Elevator going down

The 1880s grain elevator located on just south of Godfather's Pizza in Wayne came down on Tuesday morning. The building was so well constructed and re-enforced that a large portion of the northwest corner of the building had to be removed for the building to collapse. The land on which the elevator sat is owned by Mid Plains Grain LLC.

School budget gets OK by board

General fund levy for '14-'15 17 cents lower than last year

Of the Herald

Approval was given to the budget on which the Wayne Community Schools will operate on during Monday's regular meeting of the board.

Superintendent Mark Lenihan told the board members that next year's tax asking for the General Fund will be 86 cents per $100 valuation. He said that because the district's General Fund tax request is nine cents lower than the 95 cent minimum required by the state, it is probable that the district could become unequalized in the next fiscal year. This, in turn, could mean that the district would lose all of its state

Lenihan said that with a 24 percent increase in land values in the district, the total levy being asked for by the district will be $1, which is 17 cents lower than last

"I feel this is a very reasonable budget. We understand the concerns of the agricultural community and worked to be prepared for some of the changes that could be coming in the next fiscal year."

The tax asking also includes money for the building fund, bond fund and qualified capital improvement fund to re-pay funds borrowed for the additions to the two schools

In other action, the board accepted a check in the amount of $1,149 from First Nebraska Bank. The amount represents the number of students at Wayne Junior-Senior High School who were listed on the quarterly honor rolls throughout the 2013-2014 semester.

Reports from the administrators indicated that the school year is off to a good start. Final enrollment numbers are not yet in, but as of the meeting, there are 887 students enrolled at Wayne Community Schools, pre-kindergarten through 12th grade, with the kindergarten class and sophomore class being the largest, with 77 students each.

Board members gave approval to move forward with the hiring of a general education paraprofessional.

Elementary Principal Jill Pickenpaugh told the board that the current kindergarten class has 77 students and "lots of special needs students and others who could use extra guidance. It would be a good idea

Tornado anniversary a chance to show off city's rebuilding effort

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

Back and bigger and better than ever. It's hard for some Wayne residents to believe that the one-year anniversary of the Wayne Tornado is coming up. The tornado that struck the east end of town on Oct. 4, 2013 was a devastating moment in the community's long history.

The upcoming anniversary of that storm is being looked at as an opportunity to show how much the community has bounced back since the storm, and a number of activities are being planned that weekend to 'celebrate" the anniversary of the tornado.

"The plan is to have businesses in the area that was hit by the storm open Friday afternoon to allow people to stop by and see the reinvestments that the businesses have made," Wes Blecke, executive director of the Wayne Area Chamber, said Wednesday. "Grossenburg is obviously a very visual indication of what's been done out there, but there are a number of other businesses that have done a lot out there as well. It's incredible the amount of reinvestment that has been made out there, and we'd like to have the community see it.

Businesses like Grossenburg Implement and Sand Creek Post & Beam have built back their businesses into something that is even bigger than what was there before the EF-4 tornado knocked their establishments to the ground. What has come back in its place. Blecke admitted, was beyond even his imagination.

"I never would have anticipated how nice things look out in that area today," he said. "There is still a ways to go, but we wanted it to be bigger and better than ever and it is. Some of the reinvestment is big, and some of it is simple and much more efficient than it was before. People were able to build back what they needed and got some of their wants along with their needs."

On Friday, Oct. 3, the weekly Chamber Coffee will be held at the Stan Morris Airport, which was leveled in last year's storm

Ficke-Anderson is excited about her role in 'Peter Pan'

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

Olivia Ficke-Anderson has no problem finding her way around a theater stage.

Finding the way TO the stage – well, that was another

The 17-year-old Wayne High School senior was overjoyed when she found out she was being cast in the role of Wendy in the Sioux City Community Theatre production of "Peter Pan" that opens this weekend.

The drive from Wayne to Sioux City for practice every day, however, was another matter.

"I wasn't very good with directions, so my dad had to take me to practice the first week," she admitted. "After that, I was able to find my way around."

