Senators juggle variety of issues at forum

By MICHAEL CARNES

Two Nebraska state senators in attendance at the 24th annual Legislative Forum in Wayne addressed everything from gay marriage to funding education in front of a reporter-estimated crowd

Hoskins Sen. Dave Bloomfield, representing District 17, and District 22 Sen. Paul Schumacher of Columbus fielded a number of questions – asked mostly by high school students from Wayne, Wakefield, Ponca and Madison - and gave some interesting answers during a 90-minute forum Friday morning at the Majestic

One of the first major issues under discussion were the prison system and the death penalty, and both senators said the death penalty issue is one they have wrestled with.

"My mother once told me that the state shouldn't have the ability to take away life unless they can give one back," Bloomfield said. "It's the toughest issue we have to work with down there."

Schumacher, who voted in favor of a bill that would eliminate the death penalty and replace it with life in prison with no parole,

"There are usually a lot of people absent or not paying attention to what is being said on the floor, but that wasn't the case when we discussed it yesterday. Everybody was in their chair and paying attention. There are some really bad people on death row, and the trend of history has been to get rid of the death penalty. It was really hard, but I pushed the green button (voting in favor)."

Regarding prison issues, Schumacher said the state has had overcrowding issues in its state prisons for a number of years. It currently sits at 157 percent of capacity, and it is only a matter of time before the courts order the state to do something to address

"When it got to 140 percent, the governor (then Dave Heineman) was supposed to declare an emergency and that never happened. Studies were ignored and people continued to be sentenced because the laws require it, even if a judge disagrees. We have 300 prisoners in solitary confinement right now, and the ACLU is threatening a lawsuit if we don't clean up the situation."

Bloomfield said that the state needs to address the mental health issues that are at the root of the issue for a lot of the state's incarcerated citizens.

"Nikko Jenkins begged to be incarcerated in a mental institution and told anybody who would listen that he'd kill again if he was let out," he said. "The state ignored him and let him out, and less than a week later he murdered four people in Omaha."

Legalizing marijuana was a subject both senators appeared to be in agreement on, although only for medical purposes, although Bloomfield was more adamant in his disdain for the drug from a

"I don't want a pot shop on every corner, but if can be regulated, there is no doubt in my mind that it can help people," said the area senator, who is co-sponsor of a bill that would allow for industrialgrade hemp plants to be harvested for industrial products. "I'm to-

New NU president visits Wayne schools

By CLARA OSTEN Of the Herald

Dr. Hank Bounds spent the first five days as President of the University of Nebraska

One of his stops was in Wayne on Friday, where he visited with Wayne High School students and Curt Frye, President of Wayne State College, college representatives and members of the community.

Dr. Bounds was accompanied by several members of the University staff, as well as Jim Pillen, a member of the University's Board of Regents; and Bryce Sebade, a 2014 Wayne High School graduate and current student at the University in Lincoln.

"The choices you make will determine the life you lead," is the message Dr. Bounds delivered to the Wayne High students. He told the students they "all had potential and there are all kinds of opportunities to get an education beyond high school," he

Dr. Bounds said that the world is changing at a faster rate than ever before, and the amount of information available doubles every few weeks.

"The jobs you will have available in 10 years have not even been invented yet, and all of these jobs will require an education beyond high school," Dr. Bounds said. He encouraged students to think about the next step and their life of 50 years in the

City faces threat of litigation

NPPD targeting three area cities

By MICHAEL CARNES Of The Herald

The City of Wayne is joining two other Northeast Nebraska communities and the Northeast Nebraska Public Power District in an exodus from a longtime power provider, and city officials are confident it can survive a promised lawsuit.

At Tuesday's City Council meeting, the board heard from city attorney Amy Miller and city administrator Lowell Johnson regarding the city's intention to not renew a 20-year contract with Nebraska Public Power District when the contract expires in 2021. The city has given the required five years' notice to NPPD, and the provider has told the city it will raise its rates an additional 5.7 percent – a move that is not in the city's contract with NPPD and the subject of what is expected to be a lawsuit that will include the cities of Wakefield and South Sioux City, along with Northeast Nebraska

Miller was asked by Councilman Matt Eischeid about the city's chances of winning a lawsuit against NPPD.

"Unless there is something NPPD has that we don't know about, I don't see how they can win," she said. "There is nothing in the contract that says they can (increase rates).

In an interview with The Wayne Herald after Tuesday's meeting, Johnson said that NPPD is price gouging the three communities and Northeast Nebraska Public Power because they intend to go elsewhere for the power they bring in to their respective enti-

"They haven't officially given us an amount yet, but I talked with (South Sioux City administrator) Lance Hedquist, and he said they told him it would be 5.7 percent, on top of the across-the-board increase they announced," Johnson said. "They're struggling now because their customers are unhappy, so they're trying to throw stuff on the wall and see what sticks."

Johnson said that NPPD's CEO, Pat Pope, first alluded to the additional charge at a November 2013 meeting of South Sioux City's City Council, saying that Pope told the South Sioux City board that if they left NPPD, the public power utility would have to charge more "because they have costs they have to catch up on."

"Nobody really understood what that meant at the time, but I asked their finance director what that meant, and she said they would have costs that would get stranded it we left," he added. "Nothing in our contract says anything about that. We don't have to renew, and we can leave whenever we want if we give five years notice.'

Big Rivers Electric Corporation.

