Sludge, Activity Center fees on Council docket

By CLARA OSTEN
Of The Herald

How to deal with wastewater sludge and the smell created by it was among the topics debated at the Wayne City Council meeting on Tuesday.

Roger Protzman, with JEO Consulting Group, spoke to the council on the results of a study to determine the best way to handle the biosolids created at the city's wastewater treatment facility.

Two options were discussed, including the construction of a belt press treatment plant and two holding reservoirs for sludge and reducing the current 26-acre lagoon to a six acre lagoon and finding an alternative use for the remaining land. The lagoon would need to be pumped out every two years. Both options were relatively similar in cost.

Jeff Brady, who oversees the operation of the wastewater treatment facility, said that the belt press would require more labor and possibly more certification for those who operate the equipment. It would, however, reduce the odor emitted from the plant.

Protzman said that since construction of the new wastewater treatment plant, the amount of sludge being produced has been reduced approximately 90 percent, to 167 pounds per day or 30 tons per year.

Following discussion, the council voted unanimously to approve an agreement with JEO for the designs and oversight of the project at a cost not to exceed $227,610.

Council members also approved the city's budget for the 2014-2015 fiscal year.

City Finance Director Nancy Braden told the council that the city's tax levy for the coming year will be .450816. This is down from .457523 in last year's budget.

Braden said that a homeowner in the city of Wayne will pay approximately $7 less per $100,000 valuation in the city's share of property taxes.

Considerable discussion was held on amending the fees charged by the city for use of the Wayne Municipal Swimming Pool and Community Activity Center.

Council member Cale Giese presented a number of proposals for increases in fees to be charged at both the swimming pool and the Activity Center.

Council members also indicated that a closer look at all the fees charged at the Community Activity Center needs to be taken in the immediate future.

Council members also approved the application of Alison Fleece to the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department and Rylee Bessmer to the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department Cadet Program.

Approval was given on a request from Anthony Cantrell to close off 10th Street from Providence Road to Hillside Drive on Saturday, Sept. 27 from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. for an Electric Vehicle Car Rally.

Also approved was a request from Wayne Area Economic Development to prohibit parking on Main Street from 1st Street to 4th Street and to allow 3rd Street from Main Street west to the alley to be blocked off from 5:30-7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 4 for the annual Christmas on Main Celebration/Parade of Lights event.

The Wayne City Council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, Oct. 7 at 5:30 p.m.

A citizens committee looking at the future of Hank Overin Field (pictured here after a summer storm blew a tree into the grandstand) hopes to have a proposal ready to go very soon so that the facility can be ready to go for next spring's high school baseball season.

Committee looking over plans to rebuild Hank Overin Field

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

(NOTE: The writer of this story is a member of the committee organized by Wayne Mayor Ken Chamberlain to address the issues relating to damage of Hank Overin Field.)

More than 80 years of summertime memories came crashing down last summer at Hank Overin Field.

An early-summer storm blew over a large tree on to the grandstand on the west side of the complex, and now a committee of local residents are trying to determine the best plan of attack for making sure one of the area's best ball parks is back up and running by next season.

An Aug. 28 study of the grandstand by Olsson Associates determined that the grandstand is structurally unstable and is in an unsafe condition. The engineering firm recommended that the entire grandstand facility be demolished and removed.

Pat Melena, who is chairing the Overin Field committee, told The Wayne Herald that the committee needs to take a look at the recommendations and determine what resources are available to get the stadium back into playing condition by the start of the 2015 spring high school baseball season.

"Once we get an understanding of what funding is available from the storm, we'll have to take a look at what is the best use of our dollars," he said.

Melena said that baseball association officials and the city have been talking about addressing some needs that the stadium has developed since its last major renovation was completed in 1981, and the June storm that blew a tree into the grandstand has forced a call to the bullpen, so to speak.

"The storm has kind of forced our hand," Melena said. "That tree falling into the grandstand means we have to do something immediately. We've had some discussions about lights and other improvements, but we need to get the grandstand situation taken care of so fans have a safe place to watch the game."

The committee received a quote from Otte Construction Company last week for rebuilding of the current facility, and Melena said the committee needs to make

School foundation hopes to draw alumni to special fundraiser

The Wayne Community Schools Foundation is hosting the first ever Tailgate Party for alumni, friends of alumni, and proud supporters of the Wayne Community School District at Wayne City Auditorium on Saturday, Sept. 27 from 6 p.m.-12 a.m.

Foundation director Lindsay McLaughlin, along with the Foundation Board, has been working on the idea for several months.

"It is our hope that with this event we are able to bring a group of people together for a night of food, fun and fellowship," McLaughlin said. "Our board has been considering hosting an all-class reunion, and this is our first attempt at coordinating an event that will showcase a history of the school district and its alumni."

McLaughlin added, "It has been fun looking back through all the annuals to find pictures of alumni, faculty and staff that will be used during this Tailgate Party." She also said those that aren't alumni will enjoy recognizing some of the area alumni in the pictures as well as cheering on the Huskers.

The Nebraska-Illinois football game will be broadcast during the Tailgate Party. There will be a meal catered by Pac N Save, and McLaughlin said it is important to RSVP to (402) 375-3150 to purchase tickets, with a cost of $10 per person, who will be eating. Those that come during the evening, but who do not choose to eat, will be charged $5 each.

McLaughlin said this is not a formal event and that casual attire is expected.

"Throw on your favorite t-shirt or sweat-shirt and come out to enjoy the evening," she said. "There will also be a cash bar throughout the evening."

Sales tax hits new mark

The City of Wayne received its biggest-ever monthly receipt of city sales tax revenue to close out fiscal year 2013-14, according to Wayne city finance director Nancy Braden.

Receipts for September's city sales tax receipts, based on July's sales, was $62,953.42, eclipsing the previous high of $61,886.80 set in February of this year. It marked the third time that receipts were over the $60,000 mark this fiscal year.

For fiscal year 2013-14, the city received $661,243.80, more than $46,000 ahead of last year's high mark of $614,827.19. The 2013-14 numbers were well ahead of average monthly projects. The monthly average of $55,103.63 was almost 9.5 percent ahead of the city's projected average of $52,260.31, which was a 2 percent projection over the previous year's average monthly receipts.

Study: Wayne is Nebraska's most-educated community

When it comes to educated people, Wayne's got the rest of the state beat, according to a recent report from Business Insider magazine.

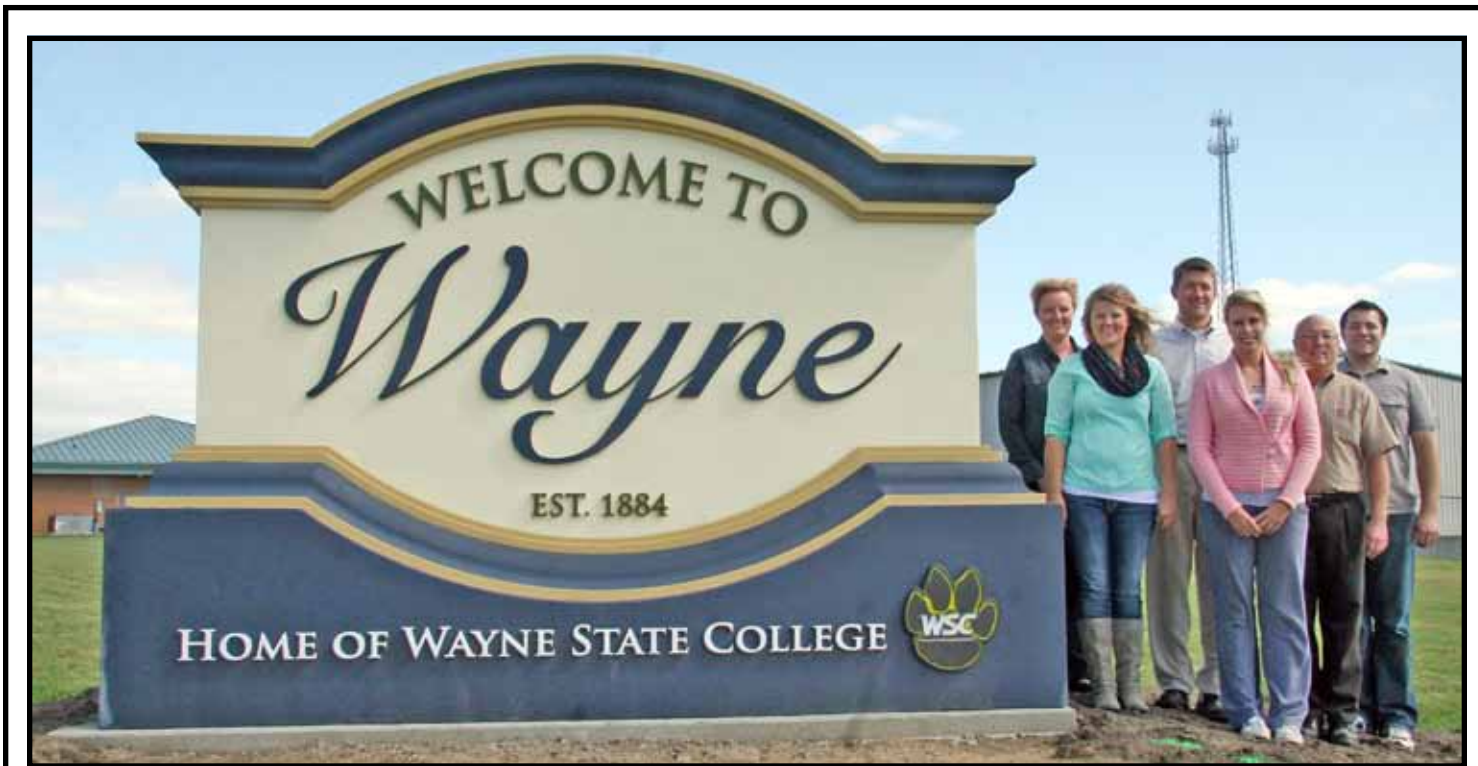

The magazine's website reported a study it recently conducted to determine which community in each state had the highest percentage of adults over the age of 25 who have at least a bachelor's degree. Based on that criteria, Wayne came out on top with a whopping 44.4 percent of its population owning a bachelor's degree or higher.

The magazine took data from the American Community Survey, an annual survey conducted by the Census Bureau to allow the government, corporate and academic researchers, and anyone who is curious about demographics, to better understand the population of the United States.

Business Insider took information from ACS estimates between 2008 and 2012, looking at communities with a population of 1,000 or higher to see how many adult residents age 25 and over hold a bachelor's degree. Residents on college campuses in communities where a college was located, like Wayne State College, were not included in the data.

South Dakota's most-educated community is not far away, as Dakota Dunes was that state's most educated community with 56.3 percent. University Heights was the most educated community in Iowa at 78.8 percent.

Chevy Chase, Maryland, is the nation's most-educated community, based on the survey data, at 92.7 percent.

A new welcome to town

If you come into Wayne on Highway 35, you're getting a new greeting in the form of new "Welcome To Wayne" signs that have been erected by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce's Marketing Committee. The signs are a project the committee has worked on for the last three years, according to Chamber Executive Director Wes Blecke. The signs will be landscaped this spring, and signs will be erected on Highway 15 to the north and south of town next spring. Standing with the sign are committee members (from left) Melissa Urbanec, Sara Marcellus, Wes Blecke, Laura Burtwistle, Mick Kemp and Lucas Rix. Burial with military rites was in Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne.

