeting to be held this month

Wayne-Dixon County Chapter 30268, Thrivent Financial for Lutherans will not meet in August.

Coaches show to be shot at The Max

A new school sports year has dawned, and it's going to be a very interesting year here in the area. One thing that I'm very excited about is some changes that we'll be incorporating into our Wayne State Coaches Show, which is available exclusively on our website at www.mywaynews.com.

From The Bleachers

Michael Carnes

The show is entering its fourth year, and we've got a new twist on the program that you can actually be a part of in 2014-15. In years past, we have shot the Wayne State Coaches Show in just about every nook and cranny of Rice Auditorium and the WSC Rec Center. We've shot in Rice Auditorium, the referee's locker room, a couple of classrooms, the overhead walkway at the Rec Center and, if memory serves, behind athletic director Mike Powicki's desk when he was at an NCAA convention.

This year, the show will be shot exclusively at The Max in downtown Wayne, and we'd like to have fans stop by and provide a "live" feel for the program each week as I sit down with the Wayne State coaches to discuss all things Wildcat during the 2014-15 season. I've been very blessed, during my tenure here, to work with some great people at Wayne State Colleges. The coaches and staff are always generous with their time, and we have been able to produce a nice little show to highlight Wayne State athletics and provide the quality of coverage in a way that no other media entity in the area does.

A bonus - for me, anyway - is that we'll be getting some help with production of the show, thanks to the WSC Media Club. In the past, I've done all the video setup and Wayne State sports information director Mike Grosz has set up the "wall" with the school logo. This year, members of the club will have the opportunity to put what they're learning to work, and they'll work with me on editing the video and getting everything ready for you to enjoy on the web.

The first show will air on www.mywaynews.com on Tuesday, Sept. 2, and we will update the show weekly throughout the school year. Shows will be recorded Monday evenings at 6 p.m. at The Max in downtown Wayne beginning Labor Day, Sept. 1, so stop in, get a bite to eat and be a part of the "studio audience" for this year's season of the Wayne State Coaches Show.

I stopped down at the Summer Sports Complex Tuesday afternoon to shoot some pictures of the Wayne High softball team, and it's going to be an interesting change for the team this season since they're playing on a "new" field.

In the past, the home varsity field was the southwest field overlooking what is now the Wayne Bark Park. With the changes that came in the aftermath of last fall's tornado that destroyed the four fields, the team will now be playing on the northeast field that looks out into an area farm field.

The change will benefit the batters a little more, and the fence is set for high school softball, which will give it more of a hometown feel as well.

The Blue Devils christen their new home field one week from now when they host perennial Class B power Blair two days before their annual early-season tournament.

And so it begins . . .

The first week of fall sports practice got under way this week as area high school teams gear up for the 2014 fall sports season. Football, softball and girls golf got started this week, while volleyball and cross country begin preparations on Monday. Look for team photos and schedules of all the area teams in The Wayne Herald's annual Fall Sports Preview section, coming in the Aug. 28 issue.

Wildcats picked fifth in NSIC volleyball poll

The Wayne State volleyball team was picked to finish fifth in voting of Northern Sun Conference coaches for their preseason poll.

Seven-time defending national champion Concordia-St. Paul received 15 first-place votes and is tabbed the team to beat in the conference for the 11th consecutive year. Minnesota Duluth received the first-place vote from the Concordia coach, as coaches can not vote for their own team in the poll.

Following the Golden Bears and the Bulldogs are Southwest Minnesota State, Northern State and Wayne State in the top five. Augustana is sixth, followed by Sioux Falls, Minnesota State, MSU Moorhead and Minnesota Crookston. The 11th place team is Winona State, followed by St. Cloud state, Minot State, Upper Iowa, Bemidji State and University of Mary.

Wayne State's player to watch is sophomore Alyssa Frauendorfer, who earned NSIC and AVCA Central Region Freshman of the Year honors, as well as first-team All-NSIC and AVCA All-Central Region selections. She was sixth in the NSIC last year with a .344 attack percentage, averaging 2.77 kills, 0.97 blocks and 0.59 digs per set last year in helping the Wildcats to a 22-10 finish.

Kelsey Chambers, an outside hitter from Northern State, was tabbed the NSIC Preseason Player of the Year.

'Evil' depression claims life of comedy genius

I remember when Elvis died. John Lennon as well. They were voices of a generation, gone way too young and too soon for me to really understand (at the time, anyway) just what they meant to the people who they entertained.

Monday, one of my voices, one of my inspirations, one of the true greatest of the greats is gone. And unlike Elvis (drug overdose) or Lennon (murder), Robin Williams was taken by the most evil, most horrible, coldest devil of them all.

Williams' battles with alcohol and drugs are well-documented, and he was quick to make fun of those battles on stage. And while he was in and out of rehab dealing with his substance demons, it was nothing compared to the demon of depression that ultimately took his life.

The guy was the grand wizard of improvisation. Watch any interview on any talk show and the guy absolutely took over whatever show he was on, from Carson to Letterman. Calling Robin Williams brilliant would be like calling water wet. Get his first comedy album, "Reality, What a Concept" and listen to the bit on Three Mile Island as told by William Shakespeare or "Welcome To Comedy Hell" - all of that is off the cuff and delivered in a manic, unfathomable display of unthinkable brilliance that no human being, before or since, can even get in the neighborhood of bringing to a comedy stage.