Miller told The Wayne Herald that NPPD has taken on a tremendous amount of debt, operating under the assumption that all of the more than 70 public power utilities in the state would sign 20- or 25-year contracts. Now that Wayne, Wakefield, South Sioux City and Northeast Nebraska Public Power have decided to go elsewhere – and cities like Superior and Beatrice are also considering other options – they are trying to make up for that lost projected revenue by price gouging those communities who are not renewing their con-

"They took on debt assuming that these communities were going to sign contracts, and now that they aren't and they've acquired all this debt, they want to raise everybody's prices throughout the rest of the contract,"

Wayne Mayor Ken Chamberlain said he fully expects the City of Wayne, along with the other area entities, to be the target of a lawsuit by NPPD.

"Either way, we're going to wind up in court," he told

The City Council gave its blessing to the Wayne Fire Department to purchase additional capacity to a recently-donated tornado shelter at a cost of $2,030, with the shelter to be installed somewhere in or near the fire

Chief Phil Monahan said the original tornado shelter, which is built to withstand wind speeds higher than the tornado that struck Wayne in 2013, could hold as many as 11 people. With the additional space, he said they should have no problem getting 16-18 people into the shelter. The biggest concern was where to install the shelter. Monihan said that they could put it inside the fire hall.

but he was concerned about having to cut into the floor of the fire hall, which is heated and would require reconfiguration of the heating elements in the floor.

"With our building budget, we have to fix some overhead doors," he said, adding that he thought the funding for the buildings and installation could be part of the 2015-16 budget for the fire department.

Councilman Jennifer Sievers expressed about placing the shelter inside the fire hall.

"If you break up concrete in the fire hall where the floor is heated, you could end up getting in to a bigger project than you intended," she said.

Chamberlain said he wants to provide shelter for people who might need it, but was concerned about having the shelter inside the fire hall. Councilman Jill Brodersen agreed, stating that if it were anchored somewhere outside, it would not take up needed space in the building.

Funding for the additional shelter space will come out of the fire department budget, Chamberlain said. In other action, the Council:

Schumacher said that the original war on drugs was instituted by President Richard Nixon back in the 1970's, and he's still not certain that was the right decision.

"Nixon triggered the war on drugs during Vietnam, and the approach to criminalization hasn't stopped it," he said. "Colorado and Washington are experimenting right now with legalizing marijuana, and I'm watching how it impacts employment or driving under the influence. That will be a big factor in my decision. If it's not any different from booze, we'll see it taken off the prohibition list in the next five years."

Same-sex marriage was questioned, and while Bloomfield said he's against legalizing it, Schumacher said the state may not have a choice if the Supreme Court decides it is unconstitutional.

"Seventy percent of Nebraskans voted against it 10 years ago, so it's not an issue as far as the Legislature is concerned," he said. "State laws are being challenged, and most of the lower courts are saying it's unconstitutional. We will learn in the next six months on a (Supreme Court) ruling, and if they say it's unconstitutional, the Nebraska law will be struck down.'

"I have a grandson who is openly gay and wants to get married," Bloomfield said. "I'm personally opposed to it. No matter what the Supreme Court says, marriage is given to us by God. I don't think churches should be forced to perform weddings they don't believe in."

Minimum wage and education seemed to be a popular topic as well among the younger attendees at the forum, and both senators said the bigger issue for the state isn't unemployment so much as lack of potential employees to fill jobs that are needed in the state.

"We don't have an employment problem in Nebraska," Schumacher said, noting that Nebraska's 2.7 percent unemployment rate is the lowest in the nation. "In Columbus can't find people to do the work they need to have done, and those they do hire are unreliable."

Bloomfield agreed, adding "Part of our problem is that we have people who are trained for jobs that aren't there. Nobody wants to do the physical labor jobs, and they are jobs that pay very well. I'm not saying you should all rush out and be a truck driver, but not all of us are going to be doctors and ballerinas."

Bloomfield touted the community college system as an option for younger people to consider, which offer technical training and support in looking for well-paying jobs right out of college.

"Northeast Community College has several great programs, and I think the state should be involved more in financing them," he said. "I tally opposed to recreational use, where I live, we have factories that hate spending taxpayer dollars, but why are we helping the university (system) and not the community colleges?

> Schumacher said he was concerned that the focus of the state colleges, including Wayne State College, has changed from its original intent.

"We used to know what the function of the state college system was," he said. "There may be more efficient ways through consolidation, but the reason we don't look at it is because the function of these schools is to sustain the communities that host them. Do we need great universities and colleges? Yes. Are we delivering them in the most efficient manner? Probably not."

WSC president finalists to visit campus next week

Three finalists for the job of President of Wayne ingoutcomes, developing new academic programs, and State College will visit the campus early next week to meet with a number of individuals and groups.

The three finalists for the position, as announced by Nebraska State College System Chancellor Stan Carpenter, are Dr. Randall G. Pembrook, vice president for academic affairs at Washburn University in Topeka, Kan.; Dr. Marysz Palezewski Rames, interim president, Dakota State University, Madison, S.D.; and Dr. James E. Williams, vice president for student affairs, Emporia State University, Emporia, Kan.

The three finalists were identified by the Presidential

Search Committee in its search for replacing current Wayne State College President Curt Frye, who will retire as the college's 12th president on June 30. Members of the search committee include faculty, alumni, college and system office staff, Nebrasksa State College System board members, community leaders and a stu-

"I want to thank all of the members of the Presidential Search Committee for their dedication and hard work and for taking on a task so vitally important to the future of Wayne State College," Carpenter said. "We are looking forward to introducing the candidates to all that Wayne State College and the greater Wayne community have to offer."

Dr. Pembrook (Ph.D. in music education) is involved in the development of numerous initiatives aimed at engaging students through recruitment and retention initiatives, identifying university-wide student learn-focusing on teaching excellence.