Memorials may be given to the family for future designation, or to Heifer International or Habitat for Humanity.

Hasemann Funeral Home in Wayne was in charge of arrangements.

Galen Wiser joins Midwest Land

Midwest Land Co. in Wayne has announced that Galen Wiser has joined the staff of Midwest Land Company as a licensed sales associate as part of the farm sales and management division.

Wiser's responsibilities will be in farm listings, sales and management where he will join licensed brokers Dave Ewing and Marion Arneson.

"Galen's agricultural experience and contacts will further enhance Midwest Land Company's ability to provide quality service to our Nebraska and Iowa customers and clients," Ewing said.

Wiser has extensive agricultural experience. He is a graduate of Wayne State College and also attended the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. Wiser has served as an agricultural loan officer for the State Nebraska Bank (formerly the State National Bank and Trust Co.) of Wayne for the past 40 years. Most recently, Galen served as the president of the bank before retiring in September. He and his wife, Kathy, are long-term residents of Wayne. They have two grown children.

Midwest Land Company is a full-time real estate brokerage and management agency located in Wayne. This second generation family business was started in 1947 by David H. Ewing. The staff is licensed in Nebraska, Iowa and Colorado.

Services provided include farm sales, both negotiated and at auction; farm management; residential sales; and commercial sales. The farm department serves the northeast Nebraska and northwest Iowa area. Wide spread advertising, direct mail, and personal contact have resulted in successful farm sales and record prices for clients over the years. A sister firm, Midwest Group, facilitates tax deferred IRS 1031 exchanges of real estate.

The residential department, headed by Wendy Vawser, serves home buyers and sellers in Wayne and the surrounding area with both buyer and seller agency services. All residential listings are offered on a cooperative basis to other area agents acting as a buyer's agent. This department also offers management services. Excellent customer service and cooperation have allowed the residential department to grow quickly with total sales now exceeding $1 million annually over the past several years.

"Midwest Land Co. staff follow the same core values that were established when the business first began over 50 years ago: best-in-the-class service to clients and customers; thorough knowledge about each client's goals; top return on investment for management clients; and an in-depth knowledge of current market trends and technology," Ewing added.

More information on the services that Midwest Land Co. has to offer is available at their website at www.mwlandco.com or from any of their agents.

October 2013 Wayne Tornado Memorial Dedication

Oct. 4 at 11 a.m.

Summer Sports Complex

WSC students in Professor Jason Karsky's Emergency Management class in the fall of 2013 were close observers of the tornado damage and emergency response here. The students thought the event should be remembered by a physical memorial in the area of the tornado damage.

The 2013 students developed a message for a permanent plaque to be mounted on a rock, asked the mayor and council for their approval and raised the funds for the project.

Professor Karsky's 2014 Emergency Management students will place a rock to hold the plaque at the west entrance of the newly rebuilt Summer Sports Complex and will be installing the commemorative plaque next week. On Oct. 4, 2014, the first anniversary of the 2013 tornado, WSC students will publicly dedicate the memorial to the Wayne community.

The dedication will be at 11 a.m. after the WSC Homecoming Parade. The community is invited to attend.

Electronics Recycling

Wayne Green Team is sponsoring another public electronics recycling opportunity in the City Hall Parking lot on Saturday, Oct. 11. The electronics equipment is shredded and the metals are recovered for reuse in new equipment.

City Budget Hearing

Last Night

The General Fund budget was adopted with a total city mill levy of 45.08 mills or $450.08 annual real estate tax on a home assessed at $100,000 value in Wayne. Past and present Wayne city councils have kept the city's levy pretty much on a steady decline since 1985 when the total city mill levy was 77.49 mills.

Pet of the Week

This week's Pet of the Week at Tenderheart Animal Rescue is Olivia, a young female dog who is about a year old. She is a mix and we're not sure yet if she is beagle, healer mix or some type of fox hound or coon hound mix. She is tri-colored and has two different colored eyes. She is very sweet. It appears she has been in the house but needs to be worked with to learn to sit etc. She is very eager to please. She is up to date on all shots, wormed, and is spayed.

For more information or to adopt Olivia, call (402) 369-6030.

MOPS Jubilee

Children of all ages and their families took part in the MOPS Family Jubilee on Sept. 13 at the Wayne City Auditorium. The event featured a variety of activities including Julie Osnes from the Wayne Public Library (above) reading to the children in attendance. More than 20 vendors had items on display and for sale throughout the day. Money raised will go toward the Wayne MOPS (Mothers of Preschools) chapter.

Overin Field

 sure the rebuilt stadium meets all the required city, state and federal codes on everything from wiring to handicap access in the restrooms.

"A lot has changed since that stadium was first built 70 or 80 years ago," Melena said. "We need to look at all of those issues, like elderly access, wiring, making restrooms accessible under the Americans with Disabilities Act – the thing is, a lot of people look at the broken-down grandstand right now and may not realize that, inside the fence, we have one of the best playing surfaces around, so we need to take a look at what options we have available."

Committee members presented ideas for changes that could be made at the stadium, utilizing everything from a ticket window to moving the main entrance inside the main structure. Melena said committee members need to take a look at what other communities have done with refurbishing and rebuilding their baseball facilities.

"You look at Wakefield, some of the things they've done to that facility makes it a wonderful baseball park with the viewing decks and the shaded areas and the new dugouts they're building," Melena said. "We owe it to the community to go out and look at ideas that make sense and come up with a plan that incorporates some of those newer ideas to the facility, rather than just rebuilding it like it was."

Regardless of what is done, Melena said the committee needs to have a plan in place very soon so that something can be at or near completion by next spring.

"We have to have something down by this fall because of the timeline," he said. "We want to be in a position where we have something started and, at the very least, have it game-ready by the start of the high school season in March. It doesn't have to be complete, but we want to be able to host games at the very least and we could bring in portable bleachers to provide fans with seating in a safe area until the project is completed."

Wayne State one of nation's best 'bang for buck' schools

Wayne State College is the only public college or university in Nebraska to receive recognition in this year's U.S. News and World Report annual college guide, the Washington Monthly College Guide and Rankings, and Colleges of Distinction. This is the third consecutive year the college has achieved these honors.

Washington Monthly ranked Wayne State 19th among all of the colleges and universities in the nation in its "Best Bang for the Buck" category, which is based on the economic value students receive per dollar. Washington Monthly also awarded Wayne State the highest ranking of any public institution in Nebraska, with the college ranked third among all public and private schools in the state.

The college also ranked first for community service participation and for the quality of its service staff, courses and financial aid support in Nebraska among public institutions. Wayne State ranks 83rd out of 671 master's universities in the U.S., up from 116th in 2013. Wayne State also sits higher than any other school in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference (NSIC) in which it competes in NCAA Div. II athletics.

Wayne State ranks second among public institutions in Nebraska, and 84th among all Midwest regional universities, both public and private, in the U.S. News rankings. The college ranks fourth among the 16 schools in the NSIC.

"Obviously, rankings are a slippery subject, yet one we must grapple with each year in higher education," said Wayne State President Curt Frye. "Ideally, prospective students and their parents will conduct their own research to find the best college to suit their desire to lay the groundwork for their career. Rankings can, however, provide students with a place to start in the search process and serve as an important indicator for the college in relation to its peers."

Other benchmarks to note among the U.S. News rankings data: Wayne State's average alumni giving rate is 13 percent (only two public institutions in the Midwest region had a higher giving rate); Wayne State is the only school in the Midwest region to report a 100 percent acceptance rate; 48 percent of WSC classes have less than 20 students; and the college's freshman retention rate is 67 percent.

"The college clearly delivers satisfaction, access and individual attention," Frye said. "These factors and more contribute greatly to our ability to fulfill our mission of teaching excellence, student success and regional service. A tremendous amount of the credit belongs to Wayne State's faculty and staff for their invaluable teaching and support."

Don't read much into rankings

Ask a coach how he or she feels about their team being ranked in one of the daily newspapers, and they'll almost blow out an ACL trying to divert the conversation.

"Rankings don't mean anything to us."

"We don't care about the rankings."

"Rankings mean nothing when you get in between the lines."

"I'd rather discuss my upcoming colonoscopy than talk about where this team is ranked." (OK, no coach has ever uttered that last one to me — at least, not yet.)

Right now, the state's two biggest newspapers seem to have a pretty high opinion of the Wayne High softball team. The Omaha World-Herald had the Blue Devils ranked as the top team in Class C, while the Lincoln Journal Star had Wayne in the No. 2 spot, right behind Bishop Neumann. Considering Wayne beat Neumann in the finals at last week's Mercy Invite and ran the table in triangulars Monday and Tuesday, I'm assuming they will trade spots in this week's rankings and Wayne will be the consensus No. 1 team in Class C in girls softball.

While it's nice to see the hometown girls getting some recognition on the statewide stage, there's something we need to keep in mind here — the rankings, like this column, are nothing more than one person's opinion about the state of things, and doesn't help you out in any way in between the lines.

Although they are now 15-2 and owners of an 11-game winning streak heading into tonight's home matchup against Madison, let's remember something — this is a team that is still answering a TON of questions that were out there when the season started four weeks ago.

Consider that, of the four returning starters, only pitcher Hannah Belt is playing the same position she was a year ago. The other five starters were either coming off the bench, playing JV ball or in junior high 12 months ago. This might be the youngest, least-experienced team in recent memory to hold down a No. 1 ranking in any sport in the state.

I'm certainly not saying this team doesn't deserve the high praise it's getting from the writers who do the ratings for the state's two biggest daily papers. They have played well and won the games they should have won, including a couple of gritty efforts against a good Tekamah-Herman team that, I'm sure, will be in the conversation when districts roll around.

Wayne's two losses are to Class B schools in Blair and Elkhorn, the No. 1 and No. 3 teams, respectively, in that classification's wild card point standings. Wayne is No. 1 in the Class C wild card point race, but district foes Tekamah-Herman (third) and Guardian Angels (fifth) lurk on the horizon, and Wayne will see the Bluejays at the end of the year in regular season and, most likely, conference play before districts.

But let's keep thing in perspective here (and this goes more to the kids themselves than the fans, although there are a few of those who would do well to heed this advice): nobody has ever won a state championship in softball based on how they were rated in mid-September. In fact, the opinions of the so-called experts in the big-city dailies hasn't determined a state champion in ANY sport in Nebraska since the NSAA started its football playoffs 40 years ago.

The Blue Devils will likely be the consensus No. 1 team in the state this week — that and $1 will get you a cup of coffee, but not much else. And it can be real easy for a young team to get caught up in its press clippings and lose its focus, and it's during those moments where a young, talented team gets tripped up by a team who, on paper, shouldn't beat them. One month.

That's how long the Wayne High cross country teams had, going into Tuesday's home invitational at the Wayne Country Club, before they'd get to show their stuff on their home course at next month's district meet.

The Blue Devils made a good showing for themselves on a gorgeous afternoon Tuesday, as both teams finished a strong second to two Class D schools that may be in the conversation for state titles in that division next month in Kearney.

"The kids wanted districts here and we put in for it and got it, so now they need to come out and prove to us how much they can improve one month from today," coach Rocky Ruhl said after Tuesday's meet.

The Blue Devils set the bar pretty high on Tuesday. All four scoring runners for both teams finished in the top 15, as the girls finished seven points behind champion Norfolk Catholic while the boys were five points behind Winnebago.