And for as brilliant a comic genius as he was - the guy could act. He could be mind-blowing funny in "Good Morning Vietnam" or "Mrs. Doubtfire" and then come back with "Dead Poets Society" and deliver an acting performance that made you stop and ask, "Is that the SAME guy?" There are brilliant comedians and equally-brilliant actors - the number of people who can easily bring both to epic levels the way Williams did can be counted on one hand.

But for all of that genius and all of that joy that he brought to our lives, the man had a demon that was pure evil. People look at all that he had and all the fun he brought to our lives and have no clue what depression is, where it manifests itself and how it hides in the shadows and waits for its opportunity. A lot of people who are in the comedy field or who create images and words for a living do so while hiding a tremendous amount of dark skeletons that can't wait to come out of the closet and screw up somebody's life. We hide behind the laughter, and the drugs, and everything else because it's a distraction from the real beast that lurks in the deepest recesses of our hearts.

When you deal with the level of depression that people like Robin Williams went through, every day is a round of Russian Roulette. In some cases, it's literally a 50/50 proposition whether or not you're going to get through the day alive or not. I've lived it. Even during my time here in Wayne, I've awoken some mornings and asked myself, "So how am I going to end this day and will I be alive when it's over?" And it's very hard to talk about it, because a lot of people in your life don't GET it.

"You're an Academy Award-winning actor," they said to Williams. "You're the funniest comedian alive and one of the funniest ever. You improvise like no other human being. HOW can you be so depressed?" I've had people ask me those kinds of questions. "You've got a great family. You're a fantastic journalist. You have this. You have that. What is WRONG with you?"

Depression is that dark voice in your head that tells you that you can't do something, or you're not good enough, or you're not worthy of anything good, or that you're just a waste of protoplasm. It's a voice most people can minimize, if not ignore outright. For some of us, though, it's a real and difficult voice to shut down.

I laugh at people who criticize me, because they're bringing Kool-Aid to a gin party if they think they can get under my skin with a critical remark. I've said much worse things to myself over a misspelled headline than the most irate reader on the block can bring into the office and deliver in their best fit of rage over having a name misspelled. I can't BEGIN to imagine what the voices told Robin Williams that ultimately convinced him that suicide was his best available option. It saddens me to know that he couldn't overcome those voices, that his genius and his brilliance and all of his success couldn't drown out that horrible noise.

I've seen all of Williams' TV comedy specials and heard all of his albums, and I'll have countless wonderful memories of his comedy genius, his sense of timing and his insanely brilliant mind. He was my Milton Berle, my Groucho Marx, my George Burns. It profusely saddens me to know that, for all of that brilliance and all of the joy he brought to me and millions of others all over the world, that those evil voices of depression snuffed out the life of such a wonderful, funny, brilliant and insanely creative personality.

Comedy will never be the same without Robin Williams. This generation's comedic voice is gone.

RIP and "Nanu Nanu," Robin.

How many debates is enough?

