Third case of avian influenza is found

Risk of human infection is considered to be low

Stating that the finding of a third case of highly pathogenic H5N2 avian influenza (HPAI) "was unfortunate, but not unexpected," Nebraska Department of Agriculture Director Greg Ibach released information on Friday afternoon on the farm located in Dixon County.

The third farm (referred to as Dixon 3) is within a mile of the initial farm (referred to as Dixon 1) identified last week and is owned by the same operator.

Dixon 3 is a flock of 500,000 pullets (young hens). Dixon 1 and Dixon 2, announced last week, collectively have 3.5 million laying hens.

"We continue to receive great support from our federal, state and local partners, as well as from the operator, as we work to control the spread of the virus," Ibach said.

All three sites are under quarantine, a perimeter has been established around each facility, and the birds are being depopulated. Under the USDA protocol, NDA is visiting all locations that have poultry within a 6.2 mile radius of Dixon 3 to conduct testing. Due to the proximity of Dixon 3 to the other facilities, the 6.2 mile radius overlaps significantly.

The public is being encouraged to avoid the area in and around the farms and law enforcement officials have put up barricades near the affected sites.

The preliminary positive test at Dixon 3 was expected to be confirmed by officials at a federal laboratory sometime over the holiday weekend, but Ibach said response teams in Dixon County already are working at Dixon 3 to address the HPAI finding.

The Centers for Disease Control considers the risk to people from HPAI H5 infections to be low. Proper handling and cooking of poultry and eggs to an internal temperature of 165 degrees kills the virus. Dixon 1 and 2 are egg laying facilities and therefore the chickens are not consumed, and the eggs from these facilities are processed and go through pasteurization, eliminating product consumption risk.

Ibach continues to request that Nebraska poultry producers, large and small, follow strict biosecurity measures on their farms and to monitor their flocks for symptoms of the virus and notify NDA immediately if they suspect any problems. All bird owners, whether commercial producers or backyard enthusiasts, should prevent contact between their birds and wild birds, and report sick birds or unusual bird deaths to state/federal officials, either through NDA by calling (877) 800-4080 or through USDA's toll-free number at (866) 536-7593.

As part of the existing USDA avian influenza response plans, federal and state partners as well as industry are following these five basic steps:

- Quarantine - restricting movement of poultry and poultry-moving equipment into and out of the control area;
- Eradicate - humanely euthanizing the affected flock(s);
- Monitor region - testing wild and domestic birds in a broad area around the quarantine area;
- Disinfect - kills the virus in the affected flock locations; and
- Test - confirming that the poultry farm is AI virus-free.

Additional information on HPAI can be found online at www.nda.nebraska.gov. Information is available for producers, media and the general public.

Chemigation permits are due June 1

Farmers planning to chemigate during the 2015 growing season must renew chemigation permits by June 1 to meet state deadline requirements, according to LENRD Water Resources Specialist, Curt Becker.

To legally chemigate in Nebraska, an operator must be certified to apply chemicals and obtain a chemigation permit from their local NRD.

Chemigation renewal permits cost $20 and must be submitted to the LENRD. An irrigation system that has not been renewed prior to the June 1 deadline cannot apply chemicals through the system until a new permit is obtained. New chemigation permits cost $50 and the applicant cannot use the system until it passes a mandatory inspection.

Also, applicants must list a certified applicator and obtain their signature on the application form. Becker stated, "In order to be certified, a person must complete a chemigation safety course and pass an exam once every four years."

If chemigating is necessary, on short notice, emergency permits can be obtained at a cost of $250. Irrigation systems meeting chemigation law standards will then be allowed to operate after two working days of application.

Approximately 1,916 chemigation permits were approved by the LENRD in 2014. For more information contact Curt Becker or Vickie DeJong at the LENRD office or visit our website for more details www.lenrd.org

Super Heroes reading at Wayne library

Super Heroes Are Reading at Wayne Public Library: It's not just for kids!

The focus of the summer reading program for children in our area is "Every Hero Has a Story." Plans have been made for age 19 and older patrons at Wayne Public Library to "Escape the Ordinary" during the summer months.

"We have prepared a challenge for our adult patrons," said Rita McLean, Adult Services Librarian. The little game involves completing tasks on a BINGO type card. For each task completed, patrons will receive a ticket to enter weekly prize drawings from June 6 through July 25. If an adult reader completes 12 of 16 challenges, he or she gets a chance to enter the drawing for the grand prize of a Kindle Fire HD 7 which will be given away on Aug. 1.

"For our avid readers, additional tickets may be earned for the weekly prizes by writing a review of a book you have read from our collection either a hard copy, a book on CD or e-reader version. Stop in to pick up a game sheet and rules starting June 1," McLean said.

Adult readers will have opportunities to take part in activities other than reading," McLean added. "The library will have a "Junk in the Trunk" event on June 27. We will also co-host two speakers in collaboration with the Senior Center. June 1, Western history author and lecturer Jeff Barnes will be here for a presentation on William F. "Buffalo Bill" Cody at 12:30 p.m. A second program will feature Gwen Jensen, talking about the history of the Savidge Amusement Company in late July," she said.

Adult readers may also volunteer to help with the children's program on Wednesday afternoon. There are opportunities to help with reading to different age groups or crafts projects. The Book Club will be reading Beautiful Boy and Unwind. New members are always welcome to the discussions on the last Tuesday of each month at 6:30 pm.

Registration and more information will be available at the library or by calling at (402) 375-3135.

"We will once again be having the race to recovery event in which teams decorate car forms and "race" around the track area fundraisg during the evening," Roeber said.

In addition, teams will be decorating their campsites and voting will take place for the favorite campsite in regard to the one who has the best games, fundraisers, etc.

Winners will be announced in the Bras for a Cause Contest with area residents encouraged to stop at Swans in downtown Wayne to vote for their favorite decorated bra.

This year marks the 30th anniversary of Relay For Life and the Wayne County Relay For Life is one of 6,000 events in 24 countries (including the U.S.) across the world raising funds to finish the fight against cancer.

In 1985, Dr. Gordy Klatt, a colorectal surgeon in Tacoma, Wash., ran around a track by himself for 24 hours, raising $27,000 in support of the American Cancer Society. Thirty years later, the Relay For Life movement continues to be a community-based event where teams and individuals set up campsites at a school, park, or fairground and take turns walking or running around a track or path. Each team has at least one participant on the track at all times. Cancer survivors and caregivers take a celebratory first lap to start each event. Money raised supports groundbreaking cancer research, education and prevention programs, and critical services for people facing cancer.

It's summer – beware of poison ivy

As the seasons change so do the types of calls coming into the Nebraska Regional Poison Center. This is a good time to review a common summertime poison.

Poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac can release a substance called urushiol when the leaves or other parts of the plant are damaged or burned. Almost 85 percent of people exposed to the oil will have an allergic reaction and it only takes a very small amount of oil to cause a reaction. Typically there will be an itchy, red rash with bumps and blisters.

Poison ivy isn't contagious unless you spread the oil from person to person. But keep in mind that pets can carry the oil from the plant on their fur and pass the oil to any human coming in contact with them. Garden tools and sporting equipment should always be rinsed off. The urushiol can linger for years on a surface if it isn't washed off with water.

The poison ivy rash doesn't spread to other parts of the body unless you haven't washed properly and have the oil still on your hands or under your fingernails.

Tips on Poison Ivy
– Recognize what poison ivy looks like: "Leaves of three let them be" or "1, 2, 3 let it be" are catchy phrases to help you remember.

– Wash your hands with soap and cool water as soon as possible if you come in contact with poison ivy.

– Wear long sleeves and pants and impermeable gloves when working in areas you think may have poison ivy.

– Wash any exposed clothing immediately.

– Wash garden tools and gloves often.

– Don't scratch your rash as it can cause an infection.

– Lukewarm baths with a colloidal oatmeal preparation may help relieve the itching.

– Applying cool compresses, calamine lotion, or hydrocortisone cream may also help to relieve the itchy skin.

– Contact the poison center at (800) 222-1222 if you have any questions.

There are always a lot of emotions that get left behind on the track at Omaha Burke Stadium every May. For the athletes who compete in the Nebraska State Track and Field Championships, everything is left out between the lines of the eight lanes and the various surfaces where athletes run, jump and throw at the final big high school sporting event of the season – the sweat, the tears and even the occasional breakfast that makes a return appearance after a hotly-contested 800-meter run (apologies for the visual).

It's an emotional moment, especially, for the seniors who compete for the last time. Some seniors work their butts off for four years and don't get the chance to show their stuff to the state until that senior year. Others are blessed with talent that gets them there all four years. A select few come away with medals and even fewer finish as state champions. When you consider how many THOUSANDS of athletes in the state compete in high school track, to be one of the 1,088 kids to finish the day with a medal – and only 136 of those are state champions – just getting a chance to be a part of this event is an incredible achievement in a young person's life.

This year's edition of the state track meet had its share of emotions for me as well. I've been going to this event for almost 25 years, and I've always enjoyed watching "my" kids (that's what us sports-writers call the area kids we cover when we talk amongst ourselves) perform and compete. I smile with them when they get a personal best, and I appreciate and understand their disappointment when things don't go as planned.

There was the happiness on the faces of the Wayne High foursome of Rachel Rauner, Kylie Hammer, Tarah Stegemann and Cassie Heier, as well as their coaches, as they basked in the glow of setting school records in the 400 and 1,600-meter relays Saturday. Neither team won a state title, but I don't think that mattered much. They put forth their best efforts and got a chance to etch their names in the school's record books and left Burke Stadium knowing they had each played a role in such a unique opportunity to be a part of their school's history of success in track and field (a top 10 team finish probably tickled everybody's fancy as well).