"I thought we did a good job today and the kids competed hard," Ruhl said. "When they were in among groups of people, they were trying to beat the next runner, so you can't fault the way we competed today against some good runners."

Both individual races were intriguing to watch, starting with the girls race that featured a pair of area standout runners.

ST. CLOUD, Minn. — Wayne State won the statistical battle, but 25th-ranked St. Cloud State won the war on the scoreboard.

The Wildcats had a 427-342 advantage in total yards, but good field position gave St. Cloud State plenty more opportunities to cash in, and they did so in a 43-20 win over the Wildcats Saturday in Wayne State's first road trip of the 2014 season.

Field position was important in Saturday's outcome, as St. Cloud State's average starting position was their own 43-yard line, compared to Wayne State starting on its own 24.

The Wildcats did score first, taking the opening kickoff and going 82 yards for the first score. Zach Osborn threw the first of three touchdown passes on the day, hitting Adam Stark on a 60-yarder to make it 6-0.

The Huskies bounced back to take a 16-6 halftime lead, even though Wayne State had a 226-59 advantage in total offense. Penalties and special teams hurt Wayne State, as they had eight of their 12 penalties in the opening half and averaged just 26.2 yards on four punts to give the Huskies excellent field position throughout the half.

Sadie Petersen set the pace early in the race, but Wayne High sophomore Marta Pulfer was able to catch the lone Lady Bear about midway through the race and finished 19 seconds ahead of her area rival to take top honors.

Pulfer said she loves running with Petersen and was happy to come out on top in Tuesday's area duel.

"I caught her about the 3-K mark over by the highway," Pulfer said. "Sadie is a really good runner and definitely puts it out there every time, and I was happy to win today."

Ruhl said he was happy to see Pulfer come out on top in her matchup against Petersen as well.

"(Petersen) is a strong runner, and she and Marta compete all the time and are good friends, and you can see that in the way they compete against each other," he said. "Marta is a competitor and she doesn't want to get beat, so if she's close like that she's got a good competitive spirit and she's going to win that more often than not."

Pulfer led a Wayne team that placed all six of its varsity runners in the top 15, including four in the top 11. That was good for second place behind Class D state contender Norfolk Catholic, which bunched its four scoring runners among the first seven to cross the finish line.

"I was really impressed that we all placed," Pulfer said. "Our team

No. 19-ranked Wayne State College rallied from a 2-1 deficit to defeat No. 22 Augustana in the NSIC opener for both schools Tuesday in Sioux Falls, S.D. The Wildcats won 25-21, 22-25, 18-25, 25-19 and 15-5.

The first set featured 12 ties and four lead changes before Wayne State was able to break a 20-20 tie with four straight points, including a kill and a block by Alyssa Frauendorfer and a Katie Hughes kill, on their way to the first-set win.

Augustana scored late to take the second set, then used a nice scoring run in the third set to take a 2-1 advantage, including a 19-kill effort in the second set.

Wayne State responded with a run of its own late in the fourth set, breaking a 16-16 tie to force a fifth and deciding set. The Wildcats dominated the finale, hitting at a .529 attack percentage while limiting the Vikings to a minus-.048 attack effort to come away with the win.

Hughes had a double-double with 17 kills and 18 digs to lead the Wildcats. Elizabeth Gebhardt had 14 kills and four blocks while Frauendorfer added 13 kills and four blocks. Leisa McClintock had 51 assists and 10 kills of her own.

Defensively, Courtney VanGronigen led the Wildcats with 24 digs and Michaela Mestl added 21.

Wayne State's volleyball team had a spotless 4-0 weekend to take first-place honors at the Minnesota State Invitational in Mankato, Minn., and improve to 7-1 on the season.

On Friday, the Wildcats hit .643 in the decisive third set to sweep Black Hills State 25-23, 25-22, 25-

12. The Wildcats had to overcome deficits in each of the first two sets before bouncing back, then dominated Black Hills State to finish off the sweep, hitting .299 for the match. Gebhardt had 13 kills and four blocks to lead the team, Frauendorfer added 12 kills and Hughes had a double-double with 11 kills and 11 digs. McClintock had 42 assists, and VanGronigen led the defense with 21 digs.

On Friday night, the Wildcat defense dominated the host Mavericks, forcing 31 attack errors and 19 service errors to post a 25-20, 21-25, 25-20, 25-18 win.

Wayne State hit .260 in the match, compared to .149 for the Mavericks. Gebhardt led the net attack with 11 kills and five blocks, while Frauendorfer had 10 kills and Hughes added nine. McClintock had 33 assists, and Hughes and VanGronigen led the defense with 15 and 13 digs, respectively.

On Saturday, the Wildcats took care of business in their matchup with Upper Iowa, drilling the Peacocks in straight sets, 25-16, 25-20, 25-16.

Wayne State hit .359 in the opening set and .314 for the match to easily defeat their second NSIC foe of the weekend. Hughes led the team with 14 kills and hit .406 in the match. Alex Opperman had a career-best nine kills and hit .471, while Gebhardt added nine kills and a pair of blocks. McClintock had 38 assists and Frauendorfer had four ace serves. Mestl led the

The Wayne High volleyball team took fifth-place honors Saturday in the Boone Central/Newman Grove Invitational in Albion.

In the opening round, Wayne fell to Crofton in three sets, 25-13, 23-25, 25-14. Madison Frevert led the attack with nine kills while Alyssa Schmale had six, Lexi Sokol had five and Tarah Stegemann added four. Emma Evetovich had 22 assists.

Wayne bounced back with an easy 25-6, 25-7 win over O'Neill. Sokol had eight kills, Stegemann added six and Schmale and Frevert each had five. Peyton Roach had three ace serves and Evetovich had 15 assists.

Wayne beat the host Cardinals in the fifth-place game 25-16, 25-18. Frevert led the net attack with eight kills, Schmale and Sokol each had five and Stegemann had three. Schmale had four ace serves and Evetovich had 19 assists.

Wayne High dropped a three-set match to Guardian Angels Central Catholic on Tuesday at Wayne High School, with the visitors winning 25-20, 25-13, 29-27. Leading the attack was Frevert with 14 kills and four blocks, while Sokol had 10 kills and Schmale had six. Roach had 15 digs, Schmale had 12 and Stegemann added 10 on defense.

Softballers keep on winning

It's been a good week for the Wayne High softball team, as they won eight games this past week to improve to 15-2 and, very likely, move into the No. 1 spot in both the Lincoln and Omaha Class C rankings.

The Blue Devils opened with a gritty effort at home Thursday against Tekamah-Herman, getting past the Tigers 9-6 despite five errors on defense.

The Blue Devils trailed 3-0 when they got two runs in the third on doubles by Ashton Gibson, Kennedy Maly and Abbie Hix. Wayne took the lead for good in the fourth with a three-run effort, highlighted by triples from Kortney Keller and Jenna Trenhaile. Wayne scored three more in the fifth and one in the sixth to put the game away.

Hix was 3-for-4 in the win, Gibson was 2-for-3 and Keller and Gibson each scored twice. Hannah Belt got the win in the circle.

On Saturday, the Blue Devils went 3-0 and knocked off the No. 1 team in Class C to take the title at the Omaha Mercy Invitational, defeating Schuyler (21-0) and David

Allen girls win three out of four

The Allen Lady Eagles won three of four matches last week, sweeping a home triangular Thursday and getting a split at home Tuesday.

On Thursday, the Lady Eagles took care of business against Bloomfield and Wausa, sweeping the Queen Bees 25-9, 25-10 and taking care of the Vikings 25-9 and 25-14.

In the Bloomfield match, Gabby Sullivan led the attack with 12 kills and hit at a .632 percentage in the match. Rachel Kneiff added seven kills and Courtney Reuter put down three. Reuter and Gabby Sullivan each had four service aces and Sullivan had three blocks.

Against Wausa, Gabby Sullivan had six kills, Reuter added five and Kneiff put down four. Oswald had five service aces in the match and Gabby Sullivan had three blocks.

Allen won one and lost one in a triangular at home Tuesday, defeating Winnebago (25-15, 25-9) and falling to Ponca (21-25, 25-20, 25-16).

In the Winnebago match, Gabby Sullivan had eight kills, Kneiff added five and Lindsey Sullivan and Oswald each had three. Lindsey Sullivan had three assists and Oswald and Brooke Hingst each had two ace serves. Oswald led the defense with 14 digs.

Against Ponca, Gabby Sullivan had a season-high 20 kills and Kneiff and Reuter each had four. Lindsey Sullivan had 32 assists and Oswald led the defense with 11 digs for the 5-6 Lady Eagles.

"Ponca is a strong team and both teams played well," coach Cheryl Greve said. "We need to figure out how our team can play the strongest volleyball."

 defense with 12 digs.

The Wildcats finished off the weekend in impressive fashion with their second three-game sweep of Black Hills State, winning 25-12, 25-16, 25-13.

Wayne State hit .330 and limited the Yellow Jackets to a .065 attack effort. Frauendorfer had 12 kills, Hughes added nine and Mestl put down eight. McClintock had 40 assists. Hughes led the defense with 16 digs and VanGronigen added 11.

Three Wildcats were named to the All-Tournament Team, as honors went to Frauendorfer, Gebhardt and VanGronigen.

The Wildcats are back on the road this weekend, facing Bemidji State on Friday evening and Minnesota Crookston on Saturday afternoon. They play at University of Sioux Falls on Tuesday.

 a Madison or a Logan View, or get drilled by a quality team like GACC or Tekamah, and those hopes of a state tournament can vanish rather quickly.

The Blue Devils certainly have the talent to be able to compete with the best teams in Class C. They already knocked off previous-No. 1 Neumann at last week's Mercy Invitational, they own two wins over a very good Tekamah-Herman team and, if they stay focused and continue to play well, could be sitting in very good shape for the postseason and control their own destiny for yet another return trip to Hastings for the state tournament.

So don't be surprised if you ask Rob Sweetland about his team's No. 1 ranking and he gives you a sideways glance, screams "NO COMMENT" and runs for the parking lot (he hasn't done that to me yet, but why test it at this point?). For the Blue Devils, there is only one ranking, in the grand scheme of things, that is worth talking about in the coaches' minds – the one that is decided the third week in October at the state softball tournament.

Finish No. 1 there... and you can talk about that ranking for a long, long time.

 City/East Butler (10-3) before getting past top-ranked Neumann in the finals, 3-0.

In the first game, Wayne scored 11 runs in the first inning and Gibson threw a three-inning no-hitter, striking out six of the 10 batters she faced. Maly and Hix each had three hits, with Maly getting a double, triple and homer. Hix had three RBI and Keller, Trenhaile and Danica Schaefer each had two.

Against David City, Gibson hit a three-run homer in the third to break a scoreless tie and spark a five-run inning that propelled Wayne to the win. Hix had a bases-clearing triple in a four-run sixth inning. Hix, Schaefer, Keller and Trenhaile each had two hits and Belt threw a four-hitter, striking out 12.

Belt came up big in the finals, throwing a one-hit shutout with seven strikeouts and one walk, with only one batter reaching second base. Schaefer had a one-out triple in the sixth and Sierra Scardino added a sacrifice fly to help Wayne to the win.

wins in a triangular at West Point Monday evening.

In the opener, the Blue Devils dominated Schuyler for the second time in three days, following up a 21-0 win in the Mercy Invitational with a 16-0 shutout. Scardino had three hits and Hix was 2-for-3 with a double, a triple and five RBI's. Gibson got the win in the circle.

