Art, science, preschool highlight meeting

By CLARA OSTEN Of the Herald

Wayne Elementary School will have an official art program thanks to action taken during Monday's meeting of the Wayne Board of Education.

Sonya Tompkins, who has been providing art classes to the students for the past year in a volunteer capacity, was hired to teach the classes. She will receive $2,500 per semester for her work. The money will come from the Grade Funding Account, which is designed for this type of activity.

Science teachers Dave Wragge and Lisa Janke presented information to the board on the science curriculum and resources they are using in their classrooms. Both expressed appreciation to the board for the purchase of the text books being used in the classroom.

terials allow them to teach materials required to meet those who are not being served," Lenihan said. state standards.

Discussion was also held on early childhood education for the district. Several members of the board, along with Superintendent Mark Lenihan, will work together in the coming weeks to investigate possible locations and other details necessary for the district to provide a preschool to the patrons of the district.

It was noted that while there are a number of preschools in the community, there are several barriers that prevent all preschool-age children from attending. These include cost, transportation to and from school and language.

It is also a goal for the state of Nebraska that all four-year olds have access to early childhood education.

Our goal is to educate cated at the cross walk from 7:30-8 a.m. each school meeting date, due to a conflict for Lenihan.

More information on the topic will be presented to the board at its next meeting.

Wayne Community Schools Foundation director Lindsay McLaughlin reported to the board on the recent alumni tailgate event, stating that it went well and the foundation plans to hold a similar event next year. McLaughlin thanked those in the community for their support of the event.

The board gave its approval to a draft of a joint letter the district and the city of Wayne plan to send to the Nebraska Department of Roads in regard to a traffic study for Seventh Street that runs past both Wayne Junior-Senior High School and St. Mary's Elementary day morning, and again for one-half hour after school each day. He also told the board that approximately two man hours are devoted to traffic control around Wayne Elementary School each day.

Travis Meyer, director of maintenance, told the board that the district has begun having a staff member lo-

Meyer also updated the board on repair and maintence work being completed at Wayne Elementary School in the coming days.

Lenihan presented option enrollment figures for the district for the 2014-2015 school year and noted the numbers are slightly different this year, due to families who were affected by tornadoes in the area in June. Several of these families are living within the Wayne school district, but have chosen to remain a part of their former districts.

The board will next meet in regular session on Wednesday, Nov. 12 at 5 p.m. at the junior -senior high school library. This a date change from the normal

Brodersen: Wayne's 'Guitar Hero'

Local native leads progressive rock band Perceptionist

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

It's not easy to make a guitar sound

When five-year-old Riley Brodersen was given his first guitar, he couldn't play it very well and the terrible sounds that came from his efforts made him want to do anything but play it.

Today, the 21-year-old Wayne High graduate not only plays guitar wonderfully, but is making a career out of it as the leader of a progressive heavy metal band called Perceptionist.

It wasn't until he was almost a teenager, thanks to some encouragement from his parents, Jill and Doug, that he started to enjoy playing the instrument.

"I was terrible at it and it sounded terrible, so it wasn't any fun," he said. "I didn't pick it up again until I was 12 and I was still terrible at it, but mom and dad got me to pick it up again and I was able to play a couple of songs and then it started being fun."

Brodersen enjoyed listening to his dad's collection of heavy metal from the 70's and 80's, enjoying bands like Black Sabbath and AC/DC, and eventually he grew to enjoy the music and started his first band while still in high school.

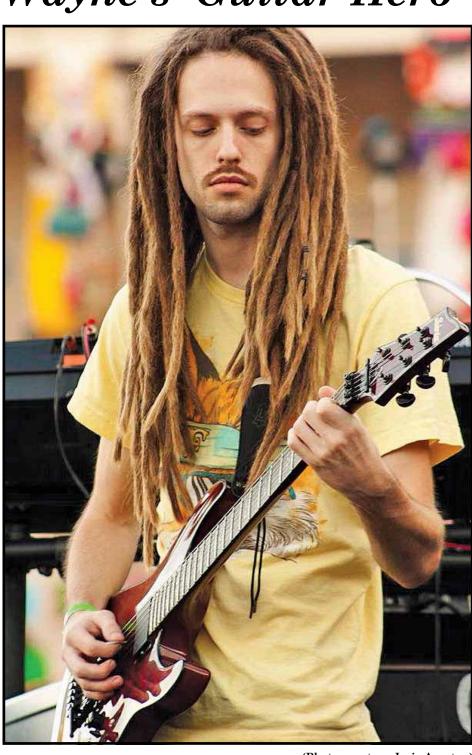

Enlisting the talents of a couple of high school buddies, Brodersen brought his guitar – and younger brother, Ezra, who played bass guitar ("He didn't really have a choice," the elder Brodersen brother said) - they recorded a couple of song and posted them on MySpace.

"Looking back, it was terrible music and unorganized, but it was fun," he said. "Once we got more serious, we formed Glasgow Smile with a singer and a different drummer, and it was me on guitar and Ezra on bass."

Brodersen's interest in music developed to the point where, he said, he never could envision himself actually going to college

County will repair, not replace, bridge

City annexation of airport, future runway expansion plans discussed

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

When the City of Wayne annexed the Stan Morris Airport earlier this year, it unknowingly took on ownership of a bridge that was damaged in last year's tornado.

Mayor Ken Chamberlain, city administrator Lowell Johnson, four City Council members and representatives of the Wayne Airport Authority met with the Wayne County Commissioners in a special meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Wayne City Auditorium to determine what the best approach would be to deal with the broken

The bridge serves a number of farmers in the area, and has created an inconvenience for those individuals since it has been closed. Prior to the city's annexation, the county had engineering work done on the bridge to determine what it would cost to either fix, or replace, the bridge. "When the city annexed the airport, we neglected to walk around the perimeter and found this bridge," Johnson told the county board. "Now, we each have half a bridge and we need to work with you on that." County board member Randy Larson said the bridge had been inspected by the county

prior to the Oct. 4, 2013 tornado, and some damage was noted during that inspection. An inspection done after the storm noted additional damage. He said that the county had intended to replace the bridge, but everything was put on hold once the city annexed the airport.

The county was to receive about $96,000 in Federal Emergency Management Agency funds, which would cover most of the costs for repairing the bridge. An estimate on replacing the bridge was quoted at around $537,000, which raised the concerns of the city and Airport Authority officials.

Airport Authority board member Todd Luedtke said that the board is looking at long-range plans that would include expansion of the current north-south runway that would allow bigger twin-engine planes to land at the Wayne airport, and that the road may have to be closed years down the road to make that expansion possible.