Prior to his arrival at Washburn, Pembrook held numerous administrative positions including executive vice president/provost, dean, associate dean, chair, and faculty at Baker University in Kansas and the University of Missouri-Kansas City Conservatory of Music

Dr. Rames (Ed.D. in adult and higher education) is responsible for the overall operation of Dakota State University, including academics, athletics, budget and fiscal affairs, enrollment management, foundation fundraising activities, physical plant operations, and student life. As interim president, Rames has finalized the university's five-year strategic plan, revitalized the university's foundation, promoted shared governance, developed scholarship programs, and focused on a holistic student success model.

Prior to being appointed as interim president, Rames was vice president for student affairs at Dakota State University, a position she still holds.

Dr. Williams (Ph.D in educational policy and leadership) leads a comprehensive division that includes enrollment management and student life. Williams currently provides leadership for 15 departments with over 150 team members focused on enhancing student access and the co-curricular experience while supporting the academic mission of the institution.

Prior to his current position, he worked in numerous positions focused on building new partnerships with internal and external stakeholders and leading strategic planning. Previously, Williams held leadership positions at Emporia State University, the University of Nebraska at Kearney, and South Dakota State Uni-

Swimming? How about some rugby?

Things I was thinking about while wondering if the world really would end if the Chicago Cubs ever made it back to the World Series:

- The Northern Sun Conference announced earlier this week that it is adding women's swimming and diving to the list of events it sanctions as a conference, beginning with the 2016-17 season.

Competitive swimming? In the Dakotas and Minnesota? This makes about as much sense as the Southeast Conference adding ice hockey and watching LSU and Florida battle it out.

Now if the NSIC were REALLY interested in adding a sport where they have programs that can compete on a national scale, they'd be the first conference among all the NCAA schools to bring women's rugby into the fold. You've got a perennial national title contender here at Wayne State, and some pretty darn good teams in places like Bemidji State, MSU Moorhead and Winona State. Many of these teams have established club programs in place that would segue nicely into a varsity-based environment and in Wayne State's case – settle just about any current or would-be Title IX issue being investigated by the Office of Civil Rights.

Oh, sorry . . . that was too much common sense for one paragraph. Let's move on . . .

- Hey, speaking of rugby, how about this for a doubleheader: both Wayne State 7-on-7 rugby teams are playing in their respective Elite Eights this spring.

The women's team - the defending 7-on-7 national champs from a year ago – are headed to New York next week for a shot at a second straight title in sevens. The weekend after Memorial Day, the Wayne State men travel to Philadelphia for a chance to potentially play on national television, as the men's 7-on-7 national championships are broadcast on NBC.

- Watching the Wildcat softball team the other day, I was trying to figure out what is the more likely scenario: an opposing team setting down the top of the Wayne State softball team's lineup in order, or me winning the Powerball on backto-back drawings with the same set of numbers.

Leadoff lefty Lexi Loos (try to say that five times fast) has an on-base percentage of better than .500 and has struck out just nine times in 169 at bats while leading the team with a .473 average and setting a new single-season team record for hits. Jordan King (.365 BA, .385 OBP) has just six K's in 148 trips, Kaiti Williams touts a .445 on-base percentage and is the team's all-time leader in doubles, and Kelcie Bormann (.354 BA) and Sam O'Brien (.302 BA) give the Wildcats a ton of offensive potential in the first half of the lineup.

But as any coach will tell you, softball games, especially this time of the season, are won with pitching and defense. If everything is clicking, this team has the capability of battling for a conference title, which they will probably need to win in order to make it into a very tough Central Regional bracket.

– Finally, from the "when you're hot, you're hot" department: the ceiling for national champion shot put thrower Sara Wells has yet to be discovered, and hopefully that won't come until her final throw in the Div. II nationals next month in Michigan.

The top thrower in the event in all of Div. II continues to extend the school's all-time standard, cranking out a 53 foot, 9 inch effort at last week's Sioux City Relays. At Tuesday's Wildcat Fan Club luncheon, coach Marlon Brink said he thinks 55 or 56 feet is on Wells' horizon.

Wells also has one of the top three throws in the discus and is in the top 20 in the hammer throw, putting her in position to be a threeevent All-American and – if all falls just right – a multiple-event national champion.

Men, women both reach Elite Eight

The Wayne State rugby program is doubling its postseason pleasure

The women's rugby team secured a spot in the 7-on-7 Nationals next week in New York with a dominating season that has them ranked No. 1 in the nation heading into the NSCRO Sevens Championships.

Not to be outdone, the Wayne State men won an exciting regional final over Wisconsin-Eau Claire to earn a spot in the men's national tournament, which will be held in Philadelphia, Pa., May 30-June 1 and be broadcast on the NBC television network

The women had pretty much locked in a trip to the national tournament as a wild card prior to last weekend's regional tournament in Des Moines, Iowa, but decided they'd rather go as a regional champion and dominated the field with wins over Simpson College (34-7), Northern State (41-7) and Augustana (48-0) to take a 15-1 record into rugby's version of the Elite Eight.

Nebraska-Kearney scored six runs in the sixth inning to snap a 2-2 tie and go on to an 8-5 win over Wayne State in college baseball action April 22 in Kearney.

Kearney scored single runs in the second and fifth innings to hold a 2-0 advantage after five innings of play before Wayne State rallied for two in the sixth to tie the game. John Roberts doubled and scored on a Michael Herman double for the first run, with Albert Johnson delivering a run-scoring single that scored Herman.

The Lopers erupted for six runs in the bottom of the sixth on five hits, fueled by a Brandon Landanger grand slam, giving them an 8-2 lead. Wayne State scored three in the top of the eighth on a three-run homer by Herman, but it wasn't enough as the in-state rival Lopers came away with the win.

Roberts extended his hit streak to 11 games by going 3-for-4 with a double and two runs scored to lead Wayne State's nine-hit effort. Herman finished 2-for-4 with a homer, double, four RBI's and two runs scored. Johnson, Curtis Bussard, Quinn McGill and Kevin Andersen also had hits.