I also saw the other side of the coin when I watched LCC's triple jumper Ellie Arduser get the bad news from her coaches, Nate Sims and Shannon Benson, that her best mark in the triple jump preliminaries wasn't good enough to make the final nine. The tears could be seen welling up as she returned to pick up her gear, and even from a good 20 yards away, I could see the disappointment as she realized she wasn't going to have a shot at finishing her career with a state title. I talked with her afterward, and we were trying to count up how many state medals she won in her four-year career on the track. We couldn't figure out if it was eight or nine (it was eight), but the smile on her face after we were through with our interview told me that, as disappointing as the finish was, the fact that she was able to have the kind of opportunities she had will be a memory that she will always treasure.

Wells earns second national title

All-Americans help WSC to best-ever Div. II finish

ALLENDALE, Mich. – Even three days after accomplishing the ultimate achievement in track and field, the thought being a two-time national champion was still sinking in for Sara Wells.

The Wayne State senior thrower capped the best day ever for a Wildcat track and field team at the Div. II Outdoor Nationals by winning the shot put with a best throw of 52 feet, 5 1/2 inches, making her the first Wayne State athlete in any intercollegiate sport to win multiple NCAA national titles, adding to her indoor national title in the same event two months ago.

Wells went into Saturday's competition with the best throw in the nation in Div. II, uncorking a 54 foot, 0 1/2 inch toss at the Northern Sun Conference championships two weeks earlier. And while Saturday's performance didn't quite reach that level, it was still more than enough to cap the rare sweep of indoor and outdoor national titles in the women's shot put.

"I was a little disappointed that I didn't throw it farther, but it doesn't take away the feeling of becoming a national champion," Wells said by phone. "It's definitely a goal that I wanted to accomplish all year, and it's a little unbelievable even now to know that I not only have one title but two."

Wells essentially set an unreachable mark for the other 19 throwers in the competition on her first throw in the preliminaries. That effort – 52 feet, 4 inches – proved to be bet-

OMAHA – Three Laurel-Concord-Coleridge seniors had their eyes set on the school record books going into the 2015 Nebraska State Track and Field Championships.

In the end, the trio of Sadie Petersen, Audra Corbit and Ellie Arduser accounted for all of the Lady Bears' 15 points with a combined total of four medals, ending their high school careers on a pretty positive note.

Petersen was the lone member of the senior trio to etch a mark in the school record books, improving her school standard in the 3,200-meter run on Friday with a time of 11:41.17, good for seventh in a very competitive Class C field.

"It was a hard race, and I think people underestimated the quality of runners in this class," Petersen said. "To be able to get in there and get that low was amazing. I didn't think I could touch the school record when I broke it at districts last week, so to get even lower than that was awesome."

Audra Corbit was hoping to go after the school record she also set at districts when she hit a Class C district-best 5 feet, 6 inches in the high jump. She was one of three jumpers left in the field of 26 when the bar was at 5-4, but could not get over in three attempts at 5-5, settling for third place overall.

"It didn't go as well as I had hoped it would," Corbit said after her finish. "It was good to get third place, though, and I was pretty happy with that. I got better as the season went on and was happy to get here and finish third."

Corbit said she steadily improved as the season went on, peaking with her school-record effort at districts the previous week.

"I was able to get my personal best and break the school record, which I was hoping for," she said. "I was hoping it would have ended better here, but it was still a good day."

It was also a good weekend for Arduser, who capped a career that saw her win eight medals at the state OMAHA – Both the Eagles and Lady Eagles of Allen were able to pick up a little hardware for the trip back home from Burke Stadium.

The Lady Eagles picked up a trio of medals while the boys 3,200-meter relay team found their way to the medal stand to highlight the area effort in the Class D division of the Nebraska State Track and Field Championships over the weekend.

OMAHA – Track and field athletes always want to end the day on a good note, and the Wayne High girls nailed it.

The foursome of Kylie Hammer, Cassie Heier, Tarah Stegemann and Rachel Rauner came through with a pair of record-setting performances in the 400-meter and 1,600-meter relays on Saturday, helping the Wayne High girls post one of their best team finishes at the Nebraska State Track and Field championships at Burke Stadium.

The Blue Devils finished with 21 points and placed 10th overall in a competitive Class B field, with the foursome having a hand in all 21 points.

"It was a really good weekend, one of the best finishes Wayne has ever had," coach Dale Hochstein said of the team's effort. "We were able to place in several events and broke a pair of school records, so it was really fun for us to watch as coaches." The weekend got started with Hammer, the lone freshman making the journey for the Blue Devil ladies. She came through in the clutch on Friday in the long jump, as her best mark of 16 feet, 9 inches

Rachel Rauner comes down the straightaway for one of her four medals in the 100-meter dash. The Blue Devil senior had a hand in four medals to help Wayne finish 10th in Class B.

so I've had the pleasure of watching kids like Rachel Rauner, Ellie Arduser, Sadie Petersen, Audra Corbit, Ben Hoskins, Wade Connot and the other Class of 2015 athletes go from young, wiry freshmen to solid, standout seniors. Several of these young men and women will go on to compete in college, and I look forward to seeing their names pop up in news releases from their respective schools in the years to come.

I get a lot of thank-you comments from parents for covering their kids, but I want to thank those kids for the opportunity to watch them perform and leave me with some fun and amazing memories of what they achieved at their respective high schools.

Hoskins was on the outside looking in as an alternate for relay teams that qualified for state for Wayne, so it was good to see him get the opportunity to actually see the track and compete in his senior year.

It was also good to see Allen senior Lindsey Sullivan get the chance to show her stuff at state. She was something of a late bloomer, thanks to an unusual injury that pretty much kept her off the track for two years (she was featured in this space a couple of weeks back, writing about her experience). Like the old saying goes - better later than never.

One of the things that makes track and field so interesting is the focus on personal goals in relation to the team effort.

In other sports, the team takes first priority and the individual must try to tailor their personal goals with that of the team in order for the team to be a success.

On the track and in the field, though, it's a different matter. Each athlete is trying to run faster, jump higher and throw farther than they did the day before. Medals are nice, but the "PR" always seems to be the higher priority to these athletes.

Talking with Arduser about her efforts at state, the one thing that stuck with me was when she talked about making her goal of breaking the 60-second barrier in the 400. Where she finished, she said, wasn't as important as hitting that specific mark.

It may sound funny in today's win-or-else society, but sometimes how you finish is a more satisfying result compared to where you finish. Giving your best possible effort without worry about where it stands in comparison to others is what drives track and field athletes, and sometimes it's more fun to talk with somebody who gets a personal best and finishes sixth or seventh than it is someone who wins a state title and doesn't have their best day.

While my focus here is on our five area schools, I did want to acknowledge something that I found to be quite unusual and amazing about a school in this part of the state.

The Crofton girls won their second straight Class C title in girls track over the weekend, capping what has been a remarkable - to understate the obvious - run of success for that school's senior class.

Consider that this class never lost a state basketball tournament, and that's an impressive achievement in its own right. Now throw in three state cross country titles, two state track titles and a runner-up finish last fall in volleyball. I've covered a lot of high school sports in my 30-plus years in this business, and that kind of across-the-board success by one class of athletes is something I can't compare anything to. There are certainly a number of schools who have a class of kids that have dominated in one sport, but to be state champions or runner-up in all three seasons is something I can't recall having witnessed.

After making a gazillion walks up and down the stairs of Burke Stadium, watching hundreds of thousands of kids run, jump and throw, getting yelled at by untold NSAA "volunteers" for alleged event-altering violations such as standing in the photographer's area behind the long jump pit or - God forbid - walking through the athletes' rest area on my way to shooting another event, and nearing my 50th birthday (which happens three days before next year's state track meet), I'm starting to ask myself this very important life-changing question: Can I train my two-month-old granddaughter to shoot sports photos so that SHE can do all that running around next year while I sit in the dry, cozy confines of the press box and wait for results to come in?

I'm seriously considering this option as we speak - She is already carrying on conversations with other people, so if we can get her walking before Christmas and lifting camera equipment by April, I think we could make this happen. Why should us old fuddy-duddies have all the fun?

Devils 18-under takes second at tournament in Columbus

The Wayne Dirt Devils 18-under softball team placed second in the Columbus Lakeview tournament over the Memorial Day Weekend.

In pool play Saturday, Wayne beat the Columbus Bullets (9-2), West Point-Beemer (13-0) and Norfolk Golden Girls (4-0).

In the first game, Ashten Gibson struck out seven and walked three to get the win while going 3-for-3 at the plate. Danica Schaefer and Kiara Hochstein each had doubles, Abbie Hix had two RBI's and Kortney Keller and Jamie Gamble both had hits.

In the win over West Point, Gibson struck out three in the easy win. Hix had two hits, including a double; and Gamble, Maddie Morris and Jenna Trenhaile all had singles.

In the shutout of Golden Girls, Gibson struck out 12 to earn her third win of the day. Schaefer had two hits with a double, Keller added a double and Hix and Hochstein both had hits.

In tournament action Sunday, Wayne opened with a 9-1 win over the Columbus Bullets' 16-under team, riding the eight-strikeout effort in the circle by Gibson. She helped her cause with a hit, while Gamble and Morris also stroked safeties.

In the semifinals, the Dirt Devils pounded the Norfolk Golden Girls 14-4, thanks to a hot bat by Hix that included a home run, double and single. Keller had two hits, Gibson homered, Sierra Scardino doubled and Taylor Gamble and Jamie Gamble both had hits.