The daughter of Mike Anderson and Christy Ficke has always had an interest in theatre, even before her first opportunity in Wisconsin as part of the chorus in the production of "Joseph And The Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat." "I remember there was a guy who sounded like Elvis who was playing the pharoh, and it just looked like fun," she said. "Even around the house, my brother, Edgar, and I would play and I would have it all set out where I would play one role and he'd be like a dragon hunter or something. Ficke-Anderson was hoping to be in a play production in Wayne, but conflicts with the state speech contest prevented it. She got a chance this summer, however, and she and her friend, Gabriella Miller, tried out for a part at the Sioux City Community Theatre.

While the family was in Minnesota on vacation, she got a call requesting a call-back tryout.

"I got the call and I went to my mom and said, "Mommmmm, would you drive me eight hours back for a call-back? So we came back and did it and then drove back up with the

As the announcement date drew near, Ficke-Anderson said she kept checking on her smart phone to see if the names were posted – a difficult task due to their location "The wi-fi in our cabin wasn't working well, so every time we'd go back into town, I'd refresh my phone to see if it was up," she said. "I think I scared everybody when I saw it and screamed that I got the part." Adam Gonshorowski, director of the Sioux City production, said Ficke-Anderson brings a unique quality to the character of Wendy

"She's been fantastic," he said. "When she performs, you can really feel it and see it and she just has a magnetic personality that's so natural for her. She is sort of like lightning

Travel concerns aside, Ficke-Anderson said she has enjoyed being a part of the production, which debuts its nineperformance run Friday and Saturday with performances at 7:30 p.m. and continues through Sept. 28.

"They had already been rehearsing a week when we got back from vacation, but it's going really good and it's going to be a really great production," she said. "I didn't know

County accident investigated, speed limit is lowered

The Wayne County Sheriff's Office was called to investigate a one vehicle accident three and one-half miles west of Wayne on Highway 35 on Tuesday afternoon.

At approximately 3:20 an eastbound vehicle lost control when it drove through mud which had been deposited on the highway. The vehicle entered the north ditch and struck an embankment, which caused it to roll.

The driver was transported to Providence Medical Center in Wayne where he was treated for injuries and released on Wednesday.

Members of the Wayne Fire Department and Providence Medical Center rescue personnel responded to the scene and provided emergency services to the driver.

Following the accident, the Nebraska Departments of Roads sent out crews to clear the highway in that area of mud and posted a slower temporary speed limit to ensure the safety of motorists.

Just a few things to talk about

Here is today's first installment in my effort to go an entire NFL season without mentioning my DE-FENDING Super Bowl champion Seattle Seahawks in this column.

Whoops . . . well, at least we have these things to talk about:

 Dan McLaughlin isn't going to say it (at least, not yet), but I will - this year's Wayne State football team has the potential to do some

Last year, McLaughlin was about as optimistic as I've ever heard him when talking about his Wayne State football team. I don't think he mentioned anything about playoff potential, but he did say the 2013 Wildcats had the chance to be a very special team.

And then - they went 2-9 (although, in their defense, five of their losses were by a touchdown or less, and three of those came on the last play of the game, so they were just a whisker or two away from 7-4).

I was very impressed with the team's effort Saturday in their 35-13 win over Bemidji State. Zach Osborn didn't show any of the firstgame jitters he had last year as a freshman and put together a solid effort in running the offense, and the defense looked very good (aside from a couple of blown coverages) and I love the way that front line plays with a lot of anger. Jeff Van Den Topp was a beast on the Beaver quarterbacks with 3 1/2 sacks.

McLaughlin is going to stay on the cautious side of optimistic for now. I'm not going to go all the way and say this team will be a playoff team. Before Saturday, I thought 6-5 was the ceiling. After Saturday – maybe 8-3 is in the cards.

A win Saturday at St. Cloud would go a long way toward that.

- Speaking of McLaughlin, he made a surprising, and great point, about another Wildcat program during Tuesday's Catbacker gathering at The Max.

Women's soccer coach Tom Cliff came in last year inheriting a team that, to be kind, was not very good. Coming in late, he didn't have much of a chance to clean house or establish a new way of doing things, so the team learned on the fly and finished with a glimmer of hope, getting a scoreless tie at then-No. 19 Southwest Minnesota State and closing with a 5-0 win at Sioux

Most soccer teams have about 25 players on their roster, and there were 17 left after last season. It would have been easy for that group to quit, transfer or otherwise stop contributing to the program, but those young ladies are showing some true character by adapting to the new system and helping the 16 newcomers (yes, that's 33 players on the roster) get acclimated to the new system here.