In the nightcap, the Blue Devils got past the host West Point-Beemer Cadets, 11-2. Belt threw a complete-game four-hitter, striking out 11 in the contest. Hix homered and singled, Jamie Gamble had two hits and Maly scored three runs.

On Tuesday, the Blue Devils continued their winning ways with another road triangular sweep, beating host Boone Central/Newman Grove (16-0) and Pierce (1-0). Stats and highlights were not available at press time.

Brook Bowers goes high to try to catch a pass during Wayne's 34-6 loss to Arlington on Friday.

Blue Devils humbled in home opener, 34-6

Wayne High's football home opener Friday turned out to be a disappointing result, as visiting Arlington ran all over the Blue Devils in a 34-6 victory at Memorial Stadium.

The Eagles took control of the game from the start, using a long kickoff return to set up an offensive attack that racked up 449 yards in total offense, all of it coming on the ground.

They moved the ball down the field again later in the opening period for the first of four touchdown runs by Jonathan Smalls, who scored from six yards out to make it 14-0 after one period. Smalls would add two more scores in the second and cash in his fourth late in the third, finishing the night with 241 yards on 38 carries. Ross Miller scored the game's first touchdown and added 165 yards on 17 carries to give the visiting Eagles their first win of the season.

"Arlington brought the good old smash-mouth football and we were unable to stop the push they got from their line," coach Terry Bear said. "We were able to move the ball down the field, but, unfortunately, did not convert any into points. I told my team that we need to really focus in the red zone and not be denied of the score."

Wayne was able to avoid the shut-out in the fourth quarter when Zach Keating scored on a one-yard dive. He was 8-of-21 on the night for 157 yards in the passing department.

Offensively, Drew Davie led the Blue Devil ground attack with 47 yards on 11 carries and Tayib Toussaint added 40 yards on 14 tries. Brook Bowers was the top receiver, hauling in four catches for 85 yards.

Defensively, Davie led the team with 10 tackles and Toussaint added seven. Bowers had 6 1/2 tackles and Lucas Longe picked up five. "In football, when bad things happen, we need to pick ourselves up, dust ourselves off and keep going. We need to learn from our mistakes and get ready for the next game. I have great young men and they will step it up and keep moving forward."

The 1-2 Blue Devils are back in action Friday, playing host to 0-3 Columbus Lakeview in a 7 p.m. matchup at Memorial Stadium.

Wildcats get first win, fall in home opener

The Wayne State women's soccer team picked up its first win of the season last week to highlight a busy week of action.

Last Wednesday, Josie Brown scored in the 10th minute and the defense, led by freshman goalkeeper Margaret Harma, made that goal stand up as the Wildcats posted a 1-0 win over in-state rival Nebraska-Kearney in non-conference action in Kearney.

Brown put back her own miss at the 10:25 mark to get the Wildcats on the board, and Harma got her first collegiate win in goal, stopping three shots on goal and six overall.

Wayne State had a 9-6 advantage in shots, including 7-3 in shots on goal. Wayne State had one more corner kick than UNK, 4-3, while the Wildcats were called for 13 fouls to just four for the Lopers.

Brown led Wayne State with four shots, Mallory Hoyt added three shots while Kelsea Lambert and McKenna Adams were each credited with one shot.

The Wildcats opened Northern Sun Conference play the following day in Sioux Falls, and Augustana scored twice in each half to hand the Wildcats their first loss of the season, 4-0.

Augustana scored in the 29th minute to take the lead, then added a second goal three minutes later. They scored in the 56th and the 70th minute to pull away for the win, outshooting Wayne State 15-9 (6-3 shots on goal).

Hoyt and Brown each had two shots to lead the Wildcats. Harma had two saves in goal.

The Wildcats were 10 minutes away from their first home win of the season, but Colorado Christian scored twice down the stretch, including the game-winner with about 1:30 to go, to come away with a 2-1 victory.

The Wildcats scored late in the first half when McKenna Adams picked up a loose ball off Cougar deflection and scored in front of the net for a 1-0 halftime advantage.

The score stayed that way until the Cougars got the equalizer in the 80th minute. With time running out, a wind-aided shot from about 20 yards out just went over the head of Harma, giving the visitors the win.

The Wildcats face two conference opponents at home this weekend, hosting Winona State on Saturday at 11 a.m. and Upper Iowa on Sunday at 1 p.m.

Trojans roll to victory

WAKEFIELD – Wakefield coach Mike Hassler said his team played well and earned every point they scored in Friday's 44-6 win over Winnebago at Eaton Field.

"Don't let that score fool you into thinking it was an easy game," he said. "They made us earn everything on the field. It was a tough four quarters of football and it was nice to get that first win under our belts."

The Trojans had a slight edge in total offense (257-249) and had to control the ball and grind out a number of drives to get their first win in eight-man football.

The Trojans led 14-0 after one period when Levi Nelson and Alex Conley both scored on one-yard runs. Efren Gotinez caught a 62-yard pass from Conley to make it 22-0. After the Indians scored their lone touchdown, Wakefield came right back with a 31-yard scoring run by Conley to make it 30-6 at the half and the Trojans never looked back.

Conley rushed for 89 yards on 12 carries, Daniel Nuno had 56 yards in eight tries and Nelson had 24 yards on 10 attempts to lead the Wakefield ground attack. Conley was 2-of-9 for 68 yards with one touchdown, with Godinez catching both pass completions.

The Trojans are back home this week to face Neligh-Oakdale, and Hassler looks for another tough matchup on Friday.

Winside falls at home

WINSIDE – Winside's offense took some positive steps forward, but it wasn't enough to overtake O'Neill St. Mary's as the Cardinals came away with a 56-22 win over the Wildcats Friday night.

For the third straight week, the Wildcats had an answer early for their opponent's first score. After the Cardinals scored on a long pass play, Winside answered with a 16-yard scoring run by Zach Morris, one of three he had on the night.

After pulling to within 8-6, Winside was unable to slow down St. Mary's as they rattled off 42 unanswered points to take control of the game. Morris found the end zone twice in the fourth quarter, scoring on runs of 12 and 2 yards. Brandon Watters found Hayden King for one two-point conversion while Trey Meis ran in a second.

The Wildcats got 114 yards from Morris on 20 carries to lead their offensive effort. Marcus Escalera was 3-of-6 passing for 39 yards, with two going to King for 30 yards and Watters catching a nine-yard pass. Escalera also had 28 yards on eight carries, and Sam Wolfe and Isaiah Muhs both rushed for 13 yards.

Defensively, Cory Shoff led the Wildcats with 11 1/2 total tackles, including 11 solo stops. Morris had 6 1/2 tackles and Escalera had five.

Wayne, LCC girls golf teams see action on links

The Wayne High girls golf team placed fourth Saturday at the Pierce Invitational.

Emma Loberg was the lone medalist for the Blue Devils on the day, finishing 11th overall with a 100. Anna Loberg and Kaitlyn McAllister both shot 112, Ashlyn Pecena had a 116 and Holly Grosz shot 132.

Laurel-Concord-Coleridge also competed at Pierce, finishing ninth out of 15 teams. Brooke Young had the low round for the Lady Bears, shooting a 114, while Emily Klooz had a 119. Anna Casey shot 125, Nicole Hanson had a 137 and Gail Leaply carded a 143.

The Wayne High girls golf team took home a fifth-place finish Thursday at the Lakeview Invitational in Columbus.

Anna Loberg led the Blue Devils with a 98, good for 10th overall among individual golfers. Grosz shot 106, McAllister had a 126, Jewel Kneiff shot 130 and Pecena had a 142.

The Wayne High girls golf team finished second in the Wayne Invitational on Wednesday. The meet was rescheduled after it was washed out earlier in the season.

The Blue Devils finished three shots behind Hartington Cedar Catholic, which shot a 437 to win the tournament.

Loberg led the Blue Devils with a 100, good for third place. McCallister was sixth with a 107, Grosz was 12th with a 111, and Kneiff finished 17th with a 122. Pecena shot 123 to round out the team's effort.

Laurel-Concord-Coleridge was fifth in the Wayne tournament and were led by Klooz, who finished eighth overall with a 110. Young had a 120, Casey shot 122, Hanson had a 143 and Leaply had a 146.

short touchdown run, but the Bears answered late in the half with a long scoring drive, capped off by a four-yard scoring run by Malik Knox to make it 6-6 at the half.

The Warriors scored a pair of touchdowns to take the lead for good. The Bears closed out the scoring when Dillan Wolfgram hit Jayden Reifenrath on an 11-yard scoring strike, but it wasn't enough as the Bears fell to 0-3.

Wolfgram was 7-of-23 for 72 yards with one touchdown and a pair of interceptions. Brad Steffen and Reifenrath each caught two balls for 30 and 22 yards, respectively.

Wakefield third in home tourney

The Wakefield volleyball team came away with consolation honors in its own tournament, going 4-1 for the weekend to finish third out of eight teams.

The Trojans opened pool play Thursday with a two-set win over Lyons-Decatur, winning 25-16, 25-15. McKenzie Rusk had six kills and Caleigh Mackling added four to lead the net attack. Savannah Nelson had 16 assists and eight digs, while Mackling picked up seven digs.

The Trojans won their second match on Thursday with a straight-set win over Winside, winning 25-16, 25-21. Emily Puls had 10 kills and Rusk and Brianna Samuelson each added five. Nelson had 24 assists and eight digs, while Taryn Hingst had six digs and Mackling picked up five.

On Saturday, Wakefield closed out pool play with a 25-19, 25-15 win over Lutheran High Northeast to finish 3-0 in their pool and move on to the semifinals. Puls had seven kills and Rusk added six in the win, while Mackling and Samuelson each had four. Nelson had 20 assists and 11 digs, while Hingst also had 11 digs.

In the semifinals, the Trojans fell in straight sets to Pierce, losing 25-20, 25-19. Puls led the attack with six kills and Rusk added five kills and three blocks. Nelson had 12 assists, and Puls and Mackling each had nine digs to highlight the defensive effort.

In the consolation finals, Wakefield came back to win a three-set match with Winside, winning 21-25, 25-20, 25-17. Puls had 12 kills and Mackling added six for the Trojans. Puls had three blocks and Rusk added two. Nelson had three aces, serves and 24 assists, and Hingst had 17 digs while Rusk added 11 and Nelson had nine.

Winside girls earn fourth-place finish

The Winside volleyball team went 1-4 and placed fourth in the Wakefield Invitational at Wakefield High School.

The Wildcats went 1-2 in pool play, losing to the host Trojans (25-16, 25-21) and Lutheran High NE (25-16, 25-17) before beating Lyons-Decatur (25-23, 25-20).

Against Wakefield, Carly Thies led the team with seven kills, Carly Schwager added four and Ellie Jaeger had three. Alex Bargstadt had 11 assists and a team-high nine digs. Morgan Jensen added seven digs and Jaeger had two blocks.

Against the Eagles, Schwager had seven kills and Thies added five. Bargstadt had 12 assists. Ellie Jaeger had three kills and three blocks. Schwager led the defense with 16 digs, Jensen added 15 and Bargstadt had 12.

Against the Cougars, Schwager led a balanced attack with eight kills, Thies had seven and Ellie Hjaeger had six. Both Thies and Jaeger had two blocks. Jensen had 12 digs, Bargstadt picked up 11 and Kelly Tweedy had 10.