"There's more than a 50-50 chance that the road may be closed sometime down the road, and I wouldn't want to spend $500,000 on a bridge that we'll have to close down later," he said.

Blue Devils open state with victory

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

HASTINGS - It's always important to get off to a good start on the first day of a state tournament, and Wayne's start Wednesday couldn't have gone much better.

The Blue Devils sent 13 batters to the plate, hit two home runs and blasted state tournament first-timers Central City for nine runs on seven hits in the opening inning, and Hannah Belt scattered two hits and two walks in five innings to help topseeded Wayne to an 11-2 blowout win over the Bison in the first round of the Class C State Softball Championships.

Verna Mae Creamer

Verna Mae Creamer, 87, of Wayne, died Wednesday, Oct. 8, 2014 at Providence Medical Center in Wayne.

Services were held Monday, Oct. 13 at First United Methodist Church in Wayne. The Rev. Pete Phillips of-

was born at home in Wayne on Dec. 26, 1926 to Tully and Hattie (Young) Straight. Verna attended Wayne County schools and graduated from Wayne High School in 1944. She attended Wayne State Teacher's College for one year and taught in a country school. Verna married Duane Creamer on June 9, 1946. The couple made their first home on a farm near Concord where they raised hogs, milked cows and grew corn and beans. While living there two sons, Warren and Gregory, were born as well as a daughter, Diane. In 1963 the family moved to a farm west of Wayne, feeding cattle and hogs and raising row crops. A third son, David, arrived while living on the farm near Wayne. In 1973 Duane and Verna moved to their own farm northwest of Carroll. The couple took many wonderful trips together to places like Hawaii, Jamaica, Nassau, San Diego, Orlando and Colorado. In 1982, Verna and Duane moved from the farm to a new home in Wayne. Verna was a homemaker who loved her family, baked great cinnamon rolls and tried to keep the cookie jar full. She was a great seamstress, read books and worked crossword puzzles. Verna enjoyed a lively talk about politics; and she was most recently an avid fan of the Kansas City Royals and the Huskers, watching most of their games on television. Verna was a member of the United Methodist Church and the United Methodist Women. She was a past member of the Central Social Circle.

Survivors include two sons, Warren and wife Eunice and Gregory, and daughter, Diane and husband, Kevin Peters, all of Wayne and son, David, of Omaha; three granddaughters: Amy (Ray) Rutland, Lisa Ritter and Laura Creamer of Omaha, and two great-grandchildren, Phoenix and Dominic Ritter; a sister, Virginia Dranselka and sister-in-law, Pat Straight of Wayne; brother-in-law, Larry and Reva Creamer of Olathe, Kan.; four sisters-in-law, Faunia and Paul Dewitt of Gering, Judy and Gary Kruger of Reno, Nev., Leola and Charles Morton of Cody, Wyo. and Rosemary and Harry Ley of Cody, Wyo.; and many nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband of nearly 66 years, Duane; her brothers Tully (Evelyn) Straight, Jr, Wayne (Nell) Straight and Lloyd Straight, her parents and grandparents, parents-in-law Herman and Martha Rieth, brothers-in-law LeRoy (Marilyn) Creamer and Marvin

Active pallbearers were Tom Straight, Scott Straight, David Creamer, Doug Straight, Rick Straight, Don Straight, Ryan Creamer and Kevin

"My sophomore year in high school, we had to do a presentation on potential colleges that we might be interested in going to, and I was searching for some music colleges and found Musicians Institute," he said. "From then on, I knew I wanted to go there. It really sparked my interest to get a degree and so something more than just being a guy playing guitar."

His band back home, Glasgow Smile, had just finished recording their first album three days before Brodersen hit the road for Los Angeles, Calif., to go to school at Musicians Institute. He met up with two brothers from Italy who had a similar interest in progressive rock, and after finding a singer and a bass player, the band Perceptionist was born late in 2011.

Brodersen's interest in progressive rock was born from listening to his dad's collection of albums from such hard-rock pioneers as Black Sabbath and Led Zeppelin. Before moving to California, his interest had expanded to darker-sounding metal, and bands like Human Abstract and Between The Buried And Me further inspired his interests.

"The musicianship in progressive rock is incredible, which is something I enjoy," he said. "Some of my favorite albums I didn't like cess is one of the more enjoyable students, and it's really a lot of fun, the first time I heard them, but the songs are very deep and it's not something you can listen to once and it just clicks. Some albums I've listened to hundreds of times, and I still discover things I hadn't heard before. It's a unique style and a unique experience."

"I don't like dealing with it a lot, even though I do most of it for the band," he said, including booking shows, updating the band's social media pages and selling music and memorabilia online. "It's a lot of work, but it's something I've had to adapt to because we're not a superhuge band and our budget is really

The band put out its self-titled debut album in late August, an effort that included a lot of collaboration between Brodersen and the other members of the five-man band.

"Most of the songs were written by me, our old guitar player and our in his career – teaching music. He drummer," he said. "Our vocalist wrote some of the screaming parts and our drummer has a really good ear for lyrics, and I'll write the gui-

"When I write a part, a lot of times I don't even have a guitar in my hand," he said. "I'll be driving down the road and hear something in my head, and I know what notes I want for the song beforehand. Brodersen learned a lot while I'll give it to the drummer and he we go into the studio and rehearse from there."

> Brodersen said the initial response to the band's 10-song debut album has been very positive, which has been enjoyable for him to expe-

> "It's been selling pretty good, which is kind of surprising for a first album," he said. "We've been getting orders from the U.K. and Saudi Arabia and we've received a lot of positive reception to it. I've had a number of fans tell me it's one of their favorite albums, which is pretty amazing to hear."

> One thing Brodersen has really enjoyed is something he never expected he'd be doing at this point teaches for two music schools in Los Angeles, going to students' homes and spending 30 or 60 minutes with them on their instrument.

He's even getting to see his younger brother, Ezra, become quite the musician in his own right. He is finishing his degree at Musicians Institute, and the two brothers are actually playing together in an 80's cover band called – believe it or not – The Receptionists.

"It's actually three of us in Perceptionist and him playing together in a spin-off of the band, and it's really fun," Brodersen said. "(Ezra) is insanely good as a bass player and can play a lot of different styles, and it's neat to see how hard he works."

Brodersen is hoping that Perceptionist continues to develop and grow as a band, and he and the other band members are working on material for their second album.

"We're at a point where, if we could get on a tour and get some exposure, that would be big, especially in this genre of music," he said. "That exposure is invaluable and hopefully we can keep building our fan base and maybe get on a big tour sometime soon.'

