WAYNE CHAMBER HONORS BEST OF 2014 AT ANNUAL BANQUET

(Photos by Michael Carnes)

The Wayne Area Economic Development/Chamber/Main Street banquet held Sunday at Wayne State College honored the city's best for the previous year. (clockwise from upper left) Recently-retired former State Nebraska Bank president Galen Wiser was honored as the 2014 Citizen of the Year. Wayne Elementary kindergarten teacher Emily Rockhill was honored as the Educator of the Year. Sue Nemec (speaking, along with Chele Meisenbach), regional vice president of operations, accepts the award for Large Business of the Year for Ameritas. Marie Mohr, owner of Swan's Apparel, accepts the Small Business of the Year award as Jen Claussen, who is taking over the business later this year, listens in. Majestic Theater manager Melanie Loggins thanks the audience after accepting the Patron of the Year award for the theater, which recently celebrated its fourth year since reopening in downtown Wayne.

FOR ALL AGES
Q125
from our past...to our future
1890 - 2015

Schedule readied for Winside Q125

The Winside community will be celebrating its Quasiquicentennial (Q125) on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 19-21, 2015.

The committee and community have announced a tentative schedule with many activities for all ages.

The celebration will begin with opening ceremonies on Friday evening, June 19 at 6:30 p.m. The Legion Riders will take part and a Flag Raising and flag burning ceremony are planned, as are a Cannon, prayer and the Beard contest judging.

A street dance will be held from 8 p.m.-midnight with live music by Rough Cut. Fireworks will be held at approximately 10 a.m.

Saturday, June 20 will begin with a 5K walk/run, followed by a grand parade. There will be craft vendors, a free noon barbecue and entertainment in the park, along with games, and water fights. The annual alumni banquet (which is normally held in May) will be held from 5-8 p.m. in the village auditorium, and another street dance will be held with live music, featuring Judd Hoos.

The Q125 planning committee is still working on other activities for this day.

Activities on Sunday, June 21 will open with a 9:30 a.m. community church service, followed by a brunch. There will be a tractor and kid parade, road rally, bouncy house in the park, car show, Gospel entertainers, horseshoes and craft vendors.

Again, the committee is still scheduling other activities for the final day of the celebration, but the tentative list of activities has been announced so everyone in the community can plan to be a part of the event.

More details will be available in the near future in regard to registering for events such as the grand parade, the other parades, the road rally, 5K and other activities.

Love of music inspires Headwind leader

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Unlike the legendary Jake and Elwood Blues, it wasn't a mission from God that made Denny Koopman want to put his old band back together.

It was just a love of music.

The 66-year-old guitar player has been playing in a number of bands for more than 40 years, and he's restarted his old band, Headwind, and is having a lot of fun rockin' and rollin' these days.

"You just do it because you want to go out and have some fun," he said during a recent sit-down interview before a scheduled Valentine's Day show at the Sacred Heart gymnasium in Emerson.

Koopman's first guitar was an almost-unplayable model his dad bought for him as a teenager at the old Gambles store in downtown Emerson, but he was determined to learn how to play after watching the Beatles on TV and hearing his music.

"I couldn't play sports. I didn't have the capability of running, but I always have loved music and loved listening to records when I was a kid," he said.

Koopman schooled himself in the instrument, buying records by the 60's instrumental band The Ventures to learn how to play lead and rhythm sections of music. By the late 1960's,

"Once a year, we'd play in the parking lot at The Windmill and the police would always have to stop by and tell us to turn it down. It was just a big hoot and a fun party."

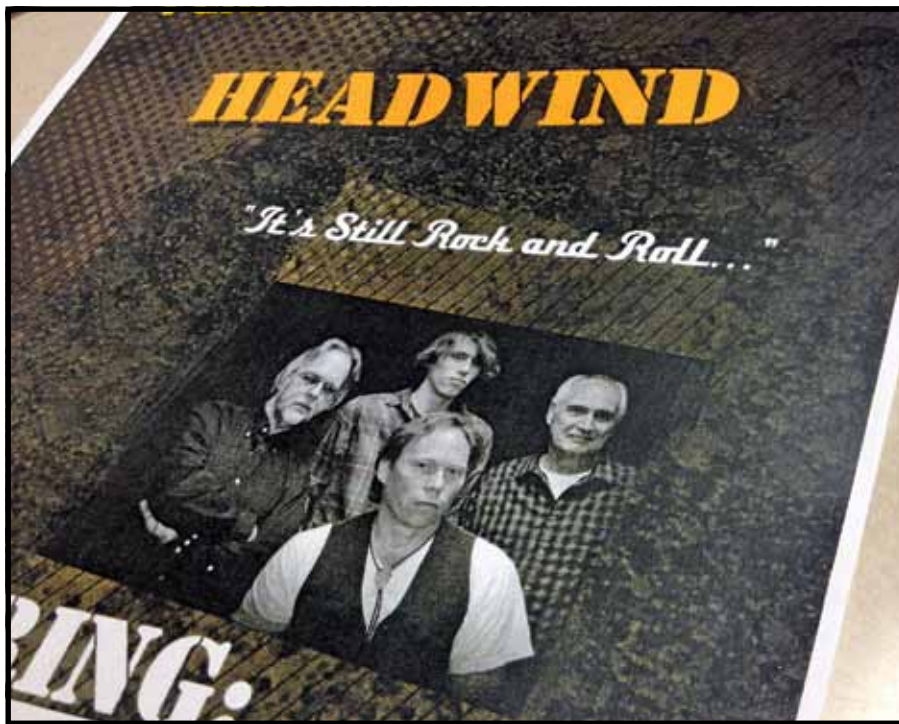

- Denny Koopman
"Headwind" band leader

Koopman got together with some fellow musicians in Dakota City to form the band Ragged Edge, and the band had success winning battle-of-the-band competitions in Sioux City.

By the mid 70's, Koopman had graduated high school and served for four years in the Navy when he decided to start up a new band. His wife perused the dictionary for a word that could stick for a band name, and the word Headwind seemed to do the trick.

"I've always been an aviation buff, and that word just kind of tripped my trigger," he said.

The original band, which included Layton Jensen on bass, Curt Frey on drums and Jaylene Frey on vocals, started up around 1976 and were together a few years before breaking up on New Year's Eve in 1979. Koopman remembers playing shows all over the area, including here in Wayne.

The handbill for the local classic rock band Headwind can be seen around the area as they get ready to play an upcoming show next month in Emerson. Band leader Denny Koopman (far right) is joined by (clockwise from far left) Mark Mussack, Adam McPherran and Bill McPherran.

Sales tax numbers up for January

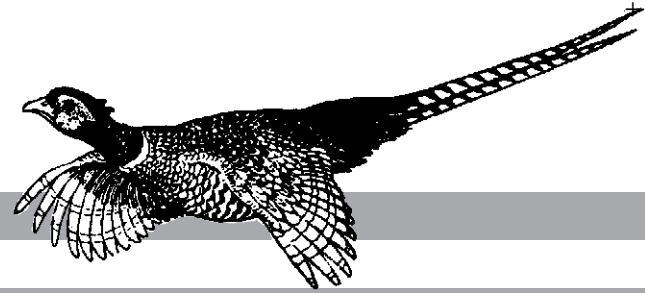

For the fourth consecutive month this fiscal year, the City of Wayne saw an increase in the city sales tax revenue generated over the previous fiscal year.

January's numbers from City Finance Director Nancy Braden indicate the city received $53,006.61 in January, which comes from sales made during the month of November 2014. That is an increase of almost $2,500 from the same time last fiscal year.

For the first four months of fiscal year 2014-2015, the city has received $232,422.11 in receipts from the 1 percent city sales tax, an average of $58,105.53 per month. By comparison, the average monthly take during fiscal year 2013-14 was $55,103.65.

Speech team competes in Boone Central Invitational

Both the Varsity and Novice Wayne High Speech Team competed in the Boone Central Invitational Speech meet on Jan. 24.

Earning honors in the Novice Division of the meet were: The Duet team of Marissa Munsell and Morgan Barner, who placed sixth; Grace Heithold, who placed sixth in Humorous Prose; Jaci Torres, who earned third place honors in Serious Prose; Callie Brown, who was third in Informative; Megan Keiser, who was third in Humorous Prose; and the Duet team of Kendra Holt and Sarah Wibben, who earned second place honors.

"Extra special congratulations to Marcella Juprotich, who was crowned champion in Persuasive," said Head coach Dwaine Spieker.

In the team competition, the novice Blue Devils finished in fourth place.

In the Varsity Division of the meet, the following Wayne High students placed:

Gabby Miller, sixth in Poetry; the OID team of Sydney McCorkindale, Emma Loberg, Olivia Ficke-Anderson, Nate Burrows and Grace Heithold, fifth; Mason Reynolds, fourth in Extemp.; Anna Cole, fourth in Persuasive; and Justen Stahl, third in Extemp.

Marta Pulfer finished with runner-up honors in Informative while Sydney McCorkindale received the same honor in Entertainment.

The top individual medalist for the day was Riley Nichols, who won first in Entertainment.

"The varsity speakers took second place in team rankings, finishing off one of the most successful days for the Wayne Speech Team in recent memory," Spieker said.

Pet of the Week

Ben was dropped off at the shelter. He is a 2 1/2 year old yellow Lab mix who apparently doesn't like cats. He behaves nicely on a leash and seems a bit skittish about sudden moves and being approached from behind. He seems to have been an outside dog but I'm sure he would love to share a home with a family.

Acme Club learns of 'Jane Eyre'

Seven members of the Acme club met Jan. 19 at the Wane Senior Center with Betty Wittig as hostess.

President Joanne Temme conducted the business meeting. Ruth Victor gave the "Thought for the Day." New Year's Resolutions - It's never too late for those resolutions. Six weeks into our pledges, to lose 25 pounds, read more, watch less TV, adjust our attitudes, stop being late, be kinder, spend more time with people who have earned it, we have fallen victim to "Forget About It."

Goals are good for all of us, but we're on our own against temptation.

Bonnadelle Koch read the minutes and treasurer's report. The 'Tree of Love' Christmas gift was given to Viola Meyer. Thank you notes were received from the Nebraska Children's Home and the Wayne Ministerial Association.

Roll call was to tell the year we thought Martin Luther King, Jr. was assassinated.

Betty Wittig gave the program on the novel "Jane Eyre," written by English writer Charlotte Bronte and published on Oct. 16, 1847.

Elinor Jensen demonstrated torching Creme Brulies, which she served for a lunch. More favors were received and distributed to members by Delores Utecht from her daughter, Sandy Moriori, in Arizona.

The next meeting of the Acme Club will be Monday, Feb. 2 with Bonnadelle Koch as the hostess.

First Lego League teams compete

Seventeen teams of students competed in the First Lego League (FLL) competition at the South Sioux City Middle School on Jan. 24. This included four teams participating from Wayne County. Those teams included Crazy Cyborg Monkeys, Dark Knights, Roboteers, and Team Twisters. The teams were formed and started working in September on this year's challenge. Each team worked together finding solutions to the problems presented. In the 2014 FLL WORLD CLASS Challenge, over 230,000 children ages 9 to 14 from over 70 countries redesigned how we gather knowledge and skills in the 21st century. During competition, the teams are judged on Core Values, Robot Design, the Research Project, and the Robot Games. The Dark Knights team received the Robot Design Trophy. Team members include Harrison Collier, Eli Barner, Jace Piper, Liam Wachter, Orion Spieker, Logan Schafer and Braydn McCorkindale. Their coaches are Jay Collier and Matt Wachter.

The Roboteers team qualified to compete at the state competition, which will be held on Saturday, Feb. 21, at the SAC Museum in Ashland. Team members include Isaiah Longe, Aaron Fleming, Ky Kenny and Cole Hochstein. Their coaches are Barb Hochstein and Kelly Kenny. The Wayne First Lego League Organizational Leader is Sonya Tompkins. Other volunteer coaches for the teams include Jay Collier, Adam Davis, Barb Hochstein, Kelly Kenny, Ray McCalla, Eric Vahlkamp and Matt Wachter.

PMC CEO

Kris Giese, interim CEO at Providence Medical Center, welcomed Chamber of Commerce members to Friday's Chamber Coffee held in the lobby of the hospital in Wayne. The hospital's new records security system was among the topics discussed during the weekly coffee.

Wayne Kiwanis pancake feed is Feb. 15

Members of the Wayne Kiwanis Club are putting the finishing touches on the plans for this year's Pancake Feed, which will be held Sunday, Feb. 15 from 9 a.m.-12:45 p.m. at the Wayne City Auditorium. The menu consists of all-you-can-eat pancakes, eggs, sausage, applesauce, orange juice and coffee. Suggested donations will be $8 for adults, $4 for children age 10 and under.

Tickets for the annual Pancake Feed may be purchased in Wayne at the local banks, from any Wayne Kiwanis member, or at the door. For additional information contact Robert Foxhoven, chair of the event, at (402) 375-1502. Anyone who is unable to attend the event but, who wishes to donate to the youth projects supported by Kiwanis, can send monetary donations to Kiwanis Club of Wayne, P.O. Box 165, Wayne, Neb. 68787.

Weekly meetings of the Kiwanis

Club of Wayne are held at 12 p.m. Mondays at Taco's & More. The meetings are supplemented by a number of annual projects accomplished by Kiwanis members, often in collaboration with other community organizations such as the City of Wayne, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and 4-H. The Kiwanis Club of Wayne also initiates special projects and raises funds through events including the annual Pancake Feed, Omelet Feed at the Wayne Chicken Show, and wintertime nut sales.

Recent projects by the Kiwanis Club of Wayne have included providing books to all pre-school age youth in the community, support for the Boy Scouts, collaborative work in with Wayne State College in creating a new Disc Golf Course on the Wayne State campus, and creation of School Bus Stop Shelters for the children of Wayne.

"We used to play The Windmill, The Varsity and we played a lot at Wayne State College and the college in Norfolk and a lot of other places there," he said. "Once a year, we'd play in the parking lot at The Windmill and the police would always have to stop by and tell us to turn it down. It was just a big hoot and a fun party."

After disbanding Headwind, Koopman played in a horn-based band out of Sloan, Iowa called Destiny, then restarted Headwind in the mid 80's and played for about a decade before disbanding again.

"By that time, my daughter was in school and involved in sports, and I just felt like I was done playing," he said.

A few years ago, as Emerson's Q125 celebration was taking shape, friends encouraged him to restart Headwind a second time. He called up some of the old band members for a "reunion" show, and Headwind shared a bill with Leafy Spurge and played to a huge crowd.

"There were about 1,500 people there and it was a lot of fun, and it all just kind of came back to me and I wanted to play again," Koopman said. "We've had some players come and go since then, but now it's just fun."

Now the band's bass player, Koopman's nephew, Bill McPherran, is the lead singer and showman of the band, Mark Mussack plays drums and McPherran's son, Adam, plays guitar. The foursome played Cardinal Days last summer in South Sioux City, played a Halloween party in Pender and played on New Year's Eve to get ready for the upcoming Valentine's Day show in Emerson.

Koopman said his band knows no boundaries when it comes to rock and roll. They'll play anything - literally - from A to Z.

"We'll play anything from AC/DC to ZZ Top," he said. "We cover the entire alphabet."