In the finals, the 18-under Bullets limited Wayne to a single by Hix and came away with a 9-0 win, handing Wayne their lone loss of the tournament.

On Tuesday, the Dirt Devils were at home for a triangular with Logan View and West Point-Beemer.

In the opener, the Dirt Devils managed a 9-3 win over the Logan View squad. Gibson struck out eight and walked two to pick up the win. Trenhaile and Jacque Sherman each had two hits, Hochstein and Kennedy Maly both had doubles, and Morris and Gibson each had singles.

In the nightcap, Wayne beat West Point-Beemer 5-3 as Gibson struck out five in the win. She and Keller both had doubles, Scardino was 2-for-3 with a s double, and Hix and Jamie Gamble both had safeties.

Wayne plays host to the annual Dirt Devil Invitational this weekend. Their first game will be Saturday at 8:30 a.m. at Wayne State College. Other games will be played at the Wayne Sports Complex.

ter than the best effort of runner-up Jessica Bridenthal of Ashland University, who finished second with a toss of 51 feet, 7 inches.

That's not to say there weren't some nervous moments for Wells and her coaches as the final throwers battled.

"A lot of times when you go to outdoor nationals, the shot put is on the third day and it's been a long week for everybody," throws coach Brett Suckstorf said. "We had a feeling Sara might not be at 100 percent, but once she hit that big one I was fairly confident that would hold up."

"I think she would have liked to break her record again, but when you look at the results, some of the kids didn't get the same mark that got them to nationals," head coach Marlon Brink added. "There's a lot more pressure and sometimes people don't perform quite as well. Three of her six throws would have beaten the rest of the field, so it was still a very solid performance for Sara."

For Wells, it was an achievement that was well beyond anything she could have envisioned when she first came to the school from Boone Central High School in Albion.

"I never really pictured myself winning a national title when I first started, and lo and behold, now I have two," she said. "It's really a good feeling to bring that honor to the school, and I hope that other athletes in the future come here and are able to achieve what I've achieved. It's no easy journey, but it's definitely a great ride."

Brink said Wells' sweep of the shot put titles is something that, he believes, was set into motion with her older sisters earning All-American status in the years before she was able to pull off the rare indoor-outdoor double.

"One thing that's unique for her is that she's had family who has had a lot of success in national track meets," he said. "She had two sisters who won multiple All-American honors in college, so she's been there and seen them compete and I think that helped her out a lot. Just to be an All-American once is amazing, but she has seven All-Americans and two national titles, and that's the greatest feeling in the world."

Wells and Michaela Dendinger combined for 26 points at the national meet, which was good enough to get Wayne State in the top 10 for the first time in school history as they tied Hillsdale and St. Augustine's for eighth place.

The duo took a lot of momentum into Saturday's shot put competition after posting a 2-3 finish Friday in the discus. Dendinger blew past her personal best for a throw of 178 feet, 3 inches that stood as the leading throw until a late effort by Alissa Rauch of Winona State (181-2) took home the title. Wells was right behind Dendinger with her personal-best throw of 175 feet, 6 inches.

"Michaela blew out her personal best by six meters," Brink said. "She had some huge throws, and I think both she and Sara kind of fed off of that."

"Sara and Michaela went crazy in the discus on Friday, and it was fun to sit back and watch those two compete," Suckstorf added. "Michaela absolutely destroyed her personal best and Sara led going into the finals, but we thought we'd need to be over 55 meters to beat the Winona girl, and that's what she ended up throwing."

Freshman Shandan Platt also competed in the national meet, finishing 18th in the hammer throw with a best mark of 171 feet, 2 inches. She finished about seven feet short of qualifying for the finals, but Suckstorf said the first trip to nationals was a good experience for her.

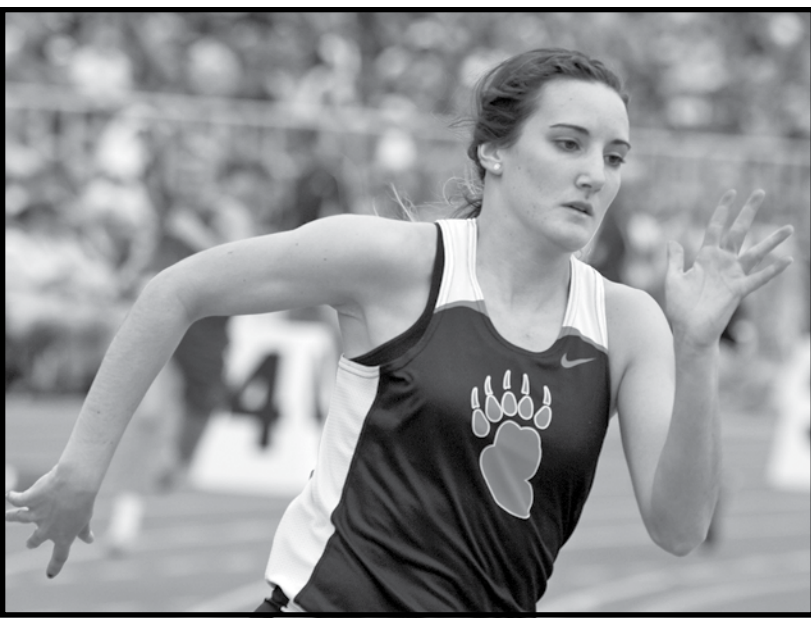

"I saw her grow the last two weeks in preparing and competing at nationals," he said. "I know she'd like to get her personal best, but it was a good learning experience for her, and she and Michaela should have a lot of confidence going into next season."

Early Saturday afternoon, Arduser was able to crack the 60-second barrier, a mark she was hoping she could surpass, and came away with a fifth-place medal.

Later in the day, Arduser returned to the track and posted a sixth-place finish in the 200-meter dash.

"I felt really good on it," she said of that performance. "Looking at the time, I felt maybe I could have run it faster, but it was still good."

Her only disappointment came late in the day when she competed in the triple jump. The LCC senior had the state's best performance of Still, finishing a career with eight medals at state track is something she said she could look back on with a smile.

"It's awesome," she said. "I was glad I was able to get two medals here today."

Wakefield also came away with a medal in Class C girls competition on Saturday, as Josephine Peitz started the second day of action with a fifth-place finish in the 800-meter run, coming home with a clocking of 2:23.55.

The 800 was one of two events Peitz competed in, as she also ran in the 1,600-meter run on Saturday. Teammate Savannah Nelson competed in the sprints, running in the 200 and 400-meter dash preliminaries on Friday.

Arduser also ran in the 100-meter dash preliminaries on Friday, while Bayley Holloway competed in the pole vault for the LCC girls. The LCC boys were represented by Jordan Reifenrath, who ran in the 100 and competed in the long jump; Aaron Haahr in the 3,200-meter run and Collin Dirks, who competed in the high jump.

Wildcat women's hoops adds two juco players

Wayne State women's basketball coach Chris Kielsmeier announced that Kirsten Larson and Anna Martensen, transfers from Kirkwood Community College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, have signed letters of intent to attend Wayne State College and play basketball for the Wildcats in the 2015-16 season.

"We are really excited about Kirsten and Anna," Kielsmeier said. "They come from a program that knows what it takes to win at the highest level and both have post season experience from making the National Junior College Division II national tournament. Not only are they great on the court, but Kirsten and Anna are both excellent students in the classroom."

Larson is a 5-foot-10 guard from Belvidere, Ill. She averaged a team-high 9.6 points per game this season for Kirkwood CC, helping the team to a 31-6 record and a fifth-place finish at the national tournament. She was a first-team All-Region XI selection for the Eagles, making 93 3-pointers while shooting 40.8 percent behind the arc. She set a new school record making nine threes in one game and made 136 3-pointers in her two seasons at Kirkwood.

Martensen, a 5-10 guard/forward from Belvidere, Ill., was a first-team All-Region XI and second-team National Junior College All-American this season after averaging 7.9 points, 5.0 rebounds and 1.32 steals per game while ranking eighth nationally in field goal percentage at 55 percent. She also excels in the classroom, earning NJCAA Region XI Academic All-Region honors both seasons at Kirkwood.

Larson and Martensen will each have two years of eligibility with the Wildcats and join Andrea Larson of Mediapolis, Iowa and Maggie Lowe from Perry, Iowa as members of the 2015 recruiting class.

Loos is third-team Div. II All-American

Wayne State junior outfielder Lexie Loos was named to the 2015 Daktronics/Division II Collegiate Commissioners Association All-America Softball third team.

Loos was a first-team All-NSIC and Daktronics All-Central Region selection for the Wildcats after setting a new school record with a .467 batting average. She also set new single season school records for hits (93), runs scored (53) and total bases (118). Loos ranked second in the NSIC in batting average and hits, fourth in runs scored, tied for fourth in triples (5), fifth in on-base percentage (.502) and sixth in total bases. She was also named NFCA All-Central Region Second Team.

Loos had 30 multi-hit games while starting 54 contests in center field for the Wildcats this season. She had a team high 18-game hit streak and led the Wildcats in stolen bases with nine. Loos finished the season hitting .467 with 93 hits that included 12 doubles, five triples, one home run and 15 RBI from the leadoff position. She also excels in the classroom, earning Capital One Academic All-District VII first-team honors with a 3.59 grade-point average majoring in applied human and sport physiology.

The team is voted on by members of the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA).

Loos is just the second player in school history to receive Daktronics All-American honors, which is voted on by members of the College Sports Information Directors of America. She joins pitcher Katie Goetzinger, who was also a third-team All-American in 2011.