Kemnitz honored

Governor Dave Heineman announced the recipients of this year's 'Be Prepared' awards, recognizing volunteers and community organizations for excellence in emergency preparedness and disaster response. One of those honored was Wayne County Emergency Manager Nicholas Kemnitz (pictured), who received the 2014 Local Hero Award. The award recognizes extraordinary service and leadership in helping residents in an emergency situation. Kemnitz was honored for his work during the 2013 Wayne Tornado, as well as during severe weather situations that hit the area again this past summer.

Braden said that Sioux City's airport received damage earlier this summer when straight-line winds hit the area, and some of the hangars at that airport are not being rebuilt, which means some pilots are looking at places like Wayne to bring their aircraft to.

"These are twin-engine planes that need longer runways," she said. "We have everything full right now and have had calls to put twinengine planes here, as well as requests for fuel."

Chamberlain said that, in speaking with some City Council members, the prevailing thought was that it would be better to repair the bridge, rather than replace it, with the idea that the runway expansion would happen a number of years down the road.

"That's a half-million dollars that can be better used somewhere else," he said. "I think everybody is in favor of repairing the bridge the way it was. A $500,00 bridge wasn't something we planned for."

Larson said that the bridge would occur on Tuesday, Oct. 21.

have traffic on it if it were repaired or replaced, as a number of area farmers are forced to spend more time detouring around the closed bridge to get to their fields. If the county and city did go ahead with repairing the bridge, most of that cost would be picked up through the FEMA money received as a result of the tornado.

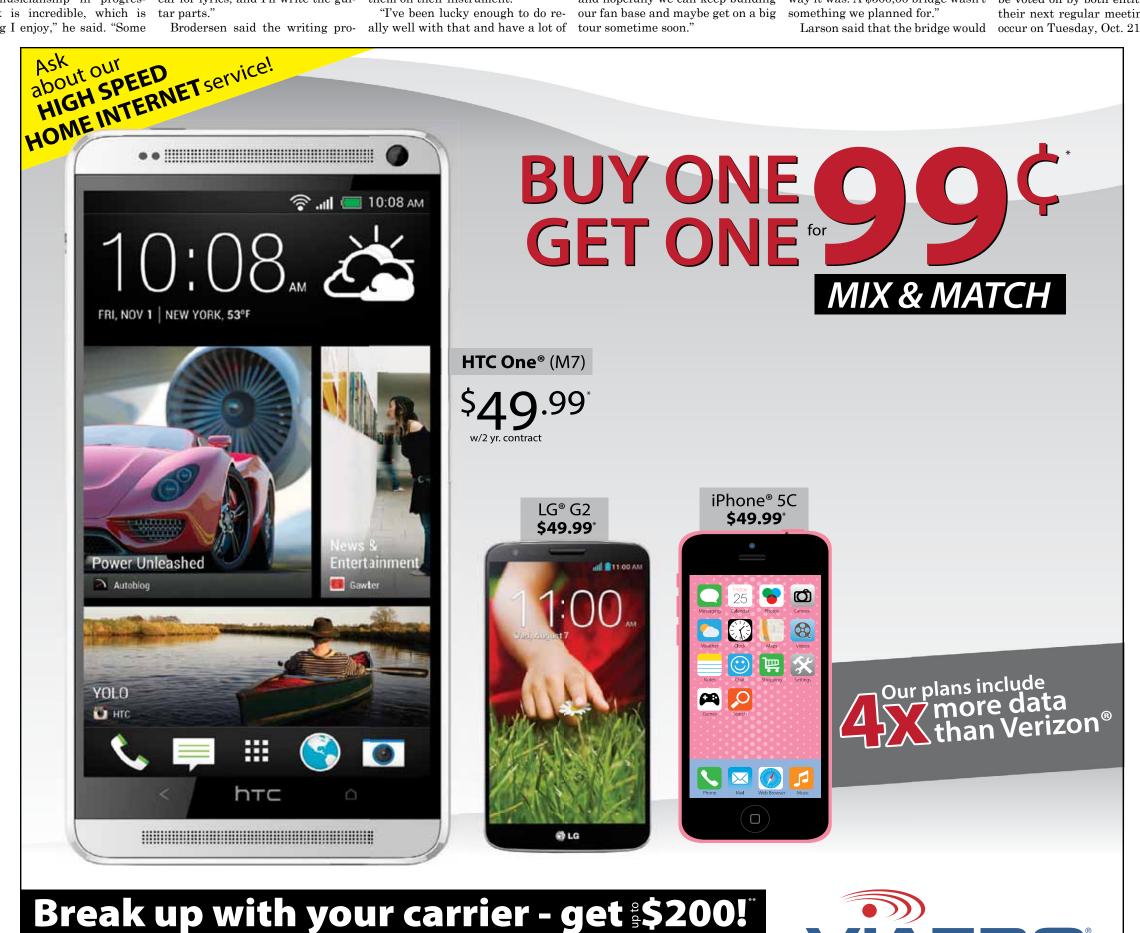

The county board and city officials agreed that the remaining costs, including engineering costs, could be split between the two entities, Jeff Wagner of Mainelli and Associates said the engineering costs for the bridge were at $28,680, and Chamberlain said he thought the Council would approve the splitting of those

The county board approved a resolution to split the costs with the city, and an interlocal agreement will be drawn up between the city and county stating the terms of the agreement. That agreement would be voted on by both entities during their next regular meetings, which

Impressed with play of softballers

Random thoughts as I get ready for three days (hopefully) of fun in the sun at state softball:

- I'm going to be honest with you: I'm pleasantly surprised that the Wayne High softball team has had the season they have had.

Last year's state runner-up team was an outstanding team, but one that was filled with veteran leaders who graduated this past spring. There were a lot of holes to fill coming into this season, and it's been quite the impressive coaching job Rob Sweetland and his staff have done to get the Blue Devils back to Hastings.

When you look at this year's starting lineup, there is only one constant in the starting nine, and that is sophomore pitcher Hannah Belt. The right-handed hurler has been outstanding this season, throwing for more than 200 strikeouts this season and posting an opponents' batting average of just .199.

Of course, she's not the only returning starter. The other three returnees are playing different positions this season, however. Two of them moved in to positions held down by senior leaders a year ago (Danica Schaefer from center field to catcher and Abbie Hix from second base to shortstop), and Kiara Hochstein moved over from right field to center.

That leaves five positions filled by players who, one year ago at this time, were either bench players on the varsity, JV players or junior high students.

Playing in the Dirt Devils program has proven to be a big help for these young kids, and the result of that is that, while still young and level, they have played the game enough to be able to grow into their positions a little faster than those who didn't play summer ball.