Winside opened against eventual tournament champion Stanton in the semifinals, and the Mustangs ran away with a 25-11, 25-11 win. Thies had seven kills, Bargstadt had eight assists, and Schwager, Bargstadt and Jensen led the defense with eight, seven and six digs, respectively.

Winside took Wakefield to three sets in the consolation match before the host Trojans came out on top, 21-25, 25-20, 25-17. Thies had 13 kills and seven blocks and Ellie Jaeger had five kills and two blocks. Bargstadt had 18 assists and Schwager and Jensen led the defense with 16 and 12 digs, respectively.

LCC netters take sixth at Wakefield

The Laurel-Concord-Coleridge volleyball team had trouble finding some consistency during the Wakefield Invitational, finishing the tournament 1-4 and coming away with sixth-place honors in the eight-team tournament.

The Lady Bears were undoubtedly in the toughest pool, as they opened with losses to tournament runner-up Pierce and the eventual champions from Stanton. The LCC girls lost to the Bluejays 25-13, 25-14, then fell to the Mustangs, 25-9, 25-23.

Against Pierce, Audra Corbit, Kaci Groene and Candice Rastede each had three kills. Rastede ran the offense with eight assists.

In the Stanton match, Corbit had two kills and three blocks and Ellie Arduser added two kills. Rastede had four assists, Bryn Schutte had three ace serves and four digs in the back row.

The Lady Bears finished pool play Saturday with a 25-18, 25-18 loss to Hartington Cedar Catholic, getting three kills apiece from Arduser and Groene. Rastede had eight assists and two ace serves, and Schutte led the team with three digs.

In consolation bracket play, LCC defeated Lyons-Decatur 25-18, 27-25, but lost to Lutheran High Northeast in the fifth-place match, 25-15, 25-20.

"We were just very inconsistent throughout the tournament," Cunningham said. "Unforced errors and a lack of communication are two areas that can improve."

In the win over the Cougars, Arduser had eight kills and Corbit had seven kills and four blocks to lead the way. Leaply had five kills and Groene had 11 ace serves. Rastede ran the offense with 24 assists and Schutte had five digs to lead the defense.

In the final match, Corbit, Arduser and Groene each had three kills and Rastede had nine assists and three ace serves for the Lady Bears.

is really good and we're all trying to push each other and try to get better."

"It's good to have Norfolk Catholic in Class D, but them moving to D brings (Columbus) Scotus into C, so it's kind of pick your poison," Ruhl said. "We'll battle with (Norfolk Catholic) again at conference along with Boone Central and Crofton. It's crazy how good the girls runners in the area are right now, and it's good to have that competition."

Joining Pulfer on the medal stand were Cassier Heier, finishing fifth; Mandy Stabler, placing ninth; Molly Hoskins, taking 11th; and Marissa Munsell and Caitlin Janke, placing 14th and 15th, respectively.

Four of Wayne's six varsity runner cashed in among the top 15 medalists, led by Ben Hoskins, who was among the leaders throughout the race before settling on a third-place finish.

"Ben had one of his better races of the year," Ruhl said. "He went out and competed hard and pushed it to the limit, and he stayed up front as long as he could. I think he was disappointed to finish third, but he did a good job today."

Luke Pulfer, Cole Leonard and Nolan Reynolds came in bunched together in 11th through 13th place as the Blue Devils' team total of 39 points was five higher than Winnebago, who finished with four in the top 14.

"I thought the boys packed in pretty well and we got them close to Luke, and we also got Luke closer to Ben and if we can keep doing that, we'll be very competitive," Ruhl said.

Cornelio Espino and Jack Evetovich both finished in the top 20, with Espino taking 17th and Evetovich finishing 19th.

Laurel-Concord-Coleridge's boys ran well and took fourth-place honors among the seven teams that were represented. Aaron Haahr and Jordan Jansen both led the Bears, finishing fifth and ninth, respectively. Ethan Gubbels was 30th, Colton Jansen was 32nd, Logan Hansen was 33rd and Billy Barelman placed 37th.

Winside fielded two runners in the boys race. Kevin Ross placed 45th and Josh Gruenke was 48th.

Allen Eagles roll to 63-33 win at Wausa Friday

WAUSA – A big third quarter helped the Allen Eagles come away with a big win on the road Friday as they outscored Wausa, 63-33.

The Eagles ran the ball extremely well against the Vikings, racking up 439 yards on the ground as part of their 489-yard effort in total yards.

Allen came out smoking in the second half and scored 29 straight points in the third quarter, coming on touchdown runs by Tayler Kumm, Brian Boese, Caleb Thomas and Cody Thomas, and Kumm hit Boese on a 50-yard touchdown pass.

Boese had a big night with 209 yards on 21 carries and three touchdowns. Kumm added 102 yards on 13 carries with two scores, and Caleb Thomas rushed for 92 yards on 11 carries and two touchdowns.

Caleb Thomas led the defense with 14 tackles and Wade Connot added 12 tackles.

The Eagles improved to 1-1 on the season. Allen returns home this Friday to face Omaha Nation at Allen Field.

Wildcats still 19th in AVCA Div. II poll

The Wayne State volleyball team stays at No. 19 in this week's American Volleyball Coaches Association Div. II coaches poll.

The Wildcats went 4-0 at the Minnesota State Invitational to improve to 7-1 on the season. They are one of six teams from the Northern Sun Conference, joined by No. 2 Concordia-St. Paul, No. 3 Minnesota Duluth, No. 8 Southwest Minnesota State, No. 21 Northern State and No. 22 Augustana.

Men's golf league champions crowned

Team 5 shut out Team 29 6-0 to win the championship of the Men's League at Wayne Country Club last Wednesday.

The team of Josh Hopkins (37), Mike Powicki (42) and Matt Ley (44) outscored the team of Rob Sweetland (40), Pat Riesberg (42) and Craig Walling (43) to win the league title.

Frosh-soph netters win tournament title

Wayne High's freshman-sophomore volleyball team claimed first-place honors in the Wisner-Pilger JV Tournament on Saturday.

In the first match, Wayne defeated Scribner-Snyder 25-6, 25-12, 25-6. Wayne then won its semifinal match against Howells-Dodge, 25-19, 25-19, 25-23 to advance to the finals against the Wisner-Pilger White team.

Wayne led the first set 21-19 before Wisner scored the next six unanswered to take game one, 25-21. In the second set, Wayne held a 12-10 lead before Wisner again put together a string of points to go up 15-12. Wayne answered with a string of their own and then held on to win 27-25. In the final set, Wisner again came back to take a 23-22 lead before Wayne finished the last three points to claim a 25-23 win for the championship.

The team also played in a quadrangular Thursday, defeating Battle Creek (25-12, 25-17), Pierce (25-9, 25-16) and Madison (23-25, 25-18, 25-10).

Seventh-graders battle with Pierce

The Wayne seventh-grade volleyball team played Pierce Monday at home.

Wayne won the first set 25-8 behind 10 points from Emily Armstrong. The second set saw Pierce winning 25-19. Leading scorer for Wayne was Cassidy Manz with five. The third set found Wayne down 20-24 when Bailee Leise went back to serve and rattled off six straight points to lead Wayne to the win 26-24.

Dirt Devil fall team splits pair

The Fall Dirt Devil 14 & Unders, made up of seventh- and eighth-grade girls, split a pair of games over the weekend.

The Dirt Devil 14 & Unders split a double header with Impact of Norfolk over the weekend, winning game one 3-2 and falling in game two, 6-5.

In the first game, Marrisra Lutt was 2-for-2 with a run scored. Abby Ankeny and Annie Kniesche also added hits. Tori Kniesche got the win from the circle, striking out eight, walking four and giving up three hits.

In game two, Kniesche was 3-for-3, Ankeny was 2-for-3, and five others added hits. Kniesche took the loss, striking out six, walking eight and giving up five hits.

ALLERGY STUDIES WITH A FEW SURPRISES

Mark Patefield, RPh

Nearly one in 10 kids deals with allergies. That includes hay fever and respiratory, food, and skin allergies.¹ That's a lot of sniffing and sneezing and itching and wheezing! It's not any wonder that researchers keep trying to figure out ways to relieve some of this suffering. Here's a snapshot of a few recent allergy studies that reveal a few surprises about allergies in kids.

Too clean? Think twice before going overboard with the cleaning supplies. A recent study found that inner-city newborns exposed to a too-clean home were more vulnerable to allergies and asthma later in life.² Surprisingly, the more rodent, roach, and cat allergens they were exposed to, the better. Allergens plus bacteria appeared to be the most protective.

This study supports what's called the "hygiene hypothesis." What does that mean? When homes are too clean, young kids' bodies might not develop the right responses to allergens like cat dander. The study needs more follow-up, especially since it reverses the results of earlier studies. So, don't rush out and adopt a cat (or let your house become infested!) But stay tuned for more on this topic.

Moo! Exposure to microbes may also be behind another study's recent findings.

In rural areas of Sweden, researchers found that kids growing up on dairy farms had one-tenth the risk of allergies as kids living in other rural areas.³ The study found for the first time that delayed development of immune systems puts youngsters at risk for allergies. So the researchers suspect something on these dairy farms is helping their immune systems to mature.

Speaking of milk (and eggs). Researchers recently surveyed more than 300 caregivers of kids about their kids' allergies.⁴ What they found surprised them. Parents weren't most anxious about peanut and tree allergies—which are the most severe. They were most worried about milk and egg allergies. In a way, it makes sense: Milk and eggs are used in so many dishes. It may be harder for parents to keep track of them.

Fortunately, about two-thirds of the parents surveyed clearly understood how severe their child's allergic reaction was. This is important because it's necessary to have a clear plan of action to handle your child's reactions. In severe cases, you might even need to give your child epinephrine.

Where you least expect it. Allergens can show up in unexpected places. A recent report about a skin allergy in an 11-year-old boy is a good example.⁵ Doctors finally traced the problem to the nickel in his iPad. Covering the iPad solved the problem.

According to some doctors, skin allergies like this are becoming much more common. This report is a good reminder to consider the effects of metallic electronics and other potential sources of nickel exposure such as clothing fasteners and ear piercings.

If any of your kids suffer from allergies, consult with your doctor. You might need referral to a special doctor (an allergist). I can also answer your questions about allergy medications and point you to products in our store to help ease symptoms.

Nothing herein constitutes medical advice, diagnosis or treatment, or is a substitute for professional advice. You should always seek the advice of your physician or other medical professional if you have questions or concerns about a medical condition.

Connot honored for military service

The Allen Legion Auxiliary honored Wade M. Connot on Sept. 5, recognizing him for his service and completion of Basic Combat Training for the Army National Guard.

Wade and his family were presented with a Service Flag, which is symbolic of patriotic duty and personal sacrifice.

The Service Flag, also known as a Blue Star Banner or Son in Service Flag, is an unofficial symbol of a family member in service and is displayed by the soldier's family.

During the ceremony, organizers told the service man "Thank you, Wade, for your service to our country."

Power of Red event is Oct. 18

High school and transfer students can learn about the College of Agricultural Sciences and Natural Resources at the Experience the Power of Red Open House on Saturday, Oct. 18.

The open house, held on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's East Campus, gives students the chance to hear about the college's 30 academic programs and two pre-professional programs, said Laura Frey, UNL college relations director. They can also meet current UNL faculty, staff and students.

"They get to explore career opportunities and just become familiar with UNL in general," she said.