Roberts (0-1) suffered the pitching loss for the Wildcats, giving up six runs on seven hits in 5 1/3 innings with three strikeouts and four walks. Nick Ragan worked twothirds of an inning and was charged with two runs on three hits. Sophomore reliever Joev Lenihan worked one inning of relief with one walk and one strikeout while junior Connor Keating pitched the final inning and retired all three batters he Bussard became Wayne State's all-time saves leader to highlight Wayne State's 3-1 effort on the road at Augustana over the weekend.

On Friday Bussard shut the door on the Vikings for his 11th career save, breaking the old school record of 10 shared by Adam McGuire (2004-07) and Dustin Nilius (2001-05), and leading Wayne State to a 5-4 win in the first of two in Sioux Falls, S.D. The Vikings came back from a 6-0 deficit in the nightcap to take an 11-8 win.

Wayne State opened the scoring in the second when Albert Johnson hit a ground rule double and scored on a Kevin Andersen groundout. They extended the lead to 4-0 in the third when Herman hit a three-run homer to left, scoring Bussard and McGill.

Nate Ackerman doubled and scored on a Herman double in the fifth to make it 5-0, but the Vikings came back with two runs in the fifth and sixth innings, and had the tying and winning runs in scoring po-

Two Wayne State standouts were recognized as Athletes of the Week by the Northern Sun Conference.

Senior outfielder Kaiti Williams was named the Northern Sun Conference Softball Player of the Week.

Williams posted a team-high .500 average last week, going 14-for-28 at the plate with three doubles, one triple, three homers and eight RBI's.

She started the week by becoming the all-time doubles leader at Wayne State, recording her 50th career double vs. Washburn last Thursday. Williams then produced five straight multi-hit games against Washburn, St. Cloud State and Minnesota Duluth. She was 3-for-3 with homer, double and RBI's two in a 7-5 win over Washburn. Williams went 3-for-

For the third consecutive week, Wayne State senior Sara Wells was named the Northern Sun Conference Women's Outdoor Field Athlete of the Week.

The senior thrower was named the Women's Athlete of the Meet at the Sioux City Relays last weekend after winning two events and placing second in the other. She set a new school record in the shot put at 53 feet, 9 inches to improve on her NCAA Div. II-leading mark in the event. Wells also earned a first in the discus with a top throw of 158-10 and was second in the hammer throw with a season best of 178-4.

Besides leading NCAA Div. II in the shot put, Wells also ranks third in the discus and is 17th in the hammer throw.

Area teams compete at LCC

LAUREL - Area golfers came away with two medals at the LCC Invitational Thursday at Cedar View Country Club.

LCC finished 12th in the 15-team tournament to lead the three area schools competing. Their round of 404 was led by Trev Erwin, who shot 90. Also scoring were Nolan Casey with a 94, Billy Barelman with a 108, Logan Hansen with a 112, Bradley Steffen with a 120.

Wayne was four shots behind the Bears and were led by Tyler Echtenkamp, who finished 14th overall with an 88. Also scoring were Hunter Jorgensen with a 100, Jayse Munsell with a 107, Garret Reynolds with a 113, and Aaron Fleiming with a 120.

"It was our first invite of the year, and Tyler was able to shoot his career low and get a medal and that was fun to watch," Wayne coach Dave Hix said. "He drove the ball really well, and that set up a lot of open second shots." Wakefield was 14th overall with a 420, and Tim Anderson's round of 83 was good for sixth overall. Other Wakefield scores included Parker Lehmkuhl with a 93, Matt Christiansen with a 117, and Payton Rusk with a 127.

The Wayne High golfers struggled in posting a 15th place finish Tuesday at the Blair Invitational.

None of the four Blue Devils were able to stay in double digits for the round, with Tyler Echtenkamp's round of 101 leading the way. Aaron Fleming shot 113, Garret Reynolds had a 121 and Jayse Munsell shot

Wells continues assault on marks

Wayne State senior Sara Wells' attack on the record books continued this past week as she claimed Athlete of the Meet honors at last week's Sioux City Relays.

The indoor national champion in the shot put added to her school record and NCAA Div. II-leading effort in the outdoor version of the event, uncorking a toss of 53 feet, 9 inches that was easily the best mark in the event. It also improved her school-record mark for the third straight week, bettering the mark of 53-4 1/2 she set last week in Seward at the Concordia Invitational.

Wells also took first place honors in the discus with a throw of 158-10 that was good for an NCAA provisional mark, and was second in the hammer throw with a season-best mark of 178-4.

In the hammer throw, Michaela Dendinger finished third with an NCAA provisional toss of 172-2, Kvndra Sturm was fifth at 164-1. Shandan Platt placed seventh at 160-1 and redshirt freshman Tessa Ives was 11th at 143-1.

In the discus, Kacie O'Connor finished third (139-9), while Platt was third in the shot put (44-2 1/2).

In other women's action, Megan Svitak posted a sixth-place finish in the high jump (5-0 1/4) and was 10th in the 100-meter hurdles in 15.71 seconds, Andrea DeSimone placed seventh in the 10,000-meter run (41:48.06) and Rebecca Dav-

Don't get me started

By: Michael Carnes Managing Editor

State senator not representing us

Our state senator, Dave Bloomfield, has a little less than two years left pefore he will be term-limited out of the District 17 office in Lincoln –and November 2016 can't get here fast enough.

Lately, our state senator seems to be on a crash course for taking the phrase "lame duck politician" to a whole new level. From beating dead horses to siding with fellow legislators who say they'd shoot a police officer, I'm sure the other 48 people in the Unicameral have got to be wondering what those of us in this part of the state were thinking when we elected Bloomfield to office.