At the beginning of the year, if you'd have offered to bet your next paycheck that this team would win 27 games, a conference title, finish as district runner-up and be the top seed in the state tournament, I'd have taken that bet in a second and would be REALLY empty in the wallet right about now.

This is one of those times where I'm completely happy to admit that my initial observations were well off

- Speaking of well off the mark, I'm actually kind of surprised nobody from the nuthouse had stopped by to fit me for a backwards jacket after last week's column suggesting that Wayne High's football team could still make the playoffs.

Of course, the column was written somewhat tongue in cheek, knowing full well that Norfolk Catholic (as well as this week's foes from Boone Central/Newman Grove) are playing at another level right now and that Wayne's chances at beating one, never mind two, were slim at best. But you know what? That's part of the magic of high school sports sometimes, you catch lightning in a bottle and somebody pulls off an upset that nobody thought would happen. Sometimes, it's better to dare to dream the impossible dream and have it come up short than to never dream at all and be content with your state of mediocrity.

The boys in blue gave the effort – even if it fell short. Maybe they can put a run in the Cardinals' stockings when they come to town this

Talk about a killer schedule.

Wayne State's volleyball team is playing in the big-girl division this weekend, no doubt about it. A game Tuesday at home against sixthranked Southwest Minnesota and a battle at No. 3 Concordia-St. Paul awaits on Saturday.

Don't fall asleep on that Friday game, though. Minnesota State is always a tough out at home and the Wildcats had better not be looking ahead to that Saturday battle against the seven-time D-2 champs.

Playing in windy conditions during both days of the two-day event at Quail Run Golf Club, coach Josh Johnson said the Blue Devils played through some tough situations and finished well to come away with a two-day total of 870, finishing just nine shots out of the top 10.

"The girls battled, and it was one of those things where they didn't play their best at times, but they fought through it," Johnson said. "Some of the girls played their best golf the last few holes. Holly Grosz finished bogey-par-bogey, so we battled to the end and that's kind of how this team has played this year."

A lot of Wayne's struggles came on the back nine, which Johnson said was tougher than the front

WEST POINT - Wayne High goes into the 2014 state softball tournament as the top seed, but they were hoping to go in as district champions as well.

The Blue Devils' hopes of running the table in the C-4 district tournament at Timmerman Park were sidetracked by the host team from Guardian Angels Central Catholic, as the Bluejays beat the Blue Devils two times in three games Friday to earn the district title, relegating Wayne to one of the two wild card slots in the eight team Class C state tournament that started Wednesday in Hastings.

The Blue Devils and Bluejays have gotten quite familiar with one another in the past two weeks. Wayne beat GACC in their regular-Oct. 2, and the teams split two days later in the Mid State Conference tournament, with Wayne winning the championship game.

"That first game is so critical as far as your pitching goes," Wayne coach Rob Sweetland said. "Our ofthe day, but by then she was out of gas. It was too bad that we couldn't support her earlier in the day.'

After striking out 10 and scatter ing three hits in the win over Pierce, Belt fanned eight Bluejays and limited them to five hits and a walk, but couldn't shut them down late in the game.

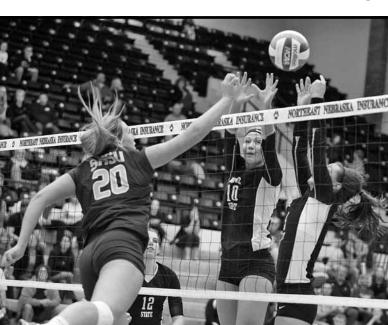

Wayne trailed 1-0 in the fourth when Ashten Gibson's RBI single brought home Abbie Hix, and the Blue Devils took a 2-1 lead in the fifth on Danica Schaefer's sacrifice fly, scoring Jamie Gamble.

The Bluejays tied the game in the bottom of the fifth, then led off the sixth with Yosten's solo shot, and that run would stand up to move Wayne into the losers bracket against Tekamah-Herman.

The Blue Devils struggled against Tigers' pitcher Carson Cameron, but gutted out a 3-1 win as Hix and Kortney Keller each had two hits and an RBI.

Hix brought the first run of the game home in the opening frame on an RBI single, scoring Schaefer. Keller followed with an RBI single in the third, scoring Schaefer again. Wayne got an insurance run in See FAMILIAR, Page 2B

It's a big weekend for the Wildcats as we get closer to those first regional rankings that come later this season. A win over at least one of those ranked foes - as well as at Mankato - would be a nice addition to their post-season resume.

- I probably won't be here to see it, but good luck to the Wayne High cross country teams as they host district competition on Thursday at the Wayne Country Club.

It was good to see freshman Marcella Jurotich in the lineup for conference last week. She's been battling through some tough injuries. and having her in the lineup is going to be a huge lift for the Blue Devil girls.

Last year, Wayne finished third in the state with two top-10 finishers. If Jurotich can stay up there with the front of the pack, it would give Wayne a better-than-average chance of not only winning districts, but possibly bringing home a trophy at state later this month in Kear-

Here's hoping both Blue Devil squads can finish in the top three on their home course and get both teams to state.

Trojans end homecoming skid, 54-12

Win ends six-year drought The Wakefield Trojans put an good combination."

emphatic end to six years of homecoming frustration by pounding the Plainview defense in a 54-12 win.

There was no secret to the Trojans' plan of attack against the visiting Pirates. Of their 64 offensive plays on the night, 56 were rushing attacks that helped them dominate the line of scrimmage, particularly in the second half.

"We want to run the football. It's our strength, period," coach Mike Hassler said. "Plainview stacked the box early and we still came out and took it straight down the field and scored. We really didn't even have to make many adjustments at half. They were wearing down, and it was a case of just taking it right at them and continuing to pound on

Wakefield marched the ball down the field on their first possession of the second half after Plainview scored to make it 16-12 at halftime. Levi Nelson, who finished with 143 vards on 26 carries, carried three Pirates over the goal line for the second of three touchdowns on the night to make it 24-12, and the rout

"The yards started to come in bigger chunks in the second half as our offensive line took over the game." Hassler said. "I love the way our line is playing right now and our backs run hard behind them. It's a

The game was close for much of the first half as the two teams traded scores through the first 24 min-

"Plainview showed us a couple of new things early that I felt we handled all right in the first half as we made adjustments on the run," Hassler said. "Once we got into half and talked to the boys and made some adjustments, we played an outstanding second half of defense. Once we stopped blitzing and allowed our inside backers to help pursue on the short passes, it really bottled up Plainview's offense in the second half. The thing I was must proud of was that we completely shut down their running game. When you can make a team one-dimensional it's always going to give you a good chance to win football games.'

Daniel Nuno scored on a pair of touchdowns later in the game and Jose Sanchez closed out the scoring to help the Trojans to their second first homecoming win since 2008.