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

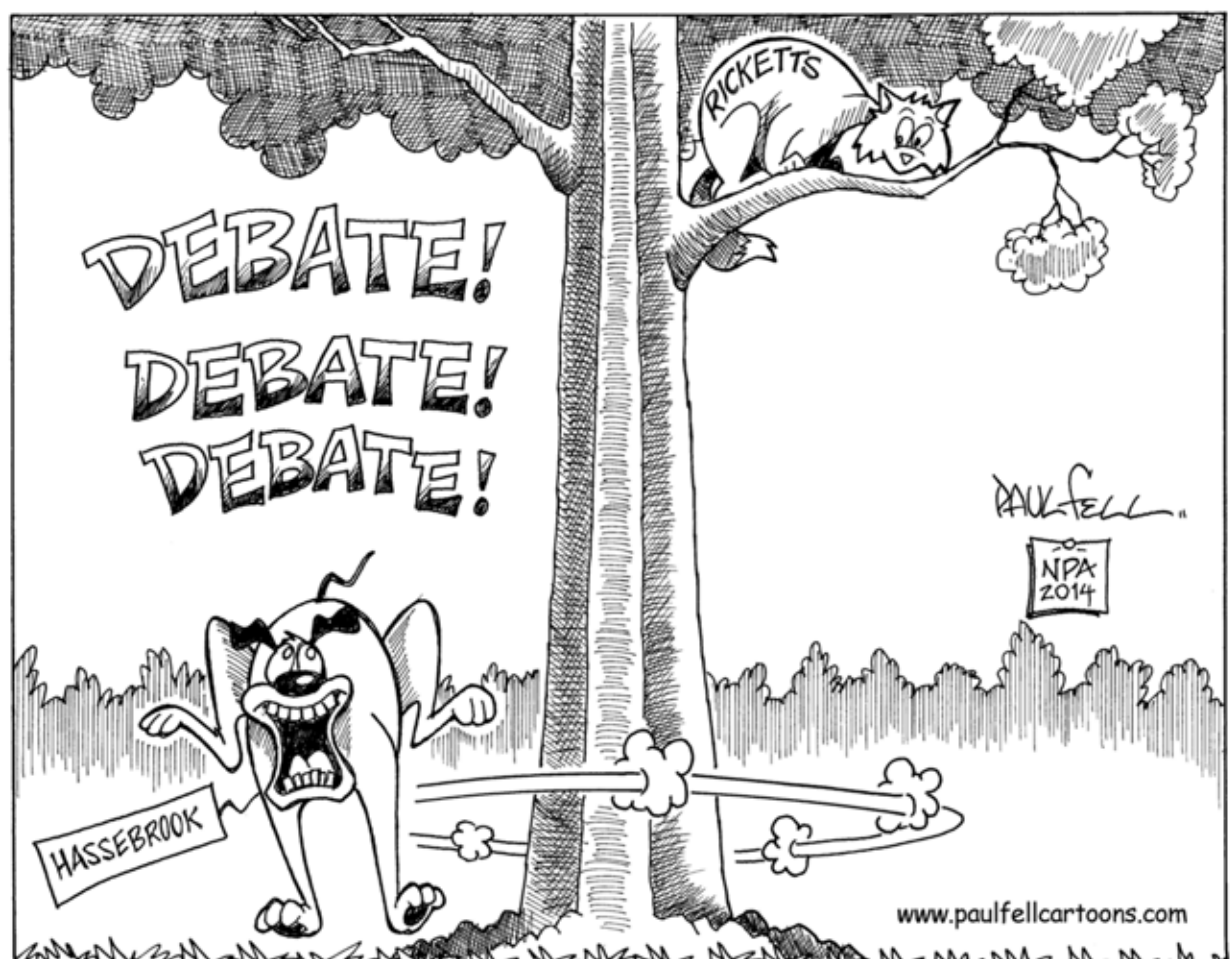

When you're the underdog - read that Democrat in a Republican state - you want to take advantage of public exposure. When you're underfunded, you want all the media coverage possible. One way to get both is by debating your opponent as many times in as many places as possible.

It comes as no surprise that Democratic gubernatorial candidate Chuck Hassebrook wants more than the two agreed upon debates with Republican Pete Ricketts in the first contested race for the governor's office in nearly two decades. Hassebrook is the former director of the Center for Rural Affairs and a former University of Nebraska Regent. Ricketts is an official at TD Ameritrade headquartered in Omaha.

Hassebrook, who grew up on a family farm, wants an opportunity to let voters statewide know of his rural roots and his experience on the governing board of the statewide university system. Unopposed in the gubernatorial primary, he does have political name recognition as the Democrat candidate for U.S. Senate who lost out to popular former U.S. Senator and one-term Governor Bob Kerrey who jumped into the fray late in the game and lost the election to Republican Deb Fischer.

Ricketts, well funded and ahead in the polls, doesn't have to worry about his public exposure. His political name recognition came as the person who finished second to incumbent U.S. Senator Ben Nelson in one of the most expensive races in Nebraska history as both candidates spent millions in advertising. Ricketts also emerged from an expensive six-way Republican primary race in May for the seat he is now seeking.

That primary, labeled by many as the bloodiest in Nebraska history, will long be known for the over-abundance of attack ads. Attorney General Jon Bruning, who finished second to Ricketts, blamed the Ricketts campaign for the negative ads. Ricketts vehemently denied it.

It's understandable that the Hassebrook campaign is probably stealing itself for more of that as the Nov. 4 election inches closer. Hassebrook has been walking parade routes, seeking donations - his biggest score being $100,000 from billionaire Warren Buffett - and trying to get Ricketts to agree to more than two debates, one of which he has characterized as more of a joint appearance than a debate.

The Ricketts camp says their candidate has a full campaign calendar including what they call the third debate, an appearance at the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and Nebraska Chamber of Commerce Senate forum at the Strategic Air and Space Museum near Ashland. Each candidate will be given five minutes to speak and then allowed to take questions from the audience for about 25 minutes.

Hassebrook spokeswoman Meg Mandy says that's NOT a debate. Ricketts spokeswoman Jessica Moenning says both men will be on the stage at the same time, thus it's a debate. She said, she said.

What the candidates have agreed on is a Labor Day (Sept. 1) debate at the Nebraska State Fair in Grand Island and a Nebraska Educational Television debate set for October 2 in Lincoln.

Hassebrook said he sent Ricketts a letter proposing six to eight televised debates and eight to 10 town hall events throughout the state and five jointly released newspaper op-eds on issues. Ricketts said attempts by his campaign earlier this summer to plan debates in locations across the state were rebuffed by the Hassebrook campaign. He said, he said.

The Ricketts campaign had asked Nebraska Republican Party Chair J.L. Spray to help organize debates. He said he asked state Democratic Party Chair Vince Powers about debates but didn't hear back from him for a long time. Powers said Hassebrook's staff said they preferred to deal directly with Ricketts' campaign. Spray characterized that as a lack of interest in debates. Powers said Spray was wrong in thinking that. He said, he said.

If you think all of this is interesting, wait until the advertising starts.

God must be laughing at Keystone project

It escapes me why President Obama has failed to sign off on the Keystone XL pipeline project.

Concerns have been raised about damage to the aquifer. Well, there are numerous reasons why we should be concerned about the aquifer. What about the thousands of tons of human waste generated every year in the state? What about the hundreds of lagoons with millions of gallons of animal waste all over Nebraska? What about the fertilizers and other chemicals spread all over the earth in farming operations? What about the thousands of septic tanks throughout the state? What about the numerous gasoline pipelines that cross the state already and the untold number of gasoline storage tanks?