So far, so good – the Wildcat soccer team has a three-game unbeaten streak after Sunday's 1-1 tie at Northwest Oklahoma. You can see the new and improved team Monday when they have a rare 12 p.m. kickoff at home against Colorado

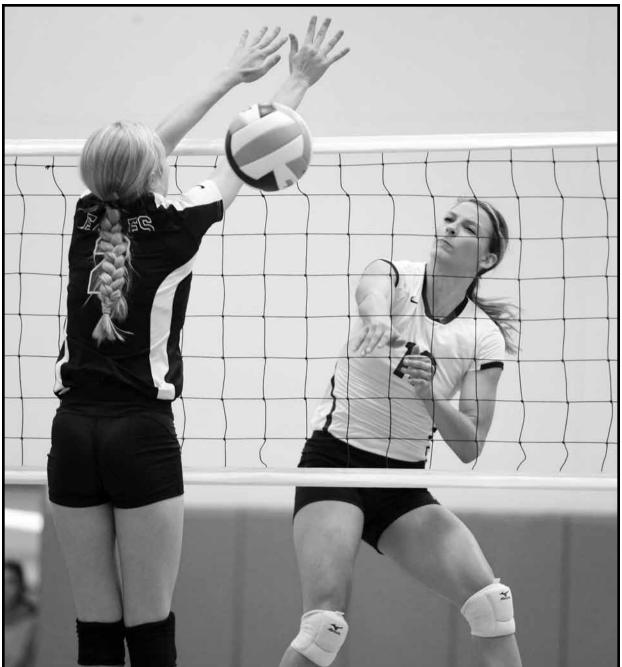

Christian. - One of the last words of the late, great coaching legend Jim Valvano as he was dying of cancer was

"Don't give up. Don't ever give up." Wayne High's volleyball team lived that out in a big way Tuesday against a 2013 state championship team from South Dakota. They fought off four match points in the fifth and deciding set before coming away with a thrilling win at Wayne High School.

After losing a lot of senior leaders off last year's state tournament team, and stumbling through last weekend's Northeast Nebraska Classic, you had to wonder how this team was going to respond to adversity. Would they be able to punch and counterpunch when the going got tough in big-time situations.

Boy, DID they. Madison Frevert unleashed her had a sit-down session with her senior players to dis- take a 2-0 advantage cuss what was expected of them as leaders.

And lead they did – the Blue Devils lost a tough second set, bounced back from a flat third set and were able to hang on for dear life to come back and beat one of the top teams in South Dakota, outlasting Dakota Valley 25-21, 30-32, 25-14, 25-22, 22-20 in action Tuesday at Wayne High School.

"We had a rough go on Saturday and we have a lot of seniors on the team, so we had a team meeting Monday and I talked to the seniors about leadership and how it's their last year, and I saw (that leadership) tonight," Krusemark said after the hard-fought, two-hour win. Every point we had to fight for, the seniors were out there fighting and doing what we needed to do to win."

The Blue Devils got out to a 5-1 lead in the first set with the help of kills by Alyssa Schmale and Lexi Sokol. They used Panther errors to build a seven-point advantage, then held off a late rally to win the first set on a pair of kills by Sokol to take a 1-0 advantage.

The second set was an amazing back-and-forth affair where neither team led by more than two points after they drew to a 10-10 tie. Both teams' defenses were able to respond after losing serve, and service changed sides 43 times alone in the second set.

Wayne had chances to win early in the second set. With the match tied at 25-25, Tarah Stegemann put down a set by Emma Evetovich to make it 26-25, but a hitting error brought the visitors back to even. A Sokol After stumbling through the second day of the North-kill was matched by the Panthers, and the Blue Devils east Nebraska Classic, the Blue Devil volleyball coach failed on four opportunities to win the second set and > Finally, on Dakota Valley's third attempt at set point, they were able to tie the match when Lindsey Smith set up Meredith Lammers for the equalizer, and Dakota Valley carried that momentum through to an easy third-set win to take a 2-1 advantage in the bestof-five match.