"It had been five years, so it was time to celebrate a homecoming the right way again," he said. "It was, hands down, our best-executed game of the year from the opening kickoff to the final whistle.'

It was the first race of the year for Jurotich, a freshman who had been working hard to come back from a leg injury earlier in the season.

"I was really happy with the way she competed," Ruhl said. "I was ready to see her get back and have some fun out on the course, and she ran a great race. She's a really hard worker and trained hard while she was getting back, and she came out and did a great job for us."

On the boys side, Ben Hoskins and Luke Pulfer both earned top-15 finishes to help the Blue Devils while Pulfer was 13th in 17:41.

"We had some outstanding races for the boys," Ruhl said. "Ben did a good job once again, Luke was in the top 10 until the last 1,000 meters, and Nolan ran his best race of the year and just got nipped for that last medal. I think the boys are hitting their peak now and ran their best race, and hopefully we can have one more of those peak runs at

"It was nice to see our kids fight, they battled back and were down five and made some big runs and Liz served aggressive and was nice to see, but you can't play from behind against good teams," coach Scott Kneifl said after the game.

Southwest Minnesota was able to break away from a close match in the second set to tie it at 1-1, but the Wildcats came out of the break with some solid play at the net to build an early 8-4 advantage.

The lead was short-lived, however, as the Mustangs rode the quick hitting of Elisha Oden and the power of Abbey Thissen to turn that four-point deficit into a 20-14 lead. The Wildcats never got closer than four points the rest of the third set.

"We were ahead early in the third, and then you look up and we're digging ourselves a hole," Kneifl said. (Oden and Thissen) are phenomenal hitters and they were in system all night, and when you have those options and you're in system, you're going to look like

In the fourth set, Wayne State again had an 8-4 advantage on a kill by Hughes, but Southwest came back out of the time out and scored the next five points and never trailed the rest of the night.

"We look like that when we're passing in system, but tonight was probably the worst we've passed all year," Kneifl said. "It was a good game, and it was just unforrunate that we didn't play well tonight."

The Wildcats got a double-double from Hughes, who led the team in kills (15) and digs (23). Gebhardt added 13 kills and Frauendorfer had nine. Leisa McClintock recorded 41 saves. Defenisvely, VanGronigen had 19 digs and Michaela

The Wildcats continued their road dominance with a 25-12, 25-20, 25-12 win at Minot State on Saturday. Wayne State outhit the Beavers .265-.050 and had just eight errors on the night.

Gebhardt was nearly flawless with 13 kills in 20 attempts for a .650 hitting percentage. Mestl, Hughes and Frauendorfer each had seven kills. McClintock had 29 assists and five kills and Opperman had three

The Wildcats are on the road for a pair of tough conference matchups this weekend, going to Minnesota State on Friday and third-ranked Concordia-St. Paul

"We have two really tough ones this weekend, and every game in this league is important," Kneifl said. "We'll get back to work and try to get better."

Instead, the Eagles came out flat and got rolled by the visiting Blue Devils, as Wynot dominated the first half on their way to an easy 62-22 win at Allen Field.

Uldrich said he knew the Blue Devils would be a tough opponent, but his team just didn't respond to the challenge.

"We played with no energy, overran several plays, didn't communicate well offensively and did not execute," he said. "Add to that the physical game that Wynot brought, and it was easy to see what the game was never a game.'

The Blue Devils jumped out to a 24-0 lead after one period and had the Eagles playing catch-up from then on. Allen slowed the bleeding momentarily when Caleb Thomas scored on a 13-yard run. Brian Boese's two-point run made it a 24-8 game midway through the second That's as close as Allen would get. Wynot racked up 30 points in the final seven minutes of the half to take a 54-8 halftime lead. Boese and Thomas both scored on short touchdown runs, but it wasn't enough for the 3-3 Eagles.

Allen had just 163 yards in total offense on the night, compared to Wynot's 326. Boese had 95 yards on 26 carries and Thomas added 67 vards on 14 tries to lead the offensive effort.

The Wildcat defense returned a fumble for a touchdown and used an interception to set up another as the Wildcats scored 30 unanswered points to pull away with an easy 54-14 win over Concordia-St. Paul in NSIC South Division action here

The Wildcats scored on four of their first six possessions to build a 31-14 halftime advantage, then got a scoop-and-score fumble return by Nick Monzu as part of a 20-point third period that helped turn the game into a blowout for the 4-2 Wildcats. Wayne State's first series of the game may have been its most impressive, as they marched 96 yards in 15 plays to score on a one-yard run by Ryan Ludlow.

The Wildcats would get a Tyler Lindsay field goal and the first of two rushing touchdowns from Lane Yates to make it 17-0 before the Golden Bears got on the board with a 36-yard touchdown pass from Jared Russo to Jimmy Mireri.

After Cole McDaniel caught a 35-yard strike from Zach Osborn, the Golden Bears found the end zone in the closing minutes of the first half on a 12-yard pass from Russo to Cordell Smith to make it would get the rest of the day.

The Wildcats quickly moved down Field in Memorial Stadium. the field to put another score in the end zone right before halftime, as Adam Stark caught a 16-yard pass from Osborn with:07 to go before intermission to make it a 31-14 game.

Yates scored his second touchdown on a 34-yard run, and 13 seconds later, Monzu picked up a Golden Bear fumble and ran 27 yards to make it 44-14. Chase Samuel intercepted a Concordia pass on their next play from scrimmage to set up the Wildcats inside the Golden Bear 15-yard line, and McDaniel caught his second score of the day from 12 yards out to make it 51-14 with 10:36 to go in the third and put the game out of reach.

Wayne State racked up 555 yards in total offense, with Osborn going 30-of-45 for 361 yards and three scores. McDaniel caught seven balls for 101 yards and Stark had eight for 84 yards to lead the Wildcat receivers. Yates went over 100 yards for the first time in his college career, finishing with 121 yards on 12

Defensively, Nate Kroupa led the Wildcats with a career-best 10 tackles while John Davis had eight and Monzu had six. Samuel and De-Wayne Scott picked off passes as the Wildcats forced three Golden Bear turnovers on the day.