Leaks, spills, storage, wastewater lagoons - all these are governed by EPA regulation. The environmental studies for the Keystone XL pipeline have been done, and the findings are that the proposed pipeline will have minimal environmental impact. State and federal regulations require an immediate and thorough cleanup of any spills. Further, the three-foot proposed pipeline is the safest method of transporting crude oil that there is.

The Good Lord must be laughing at the dithering.

Business owners need to take pride in outside plants

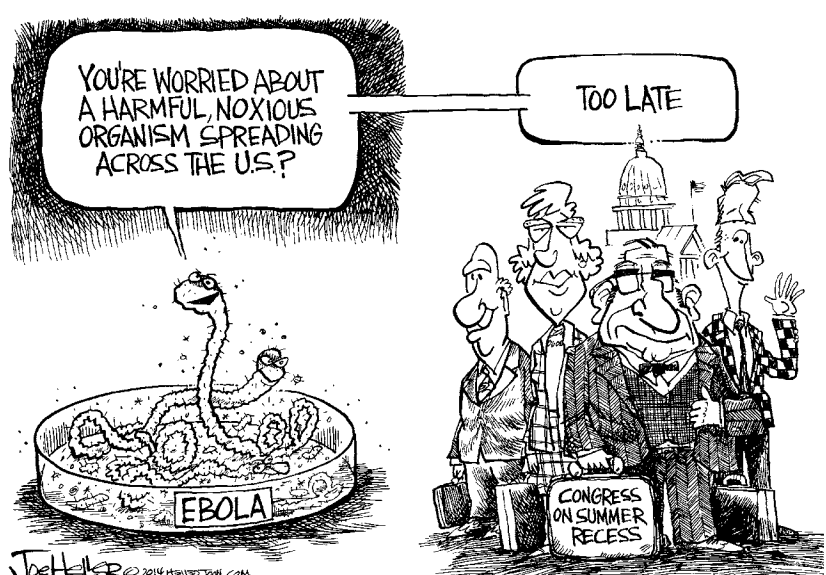

How sad I am to see that several of the Main Street business owners lack enough pride in our community that they have let the plants die in the pots in front of their business.

These flowering pots add much to the attractiveness of the downtown area and make a positive impression on visitors. The health of our community depends on many factors, one of which is the pride of residents and businesses in the curb appeal that we present.

I hope these businesses aren't anxious to see Wayne fade away.

Tips for parents: Balance school, family life

The summer is almost over and students will soon be in school. Multiple choices aren't likely to be limited to the classroom, though. After-school and other activities can offer opportunities, but also can add home base that will enable a child to take advantage of the opportunities at hand and grow from them. Here are some helpful tips to use this year:

- Designate a family calendar and post it where schedules can be checked before additional commitments are made. And, before making a commitment, think about what's important to the family. Is it more important for a child to forgo a family milestone - a grandparent's 75th birthday celebration, for example - to attend a regularly scheduled ball game? It would be nice to do both, but . . . Parents should weigh the options and talk with the child about the pros and cons. Doing so can help the child develop an understanding of the decision-making process.
- Evaluate activities, but know that there will be times when a parent has to make the decisions.

Helping a child learn to choose can empower the child to narrow his or her focus. That's not the same as saying a child shouldn't have the opportunity to explore his or her interests. One caution, though: Parents who push children into activities that they missed during their childhood usually do their child a disservice. Listen to your child, and watch to see where their interests lie. Try also to learn as much as you can about an activity or program and the commitment it requires before enrolling.

- Maintain family rituals, including those that might seem routine. Rituals let everyone know what to expect. Be intentional. If Sunday evening is family night, protect it. If eating together only every other night is possible, protect the time - turn off the radio and television, hold phone calls - and talk to each other. If supper won't work, how about breakfast? Or, a more leisurely weekend brunch? Be creative, but follow through. Preserve family time, and make a date to resolve conflicts later.
- Support your child, but don't feel pressured to attend every event. If, for example, an older child has an activity or event in the evening, one parent may decide to attend while the other parent cares for younger children. The next time, the other parent might attend the older child's event. There will be times when the whole family will want to attend, but the reality is that attending every event may add unnecessary stress to family life. One-on-one time with a child can be beneficial, too.

For more information on managing family life successfully, please contact the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension Office in your local county or visit the website at www.extension.unl.edu.

Angela Abts
Dakota County

stress. There may be little, if any, downtime for children or the family, for that matter to charge their batteries.

Making choices isn't always easy, but nurturing the child and the family is essential. By doing so, parents can provide a safe, secure

Family Reunions

Fleer Family Reunion

The 64th annual Fleer Family Reunion was held Aug. 3 at the shelter house in Gilman Park at Pierce.

Fifty-six people were in attendance from California, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Virginia and Wisconsin.

Arlene Fleer of Hoskins was the oldest person present. Ethan Wurdeman, one-year old son of Dan and Brenda Wurdeman of Council Bluffs, Iowa was the youngest. Traveling the farthest were Peter, Nancy, Nick, and Barry Varhola of Spring Valley, Calif., Jeremy and Kim Varhola, Hailey, Jeremy, and Milania of La Mesa, Calif., and Jamie and Amelia Swartz of Newport News, Va.