Koopman said he's not sure how much longer he'll play in the band, but he knows that, even though he's the old guy in the band, he's not as old as some of the fans who enjoy their music.

"I saw a couple at our show in Sioux City a while back, and these people are in their 80's and were out there dancing every song, so maybe I'm not that old yet," he said. "Music catches all ages, and it's just a lot of fun and that's why I love it."

Monkey is off backs of WSC men

Welcome to this week's edition of the "Bits and Pieces" file . . . or, to quote Monty Python – and now, for something completely different:

– Kudos to the Wayne State men's basketball team for getting that monkey off their backs this past weekend and getting that seemingly-elusive first win in the Northern Sun Conference this season.

The Wildcats needed to hang on at the end, as they almost let a 17-point second-half advantage get away, but the 81-79 win over Winona State was a special one for this young team, and for the Wildcat program in general. Not only did it end a 24-game regular-season losing streak, it also ended 10 years of frustration at the hands of the Warriors, who had not lost to Wayne State since 2005.

There are still eight games left in the regular season, so there are some good opportunities for the Wildcats to put a couple more notches in the win column between now and the conference tournament, including two this weekend on the road in Minot and Bismarck up in North Dakota. Minot State and University of Mary aren't anywhere near the level of a Southwest Minnesota State or a Minnesota State, and the long road trip could be a fruitful one for this young team now that they have a win under their belts.

– Speaking of monkeys, you're missing out on a good time if you aren't at The Max on Monday nights.

The Wayne State Coaches Show, which can be seen exclusively on our website at www.mywaynews.com, is shot every Monday at 6 p.m. downtown at The Max. Walk in the front door, and you'll see the lights set up as we talk with the Wayne State coaches about their teams.

But don't think we take our work seriously – the coaches know how to make yours truly crack up, and while we are able to talk about the teams and their opponents, we certainly don't have much room for those who don't have a sense of humor about things. I like to make it a fun experience for everybody, and some of the outtakes (which may, or may not, appear online at some point down the road) from our tapings are usually the result of the wrong thing being said at the right time (or vice versa).

On this week's show (new shows are uploaded every Tuesday), we were able to borrow a monkey from Brad Hoskins, the father of Wayne State women's basketball player and Wayne High graduate Katie Hoskins, to illustrate the men's team getting the losing monkey off their backs this past week.

It remains to be seen whether we will use other stuffed animals as props – men's coach Brian Dolan referred to sharks this week, so we might need to find a stuffed fish somewhere – but we try to have fun and make it entertaining for those who stop in.

– It's the end of January, which means we're getting down to the nitty-gritty when it comes to winter high school sports.

In addition to district bowling (good luck to Wayne High this Saturday at Wildcat Lanes), conference basketball gears up on Friday with play-in games in the Lewis and Clark Conference and Saturday with play-in games in the Mid State Conference.

Next week, it's conference time for Wayne High's wrestlers at the Mid State meet in Norfolk, and after that, it's subdistrict basketball and district wrestling to lead up to the state meets.

Time flies when you're having fun – and I've been having a lot of it this season.

– Don't let the records of Minot State and University of Mary's women's basketball teams fool you: this weekend's road trip is a big one for the Wildcat women.

Finally – a win

Wildcats end 24-game NSIC losing skid

By MICHAEL CARNES
Of The Herald

Two unlucky numbers were wiped away Saturday night at Rice Auditorium – 24 and 18.

The Wayne State men's basketball team finally got their first Northern Sun Conference win of the season with an exciting 81-79 win over a Winona State team that has had the Wildcats' number for some time.

Saturday's win snapped two long losing streaks for the Wildcats, who had not won a regular-season conference game in their last 24 tries dating back to last year, and had not defeated the visiting Warriors in 18 previous matchups dating back to 2005.

You had to go back to an 83-80 win at Concordia-St. Paul on Jan. 17, 2014 to find the last regular-season conference win for the Wildcats, a streak coach Brian Dolan was able to laugh about after the final buzzer sounded.

"I texted my assistants after the loss to Upper Iowa on Friday and told them that if we lose 25 in a row, I'm going to get a free set of steak knives from the league office," he joked during Monday's taping of the Wayne State Coaches Show for www.mywaynews.com. "The kids came out and played a little more sharp and more focused, and it's easier to play when you're up 10 than when you're down 10. It's easier to hang on than it is to come from behind, and it was a big lift for the guys."

The Wildcats built a 34-25 lead thanks to the efforts of Kendall Jacks, who converted a three-point play and hit back-to-back 3-pointers to fuel a 9-1 run that put the Wildcats in front to stay. He and Jordan Cornelius added treys late in the half to give Wayne State a 41-31 halftime advantage.

The Wildcats came out and built on that lead in the second half, extending it to 53-36 on a Cornelius jumper with 15:37 to go. But Winona State would chip away at the advantage, getting it down to five midway through the second half.

Wayne State built the lead back up to 13 on a Trae VandeBerg basket with 4:54 left and appeared to be in good position to wrap up their first conference win of the year.

Winona State wouldn't go down quietly, though. They were able to chip away at the lead and got it down to 72-69 with 1:30 left. Patrick Kurth converted a three-point play, but the Warriors were able to get it back to three with :20 left. VandeBerg and Austin Esters both hit free throws down the stretch to offset Winona State's only 3-pointers of the night and finish off their first win over Winona State since an 87-84 overtime win on Jan. 14, 2005.

"We're a young team, and our young guys scored 60-something points for us, so it was a total team effort," Dolan said. "They're learning to win together as a team, and this was good for the kids. They did a nice job finishing out the game, and I'm really proud of them."

Jacks led four Wildcats in double figures with 18 points and also led with eight rebounds. Kurth added 15, VandeBerg put in 13 and Cornelius had 12 for the 4-16 (1-13 NSIC) Wildcats.

The win came one day after a disappointing finish for the Wildcats, who saw visiting Upper Iowa

Six 'Cats earn Brand Award

Six Wayne State College seniors have received the sixth annual NSIC Myles Brand All-Academic with Distinction Award.

The honor, named for the late NCAA President Dr. Myles Brand, is bestowed to senior NSIC student-athletes who have a cumulative grade point average of 3.75 or higher and are exhausting their eligibility and on track to graduate.

Wayne State athletes who were honored include Jordan Hobza (women's soccer), Mallory Hoyt (women's soccer), Patrick Kurth (men's basketball), Alex Mathers (women's soccer), Brody Rohach (football) and Ashton Yossi (women's basketball).

"The Myles Brand All-Academic with Distinction Award is one of the highest honors a student-athlete in the NSIC can achieve," said NSIC Commissioner Erin Lind. "To earn this prestigious honor, one must show a commitment and dedication to both academics and athletics, characteristics in which Dr. Myles Brand emphasized."

A total of 111 student athletes from the 16 Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference schools were honored with this year's award. Each student athlete will be recognized by the NSIC with a certificate of achievement and a wrist watch.

WSC women run streak to eight

The Wayne State women's basketball team continued their winning ways and maintained a share of the lead in the Northern Sun Conference with a pair of home wins.

On Saturday, the Wildcats took care of Winona State, building a lead of as many as 30 points before settling on a 64-44 win over the Warriors at Rice Auditorium.

Wayne State broke a 10-10 tie midway through the opening half with an 8-2 run, five coming from senior Millie Niggeling, to take a 18-12 advantage with 7:30 to go. Winona State got the lead down to three, but the Wildcats went wild in the final 3 1/2 minutes of the half, outscoring the visitors 16-0 to take a 36-17 halftime advantage.

The game was never close after that.

Haley Moore's 3-pointer gave Wayne State its biggest lead of the night at 58-28 with 6:49 to go, and the reserves closed it out to help the Wildcats improve to 17-3 overall and 11-3 in Northern Sun Conference play, keeping pace with co-leader Northern State, who also won two over the weekend.

Jordan Spencer led the Wildcats with 14 points, Ashton Yossi added 11 and Sadie Murren and Paige Ballinger each had 10 points as the Wildcats shot 44.4 percent from the field and forced 24 Winona State turnovers.

Wayne State's defense was also solid on Friday night, as they limited

Quick pins help Winside outscore Wayne, 63-18

Old neighbors locked horns Tuesday evening as the Wayne and Winside wrestlers squared off for a dual at Wayne High School.

The visiting Wildcats caught fire early in the dual, winning five matches by pins and riding that momentum to a 63-18 win over the Blue Devils.

Marcus Escalera came out hot early, bouncing back from his first loss of the year on Saturday to post a 65-second pin over Wayne's Marlon Sanchez. That pin, along with two Wayne forfeits, sparked Winside in the early part of the dual, as Kevin Ross, Zach Morris, Sam Wolfe and Zach Jones all followed with pins to help Winside to an early 42-0 advantage.

The Wildcats got second-period pins from Ross and Morris at 138 and 145, respectively. Wolfe followed with a fast 49-second pin at 160 pounds, and Jones needed only 72 seconds to pick up his pin at 172 pounds.

Wayne slowed down the momentum at 182 pounds with a pin of their own. Cole Koenig took control of his match with Joey Haase early and got Wayne on the board with a second-period pin, one of two wins on the mat for the Blue Devils.

The exciting matches of the evening followed in the upper weights, starting with a 195-pound battle between sixth-ranked Schuyler Schweers and freshman Jon Escalante.

Schweers was controlling Escalante and tried to roll under his opponent for a suicide cradle move, but Escalante was able to stop the move and reverse position. He nearly pinned Schweers in the exchange, but was able to avoid a third-period pull away with an 18-4 run midway through the second half to claim a 76-64 victory.

The Wildcats trailed 14-4 early on, but were able to get within three before trailing 37-29 at the half. They started strong in the second half and got within a single possession at 45-42 with 12:29 left, but the Peacocks turned that close game into a one-sided affair, building an 18-point lead that they would ride to the 12-point win.

Austin Esters led Wayne State with 16 points while Jordan Holdsworth put in 11.
Getting that first NSIC win of the season was important, and Dolan hopes it serves as a catalyst for the team to want more out of what's left of this season.

"There's not much difference in the conference after Northern State, Moorhead, Mankato and Augustana, and this was a character game for us," Dolan said. "Now, can we take that sharpness and that competitiveness and use it to continue to get better? Are we the sharks that tasted a little blood in the water and want some more, or are we the fat kid who just got a cookie? Hopefully, we're the sharks in the ocean."

The Wildcats will be on the road this weekend, playing at Minot State Friday at 8 p.m. and the University of Mary Saturday at 6 p.m.

pin as he avoided going to his back to earn a 5-2 upset.

Cory Shoff and Mikey Reyes had an exciting matchup that ended with Shoff getting a second-period pin at 220 pounds, and Zane Jensen won a spirited heavyweight match with freshman Hunter Jorgensen, earning a third-period pin to get the victory.

Wayne was able to salvage points in the final contested match of the night. Gage Schultz, who had been out of the lineup for the past few weeks, made a solid return with a first-period pin of Sean Mann at 113 pounds, but it wasn't enough to offset the early run by the visiting Wildcats.

In tournament action Saturday, Wayne had five medalists and finished seventh in a busy 20-team field at the Neligh-Oakdale Invitational.

Koenig led the Wayne High effort with a runner-up finish at 182 pounds, losing to ranked wrestler Chris Petersen of Elkhorn Valley in the finals. Reyes finished third with a nice first-period pin at 220 pounds.

Also earning medals were Jordan Cliff, who placed fourth at 170; Schweers was fifth at 195 and Jorgensen was sixth at 285.

Wayne High will wrestle this weekend in the Plainview Invitational, starting Saturday at 10 a.m.

play third-place Minnesota State and Concordia-St. Paul this weekend. The Wildcats could be in sole possession of the conference lead by week's end, with a HUGE home weekend coming up against Northern and MSU-Moorhead next week.

- Don't concern yourself with the recent USA Today coaches rankings that saw Wayne State fall OUT of the polls, even though they have been undefeated since dropping to No. 14 before the holiday break.

I've seen teams fall a spot or two after winning a close one against a less opponent, but this is the first time I've seen a team dominate people and get rewarded with a demotion out of the top 25.

Coach Chris Kielsmeier said it best on this week's Coaches Show: the only ratings that matter are the ones at the end of March.

- This shouldn't surprise you, but here's my Super Bowl XLIX prediction: Seahawks 34, Patriots 28.* (*-Assuming all balls are properly inflated. If the Patriots' balls are under-inflated, then take the cheaters by a touchdown.)

Winside's Cory Shoff turns a Ponca wrestler for a pin during action at Thursday's Lewis and Clark Conference tournament in Wakefield.

Winside leads area teams at L&C

WAKEFIELD - Winside had 10 medalists and scored well enough to earn runner-up honors in the Lewis and Clark Conference tournament Thursday at Wakefield High School.

The Wildcats had just one champion in the round-robin tournament, as junior Marcus Escalera went undefeated on the day and earned first-place honors.

While Winside had just one champion, they fared well among the rest of the field and had five runner-up medalists in the tournament, with second-place medals going to Mason King (106), Sean Mann (113), Kevin Ross (138), Zachary Morris (145) and Cory Shoff (220).

Also earning top-four finishes for Winside were third-place medalists Sam Wolfe (160), Zach Jones (170) and Jon Escalante (195), and fourth-place medalist Zane Jensen at heavyweight.

Wakefield rode the efforts of a trio of first-place medalists to a fourth-place finish in a tough team race that included rated opponents in champion Plainview and third-place Creighton.

Leading the seven Trojans to the medal stand were champions Caleb Thomas (160), Efrén Godínez (170) and Cody Thomas (182). Both of the Thomas brothers had been out with injuries the previous week, but came back and performed well to win their weight brackets.

Nick Gonzalez suffered his first loss of the year and settled for a runner-up finish at 120 pounds for the Trojans. Also earning medals were third-place finishers Juan Gonzalez (120) and Jonathan Romero (152), while Alex Nunez was fourth at 132 pounds.

Laurel-Concord-Coleridge finished seventh overall and ended the day with four medalists. Three Bears finished with runner-up medals, led by Billy Barelman (182), Nolan Casey (195) and Chayce Hirschman (285). Collin Dirks finished third at 145 pounds.

Wakefield boys take care of road foe

The Wakefield boys basketball team earned a good win on the road Friday, defeating Emerson-Hubbard 67-55.

It was a close battle for much of the night, and the Trojans were able to make some key plays down the road to come away with the win.

Wakefield had balanced scoring with five players finishing in double figures. Brodie Mackling led the way with 13 points, eight rebounds and five assists; Isaac Camarena, Jose Sanchez and Alex Conley each had 12 points, and Dylan Hurlbert put in 11 points.

Also scoring were Riley Zamzow with four points and seven rebounds, Derek Lierman with two and Anthony Victor with a free throw.

Wakefield hosts area rival LCC on Thursday.

Lady Eagles come back, get 49-33 road triumph

The Allen Lady Eagles bounced back from a close loss on Friday to put together a nice effort and win on Monday.

In Friday's action, the Lady Eagles blew up for 24 points in the final period, but it wasn't enough to overcome a 14-point deficit as Wausa held on for a 49-45 victory.

Wausa built a 35-21 lead going into the final period before the Lady Eagles made their comeback effort. Lindsey Sullivan led Allen with 15 points in the losing effort, while Lexi Oswald added nine and Gabby Sullivan and Alexis Johnson each had eight points.