The open house will begin at 9 a.m. with refreshments and a browsing session, when students can get a brief introduction to each department in the college. Following a welcome at 10 a.m., students and parents will attend academic sessions that offer more in-depth information about each academic program. The event finishes with lunch and a scholarship drawing at 12:45 p.m. Optional tours of both UNL campuses start at 2 p.m.

Academic interest areas featured at the open house include agribusiness/agricultural economics; agricultural education/agricultural and environmental sciences communication/hospitality, restaurant and tourism management; agronomy; animal science; applied science; biochemistry; food science and technology; food technology for companion animals; forensic science; grazing livestock systems; horticulture; insect science; mechanized systems management/agricultural engineering/biological systems engineering; microbiology; natural resources, including applied climate science, environmental restoration science, environmental studies, fisheries and wildlife, grassland ecology and management, natural resources and environmental economics and water science; PGA golf management; plant biology; turfgrass and landscape management; veterinary science; and the Engler Agribusiness Entrepreneurship program.

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes
Managing Editor

Will NFL step up, address issue of domestic violence?

Twenty years ago last week, a strike by players led to the cancellation of the World Series, something that two World Wars, the Great Depression and even 9/11 couldn't accomplish.

My anger toward seeing the sport being ruined by greed-fueled players and owners (and having seen the sport endure numerous strikes while growing up) led to me writing a column expressing my frustration with the situation, concluding that the league had forever lost this fan and that I would not support the league any longer.

I'm starting to wonder if I need to take a similar approach to another professional sports league that I have enjoyed watching most of my life.

All the talk in the sports world lately seems to be centering around the domestic violence issues that are being instigated by players in the National Football League. Recent stories involving Adrian Peterson and Ray Rice have left me wondering if I should continue to support an organization that, by its actions – or lack thereof – is giving de facto support to men performing acts of physical violence against those incapable of defending themselves.

Peterson's situation is the most recent to come up. He has been indicted by a grand jury in Texas for whipping his young son with a long, slender branch, causing multiple cuts and abrasions. The Minnesota Vikings held him out of Sunday's game, and he has since been put on the team's inactive list while he addresses his legal issues surrounding the incident.

The situation involving Rice has received a ton of attention, particularly as questions arise as to when exactly the NFL knew about the video showing Rice knocking out his girlfriend, whether league officials saw ALL of the video and why they initially gave Rice a two-game suspension – a penalty that barely qualifies as a slap on the wrist, considering the crime in question.

Domestic violence is a very real problem in this country, and the problem is especially prevalent among professional athletes who, fueled by money, physical strength and a mind-altering sense of entitlement, have been able to hide the problem and keep their name off of police blotters because of who they are in the community.

But it's not limited to the big boys playing professional football. It's a problem in all corners of our country. The physical, psychological and sexual attacks that are perpetrated on their victims, including children and even family pets, leave more than physical scars behind – the emotional and mental marks that are left behind create more problems down the road that don't heal as easily as the physical ones.

The NFL's leadership is being dragged, kicking and screaming, into properly dealing with this issue. Commissioner Roger Goodell realized his faux pas a few weeks after his initial assessment of the Rice video and announced a more direct response to the problem. Unfortunately, it took a Hollywood dirt-digging website to produce the video evidence of Rice beating his fiancée (now wife) in a casino elevator to get the NFL to stop dragging its feet, and ultimately they gave Rice an indefinite suspension after the team cut him from their roster.

We can question the motives, or even the sanity, of the people who stay in abusive relationships. However, it is not these people who need to be dealt with – the perpetrators of this abuse need to be made aware that their actions are not acceptable human behavior in the 21st century, and those who continue to commit crimes of physical, sexual or psychological abuse need to be dragged out of the darkness and be forced to stand in the light of justice.

We are fortunate to have some great resources available to help those who are in need of getting out of a domestic violence situation. Haven House has a 24-hour crisis line available at (800) 440-4633 for people who need to get away from such a situation.

As for my future interest in supporting the National Football League, I'm going to reserve final judgement until I see how the league responds to the problem it is dealing with. If they are as serious about addressing domestic violence as they are with some of their on-field issues, I might not have to find other things to do on Sunday afternoons this fall.

Speaking of finding other things to do this fall, I got an updated "picture" of my soon-to-be-grandchild from my daughter's trip to the doctor the other day, and it already has the Carnes characteristics – big head, with mouth to match.

We'll know sometime around Thanksgiving whether the new addition will be a boy or a girl. Kylie and Dan are both anxious to find out so they can plan accordingly and give the baby's room the right paint color. As for Grandpa Carnes, all he's betting on is a healthy and happy new addition to the family – the rest of it is just details.

Adding to AG's office sensible

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

A suggestion by outgoing Attorney General Jon Bruning to add attorneys to his staff to handle matters at the Department of Corrections just makes sense.

His suggestion came the day after a special Legislative Committee hearing on the early release of inmates. During that 12-hour hearing, the top attorney at the Department of Corrections told lawmakers that he didn't bother to read a state Supreme Court ruling on sentencing until an Omaha World-Herald investigation revealed that mistakes were made.

Several attorneys in the Department were allowed to resign instead of being fired and other staff were disciplined after the newspaper reported that several hundred inmates were released early because their release dates were miscalculated. The legislative committee, already formed to look at other issues – lack of mental health treatment for an inmate who murdered several people within a month of his release and a work-release inmate whose negligent driving in a state van killed a woman – also tackled the early release issue.

Aside from the blatant disregard of the high court's opinion, testimony revealed that the recommendation of one of Bruning's staff attorneys (who has since retired) was also ignored. But the jaw-dropping testimony from the Department of Corrections former chief lawyer who said he didn't read the opinion was apparently the last straw for Bruning who leaves office at the end of the year.

The idea of putting the prison system's legal staff in the Attorney General's office makes it more accountable and places the legal responsibility squarely in the Judicial Branch of Government. Said attorneys would answer to an elected official, not an appointee. The voters have an opportunity to hold elected officials accountable. That accountability is essential in an agency that deals directly with the lives of so many Nebraskans. Remember, it's not only the lives of those behind bars who are impacted by a sentence, but the families of the inmates as well.

Perhaps the Bruning idea on correction's attorneys could be used as a model to look at legal staff in other state agencies. Especially those that deal directly with people's lives and well being. One could speculate that bringing the staff attorneys from the Department of Health and Human Services into the fold might make them more accountable and help them in their understanding of the missed opportunities for available federal dollars that would make opportunities available for needy Nebraskans.

"Time and time again, the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services has squandered millions in State and Federal dollars," auditor Mike Foley said earlier this year. There has been some speculation that the state may actually owe the feds more than $20 million for botching an attempt to privatize child welfare. Even though the agency director says things have been worked out in that regard, wouldn't it be better if the whole thing had been avoided in the first place? Accountability of the legal staff would be a step in the right direction.

Obviously there are a number of attorneys in other state agencies who handle very routine matters that don't make headlines, but they should all be accountable. I'm not advocating for a Judicial Branch that is any stronger than the Executive or Legislative branches, but it appears that the Legislative Branch is the only one whose members are doing their homework.

Hats off to Bruning, who has nothing to gain from his suggestion at this point, for the idea. Here's hoping that the next governor and the new Legislature will follow through.

Legislative Update

Decision on 'historic' horse races good

Last week, I mentioned that as we were preparing to send the newsletter out we received word that the Nebraska Supreme Court had passed down a ruling that would not allow voters to decide on whether or not we should allow betting on "historic" horse races. As promised, I will tell you a little more about this decision.

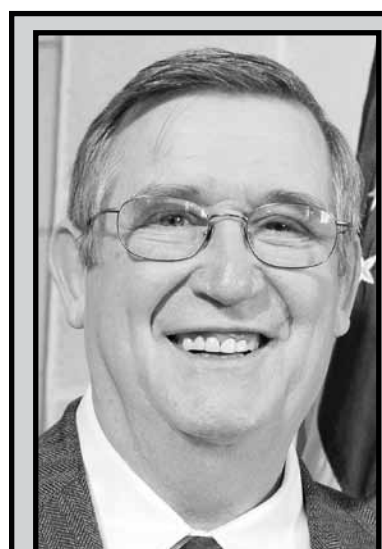

When it came down to it the decision from the court had very little to do with the issue of gambling. The issue was actually about the fact that the ballot measure contained two separate issues. The two issues found in the ballot language were 1) whether to allow betting on "historic" horse races and 2) how the revenue derived from the betting on "historic" horse races should be distributed. Constitutional amendments are required to contain only one subject matter and this measure clearly contained two as noted by the court. This Legislative Resolution (LR41CA) was in my opinion not only poorly written, but a bad idea as well. I am personally pleased with the high court's decision.

The 33 page ruling cited cases

Legislative Update
By Dave Bloomfield
State Senator, District 17

that went as far back as 1889. The decision by the Nebraska Supreme Court was unanimous that the ballot measure was in violation of the one subject matter requirement. This overturned a July decision by Secretary of State John Gale that said while it did contain two subject matters the two subjects were "natural and necessary connection."

While I know this is a blow to the hopes of many in District 17, I feel it is the correct decision. We must protect and abide by our Constitution. We spent hours discussing this measure before it was eventually passed and a good part of that discussion regarded the fact that these were two different issues that we were putting on a single ballot.

Steps can be taken to control yellow jackets in fall

Late summer is the season for yellow jacket wasps, but there are steps that can be taken to control them.

"Yellow jackets are some of the more common stinging insects homeowners may encounter," said Jonathan Larson, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension educator in Douglas/Sarpy counties.

Based on reports to some extension educators, yellow jackets seem to be more common this year. Larson said he's had about 50 people contact him the last two weeks. "I would guess that the kind of wet summer with high but not hot temperatures helped them survive better this year in comparison to the drought-stricken summers of the last two years," he said.

These social wasps build their nests underground in abandoned rodent burrows, under compost piles, in voids of wood and sometimes in trees or shrubs. The nest is constructed out of paper and holds the queen and her many workers, Larson said. Yellow jacket colonies can number between 500 and 5,000 individual insects. The nest is annual, meaning that only new queens survive for the winter, the rest die out at the first hard freeze of the year.

A yellow jacket worker is about 1/2 inch long with alternating yellow and black bands on the abdomen. They will look different than honey or bumble bees as these beneficial pollinating insects have hairy bodies, while the yellow jacket is smooth and glossy in appearance. They are an important health pest due to their aggressive nature when disturbed and the fact that individual wasps can sting multiple times.

These wasps are carnivorous and feed on a variety of insects and spiders, but also enjoy finding sweet treats such as soda pop or fruit at a picnic. While they are not important pollinators, they do help control pests such as caterpillars.

Encounters with humans often occur during mowing or when working with outdoor trash cans. An upswing in foraging activity occurs as summer ends, which results in an increase in cases of people being stung. If a colony has been disturbed, cover your face with your hands and slowly retreat from the area towards a building, car, or dense vegetation. Do not run as the swift motion may attract more yellow jackets.

Control of a yellow jacket colony should be done at dusk or after dark when the insects are the least active. If you choose to wait until dark, a flashlight covered with red cellophane can help you see (insects do not perceive red light). Care should also be taken to wear long sleeves, a hat, and pants to try and ensure protection from possible stings.