Online legal services, buying a business and 'doing books'

I personally have never used an online services to file for a business service such as an LLC. That being said, many of my clients have used these services successfully. The one common opinion was that the cost of these services, such as filing an LLC, seemed to be substantially higher as compared to filing an LLC yourself directly with the State of Nebraska. The State of Nebraska seems

The State of Nebraska requires specific information concerning your company such as agent name and address, but has no required form. This requires the filer to review and read State statues and laws on the Secretary of State's website on the specific information required to correctly file. In my opinion, this requirement may intimidate filers, leading them to an online service for the convenience and know how, to file for their LLC. Unfortunately, this convenience comes with a high-

ACTUALLY, I WAS

GOING TO ASK

YOU THE SAME

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes Managing Editor

A tasty way to make an announcement

Here are some more thoughts, observations and other random ramblings from the "Bits and Pieces" file:

- The most-asked question I've been getting lately has been about my

My daughter called last week to let me know that she's having an "announcement party" after they go in for an ultrasound the first Friday in November. She said they're not going to actually TELL us what gender the baby will be, but will make the "announcement" by way of a cake she said she is baking. The color of said cake – blue or pink – will tell us what we can expect next March.

Somebody asked if I would be attending this party, which seems a silly question to ask, because – as you are probably already aware – I LOVE

- From the "It's scary to think what this guy does when he misses a three-foot putt for par" department: A man in New York was arrested after using his pickup to do more than $50,000 in damage to a local golf

The reason for this man's act of vandalism? Simple, really - his girl-

The man was released on bail, but wound up back in jail when it was discovered he had torn up a practice area at another nearby golf course, which only goes to prove that love and golf don't mix.

- From "Why the Detroit Lions will never win a Super Bowl and other acts of athletic-related stupidity" department: Lions linebacker Stephen Tulloch recently tried to mimic Green Bay quarterback Aaron Rodgers' "Discount Double Check" act after sacking the Packers quarterback. He executed the move – and then blew out his ACL, ending his season.

Oh, and then a couple of weeks later, teammate Joseph Fauria missed a few games after spraining his ankle – while chasing after his family's puppy after it peed on the floor in his house.

But we're not through yet (sorry, Lions fans) – a Lions fan has been permanently banned from all future home games because he was flashing a laser pointer at members of the Buffalo Bills during their game in Detroit recently. The guy obviously didn't do a very good job at distracting the opposition – the Bills beat the Lions, 17-14.

Ladies and gentlemen – these are your 2014 Detroit Lions.

- Staying in the sports department, here's one from the "Because you can never have enough toilet humor" department: - officials with the Goldin Mission Bay, Calif., as "a work in progress."

Manica Architecture recently presented the design of the new 18,000-seat arena to a citizens advisory committee, and it looks like – well, let's be honest here -a toilet bowl. The only thing that's missing is the flush handle.

Of course, for a lot of years, the Warriors have been in the toilet when it comes to wins and losses. They haven't been to the NBA finals in 40 years and, only recently, have begun to be competitive and make the playoffs.

It goes without saying that the final construction plans have yet to be, uh, flushed out. There's more to say, but I don't want to be accused of being a "potty" mouth. (I'm here all week, tip your waitress and try the veal.)

- A California man was busted in a prostitution sting that, to say the

It's unusual because the 88-year-old man is not only the pimp – but the 'service" as well. And to make it even more ridiculously true, his callers were all 20-something women.

The tip-off for police was seeing the guy standing on a corner on Hollywood Boulevard with a sign reading "I'm for sale." He charged the women five bucks and gave them free lollipops afterward.

Only in California, folks.

- Authorities in Lincoln are on the lookout for some really strange thieves who stole – brace yourselves – speed bumps from the entrance to

I think I might have located those speed bumps – they've been inverted and turned into potholes on a county road west of Winside.

- Annnnnd finally, here's this little health tip: the next time somebody passes wind in your presence, you might want to thank them for saving

Scientists at the University of Exeter have determined that smelling, ummm, the remnants of somebody's noxious emissions could reduce the risks of diseases such as cancer, stroke, arthritis and even dementia.

TERM LIMITS RESULTS

IN LARGE NUMBERS OF INEXPERIENCED

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

Nebraska is one of 14 states where the toxic fallout of term limits will wreak havoc in November's general election. There could be as many as 17 new faces in the 49-member Nebraska Unicameral and many of them will turn to "veterans" with a whopping six years under their belts for advice.

In addition, this fledgling body will deal with the first new Governor in 10 years and that person will be a true freshman. Sounds like a football analogy waiting to happen. OK, I'll go there. Expect the new quarterback to drop the ball a few times and to throw more than his share of incompletes.

And don't look to the bench for the only grizzled veteran, Ernie Chambers. With more than 40 years in the game, he'll be in the middle of the action. He'll be the playmaker – as usual – and the other players will be trying to find ways to contain him. Interesting to note, it's all because of term limits. And, unless you haven't been paying attention, somebody once thought that term limits was a good way to get rid of

In the 14 states with term limits, 13 of them have two houses in the Legislature. Including Nebraska, there are 63 state senators termedout, or 19 percent of the 331 total state senate seats up for election. Likewise, there are 160 state representatives termed-out, or 12.7 percent of the 1,261 seats up for election in the other 13 states. The 223 current state legislators who must leave office represent 14 percent of the 14 term-limited states.

With all of the storm damage in northeast Nebraska in mind, I asked the Government Military and Veterans Affairs Committee to go ahead and have hearings on LR527. On Friday, Oct. 24, there will be a hearing at 1:30 p.m. in room 1507 of the State Capitol. To make the process more accessible, there will be an additional committee hearing on Wednesday, Oct. 29 at 1 p.m. in the City Council chambers at City Hall in South Sioux City. Both of these hearings are open to the public (this means you), and, in particular, to officials from all communities that have suffered recent storm damage. The State Senators representing Dixon, Stanton, Cuming and Burt counties have also been invited to attend It is my hope that anyone needing to deal with these two government agencies would gain valuable information and insight from these hearings. Youth Mentor Hunt

Young hunters and their mentors walk through the tall switch grass, hoping to locate a pheasant during Sunday's Youth Mentor Hunt.

Tall grass made for ideal cover for the pheasants and slightly difficult walking for the hunters, their mentors and the dogs they took along on the hunt.

All smiles after bagging a pheasant were (left) Cameron Muhs, 13, Reith Korth, 12, Colton Vovos, 11 and Tyler Reinhardt, 11. The four were part of the annual Youth Mentor Hunt, sponsored by the Logan Creek Chapter of Pheasants Forever.

Part of Sunday's activities included the opportunity to shoot with bow and arrows.

ants Forever held its 15th annual Youth Mentor Hunt this past weekend at Izaak Walton Lake and Thompson/ Barnes Wildlife Management Area northwest of Wayne. Eighteen youth some information before the hunt got from northeast Nebraska ranging in age from 11 to 15 participated in this year's hunt.

The day began at noon with check-in, followed by a hot dog lunch that was provided by Wimmer's Meat Products of West Point.