Also scoring in the Wausa game were Bri Hingst and Brooke Hingst with two points each and Rachel Kneifl with a free throw.

The Allen girls used a solid second half to put away Walthill on the road, coming away with a 49-33 triumph.

The Blujays led a tight game at the half, but Allen's defense was too much in the fourth quarter as they outscored Walthill 18-3 to come away with the victory.

Sherry Stallbaum led a balanced attack for Allen with 10 points, while Oswald and Lindsey Sullivan each had nine. Johnson and Brooke Hingst each had seven, Bri Hingst had five and Kneifl put in two.

ed Upper Iowa to 26 percent shooting from the field and forced 20 turnovers in an easy 69-38 victory.

Wayne State scored the first 12 points of the game and never led by less than double digits after that. They led 26-7 on a Niggeling 3-pointer to build their biggest lead of the first half and led 28-12 at intermission, limiting the Peacocks to 18 percent shooting (5-of-27) in the opening half.

The closest Upper Iowa was 14 points early in the second half, but Wayne State answered that with a 12-2 run to get the lead back up to 24 and they never let the Peacocks get closer than 20 the rest of the way.

Yossi led a balanced attack with 13 points, Maggie Schulte added 12, and Niggeling and Ballinger each had 11 as four Wildcats finished in double figures.

Wayne State hits the road this weekend for a 6 p.m. Friday matchup at Minot State and a 4 p.m. battle Saturday at University of Mary.

Wildcat grapplers seventh at duals

DALTON, Ga. - The Wayne State wrestling team held their own quite well against some of the top collegiate wrestling teams in the country, coming away with a seventh-place finish in the National Collegiate Wrestling Association Duals.

The Wildcats dominated Div. I schools Auburn and Toledo in pool play on Friday, then went 2-2 in championship bracket competition over the weekend, sandwiching wins over Maryland/Baltimore County and North Florida around close losses to Apprentice School and Marion Military Institute.

Wayne State had four wrestlers go 6-0 for the weekend, led by ranked wrestlers Jon Williams and Matt DeGarmo, both of whom dominated their weight brackets to help the Wildcats go 4-2 for the weekend.

DeGarmo, rated fifth in NCWA at 197 pounds, had an impressive weekend with three wins by pin and a 6-2 decision over second-ranked Josh Rodriguez of Apprentice School. Williams, ranked fourth in the nation at 174 pounds, added two pins and a major decision for the weekend.

Also going 6-0 on the weekend were Casey Glasssgow at 141 pounds and Tanner Clark at 184 pounds. Glasssgow finished the weekend with two pins and a major decision and Clark added a pair of pins to the effort for the Wildcats.

Devon Rupp (149) and Robbie Thomsen (165) both went 4-2 for the weekend, while Spencer Trout was 3-2 at 197 pounds and Tyrell Turner was 3-3 at 125 pounds. Also wrestling were Alex Calderon (133, 2-2), Patrick Donnelly (157, 2-4), Jason Trautman (235, 2-0) and Ethan Hirschman (285, 2-3).

Wakefield girls fall to Lady Pirates

The Wakefield girls dropped a pair of conference matchups in action this past week.

On Friday, the Trojans made the trip east to Emerson, where they ran into a tough defense as Emerson-Hubbard rolled to a 56-25 win. The Pirates outscored Wakefield 26-5 in the second period to take a 41-12 halftime lead, and the game was never in doubt after that. Caileigh Mackling had eight points for the Trojans, while Emily Puls and McKenzie Rusk each had four. Puls also had eight rebounds and four blocked shots.

Also scoring were Savannah Nelson and Brianna Samuelson with three points each, Megan Borg with two and Heidi Borg with one.

On Monday night, the Trojans dropped a 53-33 decision at home to Homer. Statistics and highlights were not available at press time.

Coach not happy with Winside effort

OAKLAND — Winside coach Paul Sok was not all that impressed with his team's performance Saturday. The Wildcats failed to bring home a first-place medal and settled for fourth place in the 12-team Oakland-Craig Invitational on Saturday, which disappointed the longtime Winside mat mentor.

"I didn't feel we were at our best," he said. "A lot of guys had tough matches Thursday in Wakefield, and the majority wrestled well over there, but we're still not at the stage to be able to put together two tough meets in a short period of time."

Top-ranked and undefeated Marcus Escalera dropped his first match of the year when he was pinned midway through the first period by Class B No. 2 David Berg of West Point-Beemer, who moved up from 126 pounds and came away with the win.

Colby Erickson was also caught up in the pinning run by the Cadets, as he fell in the first period of the finals at 126 pounds to Hunter Schroeder.

The Wildcats had one consolation champion in Cory Shoff, who took third-place honors at 220 pounds. Sean Mann (113) and Sam Wolfe (160) finished fourth, fifths went to Mason King (106) and Zach Jones (170), and sixths were picked up by Hayden King (152) and Jon Escalante (195).

Laurel-Concord-Coleridge also competed in the meet at Oakland-Craig High School, finishing 10th overall. The Bears had three medalists on the day, with Chayce Hirschman taking consolation honors at 285 pounds and Billy Bareman (182) and Nolan Casey (195) both coming away with fifth-place efforts.

Shandan Platt (left) and Justin Brueggemann both had solid efforts to highlight the Wayne State track and field teams at the Minnesota State Indoor Open last week. Wayne State hosts their own Wildcat Open this Saturday, starting at 12 p.m.

Wayne boys bounce back with win

Wayne High bounced back from a loss on Friday night to take care of Norfolk Catholic.

On Friday, the Blue Devils squared off with conference rival Hartington Cedar Catholic at Wayne High School, and the visiting Trojans won a back-and-forth affair with a 45-39 victory.

Wayne High erased an early eight-point deficit with a 12-3 run that helped them take a 19-18 half-time advantage, but the Trojans were equal to the task in the second half, taking the lead for good with a 15-9 third quarter run.

Ben Hoskins had 12 points, 11 rebounds and four assists to lead the Blue Devils. Brook Bowers had nine points and three steals, Grayson McBride scored four, Peyton Gamble and Zach Keating each had four, Colby Keiser put in three and Jack Belt had two.

Wayne and Norfolk Catholic played a rescheduled game on Saturday at Wayne High School, and the Blue Devils dominated the Knights in the second half to claim a 51-37 win.

Wayne High used a 15-5 second-quarter run to take an eight-point halftime lead, then carried that momentum in the second half, building their lead to 19 points on their way to the double-digit win.

Gamble led all scorers with 13 points and has three steals, while Hoskins added 12 points and seven rebounds. Also scoring were McBride and Bowers with seven apiece, Drew Davie with five, Keating with four, Keiser with two and Belt with one.

Wayne High hosts West Point-Beemer Thursday before starting conference tournament play next week in Norfolk.

Wildcats fare well in Minnesota

Senior thrower Sara Wells won the shot put to lead the Wayne State indoor track and field teams Saturday at the Minnesota State Open in Mankato, Minn.

Wells recorded a top throw of 51 feet, 3 3/4 inches to lead a 1-3-4-5 Wildcat finish in the event. Michaela Dendinger came in third at 46-6 3/4, freshman Shandan Platt was fourth with an NCAA provisional mark of 46 feet, and sophomore Jesse Pongratz was fifth at 42-7.

Wayne State also had three athletes place in the weight throw as Dendinger took third at 56-9 1/2, Platt was fourth with a season-best and NCAA provisional throw of 56-

2 1/2, and Wells came in fifth at 56-2 1/2.

Other top 10 finishes for the Wildcat women included freshman Kelsey Dietrich taking eighth in the 60-meter hurdles in 9.66 seconds, and the 1,600-meter relay team of Mary Alderson, Rebecca Davenport, Dietrich and Danielle Hart which finished fourth in 4:09.38.

On the men's side, Zach Thomsen and Justin Brueggemann each claimed second-place finishes to highlight the day. Thomsen came in second in the 800-meter run (1:56.18) while Brueggemann had a strong second place effort in the 5,000-meter run with a time of 16:08.03.

Other top 10 finishes included junior Bryan Dunn taking third in the weight throw with a season-best mark of 55-4 3/4, William Ernst was fifth in the 200-meter dash (22.63), Brady Metz took fifth in the triple jump at 42-9 1/2, Nathan Boggess was sixth in the 5,000-meter run (16:22.39) while Corbin Lehn took 10th at 16:55.72.

Wayne State will host the 13th annual Wildcat Alumni Open in the WSC Recreation Center on Saturday. Field events start at 12 p.m., and running events beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Winside teams drop matchups

It was a rough weekend for the Winside boys and girls basketball teams, as both teams fell to Wausa and Scribner-Snyder.

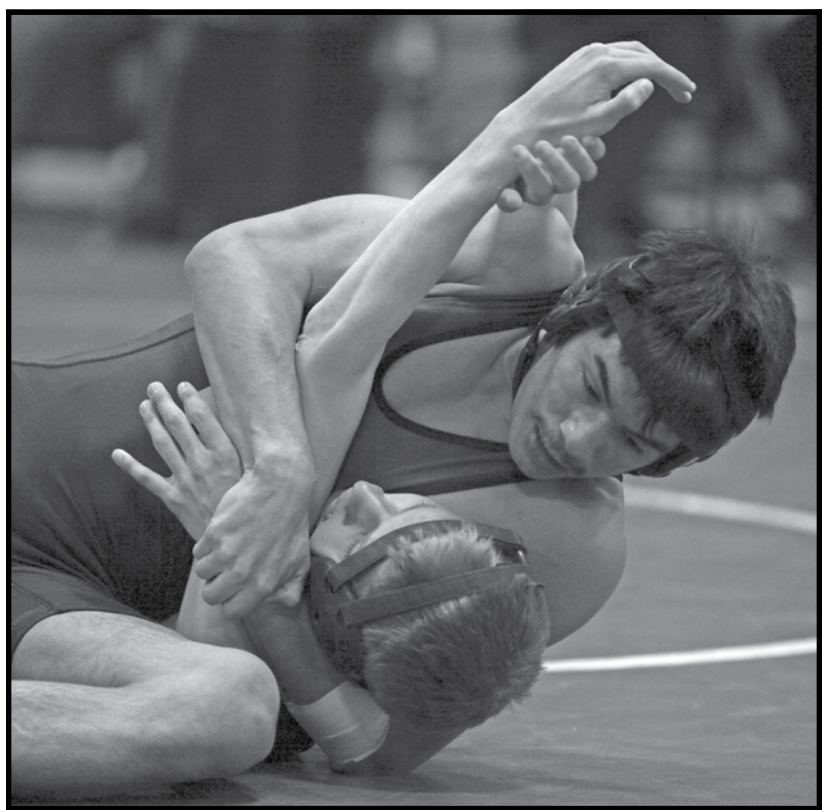

On Friday, the Wildcats hosted Wausa, and the visiting Vikings came away with a pair of victories. The Wausa girls handled Winside 51-30 in the opener, while the boys were 50-24 winners in the nightcap.

In the first game, Wausa used a 16-4 run in the second period and put the game out of reach in the third with a 12-2 surge. Callie Finn led a balanced effort with seven points and Sara Wolfe added six. Also scoring were Ellie Jaeger, Halle Brogren and Morgan Jensen with two points apiece.

In the boys game, Wausa took control in the first half and built a 15-point halftime lead on their way to the easy win. Winside got a game-high 14 points from Dylan Brogren to lead the Wildcats. Brandon Waters added five points JaShaun Vyborny put in four, Keith Mundil had three and Trey Meis and Caleb Kampa each had two points.

The shooting woes continued for the Wildcat girls on Saturday, as Scribner-Snyder slowed down the Winside offense in a 49-20 victory. Brogren led the Winside girls with eight points, Jaeger and Alex Bargstadt each had three and Jensen, Kelly Tweedy and Sara Wolfe each scored two points.

In boys action, the host Trojans jumped out to a 19-2 first-quarter lead and came away with a 54-28 win. Mundil led the Winside effort with seven points, Watters, Vyborny and Colton Jensen each had three, Brogren and Kampa had two apiece and Cody Frederick had one.

Alex Nunez earned two medals last week for the Wakefield wrestling team.

Wayne girls run over on the road

KEARNEY — It was one of those nights for the Wayne High girls basketball team.

The Blue Devils made a long road trip to take on Class C-1 power Kearney Catholic on Saturday, and it didn't turn out well as the Stars lit up Wayne early and often in a 72-27 blowout win.

"This is one you just forget about and move on," coach Dave Hix said. "We looked like we just got off the bus from a 3 1/2 hour trip and came out and played flat. We weren't ready to play either mentally or physically."

The Stars jumped on the Blue Devils right away, limiting Wayne to one basket in the first eight minutes and building a 42-10 halftime advantage. Wayne's offense never got untracked, and by the time they were able to get something going in the final period, it was too little, too late.

"They're a quality team and have a deep bench, and they put a lot of pressure on us and we didn't handle it," Hix said. "We'll have to make some adjustments if we want to be successful for the remainder of the season."

Rachel Rauner and Kylie Hammer each had seven points for the Wayne High girls. Abbie Hix and Danica Schaefer both had four, Tarah Stegemann had three and Alison Echtenkamp put in two.

Allen boys win one, lose one

Allen's boys basketball team continued to struggle against conference foes, as they dropped a pair of games this past week.

On Thursday, the Eagles traveled to Wausa and lost a close one, as the host Vikings held on for a 34-31 victory.

Brian Boese scored a game-high 21 points in a losing effort and was the lone Eagle in double figures. Tayler Kumm scored four, Austin Klug had three, Wade Connot scored two and Coleman Kneifl had a free throw.

On Monday, the Eagles traveled to Walthill and saw another fourth-quarter rally come up short in a 60-51 loss to the Blujays.

Kneifl scored 17 points and Kumm added 12 for the Eagles. Boese scored eight, Klug had six, Brandon Apts and Dalton Fudge each had three and Connot scored two.

Lady Bears split

The Laurel-Concord-Coleridge girls split a pair of home games during the past seven days of competition.

On Thursday, the Lady Bears dropped a 60-39 decision to Battle Creek.

Ellie Arduser had a game-high 21 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Katie Leapley had nine points and eight rebounds, Bryn Schutte scored five and Emily Klooz and Ashley Wolfgram each had two.

On Tuesday, the Lady Bears dominated Osmond, 53-19.

Audra Corbit threw in a game-high 26 points and added seven steals and five rebounds in her return to the lineup. Arduser had 10 points to go with eight rebounds and six steals.

Also scoring for LCC were Schutte with nine, Leapley with six and Chloe Hauptmann with two.

LCC boys lose

The Laurel-Concord-Coleridge boys came up on the short end of a pair of home matchups this past week.

The Bears dropped a 68-45 decision at home to Battle Creek on Thursday. Dillan Wolfgram led all scorers with a game-high 27 points. Jordan Jansen scored six, Jayden Reifenrath put in five, Brad Steffen had three, and Colton Jansen and Brant Eddie each had two.

On Tuesday, the Bears couldn't keep up with Osmond in a 54-44 win over LCC at Laurel.

Wolfgram paced LCC with a game-high 19 points and Reifenrath threw in eight. Eddie, Mason Forsberg and Jackson Metheny with four points apiece, Jordan Jansen with three and Malik Knox with two.