> "Losing that second one, I didn't want to say anything, but it's a big blow and I knew it would be tough to come back in the third set," Krusemark said. "But if you hang on and win the fourth, it's a little easier in the fifth because you've got that momentum back. The girls fought hard on every point tonight and did a great job."

> Wayne went on a four-point roll in the fourth set, highlighted by a block by Madison Frevet and an ace serve by Schmale. Dakota Valley tied the match at 20-20 late in the fourth set, but a kill by Frevert off an Evetovich pass and a Dakota Valley area helped Wayne tie the match and take it to a deciding fifth set.

The fifth set went well past the 15-point plateau as the two sides once again traded blows like a heavyweight championship fight.

Dakota Valley broke an 11-11 tie in the final set and CLARKSON – It took some time for Wakefield to get used to a new version of the same game Friday night.

The Trojans played their first eight-man football game on Friday in Clarkson, and the host Clarkson-Leigh Patriots jumped out to a big lead early and held on late to outlast the visitors, 48-32

"I don't think we were ready for the speed of the eight-man game. As much as we try to simulate it in practice, it just wasn't possible to show the boys the real thing," coach Mike Hassler said. "The boys were just trying to play catch up the entire first quarter."

The Patriots jumped out to a 20-0 lead in the first period before Wakefield got on the board with an eightyard pass from Alex Conley to Levi Nelson early in the second quarter. Wakefield would add another score late in the first half, a 26-yard run by Conley, but trailed 42-14 at intermission.

Wakefield found the end zone three times in the second half, with Conley, Daniel Nuno and Nick Gonzalez all scoring on touchdown runs to highlight a 354-yard output on offense.

"For the first game of the season, I was very pleased with our execution," Hassler said. "Once the boys figured out some alignment issues and we got everyone on the same page, the offense ran real efficiently from about the second quarter to the end of the game."

Trojans roll over L-C-C in 66-14 rout Allen goes 1-4 at Classic

HARTINGTON - It might be hard for Laurel-Concord-Coleridge football fans to find the silver lining in the cloud of a 66-14 loss to Hartington Cedar Catholic last week, but coach Jordan Taylor saw some good things in Friday's outcome.

"I guess you'd have to be within our circle to know why we feel we accomplished two of our three goals," he said. "The one, of course, most are concerned with was the W, however we have a plan and we're sticking to it."

The Trojans rang up 52 points on the Bears in the opening period and held a 66-8 lead at intermission. The Bears got on the board in the

Reflecting on newspaper column

Everywhere we go, everything is still green, thanks to all the rain. I was especially happy to see the drought mitigation map of the state; all of it has been alleviated. Then I see TV news of flooding in Phoenix, thanks to Norbert. For those poor folks, it's either feast or famine.

We trade daily newspapers with the neighbors; he brings us the Lincoln Journal and we give him our World Herald. In the Sunday Journal, a fellow named Alan Guebert writes a weekly column entitled The Farm and Food File. His favorite thing to do is take corporate agriculture and big organizations like the National Cattlemen to task.

But once in a while, we read of growing up on an Illinois dairy farm, and the foibles of the hired man, and the German Lutheran traditions of the community. I can the U.S., carried stories about cattle slaughter. Except they did not use the word "slaughter."

Nope, the whole process was bloodless: one said "Cargill closes Milwaukee harvest facility" and the other story was about "Dissecting the makeup of the U.S. fed cattle harvest." I guess we don't kill cattle in North America anymore, we "harvest" them.

He went on to say the two words do not mean the same thing. The dictionary rightly states that harvest means the reaping and gathering in of ripened grain.

He gave more examples, but you get the point. The Big Farmer's pet peeve is the newscasters who refer to "cows" when they should be saying steers, or bulls, or even heifers. But they are all cows to them. I guess we have a huge educational process ahead of us.