During the check-in process, the youth had to show their Hunter Safety Card, which they obtained by taking a 10-hour course provided free of charge by Nebraska Game and Parks Commission. After that, the kids picked up their hunting vest, which is theirs to keep, provided courtesy of Nebraska state Pheasants Forever and Nebraska Game and Parks. They were also given blaze orange hats provided by the Logan Creek Chapter.

The youth were then split into four groups, and each kid was paired up with an adult volunteer "mentor" and Ed Brogie. The day finished up with a took turns throughout the afternoon at bird-cleaning demonstrated by some of six educational stations. This was the first time for some of these kids at shooting or even holding Lutt Oil. a shotgun. So the most important order of business for the day was the safe Creek Pheasants Forever Chapter 303, handling and use of the gun. Dr. Melissa Heithold gave the kids started on how to best care for type of dogs that they would be hunting with A habitat talk from Russ Hamer with Nebraska Game and Parks provided the kids some useful information on a day in the life of a pheasant and the different types of habitat that a pheasant is looking for during the day, and also what they look for throughout the different seasons of the year.

Duane Schroeder taught the kids about asking permission from landowners to hunt, and then did a roleplay activity for the kids to experience all different types of responses to their asking. The leader of the Sharp Shooters 4-H Club, Darin Greunke, had an air rifle range set up for the kids to try their skills at shooting targets from different ranges. The final event of the day was an archery target shoot, taught by the mentors, and refreshments which were provided by Kory Leseberg and

Trick-or-treaters who rush from house to house also may increase their risk of slipping or falling, or being involved in a motor vehicle-pedestrian accident. Parents can, however, take steps to reduce their child's risk with these holiday safety tips:

- Choose a costume that fits. Extra fabric, extra length, over-sized sleeves or wearing parents' shoes can increase a child's risk of tripping or falling.

Choose flame-retardant costume fabrics and accessories (like a wig or mask).

- Minimize accessories - too many extras can be distracting. And, when choosing accessories, think safety first. Substitute a soft fabric sword for a heavier wooden one with a sharp tip.

 Fit mask or substitute make-up or Halloween face paint. Keep their parents check them over.

 Plan to accompany your child. Encourage them to walk, not run; stay on sidewalks and not cut across yards; cross at intersections, preferably with a light, and never dart between cars. Staying in your own or a familiar neighborhood, stopping only at houses that are well lit and saying 'No' to an invitation to go into a house or apartment also are recommended.

 Sort candy. Discard any candy that looks as if it may have been opened or tampered with.

- Enjoy the holiday sweets, but encourage common sense. Store candy out of sight and allow children to choose it as dessert or an occasional snack.

Marilyn Wallin presented a program on the northern colony of New Hampshire founded in 1639. Concord would become one of the larger cities. The land was known for its mountains, being compared to the Swiss Alps, its rivers and its trees, but with mostly rocky soil. The Granite State is one of it's nicknames, the purple lilac its flower and the state bird is the purple finch. There were 125 shipbuilding vards by 1750, with many of the ships being sold to England.

Whaling and fishing also provided a good income. Wool and flax were used in the textile business. Blacksmiths made silverware and other items for the home. New Hampshire became a State on June 21, 1788.

The next meeting of the group will be Oct. 27 and will be hosted by Twila Lindsay at the Wayne Senior Center. Her topic will be the Colony of Georgia.

The program for the day was given by Pat Straight about the novel "Pride and Prejudice." It was first published in 1813 and has consistently been Jane Austen's most popular novel. The story follows the main character. Elizabeth Bennet. as she deals with issues of manners, upbringing, morality, education and marriage in a society of the landed gentry of early 19th century

England.

She is the second of five daughters of a country gentleman living near the fictional town of Mervton in Hertfordshire, near London. This is about a 19th century England romantic story of the rebellious Elizabeth Bennet, a strong-willed young woman and Mr. Darcy, a mysterious and arrogant wealthy man. Her unwillingness to marry him threatens the future of her family. Elizabeth and Darcy marry each other on equal terms after breaking each others' "pride" and "prejudice" and Austen clearly leaves the reader with the impression that the two will be the happiest.

Several movies have been made of Pride and Prejudice, the most recent in 2005.

The next meeting of Acme Club members will be Monday, Oct. 20 at 2 p.m. at Tacos & More. The guest speaker will have the program.

Advice offered on storing wet corn

Ken Hellevang, North Dakota State University Extension Service agricultural engineer and professor in NDSU's Agricultural and Biosystems Engineering Department. Much more information can be found by going to CropWatch, the University of Nebraska's on-line crops newsletter, at cropwatch.unl.

Corn reaching maturity about Oct. 1 normally will dry slowly in the field due to cooler ambient temperatures. Standing corn in the field may dry about 1.5 to 3 percentage points per week during October and 1 to 1.5 percentage points per week or less during November, assuming normal North Dakota weather conditions. It will be slightly faster here in Nebraska, where average temperatures are warmer.

Corn has a moisture content of about 32 percent when it reaches maturity. If it has a moisture content of 32 percent on Oct. 1, it may dry to only about 22 percent mois-

Here is some information from ture by Nov. 1, assuming normal North Dakota climatic conditions. Field drying normally is more economical until mid-October, and mechanical high-temperature drying normally is more economical after that. Here in Nebraska we can probably field dry until the end of October, at least.

> Assure corn stalks and shanks are strong if considering leaving very high-moisture corn in the field. Field losses can range from minor to severe. Compare the cost of drying versus losses associated with leaving the corn in the field. To estimate the propane cost per bushel per point of moisture removed, multiply the propane price per gallon by 0.02. For example, the cost to remove 10 points of moisture using $1.50 propane is 30 cents (.03 per point). Dividing the propane cost by the corn price provides the percentage of corn losses that will equal the drying cost (30 cents divided by $3.50 equals 8.6 percent). Also, verify the impact on insurance of leaving the corn in the field.

Storage in a poly bag is a good storage option, but it does not prevent mold growth or insect infestations. Grain should be dry when placed in a grain bag. Storing higher-moisture corn in a bag should be considered very short-term storage and done only at near-freezing temperatures. At moisture contents exceeding about 25 percent, ensiling may occur at temperatures above freezing and prevent the corn from being dried and sold in the general market. When storing in bags, select an elevated, well-drained location with the surface prepared to prevent the bags from being punctured, and run the bags north and south so solar heating is similar on both sides of the bags. Wildlife can puncture the bags, creating an entrance for moisture and releasing the grain smell, which attracts more wildlife. Monitor the grain temperature at several locations in the bags and repair punctured bags.