Chemical control options include aerosol products with a jet trigger like cypermethrin (Raid® Wasp and Hornet Killer) or lambda cyhalothrin (Spectracide® Wasp and Hornet Killer). Insecticide dusts like carbaryl (Sevin®) or permethrin (Eight®) will also provide strong control. Successful control is dependent upon getting the insecticides inside the colony. Spraying wasps that are flying in your vicinity or that are visible outside of the nest will not lead to total elimination. Therefore, locate the entrance to the nest and then spray or sprinkle the insecticide into the entrance at dusk and leave the area. Wait at least 24 hours and return to see if the job has been finished. If not, repeat the previous steps. After successful elimination, seal the entrance with soil, wood, or caulk (depending on nest location) so that reestablishment doesn't occur.

Both aerosols and dusts will work for ground or cavity nests but the jet propelled aerosols are best for aerial nests. Non-chemical control of yellow jackets includes using solid waste receptacles (i.e. no wire mesh) that have wasp-tight lids to prevent workers from entering the can.

Alyssa Schmale exhibited the Division I Champion, Lightweight Market Gilt at the 2014, Nebraska State Fair. With her is Austin Schmale.

Importance of herdsmanhsip in 4-H

Have you ever wondered why we have herdsmanhsip at the fair? Think about it this way...would you hold an open house without cleaning and making things look tidy and neat first? Probably not! You want a positive experience for the viewers and you want people safe as they view your home or business. Herdsmanhsip has the same purpose. Herdsmanhsip allows for a positive public view of the animals and shows pride in livestock exhibits. It shows the animals are well cared for and keeps the area safe for the public to walk through and view the animals. Herdsmanhsip focuses on teamwork, showing pride in exhibits, learning to pick-up and take care of the area and proper care and treatment of the animal. Herdsmanhsip should be a fun "educational" activity in which kids challenge one another to make their area look good and "feel" good. Responsibility is just one of the life skills learned when good herdsmanhsip practices take place. Herdsmanhsip is a TEAM effort. Clubs should work out a schedule for caring for their area. Each member should feed, water and clean up after their own animals but the club can work as a whole to tidy up alleys and tack area and watching the club area and answering questions from the public. Herdsmanhsip is vital to the 4-H program and a way for 4-Hers to put their best foot forward to demonstrate the top-notch care they give their animals and the hard work they put into their projects. Cheering on the Blue Devils

Bit of Light

Rev. Jason Pickering and the congregation of Praise Assembly of God in Wayne enjoyed the musical talents of 10 Wayne State College instrumentalists and three WSC singers in the Sunday morning service on Sept. 14.

These students played and sang music during the prelude, offertory, postlude as well as for Special Music and as accompaniment for the service music. Then the entire congregation enjoyed the Quarterly "Fellowship Dinner" (potluck) dinner at noon.

Pastor Jason's sermon continues in the series from the book of James (in the New Testament), and he zeroed in on Chapter 1, verses 14 and following as he dealt with the subject of "Temptation and the Believer."

Pastor Pickering's premise is found not only in James but also in 1 Peter 1:23 where we read that, "23 Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever." For the believers in Jesus Christ, the "bottom line" is that as new creations, those who have been "born again", we have the Spirit of God at work in us; and this Holy Spirit is active in us, making us able to will and to do the will of the Lord (Philippians 2:13).

Pastor Pickering was quick to remind the congregation on Sunday that "We will have troubles; we will have temptations; we will have testings." However, on the basis of God's Word and the promises it contains, we can walk through these and not be forsaken. The crucial issue is to know that we have not been forsaken as we walk through these difficult times. And so the Pastor had some important things to say about "how to deal with temptation", and where it comes from.

In contrast to the world where we hear (through the media) that when we are going through a bad day, we should go somewhere and "fix ourselves". God says this that "each one of us is tempted when we are carried away by lusts" (James 1:14-15). In this way sin takes hold in our lives, "just like a hook that catches a fish," Pastor Pickering says. "And the right lure and the right hook catches the right fish." Similarly, he said, the devil knows how to lead us astray. And believers need to stand strong in the face of temptation. Pastor Jason gave this equation to describe temptation: Stage 1: Desire + Opportunity = temptation.

In Stage 2 we see the next step which is this: Desire + Opportunity + Action = Sin. Pastor Pickering reminded the listeners that "when we come to the Lord for salvation, we are not 'zapped' by Him so that we avoid all sin, darkness, and frustration." But in the midst of the trial as well as in the temptations that come to us (because we walk in a dark world) we need to trust what God says in His Word about our lives.

The third stage in dealing with temptation is to exercise self-control, which is one of the "Fruit of the Spirit" which is described in Galatians chapter 5, remembering that "I can do all things through Christ (found in Philippians 4).

The fourth stage is to "obtain forgiveness" from others as well as from the Lord. Pastor Pickering closed his Sunday message with several easy-to-remember "one-liners":

- God will forgive us of our sins;
- God will come into my heart and life;
- God will wash my life clean - never to see the sin again;
- Even though the devil will try to block this work, God is willing and able to help us get through.

His final words were from 2 Corinthians 9:15: "Thanks be to God for His indescribable gift" followed by this important challenge: "Is it worth it to miss the prize at the end of the race?"

Praise Assembly invites everyone to join with them this weekend (Sunday School at 9:30 a.m. and Morning Worship at 10:30 a.m.); and Wednesday prayer meeting and children's activities that start at 6:30 p.m.).

Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid meets

Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid and LWML met Sept. 10 at the church. President Rhonda Sebade called the meeting to order. Fifteen members answered roll call with Pastor Lillienkamp present to lead the Bible study. Teresa Tiedtke and Jessica Feldmann from the L.I.F.T. group were greeted as guests.

Vice President Ellen Heinemann presented the devotion based on Psalm 63:1 entitled "Is Your Thirst for God Still Quenched?"

President Sebade presented the Mite mission focus for September. Worship for Shut-ins is a project of Lutheran Ministries Media. Its emphasis is to impact the spiritual wellness of the ever-expanding population of senior citizens throughout America.

In the absence of Secretary Louise Green, Fauneil Bennett read the minutes which were approved. Fauneil Bennett presented the treasurer's report which was filed for audit. Committee reports:

Sewing: Due to the renovation of the basement, no sewing has taken place.

Visiting: LaVon Biermann reported that many greeting cards have been sent.

Seminary Student: Ryan Janke's Aug./Sept. newsletter was shared with the group. Beverley Hansen will write to the Janke's this month.

Mission Service: Mary Janke will be taking pictures of confirmands. She will begin the service project for them in October.

Historian: Beverley Hansen and Rhonda Sebade will be taking over these duties. Esther Baker was thanked for her many years of dedication serving as historian.

Funeral Committee: Grace Church assisted in serving the catered meal for the Mike Niemann funeral. Rhonda Sebade will replace Ellen Heinemann on the funeral committee. Two members will be recruited from the congregation to serve on the committee also.

Old Business: Members were reminded to attend the guests activities at Martinsburg Sept. 10. St. Paul's of Winside will host the Fall Rally on Tuesday, Oct. 14. Registration will be held from 9 - 9:30 a.m. Lunch will be served and the day will conclude around 3 p.m.

New Business: Plans were made to celebrate LWML Sunday on Oct. 12. Ladies Aid will sponsor the Lutheran Hour. Ladies Aid, Evening Circle, and LIFT will share in the costs of the bulletin cover for that Sunday. Mary Janke, on behalf of Ladies Aid, will place purple mums on the altar. LWML members will serve as greeters: 8 a.m. - Jessica Feldmann and Betty Wittig; 10:30 a.m. - Teresa Tiedtke and an Evening Circle member. The big mite

Winside Methodist Church celebrates Christian Education

Winside United Methodist Church celebrated Christian Education Sunday during worship service on Sept. 14. The purpose was to celebrate and give thanks for those who teach and for those who learn.

Members affirmed that the teaching ministry in the congregation is a gift from God as well as our own responsibility.

Patty Skokan, Children Ministries Coordinator, Tricia North and Robin Edwards presented certificates and pins to the 37 youth enrolled in Sunday School as well as recognized all teachers. Third graders Reagan Strong, Cooper Behmer and Trinity Damme each received a Bible.

The birthday song was sung for Delores Utecht, Mary Doescher, Beverly Hansen and Ellen Heinemann. They were also honored with lighted cupcakes from Melvy Meyer. Members signed a birthday card for member/shut-in Mary Doescher. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer and table prayer.

The next meeting will be held at the Oaks on Wednesday, Oct. 8. Betty Wittig has volunteered to assist Delores Utecht with serving.

Fellowship was held afterwards and then Sunday School.

While spoilage can be a problem, sausage has a very long shelf life

When perishable foods near the end of their shelf life, we usually attribute their unpleasant color or odor to some bad species of bacteria or fungi that finally has blossomed, giving a whole new sensory experience to what was once a mouth-watering commodity.

However, while the direct connection between spoilage microbes and that "ewww factor" was pretty well established in the 1800s by Louis Pasteur, some foods, such as fresh pork sausage, break all of the rules when it comes to spoilage, said University of Nebraska-Lincoln food microbiologist Andy Benson.

In pork sausage, which has an extraordinarily long shelf life (60-80 days at refrigeration temps), the microbes generally have been found innocent of causing spoilage. Sausage's long shelf life stems partly from the antimicrobial nature of the spices blended into the product, but dismissal of microbes as the culprit came about because historically, microbiological testing always showed that microbial growth on product ceases after 15-30 days, a full 30-45 days before onset of the "ewww" factor.

This disconnect between microbe growth and the onset of sensory failure led food scientists to attribute spoilage of sausage to some unique combination of long-lived microbial products, remaining enzymatic activity from the meat and some unknown environmental factors.

Recent research by a team led by Benson and in collaboration with ConAgra Foods has shed new light on this mystery, and it turns out microbes aren't off the hook after all.

The issue was brought to UNL by ConAgra scientists Jairus David, Gordon Smith and Stefanie Gilbreth. Benson and his team (Rohita Sinha, Junjie Ma and Joseph Niefeldt) used metagenomics to dig deeper into the causes of sausage spoilage.

"What resulted was several amazing discoveries," Benson said of findings recently published in the journal Applied and Environmental Microbiology.

First, Benson's group showed that multiple waves of growth and death occur among members of the complex microbial community in sausage during cold storage.

"Traditional microbiological methods, which measure only the total population abundance or the abundances of select groups of organisms, all show that population growth ceases after 15-30 days, leaving an apparently static population for the remainder of the shelf life," said Benson, a professor in UNL's Department of Food Science and Technology.

However, using metagenomics, Benson's team was able to quantify nearly all of the organisms in the food, finding that the population is far from static. Indeed, waves of different microbial species could be seen growing, displacing other members of the population.

"Instead of a static population, you have a remarkably dynamic system with multiple waves, known as successions in ecological terms, occurring over time," Benson said. "And it's likely that each wave sets the stage for emergence of the next wave, as well as its own demise."

Working with ConAgra scientists Jairus David and Indarpal Singh, who measured different chemical properties of the sausage during the shelf life, Benson's team identified a small set of organisms that are the most likely culprits in the chemical changes in the sausage that ultimately bring about spoilage.

This type of association study, which is commonly used to study relationships between the human microbiome and disease, was essentially unprecedented in food, Benson said.

Benson's group also found that the many of the organisms that bring about sensory displeasure actually originate from the spice blends used to make the sausage, not from cross-contamination from the pork processing.

"This unparalleled application of metagenomics to 'source-tracking' in foods is yet another demonstration of how understanding fundamental questions about the ecosystem (such as the assemblage of organisms in the sausage and their origins) can ultimately translate into useful information for the corporate partner (such as how to screen ingredients)," he said.