The afternoon was spent swimming and enjoying the antique tractors at the park.

Next year's reunion will be Aug. 2, 2015 at the same place.

Swanson-Weseloh Family Reunion

The annual Swanson-Weseloh Reunion was held Aug. 3 at the Wakefield Fire Hall.

Towns represented included Norfolk, Wakefield, Wayne, Laurel and Allen in Nebraska; Vermillion, S.D. and Glenwood, Iowa. There were 16 relatives in attendance.

A business meeting was held and it was reported that there was one wedding and eight births. There was also one high school graduation and two college graduations. There were two deaths in the family.

Other bits that were reported included: Ben Alexander graduated to join the Fulton County Fire and Rescue Department in Fulton County, Ga; Sara Gotch opened a videography business named "Lovoto" in Sioux City, Iowa.

The oldest person at the reunion was Gerthy Johnson of Norfolk. Coming from farthest distance were Earl Thies and Margaret Bloomer of Glenwood, Iowa. Gerthy Johnson had the most family members present.

A potluck dinner was held and the afternoon was spent visiting and taking family pictures.

A donation was collected and given to the Wakefield Fire Hall for the use of the facility.

The next reunion will be held Aug. 2, 2015 at the Wakefield Fire Hall with a potluck dinner at noon.

Any family additions should be sent to Lesa Johnson, 1003 Georgia Ave., Norfolk, Neb. 68701.

A Bit of Light

The monthly "Women's Fellowship" of Praise Assembly of God Church in Wayne met Monday evening. The September gathering will be the second Monday of the month, in Room 3 at the church, starting at 7 p.m. The theme will be "Around the Kitchen."

The sermon on Aug. 10 at Praise Assembly was entitled "There's Always Something Else," based on the familiar section of the Sermon on the Mount (Matthew 5:6-7). The specific verses in Matthew 6:25-34 are concerned with the various challenges that face human beings: issues of health, finances, clothing, and length of life.

Jesus uses illustrations in these verses that are common to all people: flowers, seeds, clothing, and life itself. In face of each of these areas of challenge, Jesus comments that all of the created things of the Lord do not worry or fret about what is happening. Why? Because the Lord knows what is needed for each - and Jesus' comments for His listeners were that: the heavenly Father knows what is needed for each.

Every person finds "stuff" happening each day, hence the title of the message: "There's Always Something Else."

In the Old Testament, the writer of Psalm 8 (in verses 3-5) reminds the readers that the One Who made the heavens is deeply concerned about all people - since He made human beings as the crown of creation.

There is a gospel song (sung by the Collingsworth family) that contains these lyrics for the refrain:

"Fear not tomorrow, God is already there." This is the reason why the Lord admonishes each of us to not be anxious, to not fear, to not fear: why? Because God is already there.

Continuing in Mark 4, verse 38, we read at the conclusion of the story of Jesus - sleeping in the boat when the storm comes up. The disciples, full of fear, awaken their Teacher, concerned that He might not be aware of their dilemma. Jesus woke up, rebuked the wind and the waves, and told the disciples that they were people of little faith. They needed to Just Trust, and so do we!

The flowers fade. The grain dies. The birds fly away. However, Isaiah 40:8 says that the Word of the Lord lasts forever.

At several points in the message, the congregation was asked to repeat: "There is Always Something Else" as well as "We Must Just Trust."

It is the prayer of the Praise Assembly Church family that you find your place of rest and trust in a God Who can be trusted.

The midweek activities at the church include "Kids' Praise" for children in grades K-6; and an Adult Bible Study runs concurrent with the children's activities - from 6:30-7:45 p.m. on Wednesday evenings. The Sunday schedule begins at 9:30 a.m. with Sunday School for all ages followed by the morning worship service at 10:30 a.m.

Rev. Jason Pickering and the congregation of Praise Assembly invite everyone to join with them this weekend.

Eagles donation

Winside St. Paul ladies conduct August meeting

Winside's St. Paul's Ladies Aid and LWML met Aug. 6 with 13 members, one guest (Bonnie Frevort) and Pastor Goodman present.

President Daisy Janke called the meeting to order and welcomed the guest. The LWML Pledge was recited by everyone present.

Mrs. Janke read an article titled "An Expert About You," based on Psalms 134: 1-3 and then everyone sang the hymn "I Am Trusting Thee, Lord Jesus."

Pastor Goodman had the Bible study on Luthera' Small Catechism, 3rd Article, titled "The Church We Are."

Janice Mundil read the secretary's report and after a correction was made, it was approved as read.

Lorraine Prince read the treasurer's report, which was approved.

Mrs. Janke also read a thank you card from LaJeane Marotz.

Mrs. Prince read a thank you card from LCMS, thanking the group for the monetary gift that was given to St. John's Lutheran Church in Pilger after the June tornado.

Bev Voss gave the report for visiting the shut-ins. Esther Carlson will visit the shut-ins on August.

In old business, reports were given from the ladies who attended the Wayne Zone District Convention in Norfolk June 20-21. Everyone agreed that it was an informational and inspirational event.

Mrs. Janke reported that there was a 'good turnout' for the Q125 ice cream social fund raiser held on June 21, and that "it was enjoyed by many people."