Wildcats back in Div. II top 25 poll

The Wayne State women's basketball team moved back into the USA Today Sports Div. II coaches poll this week.

The 17-3 Wildcats, winners of eight straight, are tied for 23rd with Nova Southeastern of Florida and are one of two NSIC schools in this week's rankings. Northern State is also in the polls, sitting at No. 17.

Other Central Region schools in this week's poll include No. 2 Emporia State, No. 6 Fort Hays State, No. 9 Pittsburg State, No. 16 Harding and No. 20 Arkansas Tech.

Parents night for girls hoops Feb. 10

Wayne High School will honor the girls basketball team, the cheerleaders and both teams' parents on Tuesday, Feb. 10, when they host Hartington Cedar Catholic.

Girls basketball parents should be at the Wayne High gym by 6:30 p.m. They will be introduced between the JV and varsity basketball games. The Cheerleaders parents should be at the gym by 7 p.m. They will be introduced at halftime of the varsity game.

Seventh-grade boys play recent games

Wayne's seventh-grade boys basketball played several games recently.

On Jan. 15, Wayne lost 33-32 at Battle Creek, with Tyrus Eischeid claiming top scoring honors. They followed that with a 31-22 win at home over Pierce, with Shea Sweetland leading the way.

Wayne played Columbus Lakeview in a doubleheader, winning the two games 30-19 and 34-16. Cole Hobza and Alex Echtenkamp led the way in the first game, while Cody Rogers was the leader in the second game.

Wayne defeated Hartington Cedar Catholic in Hartington, 35-28. Rogers and Hagen Miller were the leading scorers.

Frosh boys fall to Dakota Valley

Wayne's freshman boys were defeated by Dakota Valley 36-27 in recent action. Jack Evetovich was the high scorer with 16 points and Mason Lee added five.

On Saturday morning, the Blue Devils defeated Battle Creek 45-41. Lee scored 11 points followed by Brennan O'Reilly with nine, Tyler Pecena seven, Edar Ficke Anderson six, and Cole Leonard, Seth Hochstein and Sam Bruckner all with four.

Wrestling ratings include area kids

Two area wrestlers were listed in the latest Nebraska Scholastic Wrestling Coaches Association rankings for Class B and Class C wrestlers.

In Class B, Schuyler Schweers, of Wayne was listed in sixth place at 220 pounds.

Among Class C wrestlers, Caleb Thomas of Wakefield was ranked fourth at 160 pounds.

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes

More gas taxes? Why mess with economy?

I'm often confused by individuals who "represent" us in the seedy, grimy underworld known as politics.

My confusion usually comes as a result of some of the proposed pieces of legislation that are constructed. The lack of logic in some of these proposals usually leaves me asking one of these three questions:

- Is the author of this legislation in touch with the real world?
- Does the author of this legislation ever talk to those who might be impacted, for good or otherwise, by their proposed legislation?
- What special interest group's pocket does this individual call his (or her) virtual Sugar Daddy?

Call me jaded if you will, but after reading a story in the Lincoln Journal recently, I think you might understand where I'm coming from with these questions.

As you may be aware - and if you're NOT currently serving in a state or federal lawmaking capacity, you probably are - the price of a gallon of gas has gone down significantly in these parts.

It doesn't seem that long ago that the price of a gallon of gas was in the $3 range. The other night, I filled up my tank at one of the local stations for the mind-altering price of $1.94 a gallon. On a visit to Omaha recently, I saw one station advertising $1.79 a gallon gas, a number so shocking I almost forgot to keep a lookout for the drive-by assassins riding on my back bumper.

Now who, in their right mind, would want to mess with THAT kind of economic turnaround, you ask? Take a guess. No, really - give it a shot.

Yep, you guessed it - members of the Nebraska Legislature.

Papillion Sen. Jim Smith has introduced a bill that would increase Nebraska's already-sky high fuel tax by more than 23 percent over a four-year period. According to the Lincoln Journal Star, Smith's bill, LB610, would jack up our fuel tax - which now stands at 25.6 cents a gallon, one of the highest gas taxes in the United States - by 1 1/2 cents a year annually for four years.

Talk about sticking a banana in the economy's tailpipe.

On its surface, the bill seems like a good idea. One-third of the money raised from the additional gas tax would go to the state's road fund, while the other two-thirds would go to cities and counties to pay for bridge repair.

Nebraska isn't alone in this blatant cash grab by state governments. Michigan is asking voters to increase the state sales tax and raise per-gallon fuel taxes. Pennsylvania is already increasing wholesale taxes on gasoline and diesel fuel. And guess who ultimately pays for those increased gas taxes? You do - at the grocery store, the hardware store and anywhere else where freight is shipped. (Which, sadly, kills the long-held notion I had that magic fairies appear in the grocery store late at night to restock the Campbell's Soup aisles, but I digress . . .)

Let's be honest - WHEN gas prices shoot back up in the $3 neighborhood (you know it's coming, in spite of what experts are saying right now), will we see those increased gas taxes rolled back to account for the difference?

Sure, we'll see that happen - right around the time Hell freezes over, the Cubs win the World Series and gang violence stops in North Omaha. The next time a governing body rolls back its tax rates because the economy goes sour will be the first time, and the Nebraska Legislature has never been a body that has been afraid of seeing how deep they can plunge their greedy hands into taxpayers' pockets.

With a cash reserve of well over half a billion dollars, new Gov. Pete Ricketts wants to return some of that money to taxpayers in the form of a tax cut. But I've got a better idea - how about taking that money and using it to fix some of the state's biggest road problems? With all the fracture-critical bridges here in Wayne County, some of that cash reserve could help with some of the badly-needed bridge work we have right here, as well as in other well-traveled rural areas of the state.

I realize this all makes completely logical sense to those of us living in the real world, which might be why Sen. Smith and other proponents of this tax-jacking idea fail to grasp the concept that lower gas prices fuel the economy and that there are other available resources the state could pursue to take care of the road and bridge issues it now faces.

Because, let's be honest - Nebraskans really need another tax hike like Nancy Pelosi needs another nose job.

Historical Society thanks Women's Club

The Wayne County Historical Society would like to thank the Wayne Women's Club for generously donating some of their remaining assets to the Museum after they disbanded this past year.

The Women's Club has been an important part of Wayne's history through their civic and cultural support. We applaud them for the many volunteer hours they contributed and the funds they raised to make Wayne a better place. This donation will make their efforts continue on through the museum.

Capitol View Government run like a business?

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

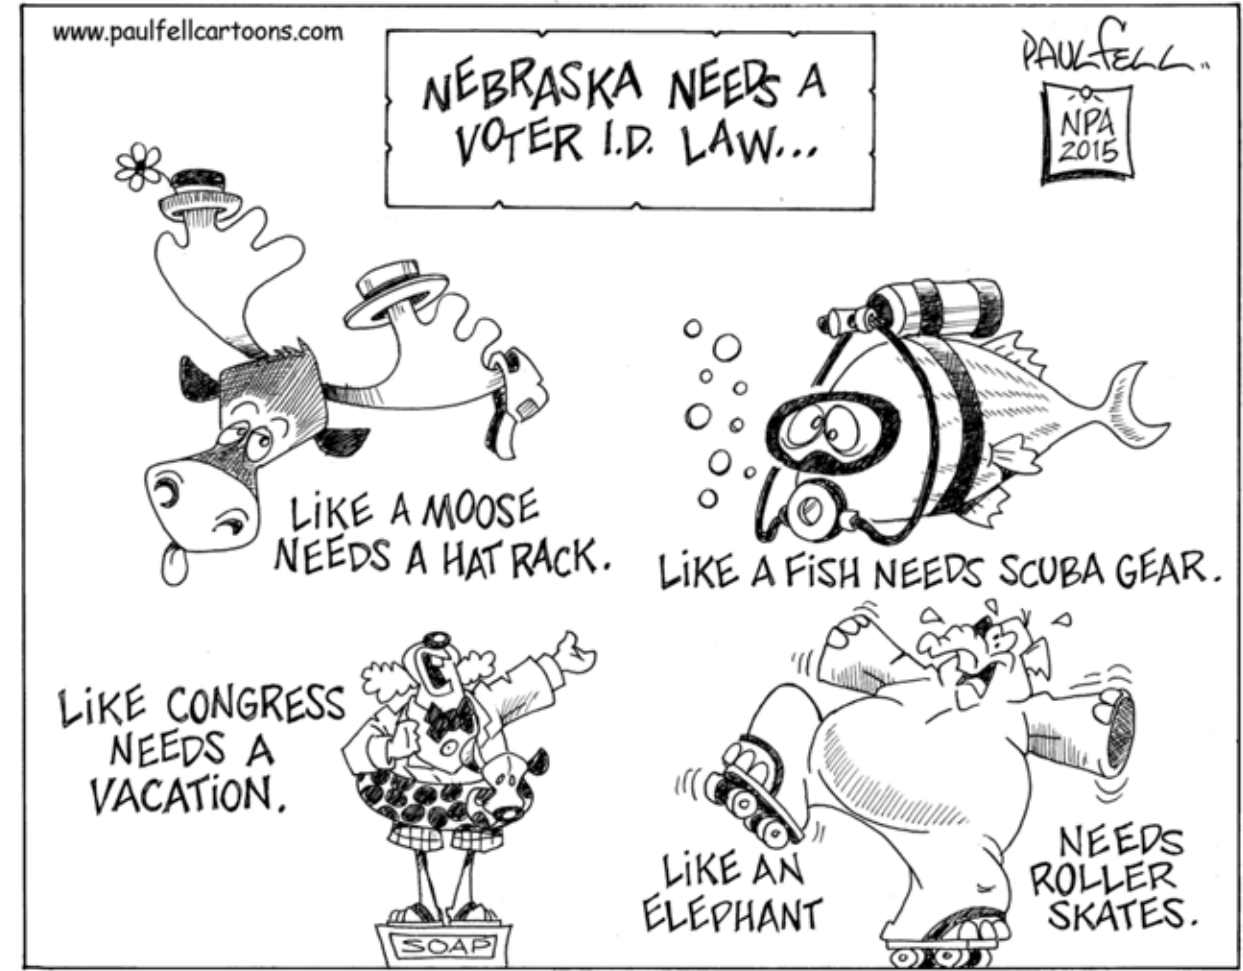

Nebraska's new governor, Pete Ricketts, has promised to run government like a business. Not surprising since he came from a business background. We've heard politicians promise to do the same thing before, but the evidence has always been too slim to prove guilt.

Ricketts has made a bold step in that direction with the hiring of a Chief Operating Officer to optimize government through the "implementation of best business practices." Granted, the new governor reached into his immediate circle and hired Felix Davidson from TD Ameritrade, the company started by Ricketts' dad, which has also provided income for Pete. But it's still a bold move.

A news release from the Governor's office says the COO will work closely with the governor and assist agency directors in setting goals and creating strategic plans so that agencies and department heads create better outcomes. Laudable goals and refreshing rhetoric, but there are questions. Yes, the devil is in the details.

In previous administrations, the governor always had a chief of staff to be the liaison with agency directors. They have enjoyed various degrees of success. Governor Kay Orr went through chiefs of staff like a crowd through a revolving door during her four years in office. Governor Mike Johanns brought his chief of staff - Larry Bare - from a similar position in city government and the guy survived through six years of Johanns and 10 years of Dave Heineman. He still has a temporary spot in the Ricketts' administration.

Ricketts brought in a member of his campaign staff to be his chief of staff and sent Bare to be the interim head of the Department of Administrative Services. That's the branch of the executive office that deals with 14 agencies from Budget to Transportation, the divisions of government that are essential for keeping the everyday tasks under control. The DAS job has been under the watchful eye of longtime Budget Director Gerry Oligmueller since the previous director, Heineman's campaign manager Carlos Castillo, left to manage a short-lived gubernatorial campaign for another candidate.

One can only speculate if the new COO will eventually take over the DAS tasks. It is a new position and the governor has spoken only in broad terms about the duties and responsibilities. Likewise, he has yet to say how much money Davidson will be paid, opting to wait until he starts the job on Feb. 2.

Davidson is a University of Nebraska-Lincoln graduate and brings skills such as operations leadership, change management, auditing, compliance and risk management to the table. Sounds like things currently handled by DAS.

Ricketts says the new COO will take a client-centered approach to delivering services and improving outcomes. That ought to be good news to Nebraskans - we are the clients of state government - and one can only hope that Ricketts looks for that same approach in his yet-to-be-named heads of Corrections and Health and Human Services.

Imagine a correction's director who understands the inmates and the lives of their families and friends and not just the para military structure of officers and guards. Imagine an HHS director who understands the end-user, the families who depend on assistance and the individuals who need health care assistance. Imagine a director who understands a ministry to the least of these as well as a compliance with federal rules and regulations.

The governor has also announced that Brenda Hicks-Sorensen, an economic development manager from Wisconsin, will be the new director of the Nebraska Department of Economic Development. He said she is an innovative leader who will "look for new ways to strengthen our economy, add jobs and grow Nebraska for the next generation." He said he'd announce her salary when she starts her new job on February 16.

Let's hope that she, too, has a client-centered approach and doesn't focus merely on chasing smoke stacks and bringing in industry with the promise of hundreds of jobs. The residents of Nebraska's smallest communities, the mom-and-pop businesses that keep Main Street alive and the farmers and ranchers all deserve the same consideration as big industry and technology.

Here's hoping that Nebraska government can become business-like. It's about time.

Legislative Update

Bill introductions end with 663 bills

Bill introduction has now concluded with a total of 663 bills and several resolutions being introduced. I ended up introducing 11 bills, the most I have ever introduced in a single year.

Last week I told you about five of the bills that I had introduced. The other six consist of the following:

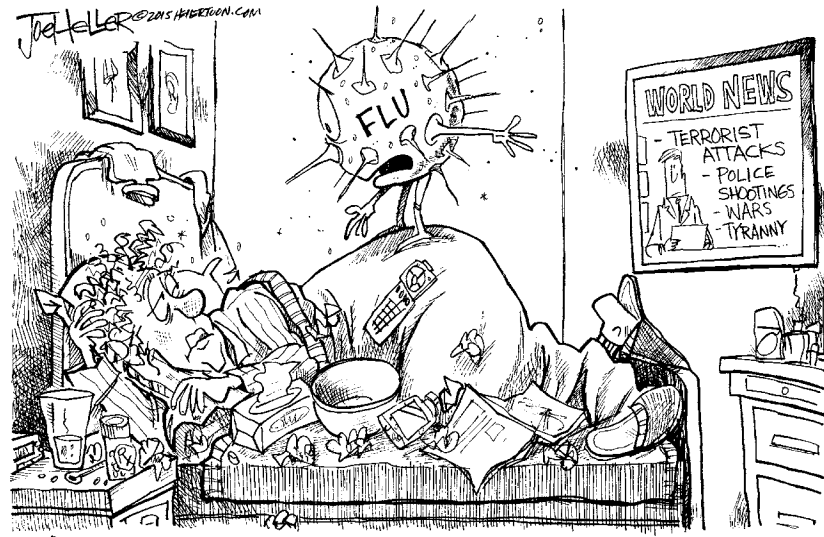

- LB479 which would change provisions relating to memorials for veterans.