Bloomfield doesn't seem to be all that interested in the will of the people, if some of his most recent legislative blunders are an indication. He's promised to continue fighting the state's motorcycle helmet law – which he stated during Friday's Wayne Area Chamber Legislative Forum at the Majestic Theatre – even though the people of Nebraska have clearly stated an opinion to the contrary. What part of "NO" does he not understand on this issue? Obviously, more than half of his fellow legislators get the message – the issue has been voted down every time Bloomfield has gotten the bill to the full body. But what's one more time when you don't have to worry about being called to the carpet in the next election cycle?

Bloomfield has introduced other legislation that is more worthy of making it to the floor of the Legislature (LB303, for example, which would help schools educate children on sexual abuse), but his misguided passion for getting his helmet-optional bill through makes one wonder if he really is listening to his constituents, or is being lobbied by an outside interest.

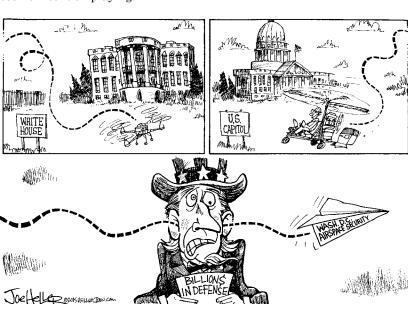

Medical studies have shown that a motorcycle helmet saves lives, much in the same way seat belts save lives in motor vehicles. Properly-worn helmets have been proven, time and time again, to save lives. Those who are against helmets will say that it cuts down their field of vision, but when an accident does occur, a helmet will be the only thing standing in the way of a rider's brains and the pavement. A concussion, in my opinion, is a better fate to experience than having your skull cracked and suffering permanent brain damage, if not instant death.

And while I can agree that too many college students are avoiding wellpaying industrial jobs and training for careers that are either in short supply or non-existent, Bloomfield's comment that "not all of us can be doctors and ballerinas" at Friday's Legislative Forum was unquestionably the "does he even THINK before he speaks?" moment of the day. I know there are a lot of kids who want to be doctors – I was not aware, however, that there was a such a glut of would-be toe-tappers looking to enter the highly-paid world (please note the sarcasm) of performance ballet.

And I found it hilariously arrogant of Bloomfield to play the "Four of the last five generations of my family fought for the First Amendment" card in his recent explanation of why he supported Sen. Ernie Chambers' statement that he would shoot a police officer. Whenever somebody goes to that to the next round of consideration card, it tells me that he doesn't really know what the First Amendment and to pass it into law. It takes 30

The First Amendment does not give you the right to yell "fire" in a crowded theatre (Former Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. referred to crowded theatre (Former Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. referred to this in a 1919 decision regarding the First Amendment). Inciting violence Legislative Update against another human being, even if done in jest, similarly is not protected by the First Amendment. Would it be right for me to say that if I were to meet the senator on the street, I'd shoot first and ask questions later? Of course not – and the same holds true for ANYBODY – especially a state senator – to say the same about a meeting with a police officer, regardless

I don't doubt that Sen. Bloomfield's job is not an easy one, especially when you're being paid less than the minimum wage to do everything a state senator has to do while in office. That being said, he's clearly not cate for doing away with the current listening to his constituents, and I think voters in District 17 would appreciate it if he worked the last 20 months of his term as a representative of the voters in this district, rather than as the lame-duck character he seems intent on playing.

Legislature, governor at odds

By J.L. SCHMIDT Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

The Nebraska Legislature and the governor appear to be at odds on several issues, and that's a good thing because it means the system

New Republican Governor Pete Ricketts has been vocal about his dislike of several moves made so far by the non-partisan Unicameral, which is comprised of 35 Republicans, 13 Democrats and 1 Independent. It means the non-partisan body has some semblance of unity on hot topics and is not bowing to the partisan influence of a governor. That's a refreshing switch from a decade of Heavy-Handed Heineman who seemed to have some mystical control over lawmakers for reasons that no one seems to be able to ex-

It helps that there are a number of new faces as well as seasoned veterans discussing the stuff that becomes law for the rest of us. I firmly believe that. In fact, I have a framed quotation in my office that reads: "A company or a team needs to be constantly rejuvenated by the infusion of young blood. It needs young people with the imagination and the guts to turn everything upside down if they can.

"It also needs old fogies to keep them from turning upside down those things that ought to be right side up. Above all, it needs young rebels and old conservatives who can work together, challenge each other's values, yield or hold fast with equal grace, and continue after each hard-fought battle to respect

The quote came a decade ago from the program of a group called Community Builders, one of those University of Nebraska extension/ private foundation collaborative programs responsible for organizing and recognizing individual efforts in community redevelopment. But, it fits the Legislature perfectly. Community, unity, action.

It takes 25 votes to advance a bill votes to override a gubernatorial it if they all agreed. But they need some Democrats to weigh in. The Democrats definitely need Republican cooperation. The beauty of nonpartisan goals.

Ricketts has come out strongly against Medicaid expansion. In a lengthy news release from his office, Ricketts urged lawmakers to look for a Nebraska solution to the problem instead of relying on federal government aid. The expansion bill (LB472) appears to be dead for the session, but supporters have vowed to bring it back next year.

Another Rickett's release took a swipe at a bill (LB623) to end Nebraska's ban on driver's licenses for the children of illegal immigrants. The Transportation and Telecommunications Committee voted 5-2 to send the measure to the full Legislature for debate. Nebraska is the only state that denies driver's licenses to children who arrived with

"I am incredibly disappointed" by the action of the committee, the governor said. "I remain strongly opposed to extending state benefits to individuals who have entered our country illegally, and remain opposed to this legislation." The bill has 25 sponsors and should make it through three rounds of debate. It will take five more votes to overcome Rickett's likely veto. That will make for some interesting floor debate and posturing when it comes time to vote.