In new business, St. Paul's Ladies Aid will be hosting the LWML Fall Rally on Oct. 14. Committees for registration, decorations and food were selected.

Mrs. Janke said that there were two positions open for the Wayne Zone District - President and Treasurer. Anyone interested should let her know.

Pastor Goodman said there was a request from Pastor Makelin of St. John's Lutheran Church in Pilger for volunteers to help serve food to the people helping with the tornado clean up. A number of ladies offered to help.

A Praying for You card was sent to Jackie Koll.

The birthday song was sung for Janice Mundil and Arlyn Vahlkamp.

Mrs. Prince read roll call.

The meeting closed with The Lord's Prayer and table prayer.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, Sept. 3 with Erna Hoffman and Lydaisy Janke as hostesses.

Wanted ... Church news

The Wayne Herald would like to print information and schedules from area churches.

All information submitted to the Herald by Monday at 5 p.m. (delivered to the Herald office) or emailed by 8 a.m. on Tuesday will be included in that week's edition of the paper.

Articles can be mailed to P.O. Box 70, Wayne, Neb. 68787 or emailed to clara@wayneherald.com

The Herald thanks its readers and area ministers for their cooperation in our effort to keep informed on the happenings at various churches.

Getting back in touch with friends

One more 50-year anniversary; the Ford Mustang! My friend, Dorothy, has one, a white convertible, and sometimes, she even gives me rides in it!

We finally had a nice rain on Sunday eve; I know some areas of northeast Nebraska have had flooding, but we were needing the moisture. And, we are still having nice cool weather with less humidity, which is so welcome.

Our book club this month is reading "The Girls from Ames." It's true stuff about a group of eleven gals who started forming friendships in grade school and added as they grew into junior high and high school. Now, at almost fifty, they still get together once a year without husbands and kids.

The author is a columnist for the Wall Street Journal and had written a column about female friendships. One of the "Ames Eleven" wrote to tell him about their group and he spent a long weekend with them when they were forty-four.

What struck me was the improbability of a group that size staying cohesive. They did lose one, in a tragic accident, at age 22. But the rest have stuck together, through thick and thin. And, of course, now with email, they can stay in much closer contact.

I have noticed the same thing with my friends, both male and female. Through the years after marriage, we get busy with jobs and families, and contact is typically the annual Christmas letter. Now that the "nests are empty", we are back in touch.

I've done talks about women and friendships, so some of the studies the author cites I was familiar with. For instance, for years, in my presentations about stress, I quoted the guys who came up with the "fight or flight" response to stress. But lately, I've become convinced that women instead "tend and befriend." We cluster and support, either by our presence, or by our prayers and cards and emails.

There was a good book about women and friendships by Dee Breslin, who actually lived in Nebraska at the time she wrote it; I don't know if she still does. She says we typically in our lifetime have five friends of the heart and the rest are friends of the road. And, as we all know, it takes time and effort to maintain friendships. Therefore, as we move, or they do, sometimes, they remain just a friend of that particular road, ie. the bleachers at athletic events when you both had kids participating.

The Girls from Ames have done an amazing job of keeping in touch. And their stories made for interesting reading. It also reinforced my resolve to stay in touch with my "friends of the heart." They are important even for our health, the specialists say. And I believe it; here's to true friendship!

Yield forecast from Hybrid-Maize

Corn pollination has finished throughout much of Nebraska and grain filling has already started or is about to start.

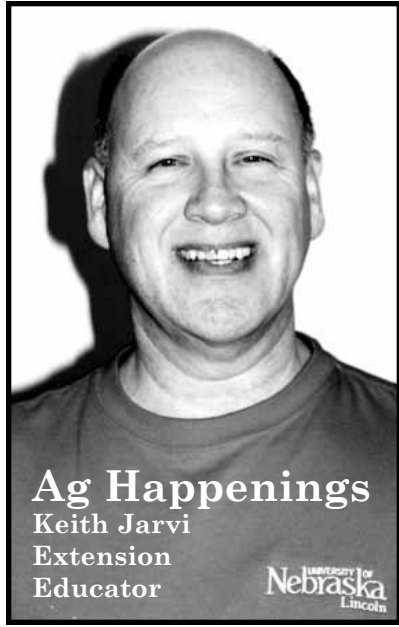

The past two weeks have alternated between below- and above-average temperatures with scattered rainfall across the state. Questions are being asked about how these weather conditions have changed the 2014 end-of-season yield predictions performed on July 20 using the Hybrid-Maize model.

To evaluate, in "real-time" fashion, the impact of current weather on corn yield potential, and its spatial variability across the Corn Belt, simulations of 2014 end-of-season corn yield potential were performed on Aug. 1 for 25 locations.

Details about Hybrid-Maize and the underpinning methodology to forecast end-of-season yields can be found in July 25 CropWatch (cropwatch.unl.edu) article. Hybrid-Maize model simulates daily corn growth and development and final grain yield under irrigated and dryland conditions.

The model estimates "yield potential," which is the yield obtained when the crop is not limited by nutrient supply, diseases, insect pressure, or weed competition - conditions that represent an "optimal management" scenario. It also assumes a uniform plant stand at the specified plant population, and no problems from flooding or hail.

Because weather and management factors are "location-specific," Hybrid-Maize simulations are based on actual weather data and typical management practices at the location being simulated as provided by extension educators in each state.