Lahm earns district academic honors

Wayne State sophomore Derek Lahm was named to the Capital One Academic All-District VII Men's Track & Field/Cross Country First Team as voted on by members of the College Sports Information Directors of America.

Lahm recorded a 3.98 grade-point average majoring in chemistry and health science. He was a part of two new school records and scored points in four events at the NSIC Outdoor Track and Field Championships. He was an All-NSIC performer with a second-place finish in the heptathlon, scoring a new school record 6,638 points. Lahm also anchored the second place 400-meter relay team that was All-NSIC with a new school record time of 41.43 seconds. He also placed fourth in the long jump and ran a leg on the seventh-place 1,600-meter relay team.

The award recognizes the nation's top student-athletes for their combined performances athletically and in the classroom. Lahm's first-team selection now qualifies him for Academic All-American honors that will be announced June 24.

Dirt Devils 14-under goes 1-2 at Vermillion

The Wayne Dirt Devils 14-under softball team split a doubleheader against Tekamah-Herman last week and went 1-2 at a weekend tournament in Vermillion, S.D.

On Thursday, Wayne fell to Tekamah-Herman Purple by a 14-2 margin. Sidney Biggerstaff had two hits, Allison Cluassen had an RBI single and Avianna Doring and Tori Kniesche both had hits. Kniesche struck out five in the circle and gave up eight hits.

tracksters, according to coach Dave Udrich.

"We had a very successful season, and our competitive nature came out in Omaha," he said. "We may not have finished as high as we would have liked, but we can only control what we do. We can not control if another competitor goes faster, longer or higher; that is out of our control. Our athletes held their own, did not shy away from the competition, and performed well."

The Allen boys had the best showing for the weekend, opening the day with a sixth-place finish in the 3,200-meter relay. The foursome of Nick Brahmsteadt, Tayler Kumm, S.T. O'Keefe and Wade Connot posted their best time of the season in 8:36.27 to account for the Eagles' only score of the meet.

The Allen girls had a seventh and a pair of eighth-place medals to show for their efforts over the weekend, and Gabby Sullivan and Cortney Reuter each had a hand in an individual and relay medal for the Lady Eagles.

Reuter was able to make it to the finals in the 300-meter hurdles on Friday, and the senior capped her career with an eighth-place time of 48.66 in the finals on Saturday.

"I felt I could have done better in the 300 hurdles, but the 400 relay looked really good today," she said. "We got a pretty good time and we ran really fast and I was really proud with how we did."

Sullivan, in her second trip to state, was able to get to the medal stand as part of a three-way tie for seventh in the girls high jump, as the junior finished with a best effort of 4 feet, 10 inches.

The two were joined by senior Lindsey Sullivan and freshman Bri Hingst for the 400-meter relay, which ran their best time of the season with a finish of 52.52 to take home eighth place. They were not far from a top-four finish, placing just 32 hundredths of a second slower than the fourth-place time marked by Brady.

Allen had several season bests posted by athletes who did not make the medal stand.

Lexi Oswald finished 10th in both the 800 and 3,200, recording season-best times in both events. Kaylen Smith had personal-best marks in both the 100-meter and 300-meter hurdles. Also competing were Kumm in the 1,600, Brian Boese in both the 110- and 300-meter hurdles, O'Keefe in the 800, Gabby Sullivan in the triple jump and Lindsey Sullivan in the 100- and 200-meter dashes.

Winside's Callie Finn was the lone Wildcat competing in this year's state meet. She finished 16th in the girls 1,600-meter run with a time of 5:53.82.

Meuret claims Wayne Open with six-under par performance

By KEVIN PETERSON
Of the Herald

Mother Nature delayed the Wayne Memorial Amateur Golf Open on Sunday at Wayne Country Club; but when play began, conditions were ripe for scoring.

All told, more than 100 golfers competed in the tournament, with a new face emerging to claim the championship. Plainview native and current Iowa Hawkeye golfer Sam Meuret fired a four-under par 32 over the final nine holes to seal the deal, finishing the 27-hole event at six-under par 102.

Meuret made an eagle putt on hole two from outside of 10 feet and then dropped in a bomb from the back fringe on hole six for birdie before knocking in a five-foot birdie putt on hole nine after an up-and-down from about 80 yards to go along with pars on the other six holes for his 32. The sophomore-to-be at Iowa trailed Tyson Bodlak by one shot heading to the final nine as Bodlak carded a three-under par 69 over the first 18 holes before settling for a 38 over the final nine.

Wayne's Joey Baldwin played solid with a one-under par 71 over the first 18 holes before a one-under par 35 on the final nine holes to finish at 106, good for third place. He birdied holes two and six in the final round and had just one bogey on the fourth hole. Former Wayne High standout Ryan Sturm finished runner-up in the tournament with a 105 over 27 holes including a 34 over the final nine holes. Sturm now hails from Wichita, Kan.

Preston Walford finished at two-under 106 to finish fourth after the Tekamah native carded a four-under par 32 over the final nine holes. He currently plays collegiately at Midland. Sioux City's Colin Mitchell was fifth at 107, ahead of Norfolk's Chris Bruening, Ponca's Tyson Bodlak, Norfolk's Lance Morrow and Fremont's Renan Sahr all with the same score. Nine players finished the 27-hole tournament under par.

Omaha's Travis VanHouten led a four-some at 110, edging Homer's Will Anderson, Oakland's Nick Onken and Omaha's Philip Maschka. Clint Kracl of Schuyler finished 14th at 112 and Plainview's Steve Peterson rounded out the list of placers, also at 112.

There was also six flights of golfers that did not play in the championship flight with Omaha's Rick Dusek winning the first flight with a five-under par 67. Keith Erikson was second at 73 followed by Dave Anderson at 76 and Sam Prue, 77. Doug Manz claimed second flight honors with a 76, edging Dave Hemple by tie-breaker. Kelly Hansen of WCC was third at 78 followed by another WCC member, Mike Bentjen with an 80.

Jerry Nelson won the third flight with a 76 followed by WCC member Ryan Dahl at 83. Travis Havlovic was third at 86, edging WCC's Duane Blomenkamp with the same score. Mike Lander won flight number four with an 82 with Marty Roth placing runner-up at 85. Kevin Peterson of WCC was third with an 87 and Louis Siffray Crow was fourth at 88.

Fifth flight champ was Shawn Reiff with an 82, 10 strokes ahead of Adam McGuire's 92. Rich Rethwisch and Dave Diediker of WCC placed third and fourth, respectively with 94's. The final flight was won by Monty Miller with an 84 while Tim Schrage was second at 87. Bob Hohenstein finished third with a 94 and Todd Koeber was fourth with a 95.

ment was a 14-0 whitewashing of the Brandon Surge. Kniesche struck out eight and walked six to get the win. Avianna Doring had three hits and two RBI's, Annie Kniesche, Maysn Dorey and Darrian Hewitt each had two hits and Lutt had two RBI's.

Wayne's final game of the tournament was a 6-3 loss to the Sioux Falls Crush. Tori Kniesche struck out six and walked two in the losing effort, helping herself offensively with a double, triple and an RBI. Biggerstaff also had two hits, including a double, and drove in a run.

Wayne High freshman Kylie Hammer made the most of her first trip to state, finishing fourth in the long jump and running on two medal-winning relay teams.

was good enough for fourth place.

"I wasn't sure what the competition was like, but it ended up all right," Hammer said after her effort. "I felt pretty good about that last jump. I was a little upset earlier because I couldn't get past 16 feet, but it was nice to end it on a good one."

Hammer couldn't have been much closer to the top in her first trip to state. She finished one-half of an inch behind the runner-up performance of Northwest's Kayla Bachle. Gothenburg's Tiani Reeves won the event with a best leap of 18 feet, 1 3/4 inches.

On Saturday, Hammer teamed up with Stegemann and the two seniors, Heier and Rauner, to shatter a pair of school records.

First, in the 400-meter relay, Rauner got Wayne off to a good start before handing it off to Heier. Heier built on the early advantage before handing off to Stegemann who later gave it to Hammer for the sprint home in a record time of 50.64 seconds, which won the slow heat and was good for third place overall.

"The handoffs in the 4-by-1 were really solid," Hochstein said. "Rachel did a good job getting us out in that race and the kids kept the stick moving and the handoffs were just great. Kylie said she could hear footsteps coming down the straightaway and she said nobody was going to catch her."

The team's effort just beat the old school mark set in 2000 by Sara Ellis, Amanda Maryott, Monica Novak and Leah Dunklau.

Rauner returned to the track for two individual events, medaling in the 100 and 200-meter dashes. She just made it into the finals of the 100 and finished fifth, then came back for a seventh-place effort in the 200.

"My goal this season was to get medals at state, and that fifth in the 100 was even better than I had hoped," Rauner said of her 12.81-second clocking.

"Her making the finals came down to eight thousandths of a second, so it was good for her to make it in both sprints," Hochstein said. "She had some really good starts and ran some clean races all day and did a good job for us."

Rauner brought the baton home to end the day in the 1,600-meter relay. The team finished second in its heat and fifth overall in Class B with a time of 4:05.02, shattering a 30-year-old record mark of 4:07.9 set in 1985 by Beth Janke, Lori Anderson, Jody Allen and Lisa Jacobson.

"That record has been up there for some time and they took almost three seconds off of it, which is quite an improvement on a school record," Hochstein said.

Rauner said the team's handoffs were the key to their school-record efforts.

"Our handoffs couldn't have been more perfect than they were today," she said. "It was a really good day for our relays."