Machinery, driver safety essential

During the fall harvest season, countless hours will be spent in combines, tractors, trucks and other equipment by farmers and workers who will be transporting large equipment on our roads and highways. Some workers may be young, new or inexperienced, so it's always a good suggestion to go over safety considerations with all workers to teach or reinforce the importance of Agriculture ranks among the nation's most hazardous industries. Farmers are at very high risk for fatal and nonfatal injuries, and farming is one of the few industries in which family members, who often share the work and live on the premises, are also at risk for fatal and nonfatal injuries. According to the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), an estimated 1.03 million youth under 20 years of age resided on farms in 2009, with about 519,000 youth performing farm work. In 2010, 476 farmers and farm workers died from a workrelated injury, resulting in a fatality rate of 26.1 deaths per 100,000 workers. Tractor overturns were the leading cause of death for these farmers and farm workers.

Here are a few safety tips from Michigan State University Extension to consider on your farm as producers prepare for the harvest

1. Read operators manual(s).

2. Install Slow-Moving Vehicle SMV) signs. Wear seat belts. Mirrors and rear vision cameras make a remarkable difference in visibility 3. Put equipment in neutral or park, engage parking brake, and turn off engine before dismounting. Wait until all mechanisms have stopped moving before attempting to service or unclog a machine.

Motorists need to be aware of the special handling required for large equipment. A prime example is the extreme turning ranges required. When tractors, semi-trailers, and other large equipment move right, they may be making a wide left-hand turn. Narrow bridges, gravel roads, blind intersections, and other rural road conditions mean both machinery operator and driver need to be aware of who is sharing the road. One of the emerging factors seen in rural crashes is distractions – using cell phones or iPods, texting friends, checking weather, and a variety of other non-driving activities. Both motorists and machinery operators need to keep full attention on the Rural roads hold their own hazards: they're used by a variety of vehicle types and sizes and subject to road conditions that vary with the season. Ensuring safety can reduce fatalities. Seat belt usage is lower in rural areas - buckle up! Cargo space in pick-ups and on ATVs and tractors is often turned into passenger seating - no riders! Many hazards, such as railroad crossings and blind intersections are not marked – stay alert!

Making rural roads safe is not the responsibility of a single person or a group. Motorists, farm machine operators, and recreational vehicle drivers need to take responsibility for safe rural roads. Gardners have options for their surplus tually everyone encounters a generous gardener offering the surplus of his or her bumper crop of cucumbers, tomatoes, zucchini or other prolific garden or orchard plants. The abundance is of course a blessing, but the urge to get rid of it can be a curse.

Some gardeners sometimes get more enjoyment growing the crop than eating it. We sometimes simply don't consider how much we'll produce or how to possibly use it all. Other gardeners plan well, yet there are years when the stars align and production far exceeds expectations. In the case of fruit trees, they continue to produce even when the owner has lost interest or moved on.

Of course there are many options for preserving the excess, including freezing, canning and drying. But to the gardener who successfully grew that beautiful State Fair-worthy veggie, it seems a shame to reduce it to unrecognizable pulp or shriveled mass to be ignored on the shelf

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes Managing Editor

Wishing we could go to yesterday

It seems like only yesterday when . . .

It's a phrase I'm hearing a lot around town these days as we get closer o the one-year anniversary of the Oct. 4 tornado.

On this day, however, that phrase harkens back to our generation's Where were you when . . .?" moment in history.

My mother can still remember where she was the day Kennedy was shot. My grandparents could recall what was going on the day Pearl Harbor was attacked. I still remember walking into the TV room in my college dorm just in time to see the Challenger space shuttle blow up.

And none of us who were old enough will ever forget where we were the morning of Tuesday, Sept. 11, 2001.

I was finishing up that week's newspaper in Gretna. It had been a pretty awful week in that community, as a girl on the high school dance team collapsed and died in the middle of a pep rally the week before. Writing a story about her short life was very difficult for me, especially since I had a then-preteen daughter living just up the road.

I was putting the finishing touches on the paper and getting ready to drive the pages up to the printer in Blair when my ex-wife called to inform me of an appointment our daughter had. She asked if I'd seen the plane fly into the World Trade Center. Since there was no TV in the office, I'd missed it and figured it was nothing more than an unfortunate accident.

As I was getting ready to walk out the door, my boss ran into the office, wide-eyed, and said "Two planes hit the World Trade Center."

This was NO accident.