- LB 601 is a bill that would prohibit a school board member or an immediate family member from being employed with the school district.

- LB603 is a bill that would provide for the processing and certification of federal firearms forms as prescribed.

- The next bill, LB604, is a bill

Legislative Update
By Dave Bloomfield
State Senator, District 17

that would change provisions relating to reimbursement to political subdivisions under the Governor's Emergency Program. I am working with NEMA with hopes that I will be able to withdraw this bill because NEMA will have made the necessary changes with internal policies.

- LB651, would change the liability for certain court costs with the intent of saving the counties some money.

- Finally, LR31CA is a constitutional amendment to change legislative term limits to two consecutive full terms. This would provide that even though a senator was originally appointed, he or she would be allowed to run for and be elected to two full terms.

Yesterday, LB190, was heard by the Judiciary Committee and I am hopeful that it will be advanced from committee early next week. I think it only right that we afford military spouses the ability to be considered a resident of the state for the purposes of obtaining a concealed carry permit when they are here because their spouse has a permanent duty assignment to our state. We already afford that status to the service person.

HELP Clinic counselors available to the community

Counseling services are available to all members of the community at no cost by Wayne State College and the WSC office at NECC in Norfolk. The counselors provide support to cope with stress involved in dealing with problems such as grief, worry, family and relationship conflicts, emotional pain, and alcohol and drug abuse.

The counselors are graduate students in Counseling at Wayne State College, all nearing completion of the Master's degree. The supervisors, Dr. Keith Willis and Dr. Tara Hindman are licensed in Nebraska as mental health practitioners, alcohol and drug counselors and/or psychologists.

The Help Clinic is happy to answer any questions you have about the counseling services. Anyone with questions can call Dr. Willis at (402) 375-7210 for more information.

The following are brief biographies of the those taking part in the program this semester:

- Brittany Duggar completed a Bachelor's in Human Service Counseling at Wayne State College. Brittany then worked at Good Life Counseling in Norfolk, for one and a half years. She is pursuing her Master's Degree in Clinical Counseling and is currently working at Employment Works in Norfolk.

- Amy Ferguson completed her

Bachelor's Degree in Elementary Education from Briar Cliff University in Sioux City, Iowa. She is nearing completion of her Master's Degree in PK-6, Elementary School Counseling. She has been working as an elementary school counselor for three years at North Bend Central Elementary and taught elementary school five years prior to becoming a counselor.

- Danielle Floerchinger is a Wayne State College graduate student anticipating completion of the School Counseling program in December of 2015. She received her Bachelor's degree from Northwestern College, located in Orange City, Iowa, in 2012. Danielle is currently employed at Wayne Community Schools as an elementary paraprofessional while also working as a graduate assistant for Wayne State College's Office of Multicultural Affairs.

- Chauntell Geary is currently working on her masters of science in education in School Counseling at Wayne State College. She has a bachelors of Science degree in Psychology from Fort Lewis College in Durango, Colo. Before beginning graduate school at Wayne State, she worked as a sign language interpreter in the Sioux City, Iowa school district for four years. Interpreting in the school setting is what inspired her to be a school counselor.

- Lori Harding holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Education with an endorsement in Cooperative Education-Diversified Occupations (2008) and a Master of Science in Education in Curriculum and Instruction/Business and Information Technology Education (2011), both received from Wayne State College. Currently employed at Wakefield Community Schools, Mrs. Harding has taught business classes to high school students for five years and is currently serving as the school's high school counselor. She is nearing completion of a Master of Science in Education in School Counseling.

- Alicia Hoffman has a Bachelor's Degree in Foods and Nutrition and an endorsement in 6-12 Family and Consumer Sciences Education. She has been employed at Bruning-Davenport USD for one year as a 6-12 Family and Consumer Sciences teacher. Alicia is pursuing her Master's of Education Degree in 7-12 School Counseling.

- Doug Janssen is currently working toward his Master's degree in Counseling, with an anticipated graduation date in May of 2016. He has a Bachelor's of Science degree from Wayne State College. Currently, he provides mental health skill building to children and adults in the Sioux City, Iowa area. Additionally, he has worked with Nebraska Health and Human Services and low income rental assistance to families in Woodbury County, Iowa. He is married with two daughters. He looks forward to working with children after he graduates.

Help Clinic Counselors include (front) Doug Janssen, Amy Ferguson, Dr. Keith Willis, (back) Lori Harding, Jamie Young, Roland Warner and Alicia Hoffman.

- Barbara Kibugi completed her Bachelor of Science degree in Psychology at Wayne State College. Presently, Barbara is pursuing a Master's of Science in Education degree in Clinical Mental Health Counseling. She has worked for R-Way as Direct Service Support staff and is currently a Graduate Assistant.

- Heather Loreth completed her Bachelor's Degree in Social Work and Psychology at the University of South Dakota. Prior to returning for her Masters in school counseling, Heather was a hospice social worker.

- Ashton Ohde is currently working toward her Master's Degree of Science in Education, Mental Health Counseling at Wayne State College. She completed her Bachelor's Degree at Wayne State, as well, with a double major in Psychology and Sociology. Ashton has worked at Good Life Counseling and Support in Norfolk for the last two years as a family support worker, and she is currently serving in the Nebraska Army National Guard.

- Roland Warner is an enrolled member of the Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska. From time to time, he is asked by his community to be of service to them by conducting Native American Church Services. Roland is a graduate of Wayne State College with an emphasis in Human Service Counseling. Currently, he is actively working toward his Master's Degree to become a Mental Health Clinician. He is employed as a Tribal Liaison with the Iowa Department of Human Services in Sioux City. Roland spends his free time with his family doing cultural activities and volunteering to help Native American fathers with a group called Fatherhood Is Sacred in the Sioux City community.

- Jamie Young, MA MT-BC received a music education degree at Wayne State College emphasizing in voice. She then attended the University of Missouri at Kansas City where she received a master's degree in music (MA) and, shortly thereafter, became a board-certified music therapist (MT-BC). Jamie is currently working toward a second master's in counseling at Wayne State College. Jamie has worked with Care Initiatives Hospice, Providence Medical Center, Siouxland Autism Group in Sioux City, Iowa, and various Siouxland public schools.

January is Radon Awareness Month

Radon gas kills 20,000 Americans each year and is the second-leading cause of lung cancer after smoking.

Radon is a gas that is present in some types of soil. The type of soil in northeast Nebraska contains very high levels of radon. Northeast Nebraska Public Health Director Deb Scholten, reports that the highest level among all radon test results in Nebraska was in northern Cedar County and measured over 200 picocuries per liter (pCi/L). The dangerous level of radon exposure is 4 pCi/L.

If smokers or ex-smokers are exposed to levels of radon often, such as in their homes or workplaces where they spend most of their time, their chances of getting lung cancer increase many times that of what a non-smoker's odds of getting lung cancer from radon. However, high numbers of non-smokers have died of lung cancer that is linked to radon too. Radon is a dangerous health hazard.

Radon seeps through cracks in buildings and construction joints, gaps around service pipes and suspended floors, and the water supply. If you test your living or working environment and the test results are over 4pCi/L, you should contact a certified radon mitigation specialist to install a radon mitigation (removal) system. Radon mitigation is not a "do-it-yourself" project for a routine handyman.

Costs to remove the radon vary from $1,000 to a few thousand dollars, depending upon the type of building. Installing a radon mitigation system during new construction is the least expensive way to prevent high radon levels in a building. The investment may save your life, or the life of a loved one, from lung cancer.

For a free radon test kit, call the local public health department or county extension office. For Cedar, Dixon, Thurston or Wayne Counties, call the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department (NNPHD) at (402) 375-2200. A list of certified radon mitigators is also available from NNPHD.

Lifestyle

Volunteer with 4-H to make a difference

When was the last time you discovered something new? Nebraska 4-H invites you to make a difference in the life of a young person and discover even more in the process: friends, fun, memories, and special talents!

In 4-H there are various involvement opportunities to fit your interests and availability.

- help with a one-time 4-H event or program;
- help with a 4-H club (organize meetings and speakers, plan events, etc.);
- lead a 4-H club;
- help with a summer program;
- share a particular skill with 4-H youth;
- many other ways.

4-H is the official youth development program of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Some people even say it's a young person's first class at the University. This means 4-H volunteers and helpers have access to a wide range of quality, educational materials produced by ex-

Amy Topp
Extension Educator
4-H & Youth

pers on topics such as theatre arts, robotics, and photography.

Youth ages 5-19 choose from more than 100 project areas. 4-H programs exist in each county and are organized by UNL Extension faculty and staff. Every young person has a place in 4-H.

As a volunteer or helper, you can provide young people with developmental assets that last a lifetime - a positive relationship with a caring adult; an inclusive and safe environment; opportunities to value others and master a skill; and much more. Studies indicate these and other aspects of Nebraska 4-H help youth make wise decisions and choose positive paths.

While 4-H is known for hands-on learning experiences and helping youth build confidence and practical life skills, it's also a lot of fun. As one college-age helper puts it, "4-H always has something fun going on. There's always something new to try."

Explore 4-H and its incredible opportunities. All Nebraska 4-H volunteers go through the Youth Protection 4-H Screening process. Find out how meaningful it can be to share your talents with a child. For more information, contact your local Nebraska Extension Office, in Wayne County, (402) 375-3310 or e-mail wayne-county@unl.edu. 4-H is thankful for the many volunteers who play a valuable part in the 4-H program.

Lions Club inducts

The Wayne Lions Club held a January dinner meeting at Tacos & More.

Lions Bob and Marilyn Epperson og Blair and Judy Stepp were guests. Lion Marilyn Epperson is Second Vice District Governor for District 38-O and Bob Epperson has the Global Leadership Team.

Future Lions events were mentioned including The Great Plains Lions Leadership Institute, which will be held July 24-26 at Jamestown University in Jamestown, N.D. The USA/Canada Lions Leadership Forum will be held at Grand Rapids, Mich. commencing Sept. 17-19, and in 2016 it will be held in Omaha. The 98th Lions Clubs International Convention will be held in the city of Honolulu, Hawaii on June 26-30.

The Lions organization will be celebrating 100 years in 2017 during the International Convention in Chicago. The Lions University offers a bachelor, masters, or doctorate Lions degrees on their website.

Members were told by the Eppersons about the District 38 O/N Midwinter Convention scheduled for Feb. 20-22 in Omaha at Double Tree Suites. The theme is "We are Family." International Director Esther LaMothe of Jackson, Mich. will be the guest speaker. The district's third cabinet meeting will be held during the convention with District Governor Randy Ritterbush presiding. Zone A2 has held two meetings with Chairperson Bill Bayzn from the Norfolk Lions.

Marilyn Epperson, Second Vice District Governor spoke of Melvin Jones, who was the founder of Lions Clubs International. He was born Jan. 13, 1879 in Fort Thomas, Ariz. The family moved to Chicago where Melvin studied at the Union Business and Chaddock Colleges. At the age of 33, Melvin was solo owner of his own insurance agency in Chicago. Jones remarked, "You can't get very far until you start doing something for somebody else."

It was June 7, 1917 when Melvin formed Lions Clubs International and became employed full-time in the Chicago Headquarters. In 1961, the Board of Directors proclaimed Jan. 13 as the Jones memory birthday each year throughout the world in Lionism. Lion Jones passed away June 1, 1961 and is memorialized by a 50-foot obelisk at the site of his boyhood home in Arizona.

Right-to-Life Breakfast to be held in Wayne

The annual Right-to-Life Breakfast will be held Saturday, Feb. 7 beginning at 9:30 a.m. at St. Mary's Catholic Church's Holy Family Hall.

The event is being sponsored by Wayne Area Right to Life.

This year's guest speaker will be Brook Jech of Wayne, who will share her personal Pro-life Testimony.

Other speakers include Nebraska State Senator Dave Bloomfield, Greg Schleppebach, Executive Director of the Nebraska Catholic Conference and two sidewalk counselors who will share their experiences.

The event will include a Diaper Shower and those attending are being encouraged bring disposable diapers to the Breakfast so that we can "shower" a Crisis Pregnancy Center.

A free will donation will be accepted. Those attending are invited to bring a friend.

Area students graduate from Northeast Community College

Two hundred-eleven students, including five earning double majors, completed their studies in December from Northeast Community College. The names of the students will be listed in the program in the College's commencement ceremony in May.

Area graduation candidates are listed below. Key to abbreviations:

AAS-Associate of Applied Science; AA-Associate of Arts; AS-Associate of Science, and ADN-Associate Degree Nursing.

Allen: Deborah Johnson, AA.

Laurel: Caitlin Barney, AA; Elizabeth Ebmeier, AAS; Business.

Wayne: Vanessa Topete, AA.

Winside: Maelynn Johnson, AA, Megan Skokan, AA.

Discussing pair of 'controversial' topics

A few minutes ago, while looking over my shoulder, my wife asked me: "what are you working on?" I explained that I was trying (emphasis on "trying") to write an article for the Herald. "Maybe don't pick a topic that's controversial?" she recommended. "Ray wrote last week, it was nice. I really enjoyed it." "Well, Ray's a better pastor than I" was my response. She just laughed and went back upstairs. I'm blessed to call Ray a friend as well as a colleague. At any rate, in keeping with my wife's recommendation, I won't be writing about a controversial topic and instead will write about two controversial topics, beginning with homosexuality.

A year or two ago, Ron Brown (then running backs coach for UNL) spoke at Wayne State College. From what I could tell, Ron is a big fan of hell. He sure talked about it a lot. He sounded to me like Oprah "he's going to hell, she's going to hell, they're going to hell; everyone is going to hell!" I was so caught up in the excitement that I stood up and almost exclaimed "can I go to hell?" Why not? It seems to me like there will be an awful lot of good people there. Of course unless being Muslim, Buddhist, Jewish, or gay automatically makes you a bad person. You know, on second thought, maybe what he was trying to say was that if you're Muslim, Buddhist, Jewish, gay, in short if you don't look like him, think like him, go to the same church as him, you're a bad person and you deserve to rot in hell. He seemed particularly interested in homosexuals and their burning in hell.

After the show, I waited around, hoping to have a word with Ron. You see, for the life of me, I couldn't find anywhere in the Bible where it states that gay people will burn in hell. Heck, the term "homosexual" didn't even exist until nearly 2,000 years after the last book of the Bible was written. It all was very confusing to me. Sure, the Bible states that a man should not lie with a man as with a woman because it is an abomination. But the Bible says lots of things are abominations. For goodness sake, my T-shirt is an abomination before the Lord because it's a cotton-blend. Google it if you don't believe me. Or if you prefer, read your way through the book of Leviticus.

This past week, I was at a conference. N.T. Wright spoke. One of my favorite biblical scholars, but not exactly a beacon of liberalism. He said something in his lecture that has stuck with me. He simply asked why is it that we have so many Christians in the West talking so much about sex when we have so many Christians in the East being killed for their faith? I'm sure that Wright would agree with me that sex is an important thing to talk about. Biblically speaking, it's a gift from God and must be treated as such, but even if homosexuality is a sin (if you want to know where I stand, you can ask me in person), why are so many Christians so concerned about it? Here I must note that many, many Christians are quick to say that it is not a sin at all. As a matter of fact, many, many Christians and many, many churches welcome the LGBTQ community with open arms. You see, the Bible is quite clear that there are no such things as big sins and little sins. And so, if in the eyes of God, even if homosexuality is a sin, it's no bigger a sin than, say, lying, so why all the fuss?