Wayne had a number of other entries compete in the state meet over the weekend.

Marta Pulfer ran in both the 1,600-meter and 3,200-meter runs for Wayne, while Kelsey Boyer competed in the 800-meter run for the girls. Stegemann also ran in the preliminaries of the 200-meter dash.

On the boys' side, Tayib Toussaint ran in the preliminaries of both the 100- and 200-meter dashes, Ben Hoskins ran in the 800-meter run and Grayson McBride competed in the high jump.

(Photos by Michael Carnes)

(from top) Tayib Toussaint was one of three Wayne High boys who qualified for state. Tarah Stegemann ran in the 200 prelims and was part of two medal-winning relays. Cassie Heier also came away with two medals for Wayne.

son. Wayne opened with an 8-2 loss to Swat Adrenaline, as the winners outhit the Devils 9-3. Doring, Claussen and Annie Kniesche all had hits for Wayne. Tori Kniesche struck out six and walked five in five innings in the circle.

vocating and educating for it as a lobbyist in Nebraska and even potentially in Washington D.C.

In her essay, Hannah wrote "A common theme that speakers at youth conferences preach is to find and follow your passion. Agriculture is where my heart is. It is my passion."

"It's great to see that Hannah understands the need for advocacy about agriculture and would like to play a key role in that, leveraging her experience on the family farm, and through 4-H and FFA," said Beck Ag CEO Stephanie Liska. "We are pleased to invest in the future of our industry this way."

Don't get me started

Law enforcement is not an easy job

I was driving to Omaha last Wednesday to cover the state track meet when the news broke that an Omaha police officer had been shot. By the time I had reached Fremont, the word was that Officer Orozco and her attacker had both died from their gunshot wounds.

What kind of chaos was I about to drive into, I thought to myself. I was driving to stay with my daughter for a few days, and my son-in-law and I were going to go to the Judas Priest concert that evening. Considering some of the other acts of total mayhem that had taken place after shootings involving police officers and black thugs in other parts of the country, I wondered if it was safe for a small-town boy like me to be driving anywhere near the downtown Omaha area.

And then I realized that it was a police officer who was killed – and a white police officer at that. That mean we wouldn't be hearing from race-baiting scum lord Al Sharpton, and the state's resident race divider, Ernie Chambers, was too busy trying to bring the death penalty in Nebraska to an end in the Legislature that day, so he wouldn't have time to address the situation, either.

With that knowledge, it was a pretty good bet that the race-rioting hoodlums who seem to come out of the woodwork every time an altercation occurs would be holed up, safe inside their lairs, free to continue their usual fare of whatever dubious activity they might be preparing to carry on.

What I began to see, instead, was an outpouring of support from the people of Omaha – people of all races, creeds and colors showing their respect to Officer Orozco. Fundraisers were donating to her family and memorials were seen popping up all over the place.

During the state track meet, I witnessed several occasions where people from all over the state stopped to shake the hand of a police officer who was helping with security at Burke Stadium, offering condolences and words of encouragement. I was doubly impressed with the Nebraska School Activities Association, which actually called for a moment of silence in Orozco's memory during opening ceremonies on Saturday morning, less than 72 hours after she had been gunned down.

Concerns aired about Memorial Day speech

I just came home after attending the Wayne Memorial Day program, which I try to attend every year. Usually the event is outside, the speaker system is compromised by the wind, and I luckily, as it turns out, don't have to hear every word. While I am sure I was in the minority on this, I must voice my concern that a public national holiday should be more inclusive than this one was. This felt like a Republican Christian event, not a non-partisan ecumenical memorial to the brave people who have served our country.

I uphold the right of the chaplain and the speaker to say what they want; that is one of the many important rights that these brave people fought to preserve. I do question their judgement, and their lack of understanding that the audience in America today has a diverse set of political and religious beliefs. Patriots come in all religions and political beliefs, no one party or one religion has a monopoly on patriotism. Chaplains in the military should know this and respect it.

Much of what Senator Bloomfield said was heartfelt and appropriate, but his innuendo about our present leadership, and his call to arms for the upcoming presidential elections was inappropriate for the solemnity of the day. He put his own political agenda ahead of the need to honor the fallen.

I thank all veterans, and hope that in their name, the people organizing these events will choose speakers who will speak and pray in a way that is inclusive and not divisive.

Thanks for stirring Memorial Day event

On May 22, the Wayne Senior Center together with Humanities Nebraska offered our community a stirring Memorial Day Program.

Following the regular Friday luncheon, the Senior Center welcomed Pat Bolesen; singer, songwriter, pianist from Albion; for her presentation "Tour Through the Wars." Bolesen opened the program at the piano singing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and then departed from standard patriotic music to offer deeply moving selections from national and global conflicts.

Here are a few examples: The lyrics of the song, "Josephine" were drawn from actual correspondence between a soldier and his wife during the War Between the States. A mother's pride and grief are captured in the song, "Star in the Window" taken from the period of the Second World War. Pat reflected upon the experience she and her husband shared having viewed the Vietnam War Memorial as she introduced "A Name on the Wall." As she concluded, Bolesen mentioned that she has been invited to perform in Branson, Mo. on Veteran's Day . . . another occasion, in my opinion, likely to produce a tear in your eye and a lump in your throat.

Thanks to the Senior Center and Humanities Nebraska for bringing this timely program to our area.

Coming down the home stretch

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

In a couple days it'll be mostly over except for the shouting. The 104th Legislature, First Session, will be in the books. But will it really be over? This session that has been characterized by a lot of cajoling on the part of the Republican Executive Branch which doesn't seem to have consistent support from the Republican majority in the country's only one-house, officially non-partisan Legislature.

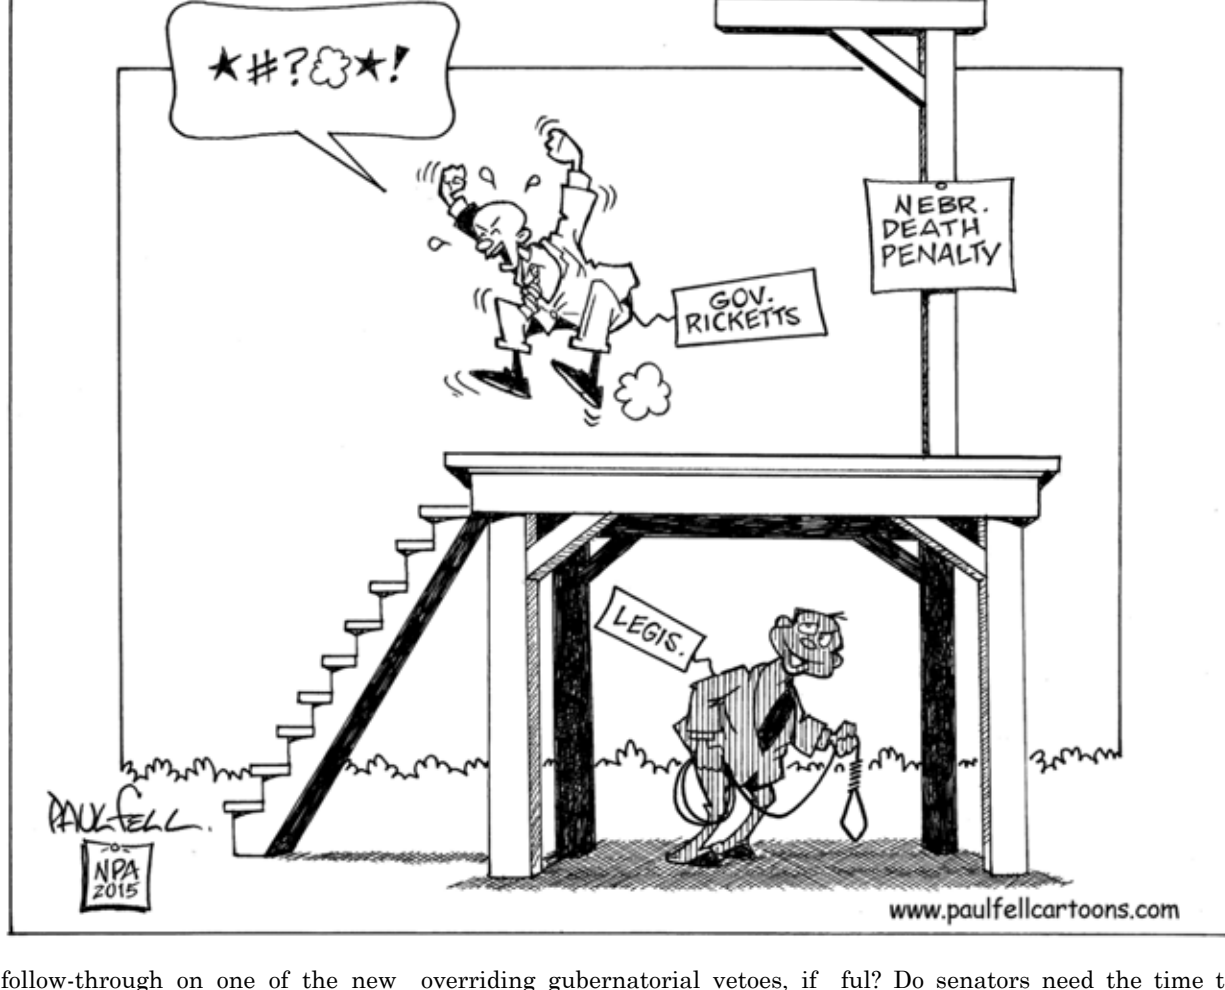

Remember, officially nobody counts, but there are 35 Republicans, 13 Democrats and one Independent charged with making the laws for the state. Do the math. When a bill that the Governor has spoken against, promised to veto or just downright doesn't like, advances to final reading with the magical bullet-proof 30 votes, you know that not all of the Republicans are behind the governor. Or maybe they are behind him; they're just back so far that he can't see them anymore.