As I drove toward the print shop, news came on of the Pentagon being hit, and a fourth plane crashing in Pennsylvania that, we later found out, was headed for the White House.

For the first time in my life, I asked myself: is this the end of the world?

It would be about 2 1/2 hours after the initial attack before I would see the replay of the planes flying into the twin towers. Not long after, the towers were gone and the feeling of despair would escalate.

It was already a difficult week before the attacks, and by the time the week was over, I remember being physically and emotionally exhausted with everything that had happened, both in the community I was working in and the world in general.

We can cuss and discuss what has happened since then, from our response to the attacks to the state of American politics in general that new prison and would seek a statuchanged in the days since 9/11. One thing is for certain - the world that tory change to convert good time we live in today is a much darker and violent one.

It's one of those times that makes me wish we could go back to yester-

The Education Center will also display many of the tens of thousands of objects left at the Wall. These objects tell countless stories of mourning and healing while providing a social history of this war

The Education Center will be built near the Wall with public donations. It will include an exhibit to all those who served from the Revolutionary War to the present. Names visible will only be made possible by submitting photos by you of each name on the Wall.

We attended a seminar at the Nebraska Vietnam Veterans Reunion held recently in Norfolk. It was then we realized that, only with individual participation, will this project be accomplished.

Let the families of the Vietnam Fallen know about this worthwhile project. Thank you and God bless.

Governor candidates meet

AND HIS MAGINARY"

FRIEND

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

The underdog Democrat and the millionaire Republican took to the stage of the State Fair to make their cases why they should be the next Nebraska Governor during an hour-long debate. As expected, the answers to the questions sounded well-scripted and partisan.

Democrat Chuck Hassebrook, former head of the Center for Rural Affairs in Lyons and a former University of Nebraska Regent is clearly underfunded in what some have called the most important governor's race in Nebraska since 1990. His opponent, millionaire Pete Ricketts is an executive with TD Ameritrade in Omaha, who bested a field of six in the bloody Republican primary which showcased some of the nastiest attack ads ever in a Nebraska race.

Ricketts said that he will "grow Nebraska" – a phrase he repeated over and over - while Hassebrook will just "grow government." He tried to paint the Democrat as an Obama supporter. When asked if Obama has been good for Nebraska, Hassebrook said he "doesn't blindly follow any political leader" and admitted that Obama's impact on Nebraska has been "a mixed bag."

Hassebrook touted the importance of early childhood education as part of the answer to a number of Nebraska problems ranging from prison reform to health and human services. He challenged Ricketts to prove that he and his family weren't behind the attack ads on Republican Jon Bruning in the primary and the anti-Hassebrook ones that have already run in this campaign. Ricketts said he doesn't have any control over any third party organizations. Hassebrook said that Ricketts' dad, Joe, has already spent $4 million on races in Georgia and Michigan.

Both men said they support the death penalty and prison reform. Ricketts said he opposes building a prison, but everything must be on the table. He said the governor already has the power to change good

On the topic of Medicare expansion, an idea that current Governor Dave Heineman has rejected, Hassebrook said Rickett's intent to oppose expansion is putting partisanship ahead of common sense. Ricketts said Hassebrook's support of the expansion shows his desire to grow government.

Both men said they opposed increased government regulation that has hampered entrepreneurial and small business development in the state. Both also spoke against unfunded mandates.

Asked about the events in Ferstatus of race relations in general, speak to the way police in Ferguson handled their affairs and noted that the high poverty rate among black children in Omaha is a sign that race relations need to improve and early childhood education is key.

The candidates disagreed on the ballot issue, which will allow voters to decide if the state's minimum wage should be increased. Hassebrook said raising the minimum wage is good for the economy. Ricketts said there are better solutions such as improving worker skills.

They agreed that higher education offered by the University of Nebraska system, the state colleges and the community colleges are important to keeping the state comguson, Missouri, in specific and the petitive. They disagreed on what funding and opportunity should Ricketts said he thinks that law en- be provided to immigrants. On a quirky question, Hassebrook said he and his family would live in the Governor's Mansion if he were elected. Omahan Ricketts ducked the question and said it's too early to know. Critics often chided former Governor Ben Nelson, also an Omaha resident, for spending more nights at his west Omaha home than in the mansion.