I don't have time to discuss all the passages that are often times brought up when discussing homosexuality and the Bible. Instead, I will postulate something that seems to get lost in all the shouting. According to the Bible, we are created in the image of God. What defines us is the image of God within us. So, riddle me this, why do we define others by their sexuality, and why do we define ourselves by our own?

This seems like an opportune time to talk a little about hell. What is hell? The term conjures up all sorts of images. Fire and brimstone, worms, pain, suffering, gnashing of teeth. Sounds like an awful place; who would ever want to go there? Certainly not I. Funny; as much as we don't want to end up there, we're sure eager to send others there, now aren't we?

I read the other day that there are 1.6 billion Muslims in the world. That's a lot of people. Now, do you really believe that if the world ended today, all 1.6 billion of them would spend an eternity burning in hell? What does that say about you? What does that say about God? Maybe more properly, what are you saying about God?

The most common term sometimes translated as hell in the New Testament is Gehenna. Gehenna was a very specific place, a garbage dump just outside Jerusalem. In general, when Jesus spoke of Gehenna, he did not speak of it as a place where you would go in the afterlife as a punishment for the way you lived your present life. Instead, when speaking, Jesus would point to Gehenna as if to say, if you continue down your present path, this is what your life will look like in the here and the now. Gehenna was a truly awful place. A place where reportedly unwanted babies would be disposed of alive. A place that was rank and often on fire.

I'm not saying that there is no other-worldly hell. I'm simply asking the question "if Jesus was more concerned with hell on earth, then why aren't we?" And maybe I'm trying to challenge people to think before they speak. Do we really believe that God would condemn a person to hell just because he/she didn't proclaim Christ as their Lord and Savior? What if he/she had never picked up a Bible? What if they had never been invited to church? What if they only knew of the church as a place of judgment and condemnation and therefore had never heard the Good News?

I feel fortunate, because as a United Methodist, I am naturally an inclusivist. Inclusivists believe that the way to salvation is through Jesus, but that it is possible to be saved without explicit or complete knowledge of Christ. I believe that this life matters. This life is not something to be escaped, but something to be transformed. Notable inclusivists: John Wesley, Justin Martyr, Origen, and Martin Luther.

Allen Community Club

The Allen Community Club met Jan. 19 in the fire hall.

President Greta Kraemer called the meeting to order. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and approved. Dues may be sent to Marcia Rastede, Sec/Treas, 211 S Grove Street, Allen, Neb. 68710. Old business was discussed, including bringing to the attention of the Village Board the need to improve the restrooms in the park, to fix the lighting on the ALLEN sign, to improve the appearance of some of the homes in Allen, and to begin organizing a committee for Allen's 125th celebration in 2016.

Anyone wishing to serve on an organizational committee for the 125th celebration can contact Greta Kraemer or the Village Office. The decision of whether or not to have a fireworks stand in July was tabled. The Monsanto grant to a non-profit organization has been awarded to the Allen Community Club because of Chantel Stapleton's nomination. It was decided that the Allen Community Club will again sponsor the spring clean-up day and the community garage sales.

Memorial Service

A Memorial service for Bonnie (Erwin) Sasse will be held at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne on Saturday, Feb. 14 at 11 a.m. (She was the daughter of John and Lozetta Erwin of Concord. A short memorial service will be held with lunch to follow.

Bonnie was a teacher at Allen, Dixon, Pilger, and Wayne schools years ago. She also was baptized and confirmed at Concordia Lutheran Church in Concord. She recently died in Colorado. Any former students of Bonnie, families, or friends who would like to attend are invited. There will be a sharing session when people can share special memories of Bonnie and what she meant to them.

Valentine's Day Activity

Get in the spirit of Valentine's Day. Everyone is invited to the Springbank Township Library from 10-11 a.m. on Saturday morning, Feb. 14 for a Valentine's Day activity.

While adults are watching Steph Jorgensen demonstrate loom knitting of hats, scarves, and neck warmers (She may let some of you try your skill), children will be decorating Valentine cookies with red frosting, which will be served along with red punch following the demonstration. Wear red and enjoy the morning.

Calendar planning beneficial to get ready for coming year

In between snow storms, frigid temperatures, and January thaws is a great time to reflect on last year's successes and problems as well as plan ahead for next year.

At this time of year, most of us have an abundance of new calendars for the new year - from the cop, the bank, and maybe as a gift. Put these calendars to good use by planning next year's forage activities now and make notes on that calendar to complete needed work on a timely basis.

For example, order alfalfa and other seeds here in January and February to make sure you get what you want. Then in March, remind yourself to pull any soil samples you didn't get last fall as well as get ready to plant oats at your earliest opportunity.

By mid-April, be sure to get alfalfa and cool-season grasses planted before corn planting begins. This might also mean that lime and phosphorus or other fertilizers needed to be applied even earlier. Mark it down. Also, fertilize cool-season grass pastures by mid-April.

When May arrives, spray your thistles right away and begin checking your alfalfa so once buds just start to form you can be ready for an early first cutting that brings a premium price.

In late May, warm-season grass pastures can use some fertilizer, and shortly thereafter plant your summer annuals.

Be ready by early August to prepare and plant turnips or oats for late fall, early winter grazing. Finally, finish your year by sampling and testing all your harvested forages so you can plan and feed animals during winter to meet their needs at lowest cost.

I'm sure you can think of many other items to add to your own calendar. Make those notes now, and in twelve months you will smile, knowing you got all your forage work done correctly and on time.

HAS YOUR CORN FARM LOST MONEY?

Despite China's refusal to approve Syngenta's GMO seed, Syngenta continued to sell its seed to U.S. corn farmers. When China banned U.S. corn imports, the price of corn fell dramatically, and corn farmers across the country lost BILLIONS of dollars.

We represent individual farmers.

Our team represented over 2000 individual farmers in the Rice GMO claim. We opposed the class action and secured more for the farmers we represented. Our group of lawyers will continue meeting with farmers with respect to each farmer's individual Syngenta claim.

American Country 4-H Club

American Country 4-Hers met Jan. 18th at The Oaks.

Demonstrations were given by Lucas Longe and Devan Henschke.

The meeting was called to order by President Annika Wachter. Minutes were ready by Secretary Emily Eilers. Emily Longe gave the Treasurer's Report. Emily will send a check to the Wayne 4-H council for insurance dues and the Fair "Pie fees".

It was noted that February is Nebraska 4-H Month and all were encouraged to wear their 4-H T-shirts to school. A reminder was given that the On Line Project enrollment deadline is Feb. 2. If anyone has ideas for summer programs of work-shops, they are to let the Extension Office know.

The next meeting will be Sunday, Feb. 15 at 1 p.m. at a place to be determined.

After the meeting was adjourned, fun was had by all as members played some intense games of Bingo with the residents at The Oaks for a Community Service Activity/Project. Snacks were shared and the Henschkes provided some Bingo prizes. The Final Black Out Bingo game was won by three ladies who each won $5 bills, which were provided by the American Country 4-Hers.

Prayer helps miracles happen

Do you believe in miracles? I do, because I've seen a few in my work, and in my private life, too. For instance, when I was a young nurse, childhood leukemia was fatal. One of the first survivors I knew of was a boy named Matt, who is a grown, healthy man today.

On Saturday, we watched the Nebraska men's basketball team play while wearing orange socks, and the coaches were wearing orange shirts that said Avery strong. And Avery Harriman, 7 years old, and a survivor of leukemia three times, was seated on the bench. It is so fun to watch him in the locker room or meeting the press after the games. He and Shavon Shields seem to have a special relationship that reminds me of Rex and Jack.

Those are truly miracles, aided by wise medical professionals and years of trials and learning which treatments are successful.

However, there are another kind of miracles, the kind that do not involve any medical intervention.

When I took the parish nurse class, a local family practice doctor told us about an experience he had while serving as a medical missionary in Africa.

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

The son of the tribal leader was very ill, and the local witch doctor had been unable to cure him. They brought him to the missionary clinic and Dr. Baer really didn't know what to do for him, either. So, he simply prayed. The boy survived, and the family converted.

Tomorrow, Jan. 27th, is International Holocaust Memorial Day. It will be seventy years since the liberation of the concentration camp at Auschwitz. There were only a few children left at the camp on that day, as the Nazis had known the Russian army was advancing and had moved many of the prisoners in land. Only the very young and the very weak were left. And a group of these were placed together and a fire set around them; all around them. A ten year old girl in that group who now gives tours at the concentration camp memorial site tells us that "the sky was clear and blue, but it rained. It rained and put out the fire."

That gave me goose bumps! Surely, that was a bona fide miracle. You can say that the African boy was going to get well anyway, but where did that rain come from, in the midst of a sky without a cloud?

I had not known about the Holocaust Memorial day. It was designated by the United Nations ten years ago, and we should observe it. We keep repeating, "Never again," but I'm not sure we mean it.

I plan to simply pray. Since I do believe that simply helps to create miracles.

Variety of meetings scheduled

Well, meeting season is well underway and with most crop production meetings done, we are moving on to the many applicator licensing meetings.

Private Pesticide Applicator Certification begins next week with meetings in Dakota City on Monday Feb. 2 at the USDA Service Center and the Haskell Ag Lab at Concord on Thursday, Feb. 5. There will be two meetings at each site, the first at 9 a.m. and the second at 1 p.m.

These meetings are good for both recertification and initial certification. If you are recertifying, please bring your bar coded letter from the state to make it easier for everyone. These private pesticide certification meetings cost $30. After the training, you will be billed another $25 from the State of Nebraska for your license. The license is good for three years. Later we will have meetings in Emerson (Feb. 17) and Pender (Feb. 26).

On Monday, March 2 there will be a meeting at the Nielsen Center in West Point at 1:30 p.m. Wayne County meetings will be at Winside on Tuesday, Feb. 17 at 1 p.m. at the Legion Hall and at the Wayne Fire Hall on Thursday, March 12 at 1 p.m. and 6 p.m. Remember, you can go to any meeting, you do not have to be a resident of the county you take the training in. For more information and more training sites, go to pested.unl.edu.

Ag Happenings
Keith Jarvi
Extension Educator

If for some reason you cannot make any of the meetings, you can get private pesticide certification by home study or by purchasing a CD and taking the training on-line. I would recommend taking the training in person as it is less expensive. For more information on these alternatives, go to the website pested.unl.edu.

Dakota City will have a recertification date for commercial/noncommercial applicators in categories 00 (general standards), 04 (ornamental and turf pest control), and 07 (right-of-way) on Friday, Feb. 20 at the USDA Service Center. This meeting will begin at 9 a.m. It is highly recommended that you pre-register on-line for this as the walk in registration is higher. Go to pested.unl.edu to register for this meeting.

Chemigation certification will be at the Haskell Ag Lab at Concord on Thursday, March 5 at 9 a.m. There is no charge for this meeting but you will have to pass a written test. If you would like study materials, please contact the Dixon Co. Extension Office at (402) 584-2234.

For all scheduled meetings in the northeast area sponsored or co-sponsored by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, go to the website nerec.unl.edu, or to your local county website.

Our Orchard Series is once again meeting in Dakota City on Saturday Jan. 31 at 10 a.m. The topic this week is brambles and other shrubs. The meeting is at the South Sioux City Library.

Supplement to improve calf performance

Can you feed your pregnant cows so their calves gain more weight and more heifers get pregnant? Recent research suggests that proper supplementation pays off.

As winter forage quality declines and cow nutrient demands increase, wise operators feed protein supplements to assure healthy calves plus cows that will rebreed rapidly. But protein supplements are expensive, so we usually feed only what the cow needs to stay healthy.

New research, though, suggests that this strategy of minimizing input costs may overlook the impact supplements have on the future performance of the calf.

Recent research has shown that properly supplementing the cow can increase profitability of the calf she's carrying. In one study, steers born from cows that received protein supplement while grazing winter range produced an extra 60 pounds of carcass weight per animal compared to steers from non-supplemented cows.

In other studies, the pregnancy rate of heifers from cows that received protein supplements while grazing corn residue or winter range was higher than heifers from non-supplemented cows. And steers from these supplemented cows graded choice more often.

This outcome, where supplementing protein to the cow improves the performance of her calves later in life is called fetal programming. It is thought to occur partly because cow nutrition affects development of fetal organs and muscles, which is highest during the last third of gestation. Since most winter feeding and grazing programs use forages that are low in protein, ad-equating supplementing can pay big dividends.

As cows approach calving time, don't scrimp on the protein. Feed what is needed, both for the cow and her calf. You'll be money ahead.

*Life is but a stopping place,
A pause in what's to be
A resting place along the road
To sweet eternity.*

*We all have different journeys,
Different paths along the way,
We all were meant to learn some things,
But never meant to stay.*

*Our destination is a place
Far greater than we know
For some, the journey's quicker
For some, the journey's slow.*

*And when the journey finally ends,
We'll claim a great reward
And find an everlasting peace,
Together with the Lord!*

*The road goes on and is smoother,
And the 'pause' in the song is a 'rest'
The part that's unsung and unfinished
Is the sweetest, the richest and best.*

*So rest, relax and grow stronger,
Let go and let God share your load.
Your work is not finished or ended,
You've just come to
"A" BEND IN THE ROAD."*

Whatever you did to console our hearts, we thank you so much!

Wes Blecke, Executive Director of Wayne Area Economic Development, provided the Council with the six-month LB 840 activity update.

Cap Peterson with Northeast Nebraska Insurance Agency presented and reviewed the 2015 Property and Casualty Insurance Package.

Discussion took place on whether or not to solicit engineering proposals for the "Wayne Aquatic Center Project." No motion was made; therefore, the same died for lack of a motion. A Resolution to approve JEO Consulting Group as the project engineer will be brought forward at the next meeting.

APPROVED: The 2015 Property and Casualty Insurance Package with Northeast Nebraska Insurance Agency.

Wayne, Nebraska January 20, 2015

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session at 9:00 a.m. on Tuesday, January 20, 2015 in the upstairs meeting room of the Courthouse.

Roll call was answered by Chairman Larson, Members Burbach and Rabe, and Deputy Clerk Biermann.

Advance notice of this meeting was published in the Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on January 8 2015.

A current copy of the Open Meetings Act was posted in the meeting room and accessible to the public.

The agenda was approved. The minutes of the January 6, 2015, meeting were approved as printed in the Commissioner's Record.

Emergency Manager, Nic Kemnitz, visited with the board about appointing Sheriff Jason Dwinell as a second representative for the county for FirstNet. FirstNet is a private, secure, wireless internet network that is being developed for use in emergency situations. It would not be as prone to being overloaded since no public access. The network would be beneficial for law enforcement due to the added security which is an additional reason for having Sheriff Dwinell included in the process. Motion by Rabe, seconded by Burbach to appoint Jason Dwinell as a second representative to FirstNet on behalf of Wayne County, Roll call vote, Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye, Larson-aye; motion carried.