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension Educator

Irrigated and dryland yield forecasts as of Aug. 1 are shown in tables in the articles. For irrigated corn there has been little change (less than 6 percent) in yield potential forecasts since July 20. Median irrigated yield forecast is within plus or minus 10 percent of long-term average in Nebraska and Kansas, except for two locations in Kansas where the forecast median irrigated yield potential is 12-16 percent higher than the long-term median.

The probability of above-average irrigated yields is high in Kansas and at two sites in Nebraska (Clay Center and Mead). Similar to irrigated corn, there has been little change in dryland yield forecasts, except for a 12 percent increase at Mead, a 17 percent decrease at Clay Center, and a 9 percent decrease at Manhattan, Kan. (decreases at the two previous sites is due to lack of rainfall), and a 12 percent decrease at Arlington, Wisc. (due to increasing probability of early killing frost during grain filling).

Nevertheless, at all dryland sites but one, median dryland yield forecast is near (35 percent of the sites) or above the long-term average (60 percent of the sites), with a high probability of above-average yield in 70 percent of the dryland sites.

In summary, dryland and irrigated yield forecasts at 25 locations across the Corn Belt have changed little since July 20 except at a few locations in Nebraska, Kansas, and Wisconsin. Median dryland and irrigated yields are near or above average at all sites but one, with a high probability of above-average irrigated yields at some locations in Kansas and Nebraska and above-average dryland yields at most sites across the Corn Belt.

However, if rainfall stops and temperatures rise throughout August, we would expect both dryland and irrigated yield forecasts to decrease.

Follow up forecasts will be available in mid-August and early- and mid-September.

AN UPDATE FROM DAVE

Barry was joining us this week for our update. Everyone is in the new building now. The phones are ringing and the computers are all hooked up and working. We're doing business in the new building. Not everything is totally done. We still have to stay out of a few of the areas, but it won't be long.

Where to park - probably on the road and in the east parking lot for now. We'll be striking and painting the parking lot some evening. Customers should park in the parking right east of the north door.

Barry said he doesn't get down every week, but says the building looks good. He says you'll be impressed when you come see it.

We're planning for an open house after harvest, probably in November sometime. It will be a combination open house and John Deere Days. We didn't have John Deere last winter since we didn't have a building. We'll be combining 2014-15. There will be a dance and feed and will go on into the night to celebrate.

Work continues as usual. There will be a little bit of lag for batteries and hoses, until we get them moved, but otherwise everything else is in the new building.

Everybody's in the new building and the phones are working. Call us at 402-375-3325 or if there is an emergency, the after hours number is 402-369-0255.

Q & AS: MEDICATION SAFETY IN CHILDREN

Curiosity kills more than the cat. . . . Did you know that medications are the top cause of poisoning in kids? Together, we can help change that! To get started, here are a few answers to some questions parents commonly ask about medication safety for kids.

1. Where should I store medications? People may call it the "medicine cabinet," but it's not a good place to store medications. Bathrooms are moist and can lower the strength of a medication. Plus, they're a little too easy for little hands to get into.

Instead, keep drugs, eye drops, and vitamins out of sight and out of reach of children. Try a high place, such as a hall closet or kitchen shelf. Don't forget that a curious kid may easily find medicine in a purse or dresser drawer.<sup>1,2</sup>

2. How should I measure medicine? With young children, it's especially important to get the dosing right. Always use the dosing device that comes with the medicine. Measuring spoons or other home utensils aren't the same as a medication syringe or cup. <sup>1</sup> If you use a syringe, try squirting the medicine on the inside of the cheek where there are fewer taste buds.<sup>1</sup>

If your child takes the wrong dosage, call me right away. I can tell you whether or not it's cause for concern. Or call Poison Control for assistance as well.

3. Does a spoonful of sugar help the medicine go down? Some medicines can taste pretty nasty to a child! It may be okay to mix a liquid medication with chocolate or maple syrup. However, don't do this for babies. If they don't finish a bottle, they won't get the right amount of medication.<sup>2</sup> And check with me before crushing and mixing a tablet or capsule with food.<sup>4</sup>

4. Is it okay to share prescription medications? No matter how similar their symptoms, don't have your kids share medications.<sup>2</sup> And never repackaging them. Keep medications in their original childproof container.

5. How long can my child use a medication? Be sure to not use drugs past their expiration date. Most drugs lose their strength after about a year. If you have any question about whether or not to use a drug, talk with your child's doctor or me.<sup>2</sup>

6. Are OTC drugs safe for kids? Be sure to read labels. Not all over-the-counter (OTC) medications are safe for children of all ages. Of course, never give aspirin to any child—it can cause serious illness, even death.<sup>3</sup>

Make sure you know a drug's potential side effects. But stay alert to any adverse reactions. Kids can be more sensitive to drugs than adults. For example, cold medications can cause excitability or severe drowsiness in kids, even at lower doses. The FDA recommends that you not use OTC cough and cold medications in children younger than age two.<sup>3</sup> Rest, clear fluids, and a humidifier may be the best route to recovery from colds and flu.<sup>4</sup>

Remember: There's no substitute for getting your specific questions answered. I'm here to personally talk with you about your child's medications. I can also suggest OTC drugs and discuss any concerns you have about side effects. If you don't remember a question until you're home, that's okay. Just give me a call.