Hassebrook said the buck will stop with him if he is elected governor and he will take responsibility for fixing the broken prison system and getting Nebraskans to work together. "Nebraskans' votes aren't for sale and I'll earn your vote," he

Ricketts said the race boils down to a difference between growing Nebraska and growing government. "I want to create opportunity for all

LEDs Help You See 'Green'

Nebraska customers can save money, energy with new light incentive

Columbus, NE – On Jan. 1, 2014, Nebraska Public Power District and its wholesale customer utilities began offering incentives to residential electric customers for the purchase and installation of lightemitting diode (LED) bulbs.

At the start of this new 2014 year, final provisions of the 2007 Energy Policy Act began phasing out the standard, 60-watt, incandescent light bulb. Production and importation of the 100-watt and 75-watt standard incandescent lamps have already been closed out over the past two years under the same policy.

Fortunately, customers have an excellent alternative. City of Wayne Electric utilities will provide customers with a $5 account credit for each 60, 75, or 100-watt LED equivalent to the standard bulb they buy, with up to 10 credits available per residential account this year. Customers can purchase these LED lamps wherever they desire, but the package must be identified as ENERGY STAR® quali-

The Environmental Protection Agency's ENERGY STAR program encourages installation of LED lamps that use 75 to 80 percent less energy than equivalent incandescent light bulbs and have a rated life that is 25 to 50 times longer. LEDs do not contain mercury, which eliminates some disposal concerns.

LED lamps offer additional advantages over compact fluorescent lamps (CFLs), which have long been touted as energy-efficient alternatives to standard light bulbs. LEDs illuminate instantly when their power switch is turned on. Their light output is not diminished in cold weather. In fact, LEDs last longer in cold areas. LEDs offer a variety of color temperatures that allow customers to match the appearance of standard incandescent bulbs or the bright white of most office environments. Many LED lamps are dimmable, but customers should confirm this prior to purchase, as manufacturers are required to indicate whether they are or not on the packaging.

NPPD and its wholesale customer utilities are contributing approximately $100,000 toward this campaign which will run through the end of December 2014. To receive the incentive, customers submit a completed program application along with a copy of their sales receipt to their local electric utility. A brochure containing the program's application form is available on NPPD's website, www.nppd.com, under "Saving Energy" and "For Your Home."

Always there when you need us, NPPD's mission is to safely generate and deliver reliable, low-cost, sustainable energy and provide outstanding customer service. Working in partnership with the state's rural public power districts, cooperatives and municipalities, NPPD helps serve an estimated 600,000 Nebraskans in 86 of the state's 93 counties with retail or wholesale electric power and energy-related products and services. For more information about NPPD visit www.nppd.com.

OSMOND - For the second straight week, Winside traded early scores with their opponent, but couldn't keep up the pace.

The Wildcats got a short touchdown run from Isaiah Muhs late in the first period to help Winside draw even with host Osmond, but the Tigers scored three touchdowns and added a school-record 54-yard field goal to take control of the game and go on to a 44-12 win over the Wildcats on Friday.

Winside added a second touchdown late in the third period, as Zach Morris scampered 12 yards for a touchdown to make it 31-12, but it was not enough as the Wildcats fell to 0-2 on the season.

Offensively, Winside had 205 yards in total offense and Marcus Escalera had a better outing under center, going 9-of-18 for 116 yards with no interceptions. Hayden King led the Wildcats in receiving with 52 yards on six carries, while Dylan Brogren caught one ball for 40 yards.

In the rushing department, Morris led the team with 45 yards on 12 tries while Escalera had 25 yards on 15 carries.

Defensively, Cory Schoff led the team with 13.5 tackles, 11 of them solo hits. Sam Wolfe had 6.5 tackles, Trey Meis and Brandon Watters each had six and Morris had

4. Make your product as perfect as you can. Those finishing shortcuts you can get away with at home won't fly when you start to sell your work. When buying crafts, the first thing a customer often does is turn it over and inspect the finish.

5. Understand your costs. Once you decide to go into business, you will likely be able to reduce the price of your raw materials since you will be able to buy your supplies wholesale (you will likely need a stateissued tax ID number to qualify). However, the time costs involved are often greatly underestimated by crafters. Keep track of how long it takes you to produce each item.