The gas tax increase to pay for much-needed road repairs passed and then lawmakers overrode the Governor's veto. The death penalty abolition advanced to final consideration and the Governor claimed that public safety was being compromised. Then he promptly announced that the state had purchased the necessary drugs to carry out the death penalty by lethal injection.

Gov. Pete Ricketts said, "The death penalty in Nebraska remains an appropriate tool in sentencing the most heinous criminals. My administration has taken steps to fix management issues that have previously hindered carrying out the death penalty." Management issues? Really?

The reality is that changing the method will open a whole new round of appeals for those on death row and further delay the Governor's apparent rush to use the punishment. Opponents have also hinted that lawsuits will be filed because the drugs involved are not legally sold in this country.

What's missing in all of this is a

follow-through on one of the new Governor's key campaign promises, property tax relief. Yes, the property tax credit has been boosted by $20 million, but there has been no definitive re-write of tax codes that will provide sustained relief. Remember that during the last interim, a specially anointed tax study group recommended no change. Is there another interim study in the wings? Or is the Governor ready to admit that there are bigger fish to fry?

But, here's at least one positive from the 104th Legislature with a shout-out to Speaker Galen Hadley of Kearney. They'll honor a final adjournment tradition popularized during the speakership of former Sen. Mike Flood of Norfolk by postponing sine die for one week after the final day of debate. That means that Day 89 of the 90-day session will be May 29. The final day will be June 5 and senators will focus on overriding gubernatorial vetoes, if any, from bills passed the last week of May.

In the past, bills passed on those last days could be vetoed after final adjournment and the Legislature would have no recourse. This year's version comes on the heels of a schedule adjustment early in the month that put an end to late-night sessions when Hadley scratched the usual 90-minute lunch breaks in favor of 20-minute versions with senators dining on food brought in to the Capitol. Those longer lunches have traditionally been prime time for lobbyists and special interest groups to entertain, feed and try to persuade senators. Some have chartered buses to take large numbers of senators to lunch. Omaha Sen. Ernie Chambers, who never participates in that activity, chides his colleagues saying they "have been taken to the trough" by the lobbyists.

Are the long lunch breaks helpful? Do senators need the time to rejuvenate? Or do they just break the momentum of the day's activity? The lobbyists have traditionally sponsored dinner breaks with food brought in to the senate lounge, but even that often caused the daily sessions to linger to a 10 pm or later adjournment. Depending on the topic of debate, those late hours used to lose senators to card games or televised sporting events. They wouldn't check out or leave the building and would be "on call" if votes were needed. The sergeants at arms were pretty astute at knowing which lounge or offices were hosting said activity.

It's hard to say how much attention is being paid to a bill by a senator who is counting cards or cheering baskets. Does that affect their vote? I think so.

So here's to you 104th Legislature. I hope the citizens of Nebraska are the beneficiaries.

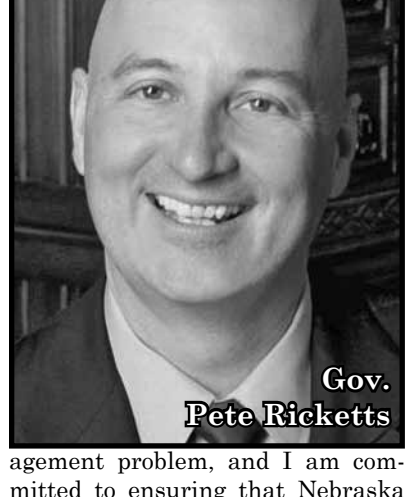

Gov. Ricketts column

Legislature is going soft on criminals

Over the past couple weeks, the Legislature has continued to advance proposals that soften our state's approach to dealing with the most hardened and heinous criminals. These proposals, including the repeal of Nebraska's death penalty and mandatory minimum sentences for certain offenses, would make it more difficult for Nebraska law enforcement to prosecute the worst criminals and consequently would put Nebraska families and public safety at risk.

Proponents of repealing the death penalty like to say that Nebraska does not even have a death penalty because our state has not executed anyone since 1997. Whatever has happened in the past, this is a management problem, and I am committed to ensuring that Nebraska has a functional death penalty. Just last week, I announced that the Nebraska Department of Correctional Services has purchased the drugs necessary to carry out the death penalty here in our state.

Even without executions in recent years, the death penalty in Nebraska has continued to play an important role in prosecuting criminals, protecting our families, and ensuring that criminals remain locked behind bars. Some proponents of repealing the death penalty have argued that the four walls of a prison and a life sentence instead of a death sentence is enough to protect the public from our society's most heinous criminals. Here is an example that demonstrates why this way of thinking is wrong and misguided. In 1973, Laddie Dittrich was originally convicted of burglary and first degree murder for his involvement in the stabbing death of an Omaha man. He received a life sentence. In April 2013, Dittrich was pardoned and his sentence was commuted from life to 80 years to life. Subsequently, Dittrich was paroled in May 2014. In November 2014, Dittrich was arrested for third degree sexual assault on a child involving a 10 year girl.

A recent case in the news also demonstrates the important role the death penalty plays in prosecuting the most heinous criminals. Last week, Douglas County prosecutors announced that they would seek the death penalty against Roberto Martinez-Marinero who has been charged with killing his mother, drowning his 5-year-old half-brother in a river, and discarding an 11-month-old infant in a dumpster. These are heinous crimes, and these criminals should receive a commensurate sentence.

If the Legislature gives final approval to repealing the death penalty, senators will open the door—quite literally—to more lenient sentences for death row inmates. This legislation not only repeals the death penalty for sentencing in future cases, but would also repeal the death sentences for the 11 inmates who currently sit on death row. Let me be clear: Advocates of LB268 are not only supporting the repeal of the death penalty in the future, but they are also voting to give lighter sentences to Nebraska's most heinous murderers. Senators also amended the legislation so that current death row inmates would be given a "life sentence" instead of "life without parole." This leaves open the possibility that our state's most heinous murderers could be out on the streets once again.

Another concerning piece of legislation is LB173 which would repeal mandatory minimum sentences for certain offenses and remove protections against revolving door criminals. In the past couple of weeks, the Legislature has tinkered with LB173 to make some changes, however, they have failed to address the concerns of top law enforcement about this bill. In its current form, this legislation would still repeal mandatory minimums for crimes such as production of child pornography, drive by shootings, and the use of a firearm to commit a felony.

The 2015 Tractor Safety Training in this area will be held June 15-16, at the fairgrounds in Wayne.

There needs to be a minimum of eight participants to hold the class. Any youth 14 or 15 years of age who work on a farm or ranch other than his/her parents' is required to be certified through a tractor safety course. Extension Educators and field specialists will teach the two-day course.

Cost for the course is $60, which includes all course materials, lunch both days, and breaks. Registration is requested a week prior to the class. For details or to register, contact the Nebraska Extension in Dixon County at (402) 584-2234.

Heritage Mini-Park Gazebo

The Allen Community Club has undertaken the project of improving the Heritage Mini-Park and Gazebo.

It was established originally in 1996 with building of the gazebo, moving the time capsule from its original site where the fire hall is now located, and planting various bushes and trees. Through the years the gazebo has been repaired as needed, but the shrubs were never replaced.

Volunteers have removed the dying shrubs around the gazebo and rocks along the sidewalk. Third and fourth graders removed the rocks around the gazebo as part of the May 13 community clean-up day.

On May 19, volunteers planted seven mugho pines and six Karl Foerster grasses around the gazebo, laid black paper, and replaced the rocks. The grass around the time capsule was dug up, the soil tilled, and flowers planted.

Finally, the spirea south of the gazebo was trimmed and the area raked clean. The final phase of the project will be to plant flowers on either side of the sidewalk leading into the gazebo. Heritage Park Mini-Park and Gazebo now is an area which looks well-kept and inviting to enjoy a sit in the gazebo.

Allen Community Club

The Allen Community Club met on May 18. President Greta Kraemer called the meeting to order. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and approved. Bills were presented and motions made to pay them.

Old business was discussed. Clean-up day went well with an estimated 10 tons of trash collected. The area around the ALLEN sign has been planted with knock-out rose bushes, mulch put down, and the Methodist Church sign attached to the east side. The old bushes and rocks around the gazebo have been removed and new mugho pine and Karl Foerster grasses have been purchased and will be planted.

It was noted that the area where the time capsule under the bell, gazebo, trees, and ground cover is located is actually called Heritage Mini-Park and Gazebo as named at the time of the Allen centennial.

The July 3-4 alumni weekend activities were reviewed with social and fireworks on Friday evening and banquet on Saturday evening. Donations for the fireworks can be sent to Kathy Boswell, 214 W Second Street, P.O. Box 8, Allen, Neb. 68710. Henry's Bar and Grill being opened and a dance are other possibilities for the weekend activities.

Although Isoms will not have their spring swap meet, the Community Club will still sponsor a garage sale on Saturday, June 13. Anyone wishing to have a garage sale should contact Marcia Rastede, (402) 635-2214, by June 10, to be listed on the garage sale map.