Kemnitz then reported that the Mennonite Disaster Services group will be building five homes in Pilger to replace those destroyed by last year's tornadoes. The group is still open to build or help make major repairs to homes for Wayne County residents affected by the tornadoes, if the materials are provided. The Northeast Nebraska Long Term Recovery Team is working with interested persons.

Roads Project Manager, Mark Casey, reviewed and updated the Commissioners on several road and bridge projects that are being worked on.

A revised contract received from Theisen Construction regarding repairs to Bridge C009011620 was reviewed. Motion by Rabe, seconded by Burbach, to approve the contract, as now amended, to the amount of $94,049.00. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye, Larson-aye; motion carried.

The Board discussed the next step in moving forward with obtaining the necessary easements for project C-90(261) for replacement of Wayne County bridge #C009001220.

Motion by Rabe, second by Burbach to approve Resolution #15-01. Roll call vote: Rabe-aye, Burbach-aye, Larson-aye; motion carried.

Resolution #15-01: WHEREAS, Wayne County 851 Road between 560 Avenue and 561 Avenue is classified with a State Functional Classification of "Minimum Maintenance"; and WHEREAS, The existing timber girder bridge located approximately 2,100 feet west of the intersection with 561 Avenue has deteriorated to a point of needing replaced, and; WHEREAS, Project C-90(608) will replace the existing bridge with triple 72 inch diameter culvert pipes, and;

WHEREAS, The roadway over the new culverts will be surfaced with crushed rock, and; WHEREAS, The Rules and Regulations of the Board of Public Roads Classifications and Standards indicates that all proposed construction on "Minimum Maintenance" roads shall be submitted to the Board for review for relaxation of standards, and;

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, THAT THE COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA: Hereby respectfully request the Board of Public Roads Classification and Standards grant a "Relaxation of Standards" for replacement of the existing timber girder bridge with triple 72 inch diameter culvert pipes.

Motion by Burbach, second by Rabe to approve the claims and fee reports as submitted. Roll call vote: Burbach-aye, Rabe-aye, Larson-aye; motion carried.

Fee Reports: Debra Finn, County Clerk, $10,174.25 (Dec Fees); Karen McDonald, County Treasurer, $32.00 (4th Qtr 2014 Fees).

ORDINANCE NO. 2015-2 AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE ZONING MAP AND CHANGING THE ZONING OF TAX LOTS 40 AND 58, WHICH ARE PART OF THE SOUTHWEST QUARTER OF THE NORTHWEST QUARTER OF SECTION THIRTEEN, TOWNSHIP TWENTY-SIX NORTH, RANGE THREE, EAST OF THE 6TH P.M., WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, FROM R-2 RESIDENTIAL TO A-2 AGRICULTURAL RESIDENTIAL.

BE IT ORDAINED by the Mayor and Council of the City of Wayne, Nebraska:

Section 1. That the real estate area shown on the attached map be changed and rezoned from R-2 (Residential) to A-2 (Agricultural Residential). The area being rezoned is described as:

Tax Lots 40 and 58, which are part of the Southwest Quarter of the Northwest Quarter of Section 13, Township 26 North, Range 3, East of the 6th P.M., Wayne County, Nebraska.

Section 2. That the Planning Commission held a public hearing on January 5, 2015, regarding this rezoning request, and have recommended approval thereof subject to the following "Findings of Fact."

1. Staff's recommendation; and
2. Consistency with the Comprehensive Plan and the current and future land use maps.

Section 3. The official zoning map shall be forthwith changed by the zoning officials to properly show the real estate hereinabove described as now in an A-2 (Agricultural Residential District) zone.

Section 4. All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby amended and repealed.

Section 5. This ordinance shall take effect and be in full force from and after its passage, approval, and publication or posting as required by law.

Lecturer: Genetically engineered animals could ease world hunger

Genetically engineered food animals could provide a sustainable means to feed a fast-growing world population, yet regulatory hurdles keep such animals off the market, according to an award-winning scientist who recently spoke at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The world can ill afford the delay, said Alison Van Eenennaam, professor of animal science and a cooperative extension specialist at the University of California, Davis.

"The world's food demands in the rather near future won't allow us to waste time," she said.

Van Eenennaam, 2014 award winner of the Borlaug Council for Agricultural Science and Technology Communication Award, is known not only for her work with biotechnology, but also for her ability to help others understand complex animal biotechnology and genomics.

She delivered the Heuermann Lecture for UNL's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources. Named in honor of donors Keith and Norma Heuermann of Phillips, the public lecture series highlights issues relating to food security and natural resources.

According to the United Nations, more than 25,000 people die of hunger every day around the world, Van Eenennaam said.

Genetic engineering, which could significantly boost food production, faces tough scrutiny though it has not harmed anyone, she said.

For centuries, breeders have used conventional methods to produce animals with desired traits, by selecting and mating males and females to produce offspring that are taller, heavier or more fertile, for example.

Genetic engineering uses more targeted and powerful methods to introduce desirable traits into animals, Van Eenennaam said.

Although animal scientists have been using genetic engineering techniques for many years, to date only four pharmaceutical or industrial applications have been approved by federal authorities.

No multinational corporations are currently working to produce genetically engineered animals, she said. It is too difficult and costly to navigate the regulatory hurdles.

It costs $130 million to bring a genetically engineered crop to market, Van Eenennaam said. Meanwhile, a Canadian company has spent more than $60 million since 1989 in an attempt to obtain regulatory approval to grow salmon that are genetically engineered to be larger.

With other countries now developing genetically engineered cattle for food purposes, Van Eenennaam said she is concerned about American agriculture if the U.S. is unable to do the same.

Van Eenennaam called for consistent regulation across products based on risk levels – not based on how they are made.

New technologies do need to be regulated for safety, she said. But "in a world facing burgeoning demands on agriculture from population growth, economic growth, and climate change, overregulation is an indulgence that global food security can ill afford."

Research explained

Keith Jarvi, Extension Educator for the University of Nebraska - Dakota, Dixon and Thurston Counties, spoke of several different experiments being conducted both on-site and off-site by the staff at the Haskell Ag Lab near Concord. Jarvi was among those taking part in the annual VIP Tour held at the facility in August to showcase the research being done to benefit both the producers and consumers.

Renewable fuels good for economy, health

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has proposed to reduce the amount of renewable fuels in our nation's fuel supply, essentially using administrative action to change the terms of the Renewable Fuels Standard (RFS) passed by Congress. After a period of public comment during which more than 200,000 ethanol advocates (including some 6,000 Nebraska farmers) urged the EPA to reconsider, EPA recently announced that it had decided to not decide on the rule for the time being—and delayed action until some time in 2015.

In the meantime, the uncertainty this creates has stifled investment in new technologies such as cellulosic ethanol—and threatens the future of renewable fuels, which have been proven to clean our air, improve our nation's energy security and save consumers billions in fuel costs.

The growth of the biofuels industry has done more to increase corn demand over the past decade than any other single factor. The distillers grains produced at ethanol plants are a significant reason Nebraska has become the nation's leading cattle feeding state. It's important that the ethanol market continue to grow in order to use the record-breaking supplies of corn being produced.

One in seven Nebraskans is driving a Flex Fuel Vehicle, which can use higher blends of ethanol up to E85.

Nebraska is the nation's second largest ethanol producer. The ethanol industry has created thousands of jobs, many of them in rural areas of the state where good jobs are hard to come by. Ethanol in gasoline helps keep pump prices down, saving Nebraskans several hundred dollars in gas money each year.

But it's not just about the economy—it's about human health as well. Renewable fuels such as ethanol dramatically reduce the levels of cancer-causing toxic substances and lung-threatening particulate matter in vehicle exhaust. The more ethanol we use in our fuel, the cleaner our air.

Finally, the growth of renewable fuels gives consumers more choices at the pump—especially those who drive flex fuel vehicles (FFV's). About one in seven Nebraskans drives a Flex Fuel Vehicle.

The Nebraska Corn Board spearheaded an effort to get farmers and others to submit comment to EPA on its proposed rule. As a result, EPA received nearly 6,000 comments and letters from Nebraska.

The Nebraska Corn Board has advocated for ethanol for decades—from policy and legislation to promotion and education. Nebraska corn checkoff dollars are invested in consumer education programs regarding flex fuel vehicles and the benefits of choosing ethanol blends.

The Nebraska Corn Board works in partnership with fuel retailers to promote ethanol blends and to increase awareness of flex fuel vehicles.

Nebraska checkoff dollars are supporting the efforts of the U.S. Grains Council as it begins its efforts in promoting ethanol exports. The first step is a critical assessment of the global marketplace with a particular emphasis on Japan, Korea, Latin America and Southeast Asia. Growing the export market for U.S. ethanol will expand markets and provide growth opportunities for Nebraska ethanol plants.

Biotechnology vital in the corn industry

The Issues: While more than 1700 scientific studies have shown that biotechnology, otherwise known as genetically modified organisms (GMOs), have no adverse effect on human health, concerns about GMOs are affecting exports of grain, feed products and meat. The introduction and use of biotechnology is outpacing the review and approval processes in many international markets—and in some cases is being used for political maneuvering or protectionism.

For example, China has cut off imports of corn and distillers grains from the U.S., citing concerns about a new trait in corn that has not passed their internal approval process.

Why it matters to corn farmers: Biotechnology has helped farmers grow more corn with fewer inputs and less impact on the environment. But the lack of synchronization in global approval and acceptance of the science makes it absolutely critical that farmers comply with stewardship agreements—and know which markets are available for the corn they grow.

Why it matters to Nebraska: If Nebraska is going to help the world meet the challenge of feeding 9 billion people by 2050, we need to use science, technology and innovation to get us there. Nebraska farmers utilize biotechnology on 96 percent of their corn acres. Nebraska is also one of the nation's leading states in terms of seed research and seed production.

What the corn checkoff is doing: Working in partnership with the National Corn Growers Association, the U.S. Grains Council and other corn states, the Nebraska Corn Board is helping corn farmers understand the importance of compliance with stewardship agreements related to biotech hybrids. Through the "Know Before You Grow" program, farmers better understand the potential markets and barriers for the corn they produce.

New biotech corn hybrids have helped Nebraska corn farmers grow more corn with fewer inputs and less impact on the environment.

MAIZALL is a cooperative initiative involving the U.S., Argentina and Brazil, focused on streamlining the release and approval process of new biotechnology traits. The U.S. Grains Council, supported in part with Nebraska corn checkoff dollars, is leading the charge on this project.

The Nebraska Corn Board also supports CommonGround®, a nationwide network of farm women who connect directly with consumers at grocery stores and other venues to discuss issues related to food production, food safety and GMOs.

Research partnerships benefit producers, consumers

Research is about "what if" and "what's next." Research creates new opportunities, addresses challenges and finds solutions to problems. Research keeps Nebraska agriculture on the leading edge of food production.

Tighter university budgets create the need for innovative public-private partnerships to ensure that research is focused on issues that matter to Nebraskans—and can be put to practical use as quickly as possible.

Research leads down two paths: 1) New uses and expanded markets for corn; and 2) Improved production efficiencies that show up on the bottom line.

The ethanol industry and acceptance of distillers grains in the livestock industry were the result of research. New hybrids, irrigation scheduling strategies and other management practices have also emerged thanks to research.

Research is essential to ensuring the continued strength and leadership of Nebraska agriculture. Many research projects have an impact on issues important to Nebraskans including water quality, water conservation, environmental stewardship and food safety.

The Nebraska Corn Board solicits research proposals from the University of Nebraska—Lincoln and other entities on an annual basis. When selecting proposals for funding, the board places a high priority on applied research that promises direct benefit to Nebraska corn producers and livestock producers.

Current research projects are focused on feeding distillers grains, irrigation scheduling strategies on corn, weed resistance management, the use and management of cover crops and other projects dealing with efficiency, production and stewardship. Several of these projects are co-funded with the Nebraska Soybean Board.

Research findings are quickly transferred to farmers and ranchers through the statewide network of UNL extension educators.

bacterium Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt). This bacterium produces proteins toxic to certain pests—caterpillars, mosquitoes and corn rootworm—but do not affect humans and other mammals. The crops that contain the Bt gene can produce the toxin, thus shielding themselves from targeted pests—and reducing the need for pesticides.

Is genetic modification a new thing?

Manipulating genes in plants is an approach that has been used for centuries to make bread, cheese, wine and beer. Today, nearly every food on grocery store shelves has been modified by human hands at the genetic level. The foods we eat are modified using various breeding methods. Breeding alters a plant's genes so that it expresses new traits. That's how we get those desirable family favorites such as, seedless watermelons and grapes, red grapefruit, peanuts, honey crisp apples and other foods. GMOs and biotechnology simply accelerate this process. "Everything about science is learning new ways to speed up evolution so that we can come up with crops faster than Mother Nature ordinarily would," said Dr. Sally Mackenzie, Ralph and Alice Raikes Professor of Plant Science at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. "Genetically modified is a part of our future. If we want to eat with climate change, we will need technologies or we simply won't survive, and that's just a reality."

Are GMOs accepted around the world?

As of 2013, GMOs are grown, imported and/or used in 70 countries. Each of these countries has its own rigorous certification process. Bringing a new GMO to market involves extensive safety and environmental review by regulatory bodies around the world. More than 70 government bodies globally review and regulate GMOs. In the United States, agencies including U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and Food and Drug Administration (FDA) review GMOs.

Can GMOs really help us feed a growing world population?

Nine billion people on the planet by 2050: That's the challenge that faces agriculture. GMOs will help farmers grow more food on less land with less water and chemicals. "If we're going to feed this growing population, farmers around the world—especially those in developing nations—are going to have to produce more," said Alan Tiemann of Seward, a farmer-director on the Nebraska Corn Board. "Biotechnology provides a way for them to fight disease and pests, resist drought and increase yield on the land they already have." Yet, GMO technology is just one strategy. Reducing food waste, improving distribution, and employing other agricultural methods will also be required if we're going to meet the challenge of feeding nine billion people.

Animal agriculture important to corn farmers

Livestock production is Nebraska's largest single industry. In fact, Nebraska recently overtook Texas to become the nation's largest cattle feeding state. As the nation's second largest ethanol producer, Nebraska also has large supplies of distillers grains—a high-value livestock feed.

The recent drought decimated pasture and forage to the point that ranchers and livestock producers began to liquidate their herds. It takes years for a cowherd to rebuild, so cow numbers largest customers for Nebraska corn, either through raw corn or through distillers grains. Livestock production adds value to every bushel of corn. A thriving local livestock industry creates demand for corn as well as distillers grains, which creates demand for corn deliveries to ethanol plants.

Nebraska's unique "Golden Triangle" of corn, livestock and ethanol provides tremendous opportunity for job creation and economic growth. Research shows that Nebraska counties with a robust works to build markets for U.S. red meat around the world. USMEF has been instrumental in helping rebuild demand in Japan after it lifted its ban on U.S. beef in response to the BSE (bovine spongiform encephalopathy) scare more than 10 years ago.

The Nebraska Corn Board also invests in A-FAN, the Alliance for the Future of Agriculture in Nebraska as part of its efforts to support the expansion of responsible livestock production in the state.

the Nebraska Corn Board is working to develop the "I-29 Corridor" of dairy production and processing. Additional work is focused on dairy development in the Nebraska Panhandle to serve the Colorado Front Range markets.