Corn above 21 percent moisture should not be dried using naturalair and low-temperature drying to minimize corn spoilage during drying, because the drying capacity is extremely poor at temperatures below 35 to 40 degrees. Adding heat does not permit drying wetter corn and only slightly increases drying speed. The primary effect of adding heat is to reduce the final corn moisture content.

When outdoor temperatures avthe spring. Limit the corn depth to not become a fatality."

about 20 to 22 feet to obtain an airflow rate of 1 to 1.25 cubic feet per minute per bushel, which is necessary to dry the corn before deterioration occurs. Turn fans off during extended periods of rain, snow or fog to minimize the amount of moisture the fans pull into the bin.

Using the maximum drying temperature that will not damage the corn increases the dryer capacity and reduces energy consumption of a high-temperature drver. Removing a pound of water requires about 20 percent less energy at a drying air temperature of 200°F than at 150°F. Follow the dryer manufacturer's recommendations, but generally recommended plenum temperatures when drying corn are 210

Excessively high drying temperatures may result in a lower final test weight and increased breakage susceptibility. In addition, as the drying time increases, high-moisture corn becomes more susceptible to browning. A cross-flow dryer that moves corn from the inside to the outside of the drying column, varies the corn flow rate across the drying column or varies the corn's exposure to the drying air is more likely to maintain corn quality.

Removing debris that accumulates on or in a dryer is more critical when outside air temperatures are cold because condensation can develop on the dryer, creating a wet surface on which debris can collect. The debris may reduce airflow through the dryer, decreasing the dryer's capacity and creating a fire hazard.

More mechanical damage occurs when harvesting high-moisture corn, which affects the storage life of the corn. Dry low-test-weight corn and corn with more damaged kernels to a percentage point lower in moisture content than normal. Cooling the grain in storage to about 20 to 25 degrees for winter storage in northern corn-growing regions and near freezing in warmer regions is more important for damaged corn than for mature, sound corn. Check immature and damaged grain more frequently and do not put immature or damaged corn in long-term stor-

"Also remember that working erage near or below freezing, cool with high-moisture corn can be hazthe corn to 20 to 25 degrees or near ardous," Hellevang cautions. "Befreezing in warmer climates for come informed of the hazards and winter storage and finish drying in recommended safety practices. Do

Happiness - it IS a choice

Have you ever noticed that, when confronted with a new word, or a new diagnosis, or a new thought. it is often confirmed to you two or three times in the next few days? Is it coincidence, or are we just more

I really had a lesson hit home last week, over and over and over! I went to hear a nationally known psychologist who was speaking for National Mental Health Awareness Week on the subject of Happiness. After 90 minutes, we came to the conclusion that happiness is a choice; a choice to be made, in spite of circumstances or environment. Not exactly a new idea.

Then, on Thursday, in Bible study, we are currently discussing the Israelites in their new homeland, after the death of Joshua; in the time of Judges. There is a constant pattern of idolatry, followed by God's punishment, a returning to Jehovah, and then another cycle of falling away and being reminded again of what was expected of them. It does seem that they never did Larson reported that the downstream land owners are willing to assist in resolving the drainage problem from Section 16-T25N-R4E.

The county responded to drainage concerns expressed by Patrick Pepper during the September 15th meeting by proposing Dale Krusemark pay for cleaning the existing ditch. Noting this would only be a temporary fix, Krusemark could purchase drainage tile and have it installed through the property. An alternative would be for Krusemark to pay for an engineering study to determine the exact nature of the drainage problem and possible solutions. A response has not been received.

Wayne County Attorney Mike Pieper presented three options to the board to deal with the drainage problem. Pieper pointed out that he is currently a tenant of property downstream from Krusemark's property. He believes this constitutes a conflict of interest. If requested by the board he would recommend counsel to assist in guiding Board action with this drainage problem.

Pepper had also expressed concerns with the tornado damaged bridge near the Krusemark Feedlot. The county has asked three different engineers to rate the bridge, none of them are willing to rate the deck. The deck cannot be replaced until a FEMA project is written for the bridge. In the meantime the county can post a minimum rating on the bridge or close it. The bridge is currently posted at 5 Ton.

Instead of rehabilitation of a 38' steel-girder bridge, C009005505, Wakefield Southeast, C-90(536) located on 585 Ave., between Sections 15 and 16 - T26N-R5E, Larson is considering a triple box culvert. This would require a check dam be installed upstream, which the landowner has already agreed to.

Ballot Language for Initiative Measure 425

A vote "FOR" will amend the Nebraska statute establishing a minimum wage rate for employees to increase the current state minimum wage from seven dollars and twenty-five cents ($7.25) per hour to eight dollars ($8.00) per hour on January 1, 2015, and to nine dollars ($9.00) per hour on January 1, 2016.

A vote "AGAINST" will not cause the Nebraska statute establishing a minimum wage rate for employees to be amended in such manner.

Shall the Nebraska statute establishing a minimum wage rate for employees be amended to increase the current state minimum wage from seven dollars and twenty-five cents ($7.25) per hour to eight dollars ($8.00) per hour on January 1, 2015, and to nine dollars ($9.00) per hour on January 1, 2016?

TEXT OF PROPOSED

INITIATIVE MEASURE 425 (underscored language indicates added language, strike through indicates language being removed)

OF THE STATE OF NEBRASKA,

BE IT ENACTED BY THE PEOPLE

Section 1. Section 48-1203, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, is amended to read:

48-1203 (1) Except as otherwise provided in this section and section 48-1203.01, every employer shall pay to each of his or her employees a minimum wage of: (a) Five dollars and fifteen

July 23, 2007; (b) Five dollars and eighty five cents per hour on and after July 24, 2007, through July 23, 2008;

(c) Six dollars and fifty five cents per hour on and after July 24, 2008, through July 23, 2009; and Seven dollars and twenty five cents per hour on and after July 24, 2009.

Seven dollars and twenty five cents per hour through December 31, 2014;

Eight dollars per hour

on and after January 1, 2015, through December

Nine dollars per hour on and after January 1,

(2) For persons compensated

by way of gratuities such as waitresses, waiters, hotel bellhops, porters, and shoeshine persons, the employer shall pay wages at the minimum rate of two dollars and thirteen cents per hour, plus all gratuities given to them for services rendered. The sum of wages and gratuities received by each person compensated by way of gratuities shall equal or exceed the minimum wage rate provided in subsection (1) of this section. In determining whether or not the individual is compensated by way of gratuities, the burden of proof shall be upon the employer.

(3) Any employer employing student-learners as part of a bona fide vocational training program shall pay such student-learners' wages at a rate of at least seventy-five percent of the minimum wage rate which would otherwise be applicable.

Section 2. Original section 48-1203, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, is repealed.

Respectfully submitted,

John Gale