In another show of non-partisan cooperation, lawmakers rejected a bill (LB649) that sounded good on veto. It takes 33 votes to end a fili- their parents when they settled il- its face but was actually introduced ture for seeing through the sham.

change that would have ended the secret ballot votes for committee lican Party wanted the change in order to see how many Republican senators were voting for Democrats who were running for said chairs. Petty, at best.

The bill was purported to clarify that all votes taken by public officials in course of their public duties shall be considered public records. Proponents said it improves transparency by making sure that all votes of public officials are available for the electorate to obtain as they assess their public officials actions could serve to two six-year terms instead of two four-year terms. We did move the bill to Select File to get the language correct, but no further.

Nebraska has accountability and disclosure laws and a commission to oversee and enforce them. That is sufficient, thank you.

LB610, brought by Sen. Jim Smith of Papillion, which would increase the gas tax 6 cents over the next four years, passed "Select" and has now advanced to Final Reading, the final stage before being sent to Governor Ricketts. I discussed this bill a couple of weeks ago; I hope the Governor will veto the bill if it does indeed pass. Nebraskans do not need or want a tax

This week, the Legislature spent a lot of time discussing minimum wage. Last November the people of Nebraska voted to increase the minimum wage to $8 an hour on January 1, 2015 and then to $9 an hour on January 1, 2016. Our current minimum wage law does provide for a few exemptions. People compensated by way of gratuities (waitresses, waiters, bellhops and porters) are paid the minimum wage of $2.13 per hour, plus all of the gra- bill was brought at the request of tuities given to them. The sum of the wages plus the gratuities must equal or exceed the minimum wage rate. Additionally, student-learners who are part of a vocational training program can be paid at a rate of at least 75 percent of the minimum wage. Current law also provides for a training wage. The training wage is for an employee younger than 20 years of age and not a seasonal or migrant worker and it is at least 75 percent of the federal minimum wage for 90 days from the hiring date. The employer may pay such new employee the training wage rate for an additional 90-day period if the employee is participating in on-the-job training, which 1) requires technical, personal, or other skills necessary for employment and 2) is approved by the Commissioner of Labor. No more than onefourth of the total hours paid by the employer shall be at the training

Sen. Jeremy Nordquist of Omaha brought LB494, which would have increased the minimum wage for gratuity workers from the current $2.13 an hour to $2.35 in August and then $2.64 next year. It was argued that would be keeping it on pace with the overall minimum wage that was increased by the voters last fall. I did not support this bill and it failed to get the votes necessary to advance. The second bill we discussed regarding minimum wages was LB599, brought by Senator Laura Ebke of Crete, which would lower the minimum wage for workers under 18 who are enrolled in school. The Business and Labor Committee advanced this bill to the full Legislature with an amendment. The original bill would have rolled back the minimum wage for these young workers to $7.25 an hour, the committee amendment that was adopted will keep the minimum wage for the youngsters at $8.00 an hour even thru 2016. es the needs for your family will change:

Consider storing two weeksworth of food supplies:

 Store at least a thre-day supply of water which means one gallon per person per day. - Don't forget about pets; they'll need food and water too.

- Learn where your gas, electric, and water shut-off locations are and how to turn them off.

For a 4-H activity create a Family

Communication Plan. You and your family may not be together when a disaster hits. It's important to create a Family Communication Plan to help you and your loved ones connect and get help. Complete a contact card for each family member. Have these cards handy in a wallet, purse, backpack or all three. Because of the convenience of cell phones many of us have not memorized the numbers, the cell phone may be lost or the phone may not be charged. Family contacts are important, but identify an out-of-town contact, such as a friend or a relative, who family members can call to let them know all family members are safe. It may be easier to make a long-distance phone call than to call across town, because the phone lines can be jammed. An out-of-town contact may be in a better position to communicate among separated family Always remember to review these plans with all members of your family and don't forget to consider what you would do with your pets.

No need for loopholes with God's word

In Faith

Pastor, Our Savior Lutheran Church

Just before the death of actor W. C. Fields, a friend visited Fields' hospital room and was surprised to find him thumbing through a Bible. Asked what he was doing with a Bible, Fields replied, "I'm looking for

It occurs to me that this seemingly harmless quote is descriptive of people in every generation; we're all looking for loopholes. If God is as demanding as often portrayed, then we are expected to follow God's expectations perfectly. The punishment is death. No exceptions. No slack. No margin for error. So what do we do? We look for loopholes.

This practice is as old as time. Jewish people back in Biblical times made their own loopholes; they interpreted scripture to fit their circumstances. For example, they cre- for instance, weave on Sunday but ated about a dozen "exceptions" for they sure could hire some non-Jewwhat constituted working on the ish person to finish that rug. work" but they could get a lot of $hold\ dance\ April\ 24$ work accomplished.

We don't have to do that anymore - at least where it comes to God and our faith because we just heard the mother of all loopholes on Easter Sunday. "He is Risen!" We no longer have to fear that our failures in life will condemn us forever. We no longer have to fear God's wrath because we have broken the law. We no longer have to come up with our own flimsy loopholes.

Because of Christ we no longer have to fear that we aren't good enough for God. Jesus has paid the price for us and we are now pronounced "good enough." Through Christ we now have life and have it

The next meeting is the Anniversary Meeting. Members agreed to keep it just a regular meeting.