Greta showed several designs to be put on the Q125 advertising banner. It was decided which design to use. Activities at this point for the Allen Q125 celebration to be held June 11, 2016, are Isom's Spring Swap Meet, alumni reunion banquet, community garage sale day, and parade. It was suggested that any other organization wishing to sponsor any activities should contact the Village Board/Town Clerk. The next meeting will be June 15 when the group will work on Allen's entry advertising Allen's Q125 celebration in neighboring town's parades.

Community Clean-up

The weather cooperated as volunteers with pickups, trailers, and tractor loaders converged at the school parking lot on May 13 to meet with the junior high students and begin the community clean-up afternoon.

Students were divided into teams and assigned to work with adults. Within two hours, the many piles of trash located on curbsides were picked up and brought to the dumpster and town garbage truck site. There, items were sorted into recyclable items and disposable items. It is estimated that 10 tons of trash were collected. Thanks to the many volunteers and students who helped make the town better appearing in preparation for the upcoming summer events including the community garage sale day June 13, alumni reunion July 4, and Lov-a-Lop fall swap meet Sept. 12-13.

Book Exchange

On May 13, one of the last reading activities for elementary students before the end of the school year was the second annual book exchange sponsored by the Book Club.

Children in kindergarten through second grade were asked to bring their already-read books and puzzles to school and exchange them for other books and/or puzzles. They could then enjoy reading them and puzzling during the summer. Children who brought books/puzzles to school were given first choice to choose the same number of items as they bought. Then the rest of the children were given a chance to choose a book or puzzle.

Every child went home that day with at least one new book and one used book to read over the summer. There were over 150 books to choose from.

Left-over books were donated to the Springbank Township Library. Additional books were donated by community members and teachers and purchased with donations from the Girl Scouts and Book Club.

Springbank Library

The Springbank Township Library is sponsoring a raffle of a dollhouse and its furnishings with tickets one for $1 and six for $5. Tickets can be purchased at the library where it is currently on display, at the spring musical concert, and following that at the bank where it will be on display. The winner will be drawn at the alumni reunion on July 4, 2015.

Memorial Day celebrated in Allen

Allen's Memorial Day services on Monday were moved from East View Cemetery to Allen High School, due to the weather. Pastor Miles Ruch Jr. of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Pender was the guest speaker for this year's ceremonies, which were sponsored by Floyd Gleason Post 131 of the American Legion and Auxiliary of Allen.

Law Enforcement

It's an incredibly sad situation, when you get down to it. Officer Orozco had just given birth to a baby girl (a month before my granddaughter was born) and the baby had been in the hospital. She was to come home the day after her mother was murdered. Officer Orozco was planning to take her maternity leave at the end of that fateful shift.

And while the race-baiting community likes to paint ALL police officers as evil opportunists who want nothing more than to maim and kill civilians without fear of retribution, that was the last thing anyone could accuse Ms. Orozco of. She was an officer who loved her work, and spent a considerable amount of time working with the youth of some of the more challenging areas in Omaha – children who may not be getting any kind of positive reinforcement about law enforcement at home were spending time with a member of the law enforcement community who was passionate about her work and equally passionate about working with kids.

I have a number of friends and associates who work in the law enforcement community. To a man (gender not withstanding), they are people who take their work seriously, try to help those who need it and make sure those who break the law are given a fair shake in the halls of justice. Every day, they walk out of their homes knowing that today could be their final day, just as it was last week for Officer Orozco. I'm sure they, and their families, say a prayer in hopes that they do their jobs effectively and return home safe from the day's challenges.

Over the years, I've come to respect the work that those who work in the local police departments, sheriff's offices and the Nebraska State Patrol do every day. Their work is not easy, but it is important if we are to keep a civilized, law-abiding society.

May Officer Orozco rest in peace – and may her fellow members of law enforcement at all levels safely continue their work.

LB173 would also prevent law enforcement from using the "three strikes" option for habitual criminals including those convicted for arson in the second degree, gang recruitment, and possession of a firearm at a school.

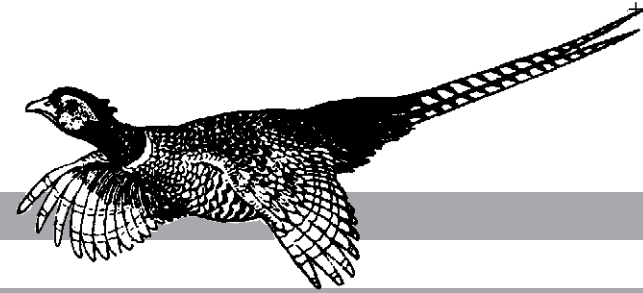

Overwhelmingly, Nebraskans I talk to across our state are deeply concerned about the repeal of the death penalty and attempts by the Legislature to give more lenient sentences to hardened criminals. Events like the disturbance at Tecumseh demonstrate that we need to continue to maintain strong facilities and tough laws to protect Nebraskans. I am committed to standing up for the public safety of Nebraskans. It is the number one objective of government and I take it seriously.

Easy ways to build assets for your child

Family Support is the #1 External Asset of the 4-H Developmental Assets of the Search Institute. Love and support, is sounds easy. We know we give it. Every does. Right? But giving your child consistent love and support can be tricky. How often does your child feel supported when you come home from an exhausting day and he or she wants to talk, but you want a break?

Young people know our body language. They listen to what we say and don't say. They notice when our words and our actions do not match. Supporting and loving our children refers to the many ways we affirm, love and accept them, both verbally and nonverbally. When we hug them or say "I love you," the expression is obvious. We also know that paying attention to them, listening to them, and taking an interest in what they are doing are less obvious ways to give support, but they are just as important.

The next time you are exhausted, say so. If you are mad, be honest. If your do not tell your child what you are feeling, he or she will read one message from your body and hear the opposite. Children usually interpret inconsistent messages as meaning they have done something wrong. It is helpful to be consistent Assisting hostesses were Margaret McClelland, Twila Wiltse, and Virginia Backstrom. President Monica Jensen conducted the meeting. Jean Lutt, a P.E.O. member of Chapter ID was a guest.

Yearbooks for the coming year were distributed by Vice President

Terri Hypse. Members should take note of when they are scheduled for a program, hosting, or serving. There was no formal program but lively discussion ensued about summer plans to attend graduations, planned summer trips, work at home, or simply plans to stay at home and relax.

Information was given on how we may help the people of Nepal as they deal with the horrible recent earthquakes and land-slides in their country.

An initiation is planned for the near future. Monica Jensen will attend the State Convention in LaVista June 5-8.

Land workshop for women June 22 in Pender

Women who own or manage farm or ranch land in Thurston and surrounding counties in Northeast Nebraska are invited to participate in a "Women Caring For The Land" discussion about soil health, farm conservation options, and available resources. The free program will take place on Wednesday, June 10 at the Pender Fire Hall, located at 314 Maple St. "Women landowners now own or co-own approximately half of Midwest and Great Plains farm and ranch land, and often want to do more to conserve their land and resources. However, many are unsure exactly how to reach their conservation goals and what resources are available to help them. "Women Caring For The Land" can help," said Virginia Meyer with the Center for Rural Affairs. According to Meyer, the program offers a peer-to-peer, informal discussion format to allow women landowners to talk about their individual land stewardship goals, facilitated by women conservation experts who can share resources available such as USDA conservation programs, state loans, and other tools. The meeting will begin with registration, coffee and resource sharing at 8:30 a.m. A free lunch will be provided, and during an afternoon field tour participants will travel to a nearby location to observe soil characteristics and conservation practices. The tests will measure for soil structure and stability and infiltration. Meyer suggests participants wear appropriate clothing and footwear/attire, as walking a short distance will be required for the field tour. The group will return to the Fire Hall for dessert and wrap-up, with the meeting ending by 3 p.m.

Maintaining healthy soil is the key to productivity and environmental health for farmland. Women landowners who attend this meeting will learn to assess and improve the health of their soils through cover crops, no-till and strip-till, and other conservation practices. Meyer also pointed out that all interested women are welcome to these discussions, including owners, operators and inheritors of farmland, regardless of their degree of knowledge regarding conservation. To ensure enough food is provided, interested participants should RSVP by Monday, June 8 to Meyer at the Center for Rural Affairs, (402) 687-2100 or e-mail virginiam@cfra.org. For more information, visit www.women-caringfortheland.org or call (641) 430-2540.