6. Price your product appropriately. The price of your work must reflect a complex balance of the cost of materials, time devoted to production. and the amount the market will bear. Many hobbyists produce hand crafted items that require a great deal of time. Calculate if the price you must charge for your item is one appropriate for your market.

7. Make the presentation of your product look great. If you set up a display of your wares at a farmer's market or craft fair, make it spectacular. People are drawn to color and contrast, so design a presentation table, board, or display case that draws the eye to the object. Keep it simple, gorgeous, uncluttered, and clean.

8. Create labels and business cards that are beautiful, eye-catching, and have all the information potential customers need to contact you. Every label and business card should have your name, email, televour local craft community. Participate in online communities relevant to your work. Visit gift shops and ask that they take your work on consignment. Volunteer to demonstrate your craft at county fairs and community centers. Apply to arts and craft exhibits that might show your work.

10. Seek unusual venues to display your work. Hair salons and restaurants are high-traffic venues. If your craft is two dimensional (such as a quilt or weaving), approach the owner/manager about using your work to decorate their space, offering them a percentage of sales. Donate items to local charities for silent-auctions. Make sure your name and contact information are clear to anyone looking at your work.

Rally Day fun

Rally Day at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne kicked off the new Sunday School year on Sept. 7 with 44 students present. Worship service was held in the Willow Bowl, and included a pre-service balloon launch. Message tags were attached to the balloons with the theme for the new year "Jesus Lights the Way" based on John 8:12. A congregational picnic and games followed the service at Cup of Grace, Christian Coffee House, 117 East 10th Street.

Bit of Light

day for all who gather for study and worship" on Sunday, Sept. 14.

Sunday School classes begin at 9:30 a.m., followed by the morning worship service at 10:30. Music students from Wayne State College will present special music for the prelude as well as during the service. At noon, the congregation will gather for its quarterly "Fellowship Dinner" called "Cafe 2:42". The name comes from the account in the book of Acts - specifically in chapter 2:42 – where we read that the early believers "devoted themselves to the apostles' teaching and the fellowship, to the breaking of bread and the prayers.'

"At Praise Assembly, we believe that it is wonderful to be together as much as possible - and periodically celebrate by having meals together. All who attend the service in the morning are invited to stay for lunch," said Pastor Jason Pickering.

On Wednesday evenings, 6:30 p.m. is the starting time for Kids' Praise activities (K-6) as well as for Praise Assembly Church in a congregational prayer meeting bles himself, it means that all of his the real issue of God," Pastor Jason Wayne will have another "great led by Colleen Heinemann in the church sanctuary.

> Pastor Pickering is preaching a sermon series through the book of James. His focus this past Sunday was on the early verses of James 1:9-11 in a message entitled "Rich and Poor Worship Together." Dur- en. ing his message, Pastor Jason made several comparisons between being rich by the standards of the world - but poor in spiritual matters; as well as being poor by every measuring stick of society – but abundantly rich in the relationship with God.

tor. In James 1 we read that the ation. Why? Because when he hum- "Being rich or poor - that is not path to "the Good Life."

"stuff" is humbled as well. Thus he reioices in this humbling. The poor rejoices because in his lowly state, he is frequently the one who seeks the Lord first. In the Beatitudes we read that it is the "poor in spirit" who receive the Kingdom of Heav-

Rich and poor alike can both take glory in their position, and not in their possessions. Why? Because the treasure is the Lord. Even the one who is "religious" (without a "relationship" with the Lord) finds that he cannot "give" or even "tithe" "We take a lot of things for grant- himself into heaven. said. "The real issue with God is this: what do we do with what God has given us already?" Pastor Jason calls God "the Great Equalizer" -He is the One Who brings people up and who brings people down.

As he concluded his message, Pastor Jason reminded the congregation of Paul's words to the church of believers in Philippi. After reading Paul's narrative that he has found a way to be content in much or in little, we read these words in Philippians 4:11-13: "I can do all things through Him Who strengthens me." In the words of a Christian song of a number of years ago, walking with the Lord in this way is truly the