Bible Study: Pastor Feldmann led the study from the current Lutheran Witness "How Do We Live?" The ladies studied several Scripture passages to answer the question "What is the work God wants me to do?" They realize God has called them to more work than they can possibly accomplish. The group then looked at Luther's four estates: our families, the church, the civil realm and Christian love which permeates the first three. Remembering the Gospel, we do not do this alone: Christ is the one with the authority and is the active one at work through us by the gift of His Spirit. (John 15:16)

The birthday song was sung for Leoma Baker (who received a lighted cupcake), Bernita Sherbahn and Phyllis Nolte (who were abent).

Hollis Frese presented a program on the Colony of South Carolina. King Charles of England gave the land in the 1660's. The first settlement was near Albermarle Point but about 10 years later moved to the southern coastal region of Charles Town. Some of the major crops were tea, indigo, rice and grains. They were labor intensive crops and much slave labor was needed to grow them. Livestock raised included swine. Wild turkeys, deer, elk, buffalo and bear were plentiful.

Most people, except for those in the back country, prospered and built large stately homes. The colony had many varieties of trees. Today its known as the Peach Capital

Tree City USA

Allen was among the 101 Nebraska towns to be named a 2014 Tree City USA by the Arbor Day Foundation in honor of its commitment to effective urban forest management.

This is the 22nd year Allen has received this designation by meeting the program's four requirements which are having a tree board, a tree care ordinance, annual community forestry budget of at least $2 per resident, and an Arbor Day observance and proclamation.

The Arbor Day program this year will be on Arbor Day, Friday, April

Easter Egg Hunt Results

The Allen Easter Egg Hunt, sponsored by the Allen Community Club, provided only minutes of hunting and finding the 2,000 Easter eggs hidden in the park for the over 100 children who enjoyed the activity. Check out the Allen Community Facebook page for a video of the excitement of the children and their parents/grandparents/guardians had on April 4.

Looking for the awe in the world

I've been checking email for the last hour. When you only check once a day, it does tend to pile up.

There was a gruesome notice from a national organization reporting that THIRTY more Christians were executed, this time in Ethiopia! It gives me the shudders, and it makes me so angry. Add these horrendous acts to things like the kidnapping of 250 girls, and the assassination of Christian students in an African college, and you can't help but wonder how the world can stand helplessly by and watch. The figures say there have been more Christians persecuted in the last century than ever before. I know it causes me to get on my knees.

Then there was a friendly note from a couple in Kimball; the husband was in the Big Farmer's fraternity at UNL. They are in the process of remodeling a bathroom and have been wall papering for three days, understanding why most people who do this for a living are alcoholics! I've always been told it is not wise for a couple to attempt to do this together, and they are con-

But they mentioned that their minister asked them on Sunday to consider the word "awe". He wondered if they had had any in their lives lately. Their response was a herd of eleven deer that come to graze. After church on Sunday, they were even lying down in the yard! It's good to gaze on God's creatures and remember to be awed by them. It sort of counteracts some of the evil we hear about every day.

I've decided to look for awe in my daily life this week. And I can start with the couple in the booth next to my friend and I as we had breakfast together in a local cafe this morning. The husband was in military camouflage, and they had with them. I think I read somethe back yard of this farmstead to where that a baby is God's desire good news for all of you this week.

that the world should keep on. And she was definitely a poster child for that quote!

There was some awe on Sunday afternoon at a nearby church where Concordia, Seward's choir, presented a concert on the final leg of their spring tour. The way they sang in Latin and German as easily as in English, sometimes in eight part harmony, sometimes accompanied by organ and brass, or guitar, singing everything from early hymns to spirituals to a cute little bit of nonsense written by Ogden Nash. Remember him?

And my friend and I had to smile. All the ladies in the choir had on long black dresses and a single string of pearls. All the men had on black suits and ties and white shirts. ONE girl, in the front row, had PINK hair. You can imagine, it really stood out in all that black. If I had been the director, I would have wanted to strangle her, but of course, you can't do that. She was EXPRESSING herself, right? God bless her, and God bless all of us as we struggle to find the awe in our daily lives and continue to cope with all the bad. The world hasn't changed in centuries, and it's looking mighty negative for any time soon. We just must continue to pray a little girl about nine months old and to be good neighbors, and keep smiling, somehow. Here's hoping for

New corn herbicides discussed for weed control

Several new herbicides have been registered for weed control in corn. These new herbicides do not have an active ingredient with a new mode of action, but they are tank mixtures of existing herbicides.

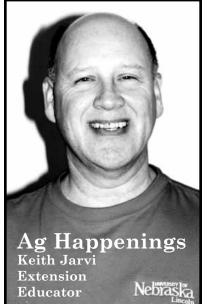

Here is the list of corn herbicides expected to be available in the 2015 growing season. More information about the efficacy of these and other herbicides is available in the 2015 Guide for Weed Management in Nebraska (EC130) for sale in a print or downloadable version from at marketplace.unl.edu/extension/extpubs/ec130.html. Always refer to the herbicide product label for complete details and directions for use.

Anthem ATZ [atrazine (42.5%) pyroxasulfone (5.15%) + fluthiacet-methyl (0.15%)]. It is a premix of three herbicides with different modes of action. It can be applied pre-plant, pre-emergence, or early post-emergence for control of broadleaf and grass weeds in all types of Breakfree NXT ATZ [acetochlor (33.4%) + atrazine (26.9%)]. It is a premix for pre-plant and pre-emergence control of selected broadleaf and grass weeds in corn.

Callisto GT [glyphosate (34%) + mesotrione (3.4%)]. It is a new premix for post-emergence weed control in glyphosate-resistant (Roundup Ready) corn.

DiFlexx [dicamba (56.6%)]. It may be used pre-emergence or post-emergence for control of annual broadleaf weeds and control or suppression of many biennial and

LOWER ELKHORN

Celebrating Soil and Water Stewardship Week

For almost 43 years, the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD) has been a part of northeast Nebraska.