Checkoff dollars also support a wide range of research projects at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln focused on feeding distillers grains, innovative feedlot cattle systems, and other projects that help make livestock producers even more efficient and successful.

Nebraska farmers examine export markets in South America

Corn Board member and District II representative, John Greer of Edgar, recently had the unique opportunity to experience a global market in South America from both the eyes of a customer and competitor.

Greer was a member of the U.S. Grains Council's (USGC) Grain Export Mission (GEM) that travelled to South America to observe local conditions, learn about trade opportunities and constraints and also meet with foreign customers eager for insight into U.S. production and export systems. Greer and his group visited Colombia and Brazil while another GEM group visited Argentina and Mexico.

"Traveling to South America was an exceptional opportunity to see the global market place at work," said Greer. "After spending some time with buyers and end-users in Colombia, we were pleased to hear that the U.S.-Colombia free trade agreement has created significant market opportunities for U.S. corn and corn co-products."

Colombia is the second largest corn importer in the Latin American region and a country in which the United States traditionally captured more than 80 percent of the market, though there had been erosion in U.S. market share due to unfavorable tariff treat-

This year, Colombian buyers returned to purchasing U.S. corn, driven by price and advantages from the implementation of the free trade agreement. In fact, the country exceeded its tariff rate quota (TRQ) in June but still continued to purchase U.S. corn.

Greer's team also visited Brazil, a critical competitor for U.S. agricultural exports but a market that faces many challenges with infrastructure. Understanding the current reality and the future prospects of Brazil's agricultural production is vital for U.S. farmers as they continue to export their commodities into the global marketplace.

"Colombia and Brazil are emerging economies that have remarkable global potential," said Greer. "As they continue to work to overcome their security and infrastructure problems, I predict their grain and livestock industries will develop into even greater market prospects for American exports."

At the completion of the mission, the two GEM groups met with USGC leadership and staff in Panama to debrief about their experience. Alan Tiemann, farmer from Seward, NE and at-large director on the NCB and vice chairman of the USGC, led many discussions with the GEM participants during their time in Panama. The participants concluded their mission with a tour of the Panama Canal, which gave them an opportunity to see first-hand the progress of the Panama Canal's expansion project.

"The purpose of the GEM is for participants to gain a clearer understanding of the challenges, opportunities and competition we face in the international marketplace, said Tiemann. "The opportunity for American producers to personally communicate and establish relationships with these key end-users and buyers is an essential piece to our global success. With 95 percent of the world's population living outside our borders, global awareness and connections are increasingly vital for everyone involved in agriculture."

Nebraska Corn Board is an active member of the U.S. Grains Council, a private, non-profit organization that works to develop exports in more than 50 countries from 10 worldwide offices and its Washington, D.C., headquarters. The GEM is a long-time program of the Council that builds awareness of the global grain trade among future U.S. agriculture leaders.

The Nebraska Corn Board is a self-help program, funded and managed by Nebraska corn farmers. Producers invest in the program at a rate of 1/2 of a cent per bushel of corn sold. Nebraska corn checkoff funds are invested in programs of market development, research and education.

Answers provided to frequently asked GMO questions

Are GMOs A-OK?

Food has become a hot topic in the media and around the dinner table. The production and politics of food are on the minds of policy makers, special interests groups and consumers in general. One of the most talked-about subjects is the advanced science used to produce new plants and organisms through the manipulation of genetic material. Following are answers to many of the questions consumers have about genetically modified organisms or GMOs.

What is a GMO?

When creating a GMO or genetically modified organism, researchers copy specific genetic information from one plant or organism and introduce it into another to improve or enhance a specific characteristic or trait, such as resistance to insects. Developing special traits in plants allows for more food to be grown in more places using fewer chemicals and fewer natural resources.

What's the difference between GMOs and biotechnology?

While the two terms are frequently used interchangeably, biotechnology more closely refers to the process or technology used to create GMOs. You may also see the term "GM", which of course means "genetically modified." When you hear farmers talk about "biotech" hybrids or varieties, they are talking about the GM seeds they plant.

Are GMOs safe for humans?

To date, more than 2,000 peer-reviewed studies have confirmed that GMOs are safe for human consumption. While there have been a handful of studies that state otherwise, these studies have been roundly debunked by scientists around the world. With over 25 years of independent research, there is no documented evidence of harm to human health or deaths from consumption of GM foods. (National Research Council, European Commission)

Are there GMO-free foods?

Genetically modified wheat is not grown in the United States. Genetically

Some 2,000 peer-reviewed independent studies have proven that GMO foods are safe for human consumption. In fact, over one trillion meals including GMO products have been safely consumed by humans.

modified corn, soybeans and other commodities are approved for production in the U.S. As a result, trace amounts of GM products are found in many processed foods in the form of corn, soybean or canola oils—even when those foods may be labeled "GMO-free."

Is it safe to eat meat and milk from animals that were fed GMO crops?

Absolutely. A 2012 review of 24 long-term or multigenerational studies found that genetically modified corn, soy, potato, and rice had no ill effects on the rats, cows, mice, quails, chickens, pigs and sheep that ate them. Growth, development, blood, tissue structure, urine chemistry and organ and body weights were normal.

How do biotech crops affect food prices?

Thanks to reduced input costs and higher yields, biotechnology actually nearly 10 percent higher for soybeans and 6 percent higher for corn.

How does genetic modification affect nutrition?

There is no difference. Exhaustive testing and FDA review has confirmed that GMOs are nutritionally the same as their non-GM counterparts. They have the same levels of key nutrients such as amino acids, proteins, fiber, minerals and vitamins.

Do GMOs cause allergies?

No. GMOs do not create new allergens that are not already present due to other unrelated factors. If a person is allergic to a non-GMO plant, they will be allergic to the GMO variety since the two are nutritionally the same.

Do GMOs cause gluten intolerance?

There is absolutely no relationship because there is no GMO wheat on the market today. If such a product were to come on the market, it could not cause new allergies because standard GM testing and FDA review ensure that GMOs are not introducing new potential allergens.

What is a Bt crop?

These are crops genetically engineered to carry a gene from the soil

Soil science

Charles Shapiro, Professor of Agronomy & Horticulture and a Soil Scientist at the Northeast Research and Extension Center's Haskell Ag Lab at Concord spoke to those in attendance at the 2014 VIP Tour. His topic was the preservation of the world's soil, both in regard to fertility needed to grow food and the need to maintain the soil for future generations.

Nebraska farm women meet their urban counterparts to discuss GMOs

CommonGround is a nationwide network of farm women dedicated to sharing the story of agriculture with their urban counterparts.

Joan Ruskamp of Dodge is a Nebraska CommonGround volunteer. She frequently visits grocery stores as part of the outreach initiative to talk directly with consumers about a wide variety of food issues including GMOs.

"The biggest fear I hear from consumers is about what we're doing to food when we genetically alter it—and if we are genetically altering our own bodies when we eat GMOs," she said. Ruskamp said CommonGround talks one-on-one with consumers to help them learn about the science behind GMOs, but in many cases it's an uphill battle.

"Science doesn't seem to be enough to combat the misinformation that is out there regarding GMOs," she said. "The whole world has studied the safety of GMOs from both the human ingestion and environmental perspectives and not one credible study has found any danger or concern. You can bet that if someplace like the European Union had found something in their research for us to be concerned about, the entire world would have heard about it."

Ruskamp cites an example of a GMO that could change the future for millions of children, but instead is currently banned from the marketplace. "Golden Rice, an incredibly beneficial GMO, is being blocked from the marketplace because of pushback from groups like Greenpeace and regulations that simply are not science-based. Golden Rice has been shown to help prevent blindness in newborn infants which is a serious problem in Asia and Africa," she said. "The moms I talk to can empathize with this—and they begin to understand that GMOs can actually be incredibly helpful and healthful."

Some GMO benefits that may surprise you

A new generation of GM crops is focused on improved nutrition and human health:

- Golden Rice and vitamin A enhanced cassava will deliver high levels of vitamin A, which is key for a healthy immune system, good vision and cell growth.
- Pineapple with lycopene, which may help prevent lung and prostate cancer.
- Peanuts with very low allergen lev-major crop plants such as corn be able to convert nitrogen in the air into their own fertilizer could significantly reduce the use of nitrogen fertilizers.

"People worried about converting land to grow crops should be especially supportive of GMO technology," said Tim Scheer, a St. Paul, Nebraska farmer and chairman of the Nebraska Corn Board. "Thanks to biotechnology, we are able to produce dramatically more food on less land. This is espe-calories. If all the Indian cotton farmers adopted this technology, food insecurity would fall by 15-20 percent. (Source: PLOS)

GM technology can result in better tasting fruits and vegetables that stay fresh longer and are naturally resistant to insects.

els that have the potential to eliminate life threatening peanut allergies

• High carotene mustard seed oil and enriched sweet potatoes are also among the innovations awaiting approval.

• Fungal resistant grapes that enhance mildew resistance.

• Edible vaccines to help prevent a variety of diseases are also in the works.

Scientists are working on an Omega 3 oilseed that would replace wild fish in rations for land based aquaculture operations. This innovation would help reduce overfishing by allowing field grown crops to be substituted for ocean fish.

Biotechnology is also helping improve the consistency, appearance and shelf life of foods—and that will lead to less wasted food.

GM technology can result in better-tasting fruits and vegetables that stay fresh longer and are naturally resistant to insects. More consistent produce that stays fresh can reduce food waste—and that alone helps increase the supply of food around the world.

How GMOs improve the environment.

Biotech hybrids and varieties dramatically reduce the amount of pesticides and herbicides used by farmers. Biotechnology saves the equivalent of 521,000 pounds of pesticides each year and helps cut herbicide runoff by 70 percent. (Sources: ISAAA, PG Economics)

Long term experiments conducted at the Haskell Ag Laboratory

By Charles Shapiro, Professor of Agronomy and Horticulture

The Haskell Ag Laboratory, known as HAL, has been a research farm since the 1960s. Over the years its faculty and staff have conducted many, many research experiments with the purpose of learning about how our crops and livestock grow in our environment.

Agricultural success is dependent on working with the natural resources we have and managing them for both present production and production into the future. We want to do that in a profitable way. Probably more experiments have been conducted on corn than any other crop at HAL. Over the years many crops have been experimented with, but year in and year out, corn probably has taken up more acres, and received the bulk of the faculty's interest.

There are many times I have to go 'off station' to find the right soil, the weed scientist needs the target weeds, and the entomologist the right insects, but only at HAL do we have complete control, and we don't have to worry about spreading a problem, causing a yield loss, or doing some costly damage to another person's property. This is especially true for my program, soil nutrient management, because sometimes it takes a while to see an impact of our management on the soil or subsequent crop.

I have tried to use the facility at HAL to conduct research that carries over from year to year to determine long term effects. I have three major continuous experiments. The largest one I call TR because it examines the effect of tillage, rotation and nitrogen rate. The other two are focused on phosphorus management. In this article I will focus on the long term tillage experiment.

Long term tillage experiment

The recent five years have shown us that weather is variable and that conducting an experiment for just a couple of years will not necessarily produce results that predict the future. Most of us who have been observing agriculture for a number of years realize the for various management practices we need to think in how often a practice will be beneficial. Tillage is a great case in point. In my long term TR experiment I have three tillage treatments: plow, disk and no-till. These tillage treatments are done every year. Generally the results have shown that plow and no-till are the extremes and disk is in the middle.

So what are the questions that we can answer? The first that comes to mind is whether no-till is better than tillage? Does no-till need more nitrogen? What is the effect of rotation on yields? Are there any different nitrogen strategies needed in continuous corn compared to corn following soybeans? Is there less erosion from no-till? Is there more carbon sequestered? Is organic matter being built up?

As I go over the results, remember that this is one location and the site is very fertile bottomland soil with high organic matter (more than 4%). If the experiment was on a hillside or the buckskin hills the results would be different. Let's take the questions one at a time:

Is no-till is better than tillage?

Surprisingly there is not much difference over the years (Table 1). The plowed plots are usually the lowest yielding, but between the disk and no-till there is not much difference. In 2012 with the extreme drought the plow ground yielded 9 bu/acre, the disk yielded 48, and the no till 68.

Does no-till need more nitrogen? It is a testament to our rich, productive bottomland soils that they can release so much nitrogen over the years. At zero nitrogen for 27 years the yields are equal, even in the last 10 years they are not different (Table 2). The traditional answer is that maybe plow would have higher yields because the disturbed soils would have more aeration and hence more microbial mineralization. These data show that in the long term the benefits of more residue, moister soils, and maybe cooler soils in the hot part of the summer balance out with the soil aeration. The yields were N was applied show the reduced tillage had more benefit and slightly increased yields.

What is the effect of rotation on yields?

There is no disputing that corn following soybeans yields more than continuous corn most of the time. But even in this case there are sometimes exceptions. Both times the exception was related to severe drought. In 1989 corn following soybeans yielded 73 and continuous corn yielded 89 bu/ac; in 2012 another drought year corn following soybeans yielded 35 and continuous corn yielded 47 bu/ac. (See Table 3)

Are there any different nitrogen strategies needed in continuous corn compared to corn following soybeans? The rotation effect was not overcome by increasing the nitrogo down. Again, these are highly fertile bottomland soils, which probably benefit from years of erosion from the hillsides above it. (See Table 4)

Is there less erosion from no-till? We have no measure of this since the slopes are less than 2%. This is one benefit of no-till, just not one we could measure at this experiment.

Is the soil better under no-till? Generally we try to avoid using terms that describe soil as good or bad, but we are all concerned that our soils remain productive. We measure the chemicals in the soil for crop nutrition. We like to see a soil that has good structure that can hold water and air, and roots can penetrate. Two measurements that help describe soils potential to function as we would like are water stable aggregates, the size of the aggregates is important since that effects how much water the soil can hold, speed of water infiltration, and ability of plant roots to explore the root zone. For aggregates, larger is better and they are measured in millimeters. The other measurement is soil carbon, which is valuable since it helps hold the soil aggregates together and we want to sequester carbon to help with the greenhouse gas problem.

Recently we published a study that looked into these variables in detail and found that while there was some improvement with the reduced tillage treatments, most of the improvement was between plow and both the disk and no-till. Most of the gain in soil carbon was in the top three inches, and there was not much difference between the two rotations under no-till. Water stable aggregates also increased with less tillage and it the surface nitrogen increased the size of the aggregates. However, a lower depths the aggregates were reduced with nitrogen, perhaps the nitrogen speeded up the breakdown of the aggregates.

Summary

The long term tillage study has lots more data than can be discussed here, but the value of having 27 years data from all sorts of weather conditions is apparent. Clearly, crop rotation has a tremendous effect on yields, and it is important to consider the long term when choosing a tillage system. One year or three years probably is not enough to determine trends. Choosing the nitrogen rate in the two rotations is critical since corn following soybeans yielded more with less nitrogen.

Corn is giving America more miles to the bushel.

Ethanol-blended gasoline has a lot to offer. It's cleaner burning for less carbon monoxide emissions. It has higher octane for better performance. And ethanol is made from renewable resources such as corn for an energy alternative to fossil fuels.

The next time you're filling up with an ethanol-blended gasoline, think about Nebraska's corn producers. They're growing the fuel of the future right here in Nebraska