Nothing herein constitutes medical advice, diagnosis or treatment, or is a substitute for professional advice. You should always seek the advice of your physician or other medical professional if you have questions or concerns about a medical condition.

Northeast awarded $25,000 grant for job and economic growth opportunities

Northeast Community College has been awarded a $25,000 grant that will assist in its on-going efforts in developing a unique curriculum related to workforce training needs. The funds will be used to support implementation of Northeast's Manufacturing Bootcamp, which is currently being piloted in Cuming County and the surrounding area.

The Federal Home Loan Bank, of which Citizens State Bank is a member, has awarded the grant through its Joint Opportunities for Building Success (JOBS) Program. The program is designed to help financial institutions in Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, and Oklahoma to promote jobs and economic growth in their communities.

The JOBS Grant Program awarded nearly $1 million in JOBS funding in 2014 and serves more than 790 members throughout Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma. The grant from the Federal Home Loan Bank in Topeka, KS, became available to Northeast Community College through an application process at Citizens State Bank, which has locations in Belden, Creston, Friend, Laurel, Leigh, Spalding, West Point, and Wisner.

Northeast's Center for Enterprise (CFE) has partnered with area high schools, economic development officials, and businesses in order to create the Manufacturing Bootcamp to help address a middle-skilled workforce gap.

"We have heard from a number of manufacturers in our 20 county service area that they need employees with basic workforce readiness, customer service and safety skills, as well as information about evolving manufacturing career pathways that are necessary in today's workplace," said Eric Johnson, associate vice president of the CFE. "This middle-skilled training gap is being bridged in Cuming County and the surrounding area by jointly fusing customized training solutions, foundation scholarship funding, and strong connections between the students and area manufacturers."

The unique piece of the Bootcamp is that students who complete the non-credit experience can bridge that programming into Northeast's new credit Diversified Manufacturing Technology Certificate. The Certificate will prepare students to earn a Manufacturing Generalist Certificate from the Manufacturing Skills Council, which is recognized at the state and national levels.

Dr. Michael Chipps, Northeast president, said the grant will assist in filling a critical need for skilled workers. "The Manufacturing Bootcamp is yet another innovative venture for Northeast Community College and it will have a significant positive impact on individuals and communities. We greatly appreciate the Federal Home Loan Bank in providing this funding that will assist with meeting the workforce development needs in the College's 20 county service area."

Round Robin Showmanship Contest among final activities

The Leroy Sievers Memorial Round Robin Trophy was awarded to Lauren Gilliland, daughter of Terry and Shelley Gilliland of Wayne. Reserve Champion honors were awarded to Dylan Puls, son of Russ and Traci Puls of Hoskins.
 The Round Robin Showmanship Contest was held on July 27. It provided an opportunity for the Champion and Reserve Champion senior showman from the 4-H divisions of beef, dairy, sheep, and swine to compete for the best all-around showman honors at the fair. If the cham-

Champion or reserve champion showman from each division had already won the Round Robin Contest, then the next participant in that division was allowed to compete.
 Each individual rotates from species to species while being judged on their showmanship skills with each species. The winner is determined by the overall score.
 Serving as judges in each of the areas were former 4-Hers – Katie Weinrich for beef, Rachel Gilliland for dairy, Ashely Gilliland for sheep and Ben Braun for swine. Each of the 4-Hers were asked the same three questions by each of the species judges and then received additional points for how they handled the animal.

 Others participating in the contest included purple ribbon winners: Marta Pulfer (dairy); Danielle Gilliland and Brennen O'Reilly (sheep); Brenna Vovos and Blake Reimers (swine); Austin Kempf (beef).
 The Round Robin Showmanship Contest is in its 16th year at the fair.

Receiving top honors at the Wayne County Poultry Show were (front) Kylie Cautrell, Jonah Brodersen and McKenna Russell, (back) James Simpson, Reid Korth, Samantha Siebrandt and Grace Heithold.

Misty Bear, Jean Dorcey, Brian Bruckner, Brook Bowers and Alyssa Schmale, members of the Wayne 4-H Council dish up ice cream to celebrate the centennial of Extension.

UNL Extension celebrating its centennial during 2014

In 2014, UNL Extension is celebrating its centennial.

In honor of the centennial, a reception was held at the Leland Herman Arena on Sunday, July 27.

The ice cream served was made especially for the Centennial by the UNL Dairy Store on East Campus. Members of the 4-H Council in Wayne County served the ice cream to 200 individuals.

4-H is the youth component of UNL Extension. They are proud of the 100 year legacy of building better lives for Nebraskans. Associated with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln as it's flagship in research, there are over 300 UNL Extension professionals who help Nebraska citizens gain benefits from the research and teaching of our Big Ten University.

In 1914, the Smith-Lever Act provided for mutual cooperation of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Land-Grant Colleges in conducting agricultural extension work. Cooperative Extension work, from its beginning, saw youth as an excellent audience for the dissemination of research-based information. The close relationship between Nebraska youth and UNL Extension continues today.

Now, 100 years later – with 4-H as the link. 4-H is focuses on 5 different outcome areas involving: Agricultural Literacy, Healthy Lifestyles, Citizenship and Leadership, College and Career Readiness, and Science, Engineering, and Technology.