The LENRD staff and directors have been helping people take care of and protect their natural resources. During Soil & Water Stewardship Week, they remind us that we all have a connection to natural resources.

The National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) is celebrating the 60th year of Stewardship week April 26 - May 3, 2015. The 2015 Stewardship Week is themed, "Local Heroes - Your Hardworking Pollinators".

"Pollinators play a critical role in our everyday lives, and it's important that we work to protect their habitat," said Julie Wragge, LENRD Information & Education Specialist. "While many pollinators may seem like just annoying insects, they are actually a very important part of the web of life upon which we all depend."

When pollinators shrink in number, many plants either produce less seed or no seed at all. The bottom line is, when pollinators start disappearing, plants start disappearing, as most plants depend upon pollinators to reproduce.

She added, "There are more than 100,000 species of insects, including bees, flies, moths, butterflies and beetles that work hard as pollinators. There are also over 1,000 species of other animals such as birds, reptiles and mammals, including bats that pollinate plants."

To recognize Soil & Water Stewardship Week, the LENRD is providing educational materials to churches and schools free of charge. Anyone who is interested in the information for a local church, school, or group, please contact the LENRD. Additional Pollinator resources are located in the NACD Local Heroes - Your Hardworking Pollinators educators guide found at:www.nacdnet.org/education/ resources/local-heroes

The LENRD is a member of NACD which oversees the Stewardship Week program. Stewardship Week is one of the largest national annual programs to promote conservation. NACD represents the nation's 3,000 conservation districts which were established to encourage resource conservation across the country.

For more information about Stewardship Week and conservation, contact the LENRD at (402) 371-7313 find us on Facebook & Twitter.

THANK YOU

A special thank you to Dr. Timm and the nurses and staff at the Pender clinic and community hospital for all of the loving care and concern given to Walter Albrecht. Pastor Gretchen Ritola's visits and Christian Ministry were a big comfort to Walter and his family.

The family is very grateful for all of the acts of kindness shown to them: the visits, cards, food and flowers all helped bring great comfort and are sincerely appreciated. Thank you to Pastor Gretchen and Vicar Will Storm for their inspirational service for Walter.

The Rich Wurdinger Family wishes to thank everyone for all the prayers, love and support during Rich's long hospital stay and at the time of his death. We appreciate the generous memorials, cards, kind words, hugs, food, and flowers. A special thank you to Father Mark Beran, Father James F. McCluskey, Terri Hypse, Karen Kwapnioski and all our St. Mary's Church Family for the beautiful services and nice lunch. We appreciate Scott and Mary Kay Hasemann and our entire funeral home family for everything you have done for Rich and our family. You are the Best! To all of our family and friends that came from near and far to honor Rich and be with us, we are truly blessed to have you in our lives.

Mark, Brenda, Breanna, Anika, and Abby Dan, Deborah, and Greta

I would like to thank those who sent me cards, flowers, and letters and for the personal visits, phone calls and prayers while I have been sick. It can't be expressed in words how much these acts of kindness mean to me.

During my time in Omaha at the Med. Center and in Lincoln at Gateway Vista, I had ample time to appreciate the small things in this life. When you almost lose your life, it changes your perspective. It also made me appreciate Wayne and those who live here. We have a fine community filled with those who care about others.

Little did I know when I was at the Chamber Banquet accepting the Citizen of the Year award, that I would be in an ambulance on a one inch mattress headed to Omaha two weeks later.

Lastly, I would like to thank our children, Emily and Damon, who were there for me each day. Kathy was there at my bedside with a positive attitude when I was ready to give up. She is the main reason I am here today.

Again thanks to all of you from the bottom of my heart.

Galen A. Wiser

Tips to manage stress during month of April

By RUTH VONDEROHE Nebraska Extension Educator

Most of us have felt "stressed out," from time to time, but when this feeling persists, stress becomes chronic and can negatively impact our careers, quality of life, and our bodies. April is stress awareness month. To manage stress, the first step is to pinpoint your stressors. To identify true sources of stress, look closely at your habits, attitude, and excuses. Pinpointing stressors may be difficult because some of them may be very subtle. Sometimes we fail to notice our own stress-inducing thoughts, feelings, and behav-

Northeast Nebraska RC&D receives grant

source Conservation & Development Council has announced that they will receive $20,292 from the Nebraska Environmental Trust for the "Proper Recycling of HHW and E-Waste" project.

The Trust Board announced funding for the project at its meeting on April 2 in Lincoln. This is the first year of award with a potential for second and third year funding totaling $20,705 and $22,410 respectively. The project is one for the 113 projects receiving $19,491,958 in grant awards from the Nebraska Environmental Trust this year. Of these, 56 were new applications and 57 are carry-over projects.

posal of and/or recycle approximately 22,500 pounds of household hazardous waste and another 45,000 pounds of electronic waste (E-waste) over a three-year period. Citizens are continually asking for help with proper disposal and recycling of these types of materials. Keeping hazardous materials out of landfills, road ditches, and from being burned is a priority. From three to six collection events will be held annually within the Northeast Nebraska Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) Council's service area.

Winside Legion auxiliary chooses Girls' State

The American Legion Auxiliary Roy Reed Unit 252 of Winside has chosen Jadyn LeAnn Prince as the 2015 delegate to attend Cornhusker Girls' State in Lincoln.

This year's event will run from May 31 through June 6.

The purpose of Girls' State is to educate the delegates about the privileges, rights, duties and responsibilities of the citizens living in a democracy.

Jadyn is the daughter of Ryan and Brandy Prince of Winside. She is a junior at Winside High School.

Jadyn has participated in volleyball, basketball, track and dance during her high school years and has been a member of the yearbook staff and Student Council.