In addition to source-tracking, Benson's team also observed a remarkable event occurring only in sausage treated with the antimicrobial compound lactate-diacetate. Among the different treatments being tested by ConAgra as shelf-life extenders, lactate-diacetate completely eliminated the waves or successions of microbes in the sausage, and instead caused only a limited amount of growth of a single species, known as Lactobacillus graminis.

However, what happens to the microbial population at day 30 of storage in treated samples was "totally unexpected," Benson said. After remaining static for 30 days, the entire population in LD-treated sausage takes an abrupt nosedive.

"In metagenomic terms, this means the DNA from the static population simply disappears," he said. "Such an abrupt and cross-the-board disappearance of DNA from a population reeks of a massive, interspecies programmed cell death."

"We normally think of PCD in higher organisms such as plants and mammals where selective death of specific cells and cell types is often programmed into developmental pathways," Benson said. Bacteria, programmed cell death is not well understood, though "most taxa do appear to have components of a rudimentary PCD system."

"If it is indeed a massive PCD that occurred, we want to know how it happened and what signaled it. While the fundamental biology of PCD in bacterial populations is truly fascinating, the potential applications are far-reaching," Benson said.

Benson said the collaboration between UNL and ConAgra "is a good example of the outcomes that can happen when UNL researchers with remarkable tools for discovery partner with private entities that have unique problems, a model that many would agree is the Holy Grail for Innovation Campus."

"I have to admit, studying the microbiome of fresh pork sausage probably doesn't sound like the sexiest of scientific adventures. We won't make the cover of Science or Nature, but it holds as much potential for fundamental discovery as any other microbial ecosystem. It's all in your perception, sensory and otherwise," he said.

Northeast CC board approves '14-'15 budgets

The Northeast Community College Board of Governors has given unanimous approval to the College's 2014-15 budgets, which include a slight decrease in the property tax levy. The action took place Tuesday following public hearings during the board's monthly meeting in Norfolk.

As in its previously approved budgets, the projected tax levy will remain below the authorized limit as set by the state. Nebraska State Statute establishes a general fund property tax levy rate limit not to exceed the difference between 1.25 cents and the rate levied for the capital improvement fund per $100 of taxable property valuation. The total property tax levy for all funds of 9.90 cents, which includes the capital improvement levy, is down from 9.93 cents in 2013-14.

Northeast Community College's general fund property tax levy is 7.90 cents, a decrease from last year's 7.93 cents. According to Lynne Koski, vice president of administrative services at Northeast Community College, the owner of a home in Northeast's 20 county service area with a taxable value of $100,000 would pay $99 or 30 cents less over the previous year.

During Tuesday's public hearings, Koski reviewed the general operating budget of $43,624,042, the capital improvement budget of $9,393,062, and the ADA/hazardous material budget of $290,617. The total for these three tax supported budgets is $53,307,721.

Koski said increases in the 2014-15 general operating budget are attributed to personnel, facilities, and support services to help students succeed in college. "Funding for the College's general fund budget comes primarily from student tuition and fees, state aid, and property taxes," she said.

The capital improvement budget, which is supported by a two-cent levy, is a decrease from the previous year. Construction began during the last fiscal year on two new buildings on the Norfolk campus - the Applied Technology building and the physical plant facility. Both facilities will open in 2015.

Additionally, the College's self-supporting funds budget for 2014-15 totals $40,905,068, an increase from last year's $32,108,108. These funds include auxiliary, restricted, capital improvement restricted, debt retirement, loan and agency funds. Koski said that these budgets are not supported by tax dollars. She said the cost of construction of the new extended campus facility in O'Neill is included in this budget. The new O'Neill facility will be financed by funds raised primarily through a capital campaign.

The Board of Governors also approved a budget lid override as set forth by state statute. Koski said the override only allows the college to accept additional state aid or property tax dollars if they would become available.

Dr. Michael Chipps, college president, said general operating funds provide for the continued work of the College as well as an integral part of meeting Northeast's strategic goals.

A study by Economic Modeling Specialists International shows that Northeast Community College adds $232.5 million annually to its 20-county service area's economy. The total effect for Fiscal Year 2012-13, the latest year available, amounted to approximately 3.8% of the Northeast service area's total Gross Regional Product.

"From a taxpayer's perspective, state and local governments see a rate of return of 6.4 percent relative to their support of Northeast Community College," Chipps said. "This return compares favorably with the 1.1% discount rate used by the federal government to appraise long-term investments. Northeast contributes to the well-being of the entire service area by creating value in increasing these economic opportunities for its constituents."

Visiting Dairy Store is still a treat

Long before we moved to Lincoln, I was referred to a Lincoln periodontist. After a thorough exam, she shot me a price that made me sit up in the chair in shock. I told her I could probably come up with the money, but that it was earmarked for a trip to Hawaii. I asked her if she could give me a referral to the dental college. Lucky for me, she was part of the faculty.

So, I've been a regular patient there for many years. The Big Farmer gave in and got a slot there, too, in spite of the reluctance to spend all morning in a dental chair because the work is done by students. We have been told it's one of the premier dental colleges in the nation. And the price is about half.

Since it's located on East campus, I reward myself with a trip to the Dairy Store when I'm finished there. And, when I take Mike there, I also "reward" myself. That's where I was this afternoon.

It's certainly not a fancy place.

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

But the ice cream is very tasty. And the tradition is fantastic. I saw a sign today that said it's been in continuous operation since 1917! I certainly can remember trips there when I was in school back in the fifties. Later, when I first started with Tabitha, and lived in northeast Lincoln, I would stop there on my way home from work.

Today, it was black walnut fudge. I pick up the latest Daily Nebraskan and head for a table that overlooks the lilac trees. I know they are actually bushes, but they look like trees. In May, it is an awesome sight when they are all in bloom.

Sometimes, I'm a bit put off by the language in the Daily "Rag," but, today, I could not fault it. It was all about the move to increase the enrollment to 30,000, the fact that the football team now has a punt returner, and an endearing article about one of the women's soccer team players who lost her dad in a hunting accident while she was in high school. She feels soccer has been her means of dealing with the grief. I'm sure that could certainly be the case.

When the University begins, the atmosphere in Lincoln changes; there is more excitement. Of course, there is also more traffic, but we have learned to do our shopping in the mornings. The paper reports there were 15,000 fans in the Railyard on Saturday evening, watching a game that began at 9:30! And, of course, there were that many at the game, too, even though it was in California. We went to bed after that punt return, figuring that at 21-2, it was safe.

Anyway, it's fun to live in a college town, just as you folks in Wayne would say, I'm sure. There is always something going on. And a trip to an ice cream shop that is almost 100 years old is quite a treat! They even have "happy hour," when one of the specialties is on sale. And today, they were advertising breakfast ice cream; ice cream topped with one of your favorite cold cereals! Wonder who thought that one up?

Grain bin safety encouraged during harvest

Grain bin safety is a high priority with more on-farm storage than ever before.

Aside from using the machinery safely, as you would with other farm equipment, injuries and fatalities can occur from grain engulfment. According to researchers at Purdue University, more than 900 cases of grain engulfment have been reported with a fatality rate of 62 percent in the past 50 years. In 2010, at least 26 U.S. workers were killed in grain engulfments – the highest number on record.

When one thinks of grain bin hazards, entrapment most often is the first thing that comes to mind – and with good reason. It takes less than five seconds to become helplessly trapped in flowing grain and less than 30 seconds to become fully engulfed. Identifying and understanding bin hazards is vital to keeping you and others safe.

Below is a list of some of the more common and hazardous situations that can occur when working with grain bins:

Flowing grain – Entrapment is the most often identified hazard and cause of injury when working with flowing grain. Like quicksand, flowing grain will pull a 165-pound man down to waist level in seconds and bury him in less than a minute. Most experts agree that once you have grain above your knees, there's almost no chance of escape without assistance.

Bridged grain – A grain bridge is a hardened, crust-like mass of grain that contains a cavity or pocket underneath. Caused by out-of-conditioned grain or prolonged periods of freezing temperatures, this inconspicuous hazard is a death trap for any worker. Never enter the bin to "walk the grain." Instead, break up the grain using a long pole from outside the bin. (I believe this is what happened in a fatal accident in Laurel a few weeks ago.)

Crusted grain – Like bridged grain, crusted grain is often caused by high-moisture content. But instead of forming a grain bridge, the grain sticks to the bin walls. If a worker enters the bin to break the grain free, the grain can "avalanche" and completely engulf and suffocate the worker. Again, using a long pole from outside the bin is the best and safest way to break up the grain.

But grain bin hazards aren't limited to entrapment or engulfment. Other, equally-hazardous situations include augers, bin collapses, Power Take-Offs (PTOs), fires and explosions, toxic atmospheres, electrical components and even ladders. Large crop anticipated for 2014 fall harvest Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA) Director Greg Ibach is calling attention to recent estimates for a large harvest and encouraging producers and agribusinesses to exercise care as they begin what is generally the busiest time of the year for agriculture.

"We anticipate having a record high soybean harvest this year, as well as one of the best average yields for corn, according to the USDA forecast," Ibach said. "As farmers and agriculture businesses gear up, I urge folks to keep safety at the forefront and try to plan ahead as much as possible to relieve some stress as this busy season gets even busier."

Ibach said favorable rains through much of the season have helped boost yield outlook. Late season moisture allowed producers in some areas to end irrigation early, but also could play into the necessity for producers to utilize more propane to assist them in drying their crops down to the proper moisture content levels. The fall and winter of 2013 saw a sharp price increase in propane as that industry worked on delivery and infrastructure issues. Ibach is hopeful the coming fall and winter won't hold similar problems.

"The leadership of the Nebraska Energy Office and I continue to stay in contact concerning the availability and costs of propane for our crop and livestock producers and our coops," Ibach said. "From current reports, I am hopeful that Nebraska is in a better position in terms of propane availability than we were last season. However, folks should make sure they are planning ahead."

Ibach also has made it a point to reach out to representatives of both of Nebraska's main railroads regarding concerns about grain movement. The Upper Plains states have had particular difficulty with rail access, as far back as last harvest season.

A variety of issues have contributed to problems with train car and locomotive availability and price increases, Ibach said, although indications are that Nebraska is not facing as big of an issue as the Dakotas.

"Officials from both Union Pacific and BNSF Railway told me they have taken steps they believe will ease concerns in Nebraska," Ibach said. "We pledged during our conversations to stay in touch as the harvest season gears up."

Rural Pride summit scheduled for Sept. 19 at WSC

Anyone interested in learning more about federal government resources will have an opportunity to speak with national and state government leaders during the Rural-Pride Summit, Sept. 19.

The forum will open discussion on resources available for lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) Americans. The summit is being held at Gardner Auditorium on the Wayne State College campus. Welcome and Remarks will begin at 10 a.m. and will envision contributions of the LGBT community to the future of rural areas of the country.

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Office of the Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights and the Nebraska Center for Lesbian Rights (NCLR) have come together to bring a one-day Rural-Pride Summit to select sites across the country informing rural lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) Americans of the federal government resources available for LGBT citizens.

Those who want to attend (free admission) may do so. If you want to also register for the event, do so by going to www.eventbrite.com/e/usda-lgbt-rural-summit-series-wayne-ne-tickets-12151939779. Lunch is at capacity, but the sessions are open to the campus and the public, with or without registration.

National and state government leaders are scheduled to attend and/or participate.

After the summit a documentary will be shown called "Out In The Silence," which is a film about LGBT life in rural America.