USDA has low-income funding options

The U.S. Department of Agriculture Rural Development has announced adequate funding remains available to assist very low income households with home repairs. For those who own and occupy homes in need of essential repairs and who are wondering how to get financing, USDA Rural Development can help with grants and low-interest loans for homeowners in rural communities. All communities in Nebraska are eligible for housing programs with the exceptions of Fremont, Grand Island, Hastings, Kearney, Lincoln, North Platte, Omaha and South Sioux City/Dakota City. Applicants must own and occupy the home and not exceed income guidelines established by county and household size. The family's income must be below 50 percent of the county median income. For many counties in Nebraska, the income limit for a one person household is $21,350; two person, $24,400; three person, $27,450; four person, $30,500 and five person, $32,950. However, some counties may have higher income limits. Please contact your USDA Rural Development office for the details in your county. Rural Development's Home Repair Loan program offers low-interest (1 percent) loans, up to $20,000, to very low income rural homeowners. Loans may be used to repair, improve or modernize homes or to remove health and safety hazards. Homeowners must meet household income guidelines, have an acceptable credit history and show repayment ability for the loan based on a household budget. The USDA repair loan may be made up to $20,000 at a 1 percent interest rate, with a repayment term up to 20 years. Loans of less than $7,500 may not require a mortgage against the property. The low interest rate and extended terms of the loan make repayment more affordable for households with limited income. For example, a $10,000 loan at 1 percent interest for 20 years would have a monthly payment of $46, compared to a conventional loan with an interest rate of 5 percent for 10 years, with a monthly payment of $106. Rural Development's Home Repair Grant program is available to owner-occupants of a rural home, who are 62 years of age or older, are very low income and are unable to repay a loan. Grant funds may only be used to remove health and safety hazards, such as replacing a roof, electrical and plumbing repairs, sanitary disposal systems and accommodations to make the home handicap accessible. Maximum lifetime grant assistance is $7,500. Eligibility for the program is based on household income and applicants must be unable to repay a loan. If applicants can repay part, but not all of the costs, applicants may be offered a loan and grant combination. For more information, go to the Nebraska RD website at www.rd.usda.gov/ne. USDA economic development grants are currently available Agriculture Under Secretary Lisa Mensah has announced that USDA is seeking applications for grants to support rural community economic development. In 2011, the RCDI grant program funded a three-year project for three Nebraska regional partners to build capacity in a three-county area of central Nebraska. More than 600 Nebraskans registered for one or more trainings/workshops offered as a result of the funding from the RCDI grant program. This effort encouraged entrepreneurship by hosting events such as community tours, presentations, vision building and an opportunity for networking. Approximately $10.4 million is being made available under the RCDI program. Eligible applicants include public, private, and non-profit intermediaries, and federally recognized tribes. RCDI grants can be used to provide training or technical assistance. Training may focus on homeownership education, minority business entrepreneurship, strategic community planning or accessing alternative funding sources. For information, contact Mary Sneckenberg at (402) 437-5567 or e-mail mary.sneckenberg@ne.usda.gov. Applications are due Aug. 13.

Learning the secret to longevity: live and let live

I have a nurse friend who is constantly coming up with fun things to do. She's creative, and has the world's most complete collection of accessories! A couple of weeks ago, I got an email invitation to lunch at her home to honor a colleague who is 90 years old and seems to have the secret for health and longevity. Of course, I accepted.

The plan was for a dozen of her friends from various parts of her professional life to think of questions we could ask the honoree that would enlighten the rest of us as we saunter closer to the 80s. She was showing off her fake Fiesta (from Wal Mart) and the colorful place mats from Ikea. There was a huge bowl of salad, and some interesting crackers with pimento on them. Several of us brought things like rolls and biscotti.

Of course, the conversation was lively. But, eventually, we were all drawn into the living room with our "wise elder" comfortably seated in a recliner, ready to take us all on.

Mary started working in the nursery at St. Elizabeth Hospital in 1960, and she was there when they moved the hospital and installed a new natal intensive care unit. She was there for 38 years. Now, I see her all over town, ushering at the Lied Center, serving meals at Matt Talbott Kitchen and Outreach, doing patient interviews at the hospital, you name it.

In fact, she told us she went into a room there last week and the patient asked if she was the nurse in the NICU 30 plus years ago; when she answered in the affirmative, the woman pulled out a picture of the former "preemie", who is now married and a father himself.

The first question was, what societal changes have you noticed? She smiled, and answered, Bruce Jenner! She informed us, and most of us were in the same boat, that she could not have imagined such a thing as a young nurse.

We asked about her childhood, which was in Illinois. She had an older sister, and when her mother was pregnant with Mary, her father decided he did not want two children, and left! She did not see him again. But she described her Mother as a woman who cared deeply for her children. The next question was, do you nap? That brought an emphatic Yes!

She went on to describe her typical day, which explains the need for naps. She is up by 4 a.m., and rides an exercise bike ten miles, which takes fifty minutes. She has oatmeal with raisins and walnuts for breakfast, and then she gets ready for the day's activities. She takes only a couple of medications, along with two vitamins, and drinks one cup of coffee. And she emphasized the necessity of rest, so she could do all those volunteer jobs.

Mostly though, what came through was a sense of humor, and a general "live and let live" philosophy that is probably what is allowing her to be so active at such an advanced age. She was an inspiration to all of us. I hope and pray I can be the same.

Clinic, training are coming

This is the final reminder that any 4H'er who is interested in improving livestock showmanship skills is invited to a Showmanship Clinic at the Dixon County fairgrounds in Concord on Saturday, May 30. All livestock showmanship from rabbits to cattle will be covered by area experts to help 4-H kids to get better. Please use the east entrance to the fairgrounds. Please bear with us as this is our first clinic and there may be some tall grass at the fairgrounds.

This is livestock, including horses, but not cats, dogs, or other pets. Kids are invited to bring their own animals, but because of avian flu, we ask that you do not bring poultry. We will have our own poultry to use for the clinic. There is no charge for this workshop. There will be food available on the grounds.

The schedule is as follows: Rabbits from 9-10 a.m.; Poultry from 10-11 a.m.; Beginning Horse from 11-12 p.m.; Advance Horse from 12-1 p.m.; Swine from 12:30-1:30 p.m.; Sheep and Goats from 1:30-2:30 p.m.; Beef from 2:30-4 p.m.

This is the "second call" for Tractor Safety Training at the Wayne County Fairgrounds in Wayne. The training will take place on Monday and Tuesday June 15-16.

Federal law prohibits youth under 16 years of age from working on a farm other than their parents'. Course completion grants an exemption to the law allowing 14- and 15-year-olds to drive a tractor and to do field work with mechanized equipment. The most common cause of death in agriculture accidents in Nebraska is overturn from tractors and all-terrain-vehicles (ATV). Tractor and ATV overturn prevention are featured in the class work.

Classes consist of two full days of instruction plus homework assignments. Classes are from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. each day. The first day of class will consist of intensive classroom instruction with hands-on demonstrations, concluding with a written test that must be completed satisfactorily before the student may continue driving tests the next day. Classroom instruction will cover the required elements of the National Safe Tractor and Machinery Operation Program. Homework will be assigned to turn in the next day. The second day will consist of testing, driving and operating machinery. Students must demonstrate competence in hitching equipment and driving a tractor and trailer through a standardized course as well as hitching PTO and hydraulic systems. Please pre-register by June 5th to Dixon County Extension at (402) 584-2234. The cost for the program is $60.

Ag Happenings

Extension

Two of our biggest problems when we get in a rush, or a bit greedy, are spraying which results in drift to non-target organisms, and pesticides in our water, particularly our surface water. The Nebraska Department of Agriculture's Pesticide Program would like to remind outdoor pesticide applicators - especially those applying volatile herbicides such as 2,4-D and dicamba - to be mindful of the increasing number of commercially-grown sensitive crops in our agricultural landscape. Applicators are reminded to read and follow the label directions, including any timing, temperature, and wind speed restrictions. In addition, please utilize DriftWatch (www.driftwatch.org) to locate commercially-grown sensitive crops in your spray area, and adjust your application accordingly. Sensitive crops include orchards, vineyards, fruits and vegetables, organic crops, nurseries, and tree crops.

DriftWatch is a voluntary service; however, new commercial crop locations are added frequently. Applicators can register their business area in DriftWatch, which then allows them to receive e-mail notifications when sensitive crops are added to their spray area.

All outdoor applicators should benefit from this service, including those making pesticide applications to roadsides, lawns and other turf sites, and agricultural fields. Please remember your non-commercial neighbors as well. Many of us have fruit trees and gardens on our acreages.

Plan aims to protect northeast Nebraska from wildfires

The Nebraska Forest Service intends to implement a Community Wildfire Protection Plan in northeast Nebraska. The plan provides a way for community leaders, fire departments and residents to identify possible issues and remedies for communities and infrastructure at risk from wildfires.

In Nebraska, four protection plans are in place: Pine Ridge, North Central, Loess Canyons and Wildcat Hills, which will be expanded this summer.

The plan must be developed collaboratively and agreed upon by local governments, fire departments and the Nebraska Forest Service with interested parties and any federal land-management agencies in the area. The forest service initiates the process to allow the agency to apply for grant funds to assist communities, agencies and landowners to complete fuels reduction projects.

The new project has been titled the Missouri River Northeast CWPP and includes Lewis and Clark Recreation Area. Twenty-seven fire districts in Knox, Cedar, Dixon and Dakota counties will be used as the community structure within the plan. The Wildcat Hills plan will be expanded from a single homeowner's association in the Gering fire district to an additional 25 fire districts in seven counties.

The Nebraska Forest Service has hired a forestry consultant, Kim Slezak of Miligan, to facilitate the plan. Kim completed the protection plan for the Loess Canyons area in southwest Nebraska last summer.

"We need input from the area experts, the community leaders and firefighters," she said. "They know the land. They know the local issues. Collaboration is imperative to achieve a true snapshot of conditions and resources at risk and to arrive at a workable CWPP that will benefit all citizens."

Local and county government officials, fire chiefs, emergency managers, Nebraska Game and Parks, the Natural Resource Districts, National Park Service and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will be contacted via email and invited to complete a survey for background information to use in each protection plan.

Project Title: Villa Wayne Capital Improvement Project
Purpose: The Wayne Housing Authority in Wayne, Nebraska, will use HUD Capital Funds from the Capital Fund Financing Program (CFFP) for improvements to existing buildings within the Villa Wayne facility. Improvements include replacing existing exterior lighting, flooring, plumbing, appliances, office equipment, and a boiler system for building #7. Improvements also include installation of handicap accessible door openers for the community building. No persons will be displaced as a result of the capital improvements. This capital improvement project has an anticipated completion date of April 12, 2019 with the Housing Authority receiving Capital Funds annually.
Location: The project is located northeast of the intersection of Dearborn Street and East 4th Street in Wayne, Nebraska. The office building housing the facility's
